Pampa, Texas

50c DAILY/SUNDAY $1

Low tonight in mid 20s.
High tomorrow in mid 30s. See Page 2 for weather details.

PAMPA — Culberson Stowers Inc., 805 N. Hobart, will be showing top racing machines and holding other activities Friday and Saturday in observance of its 70th anniversary.

On display in the GM showroom will be Jay Sauter's #3 Chevrolet pickup and Dale Earnhardt's #3 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, a Silver Monte Carlo and the Stars and Stripes Anniversary Monte Carlo.

"Pokey the Clown," sponsored by High Country Chevrolet Dealers, will be on hand to greet people. The Pampa Evening Lions Club will sponsor the popular Kiwanis train rides for kids, and the Pampa Swim Team will have a concession stand.

There also will be prizes and collectibles, with the whole family invited to attend the firm's anniversary activities Friday and Saturday.

PAMPA — The Cub Scout pinewood derby will once again be sponsored by Culberson-Stowers.

The race will be held Saturday, April 12, at the Culberson-Stowers showroom from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in conjunction with the auto dealership's 70th anniversary activities.

For more information on the derby, contact Doug Cooper at 669-2959 or Michelle Gilliland at 665-8061.

PAMPA — Entries are still being taken for the upcoming Top O' Texas Trade Days events set for May 3-4 at Recreation Park and the rodeo grounds.

Events include a chili cookoff, a brisket cookoff, arts and crafts booths and team penning competition.

For more information on booth space or registering for the cookoffs and team roping, call 669-3241.

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for a $4 million Lotto Texas jackpot, state lottery officials said.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 14, 20, 22, 34, 41 and 44.

There were 94 tickets purchased matching five of the six numbers with a prize each of $1,525. Matching four of six numbers were 4,838 tickets, winning $107 each.

Saturday night's drawing will be worth an estimated $9 million.

House rejects juvenile stop, search plan

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House has rejected a proposal, backed by the governor, to allow police officers to search some juveniles without probable cause or reasonable suspicion.

An amendment to a House bill offered on Wednesday would have allowed police officers to stop and search juveniles if they knew:

- The juveniles' names.
- That the juveniles were on probation for gun-related crimes.

The juveniles' probation orders required them to submit to searches.

Police would not have been required to have reasonable suspicion or probable cause to initiate the searches. Such requirements are standard for most searches, although some are allowed without reasonable suspicion or probable cause.

"We're not creating a broad and sweeping search for police officers to harass our children," Rep. Ray Allen, R-Grand Prairie, sponsor of the amendment, argued. "This has a rehabilitative service. It serves the public interest and protects the public's safety."

The House voted 89-58 Wednesday not to add the amendment to the bill.

Five Democrats voted for the amendment. Fifteen Republicans voted against it. Two Democrats, Reps. Ciro Rodriguez, of San Antonio, and Mark Stiles, of Beaumont, were absent and Speaker Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, did not vote.

Allen argued that juveniles age 15 to 19 have the most arrests of any age group for the most serious crimes including murder, rape and robbery. He said the bill would help protect the public and protect the juveniles from themselves "as they gain wisdom."

But Rep. Sylvester Turner, D-Houston, argued that the measure would dangerously expand police searches.

"It is an open-ended search of juveniles across the state," he said. "Are you not one step removed from allowing police officers to search adults for any reason? If this amendment is good enough for juveniles, why is it not good enough for adults?"

Allen said the amendment was narrowly tailored and would not be expanded to adults or children not on probation.

Constitutional experts earlier told lawmakers that the provision would be unconstitutional.

The bill Allen tried to amend, given preliminary approval by a voice vote, would allow parole officers to search parolees for weapons without suspicion. It also would allow school officials or police officers to search any students on campus or at school-sponsored events if they had reason to believe the student had a weapon or had violated a law.

Students on probation for gun-related offenses also could be searched by their probation officers without suspicion under the bill.

The bill requires final House approval before going to the Senate.

"Texas needs tough tools to fight gangs and keep guns out of the hands of violent juveniles," Gov. George W. Bush said Wednesday. "This bill is step in the right direction ... I believe we should go even farther by giving police on the street the right to stop and frisk for weapons known juvenile offenders."

The stop and search bill is HB278.

Senior party committee members Gayle Curtis, treasurer; Debbie Cagle, chairman; and Melissa Garner, parent member, review the necessary permits for the All Night Senior Party which will be held May 30 at the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and Civic Center.

PHS senior parents busy planning for annual all-night party activities

High school graduation, with all the pomp and excitement of a major milestone deserves, is often followed by something else — the disaster of an accident caused by the use of drugs, alcohol and a motor vehicle.

The Pampa High School Senior Parents and Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission are working separately to guarantee all seniors have a safe and memorable graduation celebration that they can remember for years.

The Pampa Senior Parents are sponsoring a drug-free, alcohol-free all-night senior party at M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium and Civic Center.

Gayle Curtis, party treasurer, said, "This is a safe way for our graduating class to enjoy their graduation bash, without the worry of alcohol or drugs ruining the night."

All seniors and their dates are invited to attend, but participants need to know that once they leave, they can't come back in.

The party, which begins at 11 p.m. May 30, will run through the night till 5 a.m. with a grand prize of $500 being given away at that time.

Other prizes include a TV/VCR, CD player, dorm refrigerator, word processor and CASH.

The parents have organized casino night games, putt-putt darts, a dance contest and various other amusements including performances by the High School Faculty.

Parents are asked to send a "precious" baby picture of their senior for a special event.

Food, games and fun will be provided. All that's needed is the Senior Class.

For party questions, call Debbie Cagle at 665-7334. Celebrating seniors making use of party arrangements in hotels and motels need to be advised that undercover TABC agents will be stationed in many hotels across the state, spotting underage drinkers.

TABC officials wouldn't say which hotels will be under surveillance, but they did say it won't be just the larger hotels being watched, but also local facilities where alcohol might be purchased.

TABC administrator Doyme Bailey said, "By working with the members of the Hotel and Motel Association, the alcoholic beverage industry, MADD and other groups, we hope to heighten the awareness of dangers associated with underage drinking."

"The basic purposed of this operation is to ensure that this milestone is safe and sober occasion, which they can treasure for a long time," he continued.

Latest cold front may bring snow to Texas Panhandle areas

Despite a 40 degree low this morning in Pampa, snow is still in the forecast.

Temperatures were warmer this morning in Pampa at 6 a.m., but fog and drizzle still plagued driving conditions on Panhandle highways.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported foggy conditions across the Panhandle, but said the roads were not slick. The National Weather Service issued a dense fog advisory through mid-morning today for much of the Texas Panhandle. A winter storm watch was issued for northeast New Mexico. That snow is expected to reach into the Texas Panhandle tonight.

At 6 a.m. today, Panhandle reported fog. Hemphill County authorities said it was cold in Canadian with mist and light rain falling. Wheeler County officials said an early morning fog there was beginning to lift.

Amarillo reported 39 degrees at 6 a.m. There was drizzle and fog in Dumas with a temperature of 37 degrees. Dalhart reported cloudy skies and 39 degrees. Lubbock was cloudy and 54 degrees.

The forecast for Pampa and the eastern Texas Panhandle is for cloudy and cool conditions today with high temperatures reaching 48 degrees this afternoon before falling as another cold front moves through the area.

Pampa residents can expect drizzle with a 50 percent of showers and thunderstorms this afternoon and northeast winds to 25 miles an hour. It should be cloudy tonight and colder with a low of 25 degrees and more rain with snow possible along with northeast winds to 15 miles an hour.

Friday, the weather should be cloudy with a high of 35 degrees and a 30 percent chance of rain. The forecast is for continued cloudy skies Saturday with a chance of rain and a high of 40 degrees. It should be partly sunny Sunday with a high of 55 and a low of 35 degrees.

There should be sunshine Monday with a high of 60 and a low of 38 degrees.

Pampa received 0.10 of an inch of moisture for the past 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today.

A flare up there Scientists are getting their first detailed look at a solar flare.

A solar flare occurs when magnetic energy that has built up in the sun's atmosphere is suddenly released. The energy is 10 million times greater than the energy of a volcanic explosion. Radiation is emitted into the atmosphere, and a small part falls to earth.

The flare that erupted Monday is relatively small and weak. A large flare can:

1. Damage satellites
2. Disrupt radio and telephone communications
3. Cause power surges and blackouts

Solar flares show high-tech vulnerability

NEW YORK (AP) — Television sets going blank. A city hit by electrical blackout.

Those are the kinds of disruptions that can result from an unusual extraterrestrial event like Wednesday's: A wave of energy from a solar flare invading the atmosphere, threatening satellites and other high-tech equipment.

Scientists explained that the energy wave was moderate in size, producing dramatic pictures taken by a new satellite but only a small amount of geomagnetic radiation reaching the planet.

That the latest wave to hit the Earth didn't mar our lives may be more luck than technological savvy.

Scientists warn there's a danger in relying too much on sensitive micro-electronics, especially thumbnail-sized microprocessor chips, to run everything from computers to cellular phones.

"Our technologies have become more sophisticated, and we've become more vulnerable over time," said Louis Lanzerotti, a technology expert for Bell Labs, the research arm of Lucent Technologies. "The danger to the chips is unpredictable."

In March 1989, fallout from a solar flare caused the largest geomagnetic storm in 30 years. It knocked out a power grid in Quebec for nine hours. Parts of the power grid in the northeastern United States also experienced brief disruptions.

No satellites were damaged by that event, but geomagnetic storms were blamed for failure of a weather satellite in 1994 and of a telephone communications satellite last January.

Still, businesses dependent on satellites said Wednesday they weren't overly concerned. The hundreds of orbiting satellites have built in safeguards to protect against damage to solar panels, which gather energy to power the spacecraft. Operators also can turn panels away from the sun.

Companies also make routine contingency plans. The Associated Press had staff on standby Wednesday night and made sure its satellite operators were prepared. If a satellite went dead, AP's backup plans included switching to an unaffected satellite, or shifting transmissions of news, photos and graphics to ground-based systems.

"Because we depend so heavily on satellites, anytime there's anything unusual going on with them we watch it very carefully," said John Reid, AP's director of communications and technology.

For scientists, the excitement was that pictures taken by the space agency's SOHO satellite detected the wave moving across the sun's gaseous surface "like a tsunami tidal wave," said NASA's chief scientist on the SOHO satellite, Art Poland.

"That's the first time we have seen the shock wave," Poland said he and his colleagues hesitated even to announce the flare because of its ordinary size, but he said the dramatic images from the new satellite led to the space agency's release of information.

Obituaries

DOROTHY JOSEPHINE PODZEMNY
AMARILLO - Dorothy Josephine Podzemny, 70, mother of a Canadian resident and sister of a Pampa resident, died Wednesday, April 9, 1997. Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Trinity Fellowship Church with Phil Mercado, minister, officiating. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery under the direction of Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors of Amarillo.

Mrs. Podzemny was born at Mobeetie. She had been an Amarillo resident since 1939. She married Edgar Podzemny in 1948 at Clovis, N.M. She was a homemaker and a member of Trinity Fellowship Church.

Survivors include her husband, Edgar; three sons, Eddie Podzemny of Amarillo, Richard Podzemny of Canadian and Mike Podzemny of Odessa; three sisters, Nellie Fultz of Dumas, Daisy Black of Amarillo and Mavis Ludwig of Corpus Christi; three brothers, Jewell May of Pampa, Kenneth May of Iowa and R.P. May of Amarillo; and seven grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be to Baptist St. Anthony's Hospice and Life Enrichment Center, P.O. Box 950, Amarillo, TX 79176-0001.

Ronnie Louis Atkinson, 27, 400 E. Foster, was arrested on a charge of telephone harassment. He was released on bond.

Fargo steps up action against floodwaters

FARGO, N.D. (AP) - People in North Dakota's largest city stepped up their flood-fighting, rushed by a prediction that the swollen Red River will crest more than a foot higher than expected.

Volunteers met at the Fargo Civic Center, where they were stuffed onto buses and hauled to riverside neighborhoods to add more sandbags to dikes that residents had believed were high enough to hold back the water.

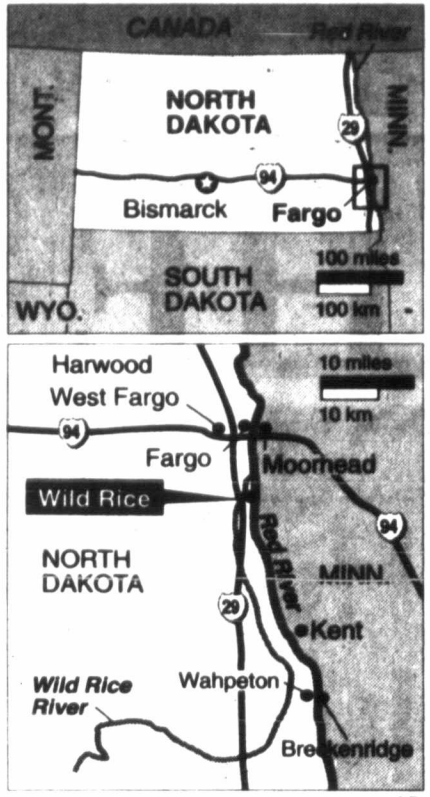

"It's not going well at all," said a hurried Troy Krabbenhoft, whose back yard was under water. "They're talking about a lot more water."

The National Weather Service raised its projected crest of the Red River, expected late today or early Friday, to 39 1/2 feet, 1 1/2 feet higher than earlier predictions. The Red River rose to 36.8 feet this morning, up more than 1 foot since Wednesday afternoon. Flood stage is 17 feet.

Some residents who had thought they wouldn't have to build dikes at all were scrambling Wednesday.

"We've never been flooded before, so I felt we would be OK," said Randy Naslund. He was at his office when he heard the latest crest projection, then immediately went home to save his house.

By the time he arrived, Naslund said, volunteers were streaming into his neighborhood. By afternoon, an assembly line of 20 people was in his yard.

In Kent, Minn., a pregnant woman and her 3-year-old daughter managed to escape out a window after their car plunged into a flood-swollen creek, but they died from exposure as they tried to walk for help.

"She just walked and fell to the ground, couldn't make it anymore, I guess," said Sheriff Tom Matejka. The sheriff said Pamela Jean Wagner, 29, carried her daughter, Victoria, about a mile after the Tuesday night accident but apparently were unable to find a place to cross the creek. Their bodies were found Wednesday afternoon.

At Harwood, N.D., a rural community that sits between the Red and Sheyenne rivers eight miles north of Fargo, a dike was built weeks ago but virtually everyone was on flood duty Wednesday.

Ruby Zvirovski, who was sandbagging her home about 500 yards west of the Red River, said she didn't want to get any nearer - even just to look.

"I don't want to see it," she said. "When it comes across the fields, I'll see it soon enough."

The situation was less grave in southern Minnesota along the lower Minnesota River, where flood-control structures are extensive and most people live outside the flood's direct path.

"Our sandbags held," said Mary Ellen Domeier of New Ulm, whose home sits along the Minnesota River. "It's sunny today in more ways than one."

Surplus nuke weapons parts delivered to Pantex

AMARILLO (AP) - The U.S. Energy Department says it has started the transfer of weapons-grade plutonium into the Pantex Plant.

The first shipment of weapons components, called pits, arrived last month from the Rocky Flats Environmental Technology Site in Colorado, Pantex spokesman Tom Walton said Wednesday.

Walton refused to specify when the first shipment arrived, how large it was, how many more are planned and when they're scheduled.

However, an Energy Department statement issued Wednesday said it was the first of several shipments planned for the next two years to transfer the hollow plutonium globes from Rocky Flats to Pantex.

When imploded, the plutonium globes fuel the chain reaction of a thermonuclear explosion.

Nuclear weapons production at Rocky Flats was declared ended in 1992 after the collapse of the former Soviet Union.

The transfer is part of a $2.3 billion strategy to concentrate plutonium stores at Pantex and at Savannah River Site in South Carolina. Highly enriched uranium will continue to be stored at the government's Y-12 Plant in Tennessee.

The DOE said Rocky Flats is shipping the plutonium out to allow faster cleanup and shutdown of the facility, as well as consolidation of the material in one spot - Pantex.

"This is a crucial step in our nation's effort to safely manage the legacy of the Cold War," said Energy Secretary Federico Pena. "We're removing weapons components from Rocky Flats, and their close proximity to the Denver metropolitan area, and putting them in a facility specifically designed for safe and secure storage."

The Energy Department says it will dispose of the radioactive metal in two ways: immobilization in glass or ceramic and burning it as a mixed oxide fuel. No decision has been announced on which method, if any, would be employed at Pantex.

Pantex critics fear the DOE has not thoroughly thought out the transfer plan and that the shipments will lock the government into unpleasant options later.

"We've always opposed off-site shipments coming to Pantex, particularly since they have not yet chosen the site where the processing will take place," said Beverly Gattis, president of the Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping, which opposes Pantex expansion to handle such processing.

"It would be better to keep the plutonium where it is until final provisions have been made for its final disposal, she said.

"It's better to just keep them in place and not take transportation risks," Ms. Gattis said.

Record rains pose hordes of insect pests

DALLAS (AP) - They send kids running inside on warm Texas summer days, ruin poolside family reunions and hamper outdoor barbecues - and this year they're back with a vengeance.

Researchers say record rains will mean thousands of blood-thirsty mosquitoes are poised to invade Texas cities.

And while the little bugs are usually just an itchy nuisance, health officials say the pests can carry diseases like encephalitis that make the population boom a serious health threat.

"If you're a mosquito you couldn't ask for a better year than this one," said Jim Olson, an entomologist at Texas A&M University. "Heavy rains have left a lot of stagnant water and that's where many mosquitoes lay their eggs."

The larger threat, Olson said, comes from flood water mosquitoes, which lay eggs in or near depressions in the ground in anticipation that rain will flood the areas.

Olson says that for two years, thousands of eggs from the flood water species have been dormant in Texans' yards, drainage pipes and community parks - waiting for a spring like this one.

"I call them instant mosquitoes ... just add water," Olson said. "And the past few months have added plenty of water."

Services pending for man killed in Spearman accident

SPEARMAN - Two men were in good condition today in a Perryton Hospital while funeral services were pending for a third following a one-vehicle rollover near Spearman Wednesday morning.

Services were pending today for Colby Schroeder, 23, of Red River, N.M., with Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home in Spearman after the pickup he was driving slid on wet pavement and rolled on a farm to market road northeast of here early Wednesday morning. Leslie Born, 34, of Perryton,

In Houston, R.P. Jones, an entomologist working for the city's Mosquito Control Department, is preparing to lead a public and private war against the insect invasion.

Every morning he walks out of his suburban home, swatting away mosquitoes before heading to work to direct 30 vehicles and 60 workers in the fight to control the pests.

"We're already getting swamped with citizen complaints and we know this summer is going to be worse," he said. "It's going to be a war - and unfortunately the enemy is designed for survival."

Usually, South Texas cities like Corpus Christi, Victoria and Laredo get hit hardest by mosquitoes. But this year, because of heavy rains, North Texas cities may be worse off.

The sprays commonly used to fog neighborhoods require the tiny insecticide droplets to come into direct contact with the insects and killing them. But this year, Texans will hold fate in their own hands.

"Now is the time to start emptying out dog bowls, cleaning drainage pipes and throwing out old plants," Olson said.

Although mosquitoes are leading the charge, the wet breeding grounds are resulting in a predictable parade of fire ants, black fleas, fleas, outdoor cockroaches and termites.

F. Bradleigh Vinson, a fire ant specialist at Texas A&M University, said Texans can expect the fight against the perennial picnic spoilers will be especially tough to fight this season.

"Fire ants do well in wet conditions because the soil is easier for them to till, making production of their mounds easier," Vinson said. "The water also carries ants to places where they shouldn't be and they develop new colonies."

Meanwhile, several species of termites are taking advantage of the moisture to lay their claim.

The voracious, rapidly multiplying Formosan termites have been identified as a problem in all five Gulf Coast States. As they leave wooden walls to set up new colonies, their swarms look like a cloud of dust from a distance.

The termite clouds already have led dozens of people to B&G Chemical in Dallas.

"People are coming in to try to get rid of the flying ones without realizing that the flying ones mean their walls must be infested," said John Villareal, an employee of the insecticide business.

The only people who may not be bugged this summer are exterminators and insect specialists.

"If you work at a store that sells 'Off' you'll probably have record profits," Jones said.

and Daryle Brown, 23, of Red River, passengers in the pickup, were reported in good condition today in Ochiltree General Hospital in Perryton with cuts and bruises.

Department of Public Safety trooper said Schroeder died at the scene of the accident shortly before 2 a.m. Wednesday. Schroeder was pronounced dead at the scene by Hansford County Justice of the Peace Michele Davis.

Officers said the 1997 Chevrolet pickup was south-bound on FM 3214 and went into a right hand curve at a high rate of speed. The pickup went off the road on the left hand side, then the driver apparently over-corrected, sliding sideways to the right and rolling four times before coming to rest upright. DPS troopers said the driver was ejected.

Authorities said Schroeder was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident. Officers said both Born and Brown were wearing their seat belts.

Troopers said a light mist was falling at the time of the accident.

State briefs

Hessian flies causing problems for wheat growers

MELVIN, Texas (AP) — Hessian flies, brought to America by Hessians during the Revolutionary War, have made their way to Central Texas and are affecting this year's wheat crop in varying degrees, a state agriculture official says.

Jerry Kidd, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service agent in McCulloch County, said all 40,000 acres of wheat planted in his area is affected to some extent by the larvae.

Although the adult flies don't do any damage, the larvae or young they leave behind can render a wheat field almost useless, he said.

Some damage has also been reported by farmers in Concho, Brown, Coleman and Schleicher counties.

David Holubec, who farms near Melvin in McCulloch County, was frustrated a couple of weeks ago because his crop wasn't growing like it should with the amount of fertilizer and rain it had received.

He found the little white larvae feeding at the base of the stem.

Holubec also said some of the damaged plants have what appeared to be some type of root rot.

Chris Sansone, extension entomologist, said that probably was caused by a secondary problem that entered the fields after the Hessian fly damage.

Mike Zapp, a marketing specialist for AgriPro Seeds, said although some fields are infested, a potential for some normal, full-seed heads remains if the main plant stem isn't damaged.

'Heartbreak Hotel' co-writer Mae Boren Axton dead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mae Boren Axton, a Texas native who co-wrote Heartbreak Hotel for Elvis Presley and was known as a guardian angel to struggling songwriters, is dead at age 82.

Axton's body was found Wednesday in the hot tub of her Hendersonville home by a boarder, said David McCormick, a friend and manager of the Ernest Tubb Record Shop.

Hendersonville police would not confirm Axton's death pending notification of next of kin, but acknowledged they answered a call at the home involving a fatality.

"She was always helping struggling artists, struggling songwriters," McCormick said. "Trying to get them a record deal, a publisher's deal, whatever."

Axton, the mother of songwriter-actor Hoyt Axton, had a large tumor near her pancreas removed last year at the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville, Fla., McCormick said. Another friend, Rose Drake, said she had been feeling poorly in recent weeks and planned to undergo some medical tests.

The team is coached by Kaylia Wilmeth.

Man pleads guilty to shooting at Green Beret

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A man's admission that he shot at a Green Beret in a confrontation along the Rio Grande will not quell calls to prohibit troops from manning the border, an immigrant rights advocate says.

"This incident could have been avoided entirely," said Jonathan Jones, coordinator for the Valley Coalition for Justice. "The enforcement policy encourages conditions whereby violent incidents can occur."

Cesario Vasquez Acuna, 30, of Matamoros, Mexico, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of assaulting a federal officer and carrying a firearm during the commission of a federal crime.

In return for the guilty plea, prosecutors dismissed additional charges of attempted murder and of being in the country illegally with a weapon.

Vasquez, who is scheduled to be sentenced June 19, faces up to 15 years in prison and a $500,000 fine.

Vasquez was accused of shooting at Army Sgt. Christopher Lemmen during a late-night confrontation near the Rio Grande on Jan. 24. Lemmen is a member of a six-man Army Special Forces team that was conducting narcotics surveillance on the border.

Prosecutors said Vasquez had just crossed the river illegally when he and some others stumbled upon the soldiers. The group was told to halt, but instead retreated back into the brush.

A few moments later, the group charged the soldiers. Vasquez shot at Lemmen, who returned fire with an M-16 rifle, wounding Vasquez in the shoulder. Lemmen was not injured.

Before pleading guilty, Vasquez said he fired at Lemmen because he thought he was an assailant. He said he was carrying a .38-caliber revolver because he had been robbed along the river six months earlier.

"It was due to fear, due to the robbers," he said.

However, Assistant U.S. Attorney Mervyn Mosbacher, noting that Vasquez had been ordered to halt, said the defendant "forcibly assaulted" the soldier.

"He knew what he was doing," Mosbacher said.

The shooting drew sharp criticism from immigrant rights advocates such as Jones, who argue that using troops along the border is a call for violence.

However, Mosbacher said Vasquez's admission of guilt shows that Lemmen and his unit acted appropriately.

"Given the circumstances, the soldiers acted with remarkable restraint," he said, adding that Vasquez also appeared to threaten another group of soldiers and again ignored orders to halt before he was arrested.

Lemmen, when asked about the criticisms regarding troops on the border, responded: "It's legal, and it's obviously good training for us."

Lemmen's unit, based in Fort Campbell, Ky., was assisting the Border Patrol in an anti-drug surveillance operation when the shooting occurred.

Attorney: State divorce law targets low income Texans

AUSTIN (AP) — Low-income Texans could be hardest hit by a bill that would limit no-fault divorces for couples with children, a lawyer testified in a House committee.

Court fees for a no-fault divorce are approximately $150, said Austin attorney Shannon Noble. A conservative estimate of the cost of a divorce in which fault must be proved is between $5,000 and $10,000, she said.

Ms. Noble testified Wednesday against a bill by Rep. Arlene Wohlgenuth that would prohibit no-fault divorces unless one spouse or a member of the family has a protective order. Such court orders can be issued to protect someone in cases of family violence.

The House Juvenile Justice and Family Issues committee took no action on the bill.

Current law allows a divorce with only one party's consent and a 60-day waiting period. No reason has to be given for the divorce.

The bill would require both parties' consent and, if they are not the parents of children younger than 18, a one-year waiting period.

If the couple has children or only one party consents, a divorce could only be granted upon a finding of fault — cruelty, adultery, felony conviction, abandonment, living apart or confinement to a mental hospital.

"This could be called the Private Investor's Employment Act," Noble said. "I think there's a lot of cases of divorce without stepping into grounds of fault within Texas law."

Wohlgenuth, R-Burleson, has said she introduced the legislation to make sure the institution of marriage is not taken lightly, not to trap people in bad or abusive marriages.

"When the law leans toward the one who wants to leave and without a reason, it tends to encourage people not to work through this," said Maggie Gallagher of the Institute of American Values in New York, who supported the bill.

Ms. Gallagher said that nearly every state has no-fault divorces and if Wohlgenuth's bill passed it would be the first such legislation in the nation.

"The state of Texas would be doing the nation a favor if it made the more dramatic move (of limiting no-fault divorces)," Ms. Gallagher said. "We don't want a system that makes (divorce) look easier."

The divorce limits bill is HB323.

Rhythm in Shoes to perform in Community Concert show

Exciting toe-tapping rhythms and dances by Rhythm in Shoes Company are expected to delight Pampa and Borger Community Concert Associations at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 14, in the Borger High School Auditorium.

The seven dancers and five musicians present dances in the traditions of American, English and Irish step styles as well as tap dancing and modern dances to introduce a new rhythm form.

Attendance is by membership in the Pampa and Borger associations and by reciprocal agreements with associations in Plainview and Hereford.

Rhythm in Shoes brings a variety of music, including blues, old time, ragtime and movement styles — modern, creative, traditional — all reinforced by themes ranging from spiritual, political and social.

These dancers combine the precision of clogging and step dancing with body movements and ensemble patterns that shift from circles to solos with breathtaking ease.

ACE Award

Jeane Roper Autry, director of the Gray County Community Supervision and Corrections Department, receives the ACE Award from Jim Scott, president of the Texas Probation Association, during a recent association meeting. Ms. Autry received the award for her service to the association and the field of criminal justice. She has been a member of the Texas Probation Association for 19 years. She has been director of the Gray County CSCD for 10 years and has served on the Texas Probation Association Legislative Committee, for the adult discipline, for five years. Her department serves the 31st and 223rd Judicial District Courts and Gray County Court.

Social Security pulls personal records from web site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security officials pulled the plug on an Internet site that provided individual earnings and retirement benefit records and decided to begin asking Americans whether such information should be available online and, if so, how much.

"For the next 60 days we will be conducting public forums in Washington and across the country on the issue," said John J. Callahan, acting commissioner of Social Security who said he personally will be involved in the effort.

The Social Security Administration on Wednesday suspended an online service that allowed people to retrieve their personal Social Security records because it raised privacy concerns.

"The Internet is a new world and we want to make sure we can provide the highest level of security for our beneficiaries and our workers," Callahan said.

The agency will consider whether new safeguards are needed for the Internet service, including possibly giving people personal access codes or allowing them to request that their individual records not be placed in the database.

Social Security's entire Internet site will be inaccessible for two or three days while the database is being disabled, but general information and documents about the nation's retirement program will be back on line soon.

Then taxpayers will be able to request information about their personal records through electronic mail to the agency, but reports will be sent through regular mail rather than via the Internet.

Callahan said requests from lawmakers, questions raised by computer experts, and telephone calls from the public persuaded him to pull the fully automated version of the service.

Sens. William Roth, R-Del., and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., led a bipartisan group of colleagues who wrote to the agency saying the online service "may not afford sufficient protections against violations of individual privacy."

Rep. Jim Bunning, R-Ky., chairman of the House's subcommittee on Social Security, asked for a security report to his panel by April 22, and Rep. Paul Kanjorski, D-Pa., said he will sponsor legislation to ban information about individuals' earnings, tax records and Social Security benefits on the Internet.

The Social Security Administration has offered people access to their earnings and benefits reports for more than a decade if they sign and mail in a paper request form. Between three million and four million Americans a year do so, and about six months ago the agency began accepting electronic mail requests.

Constituents can send messages to Thornberry on Internet

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry (TX-13) announced that he can now be reached on the Internet using a relatively new online service for people interested in contacting their elected representative in Congress.

The service is called Write Your Representative. Developed last year as a way to meet the demands of the information age, Write Your Representative can be found on the homepage of the U.S. House of Representatives (<http://www.house.gov>), and accessed by clicking on the red, white and blue Write Your Representative logo.

Upon accessing Write Your Representative, a person will be asked to enter his or her home state and zip code. Upon doing this the individual will be put in contact with Thornberry — or their own representative — and allowed to send a message on the Internet. The message will then be forwarded directly to Thornberry or their own representative's office.

Thornberry said he views Write Your Representative as another to stay in touch with the people he represents. It's also, he noted, the first step in going completely online with a homepage for the 13th Congressional District itself — something, he said, he hopes to have completed in the next few months.

"We hope to be up and running later this spring," he said. "In the meantime, this seems to be a good first step in meeting the needs of those who might want to contact me on the Internet."

"Listening is one of the most important parts of my job. The more options I can give people to let me know what they're thinking on the issues we face as a nation, the better I'll be able to take their views into consideration when these issues are debated in Congress."

Turkey residents prepare for annual Bob Wills Day celebration

TURKEY — The hometown of Bob Wills pays tribute to the King of Country Swing this month with its 26th annual Bob Wills Day celebration.

Beginning at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 24, there will be an autograph party and jam session with former members of Wills' band, The Texas Playboys, at the Turkey High School gym.

There will be a dance at the gym beginning at 9 p.m. Friday, April 25, with music provided by former members of The Texas Playboys. A dance at the gym beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 26, will feature Jody Nix and The Texas Cowboys.

Saturday will also feature a pancake breakfast beginning at 6 a.m. at the Bob Wills Cafeteria, a parade at 10 a.m. down the main street of Turkey, a barbecue at 11 a.m. at the Bob Wills Center and an Old Fiddlers Contest at noon at the auditorium center and gym.

A free concert will be staged Saturday beginning at 2:30 p.m. at the old football field east of the Bob Wills Center. Dr. Charles Townsend of Canyon, author of San Antonio Rose: The Life and Music of Bob Wills, will be master of ceremonies. The band will include former members of The Texas Playboys.

There will be a midnight breakfast Saturday at the Bob Wills Cafeteria and a worship service beginning at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at the old football field.

Bob Wills Day is traditionally held here on the last weekend of April each year.

Saddle Up for St. Jude trail ride set for May 3

It's time for the sixth annual Saddle Up for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital trail ride. The ride will be held on Saturday, May 3, on the Rocking Chair Ranch between Skellytown and Pampa.

Sign-up will begin at 8 a.m. and the ride will start at 9 a.m. A barbecue lunch will be served at noon, then the ride will continue until 4 p.m. After the ride, prizes donated by area business will be awarded.

Riders may get as many sponsors as they want with each one giving a one-time donation (not by the mile). All monies are due the day of the ride. A minimum of $15 is needed to ride.

One change on this year's ride is the need for riders to show proof of an original certificate of negative coggins dated within the last 12 months on their horses. This is a new law that went into affect in January 1997. Without this certificate they will not be able to participate.

As America's leading childhood cancer research center, founded by the late entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has provided care and treatment to all its patients without regard for the family's ability to pay. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, pediatric AIDS and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side-by-side seeking not only better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures, and prevention of these terrible killers. All findings are shared with doctors around the world to ensure that children everywhere will benefit from the work being done at St. Jude Hospital.

Funds to support this battle against childhood catastrophic disease come primarily from public donations through events like the Saddle Up for St. Jude.

For more information, or if you are interested in making a contribution or participating in the trail ride, call Sharon Williams at (806) 669-0176. If she is not there, leave a message.

ABC declines to air lesbian ad during 'Ellen'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A lesbian cruise line says ABC refused to air its ad during an upcoming episode of Ellen in which the main character is expected to reveal she is a lesbian.

"It is our position that discussion about same-sex lifestyles is more appropriate in programming," ABC broadcast editor Bob Reynolds said in a fax to Oakland-based Olivia Cruises and Resorts.

Olivia's president, Judy Dlugacz, called the April 30 Ellen episode historic, since it will be the first time a show's lead character reveals she or he is gay.

It is the second time in less than a month that sponsors of a gay-related ad have had to shop it to local ABC affiliates after rejection from the network. An anti-discrimination ad by the Human Rights Campaign was rejected because of its controversial nature.

Court says judge can order new tests on King rifle

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray may finally get what he's been asking for — a comparison of his rifle with the bullet that killed Martin Luther King Jr.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals said Wednesday that a Tennessee judge has the authority to order the test, which did not exist when King was shot to death on a motel balcony in 1968.

Ray, 69 and suffering from liver disease, claims the test will show his hunting rifle was not the gun used in the assassination.

Wednesday's ruling opens the door for Ray's lawyers to ask the judge presiding over the case for permission to conduct the tests. Prosecutors were skeptical about the ruling's effect.

"Other than the fact that it's going to continue the circus atmosphere, whether this is going to produce anything, who knows," prosecutor John Campbell said.

Ray avoided a possible death sentence when he pleaded guilty to the slaying and received a 99-year prison term. He recanted soon after, although his plea has been upheld seven times by state and federal courts.

Marian Stroup of Pampa, center, chair of the 15th annual Golden Nail Awards ceremony and dinner on Saturday, April 12, plans the menu with caterer Chef Douglas Michael, left, of the Big Texan Steak Ranch and Corporate Chef William Koval of The Adolphus in Dallas.

Golden Nail Awards to be presented Saturday

The 15th annual Golden Nail Awards will be chaired by Marian Stroup of Pampa this Saturday, April 12, at the Civic Center Grand Plaza in Amarillo.

Sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, the Golden Nail dinner and awards program is held in conjunction with the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra's concert featuring Janina Fialkowska at the piano.

Local nominees for Golden Nail Awards include Celebration of Lights, a non-profit organization of Pampa, for its year-long Christmas light project and Peggy Dennis of White Deer, who has raised approximately $14,000 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation through sales of angel pins she and her daughters design and market. Approximately 370 people and organizations from throughout the area have been nominated for this year's awards.

The purpose of the Golden Nail Awards is to honor individuals, businesses and foundations whose financial and in-kind contributions to the fine arts in Amarillo and the surrounding area are of such magnitude that the impact on the arts is significant, reports Stroup.

Guest Chef for the awards dinner is William A. Koval, corporate chef of The Adolphus in Dallas, with the new Executive Chef Brent Wuest at The Adolphus. Catering is by Chef Douglas Michael of the Big Texan Steak Ranch of Amarillo.

W.T. Greer, a pianist of Dallas, will provide entertainment for the dinner guests and for the Cheers Party following the concert.

CIA apologizes for its part in Gulf War bunker episode

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA is apologizing to Gulf War veterans for failing to do a better job in supplying information to U.S. troops who blew up an Iraqi bunker that later was found to contain chemical weapons.

Robert Walpole, the agency's top official for Gulf War illness issues, said Wednesday a series of reports dating to 1984 should have raised suspicions that chemical weapons were stored at the Khamisiyah munitions depot.

At a hearing last month, Walpole said the CIA knew in 1986 that Iraq had stored chemical weapons at Khamisiyah. Some veterans of the 1991 Gulf War believe their medical ailments may be linked to a potential exposure to nerve gas at Khamisiyah.

But in a rare news conference at CIA headquarters, Walpole insisted the new information the agency released Wednesday "does not contradict previous intelligence warnings" before and after the war that Iraq was likely to have had chemical weapons, that their chemical weapons might not be marked and that Iraq did not use chemical weapons during the war.

Critics argue that the CIA's intelligence reports came much too late to help the Army soldiers who destroyed the Khamisiyah site on March 4 and 10, and possibly March 12 of 1991. The agency's warning, released Wednesday, was sent on March 6, 1991, to the intelligence officials at the U.S. Central Command headquarters in the Gulf.

Walpole said the agency was making the documents available now to assess the missteps so that the agency might do better in the future.

"Intelligence support before, during and after the war should have been better," he said.

"If you're looking for an apology that we should have given this information out sooner, I'll give that apology," he said. "We should have gotten it out sooner."

Walpole acknowledged the agency was reluctant to share sensitive information with other top government officials, had "problems with multiple databases" containing several names for a single site and conducted "incomplete searches of files" when analysts tried to prepare lists of known or suspected chemical weapons locations.

He said task forces have been set up to deal with the various problems.

The agency's acknowledgment of shortcomings comes as George Tenet, the acting CIA director, prepares for Senate confirmation hearings next week on his nomination to become director.

Last month, Tenet said the agency already had performed a "vigorous search of all documents" relating to Gulf War illnesses and was supporting government agencies helping veterans with unexplained illnesses. And top CIA official Nora Slatkin has testified previously the agency had released all documents related to Khamisiyah.

But Walpole also released information indicating the CIA has not been certain about what it knew and when.

Lack Of Love In Marriage Is Reason Enough To Leave

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to your column, "Abused Wife Learns What Love Isn't." Similarly, after 15 years with an abusive woman, I told her I had to leave. She left me emotionally overwrought and filled with undirected anger. With the help of counseling, I also figured out what love isn't. Ladies: If you see yourself in this — take warning:

- Saying, "You don't know what you're talking about" when your husband says that he doesn't feel loved.
- Constantly badgering your husband to get a better paying job, when he makes an ample salary ($90,000 a year) and enjoys his work.
- Continuously referring to your husband as "old man," knowing he resents it, especially when he's athletic and youthful looking for his age (48).
- Grabbing and throwing your husband's hand down when he reaches out to touch or hold you.
- Belittling your husband before others, even in his presence.
- Telling your husband that no other woman would want him.
- Blatantly seeking expensive, tangible "trappings of influence" for status' sake, to the detriment of living within means.
- Not knowing or taking interest in what your husband does at work, realizing his work means a lot to him.

Abigail Van Buren
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

— Consciously not being home or at the airport to welcome your husband after a long trip.

— Reading and annoyingly chewing ice in bed until husband falls asleep, and feigning sleep until after husband leaves for work.

— Refusing to visit husband's relatives, while demanding frequent visits to your relatives.

THE GOODBYE HUSBAND WHO FINALLY FOUND TRUE LOVE AND CONTENTMENT IN RESTON, VA.

DEAR GOODBYE HUSBAND: What a sad description of lonely coexistence — I hesitate to call it a marriage. Fortunately, not all women are like the first one you married. Congratulations on having found true love and contentment the second time around.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the father who wrote regarding leaving his 4- and 2-year-olds home from the family cruise: I was that 4-year-old, 24 years ago. My parents took my brother and sister to Disneyland, and I stayed behind with both sets of grandparents.

I would like to tell that father to do as you suggested: Plan special times for the kids at home — ice cream excursions, nature walks, kids' museums, children's theaters, craft hour or going out for dinner. Make it extra-special for them, so they can tell the older ones when they return.

Being the younger child has its advantages later on in life. I was lucky to have my mom and dad to myself once the other kids left for college. I became an "only child" for a few years, and I would not have traded that quality time for anything in the world.

I hope the parents do some creative planning and go on their trip and enjoy.

ADJUSTED IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR ADJUSTED: I'm printing your supportive letter for that father to see. There is nothing as reassuring as the voice of experience.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, JEANNE, my beautiful, talented firstborn. You are loved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Strive to be self-sufficient today, because associates on whom you're depending might not be available to assist you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might be called upon today to try to clear up a dispute between two close friends. Remain impartial and there will be a positive outcome.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The route to an important objective might be littered with impediments today. However, you can still succeed by using an alternative plan.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Putting yourself before others today may seem promising at first, but eventually what you tried to deny may be publicly exposed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are involved in a joint endeavor today, take control of the situation. A partner's input may be ill advised.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Let your humane and forgiving instincts guide your course of action today. Do not take direct measures to even the score.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be realistic, selective and cautious in your financial affairs today. Make sure that a profit is possible without taking a foolish gamble.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Instead of telling others what to do today, set a proper example so that they'll see you're not asking of them what you don't ask of yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Quiet any desire to betray a confidence today. An important friendship may be at stake if you let loose.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) All should go well with associates today, provided nothing of value is at stake. Keep the ante low and egotism will remain in check.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The probability of fulfilling an objective looks strong today, but you might offend someone in the process. Keep your priorities focused DENVER (AP) — The National League wants to know whether Deion Sanders' uniform is uniform.

The Cincinnati center fielder is wearing his Reds uniform in a high-pantsleg, cutoff-sleeve style as a tribute to Jackie Robinson, major league baseball's first black player.

Katy Feeny, the National League's senior vice president, attended the Reds' game Monday against Colorado in Coors Field, where she noticed the differences between Sanders' uniform and those of his teammates.

Feeny said Wednesday she might force Sanders to wear his sleeves at the same length as his teammates, just above the elbow. He now has his sleeves cut off so they barely cover his shoulders.

"We are looking into it," Feeny said.

The league may not make a decision until next week, she said.

The Reds conclude their three-game series in Denver today.

Sanders, told of the league's review, wondered whether the NL would rather honor another of the game's heroes.

HOCKEY

HOUSTON (AP)

Houston is touting itself to National Hockey League big-wigs as "The New NHL Frontier" but has a problem with an old arena and a cranky pro basketball team owner.

Houston officials briefed NHL executives Wednesday on why the league should put an expansion franchise in the nation's fourth-largest city.

One sticking point, however, is the refusal by NBA Houston Rockets owner Leslie Alexander to become a 50-50 partner in any new arena the city would like to build.

"When you have a city like Houston, it makes sense for the NHL and NBA teams to work together," NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman said after getting the city's pitch. "I hope the two sides can work out details."

"It's a big problem," Houston Mayor Bob Lanier said of Alexander's refusal to participate. "But it's not something that will stop us from going forward."

"I'm very concerned," said Watson, whose Arena Operating Co. runs the city-owned Summit where the Rockets are locked in a lease until 2003.

Houston officials showed an expansion subcommittee of the NHL Board of Governors and Bettman where they hope to build a downtown arena, along with alternate sites, and also toured The Summit, home now for a minor league hockey team Watson owns as well as the Alexander-owned Rockets.

"I think all of our questions have been answered," Bettman said, while remaining noncommittal. "I think we've had a good series of meetings."

BASKETBALL

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)

Michael Jordan hit seven of eight fourth-quarter free throws as the Bulls pulled away to an 86-80 victory over the Indiana Pacers Wednesday night.

Jordan had six turnovers with his 23 points, but his timely free throws turned the game around early in the fourth quarter.

Indiana's last lead was 66-65 on the first basket of the final period by Jalen Rose. Jordan then put Chicago ahead for good with his first two free throws. Minutes later, with the Bulls up 69-66, he was fouled by Reggie Miller and hit all three free throws.

Then Miller received a technical for protesting a no-call on what he thought was a foul by Jordan, and Jordan hit another free throw to give Chicago a 73-66 lead.

Football film planned for West Texas town

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) — The man who drew critical acclaim and rare box-office success with the documentary "Hoop Dreams" is ready to take on the drama of Texas high school football.

After considering 20 West Texas towns, Peter Gilbert — who directed the film that followed two Chicago basketball stars through four years of high school — and his staff are closer to beginning production in Sweetwater.

"I think they wanted a smaller town and a place with a football tradition," head football coach Tom Ritchey said. "I think the actual name of Sweetwater has a ring that sounds Texas to somebody in New York City."

But before the cameras could start rolling, Gilbert's crew had to persuade locals they weren't wasn't out to make another "Friday Night Lights," the best-selling book that looked at Odessa's love of football but exposed problems that went with it.

On Tuesday, school trustees voted 4-1 to accept the project. There is no date to begin filming, and executive producer Gilbert has yet to put together funding, but that should fall into place soon now that the site is set.

Sweetwater, an agricultural town of about 11,800, actually was chosen by Brett Morgan, a New Yorker who will share directing duties with two-time Academy Award winner Barbara Kopple.

"I was trying to find a town with the right chemistry, a town that celebrates the right kind of tradition, pride and support in the town's high school football program,"

Morgan told trustees. "Sweetwater fitted this mold better than any other we could find."

John Pennington was the only school board member who voted against the project. He didn't like giving filmmakers the same unlimited access "Friday Night Lights" author H.G. "Buzz" Bissinger had for his insider portrayal of the 1988 season at Permian High School in Odessa, just 120 miles westward.

The filmmakers will be allowed to attend virtually every school-related activity through April 1998.

"It's a fact that there's no way that any of the school administration or the coaching staff has any editorial power at all," Morgan said. "It's totally non-existent."

Pennington said he also is worried that economic pressures may influence Morgan to give the film more of an edge.

"I think (Morgan) is most honorable and is shooting straight and telling us what he wants to do," Pennington said. "But what I understand is this project will cost in excess of $800,000. If you and I invest that kind of money, you and I want a return."

Morgan told the board that producers would control content, but he stressed they plan a positive look at Sweetwater.

"I have no hidden agenda," Morgan said. "I am not out to judge the kids, the school or the town."

Ritchey, an avid supporter of the documentary, said he trusts Morgan, although he admitted "Friday Night Lights" was the first thing that crossed his mind when Morgan approached him.

"We've not been assured it's not going to be (negative)," said Ritchey, who arrived here after the school's lone championship in 1985. "What we've been assured is that it's a positive look at Texas football."

Morgan is filming a boxing-related movie in New York, while Kopple won Oscars for her work on "Harlan County, U.S.A." in 1977 and "American Dream" in 1990. She also produced the NBC documentary "Fallen Champ: The Untold Story of Mike Tyson."

"Friday Night Lights" may also be headed for the big screen. Ron Howard's production company, Imagine Entertainment, owns the movie rights to Bissinger's book. Filming has yet to begin.

Program produces first two professional athletes

CANYON — The West Texas A&M University men's soccer program, which is only six years old, has matriculated its first two players into the professional ranks when the Lafayette Swampcats of the Eastern Indoor League drafted Lance Lemberg (Lavon, Tex.) and Beau Brown (Wylie, Tex.) late last week.

Lemberg was declared as one of the Swampcats' two franchise players, while Brown was picked in the third round of the draft. Lemberg, a forward for the Buffs, tallied two goals and six assists this past season to run his two-year career total to 10 goals and 11 assists for 31 points.

Brown, who played virtually every position for the Buffs, scored a team-high 16 points last season on seven goals and two assists. He finished his three-year career at WTAMU with 48 points on 20 goals and eight assists.

"This is another major step in the development in our soccer program," said WTAMU head coach Butch Lauffer. "The ability to send players into the professional ranks allows us to gain yet another recruiting edge."

Dallas star ruled ineligible

AUSTIN (AP) — Unless Dallas Spruce coach William Smith can convince a judge otherwise today, his star hurdler will miss a district track meet because she improperly transferred from a gang-torn neighborhood.

A University Interscholastic League board upheld a ruling Wednesday that Shontae Johnson should have competed for Dallas Lincoln, where she attended ninth and 10th grades. Johnson transferred to Spruce because of violence in her neighborhood.

The 4-0 decision disqualified her from Thursday's District 10-4A track meet, which involves both schools.

Accompanied by mother Carolyn Johnson and Smith, Shontae Johnson failed to convince a four-member panel of the UIL Waiver Review Board that she deserved to run for her new school this season.

Smith said he planned to file for a temporary restraining order today. The track meet was scheduled for 3 p.m.

"I feel like this is my child, and I should have the right to say where she goes," said the elder Johnson, who moved to her sister's house in the Spruce district with Shontae for three months late last summer.

Carolyn Johnson said they moved because her older son, a leader in a Pleasant Grove gang, attracted violence to their home and threats to Shontae and Carolyn on the street.

Once the son left home last fall, Carolyn moved back into the house while Shontae remained with her aunt and continued running at Spruce.

PAMPA — Several individual awards were presented at the Harvester Soccer Banquet last weekend.

Blane Northcutt was named the team's most valuable player. Lucas Jaramillo was named the offensive player of the year and Justin Molitor received defensive player of the year honors. Other award winners were Jason Vance, most creative, and David Odum, most improved.

The All-District 5 Soccer Team was announced this week and Bryan Johnson and Vance made the honorable mention list.

Borger junior James Thaxton, formerly of Pampa, was a District 5 All-District first-team pick this spring. Thaxton was the only Borger player named to the first team. Teammate Jeremy Cook was named to the second team.

UIL waiver officer Sam Harper ruled Shontae ineligible last week because she was not living with her mother after November 1996.

After the hearing, Harper said large school districts traditionally are more vulnerable than smaller ones to communication gaffes that result in violations.

"One of the reasons for the numbers of violations is ignorance of the rules," he said. "That's not germane only to Dallas Independent School District. That's throughout the state."

Area track teams are preparing for district meets this weekend.

White Deer is entered in the District 1A meet at Quanah on Friday and Saturday.

Donnie Adams in the shot put and Tim Sandlin in the triple jump are White Deer's best chances of advancing to regionals in the boys division. Kimberly Warminski in the 800 and 1600 could advance for the White Deer girls.

PAMPA — Pampa High School freshman Emily Waters was voted the number one seed in girls singles for the District 1-4A Tennis Tournament in Hereford this Friday and Saturday.

Waters was 14-3 in singles this spring.

Pampa seniors Kyle Easley and Ryan Witt were voted the number three seed in boys doubles with an 11-3 spring record while sophomore Russell DuBose earned the number four seed in boys singles with a 15-7 record this spring.

Other district number one seeds are: Rob Reinbauer, Hereford, boys singles; Greg Goodin-Cliff Martin, Canyon, boys doubles; Rachel Pendergrass-Kristin Smith, Dumas, girls doubles.

The entire team will represent

Pampa at the district tournament. The Pampa netters had a record of 326 wins and 174 losses in singles and doubles combined this spring.

The Pampa team closed out the regular season by winning the overall tournament title in the Silver Division at the Amarillo Relays last weekend. It was the second year in a row Pampa had won the Amarillo Relays. For the Pampa girls, it was their sixth consecutive tournament title.

District tournament action begins on Friday at 10 a.m. with the boys singles division. All semifinals start Saturday at 10 a.m.

The Masters, its past and future

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Steve Elkington has won two tournaments since March against the best two fields of the year and has reached $1 million in earnings faster than anyone in PGA Tour history.

This being the week of the Masters, few people seemed to notice.

The drama that began to unfold today at Augusta National is focused squarely on players who have written chapters of history in the Masters, and those who are expected to.

There's Nick Faldo, whose cunning, tactical mind has produced three green jackets. Another one this year would make him the first player to twice win consecutive Masters.

Greg Norman wants to produce a better ending to his story at Augusta than the 78 he shot in his final-round flop last year, when a 6-stroke lead turned into a 5-stroke victory for Faldo.

Tiger Woods has never broken par at the Masters, but already Jack Nicklaus is predicting he'll win 10 green jackets by the time he's through. He was playing his first Masters today as a professional — paired with Faldo, no less.

"Don't forget, I was an amateur," Woods said. "I'm tournament tough now."

There's also Jose Maria Olazabal, the 1994 Masters champion who won in his third start after an 18-month layoff with feet problems and then had a strong showing last week in New Orleans.

"This tournament has so much hype before you play it. It's like the Super Bowl," said Elkington, who is playing better than when he won the PGA Championship in 1995.

"Eventually, everyone has to get out there and play," he said. "It's a great arena to play in front of."

And no one is playing as well as Elkington, who has one of the sweetest swings in golf and a hot putter to go with it, a perfect combination for Augusta.

He needed only 105 putts in his win-to-wire, 7-stroke victory at The Players Championship two weeks ago, which had the top 50 players in the world assembled for the first time ever and has the feel of a major championship.

"I feel like my chances are reasonably good as far as playing well," Elkington said. "I'm not making any predictions, but obviously my game is solid. When you're hitting balls on the fairway and you're hitting good iron shots, your whole game goes to a different level and you don't worry about too many things."

"I have a lot of confidence. That has been the case probably the last month or so."

Elkington isn't the only player lost in the attention surrounding Faldo, Norman and Woods.

Tom Lehman has finished second and tied for third in his four previous starts at Augusta, and the reigning British Open champion is starting to find his form at the right time.

Nick Price is also climbing closer to the game that made him the No. 1 player in the world three years ago. Even some of the relative newcomers bear watching — Paul Stankowski and Australia's Stuart Appleby, who each have won on tour this year and have the kind of length and resolve suitable for the Masters.

And don't forget about Phil Mickelson, the leader of the twenty-something crowd before Woods showed up.

"Because Tiger has been out here and the focus is on him winning, it takes some of the focus away from others," Mickelson said.

Freezing temperatures keep AL fans at home Bull rider injured twice

By The Associated Press

Where are the AL fans? At home, where it's warm.

Just 6,477, the smallest crowd at Tiger Stadium in eight years, turned out Wednesday for Detroit's 10-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Only 5,620 came out in Kansas City, where the temperature was in the 20s and snow fell for much of the game, to watch the Baltimore Orioles beat the Royals 4-2 in 11 innings.

And in Chicago, the paid crowd at Comiskey Park was just 746 for Toronto's 5-0 victory over the White Sox. It was the smallest paid crowd for a White Sox home game since Sept. 21, 1970, when 672 attended a doubleheader against Kansas City at the old Comiskey Park.

"There were not very many. I can't blame them. I don't think I would come out on a day like this," Toronto's Ed Sprague said.

The crowd was actually bigger than listed. Including free tickets and those who used tickets from Tuesday night, total attendance in the 44,321-seat ballpark was 1,677.

"I thank the fans who did show up," Chicago shortstop Ozzie Guillen said. "That's what we get paid for. To play whether it's cold or wet or sunny. You have to do your job."

On a windy day that had a gametime temperature of just 34, the game was moved from night to day because of the cold. The White Sox, who postponed Tuesday night's game because of the weather, sold $5 tickets that allowed fans to sit anywhere in the lower deck.

"It's certainly the fewest I've played in front of in a major league park," Sprague said.

In other AL games, Oakland beat Boston 4-3 in 10 innings, Seattle beat Cleveland 11-1 and New York beat Anaheim 12-5. Texas' game at Milwaukee was postponed by cold.

Roger Clemens (2-0) allowed two hits in 5 2-3 innings against the White Sox before leaving with a muscle cramp in his groin. Clemens struck out the first two hitters in the bottom of the sixth and had a 2-2 count on Frank Thomas. He hesitated before the next pitch, and manager Cito Gaston and trainer Tommy Craig rushed to the mound.

Clemens gave up just two hits, and Luis Andujar, Dan Plesac and Tim Lincecum completed the three-hitter. Wilson Alvarez (0-2) was the loser.

Tigers 10, Twins 5

Bobby Higginson hit his first career grand slam as Detroit rallied from 3-0 and 4-2 deficits to win before 6,477. With the gametime temperature just 43 degrees, the crowd was the smallest in Detroit since 6,197 attended a game against Oakland on Aug. 21, 1989.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Terry West, the reigning world champion bull rider from Henryetta, Okla., was injured twice during a bull riding event in Las Vegas, April 3-5.

West, 31, was injured April 3 when John McDonald's bull Bananarama flipped over in the chutes and pinned the cowboy against the back panel during the second round of the bull riding event.

West was knocked unconscious and taken to University Medical Center in Las Vegas, where he was treated for a cheekbone injury and later released. According to West's wife, Michelle, the accident aggravated a previous injury and he had no broken bones.

West competed in the event's final round Saturday, April 5, and made a 91-point ride to win the event. West was injured again when the bull stepped on his right ankle during the final ride.

Phillip Elkins' weekend wasn't exactly relaxing, but don't count on him complaining about it.

The 23-year-old bull rider from Fort Worth won his event's title at the $176,467 Laughlin River Stampedee, April 3-6 in Laughlin, Nev., by scoring an 82-point ride aboard Honeycutt Rodeo's 50K. He earned $6,315 for the ride.

Singer-songwriter Lauro Nyro dies of ovarian cancer at 49

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Laura Nyro, a singer-songwriter who influenced a generation of women artists with songs like "Eli's Coming" and "Stoned Soul Picnic" and her intimate blend of pop, folk and jazz, has died at 49.

Nyro died Tuesday at her home of ovarian cancer.

She gained fame as a teenager in the 1960s writing songs that became big hits for other artists, including "And When I Die," recorded by Peter, Paul and Mary and later by Blood, Sweat and Tears; "Wedding Bell Blues" and "Stoned Soul Picnic," both hits for the Fifth Dimension; "Eli's Coming," a hit for Three Dog Night; and "Stoney End," a hit for Barbra Streisand.

In her heyday in the late '60s and early '70s, her music could be heard coming from college dorm rooms across the country. It was the early years of the singer-songwriter, and along with Joni Mitchell she was one of the leading female exponents of the genre.

While her albums never sold as well as those of the other singers who recorded her work, they influenced singers for decades to come, including Rickie Lee Jones, Rosanne Cash and Suzanne Vega.

Her most celebrated album, Eli and the Thirteenth Confession, came out in 1968.

In The Rolling Stone Illustrated History of Rock and Roll, critic Stephen Holden wrote of the album: "The songs mixed echoes of Broadway, folk and pop gospel into a burningly intense, highly individual portrait held together by Nyro's wailing vocals and moody pianism."

"When I write my music I see all the rivers flowing — sensual, spiritual, religious, animal, intellectual," she said in an interview with The Association Press in 1969. "I see songs in shapes and in terms of color and texture."

More recent albums include Smile, 1976; Mother's Spiritual, 1984; Live at the Bottom Line, 1990; and Walk the Dog & Lite the Lite, 1993.

Nyro — pronounced like Nero — was born Laura Nigro in the Bronx, the daughter of a jazz trumpeter. She said the gritty streets of New York influenced her music.

"I was brought up in a melting pot in New York with Spanish and black people, and I feel very close to these people," she said.

She was 17 when Peter, Paul and Mary popularized "And When I Die."

An appearance at the Monterey Pop Festival in 1967 proved to be a disaster. Working with a back-up band unused to her style, she was hooted off the stage and refused to perform in public for two years afterward.

In the 1969 interview, she said: "Two years ago, when nobody wanted to hear my music, my feeling was I thought the rest of the world was crazy and I wasn't. I knew what I was doing was pure. Now the world has somehow gotten their thing together and they're coming along just fine."

She is survived by a son, Gil Bianchini, and her companion, Maria Desiderio. A private memorial service was planned.

IRS extending telephone assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is extending its tax help telephone lines this weekend to accommodate puzzled taxpayers on the final four days before taxes are due.

The IRS toll-free tax help lines will be open from 7:30 a.m. through 10 p.m. local time Saturday through Tuesday, April 15, the deadline for filing taxes.

The IRS has increased the number of people answering telephones, resulting in about 52 percent of all callers getting through in the first two months of this year, compared with 21 percent the year earlier, according to the General Accounting Office.

Taxpayers can get forms from the IRS' Internet site or by using the agency's Tax Fax line, which sends tax forms via fax machine.

The IRS expects 27 million tax returns to be filed next week alone.

The toll-free telephone number is 1-800-829-1040, the Web site is <http://www.irs.ustreas.gov> and the Tax Fax line is 703-487-4160.

Latest images of Jupiter's moon lend support to ocean theory

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "Mind-blowing pictures" of large icebergs on the surface of Jupiter's frozen moon Europa are tantalizing scientists with the possibility they've found evidence of a dynamic ocean, which could have spawned life at some point.

The closeup pictures taken by the unmanned Galileo spacecraft during a Feb. 20 flyby have scientists more eager than ever to explore the icy moon's interior.

Their enthusiasm was palpable Wednesday as those images, including an animated video, were released at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

"It looks as though we found the smoking gun that points at this subsurface ocean," said Michael Carr, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey.

"These are really mind-blowing pictures," said Richard Terrile, an astronomer at the JPL. "How often is an ocean discovered? ... There is very strong evidence that there is an ocean here."

The pictures of icy chunks scattered like pottery shards provide "the clearest evidence to date there is liquid water and melting close to the surface of Europa," said Torrence Johnson, the Galileo project scientist at JPL.

But, Johnson cautioned "we have no evidence directly bearing on life."

Carr said the icy blocks, each about two to four miles across and resembling icebergs seen at the poles here on Earth, appeared to have drifted apart. "You can push them back together to reconstruct the original pattern," he said.

Their movement adds weight to scientists' notion that a relatively warm watery or slushy layer underlies a frozen crust that could be anywhere from 1 to 60 miles thick.

In the 20-mile-by-25-mile Europa snapshot, the ice probably is slightly more than a mile thick, said Paul Geissler, a University of Arizona planetary scientist.

The ice surface is also relatively young, at about one million years, said Clark Chapman, a planetary scientist with the Southwest Research Institute in Boulder, Colo.
