WASHINGTON, D.C. —
U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) voted Thursday for a reconciliation bill that will dramatically reduce the size and scope of the federal government and, Republicans say, will eliminate the federal deficit by the year 2002.

The legislation was approved by the House of Representatives by a vote of 227-203.

"It's been 27 years since the federal government passed a balanced budget," Thornberry said. "In that time, a burden of debt has been placed on American families that casts a long shadow over current and future generations. A child born today will pay an average of $187,000 in lifetime taxes just to pay off interest on the national debt.
It is a moral imperative that we get this weight off their shoulders. It is what we were elected to do."

According to Thornberry,
the legislation — formally called the Seven Year Balanced Budget Reconciliation Act of 1995 — brings more changes to the way Washington does business than any legislation in the last half-century.

Senate considers budget plan

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate edged toward passage today of watershed Republican plans for constricting social spending, cutting taxes and balancing the budget, a day after a jubilant GOP muscled a similar package through the House.

With assurances of victory by Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., the Senate slogged through a pile of amendments to the measure, which promises to erase federal deficits by 2002 while reversing decades of ever-expanding reach by the government.

In one early vote, the Senate refused to delete requirements that under the new Medicaid system Republicans would craft, states continue to guarantee coverage to pregnant women, children under 12 and the disabled. The amendment by presidential candidate Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, was rebuffed by 77-22.

The overall GOP package would revamp Medicare, Medicaid and a mountain of other programs, trim projected federal spending by about $1 trillion over seven years and lop $245 billion off the tax bills of many families and businesses.

The legislation embodies the chief pledges

the GOP made in its dramatic election victory last year, when it lambasted Democrats for letting government grow too large and intrusive.

"For 60 years, the ship of state has sailed consistently in the wrong direction, to the left," said House Majority Leader Richard Army, R-Texas, just before his chamber approved the package Thursday by 227-203.
"With this vote today, we'll crank this ship around. We'll turn this ship around to the right."

Voting yes were 223 Republicans and four Democrats; 192 Democrats and 10
Republicans were opposed.

President Clinton, who says the legislation's cuts are too harsh, will veto it when House-Senate bargainers send him a finished version, perhaps next month. That will set the table for bargaining between the two sides that will decide whether the year ends with a compromise deficit-reduction measure or partisan finger-pointing.

For now, partisan finger-pointing is in vogue.

Senate Democrats launched a series of amendments at what they considered the bill's soft spots, seeking to shrink GOP cuts in Medicare, Medicaid, education and the earned income tax credit for low-wage workers. They were turned back in every instance, but not before Democrats sought political points.

"Republicans have overreached," declared Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. "They've been caught red-handed. Their cuts in Medicare are too harsh and extreme."

Some GOP amendments were successful.
One by Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., approved 99-0, restored $5.9 billion in reductions in student loans. That was part of a deal Dole reached with Republican moderates that also eased cuts in Medicaid and Medicare. The leader also agreed to restore most nursing home standards for Medicaid patients, which the original version would have killed.

Another amendment by Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., would require states to provide Medicaid coverage for disabled people as defined by the federal government. The provision, approved 60-39, was opposed by Dole and GOP governors, who wanted to let states decide who qualifies as disabled.

The Senate voted on 20 amendments
Thursday in a session that stretched past midnight, and planned votes on dozens of others today.

"This is not a good day to be absent, nor will tomorrow be a good day to be absent," Dole joked.

Fall back

Be sure to set your clocks back one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 29

Time to turn back clocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Standard time returns this weekend, prompting an American ritual —
changing the clock.

Remember the old adage and it's easy: Spring forward, fall back.

That means set the clock back one hour before hitting the sack Saturday night. Then you'll get an extra hour of sleep and still be on time for church or other plans Sunday.

Technically, the change occurs at 2 a.m. Sunday, local time, which becomes 1 a.m., and an hour is repeated.

Daylight-saving time returns
the first Sunday in April.

Late-evening fire strikes local motel

By CHIP CHANDLER
Staff Writer

A late-evening fire that partially destroyed an abandoned motel on West Highway 60 Thursday is still under investigation today, according to Fire Marshal Tom Adams.

"I don't see an accidental reason for the fire," he said today at the Plainsman Motel.

No electricity was running in the building, he explained.

Adams listed a number of possible causes for the blaze, including arson or an unintentional start.

"It could have been some transient who started a fire to warm up," he theorized.

There are no suspects in the fire at this time, he said.

Six units and 11 personnel were dispatched to the scene at 10:24 p.m. They had the fire under control at approximately 10:47 p.m., according to PFD
Capt. Kim Powell, though Adams indicated that firefighters were dousing some hot spots late into the evening.

Also present Thursday night were Gray County sheriff's deputies directing traffic and one American Medical Transport unit.

Another truck was sent to the scene this morning to douse some still smoking walls.

Three units at the motel were completely destroyed in the blaze, with several others damaged from heat and smoke.

Adams said that the fire likely began in a carport near the intersection of the "L"-shaped building.

The wall where Adams said
the blaze started was still steaming late this morning.

Adams said a 21-year-old transient male was living three units from where the fire began.
He was not injured in the blaze.

Adams said the man had said his motorcycle had broken down, and he had lived in the building for two or three days.
A plastic grocery bag, a case of soda and a number of empty cans remained in his room.

Powell said local American Red Cross workers had made living arrangements for the man.

Wallace of Chickasha, Okla., talked with Pampa elementary school students Thursday. He also answered questions from the students such as which one of his books is his favorite book and how old he is.

Jury sentences Saldivar to life in prison

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury
Thursday sentenced Yolanda
Saldivar, convicted of killing Tejano singing star Selena, to life in prison.

The jury deliberated nine hours over two days, with one juror arguing against life imprisonment for a time. The punishment was among seven options the panel considered, ranging from the maximum life in prison and $10,000 fine to a minimum of probation.

The prosecution had asked for the maximum. The defense sought probation.

The life term means Ms.
Saldivar will have to serve at least 30 years in prison before she is eligible for parole.

A loud cheer went up from outside the courthouse and horns immediately began blar-ning from cars driving around the courthouse.

As lead attorney Douglas Tinker stood with his arm around her, Ms. Saldivar, wearing a white suit, stood and listened as state District Judge Mike Westergren read the jury's decision on punishment.

After hearing it, she began to cry.
Her family, seated directly behind her in court, also began sobbing.

Westergren asked if she had anything to say.

"No sir," she replied quietly as her other lawyers began hugging her.

There was no immediate reaction from members of Selena's family, who were seated at the other side of the courtroom.

They later left the building
without comment as Ms.
Saldivar's parents sobbed uncontrollably in the courtroom, hugging their daughter and saying goodbye.

A few people emerged from the courtroom with fists raised.
Others were crying.

"I was ready for the verdict.
Yolanda was ready for the verdict," Tinker said. "I kept telling her the fact that they're staying out a long time didn't mean it was going to be anything less than life."

Wednesday murder still under investigation

William Harley Hanks, 18, remains in Gray County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond charged with the Wednesday slaying of his 23-year-old brother-in-law Salvador Rodriguez.

Det. Bracie King of the Pampa Police Department said today no motive has been established for the shooting in which Rodriguez sustained a single fatal gunshot wound to the right jaw.
He was shot with a 20-gauge shotgun, authorities said.

An autopsy was conducted on Rodriguez's body Thursday by Dr. Sparks Veasey at University Medical Center, Lubbock.

Sgt. Charlie Love said Veasey told him he smelled alcohol on Rodriguez's body. King said she was not sure of the relationship between alcohol and the slay-ing.

Police were summoned to Hanks' home at 317 Miami about 11:12 p.m. Wednesday on a gunshot call. There they discovered the mortally wounded Rodriguez, who was subsequently air lifted to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Rodriguez was pronounced dead at 12:49 a.m. Thursday at Northwest Texas Hospital, said Potter County Justice of the Peace Terry Miller.

Hanks and Rodriguez were married to sisters.

ACT I play offers entertaining laughs

By CHIP CHANDLER
 Staff Writer

Review

ACT I's troupe of community actors opens their 13th season tonight with a sometimes riotous, always entertaining revival of Neil Simon's Last of the Red Hot Lovers.

In the title role, Bill Hildebrand is given an awesome responsibility — the show rests squarely on his shoulders. He is the one constant in all three acts, and must be a sympathetic character to audiences who may not find his actions sympathetic. He succeeds nicely.

As Barney Cashman, Hildebrand is a character so frightened of death he seeks an extramarital affair just to prove to himself that he is still alive. Throughout the play, his innate decency battles with that desperation.

Hildebrand is fidgety and neurotic as the seafood restaurant owner and handles

Simon's sparkling dialogue with flair.

Though Hildebrand's character is the central focus of the show, his three near-mistresses each shine with their own peculiar light.

Sandra Keeton, in only her second performance with the troupe, portrays the supremely confident and achingly cynical Elaine Navazio — of German descent; her 210-pound husband is Italian. The worldly Elaine soon proves to be too cold for warm-hearted Barney, though; she wouldn't mind a little fooling around, but what she really wants is a cigarette.

Smoking a different sort of cigarette is all that's on Barney's second fling's mind. As Bobbi Michelle — a wanna-be nightclub singer — Christy McCollum turns in the evening's most farcical performance. A true scene-stealer in the best sense of the word, McCollum is a riot as the date from hell.

Barney's last attempt at hanky-panky is embodied in the abysmally depressed Jeanette, his wife's best friend. Strongly portrayed by Carolyn Smith, Jeanette is a fitting end to the play, allowing Barney an opportunity to examine his actions.

Lovers is typical Simon comedy, filled with witty repartee and strong characters. Audiences will surely laugh as loudly or even stronger than a responsive preview audience Thursday night.

The play opens tonight at 7:30 and continues Saturday evening. The cast will also put on a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. For ticket reservations, call 665-3710.

Sniper opens fire at Fort Bragg; 1 dead, 18 wounded

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A sniper opened fire today on hundreds of soldiers exercising in the pre-dawn fog at Fort Bragg, killing one and wounding 18 others.

A soldier stationed at the fort was arrested.

The shooting happened near the entrance to Towle Stadium, where members of the elite 82nd Airborne Division routinely do their calisthenics before starting work.

"I heard some shots. It was unusual because we're not near a range," said Pfc. Michael Miller. The suspect was being questioned this morning by the Army's Criminal Investigation Division, said Spc. Kerry Deatherage. His name was not being released.

By late morning, the Army said 19 soldiers were hit — one was killed and 18 were wounded, some critically.

Agency admits misdiagnosing bubonic plague

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — What began as a case of bubonic plague from a colony along the Texas-Mexico border has ended as a sick puppy with no traces of the contagious disease after a state agency retested the animal.

The Texas Department of Health mistakenly concluded the seriously ill puppy had tested positive for exposure to the plague, a researcher in the TDH Laredo office said Thursday.

But Dr. Gayne Fearneyhough, a veterinarian in the TDH division of zoonosis control, said further testing by a national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention laboratory in Fort Collins, Colo., showed the puppy had neither plague antibodies nor an active plague infection.

"The lab results from the CDC are going to come back totally negative," said Fearneyhough. "We ran our laboratory tests according to accepted protocols, but we have recently learned that there are modifications that needed to be made to those procedures that we did not use."

He said he learned of those modifications Wednesday, one day after receiving the negative results from the CDC.

Tobacco ban results in prison black market

FORT WORTH (AP) — A package of smuggled cigarettes sells for as much as $100 in Texas prisons where a seven-month ban on smoking has created a lucrative black market, officials say.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today that since March 1, allegations of smuggling, possessing or using tobacco have led to 17 criminal cases and 55 administrative investigations in the state's 100 prison units.

It's not tough to find a place to smoke in prison, officials say, because of good ventilation systems, blind spots in surveillance and an abundance of inmate lookouts.

The attempts to get tobacco smuggled into prison get more creative as time passes, officials say. It's been found in underwear, waistbands, shoe soles, workplaces and cells.

Neill Hodges, assistant warden at the Huntsville unit, said friends or relatives of inmates have tried to get tobacco delivered to inmates through the U.S. Postal Service and United Parcel Service.

Pampa United Way agency profile

This article is one in a series of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 1995 "Paint A Brighter Tomorrow" fund-raising campaign.

Her story begins August 9, 1917 with the birth of a baby girl, one of ten children. She grew up on a farm, chopping cotton, picking cotton and taking care of little sisters and brothers, among them three sets of twins.

In 1932, at the tender age of 15, she married and would bear a son in 1934, then a daughter two years later. She and her husband moved to Pampa in 1953 and a year later bought the home where she still lives. Her husband worked all over this part of the country laying pipeline while she stayed home "keeping things going."

He retired in 1973 and died in 1981, leaving her alone in Pampa except for one niece. She has four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. As you can see, she lived a fairly normal life — marrying, raising a family, saying goodbye to family and loved ones. She lived through two world wars, the Great Depression, the Korean War and Vietnam. She learned at an early age to work hard and save for a rainy day, which came in 1983 when she fell victim to a painful and degenerative eye disease. At that time she had to give up driving and many other activities that had been a regular part of everyday life. On September 16, 1985, Meals on Wheels became an important part of her struggle to continue living independently in her own home.

"Meals on Wheels has helped me to stay at home from 1985 until now," she says. "I really appreciate all the wonderful workers. They are all precious to me. I want to stand on my own two feet as long as I can."

Arson suspected in explosion which left three dead

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A quiet Hill Country neighborhood has been rocked by the grisly discovery of three bodies in a burned house and the suspicion that the deaths were a double homicide and suicide.

A two-story home, a workshop and three vehicles were destroyed in the blaze that appears to have been deliberately set, Kerr County Sheriff Frances Kaiser said Thursday.

"It was obvious to anyone walking on the scene that it was arson," the sheriff said. The blaze erupted about midday Tuesday. Neighbors reported hearing an explosion and seeing black smoke coming from the home.

Two bodies were found in the rubble later that day and another was discovered Wednesday. They are believed to be John William Naumann, 45; Alice Carol Naumann, 47; and their 19-year-old daughter, Tiffany Naumann. Autopsies were being performed at the Travis County Medical Examiner's Office. Kerr County authorities said they still were awaiting positive identifications and rulings on the causes of death.

Hutchison calls for resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate should put itself on record as condemning the killings, rapes and other human-rights violations occurring in Bosnia, Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison says.

The Texas Republican, joined by three Republican and two Democratic colleagues, planned Friday to introduce a non-binding resolution denouncing the ethnic cleansing occurring in the war-torn former Yugoslav republic.

The so-called "Sense of the Senate" resolution is just a means to an end, said Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., one of the measure's co-sponsors.

"I think it will contribute to our effort, which very frankly only the media can achieve, in bringing the attention of the people of the world, not just the United States, on this terrible tragedy that continues as we speak and must be brought to a halt," McCain said at a news conference Thursday with Mrs. Hutchison and other supporters.

Earlier this month, thousands of Bosnia Muslims and Croats were forced from their homes in northwestern Bosnia by paramilitary units, local police and in some cases Bosnian Serb troops.

United Nations aid workers said they have new evidence that thousands of the Muslims were detained and that many may have been murdered near the Serb stronghold of Banja Luka.

"We cannot talk about peace if there are continuing human-rights violations and murders that could be taking place right now in and around Banja Luka," Mrs. Hutchison said.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Texas Editorials

San Angelo Standard-Times on the Texas Constitution:
• A Texan told us recently that he always votes against every amendment to the Texas Constitution, with no consideration of merit. He does this to send a message to legislators that it's foolish for him to be deciding most of the issues and that they need to write a constitution that makes sense.
• While we disagree with his method, we understand and share his frustration. This voter is young, and so has had to endure relatively little such aggravation, but millions of Texans are old enough that they have been expected to vote on hundreds of the 521 amendments put before them.
• One try at a new constitution failed 20 years ago, and state Sen. John Montford ran the idea up the flagpole again this year but no one saluted.
• Voters now are deciding on 14 more potential patches to the 19-year-old document. They range from the mundane to the mind-numbing. Consider the wording of No. 4:
• "The constitutional amendment permitting an encumbrance to be fixed on homestead property for a owelty of partition, including a debt of a spouse resulting from a division or award of a homestead in a divorce proceeding, and for the refinancing of a lien against a homestead, including a federal tax lien resulting from the tax debt of the owner."
• Translation, please.
• Writing a new constitution isn't easy. There would be winners and losers, which means there would be a big fight.
• But it's absurd for voters to have to decide issues they often know or care nothing about. Texans have 15 months to encourage their lawmakers to salute the idea of a new constitution in the next session.
El Paso Times on no-fault auto insurance:
• Texans are tired of the auto insurance quagmire. Repairing an auto after an accident is time-consuming and inconvenient; factor in fears, delays and maze-like complexities of the legal system and it's enough to make any Texas motorist grip the steering wheel in terror.
• One solution might be no-fault insurance. Texans will never know if they aren't allowed to study the issue. Several legislators are pushing for a closer inspection of no-fault auto insurance, a system which in its purest form eliminates lawsuits and compensates accident victims for medical expenses and lost income with money from their own insurance companies.
• This system should at least be considered by Texas lawmakers before their next legislative session. Studying no-fault would lead to enlightenment, which would lead to an informed decision by Texans, who may well adopt or reject no-fault auto insurance. ...

Placing the pope in a political box

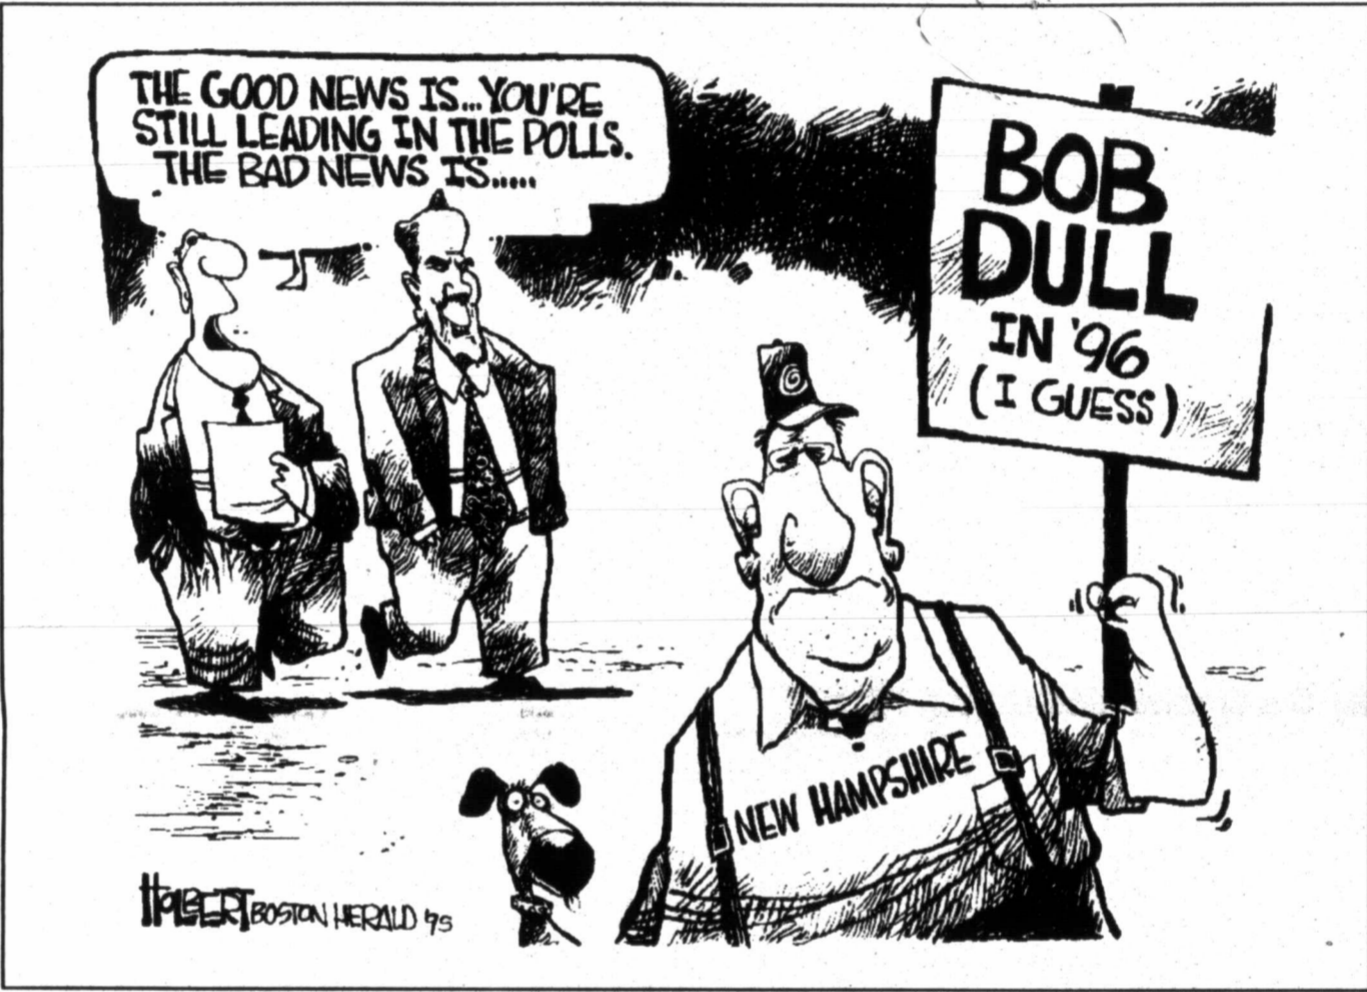

Pope John Paul II has blessed America with another visit. What did he get in return? The love and joy of an inspired Catholic flock, yes - but also another round of hackneyed liberal media political analysis.
It started out predictably enough. Before the Pope even landed, media outlets regurgitated the line that some American Catholics disagree strongly with the Pope's positions on abortion and other social issues. Washington Post writer Henry Allen was insulting: "There are 60 million Catholics in America, and for many of them, he also speaks with the voice of a conservative crank when he stonewalls on abortion, birth control, married priests, women priests and so on." Even sexually liberal Catholics regularly profess their love of the Holy Father, which would not include using the word "crank."
This time around, there was a new media spin when the Pope challenged Americans to care for the poor. Somehow, it escaped the learned press that this has been the papal message forever. You could see the journalistic eyes light up. Why, the Pope is "attacking Republican welfare cuts!" Crowd The New York Times: "Without naming names or even mentioning the Republican-dominated Congress (right: but he should have), the Pope also seemed to admonish the supporters of proposed laws to restrict immigration and dismantle many of the nation's programs for the poor. In doing so, he appeared to echo many of President Clinton's warnings."
Reuters reporter Philip Pullella jumped on the same bandwagon: "Since arriving in the United States Wednesday, the Pope has daily reminded Americans that they have to help the huge class of underprivileged people, a burning issue after recent moves by budget-cutting Republicans to reduce welfare benefits."

L. Brent Bozell

This spin soon made its way onto television. PBS anchor Robert MacNeil wondered: "Is the Pope against the Contract With America?" CNN anchor Judy Woodruff put to Pat Buchanan: "Let me ask you about ... Pope John Paul II, and you are Catholic. He's in the United States this week. He's certainly been a conservative on many theological issues, but many people would agree he's been more liberal on social issues, (such as) helping the poor. He's talked a lot about this. How do you, as a Catholic, reconcile that with what your own party has done this year and is talking of doing with regard to cuffing back programs for the poor in this country?"
Reporters ignored the political impact of the Pope's message that abortion was a "moral blight" on the country or asked liberal politicians like Mario Cuomo how they reconcile their pro-abortion stand with Catholicism. Just like "cafeteria Catholics" choose the parts of the faith they like and reject the rest, the media highlighted the parts of the Pope's message they perceived to merge with their politics - and then returned to words like "rigid" and "old-fashioned" to describe the Pope's message on abortion and sexuality.
Chicago Tribune reporter Timothy McNulty exemplified the trend: "At times, the Pope even sounded like a Democrat. His heart is clearly with the have-nots. And for that, at least, liberals appreciate his social views on peace and justice and the responsibility of rich nations to the poor. ... For sure, on sexual morality, he is predictably conservative, and he often repeats his boilerplate message against abortion." Aren't admonitions to aid the poor also part of the Pope's "boilerplate" message?

For three morning interviews, the liberal bohemians at NBC brought on their papal expert - Father Andrew Greeley, the millionaire priest/dirty-book author: "I heard a Catholic conservative last night say that the Pope's words have nothing to do with American politics. And I can't imagine anybody being more totally wrong. The Pope has come to the United States when it's in a very mean-spirited period - when it's bashing immigrants, bashing poor people, bashing minorities: And the Pope has come to say, 'Hey, stop that!' He isn't talking about specific legislative measures, but he's certainly addressing himself to the spirit that elected and sustains the Gingrich-Dole Congress."
But later in the same interview, Greeley suggested Catholics can ignore the Pope on sexual matters because Greeley thinks he's wrong: "Well, most Catholics choose to be Catholic on their own terms. ... Where the Pope really doesn't understand, they reserve the right to follow their own consciences and appeal to a God who does understand."
All Catholics who practice their faith believe in the moral authority of the Pope, including his call to aid the poor. They believe enough in his sovereign role as the head of the Church that they do not stoop to place him in their own convenient political box. But it was another day for the liberal media, which means another cheap publicity stunt for the cause.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Oct. 27, the 300th day of 1995. There are 65 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On Oct. 27, 1787, the first of the "Federalist Papers," a series of essays calling for ratification of the U.S. Constitution, was published in a New York newspaper.
On this date:
In 1795, 200 years ago, the United States and Spain signed the Treaty of San Lorenzo - also known as "Pinckney's Treaty" - which provided for free navigation of the Mississippi River.
In 1858, the 26th president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, was born in New York City.
In 1880, Theodore Roosevelt married Alice Lee.
In 1914, author-poet Dylan Thomas was born in Swansea, Wales.
In 1938, Du Pont announced a name for its new synthetic yarn: "nylon."
In 1947, the radio show You Bet Your Life, starring Groucho Marx, premiered on ABC. It later became a television show on NBC.

Checking power at the federal level

Seeking to reclaim state authority from Washington, a panel of governors and legislators suggested that the states might be empowered to force Congress to reconsider laws and regulations that interfere with their rightful role.
It was one of four options outlined at a federalism summit, a movement one sponsoring governor predicted will snowball. "Our work is just beginning," Gov. Mike Leavitt of Utah said at the windup of the three-day conference.
The executive committees of the National Governors Association, the Council of State Governments, the National Conference of State Legislatures, the American Legislative Exchange Council and the State Legislative Leaders Foundation approved the outline as a way to enhance state authority and standing in dealing with the federal government.
They recommended a follow-up summit to act on specific steps after those organizations and others have weighed the alternatives.

Walter Mears
AP Special Correspondent

Their suggested remedies:
• A system in which the states could require reconsideration of federal laws or regulations when two-thirds of the state legislatures vote to demand it.
• Empowering the states to propose amendments to the Constitution, subject to ratification by Congress, where amendments now are initiated.
• A law "to enhance the political safeguards of federalism" and give states a greater voice in congressional action.
• Action against federal mandates, regulations and strings attached to spending grants, by law or by constitutional amendment.

The next step, Leavitt said, will be to seek consensus on specific proposals and, at the same time, seek broader public support for a rebalancing of state and federal power.
"People want less government ...," he said. "They have more confidence in governments that are closer to them." He said Congress is conscious of that and will heed state efforts to reclaim authority.
"We're not just grouching and complaining, we're offering ... solutions," said Gov. George Allen of Virginia.
"It's really the beginning of a process," added Gov. Ben Nelson of Nebraska. "We need to expand our circle."
Stanley Aronoff, president of the Ohio Senate, said Congress is listening to the states because there is "a real, honest, grass-roots uprising" to rebalance the federal system.
But he said it is going to take a political selling job to get solutions, and without that, "it was all an exercise in futility."

Is it passe to be politically correct?

Should God be neutered?
Do you have a natural right to stink?
When is a song an instrument of oppression?
The National Clearinghouse for Politically Correct Stuff has answers for these and many other questions that trouble the spirits of those who want to do good and who want to make everybody else do good, too. We have a computer that is overflowing with thousands of incorrect words, phrases, names, products, food, books, groups, causes. If you are haunted by the fear that you might be offending someone, somewhere, sometime, give us a call. While you are on the Nickpicks hot line, ask us about this month's special on movements.
Have a PC day.
Phil: Excuse me, is this the National Clearinghouse for Politically Correct Stuff?
Politically Correct Person: It is. N-C-P-C-S. Pronounced Nickpicks. How can we help you?
Phil: Well, you talk about movements, and it seems to me with the Republican Revolution, you people are yesterday's bread. Your movement is passe. You are dead dead dead.
PCP: The correct term is "terminally inconvenienced," and despite everything you've read, it is something we are not.
Phil: OK. So tell me why I have a right to stink.
PCP: That word was used simply for its attention getting value. What we are trying to do is enlist you in the battle against smellism. Some people call it the Olfactory Rights Movement. Your nondiscretionary body odor is your business, and no one should have to endure discrimination because of it.
Phil: You mean if somebody refuses to sit beside

Joseph Spear

me on the subway, I am being discriminated against?
PCP: Perfect example.
Phil: If everybody gets off an elevator when I get on, my rights are being trampled on?
PCP: You catch on quick, Phil.
Phil: It's my body and I can reek if I want to?
PCP: You've got it, Phil. Closely related to that is scentism - the inclination of some to impose their discretionary odors on you. We want a national air-quality policy. We want an end to perfume and cologne. We want fragrance free zones.
Phil: You guys stink.
PCP: Oops, looks like we got cut off there, Phil. Sorry.
Bob: I'd like to recommend another movement to you. The Dole for President movement. Pass it on.
PCP: Sorry, he's a white, European male.
Patrick: What is this business about neutering God?
PCP: The Bible is a compendium of politically incorrect usages. God is a man. God is a father. Jesus is a son. The PC movement seeks to take the sexism out of the Scripture. Indeed, we would like to recommend the new Oxford University Press Bible, in which the "Lord's Prayer" now begins, "Our Father-Mother in Heaven." The Son of Man is now "the human one."

Patrick: That's a lot of left-wing hokey.
PCP: The reference to the right hand of God is also taken out because it discriminates against left-handed people.
Elizabeth: The Dole for President movement! Pass it on!
Arlen: I call simply to praise the Anti-Ogling Movement, led by the courageous public officials of Minnesota.
PCP: You no doubt refer to the city engineer in Minneapolis, who informed construction workers they were to cease "eying" women because it amounted to "visual harassment."
Arlen: Exactly. Five seconds is looking, six is ogling.
Phil: What the heck is this oppressive song stuff?
PCP: Oh, hi Phil. Well, popular song lyrics are teeming with politically incorrect words and phrases. Look at "Old Man River," "Up a Lazy River," "Lazy Bones," "Three Blind Mice," "Indian Love Call," "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," and so on.
Phil: So? What the heck? A song is a song.
PCP: In the PC Movement, we sing the same tunes but change some words: "Elderly Person River," "Up a Motivationally Deficient River," "Persons of Torpor," "Three Optically Challenged Mice," "Indigenous Person Love Call" ...
Phil: You people are communists.
PCP: "A Pretty Prowoman Is Like a Melody" ...

Red, blue buttons separate oppressors from oppressed in experiment

DALLAS (AP) — Catherine Fischer said she was only mildly annoyed when the teacher made her move to the back of the class.

But a few minutes later in the hallway, the 21-year-old senior from Houston was plainly irritated.

"I'm really mad now, because I can't use the ladies' room," she said.

Ms. Fischer was wearing a red button, and at Southern Methodist University Thursday, that meant she was a member of the "oppressed" group — and subservient to all those students wearing blue buttons.

Across the SMU campus, it was "Red and Blue Day" — a daylong simulation to allow students to experience firsthand the discrimination that was commonplace in the South as late as the 1960s.

Only students with blue buttons could enter a building through the front door and use the elevators, main stairways, main walkways, vending machines or water fountains.

The most comfortable seating areas in lounges were reserved for those with blue buttons.

The red and blue buttons were passed out randomly Wednesday night, and it wasn't until Thursday morning that students learned who were among the privileged class and who were to be discriminated against.

Valerie Berry, 20, a junior from Killeen, said that in one of her classes, she was one of only two students wearing a red button.

"They would not let class start until we moved to the back," she said.

Sandra Greer, 21, of Baltimore was wearing red, and she said her friends wouldn't let her forget it.

"If you have a red button, you're not allowed to speak to someone wearing a blue button unless they speak to you first, and one of my friends told me, 'Hey, don't you look at me.' But I've made some new friends, among other people wearing red buttons. The reds, I think, feel the need to bond more than the others," she said.

Ms. Greer is black, but said, "I never experienced discrimination to this extent before, so it's good to see what it's like."

"It really hasn't been that different for me than any other day," said Becky Davis, 18, a freshman from Fort Worth.

"I'm wearing a blue button, so I haven't had to find the alternate routes to get around, like those wearing red buttons have. But I almost wish I were a red. The other students look at me like I'm an oppressor, and I don't like being the bad guy."

Another black student with a red button, Angela Moten, 20, a junior from Dallas, laughed at the hassles she'd been through.

Ms. Moten dismissed the idea that those with blue buttons were uncomfortable in the aggressor role.

"I don't think so. I think they're enjoying it. They're having a great time," she said.

"I got stopped by 'button police' when I started to enter this building, and after I got to the cafeteria and got my tray, all I saw were signs that said, 'Blues Only!' And as I walked past those sitting in the blue areas, they would say, 'Hey, don't cross our section. You get over there with your kind!'"

Areas with access for the oppressed group were marked "For Reds."

The consciousness exercise was sponsored by the SMU Diversity Committee. It is based on the "Blue Eyes, Brown Eyes" experiment of teacher Jane Elliott with her classroom of all-white third-graders shortly after the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

An evening discussion of the day's events was open to students and faculty and moderated by Ms. Elliott.

Representative introduces legislation to prevent American troops from wearing U.N. insignia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. troops wouldn't be allowed to wear United Nations uniforms or insignia under new legislation being offered by House Majority Whip Tom DeLay.

DeLay's bill, introduced Thursday, comes on the heels of the Army's decision to court-martial a U.S. Army medic from Texas who refused to wear U.N. insignia.

"A soldier's oath is to the U.S. Constitution, not to the U.N. charter," said DeLay, a Republican from Sugar Land. "Forcing soldiers to wear the uniform of the United Nations effectively asks the soldier to serve another power."

DeLay's bill, introduced with 10 other Republicans, would prohibit U.S. troops from being required to wear any "badge, symbol, helmet, headgear or other visible indicia" indicating allegiance to the United Nations.

Earlier this month, the Army announced its intention to court-martial Spec. Michael New, a 22-year-old Conroe native who refused his commander's order to wear a U.N. hat and shoulder patch on a peacekeeping mission to the former Yugoslavia.

New is the first U.S. soldier to refuse to wear U.N. blue as part of the Army uniform.

The medic contends that wearing U.N. insignia would put him in conflict with his sworn allegiance to the Constitution and that his commanders have no legal basis for forcing him.

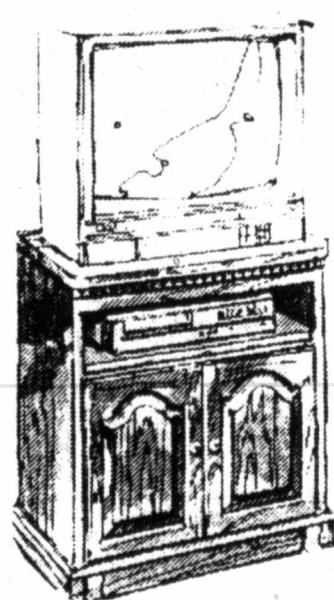

New's case has become a rallying cry for congressional Republicans seeking to make the Clinton administration justify its policy placing U.S. troops under U.N. command.

The president, as commander in chief, has statutory authority to order U.S. military support for the United Nations, including the use of troops in peacekeeping missions.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE KEEPERS OF THE TABERNACLE!

LEVITES, THE DESCENDANTS OF LEVI, ONE OF THE SONS OF JACOB, WERE TRADITIONALLY CHARGED WITH THE CARE OF THE SANCTUARY. IN THE TRIBE OF LEVI THERE WERE THREE TRIBAL FAMILIES, GERSHOM, KOHATH, AND MERARI. MOSES AND AARON WERE LEVITES OF THE HOUSE OF AMRAM AND FAMILY OF KOHATH (EX. 6:16-26). THE DERIVATION OF THE NAME LEVI MEANS A PERSON GIVEN IN PLEDGE TO A TEMPLE FOR A DEBT OR VOW. THUS SAMUEL WAS VOWED BY HIS MOTHER AT SHILO BEFORE HE WAS EVEN BORN! AARON AND HIS SONS WERE SET APART FOR THE PRIESTHOOD AND THE OFFICE WAS MADE HEREDITARY. IT MUST BE REMEMBERED THAT THE CARE OF THE TABERNACLE AND ITS SERVICE WAS GIVEN ON A NOBLE SCALE. THE CARE AND TRANSPORTATION OF THE COSTLY SANCTUARY AND THE PREPARATION OF MATERIALS FOR THE ELABORATE SERVICE, ENTAILED LABORS TO WHICH NO ONE MAN OR EVEN ONE FAMILY WAS EQUAL. THUS, THE ONLY WORK OF THE ENTIRE TRIBE OF LEVI WAS CARING FOR THE TABERNACLE AND GIVING SERVICES AS PRIESTS.

Carolyn Rapstine honored by Diocese of Amarillo

WHITE DEER - Carolyn Anderwald Rapstine was named 1995 Woman of the Year for the Diocese of Amarillo at the annual Diocesan Council of Catholic Women convention in Borger, Oct. 13. The Sacred Heart Altar Society of White Deer nominated Rapstine for the award.

Carolyn Rapstine

Rapstine has been active at all levels of church work. She and her husband Greg Rapstine, are members of Sacred Heart Parish at White Deer. She is the daughter of the late Thomas Dominic and Eleanor Haiduk Anderwald and granddaughter of pioneers Floryan and Christina Gordzelik Haiduk of White Deer. She is the sister of Robert Anderwald of Pampa.

She is active in the Altar Society, having served as president, vice president, reporter, historian and other committees for several different terms. She was active in the St. Francis Altar Society for 16 years and in the Sacred Heart Altar Society for 16 years. She is an organist, cantor and choir director. For the past five years, Rapstine has been publicity chairman for the annual Polish sausage dinner. She served on the parish council and is chairman of the liturgy committee. The Rapstines are Eucharistic Ministers and have served as Catholic Youth Organization sponsors.

Rapstine is an avid historian. In 1985, the White Deer sesquicentennial committee requested Rapstine write and produce an historical pageant, "Our Polish Heritage" as a climax to the 1986 sesquicentennial activities.

The musical pageant, written by Rapstine and her aunt Proxie Warminski, told how the Poles left their native land and traveled to Texas. It was two hours and 15 minutes long and involved 125 White Deer community people. She has been involved in learning Polish songs and incorporating them in the church music and liturgy.

In 1988, the Sacred Heart Parish celebrated its 75th anniversary. Rapstine was on the steering committee and asked to chair and write the history of Sacred Heart Church, the Polish pioneers and their descendants. She edited Roots of Faith, containing 109 family histories. Rapstine received the T.R. Febrenback Award from the Texas Historical Commission. As a result of this celebration, Rapstine was instrumental in organizing the Sacred Heart Historical Society, which preserves the history of Sacred Heart

In 1984, Rapstine was elected to the Diocesan Pastoral Council and served as vice president. Bishop Matthiesen organized this council to represent the laity within the five deaneries. Rapstine was appointed to the diocesan development committee, the diocesan liturgical commission and sang with the diocesan choir. In 1989, she was elected to the DPC for a second term and served as president for two years, organizing leadership workshops for parish councils and training for parish historians.

In August, 1993, Rapstine sponsored four CYO girls from Sacred Heart Parish to the World Youth Day in Denver. They went on the pilgrimage with 550 young people from the Amarillo diocese. They were present at the reception at Mile High Stadium for Pope John Paul II and the vigil and papal mass at Cherry Creek State Park.

In September, 1994, Rapstine accompanied her daughters on a pilgrimage to Rome, Italy. Theresa and Angela were members of the John Paul II Youth Chorale from the Archdiocese of Denver. The choral participated in the Sixth World Choirmasters' Congress and Second International "Giovanni da Palestrina" Music Competition. The choral sang at St. Peter's Basilica and a private mass with Pope John Paul II at Castle Gondolfo.

The Rapstines lived near Panhandle for 10 years. Rapstine served as president, first and second vice president in the PTA and chaired career day, parent and family life education, director of the volunteer services in the White Deer schools and is a life member of Texas PTA. She has been a 4-H leader, member of the Amarillo Symphony Chorus, Panhandle and Pampa Community Choirs and secretary-treasurer of the White Deer Alumni Association. The Rapstines were active in the American Agriculture Movement in 1976-1978.

Rapstine is a 1957 graduate of White Deer High School and earned a bachelor of science degree in home economics from Texas Tech in 1961. Rapstine earned a Texas certification in education from West Texas State University.

They are the parents of four children. A fifth child died in 1992.

Rapstine is home economics teacher at White Deer High School.

The making of a California monastery

By SANDRA ANN HARRIS Associated Press Writer

VINA, Calif. (AP) — Rev. Thomas X. Davis was a young monk spending his first day in California when he went to San Francisco to look at a heap of holy stones.

The stones were all that remained of an ancient Cistercian monastery built by Spanish monks near Madrid in the 12th century and dismantled by newspaper czar William Randolph Hearst in 1930.

"There it was," said Davis of that September 1955 day. "All in crates, but in fairly good condition."

Davis, 61, now abbot at the Abbey of New Clairvaux in rural Northern California, vowed to acquire the stones and rebuild the monastery at the abbey north of Chico.

It took 40 years, but the work is now proceeding on the order's prune and walnut ranch.

"These stones were once blessed by a Cistercian bishop and they have come home to their religious roots," Davis said. "It's part of our heritage."

Just as monks in Spain did hundreds of years ago, the 24 California brothers will use the old chapter house as a place to pray and receive instruction from their abbot.

Eleven truckloads of the stones have been transported from Golden Gate Park in San Francisco to an airy brick barn where railroad baron Leland Stanford once aged his brandy. Several more truckloads will follow.

Dr. Margaret Burke, a medieval art historian, was awarded $40,000 from the Hearst Foundation to sort and label the stones.

"It's kind of a detective problem," Burke said.

The story of the stones began 800 years ago. A band of Cistercian monks started construction of the Santa Maria de Oliva monastery in 1185 on a bluff above the Tagus River, 80 miles northeast of Madrid. The monks labored on and off for four centuries.

In the 19th century, the monastery was ravaged by anti-Catholic rioters. It was later sold by the Spanish Bank, its owner since the 12th century, to a wealthy family which used it as a retreat for nobility visiting the nearby mineral baths at Trillo.

By the time Hearst discovered it in 1930, a farmer was using the ramshackle monastery as a shed.

Hearst paid $97,000 for the buildings and hired 100 stonemasons, carpenters and laborers to dismantle parts of the monastery, pack the soft limestone pieces in cushioned crates, and ship them via ferry, mule, truck, railroad and ship to California.

Each stone was numbered and a reassembly plan was drafted. The project took a year and cost Hearst $250,000.

The stones arrived in California on the cusp of the Depression and Hearst let the project languish for a decade, eventually giving up plans to reassemble the monastery as a pool house at his huge estate near Mt. Shasta.

He donated the stones in 1942 to the deYoung Museum in San Francisco, but funding problems and differences over where the monastery should be placed prevented reconstruction.

For the past 50 years, the stones degraded into a numberless rubble. Fires destroyed the wooden crates. Firemen's high-pressure hoses wore down the stones.

Some of the stones were scattered around Golden Gate Park. Work crews had used them for retaining walls, parking lots, the arboretum and the Chinese Tea Garden.

Others were part of a New Age shrine that popped up in the park in 1990. The stones were used as seats and fashioned into a Stonehenge-like rock garden. People came to pray, meditate and make offerings.

Burke's job was to untangle the stones, find them and renumber them.

"From the combination of the stone-setting diagrams (drafted by workmen in 1930) and the stones themselves I made new drawings," Burke said.

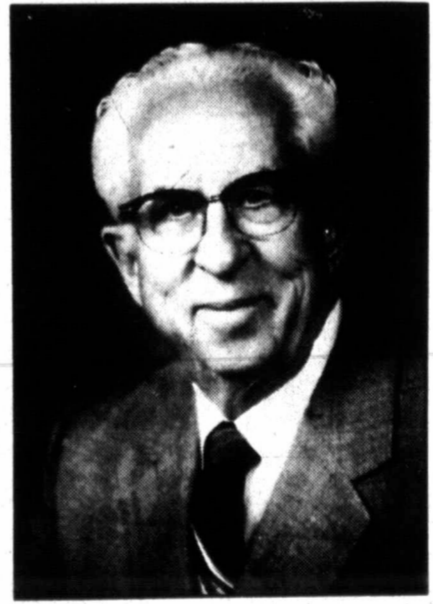

About 80 percent of the chapter house's facade and its three arches have been logged. These will form the basis of the reborn building. An anonymous donor paid to have the stones moved to the abbey.

"We have most of the puzzle and we'll recreate the rest," Davis said. "The only thing on my mind right now is to get all the stones up here, sort them out and see what we have."

The rebirth of the chapter house will cost about $1 million, too much for the monks. The Abbey of New Clairvaux is seeking a benefactor.

The monks live a simple life on their Tehama County ranch. Seven times a day they pray. They work at manual labor for five hours each day in the prune and walnut orchards or at domestic chores, such as cooking, sewing or cleaning. And they plan the rebuilding.

Butterfly collector accused smuggler

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) - For years, John Kemner supplied Mexican butterflies to private collectors and museums throughout the United States, including the prestigious Smithsonian Institution.

Among his buyers, Kemner was known as a self-taught entomologist who discovered 25 new species of butterflies in the forested hills of Oaxaca, Mexico.

But to federal authorities, he was a criminal who smuggled endangered butterflies into the United States for profit.

"When it first came out, I was like the poacher from hell - super smuggler - and that's not how it was," said Kemner, who was sentenced Wednesday to three years' probation and fined $500.

Perhaps the harshest part of his punishment is Kemner is prohibited from collecting butterflies - or accompanying someone who is - throughout his probation.

No matter, says Kemner, his butterfly collecting days are over. "I will study it all my life, but never in a way that will let me get in this predicament again," he said.

Kemner, 46, of Dripping Springs, Texas, is accused of smuggling 30,000 butterflies, skippers, moths and beetles into the United States between 1980 and 1992. His collection included the endangered Esperanza swallowtail, which could sell for as much as $1,000.

Anti-rap group takes on trashy talk television dubbing it 'cultural rot'

WASHINGTON (AP) - They're all talking on daytime TV: oversexed teens, philandering husbands, prostitutes and porn stars. Politicians who want to shush this chatter call it "cultural rot."

Talk show hosts call it real-life entertainment. And they say, viewers love it.

"People watch to have a good time," said host Jerry Springer. "Human beings love to talk about their personal lives, other people's lives, relationships."

Former Education Secretary William Bennett hopes to persuade people to quit watching, and to persuade corporations to quit producing trashy television. He's adopted the issue alongside his crusade against violent and sexually degrading rap music lyrics.

There was a time, Bennett said Thursday, "when personal failure or marital failure, subliminal desires, perverse tastes were accompanied by a sense of guilt or embarrassment.

"Today, these are a ticket to appear on the Sally Jessy Raphael show to be broadcast for children to watch," Bennett said. This "cultural rot" is polluting America, he said.

Raphael responded by citing her own ratings. "It's a real elitist view for a guy like this to stand up and say, 'I don't think 4.5 million people should watch this,'" she said in an interview.

Bennett, one of the Republican Party's most prominent voices on issues of morality and values, credited Democratic Sen. Joseph Lieberman of Connecticut with leading the charge against TV talk shows.

Lieberman worked with Bennett and civil rights activist C. Delores Tucker on the "gangsta rap" campaign. The group claimed a partial victory last month when entertainment giant Time Warner agreed to sell its stake in Interscope Records, a leading label for gangsta rap.

Bennett said he, Lieberman, Tucker and other volunteers, including Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., would use similar tactics against the corporations that produce daytime talk shows, including Time Warner, Paramount, Fox and CBS.

They plan a letter-writing campaign and possibly radio advertisements to shame the shows' producers, advertisers and viewers. They aren't pushing any legislation.

"We are calling for better citizenship, not censorship," Lieberman said at a news conference with Bennett.

As the offenders, they pointed to some of the hottest names in daytime TV: Springer, Raphael, Geraldo Rivera, Maury Povich, Ricki Lake, Jenny Jones and Montel Williams.

Damage wreaked by Opal an estimated $1.5 Billion

MERIDA, Mexico (AP) — Hurricanes Opal and Roxanne caused $1.5 billion in damage on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, according to insurance company estimates.

David Gonzalez Dominguez, president of the Yucatan Insurers' Association, said the states of Yucatan, Quintana Roo and Campeche suffered heavy damage to crops and property, including hotels and other tourist facilities.

Gonzalez said requests for compensation filed so far total $200 million, including claims for damage to heavy machinery and vehicles in Mexican oilfields.

The hurricanes hit Mexico's Gulf coast in late September and October, with Roxanne doubling back for a second strike.

Shepard's Crook seeks university affiliation

Federico Souflee, PhD, of the University of Texas at Arlington School of Social Work, recently visited Shepard's Crook Nursing Agency Inc. of Pampa to approve the agency for university affiliation.

The agency's affiliation will provide field placement opportunities for graduate social work students.

Dr. Souflee visited the agency on Oct. 20 to meet with staff members regarding the program.

Two social work employees of the agency are participating in the UTA and West Texas A&M University master's degree program and are planning to complete their placement requirement within the agency.

Carol Lindemann, LMSW, of Shepard's will provide supervision for the students, Dauna Wilkinson and Dawn Herndon.

Administrator Suzanne Wilkinson opened the door for this unique partnership by seeking the UTA School of Social Work affiliation contract and meeting UTA standards of demonstrating support for professional education and the educational focus of the field practicum.

Wilkinson said this will complete the internship program for the agency, which is already providing internships for nurses and physical therapists.

Police officer hears woman's cries from passing car

PHARR (AP) — Stripped and screaming, a woman was brutally beaten and repeatedly raped in the back seat of an automobile as her attackers drove through this South Texas town before police spotted them.

A police officer who had stopped Thursday to issue a traffic ticket to another driver saw the 20-year-old woman, half-naked and yelling, in the back of a passing car, said Pharr Assistant Chief Jesse Medina.

"It's very possible she wouldn't have made it through the ordeal if a police officer hadn't seen her," Medina said.

He said the rape was so brutal the two men might have beaten her to death if they hadn't been caught.

Juan Cruz Diaz, 22, and Julian Samudio Hernandez, 26, remained in Hidalgo County jail today in lieu of $700,000 bonds each on charges of aggravated kidnapping.

Canadians pour into Quebec to plead against secession

MONTREAL (AP) — Three days before a vote that could split their country, Canadians poured into Montreal by the thousands from distant cities and towns to implore Quebec today not to secede.

Their rally, which police said could draw up to 70,000 people, was viewed by federalists as chance to regain momentum from the surging separatists heading into Monday's too-close-to-call referendum.

But separatist leader Lucien Bouchard said Quebecers wouldn't be swayed.

"We know what it means — this bogus demonstration that they're going to hold, to trick us and make us believe that they love us," Bouchard said.

He was referring to discounted "unity fares" offered by two airlines and the national railway to Canadians traveling to the rally. Quebec officials say the discounts represent illegal contributions to the "no" campaign.

Non-Working Smoke Detectors Keep the Home Fires Burning

DEAR ABBY: I have been a member of the fire service for the past 20 years. To this day, I am awestruck by the high number of needless home fire deaths and injuries that occur throughout America. Nationwide, 3,000 people die and 50,000 to 100,000 are injured each year in fire-related tragedies.

The most troubling — and most common — evidence found in the rubble of home fires is smoke detectors with an old battery or no battery at all. By sounding an early warning and providing critical extra seconds to escape, a working smoke detector doubles the chance of surviving a home fire.

An alarming fact is that a disproportionate number of minorities die in home fires. African Americans, for example, are three times as likely to die in a home fire as any other minority group.

As the 1995-96 president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, and as an African American who is deeply concerned about the above statistics, I urge everyone to adopt a simple but potentially life-saving habit: Change the batteries in your smoke detectors when you change your clock back to standard time in October.

The "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" program each year is the most effective way I know to remind Americans to make their homes a little bit safer.

Abby, please help us by remind-

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

ing your readers to change their smoke detector batteries during the fall time-change weekend, Oct. 28-29. Thank you for helping us save lives.

CHIEF P. LAMONT EWELL, OAKLAND FIRE DEPARTMENT

DEAR CHIEF EWELL: I'm glad to help. The importance of fire safety cannot be overstated. Changing the batteries in home smoke detectors provides an excellent opportunity for families to create — and practice — an escape route they can use in case of a fire emergency. Thank you for a timely letter.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I disagree about a point of etiquette and need you to settle it. She says that a person should never pick his or her teeth while at the table.

I say that if one uses a napkin to cover the mouth and quickly picks at the tooth with the "baby finger," it is acceptable.

My sister strongly disagrees. She says it is vulgar and very bad manners. What do the etiquette experts say?

J.C. COSTA, WESTWOOD, MASS. DEAR J.C.: Etiquette expert Letitia Baldrige says, "Never use a toothpick at the table, even if you feel you have a gravel pit in your mouth."

"Try drinking some water to help the situation, and if you feel your teeth are really decorated with food, excuse yourself and go to the restroom or to the bathroom in your host's home. There you can vigorously rinse your mouth — or even use your toothpick."

World travelers see Asians and Europeans pick their teeth at the table behind a napkin — that maneuver, believe it or not, is considered acceptable. Some jewelry stores sell sterling silver as well as gold toothpicks that come with handsome leather cases, making them sanitary to tote in one's pocket or purse.

Of course, most people who know they will need a toothpick or dental floss following a meal always carry them.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Davey Johnson, who managed Cincinnati into this season's playoffs, reportedly has been offered a three-year contract to manage the Baltimore Orioles.

The (Baltimore) Sun said Johnson has been assembling a coaching staff for next year that includes some of his former Orioles teammates such as Pat Dobson and Andy Etchebarren. A team source told The Associated Press a decision on Johnson will not be announced until next week.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Expos, without a general manager since Kevin Malone resigned Oct. 2, were to fill the vacancy today.

The team scheduled a news conference, and the front-runner reportedly is Jim Beattie, a former pitcher who has been Seattle's farm director and director of player development.

NEW YORK (AP) — The trial of owners on unfair labor practice charges was postponed for the seventh time and reset for Dec. 11.

The National Labor Relations Board issued complaints against the owners in December and March.

HOCKEY

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Mario Lemieux became the 20th NHL player to reach 500 goals, scoring three times in the Pittsburgh Penguins' 7-5 victory over the New York Islanders.

Lemieux became the second-fastest player behind Wayne Gretzky to reach 500. Lemieux, in his 11th season, has played 605 games. Gretzky scored 500 goals in 575 games.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The San Jose Sharks acquired right wing Owen Nolan, the NHL's third-leading goal scorer last season, from the Colorado Avalanche for defenseman Sandis Ozolinsh.

Nolan, 23, selected first overall in the 1990 draft, had 30 goals and 19 assists in 46 games last season. He has four goals and four assists in nine games this season.

Ozolinsh, also 23, had 26 goals in 1993-94 and nine goals and 16 assists in 48 games last season. He has a goal and three assists in seven games this season.

Indians nip Braves; Series returns to Atlanta

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Atlanta Braves must be wondering.

If the Cleveland Indians can figure out Greg Maddux, what will they do against Tom Glavine?

If the Tribe can be inspired by a brushback pitch, what indignity will they seize upon Saturday?

If this World Series isn't over by now, could it be possibly turn out like the last two the Braves were involved in?

The Braves had plenty of time to think about it on their flight back home after losing 5-4 in Game 5 on Thursday night. With everything set up perfectly for the coronation of Maddux as the hero and the Braves as the true best team in baseball, they couldn't come through.

"I think the pressure is on them because they definitely have something to lose and they've lost the last two World Series they've participated in," said Orel Hershiser, who threw eight innings and outpitched Maddux.

The series resumes Saturday night in Atlanta with Tom Glavine, the winner of Game 2, facing 40-year-old Dennis Martinez. Today will be a day for the Braves to ponder what went wrong.

The first thing was a high, inside pitch that Maddux threw to Eddie Murray in the first inning after Albert Belle homered for a quick 2-0 lead. Murray took a couple of steps toward Maddux before home plate umpire Frank Pulli stepped in front of him. Both benches cleared, the crowd got into it and the Indians seized upon it.

"Believe it or not, I think the confrontation between them was the key. It got us fired up and it got the fans fired up. It takes little things like that to get everybody excited," said Jim Thome, who drove in the go-ahead run in the sixth inning and added a mammoth home run to straightaway center in the eighth that ended up being the deciding run.

The Indians fared much better against Maddux than they did in Game 1, when he held them to a season-low two hits. They did so by making an adjustment, moving a step closer to the plate, going for opposite-field hits and swinging at several first-pitch strikes.

"Down there, we had 17 or 19 ground balls and he broke six bats, but I felt tonight after seeing him once we had a better approach of how we wanted to hit him. We decided we can move up on the plate and take the away balls away. That ball, if you move up on the plate, becomes a better ball to hit," hitting coach Charlie Manuel said.

Never was that more evident than during Thome's pivotal at-bat in the sixth. Maddux had an 0-2 count on Thome, and all he needed was one more strike to end the threat, maybe something on the inside portion of the plate like the first two strikes he got on Thome.

Instead, he aimed for the outside and left it knee-high over the plate. Thome, a pull hitter, shortened his swing and slapped it up the middle for the go-ahead run.

"Maddux was pounding Thome in and was doing a good job on it. The ball Thome hit was a breaking ball away that he did not get where he wanted, I thought. It was up, and he put wood on it," Manuel said.

The single scored Carlos Baerga, who led off the inning with a double to the opposite field. Manny Ramirez followed with another single to the opposite field, scoring Belle from third.

Thome then gave Cleveland a 5-2 lead in the eighth with a solo homer off Brad Clontz that cleared the 19-foot-high wall in dead center by at least 30 feet. The Indians ended up needing it because Ryan Klesko homered for the third straight game, hitting a two-run shot with two outs in the ninth off Jose Mesa. The next batter, Mark Lemke, struck out swinging to end the game.

"Everybody was picking us to lose in batting practice tonight, but we were very strong mentally. It was a big win for us, because now we face Glavine and we've got the momentum on our side," Sandy Alomar said.

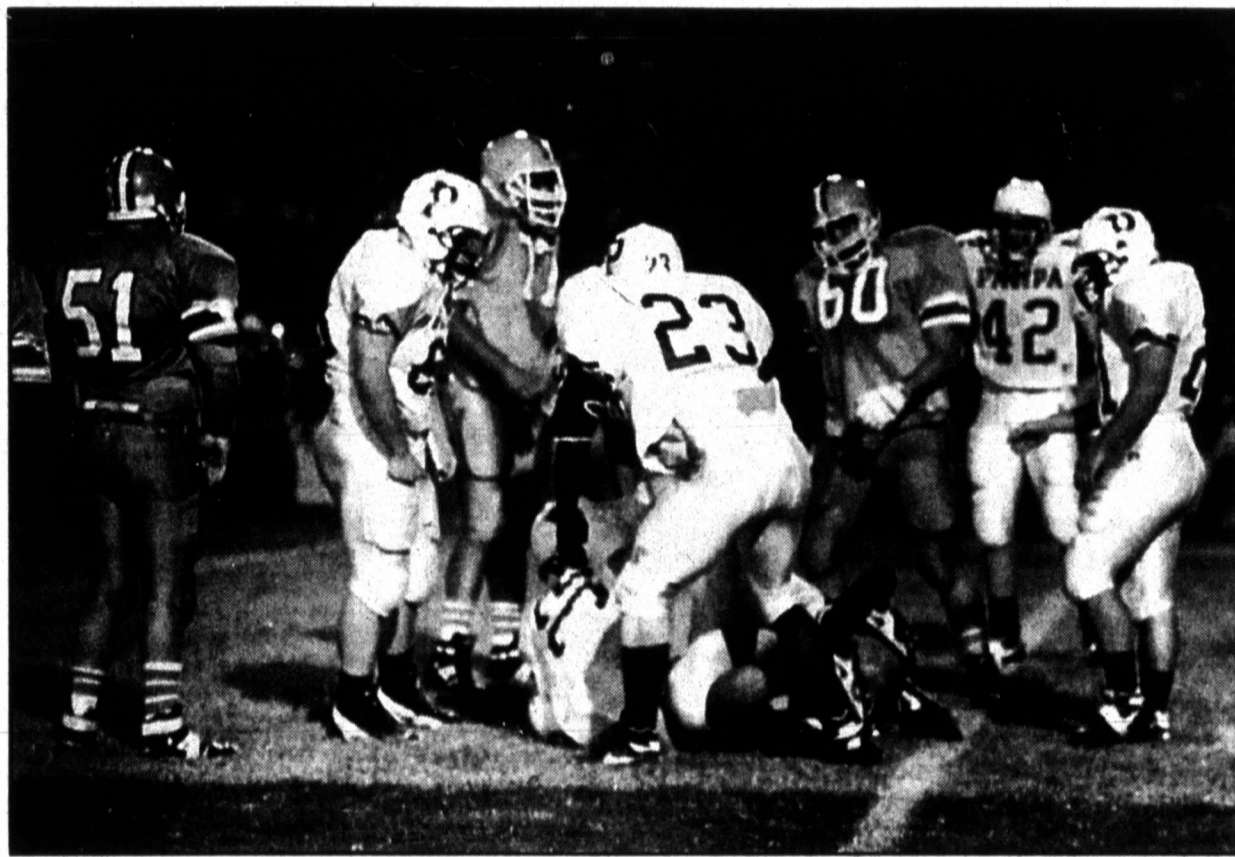

No team since the Kansas City Royals in 1985 has lost a World Series after taking a 3-1 lead, but the Braves are a team with a history of crushing defeats in October.

In 1991, they had a 3-2 lead over Minnesota, but lost the final two games. In 1992, they won the first game against Toronto and then proceeded to lose the next three.

"I feel good that we're going to be back in front of the home crowd. Things have gone as planned (winning one of the three in Cleveland) and when we get to Atlanta, we'll be all right," Chipper Jones said.

Maybe so. But the revised plan was to have Greg Maddux end it Thursday night. It didn't happen that way, and the Braves know it.

Harvester defenders

Devin Lemons (23) and other Harvester defenders stand over a Caprock runner who was tackled by Floyd White in the first half of last week's game in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium. The Harvesters host Randall at 7:30 tonight.

Pampa favored by 20 points over Randall

PAMPA — In the past three years, Pampa has beaten every District 1-4A team except one. The Harvesters are expected to end that three-year drought tonight.

The Harris Rating System lists Pampa as a 20-point favorite over Randall as the two teams collide in a District 1-4A game at 7:30 in Harvester Stadium.

Pampa has not beaten Randall since 1991, the year the Harvesters advanced to the fourth round of the playoffs for the first time in school history. After Pampa posted a 28-19 win that season, Randall rebounded by beating the Harvesters, 40-21, in 1992 and 30-10 in 1993. The two teams tied, 3-3, last season.

Randall head coach Alan Cornelius understands the challenge his Raiders face against a Harvester club that has won five of six outings and has outscored the last four opponents, 167-27.

"It's always tough when you play the Harvesters, but this is the strongest Harvester team in the four years I've been coach here," Cornelius said.

The challenge will be even tougher after it was reported by the Amarillo Daily News Friday that six Randall starters, including quarterback Jud Moller and 280-pound lineman Kenny Noggler, were suspended for tonight's game.

"It's something I can't comment on," Cornelius said. "It's a team situation."

Pampa, 2-0 in district play, is coming off a 42-7 win over Caprock last Friday night.

Altering tailbacks Matt Archibald and Derahian Evans led a Pampa ground game that racked up 300 yards in rushing. Archibald rushed for 120 yards and a touchdown while Evans added 111 yards and four touchdowns. The Harvesters had solid performances on both sides of the ball, but one of the best two-way jobs of the night was turned in by 175-pound senior Josh Calfy. He turned in some strong blocks from his center position and had 5 tackles at linebacker.

Despite last week's easy win, Pampa dropped from No. 9 to No. 11 in the Class 4A Harris rankings. Borger is at No. 12.

Pampa's individual leaders in scoring and tackles through six games are as follows:

Scoring

Derahian Evans 84 points; Todd Finney 32; J.J. Mathis 18; Ross Watkins 18; Devin Lemons 12; Matt Archibald 12.

Tackles

Floyd White 64; Donnie Middleton 60; Devin Lemons 54; Brian Phelps 45; Seth Heiskell, 33.

Big 8 power balance has slight shift

By MIKE FLAM
Associated Press Writer

The Big Four of the Big Eight are playing each other Saturday.

Kansas will play at Kansas State for more than just state pride, while Nebraska and Colorado, the only conference champions in the last seven years, play in Boulder, Colo.

The balance of power in the Big Eight hasn't shifted completely, but it is tilting a little toward Kansas. A team other than Nebraska or Colorado can win the conference title for the first time since 1987, and the Kansas schools have the best chance to break the hold.

Sixth-ranked Kansas is 7-0 for the first time in 27 years, and 3-0 in the conference. No. 14 Kansas State, which finished 1-10 only six seasons ago, is 6-1 and 2-1 in the conference after last week's 49-25 loss to Nebraska.

Kansas State coach Bill Snyder and Kansas coach Glen Mason met for the first time in 1989, when the teams were a combined 5-17.

"I can think of the first time that Glen and I played and it was very competitive," Snyder said. "We both took it as serious as anyone could. All of us were excited about the ballgame. We wanted to play it and play it as hard as we could."

In addition to defending its national championship, second-ranked Nebraska (7-0, 3-0) is looking for its fourth straight undisputed Big Eight title and 21st consecutive victory — the nation's longest streak. The Huskers take the second-highest scoring offense in the nation (54 points) against the seventh-ranked Buffaloes (6-1, 2-1), a team they have beaten the last three times.

"Nebraska has one of the most potent offenses going, and we've held them to 21 and 24 points the last two years," first-year Colorado coach Rick Neuheisel said. "The problem for us has been an inability to move the ball on offense and poor field position."

In a game that has major Rose Bowl implications, No. 13 Southern California and No. 17 Washington play Saturday in Seattle. Both teams are undefeated in the Pac-10, and the winner will have the inside track on playing in Pasadena, Calif., in January.

Lady Harvesters end season on winning note

PAMPA — Pampa finished in fifth place in the District 1-4A volleyball standings this season, but the Lady Harvesters did close out on a winning note.

With head coach Sandra Thornton calling it "our best hitting match of the season," the Lady Harvesters defeated Randall, 15-11, 9-15, 15-11, Tuesday night.

"Randall matches up with us pretty evenly, having only three seniors and an otherwise young ball team," Thornton said.

Pampa finished the season with a 10-14 record for the season and fifth place in district at 4-8. Randall was 8-15 overall and sixth in district at 3-8.

Serenity King and Jennifer Jones had outstanding hitting performances for Pampa, Thornton said.

"They both hit hard, placed the ball well and mixed it up with several dinks," she said. "Good setting by both athletes helped each other in hitting well."

Defensively, Deidre Crawford and Cara East had their best efforts of the season in digging and also added strong serving. Jane Brown, Amanda Kludt and Lisa Dwight also served well, Thornton said.

"Looking back on the season, we've made great strides in improvement, but consistency has been our downfall. That is something we will be stressing in off-season," she said.

Against Randall, King was 26 of 29 in hits with 13 kills while Jones was 17 of 19 with 7 kills. Crawford was 9 of 9 in hits and 2 kills; Brown, 9 of 9, 1 kill; Kludt 5 of 7, 2 kills; Dwight 3 of 4, 1 kill; East 4 of 4 and Katy Cavalier 2 of 2.

In digging, Brown was 12 of 14, King 10 of 14, Jones 13 of 19, Crawford 13 of 17 and Kludt 12 of 18.

In serving, East was 9 of 12 with 12 points; East 9 of 12, 8 points; Kludt 9 of 11, 5 points; Brown 8 of 10, 4 points; King 8 of 9, 3 points, and Dwight 9 of 9, 6 points.

Jones was 47 of 49 in sets with 17 assists while King was 26 of 27 in sets and 6 assists.

Hereford won the district championship while Dumas clinched the second-place playoff spot.

Sanders returns to dome as member of Cowboys

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

"This is MY house," Deion Sanders said last year after coming back to the Georgia Dome with the San Francisco 49ers, returning an interception for a touchdown and getting into a scuffle with Atlanta's Andre Rison.

Rison is in Cleveland now as Deion returns to make his debut with the Dallas Cowboys in perhaps the most fitting locale he could find.

His house, of course. That the Cowboys are favored by 10 points is the perfect reflection on the NFL this year. At 6-1, they're only a game better than the 5-2 Falcons, are playing on the road and yet ...

They're considered at least 10 points better by the people who are supposed to know.

Here's the problem for the Falcons: Their defensive line is small and Dallas' is big, meaning plenty of room for Emmitt Smith to run.

If Clayton Holmes was not the best cover guy in the secondary, Deion is, meaning the Falcons' run and shoot might have to revert to the run.

The run doesn't work very well against Dallas, either. Last year, the 49ers won 42-3 in Deion's return game.

Jerry Jones, of course, always wants to one-up San Francisco. COWBOYS, 43-3.

Buffalo (plus 5 1/2) at Miami The Dolphins are losing and squabbling while Jimmy Johnson waits for Wayne Huizenga's call at his BoatPhone. The Bills are hurt while Marv Levy recuperates at home and watches tape.

The key may be Dan Marino, who should be back. DOLPHINS, 20-14.

Green Bay (plus 2 1/2) at Detroit Every time Wayne Fontes comes under fire, the Lions somehow manage to beat a good team. "You can beat me up but you can't keep me down," Fontes says.

Brett Favre beat the Lions 30-21 two weeks ago. PACKERS, 31-21.

Cleveland (minus 2) at Cincinnati Cleveland went up a point when it was announced that Eric Zeier would replace Vinny Testaverde in this battle for AFC Central "supremacy."

PRO PICKS

BENGALS, 20-11.
Chicago (plus 3) at Minnesota (Monday night)

This is one of those games in which "must win" fits the Vikings. Like last Monday night ... VIKINGS, 27-14.

St. Louis (plus 3 1/2) at Philadelphia The worst 5-2 team in the league against the worst 4-3 team.

Make them the two worst 5-3 teams.

EAGLES, 18-14.
New Orleans (plus 14) at San Francisco

San Francisco has that gleam in its eye again. The Saints have bags over their heads.

49ERS, 37-6.
Jacksonville (plus 10) at Pittsburgh

Another "key" AFC Central game. Revenge? The Steelers still can't score touchdowns. STEELERS, 15-9.

Carolina (plus 8) at New England Three straight wins is an expansion record.

No offense, but the Panthers don't have one. PATRIOTS, 16-6.

Jets (plus 10 1/2) at Indianapolis The return of the real Jets. COLTS, 24-3.

Giants (plus 3) at Washington. The Giants usually win at RFK. A lot of traditions change. REDSKINS, 28-23.

Tampa Bay (minus 1) at Houston The Bucs' last three games have been decided by three points or less.

The Oilers have lost three games by a total of 10 points. BUCS, 10-3.

Seattle (plus 4) at Arizona Disarray on both sides. CARDS, 16-11.

Last week: 6-7 (spread); 5-8 (straight up).

Season: 46-60-3 (spread); 60-49 (straight up).
