Pampa, Texas

50¢ DAILY/SUNDAY $1

Low tonight near 60. High tomorrow in high 80s. See Page 2 for weather details.

PAMPA — National Flag Day USA, Saturday, June 14, will be celebrated by local organizations in a "Pause for the Pledge" at 6 p.m., at the Gray County Courthouse.

"The community is reminded that citizens across the nation will pause at the same time to recite the Pledge of Allegiance, and all locals are invited to join together for this important moment in the Nation," said Betty White, regent of the Las Pampas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

County Judge Richard Peet said the gathering will be on the south side of the courthouse building at the flag pole. The program will be brief, but all citizens are urged to be present to recite the Pledge in unison, lead by Mike Porter, Curator of Freedom Museum, USA, and to sing "God Bless America," led by First Baptist Church music director, John Glover.

Representing the DAR, in coordinating the program, White has received cooperation from individuals and organizations including members of the Pampa Veterans of Foreign Wars, representatives from the Lions, Rotarians and Kiwanis clubs, Altrusa Artisans, Order of the Eastern Star, Pampa Chapter 65, Gray County 4-H Club, Gray County Republic of Women, Pampa Shriners and Golden Spread Boy Scouts of America.

HENRIETTA, Texas (AP) — One of two tour buses of country singer Neal McCoy was involved in a two-fatality accident this morning, the Texas Department of Public Safety said.

The accident took place about 4 a.m. when a car and the bus collided on U.S. 82, eight miles east of Henrietta. Two people in the car were killed, said DPS spokeswoman Sherri Deatherage Green.

McCoy's spokeswoman, Liz Thiels, said the bus in the accident carried McCoy's band and crew, who had no serious injuries. The singer was on a second bus that arrived at the scene after the accident, she said.

The band was headed to Texas Motor Speedway near Fort Worth.

Local wheat harvest prospects improving

By DIANNA F. DANDRIDGE
Staff Writer

A couple of late freezes and some unseasonably mild, wet weather caused some concern regarding this year's wheat harvest but the prospects for a good harvest are more encouraging.

Gray County farmers planted 78,345.44 acres of wheat this year. They expect to harvest 63,231.5 acres for grain. The remaining 15,115.9 acres will be either grazed out or harvested as hay.

According to Matt Street, with the Agriculture Farm Service, the harvest is running approximately two weeks behind due to the moisture. The harvest, which usually gets started around June 20, will probably be pushed back to July 1.

"This isn't necessarily a bad thing. It will give the wheat a chance to fill the heads more fully, which will result in better test weights. Of course, this means farmers get a better price," said Street.

Street said that the excess moisture sets up perfect conditions for the rust virus to get started in the wheat. "We've got some rust in the fields, but right now we're still looking pretty good."

With the unpredictable weather, farmers take the chance of hail damage anytime from mid May through late June. "But that's just a chance all producers take when they put a crop in the ground," he said.

Sorghum, corn, soybeans and sunflowers will all be planted in varying quantities, but the acreage counts won't be available until sometime in July.

Street said farmers seem to like the flexibility provided in the new farm bill and are looking forward to letting the market direct what they plant.

Corn, wheat and sorghum have long been staple cash crops for the local farmers with oats, barley and cotton being minor crops for the area.

The Freedom to Farm Act allows farmers to plant the crops they choose, in the amounts they want, but farmers now take full risk of low market prices, bad weather, as well as other problems affecting crops.

According to the Agriculture Department Economic Research Service, farmers are expected to plant an additional 2.5 million acres of corn this year, 7.2 million additional acres of soybeans and 12.8 million extra acres of oats.

Wheat, cotton and barley crops are expected to fall by as much as 8 percent and as little as 1.4 percent.

Due to these changes, farmers can expect to see prices fluctuate as the market adjusts itself to the availability of product.

Prosecution dismisses child sex assault charges

Clemente Valdez, the third member of the Valdez family to be accused of sexually assaulting his two teenage nieces, was released from Gray County jail Monday after charges in the case were dismissed.

In 1995, an 11-man one-woman jury found 63-year-old Ramon Valdez, Clemente's father, guilty of sexually assaulting his 13-year-old granddaughter and sentenced him to eight years in the state penitentiary.

Humberto Valdez, the girl's uncle, was found guilty in 1993 of sexual assault and is currently serving a 10-year probation sentence.

Clemente Valdez is the last of the three men named in the original 1989 indictment from information provided by the then 14-year old victim to the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services.

Until this week, he had been held in Gray County since Feb. 8, 1996, when he was returned here from Colorado.

Since his return to Texas, Clemente Valdez has been through one trial, in which the jury could not reach a decision. At that time he was held over for a new trial.

According to a motion entered Monday, prosecutors moved to dismiss the charges on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

The source said he felt there were problems in getting the now young adults to return to Pampa for yet another trial.

All charges against Clemente Valdez have been dropped, and there no plans to file new charges.

Carnival owner takes issue with article in newspaper

The owner of Pride of Texas Shows has taken issue with a report this week in The Pampa News and says he refunded money and/or gave free carnival rides after a Wednesday night equipment breakdown, "because I wanted to" and not because any patrons made threats of calling the police or newspaper.

When the power problem halted some of the rides, Ed Burlingame, owner and manager of the carnival now in Pampa, said both he and his employees worked their way through the crowd telling people they could come back and ride free on Thursday night. To do so, he said, they needed to wear the same light green (ticket) bracelets again on Thursday.

For those who wanted their money back, Burlingame said refunds were made. "We had one man who said he and his family couldn't come back on Thursday night and I told them they could See CARNIVAL, Page 2

Vandals hit parks, repairs get costly

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

Summer is the busiest time for employees of the city's Parks and Recreation Department.

In addition to the opening of the swimming pools, softball tournaments, mowing the parks and special events, the staff must also worry about the increasing acts of vandalism.

Although vandals often believe their damage to an area is very small and insignificant, these acts can cause a great deal of monetary damage and many man-hours to repair the damages.

Parks Director Reed Kirkpatrick is very familiar with acts of vandalism and has spent countless hours attempting to repair some of the damages in the past few years. In fact, one of the most recent acts of vandalism, graffiti written in newly poured concrete for the Hike-N-Bike trail running through Highland Park, took approximately four to five hours to repair.

Kirkpatrick, aided by a local resident, repaired the damages himself. The cost for the newly poured concrete was approximately $1,400 for that section, not including the labor.

But vandalism is not a new aspect of the Parks and Recreation Department. Unfortunately, however, it seems to be growing.

In 1995, the most incidents of vandalism (six) occurred in Central Park, followed by three incidents in Prairie Village. A total of 20 incidents were reported for the entire year.

The next year, 1996, the total number of acts of vandalism jumped to 53 incidents, with most occurring in Central Park (17). Highland See VANDALS, Page 2

Historic homes on tour Saturday

By SHERRY CROMARTIE
Staff Writer

CLARENDON — The early history and settlement of our communities in the Panhandle is still a part of our present, and can be seen daily by the permanent citizens of those special communities. In Clarendon, the Donley County Senior Citizens offer the rest of the area folks a chance to share in their history.

The pride of the town will be on exhibit, as well as its beautiful old homes when the senior organization volunteers conduct the Annual Tour of Homes Saturday, June 21, between 1 and 3:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 each and can be purchased at local businesses, Sayes at 219 Kearney and at Harlan's Flower Shop on Highway 287, also known as 201 East 2nd. Also, those visiting from out of the area may buy their tour pass at the first home they visit on the tour.

Proceeds from the home tour tickets will benefit the Senior Citizens' in-house meal program and the home delivery meal program. This is the main annual fund raising event for the volunteer members, and they are hoping to earn a substantial sum for this year's expenses, said Sandra Minatrea, director of the Donley County Senior Citizens/Meals on Wheels organization.

"We appreciate the public's interest in our 1997 Tour of Homes and look forward to seeing each visitor," she said.

According to Minatrea, most of the homes were built in the early 1900s, and each has a story of its own. Through the years many have been modified for the younger inhabitants in new ownerships, but still exhibit the splendor of original architectural designs.

The home owned by Douglas and Phyllis Shelton, 1026 West Third Street, is believed built by Mary C. and Thomas S. Bugbee after they acquired the property in 1912. They purchased it from See HOMES, PAGE 5

The Jack and Audrey Hall home at 602 Sims was owned first by A.T. and Naomi Miller. It is a large two story home, with gingerbread trim built sometime around 1914.

Tornadoes confirmed; little damage

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

Despite the spin off of at least three more confirmed tornadoes, there was very little damage left in wake of the second round of storms passing through Wheeler County Thursday night, according to Wheeler County officials.

At least three tornadoes were sighted between Wheeler and Moabeite, west of Kelton and north of Twitty. However, these twisters didn't fare as well as the previous invaders, as they were only brief touchdowns in open country.

"We seem like we're doing very well this morning," said Wheeler County Sheriff Jimmy Adams.

One twister in Wednesday's storm caused severe damage to vehicles along Interstate 40 Wednesday night, leaving debris the Department of Public Safety was still trying to clean up Thursday morning. Approximately 13 individuals were treated for injuries in that incident. Ken Schneider with the National Weather Service in Amarillo reports that particular tornado had received an F3 rating.

In addition to the three tornadoes in Wheeler County last night, one brief touchdown was also reported in Roberts County five miles north of Miami, said Schneider. However, the biggest problems for residents, during last night's storms was hail and rain.

Carnival

come on Friday and ride free then," he said. Also, once power was restored, the carnival operated an hour past its regular 10 p.m. shut down time.

And as for some carnival goers who either called or threatened to call police because the rides stopped, Burlingame noted that even if the police had wanted to, officers couldn't make him give refunds. "I did that because I wanted to. It's just like if it rains on the first night we let them come back free."

When the outage happened, Burlingame said he thought heat trapped by new skirts on the rides were to blame. But as it turned out, the problem was in a large generator and repairs were made on Thursday.

A Pampa resident, Clara Sailor, told The Pampa News she is concerned because Burlingame said he will not return next year to Pampa with his carnival.

"I hope he will reconsider," she said Friday. "He always gives parts of the proceeds to worthy causes...and he lets children who can't afford to attend the carnival free. I am taking a group of underprivileged children there tonight...without charge."

Sailor, who is with C&S Cable Advertising Products, a company that produced a promotional film about two years ago for Pride of Texas Shows, says Burlingame runs a "good, family operation...and he does a lot for people."

Some of the proceeds of the carnival, which runs through Sunday, benefit the Pride of Pampa Band and it is the band's largest fund-raiser. Sailor said Burlingame's Pride of Texas Shows takes part of its name from the Pampa High School band.

Vandalism

Park had the second highest rate of vandalism during that year with a total of six.

So far in 1997, a total of nine incidents have been reported, including the damage to the Hike-N-Bike trail in Highland Park.

Most common incidents of vandalism are: spray paint graffiti (12 in 1995, 11 in 1996 and one in 1997), graffiti in concrete (one in 1997), disk golf goals damaged (seven since 1996) and various damages to parks and recreation facilities (restroom lights, doors and locks; park signs; boards and bolts removed from suspension bridge).

Shane Stokes, director of recreation, said his most commonly hit facilities are the Recreation Park Group Shelter Building and the Marcus Sanders Pool. Most often damages to the shelter building at Recreation Park include graffiti and breaking down the restroom doors, which he states are replaced almost monthly during the winter.

"It's really senseless," said Stokes. "People don't realize that to kick a door down and go in and write on the walls, it costs the taxpayers $250 bucks, probably, to fix it."

In the summer, a caretaker is on hand 24-hours at Recreation Park. This, said Stokes, helps curtail

Most vandalism at Marcus Sanders Pool involves glass bottles thrown into the pool during the winter. Although it doesn't actually damage the pool, the recreation department must spend many hours attempting to get all of the glass removed from the pool before swimming season each year. This ultimately costs taxpayers more money for the labor to prepare for the pool's opening.

Both Stokes and Kirkpatrick believe kids and teens are responsible for the majority of acts of vandalism. This is very evident when looking at the times when most of these acts occur — during winter breaks from school and the summer break.

For each act of vandalism, said Kirkpatrick, a police report is made. And the vandal, if determined, can be forced to pay for the damages. In addition, if the vandal is a child or teen, the parents can be forced to pay for the damages.

However, the greatest loss is to the taxpayers. It is tax money that is used to fund the Parks and Recreation Department, and with every act of vandalism, that money is diverted from another potential project to repair the damages.

"It's heartbreaking," said Kirkpatrick. "To work so hard on something and then to have something like this (vandalism) happen."

Summer beautification project

Kindergarten students at St. Matthew's Day School chose a summer project to help beautify the church grounds. The students planted flowers and watermelons and will have the opportunity to water, weed, watch the beauty grow and harvest the melons. ## Changes in Conservation Reserve Program keep some local farmers upset

By DIANNA F. DANDRIDGE
Staff Writer

The Conservation Reserve Program, a federally funded program which pays farmers to keep highly erodible soils out of production, has changed over the years, and with the 1996 Farm Bill has left some local farmers unhappy with the results.

The new farm bill set up evaluation scores which would determine the most highly erodible lands. Only the top 16.1 million acres nationwide were accepted. That is land that scored 8 or more on the erodibility sheets were accepted.

This has left $320 million in unspent CRP funds and has some members of Congress upset and pushing to enroll an additional 3 million acres.

According to Matt Street, with the Gray County Farm Service Agency, Gray County farmers offered 25,832.3 acres of land to be enrolled in the program.

Only 7,295.3 acres were accepted. These acres will mean approximately $XXX to the area farmers.

Parks Shackelford, head of the USDA Farm Service Agency, said extending the program would allow more costly acreage into the program, that with proper management should be able to remain in production.

Shackelford told a House agriculture subcommittee, "We did a much better job of targeting the land that should be retired. It's a much better approach than in the past."

According to Shackelford, adding the additional 3 million acres would drop the environmental value of the land and raise the overall cost of the program by about $2 per acre.

Rep. Larry Combest, a Republican from the Lubbock area, disagrees.

"There is no compelling reason why we should wait to correct this inadequacy when we have thousands of farmers willing to idle fragile lands."

"The budget authority is there to do much more," he said.

Shackelford said farmers will have another chance in the fall to resubmit their lands, but he is not sure how many additional acres will be accepted.

Street says that in Gray County a number of farmers have filed appeals, but there have been no replies.

He continued to say most farmers will resubmit their lands in the fall, but in the meantime farmers will either graze out the land or keep it planted in CRP grasses.

Shackelford has promised farmers that the USDA's offices will continue to help farmers configure their fall bids, maximizing the acceptance rates.

Sign-ups are expected to be complete prior to the winter freeze.

McVeigh jurors go behind closed doors with judge

DENVER (AP) — Jurors returned to the courthouse today for a second day of deliberations on whether Timothy McVeigh should be executed for the Oklahoma City bombing.

The panel of seven men and five women deliberated for nearly five hours Thursday, and worked another two hours today before going into the courtroom for a closed-door session with the judge.

"The jury has a question and we have to have a short conference with the judge," said lead defense attorney Stephen Jones.

After the 20-minute session, there was no word on what the question involved. Jones said only that it was routine.

The unsequestered jury then returned to the deliberating room. It was unclear whether it would work over the weekend, if necessary.

In a related development today, lawyers for McVeigh's co-defendant Terry Nichols released a request for U.S. District Judge Richard Matsch to advise jurors not to speak with reporters after the penalty verdict.

"Members of the national media have identified most, if not all, of the jurors in the McVeigh case," Nichols attorney Michael Tigar wrote in the motion. "McVeigh jurors will likely be asked by the press to speculate about Mr. Nichols' alleged involvement and the possible outcome in his upcoming trial."

Matsch, who has tried to protect jurors' privacy by sealing their names and putting up a wall to shield them in the courtroom, has yet to counsel them on how to deal with the media.

In Thursday's penalty-phase closing arguments, prosecutor Beth Wilkinson called the April 19, 1995, slaughter of 168 innocent men, women and children "the crime that the death penalty was designed for."

With a glare at McVeigh, she told jurors: "Look into the eyes of a coward and tell him you will have courage. Tell him he is no patriot. He is a traitor and he deserves to die."

McVeigh's face flushed red and he averted his narrowed eyes from hers, looking off into the audience.

Defense lawyers conceded McVeigh's involvement in the bombing but said letting him live might provide answers to "the rest of the story" about the blast.

"Dead men don't tell tales," said lead attorney Stephen Jones, pointing out that unknown conspirators mentioned in the indictment have never been found.

"We don't want a Lee Harvey Oswald here," Jones said. "We don't want an Oliver Stone movie. We don't want a Warren Commission report."

Jones said the seed that grew into the blast was planted at the deadly 1993 siege of the Franch Davidians compound near Waco, Texas.

"It is a political crime. It is an ideological crime," Jones said Thursday, dressed in the colors of the American flag: bright red tie, white shirt and blue suit. "He is not alone. His fears are not alone. He is not a demon, though surely his act was demonic."

And he hinted darkly that executing McVeigh — convicted June 2 of murder and conspiracy in the April 19, 1995, bombing — could cause more bloodshed.

"You have to make the first step to restore domestic tranquility," Jones said. "You know now that Oklahoma City started something."

Prosecutor Joseph Hartzler called the statements "tantamount to almost a terrorist threat."

"That is pure intimidation," he said. "I am asking each and every one of you to have the courage to disregard that."

Outside court, bombing survivors and victims' families were outraged by the defense summation, particularly attorney Richard Burr's claim that "we all bear some responsibility for Oklahoma City" because of injustices by the government.

"The Waco deal?" said Charles Tomlin, whose grown son died in the bombing. "They gave them 52 days to come out or do something. My son didn't even get 52 seconds to come out of the building that McVeigh blew up."

After nearly three hours of summations, U.S. District Judge Richard Matsch instructed jurors on death penalty law. In a forceful, dramatic voice, he told them they are "the conscience of the community."

Commissioners set agenda for Monday meet at 9 a.m.

PAMPA — Gray County Commissioners' Court will be in regular session at 9 a.m., Monday, June 16. At 10 a.m., the commissioners will open and review bids received for food preparation and services in Gray County Jail.

Other items for consideration include:

- County bills and salaries;
- Transfers and intra-budget transfers recommended by the county auditor and treasurer;
- Treasurer's report;
- Request from tax assessor/collector to add a staff employee's signature to tax office bank accounts;
- Request from tax assessor/collector to accept bid on tax properties located in McLean;
- Request from tax assessor/collector to open a new bank account;
- Recognition of Gay Guiliani for completing Assessment/Truth in Taxation course;
- Recognition of Auditor Elaine Morris and Assistant Auditor Carla Carter for completion of continuing education;

Among items the commission will consider is the Seismic option agreement from Perm-O-Penn Exploration for 1,641.17 surface acres and 1,401.17 mineral acres in League 290.

- Request from Ann Davidson to terminate the contract between All State Security and the White Deer Land Museum;
- Request from county clerk to combine voting precincts for Aug. 9, 1997 Special Amendment Election;

- Request from county clerk to add staff employees' signature to the bank accounts for the county's and county clerk's accounts;
- Request from County Clerk Wanda Clark to replace an employee;
- Seismic Option Agreement from Perm-O-Penn Exploration for 1,641.17 surface acres and 1,401.17 mineral acres in League 290.

The commissioners may vote and/or act on each of the items listed in regular meeting. The court commissioners reserve the right to retire into executive session concerning any item, or whenever it is necessary and legally justified, for the purpose of discussing personnel and specific business transactions.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the covenanted commandment.

San Antonio Express-News on campaign fund-raising:

U.S. House and Senate committees are about to begin hearings into campaign fund-raising irregularities.

There will be many horrid examples of how the spirit, if not the letter, of federal campaign finance laws was violated last year, primarily by the Clinton-Gore campaign.

Yet it becomes more apparent every day that Congress will not vote on legislation to plug those same loopholes exploited by the president and vice president.

Why? Because members of Congress enjoy them, too. President Clinton earlier this year asked Congress to pass the bipartisan McCain-Feingold bill by July 4.

It will not happen. On May 26, Laura Nichols, a spokeswoman for House Minority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said of campaign-finance reform:

"It's at the bottom of concerns of almost all constituents, which is why you get such a slow reaction."

We do not believe that is true. The American people are disgusted with influence peddling.

Soft money is a huge loophole that the Clinton-Gore campaign exploited last year, but which has been Republican turf since the post-Watergate campaign-finance reforms.

Of course, if Gephardt's aide is correct, people at the grass roots do not care.

If you disagree, write your House member and senators. Remember that 1998 is an election year. Cutting the pipeline will not happen then. It must happen now.

El Paso Times on the McVeigh trial:

America sighed. Much of the sigh was rooted in the knowledge that a Denver jury had just found a 29-year-old man guilty on 11 counts of murder. America took a significant step toward a long-awaited closure of the most horrifying single act in the nation's history.

But another part of the sigh was rooted in the reality that no jury can return a lost loved one. So today Americans should turn their attention away from judges and juries and direct it toward people of a greater need. Our thoughts should return to survivors of 168 people (including 19 children) who died at the hateful hand of Timothy McVeigh.

Buddy Welch provides leadership in that effort. His 23-year-old daughter, Julie, died April 19, 1995, in the Oklahoma City bombing. Welch said: "You heard most all of them (outside the Denver courtroom) clap. I couldn't do that. McVeigh has put us through so much and now... I really can't put it in words. I thought it'd all be joy, but it isn't. The bottom line is my little girl isn't coming back and I have the rest of my life to deal with that."

Other all-too-clear lessons emerge from this trial: Not all terrorism comes from abroad. Not all high-profile trials and lawyers have to become sideshows. But the greatest lesson will linger long after Americans finish sighing. The lesson is powerful: Loved ones should never be taken for granted, because they can never be replaced.

Austin American-Statesman on the public's right to know:

The right of the public to be informed and involved in government lost ground and opportunity in the legislative session that just ended.

Among the major losses was a bill to close the enormous loophole known as staff briefings. Government bodies, including the University of Texas System Board of Regents, have frequently used the briefings loophole as an excuse to meet in secret.

Texas law allows public bodies to be briefed in private for purposes of receiving information only. Members cannot take votes in private. However, the reality of such situations is that members too often reach consensus on sensitive matters in private, then convene in public for the formal vote.

Secret staff briefings are only an excuse for public bodies, paid for with public money, to meet in private. The staff briefing is a much-abused loophole that ought to be made illegal and it's too bad the Legislature failed to do so.

Too many public officials in Texas do not embrace the public's right to know, even though it's the public's money being spent for the public's business. Legislators who bowed to the arrogance of government rather than the right of the public to be involved and informed did Texas a disservice.

Conservatives and Paula Jones

When Paula Jones heard about the Supreme Court's 9-0 opinion in her favor, she reportedly screamed with delight, asking a companion over and over, "Can you believe it?"

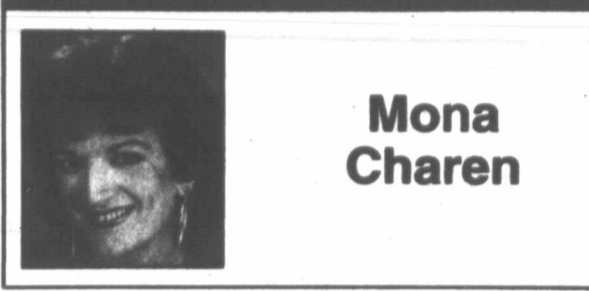

Many conservatives had similar reactions, — and for understandable reasons, though caution is in order.

For the first time, it seems that President Clinton's execrable personal conduct is about to catch up to him. Houdini-like, he has escaped from one impossible situation (of his own making) after another, dancing away from Whitewater, Filegate, the campaign fundraising scandal, Travelgate, Troopergate, hush money to Hubbellgate and much more. The glib lie has served him well.

There are other reasons to rejoice at the Supreme Court's ruling. The president's claim of sovereign immunity for private, unofficial conduct was breathtakingly arrogant, and it was gratifying to see the Supreme Court shoot it down with a few swift strokes. Then, there was the double standard. It was galling for conservatives to witness the contempt with which Paula Jones was treated — not just by the president and his agents but by the national press — when she first came forward.

Whereas the national media had embraced Anita Hill as the Rosa Parks of sexual harassment, Paula Jones was reviled and defamed. "Trailer-park trash" said James Carville. "A floozy with big hair," echoed a compliant press. The lectures about "believing women" to which the nation was subjected during the Hill/Thomas fiasco were forgotten.

When the hypocrisy of the press and particularly the feminists was identified by a liberal (Stuart Taylor, writing in the American Lawyer last November), the ex post facto explanations poured forth. Some commentators were honest enough to admit that class and political bias had prejudiced them against Jones — Evan Thomas of Newsweek, for example. But most insisted that Jones was greeted skeptically just because she first surfaced at a meeting of the Conservative Political Action Conference and because she only filed suit when the statute of limitations had two days left to run.

Please. None of that would have mattered one iota if Jones had accused Newt Gingrich or Dick Army. Besides, Anita Hill got advice and legal counsel from a consortium of left-wing groups and individuals. That didn't affect her credibility with the press — indeed, it probably enhanced it. As for the statute of limitations issue, Paula Jones at least made it under the wire. Hill was complaining of alleged events that were ten years old.

Moreover, Paula Jones was seeking only to redeem her good name. In 1993, the American

Spectator had run an article in which a woman named "Paula" was cited by one of the Arkansas state troopers as a willing "girlfriend" of the former governor. At that point, two years after the alleged event in an Arkansas hotel room, Jones felt constrained to correct the record.

But should conservatives — who value decorum and dignity — truly relish the spectacle of a president of the United States, even one they despise, being deposed on his sexual habits? Even if the answer is yes, on the grounds that the president's own conduct invites this retribution, there is the matter of relying on the courts for satisfactions that ought to be had at the voting booth. And should conservatives, who are rightly skeptical about sexual harassment claims, embrace Jones' even more tenuous civil rights suit?

Though the press characterizes this case as a sexual harassment suit, it is not. The statute of limitations on that claim had already passed by 1993. Jones is claiming denial of her constitutional rights, intentional infliction of emotional distress and defamation. With the exception of the defamation claim, the rest has the odor of overlitigiousness that conservatives usually decry.

Last, there is this for conservatives to ponder: Though Bill Clinton and his aides have more or less admitted to his extramarital dalliances, the exact behavior Paula Jones alleges sounds, well, out of character. He is a charmer, after all, not a bully.

It is possible that those who are hoping this case will strike a blow for truth will find that the truth is more elusive than they thought.

Today in history

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, June 13, the 164th day of 1997. There are 201 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On June 13, 1966, the Supreme Court issued its landmark Miranda vs. Arizona decision, ruling that criminal suspects must be informed of their constitutional rights prior to questioning by police.

On this date: In 1886, King Ludwig II of Bavaria drowned in Lake Starnberg.

In 1888, Congress created the Department of Labor.

In 1898, the Yukon Territory of Canada was organized.

In 1900, China's Boxer Rebellion against foreigners and Chinese Christians erupted into violence.

In 1927, aviation hero Charles Lindbergh was honored with a ticker-tape parade in New York City.

In 1942, President Roosevelt created the Office of War Information, and appointed radio news commentator Elmer Davis to be its head.

China doesn't deserve MFN status

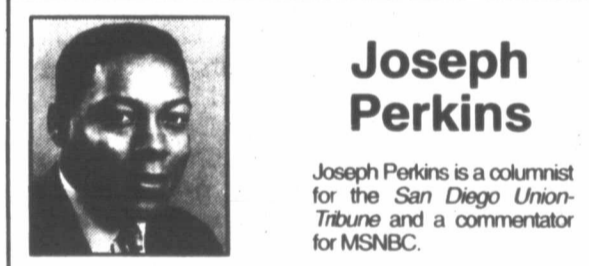

When Congress renewed China's Most Favored Nation trade status last year, the Republican leadership rationalized that the goodwill gesture toward Beijing would encourage the Communist government to desist with its protectionist trade practices; to curb its human rights abuses and to slow its military buildup.

Well, China's MFN status expired on June 3. And before lawmakers blithely renew it for another year, they ought look back over the past twelve months and consider whether U.S. generosity to China yielded the promised results.

Over the past year, the United States has seen its trade deficit with China soar to $40 billion (up from $34 billion in 1995.) That's larger, even, than our deficit to Japan, though our trade volume with Japan is four times larger than our volume with China.

The explanation for this is that Beijing is deliberately pursuing a mercantilist trade policy with the United States. It takes advantage of its free and unfettered access to the American consumer market that MFN status provides. But at the same time, it denies American exporters the same access to the Chinese consumer market.

Indeed, China continues to slap a 30% tariff on American imports, which paces them out of the range of most of China's one billion consumers (who earn an average of only $350 a year.) On top of that, Beijing imposes various nontariff barriers to its markets, including licensing requirements, trade quotas and local content restrictions.

Joseph Perkins

Joseph Perkins is a columnist for the San Diego Union-Tribune and a commentator for MSNBC.

In the past year, China has not committed any obvious human rights outrages, like the Tiananmen Square massacre in 1989. But it continues to operate more than 1,100 labor camps, known as laogai, with nearly 1.8 million prisoners reduced to slave laborers.

Five years ago, the United States and China signed a memorandum of understanding in which Beijing agreed not to export any prison-made products to this country. But Harry Wu, a political prisoner in China for 19 years before he won asylum in the United States in 1995, told Congress recently that China continues to export to America products made by slave labor, including artificial flowers, Christmas tree lights, hand tools and automotive parts.

The Clinton administration corroborates Wu's charges. "We believe that there are facilities that may be exporting materials made with prison labor to the United States," said Jeffrey Bader, a deputy assistant secretary of state, in an appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

So what is China doing with the $40 billion-a-year trade surplus it enjoys with the United States? Shopping for the latest nuclear weaponry so that it can challenge us for military supremacy early in the next century.

Indeed, a classified Air Force report, cited last week by the Washington Times, revealed that China is developing a mobile, long range missile, known as Dong Feng-31, capable of carrying multiple warheads.

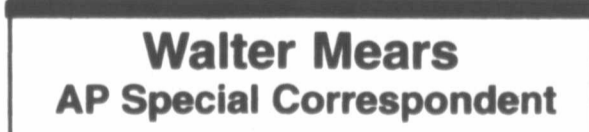

The missile could be deployed early in the next century. Its range will be just shy of 5,000 miles, which means it not only will pose a threat to U.S. forces in the Pacific, but also to San Diego and other West Coast cities.

And if China does not pose a future threat to the United States, then maybe the threat will be posed by one of the nations to which Beijing has sold advance military weaponry.

Indeed, a top secret CIA report last fall revealed that Beijing sold missile technology, advanced radar components and chemicals for making nerve agents to Iran's Ayatollahs. China also has sold missile technology to Syria and both missile and nuclear technology to Pakistan.

China's actions over the past year are hardly those of a nation seeking friendlier relations with the United States. It does not deserve renewal of Most Favored Nation status.

A groundswell that never happened

Walter Mears AP Special Correspondent

So much for the myth that voter outrage over excesses of the last campaign was going to propel action to reform away fundraising abuses and swollen spending before the next one.

It isn't happening, and even if televised congressional hearings this summer stir the political money issue, they don't seem likely to mobilize the kind of pressure reformers expected early this year.

The public demand that President Clinton said should lead to enactment of a reform law by July 4 wasn't there.

"I think he understood that unless we could bring that legislation quickly to his desk, the likelihood of influencing the '98 cycle was very, very remote," said Sen. Richard J. Durbin, D-Ill.

Actually, the target never was realistic against Republican resistance. Now it is no more than a Democratic talking point, and even the staged speeches concede the outcome.

So do Americans surveyed in a poll commissioned by reform advocates.

While 60% said it should be on the priority list, only 15% wanted it at the top. And 57% said they had little or no confidence that Congress and Clinton would produce laws reducing the role of money in politics.

That survey for the Center for Responsive Politics reflects the mood in other polls — interest but not urgency about reform; concern, when asked, about the influence of money and big donors; and a judgment that Democrats and Republicans are equally likely to be involved in questionable fundraising.

No groundswell, and no significant pressure from beyond the Beltway.

Clinton had said he would press for action in every available forum. He hasn't; it slipped down the priority list. In his Feb. 4 State of the Union message he said delay would be the death of reform legislation. Two months later, Vice President Al Gore said there was unprecedented public focus on the issue, and the White House set up an education and awareness project on campaign finance reform. Not much has been heard of it since.

The chairmen, former Democratic Vice President Walter Mondale and former Republican Sen. Nancy Kassebaum Baker, are to appear before a Senate committee next week to talk about the effort.

The Senate bill Clinton supports includes incentives to limit spending by congressional candidates, an end to the unlimited contributions that now can be delivered to political parties — the kind of money involved in the Democrats' improper 1996 fundraising — and restrictions on donations by political action committees.

It is styled a bipartisan bill. There are 30 sponsors, all but three of them Democrats. The Republicans who control Congress won't accept that bill and aren't much interested in others. A Senate GOP task force was going to consider and suggest alternatives, but hasn't.

Clinton is trying another route, seeking action by the Federal Election Commission to forbid so-called soft money, those unrestricted donations the parties can take, $262 million worth in the last campaign cycle. The FEC opened that money route, nearly 20 years ago, for funds that weren't to be spent for individual candidates but for party building efforts. The line blurred to the vanishing point as the sums involved soared.

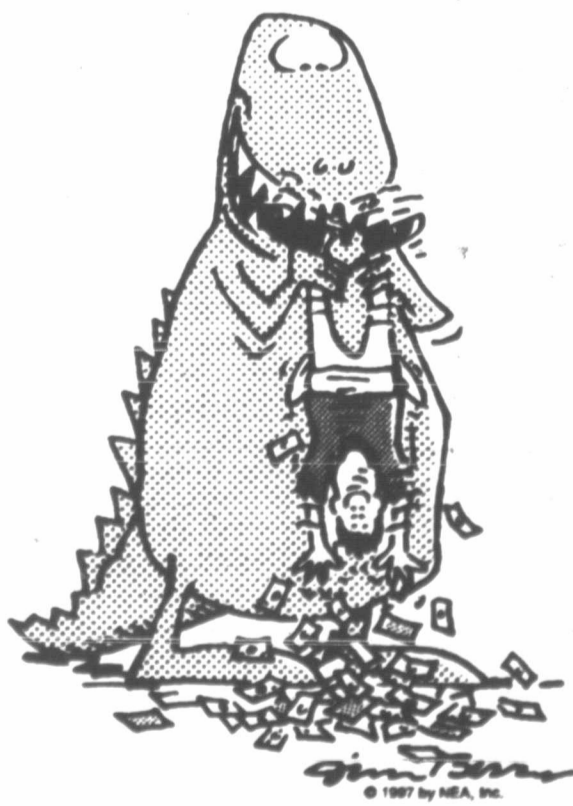

Whatever happens on that track would take months, and probably wouldn't stand anyhow, given congressional claims to authority over the question.

That leaves would-be reformers to repeat their case, and insist something has to be done. "We must pass meaningful campaign finance reform or be embarrassed to face the voters in the 1998 elections," said Rep. Thomas H. Allen, D-Maine, co-chairman of a task force of House freshmen working on the issue.

Any embarrassment is more likely to pass than a campaign reform law.

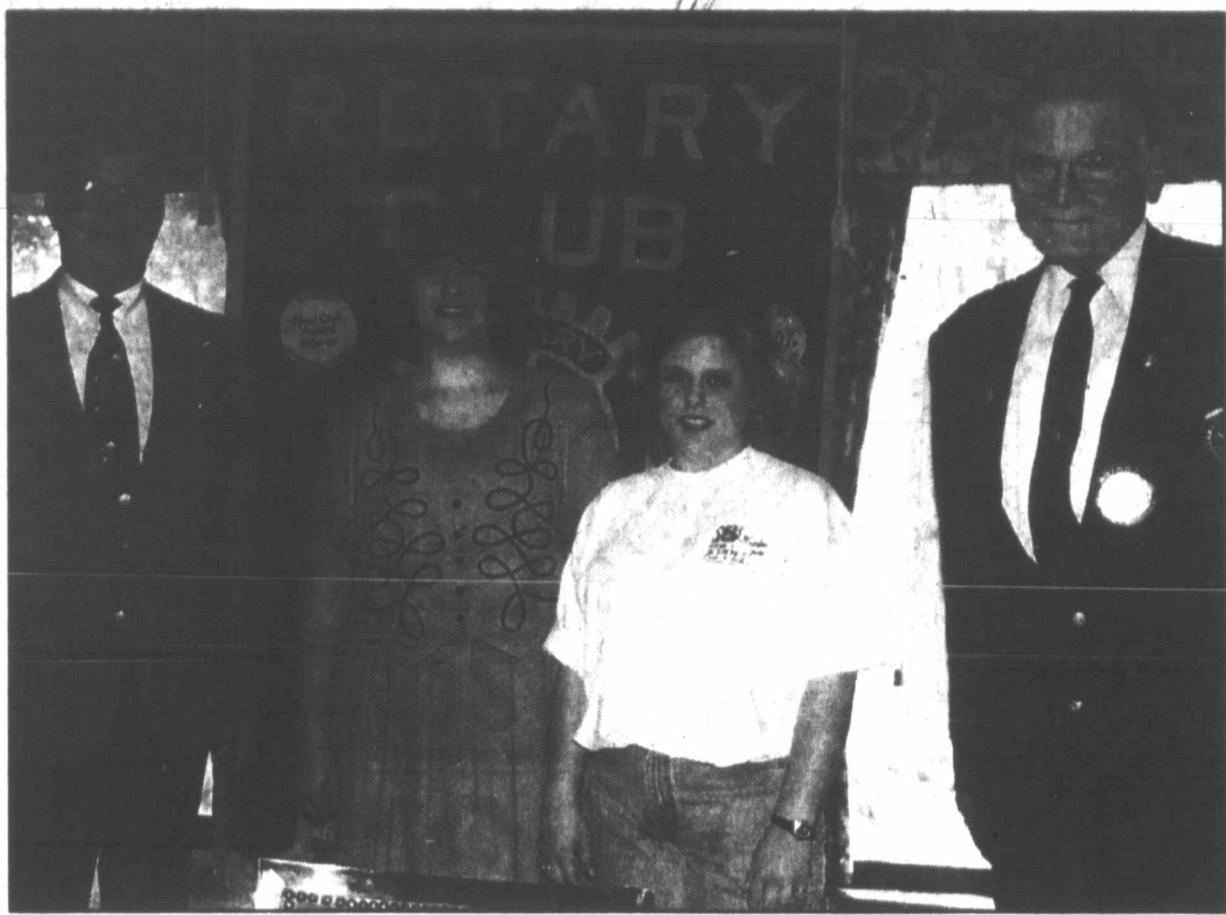

"There is no will, there is no commitment to real campaign reform from the Republican side," Democrat Durbin said. "Unfortunately, that means that the dismal swamp of American politics will continue to exist."

Amarilloans discuss pros and cons of plant

AMARILLO (AP) — The Amarillo-area economy will suffer if the government doesn't convert the Pantex nuclear bomb factory into a plutonium fuel processor, several public officials say.

Outnumbered opponents at the informal U.S. Department of Energy hearing on Thursday countered that the suburban plant could become a toxic mess if its mission is expanded beyond warhead disassembly and plutonium storage.

"I would like to reiterate the city's insistence that all current and future operations be consistent with our residents' health," Amarillo mayor Kel Seliger said. "I'm confident that, with proper safeguards and regulations, the Department of Energy can operate such processes in a safe fashion."

Doris Smith, a farmer who lives near the plant 17 miles east of Amarillo, said it's easy for city officials to support the disassembly of plutonium bomb cores and change them into atomic fuel rods.

"I hear them. I hear them in every one of these meetings get up and talk," said Smith, her voice sometimes halting. "I don't know if any one of those people is going to live next door to where this is happening."

The meeting was the second of four to be held at DOE sites vying for part or all of the Clinton Administration's plan to convert 33 metric tons of plutonium into mixed-oxide fuel, or MOX. Another 17 metric tons is slated for immobilization in glass.

Pantex, the Savannah River Site in South Carolina, the Hanford Site in Washington state and the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory are vying for three different plutonium disposal projects.

All four are eligible for factories to disassemble plutonium bomb pits, and all are eligible for separate MOX manufacturing plants. Only Savannah River and Hanford are possibilities for immobilization.

Speaker earned enough to pay penalty, disclosure form reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker Newt Gingrich earned enough money last year to keep a key commitment for paying a $300,000 ethics penalty: that he would borrow no more than half the money from former Sen. Bob Dole.

Gingrich's financial disclosure form, released today with those of all members of Congress, showed the speaker's earned income in 1996 totaled $356,609.

Of that amount, $171,500 was his congressional salary and $185,109 — mostly royalties from his book To Renew America, which was a best-seller.

The annual disclosure ritual demonstrated that members of Congress were on the road often last year courtesy of special interests for traditional speeches and conferences.

Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., was on the road on behalf of cancer victims, and Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M. sent his wife on several trips to participate in mental health conferences.

The speaker took more than 150 trips — nearly all of them political. Many of his daily living expenses were paid by political organizations.

Gingrich didn't make all his money from book royalties. He was paid $1,078 for an appearance on the Murphy Brown television comedy and later earned a residual payment of $104, presumably from a rerun. The money was listed as honoraria and donated to charity.

The form shows that most of Gingrich's assets are in accounts controlled by his wife, Marianne — as they were last year. The speaker and his wife have a joint bank account worth between $50,001 and $100,000, a joint credit union account worth a maximum of $15,000 and the speaker's own credit union account worth no more than $15,000.

Gingrich already has made a $50,000 down payment on his loan. The $300,000 penalty was assessed by the House after Gingrich acknowledged submitting incorrect information to the ethics committee during a probe of his tax-exempt activities. The House called the $300,000 an assessment for extra expenses it incurred because of his incorrect submissions.

The Speaker took more than 150 trips — nearly all of them political. Many of his daily living expenses were paid by political organizations.

In winning ethics committee approval of his repayment plan, Gingrich said he has an agreement with HarperCollins to write another book for the publishing firm. He said the expected proceeds would serve as collateral for any loan from Dole.

Republican Rep. Floyd Spence, chairman of the House National Security Committee, owns 64.838 acres of real estate in his home state of South Carolina — valued between $5 million and $25 million.

Lawmakers are required to report only ranges of income and assets. Rep. William Goodling, R-Pa., was more precise, estimating the value of eight thoroughbreds he fully or partially owned at $15,000.

Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, parted with his power boat for between $15,000 and $50,000.

Rep. Charles Stenholm of Texas, the top Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee, received between $5,000 and $10,000 in federal agriculture payments and crop insurance last year.

Members of Congress are severely restricted in the types of earned income they can receive outside of their $133,600 salary (a few leaders get more). Royalties are permitted, however, and Sens. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, and Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., took advantage of the exception.

Birthday greetings from one president to another

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush got a handshake, then a surprise birthday cake from his successor, President Clinton.

After addressing about 250 business leaders Thursday, Clinton welcomed the former president to the dais, where the pair shook hands to thunderous applause from the audience.

"One of the best perks of being president is the food," Clinton said. "Today is President Bush's birthday, and I was coming over here, so we had the White House mess bake him a cake."

Written on the sheet cake was "Happy Birthday, President Bush," marking the former president's turning 73.

"It's beautiful," Bush said, admiring the white and yellow frosted angel food confection topped with six candles and wrapped around the sides with red, white and blue icing that resembled campaign bunting. "I think we should all sing happy birthday," Clinton said. To which Bush replied "Oh, no." "And see if he can blow the candles out," Clinton added. Bush complied, slowly extinguishing each candle as Clinton led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday."

State briefs

Double murderer gets life in prison

SAN ANTONIO — For days, prosecutors had begged jurors not to believe that Robert Elliott, a college student and Christian youth leader, was the "saint" he pretended to be.

They pushed for the death penalty for the 23-year-old Southwest Texas State University accused of killing two longtime friends — William Jeffrey Pylant and Lee Carroll II, both 19, in the San Antonio suburb of Live Oak, where all three lived.

A Bexar County jury decided instead to spare Elliott's life, returning a verdict of life in prison for the Jan. 10, 1996 killings. He must serve at least 40 years before he is eligible for parole.

Carroll, a 73-pound teen who suffered from muscular dystrophy, was shot in the back of the head from close range because he owed his former Judson High schoolmate $1,000 for stereo equipment.

Pylant, who was still learning to walk and talk again after a childhood bicycle accident, was shot in the chest and face when he cried out to Elliott for mercy, prosecutors said.

Polygamous sect leader sentenced in 1988 slayings

HOUSTON — A polygamous cult leader sentenced to 45 years in prison for directing the 1988 shooting deaths of four people has been ordered to pay for his victims' funerals.

Aaron LeBaron, 29, on Thursday received the maximum sentence from U.S. District Judge Sim Lake in the slayings of three former sect members and an 8-year-old witness.

The judge also said LeBaron must pay $134,000 in restitution, including funeral costs.

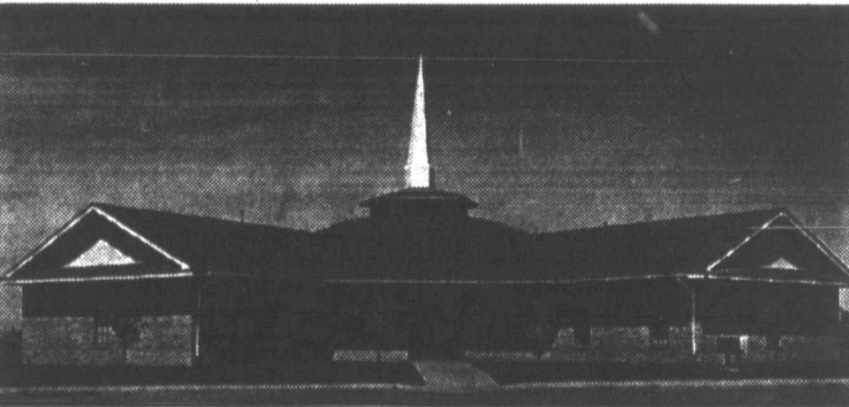

Prosecutor Mike Shelby recounted how a terrified Jenny Chynoweth had screamed as her father was shot and then she was shot twice in the face. He said LeBaron had ordered the deaths of any witnesses.

"We'll know justice is done around here when her screams are drowned out literally by the sounds of the gates of hell slamming shut on this man's soul," Shelby said outside the courtroom.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

...BUT IN THE RUGGED HILL COUNTRY OF TEKO, TO THE SOUTH, A HUMBLE SHEPHERD, NAMED AMOS...

AMOS - THE SHEPHERD TURNED PROPHET
BOTH KING UZZIAH OF JUDAH AND KING JEROBOAM OF ISRAEL HAD LED THEIR PEOPLE AWAY FROM RIGHTEOUS LIVING, DRAGGING THEM INTO A SINFUL LIFE...

BUT THE ISRAELITES SEEM TO HAVE NO CARE FOR KEEPING THE WAYS OF THE LORD! THEY HAVE FOLLOWED THEIR KINGS WITHOUT THOUGHT OF THE FUTURE, THINKING ONLY OF RIOTOUS LIVING AND THE PLEASURES OF SIN. SO EASILY BOUGHT WITH THEIR WEALTH!

THEY HAVE NEVER HEARD OF AMOS, FAR TO THE SOUTH, WHO IS PREPARING A MODEST MEAL, WHILE HIS HERD SLEEPS, AND THE GENTLE EVENING BREEZES SEEM TO SPEAK TO HIM...

...EVEN AS HE MAKES READY TO EAT, IT ALMOST SOUNDS AS IF THE LIGHT WINDS CALL HIS NAME, AND SUDDENLY, THERE IS NO DOUBT ABOUT IT - HIS NAME IS BEING CALLED! HE LOOKS ABOUT BUT THERE IS NO ONE TO BE SEEN! YET THE VOICE IS INSISTENT!

Jack and Carol Cannada Cannadas to be at HiLand Church for special services

HiLand Church, 18th and Banks, will be hosting Jack and Carol Cannada of Cannada Ministries of Phoenix, Ariz., this weekend.

The Cannadas will be special guests at a couples banquet at 7 p.m. today (admission is by ticket only).

Then they will be ministering in special services on Saturday at 7 p.m. and in Sunday worship services at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., with the public invited to attend these services.

The Cannadas have a gifted ministry to couples, according to Pastor Nathan Hopson. They have been in full-time ministry since 1984 and have traveled extensively throughout the nation.

Their love for people is evident, and they are transparent, full of humor and filled with musical talent, Hopson said. Most of their music is written by Jack and is special in its message and anointing.

Their message is Bible centered and touches hurting people with the healing power of the Holy Spirit.

The Cannadas have recorded eight gospel albums and they have appeared on several Christian television station programs. In addition, they host special retreats each year that deal with real life experiences in the areas of fatherhood, motherhood, husband/wife relations and family relationships.

For more information, call Pastor Nathan Hopson at 665-1459 or 669-6915.

Local briefs

PAMPA — St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church will be having Vacation Bible School the week of June 23-27 from 9 a.m. to noon daily.

This year's theme is Adventure Fair: God's Kids in Action. This year's VBS has special features such as a Praise Pavilion, a place to share, sing, look, listen and learn together.

There will also be stories, skits music, crafts and more.

This is a wonderful learning opportunity for children, youth and adults, St. Vincent officials said.

Registration is now in progress and runs through Friday, June 20. Parents may register their children by filling out forms found at the church entrances or by visiting the parish office.

Transportation may be arranged by calling 665-8933. For more information, call the church office.

PAMPA — The Sanctuary Choir from First Assembly of God will be hosting a bake sale at Walmart on Saturday, June 14, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. or until all items are sold.

Proceeds will go to purchase new music for the choir.

Specialty cakes and other baked goods will be available for Father's Day celebrations.

PAMPA — Barrett Baptist Church, 903 E. Beryl, will be having its Vacation Bible School on June 16 through June 20.

Sessions will be held daily from 6:45 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the church.

For more information, call 665-1370.

These men from Pampa recently attended the Promise Keepers conference in Kansas City, Mo. They gathered with 40,000 others to worship and praise Jesus Christ and hear speakers who encouraged them to be more Godly men.

Pampa Promise Keepers plan trip to D.C.

Promise Keepers will hold the Stand in the Gap conference on Oct. 4 in Washington, D.C., with chartered buses being scheduled for Pampa men wishing to attend.

The conference theme is derived from Ezekiel 22:30: "I looked for a man among them who would build up the wall and stand before me in the gap on behalf of the land so I would not have to destroy it, but I found none."

Christian men from across the nation will be converging at the Mall in Washington, D.C., in a spirit of brokenness and humility for a day of prayer, worship, confession, repentance and reconciliation, organizers say.

It is time for our nation to unite and seek God's face to heal our land and its people and return to our Godly heritage, they add.

Pampa Promise Keepers are making plans to attend the Washington, D.C., conference. Two chartered buses are scheduled to leave Pampa on Thursday, Oct. 2, at 6 p.m. and return to Pampa on Oct. 5.

Cost of the trip is $177 for bus tickets, with about $65 suggested for meals. There will be no charge for lodging.

There are only 94 seats available, so making reservations early is very important. A $50 deposit will be required at sign-up, and the remaining will be due on or before Sept. 1.

To sign up for the chartered bus rides, call Tommy Crawford at 665-2722; Randy Dyson at 669-1737; or Russ Alexander at 665-3848.

Trinity Fellowship plans theme park VBS

"Next week our church is opening a 'theme park,'" says Trinity Fellowship Church Pastor Lonny Robbins.

The Wild Frontier Bible Theme Park will replace the traditional Vacation Bible School. Kids won't find any boring reminders of tedious schoolwork here. Our Wild Frontier Bible Theme Park program will provide fun, memorable Bible-learning activities for kids of all ages," he said.

Each day kids will sing catchy songs, stop at the Midway to play teamwork-building games, nibble tasty treats from the Snack Bar, explore hands-on Bible adventures at the Main Attraction and create a pop-up book they'll take home and enjoy all summer long, Robbins said.

"Wild Frontier Bible Theme Park is a five-day examination of the life of Christ," Robbins said. "We'll conclude each day with a festive Center Stage Show Time program that gets everyone involved in celebrating what they've learned. Family members and friends are encouraged to join us daily for this special time. We hope Wild Frontier Bible Theme Park will spread God's love and joy throughout our community."

Wild Frontier Bible Theme Park begins Monday, June 16, and continues through Friday, June 20. The theme park is located at Trinity Fellowship Church, 1200 S. Sumner, in Pampa.

The Main Gate opens each day at 9 a.m. and closes at 12 noon. For more information, call (806) 665-3255.

City OKs commandments display

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Ten Commandments will be put up in County Council chambers.

The resolution approved 9-0 by the council likely will be challenged in court, but that could take years to resolve, Councilman Tim Scott said.

"I think it's unfortunate that you're going to blow $100,000 on this foolishness," Kenneth Glover, a local Democratic Party chairman, told Scott.

Glover was referring to the potential cost to taxpayers of defending the county from a threatened American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit.

Hasskarl to be awarded master of divinity degree

Leif R. Hasskarl has completed all the requirements for and was awarded a master of divinity degree from Concordia Theological Seminary, Fort Wayne, Ind.

This four-year program requires 137 quarter hours of resident study and a one year vicarage internship. Course work involves theology, Biblical studies, history and practical application.

Hasskarl's special focus was in Church History. His master's thesis was "The Theology and Vision of the First and Second Crusades Over Against the Actual Practice of Crusading Piety." He recently completed his vicarage internship at Zion Lutheran Church in Pampa.

The congregation has extended a divine call to him to be the pastor of Zion. His ordination as pastor will be at Zion.

Zion Lutheran Church is a member of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Pastors from other Lutheran Churches in the area will perform the ordination and installation.

A native of Brenham, Texas, in 1982 Hasskarl graduated from East Central University in Ada, Okla., with a bachelor of arts degree in history. At graduation, he was also commissioned as a Regular Army Officer. He left the Army in 1993 and began his studies for the ordained ministry.

While serving at Fort Hood, Texas, he met and married his wife, the former Nancy Murdock of Biloxi, Miss. She was also stationed there as a personnel and administrative officer.

The congregation invites the community to the ordination and installation on June 22 at 4 p.m. Zion Lutheran Church is located at 1200 Duncan Street.

Lawsuit challenges rosary ban

HOUSTON (AP) — Students at New Caney High School have been told they cannot wear rosary beads to class.

School officials say it's not about religion, that it's because the beads resemble gang-related apparel.

But the parents of David Chalifoux and Jerry Robertson say it is about religion, and they filed a federal lawsuit recently contending that the school violated the students' rights.

New Caney is in Montgomery County, about 30 miles north of Houston.

The lawsuit alleges that school administrators told the students — both 15 and freshmen — on March 6 that they would be held out of classes until they complied with the policy by keeping the beads covered with their shirts.

The students complied, but their parents say their basic rights to free speech and religion are being violated.

"David and Jerry just want to have the freedom to express their religious beliefs," said Mildred Chalifoux, David's mother.

"They (school officials) say this has nothing to do with religion, but I don't see how they can say that. To me, it is about religion."

Open Adoption Records Mean Taking Bitter With The Sweet

DEAR ABBY: In all the articles I've seen in recent months concerning opening all adoption records, I have never read about the responsibilities of those who wish to find each other. I have only one question: Are you willing to totally accept whatever you find, and to accept that entire extended family as your own?

Are you willing to include that family, likable or not, in your family celebrations and go to theirs on a regular basis? If your newfound family is in financial need, requires surgery, psychiatric care or a nursing home, are you willing to pay for their care for the rest of your life? Will you visit them — at their country estate or exclusive country club, or perhaps in a homeless shelter, drug alcohol treatment center or jail? If you can't accept all the responsibilities of the whole package, don't open the box.

I have no memory of being told I was adopted. I have always known, since "adopted" was a happy word used from the time I was an infant. To my birth mother, I would simply say, "Thank you for not aborting me, for caring enough to give me up to a loving family. I hope you had other children and your life was as full of love as mine."

I'M NOT LOST. PLEASE DON'T FIND ME, GLENVIEW, ILL.

Although I have heard from many adoptees and birth mothers about their desire to locate their lost relatives, I have seen no statistics regarding how many regretted making contact.

DEAR ABBY: Is it just me, or do you and your readers find exposed bra straps disgusting? I notice it is very common to wear tank tops or sundresses or some other top that exposes all or part of the shoulder with the bra strap fully exposed. I do not find this appealing at all. It's up there with wearing curlers in public.

I am 43, and for the past 30 years, I've worn shoulder-bearing tops. When I do, I don't wear a bra, and in the '70s and '80s this was the norm. I don't recall women showing anything that should not have been shown when they went braless. If the top is so revealing without a bra, it probably is too revealing with one.

Of course, there are strapless bras for women who feel uncomfortable without a bra, and manufacturers could help out by sewing bra cups into tops that bare shoulders.

What do you and your readers think about exposed bra straps?
SALLY B. IN VALENCIA, CALIF.

DEAR SALLY: When it comes to exposed bras straps, I'm inclined to suspend judgment. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I was amused by your column that dealt with the infantry in World War II using condoms to keep their socks dry. I have a story that was told to me by my first husband, who served in the 82nd Airborne during the war.

He told me that they were each issued a gross of condoms periodically that they tied together in a rubber-band type apparatus, and that is how they kept their trousers so neatly in their boots.

How the other services managed, I don't know, but the paratroopers kept that great look in this manner. Yankee ingenuity strikes again!

Your Birthday

Sunday, June 15, 1997

In the year ahead, it looks like you'll operate on a grander scale than you have in the past. Instinctively, you'll know how to make the good things you have going for you better.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There is something grander and more beneficial behind what will appear as a gesture of good will from a concerned friend today. Be a gracious recipient. Gemini, treat yourself to birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758 Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A situation you've been anxious to change might transpire today, but it won't be you who makes this possible by triggering the developments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Paint your canvas with bright, bold strokes today, because your daring ideas will have better chances of being successful than will your conservative ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lady Luck might single you out for special attention today. She could treat you rather generously in areas that affect your material well-being.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will be lucky today, provided that you stick to your way of doing things. Limit the assignments you delegate to associates.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Reliable insights that helped you recently can be utilized effectively again today. Blend your intuition with practicality and logic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're trying to influence a group today, play to the majority instead of trying to get nods from a few select members.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In your material dealings, you are likely to fare better today than you might tomorrow. Make your move while you have a positive edge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Success isn't apt to elude you today if you keep the broader picture foremost in your mind. Try not to focus on the bits and pieces.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might eventually benefit from some confidential information given to you today. For the present, however, secrecy is essential.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your judgment is keen today, so act in accordance with your evaluations. Do not let negative associates reinforce your discomforting thoughts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Meaningful achievements are probable today, especially where your career is concerned. Establish objectives that challenge your talents.

GOLF

PAMPA — Shelbie Allison, a member of the Pampa High girls' district championship team this past season, shot a 76 to win the 15-18 girls' division Wednesday at Phillips.

Allison is playing on the Wescott Junior Tour this summer.

Eleven-year-old Tyler DuBose of Pampa is one of the newest members of the junior tour, but he's getting plenty of tournament experience.

Tyler has played in two tournaments this week, placing fourth Wednesday at the Phillips Tournament and fifth Tuesday at Palo Duro Creek. He competes in the 10-11 boys' division. His 9-hole scores were 48 at Phillips and 44 at Palo Duro.

Tyler starting swinging a golf club when he was eight years old, but didn't start playing in tournaments until this year.

Tyler's next tournament on the junior tour is Monday at the Huber Course in Borger.

Alison Piersall, also of Pampa, competed in the 15-18 girls' division at Palo Duro and Phillips and finished third in both tournaments.

RODEO

REDDING, Calif. — Three-time world champion and 1996 ProRodeo Hall of Fame inductee John W. Jones Jr. of Morro Bay, Calif., ventured north to the $96,244 Redding Rodeo, during May in Redding, Calif., to take the steer wrestling average title.

Jones, 36, turfed two steers in 9.1 seconds and earned $3,552.

The 10-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier has not competed regularly since 1993.

Gary Daniel of Telephone, Texas, took second in the steer wrestling average race by downing two steers in 9.3 seconds.

He pocketed $2,541. Vince Walker of Brentwood, Calif., and Dirk Flournoy of Los Molinos, Calif., both notched times of 9.7 seconds in two rounds to split third-place honors. Walker earned $2,705 and Flournoy took home $2,556.

In bareback riding, three-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier Rocky Steagall of Sanger, Calif., won his event's title with an 82-point ride on Growney Brothers Rodeo's Tootsie Roll.

The 34-year-old cowboy earned $2,993.

Other winners in Redding were Justen Washburn (Corona, N.M.), saddle bronc riding, 83 points on Growney Brothers Rodeo's Wicked Selena, $2,935; Austin Beasley (Ponoka, Alberta), bull riding, 86 points on Growney Brothers Rodeo's Stinger, $3,430; Jason Evans (Huntsville, Texas), calf roping, 17.6 seconds in two rounds, $2,512; Yose Campbell (Gardnerville, Nev.) and Bucky Campbell (Prosser, Wash.), team roping, 13.1 seconds in two rounds, $1,454 each; and Kristie Peterson (Elbert, Colo.), barrel racing, 17.54 seconds, $1,751.

Giants edge Rangers in first interleague tilt

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Barry Bonds began the game with butterflies in his stomach. By the end, it felt so much like any other night at the ballpark that Darryl Hamilton didn't even think twice about flipping the final out into the stands.

But Thursday night's game between the San Francisco Giants and Texas Rangers was far from ordinary. This was the first time in 126 years that teams from rival major leagues were playing in the regular season.

The game was met with all the hype and hoopla it deserved, and it played out nicely. Stan Javier became the unlikely hero with his first home run in more than a year and tiebreaking double to give the Giants a 4-3 victory.

"Before the game, I thought it might be nice for the guy who hit the first home run. I didn't think it would be me," said Javier, who went 3-for-4.

Javier, who played nine seasons in the AL, was one of several former American League players who gave the NL the early edge in the all-time interleague standings.

Glenallen Hill, the first NL designated hitter and an AL player from 1988-93, tied the game with a sacrifice fly and winning pitcher Mark Gardner pitched for Kansas City in 1993.

"If we're going to be part of history, we might as well win it," Giants manager Dusty Baker said.

The festivities began shortly after 7 p.m. CDT when Willie Mays, wearing a Giants hat, threw the ceremonial first pitch to AL president Gene Budig. Nolan Ryan, wearing a Rangers cap, was next on the mound and threw to NL president Len Coleman.

"The National League competing against the American League is like a little World Series," Bonds said before the game. "I think I'm more nervous than excited."

At 7:11 p.m., Texas left-hander Darren Oliver fired a fastball low and inside to San Francisco lead-off batter Darryl Hamilton. The ball was thrown out of play, destined for Cooperstown, and one of baseball's last barriers — the separation of the leagues except for the World Series — was gone.

Three pitches later, Hamilton had the first hit and the list of historic "firsts" was growing.

Bill Ripken drove in Damon Buford for the first run in the bottom of the second, putting Texas ahead 1-0. Javier's homer — a line drive that barely cleared the eight-foot fence in right — tied it a half-inning later.

The Rangers went up 3-1 in the sixth on an RBI triple by Mark McLemore and another RBI single by Ripken.

But the Giants answered again, loading the bases with no outs against Oliver (3-8) then getting three runs on Mark Lewis' single, Hill's sacrifice fly and Javier's double.

Gardner (7-2) pitched eight strong innings for his first win since May 22.

However, if this had been a strictly NL game, Baker said he probably would've pinch-hit for Gardner when the No. 9 spot came up in the sixth inning. He also would've been faced with the decision in the seventh.

"They've got quite a lineup," said Gardner, who gave up two earned runs on eight hits, striking out four. "I kept looking for the ninth hitter, the pitcher, and he never showed up."

Rod Beck pitched a scoreless ninth for his NL-leading 20th save, even though this one came against an AL team.

Hamilton caught the last out, then nonchalantly flipped the ball into the stands just like he did last season when he played for Texas.

"It was a mistake on my part," said Hamilton, who was berated by teammates for doing it. "Somebody's going to walk away with a nice souvenir."

It seemed as if most things involved with this game were treated like commemorative items. Tickets were marked on the back instead of torn, the bases were painted with a "First Interleague Game" logo and home plate was dug up afterward.

Twins may move in '99

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, frustrated that the state government hasn't approved a new ballpark, received permission today from baseball to talk to buyers who might move the franchise after the 1998 season.

Calling the Metrodome as "economic Albatross," acting commissioner Bud Selig said the sport's new revenue-sharing rules increased pressure to make more teams competitive.

"It's not possible to remain economically viable in the Metrodome," Selig said. "We can't sit and let a club sink into a morass of economic failure that dooms a franchise."

Twins owner Carl Pohlad said he hasn't spoken with any buyers yet, and declined to say if he would keep the team and attempt to move it.

Selig left little hope that Pohlad would be allowed to sell the team to a Minnesota owner who would continue to play in the Metrodome.

"All you do is substitute one name for another and leave all the same problems," Selig said.

In baseball's most recent franchise shift, the expansion Washington Senators became the Texas Rangers following the 1971 season.

"It just reinforces what they've been saying all along, which is if they don't get a stadium, they're going to look at moving the Twins out of Minnesota," House Speaker Phil Carruthers said.

Pohlad had proposed paying $15 million and giving the state 49 percent ownership of the team to help pay for a new stadium, but withdrew those offers. The legislature, which is expected to hold separate special sessions this summer, has said it did not expect to consider the stadium until next year. Pohlad said that would be too late.

"We've withdrawn any and all offers we might have made in the past," he said. "All our offers are off the table."

Club president Jerry Bell claimed the Twins would incur additional losses because of the legislature didn't approve a ballpark during the session that ended last month.

"We can't pick up where we left off because things have changed," he said.

In other action:

— Owners extended the contracts of AL president Gene Budig and NL president Len Coleman by three years through 2002.

— Teams were given permission to carry radio broadcasts of their games on their Internet web sites.

— Owners approved a 10-year Professional Baseball Agreement with the minor leagues through 2007 that is expected to lower major league costs by $5 million per season. The deal contains a clause allowing the contract to be reopened after 2003.

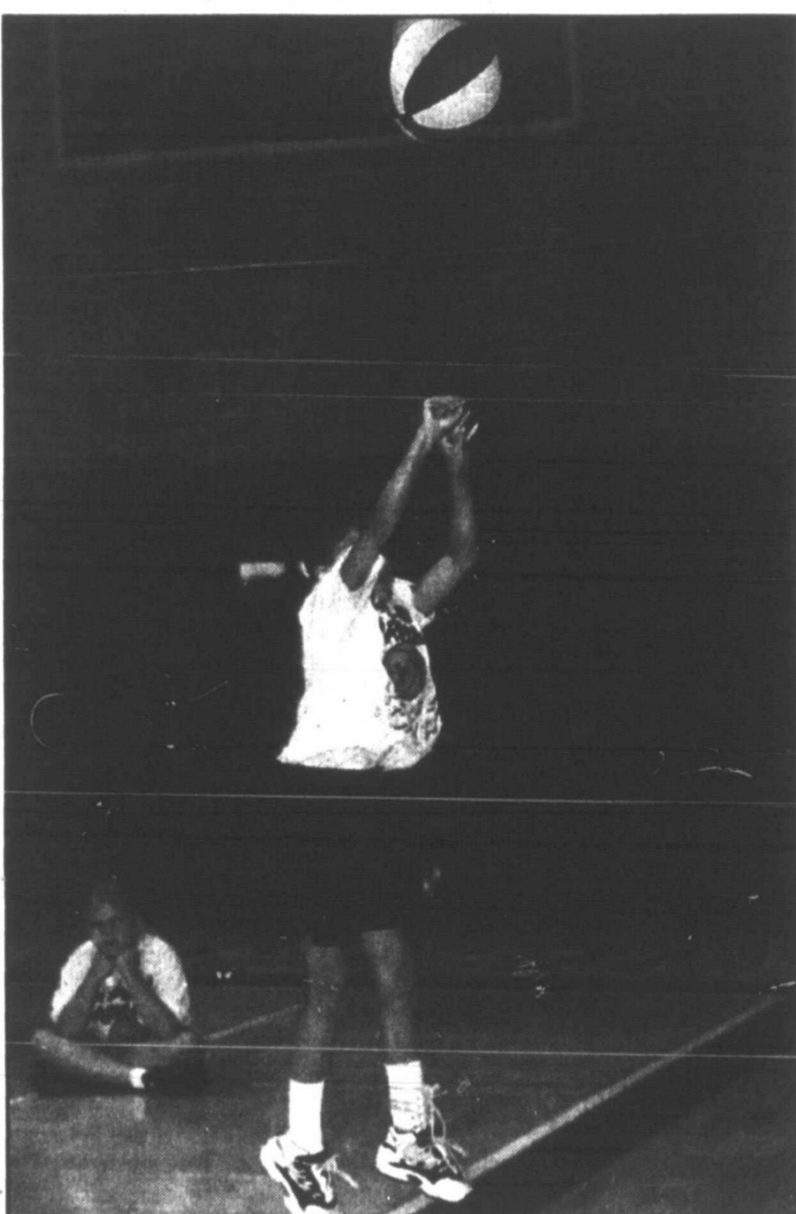

— Fox-Liberty was given a four-year contract to televise games on direct broadcast satellite.

— Selig said the investigation of Albert Belle's alleged gambling was ongoing.

Owners failed to take action on realignment and public ownership of teams, putting off those decisions until later this summer.

As the league presidents received extensions, some owners clearly want Selig to stay in office, too.

Meeting planned to talk about new soccer fields

PAMPA — Pampa High School boys' soccer coach Warren Cottle has announced a public meeting for next Thursday night, beginning at 7 in the PHS athletic office. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the next phase in the construction of the new high school soccer complex north of Travis Elementary School.

Tuesday night, the Pampa Independent School Board approved the building of the new soccer complex, which will include two regulation-size fields for both boy and girls to use.

"I'm excited about it. This is something I want to get the community involved in. Once that happens, it (soccer complex) will really be set to fly," Cottle said.

For the past several years, the soccer program has been using Harvester Stadium and the football practice facility on Randy Matson Avenue for both matches and practice. According to Cottle, the two fields aren't quite big enough for high school matches to be played on.

"We have the dirt (base for the new soccer fields)," Cottle added. "Phase one is finding a way to move it there. We need fencing material, grass seed and an irrigation line. Once we get those things, we'll be set."

Cottle would like to see the complex finished in time for the next soccer season, which starts in January.

"Right now we need materials. Donations would be nice, but we need materials more," Cottle said.

Johnson coming back to Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Miami Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson is coming back to Oklahoma — with a restaurant.

Construction has begun on an 18,000-square-foot restaurant that is a copy of Johnson's Three Rings Sports Bar & Grill on Miami Beach, Fla. The new restaurant will be in the Clarion Hotel on Lincoln Boulevard and will seat more than 250 people.

The bar and grill is scheduled to open this fall and Johnson hopes it will be a prototype for more clubs, David Littlefield, food and beverage director for the hotel, said Thursday.

Johnson's first head coaching job was in Oklahoma with the Oklahoma State Cowboys from 1979 through 1983. He also was a defensive line coach for Oklahoma from 1970 to 1972.

"He's looking forward to returning his name to the Oklahoma market," Littlefield said. "In fact, he's excited about it. He has roots here."

"This is a good place for him to be able to invite his friends. It's accessible to all parts of the country, and it gives him a high degree of exposure."

Littlefield said the restaurant will be a casual, upscale sports-themed bar and grill.

He said the Clarion is managed by the same company that manages the Eden Roc Hotel, where Johnson's Miami Beach restaurant is located.

Triangle tops .500 mark with Babe Ruth League win

By MATT HUTCHISON
Sports Writer

PAMPA — In Babe Ruth action Thursday night, Triangle went head to head with Hoagie's Deli and won by a strong 13-point margin, 16-3.

Triangle's bats went to work early against Hoagie's ace pitcher Jason Burklow, beginning with a leadoff walk by Randy Tice. Tice later scored the first run of the game off a single by Keenan Davis.

After sending Hoagie's down without a run in the bottom of the first, Triangle's bats again went to work in the top of the second.

Two straight singles by Cody Shepard and A.J. Smith were followed by an error by Hoagie's, allowing David Jenkins to load the bases. Tice followed Jenkins to the plate and hit a strong drive deep into left field that scored all runners, while Tice stopped safely at third for the three-RBI triple. Colby Hale followed Tice, driving in the run with a solid double. Later in the inning Hale became the fifth and final runner to cross the plate, scoring on a Jesse Francis double.

The game was cut short after the fifth inning due to the 10-run rule. Triangle moves above .500 at 4-3 on the year while Hoagie's remain without a victory.

Hoagie's came to the plate in the bottom of the second looking to take a bite out of Triangle's six-run lead. They did just that, scoring two runs in the inning.

A walk by Eric Brown set up the first of the two runs in the inning. Another walk to Jeremy Silva set up the second-run situation. Ryan Sells drove in Brown with a single, and on the same play, Silva was able to score on the overthrow to third by the Triangle catcher.

Hoagie's only other run was scored by starting pitcher Jason Burlow, who crossed home plate on a solid base shot by Eric Black late in the third inning.

Triangle busted the game wide open in the fourth inning, scoring eight runs on eight hits. Highlights of the inning were a two-run single by Kyle Francis, an RBI double by John Johnson and a run walked in when a base on balls was throw to Jesse Francis, who later scored on a wild pitch.

The game was cut short after the fifth inning due to the 10-run rule. Triangle moves above .500 at 4-3 on the year while Hoagie's remain without a victory.

Bass anglers hold roadrunner tourney

PAMPA — The High Plains Bass Anglers, an affiliate of Honey Hole, recently held a roadrunner tournament at Lake Foss, Skipout and Dead Indian Lakes in Oklahoma.

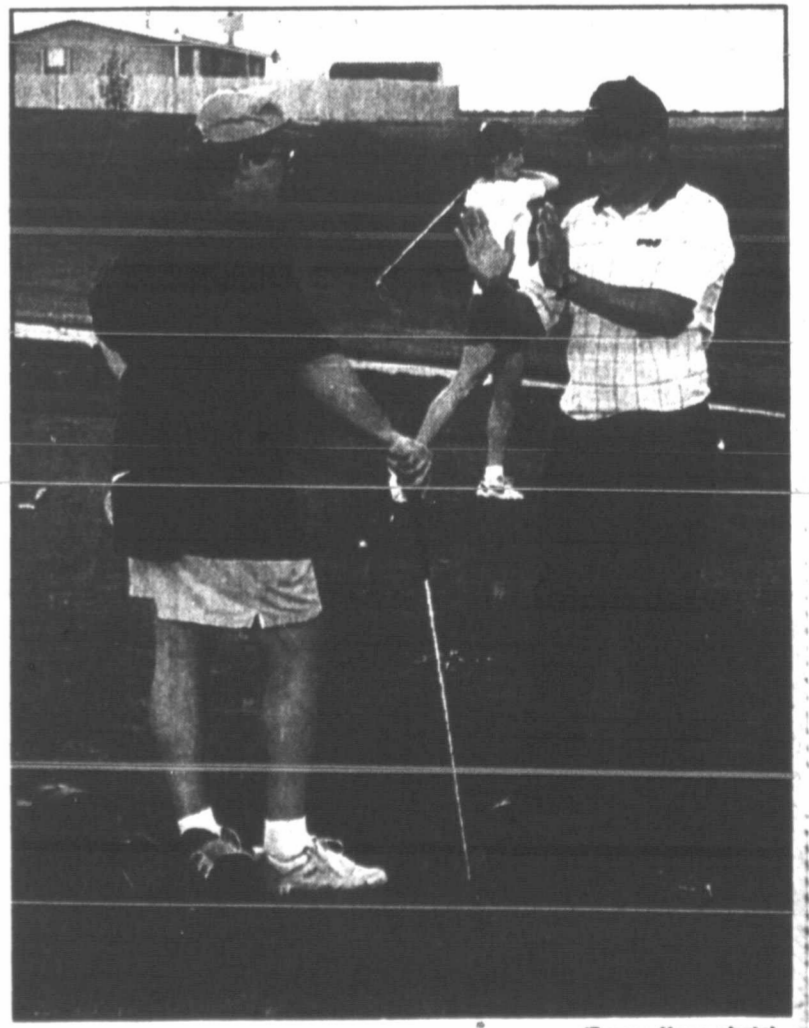

Benny Baker took top honors with 9.12 pounds of fish. Second was Dicky McCarn with 5.13 and third went to Kent Dyson with 1.64. Baker also won Big Bass with a 5.46 pound fish.

The next club tournament will be at Crowder Lake in Oklahoma on June 28-29.

The club meets the first Tuesday of the month at Topographic Land Surveyors, 2225 Perryton Parkway at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Montgomery takes early lead at Open

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Colin Montgomery handled the brutal Congressional Country Club almost as easily as Tiger Woods handled Augusta, shooting a 5-under-par 65 today to take the early lead at the U.S. Open.

Montgomery, embarrassed by Woods in the third round of the Masters, was in his element at a U.S. Open setup that demands accuracy and offers no breathers over the 7,213 yards.

By the time Woods teed off at noon, Montgomery was threatening the major championship record of 63 after getting to 6 under through 16 holes. He made his only bogey when he dumped a 7-iron into the greenside bunker at No. 17.

"The 7-iron at 17 I'd like to take back, but there's a lot I'd like to keep," Montgomery said.

Woods, trying to become the first player since Jack Nicklaus in 1972 to win the Masters and the U.S. Open in the same year, missed a 4-foot birdie on No. 1, birdied the 235-yard second hole from 3 feet and then three-putted from 40 feet for bogey on No. 3. He got back to 1 under with a 25-foot birdie on the next hole.

Montgomery has always played the U.S. Open well because of his accuracy from tee. He finished third in 1992 at Pebble Beach, and lost in a three-way playoff at Oakmont in 1994.

The 65 tied for his best score at the U.S. Open. He shot a 65 in the second round at Oakmont to take the lead at the halfway point.

"There is still three 7-mile courses to go yet," Montgomery said. "But I'm in a position to where I can compete from."

And he has shown no tendency of letting off a remarkable roll. Montgomery is now 31 under par over his last six rounds, dating to a final-round 64 at the Volvo PGA Championship in Europe.

He won the European Grand Prix last week by closing with a 65.

"Obviously, I came here feeling confidence and I'm still confident," Montgomery said.

Montgomery missed only one fairway, but still managed to save par — a rarity at Congressional because of rough so thick that marshals had to place a white flag by the ball to keep sight of it, even if it just trickled out of the fairway.

That was the challenge for Woods. Unlike Augusta National, where Woods won by 12 strokes with a record 18-under-par 270, birdies are hard to come by at Congressional, which is the longest U.S. Open course in history.

Montgomery made it look easy by doing what he does best — going tee to fairway, fairway to green.

He missed birdie putts of 12, 8 and 6 feet on the first three holes, then jump-started his round with a great save at No. 6, the 475-yard par 4 with a large pond fronting the right half of the green.

Montgomery hooked his drive into the clump rough, which felt even heavier because of the cloudy, damp conditions in the morning. After hitting into the fairway, he hit his approach to the top tier of the green to within a foot for par.

Then he birdied the par-3 seventh hole from 4 feet and, after a par at No. 8, birdied four of the next five holes when his great driving allowed him to go after some flagsticks, and at worse put the ball in the best position for birdie putts.

Montgomery, among the best players in the world who have not won a major championship, has always believed his best chance was at a U.S. Open because. He lost in a playoff to Steve Elkington at the 1995 PGA, and was in the hunt again in April.

Trailing Woods by three strokes after two rounds, a confident Montgomery was overwhelmed by Woods' length in the third round, shooting a 74 as Woods shot a 65 on his way to a record 18-under 270 and 12-shot victory.

"I love it that actually hitting fairways means something, and par means something," Montgomery said.

While most players in the field were shooting for pars, Montgomery was settling for them over one stretch. He had makeable birdie putts on virtually every hole, often grazing the lip.

He hit a 4-iron from 205 yards to within 8 feet at No. 10, made a 12-footer at No. 11 and then got to 6 under with a pair of 6-foot birdies at the 13th and 16th holes.

Greg Norman needed a birdie at No. 17 to finish at 75.

Also at 75 were Fred Couples, Elkington, Phil Mickelson and Davis Love III.

Jeff Sluman and Hal Sutton, two former PGA Champions, were at 2 under through 14 holes, while Peter Teravainen, a Yale graduate who has played in Europe the past 15 years, was 2 under through No. 11.

Only three other players were under par, including Woods at 1 under through four holes.

Nick Faldo started with three straight pars, including a 6-foot save from the bunker at No. 1.

Jack Nicklaus, playing in his 142nd consecutive major and 41st straight U.S. Open, made the turn at 1 under 34 and finished at 3-over 73.

PHS football in the afternoon

Harvester football fans should be aware of a few new wrinkles in the 1997 schedule.

Pampa's homecoming game will be in the afternoon, starting at 2 p.m. Oct. 4 against Hereford.

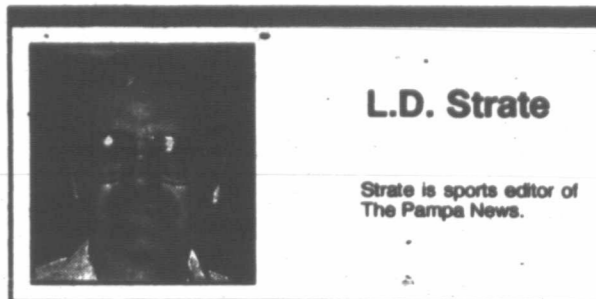

Two other afternoon games are scheduled. The '97 opener is at 2 p.m. Sept. 6 in Lubbock against the Estacado Matadors. On Nov. 1, also at 2 p.m., the Harvesters meet Amarillo Caprock at Dick Bivins Stadium.

Two pre-season scrimmages are planned. On Aug. 23 the Harvesters host Berger and on Aug. 28 the Harvesters travel to Amarillo for a scrimmage against Tascosa in Dick Bivins Stadium.

I've never had a favorite team in a professional sport, but I've always favored the underdog. During the '97 baseball season, I've found myself rooting for the Chicago Cubs, a team that seems to be eternally mired in mediocrity.

The Cubs are in a tailspin and they were expected to be fairly decent this year. In a pre-season poll, The Ultimate Sports Baseball Magazine had picked the Cubs to finish third in the NL Central with an outside shot at first. In reality, the Cubs are spinning their wheels in last place, 6 1/2 games out as of June 11. Pittsburgh, the team picked to finish last, is currently tied with Houston for first.

However, I'm still going to keep my eye on Harry Caray's beloved underachievers. After all, maybe it's really Harry I'm cheering for. He's getting on in years and his health is failing. That veteran, gravely-voiced announcer of the Cubs deserves to share in a World Series celebration. Holy Cow! That would be something.

Speaking of baseball, this time at the high school level, infielder Jamisen Hancock finished his career as one of the most productive hitters the Harvesters have ever produced.

Hancock led Pampa in batting average three years in a row, capping off his senior season with a .500 mark. According to past records, Hancock is the only Harvester to win the team batting title three consecutive seasons. His .450 career batting average is an all-time best for PHS.

Hancock plans to attend Lee University, an NAIA college in Cleveland, Tenn. on a baseball scholarship. Pro scouts shouldn't overlook Hancock just because he's going to a small college. No high school pitcher could get him out consistently. He struck out only twice his senior year and his .991 contact average is a school record.

Oilers complete final minicamp on Texas soil

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers completed their final minicamp on Texas soil and officially became the Tennessee Oilers all in one day.

Coach Jeff Fisher put the Oilers through their final paces at their old practice facility Thursday and after a brief on-field chat, released the team until training camp opens in July at Tennessee State in Nashville.

Hours later, owner Bud Adams unveiled the Oilers' new team logo in Nashville and also announced that the Oilers had solidified an agreement with AstroDome USA to get out of the final year of their lease in the AstroDome.

"We still have some legal work, some paperwork to get done on that, but the AstroDome signing today should put everything to bed pretty quick," Adams said.

Harris County Commissioners had not signed off on a plan that would allow the Oilers to skip the final year of their AstroDome lease to play in Memphis' Liberty Bowl for the 1997 season. They are expected to consider the issue at their June 24 session.

"There are still some details to be worked out between the attorneys," Harris County judge Robert Eckels said. "I don't think there's anything in there that can't be resolved but the earliest we'd consider it would be June 24."

Phil and Gayla Fletcher home at 710 West 5th Street is an English Tudor style home originally built in the 1930s by Dr. J. W. Evans for his wife, Ella Ross Evans.

Homes

The Bugbee Land and Cattle Company J. H. Burson owned the home from 1920 to 1941. L.T. and Verue Shelton purchased it in October 1941, and at that time the house was a two-story structure. When the L.T. Sheltons decided to remodel the home, they had the top floor removed. Many of the furnishings, including Depression glass, quilts and dolls in the home today originally belonged to Verue and L.T.

The Jack and Audrey Hall home, at 602 Sims was owned first by A.T. and Naomi Miller, after they purchased the large lot for $5,000 in 1914. Their large two-story home, with gingerbread trim, was surrounded by a barn, carriage house, chicken house, orchard and a water well. In 1926, A.T. built a three-bedroom brick home on the northeast corner of the block. The coal chute has made a great escape hatch and club house for the great-grandchildren, according to those who have lived there. The house had a wrap-around porch which has hosted many summer naps, pea shellings, school dances, and bridal showers. In 1960, the Millers' daughter, Lena Mae and her husband, C.B. "Cap" Morris remodeled the kitchen. In 1967 Ernestine Allison purchased the home to operate a kindergarten in part of the house. Jim and Venita Sharrar bought the house when Mrs. Allison died; then in 1992 the Halls purchased the home.

Dee Ann and Weldon Sears, at 302 East 5th Street became the newest owners of their home in 1995. Before that year, there had been seven different families or owners in the home, between 1963 and 1995. The two story Victorian style home was built by L.C. Jones in 1915, who was a carpenter and home builders for others, as well. He designed his new home for the convenience of his wife, who was a midget. After her death in 1926, the house was sold to the William Johnson family for $4,000. Mr. Johnson replaced all the low built cabinets and counters and installed electricity. The house was built with an outside staircase, which gave access to renters that might have lived in the upstairs apartment area during certain years. Since 1982, the house has been extensively renovated, although it retains a few of its original features. It has three of the original porch columns, the front door, two interior doors and glass door-knobs, a claw-footed bathtub, most of the outer cypress siding and the chimney. Furnishings owned by the Sears are both new and antique collections.

The home purchased in 1992 by Gayla and Phil Fletcher, at 710 West 5th Street was originally owned by Clarendon College and University Training School, but was sold to the Clarendon Independent School District in 1927. Dr. J. W. Evans purchased the land in 1930 for $1,020 and built his English Tudor style home for his wife, Ella Ross Evans. Then, in 1960, Joe H. McMurtry and his wife, Archer Van Eaton McMurtry, purchased the home. Mrs. McMurtry's gardens were the talk of the town. In 1962 the kitchen was enlarged to include a butler's pantry. According to the Fletchers, the home was filled with antiques formerly owned by the McMurtrys, and they have kept Doug and Phyllis Shelton home, 1026 West Third Street. The original home was built in 1912 by Mary C. and Thomas S. Bugbee after they acquired the land from the Bugbee Land and Cattle Company. Many of the early 1900s furnishings and accent pieces are still in the home today.

the furnishings and items just as the couple had them prior to their deaths.

Kay and James F. Hayes purchased their home at 800 West 6th Street in 1969, and the only structural changes to the house was to remodel and modernize the kitchen, they said. In fact, the basement of the two story home contains the original steam furnace and a full bin of coal. The house has approximately 5,000 square feet of living space, plus the basement, a garage and small guest room and bath attached to the garage. The original house was built in 1909 by H. S. Swearingen, and sold to James L. McMurtry in 1915; in 1941 a tornado damaged the home, destroying the second floor. It finally sold to Jo H. McMurtry in 1962, and was then purchased by the Hayes family.

Cigarette stores becoming 'support stores'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The sign on the door of Aggie Cavender's store says it all: "Smoking permitted. Enjoy!"

The windows of her shop — The Cigarette Store — are covered with posters for Marlboro, Kool and Camels. The walls are stacked high with cigarette cartons. Near the counter is a bin with a glistening heap of green packs of Newport.

The store is one of a growing number of shops that stock virtually nothing but tobacco products, aimed at the 24 percent of Americans who smoke. The prices are low. The stores are smoker-friendly.

"They feel much more at ease here, especially since there's so much going on with the tobacco industry," said Ms. Cavender, who quit smoking a few years ago but still occasionally puffs on cigars. "It's like a little support store I guess."

Low prices are the biggest draw. The store sells a carton of Marlboros for $11.15; a nearby supermarket sells the same carton for $13.75.

"I like the prices," said Aida Gregory as she waited in line at the store. "My husband works for Philip Morris so we don't go anywhere they're anti-smoking."
