The senate passed without amendments the bill to establish the lower Colorado river authority. The vote was 24 to 0, with one pair. The senate bill was sent to the house.

WASHINGTON

Interest—

Political eyes will be focused on Miami next Monday. The American Legion meets in annual convention and the big question, so far as the politicians are concerned, is what action—if any—will be taken on the bonus.

Oldtime Legion wire-pullers think they have the bonus licked but they know they are in for a fight. Recent delegations, some of them big ones, are heading south with instructions to fight for immediate cash payment of the balance due on adjusted service certificates.

White House wave lengths will be tuned in on developments. The federal treasury, according to New Dealers, is in no condition to shell out over two billion dollars in such fashion. If a showdown is forced in the next session of congress President Roosevelt will be making a speech day after tomorrow which may or may not affect the situation. He is due to deliver the principal address at the dedication of the new veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va. All the ex-service outfits are waiting eagerly to see what, if anything, FDR will have to say about cash bonus.

The administration always has one eye in the hole wherever it staves off another congressional dog-fight on this payment issue.

Interest is steadily eating up the balance due those vets who took their first fifty per cent. In fact the government was able to reduce its sinking fund against ultimate bonus payment from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year for this reason alone.

A great many veterans who oppose cash payment of the remainder at the moment believe Uncle Sam might either suspend interest charges altogether or reduce them materially. Such a proposal by the President might well stymie the bonus.

Turman Jury Gives Verdict

Decision On Special Issues Believed Favorable To Mrs. Turman

FORT WORTH — Answering questions on 14 special issues, a seven-member district court jury Tuesday returned a verdict conceded to be favorable to Mrs. Bery Turman in her divorce case against Luther C. Turman holding that she is entitled to the custody of their two children now living with their father in Mexico, D. F.

The jury by its answers found that Turman by his conduct rendered the couple's living together unsupportable and that he took $700,000 in community money with him when he went to Mexico.

On the jurors' answer to the questions submitted them, Judge Frank P. Culver, Jr., will enter judgment. The suit originally was heard in 1930 when Mrs. Turman was awarded a divorce, but the judgment was reversed by the higher courts on the grounds that Turman had not been properly notified.

The jury held that Mrs. Turman is a fit and proper person to have the care and custody of the two children, Luther Jr., 11, and Thomas Robert, 9, and that she is entitled to their custody.

The jury also ruled that Turman also was a fit and proper person to have custody of the children, but in the seventh special issue denied that he was entitled to their custody.

1 Drowned As Plane Capsizes

NEW YORK (AP)—One man was drowned and four rescued Wednesday when a seaplane dispatched to the liner Washington 600 miles at sea capsized as it attempted to make fast to the ship.

The plane was sent by the Fox Movietone company to take from the Washington films of the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

The victim was a mechanic from Floyd Bennett field.

'Mexico' Is Rotary Topic

The Rotary club presented a program at Tuesday luncheon at the Settles ballroom, with Dr. M. H. Bennett in charge, who had selected "Mexico" as the topic.

Three interesting talks on this subject were made by Dr. Bennett, W. C. Blankenship and B. Reagan.

Dr. Bennett told of a trip he made several years ago into the interior of Mexico, in the area around Tampico, giving a vivid description of the modes of living by inhabitants of that country. He said at that time there were approximately 18,000,000 persons living in Mexico, 4,000,000 of whom were Mexicans, 8,500,000 Indians, 1,500,000 Castillians and 250,000 foreigners.

The modes of transportation, the speaker said, were ancient, and could not begin to compare with those of the United States.

W. C. Blankenship spoke on "The School System of Mexico," saying that most of the schools in Mexico were for the higher classes and there was a lack of education for the masses.

"In 1926 there were 1,188,000 students enrolled in schools in Mexico, being taught by 18,000 teachers." He compared those figures with those of Texas at the same period, which were 1,500,000 students enrolled in this state, and being taught by 42,900 teachers.

The speaker said that the schools of Mexico would never make the progress that schools of the United States are making until a plan for education for the masses is perfected and carried out.

B. Reagan chose for this topic "Roads in Mexico." He said no community or country can make progress without proper transportation facilities, chief of which is good roads.

"No doubt Mexico has been held back in its progress by the lack of roads," said Mr. Reagan. "The United States owes its progress to the development of transportation. Bringing it to Big Spring, for instance, will never go forward until our highways are perfected to the point where it will care for the transportation needs of this area."

President James Davis announced that District Governor Tom Taylor, president of Howard-Payne college at Brownwood, would pay an official visit to the local club on the evening of November 13. A night meeting will be held, at which time the Midland and Sweetwater clubs will be invited to attend. The meeting will be regular Ladies' night.

N. L. Peters of Lubbock, formerly a member of the local club, was a visitor, as was J. A. Cummings of the U. S. Weather bureau in Big Spring.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said Wednesday his recommendations in moving the industrial unemployed to small farms with the farm administration plan of limiting production, because under the first arrangement, the administration is trying to save human lives.

Highway Work Resumed After Short Lay-Off

Work on Highway No. 1, shut down Tuesday, was resumed Wednesday when labor and material percentage troubles were ironed out.

The cessation of work on the project occasioned a special meeting of the county relief committee in joint session with the county commissioners court Tuesday afternoon.

Halt of work Tuesday was an outgrowth of a split in the number of men and a subsequent overbalance in percentage material and truck hire cost.

The number of workers was increased Wednesday and the labor-material balance was restored to conform to the relief commission's requirements.

Highway No. 1 work is being done with labor furnished from the relief administration rolls.

U.S. To Ask Renewal Of Naval Treaty

LONDON (AP)—Substantial reduction in general naval armaments and renewal of the Washington and London treaties will be suggested by the United States delegation at the forthcoming naval conversations, it was stated authoritatively Wednesday.

An authority said the Americans would be willing to eliminate the word "radio" from any future agreement if Japan desired, replacing it with the term "relative security."

Glasscock County Rancher Inspects Holdings Near City

Samuel Greer, Glasscock county rancher who is the first rancher in this section to pioneer on a large scale on feeding out range cattle, was here Wednesday to inspect his holdings here.

His feeding quarters are nearing completion east of here. Adjacent to the stock yards, Greer has six pens measuring 80 x 72 feet and has facilities for feeding several hundred head of cattle from his range.

Work has begun on one of the big buildings. Scales will be installed soon.

Thus far Greer has put no stock in the pens. "I want to hold off as long as possible," he explained, adding that once penned, there would be no returning to the range.

Twenty-eight inmates of Sing Sing Prison, Ossining, N. Y., recently were transferred to Auburn Prison wearing handcuffs and leg irons.

Projects To Be In Connection With Relief Work In U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt said Wednesday his recommendations in moving the industrial unemployed to small farms with the farm administration plan of limiting production, because under the first arrangement, the administration is trying to save human lives.

He said the housing program undoubtedly would fit in with the new public works program.

Roosevelt said there was no inconsistency in moving the industrial unemployed to small farms with the farm administration plan of limiting production, because under the first arrangement, the administration is trying to save human lives.

Gentry Talks To Lions Club

A varied program was presented before the Lions club Wednesday in its regular weekly meeting.

Bon Carpenter, Jr., accompanied by Miss Mina Franke, presented two violin selections.

George Gentry, senior high school principal, was literally put on the stand and questioned at length by an interviewer.

The questions and answers brought out that degrees are required to teach in the local schools, that it takes four years of work to get a bachelor's degree, that the high school teacher's salary in this school system is less than $1,000 per year, that a high school teacher in a Howard county rural school gets $1,500.

Teacher problems were lightly touched upon, and Gentry said that it is the lack of visits rather than visits that constitute an undesirable attitude on the part of parents.

J. Frank Elder, president of the Game and Fish Protective Association of Texas, hurriedly told the club that the purpose of his organization was to educate the sportsman of Texas to preserve wild game life. He compared the game values of Texas with those of other states and said that this state leads all others in actual value.

However, he warned, the supply is being depleted at an alarming rate.

Following dismissal of the meeting, a few remained to see the showing of a motion picture strip taken by Dr. P. W. Malone, past president. Films taken by Bob Schermerhorn, former member of the club, on a recent around the world tour, could not be shown because of lack of time.

Visitors for the day were Miss Franke, Ben Carpenter, Jr., J. F. Elder, Bob Schermerhorn, Will Olsen, and George Gentry.

Sheep Hides To Be Received

Hides from condemned sheep bought by the government in this county will be received here Thursday by Walter L. Boothe, sheep sorter for the county.

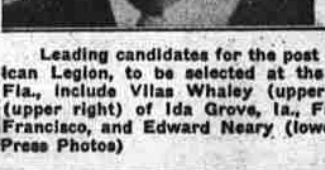

The skins will be accepted provided they are suitable for storage purposes. Otherwise they must be kept by the sheepman until they are sufficiently cured.

Animals condemned were required to be skinned. Of this kind there were approximately 5,000 head.

U. S. Agents Look For Mad Kidnapers

Louisville Society Woman, Brutally Treated At Times In Fair Condition

WOMAN FOUND AT SCOTTSBORO, IND.

Had Been Missing Since Last Wednesday; Held For $50,000 Ransom

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Hampered no longer by danger to Mrs. Alice Stoll, federal agents Wednesday concentrated efforts on capturing Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., named as the mad kidnaper who took the society woman from her home last Wednesday for $50,000 ransom. Robinson was hunted in the middle-west.

Mrs. Stoll was given complete rest Wednesday to recuperate.

Harold Nathan, department of justice investigator, announced charges of conspiracy to violate the Lindbergh law probably will be pressed against Mrs. Robinson, now under arrest.

Decision whether Robinson would face penalty of death or life imprisonment when caught rests upon the outcome of a conference later between state and federal attorneys.

Robinson's father was understood to have given all information he could to his son's whereabouts.

Threat To Kill Edsel Ford Is Revealed Today

DETROIT (AP)—A threat to kill Edsel Ford unless he paid $5000 was revealed Wednesday by department of justice agents with the arrest and purported confession of a man giving the name of Edward Lickwala.

The agents said Lickwala, 30, wrote a note to Ford demanding he leave the money, in five and ten dollar bills, in a handy box at the rear of a Medbury street address.

A trap was set by the agents, but Lickwala was not arrested until Tuesday night.

TEXAS VOTERS TO LOOK AT ONE OF LONGEST BALLOTS ON ELECTION DAY

AUSTIN (UP)—County clerks throughout Texas Wednesday raked their windows to qualified amateur voters who desire to cast their ballots now for the No. 6 general election.

The general election ballot prescribes quite a task to the Texas voter. Six columns in width and longer than the front page of the newspaper, the ballot offers a choice of candidates ranging from democratic in the extreme left column, through republicans, socialists, communist, and independent candidates.

If none of those party candidates suit the sixth blank column offers the voter an opportunity to write his own ticket.

An extra pencil or pen might easily be necessary if the voter should ignore party lines and the custom of voting the party ticket "straight."

Candidates for U. S. Senate head the ticket. Next appear the candidates for the lower house of Congress. Once out of national offices, the voter will find himself in a maze of state offices that must be filled.

First come candidates for governor; James V. Alford on the Democratic left; D. E. Waggoner, Dallas, for the Republican rank; George Clifton Edwards, Dallas, for the Socialist; Enoch Hardaway, Breckenridge, for the Communist; what-have-you for the independents and "write-ins."

In addition to Alford for governor, Texas democrats offer the following candidates for state officers: Walter Woodcut for Lieut. Governor; W. E. McCraw for Attorney General; Charley Lockhart for State Treasurer; George Sheppard for State Comptroller; Lon Smith for Railroad Commissioner; J. E. McDonald for Commissioner of Agriculture; J. H. Walker for Commissioner of the General Land Office; John H. Sharp for associate justice of the Supreme Court; W. C. Morrow for chief justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals; L. A. Woods for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The voter will get a shot at eight proposed constitutional amendments after approving or disapproving.

Bristow Says His Team Ready For Ponies

Boys Appear To Be In Shape

"The best shape they've ever been in," declared Coach Oble Bristow this morning when asked about the condition of his schoolboy grid machine.

The boys are apparently physically fit for their first conference test of the season with Edgar Hennig's Mustangs here Friday afternoon, and unless a player gets hurt in scrimmage, the Herd will be at full strength against the Ponies for the first time in several seasons.

Last year, it will be remembered, Ollie Cordill figured in only one or two plays against the Ponies. Other players were bungled up from previous conflicts.

It is true that the Steers have been far from impressive this season, but there's great possibilities in the team if it can only be brought out. Chances are the Bovies will battle 100% better against Sweetwater than they did against non-conference foes.

As far as passing goes the Steers have been worse than terrible. In the last two games they have tried thirty-six tosses and completed only two. But with a couple of weeks work behind the mentors feel confident that the boys will do a lot better.

Bristow believes he has profited by experience, and volunteers the information that Sweetwater may score against him by passing but won't by any running attacks. That's probably true. The Mustang's best chance will be via the aerial route.

Just what kind of pass defenses the locals will have is a matter of conjecture. They snagged a lot of Bowie's offerings in their last game, but the El Pasoans were passing right into their arms.

Oble has not indicated his probable starting line-up, but it will more than likely be the same crew that has started the last game or two.

Hennig has always put out fairly tough grid teams at Sweetwater, too tough for Big Spring, but his club this year lacks a lot of measuring up to those of the past few years. He has nothing that resembles Sam Baugh or Red Sheridan.

The Ponies realize their chances of winning are mighty slim, so they'll be in there battling with everything they have. Hennig is very much disturbed over the disposition of the case. He said he couldn't beat McCamey if they used their second string, but he didn't like to be "framed."

Reese added that he had no athletes now and no prospects of any. Principal C. A. Wilkins said Colorado will have a "fair" basketball team this year.

Charlie Green, the Nolan county newspaperman, was over for the meeting with B. H. McLain.

After cleaning up the McCamey case, the committee hit at one of the Big Spring players—Leo "Bucket" Hare. San Angelo claimed that the '30-'31 census blank showed Hare to be 17, which would make him too old to participate now. But Kenley failed to say that the '29-'30 census showed him to be only 13.

All of the records with exception of the '30-'31 blank show Hare to be OK, and the committee voted him so.

Principal Chester Kenley of San Angelo told the committee that Coleman was considering trying Class A competition, and asked about inviting them into District 3. The "fishers" got their heads together and after due consideration decided that Coleman was too isolated for this district.

Several changes in game dates were made. San Angelo plays at McCamey Oct. 28 instead of 27, and Big Spring plays at San Angelo on Nov. 12 instead of 11. Nov. 11 is Sunday.

The Angelo Bobcats have booked the San Antonio Tech team to play at San Angelo Nov. 2.

THEY'RE PART OF THE SQUAD

PAUL COBURN, a hefty tackle, has been very slow rounding into shape this year, but has shown a lot of improvement lately. In spite of the fact that his performance against Bowie was nothing to brag about, the coaches expect him to cause conference foes a lot of trouble before the season is over.

GEORGE BROWN, Steer line coach. Much credit is due Brown for his work in developing Steer teams. Brown is on his sixth year as coach here.

JACK WILSON, guard, has little to say when in a game, but is rapidly gaining a reputation of a real fighter. He's not extra big, but has enough muscle for a couple of players. The big El Paso Bowie Bears failed to hold him in check. Fans will hear a lot of him before the season wanes away.

Semi-final Is Great Match

Last Match Marred By Clowning Of Jack Gorman

The bone-crushers came to town Tuesday night, with plenty of grunts and groans, at the opening of the new arena at 403 Runnels, and gave a splendid athletic show for entertainment of an enthusiastic and fairly good-sized crowd. The management deserves and got praise for the class of contests they arranged, and if their future shows come up to their opening performance, they will not have to worry about the crowds.

The show, operating under the supervision of the State Athletic Commission, and directly under Deputy State Commissioner Ray Simmons, brought together some of the best men ever seen in these parts and the management announced that the shows will be held weekly with equally good contests and contestants.

Deputy Commissioner Simmons welcomed the show to Big Spring and told of their promise to bring only the best, and Referee Benny Wilson gave a history of some of the contestants as well as explaining the rules under which wrestling would be held here.

Carroll Wins

The preliminary between Tex Carroll of Winters, weighing 155 and Will Perry of Big Spring, weighing 150, brought together two quick and clever performers, who gave their best, but Perry's best was not enough for the 15-minute time limit and Carroll made him pat the mat in 10 minutes and 30 seconds with a leg hold which Perry's injured and sore knee could not take.

Classy Going

The semi-final match between Claude Swindell, of Nebraska University and other places, weighing 140, and Charlie Heard, of San Angelo, weighing 150, was more satisfactory to the crowd than the finals, as they brought more speed and science to their match, and left out the clowning and dirty antics that marred the finals.

Heard, said to be the world's fastest mat performer, kept Claude in hot water with his ability to emerge from difficult holds with a hold on Swindell that required all his science and strength to break. But Claude seemed to have enough of that to break even in the 45-minute, best 2-out-of-3 falls, as he won the first fall in 25 minutes and 15 seconds with a crab-hold and lost the second in 13 minutes and 50 seconds, leaving only 5 minutes and 55 seconds for the third fall, which wasn't enough for either to tends to make a desperate attempt with every trick at his command. Unless the locals are wide awake one of those little tricks is liable to prove "dynamite."

Owls, Steers Building Up

Jimmy Kitts' Team To Entertain Chevny's Outfit

By THOMAS O. HURST
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON (UP)—The 1934 Southwest conference championship may be decided in a stirring gridiron drama when Coach Jimmy Kitts' Rice Institute Owls entertain Coach Jack Chevny's University of Texas Longhorns here October 27.

Indications are both teams will be undefeated when the big test comes. Rice this week plays Creighton; Texas tangles with Centenary.

Neither team has exhibited a consistent aerial attack. The Owls and Longhorns' offense, however, is built around a powerful running attack.

Another fact which demands the attention of fans is that each team is tutored by a new, young, and determined head-coach. Each coach has placed his team in the national gridiron limelight.

Coach Kitts' young team boasts a record which rivals any school in the land this year by their 9-0 victory over Southern Methodist University, besides the Purdue conquest and the 9-0 draw with Louisiana State's unbeaten eleven.

The rout of the S.M.U. Mustangs made the Owls favorites to capture their first conference football crown in more than a decade.

Right behind Rice in both conference ranking and national prestige is Chevny's Longhorns. His team followed up their victory over Notre Dame by defeating the best Oklahoma eleven of years, 19 to 0, in the state fair game at Dallas.

Notre Dame boasted the strongest eleven since the late Knute Rockne.

Although the conference fight appears to lie between the Owls and the Longhorns, another menace with possibilities appears in the University of Arkansas, which finished on top in 1933 only to lose the title because of an ineligible player.

It may be a bit too early to count S.M.U. out of the possible conference threats to Rice, Texas and Arkansas.

The big reason for the Owl's success is their fast charging and heavy line. Their forward wall is aggressive, but so is the Longhorns.

At the present time, Rice and Texas have enabled the Southwest conference to boast a percentage of 700, according to sports records, out of 10 inter-sectional games played.

Theron Hicks Wins Match

Theron Hicks, southpaw golfer, will meet V. W. Latson, Country Club manager, in the finals of the Municipal Golf tournament this week.

The final match, to be played this week, will go 36 holes. Hicks defeated Aldredge 8-7 in the semi-finals.

In the first flight, Ferguson defeated Hoover 5-4, and Thurman won from Cunningham 2-1. Ferguson and Thurman will meet in the finals.

In the championship consolation flight, Guy Rainey defeated Ray Cantrell 5-4 and will meet the winner of the McMahon-Pinge match in the final.

SEA HORRORS REFLECT ECONOMIC PRESSURE

If Bruno Hauptmann's $10 bills had not led the police to his door just when they did, the investigation into the burning of the Morro Castle would have been front page news longer. And if it had, we might have been forced to recognize the fact that something is badly out of gear in the machinery of ocean transportation.

For it is futile to suppose that the Morro Castle tragedy will be "cleared up" if the exact cause of fire is discovered, or if this or that officer is deprived of his ticket. The whole case is just one more symptom of a bad situation which seems to extend to all maritime nations these days.

There was delay in sending out the SOS, there was confusion and lack of discipline among the ship's crew, many lives were lost that might have been saved. . . . These are the grave charges that have been made.

They don't apply to the Morro Castle alone. They were true when the British ship Vestris went down; they have been true of other post-war sea disasters.

And they reflect a pressure which economic circumstances have put on the ancient business of carrying passengers across the sea.

The captain has lost his old independence. The home office, or can be, in touch with him every minute by wireless; the temptation to save their money and reputation by deferring to the very last minute a call for help is almost irresistible.

For if the captain issues such a call and then discovers that he could, after all, have got his ship

The stout-hearted Texans who declared Independence on March 2, 1836, at Washington-on-the-Brazos would be filled with pride to know that their efforts have not gone unrequited. Texans, today, are stout-hearted! Today they prepare for a birthday of a hundred years of achievement on the battlefield and in peaceful achievement.

Texas is a land of romance, love and adventure; of progress and memories. This hundredth anniversary will link its airways, seaports, highways and railroads of today with the oleander and jasmine of old-world towns of yesterday!

Texas started on its road of independence at San Jacinto: She fought valiantly through the years for worldly recognition and now is going to give a birthday party for the world, whose respect she has earnestly desired and so courageously won!

All Americans everywhere revere the memory of the men who contributed to the growth of our common country. We invite them to join us in holding a fitting celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Texas.

Texas is the State it is! Because Texans have made it so! This is YOUR Celebration! It is YOUR State!

FRANCE BURIES BARTHOU WITH MARTYR'S HONORS

This Associated Press picture, telephoned from Paris to London and then sent by radio to the United States, shows the casket containing the body of Louis Barthou, foreign minister slain with King Alexander of Yugoslavia by assassins, being drawn through streets of Paris on a gun carriage during the impressive funeral rites. Elaborate precautions were taken during the services to protect the lives of President Lebrun and members of the government.

STOLL KIDNAP CASE REACHES CRITICAL STAGE

Search for the kidnapers of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville society matron, reached a virtual impasse as Harold Nathan, department of justice agent in charge of the case, said he would not admit any progress had been made. Bloodstains found by three boys (left) on a boathouse pier near the Stoll home raised the possibility that the victim might have been secreted away by boat. James Scates (upper right), a glazing contractor, reported he saw a car containing Mrs. Stoll, causing planes to be sent to scan roads near Louisville. At lower right is a new picture of Mrs. Ann Woollet, the Stoll maid, who is still regarded as the most important witness in the case. (Associated Press Photos)

Following the report of a truck driver that he had recognized Mrs. Barry V. “Next to Advertising Matter”

THERE used to be a favorite phrase of advertisers. They asked to have their advertisements placed "next to reading matter" in the belief that such a position would assure more attention.

But today the editor might well ask to have his news items placed "next to advertising matter," for very definitely the advertisements have a tremendous reader following. Today's advertisements win eager attention because they help people buy intelligently, quickly, without waste of time, and get full value for the money spent.

That is the great function of advertising—to guide you swiftly and surely to wise, economical buying. The best advertisement is always the one that gives you the facts you want—simply, honestly, without exaggeration.

Chapter 10
ENTER JEALOUSY

Hamlin went to the door and swung it wide. Marian jumped to her feet, for into the warm light of the cabin stepped Lionel Casad.

"You have the distinction of being the only woman who ever tried to fly out on a date with me," he said to Marian. "Couldn't let you get away with it, so here I am."

"This is Mr. Casad, Mr. Hamlin," said Marian, laughing as she spoke. It was so good to see him standing there, overcoat collar turned up, dark hair ruffled from the swift removal of his hat, hazel eyes gleaming with fun. So reassuring to know he had spent the night driving east to see her.

With a snarl, Hero rose to attack.

She wondered how he had learned she was leaving and longed to ask him. And then she was conscious of Silver's moving to her side, but not until she heard her soft, studied, "And this is another report," said as only Silver could say it, did she realize how altogether desirable he must look to any woman.

"Mr. Casad, a friend of mine," Marian made the introduction mechanically. How did Silver manage to imbue ordinary words with such subtle innuendo? In that simple phrase she had told Lon Casad that ver, eyes narrowed speculatively smiled at Lon. "You won't mind being left alone with Ian, while I change to something comfortable, will you?" she added plaintively. "I've been through such an ordeal."

"No, indeed," answered Lon, too heartily to be complimentary.

Hamlin departed for the kitchenette and the moment the door closed, Lon turned to Ian. "Honey, when I saw that ship flying away with you, without me beside you, I could have sprouted wings right then and there and taken after you. It was the queerest feeling."

"There wasn't a thing to do then but take off after you. I called your Mr. Bowen and he told me where to locate you, so I didn't make the unnecessary trip into Reno... and here I am."

"But how did you know I was leaving?"

"Oh, why you left this... this comic section in the car and after I discovered there were notes as well as cats and mice on it, I figured you might need it before I saw you again and drove back to the apartment." He handed her the rumpled wad of copy paper that had served her during the Brown trial.

"And you drove all alone?" questioned Marian.

"Not exactly. Hero's in the car."

"Bring him in," urged Hamlin. Lon went after the dog, entering the front door as Hamlin came in from the kitchenette.

"How do you do?" said Hamlin gravely to the big dog, who moved towards the fire at a sedate pace. Hero looked at him, went close and sniffed, then sat down and offered a paw.

"Hero," Marian began, and the dog, hearing her voice, went quickly to her, nuzzled his head into her lap, "you old darling," she added, and was rewarded by a gentle closing of his huge white tusks on her hand.

The greetings over he went to a rug before the hearth, slid to a half reclining position and heaved a great sigh.

The sigh was echoed on the threshold of an inner room. All turned to look. Silver was making an entrance. Marian took one look at her, then turned to Max Hamlin. She found his eyes seeking hers and together they laughed.

Silver had found in Lon the audience she sought and had dressed to her role.

She wore a trailing negligee of grey chiffon velvet, a soft ruff of silk at the neck, powder-pale cheeks and artfully smudged shadows about the eyes transformed her into a delicately suffering woman.

With the negligee Silver had donned an air of lassitude which caused Hamlin's mouth to quirk into a crooked smile, but which sent Lon hurrying for a chair.

Silver was half-way to it when she espied Hero. With a childish cry of delight she sprang up and rushed to the hearth—"You beautiful thing," she cried. Then her cry changed to a scream of terror.

Hero, dozing, had scarcely become aware of a newcomer in the room, when he heard the cry and saw a cloud of grey draperies swooping down on him. With a snarl of fright he arose to attack, and only Lon's shouted command of "Halt!" and Marian's quick grasp of his harness, kept him from sinking his teeth in the unearthly grey object that had aroused him from his half-slumber.

Lon turned from apologizing to Mrs. Gordon and scolded the dog in no uncertain terms.

"Don't do that," interposed Hamlin. "She had no business descending on a strange dog like that. How a kitten being would try to protect himself under similar circumstances."

Marian was rubbing the dog's ears, scratching his head, trying in every secret way she knew to commend him for his action, half ashamed of the satisfaction she felt that he recognized Silver as a common enemy.

Gradually the tension of the moment relaxed. Silver focused her attention on Lon.

"I suppose Ian's told you of my troubles," she said.

"No," answered Lon.

"You tell him. It hurts so even to think of it."

Lady Luck Plays Role In Discovery Of Oil In Texas

DALLAS (UP)—Lady Luck has been the Patron Goddess of Texas' most fabulous industry—oil!

The American Petroleum Institute opens the convention to be held here Nov. 13-15 to a wave of the vast sea of fortune that lay beneath their feet and walls were drilled in increasing numbers.

The well that opened the Electra Field in North Texas also was a water well.

W. T. Waggoner, ranch owner of Wichita County and founder of Texas' first oil millions, promptly recognized the value of the oil and developed the field. It was named for his daughter.

The Burk Burnett Field owes its being to a teamster's mistake in judgment.

S. L. Fowler, a farmer, formed a pool for a test well from contributions of his friends and neighbors. The site of the well was selected but the teamster who hauled in the material dumped it far from the selected spot. Where it was dumped the field was located. The original site later was found barren.

Trucks which could not navigate the rough and stony roads of Reagan County provided a source of wealth for the University of Texas. The machines became hopelessly stuck on University land. In order to pull them clear they were unloaded. And where the materials were unloaded was found the oil.

Visitors to the API Convention, between meetings, will be taken to visit the working fields. Among the prominent men who are scheduled to address the sessions is C. C. Chapman of Portland, Ore., publisher of the weekly "Oregon Toler" and originator of the gasoline tax, a levy which has produced more than $2,700,000,000 revenue since its inception in 1919.

East Ward P.T.A. To Meet Thursday

East Ward P.T.A. will meet Thursday afternoon at 3:15 at the school building. The subject for the afternoon will be "The Home" with Mrs. Ferguson giving the main talk.

The devotional will be given by Mrs. Fuller. The entire school will take part on the program. Other special numbers will be a reading by Mrs. Youngblood and piano solos by Wanda Reece and Jacqueline Fawcett.

Every member is requested to be present for this meeting.

MAKE WESTERN HOSPITALITY EVIDENT SATURDAY

Next Saturday will be an opportunity for all students of Big Spring High School to make our school known as the most hospitable school in West Texas.

Every student should feel personally responsible for the Sweetwater visitors' having the time of their lives. Those that are on the different committees to make arrangements for the reception, seating arrangements, etc., should do their best to make everything run smoothly and with precision. The reputation of our school will be at stake that day, and it is our duty to give those people a vision of our school spirit and in-school hospitality that they will never forget.

On the gridiron will be the place for the school to show its superiority, but at all other times we should make way for Sweetwater.

Some people in our school have had the idea that we should be little the opposing school as much as possible. This is the entirely wrong attitude to take. Courtesy will be appreciated by Sweetwater the same way as we appreciate the favors they do when we go down there.

Friday let's all remember that we are to be the ideal hosts, and show Sweetwater what real "Western Hospitality" is from the time their "Special" arrives until the time it rolls out.

Word series time is over and absentee blanks have ceased to be overloaded in the afternoon. Students no longer complain, as they drag through the house at the noon hour, of "a funny feeling in my stomach" or "my head hurts like heck;" but mysteriously having enough strength to turn on the radio. Mothers no longer get writers' cramps signing excuses, and radio no longer blab about "Schoolboy Rowe's prowess" or "Dizzy" Deans' antics.

No, all is changed now. Office assistants sigh with relief at the sight of the small number of names to be checked. Conscientious students who formerly entered a second before the last bell to puff "two strikes and out when I left" arrived long before the bell to resume the place left off before noon, evening classroom continue in place no longer disrupted by students returning from nearby stores yelling nothing to nothing in the first inning.

Quiet is upon the school, and will continue until something new comes along.

Studes To Be On Hand When Pony Special Pulls In Here Friday

By WINNELL FISCHER

Students of Big Spring High school will be on hand in mass when the football special rolls into the Texas and Pacific passenger station Friday at 2 o'clock packed with visitors from Sweetwater. Plans are nearing completion for the biggest day of the local season.

The five officers of the Pep Squad Jo Ann Bennett, Mary Louise Kinkman, Bobbie Gordon, Frances Stampfer and Cleo Lane will form a reception committee and will receive the visitors at the Settles hotel.

The parade will assemble at the T. and P. depot and will march south on Runnels to Second, over to Main, up Main to Third and back Third to Runnels where the Sweetwater squad will conduct a brief pep rally.

Pep squads and bands of both schools and large groups of local students will be in the parade.

Courtesy cars will be parked around the Settles ready to transport the guests to the field. Students and Steer fans are being encouraged to decorate their cars in school colors for the occasion.

Places are reserved in the stands for pep squads and bands of both schools.

Stunts have been planned by each pep squad for the entertainment of the stands between halves. Ninety-four Sweetwater girls under the leadership of Virginia Roy, cheer leader, Gene Felton, and Johnny Watson, assistants, will participate in the exhibition. The entire Big Spring squad will form a Wheel on the field.

Woodward Is Named Editor

Halbert Is Selected By School Publications Committee

Halbert Woodward, senior, was unanimously the choice of the publication committee for editor of the Wheel during the school year. Woodward has acted in the capacity as temporary editor since the Wheel resumed publication this fall, and is beginning his second year of service with that publication. No other permanent members of the staff were named at the meeting. Because of the fact that there was such a complete turnover in the personnel of the staff, it is very likely that the naming of the other members of the staff will be deferred until next semester, and duties of the present members of the staff will be altered from issue to issue.

Woodward worked on the freshman paper, was editor of his junior and sophomore papers, and associate editor of the Wheel the past year. He is secretary of this year's senior class.

Personally

Mrs. Brown and Miss Adkins, the Home Economics teachers, attended the District Home Economics meeting at Lubbock, Friday.

Misses Marie Johnson, Clara Sechrist, and Enid Arvitt, went to Dallas over the week-end for the Texas-Oklahoma game. They were accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Rice, teacher in Lamesa public schools.

Miss Jeannette Pickle, prominent junior high teacher, whose approaching marriage to Bishop Baily of El Paso is the social event of the week, has resigned her position with the local schools.

James Jones, local student, attended the state fair at Dallas the past week end. He returned Monday morning.

Stop Signs Erected On Runnels Street

New school stop signs have been erected on Runnels street. These new signs will probably lessen the traffic that has been so common at the High school for the past years. The traffic has been so common that the students in school have been risking their safety in crossing the streets.

School Purchases Lantern Machine

A new projection lantern has been purchased by the school board for use in the science departments.

The lantern is of the latest type and is in use at the science room now. The lantern will project a page out of the book without taking same from book. It is very useful in teaching a page that is particularly hard.

P. E. Classes To Be Dismissed At H. S.

P. E. classes will be excused on afternoons when students formerly remained in P. E. class rooms. Boys will be excused on Wednesdays and Fridays; girls on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Monday will be used for lectures.

The Bowie high school vs. Steers game was taken from the ice box and demonstrated on the Grid-graph Friday morning in the auditorium.

The first half was reviewed in the thirty minutes.

It seems likely from the response given that the Grid-graph will be the chief form of amusement on the week-ends that the Steers fly away from home.

BOB FLOWERS

"Bob" Flowers, captain of the football team and president of the Senior class opens his fourth and last year of district three football competition against Sweetwater here Friday.

Bob has been a very outstanding student ever since he has been in High School. He was president of the Freshman and Sophomore class and vice president of the Junior Class and is now president of the Senior Class. He came out for basketball two years and for football four years, being football captain the last two years. Flowers was chosen as all-district in '33.

New Students

DICK RAY—Dick first saw the world at Wellmore, Kansas, not so terribly many hundreds of miles away from here.

He attended school in Lockney, Texas where he was considered a very popular lad, participating in basketball and football. This is his first year here in B. S. High school, but says he thinks it is swell. He plays in the band here and is making a very good player. He is also classified as a Junior taking History 3B, English 3B, Plane Geometry, and Spanish II. Dick is five feet seven inches tall—has blond hair and extremely blue eyes.

CHARLES McQUAIN—Charles came into this world sixteen years ago at Mineral Wells, Texas. He attended school in Fort Worth before he "joined up" with Ole B. S. H. S. and there he was lieutenant of the band and a very good one at that. He is also playing in the band here. He asked Miss Pool if it ever got cold out here in West Texas. It had been hot ever since he had been here. Charles is classified as a Junior taking Chemistry, English, Geometry, and Typing. He is very easily recognized by his height (6 feet)—and especially red hair—and also his slanting, green eyes.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets for the Sweetwater game are now in the hands of faculty members. Students are urged to buy the tickets now, to prevent congestion at the gate. Advance sales are now being made in Sweetwater also. Tickets will be 25c for students, 50c for adults.

Royal Neighbors Plan For Convention

The Royal Neighbors of this district will be at Pease Saturday for a district convention that begins at 1:30 and continues for a banquet and night open session.

It has been announced that the T&P will accept passes on the east-bound train that goes through Pease after midnight for the members who want to return to Big Spring that night.

Cars will leave Mrs. L. L. Bugg's home at 701 No. Gregg street Saturday at 8 o'clock for Pease.

The drill team has been invited to Forsan this evening for a program to be given at 7:30 in his honor. Rebekahs are asked to drive out with the drill team.

The last practice for the drill team will be held Friday morning at the Casino at 9 o'clock. It is hoped that all members will be present.

Transport Pilots Help Fire Patrol

LOS ANGELES—Although it falls under the heading of extracurricular activities, reporting of fires along their routes is part of the routine duty of American Airlines pilots. Entries, such as the following, are frequently found on flight logs prepared by crews of the giant planes which cover the transcontinental routes:

"At 7:35 p. m. called INDDIO (radio station) and requested operator to call Beaumont 717 and report to Mr. Rich that I saw fire in San Jacinto valley, near mouth of Lamb canyon. Fire covers only 100 feet or so. It is SSW of this station."

Kenneth Rice is fire chief for the California state forestry department and airline pilots report all fires to him.

The members held a business meeting after Mrs. M. E. Tatum had resigned, because she is moving to San Angelo. Mrs. Whitely was elected president of the club in Mrs. Tatum's place.

Four Points to Remember

As colds cause more loss of time and money than any other disease, every medical science teaches as to their proper treatment. Your doctor has the following objectives:

First—To relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thus shortening or lightening the attack and relieving the symptoms caused by the congestion—Calotabs, the improved, calomel compound tablets, accomplish this by attracting the excess blood to the bowels.

Second—To help the kidneys wash out of the blood the cold-causing, fever-producing, and toxin-causing—Calotabs are directed to the kidneys, assisting them in voiding the blood of the poisons.

Third—To assist the germs to be excreted from the bowels—Calotabs.

Battle Between Two Old Rivals Promises Exciting Time For Fans

Friday, October 19 will be the date of what promises to be one of the most exciting football games ever played between these two old-standing rivals. This rivalry has come down from the first game played between the two schools—one which was won by the local gridsters of nearly 39 years ago.

The history of this rivalry brings us up to the year of either 1917 or '18 when we gave the Ponies a trouncing which will never be forgotten by either team.

The score was 95 to 0. More recent history shows that since 1924 we have not done so well, for out of ten games played against Sweetwater's gridsters we have lost seven of them.

In 1924 we played Sweetwater and won that game with a score of 40-0. In 1925 the score switched over to give them a score of 6-0, this was also the score for the year of 1926 except that we took the game. For the following two years they took this major contest of the district with respective scores of 14-13 and 6-0. 1929 saw us in a win over the Ponies in the newly opened Newman field with a score of 14-0. We were the universally accepted favorites of the 1930 season, yet we were unable to turn the tide of victory with which the light and shifty Mustangs took the game with a score 15-6.

In 1931 and '32 the locals were bested with their most outstanding teams of years in the field with scores of 7-0 and 23-0, both in favor of the Sweetwater eleven.

In 1933 we put a small and rather inexperienced team of players against Sweetwater's District championship team. Our men played a good game but were not capable of withstanding the witcraft of attack and general ability of Henning's Mustangs.

Why have things been so for such a long period? It seems that Lady Luck has been against the local team, but she can't be that way forever. This is our time to overthrow the Ponies. With Hare, Bob and Sam Flowers, Noel, Jones, Miller, Cordell, who was out of the game last year with a lame ankle, and the many other boys have shown great ability this year, we are almost certain of winning this year.

Come on boys, how about changing that large percentage of wins the Ponies have? Now is the time, you can, so go to it!

Addresses Student Body On 'Storm Anchors And Roll Call'

The Rev. William J. Ray spoke in the regular period last Wednesday on the subject, "Storm Anchors and Roll Call."

This was the first appearance of Reverend Ray before the student body for he has just recently assumed his duties in Big Spring as missionary of the First Baptist church.

The subject referred directly to the Biblical story of the storm at sea, during which St. Paul had the vision that said the ship would go down, but that the 276 occupants would be saved.

Reverend Ray compared the storm to the trials of life; the anchors thrown out to keep the ship from the bar until it calmed as "the Bible, Prayer, and Faith." The Roll call to the final counting.

Head Of Game, Fish Protective Ass'n. In Meet With Sportsmen

J. Frank Elder, waco, president of the Game and Fish Protective association of Texas, met with a group of sportsmen in the office of Wilburn Barcus, local attorney, Wednesday afternoon.

Elder announced that later a mass meeting of sportsmen would be held here.

The explained the necessity of protection and depletion of wild life in Texas, declaring that there was a rapid depletion of such life in progress.

The state official quoted figures to show what other states, faced with similar circumstances, had done.

A program to preserve and perpetuate wild life must largely be educational, he said. This must be aided by organization, he said.

Several thousand trees have thus been planted in this city within the past few years.

A report on progress of efforts toward securing additional land for the scenic mountain state park was made. It was reported that an option on the property had been obtained.

have reached the conclusion they can't out-talk Governor Paul M. Pearson, of the Virgin Islands. It may be that those who want to see Pearson out of his job neglected to read his biography on Who's Who—which points out clearly that he was professor of public speaking at Swarthmore and later founded a Chautauqua association. Pearson's mild-mannered appearance is deceptive. He has withstood one rally after another designed to blast him out of the Virgin Islands post and now appears to be more firmly entrenched than ever.

Appointed by former President Hoover, Governor Pearson first locked horns with Herbert D. Brown, who was then Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Efficiency. Brown investigated political and administrative conditions in the Islands and returned with a decidedly unfavorable report. Brown's bureau is now abolished.

Under the New Deal Governor Pearson has emerged victorious in two skirmishes. First he won out over Eli Baer and that young man was divested of his U. S. Attorneyship and sent home to Baltimore. The other day Paul C. Yates, who had been sent down as executive assistant for Public Works, either resigned or got fired in a grand row.

Secretary of Interior Ickes is standing squarely back of Pearson. He bases his confidence on reports of competent investigators. It is an old Virgin Island custom to make any Governor a target for attack and abuse. President Roosevelt was made aware of this on his visit there last summer when a faction of natives demonstrated against Pearson.

New York insiders are paying close attention to RFC chairman Jesse Jones and the part he may play in future scenes of the national political drama. Informed circles speak with assurance of Jones' ambitions and there are a number of indications that he's busy frying his own fish. But it isn't quite clear on which side he's trying them.

His continued tenure of his RFC post and recent signs that he's been given broad authority to handle the railroad problem imply that he stands well at the White House and is cooperating to make the New Deal a success. But there are several bits of evidence which add up quite a different total.

1. It's known that Mr. Jones has lately been hobnobbing with enemies of the administration in many directions. Perhaps it's for the purpose of converting them but shrewd observers are skeptical.

2. Backstages of the stop-Roosevelt movement before the 32 convention talk about Jones in favorable terms. New York learns that conservative southern Democrats are especially friendly and some of them regard him as their best hope to "bring the party back to its sense."

3. Insiders understand that Jones has privately befriended Democrats who got in wrong with the powers-that-be. Men who have been sored out of government jobs for having sometimes been taken care of by banks under the Jones influence.

4. Sources with close Washington contacts hear that some of the silver senators will demand a thorough probe of the RFC—along the lines of a munitions investigation—when Congress meets. They aim to spotlight Jesse Jones' operations. The move will not be intended as a slam at FDR—quite the reverse. The silver statesmen have no reason to be anything but grateful to the President.

trying to communicate with his son, begged him not to do that, but he would laugh ended the conversation.

Information gathered in Louisville Tuesday night was that Mrs. Stoll had been advised to telephone her husband here and that this call was traced to the Clegg home in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Shallcross Speed, was slugged on the head, her maid, Ann Woollet, reported, by a saw-toothed man who entered the home last Wednesday night saying he had come to repair the telephone.

Retained a Check

Mrs. Stoll was confined to the house with a cold and wore only a nightgown. She was allowed to wear a light coat before she left. The kidnaper spent an hour or more in the home according to reports from the maid. Mr. Stoll had not returned from his office.

Mrs. Stoll offered the man a check to leave, the maid told police, but he refused and struck her. "If Berry comes, I'll kill him," the maid said she then threatened.

"Let's go then," Mrs. Stoll was said to have declared. She left the house and was driven off in a car. Kentucky's greatest manhunt began. Hundreds of clues, most of them false, were run down. There was half a dozen reports of women with bandaged heads having been seen in automobiles and each had to be checked.

Man's Record

Robinson, tall, slender and thin faced, is shown by records of the Tennessee state department of institutions to have been an inmate of state hospitals for the insane.

He was placed in the central state hospital in Nashville following a plea of insanity entered by defense counsel in the spring and brought to trial on a robbery charge of 1929, the records state.

At the time Robinson pleaded insanity when he was charged with the theft of approximately $8,000 of jewelry and other valuables from two homes, which he was alleged to have entered by displaying a badge and posing as a deputy sheriff. He had two fake search warrants. A charge of impersonating an officer was annulled.

The institutions department records quote Robinson as saying he learned how to make out warrants at law school.

He was admitted first to the hospital June 10, 1929, returned to the court June 24, readmitted June 27 and later transferred to western state hospital at Bolivar. He was released from the latter institution in the summer of 1930.

OTHER ARRESTS IN CASE HINTED BY U. S. AGENTS

WASHINGTON (UP)—Obviously confident of finding their man soon, justice department chiefs Tuesday night instituted a search for a 47-year-old former insane asylum inmate, asserting that he was the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

Furthermore, and without going into details, they disclosed that:

1. To permit the legislature to classify all property other than real property, for purposes of taxation, provided that the taxation of all property in any class shall be equal and uniform.

2. To limit the amount of tax levied the state may levy and collect to $11.25 per person annually, or $22.50 per person for each biennium.

3. To permit abolishing and consolidating counties, provided that no county shall be created with an area of less than 900 square miles.

4. To abolish the fee system of additional arrests are expected in the near future.

They said the wife of the wealthy Louisville oil man, Berry V. Stoll, had been abducted from her home by Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., of Nashville. To support their contention that he was the kidnaper they said, among other things, that:

1. His finger prints appeared up on the ransom note;
2. His wife, acting as intermediary for him, had passed some of the $50,000 ransom money;
3. Robinson had been arrested twice previously in cases involving women;
4. He had been confined in the state insane asylum at Nashville;
5. The intermediary named the ransom note was "Mr. T. H. Robinson";
6. Some block letter printing on the ransom note showed characteristics similar to those appearing in Robinson's usual handwriting.

PART OF RANSOM MONEY RECOVERED, AGENT SAYS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., (UP)—H. H. Clegg, in charge of the Stoll kidnap investigation of federal agents at Nashville, said Tuesday night he had issued orders for his force here to pick up Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., who, he said, had been definitely connected with the kidnaping, and that part of the Stoll kidnap ransom had been recovered.

"The payment of the ransom occurred Monday in Nashville," Clegg said. "A representative of the family, whom I can't name at this time delivered the ransom money to a named intermediary and Mrs. Robinson, Jr."

"She left Monday afternoon in an automobile with the money and accompanied by a man who I can't name now, and went to Guthrie, Ky., on the state line.

"She was handed a ticket to Terre Haute, Ind., and boarded a train. There, evidently—and this is conjecture—she met the kidnaper. The money was paid to them somewhere."

Clegg indicated that only $50 of the ransom money may have been recovered.

"This amount, he said, was spent by Mrs. Robinson, en route from Indiana point.

The division of investigation inpector, who was sent here from Washington to take charge of the inquiry said that the ransom money had been in a Nashville express office, indirectly confirming reports that it was sent here a short time after Mrs. Stoll was kidnaped.

He said that some person, whom he did not name, had withdrawn the money from the express office and turned it over to Mrs. Robinson and that she left here and went to Guthrie, Ky., and from there to some point in Indiana. The ransom let here Monday, he said.

Describing the fact that Mrs. Robinson works with Mrs. Stoll and relatives of the kidnap victim when the party was found near Indianapolis, he said that en route from Indiana she had spent approximately $50 of the ransom money and that this had been recovered.

He would not comment on where the rest of the money might be.
