PAMPA - Workers with the City of Pampa Water Department are urging parents to ensure children's safety concerning the water meter

According to city employee Joseph Palma, it has been recently discovered that children are lifting off the lids of the water meter boxes to look for frogs, lizards and other "catchable creatures." However, the lids are not being returned to their boxes, causing a potential hazard to residents and children.

Unsuspecting residents could very easily step into the hole and hurt themselves if the lids to the water meters are not placed back, said Palma. In addition, the possibility exists that the children lifting the lids off the meters could also be bitten by spiders, snakes and other potentially dangerous animals that live in the dark, wet climate.

Because of these potential hazards, the Water Department is asking parents to keep a close eye on their children and make sure the water meter lids stay in place.

PAMPA - City commissioners will hold their regular meeting Tuesday, May 13, at 6 p.m. in the city commission chambers at City Hall.

Items on the agenda include a bid for a sanitary landfill compactor that was tabled at the April 22 meeting, a bid for tax collection services and the consent agenda.

Discussion at the workshop meeting will center around a shade project presented by the Parks and Recreations Advisory Board and reviews of The Summit subdivision and the seal coat program. The workshop session will begin at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the third floor conference room in City Hall.

MIAMI - The Miami Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 12, at the Adminstration Office, 321

Agenda items include election of new board officers, approval of minutes, any request from the audience, general information and the superintendent's reports.

The board also will consider financial reports on budget comparison, fund balances, lunchroom, the tax collector's report and other related reports. Other business items include discussion of exit level TAAS test results and personnel matters.

Seven inmates injured in fight at Spur prison

SPUR, Texas (AP) - At least seven prisoners were injured following a disturbance at a privately run institution that remained locked down Saturday with inmates from Montana, Colorado and Hawaii.

The Dickens County Correctional Center was placed in lockdown Friday evening, according to officials of the Austin-based corporation that operates the facility.

Terry Pelz, director of operations for The Bobby Ross Group Inc., said none of the injuries was life-threatening.

Five inmates have been treated and released from hospitals in Crosbyton and Lubbock. Two inmates were in satisfactory condition on Saturday at University Medical Center, a hospital official said.

"No staff injuries occurred," said Pelz. "I am pleased that the staff responded promptly to bring this situation under con-

Several inmates started fighting in the prison's recreation yard about 8:30 p.m. Friday. As many as 100 inmates were in the yard at the time.

Dickens County Sheriff Ken Brendle said the cause of the fight is under investigation.

About 480 out-of-state inmates are imprisoned at the facility about 60 miles east of Lubbock. It has been the site of several other disturbances.

In August 1996, a protest by inmates from Montana and Hawaii ended with warning shots being fired. The warden lost his job after the uprising.

The demonstration began when about 120 inmates from Montana and Hawaii refused to begin work assignments or return to their barracks in a protest over medical care, food and strip searches. Rubber riot pellets were fired at the inmates, but the 3 1/2hour protest didn't end until warning shots were fired using live ammunition.

One Montana inmate was wounded in his shoulder.

Officials said 141 inmates were transferred in November 1996 from Colorado prisons to the correctional center to relieve crowding.

Another 251 Montana inmates were sent to the prison in two contingents, in June and in August. They were transferred to make room at the Montana State Prison for a backlog of inmates being housed in overcrowded county jails.

The state had expected to pay Dickens County $3.6 million a year to house Montana inmates

Spur, a city of 1,300, relies on cotton and the privately operated prison, which is countyowned, for its economy.

Last year, the chairman of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice criticized escapes and disturbances at private prisons operating in the state and urged the Legislature to make tougher regulations a top criminal-justice

Some feared that Texas was becoming a "dumping ground" for the worst criminals from prison systems in other states.

Jon Benet's parents offer reward

JonBenet Ramsey's parents have taken out a newspaper ad hinting that their daughter's killer may have attempted to prey on other children in the area.

The ad, due to run in Sunday's Daily Camera, seeks "information concerning an adult male approaching young children in Boulder in late 1996," family spokeswoman Rachelle Zimmer said Friday. The 6-year-old beauty queen was found strangled in the basement of her home on Dec. 26, about eight hours after her

District Attorney Alex Hunter said last month that the Ramseys who hired their own attorneys, experts and investigators shortly after the slaving – were the focus of the investigation.

Police spokeswoman Leslie Aaholm said she was unaware of any reports of men approaching children in late December.

One expert dismissed the family's latest move as "an attempt to sway public opinion and get the focus off them."

Pampa's Columbia Medical Center has been ranked at number five in the hospital and medical services chain.

Pampa's Columbia Medical Center ranks fifth in chain for second time

Columbia Medical Center of Pampa was ranked number five for the second time this year from among over 300 Columbia facilities across the nation, according to Terry Barnes, Columbia Medical Center of Pampa marketing director.

The ranking is based on several objectives including patient satisfaction and growth in patient services.

"This is an especially great tal, states, "Throughout the past honor for our local hospital year the hospital has reorga-because of the number of Columbia facilities in the country plus the high expectations Columbia sets for each of its facilities," said Barnes. "We owe this special recognition to Columbia Medical Center's dedicated employees, volunteers and physicians. We also thank Pampa and the surrounding area for your support."

nized and expanded emergency, surgical, physical therapy and other services and have focused, and will continue to do so, much effort on physician recruitment."

He adds, "Community and staff education have become a major priority. Our future plans include expansion and enhancement of services."

The Pampa facility received word of its ranking in the chain in time for the observance of National Hospital Week.

Thornberry touts need to reform taxes during observance of Tax Freedom Day

AMARILLO - U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry paid a visit to the kitchen of a local home, in Amarillo Friday to make a pitch for tax reform on Tax Freedom Day, the day on which Americans pay off their local tax burden and start working to pay themselves.

"For most Americans," Thornberry said, "April 15 is the day when the full effect of the nation's tax system hits closest to home. But April 15 is only part of the story. To understand the true effect of the tax system and the impact it has on our lives, you've got to take a look at how long it takes us to pay off our total tax burden each year."

According to Thornberry, Tax Freedom Day is a fiscal barometer designed to measure the portion of the American budget that goes to pay taxes.

"In 1997, Americans worked 128 days to pay off this burden," o understand the true effect of the tax system and the impact it has on our lives, you've got to take a look at how long it takes us to pay off our total tax burden each year.'

the Republican congressman said. "Looked at another way, up until now, people have been working to pay the government. As of today, we're working to pay ourselves. "This is the longest Americans have had to work to pay off their total tax burden," Thornberry continued. "It's also another reason why we need to scrap the current tax system and replace it with one that's flatter, fairer and easier for people to understand." Over the years, Tax Freedom Day has gradually fallen later and later on the calender, he noted. In 1922, for example, less than a decade after the Revenue Act of 1913 imposed a federal income tax on the American people, Tax Freedom Day fell on Feb. 17.

Shortly after America's entry into World War II in 1942, Tax Freedom Day fell on March 30. When Lyndon Johnson introduced his Great Society program in 1965, Tax Freedom Day moved to April 14. By the time President Clinton took office in 1993, Tax Freedom Day had moved to May 2.

Earthquake in Iran flattens villages, at least 1,000 dead

powerful earthquake destroyed 80 villages in the remote mountains of northeastern Iran on Saturday, killing at least 1,000 people and injuring 5,000. Survivors frantically pulled victims from collapsed buildings.

Iran appealed for international aid for the stricken villages and towns, many of them cut off by landslides triggered by the quake. Volunteers have been rushed to the region to help dig out the dead and injured, staterun radio said.

The earthquake struck at 12:28 p.m. with a moment magnitude of 7.1, according to the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo. It was centered 65 miles north-northeast of Birjand, near the town of Qaen, about 70 miles west of the Afghan border.

Most of the damage was in communities in the 60-mile stretch between Birjand and Qaen, an official in the governor's office in Birjand told The Associated Press. He identified himself only by his last name,

"We have pulled out scores of people from under the rubble, MASHHAD, Iran (AP) - A and relief operations are still going on," he said. "Some were pulled out dead, and some died on the way to the hospital. But we still cannot say how many have died."

> Some of the villages are more than 90 miles away from a hospital, Maleki said. Interior Minister > Mohammad Besharati asked for international aid, saying Iran was "ready to receive assistance from our God-seeking compatriots and from those countries that would like to assist the earthquake victims," Tehran television reported.

> The radio broadcast an urgent appeal for surgical teams, medical supplies, tents, food, water tankers and ambulances.

> It said that water and power lines to the stricken villages, which typically consist of mud houses, had been severed.

The Islamic Republic News Agency said the quake killed 1,000 people and injured some 5,000. State-run Tehran radio had reported 40,000 people were injured, but Nasser Arbabi, an official at the station, later said the figure was incorrect.

BEAUMONT (AP) - A Texas minister has received a sign from the heavens in the form of a marble-sized meteorite that crashed into his roof.

The Rev. Howard Cameron was shaving May 2 when the meteorite, sailing at up to an estimated 40,000 miles per hour, slammed through the roof of his house and embedded itself into a bedroom closet.

The sound woke up Cameron's wife and 7-year-old daughter. Cameron thought that there might have been a chemical plant blast.

"I felt the shock waves like when there's an explosion at one of the plants," he said. But while cleaning gutters, he stumbled upon a perfect circular hole in his roof.

"I mean it was like something hit it with a hole punch," said Cameron, who contacted nearby Lamar University.

On Wednesday, the meteorite was located and is now being studied by Lamar geology professor Jim Jordan.

"It's rare to observe a fall. It's even rarer to be a scientist who studies meteors and observe a fall in your hometown," Jordan said. About 3,000 meteorites strike the Earth daily. Only a few thousand have ever been found. "We're not really concerned the mass is not so huge. In fact we're glad," Jordan said. "If it had been bigger it would have destroyed the whole house."

Pampa Cancer Support Group to have forum

The Pampa Area Cancer Support Group will hold an open forum on Thursday, May 15, in which members and visitors will be able to talk of many concerns relating to themselves or a family member or friend who is suffering the effects of cancer.

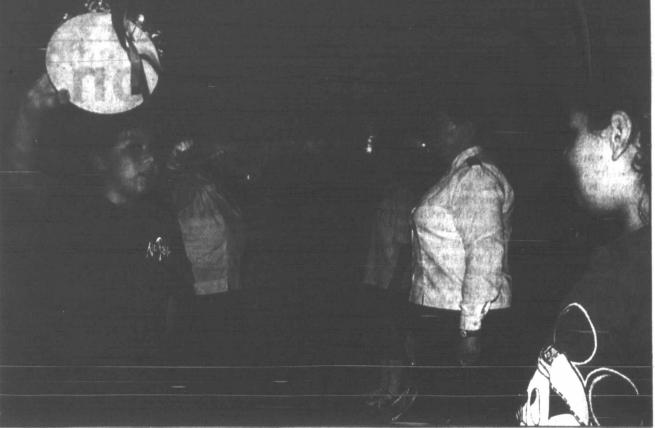

"Many have expressed a desire to have an open forum program in which we discuss whatever issues or concers are on our minds, and in May's meeting we will be able to do that," said Kathy J. Gist, PACSG moderator for the monthly meetings.

Opinion

Immigration issue should be open

Last year's immigration "reform" bill was supposed to be about getting stricter on illegal immigration. But there were those who suspected from the first part of the aim was surreptitiously to restrict legal immigration.

That suspicion seems to be borne out in key provisions of the new immigration law that took effect March 31-April 5.

"It was important to emphasize that immigration is for work, not for welfare," Philip Peters, a senior fellow specializing in immigration issues at the Alexis de Tocqueville Institute in Washington, told us. "The new law does that by requiring sponsors to legally commit that the immigrants they sponsor not go on public assistance." But a related provision isn't necessary and, in fact, goes much too far, he added. This rule requires that someone earn at 125% of the poverty level in order to be allowed to sponsor an immigrant

As now interpreted, the law would take into account the income of only one person - the official sponsor - ignoring other incomes in a household that might contribute to an immigrant's support.

'And it doesn't take into account, for purposes of getting to that 125 percent figure, the earning power of the immigrant himself, even when a job is available," Peters pointed out. "This will have the effect of cutting immigration and turning away immigrants who are willing and eager to work hard."

Why make immigration sponsorship the prerogative of the comparatively well-off? The aim of making sure immigrants stay off welfare has already been accomplished through the new welfare-reform law, which denies benefits not just to illegal immigrants but to legal immigrants as well. Going beyond that with the 125 percent-of-poverty requirement for an individual sponsor ure overkill," Peters observes.

It strikes at this nation's tradition of allowing reasonable opportunities for immigrants willing to work and play by the rules. And it is self-defeating in that it robs us of the energies of people who seek only to contribute to our economy.

If the aim was to curtail legal immigration, the fair and just thing to do would have been to announce that goal publicly and debate it in open legislative hearings and on the floor of Congress. To restrict immigration on the sly not only circumvents democratic procedures, it risks giving us policies that are distorted and unfair because they haven't been properly scrutinized and ventilated through the lawmaking process. The losers aren't just the families that seek to sponsor loved ones. Our economic vibrancy and our core principles as a nation of opportunity are

NHTSA position on air bags

Last February, I wrote about the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's air bag safety coverup and the 52 deaths (32 were children) caused by 200 mph deploying air bags.

Then there were air bag lies. In 1977, the Transportation Department claimed that air bags "protect automobile occupants from collision injuries, without the need to fasten seatbelts or take any other action." The 1979 head of the NHTSA, Joan Claybrook, said, "It was possible to design air bags that will meet the performance criteria and will provide a high level of protection for children whether they are seated properly or

I ended the column suggesting that Americans ought to be free to choose whether to have air bags or not. After all, the additional safety benefit air bags provide, for seatbelt-wearing passengers, is virtually zero.

Acting under the assumption of being an emancipated adult, living in a free country, I wrote the following letter to John Womack, acting chief counsel of the U.S. Department of Transportation: "Dear Mr. Womack: I am very concerned for my safety in light of a number of recent reports about air bags going off and killing people. I herein request permission to have the air bag in my car deactivated. Thank you for your assistance.

More than a month later, I received an answer from James R. Hackney, director of the office of crashworthiness standards, that in part, read: "In your letter, you request approval to disconnect one or both of the air bags in your vehicle. I regret to inform you that, at this time, we cannot grant your request to authorize your auto dealer or repair shop to disconnect your air bags.

Then he went on to talk about NHTSA plans to mandate "smart air bags" in 1999 "... that will stop air bags from deploying under unsafe conditions or effectively tailor the speed of the deployment to match the size of the occupant and the crash cir-

How do you like that for elitist bureaucratic arrogance? Hackney implicitly concedes there's a and like my mother - you have the right to control safety issue with air bags deploying "under my life. unsafe conditions" and deployment speed not matching occupant size and crash circumstances. But more importantly, who in the world does he think he is to tell me that he's not granting me permission to take a measure that might save my life?

Moreover, I'd like to know what specific article in the U.S. Constitution that authorizes the NHTSA to command Americans to suffer the indignities of paternalism and the additional risks of air bags. Or, does the NHTSA share my mother's attitude when I was a child? "There's no constitution in this house; you do what I say!"

Whether air bags are safe or unsafe is not the real issue. The real issue is whether Americans shall be free to choose. The elitist arrogance, demonstrated by the NHTSA's letter, is a direct result of an American general willingness to sacrifice liberty for safety.

The elitist response to calls for liberty might be, "Williams, if you don't have an air bag in your car, or wear a seatbelt, you might become a burden on society if you're injured and can't take care of yourself."

That's not a problem of liberty; it's a problem of socialism. In a free society, another can't be compelled to take care of me for any reason. Under socialism, you are compelled to take care of me -

As for me, I'll take liberty over nannyism.

Today is Sunday, May 11, the 131st day of 1997. There are 234 days left in the year. This is Mother's Day.

Bill would improve our economy

All over America, every time a city, county or state uses bonds to buy a road, a bridge, a sewer system or school, they have to buy two - a real one and the cost of another one that goes to pay the interest on the bonds.

This amounts to billions.

Yet, if Congress were to act with the same wisdom as Abraham Lincoln, America's sagging infrastructure could be rebuilt interest-free with no increase in the deficit and no inflationary pres-

Sounds impossible? Well, it's not. In fact, a draft bill that would accomplish this is being circulated around Washington, D.C., right now by a forwardlooking Midwestern congressman. More than 3,000 local governments have looked at the idea and at the draft bill and endorsed it.

There is no trick and no gimmick. It's been done in the past. The only obstacle to overcome is conventional thinking - and the opposition of the bond industry.

The draft bill is called the State and Local Government Empowerment Act. It is being proposed by a nonprofit group called Sovereignty. You can contact Sovereignty at 1154 W. Logan St., Freeport, IL 61032. The principle involved is the same one used by Abraham Lincoln.

As Lincoln prepared to invade my Southern homeland, he found out the banks were eager to finance the war at outrageous interest rates. To heck with that, Lincoln said, the government will not Lincoln, but he was damn sure right about this. Empowerment Act is a good idea.

Charley Reese

issue its own money interest-free, and it did: the famous greenback.

You see, the Constitution authorizes Congress to create money. The bill would set up a mechanism by which Congress would create $72 billion, rather than borrow it from banks, which create it. This fund would be lent to state and local governments - interest free - to build infrastructure projects. They would pay it back in equal installments over a 10- to 30-year period as they choose. The government could then use the money paid back to reduce the national debt.

Furthermore, since this is newly created money and would be allotted to state and local governments on a proportionate basis, congressmen wouldn't have to fight like cats and dogs over taxraised funds for infrastructure needs back in their

Lincoln said,"The privilege of creating and issuing money is not only the supreme prerogative of government, but is the government's greatest creative opportunity. By the adoption of these principles, the taxpayers will be saved immense sums of

Well, as a Southerner, my favorite president is

American taxpavers have since been burdened with billions of dollars in interest costs - unneces-

Independent and community banks - the good, hometown banks - familiar with the idea are not

The Community Bankers Association of Illinois said, "We see the demise of the tax base in the communities we serve. They cannot keep up with the necessary repair and replacement of needed infrastructure. On top of that has come the unfunded mandates from the federal and state governments. We see the Sovereignty proposal as a help to these communities and the citizens therein, who are our customers."

Think of the benefits. In Rockford, Ill., where a wacko federal judge has ordered the local school board to borrow money to build three schools he has ordered them to build, the estimated cost of the schools is $52 million. The interest costs are $67 million. That means taxpayers would have to pay $119 million to build $52 million worth of schools.

No matter what project you think of, its cost is doubled or more by interest and bond fees. It would be interesting to find out what the total bonded indebtedness is for the 50 states and all the local governments. I haven't been able to find the figure yet, but perhaps it's out there somewhere.

Clinton scandals keep comir

R. Emmett Tyrrell Jr.

In Boy Clinton's Washington, it has come to pass that stupidity is the best defense. And if one has committed as many blunders, misdemeanors and felonies as the Clintons, one will be on the defense much of the time. It is but another indication of the Clintons' infantile narcissism that they cite the mass of charges against them as a sign of how intensely they are victimized rather than as a sign of how frequently they have toyed with the law. What they in their megalomania decry as persecution may soon be prosecution - or the stupidity defense works.

The unprecedented amount of foreign money, foreign agents and felons that they lured into funding their last campaign is a perfect example of their frivoling with ethical standards and the law. Through their amazing Attorney General Janet Reno, they have stonewalled the requisite mustering of an independent counsel. Her defense is a variation of the Clinton administration's stupidity defense. She simply refuses to perceive what her critics perceive. Call it the stubborn variation of the stupid defense, but her critics are right; there appears to be abundant evidence of breaches of the law.

Reno is, along with Big Fat Livingstone and Even Fatter Marceca, the perfect practitioner of the stupidity defense. Anyone watching her drone on in placid ignorance of the law during her recent hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee can recognize her talent for the stupidity defense. From Sen. Orrin Hatch on, one senator after another raised evidence of campaign plaint. If the Clintons can just get Burton indicted, differs from Nixo irregularities that demanded an independent perhaps the heat will be off them - temporarily. many Watergates.

counsel, but the attorney general remained inert. After watching her performance, a local consiglieri of note and wit described her as a perfect "combination of Forrest Gump and Elsie the Cow." Were a senator to question her too diligently, he might be accused of cruelty to animals. Actually, he might face protests not only from the animal rights movement but also from mental health advocates. At any rate, let the evidence of foreign-influence peddling mount. Reno will remain stupid and immobile.

Unless, of course, her bosses Boy Clinton and Hillary Milhous Clinton are faced with a House chairman subpoenaing documents for his investigations into White House illegality. Then, she is alert to every allegation of wrongdoing. Since last October, Rep. Dan Burton, chairman of the Government Reform and Oversight Committee, has been seeking White House documents related to campaign irregularities, especially those involving John Huang, Pauline Kanchanalak and Charles Trie. Since then, an American lobbyist for Pakistan has claimed that Burton put the arm on him for a campaign donation. The Pakistanis deny it. Burton denies it. But hesto presto, Reno's

For now, the White House continues to stonewall Burton's requests.

In March, Burton subpoenaed those documents. He is now preparing contempt-of-Congress charges. And he is not the only one pursuing documents from the stonewalling White House. Independent counsel Kenneth Starr is seeking notes that former White House special counsel Jane Sherburne took from her conversation with Hillary Milhous as the first lady slithered away from a grand jury appearance. A three-judge panel ruled the White House had to comply with Starr's request. The White House now plans to take the matter to the Supreme Court.

We are back to 1974 and a president taking his case to the Supreme Court. Things are warming up. From campaign irregularities to Whitewater, from hush money for Webb Hubbell to misuse of the FBI, from Filegate to Travelgate, the most corrupt administration in American history now faces the oncoming wheels of justice. Stonewall if you will. Claim stupidity, snafus or any other puerile excuse. But may I direct the Clintons to some of Hillary Milhous' best legal work? On July 30, 1974, the House Judiciary Committee adopted Article III for Richard Nixon's impeachment, result of the president's continual refusal to conply with House subpoenas. And before that there was Article II, his abuse of power and misuse of the FBI and CIA. The first article, of course, was Justice Department is investigating the dubious obstruction of justice for the president's coverup lobbyists. A grand jury has already heard the comof the Watergate affair. Yet, this administration differs from Nixon's in that there have been so

I always loved my mother but wanted to proclaim it publicly. I got my chance at a women of the church meeting in Norfolk, Nebraska. It was the Thursday before Mother's Day and I was asked to speak. Mother was in the audience and didn't know what I was going to say; indeed, she didn't even know that I was even going to speak at the

Do you remember playing "Let's Pretend" as a child? Well, for the To the editor: next few moments - "Let's Pretend" that I am your daughter. As Mother's Day is soon coming, I'd like to tell you what is in my heart. Mother – I thank you for my life – I've had so many wonderful experiences – I've known the joys of childhood – the highs and lows of being a teenager - the wonder of young womanhood - I've known the love and devotion of a good man - the unutterable joy of nursing my baby for the first time - and for these - I thank you.

I thank you, too, for teaching me to enjoy watching robin's play in the water sprinklers - and to have the patience to feed squirrels by hand.

I thank you for one special Christmas – you know the one I mean. Especially I thank you for my love of reading and music. They have been my joy since a child and will last me my whole life through. Mother, dear, you overdid it a little when you gave me my warped sense of humor, but I've enjoyed even that!

So many things you have taught me - so many things you have given me - not material things - but things like love - care and a beautiful grandmother - I can never repay you, Mother, for sitting up nights when I was sick - for caring enough not to go to sleep at night until I was home from a date – for giving me a sense of values.

But wait – Mother Dear – I have found a way to repay you! I'll pass it on – to my children! What you have done, I hope I can do in some small measure - and so earn the loving title of "Mother."

'I cried - giving the program. My mother cried receiving it All the other ladies cried as though indeed they in spirit received it from their daughters and daughters cried as they in spirit gave it to their

In remembrance of mom

To the editor:

With this being the week for Mother's Day, we would like to share our thoughts about our mother and hope that others can appreciate and remember their moms as we do ours.

One year has gone by, but it seems like yesterday. We miss you, Mom. God looked around His garden and He found an empty place.

his arms around and lifted you to rest. God's garden must be beautiful; He always takes the best. He knew that you were suffering, He knew you were in pain, He knew that you would never get well on earth again. So He closed your weary eyes and whispered "Peace be thine." He then took you up in Heaven with hands gentle and so kind. It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of us went with you the day God called you home.

We love you. The Burns Children

To her American mother

I came to the United States to experience the culture of U.S. and to share my culture with an American family. Living here I have learned much more than culture; I have learned how to love a different language, country and family. I owe everything that I got here to my host family, but mostly to my host mother.

When I arrived here, I was nervous, and my host mom was just a To the editor: name on a paper. Because my mom, in her way, has always been there for me and has always been caring, my year here has become so much

Reasons to keep sales tax

The Pampa Economic Development Corporation is grateful to Warren Chisum for his efforts on our behalf ... to allow the voters of Pampa to continue the half cents sales tax for economic development. The bill was voted out of the House on Monday and should clear the Senate sometime this month.

Subject to the City Commission's decision, you will once again be asked to address this issue at the ballot box. Here are just a few reasons why you can feel comfortable continuing the sales tax:

Since 1994, we have created the potential for 200 new jobs in Pampa, while helping retain many others. Each 100 jobs created means an increase of $3.5 million into our community. Crall Products, Manufacturing are growing and prospering.

And we're not done yet! We have offered many seminars and conferences to local businesses, sponsored luncheons at the Chamber, developed Pampa promotional pieces, produced both a Wage & Benefit Survey and a Labor Survey, generated a strategic plan for Pampa's future and, most importantly, developed a master plan for PEDCO Park, our industrial park. The board will continue a program of development of this park.

And here are a few more reasons why we should continue: Borger,

He then looked down upon this earth and saw your tired face. He put Dumas, Perryton and now McLean. They all have passed the halfcent sales tax for economic development and we're going to have to be able to compete. Without this tax, Pampa will not be playing on the same level field as our surrounding communities, with the result being little or no economic development.

The dollars that have been spent came only as a result of much careful consideration of each project by the board. The board must always ask itself, "Is this good for Pampa?" If that answer cannot be in the positive, it is not considered.

We know asking the community for this money is not a trivial matter. When this issue is brought before you, please consider the good that has already been accomplished and the potential for additional projects that will bring quality jobs and business to our community.

Lewis Meers, PEDCO Board President Susan Tripplehorn, Project Coordinator

Indignant at trial costs

I am indignant, and all of us should be, about the McVeigh trial. Reportedly it will cost the government (us, that is) about $50 million. We are paying for both the twenty-lawyer prosecution and McVeigh's twelve-lawyer defense, all of whom are away from home on fat federal expense accounts!

The farce has been going on for four weeks now, mostly in jury selection, although the past few days have been spent describing the crime, a chore that should have taken about 20 minutes. Jury selection, done properly, might reasonably have required two days. A panel should have been chosen strictly by lot, trimmed a bit by the udge, and further trimmed by a couple of arbitrary challenges from each side. That is the way it has been done throughout most of our

Our criminal legal system is a shambles. It should not be called a criminal justice system, because justice is not its primary goal. Lawyer prosperity is the main goal.

Thanks from Austin staff

To the editor:

We, the faculty and staff at Austin Elementary School, want to thank our parents and families for a wonderful school year. Our parents have supported us in so many ways – from volunteering in our the Intermediate Sanction Facility, Control Equipment and US Bus classrooms, to raising money for "extras," to packing boxes, to pampering us as a staff. At Austin we know that help is just a phone call away! Their help and support are big factors in the continuing success we have had at Austin Elementary.

We were amazed and impressed by the wonderful luncheon provided for us. We definitely felt honored! We want our parents and families to also know how much we appreciate them.

With Sincere Thanks, Stephen F. Austin Elementary Staff

How to be gender smart

Last week, I discussed the importance of women as consumers. They dominate many market segments and are a primary influence in many others. More women are entering high paying professional fields, and many women out-earn their spouses.

So how do you capitalize on this growing market? Here are some thought starters for improving your business batting average with women. These are not my ideas, but rather, those companies whose marketing programs and policies are working.

How to reach female consumers Treat women with respect. Never assume that a female isn't the decisionmaker. Never talk down to a woman customer or ask if she wants to bring her husband in to okay the deal. It is also unwise to stereotype women as not technically adept just because they're female. For example, Studebaker Motor Company actually published a manual that advised women to deal with a flat tire in the following manner: "Put on some fresh lipstick, fluff up your hairdo, stand in the safe spot off the road, wave and look helpless and feminine." You know what happened to Studebaker don't you? Give them information. Women are more discerning today than ever before. However, most require reinforcement of facts before they become comfortable with a purchase decision. Community First National Bank in Fargo, N.D., put together a series of informational luncheons to attract female customers. Women attending the free seminars learned about diversifying investments, teaching children to save and how to reach retirement goals. There were no bank commercials,

Give them value. Value is the relationship of price to quality and quantity. In a 1996 retail survey, more than 50 percent of women questioned reported that they buy their clothing "mostly on sale." However, that same survey reported that women are quite willing to "pay more for quality." Therefore, your offering must be measurable, observable quality if you are going to charge a higher price. Stay focused on the benefits in any marketing presentation. You'll not only need to give female customers good, usable information, but you'll also have to increase their perception of value.

Market to women one at a time. It is a mistake to assume that the growing female market is homogeneous. You cannot use one-size-fitsall marketing philosophies. Women's needs vary greatly and their demographics and psychographics are even more diverse than those of men. Any marketing program aimed at women that doesn't take their individualism into account is destined to fail.

Keep your business clean and attractive. In retail businesses, research shows that women are much more likely to respond positively to cleaner, warmer (more attractive) environment than men. However, a clean store with soft neutral colors is not likely to offend nale customers. So having a spotless and attractive location is a winwin proposition.

Hire female salespeople. Carolyn Verweyst, Manager of Marketing Communications for Whirlpool Corp., believes hiring women for sales positions is smart. "I think women like to buy from women," she said in a recent interview.

Electronics giant, Best Buy, works hard to hire more women. Their salespeople do not receive commissions and therefore are under less pressure to close the deal quickly and move on the next customer. The women-to-women strategy may be most effective when working with a female customer who needs more trust and confidence before make ing a purchase decision.

In summary, I'd advise all businesses to respect the individual, treat every woman with courtesy, go slow in building a relationship of trust and always keep your promises. Becoming gender smart takes a little practice, but is mostly common sense.

Sharp: More banks to go on-line soon

John Sharp said that the number of banking services available to Texans over the Internet is expected to grow to more than 700 community banks throughout the state in the coming

"Texas banks are working hard to stay on the cutting edge of computer technology," Sharp said. "And thousands of Texans with access to the Internet will soon be able to take advantage of these new services."

Sharp said the Independent Bankers Association of Texas has agreed to create a consortium to provide 730 local and community banks with on-line banking services that will work off existing PULSE ATM networks.

The Comptroller outlined the expansion of on-line banking services and other technological milestones, as well as a view of where the banking industry is heading in future years, in the latest issue of Fiscal Notes.

Sharp noted that some 47 million Americans aged 16 or older were using the Internet or on-

BASKETBALL

CLARENDON— Clarendon College's Joel Zehr has been named the 1997 women's basketball coach of the year by the National Small College Athletic Association, the school announced.

Zehr coached the Lady Bulldogs to a second-place finish at the 1997 NSCAA Tournament at Salina, Kan. and a 25-5 record.

Zehr is in his ninth season as the coach of the Lady Bulldogs

ABILENE —Wayne Williams, the women's basketball coach at Midwestern State, has been named to the same position at Abilene Christian University.

Williams, a 1979 graduate of ACU, coached Midwestern State to a 53-35 record during the past three seasons. He replaces Suzanne Fox, who resigned last month after leading the Wildcats to a 117-33 record in five seasons.

FOOTBALL

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Bedford plans to host the inaugural Red River Bowl, pitting the Southwest Junior College Conference football champion against the highestrated junior college team available.

"What's going to happen at Pennington Field Dec. 6 may very well be the best junior college bowl game in the nation," said Joe Mills, president of the conference and chairman of its bowl committee. "It really has that potential."

Southwest Junior College Conference will sign a contract in the next few days, Mills said. Bedford City Council is expected to approve the deal Tuesday night.

The conference features several football powerhouses that have won junior college national championships in recent years. The colleges are Ranger, Cisco Junior, Navarro, Tyler Junior, Kilgore Junior, Blinn, Trinity Valley Community and Northeast Oklahoma A&M.

Putting on the bowl game will cost an estimated $12,000, with the conference paying $9,000 in operating costs, Bedford officials said. About $4,000 will be paid to the SJCC champion and $5,000 to the visiting school.

AUTO RACING

LOUDON, N.H. (AP) -For the third time in 12 races this year, qualifying for the NASCAR Busch Series was canceled Friday due to inclement weather.

But the fifth cancellation or postponement this year this one to set the field for the running Saturday of the United States Cellular 200 didn't bother reigning series champion Randy LaJoie a

"It seems like the rain has been following us from race to race," he said. "We got rained out at Richmond and Hickory, and I did very well both times. So I'm not going to complain too much.

"Hopefully we can get this race in over the weekend."

LaJoie will start his Chevrolet from the pole based on his current owner point standings. Todd Bodine will start his Pontiac on the outside of row 1.

Jason Jarrett, driving for his father, who is racing this weekend in the NASCAR Winston Cup event at Talladega, will make his second career start from the 29th position on the 42-car

"I'm a little bit nervous, but I know I can handle it," the younger Jarrett said.

Bulls regain lead

the demise of the Chicago Bulls.

The defending NBA champions regained the upper hand in the Eastern Conference semifinal with Atlanta, getting a superb effort from their bench Saturday and rolling to a 100-80 rout of the Hawks for a 2-1 lead in the series.

Atlanta, which led 52-46 at halftime, scored only 28 points in the second half, a franchise low for a playoff game.

With Michael Jordan having another poor shooting game and Dennis Rodman a non-factor, the Bulls dominated the fourth quarter behind the play of Brian Williams and Toni Kukoc.

That duo scored 20 of Chicago's 29 points in the decisive final period as the Bulls broke open a tight game and reclaimed the homecourt advantage in the best-of-7 series. Game 4 is Sunday evening at the Omni before the series shifts back to the United Center on Tuesday night.

The Hawks pulled off a shocking 103-95 upset at the United Center in Game 2, Chicago's first home playoff loss since 1995. The Bulls were bickering, complaining about Rodman's antics and then refusing en masse to talk to the media after but still led the Bulls in scoring. their practice Friday.

Jordan did score nine of his 21 points in the third quarter and the Bulls held a 71-68 lead heading to the final period.

That's when the unlikely twosome from the bench took control. Williams got it started, slamming in a follow after Jordan's shot was blocked by Dikembe Mutombo.

Another reserve, Steve Kerr, followed with a 3-pointer and Kukoc hit back-to-back 3s — the second a desperation shot from 35 feet as the 24-second clock was winding down. That gave the Bulls an 84-72 lead and seemed to totally deflate the Hawks.

Williams finished it off with a couple of dunks in the final minute while a sizable group of Bulls fans drowned out those few Atlanta fans who remained at the Omni. Chicago also dominated the boards, 53-36, after being outrebounded in the first two games.

Kukoc finished with 16 points and Williams, showing no effects of a knee injury in Game 2, added 14. Jordan hit only 8-of-20 shots

WT inks two more women cagers

Basketball Coach Bob Schneider has announced the signing of Grayson County College's Kailann Adair and Windi Lackey to national letters of intent to play for the Lady Buffs in 1997-98 as juniors.

Adair, a 5-9 shooting guard from Dallas, averaged 10 points, five rebounds and five assists at Grayson last season as a sophomore. Grayson tallied a 21-9 record in 1996-97. She paced Trinity Valley Community College CANYON - West Texas A&M to a 34-4 record and the national School, Where she graduated in University Head Women's junior college championship as a 1995. She averaged 21 points, five freshman before transferring.

> "Kailann could play point guard for us, as well as the '2' or '3' shooting guard positions," Schneider said. "She is 5-9, a good defender and penetrates well. Kailann is a slasher-type and should come and make an immediate impact because of her experience, defense and ball handling skills."

Franks wins Guymon saddle bronc crown

GUYMON, Okla. - Saddle bronc rider Bret Franks of Goodwell, Okla., scored a record 85 points Saturday aboard Harry Vold Rodeo's Bobby Joe Skoal to pocket $3,372 from the $144,183 Guymon Pioneer Days Rodeo, May 1-4 in Guymon, Okla.

Franks said Bobby Joe Skoal, the 1991-93 PRCA Saddle Bronc of the Year, is the type of horse that makes "guys get on

"He's the kind of horse you can spur and make a good ride on," said Franks. "It's almost more prestigious to score well on him than to win money."

Franks, who has yet to qualify for a National Finals Rodeo, also said his successful winter has been a long time coming.

It's no secret in healthcare that patients respond to the personal touch of caring people. Like the devoted professionals you'll find at Columbia Medical Center of Pampa and Columbia Homecare. The physicians we work with and our employees have a gift for reassuring patients. Through the trials of making life and death decisions, they remain supportive.

National Hospital Week is our opportunity to recognize their hard work and dedication. But is hardly enough to show our appreciation for the whole year. So for all the extra effort you put in, we want to offer our most humble thanks. - Phil House, CED * Rocemery Hydrop, CNO * Creig Gyer, CFO

National Osteoporosis Prevention Week May 11-17, 1997

Are you one of the 25 million Americans with osteoporosis?

Don't wait for a fracture to find out

It is estimated that at age 50, a woman has nearly a 40% chance of developing an osteoporotic fracture during her remaining lifetime. A woman's lifetime risk of hip fracture alone is equal to the combined risk of developing breast, uterine, and ovarian cancer-and up to 20% more women who suffer hip fractures die within one year of the fracture than those of a similar age who haven't suffered a hip fracture.

A bone density measurement is safe, noninvasive, and painless-and it can provide essential health information in just a few minutes.

How to guard against osteoporosis

April Showers bring May flowers which is certainly an option for Mother's Day. Another option is to ensure that you and your mother have good information to help prevent and/or battle the disease - osteoporosis.

First, knowing about your bones and how to keep them healthy would be a good start. Bone is not a hard and lifeless structure, but a complex, living tissue. Bones provide structural support for muscles, protect vital organs and store the calcium essential for bone density and strength.

Because bones are constantly changing, they can heal and may be affected by diet and exercise. Until the age of about 35, you build and store bone efficiently. Then, as part of the natural aging process, your bones begin to estrogen - the hormone that protects against bone loss.

NEW YORK (AP) - In a season crowded with new musicals, The Life emerged last week as the top contender for the 1997 Tony Awards, picking up 12 nominations in the race for Broadway's highest honor.

The Cy Coleman musical, a nostalgic look at the pimps, prostitutes and pushers of Times Square before Disney bought a theater and joined a cleanup of the area, received nominations in most of the performance and technical categories, as well as nods for best score, book, direction and chore-

Steel Pier, a Kander and Ebb musical about a 1930s dance marathon in Atlantic City, received 11 nominations, while a revival of Chicago, the season's biggest hit, was nominated for eight Tonys.

The Life and Steel Pier will face Titanic, a lavish show about the 1912 ocean liner disaster, and Juan Darien, a South American carnival mass that closed in January, for the coveted best-musical prize.

Left out were Jekyll & Hyde, the pop musical based on Robert Louis Stevenson's short novel; Dream, a revue celebrating lyricist Johnny Mercer; and Play On!, which blends Duke Ellington's music with Shakespeare's Twelfth Night.

Awards would boost The Young Man From Atlanta by Horton Foote and The Last Night of Ballyhoo, Alfred Uhry's look at Jewish life in Atlanta in 1939. Both are nominated for best play along with two British imports, David Hare's

New Moms Can Take To Heart Wise Advice For Rearing Kids

DEAR READERS: Today, on Mother's Day, may I take this opportunity to extend congratulations and good wishes to my readers. For those of you who are just starting out on the adventure of motherhood, I would like to share a prayer that was written by the late Dr. Gary C. Myers, the founder of "Highlights for Children," a wholesome, educational monthly magazine. It summarizes beautifully what all of us need to remember.

A PARENT'S PRAYER

Oh, heavenly Father, make me a better parent. Help me to understand my children, to listen patiently to what they have to say and to answer all their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting them, talking back to them and contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Give me the courage to confess my sins against my children and ask their forgiveness when I know that I have done wrong.

May I not vainly hurt the feelings of my children. Forbid that I should laugh at their mistakes, or resort to shame and ridicule as punishment. Let me not tempt a child to lie or steal. So guide me hour by hour that I may demonstrate by all I say and do that honesty produces happiness.

Reduce, I pray, the meanness in me. May I cease to nag, and when I am out of sorts, help me, Oh Lord, to hold my tongue. Blind me to the Readers, I am often asked the significance of wearing a red carnation on Mother's Day. A red carnation is worn to signify that one's mother is living. A white carnation signifies that one's mother is deceased.

There should also be an identifying flower worn by those mothers who chose motherhood by rearing a foster child or stepchild.

And a special place in heaven awaits those mothers who choose a physically or mentally challenged child, knowing that he or she has not only special needs but also requires a superabundance of love, understanding and patience.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANY-ONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE: The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one week to 50 years. Losing one's mother be-fore having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies.

Outlook: The cattle counters tell us that feedlot supplies coming in the next few months are large. The assumption is big numbers - price collapse. This I do not see. There is another side of the equation and it's called demand.

Pork prices have surged of late exports to Japan. At this point I wonder if pork is pricing itself out of the marketplace. Beef is more competitive in relation to pork than perhaps any time in history. Good demand is what will stabilize cattle prices. Don't forget that this heightened beef competitiveness comes just as barbecue season starts full swing. Look for two-sided price action over the coming weeks.

Strategy: Feeders: We continue to hold June 64 and 65 put options for downside "price insurance." They cost us less than $1.50 and have given us peace of mind. Hold until you market your cattle. Put options never limit upside potential-if you have never used them in your operation, perhaps this is something you should look into. Hedges in the far months are not recommended at this time.

Cow/calf operators: We have remained un-hedged in the feeder futures and thus-far this has been the right course of action. As long as the trend appear to be up (it definitely is feeder cattle, not the fats), this is the preferred strategy. Feedlot operators should look at buy hedges in deferred feeder futures.

Traders: We remain long October feeder cattle at 74 or less. Risk to a close under 7150. This is a longer term trade and the upside objective remains open.

Pesticide cleared for seed grain sorghum

Rick Perry announced last week years ago. that Texas farmers producing seed grain sorghum have been granted a crisis exemption from the EPA and will be allowed to use propiconazole, commonly known as Tilt, to control the spread of the fungus Claviceps africana, ergot.

This exemption applies only to producers who will be growing stands of sorghum used strictly for seed. Seed sorghum has longer flowering periods than the hybrid feed grains, which makes it more susceptible to the ergot fungus.

Texas producers grow approximately 250,000 acres of seed sorghum, which accounts for 95 percent of the world's supply of seed sorghum.

The new disease can be effectively controlled by Tilt fungicide used in all sorghum producing grown for seed production. counties in Texas.

"With TDA's quick response to our request we can now use the product immediately in South Texas and the Rio Grande, which will ensure a safe clean supply of seed for next year," Taylor said.

The crisis exemption allows producers to use a controlled pesticide that is not specifically labeled for that particular crop.

The use of the pesticide could save commercial grain producers more than an estimated $17 million, not including the potential and under the exemption can be impact on on the grain sorghum

Taylor said the self pollinating Propiconazole has been used feed grains are not likely to be on Texas wheat and rice crops for adversely affected by the fungus, and if producers using sorghum as hay grazer will follow advised having procedures, ergot should not affect the quality of the bales.

The Texas Department of Agri-

the product. Tilt may be applied just prior to bloom, with two subsequent applications on a five to seven day schedule.

The fungicide should be applied at the rate of 4 fluid ounces per acre in a minimum of 15 gallons of water per acre for ground equipment application or in a minimum of five gallons, with 10 gallons recommended, of water for aerial application.

Only certified applicators, licensed applicators or persons under their direct supervision should use the chemical.

The final application of Tilt should be at least 21 days prior to harvest and applications must not exceed more than 12 ounces per acre per season.

Livestock should not be allowed to graze or be fed treated sorghum, forage, fodder or straw.

Tilt may be used on a maximum of 270,000 acres of grain sorghum.

Texas archaeologists find relics in Chile that may be 20,000 years old

By DICK STANLEY Austin American-Statesman

AUSTIN (AP) - The 20 to 30 people lived in wooden huts covered and carpeted with animal hides, arranged in rows along a creek in what is now a cool, Chile called Monte Verde.

They spent about a year gathering at least 21 varieties of possible medicinal plants, hunting and cooking wild potatoes and animal meat and making stone and wooden tools. Then they moved on.

Muddy, fibrous peat from the creek gradually covered and preserved the sandy site. Now, after 21 years of analysis by scientists at the University of Texas and elsewhere, the artifacts - estimated at 12,500 years old – are chalmajor conclusions: That the peo- debate over the (evolutionary have spun off that one, each iden- Settlement in Chile, with chapters

Octogenarian gains diploma

By CATHY GILLENTINE Texas City Sun

TEXAS CITY (AP) - An 80year-old grandmother who received her GED last week followed the custom of many in her generation - she quit school many years ago to get married.

But after five children, several grandchildren and great grandchildren, Tiny Ellen Honn was ready to walk across the stage at College of the Mainland and join the ranks of those progeny.

She spent a good part of her lifetime raising children. "My oldest was 21 when my youngest was born," she said.

"All of my kids were good students," she said. "Everyone finished high school and some also have college degrees." One of her grandsons will be getting his GED (General Equivalency Diploma) with her.

But it wasn't until she moved to Texas City about a year ago to help her youngest son and his wife with a daycare business that she was pushed back into a classroom, if only briefly.

"They said I had to get my GED in order to be more help at the daycare. And I love working with the children, so I told them if I came close to passing, then I would go ahead and study for

She went to the college, took the tests and surprised herself. She also astonished her kids.

"I passed every test but one and I only missed it by one point," she said. "I had to go back and take the science (section) again.

"There were some words that I had never seen in print, but I knew enough to pass," she added.

She attributes her success to all those years of child rearing. "I had kids in school all my life. I helped them, and I guess I kept

She also had a hobby, sewing, which also helped bring in money for the family for a good many years. She had alterations shops in various places where they lived, and where her husband -86 and finally retired - worked as a barber. All the kids also worked "carrying papers, jerking sodas and baby sitting" to help out the family, she explained.

"We all worked hard and it has been good for us," she said. "My heart breaks for kids who have never been taught the value of work."

She and her husband moved to Texas a little over a year ago to be closer to their children. "We were getting older," she said. They have been married 63 years, but they don't look it.
