LUBBOCK (AP) — Prosecutors say the former mistress of ex-U.S. Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros was indicted after she misled the grand jury in the investigation of her relationship with Cisneros.

Linda Jones was indicted Friday on 26 federal counts of conspiracy, bank fraud, money laundering and obstruction of a special counsel's investigation.

The obstruction indictments allege that Jones failed to "live up to her end of the bargain" by lying to FBI special agents, independent counsel David M. Barrett said.

In November 1995, Barrett granted immunity to Jones. But Jones began violating immunity terms "from the outset," Barrett's statement said, causing the investigation to turn against her.

With the completion of work Friday by the Lubbock grand jury, a source told the San Antonio Express-News, the inquiry will shift to focus on Cisneros. He remains the principal target of the probe by a Washington federal grand jury.

Feud nets 6 more arrests

3 McLean and 6 Shamrock men in jail after fighting leads to shoot out

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

Four more men were arrested in connection with an ongoing feud between a group of McLean and Shamrock residents that ended last weekend with a shooting spree.

Michael David McKee, 24 and Darrow Page, 18, both of Shamrock, were taken into custody late Thursday night. Two other Shamrock men, Adam Reid Wright, 19 and Robert Franklin Griffin, 22, were arrested early Friday morning. All four have been charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon for a fight which occurred in McLean over the weekend, said Lt. Jim Scott with the Gray County Sheriff's Office.

Another man, Donald Cabler, also of Shamrock, turned himself into the sheriff's office in connection with the assault, said Lt. Scott. And, yet another, Willy Angton of Shamrock, is being

UT investigates racial remarks

AUSTIN (AP) — A law professor's comments on race and achievement have prompted the University of Texas System's chairman to order an investigation, with the governor's office also criticizing the remarks.

More critics Friday also urged Professor Lino Graglia's resignation, but he has remained resolute during the exchanges.

"I've never seen such a firestorm," said Peter Flawn, UT interim president, who received a racial harassment complaint against Graglia from the UT student government president and two other black leaders.

On Monday, Flawn and UT System Chancellor William Cunningham were to meet with Graglia about his remarks last week during the announcement of a new UT student organization that supports a federal court ruling outlawing race-based admissions policies in Texas.

Graglia is a faculty advisor for the group. "Blacks and Mexican-Americans are not academically competitive"

Visit to Middle East offers hope of peace

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Despite making little headway with the Israelis and Palestinians, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright's first official visit to the Mideast was balanced and offered hope for peace, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said today.

Albright met with Mubarak for two hours today in this Mediterranean city to address Arab frustration over stalemated Middle East peacemaking.

It was the fourth day of a tour that Albright herself has conceded failed to make progress toward restarting Israeli-Palestinian peace talks.

In her session with Mubarak, Albright had someone to commiserate with: Mubarak has tried for months, without success, to restart the negotiations.

Mubarak said Albright's approach to the troubled region was "encouraging, balanced and gives hope for the peace process to move forward."

"I think we appreciate all that she did, and the Palestinians will Graffiti is getting out of hand at Central Park. Parks Director Reed Kirkpatrick (left) and employees Curtis Shelton and Freddy Wilbon painted over the graffiti Friday afternoon.

Graffiti out of hand; citizens asked to help

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

The blue paint is out.

And from the way it's looking, the paint might be in use for some time unless Pampa citizens take action.

The Pampa Parks and Recreation Department has painted over graffiti at Central Park several times with blue paint this last week, covering up graffiti markings that city officials said they believe to be from the same juvenile or juvenile group.

Parks Director Reed Kirkpatrick sent city employees out Friday afternoon to paint over graffiti found Thursday at the park and in the process they discovered even more.

Kirkpatrick said they spotted the first of these graffiti markings after Chautauqua almost two weeks ago.

Since then, the same graffiti markings have reoccurred in the same part of the park — under and around one of the park's bridges, adjacent to Cuyler Street.

"It's disheartening because we try so hard to make the parks look nice," Kirkpatrick said. "Parks are helpless and it's going to take citizen involvement to do something about this."

Kirkpatrick and the city employees painting over the markings said the graffiti is taking away from "everything else we need to do."

Fair parade theme announced

AMARILLO — The theme for the 1997 Amarillo Tri-State Fair Parade will be A Fair of the Heart.

The 73rd annual parade will begin at 10 a.m. in downtown Amarillo. The parade is expected to draw over 120 entries.

The parade marshal for this year will be retired Amarillo Fire Chief Curtis Richards.

The American Heart Association will hold its annual Heart

Walk at 9:45 a.m. The walk will proceed down Polk Street then on to Third Street to the Tri-State Fairgrounds.

A cash award and trophy will be given to the top float that carries out the fair's theme.

Additional trophies will be awarded for Best Overall Entry, Military, Equestrian, Band, JROTC Unit, Youth and Adult categories.

Winners will be presented their awards at 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, at the Children's Stage Area on the fairgrounds.

The United States Naval Reserve will lead the parade as the official colorguard. West Texas A&M University will have the leading band.

A special parade group this year will be the Marion County Sheriffs Posse, Indianapolis, Ind. The group is noted for its motorcycle drill team which performs during the Indianapolis 500 car race.

One of the employees, Freddy Wilson, said he thinks vandalism in the park is a waste for everyone.

"The same ones doing it are using the park, too," he said. "They're taking advantage of the same thing they're messing up."

Some of the graffiti are in areas that are not hidden or easy to paint over. One of the markings discovered Thursday, said Kirkpatrick, is located on the cement of a newer bridge that was built recently by park employees. This graffiti, he said, can't be painted over.

"We'll just have to let time wear that one away," he said.

Painted or not, the results of the graffiti markings are still visible.

"We're blessed with nice parks, but sadly, it takes just a few to mess it up," Kirkpatrick said.

In response to the graffiti, School Resource Officer Fred Courtney said, "We're actively prosecuting the kids that do these things as best as we can under the juvenile system."

Kirkpatrick would like to see Pampa citizens give a hand in stopping the graffiti crimes.

"If the community could be our eyes and ears after hours and report to the police when and if they see anything, it would help," he said.

Grffiti vandalism is now a class-B misdemeanor and could result in up to a $500 fine for juveniles or their parents, said Officer Courtney.

with whites in selective institutions," Graglia said then. "It is the result primarily of cultural affects. They have a culture that seems not to encourage achievement. Failure is not looked upon with disgrace."

Campus groups on Tuesday planned a rally to protest the professor's statements.

Graglia, 67, told the Austin American-Statesman on Friday that he did not see benefits for white schoolchildren mixing with lower classes because lower socioeconomic classes "perform less well in school and tend towards greater violent behavior."

But Graglia said he has been astonished by the reaction to his remarks Wednesday because he has made similar comments for years in writing and in public.

Graglia, who has tenure and free-speech rights, can only be fired for good cause, according to state law that also calls for university faculty to undergo intensive tenure reviews every six years.

Graglia's statements constitute cause, said Sen. Gonzalo Barron. D-Austin. Plawn said he was "looking at that."

"People who are calling in are saying someone with those sentiments should not be in a public institution's classroom," said Plawn. "We want to be deliberate and be certain we are doing whatever is right."

J.R. Gonzalez, chairman of the Austin Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, accused Graglia of preaching racism and urged his resignation from the state-supported university.

ARRESTS

held in Oklahoma on a Gray County warrant in connection with the assault, he said.

The case is still under investigation but the deputy believes the fighting among the two groups of men escalated over a period of time from a single incident.

"It was more than likely an ongoing feud," said Scott.

The single incident, he said, involves a young McLean man being assaulted while in Shamrock. A group of McLean men went to the rival town for vengeance and apparently another fight ensued, said Lt. Scott.

The Shamrock group of men retaliated this past weekend by going to McLean, where a fight took place between 1 and 1:30 a.m. Sunday on First Street, said Lt. Scott. One man, while attempting to break up the fight, was hit with what police believe to have been a baseball bat.

The fighting escalated when at least three

McLean men allegedly entered the town of Shamrock later Sunday morning and fired between three and six shots at Clifton Burns and Robby Lee Holmes, according to previous police reports.

Neither Burns or Holmes was injured but the rear window and driver's side mirror of the vehicle they were in was shot out, said Shamrock officials.

Three McLean men — Idelio Loya, 38; Humberto Montoya, 27; and Chad Michael Richards, 18 — were charged with attempted murder Monday in connection with the shoot out in Shamrock.

The three were taken into custody by Gray County officials early Sunday morning between Shamrock and McLean. A handgun was recovered in the three men's vehicle, according to sheriff's deputies.

The sheriff's office is expecting to make more arrests in connection with the incident, said Lt. Scott.

PEACE

appreciate this in the future," Mubarak said at a news conference with Albright at the Ras el-Tin presidential palace.

In remarks to reporters, both Mubarak and Albright stressed the need for stability in the Middle East.

"The people of the region are sick of bombs and suffering," Albright said. "They understand that the extremists on both sides offer nothing."

Albright also talked about the need to improve the region's economy, referring to the regional economic meeting scheduled in October as a valuable part of this effort.

Arab states have threatened to boycott the meeting in the Gulf state of Qatar because of the lack of progress in peace talks. Mubarak said he hoped if there was movement toward peace that the meeting could be held on "a higher level."

The Egyptian leader's warm remarks could be expected since Egypt is a close U.S. ally and — as the first Arab country to make peace with Israel — has been trying itself to renew the talks between Palestinians.

Mubarak's comments represented one of the few bright spots in Albright's Mideast tour. After meeting with Israeli and Palestinian leaders, she held talks with Syria's President Hafez Assad but had no apparent success in restarting Syrian-Israeli peace talks either.

Albright said nothing to reporters after her meeting with Assad in Damascus. Assad's spokesman, Jibril Kourieh, said the Syrian leader told Albright that Syria would resume talks with Israel "from the point where they stopped."

That indicated Assad was sticking by his stance that all of the Golan Heights must be returned to Syria — as was decided in a verbal agreement with the Israeli government voted out of office last year.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu opposes return of the plateau, which Israel captured in the 1967 Mideast War. He has said he is not bound by that agreement reached by the more moderate, Labor-led government.

Before her meeting with Assad, Albright said she would try to bring Syrian-Israeli peace talks "into a more active sphere," but she made no predictions of success.

In her discussions with Netanyahu and Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, she concentrated on Israel's need for security, after repeated suicide bomb attacks killed scores of Israelis. But she also urged Netanyahu to keep withdrawing from West Bank land as was agreed in 1995 peace accords.

Mubarak has held repeated meetings with Netanyahu, Assad and Arafat since March, when already stalled peace talks went further off track after Israel started building a large Jewish housing project in Arab east Jerusalem.

He has repeatedly warned that a failure to reach a comprehensive Middle East peace can only lead to more violence in the region.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers: El Paso Times on NAFTA promises. Texas legislators are correctly demanding President Clinton keep the promises he made in the North American Free Trade Agreement. More than $3 billion in border projects remain unfunded, including health care and job retraining projects plus bridge and waste-water plant construction.

Three initiatives that merit praise have been developed at the state level to make sure border needs are addressed by NAFTA-expansion proponents. One of those efforts is a study of NAFTA's impact on border cities by the Interim Committee on NAFTA, chaired by Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi. ... El Paso's Eliot Shapleigh is a member of the committee.

The key to the region's future, Shapleigh said, has to be a coordinated approach. He identified the other initiatives as Comptroller John Sharp's Border Performance Review and a special task force planned by the Texas Department of Transportation.

"We have a window of opportunity with Clinton's need for fast track approval of NAFTA expansion," Shapleigh said. "But before he gets approval, we must be assured that promises are kept."

Truan's committee, Sharp's review board and other border initiatives need to come up with a strategy that will force Clinton to keep the NAFTA promises. The president does not have the votes in Congress he needs for fast-track approval. NAFTA was approved with the help of border legislators and numerous border activist groups. Unless Clinton can show progress on the already approved solutions to the problems of NAFTA, he should not get that support.

Di was model of strength

When Prince Charles of Wales introduced young Diana Spencer to the world 16 years ago, who could have imagined the powerful force that this shy and awkward girl would become? As we watched the flowers pile up in front of Kensington Palace and British consulates around the world, it is truly amazing to think that one person could inspire so much adoration in her lifetime and so much grief in her death.

Many people I know were taken aback by the outpouring of emotion Diana's death has caused. "I had no idea the cult of Diana was so strong," said one friend. Another said he was surprised to realize that he too was touched by the princess's untimely demise. "I never really thought about her before, but when I heard the news I definitely felt a loss," he said.

How did this woman get such a strong hold on the public imagination? By now many theories have been proffered - it was her beauty, her grace, her common touch. Of course, all of these things were important elements in the creation of Saint Diana, but the main reason I think we feel such loss is that she held such a completely unique place in our culture. She was so much more than just a pretty woman who wore fashionable clothes and did good works. She was, I believe, a model of feminine strength.

When the nervous kindergarten teacher married Prince Charles in 1981, she was the very essence of traditional femininity. Eyes lowered, she was quiet and obedient - exactly the kind of woman we can presume the royal family wanted. But Diana soon realized that this role did not suit her, that she could not tolerate a life spent meekly obeying orders and silently enduring her husband's infidelities. So she did something that the House of Windsor was wholly unprepared for: She told the world the princess was unhappy.

Diana has been called a hypocrite for using the press as much as she criticized it. But the princess's manipulation of the media was actually a healthy and realistic response to her circumstances. The relentless intrusion of cameras was an unflinching fact of her life. Therefore, she had a choice. She could allow this problem to make her angry and bitter, or she could turn it into an opportunity.

As Vanity Fair executive editor Elise O'Shaughnessy said recently, Diana successfully provided us with the next chapter to the fairy tale: "It's all very well, you go out and marry the prince, but what happens when the prince turns out to be a louse? (Diana's) is a very 20th century story of someone who took the reins and made a very difficult situation work for her in the end."

As Diana emerged from the wreckage of her marriage, we watched the shy girl metamorphose into a diva. Thus she became a model of a different - and I think far superior - breed of femininity. Again, it wasn't just the beauty and the charm - though that was a big part of it. It was the intensity with which she threw herself into her good works. It was the way that she took such humble qualities as kindness and compassion and made them larger than life. When she cuddled a sick child or hugged an AIDS patient, we knew we were witnessing something much more than public relations. We knew that she meant it, because we knew how much she needed it. She was not just giving, she was receiving. And in the end, this vulnerability is what made her so powerful.

"Someone's got to go out there and love people," Diana said in her famous 1995 television interview. It sounded corny when she said it, and it actually sounds corny now. And yet, who else was saying it? That was the amazing thing about Diana - nothing she did or said was terribly original and yet she filled a void in the public consciousness. A void, I fear, that will remain empty for many years to come.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1997. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 14, 1814, Francis Scott Key wrote The Star-Spangled Banner after witnessing the British bombardment of Fort McHenry in Maryland.

On this date:

In 1847, U.S. forces under Gen. Winfield Scott took control of Mexico City.

In 1901, President McKinley died in Buffalo, N.Y., of gunshot wounds inflicted by an assassin. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt succeeded him.

In 1927, modern dance pioneer Isadora Duncan died in Nice, France, when her scarf became entangled in a wheel of her sports car.

In 1940, Congress passed the Selective Service Act, providing for the first peacetime draft in U.S. history.

In 1959, the Soviet space probe Luna 2 became the first man-made object to reach the moon as it crashed onto the lunar surface.

In 1972, the family drama series

The Waltons premiered on CBS.

In 1975, Pope Paul VI declared Mother Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton the first U.S.-born saint.

In 1982, Princess Grace of Monaco, formerly actress Grace Kelly, died at age 52 of injuries from a car crash the day before.

In 1982, Lebanon's president-elect, Bashir Gemayel, was killed by a bomb.

Helms is putting up roadblocks

Walter R. Mears
AP Special Correspondent

William Weld is tilting at a Washington windmill in his campaign against the sometimes cranky ways of the Senate. Put to a vote, he'd almost surely be confirmed as ambassador to Mexico.

But the ranking Republican naysayer is saying nay, and blocking any action. And while Weld says that for one man to stop a nominee without even a hearing is not the American way, it can be the Senate way.

Weld said at the outset that he doesn't play by Washington rules, and he has been demonstrating it for five months in his struggle to get past Sen. Jesse Helms, the cantankerous chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Helms not only plays by those rules, he uses them to every advantage. So he has summoned the Senate parliamentarian to a committee meeting he grudgingly called for Friday because Weld's advocates forced it. He wants an expert witness on hand to explain why he can enforce his decision that "the Weld nomination will not be on the agenda."

That is bizarre by any but Senate reasoning. But it is the system Weld and his allies are bucking.

The nominee and the chairman are both Republicans, but one is a moderate from Massachusetts, the other a conservative from North Carolina.

Their public feud began weeks before President Clinton sent the nomination to the Senate seven weeks ago. Helms said Weld was soft on drugs and not up to the job. Weld said the real hangup was that he isn't Helms' kind of Republican and doesn't want to be.

He then resigned as Massachusetts governor and came to Washington to do battle. In a confirmation proceeding, the nominee usually comes hat in hand. Not Weld. He said it would be war, by land or by air.

He's now making it an air war, on TV talk shows.

He has accused Helms of attempting ideological extortion, called the tactics against him un-American, and said the chairman was sending the worst possible message to Mexico.

But Helms controls the parliamentary terrain. The "special meeting" he called is not a hearing, and he insists that even if a committee majority forced one, the rules empower him as chairman to determine what can be considered.

A majority of the committee on Wednesday asked Helms to change his mind and hear the nomination. Sen. Dick Lugar, the Republican leading the push for a Weld hearing, said Helms is being "quite arbitrary and dictatorial." The question isn't whether he is, the question is whether he can be and make it stick.

Lugar had threatened earlier to use his prerogatives as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee to punish Helms unless he relented on a Weld hearing, by blocking measures important to Southern tobacco farmers. He's dropped that, but it makes a point - the system Helms uses can also be used against his interests.

This wouldn't be happening at all but for a power play a decade ago, in which Helms invoked his seniority to preempt Lugar and take over the top GOP position on the Foreign Relations Committee. Lugar had been chairman. He wound up with the Agriculture Committee. Now each is No. 2 on the other's committee.

Weld's problem begins with Helms, but doesn't stop there. Sen. Trent Lott, the majority leader, has said all summer that Weld won't be confirmed. He now calls the nomination dead.

The White House says that is wishful thinking. But again, given the ways of the Senate, what the majority leader wishes he usually gets.

Weld now says that this is not a matter of personalities or politics, but of "open process and democracy." He said the question is how the Senate, which he tried to join in a losing 1996 campaign, is going to conduct itself.

Clinton said Tuesday that regardless of party, "when a president nominates someone for a job, that person's entitled to a hearing."

A Republican who thinks Weld ought to have one also thinks he's handled himself badly by Senate standards. "Some of us were kidding on the Senate floor ... saying we ought to appoint Bill to be ambassador, and make him go to Mexico," Sen. Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania said. "It'd serve him right the way he has acted, almost as if he doesn't want it."

Letters to the editor

To the editor:
In response to the letter written by G.W. Dingus about The Salvation Army, let me try to clarify the position we truly hold. First of all, we are not almost a church; we are first and foremost a church. We hold strongly to the teachings of the Bible and believe that what was sin in Biblical times is still sin today.

Also, the publication that this incident noted was certainly not from a publication of The Salvation Army. Another Christian publication quoted this.

As for the matter of backing off our Christian position for money, let me assure you that this did not and will not happen. We, as Christians, can not discriminate against anyone. This not only applies to race, creed or sex, but also sexual orientation. The Salvation Army does not condone homosexuality in any way, but we also do not discriminate against someone who has proclaimed to be a homosexual. This would be the same as discriminating against an alcoholic, a murderer or even a thief. All of these, as well as homosexuality, are considered sinful by Biblical standards.

We at The Salvation Army believe that we must love all people as Christ loves us. This does not mean just the heterosexual, but indeed everyone is to be loved with the love of Christ.

Lt. Matthew Branscum
Commanding Officer
The Salvation Army
Pampa

To the editor:

Like so many people in Pampa, I felt our hospital lacked a lot in medical services, but believe me, one doctor in the emergency room has changed my mind. On Aug. 17, my husband was transported to the emergency room and only by the quick actions and excellent care he received was his life saved.

My children and I would like to say "thank you" to Dr. Mouin Jaber for his astute assessment of my husband's condition and his quick, correct treatment of it. Dr. Hudson, trauma doctor at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, assured me that without Dr. Jaber's actions my husband would have died. Words can never truly express our feelings but will have to do in this case: Thank you Dr. Mouin Jaber.

Estella Dalrymple and family
Pampa

To the editor:

I would like to say a few things to Red Williams. My heart goes out to him. I can tell by his writings he has really suffered hurts and disappointments in this life. You see, I can understand, for I've had a pretty rough life myself.

At the early age of 10, I witnessed a madman gun down my dad and 15-year-old sister in our home.

Many troubles and financial hardships followed. My mother became an alcoholic, for she could not stand hearing my sister as she pleaded for her life on her knees. The bottle was mom's way of drowning her cries and pleadings.

I won't bore you with life after that. I am not judging this man when I call him a "madman." His eyes were blood red, and he slobbered and growled like a wild animal. Christians now realize he was demon possessed.

You see, I had pain. My pain, like yours, turned to bitterness. I could not understand how this could happen to us. We had never hurt anyone intentionally. I was very bitter. I thought I hated God. I got so miserable I didn't want to live. Deep in my heart I knew there was a God, a savior, a comforter. If not, how could I think I hated Him if He didn't exist?

Finally I said, "God if you really love me bring this torment to an end, just take me up; take me out of this pain."

I thought He'd just let me die. Not so! I felt a joy and peace come over me. I realized I needed Jesus in my life. My life has never been the same. Sure, I slip and fall in my walk with the Lord, but he always takes me by the hand and speaks to my heart, "You'll make it; I'm right beside you."

Only before I came to know Jesus did I wish Frank was still alive, so I could make him suffer like I had been made to suffer before I would finally kill him. You see, as a Christian we do not believe in killing. Frank went into the woods in back of our home and shot himself.

We do have to go to war to fight for our rights. We do not believe in murder in any form. We (some of us Christians) believe if a person kills without it being in self-defense or to protect our home and loved ones, there should be a "life for a life." We do not believe in taking what does not belong to us. This is why we feel the Ten Commandments is so important. Red, I just want to invite you to really study the Old and New Testaments.

Jesus was not a "trouble maker or a disturber of the peace." He was and is the healer of the sick, comforter to those needing comforting, deliverer to the demon possessed and tormented. He is a father to the fatherless, a supplier to the widow and orphan. He is still doing it today.

Just try saying this, "Jesus if you are who Bernice says you are and you brought her such peace and love, do the same for me. I surrender my life to you; you take over, Amen."

To the editor:

I am writing this letter to let people know of a serious problem we are living with in today's society - carbon monoxide.

Most of us have seen or read the stories of people killed or permanently damaged by its effects. Unfortunately, I have had to live that tragedy. My fiancée and her 14-year-old sister were killed because of carbon monoxide poisoning about seven months ago. You may remember the story. Just another statistic to some, a living hell for me. Especially when it could easily have been prevented.

I am writing this now in the hopes that the families who read it will write their elected officials both city and state, to urge that legislation be passed to prevent any further tragic accidents of this nature.

I would like to see ordinances, laws or whatever is necessary, to require owners of rental property used as a dwelling to have CO detectors as well as smoke detectors installed in these properties with yearly inspections. They would also be required to carry insurance on these properties for the purpose of protecting the renting families of the financial torment following accidental death of a loved one.

No longer can we sit back and let these unscrupulous property owners sit on their laurels while their renters live in squalor in a home that barely passes code, if at all. We cannot let them remain blameless for these "accidents" that occur in their rental property, due to their negligence to keep these homes properly maintained.

I realize this will be no easy task. However, if you consider your family important to you, please take a few minutes and let your legislator know your concerns of this growing problem in our society. I only pray that by doing so, we can prevent any more needless deaths. No one should have to go through the torment that we (myself and Joy and Carmine's family) have had to go through.

I do this in the beloved memory of Veronica Joy (Baker) Minter and Carmine Marie Baker.

Dan Minter

To the editor:

In my last letter that I wrote concerning the Ten Commandments school bookcovers and the T-shirts, I included with this concerning certain feelings regarding the gay community.

Please do not misunderstand me. Those individuals who have a different sexual orientation need to understand that as a child of God they are loved, but as for their sexual orientation it isn't pleasing to God. I have been approached by a few people, friends of mine, that said my letter sounded harsh; I apologize. I never meant to hurt anyone's feelings regarding such an issue. God does love each and every one of you, I appreciate having you as a brother and sister in Christ.

I appreciate the editor allowing me to say this. And if anyone is needing help with prayer or you need a friend, understand I am here and this is my obligation as a servant for Christ. God bless each and every one of you.

High school debate team needs volunteer judges

Top O' Texas tournament held at PHS

This year, the Pampa High School Speech and Debate team is reviving the Top O' Texas Tournament at PHS. The tournament will be Sept. 20 for the first time in three years.

"We are very excited. We have schools coming in from not only the local area but also from the Lubbock area and as far away as San Angelo," Coach Kaylia Thomas said.

There have been invitations sent to over 30 schools. The events being held at the tournament are poetry, humorous interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, duet acting, prose, dramatic interpretation, cross-examination debate, Lincoln-Douglas debate and oratory.

The tournament will start at 7 a.m. at the high school with registration and will last until 8 p.m. with the awards assembly.

The team needs people to judge events for the tournament.

Interested volunteers may contact Kaylia Thomas at (806) 669-4800 ext. 201 or at (806) 273-74350.

"Since this is the first tournament in three or four years, we are hoping that it will be a big success," Speech and Debate Team President, Marty Fields said.

"THERE IS ONLY ONE"

Either the Bible is true or it isn't. In stating facts, the Bible boldly affirms certain things as being factual with no equivocation or variation. For example, Paul wrote: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as also ye were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is over all, and through all, and in all." (Eph. 4:4-6.) We understand the "body" to be the church (Eph. 1:22-23; Col. 1:18.) The "one Spirit" is the Holy Spirit, the "one hope" is heaven. The "one Lord" is Jesus Christ, the "one faith" is the gospel, the "one baptism" is immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins. The "one God" is the heavenly Father.

I know of no one who claims to be a believer in God to deny that the "one God" is Jehovah, that the "one Spirit" is the Holy Spirit or that the "one Lord" is Jesus Christ. But based upon what Paul wrote, it would seem equally and conclusively true that the "one body" is the church and the "one faith" is the gospel (cf. Jude 3.) How then can any conclude that there are many "faiths", many "bodies" (churches), etc. The same passage that teaches there is only one God also teaches that there is only one church and there is only one faith, or doctrine. Jesus only promised to build His church and nowhere in the scriptures do we read of a multiplicity of denominational churches in existence in the days of the apostles. Further, Paul said that the very curse of God was to rest upon the person who would preach any gospel other than the one he preached (Gal. 1:6-10.)

We are guaranteed, by the Constitution, the right to believe anything we choose to, religiously. This is a wonderful freedom and one for which, I am sure we are all very grateful. However, the Constitution of the United States is not what we shall be judged by in the last day but rather the Word of God, the gospel of Jesus Christ (Jn. 12:48.) If we are eternally saved it will be because we have believed and obeyed the teaching of the one Lord, Jesus Christ (Mk. 16:15-16; 2 Thess. 1:8-9.) Jesus only promised to build His church and He told His apostles to preach the one and only gospel. Man should be satisfied with doing as He directs.

Across Texas quaint is hot

By PATRICK BARTA
The Wall Street Journal's Texas Journal

BRYAN, Texas — When they set out to open an art gallery this year, Houstonians Tim and Kathy Vanya had a lot of promising locales to choose from: There was Kerrville and Fredericksburg, along with a host of other towns popular on the Texas arts-and-crafts circuit. Instead, they chose Bryan.

"It's going to be the next Santa Fe," Ms. Vanya explains.

That remains to be seen. For now, Bryan, a city of about 61,000 sitting on a parched plain near the state prison in Huntsville, is hard to mistake for the renowned New Mexico art colony that helped make the Southwest chic. But that hasn't stopped Bryan from joining the many small and midsize Texas cities hoping to revive their moribund business districts with stylish historic enclaves that thrive by offering food, shopping and entertainment to locals and visitors alike.

Indeed, more than 60 Texas burgs belong to the state-funded Main Street Program, which for more than 15 years has been providing consulting services to towns that raise private money for downtown revival programs. In sum, these programs have raised millions of dollars for restorations and other efforts often aimed at emulating the success of towns like Fredericksburg, with heavy doses of brick pavement, antique lampposts and arts-and-crafts arcades.

In fact, so many towns are following the formula that some people wonder whether Texas, even with all of its 275,416 square miles, is big enough to support so much quaintness within its borders. "If you have 100 towns like this," says Amy Ellebracht, who works at Kendall Hodge's Main Street Collection store in Fredericksburg, "what makes it special?"

Bryanites argue that Texas has plenty of room for its still largely unrefurbished charms, particularly as the state's wellknown arts-and-crafts spots have become more crowded and expensive. "Not everybody can do upscale," says Kay Conlee, who lives in a 90-year-old building she restored in downtown Bryan. "I think there's room for others to blossom."

Adds Jeff Spark, a second-generation antique dealer downtown: "Most people thought this was going to become a ghost town," but then "people around here started realizing that hanging out at the mall isn't all it's cracked up to be."

Based on that belief, Ms. Conlee and other private investors have in the past five years poured more than $12 million into Bryan's downtown-revitalization project. Among other things, investors have renovated and reopened a giant outdoor theater and pavilion and 15 other structures, most of them built of the brick preferred during the city's heyday in the early decades of this century.

Investors also plan to refurbish the La Salle Hotel, a seven-story eyecore with boarded-up windows, and the Carnegie Library, built in 1903 in the Greek Revival style. The former livery stable and hardware store restored by Ms. Conlee, called Old Bryan Marketplace, houses an antique store, an art gallery with weekly poetry readings and a cafe, as well as Ms. Conlee's residence.

Back in the late 1970s, similar hopes prompted a handful of merchants in downtown Fredericksburg, then a dusty nowhere, to band together to form a shopkeepers guild. The group bought advertising space and sent gift baskets to travel writers and magazine editors to entice them to visit, while encouraging local entrepreneurs to set up shop in the restored downtown.

Today, the Central Texas town of 8,355, founded as a largely German community 150 years ago, boasts more than 300 bed-and-breakfast inns and guest houses, a National Historic District and proximity to popular vineyards.

Among other successes, Georgetown won a national restoration award last year after spending $30 million in city and private funds to restore the largely Victorian architecture of its commercial district.

Bruce Riehart, treasurer, and Dennis Godwin, president, of Pampa Downtown Kiwanis present a $1,500 donation to Lynda Duncan for the emergency siren replacement fund. Duncan is a member of the Local Emergency Planning Committee's Siren Replacement Subcommittee. Approximately $18,000 is still needed by the year's end to allow the new sirens to be purchased and in place by the next tornado season.

Agents get more drugs

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — More than 1,135 pounds of marijuana and 2.3 pounds of cocaine have been seized in the past week, U.S. Customs officials said Friday.

Customs officials pegged the street value of the marijuana at $1.14 million.

The largest marijuana seizure was made Thursday at the Ysleta crossing, when Customs inspectors noticed tampering to the roof of a 1985 Ford station wagon. A drug-sniffing dog alerted officials, who found 272 pounds of marijuana in a false roof compartment.

Monster storm off Mexico coast

MEXICO CITY (AP) — One of the century's strongest Pacific hurricanes raged well off of Mexico's west coast on Friday. Officials warned fishing vessels to avoid Hurricane Linda and warned the storm could affect the Southwestern United States as it weakens.

Linda had winds of 184 miles per hour at 2 p.m. PDT, with gusts of up to almost 220 mph, according to the U.S. National Hurricane Center in Miami.

It was centered near Socorro Island, a volcano about 280 miles south of the tip of the Baja California Peninsula.

While the storm was headed to the northwest at about 9 mph, the Hurricane Center said there was some chance that in two to three days a trough could approach from the west, shoving Linda toward Baja California and the Southwestern United States.

By that time, the storm was expected to weaken substantially.

Expecting heavy rains in the coming hours, the state of Baja California Sur put its civil defense workers on alert Friday, according to the Mexican government news agency Notimex.

USDA detects Karnal bunt in C. Texas wheat sample

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wheat fungus Karnal bunt has been detected in a Texas grain sample, Agriculture Department officials said Friday.

The sample taken in San Saba County in Central Texas was the first and only one to test positive out of 4,100 samples checked nationally by USDA to determine how widespread the fungus is. That survey is continuing.

Although Karnal bunt is harmless to humans, it can reduce wheat yields and give wheat an unpleasant odor. Most important, foreign countries routinely block importation of wheat suspected of containing the fungus.

"This is part of our ongoing commitment to ensure that our wheat meets the phytosanitary requirements of importing countries," said Alfred S. Elder, chief of a USDA plant protection and quarantine division.

The fungus was detected earlier this week, but officials say they don't yet know the extent of the infection or what actions to take. A federal quarantine was imposed on Arizona wheat last year, restricting its shipment after Karnal bunt was found on less than 4 percent of that state's fields.

PAMPA — The annual Hidden Hills Senior Tournament will be held Wednesday and Thursday with 70 players entered in four flights.

A banquet for the seniors is scheduled for 6:30 Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Call Elmer Wilson at 669-2487 or John McGuire at 665-8762 if more information is needed.

PAMPA — The Pampa Harvester Basketball 4-Man Golf Scramble is set for Sept. 27, starting at 9 a.m. at Hidden Hills.

Entry fee is $160 per team, which includes cart, green fee, mulligans and lunch. There will be a minimum of 40 handicap per team and only one player with 10 or less. Each player's tee ball must be used twice.

Prize money is based on the number of entries. There will also be hole-in-one prizes, a motor vehicle and more.

To sign up, call Hidden Hills at 669-5866.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rose, ready to attack the evidence baseball used to justify his lifetime ban, will apply for reinstatement after the World Series and before the end of the year.

"Pete intends on having a petition filed soon, as quickly as is expedient for everyone," lawyer S. Gary Spicer said Friday.

Rose, who agreed to a lifetime ban in August 1989 following a gambling investigation, had been waiting for a new commissioner to take office. But Bud Selig's term as acting commissioner shows no sign of ending soon, and Selig has shown no inclination of lifting the permanent suspension.

Rose, denied a place on the Hall of Fame ballot because of the ban, will wait for owners to deal with realignment and for the World Series to be completed before applying, Spicer said.

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Anaheim Angels infielder-outfielder Tony Phillips has pleaded innocent to a cocaine possession charge.

Phillips entered the innocent plea Thursday in a surprise appearance before Judge Linda Miller at North Orange County Municipal Court. Miller scheduled the pretrial hearing for Oct. 7.

Phillips declined to discuss his case. His appearance was unexpected because he had been scheduled for arraignment next Thursday.

Phillips, 38, was arrested shortly after midnight on Aug. 10 at an Anaheim motel for allegedly purchasing $30 worth of rock cocaine. He was released after posting a $10,000 bond.

Deputy District Attorney Mike Flory said he expects a guilty plea from Phillips at the pretrial hearing next month. A guilty plea would qualify Phillips for a 32-hour drug diversion program, which he would have six months to complete.

Reunion planned

PAMPA — The fourth annual Harvester Football Veterans Reunion is scheduled next month, starting Oct. 2 at the Coronado Inn. The reunion will be held in conjunction with football homecoming on Oct. 3-4.

Reunion organizer Louie Allen expects this year's reunion to be the largest ever.

"If you ever played football for Pampa High you don't want to miss this great reunion. We sent letters to all veterans that we had an address for," Allen said. "Maybe you didn't get yours because you moved and it was returned. Or maybe we don't have your address. We want you to join us in this great time."

Allen said three days of fun-filled activities are planned.

"If you have a son, grandson or a friend who played football for Pampa High or was manager for the team between 1919-1996, please call me at 806-665-5470. We need your address. Thanks, and we'll see you there," Allen said.

Wheeler rolls by Sunray

SUNRAY — Wheeler rolled up a 35-14 win over Sunray in a non-district game Friday night.

Bryan Judd scored twice for the Mustangs, who rolled up 423 yards in total offense.

Wheeler's defense opened the scoring when Casey Childress recovered a Sunray fumble in the end zone as the Mustangs took a 7-0 first-quarter lead.

Aaron Dunham and Jeremy Davis each scored touchdowns and Wheeler had a 35-0 lead going into the fourth quarter. Ben Dollar kicked three extra points and Davis scored a 2-point conversion on a pass from Brooks Brown.

Travis Lawler scored twice for Sunray, one on a 1-yard plunge and the other on a 57-yard pass from Matt Stark.

Wheeler had 20 first downs compared to 12 for Sunray. Wheeler was penalized 15 times for 140 yards, but the flags didn't put much of a dent in the Mustangs' offense.

Wheeler is now 1-1 on the year while Sunray drops to 0-2.

Rangers nip Twins

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Considered only a backup in spring training, Domingo Cedeno has become a key contributor for the Texas Rangers.

On Friday night, Cedeno singled home the go-ahead run in the eighth inning as Texas beat the Minnesota Twins 6-5, the Rangers' 35th comeback victory of the season and 19th time in their final at-bat.

Cedeno went 2-for-3, reached base three times and scored twice.

"Cedeno will play twice as much as we expected coming out of spring training," manager Johnny Oates said. "What was supposed to be a utility player has become a very valuable member of our team."

Cedeno has been swinging a hot bat, going 6-for-14 in his last four games.

Flowers runs wild as Miami trims Silverton

SILVERTON — Miami running back Marshall Flowers had a six-touchdown performance as the Warriors edged past Silverton, 52-45, Friday night in a non-district six-man matchup.

One of Flowers' touchdowns came on a 52-yard punt return. His other TDs came on runs of 1, 7, 8, 6 and 13 yards.

Jammy Murray and Bradley Hale scored one touchdown each for the Warriors.

Miami had to come from behind the second half after trailing, 27-22, at intermission.

Jeremy Holt scored four touchdowns for Silverton.

Miami had 421 yards in total offense while Silverton had 335.

Silverton had the edge in first down, 15-12.

Miami is 1-1 on the season while Silverton is 0-1.

Cardinals help Redskins open their new stadium

By The Associated Press

Kevin Butler is in mid-season form, which is not the way the Washington Redskins want to open their new Jack Kent Cooke Stadium.

Butler's field goal kick in overtime last week hit the left upright before bouncing through and giving the Arizona Cardinals a rare victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

It's a feeling the Redskins know only too well.

Field goals by Butler in the final seconds gave Arizona victories in both games against Washington last year, including the clincher in an overtime game at RFK Stadium in which botched field goals were plentiful.

"I feel like they ruined our season," kick returner Brian Mitchell said of the Cardinals. "I'm going into this game as if we owe them. They're the team that kept us out of the playoffs. If we go out and half-step and mess around, they can beat us. We have to take this game seriously."

Some 80,000 fans packing the newest and largest open-air stadium in the NFL will take the pregame ceremonies seriously as they pay tribute to Cooke, the late Washington Redskins owner.

"They're going to be looking for a big day," Arizona defensive end Simeon Rice said. "We've got to set the tone for the game."

Amarillo High slips by Pampa

PAMPA — Pampa and Amarillo High have had an exciting football rivalry for the past 74 years. The 1997 matchup was certainly no exception as AHS had to come up with a late fourth-quarter drive to turn back Pampa, 14-7, Friday night at Harvester Stadium.

Helped out by a pair of Pampa 15-yard penalties, the Sandies went on a 14-play, 86-yard drive with Ricky Hill going up the middle on a 5-yard run for the winning TD with 3:59 to go.

Trailing 14-7, the Harvesters still had a shot at tying the score again. On fourth down, however, Blackmon's pass got away from receiver Shannon Reed near the AHS 33, and the Sandies took possession on the the Harvester 41 with just 39 seconds left.

The first quarter ended in a scoreless tie, but the Sandies found the end zone early in the second quarter when Austin Price scored on an 8-yard run. Gabe Lotman's PAT made it 7-0 at the 10:08 mark of the first half.

Some stellar defensive play, especially by linebacker Kris Davis, noseguard Aaron Hayden and tackle Ronnie Proby, held the AHS offense at bay for much of the game.

However, it was Josh Blackmon in the secondary who made the biggest defensive play when he intercepted a Brent Bullard pass late in the second quarter and returned it 34 yards to the AHS 24. Blackmon then switched roles and moved to quarterback, where he hit receiver J.D. Woelfle with a 15-yard pass to the Sandie 9 on the first play from scrimmage. After two Blackmon aerials fell incomplete, the handoff went to the 275-pound Proby, who shook off a tackler and scrambled into the end zone with just 23 ticks left on the clock.

Blackmon's PAT made it 7-7 at halftime.

Hill led the Sandies' rushing attack with 124 yards on 13 carries as AHS totaled 267 yards in total offense. Proby led Pampa with 113 yards on 28 yards as the Harvesters finished with 186 total yards.

Amarillo High is now 2-0 on the season while Pampa drops to 0-2.

Eagles have mixed feelings about return journey to Dallas

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Had the Dallas Cowboys chosen to spend their money differently, kicker Chris Boniol and linebacker Darrin Smith could be on their side for Monday night's game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Instead, they will be playing for the visitors when the Eagles come to Texas Stadium.

Philadelphia lured both free agents away this summer by offering more than Dallas wanted to spend. The Cowboys have always been stingy about paying kickers and linebackers, preferring to spend their money on other positions.

Boniol and Smith knew all along they weren't likely to be back with the team that brought them into the NFL.

"I don't take it personally," Smith said. "It's a business. I look at life as a growing process. This is another opportunity to grow."

Pampa JV posts victory over Amarillo High soph

PAMPA — Pampa junior varsity downed the Amarillo High sophomores, 29-20, Thursday.

Freshman back Terrance Lemons led Pampa's offense with touchdown runs of 80, 16 and 10 yards.

Pampa's other touchdown came on an 11-yard pass from Kaleb Snelgrooves to Justin Barnes. In conversions, Barnes kicked an PAT while Lemons and Snelgrooves each had two-point runs.

Defensively, Randy Burklow at strongside linebacker,

Courtney Lowrance at strong side end and linemen Daniel Murrah, Allan Parker, Chad Claridy, Jeff Warren, Jacob Lewis and Taylor Harris had an outstanding night for Pampa.

Burklow, who played fullback, threw several key blocks to help the Pampa offense.

Lemons rushed for 233 yards on 25 carries while Ramon Martinez added 104 yards on 16 carries. Barnes caught three passes for 54 yards and had 18 yards in rushing on three attempts.

Giants retake sole possession of first

By The Associated Press

Now it's the San Francisco Giants who are streaking and the Los Angeles Dodgers who are sinking.

San Francisco moved back into sole possession of the NL West lead Friday night, beating Florida 1-0 for its sixth victory in seven games and sending rookie Livan Hernandez to his first loss.

"Hopefully before this thing is over we'll get the checkered flag," Giants manager Dusty Baker said.

Los Angeles dropped out of first place for the first time since Aug. 22, losing its fourth straight, 10-3 at Houston.

"We've got 15 left, you just have to keep put the lineup out there and have meetings and go perform," Dodgers manager Bill Russell said. "We've got to win, it's as simple as that. Our guys know what they can do. I'm just trying to stay positive."

At Miami, four Giants combined on an eight-hitter, with Rod Beck pitching a perfect ninth for his 37th save. Brian Johnson hit a fourth-inning sacrifice fly following an error by Jeff Conine.

Kirk Rueter (12-6), bothered for the second consecutive game by a blister on his left index finger, pitched five shutout innings. Hernandez (9-1) allowed five hits in seven innings.

"We couldn't get the big hit.

Their bullpen did a great job," Marlins manager Jim Leyland said after his team lost for the sixth time in seven games. Florida maintained a four-game lead over Los Angeles in the wild-card race.

In other games, Pittsburgh beat Chicago 3-1, Colorado beat Atlanta 3-1, St. Louis beat San Diego 4-2, Montreal beat New York 3-2 in 15 in 10 decisions since June 27.

Pirates 3, Cubs 1

Chicago starter Miguel Batista (0-4) walked nine — two short of the Cubs' record — in four-plus innings. Pittsburgh, coming off a 1-5 road trip, had lost 12 of its previous 16.

Jason Schmidt (9-7) gave up the one run and six hits in eight groundout and a flyout.

Matt Morris (10-8) gave up one run and 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings at Busch Stadium, Ray Lankford hit his 28th homer and Royce Clayton drove in two runs. Dennis Eckersley got three outs for his 35th save.

Andy Ashby (8-11) allowed four runs and seven hits in six innings.

Expos 3, Mets 2

Rondell White's two-out homer off Joe Crawford (2-2) in the 15th inning at Shea Stadium prevented New York from closing in the NL wild-card race.

Jose Panagui (1-2) pitched the 14th for the victory, and Ugueth Urbina got three outs for his 26th save.

Reds 4, Phillies 2
Phillies 9, Reds 1

Mark Leiter (10-15) pitched a five-hitter for his third complete game of the season as Philadelphia gained a doubleheader split at Veterans Stadium. Bobby Estalella hit a three-run homer. Pete Schourek (5-8) was the loser.

In the opener, Mike Remlinger (7-8) gave up two runs and six hits in 7 2-3 innings and struck out eight, winning for the first time since Aug. 15. Phillies starter Garrett Stephenson (6-6) gave up two runs and seven hits in 6 1-3 innings.

innings, and Cincinnati split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 4-2 and losing 9-1.

Astros 10, Dodgers 3

Derek Bell drove in four runs as Houston returned home with a win following a 2-6 road trip and maintained a 3 1/2-game lead over second-place Pittsburgh in the NL Central.

Bell was 3-for-5 with a two-run double in the third and a two-run homer in the eighth. Ricky Gutierrez drove in three runs with a single and triple.

Shane Reynolds (7-10) won for the first time in eight starts since July 29, striking out a season-high 11 in seven innings. Chan Ho Park (13-7) lost for only the second time innings, and Rich Loiselle finished for his 26th save.

Rockies 3, Braves 1

Greg Maddux took himself out of the game after pitching four-hit ball in eight shutout innings, and visiting Colorado rallied on Larry Walker's game-tying single off Mark Wohlers (5-6) and Andres Galarraga's two-run double off Mike Cather.

Mike Munoz (3-3) pitched a scoreless eighth and Jerry Dipoto finished with a one-hit ninth for his 14th save, giving Colorado 13 victories in its last 15 games.

Construction workers are busy getting everything in order at the new Bealls which will open for business on Sept. 25.

Bealls set to open new location in Coronado Mall

Bealls introduces a new fashion store to Pampa—A store famous for quality, service, savings and style—Opening Thursday, Sept. 25 in Coronado Shopping Center.

Across the Southwest, Bealls stores have received rave reviews as the place for one-stop shopping, with a one-of-a-kind commitment to customer service. The little things that make Bealls a success are the big things shoppers look for in meeting their family's apparel needs. Bealls offers famous name, top quality merchandise at affordable prices. Stores filled with the latest men's, women's and children's fashions, stylish shoes, accessories, fine fragrances, beautiful lingerie and hard-to-fit sizes. Plus, Special events, sales, service and a convenient location to boot!

"Pampa is our kind of hometown," says Carl Tooker, chairman and chief executive officer. "It's a friendly, family-oriented community, and we're making a major commitment to give our customers the nicest shopping environment and the best service to be found anywhere. The new Bealls store really gives the area the fashion excitement it deserves."

Bealls is a part of the Houston-based retail family, Stage Store, Inc., a highly-respected group of stores with a strong track record for success. As a division of stage stores, Bealls merchandisers shop the world for the newest fashions—buying in large quantities to offer day-in, day-out value prices. Bealls looks for towns just like Pampa to open new stores because we know a growing number of people and business are looking to return to their roots. It's a community where the quality of life is important and neighbors know each other—a perfect fit for the Bealls family.

Stage Stores, Inc. now operates over 600 stores in 224 states with most of the stores located in smaller communities. The Bealls philosophy is "Taking fashion to small-town America" giving people the opportunity to buy up-to-the-minute styles from some of the best names in the business without having to drive long distances to the nearest city or regional mall. Day-in, day-out, Bealls shoppers find names such as Calvin Klein, Liz Claiborne, Levi's Nike, Reebok, Elizabeth Taylor fragrances, Chaps Ralph Lauren, and many, many more.

Bealls also offers exceptional; shoppers extras: our instant-service dressing room call buttons; an exceptional V.I.P. charge program, where every dollar charged earns points toward gold, silver, or bronze status (eligibility entitles one to an array of special privileges, private savings and more); and for our seasoned shoppers, Club 55 offers a 20% discount to customers 55 and older on the first Tuesday of every month.

The new Bealls store in Pampa will be located in a 16,000 square foot space in Coronado Shopping Center, Hobart & Kentucky Avenues. The Grand Opening is scheduled for Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 25 through 28.

MEDINA, Wash. (AP) — Seven years after construction began, Microsoft chairman Bill Gates and his family finally will settle into their new 40,000-square-foot waterfront home.

Microsoft spokesman John Pinette said Thursday that Gates, his wife, Melinda, and their 1-year-old daughter, Jennifer Katherine, are moving into the house this week. The mansion on Lake Washington, just east of Seattle, reportedly has cost Gates more than $50 million.

"Construction is going to continue on the house in some areas that aren't completely finished, and we expect that to be all done by the end of the year," Pinette said.

Workers still are installing some of the high-tech equipment Gates talked about in his book "The Road Ahead," Pinette said. For example, residents can wear "pins" that signal their location within the house, so heating, lighting and other comforts are automatically set to their tastes.

Among other things, the partially underground mansion features a 50-foot pool, a sauna, a 1,700-square-foot guest house, a trampoline room, a 20-seat theater, an arcade, a 24-screen video wall, a sport court, two spas and a reception hall for 100 people.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Aykroyd doesn't want to compete with all the cooing over the Buchman baby.

ABC says it is switching Aykroyd's comedy "Soul Man" to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays for the first month of the television season. It was scheduled for 8 p.m., directly competing with NBC's "Mad About You."

Lost in the shuffle, at least for a month, is the new comedy "Over the Top." The show, starring Tim Curry and Annie Potts, will begin airing at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 21. The month's delay may not be a good sign for its longevity, but Tarses said the extra promotional time will give the series a better chance to succeed.

ABC will air episodes of "Drew Carey" or "Home Improvement" in the 8 p.m. time slot for four Tuesdays.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Douglas' hand and foot prints joined those of his father's in the courtyard of Mann's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood.

"I'm very touched to think that Michael's footprints will be alongside of mine," Kirk Douglas said at a ceremony Wednesday. "I think his footprints should be much bigger than mine."

Actors Jack Nicholson, star of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," co-produced by Michael Douglas, and Karl Malden, who starred opposite Douglas in the 1970s TV series, "The Streets of San Francisco," also were present.

Jocelyn Y. Chen and Paul L. Tanaka

Chen-Tanaka

Jocelyn Y. Chen of Santa Clara, Calif., and Paul L. Tanaka of Berkeley, Calif., were wed Aug. 2, 1997, at First Presbyterian Church in Berkeley with the Rev. Doug Bunnell officiating.

The bridesmaids were Jennifer Tanaka, sister of the groom, of Gilroy, Calif.; Jeannette Lam of Granada Hills, Calif.; Amy Schmidt of Denton and Tira Hendrata of Palo Alto, Calif. The flower girl was Khrysten Duenas of San Jose, Calif.

The groomsmen were Julian Chen, brother of the bride, of Austin, Dan Myers of San Francisco, Calif., Sam Chen of Richmond, Calif., and Chris Young of Los Angeles, Calif. The ring bearer was Johnny Huang of Austin.

Music was provided by pianist Ryan Kim of Berkeley and vocalists Jeannette Lim and Charlie Im, both of Berkeley.

The bride is the daughter of Enrico and Clara Chen of Pampa. She is a 1996 graduate of the University of California, receiving a degree in chemical engineering. She was a manufacturing engineer for Komag Inc., at Milpitas, Calif., and is currently employed as a process engineer at Steag Microtech Inc.

The groom is a 1994 graduate of the University of California, receiving a degree in chemical engineering. He was an environmental engineer for Bechtel in San Francisco. He is currently pursuing a doctorate degree in chemical engineering from the University of Texas.

The couple honeymooned in Europe and intend to make their home in Austin.

Christine Margaret Lowry and Sean David Myles

Lowry-Myles

Christine Margaret Lowry and Sean David Myles were wed Aug. 27, 1997, at the Chapel-en-le-Frith in the County of Derbyshire, England.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joe L. Lowry and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Cain of Pampa. She is a 1989 Pampa High School graduate. She graduated magna cum laude from Vanderbilt University, receiving a bachelor of science degree in geology. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Alexander Myles of Tonbridge, Kent, England. He graduated from Oxford University, receiving a bachelor of science degree in physics. He later earned a masters degree in astro-physics from Lord Nuffield Radio-Astronomy Laboratory and is currently pursuing a doctorate degree.

The couple intend to make their home in Sheffield, Yorkshire, England.

Jamie Lynn Quinn and J.T. Haynes

Quinn-Haynes

Jamie Lynn Quinn and J.T. Haynes, both of Lubbock, were wed Aug. 16, 1997, at First United Methodist Church in Brady, Texas, with the Rev. Thacker Haynes, father of the groom and pastor of McLean United Methodist Church, officiating.

The maid of honor was Allison Heinrich of Lubbock. The bridesmaids were Mendy Schaffner of San Antonio, Alli Reynolds of Lubbock and Christina Broad of Alpine. The flower girl was Ashlyn Solsbery of Brady.

The best man was Jerry Don Thompson of Hartley. The groomsmen were David Johnson of Weatherford, Okla., and Jerry Coreman and David Ross Quinn, both of Lubbock. The ring bearer was Clark Frische of Dumas.

The ushers were Jack Evans and Garrett Roddie, both of Lubbock, Chris Evans of Austin and Brian King of Brady.

Callie Feathersdon registered guests. Music was provided by harpist Kathy Ash and vocalist Jamie Appleton, both of Brady.

A reception was held following the service in the Civic Center with Grace Burk, Beth Baker and Jill Cravy serving the guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn of Brady. She is currently pursuing a bachelor of business administration degree at Texas Tech University and plans to graduate this fall.

The groom is the son of Thacker and Sharon Haynes of McLean. He is a graduate of Texas Tech University, receiving a masters degree in business administration. He is currently employed at Pollard Friendly Ford in Lubbock.

The couple planned a honeymoon trip to Cancun, Mexico, and intend to make their home in Lubbock.

Josie Mae Holt and Logan Ross Hudson

Holt-Hudson

Josie Mae Holt of Spearman and Logan Ross Hudson of Perryton are planning to wed in November at Trinity Fellowship Church in Spearman.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Larry and Jan Holt of Spearman. She is a graduate of Spearman High School and of West Texas A&M University, receiving a bachelor of science degree in agronomy. She is currently an agronomist in the Spearman area.

The prospective groom is the son of Stan and Patti Hudson of Pampa. He is a graduate of Pampa High School and of Sam Houston State University, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in criminal justice law enforcement and police science. He is currently employed with the Ochiltree County Sheriff's Office in Perryton.

Williams anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Aug. 23, 1997, in Southside Senior Citizens Center. Children of the couple and Doris Jones hosted the reception.

Eugene Williams and Katie Johnson were married Aug. 25, 1947, at Mart, Texas. The couple have been Pampa residents for the past 19 years and are members of New Hope Baptist Church.

Mr. Williams worked for the federal government a total of 31 years — for Connally Air Force Base at Waco for 13 years and for the Soil Conservation Service for 18 years, retiring in 1979.

Mrs. Williams is a licensed beautician and was a beauty operator for 18 years.

Children of the couple are Wendell Williams of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Gene Williams of Oceanside, Calif. They have seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

4-H Bake show results

Fifteen Gray County 4-H members participated in the 1997 Gray County 4-H Bake Show. 4-H members prepared and exhibited yeast breads. Taking top honors for best yeast bread was Andrea Shank of the Sew-Fine 4-H Club in Pampa. Andrea's entry was Crusty Honey Whole Wheat Bread. Emily Ayers of the Sew-Fine 4-H Club earned second place honors and Lori Stephens of Grandview 4-H Club and Sew-Fine 4-H Club won third place. Other 4-Hers with outstanding entries were: Cory Jackson, Drake Jackson and Angie Davenport of the 5-H 4-H Club in Lefors; Kaylee Shank, Cheyenne Keith, Kendra Raber of the Sew-Fine 4-H Club in Pampa; Brianna Roberts of Sew-Fine and E.T. 4-H Club in Pampa; Courtney Crawford, Emily Nusser and J. W. Mains of Prime Swine 4-H Club in Pampa; and Jennifer Myers and Sarah Myers of Sew-Fine 4-H Club and McLean 4-Clover 4-H Club. Andrea Shank will represent Gray County at the District 4-H Bake Show on Sept. 13 at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Large-scale women's health study short of volunteers

BOSTON (AP) — Eighty-year-old Ruth Van Doren has three daughters, three granddaughters and three great-granddaughters, and she worries as much about their health as her own. So Van Doren has volunteered to be one of thousands of subjects in the largest-ever study of women's health to see if taking estrogen or other hormones after menopause leads to breast cancer or prevents heart attacks or bone fractures. The study also aims to gauge the effects of vitamin supplements and diet. "It could help women all over the world, couldn't it?" Van Doren said. "The more we understand about our bodies, the better the quality of our lives." Researchers have to find 47,000 more Ruth Van Dorens over the next few months. That's how far the $628 million government-financed Women's Health Initiative is short of its goal of 164,500 study subjects nationwide. Concerned about potential risks, especially of breast cancer, women have been hesitant to volunteer, according to researchers. "Certainly at my age, I can afford to take any risks," said Van Doren, a retired university administrator. "But women do have a lot of misgivings about hormones."

4-H Futures &

Demonstrations and Talks
 This year's District Roundup will be Nov. 8 at West Texas A&M University in Canyon. All 4-Hers are encouraged to prepare a demonstration or talk for this competition. Training will be at 7 p.m. Sept. 15 at the Gray County Annex. Ideas and help will be provided. This is an excellent activity for 4-Hers to develop public speaking skills.

Drug has estrogen-like benefits minus side effects

CINCINNATI (AP) — A new drug could give aging women all the benefits of estrogen replacement, such as stronger bones, but have fewer side effects, according to a study released recently. The study suggests the drug, an "anti-estrogen" called raloxifene, helps increase bone mass and reduce blood cholesterol levels like estrogen, said Dr. Edward Lufkin, the study's lead author.

AIDS Still Taking Its Toll On The Young And Reckless

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago, I laid my beautiful 21-year-old daughter to rest. The cause of death: AIDS. A parent could not have wished for a more loving, talented and motivated child. In the recklessness of youth, she engaged in unprotected sex. By the time she was diagnosed, she had been HIV-positive for at least four years and already had full-blown AIDS. By then she had met a young man with whom she wanted to spend the rest of her life, and although they always used a condom, he, too, became infected.

Never did I think that AIDS would touch my family. You cannot imagine the toll this has taken on our entire family. She had three younger siblings, the youngest being 11 years old. Our heartbreak and sorrow have been overwhelming. I have seen the hopes, dreams and brilliant future of one of the true joys of my life destroyed. Seeing her gradually waste away to a mere shadow of the vivacious, outgoing young woman she once was, is the saddest thing I have ever experienced. She fought so hard to live; she suffered terribly in the last few months of her life.

Her death was so unnecessary, but now it must have meaning. No one can be too careful in this day and age. Each of us takes risks every day. Many of us do not pay any consequences for our risk-taking, while some pay a very high price for their actions.

Please print this letter in the hope that others may be spared her fate. This message is so important: Sex just isn't worth dying for!

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

CATHERINE MENZIES, FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA.

DEAR CATHERINE: I offer my deepest sympathy on the tragic loss of your beloved daughter.

Condoms, when used properly, can significantly reduce the risk of contracting most sexually transmitted diseases, but they are not 100 percent effective. Even though there are exciting new developments in AIDS treatment, your letter — and thousands of others that could be written — clearly demonstrates the epidemic is far from over.

More than 30,000 people in the United States become infected with HIV every year. This letter should serve as a wake-up call.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please publish this letter? It's about my wife. She talks too much.

My job requires me to bring work home. Our house needs a lot of attention, too. When I try to work, my wife is always there with a steady stream of questions or trivial conversation. When I sit down to read, I read in minute-and-a-half blocks of time because I know she will interrupt me. Even when she isn't in the room, I can hear her talking, yelling or complaining in a tone that can't be ignored. I suppose I should feel grateful that she wants to talk to me. But Abby, the truth is, I need my peace and quiet.

I have tried to discuss this with her, but it only upsets her. When I talk, she usually interrupts. What's ironic is that a woman she works with has the same habit — and my wife complains about her. This may seem funny, but my job is slipping and our house looks like heck.

NO PEACE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR NO PEACE: It doesn't sound funny to me. Your wife is a compulsive talker. Since she ignores your needs and becomes defensive when you try to discuss it with her, the situation can only degenerate. Couples counseling might help you get the message across.

Until then, consider a work area where you can concentrate — preferably a room with a lock on the door.

Horoscope

Your Birthday

Monday, Sept. 15, 1997

Conditions aren't likely to be dull for you in the year ahead where your career is concerned. Exciting and unexpected changes could be in the offing in several areas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, others may verbally commit to help you, but when the chips are down, their support might be dedicated to something else. Major changes are ahead for Virgo in the coming year. Send for your Astro Graph predictions today. Mail $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Maintain your powers of concentration today and keep your mind on the task at hand. If you do happen to make a mistake, don't try to hide it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something you've neglected might hamper your freedom of mobility today. Do not sweep it under the rug, because it could create a dust storm.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Indecisiveness is an attitude you may have to monitor today. If you persist in changing your mind, associates may not want to deal with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against inclinations today to attempt to do things beyond your mental or physical capabilities. Seek help where and when needed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Funds you've earmarked for necessities might be blown on something frivolous today if you're not budget-minded. Spend prudently.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extremely selective pertaining to whom you invite to lunch or dinner today. Do not include anyone who can't get along with others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When dealing with co-workers today, make an effort to be extremely tolerant. Criticism or caustic comments could create a hostile environment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're anticipating longevity from things you own, be sure you take proper care of them today. Breakage is a partner of carelessness.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If negotiating a significant matter today, be certain all participants understand the agreement, or one may claim later he or she meant something else.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Plot your course methodically today, or else you may end up a victim of your own handiwork. Look ahead and program each and every step.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Friends might look upon you as their Rock of Gibraltar today in times of trouble, and bring you more complications than you can comfortably manage.

Stanford braces for first freshman

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — When Chelsea Clinton becomes the First Freshman at Stanford University next week, her proud and wistful parents will be watching.

And so will reporters and photographers eager to document the start of her new life 3,000 miles away from home.

Chelsea, accompanied by President Clinton and first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, will begin her Stanford career with five days of orientation starting Sept. 19th.

She'll move into her dorm, meet her roommate and get to know the sprawling campus 30 miles south of San Francisco before classes start on Sept. 24th.

The Clintons plan to let reporters follow them about campus on the first day of orientation with the idea that the press will get enough pictures and fodder for stories.

"That's the hope," said Marsha Berry, Mrs. Clinton's press representative.

Chelsea was long protected from the glare of the press but has recently become something of a public figure in her own right with increasing public appearances over the past year. The 17-year-old would-be doctor has received high marks for being intelligent, poised and personable.

"I've found inspiration in the effortless grace that a girl half my age has brought to an intimidating challenge," Patti Davis, Ronald Reagan's daughter, wrote in Harper's Bazaar about Chelsea.

"Whatever it is Chelsea does, she's the best person we've ever seen doing it," the Unofficial Chelsea Clinton Fan Club declares on its Web site.

Thousands of people were interested enough in Chelsea to give her some tongue-in-cheek advice in a survey the Internet company Excite! recently ran on its Web site.

"It's like the whole country gets to go to college with her — they get to live vicariously," said Joe Krauss, one of six Stanford grads who founded the company.

Stanford, determined to guard Chelsea's privacy as it would that of any other student, isn't saying much about her life at the university. She'll be just one of its entering 1,660 freshman who ante up nearly $30,000 in tuition, room and board to study at the campus that sits at the foot of rolling, oak-studded hills.

Celebrities who've attended other prestigious schools have been able to enjoy relatively normal lives on campus.

Amy Carter created a bit of a stir when she visited campuses before choosing Brown University. John F. Kennedy Jr. also attended Brown. Both were treated "just like any other private student," said university spokeswoman Tracie Sweeney.

"Of course, it was a help that their fathers were not sitting presidents when they were in school. That took some of the pressure off," she said.

Luci Baines Johnson was the last person to go directly from the White House to college when she decided to attend the University of Texas in 1966. It was her impending wedding, however, that generated more media interest.

Brooke Shields' career at Princeton drew some undercover reporters. The actress, her family and the university made it clear that while on campus she was no longer a celebrity but a student entitled to privacy.

"I understand there were some number of paparazzi in the very early days who would try to stake out spots on campus," said Princeton spokesman Justin Harmon.

"But once offending photographers were escorted off campus and word got out that we meant to enforce the ground rules ... by and large folks were quite cooperative," he said.

Chelsea could find the same privacy at Stanford say Harmon and Sweeney.

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

Wheat (Bull)

Outlook: If you're a weekly reader, you know the bull has been in my wheat box since July 4. That is just about the very date when the market bottomed. It has now rallied as much as 70 cents off the lows. What now? Well, I'm going to leave the bull in the box, but do believe the market looks a little tired. Tired markets need to rest, and do not be surprised if we see a healthy price correction. Both Argentina and Australia received timely rains recently. The corn harvest is about to start in earnest. U.S. exports have been strong, but now our prices have moved above the Europeans. Look for a healthy correction of perhaps 20 to 30 cents per bushel, then look for the longer term uptrend to resume.

Strategy: Hedgers: Our long standing recommendation — to sell cash wheat and replace with December call options — works particularly well in a market like the one I see coming. You want to maintain ownership for the longer term bull, but still limit your risk if the market does sag. Plus you want to use your cash now, not leave it in the bin. Options accomplish these goals; holding cash wheat does not.

Traders: Continue to hold the Minneapolis December futures, recommended for purchase in the 352 to 356 range. Sell at the money (at this writing the 410) call options to protect the downside temporarily. Keep your stop at 380.

Corn (Bull/Bear)

Outlook: I'm going to maintain my neutral posture toward corn values at present, although the growing evidence is that late summer Midwest dryness did hurt yields. The main reason is the time of year. It is very difficult for the corn market to rally as we head into harvest. Harvest selling pressure accentuates bear markets, and causes pause in bull markets. If our unofficial survey is correct, the USDA 9.3 billion bushel crop estimate, which was bullish, may even be a bit high. We will know more when we see what the actual yields are. My sense is the market will correct, but not more than between 10 and 15 cents, at which time we very well could carve out a price bottom which could stick for a good long while.

Strategy: Hedgers: We currently are 60 percent hedged at an average price of about $2.67 using at the money puts. Puts are like insurance; they protect your downside without placing limits on your upside potential. The plan is to sell the puts as you harvest your corn.

Traders: Continue to stand aside for now.

Cattle (Bull)

Outlook: Despite some concerns, we have been told beef clearance over the Labor Day weekend was good. This is the last big barbecue period of the season, so typically beef demand will tail off in the coming weeks. The good news is the public seemingly is becoming immune to the health warnings. Bacteria problems have affected just about every food group, but for some reason the media seems to single out beef. Those who love beef are not going to stop eating it. Those who don't, stopped years ago. Longer term we are quite bullish due to dwindling supplies; however, this may not become evident in the marketplace until after Christmas.

Strategy: Feeders: Feeders own October 68 put options at less than a buck. This is price insurance. Puts will never limit your upside potential, but will allow you to establish a worst case downside price floor.

Cow/calf operators: We currently remain unhedged. Should December corn futures be able to move above 280, look to immediately establish short futures or buy feeder put options. Feederlot operators should continue to hold long hedges placed in deferred feeder futures at lower levels.

Traders: We own February Live Cattle futures at less than 7300. Risk to 7100 with an eventual longer term profit objective above 80.

NCSU slaughterhouse criticized while others built without a hitch

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — At Oklahoma State University, no outside sign directs visitors through the Georgian archway of the new agricultural building to the slaughterhouse inside.

"From the outside, it certainly looks like a nice, new office complex," school spokesman Bob Keating said of the 80,000-square-foot building at the edge of the main campus.

The $16.2 million Oklahoma Food and Agricultural Products Research and Technology Center was dedicated in November 1996 with no controversy, said Keating, managing editor of the agricultural news service at OSU.

But plans to build a laboratory and classroom that include a slaughterhouse, or abattoir, at North Carolina State University aren't going through quietly. "Dumb ideas come and go around the Triangle but the winner in recent years has to be the request by NCSU to construct a slaughterhouse adjacent to the vet school ...," began one weekly newspaper's editorial.

Across the country, more than 20 land-grant universities with slaughterhouses report few, if any, protests about the research that goes on inside.

A survey by The Associated Press showed that more than 44,000 animals are slaughtered on 20 campuses each year, with poultry taking up the majority of those deaths.

N.C. State would have the capacity to slaughter 25 cattle, 50 hogs, 2,000 turkeys or 5,000 chickens twice a week — or more than 300,000 animals each school year.

NCSU wants to build the building at its vet school on Raleigh's rapidly developing west side.

Opponents include concerned neighbors, animal rights activists and a sprinkling of opponents who just don't trust the university to run the facility smoothly. The site is near Meredith College, a private school for women, a hotel and several office complexes.

Neighbors worry the slaughterhouse will be smelly and noisy and compound traffic problems in an area where the school already is building a basketball and professional hockey arena.

Among the opponents is Ellen Bring of Durham, head of an animal activist group called the Factory Farming Economic Conversion Project, who worries the building will be too silent, too clean.

"They're attempting at the university to create a facility that will keep all of the screams hidden from the people," Bring said.

Opponents also complain that Raleigh's zoning regulations don't allow slaughterhouses within the city limits. The school has a small nuclear reactor not allowed under zoning, either.

NCSU has tried to reassure residents. No rendering — the smelly part of meat processing — will be conducted on site. Loading and unloading areas will be completely enclosed, the school said.

"They're afraid it's going to smell ugly, and it won't," says Roger Mandigo, animal science professor at the University of Nebraska. "It won't operate eight to 10 hours a day, and they're not going to render on site. ... It will be a good neighbor."

The city planning commission recommended approval of the slaughterhouse in August, but action is delayed pending action on an appeal filed by opponents.

There may other repercussions. One office building owner said a law firm searching for new office space in Raleigh won't consider any buildings near the slaughterhouse site. The law firm did not return calls.

Nancy Rich, a neighbor and animal cruelty activist challenging the slaughterhouse, believes it will be both loud and smelly.

"Animals know when they're being taken to slaughter," said Rich, who publishes a newsletter for Justice for Animals, a statewide group that works against animal cruelty. "And they going to not only defecate and urinate more because of that fear than they would ordinarily, in my opinion, they're also going to make a more disagreeable noise."

LaSalle Advisors in Baltimore, which manages two nearby office buildings, also filed an objection, as did the owner of a ballet school.

The matter is scheduled to be considered at the board's October meeting.

The controversy is not unexpected, Larick said. "We all know there is a portion of the population that is opposed to the consumption of muscle foods."

But they are in the minority. A study for the National Pork Producers Council in 1995 showed that 66 percent of people said they had eaten pork in the past two weeks; 57 percent, beef; and 49 percent, chicken.

But studies also show that about 10 percent of Americans say they eat meat never or rarely. And Feedstuffs, a meat industry publication, quoted the chairman and chief executive of ComAgra Inc. as saying in 1994 that 30 percent of all consumers report that they are decreasing meat consumption.

TCFA planning Austin meeting

AUSTIN — The cattle industry is changing and cattle feeders are trying to visualize their future in a changing consumer marketplace. That's why the Texas Cattle Feeders Association chose "Visualizing the Future" as the theme of its 1997 Annual Convention, Nov. 16-18, at the Hyatt Regency in Austin.

The Opening General Session on Nov. 16 will feature TCFA President James Herring, who will share his thoughts on the events of the past year and his vision for the future of cattle feeding. Then, the Hon. George W. Bush, governor of Texas, has been invited to update cattle feeders on the future of agribusiness in Texas. Following Gov. Bush, cattle feeders will get a glimpse of how technology will affect their future from Dr. Dale Webb, associate director of the Mid-Continent Technology Transfer Center.

For cattlemen, visualizing the future may mean visualizing the industry in a different light. Gary Hoover, founder of the company that became the basis of Barnes and Noble booksellers, will share his vision of retail trends and what it will take to be an entrepreneur of the future. Then, Capt. Al Haynes, who piloted an ill-fated United Airlines flight that crash landed in a Midwest cornfield, will inspire cattle feeders with his story.

On Nov. 17, cattle feeders will hear an update on the NCBA Brand-Like Initiative and what it means for cattlemen from John Huston, executive vice president of the NCBA Center for Consumer Marketing, and Jan Lyons, past chairman of the Cattlemen's Beef Board. Then, Jim Pattillo, president and CEO of XI Foods in Calgary, Alberta, will give cattle feeders the lowdown on how technology will change beef processing.

For more information on the TCFA "Visualizing the future" Convention, contact TCFA at 5501 West 1-40, Amarillo, TX 79106.

Elton John bans use of his tribute to Diana in videos

LONDON (AP) — Elton John has refused to let footage of his funeral tribute to Princess Diana appear in videos being produced by the BBC and Independent Television News.

"We asked for an unconditional guarantee from both companies that all proceeds and profits from the videos would go to the (Diana, Princess of Wales) Memorial Fund. But neither organization was prepared to do that," a spokesman for John was quoted as saying in today's Daily Telegraph.

The paper said John was unhappy that only up to $5.60 from the sale price of $20.70 for each video would go to the fund set up to raise money for charities.

The two organizations deny they will profit in any way from the videos, which are to be released next week. The BBC video is called "Diana: A Celebration 1961-1997." The ITN video is called "Diana, Princess of Wales 1961-1997."

The 36-year-old princess was killed Aug. 31 in a Paris car crash. The BBC and ITN had hoped to include clips of John singing his reworked hit song "Candle in the Wind" — known as "Goodbye England's rose" — at Diana's funeral.

"Of course it is disappointing, because it was such a moving tribute and such an integral part of the service. Whatever Elton John's reasons, we have got to respect them," said BBC spokeswoman Vicky Thomas.

The Polygram record company said shops around the world have already ordered about 8 million copies of John's reworking of "Candle in the Wind."

All profits from the single will go to the fund. The British government is also chipping in — donating the sales tax from British sales of the record.

The Daily Telegraph quoted John's spokesman as saying ITN had stated it would donate $4.77 from each video to the fund. Thomas, from the BBC's commercial arm, said it would donate its markup of $5.60 per video.

"The BBC is not making any money at all out of this (video), nor out of anything connected with the princess" just covering raw material costs, Thomas said.

ITN said it would donate all profits from the sale of the video but said it could not speak for retail outlets.

Volunteers removing flowers; Fayed's sister, uncle speak

LONDON (AP) — Volunteers on Thursday began removing the mountains of flowers left in Princess Diana's memory at St. James's Palace, carefully saving the poems, letters and children's drawings that declared a nation's grief for its dead princess.

"It is very moving lifting the flowers from where they were so lovingly placed. Everyone is picking them up so carefully because they are the people's tributes to the people's princess," said Maureen Ambridge, of the Women's Royal Voluntary Service.

"There are an awful lot of very poignant messages on the cards. You get a glimpse of one or two as you work."

Each day, up to 40 volunteers from the organization, plus Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, will help gardeners from central London's royal parks dispose of the heaps of dying flowers.

The letters, poems and drawings will be stored until her family decides what to do with them.

"This is going to be a very somber and melancholy job and I think every volunteer is moved and honored to be taking part," said David Welch, chief executive of the royal parks, which includes Kensington Gardens next to Diana's Kensington Palace home.

According to authorities, about 10,000-15,000 tons of flowers have been left at St. James's Palace, Kensington Palace and Buckingham Palace in tribute to Diana, who died in a car crash in Paris on Aug. 31. Diana's body lay in a chapel at St. James's Palace until her funeral Saturday. St. James's Palace is the residence of Prince Charles, Diana's ex-husband.

Flowers that can be saved will go to hospitals and retirement homes; the others will be turned into an estimated 1,000 tons of compost.

As the cleanup operation continued, Diana's brother, Charles, the 9th Earl Spencer, met with Treasury chief Gordon Brown to discuss a lasting memorial to the princess. Spencer told reporters afterward that no decisions had been made.

News reports also said record shops have already ordered 1.5 million copies of Elton John's revision of his hit single "Candle in the Wind," which he performed at Diana's funeral.

Because of the short notice, manufacturers have pressed only 250,000 copies so far. "We are asking people to be patient, because everyone who wants a copy should be able to get one in the coming weeks," a spokesman for Mercury Records said.

All profits will go to a memorial fund in the princess's name, and the government has said it will contribute the sales tax.

A videotape of the funeral also is being produced for distribution.

"That is a starting point, encouraging the charitable giving that is taking place at the moment," Brown said.

Also Thursday, the half-sister of the late Dodi Fayed, killed along with Diana in the car crash, said the princess loved Fayed for his generosity, manliness and kindness.

"He did not view her as a princess, but he saw in her a woman he loved and wanted to marry," Joumana Yassin told The Associated Press in a telephone call from Cairo.

"She had fame and wealth. She loved my brother's manliness and his Middle Eastern behavior, his Arab generosity and goodness of heart," said Yassin, who met Diana briefly.

Yassin refused to confirm a report in the Egyptian newspaper Akhbar Al Yom that quoted her as saying Fayed had told her Diana and he planned to marry in October.

However, she said that Fayed, who had a reputation as a playboy, had found in Diana the love he had been searching for all his life.

Fayed's uncle, while not confirming any marriage plans, said Thursday that his family would have been "happy to have a beautiful rose in our family."

"She was a very great lady and if Dodi could have given her happiness in the long term, I think it would have been good," Adnan Khashoggi, a Saudi arms dealer, said in an interview with MSNBC.

Separately Thursday, a London magistrate jailed two women tourists for 28 days each for stealing teddy bears and flowers from outside Westminster Abbey.

Prosecutor Nazir Afzal said the actions of teacher Maria Rigociova, 54, and communications technician Agnesa Sihelska, 50, both from Slovakia, were "not far from the old offense of grave-robbing."

A trickle of visitors bearing new bouquets are being asked to place them 100 yards away from St. James's and along The Mall, the wide boulevard that links St. James's and Buckingham palaces.

The first bouquets of carnations, lilies, roses and chrysanthemums were taken later Thursday to Great Ormond Street Hospital for sick children, one of Diana's favorite causes. They will be displayed in the chapel.

"They're from Diana. They're very nice," said Clodagh Roberts, 6, a young patient from Ireland.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL OF QUALIFICATIONS FOR DISTRICTWIDE ENERGY CONSERVATION SERVICE PROGRAM

PROPOSAL NO. 97-090-902 BACKGROUND LISD has 3 buildings totaling over 150,000 square feet in Lefors. The campus style is different with each building. The building range in construction date from 1927-1984.

LISD proposes to address utility uses of electricity and gas in all the facilities for this conservation program. Additionally, LISD intends to upgrade outdated and obsolete building equipment through the program. This includes the acquisition and installation of both mechanical/electronic devices and educational programs to achieve energy cost avoidance/reduction. As indicated in the preceding section, Purpose of Solicitation, the district also intends to address electrical/mechanical systems with accommodate improved heating, cooling and lighting.

LISD anticipates a major reduction in annual utility cost through the implementation of this energy conservation program. Each RFP respondent will also demonstrate a financial plan for achieving all the items listed in this RFP. The contract life of the program is expected to exceed ten (10) years. LISD intends to structure the program's implementation schedule in a manner to minimize the program's financed capital needs.

LISD is also interested in the respondent's qualifications and experience related to programs designed to train building occupants and maintenance workers in energy conservation skills. SERVICES REQUESTED For this RFP, LISD is interested in services for the identification, engineering, design, installation, training, maintenance, and mechanical services for all its facilities. LISD has the option to contract all or some of the services listed above.

If LISD uses project financing through the respondent's plan, payment for the contract services will be indexed to measure reductions in annual energy cost for consumption, and will not begin until after the project is operational and generating savings. Financing shall be structured so that annual payments are minimal and savings are maximized. Respondents will be required to provide the financing in such a manner as to ensure that some cost are paid from the utility and operational savings associated with the energy conservation program. Each respondent must guarantee a program which guarantees the debt service of the energy conservation services financed. The respondents demonstrated ability to provide this guarantee will be an evaluation criteria.

It is expected that numerous energy conservation techniques will be investigated on an individual basis or in combination with other techniques and implemented, if deemed cost effective by the respondent. REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL OF QUALIFICATIONS FOR DISTRICTWIDE ENERGY CONSERVATION SERVICE PROGRAM PROPOSAL NO. 97-090-902 Any energy conservation measures proposed by the RFP respondent will be considered. All energy conservation measures considered shall be proven, commercially available and result in verifiable energy savings. All equipment provided by the respondent will have a LISD history of successful operating experience in similar installations and shall be in new and unused condition. This equipment shall be state-of-the-art with readily available replacement parts. All equipment used for this program shall be approved by LISD prior to installation. LISD has the right to select any or all of the equipment used for this program by manufacturer and/or brand based upon LISD prior experience with or standardization of the equipment and LISD's knowledge of equipment quality and manufacturer's reputation. All installed equipment shall have useful life greater than the simple payback for the firm it is associated with. It is LISD's option to require that some or all of the installed equipment be guaranteed by the firm for a period not less than one (1) year longer than the term of their program's contract. The guarantee would include all material and labor cost for the replacement of the equipment with new equipment.

SELECTION PROCESS A. PROPOSAL EVALUATION The following criteria will be used by LISD in the evaluation of the RFP respondent's proposals. 1. How many years has the company been in business. What is its capability and financial stability? 2. Does the respondent have a business section dedicated to serving the unique need of public school? 3. What is the respondent's experience and record with public schools and colleges? 4. Does the respondent have local support components and references? 5. Can the respondent demonstrate and ability to guarantee utility/energy cost savings over a prescribed period of time. Does it possess innovative finance options and an ability to implement energy conservation programs to meet both campus and district requirements? 6. Does the respondent demonstrate a comprehensive array of solutions in achieving utility/energy cost avoidance/reduction? 7. What is the total guarantee of energy/utility cost savings projected in the proposal for LISD. Does the firm guarantee in writing these projected reductions? 8. Can this respondent demonstrate satisfactory experience in the area of energy reduction, utility cost avoidance, water treatment procedures, security intrusion and fire alarm systems, and mechanical electrical engineering expertise related to heating and cooling projects? 9. What is the respondent's ability to demonstrate support capability for training, maintenance, engineering and design components associated with this RFP. Can the respondent demonstrate similar projects to this RFP as implemented in other areas and public school systems? B. ENGINEERING PROPOSAL Upon completion of the proposal evaluation, LISD and the RFP respondent will design a contract, which when approved by LISD, will allow the RFP respondent to proceed with the energy analysis/feasibility study, conceptual engineering design and plan for the Districtwide Energy Conservation Services Program.

UPON acceptance of the contract by the Board of Trustees, LISD and the RFP respondent will sign the agreement thereby requiring the RFP respondents to proceed. If during this phase it is determined that the program options identified by the RFP respondent do not fall within mutually agreed upon acceptable financing requirements and project scope, the contract will be terminated with no financial liability to LISD. COMBO

Reginald and Verlyne Bridges are volunteerism directors of the Lubbock Baptist Association through the Mission Service Corps of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Verlyne is also the prayer coordinator for the Lubbock Baptist Association. Reginald is a former pastor of Highland Baptist in Pampa. He served in that capacity from September 1964 to July 1969. He will preach in the morning worship Sunday, Sept. 14 in conjunction with the Mary Hill Davis Offering and Week of Prayer for State Missions. Services will begin at 10:55 a.m. and all are invited.

Judge rules state must pay for auto's glass damage

MISSION, Texas (AP) — When his windshield got nicked on a road being repaired by state construction workers, Steve Jones got ticked and sued the Texas Department of Transportation for damages.

On Friday, a judge decided that the state must pay up, a ruling that could potentially unleash a slew of similar lawsuits.

Justice of the Peace Arnaldo Corpus ruled that the Department of Transportation must pay Jones $272.40 in damages his car sustained on a road being repaired by state transportation workers.

Jones, a Mission realtor, praised the decision. "I hope we can set precedent with this and open up the door to changing legislation and, at the very least, have them be more cautious in what they do," he said.

At a hearing Thursday, Jones argued that the road crew failed to post appropriate warning signs and to remove loose gravel during its repair work on July 7-10. Jones contends gravel kicked up by other cars caused two separate cracks in his windshield.

However, the road crew's boss, Benny Contreras, testified that warning signs were placed along the roadway and that his workers cleaned up the gravel to the best of their ability.

Hector Flores, an assistant state attorney general, argued that the state can be held liable for property damage only if it is caused by a state employee or arises from the operation of a state-owned vehicle or piece of equipment.

In Jones' case, Flores said, the damage was not caused by either. Flores cited two previous lawsuits against the department that were dismissed because it was not clear that an employee or vehicle of the state had caused the damage.

Flores could not immediately be reached for comment Friday.
