Killer's Plea Up To Board

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. — Albert Edwards' fate was back in the hands of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles today.

The Court of Criminal Appeals rejected his habeas corpus plea through which he had sought to escape death in the electric chair early Tuesday morning, Oct. 9.

The court said the writ should have been denied in district court, and that no motion for a new hearing would be accepted.

Friday two members of the pardon board agreed to recommend a reprieve, then changed their minds and withheld a decision. That's where the matter finally rested today, and no action was expected until Monday.

The three-member pardon board does not usually meet on Saturday and Sunday.

Edwards is scheduled to die in the electric chair for the slaying of Paul Walker at Houston, Walker and Edwards' wife, Betty Lou, were shot to death as they sat in Walker's car.

Three previous stays of execution have been granted in Edwards' case.

Medal Of Honor Man Skips Korea Trip, Finds Trouble

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 6. — A Congressional Medal of Honor winner was in jail here Friday night charged with horse stealing — and the Army says he's supposed to be in Korea.

Junior J. Spurrier, the 28-year-old "One-Man Army," had his superior officers mystified. At Fort Lawton in Seattle, they said Friday night the last they knew, Spurrier left for Korea on April 17.

But Spurrier told newsmen he left Fort Lawton without leave in April and was not on Korean shipment.

Only a few years ago Bluefield turned out to honor the Kentucky-born soldier and present him with $5,000 in war bonds.

The horse-stealing charge followed a wild chase through Bluefield streets early Thursday.

Patrolman R. C. Lilly said the Spurrier car with two others in it sideswiped another car and failed to stop. He said the patrol car hit 90 miles per hour before the chase ended in capture.

Lilly didn't want to take all three men back to jail at once, he said, so he left Spurrier behind while he drove the others to jail.

When he returned, the soldier, hero was gone, Lilly said.

Spurrier was found later in the day asleep on the front porch of a house. A horse was grazing quietly nearby.

Ed Robertson, of Ada, claimed the animal and had a warrant sworn out charging Spurrier with grand larceny of a horse. Bluefield police added charges of leaving the scene of an accident and allowing an intoxicated person to drive a car.

Spurrier pleaded innocent to all three charges and told newsmen "All I want is to get this mess settled, get a discharge and settle down to a quiet life."

An Army magazine credits Spurrier with tearing in solo fashion to one side of the French town of Achain while the rest of his outfit entered the other.

In a wild motorcycle ride through the town's streets Spurrier killed 25 German soldiers, the account related. During his service in Europe he was credited with killing 250 enemy soldiers and capturing that many more.

Ask New Fee On Autos

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Automobile dealers want government permission to charge passenger car buyers a "preparation charge" of five per cent of the car's price of $150, whichever is less.

This was one of the changes in the forthcoming retail price ceiling order on passenger cars a subcommittee of the retail motor vehicle advisory committee asked Friday in a meeting with officials of the Office of Price Stabilization.

The proposed order, due this month, is less liberal. It would limit the preparation charge to the same fee charged during the month following the January price freeze.

The group also asked for a simplification of the requirement on invoices which dealers must itemize and give buyers. They want to eliminate some items.

SOME ATOMIC GUIDED MISSILES MAY BE AVAILABLE BY NEXT YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said in testimony made public today that the United States will have some atomic guided missiles "and things of that type" by next year.

spoke of "more and more specialists equipped to fire an atomic shell... and more short-range, guided missiles with atomic warheads."

Senator Cordon (R-Ore) asked Dean whether these weapons are already available or "will be" next year.

"Some of these will be," Dean replied.

Dean's testimony was given two weeks ago.

Steel For Schools Is Cut Back

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — A sharp reduction was indicated today in the allocation of steel for school construction during the first three months of next year.

The National Production Authority was reported to have advised the Office of Education that an allotment of 81,000 tons will be made Monday for school construction during that period. The allocation for the current quarter was 194,000 tons.

An official of the Office of Education said all but 28,000 tons of the 81,000-ton allotment already has been committed to continuing school projects in prior quarters.

He estimated colleges will get about 8,000 tons and secondary and elementary schools 20,000 tons.

The official said the most critical needs are in California, Florida, Texas and New York.

Would-Be Burglars Lose Their Knife

The kids who attempted to break into Perfecto Cleaners, at 313 N. Gregg street, Friday night came out the loser, Sheriff Jake Bruton reported.

The youngsters broke a hole in a front window with a pocketknife, apparently dropping the knife through the hole, Bruton said. They failed to gain entry or recover the knife.

The sheriff said he "lifted" a number of good fingerprints from the glass remaining in the window. Size of the prints indicated the would-be burglars couldn't have been more than 12 years old, he said.

SURVEY REVEALS

Free World Gains In Southeast Asia

By FRED HAMSON
SINGAPORE, Oct. 6. — Is Asia moving closer to the Communists or staying farther away? A swing through this section brings the distinct impression that the free world has gained ground in Southeast Asia.

In some places the ground gained is quite a bit; in others it is not so much, but the Communists don't seem to have gained anywhere.

This overall gain in yardage is credited by Southeast observers to the Korean War, to the Japanese peace treaty, to the firm stand of the French in Indochina and to a slight increase in guerrilla fighting in Red China.

I asked Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner for Southeast Asia, if he thought sentiment had veered to the West in this part of Asia.

"It has shifted enormously away from Peiping, especially among the Chinese in Southeast Asia," he replied.

The sharpest shift of sentiment was in Indonesia. The new republic ignored India's lead and signed the peace treaty with Japan. That breach affected the Malays, historically linked with Indonesia.

In Malaya one of the bitterest of the little wars against the Reds crackles and flares. British Tommies, Gurkas from India and Malay soldiers and police fight 5,000 Chinese Red terrorists whose ally is the hot, wet jungle.

The soldiers have gained some ground this year. The civilian population, which was terrorized into silence last year, is beginning to give information to the authorities.

But the main burden of the free world in this Asian half-war is not in Malaya, nor Indonesia, nor Burma nor the Philippines nor in Red China.

Korea is the key arena. Korea is keeping too much Communist strength tied up for big adventures elsewhere. Korea is costing the Communists much prestige.

Next in importance is Indochina.

the easiest road to the warm, fat lands of the South.

In Indochina the French still hold on against the Communist-led rebels, thanks to greater United States material help. The French are still in a tough spot, but it doesn't look as tough as last year.

Parents Resigned, Yet Are Having Anxious Moments

Patricia McCormick's determination to be a matadora costs her parents some anxious moments, but they long since have been resigned to accept their daughter's chosen career.

With her first professional appearance behind her, Pat is due to fight again within a month. She doesn't tell her Dad and Mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCormick, the exact dates.

"She just said that she will be in the ring again before her 22nd birthday," said Mrs. McCormick. "That's in mid-November."

Right now Pat is making a circuit tour of Mexico, visiting the breeding ranches for the diabolic Spanish bulls which she may face in the ring. During the past week she was to have gone to Mexico City to be outfitted in her costume. Then she was to go to Monterrey and from there to several ranches.

Under the tutelage of Alejandro del Hierro, a retired matador of Juarez, she practices regularly. On the current tour she will practice with cows. They are supposed to be smarter than the bulls but lack some of the ferocity and tenacity of the fighting sires. There's not an ounce of fat on Pat now, Mrs. McCormick says.

The girl's muscles are lithe and like steel hoops.

Unlike most women who essay to match skill with bulls in the ring, Pat has chosen to fight under the men's rules.

This means that once she plants her feet, she does not move them except to pivot. The bull is drawn in with the cape. Most of the time he comes close enough to brush her in passing.

Since she was a small girl, Pat had set her heart on bullfighting.

"She used to practice in the backyard," Mrs. McCormick remembers. "And when I would ask: 'What will the neighbors think?' Pat would reply 'I don't care what the neighbors think.'"

So, while the McCormicks don't think they could go for bullfighting as a sport, they are trying to learn more about it. They know now that the Spanish bulls are bred and trained exclusively for their moment in the ring; that the bull is not in pain as commonly supposed, and that the kill is done so swiftly that the animal is struck down instantly and with far more mercy than those brought to slaughter—or for that matter birds and animals killed by hunters.

This explains how Pat, a shy and sensitive young woman, could go in for bullfighting.

This autumn she dropped out of college, explaining that she didn't need a degree for bullfighting. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick wanted her to get her degree although it might not make any difference in her other potential career as an illustrator.

In high school, Pat showed extraordinary talent in her art. Her sketches—many about bullfighting—are vivid, exciting.

Her new career has brought a flood of fan mail—some of it crude, some of it curious, much of it in the fan vein. It also has brought offers from radio, television and Hollywood. She even had one offer for a fabulous contract to fill an engagement which Del Hierro vetoed. Pat is not yet ready for it, he said.

Matadora

Patricia McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCormick, 709 W. 17th, brings a Spanish bull up short on a pass in the ring at Juarez, Mexico recently. Note how her feet are planted. Pat fights like a man, never moving out of one spot once her stand is taken and maneuvering the cape to draw the brute in as close as possible.

DETERMINED UPON CAREER

Pat M'Cormick Wins Bullfight Following With Her Courage

EL PASO, Oct. 6. (U)—Patricia McCormick is tall, slender, blonde, 21, and determined to be a bullfighter.

It's her courage that fans have cheered wildly in her to appearances at the Juarez bullfight ring across from El Paso.

One Sunday afternoon this summer she tied her long blonde hair back with a ribbon, pulled on her tight-fitting slacks, buttoned her white blouse at the collar and went into the ring.

She faced a two-year-old bull. She started a pass with her rose and yellow cape—and swirled the cape behind her. The bull followed her instead of the cape. He hit her legs. She tripped and fell. The bull lowered its menacing horns and started toward her. She lay still in the arena, and a tense silence fell on the 1,500 persons who watched.

Just in time a banderillero leaped in with his cape and drew the animal away.

The girl picked up herself and her cape and started again. It was the courage of the girl from Big Spring, that the crowd cheered.

"I wasn't scared," she said later. "I was just angry because that happened to me so soon. That was my first appearance in a bull fight. But it won't be my last. I'm more determined than ever to make bullfighting a career."

That was in August. Patricia was allowed to make only a few graceful passes with the cape in the ring then. A retired matador in Juarez, Alejandro Del Hierro, taught her the passes.

On Sept. 9 she appeared again at the Juarez Plaza de Toros, one of the best little bull rings in all of Mexico.

This time she killed her bull—but only after it had trampled her twice and tossed her on its horns.

The crowds went wild. They showered her with bouquets on her triumphant tour of the arena following the kill, and tolerant judges awarded her an ear of the bull. It's usually given for excellent performance and bravery.

The crowd included both Mexican and American aficionados. The Mexicans were delighted. The Americans were terrified. One woman cried out "Get that girl out of there."

The Mexican newspaper critics said she was as "green as lettuce" but added that she would cause a sensation wherever she fought.

The tremendous appeal she has is courage. An aficionado will cheer the brave, even if inept.

The bullfight critic of the El Paso Times, Mary Thurber, wrote of Pat: "When she is working coolly and not in trouble, she gets the feeling of art that all great toreros have. Some call it emotion. At any rate, she's got it."

She's a pretty, young girl with honey-blond hair and blue eyes. She can't wear those fancy bullfighter's suits yet. Only a novillero and a matador can wear the traje de luces—suit of lights.

She has the figure for a bullfighter—five feet, six inches tall, slim, no hips to speak of. The figure is important in bullfighting because the taller and more graceful the matador is, the better he looks when he makes his passes.

Critics say Pat has a lot to learn before she becomes a matadora—a full-fledged lady bullfighter.

Wayne Horne Dies; Rites At 2 P. M.

WAYNE HORNE

Wayne Horne, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Boone Horne, 1906 Main, died Friday evening following a four weeks illness. Services for the popular youth were to be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the First Baptist church, where he had been a member for several years. Rites were to be in charge of the pastor, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, and interment was to be in the Trinity Memorial Park. Music was to be in charge of the church choir, and a special section was to be reserved for his many young friends. Besides his parents, Wayne leaves two sisters, Mrs. Dolores Hull and Joyce Horne. Born in Lubbock on Nov. 10, 1932, Wayne came to Big Spring 10 years ago when his father assumed charge of Hester's office supply store. As a lad, he had developed a kidney disease which later became chronic. However, he always was extremely active. In both high school and junior college, he was a favorite among the students, who affectionately called him "Cheesy."

Before he graduated from Big Spring high school in 1949, Wayne belonged to the Latin club, the Journalism club, served as reporter for the high school newspaper and was manager for the basketball team.

Last year at HCJC he was a member of the staff for both the El Nido (newspaper) and Jayhawk (yearbook) and took an active part in most campus affairs.

Ironically, he had his bags packed to leave for Waco to enter Baylor University when he fell ill four weeks ago.

Wayne also found time to take a leading roll in affairs of the young people of his church.

During the past summer, he had worked at his father's business. Pallbearers will be from his companions, among them Donald Wren, Billy Wayne King, Hector Long, Robert Ragan, Lowie Rice, Chubby Cloud, Amos Jones, Harold Rossion, Luther McDaniel, Jimmy Cole and his cousin, John J. Hanna, III.

Described as an informal fellow, Syd has had a flair for adventure, and has been able to find it during an exciting career in the far Northwest. He was a Mountie for six years, spent most of this time on the Arctic coast. He also has a background in engineering and has been interested in exploring the North country with an eye to its potentialities for the future.

Students Compete On Oil Subject

"What the Oil Industry Means to Howard County" is the topic to be discussed by high school juniors and seniors entering the essay and radio-speech contests being held in conjunction with the observance of Oil Progress Week here Oct. 14-21.

Today is the deadline for turning in entries in the contests. Roy Worley, high school principal, said some 30 themes and approximately 15 speeches are expected.

Students will be competing for a total of 450 in prizes in the two contests, being sponsored by the Oil Industry Information Committee, a special group set up to arrange the Oil Progress Week program. One English class and a speech class have been assigned work as a part of the contests. Worley said.

When all entries are in, a faculty committee will choose the best five themes and speeches. A non-school committee will then study the entries and select the three winners for each division. First place winners will be given prizes of $12.50, while awards of $7.50 and $5 will go to second and third place winners. Limits of 500 words and three minutes have been set, respectively, for the essay and speech entries.

How does it feel to drive a Buick?

If you think perhaps we're hinting that it would be a good idea for you to try out a Buick—mister, you've never been so right.

It does a lot of things for you and to you that will be something new in your driving experience.

Take the way it feels beneath your hands on the wheel—eager and willing and anxious to please.

It spurts when you want to spurt—rolls with effortless momentum when you want to cruise.

When you take a curve, it snugs down to the road with sure-footed confidence.

After you make a turn, the front wheels instinctively seek a straight course. This car seems to guide itself.

When you come to a bumpy stretch, each separate wheel on its own coil spring steps you smoothly along on a level keel.

Then there's power that surges into action at a nudge of your toe—sends your speedometer needle soaring up to any speed the law allows, in a matter of seconds.

And there is also thrift—the gas-saving thrift that comes from a high-compression valve-in-head Fireball Engine found in no other car.

To top all this, there is Dynaflo Drive*—that feeds power in a steady, falterless flow—lets you ride relaxed in busy traffic or on a day-long cross-country drive.

We're willing to stand on the statement that no other car rides, performs or drives like a Buick.

District Loses Man With Keen Sense Of The Right And Wrong

Resignation of H. E. (Peppy) Blount removes from the state house of representatives a rising and on its most colorful members. Blount, who twice won the seat from the 51st legislative district, announced that he was having to retire from public life for the time being, for personal reasons. He is still wrestling with courses as he works toward a degree in law. Added to this is his responsibility as head of a family, to whom he rightly concluded he owed first consideration. While we regret that he has chosen to retire, and particularly with hardly a year to run on his term, we concede that the representative knows his situation better than we.

When Peppy Blount went to the legislature, he was one of its very youngest members. He had only his high school education, a tour of duty in the Army Air Corps and his studies at the University of Texas for experience. Naturally, he lacked maturity that a few more years of wrestling with the problems of the area and state would have afforded. However, he was undergirded with a penchant for work and was equipped with a strong moral sense of what was right and just. And if he made mistakes, they were of the head and not the heart. As he learned his way around and had looked into the eyes of disillusionment without himself being disillusioned, Peppy Blount increased his usefulness to the district. He began to fight for some things he thought were right instead of popular. Critics accused him of battling windmills, or of demagoguery, or hunting a whipping boy in natural resources. Before the last session was over, Blount had rallied enough support to win at least a partial point and to fix a spotlight of attention. He admitted that he could have taken "certain sides on certain issues and lived well," but the side he took paid off only in letters from the people.

Well, that's a city good pay after all. Someday, if Peppy Blount decides to run again, he may find the experience stood him in good stead. Meanwhile, we do not begrudge him the success from critics who subtly played on his natural friendly positions. A more mature and cynical man would have sensed these tricks for what they were, but then Peppy Blount has had a refreshing faith in his fellow man.

Editors Roundtable—James Galloway

Majority Disagree About Making Federal Aides' Salaries Public

To a very large minority of editors President Truman's drastic proposal that Federal officials—Executive, Legislative and Judicial—and political party officials make public reports of their "outside" income is justified. But majority opinion is that such a law, even if substantially effective, would be an unjustified invasion of the privacy of such officials, most of whom editors agree are honest. Majority opinion also is that Mr. Truman, knowing Congress would not approve his proposal, is making a political gesture, when he should be setting an example by "cleaning up" his own Administration.

HARTFORD (Conn.) COURANT (Rep.): "Mr. Truman would have all officials on salaries of $10,000 or more report under oath all income from other sources, including gifts of hams, cameras, mink coats, deep freezers and what-have-you. To this he would add all officials, no matter what the salary, who received money or goods in excess of $1,000 for outside activities. He is certain that... would cure evil-doing in high places. Perhaps so. But perhaps the dishonest will find loopholes in a new law. Just as they do in their income-tax returns today. Laws and more laws are not an acceptable substitute for decency in government."

CHARLOTTE (N.C.) OBSERVER (Ind.-Dem.): "What is needed, and has been needed, are higher moral standards of ethics in government circles, from top to bottom. Enactment of a law will not make honest men of dishonest public officials. But a law requiring them to make public record of all income and the sources doubtless would curb the dishonest, as they would fear the results of exposure. And it would prompt those on the borderline to steer clear of questionable practices involving financial gain for themselves while in office."

SAN FRANCISCO (Calif.) CHRONICLE (Ind.-Rep.): "The basic objection to the President's proposal is that it would invade the privacy of thousands of officials. Public men ought to be presumed innocent of improper conduct until proved guilty of it, and they are as fully entitled to this presumption as private men. We agree with the President that the vast majority are above suspicion of dishonesty. His proposal would tend to discourage men having private sources of income from coming to work for the Government. Mr. Truman frequently complains about his difficulties in recruiting able, top-flight men from industry."

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) NEWS (Ind.-Dem.): "There are unappealing, even regrettable aspects of revealing all such incomes, but these are overshadowed by the importance and urgency of safeguarding federal operations from corruption and irregularity and undue influence. With that shrewdness he often displays, Mr. Truman has proposed action that should both help protect government and strengthen popular confidence in it. And at the same time it provides an effective, though, of course, not a conclusive, counter move to criticisms in this connection."

SAN DIEGO (Calif.) UNION (Rep.): "The decline of morality in government is not due to the Congress or the Judiciary, but almost entirely to the Executive Department. One or two members of Congress have been found guilty of abusing their official prerogative for personal gain. Mr. Truman, advocating legislation to preserve the integrity of the legislative and judicial branches of the government, is another case of the devil quoting scripture. If he will clean out his own official household he can talk with better grace."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR (Ind.): "If the plan Mr. Truman proposes is adopted it will show many congressmen with outside income and employment—many entirely proper. But why has the HRC inquiry shied off every time it has approached the subject of influence exerted by congressmen to obtain loans? We need higher standards. We trust every measure for obtaining them will be pressed. These measures will be most successful if they themselves are ethical enough to play no favorites. Mr. Truman's proposal could be very useful. We hope Congress will give it earnest consideration."

Forestral Diaries - Number 10

Byrnes Found Russian People To Be "Obstinate, Stubborn, Didn't Scare"

10. AN OMINOUS SPRING (One of Forrestal's more casual diary notes gives an interesting sidelight on President Truman: 20 December 1946)

THE PRESIDENT Last night the President came to dinner with Secretary of State Byrnes, Averell Harriman and a few others. Before dinner I showed him a copy of the New Republic, which I said I was going to give Jimmy Byrnes for Christmas. In it was a caricature of Senator Taft with a picture of his father in the background. The President laughed at the caricature of Senator Taft but expressed himself that it was not in good taste and an impropriety to caricature an ex-President who is dead.

I make note of this because it served to strengthen the impression I have had of the President's traditionalism and his sense of the importance of sustaining the dignity of government. His remarks to the Commission on Universal Training this morning reflected much of the same feeling, plus a deep and obviously very sincere devotion to the government and the people of the country.

THE RUSSIANS "DON'T SCARE" (Another note on Mr. Byrnes (after he had left the State Department) is amusing: 30 April 1947)

HON. JAMES BYRNES Jimmy Byrnes came in this morning and in talking about the Russians he said they are "stubborn, obstinate and they don't scare." I reminded him of our conversation about two years ago when he chided me for being too extreme in my views about the Russians when I told him that (when he harbored the illusion that he could talk in the same fashion with the Republican opposition in the Senate he was very much mistaken. At that time I told him that when he spoke, so to speak, using language in a third dimension, the Russians spoke in a fourth, and there was no stairway. Byrnes said the whole Russian system was shot through with great emphasis on class and rank. One amusing sidelight of the last Moscow meeting, he said, was the segregation of Connally and Vandenberg from the Senators and his assistants. They, the Senators, being of a lower order in the Russian mind — consequence, Messrs. Connally and Vandenberg were considerably burned up.

In the spring of 1947 the Greek-Turkish aid plan seemed a promising new beginning, but it brought no success in other problems: 25 April 1947

PENTAGON LUNCHEON Lunch at Pentagon Building today (at this time the offices of the Secretary of the Navy were not in the Pentagon but in the Navy Building in Potomac Park) with Judge Patterson, General Eisenhower, General Spaatz, Admiral Nimitz. . . .

Judge Patterson (then Secretary of War) complained about the drain upon Army resources in the form of occupation troops with particular reference to Korea. He said that the fact that Americans were still compelled to do an occupation job in that country was not only a great drain on its appropriations but also was the source of unceasing complaint from parents of the enlisted men who were unhappy, dissatisfied and bored. . . .

Eisenhower gave it as his considered opinion that the Russians would not initiate a war, short of five years. In the interval, however, they would continue to export their one commodity, the composite of chaos, anarchy and confusion. The Russians, he said, would not be concerned by any loss of life among their own people; during the last war they kept no records of the dead, of their casualties; there were no personnel records in any of the Russian armies; when they wished to clear minefields they did it by human bodies rather than by any mechanism; in short, in their conduct of war they were guided by an utter and ruthless disregard for the lives of their soldiers.

Secretary Marshall had been at the Moscow Conference; and at a Cabinet lunch three days later he gave an account of his interview with Stalin. 28 April 1947

CABINET LUNCHEON (Marshall) recited to Stalin a long list of proposals and communications which had been addressed to the Russians and to which he had not received any answer. He said such conduct was not merely discourteous but that it amounted to an attitude of contemptuousness, and if their design was to earn our ill will they were going about it most successfully. Stalin, in response to the list of items Marshall raised, commented that was "stolpy government" but then he referred to the Russian request for a loan from the United States which he said had been made two years ago without any answer having been received as yet from us. At this juncture Bedell Smith interposed that an answer had been made about a year ago, which, however, represented a year's delay. . . .

UNIFICATION OF ARMED SERVICES (Since the end of the war, Forrestal himself had been much occupied with working out a sound reorganization of the Armed Services. In January, 1947, he had at last secured the agreement of the President, the Army and the Army Air Force to a co-ordinated rather than a completely centralized structure of unification. But as Congress took up the bill in the spring, he began to fear that the Army would insist on a single chain of command, imperiling the Navy's position. In April he was talking about it to Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland: 18 April 1947

SENATOR TYDINGS I said I would have to confess I was somewhat shaken by the recurring evidence of the Army's reticence in regard to the chain-of-command concept (when, as a matter of fact, during this war they had not been able to issue a single order to MacArthur — and they couldn't now). I said my whole attitude in the bill was that unless the civilians who were named to the various jobs outlined would work together in complete harmony, the operation of the bill would be a mess. And by the same token, I said that unless the Services were led by officers who were determined to make the thing go, there would be the same chance of a mess. I said the difficulty I had all along with the Army's general assumption that by writing a chart and drafting a law you could get discipline, when as a matter of fact I had seen very little of it in the Army itself. Co-operation and harmony take constant effort and work as well as imagination to foresee the things that will create friction.

(This is an excellent statement of Forrestal's philosophy in the problem of unification, and in administration as a whole. But while dealing with these internal issues, the world situation looked only darker: 23 June 1947

CABINET LUNCHEON Just before breaking up I asked permission of the President to pose a question which I had put to the Secretary of State last Thursday: What does this country do, politically or militarily, if it is confronted during this summer with a Russian demarche accompanied by simultaneous coups in France and Italy? The President replied that we would have to face that situation when it arose, and he then said that he and General Marshall had been talking about it just prior to lunch. He said that he was afraid the answer would have to be found in history — of the struggle between the Romans and Carthage, between Athens and Sparta, between Alexander the Great and the Persians, between France and England, between England and Germany. He hoped that the present situation would not have to be answered the same way.

Disaster Loans Are Recommended

DALLAS, Oct. 6. (AP) — Two West Texas counties and five in Central Texas have been recommended as disaster areas by a farmers home administration official. L. J. Cappelmann, FMA state director, said prolonged drought conditions led him to ask the Secretary of Agriculture to declare them disaster areas. He made the recommendations on reports from farm leaders from Schleicher and Tom Green counties in West Texas, and Briscoe, Henderson, Erath, Hill and Limestone in Central Texas.

Texans In Washington Bearing Heavy Tasks Conscientiously

There has been so much about the deep-freezes, the mink coats, the free hotel rooms, the 12-pound hams; about the use of office and prestige for selfish profit and influence—about similar lapses in morals, that it's no wonder the American people have their confidence shaken in the Washington processes.

There is a natural tendency, I'm afraid, to turn loose a blanket indictment against everybody in the government. I've caught myself, at times, railing at the entire set-up, and I imagine you have, too.

What becomes unfortunate, in such an attitude, is that the substantial men, the honest and hard-working men in Washington jobs tend to get smeared with the same brush that swipes at the guilty. They deserve better.

Some of us need to speak up in defense of the good men. This was impressed upon me deeply in a short stay in Washington the first of the week, and I came away proud of the Texas delegation in Washington.

I do not know all the Texas congressmen personally. But I can report that the Texas delegation, as a unit, is most highly regarded throughout the capital, and is adjudged in most quarters as probably the strongest state group there. I heard this from several sources, from people who were without prejudice, and who had no occasion to employ flattery. The record probably backs them up.

As for the Texans in Congress that I do know—and you know most of them, too—they are entitled to commendation, encouragement and support in these trying times.

On one day that I was around the capitol, Senator Tom Connally was weighted down with the great task of piloting a foreign-aid measure through the Senate. Senator Lyndon Johnson was engaged with Defense Department chiefs in discussions for correcting housing conditions and watching extravaganzas. Rep. George Mahon was spending hours at a conference table to arrive at a military appropriation running into the billions.

Each of them was carrying some of the heaviest loads in Washington. Each of them was proceeding with utmost gravity on his job. Each left the strongest impression upon me of being deeply conscientious toward the responsibilities that have to be met. All voiced a realization of the need to check the gigantic expenditures that are having to be made; and yet all are aware that the crisis in the world today demands that the U. S. cannot back down on its program for self-preservation and world protection. I think they are more distressed than you and I are that no happy medium has been reached and probably cannot immediately be reached. I think they are striving for this happy medium much more than the public realizes.

There is, to the novice visitor in the offices of these men, the air of great urgency. There is no doubt that the strain and the tension, the continual press of responsibility is resting heavily upon these men. You would have to see them, and to sense the activity first hand, to appreciate its gravity.

You know, of course, that Senator Connally is chairman of the vital Senate Foreign Relations Committee; that Senator Johnson is his party whip, and is heading an important military-and-defense "watchdog" committee; that George Mahon is directing the military appropriations problems as chairman of the House subcommittee. These undoubtedly are among the most responsible jobs in the world today.

In such positions, these men are under close scrutiny, are subject to much criticism. You would be pleased, as I was, to learn in just how high regard this trio of Texans is held.

Integrity, you know, is a tremendous word in our language. It speaks for a tremendous quality. It is something we need to stress more, something we need to restore to top priority. I heard the word used in Washington, on more than one occasion, in remarks about everyone of the three officials mentioned in this column. People said they were men of integrity. You can't ask for much more. I felt that you people, as Texans, should know that you have representatives in Washington who have won confidence as men of integrity, and who merit that confidence.

Matter Of Fact - Stewart Alsop

Involved In SHAPE Is A Change In European Politics, Economy

PARIS. — On a recent visit to Paris, Mr. Winston Churchill had a number of conversations with French leaders. They described to him the plans now being worked out for a European army. Mr. Churchill's response, according to reliable reports, was one of intense surprise. "But that is not what I meant at all," he said repeatedly, "not what I meant at all."

This reaction on the part of the great English leader, who is himself the godfather of the European union idea, was natural enough. For it is a reasonable guess that what Mr. Churchill has had in mind all along is a sort of grand European coalition, with England at its head. And both the French leaders and the men in Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters here are now talking very seriously and with apparent conviction about something a great deal more far-reaching than this.

It is surprising, for example, to hear a man like Mr. Jean Monnet, the chief French planner, remark calmly, "Oh, yes, we shall have a United States of Europe by 1953." It is usually best to disregard such sweeping statements entirely. But Mr. Monnet is anything but a fool, and he has a way of seeing at least some of his plans—like the Schuman plan for pooling continental coal and steel, of which he was a principal author—come at least partially true.

In a way, it is even more surprising to hear American professional soldiers, including Gen. Eisenhower, talking with the earnestness of new converts about the need for a common European effort, in the military and all other fields. Eisenhower and his most brilliant subordinates have become convinced that real European military strength simply cannot be built on the basis of individual national effort. The heart of the common European defense system, they believe, must be a French-German marriage, which the Schuman plan is to make possible, and the European army to make permanent.

The distinctly revolutionary implications of these ideas are accepted both in the French government and at SHAPE—rather blandly accepted, it sometimes seems to the newcomer. For what is involved is a profound change in the whole political and economic structure of Europe.

An end to national armies means an end to national foreign policies, since military strength is the essential instrument of national sovereignty. Moreover, the creation of a European army would mean that a third or more of the national budgets of each nation would be contributed to an army controlled by no nation. Thus a European foreign ministry and a European finance ministry are, as men like French Prime Minister Rene Pleven recognize, the logical next step to the European defense ministry, already contemplated in the European army plan.

In fact, a European army simply will not work unless there exists a supra-national European authority empowered to make independent decisions. Thus, as both the French leaders and the planners in SHAPE readily agree, the European army plan can only function within the framework of a real European federation.

All this sounds suspiciously like wishful nonsense, like an attempt to substitute large, expensive ideas for large, expensive armies. And nonsense is precisely what it may turn out to be in the end. Although there is certainly growing strength behind the European union idea here in France, there are also powerful forces, including both the Communists and the de Gaulles, which will do everything possible to obstruct and reverse the trend. Moreover, it takes two to make a marriage. It remains to be seen just how politically practical the European army plan is in Germany, where this reporter goes next. And finally, all recent history clearly suggests that the practical hurdles are too high. Even such modest experiments as the British-Indian have ended in failure. It is very hard to believe that the European army proposal (which in fact started as a simple French tactic for delaying the creation of a German national army) can really lead on to a united Europe.

Yet Gen. Eisenhower and his chief planners believe that it can and that it must. Already, this conviction is having rather startling effects. Obstacles which seemed insurmountable before Eisenhower "bought" the European army idea have shown a tendency to melt away. The French, for example, are now ready to agree to operationally independent national units of 12,000 men in the European army, and thus a rational solution to a vexed question is in sight. Other vexed questions, like the identity of the commander in the transition period (it will probably be Eisenhower himself) and the national contributions in men and money, are near to solution.

Certainly there is a great gulf between this sort of preliminary paper agreement and the giving up of huge chunks of national sovereignty. But it does begin to seem just barely possible that American leadership on the one hand, and the fear of Russia on the other, may supply the missing ingredient which will transform an ancient dream into reality. It may even be that Mr. Jean Monnet is right; at least in principle, and that Western Europe has reached, almost unnoticed, a great turning point in history.

Batory Switches

BOMBAY — Poland will be the first Iron Curtain country to operate a regular passenger service by sea between India and Europe with the departure soon of the 14,300-ton "Batory."

Abandoning the Gdynia-United States service, the queen of the Polish ocean lines is opening service from Poland to India via Southampton, Gibraltar, Port Said, Suez, and Aden, India, maintaining its neutrality in the cold war, has paid little attention to possible political significance of the new Polish link between Communist Europe and this country.

During its operations to the United States the "Batory" frequently was called a "spy ship" because of the passengers it carried, some of them allegedly undercover.

Formal opening is being observed this week by Baron's, newest women's apparel store. Member of a long established merchandising group, Baron's also offers clothes for boys and girls.

BUILDING RE-DESIGNED

New Apparel Shop Staging Formal Opening This Week

Baron's, newest women's apparel store in Big Spring, is observing its formal opening Monday and throughout the remainder of the week.

As a member of a long-established merchandising family, Baron's store here is the fourth for the concern in Texas—and significant, all in West Texas. Others are at San Angelo, Odessa and Borger.

Here for the occasion is W. R. (Roy) Barcliff, Council Bluffs, Iowa, district supervisor.

Mrs. Ann Terry is manager of the store and is assisted by an adequate staff.

The store, located in the Williams building at 219 Main, is completely new. Exterior and interior were especially designed and installed for Baron's. The attractive glazed front with upper stone trim has added another modern touch to the business district.

Inside, the store is finished with walls of rose and gray, the latter in light and darker shades. Fixtures are in blonde oak and cases are open for easy vision. All other fixtures are low so that the eye has easy access to all part of the store.

People's Irritations May Bring Overthrow In Britain

By RONNIE DUGGER

LONDON, Oct. 6. — Thousands of irritations among the British people are probably the greatest single force which threatens to throw the Labor government out of power.

Their patience worn by a squeeze between high prices and growing shortages, British troops in the polls Oct. 25 to decide whether they want a consolidated welfare state or more private enterprise.

There is little argument over foreign policy. Both the Tories and the Laborites advocate re-armament. The issue, plain and simple, is British socialism, more or less.

The first thing we heard of the boat at Plymouth was that there is a 400 per cent tax on cigarettes. The good ware is exported. The cost of living has risen to an all-time high. In the dead of winter, electricity is cut off and heaters go off all over London. Hotels get only one-half an egg per person per week and citizens get only one a week, while restaurants can serve all customers eggs every morning.

A friend of ours who lost his four furniture stores during the German bombings of London told us how an official of the nationalized electricity industry defamed him an electric heater in his apartment because a coal fire was available.

"It's all very well to plan, but the people, as individuals, get around it," he said. "The next step is forced inspection of your home. Here," we Britons say, "Here, this is my home, my castle. Now you get out of here, or I'll throw you out, and don't cross my threshold again!"

The Labor government, sensing the trend, is making out its strongest case. Prime Minister Clement Attlee, determined to "do a Truman" in spite of the fact that he has none of Truman's off-the-cuff appeal, has already opened fire.

"We have planned to make this a more equalitarian society," he said. "The Conservative Party still believes that the economic machine should be regarded as an opportunity for making profits. We have a great work before us — consolidating and carrying further the Welfare State."

The battle lines of Oct. 25, more specifically, are these: Labor says that it has re-mused one-tenth of the population in the last six years. It says that farm cultivation has never been higher; that the comforts and leisure of the country are widely distributed; that the people are better fed and clothed than ever before; and that prices have been kept lower than in countries "which don't have a Labor Government."

Labor takes the credit for full employment in Britain, where less than one per cent of the working population is jobless. They don't talk much about nationalization, which is no longer a popular issue, and now they emphasize planning; control of prices, profits, and consumption.

The Tories insist that Labor has been destroying the creation of national wealth by freezing rewards for hard work and abolishing profits for the raking of capital. They charge inefficiency in the nationalized industries, and, while they will continue Labor's social services, they say much waste can be eliminated.

They promise to de-nationalize the military — $4.2 billion, compared to $4.5 billion on social services.

Many of Britain's difficulties are non-political. With 8 million people crowded onto an island half the size of Colorado, there is a chronic shortage of British goods.

Britain must permanently rely on imports, which cannot be obtained without American dollars, which in turn cannot be obtained without exports. Yet world prices for their imports have increased, and the prices Britain gets for her exports have lagged behind. The current trade deficit is $1,680,000,000, worse than the last crisis.

The international embarrassment of Britain in Iran will be a problem for the Tories, even as it is to Labor. And British policy toward China and trade with Iron Curtain countries is largely bi-partisan.

Whether it's Attlee, Churchill, Eden, or Bevan, Britain's problems will not vanish overnight. But the British are a free, intelligent people, strong in spirit, fast in their faith in democracy. They will be all right.

Slaughtering Violations Related

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — Thirty-eight per cent of the nation's slaughterers are violating meat controls, asserts the Office of Price Stabilization's enforcement director.

The official, Edward P. Morgan, adds that there are "affirmative efforts" by the meat industry "to sabotage" the entire stabilization program.

Morgan said Friday the OPS drive that began Sept. 25 against illegal slaughtering practices has uncovered 2 violators among 1,445 plants visited by OPS agents.

He said there are more than 10,000 slaughterers in the country.

Violations of meat control regulations, Morgan said, included the buying of cattle and selling of meat at above ceiling prices, tie-in sales, false weighing, upgrading and the sale of upgraded and unmarked meat, and falsification of and failure to keep proper records.

None of the alleged violations, Morgan said, "can be minimized or characterized as inconsequential."

Farmers Ask About Corn Feed To Hogs

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — Many farmers soon may be asking "should I feed my corn to hogs or store it under the government's price support program?"

The price support program is beginning to offer stiff competition to hogs for the new corn crop. A lot of growers can get about as much out of their corn by storing it under government-price support loans as they can get by feeding it to hogs. This situation is especially true for the less efficient hog producers.

When corn starts moving into storage in large volume, production of hogs — and hence of pork — starts dropping off.

As of mid-September, the average price a farmer could get for 100 pounds of hog would buy but 11.9 bushels of corn. For 20 years, 100 pounds of hog would buy an average of 12.5 bushels of corn. Hence, the current price of hogs in relation to the price of corn, is below the long-time average.

A year ago, the hog price was much more favorable. Nearly 18 bushels of corn could be bought with 100 pounds of hog.

In the past, when the ratio between hog and corn prices dropped to around 11, hog production usually dropped off rather sharply.

The margin between feed costs and prices of chickens, turkeys and butterfat also is below the long-time average. Feed is costing hog farmers, poultrymen and dairy farmers more in relation to returns they get from their livestock feed products than the average for the past 20 years.

Only in beef cattle production is the ratio between feed costs and prices of the animals more favorable than average. This is because of a relatively greater consumer demand for beef than for most other livestock products.

To make pretty looking pink rice, put two cups of cooked drained rice in a skillet with a little butter or margarine; add a quarter cup of chili sauce and toss over low heat.

Tidelands Dispute Halts Exploration

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6. — Major oil company officials, eyeing rising production costs, are more and more concerned about the tidelands.

Caught in the middle between the state and the federal government in the prolonged controversy, the companies operating in the Gulf have not cared to openly fix the blame for their troubles.

The tidelands are hurting, and hurting bad.

Exploration for new oil has virtually ceased because of the Supreme Court injunction issued last December which, in effect, forbade any operations without authority of the responsible federal official, Secretary of the Interior Chapman.

Because Chapman, contending that he lacks authority, has issued no drilling permits, more than 225 million of marine exploration equipment has been tied up along the coasts of Texas and Louisiana.

The president of a major company operating in the Gulf estimated last week that upkeep costs conservatively estimated, were running around $2,500 a day. Wells on his companies larger discoveries in the Gulf are standing up, producing is dropping, and rigs cannot be operated to clean the wells out.

Although drilling is forbidden, delay rentals are still being paid on offshore leases the companies secured from Louisiana in competitive bidding. Even though the federal government lacks a competitive bidding system on non-producing leases, it is collecting monies at the enormous rates established by the states.

This payment to the United States, running into millions each year, is further complicated by the absence of a line of demarcation to differentiate the U. S. claims from state waters in the jagged, marshy Louisiana shoreline.

Thus oil companies, not knowing who their landlord will be, are paying both the state and the United States identical heavy payments on leases in the "twilight" zone. This method of being on the safe side is a heavy drain on the budget, although the companies expect an eventual return of these monies from one of the parties.

Delineation of these areas was attempted last March by Philip B. Periman, Solicitor General of the United States. Periman sent the Louisiana attorney general a map on which was a heavy line purported to be what the United States considered Louisiana's boundary. This did little to clear the air. The line shocked state officials with its unusual claims on some bay areas that they had never considered affected by the Supreme Court decision.

Operations on the other side (federal) of this meandering line have been stopped by the United States officials and a further crimp put in exploration plans.

Few Spot Shortages Seen, Gas Ration Prospect Dim

By CHARLES HASLETT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Government oil officials say that barring unexpected developments, there will be no rationing of gasoline or fuel oil for at least six months.

What happens after that depends upon how much steel is available for producing and transporting oil products.

They predict possible spot shortages of fuel of transport difficulties. Shortages, if they occur, will be of short duration.

They foresee no immediate spot gasoline shortages.

The residual oil situation for the United States is not as bright.

The Anglo-Iranian oil company's big refinery in Abadan, which Iran has taken over from the British, was specializing in heavy or bunker oils which are used in heavy industry.

This has resulted in some diversion from such sources, as Venezuela to help make up the deficit to the western world.

Several witnesses for major oil companies, suggested this week at a tariff commission hearing that the duty on Venezuelan imports be reduced when the Venezuelan trade proposed cutting the duty to 5 1/2 cents a barrel from the present rate of 10 1/2 to 21 cents a barrel.

One witness said Venezuela oil exports consist primarily of residual heavy oil for industrial furnaces, steam locomotives and similar uses.

These witnesses contended the proposed reduction — the full amount allowed by law — would not injure domestic oil and coal industries but would help assure defense needs.

Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, contended, however, that provisions of the trade agreement program which have proved beneficial to a few American companies importing foreign oil have resulted in concentrating the American industry in the hands of a few companies.

He asserted these provisions have seriously injured the domestic industry and are endangering national security by a trend toward reliance on "vulnerable" sources of foreign oil.

Adding to the residual oil problem, the government says, are increases in industrial requirements and the fact that the Navy wants 2.1 million barrels of Navy grade oil three months.

The Navy grade is made by mixing the heavy residual with light oils to produce a low viscosity oil.

Upton And Lea Counties Continue As Most Active

Upton and Lea Counties continued to be number one and two in the semi-monthly survey of rotary drilling rigs in the West Texas and Southeast New Mexico areas of the Permian Basin. The survey is taken the first and fifteenth of each month by Reed Roller Bit Company.

On October 1 there were 99 rigs in operation with rotary equipment in Upton county and 85 in Lea county. Upton county jumped from 96 on Sept. 15 and Lea county moved up from 82.

Midland slipped past Glasscock to gain third spot after being ousted by the latter September 15. Midland, on October 1 had 66 rotaries, the same as the count 15 days earlier. Glasscock lost from 75 to 61, but dropped no lower than fourth place.

Ector county followed Glasscock with 52 operations. Next in line was Scurry County with 32, an increase of one over the September 15 count.

The total number of rotaries operating in the area covered by the Reed survey on October 1 was 678. That showed an increase of five during the 15 days since September 15.

One year ago, on October 1, there were 572 active rotaries in the area.

Other counties included in the Reed survey, with September 15 figures listed first and October 1 figures listed second, were: Andrews, no count; Borden 8-12; Crane, 12-11; Gaines, no count-21; Howard, 22-16; Kent, 12-11; Martin, 5-4; Pecos, 12-15; Terry, 8-13; and Reagan, 20-19.

WEEK'S REVIEW

Discoveries Added In Five Counties

By JOHN B. BREWER

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Oct. 6. — Five West Texas counties this week shared top-drawer space in area oil news. Midland, Reagan, Irion and Pecos all coming up with discoveries or prospective strikes.

Nelson Bunker Hunt Trust Estate No. L.W. A. Stroman of San Angelo, bidding for discovery Permian lime production, possibly the Wolfcamp, in north central Pecos County, was drilling ahead after showing oil and gas. On the first of two drillstem tests, this one, a 45-minute test, drilled 718-748 feet, flowed 38.3 gravity oil to pits for 11 minutes at an estimated rate of 10 barrels hourly. The last test, three hours and 10 minutes, from 7,726-761 feet, recovered 60 feet of slightly gas-cut mud, 540 feet of heavily gas-cut mud and 1,560 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud which was 50 per cent oil. Location is 1,320 feet out of the southwest corner of section 526, Comanche Creek Irrigation Co. survey, seven miles east of Fort Stockton.

Howard County came through with two prospects, Lloyd H. Smith, Inc., No. 1 John Boyd, wildcat five miles northeast of Vincent, was making production tests after recovering 1,800 feet of clean oil and 100 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud slightly cut with salt water on a drillstem test from 7,660-711 feet. No. 1 Boyd, located 667 feet from north, 3,283 feet from west lines of section 4-25-H&TC, earlier flowed an estimated 50 barrels of oil hourly on a test of the same zone.

A small lower Spraberry discovery was completed by the Texas Co. in northwestern Midland. No. 1 Fletcher Curry completed on pump for 32.43 barrels of 34.6 gravity oil plus 2.76 barrels of water. Gas-oil ratio was 146-1 with production from open hole between 7,812-8,137 feet. Location is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 28-40-2-T&P, one mile south of the Warfield field.

A 1 1/4 mile east extension to the original Parks Pennsylvania field area rated a 24-hour potential of 152.62 barrels of 51.2 gravity oil, no water. Using a 3/4-inch choke, Spartan Drilling Co. No. 1-A Mary Scharbauer flowed from acidized perforations at 10,271-310 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 3,433-1. Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of the east half of the north lines of the east half of the north 240 acres of section 12, Charles F. O'Neal survey.

The Texas Co. staked a 10,000-foot Pennsylvania wildcat two miles east of its recent Strawn discovery in the Clarence Scharbauer Strawn pool of western Midland. No. 1-I G. C. Fraser (TXL) will be 1,960 feet out of the northeast corner of section 31-35-2-T&P.

Extending Spraberry sand production 8 1/2 miles eastward in northeast Reagan County, Atlantic No. 1-B J. D. Sugg estate completed for a 24-hour natural flow of 405.15 barrels of 43.7 gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 801-1. Flow was through a 1/2-inch tubing choke from open hole between 5,495-549 feet. The well is 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 135-2-T&P.

The recently designated Wobo field, southeastern Borden County, received assurance of its third well and a two-location east extension when Lario No. 1-B T. L. Griffin unloaded oil from the Pennsylvania. Located 330 feet south, 2,281 feet from east line of section 46-25-H&TC, the well took a 90-minute drillstem test from 7,072-985 feet and recovered 6,500 feet of clean oil, no water. Operator plans to drill 15 feet deeper and complete in open hole.

Superior staked a wildcat in northwestern Borden. No. 6 C. D. Jones to be 1,980 feet out of the northwest corner of section 597-97-H&TC, four miles northwest of Phuvanna. Contract is to 9,500 feet with rotary.

In northeastern Ector County, free oil was recovered in a deep wildcat, V. A. Brill No. 1 Sallie Ratcliffe & others, three miles east of the North Cowden pool, recovered five stands of free gas, 100 feet of oil and 140 feet of drilling mud and no water on a two-hour drillstem test from 5,839-906 feet. Flow was from Permian. Location is 660 feet out of the northwest corner of section 11-42-1a-T&P.

Deep Rock Yet Undecided On McCrary Well

Deep Rock No. 1 McCrary, C NW NE 1-33-3a, T&P, swabbed after treating with 500 gallons of acid.

It was reported swabbing salt water with a slight show of gas and some oil. Operator will wait for another 24 hours before deciding what to do with this test. This venture, six miles north of Big Spring, blew gas and oil strongly on a drillstem test from 9,028-90, then drilled on to 9,267 before plugging back to 9,178 and perforating from 9,045-62.

The test has flowed once since then but died and later developed salt water.

In northeastern Howard, Lloyd Smith No. 1 John Boyd, C NW NE 4-25, H&TC, was moving off rig in preparation for attempts to complete a discovery in the reef lime. It is located five miles northeast of Vincent.

Christman & Welborn Saltmeyer and Peeler Bros. No. 1 Williams Bogle, 660 out of the southwest corner of section 66-20, H&TC, a mile and a half northwest of the Smith No. 1 Boyd, drilled to 1,683 feet in anhydrite and shale.

Cosden No. 1 W. W. Lay, Jr C NE NE 23-31-in, T&P, drilled below 4,135 in lime and shale.

S'West Glasscock Wildcat Taps Oil In Spraberry Zone

Placid No. 1 William Howard, 660 feet out of the northwest corner of section 30-35-5a, T&P, gave promise Saturday of being another Spraberry discovery.

Total depth is 6,595 in the Spraberry, with 3,000 gallons of hydraulic fracturing, then swabbed off 235 barrels of load oil, which was said to be most of the load. Then it swabbed 88 barrels of new oil.

As yet the venture has not flowed and the operator has not released any official information so far. Location of the venture is 16 miles southwest of Garden City.

Placid staked location for its No. 2 William Howard, 660 from the north and 1,975.6 from the east lines of section 30-35-5a, T&P; rotary to 7,000.

A Driver-Spraberry location is Calverley, 660 from the south and 1,980 from the east lines of section 3-36-5a, T&P; rotary to 7,500. It is 15 miles southwest of Garden City.

Superior Oil No. 3-44 Wraga-Hendrickson, 660 from the north and 1,980 from the west lines of the lease in section 44-36-3a, T&P, became a Tex Harvey completion. It flowed 24 hours through half inch choke after hydraulic fracturing with 4,000 gallons and made 3 of a per cent water and 216.8 barrels of 38.2 gravity oil. Tubing pressure was 200, gas-oil ratio 613:1; top of pay 6,852, total depth 7,006; 7-in. oil string 6,843.

Phillips No. 2 McDowell, C NE NE 31-34-2a, T&P, drilled below 10,183 in lime and shale in northern Glasscock.

Moss Stakes Scurry Test

H.S. Moss, et al of Dallas No. 1-A John W. Voss will be a southern Scurry deep wildcat.

It will be located 660 from the south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 173-97, H&TC. This puts it eight miles south of Snyder and two miles from nearest production. In the southeast side of the Kelly-Snyder pool. Operator plans to go to 7,400 unless pay is found in the reef zone above that depth.

SE Mitchell Well Flows

Richardson Bass No. 1 J. F. McCabe, C NE NE 5-12, H&TC, 20 miles southeast of Colorado City, was flowing on test during the weekend.

At latest reports, the exploration was flowing six to seven barrels of oil hourly through quarter inch choke and perforations opposite 6-045-6,060.

This zone has not been definitely identified and some think it is above the reef section. The well is five miles north of the Jameson pool in Coke county.

Completions, New Locations Increase

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. — The search for oil continues at a fast pace in Texas.

Drilling applications so far this year total 15,986 compared with 12,657 in the same period last year, the Railroad Commission reported today.

Oil well completions likewise were ahead of those in 1950.

The total to date in 1951 is 8,334 compared with 7,934 last year.

Discoveries in wildcat or unproven areas are just holding their own. Wildcats brought in so far this year totalled 429 compared with 418 last year.

Slight Gas Show Logged On Deep Sterling Venture

Humble No. 1 G. H. McCabe, C NE SE 11-23, H&TC, 12 miles northwest of Sterling City, took a drillstem test Saturday.

The zone was from 8,795-8,820 in an unidentified lime above the Ellenburger. Recovery in 40 minutes was 30 feet of slightly gas cut mud, with no shows of oil or water. Bottom was at 8,870 in the same lime, and operator was preparing to take another drillstem test.

Aman Amends Its Borden Location

Aman Oil No. 1-C T. L. Griffin filed an amended location in southeast Borden. It will be 330 from the south and west line of the northwest quarter of section 6-25, H&TC, rotary to 7,500.

HISTORY AND OIL

Reopening Bid Due State's First Pool

By JOE CALVITT
Palestine Herald-Press

PALESTINE, Oct. 22. — Historians and petroleum hunters will have a mutual interest this fall when an attempt is made to reopen Texas' first oil field.

A small drilling firm specializing in water wells plans to sink a shallow well in the old Nacogdoches field five miles southeast of Woden, deep in the piney woods of Nacogdoches county.

Although scheduled for only 500 feet in depth, the venture will test sands which have been producing oil for white men for more than 150 years.

Historians say early Spanish traders were the first to make use of the oil. Wagons which later rolled over the Old Spanish Trail had their wheels greased with it.

The field was not developed until just after the Civil War, but by 1890 it contained 90 producing wells, most of them dug by shovels. The first bit-drilled well flowed to the surface from a little over 100 feet, but soon played out, leaving the driller bankrupt.

Leaders in the Nacogdoches area thought enough of the field before the turn of the century to lay a pipeline more than ten miles to the nearest railroad. A small refinery which strained grit out of the oil with a cloth, then heated it to evaporate the water went into operation near Chirene in the 1870's. The field, despite its promise, had its ups and downs, and finally was closed about six years ago. The new exploration, Rutherford Water Service Company's No. 1 W. A. Neal in the J. A. Chirene survey, has aroused new hope among Nacogdoches county citizens who have had oil fever more than once in the past. They will keep a close eye on progress at the well.

The old field is still clogged with pits and hand-dug wells left by prospectors of 50 to 75 years ago, says M. P. Edmondson, Railroad Commission district supervisor in Palestine, in whose office the late application to drill has been filed.

Pine trees have grown up beside lots of wells, causing their cypress-lined walls to tumble in. Farmers in the area still skim pits for oil to grease equipment.

Oldtimers in the Woden-Chirene sector recall that there was almost no demand for store-bought oil for crank cases when Model T Fords first appeared in Nacogdoches County. Drivers got theirs by panning the Mt. Selman sand. It was of good quality, too.

Chalk Area Gains Small Completion

The Howard-Glasscock area has gained another small producer.

Magnolia No. 16 G. O. Chalk, 387.5 from the north and 1,010 from the east lines of section 114-29, W&NW, pumped 24 hours after a 56-quart nitro shot. It made 20.82 barrels of 30.5 gravity oil and 71.8 per cent water. Top of pay was 1,570, total depth 1,600, and the 6 1/2-in. oil string was set at 1,531.

Western Terry Gets Devonian Wildcat

Western Terry county has come in for a wildcat to the Devonian. Coroco Oil Co. of Dallas No. 1 Atlas Life Insurance will be 1,980 from the south and west lines of section 98-D, C&M survey. This puts it 12 miles west of Brownfield and 14 miles northwest of the Wellman-Wolf camp field.

Martin Wildcat

Texas Co. I G. B. McClain, C NW SW 36-36-2a, T&P, drilled Saturday past 7,386 in shale. This wildcat is one and a quarter miles southeast of Lenora in central Martin county.

Bag Bears, Cat

Big Spring hunters returned Saturday from a week's hunt in eastern Arizona and had a string of bears to show for their efforts.

In the party were Dr. G. H. Wood, Robert T. Piner, G. H. Hayward, Dr. P. W. Malone and Frank Powell, of Big Spring, and Barney Lee of Eola. Each bagged a bear and Dr. Malone had a lynx cat in addition.

They hunted since Sept. 28 on the Lee Bros. ranch in rugged mountain country and with the aid of dogs, Powell and Piner were the first to get bears. Dr. Wood, Lee, Hayward and Dr. Malone followed in that order. Hayward, Powell and Lee got black bears, the others brown bears, all sizable animals.

While others arrived here early Saturday morning, Powell and Lee were driving through Saturday with saddles and hunting gear.

Sterling Eagles Decision Forsan

STERLING CITY, Oct. 6.—Charley Davis paced the Sterling City Eagles to a 37-12 victory over the Forsan Buffaloes here Friday night, scoring three touchdowns for the winners.

Other Sterling markers were accounted for by Cates, Bobby Blair and Billy Blair.

James Caulte tallied both of Forsan six-pointers.

Ohio State Upended, 24-20, By Spartans' Late Rally

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6. (AP)—Michigan State's sparkling Spartans proved their right to the ranking as the Nation's No. 1 football power today when they surged back from a 10-point deficit in the final quarter to defeat seventh-ranked Ohio State, 24-20.

In a wild finish reminiscent of Notre Dame's three-touchdown last quarter surge which whipped Ohio in 1935, the Spartans came to life with scoring marches covering 74 and 46 yards within a three-and-one-half-minute span after Ohio had taken a 20-10 lead.

The payoff punch was a beauty—a 27-yard pass from Sophomore Halfback Tom Yewcic to quarterback Al Dorow on fourth down. Dorow lateraled the ball to Yewcic, who cut off to his right, while Dorow headed for the left sideline and scooted toward the goal. Yewcic's long pass across the field hit Dorow around the 10-yard line, where he shook off two tacklers and fell into scoring territory with the points his team needed.

Each team held the lead twice in the torrid first half, after Capt. Bob Carey of Michigan State opened the counting with a 16-yard field goal halfway through the first period.

Ohio came right back with a five-play passing surge for 72 yards with All-America Halfback Vic Janowitz climaxing the drive with a 19-yard pass to End Ray Hamilton.

Ohio took the ball on downs on the five-yard line to halt an 83-yard Spartan march as the second quarter opened, but Michigan State came back with a six-play series that covered 37 yards. Don McAuliffe plunged one foot for the score that gave the Spartans a 10-6 edge.

Ohio State went 73 yards in 11 plays after the kickoff to send Janowitz into the end zone for the score that gave Ohio a 13-10 lead.

Ohio broke lose early in the fourth when Dick Walther of Ohio intercepted Dorow's pass on Ohio's 48. The Bucks moved right in then for another score with Curcillo passing 24 yards to Hamilton for the counter.

It was there the aroused Spartans fought back as a champion should. Dorow, a sure-armed passer, opened his aerial attack.

West Is Upset By Central 11

Central Ward, North Ward and Kate Morrison achieved victories in Ward School football play at Steer Stadium Saturday morning.

Central belted West Ward, 13-6, with Buddy Martin and Muri Dean Harter scoring touchdowns for the winners. Martin also counted an extra point.

Martin, Harter, Sherrod, McLeod and White all played outstanding ball for the winners.

North Ward tipped Airport, 34-0. Billy Neilson scored three touchdowns for the winners while John McDaniel and Ronald King had one each.

Mertzon Winner

WATER VALLEY, Oct. 6.—Mertzon overcame an early Water Valley lead to defeat the Eagles, 27-20, in a District Eight six-man football game played here Friday afternoon. Water Valley led, 14-0, at one point.

Duke Battered By Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6. (AP)—An alert Tennessee team scooped up Duke fumbles and turned them into touchdowns today to smash the Blue Devils from the nation's unbeaten football outfit, 28-0.

Tennessee, the nation's third ranked team in the Associated Press poll, showed marked improvement offensively over its opening game.

The Vols scored once in each quarter—twice on passes and the other two on running plays.

Duke was a thoroughly beaten club.

The closest Duke got to Tennessee's goal line was the 25-yard stripe late in the second period.

Vicious Tennessee tackling jarred the ball loose from Duke backs five times in the first half. Four times the Southeastern Conference Vols pounced on the ball and twice they turned the bobbles into touchdowns.

On one fumble, Vol Guard John Michels grabbed the pigskin on the Blue Devil 34. Tailback Hal Payne shot a bullet pass to End John Davis of Bogota, Tex., on the Duke 2. Fullback Dick Ernsberger plunged for the score.

Klondike Is Upset

KLONDIKE, Oct. 6.—The Loop Longhorns sprang a prize upset in defeating the Klondike Cougars, 22-0, here Friday afternoon.

The win was Loop's first in District seven six-man play. Loop led at half time, 8-0.

Texas - Oklahoma Clash In Big Game On Saturday

Bowl Is Jinx To Longhorns

DALLAS, Oct. 6. (AP)—Texas and Oklahoma renew one of the South-west's deepest football rivalries in the Cotton Bowl here next Saturday.

It is a rivalry that has produced six bowl principals in four years. But it's a little painful these days for Texas to think about the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns haven't won a game in the big saucer since 1947. And they haven't beaten Oklahoma since 1947 either.

The big bronze cowboy hat again will be the prize as the Sooners and Longhorns clash for the 46th time in 52 years. This trophy, put up in 1940 by the State Fair of Texas, will be on the line for the 12th time.

Texas holds a commanding lead in the long, colorful series—29 victories to 14 for Oklahoma, and the Longhorns put together eight in a row before the Sooners fashioned their current success string.

From this Dallas meeting have emerged four consecutive Sugar Bowl contenders, one Orange Bowl champion and one Cotton Bowl team. Texas mapped the route to Sugar Bowl participation with that 1947 triumph and set a winning pattern at New Orleans, which the Sooners kept intact until beaten by Kentucky last New Year's Day.

Last year's 14-13 thriller, which made a national champion of Oklahoma, is typical of this series. With only a few minutes to play Texas was in front, 13-7, but still within reach of the Cotton Bowl hex. There was a miscalculation on fourth downs and the Longhorns lost the ball to Oklahoma on the Texas 11-yard line.

The Sooners needed only two plays and a successful post-kick placement kick to emerge as winner for a third straight year.

A capacity crowd of 75,349 is assured, weather permitting, because the game has been a sell-out for more than two months.

A number of stars in last year's meeting have resulted to the respective lineups, yet both teams will field rebuilt offensive units on this occasion. Impressed with Sooner success with the split-T in recent seasons, Texas, too, will use that formation in this year's battle.

The loss could have reached even greater catastrophic proportions. A merciful Ysleta coaching staff gave their reserves a liberal workout in the second half, after returning to the field.

Sweetwater B Defeats Big Spring Shorthorns, 13-6

SWEETWATER, Oct. 6.—The Sweetwater B string scored touchdowns in the first and second quarters to nose out the Big Spring reserves, 13-6, in a football game played here Saturday afternoon.

The loss was the first of the year for the Dogies, which had won three straight. Big Spring got its touchdown in the second on a blocked punt.

Georgia Upset, 6-0

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 6.—An underdog Mississippi State football team turned on Georgia here today and battered the Southeastern Conference giants for a 6-0 victory.

Wildcat Gamble Fails As Tech Wins, 13 To 7

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6.—Kentucky gambled for three yards in the final period today, but lost the football and then the game to Georgia Tech, 13-7.

Leading 7-6, Kentucky needed the three yards for a first down. Fullback Harry Jones failed to make them on his fourth plunge, and Tech took over on the Kentucky 35.

From there, a mixture of short gains and penalties put the ball on the Kentucky one, and Tech quarterback Darrell Crawford sneaked over for the winning touchdown.

A crowd of 35,000 fans saw Kentucky, sticking to the ground, marched the opening kickoff to a 10-ly in less than four minutes.

Undeclared Tech got its first touchdown in the third period as Fullback Glenn Turner bowled across from the three. A 68-yard run through the center by Johnny Hicks set up the play.

Kentucky almost recovered twice after its gamble backfired. Turner started the Tech drive with a nine-yard advance and George Maloof got a first down on the Kentucky 24.

A series of plays and penalties set Tech back to the Kentucky 31 with third down and 17 yards to go. Then misfortune struck the Kentuckians again.

A pass was incomplete on the Kentucky 20, but a roughness penalty carried the ball to the Kentucky 11, with fourth down and two yards to go for a first down.

Crawford, surrounded by Kentuckians and seemingly trapped for a loss, pitched out to Pete Ferris on the one. Then a Tech fumble was recovered by Kentucky, but there was an offside penalty to nullify the advantage.

Crawford scored from the one and that ended the ball game insofar as scoring was concerned.

The crowd was carried back also to Kyle Rote, who played with and after Walker at SMU and was one of its all-time greats.

The hell-shouldered Norton, a sophomore who has been starring with his punting until now, made 73 of 80 yards in an SMU touchdown drive in the third period.

The crowd felt like going home at the SMU exhibition most of the first period. The Methodists had the ball only four times, once fumbling it away to Missouri, kicking on first downs the next two tries, then finally getting a touchdown drive under way as time ran out in the quarter.

Texas Aggies Upset Sooner Contingent By 14-7 Count

Lippman Runs Provide Edge

By WILBUR MARTIN COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 6.—Texas A&M tonight cut down the swashbuckling giant of college football, smashing Oklahoma, 14-7.

The Aggies cut down last year's national champion with a brutal defense and a tremendous ground game.

It was the A, B, C brand of ball the coaches preach: tackle low, hard, body block.

The capacity crowd of 40,000 rain-soaked in cold, windy weather and watched A&M reel off its A, B, C's letter perfect.

Three times the Aggies fumbled and frittered away scoring chances before they sent Glenn Lippman crashing 25 yards for a second period touchdown.

Oklahoma tied the score in a twinkling, on a 74-yard run by Billy Vessels just before the half and an extra point by Jim Weatherall that matched one by Darrow Hooper of A&M.

It was not until two more goal-yard marches had been stopped by the massive Oklahoma line that A&M got its revenge for last year's licking by the Sooners.

Lippman took a handoff from Tidwell, who took a handoff from Ray Graves, and raced into the end zone standing up.

A 14-yard pass interference penalty set up A&M's last touchdown. This put the ball on the one-yard line and Lippman carried it over. This drive carried 70 yards.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Columbia's explosive offense, touched off by an 86-yard touchdown run by Howard Hansen in the first quarter, carried the blue-clad Lions to a 35-10 triumph over Harvard today in their first test of the 1951 football season.

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 6.—Texas Christian University Horned Frogs staved off a series of Arkansas threats and then roared to a 17-7 victory in the opening game of the Southwest Conference football race before 29,500 here tonight.

A 14-yard field goal by Keith Flowers with about seven minutes left to play broke a 7-to-7 deadlock and actually was all the underdog Frogs needed.

But they kept going strong and with Tailback Gilbert Bartosh putting on a brilliant one-man offensive show, rolled over the heavier but tiring Razorbacks for a touchdown that insured the victory.

Nebraska, Kansas State In 6-6 Tie

MANHATTAN, Kas., Oct. 6.—Kansas State's green Wildcats, Big Seven Conference doormats for years, outplayed the highly regarded Nebraska Cornhuskers for 54 minutes but had to settle for a 6-6 tie in a league football game today.

Kansas State made four genuine scoring threats before getting one in the third quarter.

Coach Jess Hill sent sub Quarterback Rudy Bukich in to break the deadlock and he engineered a 75-yard drive to the winning points in five knifing plays, three of them his own passes to Frank Gifford and Cutri.

Southern California mixed up the T-formation, the single wing and Washington, spilling the conference opener for a team that was expected to go all the way.

Attending to the great power of the Trojan defensive line and linebacking of Pat Cannamela were the post-game figures which credited Washington with only 72 net yards from rushing, Southern Cal powered to 186 net yards, which would have been vastly more had not rugged Jim Wiley matched Cannamela's performance behind the Washington forwards.

By WARREN ROGERS, JR. BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 6.—Quarterback Jim Barton turned fancy-dan halfback tonight to push Louisiana State University to a 7-6 victory over Rice Institute in a drum-tight defensive football game here.

Some 44,000 fans groaned and screamed through 60 minutes of the tightest defensive play seen here in many a moon.

What with fumbles from bone-rattling tackles and pass interceptions, it appeared a cinch to be a scoreless tie.

Then, Barton, who used to be a halfback but switched to T-quarterback last year, took his old job back. He heeled off 30 yards. Next play he caught a pass from Quarterback Norman Stevens and the ball was on Rice's three.

Halfback Chet Freeman crunched across and LSU's Cliff Stringfield kicked what proved to be the winning point.

That was two minutes before the end of the third quarter. In the final period, Rice took over on the LSU 15-yard line when End Sonny McCurry recovered LSU fullback Billy West's fumble.

KNIGHT OUTSTANDING

Bulldogs Trim Bronte, 21-0

BRONTE, Oct. 6.—The Coahoma Bulldogs opened their District 5-B football schedule in the expected way, with a 21-0 victory over the Bronte Longhorns here Friday night.

The undefeated and untied Bulldogs, who have been scored on but once this season, were held scoreless in the opening period but Jir my Knight put them out in front in the second with a 25-yard scoring jaunt. Bill Reed made the extra point on a conversion.

That was all the scoring until the fourth, when Darrell Robinson crowded over for one tally after taking a pass from Reed.

Later, Knight set up a Coahoma TD with a scamper, down to the line. It required four plays to get the ball beyond the double stripes but Knight finally made it down the middle.

Reed booted the points after each of the fourth period touchdowns. Bronte threatened seriously only once in the game. At that time, stout line play on the part of Coahoma line stopped the attack.

The Coahoma club entertains Hermleigh in its next game on Friday night. Hermleigh defeated Rule Friday, 13-0.

Trojans Trip Up Washington

SEATTLE, Oct. 6.—A last-ditch, what-the-heck, let's shoot-the-works pass in the final ticks of the first half nestled in the arms of Cosimo (Scooter) Cutri, netted 57 yards and set up the touchdown that paved the way for a 20-13 Southern California football victory today over the favored Huskies of Washington.

A crowd of 47,000 settled down to watch a brutal, grinding duel of sturdy lines after the backfield men of both teams learned early that the slippery field would not permit fancy running on scrimmage plays.

Not even the chill of Hurray's Hugh McElhenry's 100-yard run-back of a punt to tie the count at 13-all in the fourth quarter could upset the march of Troy to its second Pacific Coast Conference triumph.

Coach Jess Hill sent sub Quarterback Rudy Bukich in to break the deadlock and he engineered a 75-yard drive to the winning points in five knifing plays, three of them his own passes to Frank Gifford and Cutri.

Chances About 50-50 On Getting Good Deer, Says L. A. Wilke

AUSTIN, Oct. 5.—Your chance of getting a good buck this year, if you get one at all, is about 50-50. In other words only about half the deer at this writing are in good condition. Ranchers reporting to the Game & Fish Commission say they can't understand. In making deer surveys in their pastures they have found that about half of them are in excellent condition, while others look to be undernourished.

There doesn't seem to be much chance of them getting in much better condition between now and opening date, because the crop of grass and feed is very poor. Likewise a poor acorn crop this year may have a bad effect on the turkey crop.

Right now the South Texas deer are said to be in the best condition. There have been some good rains over a portion of the area in recent weeks and grass is making a rapid comeback and deer are showing signs of improvement.

There has been too little rain in the Hill country and west of the Pecos, so a hunter must pick his good buck, or take a chance of getting a fat one when he makes a running shot.

Incidentally, some 300 mule deer have been trapped west of the Pecos and released east of the Pecos in the last three years. Mule deer population in those areas has been increasing, despite a few illegal kills. Only one mule deer hunter is legal, while two white-tailed are legal. Many ranchers, however, are limiting their pastures to one white-tailed per man.

The price of hunting leases still runs at approximately $100 per gun. And because of drought and economic conditions this year, quite a few ranchers are opening up new pastures.

If you are missing some of that top water plug fishing, or bass bug fishing right now, you are missing some of the finest fishing of the season. The big ones are really coming to the top.

For the next three or four weeks plug and bug casting will be at its best, with the unfortunate thing that darkness comes too soon. In central Texas right now its quits at 6:30, unless, of course, you are a night caster.

Incidentally aquatic biologists in running gill nets through all hours of the day have found they catch more fish from midnight until 4 a.m. This indicates the fish feed and roam between those hours, so if you like night fishing you might try after midnight.

Keep your eyes lifted these evenings now and you'll see some duck and goose flights headed south. The first cold snap in the north has headed them this way. Some few have found their way to the coast already, but others have stopped in the flight for brief visits on inland lakes. Within the next month there will be thousands pouring in over the flyways, and they'll find a lot of water on the coast.

So get out the old decoys, clean them up and put on a fresh coat of paint, or at least a coat of spar to preserve them in good order. Check over your ammunition supply and be all ready. It may be a big season.

Alabama Loses To Commodores

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Halifax Dick Foster, slashing, dashing and kicking like a demon, powered an underdog Vanderbilt Commodore eleven to a spine-tingling 22-20 upset victory over Alabama's Crimson Tide here today in a Southeastern Conference football game watched by 23,000 in 90-degree heat.

It was Foster's zooming 30-yard field goal in the third period which was the eventual margin of victory. He churned his way to a personal total of 105 yards on 15 carries and was instrumental in all Vanderbilt's scoring.

The win maintained the Commodores' mastery over the Tide. They haven't lost since 1946, racking up four wins and a tie in that stretch.

The crowd felt like going home at the SMU exhibition most of the first period. The Methodists had the ball only four times, once fumbling it away to Missouri, kicking on first downs the next two tries, then finally getting a touchdown drive under way as time ran out in the quarter.

TCU didn't pass up an opportunity. But they kept going strong and with Tailback Gilbert Bartosh putting on a brilliant one-man offensive show, rolled over the heavier but tiring Razorbacks for a touchdown that insured the victory.

Mustangs Clip Missouri, 34-0

DALLAS, Oct. 6.—Benton Mullenwhite, a little fellow who runs like a cotton-tail rabbit in the Texas piney woods, brought strong memories of the great Doak Walker tonight as he led Southern Methodist in a 34-0 storming of Missouri.

Engineering a mighty ground game, the Methodist quarterback set up two touchdowns with his running and dashed 71 yards for a score himself. A crowd of 40,000 marveled at the resemblance of Mullenwhite to Walker, the SMU immortal now a star of professional football.

The crowd was carried back also to Kyle Rote, who played with and after Walker at SMU and was one of its all-time greats. A big fellow named Jerry Norton looked a great deal like Rote with his hammering runs. He even wore Rote's old number—44.

The hell-shouldered Norton, a sophomore who has been starring with his punting until now, made 73 of 80 yards in an SMU touchdown drive in the third period.

The crowd felt like going home at the SMU exhibition most of the first period. The Methodists had the ball only four times, once fumbling it away to Missouri, kicking on first downs the next two tries, then finally getting a touchdown drive under way as time ran out in the quarter.

Villanova Swarms Over Penn State

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 6.—Two sensational pass catches by Co-Captain Joe Rilo and the bull-like rushes of Fullback Bob Haner, who scored three touchdowns and racked up a pair of conversions, nullified unbeaten Villanova to a 20-14 victory over Penn State today.

Already winners of a win over Army, the Wildcats stepped out in front with a first-quarter score by Haner, dropped behind 7-6 on a great Penn State pass play and then took charge again in the third quarter, with Haner twice more powering across the pay-off stripe.

TCU didn't pass up an opportunity. But they kept going strong and with Tailback Gilbert Bartosh putting on a brilliant one-man offensive show, rolled over the heavier but tiring Razorbacks for a touchdown that insured the victory.

Fire Losses In 30 Years Run To Million And Half Dollars

Big Spring has sustained insured fire losses in excess of a million and a half dollars during the past three decades.

At the same time, property owners have paid out nearly two and a half million dollars in premiums hedging against the possibility of disastrous losses.

Only three times in the 30-year span have losses exceeded premiums, according to a chart compiled by Olin Culberson, secretary of the State Firemen's & Fire Marshal's association. This was in 1926, 1930 and 1939.

There have been several occasions when the loss figure approximated premiums, most notably last year. Then the total premiums stood at $158,279.11 and losses $155,200. It had the effect of whittling away a 20 per cent credit and replacing it with a five per cent credit.

The record of premiums and losses follows:

One Killed, Six Hurt In Five-Car Crash

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. — Danny McCafferty, 17, of Austin died in an automobile accident 15 miles from Seguin Friday night.

Charles Jones, a University of Texas student who was riding with McCafferty, was injured but not critically.

Five Floresville schoolboys were reported in another automobile involved in the accident. They were taken to a Floresville hospital.

McCafferty was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCafferty of Austin.

Love Loses Way

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 6. — James Truelove and Harry Leroy Love were in the Jefferson County jail today. Both were charged with desertion and non-support of their families.

Takes Shots At Aged Mother-In-Law

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6. — A 67-year-old Negro man was jailed Friday after chasing his 81-year-old mother four blocks with a sawed-off shot-gun.

He had already fired four shots at her, but missed, with a .38 caliber pistol.

Phone Loan Approved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — A loan of $99,100 to the Taylor Telephone Cooperative of Merkel, Tex., was approved yesterday by the Rural Electrification Administration.

T&P Laying Heavier Rails

A 125-man crew is engaged in relaying 110-pound rails with heavier steel on the T&P railway between Big Spring and Midland.

Plans call for replacing 14 miles of the 110-pounder with 115-pound rails this year, railway officials said. Five miles of the task have been completed. The entire distance between Big Spring and Midland will have new rail by the end of 1952, if the steel is available.

Completion of that section of the railroad will give the Western division heavier rail from Fort Worth to Sierra Blanca, with the new rail ranging from 112 to 122 pounds per foot.

The relaying work consists of renewing and spacing all cross-ties, and rebalasting with crushed stone. The operation is fully mechanized, down to the bolting of rail sections. Entire project is coordinated so that progress is not delayed by any one phase of the work, the railroad company reported.

Chest Solicitation At VA Hospital

The Red Feather drive at the local VA hospital will get underway Tuesday for three days.

Division chiefs are to name drive chairmen for the various sections of the hospital. Contributions to the Community Chest effort will be turned in at the first report meeting following the three-day hospital campaign. Patients and staff will have an opportunity to contribute.

Building Inspection To Mark Fire Prevention Week Here

No special fanfare will accompany Fire Prevention Week here, but business houses are due for inspections.

City fire department officials said Saturday that plans called for an inspection of all business buildings downtown to check on fire hazards and on condition of fire extinguishers.

In addition, hotels and tourist courts are due for checks as well as public buildings.

During the past week schools have been observing fire drills. However, these have been held at least once a week since school started. With a state official on hand for a surprise visit, the high school drill resulted in one of the most rapid and orderly exits of students on record for the school.

Fire Chief H. V. Crocker suggested that Fire Prevention week would be a good time for householders to look around their premises to spot fire hazards and remove them.

While he pointed out that fire prevention is a year around job, he admitted that it is human to let hazards accumulate. It requires some special emphasis for most people to realize that correction is simply safety and good business.

While applying good house keeping as preventative to fire, he suggested that those who have extinguishers about the place check them to make sure they are in working order. Over a period of months, fluid can leak or evaporate completely from extinguishers.

Search Made For Shipwreck Victims

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Oct. 6. — Ships and planes searched a 60-mile area off Cape Hatteras today for possible survivors of a freighter that broke in two in hurricane-swept waters Friday.

Seven survivors and five bodies have been picked up. One survivor died. But there was little hope today that more members of the 23-man crew would be found alive.

The 3,325-ton Southern Island, a converted LST, snapped amidships early Friday in heavy seas about 200 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras.

James and Dick Shortes, and Lloyd Robinson of Howard county, and Bobby Sale of Martin county will make the trip. The Shortes steger will be shown in the club class, with judging scheduled for next Saturday, while Lloyd Robinson's entry will appear in the summer yearling group and Bobby

4-H Boys Start Exhibit Season At Kansas City

Area 4-H club feeders next week will exhibit their animal in the junior yearling class on Oct. 14.

Judging for the championship of the Kansas City event is set for Oct. 15.

Ten Howard county 4-H members will exhibit steers at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas. They will leave Big Spring on Oct. 14. Bobby Sale, the Martin county boy, also will have an entry at Dallas.

Kyle Miller of Big Spring is breeder of the steer to be shown by James and Dick Shortes at Kansas City. Lloyd Robinson's Kansas City entry was bred by the T. O. Ranch of Raton, N.M., and J. C. Sale is breeder of the animal to be shown by Bobby Sale.

Soil Group To Meet Here

Soil conservationists from three districts will gather here Monday for a three-day work conference.

Ways and means of increasing agricultural production will be the topic up for study at the meeting in the Settles hotel. Approximately 30 SCS workers from Sweetwater, Spur, and Big Spring are expected to attend, said W. S. Goodlett, Martin-Howard district conservationist.

E. J. Hughes, Temple, assistant state soil conservationist, will be here to assist with the conference. The Sweetwater work group will be headed by Morris Liston while J. H. Taylor is leader of the SCS group from Spur.

Sessions will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, through Wednesday.

Patterson Named Supervisor For Soil Conservation

Morris Patterson, Elbow, was named chairman of the board of supervisors for the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation district at a re-organization meeting Friday. W. S. Goodlett, district conservationist reported.

Edgar Phillips, Fairview, retiring chairman, was elected secretary-treasurer of the board. B. O. Brown, Vincent, was named vice chairman. Other members of the board are Ocie Smith, Tarzan, and Warren Skaggs, Midland.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A bill authorizing the Navy to spend $49 million for two experimental submarines today awaited President Truman's signature. It was approved by the House Friday.

ALL WORKERS CONTRACTED

500 Braceros Due Today, To Help Meet Harvest Demands

The arrival of 500 Mexican Nationals, scheduled for Sunday, is expected to forestall a threatened shortage of cotton harvest laborers here.

The Braceros are coming here from the Valley Products Cooperative in Hartlingen. Arrangements for their transfer here were made by the Howard County Farm Bureau Federation.

At last reports, the Braceros were to leave the Rio Grande Valley sometime Saturday. They were to travel by truck caravan and expected to arrive in Big Spring either Sunday afternoon or early Sunday night.

Ralph Proctor, president of the Howard County Farm Bureau, said the entire group would be contracted by the time they arrived at the Big Spring farm labor camp.

Although cotton crops are short in Howard county, farmers feared that they would experience some difficulty in securing labor for the harvest at the critical stage. The short crop has emphasized the necessity of harvesting the crop as

Fish Put In Stock Tanks

Several thousand young fish—bass, crappie, bream, and channel cat—were deposited in area stock tanks Friday by the Texas Fish and Game commission.

They were made available to farmers and stockmen through the Soil Conservation service and were brought here from the state fish hatchery at San Angelo.

The fish were delivered in Big Spring to Marion Edwards, B. O. Brown, W. D. Anderson, J. A. Buchanan, Harvey Adams, H. L. Moates, Jr., W. E. Wilson, and Pat Harding.

California produces more citrus fruit than any other state in the U. S.

MEETING CALLED

Scrap Collection Mapped For Farms

Plans will be made next week for local participation in a nation-wide scrap drive to be conducted on farms.

The Secretary of Agriculture has designated the period from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 for such a campaign, with local arrangements to be made by the County Agricultural Mobilization Committee.

The Howard county committee has a meeting scheduled for next Friday, at which time plans for the drive here will be discussed.

Purpose of the drive is to build up supplies of scrap materials to furnish the nation's steel mills. The National Production Authority is sponsoring a program to locate all sources of dormant iron and steel

Asks Price Support For Pecan Output

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Texas pecan crop support at parity level of 32½ cents a pound was sought today by State Agriculture Commissioner John White.

He made the request of U. S. Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan.

Texas producers, said White, are faced with lowest pecan yield in many years and an opening price about half that of last year.

Defense is your job, too!

Swabbing down their cruiser's keeldeck or passing ammunition to her eight-inch guns, it's all in the day's duty for these young American seamen. Day or night, fair weather or foul, they're on the job, keeping our Navy the First Line of Defense—for America and for you!

But in these critical times, defense is your job, too. And one of the most important parts of that job is maintaining the economic strength of America, as the sailors are working to maintain her naval strength. How can you do that? By buying U.S. Defense Bonds—buying them now and buying them regularly. So go to your pay office and join the Payroll Savings Plan or sign up at your bank for the Bond-A-Month Plan. But do it today!

The U. S. Defense Bonds you buy give you personal financial independence

Remember that when you're buying Defense Bonds you're building a personal reserve of cash savings. Money that will some day buy you a house or educate your children, or support you when you retire. Remember, too, that if you don't save regularly, you generally don't save at all. So go to your company's pay office—now—and sign up to buy Defense Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Don't forget that bonds are now a better buy than ever. Because now every Series E Bond you own automatically goes on earning interest every year for 20 years from date of purchase instead of 10 as before! This means that the bond you bought for $18.75 can re-turn you not just $25—but as much as $33.33! A $37.50 bond pays $66.66. And so on. For your security, and your country's, too, buy U. S. Defense Bonds now!

*U. S. Savings Bonds are Defense Bonds. Buy them regularly!

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

CAA Safety Division Moves Office To Midland Thursday

Thursday will be moving day for local CAA Aviation Safety personnel, unless present plans are changed, Emerson Carpenter, agent, announced Saturday.

District safety offices are to be moved to the Midland air terminal, due to reactivation of the Big Spring Municipal airport as an Air Force base. Personnel being transferred to the Midland station include Carpenter, Roger L. Fancey, also safety agent, and Anelle Corley, secretary.

The CAA safety office has been in operation here since district offices were opened following World War II. West Texas airport engineers also expect to move soon, but new station or date for transfer has not been named.

Most notable aircraft landing at Muni field during the week were four Navy F6F "drones"—radio-controlled ships that can be operated without a pilot aboard. They were equipped with airmen when they landed here Wednesday, however.

With the quartet was an R4-D transport which served as a "mother ship." The latter craft remained overnight at the city field. The group was enroute to Chincoteague, Va., from the West Coast.

J. D. Church, chief of CAA district airport engineers, has a full flying schedule for the next few days.

He left Saturday in a Cessna 140 to join the all-Texas air tour at Brownwood. He was to fly with the aerial tourists to Kerrville, Uvalde, Eagle Pass, and Ozona before returning to Big Spring today.

The airman will then fly to Norman, Okla., Wednesday for the conference on Airport Management and Operations at Oklahoma University. He will be accompanied to Norman by Jack Robson.

Also slated to fly to the conference is Jack Cook, local airport manager who will have a part on the two-day program. Cook will participate in the conference's Board of Inquiry study of Air Force reactivation programs.

Question up for consideration will be: Is the existing uncertainty regarding reactivation of surplus military fields now in civil use defeating the prime objectives of the airport disposal program for all time? The Big Spring airport manager should be able to speak with some authority.

Flying to Norman with Cook will be Dennis Humphreys, San Angelo airport manager.

CAA personnel did little flying during the past week. C. L. Burr and Church flew to Lubbock Friday in Church's Cessna 140. Charlie Hokerbaum and Burr remained on the ground Wednesday for their trip to Pecos, going by automobile. Jack Robson drove to Midland Friday.

Midland's misfortune may mean a little extra business for the Big Spring Municipal airport.

The NPA has notified Midland airport authorities that steel will not be available this year for construction of a new control tower. As a result, Navy planes which were to start refueling at Midland rather than Big Spring, will continue to land here, at least until the Air Force takes over.

Last phase of the Scurry county airport construction is to start this week, CAA officials reported. Final portion of the work will be the paving of runways.

Other CAA projects to start soon include installation of high intensity lighting at Lubbock's field, an entrance to the El Paso airport, and runway paving at Crowell. The Crowell airport is unique in that airmen won't have to worry about getting to town after they land, said J. D. Church. New 2,200-foot runway will be within four blocks of the downtown area.

Edwards And Garrett Homes Stress Beauty And Originality In Design And Decoration

Typical of the many new homes in Big Spring are the two pictured on this page belonging to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Garrett.

The Edwards home, above, just south of the Municipal golf course off the San Angelo highway, is of red brick with a white roof. Center of interest is the large living-dining room with its fireplace of Roman brick, its clerestory windows and its exposed eaves of walnut-stained pine.

Mrs. Edwards has furnished this room with ranch-type furniture and a sprinkling of family heirlooms such as the secretary made by Mr. Edwards' great grandfather, who brought it from Waxahachie in a covered wagon in the 1880s. Another, the cradle near the fireplace, was given to Mrs. Edwards by her mother, Mrs. Travis Read, and was used by both Edwards children, Stormy, 12, and Mary Lane, 11.

All floors are asphalt tile, and slab doors, used throughout the house, are stained walnut. A pink color scheme was used for Mary Lane's room, while Stormy chose navy and bright red. His bathroom also features red.

The master bedroom is in turquoise, with its adjoining bath in turquoise with sand pink fixtures.

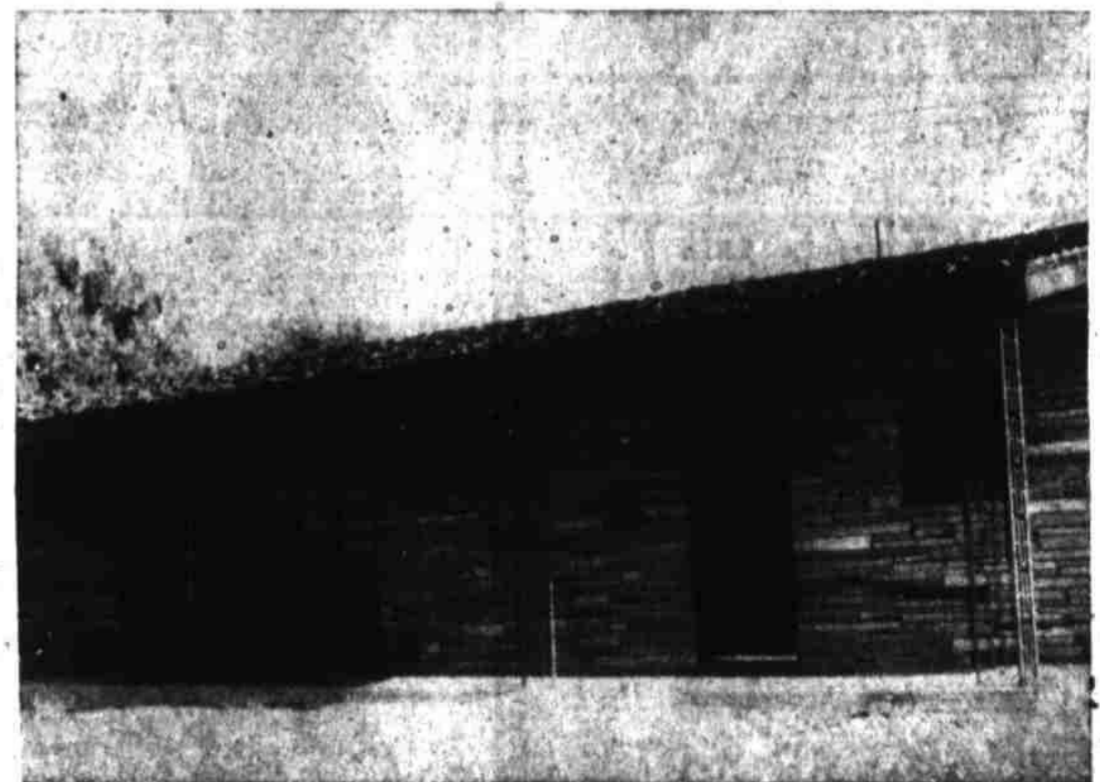

The Garrett home in Edwards Heights is of Tennessee crab orchard stone with rustic redwood shake roof. A built-in planting bed in front of the large picture window holds Japanese boxwood, an evergreen of miniature size and slow growth.

In the spacious living-dining room, the walls are Celadon green and the ninon draw curtains and all silk damask side draperies are the same color. Over the Hunter green velvet sofa hang four original Chinese paintings representing the four seasons of the year. All lamps are imported Chinese figurines.

The large playroom features a fireplace of the same stone as the exterior and all furniture is hand-rubbed pine, including the lazy Susan coffee table and the hutch. The same fabric used for draperies at the bank of windows along one wall is also used to cover one

Couple Wed In Dallas 55 Years Ago Celebrating Anniversary Today

Fifty-five years of married life will be celebrated here today at a Thomas Lee Williams family gathering.

Several children of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who reside on U. S. 13 west, are planning a dinner in honor of the 55th anniversary of their parents' wedding.

"These of us who are able will go to church at the Assembly of God," said Mr. Williams, "and then we aim to get together for dinner and a little family affair."

If plans work out, one of the 13 children born to them, Mrs. Ruby Lancaster of Waterford, Calif., will arrive in time to join others who reside in this vicinity.

"We were born at almost different ends of the country," said Mrs. Williams, "but we finally got together." He was born in Scott county on Jan. 6, 1876; she was born Elter Gunn in Santa Barbara, Calif. on Dec. 21, 1881.

When her father died, her mother moved back to Brownwood and later to Waxahachie. Meantime, the Williams family had migrated to Hunt county where they settled on land his father had homesteaded before the Civil War. They met in Waxahachie.

"The first time I saw her," he recalled, "I figured she was the reddest headed, freckledest faced gal I ever saw."

Mrs. Williams protested: "Don't put that down." "The next time I saw her, I thought she was the prettiest thing on the face of the earth."

He kept thinking that, too for a year and half later, on Dec. 6, 1896 they were married. The ceremony took place in Dallas before a justice of peace.

"They were holding court and the justice adjourned it to marry us," Mr. Williams continued. "When it was over I'll bet a hundred men stepped up to congratulate us. I wanted to get out of there the worst thing in the world."

A livestock trader, Mr. Williams found himself on the move. The family lived in Oak Cliff, Comanche, Brownwood, Erath county, Robert Lee, and then in Chickasha, Okla., for 22 years. Then, going into farming, he moved the family to Divine, Texas and stayed there 11 years before retiring and moving here two years ago.

Thirteen children were born to the union and 11 are still living. There are 53 grandchildren and more than a dozen great-grandchildren. "We were just thinking if everybody had increased like us that this country would be pretty crowded," they said.

Proposed Building
St. Paul's Lutheran Church

Church Cornerstone To Be Laid Sunday

Big Spring Lutherans are observing completion of the first phase in a new building program with the cornerstone laying of the St. Paul's educational building at 4 p. m. today.

The 28 by 62-foot brick veneer and tile structure was built by Baker Willis of this city. It will house the Sunday School, educational and cultural activities, kitchen facilities and rest rooms.

The Rev. A. H. Hoyer, church pastor, will conduct the cornerstone laying service with a message titled, "We Lay A Memorial." This occasion will call to memory the service of young church men and women of America who served during World War II in order to preserve "our way of life." Rev. Hoyer will recall that the church is a living memorial of hope for future generations.

The gray granite stone will bear the inscription, "1951." Back of it will be placed a copper box containing a Bible, confessional books, the constitution and other historical papers pertaining to Big Spring Lutheranism. It will also contain information of the city furnished by the local Chamber of Commerce, names of city, county and school officials, the United States Constitution and vital data on public and private life within the community and government. The public is invited to witness this ceremony.

As soon as material becomes available the church proper will be constructed on the lot adjoining the educational building at 201 W. 9th St.

FEMINE FIGURING

Color Is Strange Factor In Individual Emotions

By DOROTHY YATES

"And what color are you today, Mrs. Jones?"

Though a queer manner of asking a friend how she feels, this greeting is nevertheless a proper one when we realize that various colors are responsible for our moods.

Realizing their effects upon the emotions, psychologists now use color therapy with remarkable success in the treatment of nervous disorders.

This is based upon the theory that colors related to the blues and greens have a quieting influence and as the color grows colder and darker it may become really depressing. However, warm colors—those grouped around the red and orange hues, have a cheerful, comforting effect which can increase excitement when they become very bright and near to red.

One may test herself on these principles by considering that the distant horizon appears bluish or purple while warm hues suggest nearness or warmth. This is the reason that a mass of blue placed at the end of a room may cause the room to appear longer than it really is. On the other hand, warm colors, especially fiery ones, seem to advance and make the room look shorter than it actually is.

Often times a woman wearing a black or very dark dress will feel depressed without realizing why. A person particularly downcast can sometimes put on bright colored apparel and become cheerful again.

Many schoolrooms now use pale green or blue throughout in order to achieve a calming effect. This not only affords a restful atmosphere but has an interesting influence in quieting noisy youngsters as well.

According to psychologists here are the effects of the most used colors upon individuals. Red is warm, stimulating or even irritating; orange is warm and stimulating; yellow is light and gay; yellow-green is cheerful; green is restful and refreshing; blue-green, cool and passive; blue is cold, subduing, dignified and meditative and purple is subduing and depressing.

So when Mrs. Jones is asked how she feels today, she may well reply, "I am quite blue, thank you."

Scale Is Very Important Factor In Planning Interior Decoration

By ELIZABETH HILLIER
 What is important to good decorating? Color schemes, the style of furnishings, their arrangement. And another tremendously important consideration is scale. Scale is a word decorators use to mean the sizes of room elements in relation to each other. Just as a five-story building looks tall in a village and small in a city, so does the size of each piece of furniture and each accessory seem larger or smaller according to the room and everything else that is in it. Next time you look at a room that has particular style, analyze it to see why it has style and you may find that the answer is largely its scale. There may be nothing unusual in the room except the sizes of things, but these make all the difference.

For example, the wall sketched changes from ordinary to better high style for the room with no more than the change of the size of the mirror and the picture arrangement. The first sketch, at top left, shows what happens when no more than a stub is made at decorating — at least the purely decorative pictures have been added to a mirror that's no bigger than it must be to be useful. The effect is ordinary, has little decorative value. The bigger mirror and the added pictures in the second sketch are more effective. They are in better proportion to the large piece of furniture below and obviously were chosen by someone who had some feeling for scale. Then, in the third sketch, the mirror grows as wide as the furniture and tall to the ceiling, and the first two pictures are multiplied by four. Here is striking effect with scale that is typical of some of the most skillful decorators. Skill with scale doesn't always mean enlargement. A rose on wallpaper may be fine for a room in a tiny size and completely wrong in a cabbage size. Furniture, and especially upholstered furniture, could be smaller in many homes, but accessories in general are small and cluttery. See how much more style you can give a room with a few that are larger in scale.

Our Early American Style Reflects The Influences Of Many Countries

In the strict sense it is difficult to define a style which is truly representative of Early American furniture. Our country was settled by people of many lands who brought with them a few pieces and fashioned others in the manner of their own countrymen. Dutch, English, French, Irish brought their contributions from which design and functional ideas were adapted. Necessity and available materials, however, exerted strong influence on the blending of style and there finally emerged those charming and practical pieces which we now recognize as Early American. Solid construction and intelligent use of native woods often result in instinctively well proportioned and gracefully designed furniture. This is the case with the delightful drop leaf tables, hutch cabinets, and well scaled chairs characteristic of Early Americans. Cherry, maple and pine were the most abundant woods available in our settlements along the Atlantic Coast, and are still associated with this particular decorating style. While close adherence to strict religious codes limited decorative design in those early days the practical beauty of pine paneling graced many of their interiors. Since mankind has always an unconscious desire to make his surroundings beautiful, the early settlers fulfilled their requirement in the blending of well polished woods and fine workmanship. As the years passed machinery replaced hand tools, restrictions were modified and new details were added to these basically good designs. In recent years, our national way of life has become more and more informal and the demand for furniture which suits this way of life has vastly increased. It is strange to note that our basic needs have changed so little since those early days that our contemporary designers are today drawing great inspiration from the works of these first settlers. A sincere expression of democratic America and the individual freedom which continues to keynote her home life, Early American furniture remains one of the most popular and suitable styles for our homes today.

Mixture Of Periods Today's Top Decorating Theme Say The Experts

Do you have a slight feeling of embarrassment because Aunt Minnie's old Victorian sofa still graces a corner of your modern living room? Do you apologize for its inconsistency with friends come to call, saying that it's obviously wrong but that next year you'll get a new one? Be honest with yourself!

Is it really that you can't afford a new one, or is it that deep down in your heart you really like its carved rosewood back and curved legs?

Does it establish a pleasant bond with the past? Take heart! You need no longer make excuses. Fashion authorities have decreed a mixed theme as today's top style picture. The line between periods of decoration grows dim as we realize that good design of all ages has a fundamental kinship.

It is only in recent years that our so-called Modern design has gained sufficient maturity to join the classics. The long popularity of Traditional furniture gives us the assurance of lasting style and now we find similar security in good Contemporary furniture.

Furniture design has the peculiar gift of expressing the ideas and attitudes of the society of its period. Likewise, our homes express our way of life. Since each of us is a product of our time and heritage, what is more suitable than a home which reflects both?

Some of us like the dominant theme of our home to express the fresh outlook of today and tomorrow. But it is seldom that the past has no meaning in our lives. Conversely, the strong lasting tradition of 18th Century or early American may represent security in our lives and supply much needed continuity for our everyday environment.

Decoratively speaking, a combination of both gives us complete freedom to create a home background entirely to our liking. Some of the newest Modern designs show a peculiar relationship to our early American styles which so well express the simple lives of our forefathers. In these honest, native designs today's furniture finds inspiration, producing a new Modern which is truly American.

Some periods mix better than others. For example, the beautifully flowing lines of French Provincial add great warmth to the simplicity of Modern. The Romanic styles, (Regency, Empire, Biedermeier, and Victorian) furnish a wonderful change of pace in a house furnished predominantly in either 18th Century or Contemporary. Try a charming Regency chair as an accent in the living room or a high backed Victorian loveseat for a feminine touch to a Modern bedroom. A Contemporary coffee table or drop leaf will give a new note to a room of early American pine.

As new designs are added to our wonderful store, the practicality of engineered storage, stain-resistant finishes and double purpose features have been incorporated in Traditional styles. Although Eighteenth Century furniture was originally scaled to the high ceilings and tremendous rooms of colonial homes, its arm and dignity grace our homes today in newly proportioned adaptations.

In deciding on the dominant theme for your home it is only necessary to choose the style most pleasing to you and your family, since you will find equal practicality and functional advantage in either traditional or modern furniture.

Make your house a real portrait of your family.

Seventeen members of the G. A. Bridges family met at Ft. Phantom Hill Lake, Abilene, recently for a reunion. Activities during the day included boat riding and fishing.

More Apt At Trigger

It's easier to teach women to shoot than men in the opinion of Joe Burg, sports director at Sun Valley. According to Burg, the women have no pre-conceived ideas and learn quickly, whereas every man thinks he's Daniel Boone and has to unlearn before he learns.

Utilize Wall Space

In small house or apartment, it is lots easier to take a frying pan down from a hook on the wall than to have to rummage through a pot closet where pots and pans are piled on top of each other for lack of space.

It's Cheaper?

"I Can Get It For You Wholesale," brings together George Sanders, Dan Dailey and Susan Hayward. The picture, at the Ritz theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, has to do with aspects of New York's vast garment industry.

Outdoor Adventure

Rod Cameron protects Adrian Booth from Forrest Tucker in this scene from "Oh, Susanna," an outdoor adventure melodrama of earlier days. The film, in Technicolor, is a Ritz feature for Thursday and Friday.

Biblical Drama

The great Cecil B. DeMille spectacle based upon a Biblical story, "Samson and Delilah," returns here for a three-day run at the State theatre beginning today. Victor Mature and Angela Lansbury, two of the principals, are shown here in a scene from the picture.

THREE-DAY SHOWING

'Samson-Delilah' Returns To State

The master of spectacle, Cecil B. DeMille, brings out his latest triumph again. It's "Samson and Delilah," one of the season's biggest boxoffice hits, which returns here for showings at the State. It will play for three days, today through Tuesday.

Mitchum And Russell In A Warm Romance

Robert Mitchum and Jane Russell make a dynamic pair for the picture, "His Kind Of Woman," playing at the Ritz theatre today and Monday. It's a Howard Hughes production, and is a romantic drama of a man battling against a sinister plot in the locale of a luxurious Mexican coast resort.

Mitchum's role is that of a gambler who is lured to the resort on a mysterious mission. Miss Russell portrays a singer in love with a noted screen star vacationing at the same spot. Despite misunderstandings the singer and the gambler are attracted to one another, but when the gambler begins to realize that the man he is dealing with plan to kill him, he seeks a way out of the trap.

How he solves his problem, with the aid of the girl and of the film celebrity whose big-game hunting talents are put to good use, leads to the exciting climax of the John Farrow production. The unusual settings designed for the film, and its tensely dramatic atmosphere, are said to offer exceptional entertainment. Vincent Price, as the screen star, Tim Holt as a sleuth, and Charles McGraw as an underworld character, are featured. John Farrow directed the picture, which was produced by Robert Sparks and written by Frank Fenon and Jack Leonard. The cast includes Marjorie Reynolds, Leslye Banning, Jim Backus, Philip Van Zandt, John Mylong, Erno Verebes, Dan White, Richard Berggren, Stacy Harris, Carleton Young and Robert Cornthwaite.

SULTAN HAS A NEW HEADACHE

SINGAPORE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Sultan of Johore, who has complained about British planes flying over his residence, has another headache. He wants British Commissioner General Malcolm MacDonald to move out of his best palace so he can move in out of noisy number two. The top residence, occupied by MacDonald, is called Bukit and is across the causeway from Singapore in the Johore state of Malaya.

Exciting Romance

That's the theme set in the picture "His Kind of Woman," offered at the Ritz theatre today and Monday. Robert Mitchum and Jane Russell, shown here, are principals in a story of adventure, romance and treachery in a tropic environment.

N. Y. Garment Competition Dramatized

Susan Hayward, Dan Dailey and George Sanders make up the star team for "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," featured at the Ritz theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. Background for the story is the teeming garment industry of New York, and news aspects of metropolitan life are presented. The drama of a woman of fashion's rise to power in the business world, at the cost of walking over a few people on her way up, the story tells a penetrating story of excessive ambition.

Other key scenes bearing the magic DeMille touch include Samson's bare-handed battle with a lion, his unparalleled-for-violence assault on a thousand Philistine soldiers, his titanic struggle with a Philistine giant and a fearful wedding feast brawl.

Walkout At Phillips Company In Borger Is Halted Thursday

BORGER, Oct. 6 (AP)— A threatened walkout at Phillips Petroleum Company was halted late Thursday night when the union of operating engineers voted to extend their work contract until midnight Oct. 11. Howard Kleibusch of the Union said 92 per cent of the workers voted for the extension. Company and Union officials refused to disclose the nature of a new offer by the Company. The old contract expired at midnight. A union spokesman had said his group adopted a "no contract-no work" policy. The Union is asking a 15 cent blanket wage raise and retirement plan changes. Between 2,500 and 6,000 workers are affected. The Empire State Building is 1,248 feet high not counting the recently installed TV antenna atop the famous building.

Duds No Clue To Temperatures; Fashion And Mother Nature Clash

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

With all the important things swirling about our heads, the following is a very minor complaint. I wish, however, that Dame Fashion and Mother Nature would get back into step.

For quite some time, the current feminine habit of rushing the seasons has been a source of irritation to most of us who are not fashion-plates but do try to look presentable.

Around January, for example, when my world is snow covered and the temperature hovers around freezing, most of my city's mink-bearing females bust out with open-toed shoes and the latest thing in next season's straw hats.

Then, in July, with the thermometer dancing between 80 and 90 and with air-conditioning units running full blast all over town, these same ladies start appearing in all the smart places with dark, cold-weather headpieces made of velvet, velour and adorned with feathers and sequins instead of flowers.

Another thing, people have taken to wearing navy blue the year round. Once upon a time, within my own memory, a dress or suit of navy blue with little white touches was as sure a harbinger of Spring as the first robin. It's lost all significance.

It seems only a few years ago when most of us were guided in our dressing by some old, tested rules. "Change not a thread until April is dead" was a family motto in my house, and change not a thread it was—including the long underwear we kids were forced into—regardless of what shenanigans the weatherman was up to. There was a firm belief that if anyone beat May 1 for laying aside winter clothes (and in those days we wore clothes for more than one year unless we grew out of them) the penalty held out was, at best, a bad head cold; or worst, pneumonia.

Nowadays, however, central heating, air-conditioning, plane travel and other modern improvements have pretty much defeated the onslaughts of heat and cold. Many people habitually travel quickly from climate to climate, blithely adjusting from bitter sub-zero cold in the ski country to the white-shoe warmth of Florida overnight.

In this mixed up world, it's no wonder that the seasons are losing their significance and that Spring is coming on earlier each year as far as fashion is concerned. Pretty soon, if the speed-up continues, the fashion cycle will spin so fast that Spring hats will actually catch up with Spring.

It is only the women who have been getting ahead of the weather in this bewildering fashion. Men stick closer to the calendar than the fair sex. Take a look around the cold weather states next Spring and you probably won't see a straw hat on a male until mid-May—and after that magic date they'll multiply like bottle flies. May 15, or the nearest Sunday to that date, has marked the opening of the straw-hat season for generations—and it's a date the gentlemen observe as carefully as their wedding anniversaries.

Would there were some hard and fast rules like that for the women. As it is now, a girl who wanders around in a cool, shady straw hat in mid-August can feel only self-conscious among her sisters who are sweltering but chic in their new velvet bonnets decorated with brilliants.

It's all very well to be smart in the head, but you can count me out when fashion decrees we have to rush the season whole hog. No matter what Jacques Fath and Christian Dior may possibly enunciate some future day, I refuse to wear winter clothes and fur coat until after Labor Day or a straw hat before St. Patrick's Day.

Busy Program Ahead For Texas Governor

AUSTIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers will go to Huntsville Sunday to open the State Prison Road. Tuesday he will dedicate the new engineering building at Lamar Technological College, Beaumont. Tuesday night, Shivers will be in Dallas for Governor's Day at the State Fair.

Capital Social Life Tunes Up For Royalty's Visit

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The capital merry-go-round is getting tuned up early this season, so local socialites ought to be ready for anything by the time Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip come to town this month.

The red carpet already has undergone a bit of wear from the tread of the top world dignitaries stopping over for champagne and caviar interludes while traveling to and from the Japanese treaty-signing at San Francisco. More recently, big wigs and diplomats have been turning handsprings to show governors of the International Bank and International Monetary Fund, attending board meetings here, a good time between dollar talks.

Most of the cocktail parties are starting late—around 6:30 o'clock—and lasting late. Often guests stay right on for a buffet supper. One of the most colorful of these was the party given at the embassy by the ambassador of Ceylon and Mrs. Corea for Ceylon's Finance Minister and Mrs. Jaywardene.

Many striking new French creations were noted, but most picturesque of all were the graceful, scarf-draped "sari" costumes worn by many women guests from the Far East. Mrs. Corea's was of exquisite sheer white silk tissue, handpainted with pink roses.

Mrs. Jaywardene's, accentuating her vivid beauty, was of hand-woven silk, crimson and green with a border of gold. Mrs. B. K. Nehru, wife of the financial counselor of the Indian Embassy, also wore a sari and Mme. Yang, wife of the Korean ambassador, wore a native costume in blue.

Home Fashion Time In Big Spring . . .

More luxury, and at the same time more practical design, can be obtained in choice of furniture and decorations in today's modern homes, as evidenced from the pictures on this page. Beauty with simplicity, a combination that makes for better living, is that demonstrated here, and which is being stressed with this week's observance of Home Fashion Time in Big Spring.

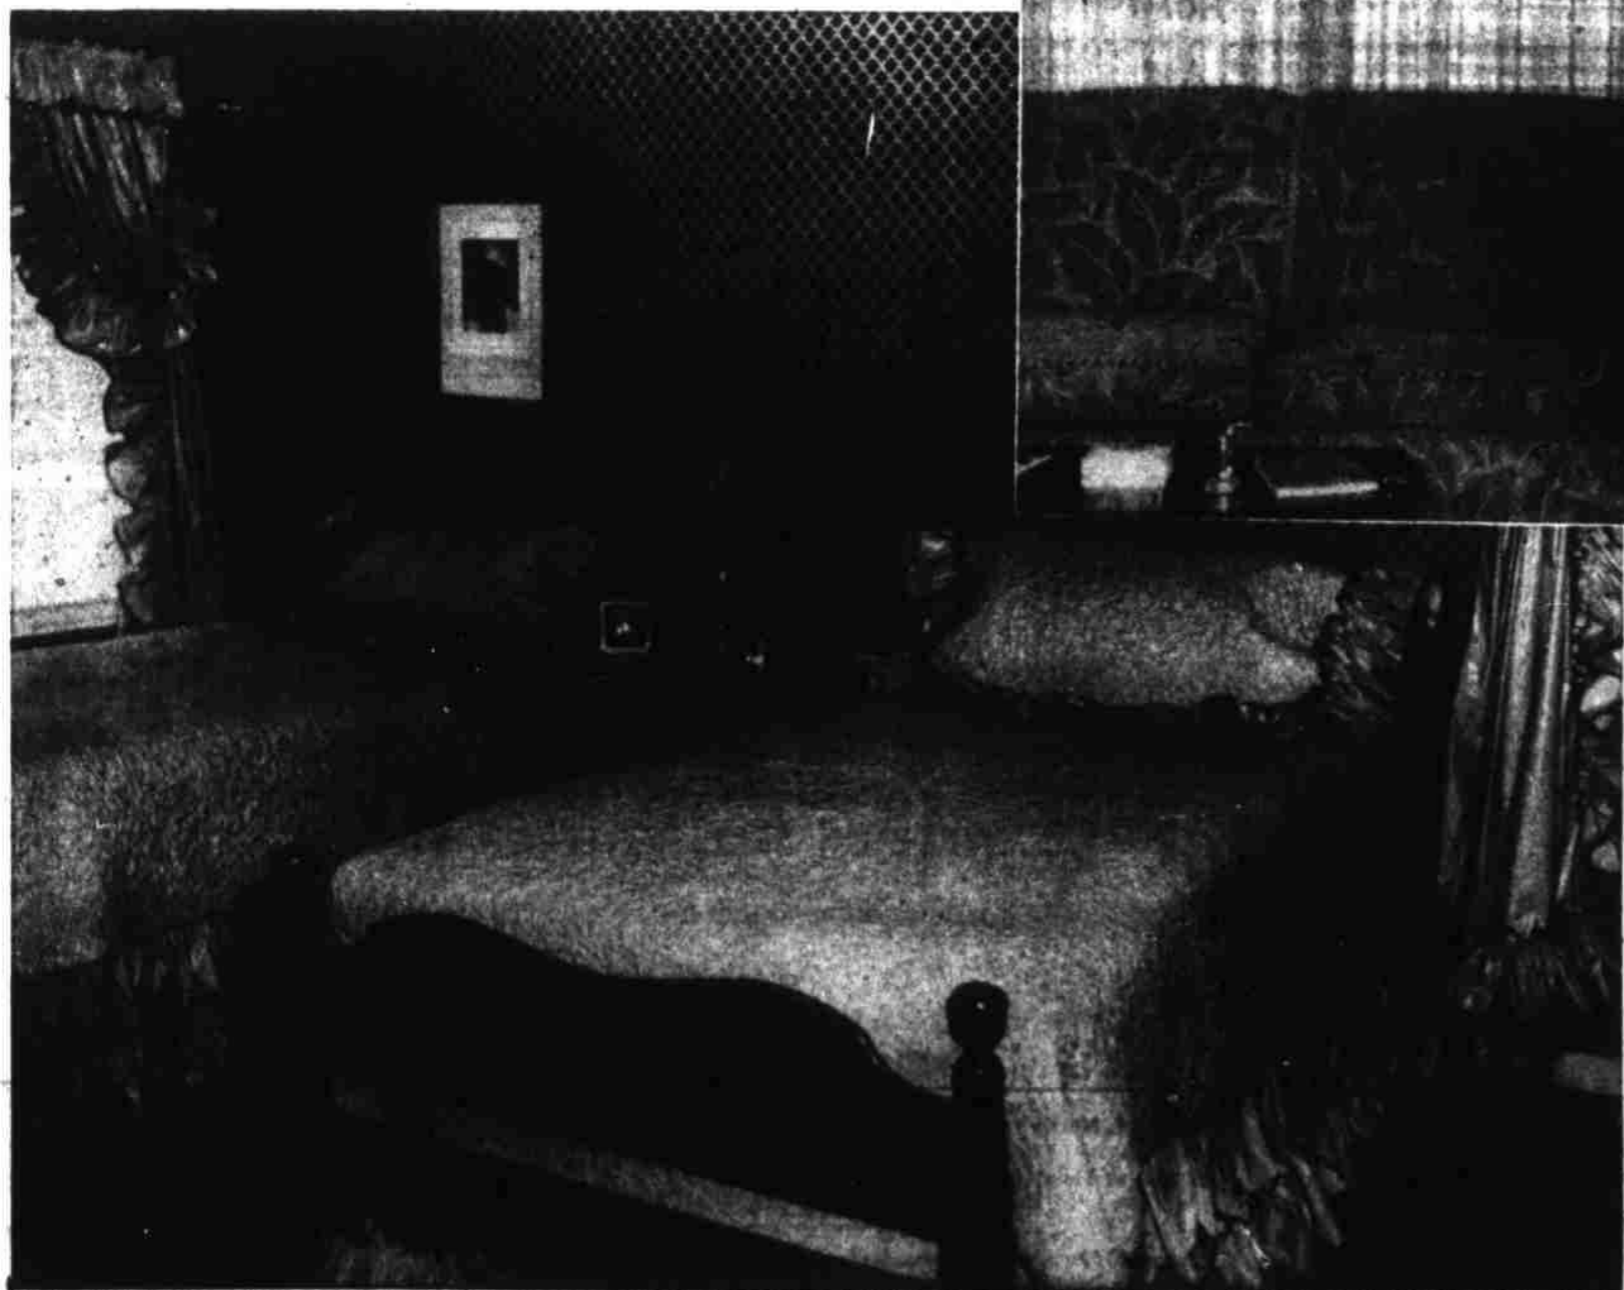

Green is the dominant color in the spacious living room of the Leon Moffett home above. Draw draperies are made of a floral print on a green background, and padded valances of the same material frame the windows. Green, in a lighter shade, is the background color of the floral printed faille sofa. The pair of chairs at right are in gold damask. Coffee table and drum table at right are mahogany. Wall-to-wall wool carpeting is sand beige.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward V. Swift selected brown and coral for the master bedroom of their Early American house (below). The wallpaper is a brown Early American print. Ruffled curtains and dust ruffles on the beds are coral chintz with brown bindings. Spreads and pillow shams are quilted chintz in the same coral shade. Carpeting is a deep green, the furniture maple.

Coral, yellow and brown were the colors selected by Joyce, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Edwards, for her room, pictured above. Brown organdy curtains grace the large windows, and the bedspreads, pillow shams and chair covers are coral quilted chintz. Dust ruffles and dressing table skirt are striped in coral, yellow and brown. The bed headboards are padded and covered in the same stripes. Dressing table lamps have brown shades.

The living room of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Deal, Jr., (below), is draped entirely across with a floral print green, centered with pale green chiffonase glass curtains and topped with a padded valance. The rose sofa is flanked by twin lamp tables and at right is Mrs. Deal's spinet, all mahogany. Walls are a pale green, carpet a little deeper shade of the same color. Lamp shades are gold.

Local Stores Presenting Latest Lines In 'Open House' Showings

Home furnishings retailers in Big Spring are emphasizing the need for greater comfort and relaxation in the home with the observance of Home Fashion Time this week.

They will demonstrate how the new fall merchandise reflects this essential economic requirement. And, particularly, will they demonstrate that top values in quality home furnishings are available in Big Spring—to match those of any other sales center.

Chief evidence of what the stores here have to offer this year will be seen when all the furniture stores in town join together in a city-wide "open house" on Monday and Tuesday nights of this week. These stores will be open until 9 p.m. on these evenings, and are inviting the public to call for inspection. Whether items are purchased or not, the newest trend in furnishings will be there for the public to examine.

Participating stores in Home Fashion Time have their individual invitations in this section of The Herald.

Stores are stressing the slogan, "take your home to heart," said merchandise being shown is keyed to the wants of today's style-conscious, value-conscious and home-conscious consumers.

Home Fashion Time is a furniture and home furnishings style show, a gala presentation of new merchandise staged with a distinct fashion flair. This year the accent will be on new, as well as standard and well-loved items, that will make the average home more pleasant and comfortable, a cheerful refuge from the cares of the outside world.

Whatever the economic future may hold, it is well to remember that furniture and home furnishings never became austere during the last war, but that great strides were made in creating more value for the money, increased comfort and simpler design—all geared to a pleasanter, more casual mode of life.

Even though you don't intend to make any purchases now, be sure to browse through the stores, when they will be dressed up in their festive best.

Furniture is currently a good buy. Visit the stores and see for yourself.

Cooperating in this special effort to acquaint the public with the convenience and advantage of securing home furnishings here are Elrod Furniture, Barrow - Phillips, White's; Montgomery Ward, Town & Country, L. M. Brooks Store; Gregg Street Furniture, Wheat's Furniture, and Lucella's.

Metallic Glint High Fashion In Fabrics

Fabrics are swinging toward the casual side with accent on textural interest, simple patterns and lighter colors.

New decorative upholstery fabrics are soft, with increased eye interest, and woven to give long wearing qualities.

Metallics woven in with prints or solids set the newest trend in fabrics. Holding a top position among informal coverings is tweed woven of cotton or cotton and rayon. With or without the metallic touch, its nubby texture and harmonious blending of colors go well with modern furniture.

Plaids, herringbone and hound-tooth check are other new cotton textured fabrics. Quilted cotton print is used to upholster modern pieces. Light as its namesake is a washable cotton faille used in both upholstery and drapery.

In the upholstery of traditional pieces, nubby surface is also important. Tweeds cover provincial matalasse patterns which cover new versions of period furniture. Shades of mauve, green and blue are frequent colors in upholstery.

Drapery Prints
Newest patterns in printed fabrics are more subdued or neutral with one strong accent. That accent is likely to be chosen from peach, apricot, russet, green in olive tones, mauve, and blue.

Hand blocked linens and toiles are being revived as drapery materials. A sheer, toile is printed in scenic and documentary patterns.

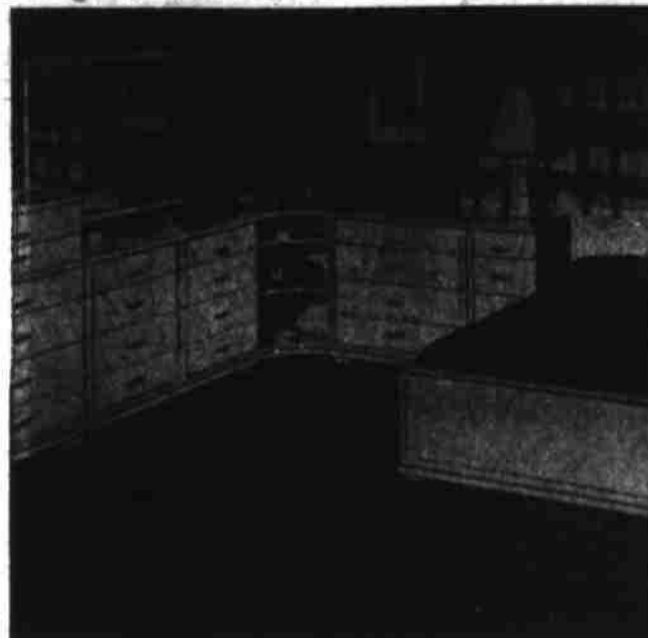

Metallic glints also from drapery materials. At first metallic threads were woven into material. Now the metallic is printed on and cannot be washed out.

Provincial prints are seen in drapery materials more often. Fabrics are made to match wallpaper, too.

A little out of the drapery line, plaids, denims, organdies, and nylons are fashioned as cafe curtains. The bottom half of the window can be kept covered, the top curtains left to blow.

For the first time, fibreglas has come out in color such as green, rose, and beige. Used without blinds as casement hanging, the material lets light in although it is impossible to see through.

Plastics
Moving away from the imitation leather era, plastic now resembles grass cloth and tweed, both materials with the textured look. Dyed, a new plastic yarn, has been made into an acid resistant fabric. Main use of plastic materials is in covering patio or sunporch furniture.

Mix And Match Pieces

New functional groups of bedroom furnishings are designed to be mixed, blended and added to in countless combinations. The bedroom pieces shown include a chest of drawers, double dresser and mirror, low bookcase-type corner cabinet, four-drawer end chest, a smaller four-drawer chest and bed.

New Functions, More Style In Appliances

Homemakers want appliances that are as smart in style as their living room furnishings. So the appliance manufacturers' emphasis styling right along with function and convenience.

Kitchen appliances are catering to the housewife's taste for good styling and design. Beauty and convenience are combined. Freezers have lid storage shelves providing extra storage space and new convenience in selecting foods. They have self-opening lids which open by a touch on a pressure bar in the lid handle.

Automatic ice cream freezers are available with the large home freezers. With paddle type mixers, they can make ice cream in 30 to 45 minutes.

Homemakers are now choosing larger refrigerators. Instead of the six or seven cubic foot models they are selecting the nine, 10 and 11 cubic foot sizes. Many models have large freezer compartments where quantities of frozen meats, vegetables and fruits may be stored away. Others are designed with smaller units suitable for families that have home businesses.

Many of the new electric ranges feature divided tops. These eliminate the congested, uncomfortably cramped clutter of pots and pans with hot handles. They also assure homemakers a convenient, handy work area adjacent to cooking units. Many of the new ovens are designed so the cook can observe the cooking progress without opening the oven door. A glass panel in the oven door permits the cook to see the food without losing heat when the door is opened.

Automatic controls on many of the ranges permit the housewife to prepare a meal early in the day and forget about it until dinner time when it is ready to serve.

The homemaker can even barbecue meat in the oven. Rotary barbecue units are available for ranges and can be clipped in with as little trouble as it takes to switch the position of an oven rack. The revolving unit automatically turns and barbecues meat, fish or fowl in the electric oven.

Compact, built in cooking equipment is being featured as a space saver. The oven can be built in a wall or cabinet at eye level to eliminate stooping. The burners are built in cabinet tops, away from the reach of children.

This year marks the first time that automatic washers have out-sold wringer type machines. Dryers, too, are becoming more popular with homemakers for these are a work saver on fair days as well as a wash saver during rainy weather. Portable washers are on the market too. These can be installed with no extra plumbing or can be made permanent.

Another washer has a lining of live rubber, synthetic rubber and steel, which takes the place of the agitator. A simple pump pushes the air and water out, creates a vacuum and the rubber lining squeezes the clothes. There is no vibration to overcome with this machine.

All-white kitchen appliances still rank higher with the homemaker than those in colors. One reason for this is that the introduction of color would involve replacement of all major equipment at one time, which most families could not afford. Instead of colored appliances, women satisfy their craving for refreshing tints with both deep and pastel shades in wall surfaces with harmonizing or matching drainboards.

ADAPTABLE FURNITURE

French Provincial Used For Formal, Informal Decor

Long ago, a French country squire on his first visit to the Parisian courts, was impressed with the beauty of palace furniture. When he returned to the provinces, he asked his own cabinet maker to adapt the designs in the lovely fruit woods which were native to the region.

Like that a adventuresome Frenchman, we admire the graceful beauty of courtly furniture. Also, like him, we know that the rich elegance of palace furnishings would look out of place in our homes. So it is that his modifications, with others which followed through the years, have produced a style well suited to our living today.

The stripping down of extra detail, exchange of gilt and lacquer for the warm polished tones of walnut and fruitwood, smaller scaling, and planned interiors, are changes that have come with the years.

French Provincial can be formal or informal, can look equally well in a sophisticated town apartment or a friendly country cottage.

Rich brocades, velvets or metallic textures still add great formality to this graceful furniture in a town apartment while small patterned chintzes, calicoes or gingham lend the gay vitality of country or suburban informality.

French Provincial has the happy faculty of getting along with furniture of other periods.

One room in your house furnished in this lovely style will provide a charming change of pace. French Provincial chests in a modern living room or bedroom add grace and originality.

Because of this extreme adaptability, there are French Provincial pieces to suit every pocketbook. As well as complete ensembles, you will find delightful occasional chairs and tables. These make decorative accent pieces for rooms furnished predominantly in styles of other periods.

The French Provincial, so far removed from Paris developed a decorating style all their own. This furniture was graceful, charming and sturdy, with oak more popular than walnut.

The French Provincial style that developed under the influence of the court styles fell into two general types—the city and the country. For most of us today, the suaver, richer, more formal city style carries a greater appeal and for that reason is more popular.

Curtains Can Give Kitchen High Style

Kitchen windows will meet with fashion this Fall and can become, with a minimum of effort and expense, the targets for pretty cheer the season through.

For instance, to achieve a highly styled kitchen window, just cut out the main motif from an extra strip of the kitchen wallpaper, paste it on the window shade and presto! Here is something strikingly new and different.

Curtains, too, come in for their share of happy fashion attention. There are starched white dotted Swiss and organdies spiked with bright plaid gingham valances and gay rick rack trim. There are very short horizontal curtains that may be attached to vibrantly hued curtain rings to give an "Ice Cream Parlor" air to the window.

In a variety of straight-hanging, criss-cross and window boarder styles, striped curtains, frankly noisy plaids, gay checks and floral designs also make interesting window cheer-ups.

Or, for those who would rather skip the curtains when doing up their kitchen windows, there's the gay and imaginative designs of diagonal trim borders to frame a window, brighten the window, adding both charm and beauty to the kitchen.

Careful Cleaning Prolongs The Life Of Your Carpet

The life span of your floor covering will depend largely upon the care it receives. Regardless of its construction or quality, its length of service will be dependent to a great extent upon the care you give it.

Surface wear seldom deteriorates a carpet or rug as much as the grinding and cutting of grit which works down into the base of the face yarns. This grit, if not removed, causes friction and eventually wears off the tufts at the point where they join the carpet backing.

Experts advise a home-cleaning schedule that includes complete and thorough cleaning of rugs and carpets by a vacuum cleaner at least once a week, if the traffic is heavy or dirt is tracked in to a noticeable degree, two thorough cleanings a week are in order.

Many homemakers include a five-minute cleaning schedule with a vacuum each day, especially in areas where there is much traffic. Since dirt is always easier to remove, if the cleaning is done soon after it enters, this is a recommended program. Regardless of other schedules, the dining room should be vacuumed daily to remove particles and crumbs which fall to the floor.

To remove stains and grimy film which dulls carpet colors, these daily and weekly cleaning programs should be supplemented every few years by a thorough cleaning by a reliable rug cleaning establishment. The cleaner may take your rug to his establishment for shampooing or dry cleaning, or he may advise on-location cleaning. These methods are all satisfactory when carried out by a competent rug cleaner.

Home shampooing of room-size rugs is not advised. In washing any rug, it is necessary to flush out the dirt from the base of the pile tufts and remove all traces of soap. Quick and thorough drying at carefully controlled temperature is also necessary to preserve the beauty and life of the rug.

Generally, carpet dirt is one of these four types:

1. Surface litter, lint, hair threads, etc.
2. Light-clinging dust and dirt, deposited by air currents.
3. Heavier dirt, such as fine sand, powdered clay and limestone.
4. Sticky substances, like asphalt, grease, chewing gum, fats and oils.

The first type is removable with the ordinary carpet sweeper. The vacuum will remove the lighter dirt. The latter two are the most difficult. Heavy dirt can be removed by prolonged cleaning with a vacuum cleaner, but sticky substances require a solvent which is recommended for the particular kind of spot.

And a final warning. The comic cartoons about men beating carpet on a clothes line are not so funny when it comes to floor coverings. The man may not only break his back, but the back of the carpet as well. Beating subjects back-breaking strains to carpets, as well as to the man wielding the beater.

Rugs Offer Handcrafted Appearance

Smaller patterns that are easy to live with and easy to tend are the talking points of Fall '51 carpets and rugs.

Newsworthy are the less complicated patterns that tend to offer a handcrafted look. And the new texture weaves that combine different types of yarns and fibers to achieve textures that are fresh and smart.

Fast replacing scrolls, florals and large scale flowing motifs are deftly designed abstract patterns and casual homespun and provincial effects meant for the informal modern, provincial and ranch house type of interior.

Featured for these new carpets and rugs are sturdy wool-and-rayon blends, clearly hued all-rayons, and cottons, some made in broadloom widths and woven on carpet backs, others in broadloom widths needed on non-skid cotton duck backs.

Leading the carpet and rug color parade are deep forest greens with leaf and spring greens following closely. Also predicted to be popular are all the tones of the desert as well as a new beige that is a warm honey shade.

Grey continues its color popularity with a clear new silvery grey fast becoming a favorite. And gold appears as an accent color in patterned carpets or as an all-over color.

Here's One That Didn't Get Away

The perfect lamp for a fisherman's den needn't get away. Its base is a ceramic speckled trout leaping over a round wooden slab. Supported by a brass stand, it has a shade of natural linen into which are hooked several colorful trout files.

Washable Living Room
Here's a living room that's washable from floor to ceiling and wall to wall. The walls and ceilings are of knotted pine; the floor is flagstone; the chairs, sofa and hassock are upholstered in plastic; and the window hangings also come in plastic.

Many manufacturers represented hold the MERIT AWARD for engineering (It's what's inside that counts) and the FASHION ACADEMY AWARD for styling (your home deserves "that Town and Country L-O-O-K"). ## Furnishings For Autumn Season Show Trend Toward Informality

Look to Fall '51 at home as a time of casual living, centered about small parties held close by the television set in the living room or game room, or, if TV is still an outside entity, near the spirit warming hearthside.

For more and more the trend through the country is to an informal, close to home way of life. With home—whether apartment, ranch house or two-story affair—offering more limited space than in years past.

To meet the needs of greater informality and closer quarters, manufacturers are offering a constantly increasing choice of home furnishings and accessories that emphasize the functional, yet easy going, demands of today.

For instance, colors are bright as can be. With walls in a great array of casual-themed shades, choices ranging from the warm orange tones, turquoise, all tones of violet from heliotrope to deep eggplant, to the many shades of all brown from the pale beige to the deep earthy tones.

Wallpapers, too, are shown in brighter colors for today's informal mode of life. Many take inspiration from the lavish tropical tones of the Caribbean. Others go to the Orient for more exotic colors. Appliqued patterns, although more brilliantly hued, are smaller, in many instances featuring all-over motifs.

While excitingly new for window dressing is split bamboo, woven with cord, that enables the sunlight to filter through in soft streams. When made in this woven fashion, the bamboo can be hung on a traverse rod like any of the more traditional drapery types.

Although on hand in its own warm natural tone, a bit of paint can quickly and easily transform the bamboo into any decor-blending color preferred.

To complement the gaiety of walls and window hangings, rugs with a hand crafted look, appearing in warm honey shades of beige, deep forest greens as well as leaf and spring greens and all gradations of grey, including a new, clear, silvery grey tone.

The American Provincial style of furniture, fast becoming so popular, in exciting reproductions of early-day originals, offers a wealth of comfort in chairs and sofas that are lower, deeper and broader than ever. With gaily colored upholstery paired with the rich, warm tones of chestnut and cherry woods.

Wooden pieces, such as drawer chests, bookcases, servers and desks, are sleek and new and easy to mix and match with furnishings in any room of the house. Newest are those with streamlined wood or concealed drawer pulls. And those designed to be grouped in comfortable units beneath new high-placed windows.

Adding an important eye-appealing accessory touch are the new taller-than-ever lamps. Many are made in novel "peephole" designs that allow for vari-shaped hollow spaces.

Featured for Fall lamps are all types of ceramics, including clear glass, milk glass and crystal. Here again, in outspoken colors like Chinese red, chartreuse, forest green and gunmetal grey with matching or striking contrasting color shades.

China and glassware, sure to be more on display before guests than ever, is wider, and closer to the table in outline. With the china featured with smaller patterns in such Fall-pleasing shades as grape, spruce, green and bitter-sweet as well as misty greys and greens.

Regency Dining Room

A Chinese screen used as a wall panel behind a sideboard is a noteworthy feature of this Regency dining room. The entire breakfast table grouping is of inlaid mahogany and yew wood against a setting of cafe-au-lait walls and beige tufted cotton carpeting.

Wood Furniture Can Grow More Beautiful With Age

Wood furniture deserves the best of care, for with proper attention the finish will grow even more beautiful with age. It develops a mellowness with depth of color.

Varnished or lacquered furniture should be dusted frequently with a soft lint free dust cloth. It is essential that the dust cloth be soft since all dust contains a certain amount of abrasive grit which will scratch the finish. In addition to dusting the finish, it is necessary periodically to use a furniture polish in order to retain the proper luster and to remove greasy deposits. The greasy deposits consist of finger prints, coal dust, and where the heating medium is oil, a very appreciable oily deposit.

When a more strenuous cleaning is needed, the finish may be washed with a mild soap. Use much lather then rinse with a fairly dry cloth dipped in lukewarm water and dry with a soft cloth. The finish may then be polished with an emulsion type polish or a liquid wax. A cloth is dampened with either polish or wax and applied with considerable rubbing. After the furniture is thoroughly covered with the liquid, it is polished with a soft dry cloth.

It is not desirable to use the liquid wax in addition to the emulsion furniture polish, but where the finish is first washed with soap, the liquid wax provides greater resistance to finger marks.

For greater protection to the finish and more resistance to finger marks, a paste wax may be applied instead of the polish or liquid wax. Paste wax involves considerable time for application since it requires a great deal of rubbing to obtain the desired luster.

Exciting New Ideas Are Stressed In New Fall Furniture Showings

Home Fashion Time is the time when Dame Fashion puts on her favorite home costume and turns her creative genius to the problems of background and environment.

Exciting new colors, contrasts and designs blend into an ever-changing and stimulating pattern for living as the fashion picture moves on under her skillful hand. This month, manufacturers and retailers work together to bring homemakers up to date in new styles and developments in home-furnishings ideas.

Just as fashions in clothing have become more versatile in the past few years, so have fashions in furniture. It no longer seems necessary to make that all important decision to furnish your home entirely in traditional or contemporary pieces. Decorators and designers agree that good design of all periods can be successfully combined with taste and careful selection.

Don't throw away your treasured heirlooms if you decide to furnish your home with modern furniture. Use them as accent pieces to add a touch of warmth and individuality to your room. Conversely, if your home is a perfect example of American Colonial or romantic Victorian, the crisp contrast of modern may add that up-to-the-minute note of fashion.

Mix or match with taste and originality to make your home one of comfort and style.

Watch for a new fashion note in the traditional dark mahogany finishes. Lighter tones, revealing more of the natural grain of this fine wood appear in fall markets. Some woods which have been popular in very light bleached finishes are newest in warmer, natural tones.

Cherry and walnut, ever popular in provincial styles, are becoming favorites in contemporary styles. Several newly designed cherry groups are now to be seen in retail stores.

While deep toned woods will always be right for some rooms, the major fashion trend is to wall and floor coverings of lighter tones. The yellow-brown earth-toned palette is riding the crest of the fashion wave and carries with it accent colors of sharp orange-reds and yellow-greens. Warm, brown toned neutrals are high on the list as favorite background colors, with matching or contrasting values of the same hue as a floor covering color. Soft sage and avocado greens, autumn gold, russet spiced with bright copper and sunshine yellow give us a color palette drawn from the peaceful countryside.

For a daring scheme of truly high fashion, try a black and white background with accents of sharp spring green and lilac. Unless you have an unflinching sense of color and proportion, such a theme may be difficult to carry out successfully. Watch for its skilled application in your favorite stores and get the feel of this exciting combination before trying it in your home.

The well tailored look of tweed has invaded upholstered furniture fashions with new durability in wool, cotton and synthetic combinations. With our fashion wise eye focused on easy maintenance and longer wear, we greet this trend with great enthusiasm.

Be sure to look for the dramatic new casement fabrics which revolutionize window treatments. Instead of heavy draperies which expose all or shut out all the sunlight, these wonderfully porous fabrics give us privacy and allow the sunlight to filter through to flatter your room with soft diffusion.

Loose woven textures shot with metallic threads, fresh colors in nylon and orlon glass curtains, crisp, gauzy fabrics of linen like synthetic fibres—these and many more will inspire you to give your house new enchantment.

The right window treatment is as important to your house as the length of the skirt is to your new fall suit.

This year fashion says the right touch is the bright touch. The red copper or polished brass, the red of a fiery sun as it sinks to the horizon, a flash of yellow against soft brown. Use these exciting contrasts in lampshades, bright cushions and bric-a-brac to finish your scheme with a master's stroke.

Informality In Dining More Popular

Have you ever stopped to consider the amount of labor necessary to produce three daily meals with the old, customary table setting? No wonder yesterday's housewife had little energy left for the enjoyment of her family. Father had double trouble, too, employing stern discipline in the household in matters of prompt arrival and regular attendance.

The same time, the same place day in and day out. Little wonder the small fry tried to find excuses for a variation.

This is no longer the usual routine of the average American household. Today's clever housewife knows that good cheer is an important part of good digestion and takes advantage of new, easy ways to serve meals. Dishes and food are loaded onto a convenient tea cart and rolled easily to the most pleasant dining spot. It may be a sunny window, a warm fireplace or the cool shade of the old oak tree. Winter and summer alike, this buffet on wheels makes dining an event for the whole family. No longer does it require eight or ten trips to the kitchen just to clear the table since a quick stacking job will send the dishes back the way they came—on wheels.

Take advantage of every pleasant corner in your house and make meal time a gay time to enjoy your home and your family.

New Look Is Evident In Furniture

The American look is not only in evidence in soft floor coverings, with ranch house motifs, but also appears in the decorative appeal of more sophisticated designs and colors in hard surface floor coverings, too. Tile and texture have sharpened interest in 1951.

Wall papers this seasons high-light deep tones and are designed and colored for "wide open spaces" in the new homes. As in floor coverings, texture becomes more important.

Furniture, too, is being carefully planned for today's living. The development of a real American style is taking place in the Contemporary Modern field. Many of these pieces are merely simplification of old American pieces with the new materials and techniques being incorporated.

In design, the traditional emphasis is on elegance in woods, finishes, hardware. Much furniture is designed to fit in with television needs, now so much a part of the American home.

Summer furniture is designed for year round use and are made to be used indoors, as well as on the patio. In children's furniture, more emphasis is being placed on design and less on decoration as colors also take on character in the 1951 nursery versions.

Custom Tiles Bring Style To Flooring In Many Homes

Right down to the floors of her sunroom and kitchen, smart styling is coming to the Big Spring homemaker in the form of custom tiles.

Hard surface flooring is still another evidence of the trend toward informal living. In some homes it entirely replaces carpets and hardwood, and in others, it covers the floors of one or two rooms.

Traditional tile blocks are in for some changes. A trend has started to vary that style by rounding corners, alternating colors, and producing tile-within-tile and heavily textured effects. Thus, the custom look has come to tile.

Already, a marbleization process has been developed which more nearly imitates real marble. Stripes are designed in more sophisticated arrangements and colors. High fashion color interest will be found in combinations of chartreuse and cinnamon; beige, taupe and cocoa; black, gray and white; and stronger accenting of pastel shades. Soon to be available: abstract geometric patterns with a sculptured "shadowed" effect.

At present, the favored pattern in asphalt tiling is marbled. Solid patterns are available but because of a tendency to show tracks is less desirable.

Plastics are increasing on hard surface best-seller lists. Improved color effects, wearability and easy-to-clean factors are the reasons.

The more resilient of the hard surfaced coverings, cork and rubber, are extremely comfortable. Cork is first sanded, then finished and waxed. Easily kept, the cork blocks can be cleaned with a damp or dry mop and with a vacuum cleaner. The floor should be waxed periodically. Cork's natural color and softness are points in its favor.

Rubber flooring is extremely durable, easy to maintain, and, of course, very soft to the foot. It is laid in sheets 36 inches wide.

LAST OF KIN INDIAN CHIEF WEDS SOLDIER

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 6. —Cynthia Ann Parker, 18, great-granddaughter of Quannah Parker, last chief of the Comanche Indians, was married Wednesday to Julian Ramirez Baquera, 23, of Houston, a soldier stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

The bride is also a great-granddaughter of Cynthia Ann Parker, white captive of the Comanches, and Peta Nonas, Comanche chief, who was killed in a battle with Texas Rangers.

Trend Is To Light Colors

Present fashion trends show a strong preference for lighter wall colors in tones of beige, brown and green, of the sage family. These earthy tones, highlighted with bright rust and yellow, sharp orange and copper red make up the currently popular palette.

These are soft, easy-to-live-with background colors and have an unusual kinship for lovely polished wood, providing an extremely effective background for both dark and light furniture. Try matching or using a slightly deeper value of your wall color for your floor covering if you are proud of your furniture and would like it to be the most important part of your room scheme. Bright accents in sofa cushions or upholstery will play up your favorite pieces and add excitement to the room.

If you would like to create an illusion of separation between your living room and an adjoining dining area, use a different color of wallpaper. Be sure this color relates to the rest of your scheme. If you use a light beige wall in your living room, try a wallpaper with a matching beige background.

HARD LAUGHTER BRINGS A FALL

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 6. —A man was laughing so hard Thursday night in a downtown movie that the woman in front of him turned around to look.

Then she ran out and called the police — she had recognized him as a man wanted in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife.

Police said they arrested Ralph Rogers, 26, of Fort Wayne, on a manslaughter charge. He disappeared last Saturday shortly before the body of his 30-year-old wife, Rachel, was found in the basement of their home.

New Furniture Adaptable To Many Uses; Ideal For Your Future Home

The new 1951 fall furniture designs are extremely versatile and adaptable to many uses.

Items purchased today will be found ideal for the future home of tomorrow.

Every new homemaker is intensely interested in furniture with a future and one gets a sense of confidence when making a purchase that may be regarded as a treasured life-long piece.

With little promise of a change in the housing situation the problems of space planning continue to be a challenge to the home furnishings industry. Both for the bride in her one room apartment and the young mother with her fast-growing family in a small modern house, manufacturers and designers continue to produce adaptable multi-purpose pieces.

While new furniture is designed for the utmost utility, attractive styling is also a prime consideration, making it possible for the young homemaker to solve her present stringent space problem with furniture which will adapt handsomely to her dream house of tomorrow.

Consider dining and entertaining as related activities. Kitchen, dining table and some storage will relate specifically to these two activities.

In many one room apartments the kitchenette is so closely related to the living room that it immediately becomes part of your living room scheme. It may be separated only by a counter-like structure which will serve admirably as a breakfast bar or counter for buffet serving. Decorative cabinets of suitable height can form such a counter, with roomy storage below. In any case make your kitchenette as attractive as possible and be sure to relate its color scheme to that of the living room.

There are some wonderful tables which double as coffee and dining table, with expanding tops and variable heights. The always favorite drop-leaf or refectory table will serve admirably for either buffet serving or formal dining. Storage and dining table have been combined in a charming buffet unit.

All the space needed for silver, table linens and incidental serving pieces is contained in this convenient piece. The top opens to furnish adequate dining surface for two people and another leaf is concealed behind the cabinet. When completely extended this one unit also supplies a table suitable for a formal dinner.

Every year there are additional construction. There are new fabrics and new ideas on room arrangement to accommodate the ever increasing popularity of television. These new fashions in furniture and home furnishings are yours to see this week.

Modern Or Traditional — Each Has Ardent Supporters

Before making a major investment in that first important piece of furniture which will set the mood of things to come, consider the many design groups which make up the broad categories of traditional and contemporary styles.

Does the familiar warmth of Eighteenth Century or American Provincial furniture give you a sense of security and well being? If it feels like home to you, it is exactly the right choice.

On the other hand, you may find the greatest pleasure in the characteristically simple, clean lines of Modern. Its freedom and informality may provide just the atmosphere of serene simplicity needed for your thoughts and activities. Most popular among provincial styles are American and French Provincial.

American Provincial has its roots in our own history, expressing in its design the staunch practicality of our ancestors and utilizing woods which were native to their settlements along the Atlantic seaboard. These woods were predominantly maple and cherry. French Provincial came to us from the provinces of France where the country people modified the elegant styles of the French courts to suit their own informal but tasteful requirements. Their cabinet makers simplified the elaborate carving and adapted the formal designs in their beautiful native fruit woods and walnut.

Most familiar of all are the traditional designs of the eighteenth century, most often executed in dark, glowing mahogany. These charming styles were, for the most part, brought from England to furnish many of America's most gracious homes. Chippendale, Hepplewhite and Sheraton were England's great cabinetmakers in this fruitful era.

American cabinetmakers adapted elaborate English styles to suit the less lavish tastes of Colonial homes. Today we see these basically beautiful lines in furniture which has grown with America and become an integral part of her design history.

Our own Duncan Phyfe produced a great contribution to this rich heritage with his classic designs still popular in our homes today. The pedestal table and lyre back

Iron Willing To Use Mexican Technicians To Run Oil Industry

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6. —Iran's director of petroleum said Thursday his country would be glad to accept any aid Mexican technicians can give in operating the Iranian industry.

Jawad Khalili, chief of the Iranian Petroleum Bureau, said he had made no effort to obtain Mexican technicians to replace the British recently forced out of his country. He said he knew there are Mexicans who are willing to go.

19.5 Million Bales Of Cotton For Nation

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. — A cotton supply of 19.5 million bales will be available to the United States for the 1951-52 year, Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas Cotton Marketing Authority, predicted today.

He said substantially greater income from cotton and cottonseed will come to Texas this year because of the increase of about 3 million bales in the national supply.

Uranium Fields

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 6. — Two new uranium fields have been found in Chile, and the government is clamping down on their control, the government's General Secretary announced Thursday night.

The fields were found near Tambillo in Coquimbo Province and in the Carrizal Alto Atacama Province.

Two geologists of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission and a Chilean geologist made the find.

American Modern Continues To Gain Popularity With Home Planners

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

The American home is taking on a personality of its own. Designers and manufacturers, offering to homemakers correlated designs and colors, have awakened a desire for individuality. The home planner has many sources today from which to evolve ideas in relation to color and home furnishings.

Much new, functional furniture was shown during Home Fashion Time originated by the Home Fashions League four years ago in the effort to focus the spotlight on the American Home.

News from designers is heartening. Says Paul McCobb:

"Within five years we will have our own period rounded out. We are on the verge of it now. Hit-and-miss design which has made modern cold and stark on one hand, and warm on the other must be ironed out."

McCobb's theory is that designers such as himself will carry out their dictates not only through furniture but in lamps, carpets, ceramics, dinnerware and other home accessories. This is the only way, says McCobb, that we can establish ourselves as a period.

Says he:

"Every other period of history has been a complete design project. That is what we must do so there will no longer be so many variations of themes."

Harriet Sherry, dealer in antiques and reproductions, points out that today's contemporary furnishings are popular because many of them are adapted from the old.

Says she:

"If for no other reason than the fact that contemporary furniture mimics the old, antiques will be with us and be increasingly popular as time goes on."

As to color in the home, Frederic Rahr, color specialist sees an appetite for a wide variety of greens. People are less afraid of color than formerly, he notes, and there is a definite trend toward combining greens with terra cotta, gold and brown. Says he:

"Homemakers really became color conscious about 1946. At that time bright red, green and gray combinations entered the picture. Today, flame reds, yellow greens and deep greens are gaining in importance."

Table and dining room accessories have taken on gay color also. Says home accessories designer Carole Stupell:

"Today's bride doesn't use hand-me-downs. She veers away from stark white tablecloths and conventional china. Black and purple tableware and accessories are popular on many tables in America."

Miss Stupell predicts that it will not be long before we change our table appointments as often as we do our wardrobes.

Floor coverings designed for modern interiors show the influence of great-grandma's day. According to the experts, florals are more in the news than ever before and modern monotone patterns are being stressed. Finely woven cotton rugs with a wool feeling will solve many a problem for the homemaker on a budget. Braided, hooked and small accent rugs are very much in the current home furnishings picture also.

A recent survey of 6,000 decorators showed that 62 per cent of New Englanders still preferred wall-to-wall carpeting, 74 per cent of redecorated homes in the Central states use wall-to-wall floorings. In Southern states the preference was for rugs with the highly polished floor margin showing.

If storage space is important.

Rich Earth Tones Are Color Favorites

Nature has spilled her hoard of colors into the laps of home decorators this season. Rich earth tones, taken from woods, beaches and fields, are ready to redecorate homes from the living room to kitchen.

These new colors are named driftwood, sandalwood, gunmetal, pebble, dove gray and hot chocolate.

Other colors that will be splashed on with paint brushes this autumn are cherry, terra cotta, a rust; sprout, citron, lemon, sea and mustard, yellow tones; nasturtium; lead; bittergreen; willow; avocado; forest; peddle; carnation and flame. They are available in solid and printed fabrics, scenic wallpaper, furniture, rugs, table settings, kitchen equipment, lamps, blinds and accessories from ash trays to trivets.

The new blues are relaxed and have a greener tone. Cerulean and porcelain are pretty with dark wood, and French lilac adds a bit of spice to any room.

Yellows are more important now, too, sweeping wall surfaces and mixing well with earth browns.

Gunmetal and dove gray are soft, being used for all decorating jobs. These grays can be sparked with the new yellows, black and white or French lilac. Other bright, warm colors can be the change of pace for beiges and grays.

Each person really enjoys only about four or five colors. To use color adroitly requires study and a lot of common sense.

The amateur should choose his living room color scheme and carry these three or four colors throughout the house in varying shades. A coral can be picked up in another room as pink; a green can become an aqua. These delicate variations in color tones give a feeling of motion, of gliding through the house, and prevent jarring shocks.

Color, too, can solve the problem of what to do with traditional furniture in a modern home. A mahogany piano may be lacquered a forest green to blend in with the newer designs and wicker furniture might be painted in bright, warm colors and covered with plaids to make it look at home with the modern.

Color cannot be overlooked in decorating. The home decorator should use it wisely and, once sure of her taste, she can use it courageously.

For Rest And Relaxation

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomak, Jr., and their three young daughters, Kathleen, Cleo Rita and Nancy Jane, spend many pleasant hours in this den in their new home on Washington Blvd. The furniture was planned for comfort and easy upkeep. Wall above the red brick fireplace is gum plywood in bear claw finish.

Open Stock Pieces Solve Space And Budget Problems

Frequently faced with both living space and budget problems in furnishing a home, many young couples have found a solution in open stock collections of living room, dining room and bedroom furniture.

They plan carefully, debate each choice, add new pieces as circumstances will permit, steadily building toward the house of their desire.

Manufacturers now are making as many as 100, some even more, open stock pieces in coordinated groups. Not only may each piece be purchased singly, but more practical combinations for each house or apartment are possible. Most furniture stores make available, year after year, such open stock groupings, finishes and details remaining unchanged so that additional matching pieces can be added to the furniture originally selected.

Many of the pieces do double duty, or serve as inspiration for individuality in room arrangement. The chest used in the bedroom today may be equally as effective in the living room or the dining room next year.

The living room end tables, really bachelor's chests, may yet go into a bedroom or pair in a hallway arrangement.

Tomorrow's bedroom vanity could be the desk in the living room today.

The small dining table which has an expandable top may become a stationary card table with extra upholstered chairs added. Meanwhile, the unupholstered dining chairs may be doing double duty in the living room.

If storage space is important.

several chests may line up along a wall or serve as a room divider. If the dining room is too small for a buffet, a server can be used with a full size table until expansion is possible.

Or the sectional divan purchased for the first small home may be lengthened for the large new living room with additional straight or curved sections of the same depth and height. New covers will unify the grouping.

May Take Presidency

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 6. (AP)—A Presbyterian minister here says he will accept the presidency of Trinity University at San Antonio, if his congregation approves. He is Dr. James W. Laurie, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church for nine years. He said Thursday night he had been offered the job.

Make Living Room Activity Center By Planning For Families' Hobbies

Is your living room the "Great Room" in your house? Is it the center of family gatherings, entertaining, homework and other individual pursuits?

In spite of careful planning of work centers in other rooms of the house, we often find that our gregarious family prefers the friendly companionship of the living room.

Although this is not always the case, it is best to build insurance against cluttered confusion when furnishing this important room. It may be small, when considered in the light of its many functions, but the ingenious design of today's furniture makes it possible to fulfill many requirements in a limited area.

Every living room needs a convenient storage piece for the games, pencils, papers, and entertaining accessories which are indispensable to a comfortable evening. If your space is limited, one of the charming bachelor chests with a pull-out shelf will combine a useful writing or game surface with the storage piece.

More than likely if you have but one desk or writing surface in your living room you will find it much in demand. A permanent card table corner will act as an additional work area and will avoid the chaos which usually results from temporary solutions.

Arrange your room to include two or more centers of activity and you will find its busy schedule less wearing. With the advent of television we have begun to recognize the value of mobile furniture. Swivel bases and concealed wheels make it possible to re-arrange conversation centers without the help of several strong men.

Plan your room in a fashion which will permit separate, simultaneous activities, by moving a few mobile pieces you can be made into a large conversational group for entertaining. Section units can make such flexibility practical even in a small room.

It may be that the living room must also serve as a guest room on some occasions. Here we find the best kinds of dual-purpose design with attractive sofas and comfortable lounge chairs concealing excellent beds. It is no longer a necessary evil to introduce this added convenience into your living room. The new pieces are not bulky or hard to manipulate, but can be made up and reassembled with the greatest facility and speed. Consider the possibility of a tall flexible screen to assure your guests' privacy.

Keep the furniture light in weight and scale for a small room. Good proportioning is all-important in avoiding an atmosphere of confusion and disorder. Many new designs are available which supply maximum comfort with minimum bulk. More exposed wood parts, trim tailoring and small scaling characterize pieces designed especially to solve space problems.

Of course, if you are one of those with a fortunately large living room, there are wonderfully long sofas and oversized chairs of magnificent depth and grand scale. Consider the foyer as a possible location for a small chest or cabinet. Too often, the entrance hall is overlooked as a useful and attractive space. Don't neglect its decorative value, since it is the point of first impression for your guests.

Seating, storage, study, recreation and entertainment — these are the major activities centered in your "Great Room." Other rooms are tributaries to the flow of life which centers here. Give it your best thought, and plan in advance for order and efficiency as well as an attractive and comfortable environment.

Drawers In New Wardrobe Swing

A new wardrobe has been designed for youngsters. Just high enough for children to reach, the wardrobe has two closet bins and two deep drawers made of durable hardboard. These swing in or out at a child's touch. Matching pieces of juvenile furniture have been designed with the wardrobe and all are painted in bright, contrasting colors.

Each drawer is painted a different color. Designers point out that this innovation teaches the child to keep his toys, clothes in systematic order through color association.

Metallics Are Popular

The glint of metal in wallpaper and fabrics brings a contemporary sparkle to the decorative scheme of this small French Provincial room. Tomato red, blue and white with gold accents comprise the color scheme. The love seat is covered in a moss fringed textured material, the ottomans in a metallic fabric. And the hutch and tables are in honey color cherry wood.

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
by Harold R. Foster

Synopsis: SIR GAWAIN FINDS A STOUT SHIP AS HE HAS PROMISED AND A CREW OF HARDY ORKNEY MEN TO SAIL IT AND ALL IS READY. THEN THE WILD STORM GODS RIDE THE WINDS AND VEX THE SEA UNTIL IT ROARS IN FURY AGAINST THE ROCK-BOUND SHORE. PRINCE VALIANT PACES THE CLIFFS IMPATIENTLY, FOR THROUGH THE THUNDER OF THE STORM HE SEEMS TO HEAR THE VOICE OF ALETA CALLING HIM HOME!

AT LAST THE STORM SPENDS ITS ANGER AND THE SHIP PUTS OUT TO SEA. WARILY THEY SAIL THROUGH THE ORKNEYS, THEN PAST THE FAIR ISLE WITH ITS CLOUDS OF SEA BIRDS. THE SHETLANDS APPEAR, THEN FALL BEHIND, AND THEY ARE ON THE WIDE AND EMPTY SEA.

DAYS PASS WHILE THEY RACE BEFORE THE SOUTH-WEST WINDS. THEN THE LOFTY CRAGS OF HOME APPEAR ALL AGLOW IN THE SUNSET AND THE SHIP PUTS OUT TO SEA AGAIN, FOR THE COAST OF SCANDIA IS TOO PERILOUS TO APPROACH AT NIGHT.

ONCE MORE VAL TREADS THE SOIL OF THULE. A MESSENGER IS SENT TO THE KING, AND GAWAIN'S BROTHER, SIR GAWAIN'S BROTHER, IS INTRODUCED TO THE JARLS AND THANES TO TRY AND ESTABLISH PEACEFUL TRADE WITH ORKNEY.

ALL THE LAND IS BRIGHT WITH SPRING, JUST AS IT WAS A YEAR AGO WHEN VAL BEGAN THIS JOURNEY. BUT HE HAS NO EYE FOR BEAUTY, SOMETHING IS CALLING HIM ONWARD.

WHEN HIS FATHER'S CASTLE APPEARS HIS MEN ARE FAR BEHIND. HIS MOUNT SPENT, FEARFUL NOW, HE PRESSES FORWARD.

NEXT WEEK—Deep Mystery.
