News Behind The News

THE NATIONAL Whirligig
Written by a group of the best informed newspapermen of Washington and New York. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial policy of this newspaper.

Washington By GEORGE DURNO

Huey Long, Louisiana's flamboyant kingfish, is debating the idea of setting himself up a daily newspaper in New Orleans. It would be a personal organ through which to air his views on national and state politics. Huey figures all the big papers in Louisiana are against him so he might as well establish his own sounding board.

Under Ordinary Circumstances It Would Take A Brave Man To Invade The New Orleans Field With The Idea Of Starting A Paper Cold. No Paper Can Exist Without Advertising And There Is Just So Much Available In A Given Area.

But Kinfish Long has taken over the city of New Orleans with the aid of his own personal legislature and the National Guard—plus some slight help from Governor O. K. Allen. As resourceful a man as that might be able to capture advertising also.

Senator Long already has "nubbed" the big Louisiana dailies for fighting his dictatorial reign. He had the legislature slap a 2 percent tax on advertising in all papers of any size. The publishers are now challenging validity of this law in the courts.

Baiting—

Did you ever hear of a man who would like to be court-martialed? Who had furnished what seemed to be the grounds, but who can't get any action?

Captain John H. Craig, one of the country's best known Marines, might qualify for the description. Soldier of fortune, onetime amateur heavyweight boxing phenom, chief press agent for the Marine Corps during its build-up stage, Craig is now retired—as a result of injuries he received in an auto accident—but he could still stand court-martial.

Fire Destroys Residence On North Side

Mrs. T. Z. Loflin's Home, Household Goods Destroyed Early Thursday

The residence and household goods belonging to Mrs. A. Z. Loflin, 101 Northeast Second street, in North Big Spring, were practically destroyed by fire at 9:30 Thursday morning.

Only a few effects of household goods were saved. Mrs. Loflin was in the barn at the rear of the house doing the morning milking when she looked toward the house and saw the roof in flames, she told a reporter. Mrs. Loflin said she believed the fire originated from an oil stove in the dining room.

The fire department arrived soon after an alarm was turned in, and did effective work in extinguishing the blaze, and kept it from spreading. Living in the house with Mrs. Loflin were her son-in-law, R. H. Holcomb, and seven grandchildren. They had moved here only a short time ago to reside after the death of Mrs. Loflin's daughter, Mrs. Holcomb, at Stanton.

No insurance was carried on the dwelling or household goods, Mrs. Loflin stated.

Local Red Cross officials immediately offered assistance to Mrs. Loflin and her grandchildren, whose clothes were destroyed in the blaze. Provision has been made for their care, officials stated.

Parts Of Lost Plane Believed Found In Pacific

HONOLULU (AP)—Pieces of wood resembling parts of an airplane, possibly that in which Lieut. Charles T. P. Ulm and two companions disappeared Dec. 4, were found Wednesday off the coast of Hawaii Island, northwesternmost of the Hawaiian Islands.

The fragments appeared to be part of the airplane's strut and a piece of veneer board about seven feet long.

No plane other than Ulm's has been lost recently in these waters. The finder, Aymar Robinson, delivered the pieces to Lieut. Russell Scott of the United States Army. Scott flew with them to Luke Field Wednesday afternoon, where they are being examined by army authorities.

Robinson's find was the first of anything resembling parts of an airplane since the Star of Australia dropped into the ocean.

He noticed them, he said, while fishing along the shore of the island and descended a rocky cliff to reach them because he believed they were parts of an aircraft.

HUEY LONG MUST FACE TRIAL IN LIBEL SUIT
WASHINGTON (AP)—The District of Columbia supreme court Thursday ruled Huey Long must face trial on a $500,000 libel suit which Samuel Ansell has filed.

Justice Peyton Gordon rejected Long's claim that his senate position entitled him immunity in libel action. Attorneys said Ansell suit will go to trial soon unless Long appeals.

Canning Plant Resumes Here

Operation of the federal meat cannery was resumed here Thursday noon after a halt in production since Monday.

With 1,000 head of cattle, dead and alive, on hand and 200 head more promised, the plant will have sufficient meat supply to continue operation until January 1, 1935, when it will be ordered closed.

The chilled meat supply had been diminishing during the latter part of last week when a rift broke out among abattoir forces. Work on that end of production came to a virtual standstill for a day and the meat supply reached the zero point.

With the difficulties settled, the slaughtering was resumed on a normal plane and since then the meat reserve has been built up to the extent that no more hitches in production are anticipated.

Other projects have moved steadily without interruption this week. The sewing project has more than 40 women working on garments for the needy. About 100 are working on the highway project east. Many were required for the pavingwork on Scurry street.

The payroll figures for this week will be released Friday. County Administrator R. H. McNew said Thursday. For the past two weeks they have been the highest since the days of CWA.

Martial Law Is Unlikely; Guards Patrol

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Six hundred national guardsmen patrolled this town Thursday on orders of Governor Hill McAllister. The town was quiet after Wednesday's racial disorder, resulting in the court house burning and death of two men.

Adjutant General J. H. Ballew said martial law was unlikely. The mob spirit has died. No investigation has been started.

E. K. Harris, a negro whose alleged attack on a white girl caused the mob violence, remained in the storm-proof Nashville jail.

Completion Of Scurry Paving Expected Today

Laying of concrete on the paving project on Scurry street between 10th and 12th streets was due to be completed Friday.

Since Monday traffic has been routed over Main street while concrete was poured into the long strips which have long constituted.

In a few days the street will again be opened to traffic.

Initial steps toward paving the gap in the same street between 5th and 6th streets have been taken. Sand and gravel have been moved in and first work of digging started.

The paving operations on Scurry street are being accomplished on a city-county cooperative program inasmuch as the street is also a state highway. Relief labor is being utilized on the project.

Hopkins And Allred Meet At Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt Thursday directed the treasury to investigate the federal, state and municipal tax system in a move intended to prevent overlapping.

Secretary Morgenthau disclosed the plan and was due to name an inquiry staff soon.

He said: "The study looks forward to taxation zones and elimination of overlapping. It will be a long range study. There is a possibility the president will call a conference next summer of agencies involved in taxation. It is to include the question as to who collects taxes more economically. It might involve question of federal collection of all income taxes. The investigation is due to determine whether the federal government should collect and distribute revenue to states and local governments. Tax exempt securities are due attention," he said.

Plane Burns, But Passengers Escape

Santa Claus Pays Annual Visit To Big Spring; Talks To Kiddies

Hundreds of children and grown-ups crowded into the space on Main between Second and Third streets Wednesday to greet Santa Claus on his annual pre-Christmas visit here.

The high school band entertained the large crowd for half an hour before the excited buzz warned of Santa's coming. He was rushed into the enclosure erected on Main street and mounted a truck carrying a Christmas tree. From there he spoke to the throng of people who crowded around the enclosure.

Then he ordered his helpers to cast candy from awnings of nearby business houses. As in years before, this was the signal for a near stampede. The kiddies, and a few adults, packed in close and started waving their hands wildly. Some mounted cars and added their voices to the din of confusion.

It sounded like the last roundup. It looked like starving children were praying for a crumb. When the candy gave out, they quit their begging, waving, yelling and scrambling and began chewing on the pieces they had managed to catch.

Meanwhile, Santa had chatted with many of his young friends who preferred visiting with him to fighting for candy. When the main crowd ceased from his candy resting, old St. Nickolas had rushed on to the next town.

Grid Teams Limber Up For Week's Tilts

AMARILLO, (AP)—After being snowbound Tuesday, the Amarillo Golden Sables limbered up on Butler Field today in preparation for their semi-annual football game with Masonic Home Saturday.

Coch Blar Cherry centered his efforts on removing kinks from the Sables offensive, and tomorrow will drill his undefeated cohorts on a defense for the Masons' versatile attack.

While the Masons worked out at Lubbock, the Sables prepared to utilize the full strength of their attack in an effort to protect the seven-year record of no defeats or ties on Butler Field.

Ticket sales increased briskly as a warming sun melted yesterday's two-inch snow. If fair weather prevails, a crowd of 10,000 is expected.

Light whistling and form which excited the Masons last night as they climbed the carcock to the South Plains persisted this morning.

POORHOUSES MAY GO

You can get a notion of what a federal old-age pension law might accomplish by looking at the program drawn up by Ohio authorities, who are administering a new state old-age pension law.

Just now they are classifying all occupants of poorhouses, to see how many of them are eligible for such pensions. Before long, thousands of these pitiful old paupers will be out of the poorhouses, living self-respecting lives in their own communities. Eventually, the authorities believe, the poorhouses can be largely abolished.

Such a program has two great advantages. It is infinitely kinder to the aged themselves—and it is cheaper for the community as a whole. To embody the old-age pension plan in federal law would be to take a vast step forward.

A MUCH OVER-RATED "MENACE"

Fully 1,500,000 Communists and active sympathizers with Communism are working now to overthrow the American government and the American social and economic system, according to a warning issued by E. R. West, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Since it took only about 150,000 such revolutionists to accomplish the overthrow of the Kerenky government in 1918, Mr. West feels that this represents a pretty alarming menace to American institutions.

It is little hard to share his fear for two reasons. First, it is pretty clear that this estimate of Com-

CCC Cagers Whip Wolves

Colorado Team Downed 34 To 24 Here Wednesday Night

CCC cagers defeated the Colorado high school Wolves here Wednesday night, 34 to 24. It was the third straight victory for the CCC boys, who are undefeated for the season.

They held a commanding lead from the start, Young tagging first points and Greer fourteen points. Cooper was high for Colorado with fifteen points.

The line-ups:
CCC—Forwards: Hall, Young, Barton and Richardson; center: Finch and Greer; guards: Rogers, Ellis, Hawkins, Weaver and Harrison.
Colorado—Forwards: Hughes, Porter, Foster, Cox; center: Cooper; guards: Pister, Seales, Rankin and Morrison.

The CCC team will return to the game at Colorado some time after the holidays.

All-Star Game Is Scheduled

By HANK HART

Former athletes of the local high school have arranged to present a rare show, for they have consented to don their basketball tops once again and parade their wares to local fans.

Many now are a part of the ranking teams of the country, but will band together once more, probably for the last time.

Those championship days of '30 and '31 will be duplicated when almost man for man, those great stars return.

From Texas A&M will come the speedy, rangy, high scoring Tommy Hutto. Hutto is a leading candidate for honors in the Southwest conference and will rate high for conference selections before the season turns into history. Tommy recently took high point honors in the Aggies' initial game of the season.

From East Texas will come Elmer Pardue, tall center of those championship days. Pardue has never abandoned his practice and should find his way across the court as well as he ever did.

After getting the best from him for several years, Canyon Teachers College will present to the fans none other than Ted Phillips, spark plug quint for several seasons. Ted completed his high school career as the leader of the great '30 team.

From Tulane, comes Bill Flowers, taking part in football and track as well as the dribbling game. Bill is sparkling as one of the best prospects the New Orleans gridiron teachers have ever seen. Flowers was known for his guarding duties.

The second member of that great defensive pair returns from the north. That terror of the courts is Lloyd Forrester and calls Amarillo Junior College home at the present.

Team number two will be composed of Cy Reid, former Colorado track star; Elmer Dyer, Oklahoma flash and Jake Morgan, Dave Hopper and Fred "Ice Wagon" Townsend, who are at the present time under the banner of the mighty Condon Oilers.

Morgan and Hopper can match the play of any forwards in West Texas. Reid will draw the jumping assignments while Townsend and Dyer will draw duties at the guarding positions.

Practice will start immediately after the boys return home for the Christmas holidays. The game, as yet not definitely set, will probably be played between Christmas and January 1.

There has been some kick raised about carrying on in district 3 with only three teams. That's really a problem for the Interscholastic League to settle, but they always refer everything to the district committee. And there's no possibility of rearranging districts. It's very improbable that this district will be combined with another, because that would mess up plans for the state play-off. There are sixteen districts in the state now, and fifteen wouldn't work out right. District 3, Greenville's district, has only three teams.

Word comes that El Paso High school has challenged San Angelo for a game next year.

Big Jim Cantrell, who for several years coached the Colorado Wolves, was in town yesterday. Cantrell is reported to be an applicant for the coaching job here.

An El Paso football fan inquires as to whether the Tiger backfield was in motion and had a penalty coming when they fumbled on the Big Spring one foot line. Officials told us they were in motion, and Paxton Dent of the El Paso Times explains: "If El Paso had not fumbled the ball with Big Spring recovering, a five-yard penalty undoubtedly would have been assessed against the Bengals, even if the touchdown had been scored on the play. El Paso fumbled, however, and Big Spring recovered. Big Spring had the option of taking the penalty or the gain. The gain, in this instance was recovery of the ball by the defensive team. This gave Big Spring a chance to kick out. If Big Spring had chosen to take the penalty, El Paso would have had the ball on the Big Spring seven-yard line and the down, we believe, would have been second and goal. By taking the gain, Big Spring kicked out and El Paso had the ball far out in midfield, first and ten, instead of second and goal on the seven yard line."

From a reliable source we learn that plans are being made to construct a new steel stadium out at Steer field and light the grid for night football. San Angelo officials report that playing the game under the arcs increased their gate receipts about 20 per cent.

The department has experienced considerable difficulty in trying to secure coaches selections for an all-district team. We hope to have it within the next day or so.

The San Angelo Bobcats are trying to book a game with the Amarillo Sandies for next fall.

When the Steers start basketball practice after Christmas, George Brown will be minus one of the best guards in West Texas—Leo "Buckie" Hare. Hare has great natural ability, and during the past two years has made many all-tournament teams.

Obie Bristow figures Ole Cordill and Bob Flowers were the two best backs in the district the past season. "Cordill is a good triple-threat back," Obie said. "He can run, pass, punt and receive. You can't find many boys who can do all of those things and do them right."

Obie believes Bob should make all-state because of his great defensive play. Most of the candidates for all-state backfield recognition are ball toters. Bob never carries the leather.

Tests have shown that the heart action of bears in hibernation becomes so retarded that blood barely flows if the skin is cut.

GREENVILLE LIONS HOLD FIRST WORKOUT OF WEEK

GREENVILLE, (AP)—The Greenville Lions held their first workout of the week today in preparation for their semi-final Interscholastic League game with the Corpus Christi Buccaneers at Houston Saturday.

A muddy field was largely responsible for their not practicing Monday and Tuesday but they took advantage of the rest to recuperate from the battering given them last Saturday in their clash with Corsicans.

Light signal drill, passing, punting and dummy scrimmage were all they did in the easy workout this afternoon.

CORPUS CHRISTI TEAM HOLDS SNAPPY WORKOUT

CORPUS CHRISTI, (AP)—The Corpus Christi Buccaneers ended their scrimmage sessions with a snappy workout today in preparation for their semi-final football game Saturday at Houston against Greenville.

A defense against Greenville's running attack occupied most of today's session, but the Buccaneers also spent some time polishing their own offense. Coaches Bobby Cannon and Raymond Berry indicated that tomorrow's practice, which will be the last long one before the game, will be devoted to a forward pass defense and offense.

BRISK TICKET SALES REPORTED AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, (AP)—A brisk ticket sale for the high school football classic here Saturday at Rice field between Corpus Christi and Greenville was reported today. The winner of Saturday's game will qualify for the state championship finals.

All indications are the crowd Saturday will be more than 10,000 with several thousand spectators coming from Corpus Christi and Greenville.

The Green Pastures' Renowned Play Outstrips Any Stage Production In Two Generations; Here January 7th

"The Green Pastures," renowned Pulitzer prize comedy which comes to the city Auditorium for one performance on Monday Jan. 7, outstrips in sheer novelty of conception anything that has been offered on the stage in two generations.

In this amazing play, "God" is portrayed as a frock-coated negro preacher who creates the Earth in the midst of a fish-fry in Heaven and peoples it with human beings because "Gabriel," his celestial henchman, remarks that "It would make mighty nice farm'n' country and somebody ought to enjoy it."

"Cain," bad boy of the Bible, is depicted as a colored farm boy who becomes angered with his brother and kills him with a rock. "Noah" is an aged negro preacher whom "de Lawd" meets while walking the earth in the form of a man. "Ol King Pharaoh," one of the most convincing players in the troupe, is attired like the exalted ruler of a colored lodge and his court resembles the personnel of a combination sewing circle and hach'er's club. Amusing are the "angels" and "cherubs" in the heavenly domain, particularly the scrubwomen who attend the "Lawd's" office where despite their efforts to gold-plate everything in sight, he insists on using an old, battered roll-top desk. In this play, the Babylonians, revels are played as though they took place in a black-and-tan night club and the famed Noah's Ark resembles nothing so much as a Mississippi houseboat.

Despite the comedy which runs continuously through the eighteen scenes of "The Green Pastures," the play never becomes irreverent as witnessed by the fact that leading clergymen the country over have hailed the comedy as one of the theatre's finest contributions to philosophy and religion.

Excellent in the roles of "Noah," "Gabriel" and "Moses" the play still retains its original New York cast of nearly 100. Richard B. Harrison, star of "The Green Pastures," has never missed a single performance in more than 1500 and is seventy years of age.

When the scores were tallied, it was announced that Mrs. Service had made high score. Mrs. Rogers second high and Mrs. Clarke low. Mrs. Service was awarded a huge red stocking flecked with cotton snow, when unwrapped was the covering for a bride luncheon set edged with tulle. Mrs. Rogers received an Elizabeth Arden kit, wrapped to resemble Santa just entering a chimney.
Mrs. Clarke's prize was a Santa Claus dressed in red. She removed his head and found his body was formed by a lovely glass vase of Meissen blue.
On the refreshment plate were small candy poinsettias for favors. The plate was centered with a baked apple stuffed with nuts and topped with a white marshmallow frosting that made the apple resemble Santa's white beard. The features were also marked with the frosting. Fruit cake, canapés and relishes added contrasting notes to the colorful plate. Coffee was also served.

BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS PARTY GIVEN AT SETTLES HOTEL BY MRS. G. T. HALL

Twelve Tables Of Guests Assemble In The Clubroom For Merry Session Of Contract Bridge

Climaxing the holiday social activities, Mrs. Granville T. Hall entertained at contract bridge in the clubroom of the Settles Hotel Wednesday evening with an unusually beautiful Christmas party.
Two lighted and trimmed Christmas trees, one in the center of the room with the cleverly wrapped gifts at its base, the other in the corner, furnished the central decorative motif.
Silver wreaths on the shaded windows were ablaze with blue lights. Mistletoe, rose-red cyclamen and poinsettias gave the room the air of a large living room. Red and green streamers extended to the tip of the central tree from the four red and green blades of the ceiling fans and were hung with silver icicles.
Silver and green scorepads harmonized with the tallies which the hostess presented her guests at the door. Hand painted table numbers made use of the holy for a Christmas symbol.
When the scores were tallied, it was announced that Mrs. Service had made high score. Mrs. Rogers second high and Mrs. Clarke low. Chapter 16
MOLLY'S STORY

"I should have been distinctly annoyed," said Jerry. "I hate losing pals, especially when I'm out of England." He stuffed some villainous looking black twist into the bowl of his pipe and rammied it down with his thumb. "Anyhow," he added, "I gather that it's all over now, and that I've just dropped in for the tail end of the banquet."

"Don't be in such a hurry," I said. "What you've heard so far is only the overture."

He raised an inquiring eyebrow, ened himself and eyed me suspiciously. "Are you trying to pull my leg or is all this Drury Lane stuff an absolute fact?"

"It's the plain, unvarnished, strike-me-dend truth," I protested. "You wait till you hear our young friend here. She'll spin you a yarn that will make you sit up and whistle."

Thus encouraged Molly set to work. In her soft Southern accent, with its faint hint of an Irish brogue, she recounted once again the strange and dramatic chain of events which had brought her to Queen's Studios. She told it all very

"We're on the right track," exclaimed Jerry.

"Oh!" he remarked hopefully, "so there's more to come, is there?"

"Plenty!" In a few words as possible I went on to describe my interview with Seymour, and then amidst a profound silence I continued my story till I reached the unpleasant point when Mr. Stillman had stepped forward with the coil of rope.

"The swine meant business all right, Jerry," I said. "One could see it in his face. Don't know how it would have struck most people, but personally I much prefer being shot to be tortured. I was just getting ready to give him a plug in the jaw, and take the consequences, when a beautiful voice up in my bedroom suddenly began to telephone to the police."

I stopped and turned to Molly. "This is where you come in, partner," I said.

"But look here!" Jerry straight-ly, but watching Jerry's expression as the tale progressed, it was easy enough to see that he was already completely fascinated. He made no attempt to interrupt or question her until she had reached the end, and even then he sat for a moment or two puffing at his pipe—his eyes riveted on her face.

"The swine meant business all right, Jerry," I said. "One could see it in his face. Don't know how it would have struck most people, but personally I much prefer being shot to be tortured. Prosecutors At Kennamer Hearing Berry King (left) attorney general of Oklahoma and Holly Anderson, county attorney, at the preliminary hearing in Tulsa, Okla., when Philip Kennamer was bound over for trial on a charge of murdering John Gorrell. address, Eureka, London."

"Well, that's very comforting," I said. "You'll make a magnificent 'tec—especially if there's going to be any more of the rough stuff." I paused. "Now let's be dead serious for a minute. We've told you all the facts and I'd like to hear your opinion about them. Coming on to it with a fresh mind, as you have, you may be able to see some point that Molly and I have missed."

Jerry sobered down promptly. "There's one thing as clear as mud. Osborne must have known that he'd been followed from America and he'd got the wind up pretty badly. That was why he was trying to do

"Looks that way anyhow," I said. "You can't sell an invention without talking about it, an Osborne may have given the show away to half a dozen different people. It's my belief that somebody had already made him an offer. After all, he'd been over here quite a time, and . . ."

"Besides, there's the money," interrupted Jerry. "Where do you suppose he got that five hundred pounds from? According to Miss O'Brien's story, he'd precious little of his own when he left New Orleans. He must either have sold the thing outright, or else he'd signed up a contract and been touching for a bit on account."

I looked at him in admiration. "Well done, Sherlock," I said. "That's a point that had never occurred to me. Now I wonder . . ."

"Show him the letter," suggested Molly. "Let him read it for himself."

I produced Sir William Avon's communication from my pocket. "This arrived last night by special messenger," I said. "He must have sent it off directly after the verdict."

Jerry took the sheet of paper and ran his eyes over its contents. Then he whistled softly. "We're on the right track — that's a certainty! Avon's a tremendous swell in his own line. He must be mixed up with the business in some way."

BRAMA CATTLE MAY ROAM TEXAS PLAINS

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex., (UP)—The Brahma, sacred cow of India, soon may be roaming the cattle ranges along with the white face and the longhorn steer.

Cap Yates, rancher living near Jackboro, has succeeded in acclimating the Brahma cattle to the ranges here. Although just introduced to this part of the country, ranchers already predict that they will make excellent range cattle, and they require little feed and make excellent beef.

Halt with an iron hand during the long Marine occupation, wrote two books and therein lies the story.

The last book is called "Cannibal Cousins." The title comes from the fact a cousin of a recent Haitian Minister to the United States was convicted by the Marines of cannibalism.

In his book Craige calls a former Marine Corps Commandant a rocking-chair soldier. He dissects activities of the high command. He ridicules Haitian aristocracy. Ordinarily such statements by an officer would result in preferment of charges—but the military establishment seemingly is mindful of the dynamite that developed from courts-martial of political nature in the not too distant past and is turning a blind eye.

The book has been on the staffs for some weeks and selling well. But, he thinks Capt. Craige, what a Christmas sale if the State and Navy departments had gotten as mad about it as they should have done!

Choice— There should be some significance in the fact that the other day the White House called for the military records of Major General Malm Craig, commander of the 9th Corps Area, and Major General George S. Simonds, head of the Army War College.

A man on the curbstone might almost think that these two officers stood in the front rank for selection as chief of staff to succeed General Douglas MacArthur. Inasmuch as Craige is reported on Postmaster General Farley's preferred list he would seem to be standing two paces forward.

General Craige is 59 years old, born in St. Louis. He has had a distinguished military career running through the Spanish-American war, the China Relief Expedition and the World War. In France he served in several key positions of the A. E. F. high command.

General Simonds was born in Cresco, Iowa, 60 years ago. He, too, has a splendid record running from the Philippine and China troubles at the turn of the century through the World War, during which he commanded the American Embarkation Center at Le Mans. As head of the Army War college Simonds worked out the war game 1925.

Chatties— The "Aid-Our-Minds club" may take in a new member immediately after the first of the year. This probably is a new one on you, but an outsider would be entitled to the help of the Aid-Our-Minds club is a rather potent factor in Washington political life. For months this highly informal organization has been meeting irregularly every week or so and exchanging views on current economic, social, political and international problems. Here is the charter membership.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Lady Elizabeth Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, Rep. Isabel Greenway of Arizona, and Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, head of the Consumers' Council of N. R. and N. E. C. Other women of note in affairs unquestionably have joined the knitting circle from time to time.

The new member should be Mrs. Caroline O'Day, whose campaign for a seat as Representative-at-large from New York Mrs. Roosevelt successfully championed in the last election.

Thanks— State Department officials showed their gratitude for Poland's payment of her $200 million installment on the War debt by permitting "sworn men" to use the staid old building as a setting for a scenario recording the lone payment. Minister L. Astrom was photographed progressively getting out of his car, entering the building and finally pointing into the office of Acting Secretary of State William Phillips.

But Uncle Sam won't ever try to cash that check Astrom handed to Phillips. The movie was taken three days in advance of pay-day and that "check" was perfectly blank. On Dec. 15, though, the Minister turned in one that's good at anybody's bank.

Notes— Democrats complain against the mystery surrounding President's program for 1935—they want Congress to be consulted. House Republicans will be disappointed if the new program doesn't call for expansion.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal cleansers, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; one tablet for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

NEW YORK Contrast

A financial observer just returned from the Middle West notes a striking difference in the labor relations of the motor and rubber companies.

He predicts a serious flare-up in the industry. The antagonism between Goodrich and Firestone and their employes cuts deep. The managements—whom he describes as Mark-Hanna-minded—have consistently stuck to the position that they have nothing to discuss with their workers. So far as they're concerned Section 7a is simply a bad dream from which the country will presently awake and the National Labor Board is an impudent interloper. Many employes are bitter about this high-hat attitude and it wouldn't take much to fan the embers of resentment into a lively flame. The situation has gotten past the stage where a compromise might be arranged by talking things over.

The auto companies and their workers are just as far apart on basic issues but there's a sharp contrast in the way the motor managements deal with the labor opposition. They make a point of being approachable. While they aren't giving any ground on fundamentals they don't shy away from discussing the sticky topics. Consequently the arguments with labor are carried on in a reasonably friendly spirit and the safety valve of free speech helps keep them in the talking stage. Despite the union feeling that "proportional" representation was slipped over on them they aren't in a mood to start overt hostilities.

There's one notable exception to the general attitude of amiable emulvity. The Mechanics' Educational Society turns a deaf ear to the conventional overtures of the employes. It stands pat on its $39 for 30 hours uniform and its temper is anything but pacific. The prophesy still holds that this group will start swinging in earnest next month.

Challenge— Conservative leaders reacted to Bill Green's demand that Section 7a be enacted as permanent and independent law as an old war-horse responds to a trumpet. Many of them regard compulsory collective bargaining as the New Deal's worst offense and they're determined to give it the works if it's the last thing they do.

So Green's challenge will be taken up in a big way. Congressmen whose attitude is doubtful will find out what intensive lobbying really means. Both sides are angling vigorously for the invaluable prestige of White House support. No commitments have been made but the odds are betting the neutrality is the best break industry can hope for.

Steel— Many New York insiders were surprised at Eugene Grace's elevation to the presidency of the Iron & Steel Institute. Reports have been widely circulated that Tom Girdler of Republic was slated for the post.

Grace and Girdler are equally opposed to labor encroachment, although Girdler has spoken his mind much more freely in public. The new president is able and very firm once he makes up his mind. He may not be the most popular man in the industry but his associates will find him a forceful leader who knows how to keep his eye on the ball. He's a fighter—of a diplomat like Charles M. Schwab.

Cotton— New York experts are worried about King Cotton's convalescence. They don't like his export symptoms a bit. Normally more than 90% of the Texas cotton crop is sold abroad. This year foreign shipments amount to less than one per cent of production. No Texas cotton went to Europe at all. About 2,500,000 bales are involved in government warehouse loans—more than the state's total crop this year. One railroad figures it has lost a million dollars from its normal revenue in 1934 because of the shrinkage in Texas cotton movements.

The price is unlikely to go above 12 cents because any rise would invite a wave of selling from warehouse stocks. But what really has the doctors worried is the estimate that domestic cotton consumption at its peak only amounts to about half the usual quantity raised nationally. What's to be done with the rest and how will the government get rid of its huge accumulated surplus?

It's mighty hard to remain an export market once it's lost and the competition is getting hotter all the time. Brazilian production has jumped from 200,000 bales to 1,700,000 under the shelter of our 12 cent umbrella and will continue to expand. Cheap Japanese labor makes it easier for Brazil to undersell us. Russia and Egypt are no help either.

Russia— Banking insiders get word that France would love to gum up our debt and trade agreement with R-also—and that her off-stage influence is a reason for the long delay in reaching an understanding. Not only does France fear we'll take Russian business away from her but she doesn't like the idea of a settlement on damage claims and pre-Soviet debts. It might put ideas in European heads and thereby upset existing arrangements.

Fancy

New York notes that most of the nation-wide committee named by the Association of Stock Exchange Firms to promote goodwill are the outstanding stock or bond salesmen in their respective territories. The theory seems to be that they can start spreading the gospel of sweetness and light through an established circle of friendly clients.

But cynics remark that it might work to reverse. "The most successful salesman in the past five years must have the most customers who crave to know why they lost money. Maybe the boys figured that any star salesman who hasn't been murdered by now must be a genius at fancy explanations."

Children Are Given Pretty Xmas Party

The Primary department of the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church was delightfully entertained Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock by the officers of the department. Games, songs, and a Christmas play were enjoyed.

The main center of attraction was the Christmas tree, which is always dear to the heart of a child, beautifully lighted and decorated. Nestled among the pine branches was a small gift for every child.

The party favors were the beloved Santa Claus in his famous red suit and fine white furs made of candy and chewing gum.

On the long white table laid for the guests, was the pretty centerpiece, a winter scene in the forest with a miniature Santa and his seven reindeer crossing a mirror lake covered with snow. Hot chocolate and animal crackers were served. Little brown bags of winter nuts were plate favors.

The pupils of the department were: James Edward Brooks, Jimmy Ray Tamsitt, Mary Joyce Mays, Johnnie Allison, Vivian Middleton, Lillian Nell Tamsitt, Lola Mae Neill, Jack, Thorns, Harry Middleton, Jessie Allison, Janet Robb, Elmo Leslie, Clarence Yates, J. Y. Robb, Jr., Billy Gene Anderson, Doris Nell Tompkins, Albert Smith, Hazel Cormack and Mary Leslie. The guests were Robbie Louise Piner, Lorena Brooks and Billy Kent.

High Postal Officials Praise Window Display Of Local Postmaster

People who pass by the post office window and stare are not the only one who have words of praise for the display arranged by Postmaster Nat Shick.

High postal officials have extended some very complimentary remarks about the window display. "This is indeed a unique and interesting display. I have no doubt that the use of the aerial will be stimulated as a result of same," wrote C. J. Taylor, superintendent of railway mail service in the 11th division. "Your patience in working out so detailed an exhibit is nothing short of startling. I shall take pleasure in forwarding this photograph and the clippings to the general superintendent of this service as I am sure that he will appreciate the interest by you in the matter."

Harlee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, wrote from Washington, "You are to be commended for the artistic effect obtained in the preparation of this interesting window. Undoubtedly publicity of this kind has a marked effect on the interest manifested by the general public in air mail service."

Also from Washington came words of praise from S. A. Cister, general superintendent of air mail service. Said Cister: "Please accept my compliments upon the interesting character of this display and its attractive appearance. Your interest and efforts in advertising the advantages of the air mail service to the public are greatly appreciated."

Since the photographs to which the officials refer, were taken, Shick has installed a miniature airplane beacon. It revolves slowly and sends out alternating white and red beams from the tower top.

Mrs. Lee O. Rogers was hostess for a pretty luncheon for the members of the Ely See Bridge Club making the season an unusually charming party, when she entertained Wednesday morning at her home.

A lovely tree and Christmas colors in the tallies and scorecards and reflected again in the menu made the party one to be remembered.

Members playing were: Mmes. J. E. Young, Tom Ashley, Ashley Williams, Victor Martin, Turner Wynn. Mrs. Elmo Wasson will entertain next.

OIL NOTES

Iron Mountain Oil company No. 1 C. D. Reed in the south east corner of section 46, block 30, T-1 N, T&P survey, has drilled out its "bride" to 2750 feet. The hole's casing badly, due probably to the fact that it did not clean out itself when shot. It is cleaning out at 2000 feet now and making 100 barrels daily with an increasing amount of gas.

In Glasscock county, the John I. Moore No. 1 McDowell order was test in drilling in lime and shale at a depth of 7,933 feet. Drilling was recently resumed after a halt when contract depth was reached at 7,500 feet. It will probably be continued through the oilvian series.

Humber's Orchestra Plays At Casaden

Wilson Humber and his Radio and Recording Orchestra will play tonight and each night throughout the holiday season at the Casaden. The orchestra was originally booked to play at the Cottonwood Club which was destroyed by fire late Tuesday night. Johnny Briley, who was the new manager of the club will be in charge of the dances at the Casaden.

The orchestra has just completed successful engagements at the Hotel Belmont in Chicago and the Rice Hotel in Houston. Humber is a composer and arranger of considerable note. His latest song hit is "My Heart Is You" which is now being featured by Bing Crosby.

Featured with the band will be Gene Dunham formerly with Gene's orchestra of Hollywood, Calif. Live stock experts say dairy cows need at least six weeks of rest between lactation periods to rebuild body tissues and bone structures.

Triangle Club Plays At Hotel

Members of the Triangle Bridge Club were given an unusually lovely Christmas party Wednesday afternoon at the Settles Hotel when Miss Jona Jordan was hostess.

On the prettily lighted Christmas tree were hung Christmas tallies in a softly lighted room, lighted by table and floor lamps, the two tables played bridge.

Mrs. Little was presented with a guest towel for high score. After the prize was awarded, gifts were taken from around the base of the tree and given each one present. The gifts were small darning kits.

Mmes. James Davis, V. Y. Strahan and Bob Parks played with the following club members: Mmes. James Little, Emil Fahrnkamp, W. B. Hardy and Monroe Johnson. Mrs. Little will entertain the club next.

Bishop Seaman To Speak Here Sunday

The Sunday school of St. Mary's Episcopal church will hold its Christmas tree services Friday evening at the parish house at 7:30. The date has been moved up to Friday from Monday because the superintendent, Jack Hodges, will not be in town Monday.

Miss Dorothy will be the usual Sunday school services Sunday morning at 9:45 but there will be no morning service. Bishop E. Cecil Seaman of Amarillo will conduct the evening service beginning promptly at 7 o'clock. The bishop plans to leave on the 9:15 train for Arizona to spend Christmas there with his family.

At 5:30 o'clock the members of St. Mary's church will meet together in the Parish House for a buffet supper and a visit with Bishop Seaman.

Many B. S. Pupils Win Honors At ACC

Three hundred twenty-six students in Abilene Christian College are listed in the second six weeks report with honor grades in one or more subjects, according to records in the office of Mrs. Clara Bishop, registrar.

The second period reports show nearly ten percent more honor grades than were made in the first six weeks. amendments before the voters in November generally has been taken as a warning against the repeated proposals to write and submit an entirely new state constitution. It is argued that if voters, on the ground of not understanding or of suspecting amendments to a single article of the constitution, reject amendments whose merits got them by legislative submission, that certainly the accumulation of all objections, lack of opportunity to know what it said or meant, and the generally-known adverse disposition toward fundamental changes, would certainly defeat a new document as a whole.
