Governor-Elect Allred Confers With Roosevelt International Police Force Proposed

GIFTS FOR THE GRANDCHILDREN

Like most people, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, did not get all of her Christmas shopping done early. She is shown here in a Washington store, choosing a few gifts for the grandchildren, although most of her other presents had been purchased throughout the year. The Santa Claus is John L. Johns. SHE SPENDS HER TIME YAWNING

White doctors administered oxygen and considered other methods of relief, Mrs. Harold McKee, 35-year-old farmer's wife of Round Grove, Ill., continued to yawn at the rate of from nine to twelve times a minute. Since being stricken with the mysterious malady she has yawned constantly except for brief periods when under the influence of opiates. (Associated Press Photo)

Eugene R. Black Former Governor Reserve Bank, Dies

ATLANTA (AP)—Eugene R. Black, 55, former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, died Wednesday. He guided the reserve system during turbulent 1933. He was returned last summer as governor of the Atlanta Reserve Bank. Black was considered as a conservative influence in federal financial and banking program.

Woman Put To Death

HULL, England (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Lillie Major, 42, mother of two children, was hanged Wednesday. She is the first woman to be executed in England in eight years.

League Would Place Force Back Of Law

AIR FORCE IS PART OF PLAN, WOULD SUPPLANT SEA FREEDOM DOCTRINE

GENEVA (AP)—The idea of an international police force was advanced following Washington's reported move for virtual abandonment of "freedom of the sea" doctrine in wartime. The force would be similar to the League of Nations' "international Saar army."

A delegate said: "The league is trying to put force behind the law—not the law-breaker. An international air force is possible."

VETERANS SET AN EXAMPLE

Rudolph Hess, Hitler's chief aid in the Nazi party, is reported to have accepted an invitation of French war veterans to address them in Paris. This, it is reported, would be the first step in an effort to get German and French veterans together on an amicable program looking toward the preservation of peace.

Whether anything will come of it is, of course, something that only time can tell. But there is something particularly hopeful about the effort at any rate.

Most of the international hatred that curses the world these days is kept alive by civilians. The men who did the actual fighting hate not each other, but war itself, and the illogical human tendency to forget the aims for which they fought.

If there could be a genuine approach between French and German veterans, the non-combatants of the two nations would get a powerful object lesson on the futility of post-war suspicions and enmities.

POSSIBILITIES IN AIRSHIPS

Once more the possibilities of the giant dirigible are up for discussion—this time because of recommendation by the president's aviation commission. The commissioner built two or more airships for commercial transoceanic service.

Disillusioned though we may have been by dirigible tragedies in

COLORADO, McCAMEY WITHDRAW FROM CLASS A CIRCUIT

KEPT BOXING ALIVE IN '34

What little glory was gathered in the ring in 1934 went mainly to these four boys. Outstanding, of course, was Max Baer, who knocked Primo Carnera to the floor 11 times before taking his heavyweight crown away from him. Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, stepped up into the welterweight division and took Jimmy McLarnin's title away from him, only to have Jimmy win it back later in the summer. Freddy Miller in one way was the outstanding fighter of the year, for he fought more than any other champion. Taking the featherweight crown when Kid Chocolate retired, Miller fought everyone who would fight him, and when he championed the field here, went to Europe and continued his success there.

Recent years, there is nevertheless something attractive about this new proposal. For the big dirigible is such a marvelously ingenious creation—such a clever and beautiful triumph over the elements—that it is very hard to believe that we can never get any practical good out of it.

There must be some way in which these giant airships can be made to render service which is worth their cost. It might be well worth Uncle Sams while to put a little more money into their development, and find out.

MOORE (Sp.)—Twenty-two invitations have been sent out for a junior boys basketball tournament which will be held here Saturday.

Trophies will be awarded to the championship team and runner-up.
Miniature gold basketballs will go to the first all-tournament team and silver basketballs to the second all-tournament team.

Moore will enter two teams, Lobos and Pups. The Lobos have played Ackerly, Coahoma, Knott, Brown, Lomax, Elbow, Hi-way, R-Bar, Vealmoor and Centes Point, losing only two games. They have scored 202 points to opponents' 116.

Moore is favored to win the tournament.

The leading scorer for the Lobos is Doris Ray with 86 points, and the runner-up is Ray McKinnon with 82 points.

Moore line-ups:
First team: forwards—Doris Ray and Bill Rowland, center Ray Mc-Kinnon, guards O. A. Goodman and Jim Grant.

Second team: forwards—Rau-leigh McCullough and Billie Jones, center Jimmie Brunson, guard-Victor Watts, G. C. Broughton and Marion Lancaster.

Interscholastic League rules will be observed.

Captain Lawrence Jones as the Louisiana University coach.

Jones resigned after a squabble with Long.

Jones Resigns As Louisiana Mentor

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP)—Dr.
James M. Smith, president of Louisiana State University, Tuesday night announced the resignation of Capt. Lawrence
"Biff" Jones as coach of the university football team.

The resignation was the culmination of a conflict in authority between Jones and Senator Huey P.
Long, who claimed his "own."

Dr. Smith said
the resignation
was effective Jan.
1, and that Jones'
assignment to the War Department as an assistant professor of military science and tactics would not be affected by the change.

President Smith said a "half dozen" possible successors to Jones as football coach were being considered, but he declined to reveal their names.

1934 MAJOR LEAGUE LEADERS

Perhaps the most exciting major league baseball season in years cast these players in the leading 1934 baseball roles.

Dizzy Dean was a team in himself with the St. Louis Cardinals, winning 30 games in the regular season and adding two more against the Detroit Tigers in the world series. Ordinarily, Lefty Gomez's feat of winning 26 games with an earned-run average of 2.33 would have made him the No. 1 pitcher of the year, but instead he was forced to read of the exploits of the great Dean.

Lou Gehrig, running his record of consecutive games to 1,594, took the batting honors in the American league with a mark of .353 and also won the home run honors with 49. Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates led the National league hitters with a mark of .362.

Lomax Wins Over Midway

Lomax won two basketball

Steer Cagers To Play At San Angelo

According to arrangements made last night, Steer cagers will play Harry Taylor's San Angelo Bobcats at San Angelo Jan. 21, and the Cats will play on the local court Jan. 22.

Big Spring will repay a game from last year at San Angelo on Feb. 8.

Games Booked For Next Season

At a meeting of the District 3 executive committee here Tuesday afternoon, both Colorado and McCamey withdrew from Class A football competition.

School officials expressed the opinion that they were not strong enough to play in the "A" circuit, so would enter Class B beginning with the 1935 season.

The withdrawal leaves only Big Spring, San Angelo and Sweetwater, all fairly strong teams. The district schedule for next season was made without a representative from Sweetwater being present.
Big Spring will play host to the San Angelo Bobcats on Nov. 11, and on Nov. 22 the Sweetwater ones will journey to San Angelo.
The conference schedule will be completed on Nov. 23 when the Tigers play at Sweetwater.

There was some talk of inviting another team or two into the district, but the idea was voted down in favor of plugging the schedule with big time exhibition games.

The San Angelo Bobcats will entertain the Abilene Eagles on Oct. 4, and the Cats are ducking for games with Paul Tyson's Waco team and a club out of San Antonio.

Big Spring will probably open with the Lubbock Westerners here Sept. 20. Games have been tentatively booked with Abilene at El Paso Sept. 27 and Bowie of El Paso here Oct. 4 or 5.

The cost of the 1934 fall election in McCulloch county, Texas, ranged from 14 cents to $1.87 a vote with an average of 56 cents, county clerk's figures showed.

Trouble Brewing For Greenville

By BILL PARKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Trouble is brewing for Greenville's football team as it prepares for Saturday's Texas Interscholastic League semi-final championship game at Houston against Corpus Christi. The 1933 champion Lions are wondering if they can escape the Corsicans' victory jinx.

Records prove that it is bad business to eliminate Corsicana from the titular race and that's what Greenville did last week, 20 to 6. In 1930, Amarillo eliminated Corsicana. The "next week, Amarillo lost to Tyler, 13 to 25.

In 1931, Beaumont beat Corsicana
The next week, Abilene eliminated
Beaumont, 13 to 0.
Corsicana won the 1932 championship.

In 1933, San Antonio Brackenridge eliminated Corsicana, 47 to 0.
The next week, Brackenridge lost to Greenville, 6-2.

Coach Henry Frnka not only must inspire his Lions to trounce Corpus Christi but also avoid the Corsicana jinx that cast its spell over Amarillo, Beaumont and Brackenridge.

The other semi-final game will be Saturday at Amarillo with Fort Worth Masonic Home opposing Amarillo.

Coach H. N. Russell and his Masons left Tuesday. They will spend three days in the panhandle before playing the Sandies. Russell moved the Masons early to get them acclimated. They plan workouts Wednesday and Thursday on the Texas Tech field at Lubbock and will invade Amarillo Friday for a final drill on Butler field.

The Masons are in top condition.
Russell embarked with 27 players and Dr. E. P. Hall, Sr., the club physician.

Greenville, Corpus Christi and Amarillo have a few battered players but all are expected to be ready for the semi-finals.

Evangelist Wilson To Bring Closing Message Tonight At Fundamentalist Baptist Tabernacle; Public Invited

"The Unpardonable Sin" subject of Evangelist Wilson's message on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Wilson took his sermon from the following scriptures Matthew 12: 31 and 32.

"Wherefore I say unto you, all manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Spirit shall not be forgiven unto him.

"And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

"In John 8: 16 There is a sin unto death. I do not say he shall pray for it.

"We read in God's word that this sin shall not be forgiven, neither in this world, neither in the world to come, therefore it becomes the unpardonable sin.

"If men have committed the unpardonable sin they are as sure for hell as if they were already there. Oh! how long can men go on in sin, how long will God's mercy endure?

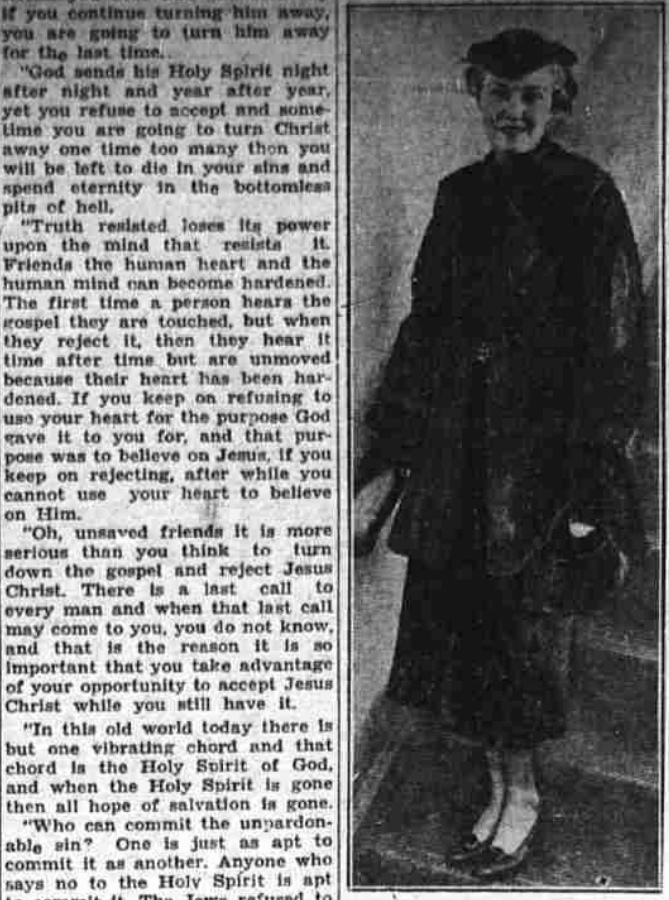

"What is the unpardonable sin and when do men commit it? First let me tell you some of the things that it is not. Some think it is the sin of stealing, but as had as stealing is, it is not the unpardonable sin, because God forgave stealing. Some think it is the sin of drinking, but it is not because God has forgiven drunkards. Some think the sin of adultery is the unpardonable sin, but it is not because Jesus forgave the adulteress and said to her 'Go thy way and sin no more.' Some think it is suicide, but it is not, some think murder is the unpardonable sin, but God has forgiven murderers! Though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as wool, though they be red like crimson, they shall be white as snow," so says God's word.

"Then what is the unpardonable sin? It is not any outstanding sin, it is the continuous rejecting of the Holy Spirit who wants you to accept Jesus Christ, and a continuous rejection of the Holy Spirit results in the final rejection of Jesus Christ which is unpardonable.

"A sinner cannot become a Christian without the Holy Spirit, and when you feel His wooing time after time and you refuse to let Him come in and refuse to accept Christ as your saviour, and keep turning His Spirit away from your heart's door, until finally you turn Him away for the last time, then you commit the unpardonable sin. You cannot be saved unless the spirit draw you, so when you reject Him until he comes to warn you no more then you have no hope of being saved.

"When you turn the Holy Spirit away from your heart night after night as he comes to you and tries to make you see yourself as a man who is swinging over hell by a single rope and the strands of that rope are rapidly breaking, then like to have visit us and it was worth losing the football game to have had them."

It seems that the great Blondy Cross does all of his yapping in his newspaper. After stirring up quite a row at San Angelo over game officials, Coach Harry Taylor suggested to Blondy that he try it a while. Blondy mouthed around about it and finally refused.

Advance! Not Retreat!

ALCOHOLISM PROBLEM WORRIES FRANCE

When an American wet asserts that France has solved the alcoholism problem, he is expressing a hope, not a fact. He is likely sincere, but his statement is based on inadequate observation and insufficient data.

For France does have an alcoholism problem. No intelligent Frenchman would dare to deny it, since the French newspapers are here to contradict him. Editorially, these papers are frankly wet; they love every day, in impartial and impersonal fashion, they report the tragic story of French alcoholism—tragedies, accidents, crimes—twelve of them per day in Paris; insignificant five-line items, used chiefly as "filler," about unimportant, uninteresting persons; but they furnish irrefutable proof that the French cafe is not always the nursery of sobriety and all related virtues. Official statistics are confirmatory, revealing that alcoholism is chiefly responsible for crimes, mendacity, insanity, and vagabondage.

Industrial Leaders Aroused

French industrial leaders realize the perilous aspects of the problem. So they preach temperance, moderation, even total abstinence. Many practice it. Take Raoul Dautry, as an example. He is the director general of the French state railways. He attributes all major railroad accidents in France to alcoholism, and remarks:

If a railway is to function properly, its employees must be healthy, vigorous and sober men, with prompt and unerring reflexes. Only a temperate man can merit these adjectives. In fact, the drinking railroad man is a baneful, disastrous peril—for himself, for his cotrades, for the passengers. Such a man has no control of his nerves; can not exercise his will power; and the only thing to do with him—as a safety first measure—is to discharge him.

BRITISH LORD BELIEVES CURSING IS OUT OF FASHION

LONDON (UPI)—Lord David Cecil thinks the cursing has gone out of fashion and that in no walk of life today are people able to express dislike in really effective terms.

"I think this falling off in the art of cursing is very distressing, especially as there has never been more to hate than there is now—what with newspapers, films, Communists and Fascists, objects for hate one and all," he said.

"Possibly it is due to the rise of science, which tends to make people look upon each other as mechanisms—and you cannot be very angry with a mechanism."

"If you refuse to accept Christ as your saviour and turn his Holy Spirit away, it may be the last time He will ever strive with you, then you will have committed the unpardonable sin. God says 'My spirit shall not always strive with men.' Today is the day of salvation."

"Oh! to die without God and go out into eternity without God, that is the penalty of the unpardonable sin. Friends turn to Jesus and listen to the wooing of the Spirit before it is too late."

On Wednesday evening Evangelist Gilbert Wilson will bring his last message in this series of revival services. His subject will be, "The Shortest Road to Hell From Big Spring."

All are cordially invited to hear this closing message.

A man named Hitt and another named Fite recently engaged in a fistfight at Murfreesboro, Tenn. A German Bible printed at Nuremberg in 1793 is a cherished relic in the library of Lenoir-Rhyne college at Hickory, N. C.

There is little probability that the Sweetwater Ponies will make much of a fuss in the grid world next year. Hennig, after producing winning teams for several years, has apparently been caught in a slump—no material. He had a very weak team this year, and is losing nine of his regulars. He has good material coming up, however. In a fine junior team, but it won't reach him for a couple of years.

Harry Taylor lettered twenty men this year, and will have twelve of them back. He should have a well balanced club.

Big Spring should have its best line in years, but in the backfield will be only one letterman—Ollie Cordill—a triple threat.

Jim Little tells a good one on Jim Reese (now Colorado mentor) while he was in his hey-day as a track man at the University of Texas. It was back in 1924 or '25 that Reese, an outstanding miler, was competing with Joey Ray, also a championship miler. Ray felt that Reese could beat him, so he pulled a smart one to keep his rep. Joey was a stocky built boy but had a good pace, so kept the lead until about the 3-4 mark when Reese showed him his dust. Joey immediately started limping, claiming an injured ankle—but ran in a meet with Rice the next day.

A fan has asked if Colorado's return to Class B will affect them in basketball. It will not.

In JUST CHATTING, by W. W. Bridgers of the El Paso World-News staff: "One of the most interesting crowds that I've seen in El Paso in many a day was the delegation from Big Spring on last Saturday. The Texas & Pacific brought 600 and, I suppose, another hundred or so came in their cars. They were aged from six to 60, all Steer, judging from the way they stamped about the streets. They were the healthiest, most energetic bunch, averaging about 30 years, that I've had occasion to size up. Some of the men and boys wore boots and there were girls with rolled socks, but they didn't try to cut up any high jinks. They were the sort of folks we

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERS AND SCENE IN STOLL KIDNAPING CASE

The kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll (right), wealthy member of an exclusive social set of Louisville, Ky., from the Berry Stoll home (shown above) on Lime Kiln road, started federal sleuths on a nation-wide search for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr. (left), of Nashville, a former inmate of a Tennessee insane asylum. The sum of $50,000 was demanded in a fantastically worded letter, and Mrs. Stoll was returned to her home from Indianapolis on October 18 after having been held by her abductors for six days. Insets above show Mrs. Francis Robinson and Thomas H. Robinson, sr., wife and father, respectively, of the alleged kidnaping. Mrs. Robinson was charged with complicity in the crime, and Thomas Robinson, sr., fought extradition proceedings to Kentucky. (Associated Press Photos)

Big Ten Coach Out QUICK, CADDY! A BOAT AND A COUPLE OF LIFELINES!

An unexpected hazard developed in the Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament at Miami Beach, Fla., when Olin Dutra and about 30 others were thrown into a canal by collapse of a footbridge as they were crossing to the seventeenth green. That part of the gallery that didn't get a wetting enjoyed the fun, and Dutra eventually won the tournament. (Associated Press Photo)

Long Aid Is Indicted STORY RENEWS SEARCH FOR KARPIS

CONVICTS FREED IN SERUM TEST

A Dvice to the Love-lorn

To Mr. C. M.—If Mary is the kind of girl you say she is, there's just one answer to your question: Marry her—before some man, with a quicker eye for feminine values, takes her for his own.

Any woman can be good-looking, Mr. C. M., who knows how to handle a powder-puff and lipstick. But the woman is a find indeed, who is a good-looker—for bargains!

For you can't live on a peaches-and-cream complexion, Mr. C. M. You need more solid food for the years and years of married life.

So never smile at Mary because she happens to know the ads by heart. Thank your lucky stars that she does. You'll earn the money, Mr. C. M., but Mary will have to spend it for you. And a wife who knows her advertisements is a joy indeed. It's ten to one she'll save money and make her home a happier place to be.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF FIRST BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL GIVE CHRISTMAS BANQUET

Rev. and Mrs. Winston Borum Of Midland Give Many Amusing Numbers On Program; Attendance Good

The young adult group of the First Baptist Sunday school gave a Christmas dinner Tuesday evening at the Crawford Hotel with the Rev. Winston Borum of Midland as the chief speaker.

The tables were decorated with yucca points tipped with cranberries as centerpieces and with sprays of cedar.

Mr. Gentry gave the devotional and Johnny Nail acted as toastmaster.

Mrs. E. J. Gibson sang a solo and Mrs. Tracy T. Smith gave a Christmas reading. Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church of Big Spring, introduced Mr. Borum, pastor of the Baptist church at Midland, for what he called "Twenty Minutes of Nonsense."

Mr. Borum responded with "The Village Idiot" as an encore.

Present for the dinner were: Messrs. and Mrs. J. A. Coffey, J. A. Boda, Winston Borum, Midland, R. E. Day, W. C. Blankenship, Vernon Loggins, Reeder, Tracy T. Smith, George Gentry; Messrs. F. J. Gibson, A. B. Winslett, R. E. Gignous, Ira Thurman, Clyde Angel, Harold Mendor; Misses Margaret Bettle, Lillian and Wynnye Dell Rhoads, Mable Leach, Maude Prather; Messrs. Johnny Nail, Searcy Whaley and Joe Pickle.

PLAYERS TRY STRIKE
LIBERTY, UP—Liberty high school football players are not free to strike because officials refused to bear expenses arising from grid-iron injuries.

The students tried it—so school officials decided not to award letters for the 1934 season. The strike was called off and the basketball squad holds daily practice.

Margaret McDonald arrived home Wednesday afternoon from McMurry, Abilene, to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McDonald.

Christian Endeavor Has Enjoyable Xmas Party Tuesday Nite

One of the most enjoyable parties of the pre-holiday season was the one given by the Christian Endeavor of the First Christian church last night at the home of their sponsor, Mildred Creath.

The rooms were attractively decorated in the holiday colors. Red and green balloons hung from the chandelier lent added gaiety. Interest centered in the tall Christmas tree for which each guest had brought a gift. Everyone was in a happy holiday mood and entered into the jolly games and stunts with zest.

Wynelle Fischer and Rowan Smith won in the candy eating contest. In the alphabetical contest Clarence Alvis and Mary Louise Courson were the victors. Lily Jean Cook and Wynelle Fischer took the prize in the grinning contest. The Red side, with Clarence Alvis as leader, won over Roberta Hinkson's side, the Greens. Claudelle McCoy received the prize in the bean contest. Hartman Hooser and Clarence Alvis gave the best stunt. Doris Shettlesworth, Ruth Dodson and Rowan Smith acted as judges for the evening.

Refreshments of home made candy, pop corn balls, cakes and hot chocolate were served after which the gifts from the tree were distributed.

At the close of the evening, with Doris Shettlesworth at the piano the group reverently sang, "Silent Night."

Those present were: June Cook, Wynelle Fischer, Halle Watson, Julia Fell Greshaw, Jewell Canale, Mary Louise Courson, Doris Shettlesworth, Ruth Dodson, Roberta Hinkson, Ruby Weatherby, Lily Jean Cook, Paula Mae Walker, Mildred Creath, Lorraine Crenshaw, Betty Louise Lawther, John Colcliran, Jack Courson, Marlin Leatherwood, Claudelle McCoy, Rowan Smith, A. Z. Pittman, Hartman Hooser, Fred Savage, Clarence Alvis, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Creath.

Rep. Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, unyielding foe of State sales tax plans, is in Austin to sit with the senate tax survey committee, now conducting hearings preliminary to its draft of tax policy recommendations.

Mrs. Hughes and other house members who had been active in tax legislation were invited by the senators to take part in the survey proceedings.

The Dallas woman legislator so far outgeneraled proponents of the sales tax bills in the regular session last year, that she succeeded in final passage in the house of her counter plan of an income tax. The sales tax bill died short of a vote on final passage.

Mrs. Hughes recently has made a number of speeches in which she has traced the efforts of those groups now regarded as fostering general sales tax sentiment in advance of the 44th legislature's session. She has indicated she will carry on the same fight, if such bills are presented in January, as

John F. Wallace, purchasing member of the board of control, has devised many ways of saving the state money in buying large quantities of supplies for the institutions and departments. Recently he has taken steps to correlate and systematize thousands of separate requisitions into a unified buying system.

Robert I. Wells, intrastate rate expert of the Texas railroad commission, responded to the urgings of the Beaumont port commission and accepted a post as its traffic manager. But the lure of the statewide service was too strong for him; and after a few weeks in his new post, he chose to return to Austin and resume his old duties.

He found the old job waiting for him and so has made plans to return to the capitol on the first of January.

Sen. Archie Parr, retiring Duval county member, opposed this highway for a time, then later succeeded in negotiations to pledge the right of way through large ranch holdings which dominate the county. The highway commission has not been in agreement on the construction project.

Mrs. Hughes universally is recognized as one of the ablest and most effective members of the house, both in debate and legal matters, and in parliamentary skill and generalship.

The Kenedy county short-cut highway, for which the Lower Rio Grande valley and communities along its recent connections have labored, probably will not be built at any early time.

Reports from the group seeking this link to save a 100-mile out-of-line surplus distance on all highway travel to the lower valley counties, indicate that hopes for building this 35-mile highway from federal emergency funds in 1935 have been frustrated. The highway department has not allotted any state-federal money to it. The only hope for several months, has been to get some special government grant outside the federal highway budget.

Christian Endeavor Has Enjoyable Xmas Party Tuesday Nite

One of the most enjoyable parties of the pre-holiday season was the one given by the Christian Endeavor of the First Christian church last night at the home of their sponsor, Mildred Creath.

The rooms were attractively decorated in the holiday colors. Red and green balloons hung from the chandelier lent added gaiety. Interest centered in the tall Christmas tree for which each guest had brought a gift. Everyone was in a happy holiday mood and entered into the jolly games and stunts with zest.

Wynelle Fischer and Rowan Smith won in the candy eating contest. In the alphabetical contest Clarence Alvis and Mary Louise Courson were the victors. Lily Jean Cook and Wynelle Fischer took the prize in the grinning contest. The Red side, with Clarence Alvis as leader, won over Roberta Hinkson's side, the Greens. Claudelle McCoy received the prize in the bean contest. Hartman Hooser and Clarence Alvis gave the best stunt. Doris Shettlesworth, Ruth Dodson and Rowan Smith acted as judges for the evening.

Refreshments of home made candy, pop corn balls, cakes and hot chocolate were served after which the gifts from the tree were distributed.

At the close of the evening, with Doris Shettlesworth at the piano the group reverently sang, "Silent Night."

Those present were: June Cook, Wynelle Fischer, Halle Watson, Julia Fell Greshaw, Jewell Canale, Mary Louise Courson, Doris Shettlesworth, Ruth Dodson, Roberta Hinkson, Ruby Weatherby, Lily Jean Cook, Paula Mae Walker, Mildred Creath, Lorraine Crenshaw, Betty Louise Lawther, John Colcliran, Jack Courson, Marlin Leatherwood, Claudelle McCoy, Rowan Smith, A. Z. Pittman, Hartman Hooser, Fred Savage, Clarence Alvis, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Creath.

Rep. Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, unyielding foe of State sales tax plans, is in Austin to sit with the senate tax survey committee, now conducting hearings preliminary to its draft of tax policy recommendations.

Mrs. Hughes and other house members who had been active in tax legislation were invited by the senators to take part in the survey proceedings.

The Dallas woman legislator so far outgeneraled proponents of the sales tax bills in the regular session last year, that she succeeded in final passage in the house of her counter plan of an income tax. The sales tax bill died short of a vote on final passage.

Mrs. Hughes recently has made a number of speeches in which she has traced the efforts of those groups now regarded as fostering general sales tax sentiment in advance of the 44th legislature's session. She has indicated she will carry on the same fight, if such bills are presented in January, as

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

Chapter 15 NICK'S STORY

With that delightful half grave, half mischievous smile of hers, Molly rose from her chair. "I am glad to meet you," she said simply. "I know you must be very nice or Nick wouldn't be so fond of you."

Jerry achieved a highly creditable bow, and then straightening himself, looked at her admiringly.

"You'll forgive my being a bit dazed," he remarked, "but you see I wasn't exactly expecting a party."

"Molly's not a party," I explained. "She's more in the nature of an accident." I pulled up a chair, "sit down, Jerry," I added. "You're going to listen to the most amazing yarn you've ever heard, but that's no reason why you shouldn't be comfortable."

"The difficulty," I added, looking from one to the other of them, "is that I'm hanged if I know where to begin."

"I want to hear as much as I can," Jerry thrust his hands into his pockets and stretched out his long legs. "At present all I know is what I saw in the papers last night and this morning. I've read the judge's summary up, but outside of that I'm absolutely in the dark about the whole business. You start right at the beginning and tell me everything."

I reflected for a moment. "The beginning," I said, "was when I ran into Osborne in Villiers Street. It was late one night, about a week after Nick's party, and I'd been dining with a pal of mine at the Savoy Club. On my way to Charlie Cross I saw a chap standing under a lamp-post lighting a cigarette. I thought his face was familiar and when I got up close I recognized him at once. Except for looking a little older he hadn't altered in the least. You remember what he was like—a tall thin bird with a tight mouth and very black eyes."

Jerry nodded. "I remember him perfectly. Fit of dab in the sticks line, wasn't he—always messing about with test-tubes and Bunsen burners?"

"That's the man," I said. "We were never particular pals, but I used to play him at golf sometimes, and you know how it is when you come across anyone you were in school with. Of course I stopped to have a chat, and in the end we went along together by the same train as far as Tottenham Court Road. "He didn't talk much about himself. Said he'd been out in the States for some years and was back here on a holiday. He asked me if I kept up with any of the old crowd, and I told him I saw a good deal of you and that we did a bit of sailing together in the summer. "When we said good-bye, I gave him my address and invited him to look me up. I heard nothing more of him for three or four days; then one afternoon he sent me a note from some house in Holland Park asking me if I'd come round and see him that evening.

"I wasn't keen about it, but having nothing special to do I thought I might as well go. Well, after I'd had some grub I walked across the Park as far as Portland Road. It came on to rain then, so I took a taxi. I must have got to his place just about nine o'clock. It was a small house with a front garden to it, and when I rang the bell he opened the door himself. I could see at once that he was as jumpy as a cat."

"How do you mean?" asked Jerry.

"All on edge," I explained, "keeping himself in—like a man who's frightened and doesn't want to show it. He took me along to his study and gave me a drink, and for some time we sat there talking about old days, and the fellows we used to know and all that kind of thing.

"Then at last he came to the point. He told me that he was anxious to buy a boat, and as I knew a little about sailing, he thought that perhaps I wouldn't mind giving him my help and advice. Of course, the first question I asked him was what kind of a boat he was looking for.

"He said he wanted one in which it would be safe to cross the Channel, and one which, at the same time, two men could handle more or less comfortably. Something about twelve or fourteen tons, with an auxiliary engine. Now, as it happened, I knew that there was a yawl of exactly that type for sale at Brightlingsea. The price was three hundred and fifty, and for a man who could afford it she was well worth the money. "I gave him the particulars, and then he asked me as a great favor whether I'd go down there myself, fix the thing up straight away, and find him a paid hand who would stand on for a trip to the other side. "It struck me as an odd sort of request to make and I began to wonder whether he'd been doing something fishy, and wanted to sneak off out of the country. However, that wasn't exactly my business. After all there's nothing illegal in buying a yacht for a man, and he seemed to be in such a state of nerves and so desperately anxious for me to say yes, that in the end, like a fool, I agreed to act for him.

"He lugged out five hundred pounds there and then. Of course, I didn't want the responsibility of carting about all that money, but he absolutely insisted on my taking it. He said that I should be able to put the deal through much quicker if I paid in cash, and that after I'd deducted my own expense I could send him back the rest.

"Well, that was that, so to speak. I came back here and next morning I took the first train down to Brightlingsea. The owner of the yawl was a very decent fellow; he let me examine her thoroughly and I could see that she was in first-class condition. I made him an offer of three hundred, and after a bit of arguing we closed the deal at three twenty-five.

"I'd just got out the money to pay him—we were in the local pub at the time—when the door opened and

NAMES KEARNS FATHER OF CHILD

The paternity of a nine-year-old girl, Mary Helen Williams, shown above with her mother, Miss Elizabeth Williams, was under fire in a Los Angeles court where Miss Williams said Jack Kearns (inset), fight manager and sport promoter, was the father. Miss Williams asked that Kearns be made to contribute $150 monthly to the child's support until she is 21 years old. Kearns denied he was the father of the girl. (Associated Press Photos) police walked in an arrested me. I was so staggered I never even drank my fizzy.

"It must have been a bit of a shock," said Jerry. "Still there's no excuse for such carelessness as that." He began rummaging in his side pocket for a pipe.

"How had they got on to you so quick?"

"It all came out at the trial," I explained. "They'd found my name and address on Osborne's blotting pad; that note he'd sent me must have been the last thing he'd written, and then the taxi man who'd picked me up came forward at once and identified me by my photograph.

"Of course, they'd no real evidence against me up till then; what did the trick were those infernal notes. Osborne had drawn them out of the bank that morning, and there I was with the whole packet actually in my hand."

"But hang it all, you'd a perfectly good explanation!"

"It didn't seem to cut any ice with the magistrate or the coroner's jury," I observed bitterly. "Old Crosswell did his best but he couldn't even get me out on bail. I was flung into a dungeon cell for three weeks, and then hauled out last Monday and charged with being a bloody-minded assassin."

Jerry began to laugh. "Sorry to appear unsympathetic, but somehow or other the whole thing seems so damned funny. Why, one's only got to look at you to see that you're the most good-natured champ in Europe."

"Thank you, Jerry," I said. "Unfortunately the British law isn't run on those sound psychological lines. As a matter of fact, they put up quite a good case against me. Suggested that my story was all bunk—that I'd had a row with Osborne, bashed him on the head and then pinched the money out of his safe. I tell you, it was touch and go at one time. If Barrot hadn't made such a corking fine speech I believe the idiots would have hanged me."

VIRGINIA, 6, RUNS TWO MILES UNDER ONE HOUR

CLEVELAND (UP)—Six-year-old Virginia Wahl is only in kindergarten now but she may become a champion long-distance runner when she grows up.

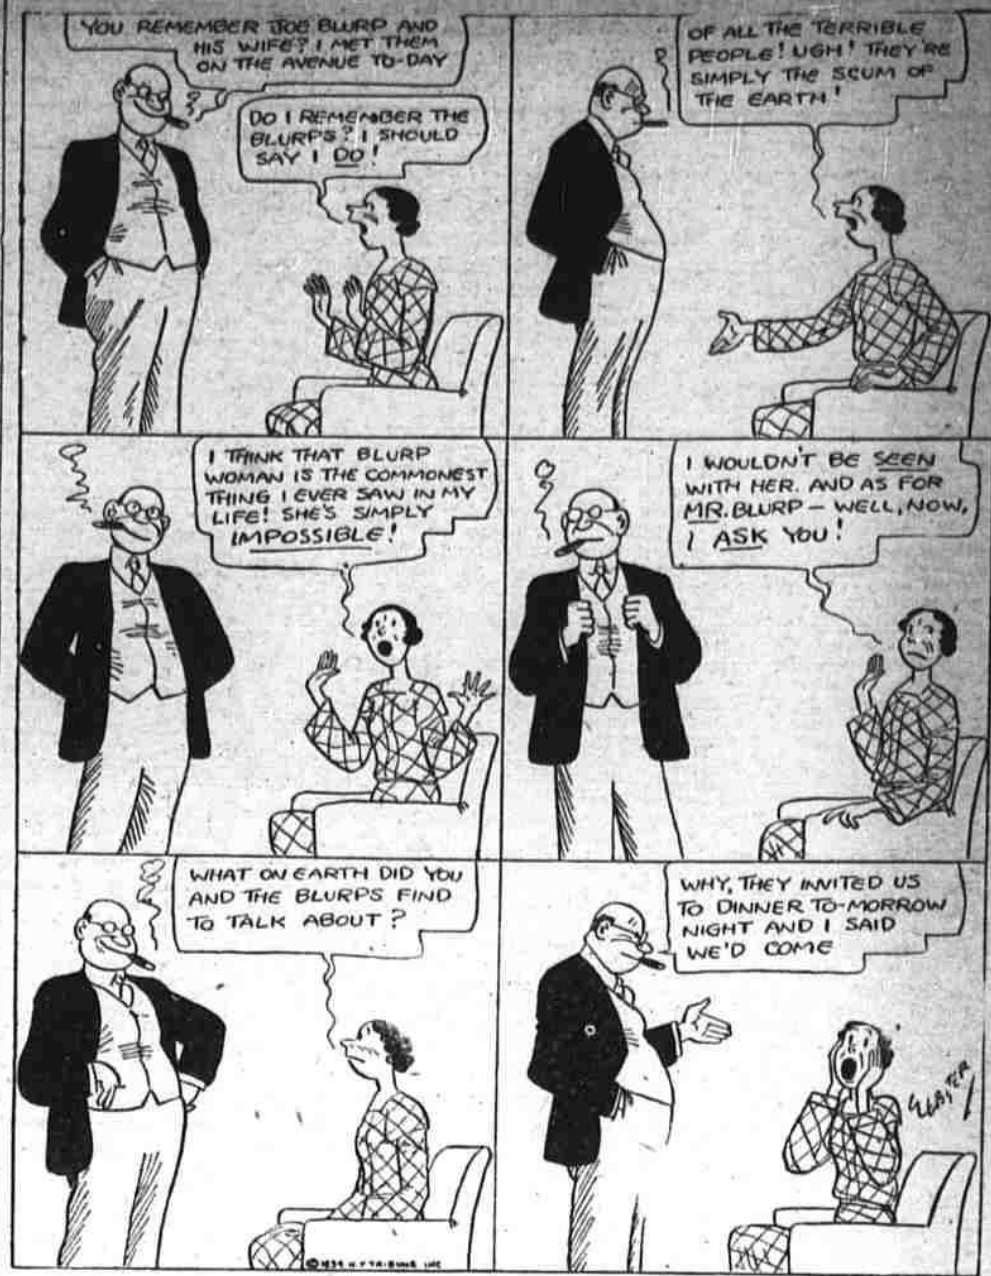

After school one afternoon she appeared suddenly on the front porch of her grandparents' home on the west side and announced "I'm going to stay for dinner."

Her grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Elias, said, "Fine, who brought you from school?" Virginia said she walked.

She had run all the way from her school, more than two miles, in less than an hour. Her mother, Mrs. R. C. Wahl, was just ready to ask police to look for Virginia when the grandmother called to tell her of the little girl's sprint.

EUROPEAN ARTISTIC EDUCATION SUPERIOR

The excellent of the performance of the youngsters in the Vienna Choir Boys at their appearance here last Friday was an additional but unnecessary piece of evidence in support of the often-made statement of the superiority of European and American education in things artistic and cultural. We can think of no American educational institution which might produce a like organization. The boys in the choir, all well-trained and experienced singers, have hardly reached the age at which most American children begin their musical training.

There is no lack of patriotism in recognizing our own limitations. American education must take the older and more staid European artistic education as a model of achievement and must strive to perfect our system for similar results.

NOTES FROM THE CLASS ROOM

The members of the Speech class are making great headway on their Puppets show. The furniture has been arranged and the curtains have been put up.

Miss Adkins' P. E. Class is planning to make a Christmas wreath for the room from cedar branches.

The First Year Foods Classes are planning to decorate the room for Christmas. The Foods Classes are celebrating the Christmas season by making popcorn balls and serving them Friday, after a Christmas program. The Foods Classes wish all other High School classes a happy holiday season.

An L. S. Smith Typewriter man was here Friday from Abilene and worked on the typewriters in the typing room.

The Spanish Classes have been busy putting up Christmas decorations in the Spanish room.

The 11A English classes under Mr. Matthews instruction have wanted studying punctuated.

Mrs. Bumpass is taking her 2A History class on a book trip to China.

Christmas Suggestions: For Her

By FRANCES STAMPER
First it might be well to warn the boys not to let some enterprising saleswoman get a $1.95 of their father's hard earned money for one of the following gifts—A pin-needle game, diary, or a book. However, some of the fathers are dropping suggestions to the boys to give their daughters a nice up to date clock.

The girls of B. S. H. S. understand that 1934 is a depression year and therefore will appreciate anything (almost) that the boy friends can afford to give them. Here are a few hints to the boys who may have been visiting stores with puzzled looks:

All sorts and kinds of perfume—Evening in Paris is preferred.

Then a vanity, a make-up set, bracelets, nose, costume jewelry, what-nots, scarfs, watches, imported handkerchiefs, stationery, longling pajamas, suede jacket, all types of lingerie.

The Literary Digest for December 15, 1934 tells us, among numerous other things, of "America's naval warning to Japan."

Japan has been warned that if she annuls the Washington treaty she may expect a free-for-all naval building race. President Roosevelt is ready to go ahead with a naval construction program which will outstrip Japan.

The chief Japanese technical delegate in the London conversation took exception to the major points in the Davis speech. He insisted that the Washington treaty did not give Japan adequate security and emphasized that the development and radius of action of air-craft and war ships since 1922 had increased Japan's insecurity.

He insisted Japan did not want naval competition, but simply asked for a new agreement for reduction of limitation that would be fair to her.

Japanese propagandists accused America of desiring to expand its navy "for subjugation of the world."

A 25 grain gold nugget was given by F. F. Gill, miner, for his subscription to a Baker, Oregon, newspaper that broke the laws of nature by sprouting twin tops was grown by A. M. Gant of Franklin, Indiana.

Among the students returning from the "old home town" are: Fred Koberg (Texas U.), R. V. A.), Dorothy Driver (C. I. A.), Harvey Hooser (Texas Tech), and Jimmy Lou Goldman (C. I. A.).

Such popular young ladies as some girls grow to be in all one single day—so be the case of ELOISE KUTKENDALL. She rides with HALBERT WOODWARD in the afternoon and J. HUBBARD that night.

JIM BRIGHAM ain't what he used to be since he took the first chaw of Tinsley last Tuesday.

THIS ROBERT HAILEY is fast becoming a reckless youth—only a minute he was sitting with MARGARET SMITH and the next he was putting forth the efforts in search of DORIS CUNNINGHAM—This reckless way of men.

A. Story, "Christmas Bells"—Joe

McGinnis.

And lastly Christmas carols were sung by all.

The club decided that Thursday night at a quarter till nine they would meet at the courthouse and go around town and sing Christmas carols. The club also decided to fill a box for some poor family for a Christmas present.

GAME CALLED OFF
The game scheduled for the Calves-vs.-Colorado last Friday was canceled due to the fact that the boys had practiced but two weeks and were not quite ready. J. W. Howard, center, had an injured heel. Probably a game will be played with Colorado in the near future.

Let us show you a Christmas Card suitable for every person on your list. Cards for Mother, Dad, Husband, Wife, Sister, Brother, Son, Daughter, Granddaughter, Grandson, Grandmother, Aunt, Uncle, "Old Pal", Neighbors, Sweetheart, Boy Friend, Girl Friend and all your friends.

The excellent of the performance of the youngsters in the Vienna Choir Boys at their appearance here last Friday was an additional but unnecessary piece of evidence in support of the often-made statement of the superiority of European and American education in things artistic and cultural. We can think of no American educational institution which might produce a like organization. The boys in the choir, all well-trained and experienced singers, have hardly reached the age at which most American children begin their musical training.

There is no lack of patriotism in recognizing our own limitations. American education must take the older and more staid European artistic education as a model of achievement and must strive to perfect our system for similar results.

NOTES FROM THE CLASS ROOM

The members of the Speech class are making great headway on their Puppets show. The furniture has been arranged and the curtains have been put up.

Miss Adkins' P. E. Class is planning to make a Christmas wreath for the room from cedar branches.

The First Year Foods Classes are planning to decorate the room for Christmas. The Foods Classes are celebrating the Christmas season by making popcorn balls and serving them Friday, after a Christmas program. The Foods Classes wish all other High School classes a happy holiday season.

An L. S. Smith Typewriter man was here Friday from Abilene and worked on the typewriters in the typing room.

The Spanish Classes have been busy putting up Christmas decorations in the Spanish room.

The 11A English classes under Mr. Matthews instruction have wanted studying punctuated.

Mrs. Bumpass is taking her 2A History class on a book trip to China.

Christmas Suggestions: For Her

By FRANCES STAMPER
First it might be well to warn the boys not to let some enterprising saleswoman get a $1.95 of their father's hard earned money for one of the following gifts—A pin-needle game, diary, or a book. However, some of the fathers are dropping suggestions to the boys to give their daughters a nice up to date clock.

The girls of B. S. H. S. understand that 1934 is a depression year and therefore will appreciate anything (almost) that the boy friends can afford to give them. Here are a few hints to the boys who may have been visiting stores with puzzled looks:

All sorts and kinds of perfume—Evening in Paris is preferred.

Then a vanity, a make-up set, bracelets, nose, costume jewelry, what-nots, scarfs, watches, imported handkerchiefs, stationery, longling pajamas, suede jacket, all types of lingerie.

The Literary Digest for December 15, 1934 tells us, among numerous other things, of "America's naval warning to Japan."

Japan has been warned that if she annuls the Washington treaty she may expect a free-for-all naval building race. President Roosevelt is ready to go ahead with a naval construction program which will outstrip Japan.

The chief Japanese technical delegate in the London conversation took exception to the major points in the Davis speech. He insisted that the Washington treaty did not give Japan adequate security and emphasized that the development and radius of action of air-craft and war ships since 1922 had increased Japan's insecurity.

He insisted Japan did not want naval competition, but simply asked for a new agreement for reduction of limitation that would be fair to her.

Japanese propagandists accused America of desiring to expand its navy "for subjugation of the world."

 The administration into an uncomfortable corner.
 New Deal adherents are most apprehensive over selection of Bernard M. Baruch as chairman of the Presidential group. They have visions of the line of questioning the Senate Committee will pursue when Baruch appears before them as a witness.

 Mr. Roosevelt chose Baruch for apparent reasons. The New York financier was head of the War Industries Board in 1918 and for over twelve years he has been perfecting a plan for mobilization of industry in case of future war. Recognized as an authority on the subject, he delivers periodic addresses before the Army War College.
 But while Baruch would eliminate profiteering in connection with our next call to arms, he would permit a "reasonable profit" for those manufacturing the implements of belligerence, direct and indirect.
 What constitutes a "reasonable profit"? Why should one man make any profit while his brother is exposing himself to death as a soldier? This is about what Baruch may expect to be asked by the inquiring Senators.

Tornado
 Men who know the President well are convinced he injected the administration into the situation, not to protect the munitions manufacturers from further disclosures of their tremendous wartime and peacetime profits, but rather because he feared the Senate investigation might develop a public tornado of resentment that would interfere with long-developed plans for national defense. They say FDR has no sympathy for the munition kings. Unfortunately guns and powder are essential to the conduct of a war. Army and Navy authorities would prefer NOT to see the industry nationalized in time of peace. Looking through military eyes they fear it would shrink away to a point where it could not cope with a sudden emergency.
 On the other hand, members of the Senate Committee want nationalization. They want to stop war by stopping the indiscriminate sale of its weapons. They claim our factories are arming potential foes.
Foreign
 Another suggestion put forward has been that Mr. Roosevelt wanted to cut short the Senate inquiry because of international complications its disclosures was developing.
 Envoys of foreign nations here deplored that idea. They say the President's announcement caused far more reverberations in European and Far Eastern capitals than has any development of the Senate inquiry. Although FDR called it "national defense," our foreign neighbors regard it as "preparation for war."
 And there you have some of the reasons Mr. Roosevelt's friends wish he had left the N.Y.E. committee to its own machinations.
Praise
 A prophet sometimes gets his honor if he waits long enough. This time the prophet is Herbert Hoover. His honor comes from President Roosevelt's National Resources Board, headed by Secretary of Interior Ickes and including Frederic A. Delano, the President's uncle, as one of its most active members.
 As you probably have read, the voluminous report of this fact-finding unit endorsed a plan for budgeting public works over a 6-year period. It gave credit to the Federal Employment Stabilization Board for the idea.
 The FESB—if you will pardon alphabetizing another board—was conceived and set up by former President Hoover. When Ickes first tackled the job of spending $3,000,000,000 on public works in 1933 the data collected by this board was about all he had to go on. All of the first big batch of projects approved by PWA in July 1933 were from a list previously scrutinized and okayed by the Hoover agency.
 Not to make the pot on the back too emphatic, the Roosevelt Board added to its approval of the 6-year plan.
 "The work of the stabilization office, however, has been very limited to scope and has left out of consideration many types of balance which are essential to a complete program."

Practical—Recently Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana was in Washington and called on President Roosevelt and other members of the New Deal. Out in the 2nd Indiana District Fred Landis, a Republican, was elected to Congress by 11,000 votes and then died. McNutt was here mixing medicine to swing that seat back to Rep. George R. Durgan, the incumbent Democrat.
 McNutt explained that when Landis beat Durgan the corn-hog checks had not yet arrived in the district from Washington. Charles A. Halleck, prosecuting attorney of Jasper County, has been named by the Republicans to run in the special election but the Governor makes no bones of his intention of waiting until those corn-hog checks start flowing in before setting the date.
 McNutt, with a wide grin, explained the election board had held there could be no call for a special election until January 3. McNutt is chairman of that board and appointed the other two members.

Calm—Word comes over the grapevine that the Congressional advocates of nationalization—headed by Senator Nye—can probably swing one concession if they're insistent enough. That would be a provision to have the government take over certain specific industries—including munitions and shipbuilding—for duration in the event of war.
 There won't be even a peep of protest from the industries affected if this is done. Their leaders privately figure the next war involving the U. S. is a long way off—so why not yield the shadow if it helps insure the substance of continued private ownership in peacetime. Besides there's always the hope—however faint at present—that a new and more "reasonable" crowd will be running things in Washington if and when such an emergency develops. So why make a fuss?

Claude Swindell Loses To Altman
 Claude Swindell was too light for Dutch Altman, in their match at the Big Spring Athletic Club Tuesday night.
 Anyhow, he was just trying to do his part by taking the pieces of the Mexican champ, Ramon Vellita, on the program. When time came for the match the champ failed to show up.
 Claude did his "little" best—and that was not enough, being outweighed about twenty pounds Dutch had little trouble in romping home with a win.
 Benny Wilson got plenty of revenge when he threw Eddie O'Shea in two straight falls as the result of a terrific brawl in which the referee was involved considerably at times. Both contestants were plenty rough and tough but Benny won the first fall in about 30 minutes with a flying leg hold and the second with a top body-pin in 15 minutes after two body slams had put Eddie at his mercy. Eddie was not interested particularly in what Dutch had to say after the second slam had laid him low.

Mrs. Leonard Van Open Is Hostess To N.M.C.'s
 Mrs. Leonard Van Open gave the members of the N. M. C. Bridge Club a good time Tuesday afternoon when she was hostess for the annual holiday party.
 Mrs. Wilson was awarded a lemon squeezer for high prize and Mrs. P. C. Van Open a set of whatnot ornaments for consolation. The floating prize, a set of cleansing tissues and individual powder puffs, went to Mrs. Chapman.
 After the games gifts were distributed to each member.
 Present were: Meses. Gene Wilson, F. C. Van Open, Jim Chapman, M. C. Lawrence, Clarence Miller, A. J. Pierson and W. M. Dehlinger.
 Mrs. Chapman will be the next hostess and will entertain on January 8.

Reforms
 The questionnaire sent out to Exchange members a few weeks ago gave them a well-chance to air their grievances—and they did! Strong pressure has developed from the rank-and-file to break up the system which gives the Old Guard a stranglehold on Exchange management. Two reform suggestions repeatedly stressed show how the wind blows.
 One is to take the selection of officers and committees away from the nominating committees—which are in the hands of a few of the mass of members to their own nominating. Under present conditions elections are a joke. No one not included in the official slate has a chance. If this change were made the elections would be wide open. Many members feel the authorities would be more responsive to their wishes if they were more vulnerable to votes.
 The other is to shorten the term of office for governors on the ground that time-hardened policies tend to be self-perpetuating when a majority of governors hold over each year. There's a widespread feeling that frequent injections of new blood would help.
 The Exchange has made a number of gestures lately to cultivate good will. Insiders say their real object is not so much to woo the public as to soothe the discontent of the many members who blame the present management for a lot of their troubles and are fed up with autocracy.
Banquet
 The bankers are recovering from Jesse Jones' blast at them for not boosting the mortgage market and have thought up several retorts. One is that they would think more of Mr. Jones' generous offer to match capital contributed by banks with RFC money dollar for dollar if he didn't insist that RFC claims must rank ahead of their investments.
 They also suggest that a mortgage corporation such as Mr. Jones wants should be financed by private investors rather than banks. "But what percentage does the government give the investor? He'd get all tangled up in the Securities Act and if he made any money it would probably be grabbed off in taxes. The prospect is about as enticing as a banquet of spinach."
Job
 One of the busiest bodies in town is the Law Committee of the Stock Exchange. It seems that Joe Kennedy's subordinates have drafted a flock of detailed regulations for trading and set them up for the Exchange to look over before they are finally adopted.
 Experts insist that nine-tenths of them are wholly impractical. But it wouldn't be polite to say what they privately think—that farmhands shouldn't try to repair watches. So the Law Committee has to analyze each prospective regulation in detail and explain tactfully in words of one syllable why it won't work. One member says the job takes more patience and concentration than eating out of a fork.
