

GETTING NOWHERE FAST
British passengers stranded by rail strike
IN BRITAIN

Strike May Bring Unemployment

LONDON (U)—Widespread unemployment within 48 hours threatened Britain today as the nationwide railroad strike went into its fourth day. "Armed with a state of emergency" powers proclaimed last night, Prime Minister Eden's newly re-elected Conservative government hoped to marshal a great fleet of trucks, buses and private cars to move goods and workers for essential services. But this promised little or no help to the nation's huge industrial plant, confronted by dwindling supplies of raw materials for lack of means to replenish them and mounting piles of finished products that could not be hauled away. Some plants already were sending workers home. The nation's vital export drive, already hit by a stubborn 10-day old dock strike, faced a crippling slowdown whose effects might last for months. The 70,000 members of the striking Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen stood pat on their demand for a $1.12 raise in their present base weekly pay of $27.30. Fearful of setting off a new spiral of wage and cost rises, the managers of the state-owned rail ways refused to go above 70 cents a week for crews on main line trains and 35 cents for the others.

Farm 'Dirty Work' Charged In Hearing

BALTIMORE (U)—An attempt will be made in federal court today to prove there was dirty work in the last referendum, by which the country's wheat farmers voted in favor of acreage allotments. Wilson K. Barnes, counsel for four farmers who charged government inspectors of their property, said he has several witnesses to prove there were irregularities in Carroll County. He said he would also have some Ohio farmers in court today to testify to the same effect. Barnes made the charge yesterday at a hearing before Judge Roszel C. Thomsen. He is fighting the government's attempt to get an injunction against Lewis Shafer and his three sons, who farm near Westminster. The Shafer's chased three government acreage inspectors off their place April 27, saying they had no right to trespass. The inspectors were indicted in Carroll County on trespassing charges when they tried to visit another farm. A hearing on the charges is set for next Tuesday. Barnes described the alleged irregularities this way: County allotment committees set up to assign the acreage quotas knew which farmers were hostile and which favored quotas. To vote on the quota question, a farmer had to be eligible to grow at least 15 acres of wheat. The local committees would allot only 11 acres or less when they assigned wheat quotas to growers hostile to the system, and they were consequently disenfranchised. Barnes said. Farmers with smaller places but favorable to wheat quotas might get an acreage allotment twice as great. Barnes cited figures to show 163,000 fewer farmers voted in the 1955 crop-year referendum than in the previous one.

Parley Won't Settle All Issues

BLED, Yugoslavia (U)—The current visit of top Russian leaders to Yugoslavia will not settle all outstanding issues between the two Communist countries, an informed source says. Most specific questions will be left to further negotiations. The source said last night that the chief result of the talks between Yugoslav President Tito and the Soviet delegation headed by Russian Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev would be a declaration of principles on world affairs. A Russian source said the conference had "ended successfully." But a Yugoslav said that Tito is still "flying" to get a declaration that will make the Russians prove their professions of friendship. Disclosure of the projected declaration came as the Russian visitors toured scenic spots and industrial centers in Slovenia and Croatia. They are due back in Belgrade tomorrow to wind up the talks with Tito. The document now being drafted by teams of experts in Belgrade reportedly includes these points: 1. Noninterference in domestic affairs. 2. The right of the German people to self-determination along democratic lines. 3. Problems between nations should be settled peacefully and in accordance with principles of the United Nations. 4. Yugoslav-Soviet questions should be settled in further talks.

Both Sides Put Hopes On Key Phrase In Ruling

ATLANTA, Ga. (U)—"Taking local conditions into account," seems to be the key phrase on which both sides of the segregation issue are hanging their hopes. The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday ruled that public school segregation must end as soon as practicable. But it opened a back door for opponents by turning the problem over to lower federal courts and by saying local conditions should be taken into account. Georgia leaders, who are counted among the nation's strongest opponents of integration in public schools, stood pat on their vow not to mix white and Negro students in classrooms. Taking local conditions into account, they said, could result in many years of litigation. An opposite view came from Mrs. Ruby Hurley, of Birmingham, Ala., regional secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. She said the court expects compliance in all the states which have laws governing segregation in public education, she said. "It also expects the lower courts to see that compliance is carried out in good faith." Sen. Albert Boutwell, chairman of Alabama's Interim Legislative Committee on Segregation in Public Schools, said the Supreme Court order "appears to admit" that local conditions must be taken into consideration. Virginia officials who favor a cautious approach to the problem commented that "it was about all we could hope for." But two attorneys for the NAACP in Virginia said "the court has afforded the South a reasonable period within which to make an effective transition to nonsegregated education, but has made it clear that the process of desegregation must start promptly and move forward with all deliberate speed." The spokesmen were Spottswood W. Robinson III and Oliver W. Hill. Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia appeared pleased with the high court's pronouncement. He called for an early meeting of the state's segregation commission so it could give him "the benefit of its judgment in the light of the present condition."

A federal judge in Tennessee said the decision puts no present responsibility on that state because it has no segregation cases pending. Judge Leslie D. Dary commented at Chattanooga that "the Supreme Court would not and could not direct a local judge to carry out a decree that the local judge did not have an opportunity to determine in the first instance."

Almost immediately after the directive was announced the Florida Legislature named a five-man Senate committee to study the decision. The committee reported a short time later that the decision creates no current need for either a special session or an extension of the current session. Shortly before yesterday's announcement, Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida signed a bill giving local school authorities power to assign students to schools. Collins commented that current state laws are "adequate and will permit us full advantage of the authority to relate enforcement to sound local requirements."

Francisco A. Rodriguez, counsel of the Florida Conference of the NAACP, said: "At first blush, it may seem as if the court's pronouncement leaves too much room for evasion and temporizing. Further study may show that this is not the case." Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama, referring to current proposals in the Alabama General Assembly, spoke out sharply against a "free private" school system. "I am not in favor of turning our public school system over to private hands," he declared. The Alabama Council of Human Relations, described as a nonpartisan group interested in equal opportunities for all, suggested that a "cross-section of white and Negro community leaders meet together locally and begin to work out a solution to the problems facing them." A spokesman for the group said "it has taken no stand on segregation."

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia declared that "no matter how much the Supreme Court seeks to sugarcoat its bitter pill of tyranny, the people of Georgia and the South will not swallow it." He added: "Under no circumstances will we sacrifice the welfare and best interests of our children to satisfy such an unconstitutional decision of the Supreme Court. . . . Arkansas' position appears to

Sharp Conflicts Arise Over School Desegregation Goals

WASHINGTON (U)—Sharply conflicting views arose today over what local public school officials are likely to do about working out plans for ending racial segregation. Some deep South political leaders declared flatly they will do nothing. They predicted yesterday's Supreme Court decision giving local officials primary responsibility means an indefinite extension of segregation, at least for many years. But officials of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People foresaw action "without delay" to wipe out almost all racially separated schools by the start of the school year in September 1956. Both sides pledged to fight on in the courts.

George (D-Ga) summed up the middle-ground comment. He said the decision, stressing local action to meet widely varying problems, was "very cautious" and seemed to mean this: "Go slow but go." The court's historic, long-awaited decision dealt with how best to end school segregation under its edict of a year ago that separate schools for white and Negro children are unconstitutional. Unanimously, the nine justices declined to fix a definite deadline or order any hard and fast national procedures for erasing the traditional color line in 21 states practicing segregation in some or all of their schools. They called instead for a "prompt and reasonable start." And they said "primary responsibility" rests with state and local school officials to solve the delicate problem. Federal District Courts were directed to enforce, if necessary, "good faith compliance at the earliest practicable date."

Two results appeared likely: 1. The pace of action will continue to vary sharply. Some border areas such as Oklahoma, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland and Delaware may proceed relatively rapidly toward complete integration, despite some obstacles. Resistance will be much greater in deep South areas such as Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina. There may also be many variations among separate counties and school districts within a single state. 2. A multitude of court tests may follow on the issue of whether local officials are following the broad outlines laid down by the court.

The decision, like the one a year ago, applied directly to school districts in Kansas, Virginia, South Carolina, Delaware and the District of Columbia. Its principles are applicable to all areas. In the five directly affected areas, further court battles still coincide pretty close to the letter of the high court's ruling. Integration on a small scale already has begun there. State Sen. W. M. Rainach of Louisiana commented that the ruling "gives us room to continue our fight." Louisiana has adopted a constitutional amendment authorizing use of the state's police power to enforce segregation. It also has ready a $3½-million dollar program to equalize schools. In Mississippi, State Democratic Chairman Tom Tubb called the ruling "a very definite victory for the South." Kentucky is moving toward integration in the schools but an NAACP official expressed fear that the ruling would go unheeded in the Deep South. "After all," said J. A. Crumlin, president of the NAACP in Kentucky, "federal judges down there are Southerners too."

Atty. Gen. J. Donald Craven of Delaware said the ruling "pretty much reflects the attitude taken" by his state. And in Maryland, State School Supt. Thomas G. Pullen said "there will be no chicanery" in complying with the decision. Sanford Martin, chairman of the North Carolina Board of Education, said, "I don't know how they will do it, but I hope and believe that the people of North Carolina will find a way, or make one, to preserve their public school system."

metrically opposed views on its effects. The Supreme Court itself suggested—but did not order—two possible future steps. It said federal district courts may want to hold hearings on local conditions, and local school boards may submit to the courts plans for integration. The court said, "All provisions of federal, state or local law requiring or permitting (racial discrimination in school) must yield."

At another point it declared: "It should go without saying that the vitality of these constitutional principles (outlawing segregation) cannot be allowed to yield simply because of disagreement with them." Marshall said this language leaves nothing to sustain "the view of some Southern states that delay in compliance may be of indefinite length."

In laying down a few general principles for district courts to follow in carrying out the decision, the Supreme Court said fairness traditionally "has been characterized by a practical flexibility . . . and by a facility for adjusting and reconciling public and private needs. . . ." To admit Negro pupils "as soon as practicable on a nondiscriminatory basis," the court said, "may call for elimination of a variety of obstacles. . . . Courts of equity may properly take into account the public interest in the elimination of such obstacles in a systematic and effective manner. . . . "While giving weight to these public and private considerations, the courts will require that the defendants (school officials) make a prompt and reasonable start toward full compliance. . . . The Supreme Court noted that after a start toward integration has been made, the district courts "may find that additional time is necessary to carry out the ruling in an effective manner." It said the burden of proving the need for additional time will rest with school officials.

Marshall and other Negro leaders stressed language in the decision by Chief Justice Warren calling for promptness, "full compliance," and "effective" action to end segregation "as soon as practicable." Some Southerners, on the other hand, stressed the wide latitude given local officials to meet local problems. Former Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, long-time champion of segregation, said it wouldn't be feasible to mix races in Georgia schools "for a long, long time." Gov. Martin Griffin of Georgia said, "We will continue to operate our schools the way we always have." Leaders on both sides praised the decision—because of their dia-

Ad Bill For Cities Signed By Shivers
AUSTIN (U)—Texas general-law funds may now appropriate funds for advertising and promoting their growth and development under a bill signed into law by Gov. Allan Shivers. The measure is by Rep. A. J. Bishop Jr. of Winters. Also signed into law yesterday was a bill by Rep. W. G. Kirkin of Odessa to reorganize the 109th Judicial District and create a new district court. Andrews, Crane and Winkler counties would remain in the 109th District and Ward, Reeves and Loving counties would form a new 143rd District. A judge and district attorney for the new district will be appointed by the governor on the effective date of the bill, 90 days after adjournment of the Legislature.

Segregation End Still Not In Sight

WASHINGTON — It will be years before racial segregation in public schools is wiped out everywhere in this country—in spite of the Supreme Court's order to end it—and then probably only after a lot of court fights.

The rate at which segregation disappears depends upon the cooperation or defiance of individual states with the high court's decision. Officials in five places—the District of Columbia, Virginia, Delaware, South Carolina and Kansas—were told by the court they would have to begin promptly to work out a plan for abolishing segregated schools.

area to make a "prompt and reasonable" start toward ending segregation. It said a reasonable time could be allowed for carrying out the desegregation plans. The federal judges outside those five areas were not told by the Supreme Court to require any action by the authorities in their territory.

YOUR REFRIGERATED ROOM AIR CONDITIONER

cools more efficiently

WHEN YOU FOLLOW THESE SUGGESTIONS

COOL ONLY AN AREA WITHIN THE SIZE your unit is designed to cool. When cooling a larger area, the unit works harder and its efficiency is lowered.

KEEP AIR FILTERS CLEAN. Clogged filters lower efficiency of the unit and cause it to use more electricity.

INSULATE CEILING AREA above room being cooled. Insulation is comparatively inexpensive and keeps hot air out, cool air in.

LOCATE UNIT IN SHADE if possible. The north side of house is best, followed by east, south and west. Proper shading of unit increases its efficiency.

PROPERLY REGULATE intake of outside air. This is important to operating efficiency of your unit. Follow manufacturer's instructions carefully.

KEEP OUT DIRECT SUNLIGHT. It brings in heat which your unit must work extra hard to remove. Awnings over your windows will help.

AN AUTOMATIC THERMOSTAT is recommended to hold room temperature to 78 to 80 degree level recommended for comfort. Each degree below 78 degrees increases power consumption unnecessarily.

REMEMBER, TOO, that operating cost is governed by hours of use. Turn off your unit when you expect to be away for several hours. You can quickly lower the temperature when you return.

Free Booklet Contains additional information about refrigerated room air conditioners and evaporative coolers. Gives approximate operating costs—tells how to get the most economical service from cooling equipment. Come in or write for your copy.

Paper Denied Legal Right To Court Record

NEW YORK (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice has ruled that a newspaper has no legal right to be given a transcript of a court trial at its demand.

This decision was handed down yesterday by Justice Anthony Di Giovanni in denying a request by the New York Post that County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz be directed to give the paper a copy of his charge to the jury in a recent Brooklyn manslaughter case.

Di Giovanni said the trial transcript was not a public record, which normally would be available to a newspaper. "The mere fact that a transcript which has been taken relates to a matter of public interest does not make it a public record," the justice said.

The Post has 30 days in which to appeal the decision if it decides to do so.

The trial in question was a manslaughter case against policeman Robert Surrey, who shot and killed a Brooklyn youth Feb. 13 as he fled from the scene of a disturbance. Last April 18 a jury acquitted Surrey after deliberating 10 minutes.

In refusing to order that the Post be given a transcript of the charge, Di Giovanni said:

"While the court is of the opinion that the petitioner is animated by motives of high public interest, it cannot prevail on this motion except by a demonstration of statutory right or common law right given it, which it has not done."

He denied that freedom of the press was at issue, saying:

"The trial in which the charge herein sought was delivered was open to the press and to the public and no contrary contention is made. Petitioner's reporter was, or had an opportunity to be, present and to report what transpired thereat, presumably did so, and had full opportunity to record or make notes of the charge given and to comment thereon."

Di Giovanni said that if anyone had the right to demand a trial transcript, the court stenographer might be kept so busy he would be unable to carry out his court duties.

Flag Day Plans Made By Elks

Plans are being made by Elks of Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, and San Angelo for their annual Flag Day celebration.

The celebration, which is an annual four-city inter-lodge effort, will be held in the Odessa football stadium at 7:30 p.m. June 14.

The ceremony will be open to the public and the Webb Air Force band will provide the music. Uniformed groups such as the Boy and Girl Scouts, veteran organizations and reserve units from the four cities will be invited to participate. A speaker will be announced later.

The program, which rotates yearly, was held in Big Spring in 1953 and in Midland last year.

U. S. Business Aids Education

NEW YORK (AP)—The Ford Foundation reports a growing trend among business firms to support educational activities not directly related to the corporations' business interests.

This is "particularly encouraging," the foundation said in its annual report yesterday. However, it added, private and corporate donors must raise their level of giving "for private institutions to fulfill adequately their appropriate role in our national life."

"At the same time," it said, "the criteria for giving should be importance, not popularity, and need, not safety from criticism."

Family To Begin Atom Shelter Test

HOUSTON (AP)—A Houston family of four will start June 15 what is believed to be the nation's first test of life in an H-bomb shelter.

The group will stay in an underground-cubbyhole three days and nights under emergency conditions. The only contact outside will be an inter-communications outlet for use in an emergency should some member of the family become ill.

R. E. Smith, Civil Defense Director set up the test, saying:

"It is not a test of the shelter itself, since, of course, we won't have a bomb explosion. We want to know, however, just how people will react under emergency conditions."

Homesick

BOSTON (AP)—Samuel Evangelista, 13, had a reason for being out in his pajamas at 3 a.m. When police picked him up, he explained he had sneaked out of the Boston Floating Hospital because he was homesick. He had had his appendix removed only two days earlier, but doctors, said the stroll caused no ill effects.

Way Cleared To Let Freeway Construction Contracts In July

Apparently the way has been cleared for contracting freeway construction in eastern Howard County in July.

Condemnation proceedings Monday and Tuesday gave the county title to 38 additional tracts of land, channel easements and access rights, virtually winding up the task of securing right-of-way.

Actually, 20 tracts remain to be closed to complete the roadway from Big Spring to the Mitchell line. Agreements have been reached in 13 of these, however, and the deals will be closed as quickly as papers can be circulated for all the necessary signatures.

Negotiations are still under way on the remaining seven, but condemnation papers have been prepared for filing in case agreements are impossible.

County Judge R. H. Weaver said the State Highway Department has agreed to accept the right-of-way with the 20 instruments outstanding, with the county's assurance that the deeds will be provided as quickly as possible.

The judge said all deeds, access agreements and channel easements which have been signed will be forwarded to J. C. Roberts, district highway engineer, in Abilene this week. The county also will push fence construction and removal of all obstructions in order to fulfill all its obligations on the freeway project prior to July.

Plans for the freeway already have been completed. Roberts informed Weaver recently that the construction contracts could be let at the mid-July meeting of the State Highway Commission if right-of-way were acquired by June 1.

Special commissioners Tuesday made awards in seven condemnation proceedings. J. L. Cooper was awarded $1,200 for two lots and a building in Coahoma, O. M. Roberts received $5,000 for a half acre of land and damages in Coahoma, Handy Liquor Stores was awarded $500 for an acre east of Big Spring, J. C. Collins, Rev. Fields Gasoline Corp., and E. A. Lackey were awarded $1 each for access rights, and J. R. Merrick was awarded $1,850 for land and a channel easement.

Awards Monday, all in condemnation suits against land of unknown ownership, were made in 31 cases. Last known owners, type of property, and awards were: J. Frank Atkinson, part of a lot in Coahoma, $5; H. C. Anderson, lot in Coahoma, $25; W. S. Carter, easement, $1; B. Clark, Coahoma lot, $25; O. J. Copeland, Coahoma lot, $25; Julius H. Cox, easement, $1; Z. O. Fogerson, lot, $25; Rueben M. Glaze, part of lot, $25; W. B. Hood, lot, $250; J. T. Johnson, lot, $25; A. C. McKinney, lot, $250; J. E. Mitchell, lot, $25; J. E.
