Crash kills girl, 17; hurts mother

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Canadian girl was killed and her mother seriously injured last night when their car slammed into a 1994 Ford truck that investigators believe ran a stop sign at Highway 60 and Farm Market Road 2391.

The girl, Kami Michelle Minnick, and her mother, Karen Wayne Minnick, 33, both of Canadian, had apparently been shopping for school clothes in Amarillo and were returning home when the crash occurred, according to reports.

DPS troopers think the driver of the truck, Ronald Dean Sanders, 45, of Pampa, sped through a stop sign at 8:20 p.m. while traveling south on 2391. That put the truck directly into the path of Minnick's vehicle, said a DPS spokesperson. The car, a 1997 Toyota, smashed into the right side of the truck, ending up underneath the larger vehicle.

Despite a passenger-side airbag, the girl, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was pronounced dead at Columbia Medical Center at 9:50 p.m. Her mother had to be cut from the vehicle by Pampa firefighters and she was taken by Medivac helicopter to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo where she remained in serious condition

The girl, Kami Michelle Minnick, and her mother, Karen Wayne Minnick, 33, were apparently returning from a school-clothes shopping trip.

Although wearing a seatbelt and with a driver's-side airbag, the mother still suffered a great deal of injuries to her lower extremities, said a DPS spokesperson.

Employees of Bob Douthit Autos, which has both vehicles in custody during the DPS ongoing investigation, said the speedometer of the truck is stuck on 90 mph. DPS did not confirm this but said the case is still under investigation.

Sanders, who was wearing his seat belt, was treated for injuries and released at Columbia Medical Center. His passenger, 21-year-old James Devoll, also of Pampa, refused treatment for facial lacerations, according to the DPS report.

Neither DPS troopers or deputies with the sheriff's department would comment on whether alcohol was involved. At this time, no charges have been filed against Sanders.

A teen-ager was killed and three injured last night after the driver of this car collided with the side of a truck eight miles east of Pampa. The wreck is still under investigation but DPS troopers believe the driver of the pickup failed to heed a stop sign.

Auction proceeds may help tornado siren fund

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

Commissioners discussed donating approximately $20,000 of proceeds from the city auction to the Local Emergency Planning Committee's Siren Replacement Fund at their workshop meeting Tuesday afternoon.

"I'd just hate to go through another tornado season without another quality warning system," said Mayor Bob Neslage.

The sale of surplus city supplies netted approximately $80,000 in revenue for the city of Pampa.

To the surprise of city officials, the money generated is about twice as much as was expected, said financial director John Horst.

"We brought in more than, originally, we thought we would," said City Manager Bob Eskridge.

Net profits of $80,000 excludes the 10 percent commission to the auctioneering firm, Assiter and Associates and advertising costs. Because the costs are being split with the county, which co-sponsored the auction, the net profits are larger than if the city would have funded the event itself.

Items bringing in the highest dollar amount included a 1991 GMC Vacuum Truck ($14,500) and two 1990 Sanitation Refuse Trucks (over $16,000 each). Commissioners and city officials only expected these items to sell for slightly over $5,000 each.

But, none are complaining about the additional cash flow. The funds from the sell of vehicles will be used to replenish the fleet replacement reserve fund, said Eskridge. This fund

A-G candidate targets support, prisons, drugs

Issues surrounding child support enforcement, state prison operations and drug-driven crime are expected to be in the forefront of the race for Texas attorney general, said Republican candidate Tom Pauken.

Though his official announcement won't come until next month, former Texas Republican State Chairman Pauken has begun his campaign for attorney general and he made a stop in Pampa last week.

Pauken, 53, a Dallas attorney, recently stepped down as the state's GOP party chairman in order to run for the post now held by Democrat Dan Morales, who has announced he's seeking reelection.

"I don't think Mr. Morales has done a capable job," Pauken said during an interview with The Pampa News. "The child support enforcement is in a real mess."

Included in that "mess," Pauken says, are "cost overruns, mothers not getting their checks, delays and fathers who are paying not getting proper credit for it."

Pauken believes the child support system should be "decentralized," and says federal dollars now received by the attorney general's office need to be "spread out."

Marcus looks for service thefts

by MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

Anonymous calls made to Marcus Cable concerning local illegal use of television converter boxes have prompted the company to warn consumers.

And locally, Marcus Cable is conducting random "audits," to check to make sure the services customers are supposed to be using are actually what they have.

"I know that most people believe newsprint ads that they read, however, when reading ads about converter descramblers, be careful," said Susan Winn, Marcus Cable district manager.

Cable television theft is the illegal interception of cable programming services without the express authorization of, or payment to, a cable television system.

Devices used to receive unauthorized services are called descramblers, decoders, or black boxes. It is illegal to own or be in possession of unauthorized cable descramblers in 32 states including Texas.

Linda Norris grows her garden from alfalfa bales. How does she do it? Get a bale of alfalfa. Dig a hole in it. Add some fertilizer, a little manure and the plant. Put the bale anywhere you want, because it doesn't have to be buried. And there you have it! Tomatoes, cucumbers, cantelopes, bell peppers or any other leafy, plant-bearing vegetable. It's gardening made simple.

Shepherd's Helping Hands offers additional transportation to Panhandle Transit fleet

By EDYTH JACKSON
Writing for The Pampa News

Shepherd's Helping Hands is offering additional transportation to supplement Panhandle Transit's fleet now in service. When medical appointments do not fit within Panhandle Transit's guidelines, Shepherd's van may be activated to fill the gap.

The Chevrolet Astro Van, donated by Ernie and Suzie Wilkinson, is accessible from 6 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday thru Friday beginning Aug. 18 for appointments when Panhandle Transit is not available. The cost to individual passengers is 50 cents a trip. A grant from the David D. and Nona Payne Foundation guarantees funds to run the van for one year. Donations are accepted. Allowances are made for anyone undergoing financial hardship. Volunteer drivers are needed. Training is available, including CPR.

Panhandle Transit and Shepherd's van come under the umbrella of the Amarillo District of the Texas Department of Transportation which serves the top 17 counties of the Texas Panhandle. This Panhandle Transportation Consortium, represented by various organizations in the 17 counties, is designed to provide coordinated transportation for individuals throughout the area. The board of directors includes representatives for the City of Amarillo, the rural and urban public transportation providers, the disabled and elderly, the regional Department of Aging, the office of Client Transportation Services and the Texas Department of Transportation. Jan Warner, Amarillo adult day care center, serves as the lead agency. The consortium is funded by the TxDOT.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Shepherd's at (806) 665-0356 or (806) 665-9750.

ACT scores: Math up, English down

AUSTIN (AP) — State math scores are up on the ACT college entrance exam, but English performance is down and Texas still lags behind the rest of the nation overall.

In releasing the scores Wednesday, Education Commissioner Mike Moses said he believes a statewide focus on reading in the early grades and new curriculum standards will help turn around the dip in English and reading scores.

Moses said he was pleased with the math gain, attributing improvement to better math instruction. The increase also could have been helped by the fact that students for the first time were allowed to use calculators, he said.

Judge finds for publishers in free-lance court struggle

NEW YORK (AP) — Publishers may reproduce articles by free-lance writers in electronic data bases and CD-ROMS without their permission, a federal judge ruled. It's not the fault of publishers that technology had provided them an unexpected way to make money in a manner unforeseen by Congress, U.S. District Judge Sonia Sotomayer said Wednesday.

The ruling came in a lawsuit brought by six free-lance writers against The New York Times Co., Newsday Inc., Time Inc., The Atlantic Monthly Co., Mead Data Central Corp. and University Microfilms Inc.

Jonathan Tasini, president of the National Writer's Union and lead plaintiff, said the writers were studying grounds for appeal.

"The fight for a fair share continues," he said. "When multi-million-dollar media companies make a dollar from the sweat of their contributors' brows, those creators deserve to share in the profits."

Bruce P. Keller, attorney for the defendants, contested the assumption that there is a windfall for publishers because of new technology.

"This case involves the 1990s equivalent of microfilm," Keller said. "It is very important but it is not an enormous gang-busters market. It's not been a windfall for publishers and it's not likely to be a windfall."

The writers argued that electronic reproductions of their articles were improper under the federal Copyright Act. They alleged their rights were violated with 21 articles sold for publication between 1990 and 1993.

Struggling ABC laying off

NEW YORK (AP) — The ABC television network, suffering through a bad year with declining ratings, has cut nearly 200 jobs through buyouts, layoffs and attrition.

"It's part of the normal budget process to constantly reassess staffing," ABC spokeswoman Sherrie Rollins said today. The changes affect most departments at the network, which employs 5,000 people.

About half of the jobs eliminated are already vacant. There will be about 50 to 60 people laid off, said an ABC executive who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The ABC executive said the network was under no pressure from its corporate parent, the Walt Disney Co., to make the changes. ABC submits its budget to Disney this fall.

The network has lost revenue because of its programming slump. ABC slipped from second to third behind NBC and CBS in the ratings this past year and will present the greatest number of new shows among the major networks when the fall season premieres.

These are the last layoffs expected at the network for the next year, the executive said.

C-SPAN planning to convert jazz radio station

WASHINGTON (AP) — C-SPAN is planning its first venture beyond cable television by buying the University of the District of Columbia's FM jazz station for $13 million. The jazz station will be converted into a 24-hour public affairs radio channel.

"We feel this is an important extension of our mission to provide public affairs through radio," said Brian Lamb, the president and founder of C-SPAN.

The 18-year-old C-SPAN is owned by a group of cable companies. It has established itself as the television network of record for congressional hearings and other unfiltered news coverage.

A California radio operator abandoned plans to buy the jazz station from the cash-strapped university in the face of opposition from jazz lovers and other interested groups. Salem Communications in Camarillo, Calif., is a religious broadcaster and wanted to convert the station into that sort of format.

This notice concerns 1997 property tax rates for GRAY COUNTY. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. Three arrested in theater shooting case

DALLAS (AP) — Three suspects have been arrested today in the deaths of two women shot during a robbery in the parking lot of a Dallas movie theater, police said. A 19-year-old man, a 19-year-old woman and a 22-year-old man were being held in the Wednesday night shooting, which occurred outside the AMC Grand Theater in northwest Dallas. Police would not release the suspects' names, but said they expect to seek capital murder charges against the three. Witnesses said they heard three to four shots fired. One woman was found in the passenger seat of a BMW parked outside the theater. The other was found slumped partially inside the car on the driver's side. The names of the victims, both in their 20s, were not released pending notification of family members.

Wedding guests bail out groom, pay $67 fine

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — It was a short trip to jail for a groom who was arrested just moments after he kissed the bride in the Nez Perce County courthouse.

There was a warrant out for the arrest of Alvin Strickland of Clarkston, Wash., because he had failed to pay a $67 fine, Jail Sgt. Norm Pierson said Wednesday.

An officer noticed Strickland in the courthouse and alerted Pierson.

Magistrate William Stellmon, who performed the ceremony, told Pierson to wait until after the "I dos" to make the arrest.

As a wedding gift, Pierson made an attempt to avoid an arrest altogether.

"I... discreetly asked the best man to step outside," Pierson said. "I asked if he had $67, but he didn't have it."

Strickland kept the bride waiting for only about 20 minutes while wedding guests rounded up the $67.

"A wedding to remember," Pierson said.

Man launches all out effort to find dog wife says is dead

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Every other month, Dick Berglund drove the nearly 900-mile round trip to Seattle to pick up the dog that a judge gave him joint custody of after he and his girlfriend broke up.

Now, even though his ex-girlfriend says the dog is dead and buried, Berglund is not giving up hope that he will be reunited with Duffy, a springer spaniel.

Berglund thinks RoseMaria Stone may have made up the story about Duffy being hit by a truck last month.

He rented a billboard and posted hundreds of handbills around Medford offering a $10,000 reward for the safe return of the dog.

"I'm not going to let Duffy disappear just like that," said Berglund, 61, who gets about 40 calls a day on the Duffy hot line. "I owe her this... to try to find her."

Ms. Stone even gave Berglund a list of witnesses that could confirm Duffy's death, including her neighbor, Maureen Hobbs.

"We buried her in the back yard," Ms. Hobbs said.

Ms. Stone thinks Berglund is just trying to hurt her.

"You can't argue over a dead dog," she said. "It doesn't matter anymore, except for the pain of losing a dog."

Custodian files lawsuit after being denied prize

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — James Szathkowski's thought his first hole-in-one came at the perfect time — on a hole that offered a new car as a prize for anyone who could sink an ace.

"When I had initially done it, I almost fainted," Szathkowski, 30, said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

The new Toyota Paseo was advertised as a prize for a hole-in-one on the sixth hole of the UC-Santa Barbara Spring Holiday Golf Tournament in March. But the sponsor of the contest, Toyota of Santa Barbara, said the second hole was the one insured for the contest.

"Someone on (the tournament) committee decided they wanted hole number six instead of hole number two and arbitrarily moved it and didn't tell anybody," said Dennis Franks, owner of the Toyota dealership.

"We simply did what they told us to do."

Tournament organizers apologized and tried to offer Szathkowski other prizes, said his attorney, Kendall Van Conas.

But Szathkowski, a high school custodian, wanted the car. He filed a lawsuit last month seeking for damages comparable to what the car was worth, at least $18,000.

Spanking children causes 'boomerang' of misbehavior, study suggests

CHICAGO (AP) — Parents who spank their children are provoking the very misbehavior they are trying to stop, but they don't see the "boomerang" effect because it happens over weeks or months, a new study suggests.

Many past studies have linked spanking with increased aggressiveness in children, but authors of the new study say they have found the strongest evidence yet of a cause-and-effect relationship.

"When parents use corporal punishment to reduce antisocial behavior, the long-term effect tends to be the opposite," the researchers wrote in the August issue of the Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine.

Parents "have no way of looking down the road a month, two months, a year, two years... and that is what this study did," said the lead author, sociologist Murray A. Straus, codirector of the Family Research Laboratory at University of New Hampshire.

The study showed spanking is "counterproductive, it boomerangs, it makes things worse," he said.

His team analyzed 1988 and 1990 national-survey data from 807 mothers of children ages 6 to 9, and compared levels of antisocial behavior among spanked and unspanked children over the interval.

Forty-four percent of mothers reported spanking their children in the week before they were interviewed, and they spanked them an average of twice that week, the researchers said.

The more spanking at the beginning of the study period, the higher the level of antisocial behavior at the end, independent of other traits that can affect such behavior, such as the family's socioeconomic status and the amount of warmth and support parents give their children, researchers said.

Antisocial behavior was defined as cheating or lying, bullying or being cruel or mean to others, not feeling sorry after misbehaving, breaking things deliberately, disobeying at school or not getting along with teachers.

"Many people, probably most people, believe that if spanking is done by warm and loving parents, it has no harmful side effects, because kids know it's for their own good. That turns out not to be true," Straus said by telephone Tuesday from Durham, N.H.

Although parental warmth and support lessen the harmful effects of spanking, they don't cancel those effects, he said.

"Considering research showing that antisocial behavior in childhood is associated with violence and other crime as an adult, society as a whole, and not just children, could benefit from ending the system of violent childrearing that goes under the euphemism of spanking," the researchers wrote.

Family Fracture Is One Result When Kissing Cousins Split

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column on first cousins marrying, I thought I'd better let you know the downside: when it doesn't work out.

I was also involved with a "kissing cousin" many years ago, and there are consequences one doesn't think of until it's too late.

To start with, you fight to get the other family members to accept that you're involved with each other. Then, when it goes sour and you can't stand to be around each other, who do you turn to?

From experience I can tell you: No one! You suffer in silence because everyone told you it would not work out and you wouldn't listen. I can tell you, it's easier to break off a relationship with an outsider than with a relative. It's 100 times harder when it's family. You cause divisions and pain when you get together, and it's worse when you split. There's more pain than you could ever imagine for both those involved and the families.

You are expected to attend family functions and pretend it never happened, to be polite and try to be civil to each other even though you're dying inside and, wish as you may, you can never go back to "before."

Please advise anyone contemplating a relationship with a relative. Think long and hard before you leap. Your paths will cross again and again, and your life will never be the same! Been there, done that and regretting it...

SOMEWHERE IN THE U.S.A.

Abigail Van Buren
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR SOMEWHERE: That's sage advice. Most of the questions I receive regarding marriage among cousins reflect concerns about the genetic aspects of such a union — not the emotional price that's paid in the event of a failure.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is past menopause and she could go the rest of her life without sex. I like to kiss good morning, good night, goodbye, hello and other times just because it's nice. She doesn't.

Neither does she like to be touched — during the day or at night. I have tried everything I can think of. I finally got her to talk to her doctor. He recommended hormones.

She refused to take them because they might give her cancer and restart her periods. I talked to her doctor about the risk of cancer. He said it was so remote he didn't consider it.

She maintains this is normal for women past 60. I can't believe she is "right," but have no data to refute it. I have tried to get her to go to counseling, but she refuses because she thinks it would be embarrassing.

Is this normal? What do you suggest for a solution? Please don't use my name.

LOOKING FOR LOVE IN DALLAS

DEAR LOOKING: No, it is not normal. Your wife's problem seems to be her attitude. She has stated what she won't do, and plan your life accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I get into a discussion with someone who has never raised kids, I summarize what it's like being a parent in one sentence:

"You spend the first 12 years of their lives worried to death that someone may harm them; you spend the next six wanting to kill them yourself."

Be careful, and remember that life is a two-way street.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your sage advice will be heeded by others today, but it might be ignored by you, especially if the suggestions you offer relate to resource management.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In your haste to settle a testy issue, you may move too quickly for your own good and create further complications. Slow down and think things through.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Do not use veiled threats or pressure tactics in your dealings with others today — this kind will produce extremely undesirable results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you lend something you cherish to an irresponsible individual today, there is a good chance you may get it back in a sorry state. Use discretion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not put yourself in charge of operations today in activities with friends. The majority might have another candidate in mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you might have to deal with a person you dislike. Don't let your emotions ruin the arrangement before you have a chance to work with one another.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid the company of a friend who likes to manipulate others. S/he might see you as a choice prospect today — make them look elsewhere.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not take anything for granted today if you're in a situation that requires a vote. Allegiance from certain associates isn't as strong you might think.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your work could suffer today if you don't schedule your assignments properly. Don't leave anything until the last minute.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone with whom you are very close does not want you probing too deeply into his/her affairs today. Maintain a discreet distance and don't ask questions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not bring up an old, unresolved domestic issue that irritates both you and your mate. Neither will have the patience to deal with it today.

'For Better or For Worse' cartoon switches direction

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "For Better or For Worse" creator Lynn Johnston understands the problem some editors will face when she shifts the comic strip's focus to the love life of a gay character for a few days.

That doesn't mean she'll be happy if they don't run it. "It's not frustrating for me but for the people who are harassed because they have to put up with this every minute of their lives," Johnston said Wednesday from her home in Canada.

Kansas City-based Universal Press Syndicate said Wednesday it wrote to 1,700 newspapers informing them of the upcoming sequence.

The comic strip, which deals with the Patterson family and their relatives and friends, angered some editors and readers in 1993 when a 17-year-old character, Lawrence, revealed he was gay.

The outing of Lawrence, best friend of college student Michael Patterson, was based on a similar revelation by Johnston's brother-in-law and its profound affect on her family.

The upcoming four-day sequence, running Aug. 20-23, focuses on Lawrence and his love interest, Ben, who is considering moving to Paris to study piano.

At least 20 daily newspapers have told Universal Press that they will use syndicate-supplied reruns from 1995 instead, said Elizabeth Andersen, who edits the strip for Universal Press.

"It is a decision that took a lot of thought on our part," said publisher John Goossen, publisher of The Topeka (Kan.) Capital-Journal, which has a circulation of 62,000 daily and 70,000 on Sunday. "We kind of looked at what we feel the standards of the community are."

"We feel that the comics page is different from what we cover in our news pages, where we cover the newsworthy activities of the gay and lesbian community as news."

Papers in Ohio, Texas and Alabama were among those who won't run the Lawrence-Ben series, Andersen said. Specific names were not immediately available.

Russian cosmonauts returning to Earth after six-month tour

NEAR DZHEZKAZGAN, Kazakstan (AP) — Two weary Russian cosmonauts returned to Earth today, ending a hard-luck six-month tour that included the most serious accidents in the history of the Mir space station.

The two cosmonauts piloted their Soyuz capsule to a successful landing in the barren steppes of Kazakstan, completing a journey rife with accidents and breakdowns, including a fire and a damaging collision.

"Let's hope that everything that went wrong is leaving with us," cosmonaut Alexander Lazutkin told remaining crew members shortly before he left the Mir.

Technicians and observers at Russian Mission Control in Moscow burst into applause as the on-time landing was announced.

Lazutkin and Vasily Tsibliyev disengaged their Soyuz capsule from the Mir shortly before 1 p.m. Moscow time (5 a.m. EDT) and touched down at 4:16 p.m. (8:16 a.m. EDT) in the desert about 100 miles southeast of the central Kazak city of Dzhezkazgan.
