PAMPA — Nine-year-old Rhonda Rachelle Cook was released from Columbia Medical Center yesterday after sustaining injuries in a bicycle-car collision earlier that morning.

According to the accident report, Cook pulled out of her driveway on her bicycle and struck a vehicle driven by Marsha Danielle Bailey, a 16-year-old high school student.

The 9-year-old was rushed to the emergency room by ambulance for injuries to her left eye brow and around her lips. She was also complaining of stomach pains, said authorities.

No citations were issued in the accident.

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men have been charged with possession of heroin after customs inspectors discovered they had ingested drug-filled balloons in an attempt to sneak them into the country.

Both men, traveling separately, were taken to a local hospital after police became suspicious that they might have ingested drugs.

Jose Bayardo Cerda, 27, of Nicaragua arrived at George Bush Intercontinental Airport-Houston Friday. Customs agents said inconsistencies in his traveler's itinerary alerted them to send him for an X-ray examination at a local hospital.

The examination confirmed that Cerda had several balloons in his body.

Mayor: Chances 'very strong' city will land youth correctional facility

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

This week finishing touches are going on Pampa's proposal to bring a 660-bed youth correctional facility here in hopes of snaring about 600 new jobs and an annual payroll of $20 million.

Mayor Bob Neslage and Lew Mollenkamp, executive director of Pampa Economic Development Commission, plan to hand-carry the proposal to Austin Friday to the offices of the Texas Youth Commission.

That marks the deadline to be in the running, Neslage said in an interview Monday. From the information he has so far, he expects Pampa to join about 56 other entities in vying for the facility.

The city's proposal has been put together with the help of Arter & Hayden of San Antonio which was paid for with $50,000 taken from the coffers of PEDC.

When asked about that expense, Neslage doesn't apologize for that amount and says he has heard very little in the way of complaints about it.

"To compete for this facility we have to have a first-rate, professional package," he said. "That's just the facts of how it is."

And while the field of hopefuls is pretty crowded, Neslage thinks Pampa's chances are "very strong" to be one of the "select few" to make the first cut.

But he won't know for sure until Oct. 23 when the youth commission notifies those from whom it wants to hear more. Formal presentations and briefings from those picked will be Oct. 28. The final choice will be made public Dec. 1 and about 18 months later the facility should be ready to open.

The mayor believes Pampa's incentive package is solid but he says he is not at liberty to divulge all that's offered because he doesn't want competitors to get any advantages. But he will mention some "in kind contributions" including sewage treatment plant improvements, water and sewer line extensions and road development to the 120-acre state-owned site near the existing corrections units.

Neslage thinks the fact the Jordan and Baten Units are here is a plus for the city, not a drawback, when it comes to landing the new facility.

Water, gas fees rising in Lefors

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

The Lefors City Council have approved the 1997-98 city budget and a corresponding tax rate after some initial reluctance from three of the five council members.

After spending several hours working on the city's budget at a workshop meeting Tues., Sept. 16, the council members called the special meeting last week to officially approve the $435,530 budget.

The new budget outlined from a 1993-94 budget according to Secretary Judy Williams, has only two major changes from city expenses paid last year.

The water rates for the city have gone up to $1.50 per cubic meter — 50 cents more than last year.

And the gas rates have gone up also.

"We're raising the mcf .15 cents on the gas," Mayor Ben Watson said.

Last year, gas rates were $5 for the first mcf, $3 for the second mcf and $4 for every mcf thereafter.

But the new changes in the gas rates make it $8 for the first mcf and $4.15 for every mcf after that.

Councilor Lindy Forsythe made the first motion to accept the proposed budget and Councilor Beth Miller seconded that motion.

However, J.C. Calloway, Butch Murray and Derl Boyd declined and the first vote did not pass.

"I'm disappointed that we agreed on these rates and now that has been changed," said Mayor Watson.

Murray said he did not want to vote because he had not been at the previous workshop meeting. He also said he was upset because he had not been receiving notices to some of the recent meetings.

Budget change aids building deal

By LAURA HALEY
Staff Writer

City commissioners unanimously approved a $30,084 amendment to Pampa Economic Development Corporation's 1997-98 budget in a special meeting Monday afternoon.

The amendment will allow the economic corporation to purchase the 16,800-square-foot Wellex facility, 1133 Price Road. The facility, previously owned by Halliburton, comprises two buildings on a 6.5-acre site and has a price tag of $212,500. The approximate $30,000 budget amendment includes the first year's amortized principal and interest payment on the facility.

"The only reason we do this kind of stuff is to create jobs," Lew Mollenkamp, PEDC's executive director, told commissioners during the special meeting. "And, we wouldn't be doing this kind of project

Youth facility meeting draws over 70 citizens

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

More than 70 people gathered early Monday evening at M.K. Brown Auditorium in support of Pampa's bid to attract the 660-bed state school, which would house youth offenders ages 10 to 21.

Pampa Mayor Bob Neslage opened the meeting with his observation that Pampa had reached a population of almost 30,000 at the height of the oil boom. Since boom turned to bust, the city's population has decreased to less than 20,000. Such a slide, Neslage said, erodes the community's tax base and takes a heavy toll on the infrastructure it can support. Neslage said his personal goal is to see Pampa grow back beyond 25,000, and he sees the attraction of the 660-bed youth facility as one way of doing that.

Lee Cornelison, representing small businesses in Pampa, said that as a native of Pampa, he's not interested in seeing Pampa become a city of 60,000 people, but he is also not in favor of seeing the community shrink to a population of 10,000.

The first phase of the facility would pump $18 million in 18 months into the local economy, Neslage said. In addition to the con-

Quite frankly...

What do you think about Pampa trying to get a new youth correctional facility?

Well, I think anything we get will help.

-- Tom Adams

I think it'd be fine. It'd help.

-- John Shackelford

It's going to save us a lot of money and time and add a lot of jobs.

-- Matt Martindale

Well, it seems to have a broad-based community support level...it would increase career opportunities and needed youth services. I'm for it.

-- Bill Hildebrandt

I work at the prison here; sure, we need all the industry we can get.

MAYOR

"I think it should reflect upon us in a very favorable light," he said. "We've had a good experience with the Jordan (and Baten) units. "We've assisted them and they have provided an abundance of (free) labor for our schools, the golf course, the parks, streets and roads and for alley clean-up."

Additionally, the Jordan and Baten Units employ 376 workers either directly or through contract and pump an annual payroll of almost $9 million into the local and area economy.

If the youth facility comes to Pampa, which now has a 4.5 percent jobless rate, it will draw employees not only from the city but from a 50-to-75-mile radius, Neslage said. And he expects it will allow some former Pampa residents, especially teachers, who have not been able to find work here to return to their hometown.

All of the 15-to-19 year-old boys incarcerated at the unit will be required to attend school. And in addition to teachers, counselors and other education specialists will have to be hired.

Also in Pampa's favor, Neslage says, is the strong local support for placing the new facility here. "Most people I talk to want to know, 'Do you think we have a chance?'"

"Of course there are a few people who are against economic development...who don't want to see any kind of change but they are in the vast minority," he said.

And it is the boost to the economy such a facility will bring that excites Neslage.

"I've taken it as my charter since I've been mayor to try and grow Pampa from an economic development standpoint," he said. "Think about what this would mean to us...our sales taxes would grow and every merchant down the line would get a boost. The demand for goods and services would just go up and up."

As a result, Neslage thinks the additional jobs and payroll generated by the facility will lead to overall higher wages in local middle-income jobs because the demand for workers will be higher. That's something he doesn't see as a negative from an employer viewpoint because Neslage says the economic boost to businesses will enable higher payrolls.

Secretary Judy Williams said she sent the notices out to him.

Calloway and Boyd said they did not approve of the budget because they did not like the increased rate changes in the gas and water.

But after some further clarification, Murray, Calloway and Boyd did agree to the 1997-98 budget proposal.

Calloway and Boyd said they were mistaken and had thought the water rates were going up $1.50 more than last year, instead of the actual .50 cent proposed increase.

struction jobs, Neslage said he foresees an increased demand in goods and services for Pampa's business sector.

"The county and city tax base will be expanded," he said. "It's a win-win situation."

Neslage said locating such a facility near Pampa would also increase demand for teachers, counselors and other professionals.

"This is not a minimum wage type of operation," said Lew Mollenkamp, executive director of the PEDC.

Prior to the meeting, officials passed out a salary schedule for the first phase of the proposed project with salaries ranging from $60,324 a year for the superintendent of the facility to $9,132 a year for a clerk's job. Officials said the average salary was about $20,000 a year for the 317 jobs expected to be filled in the first phase of the project. The total annual salaries listed would reach about $8.5 million in the first phase, according to their figures.

That, coupled with goods and services, are expected to benefit the local economy to the tune of $20 million annually by the time phase two of the project is completed.

"It's not often," said Lewis Meers, president of the Pampa Economic Development Corporation's Board of Directors, "that you get an opportunity to bring 600 jobs in. Every segment of the economy will be effected."

"This could have a monumental impact on our community," added Mollenkamp.

Mollenkamp said a recent trip to a facility similar to the one Pampa is trying to attract satisfied him that they were safe, secure units.

The PEDC director said 600 new jobs would be created in Pampa over a 15-year period by locating a youth facility in Gray County, and he expected $725 million to flow through the community during such a time frame.

Mollenkamp said the jobs created with the opening of the Jordan Unit stopped the population decline in Pampa. He said jobs created with the opening of a youth correctional facility will increase population growth in the community.

Gray County Commissioner Joe Wheeley said jobs created by such a facility would help keep people from leaving the area in search of employment.

Pampa Independent School District Superintendent Dawson Orr said people who work with troubled youth are excellent at working with all youth. He said he expected such personnel to take the lead in volunteer civic activities.

Roger David, a member of the PEDC, said the location of a youth facility near Pampa would offer more opportunities, better jobs and more money for the business community.

"If we learned one lesson from the oil business," David said, "it is that it's important to diversify the economy. This represents a wonderful opportunity to really diversify our economy."

Dr. Ed Cooley, pastor of Pampa's Presbyterian church, said the state school will provide the opportunity to increase the ministries of the community's churches.

Dennis Godwin, speaking for the Downtown Kiwanis Club and First American Bank, said it will also increase opportunities to work with youth and provide a good economic impact on the community.

"We at the Chamber of Commerce are behind this project all the way," said Chamber President Dr. Joe Lowry.

Friday is the deadline for submission of proposals to the Texas Youth Commission, Mollenkamp said. Mollenkamp and Neslage will leave Thursday evening for Austin to hand-deliver Pampa's proposal to the Texas Youth Commission on Friday by the noon deadline.

Fifty-six other communities have indicated they are actively seeking a youth facility. More than 200 communities initially requested the specification package on such a facility from the commission.

Another vote was taken and the budget was approved.

In addition, the council members adopted a tax rate of .43659 - raising the rate .4 cents more than last year's tax rate.

Watson pointed out, however, that the council could have raised it even higher based on the appraisal evaluation information given to the city.

"We're actually losing money on the tax rate, because it could have been set at .45," Watson said. "But as the budget is now," he said, "we are just breaking even... these increases in the budget and tax rate still won't bring in any extra revenue for reserve."

"Campaign of Compassion" billboard advertisement to be strategically placed throughout Pampa as part of nationwide campaign conducted by Care Net.

'Campaign of Compassion' billboard advertisements coming soon to Pampa

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

Billboard advertisements providing confidential assistance to women facing unwanted pregnancies will soon be located in Pampa as part of a nationwide campaign.

The billboard "Campaign of Compassion," is being conducted by Care Net, a national organization dedicated to and is designed to make women nationwide aware of the free pregnancy testing and confidential counseling available to them through local pregnancy crisis centers, like the Top O' Texas Pregnancy Crisis Center in Pampa.

"We are a pro-women ministry. And yes, we are pro-life, but really we are pro-choice in the truest sense of the word — we are trying to give women more choices," Condon said.

Billboards — listing a national toll free, computerized hot line number — will put callers in touch with their local Care Net pregnancy crisis center.

Pampa's Top O' Texas Pregnancy Crisis Center is one of 450 centers in the country associated with Care

Net, according to Care Net's president, Guy Condon.

To ensure the viability of the billboard ads, Care Net conducted campaign testing by posting the billboards in southeast Florida over a 10-week period, Condon said.

"In addition to the average 1,000 women that this Florida crisis center usually sees, another 588 women responded to the center above and beyond the normal flow during the campaign testing period," said Condon. "We were very excited about the results."

Condon came in from the Arlington, Va head-quarters this week and toured Pampa's crisis center in addition to meeting with various churches and a group of Pampa pastors Monday morning as part of a week-long, Texas Panhandle campaign promotion tour.

Borger, Plainview, Canyon and Amarillo are the other crisis center locations in the panhandle affiliated with the organization, Condon said.

These other panhandle locations will be participating in the upcoming billboard campaign.

"The idea of the campaign is really to communicate compassion to women," Condon said.

if we didn't have a firm feeling that we can fill the building."

State law allows economic corporations operating on a 4A sales tax to purchase real estate for development purposes.

The sale of the building by Halliburton is conditional upon the completion of due diligence inspections, said Mollenkamp.

"It is in fairly good shape," he said. "It doesn't look like any major rehabilitation needs to be done."

Mollenkamp did say the PEDC would have to reevaluate the purchase if any major structural damages are found during the inspections. However, he added that preliminary inspections indicate there are no major damages.

Originally, Halliburton asked

$260,000 for the facility. But, after two appraisals, one at $200,000 and another at $225,000, the company decided to sell the 6.5-acre site for $212,500.

Financing for the PEDC's purchase was approved through a 5-year loan by Nations Bank with 5.85 percent interest and 15-year amortization rates.

PFAA holding membership drive, urges participation, involvement in the arts

Individuals, families, businesses and corporations are being invited to join the 31-year-old Pampa-based Pampa Fine Arts Association and become part of the positive effort to increase family and community values. By promoting the development of the arts in the Texas Panhandle, membership in PFAA endorses the role of discipline, team effort and self esteem play in a child's education as well as the role those same qualities exert in improving the economy of a community.

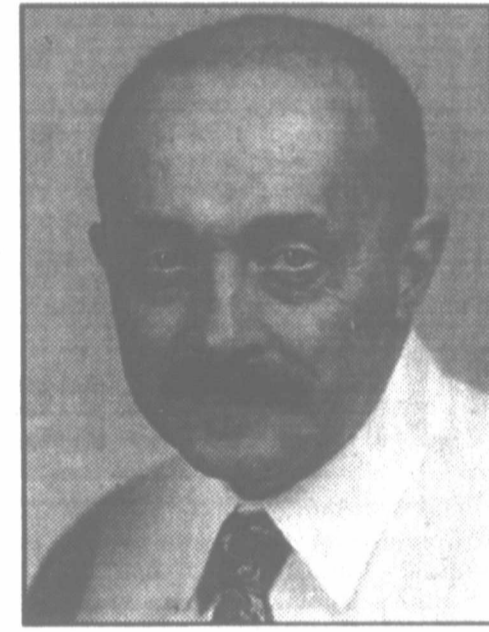

Those qualities are basic to the practice and enjoyment of artistic endeavors, whether it's an individual painting a picture to communicate something visual or a group working together to present a play for the delight of those in the audience.

Although based in Pampa, PFAA service area is not just for Pampans. Memberships include people from throughout the area. During the past several months, PFAA has worked with area schools in placing performing artists in Groom, Panhandle, Lefors, McLean and Miami, and recently presented a workshop in Canadian. And in Pampa, a week-long summer workshop with five professional area artists served 72 students grades 1-12.

During February, 1998, PFAA is intending to host ARTrain (subject to finalization of the contract). ARTrain is a traveling five railcar museum with exhibits from the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. It will also include guest area artists demonstrating their work.

Invitations for the annual membership drive were mailed to over 2,000 in August. The membership year runs Sept. 1, 1997, through Aug. 31, 1998. These may be individuals, families, businesses or corporations, however, who did not receive a mailing, but who are interested in being part of this organization. Anyone is welcome to join. Memberships run from $10 for an individual member to $100-$500 for a business/corporate member.

Memberships are tax-deductible, for PFAA is a 501-c-3 non-profit organization. For more information about joining Pampa Fine Arts Association, contact the office at (806) 665-0343 between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday, or write PFAA at P.O. Box 818, Pampa, TX 79066.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

We offer a tip of the hat...

We tip our hat to all of the elected officials and community-minded citizens who have put forth great effort in the last few weeks to put together a first-rate package designed to secure a youth correctional facility here.

Their effort is aimed at making life better — through a growing economy — for those in Pampa, Gray County and the surrounding area.

If Pampa comes out on top, it will mean the effort has paid off in the form of more than 600 jobs that will pump an annual payroll of about $20 million into our area.

Just think what that will mean for those who need jobs and what those jobs will mean to all of us as the businesses in which we work and shop are bolstered as a result.

If the youth correctional facility comes here, it will be a nice fit with the corrections units we now have and it will help to provide more secure employment for years and years to come.

But if it is not in the cards for this go-round of placing facilities, all is not lost for anytime the community can pull together as it has in this case it is for the greater good of us all.

University doesn't play fair

The Academic Personnel Manual of the University of California warns professors against "unauthorized use of University resources or facilities on a significant scale for personal, commercial, political, or religious purposes."

This seems reasonable enough, but certain recent actions of the university suggest that its resources and facilities (all of which, of course, are paid for by the taxpayers) are freely available to any professor who wants to grind a political ax of which the university's administrators happen to approve.

One of these axes is the current drive against smoking. Perhaps I should say "smoking tobacco," because the people of California, on the basis of their general behavior and recent voting record, are, if anything, rather in favor of smoking marijuana; it is only smoking tobacco that stirs their rage. We are only a few steps away from a statute authorizing citizens to gun down on sight anyone caught smoking within the borders of the state. No doubt that is why the university has gotten inexcusably loose in its expenditure practices where anti-smoking efforts are concerned.

Professor Stanton A. Glantz is an associate professor of medicine at the university's San Francisco campus, and a longtime anti-smoking activist, both in California and nationally. He is a past president of Americans for Nonsmokers' Rights, among other similar groups. For 15 years he has used his university affiliation in aid of his political activism, preempting university office facilities, communication equipment, and secretarial and staff support for his projects, which chiefly involved lobbying state and local legislatures to limit or ban smoking in restaurants and similar establishments.

Astonishingly, a few years ago the university approved the award to this scarcely unbiased man of a huge grant to study the economic effects of banning smoking in restaurants. To no one's surprise, Professor Glantz's study concluded that, on the basis of an investigation of 15 cities that had "total smoking bans," ordinances banning smoking in restaurants had no effect on restaurant sales. The study was hailed by anti-smoking activists all over the country, and used to support further citywide bans on smoking in restaurants.

Enter the National Smokers Alliance, which commissioned Professor Michael K. Evans, clinical professor of economics at the Kellogg School of Northwestern University, to review Glantz's study. Dr. Evans found its conclusions unwarranted — because, among other things, of the 15 cities studied for their "total smoking bans," only one, in fact, had such a total ban.

Now nearly 3,000 California taxpayers have founded Californians for Scientific Integrity, to analyze the Glantz study and determine whether public funds have been misused. But that will be hard to determine, because it transpires that the university has a policy of shredding certain documents relating to such grants 60 days after the peer review process is complete. The California state auditor has sharply criticized this policy as making it impossible to conclude whether "the decision to fund or not to fund an application was unbiased and equitable."

Unfazed by all the flak, the University of California is standing by its man. In fact, not long ago he got an award from the chancellor of the university for his actions.

So now Californians for Scientific Integrity has hauled the university and various other defendants into court to compel them to reimburse the state, enjoin them from further waste of public funds and resources, and make them stop shredding relevant documents.

Don't be misled into thinking the issue here is whether you are for or against smoking. In the words of a 1976 decision of the California Supreme Court, "the use of the public treasury to mount an election campaign which attempts to influence the resolution of issues which our Constitution leaves to the 'free election' of the people ... present(s) a serious threat to the integrity of the electoral process." And that ought to be everybody's concern.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1997. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 30, 1952, the motion picture process Cinerama — which employed three cameras, three projectors and a deeply curved viewing screen — made its debut with the premiere of "This Is Cinerama" at the Broadway Theater in New York City.

On this date:
In 1791, Mozart's opera The

Magic Flute premiered in Vienna, Austria.

In 1846, dentist William Morton used ether as an anesthetic for the first time on a patient in his Boston office.

In 1927, Babe Ruth hit his 60th homer of the season to break his own major-league record.

In 1938, British, French, German and Italian leaders decided to appease Adolf Hitler by allowing Nazi annexation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

In 1949, the Berlin Airlift came to an end.

In 1954, the first atomic-powered vessel, the submarine Nautilus, was commissioned by the Navy.

In 1955, actor James Dean was killed in a two-car collision near Cholame, Calif.

In 1962, black student James Meredith succeeded on his fourth try in registering for classes at the University of Mississippi.

In 1986, the U.S. released accused Soviet spy Gennadiy Zakharov, one day after the Soviets released Nicholas Daniloff.

Ten years ago: Two top campaign aides to Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis resigned after one of them, campaign manager John Sasso, admitted leaking an attack videotape that helped bring down the presidential candidacy of Delaware Sen. Joseph Biden. (Sasso returned to the campaign a year later.)

Five years ago: The Bush and Clinton campaigns opened negotiations for a series of presidential debates. George Brett of the Kansas City Royals reached 3,000 career hits during a game against the California Angels.

Women rediscover instrument

When Layne Redmond was growing up in Crystal River, Fla., during the 1960s, she told her parents she wanted to play the drums. But they explained that drumming was for boys. "They told me I should play the flute or the piano," says Redmond, who ended up taking dance lessons and later becoming a cheerleader.

Redmond eventually ended up studying the frame drum, but not until she was 28. And now that she has proven herself in this man's world she has recorded five albums on the frame drum and is the first woman to have her own signature line of drums — she wants us to know that drumming isn't as intrinsically masculine as we might think.

Because the drum, probably more than any other instrument, definitely has that association. I think of my own elementary school years, which took place a full decade after Redmond's. On the day my fourth-grade classmates and I selected instruments for the school band, our teachers took pains to assure us that girls could play the drums and boys the flute, but we didn't listen. Only Katrina Nelson broke from tradition, and her decision to play the drums caused a stir amongst my classmates. We knew that what she was doing was very bold and, somehow, important. And I remember feeling a deep admiration for Katrina, even as I ticked off "flute" on my own selection form.

Sara Eckel

What made the drums so different from the other instruments we could have chosen for band? Why weren't the girls in my class who chose, say, the trumpet or the base considered revolutionaries?

Redmond believes there are a couple of reasons. "One is that women are told to be seen and not heard, and the drum is the loudest instrument," she says. "The other is that the drum is a military instrument."

But as Redmond writes in her new book, When the Drummers Were Women (Three Rivers Press, 1997) the drum has not always been so firmly fixed in the domain of men. In fact, says Redmond, women were the world's original drummers. In the ancient cultures of Europe and the Middle East, drums were a central facet in women's roles as spiritual leaders and priestesses. "The frame drum was used in the ancient mysteries to induce a trance in which people would experience a symbolic death and rebirth," says Redmond. "And 95 percent of these drummers were women. For thousands of years, women had this position of spiritual authority."

That authority ended with the rise of Christianity, at which time drums were banned from the church and women were forbidden from playing. "Every 50 years there was a new decree against women playing drums," says Redmond. "They had to issue decrees over and over again because it was such a hard tradition to wipe out."

Now, says Redmond, women are rediscovering this ancient heritage. "The response has been so profound. Women, even if they've never played the drums, are saying how much it means to them to know that there was a time when women held this position," she says.

For her part, Redmond says her studies in the ancient rituals have even helped her appreciate the rhythmic training she received as a cheerleader. "I used to just make fun of the fact that I was a cheerleader," she says. "But then it dawned on me that anything completely associated with women is not valued in our culture. And the more I thought about it, the more I realized that I was at the center of the most important community ritual in our county — the high-school football game — and I was rousing and shaping group energy. That's a very ancient thing to be doing."

Weekend at the box office: 'The Peacemaker' opens first but is no smash; 'Soul Food' cooks

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The heavily hyped movie debut of the new DreamWorks SKG studio was not too sweet.

The Peacemaker debuted in first place, but its opening was at the low end of industry estimates. The much less promoted new comedy Soul Food actually did superior business on a per-screen basis and could end up out-grossing George Clooney and Nicole Kidman in The Peacemaker.

DreamWorks is the film-TV-multimedia studio created by Steven Spielberg, David Geffen and former Disney executive Jeffrey Katzenberg.

The only other new film in wide release, Anthony Hopkins and Alec Baldwin's The Edge, fared poorly, finishing a distant fourth. In limited release in New York only, The Ice Storm was popular.

L.A. Confidential lost only a fraction of its audience from its debut a week ago, but the second-week numbers were far worse for Wes Craven Presents Wishmaster and A Thousand Acres. The Full Monty continued to perform extremely well for an art film.

State briefs

Accused triple murderer ordered held without bail
LOWELL, Mass. (AP) — A man accused of strangling the girlfriend and two young sons he kept secret from his wife pleaded inculpated to three murder counts as his mother wept in the courtroom.

Peter Contos, 31, was ordered held without bail at Monday's hearing.

Authorities say Contos killed Catherine Rice, 35, Benjamin Rice, 4, and Ryan Contos, age 2 months, over the weekend and then drove the boys' bodies 75 miles to an air base where he stuffed them inside his locker.

Police said Contos, a former Air National Guard technical sergeant, had been living a double life.

He has been married for a year to another woman who was unaware he had a girlfriend and two children, authorities said. And his girlfriend, police said, didn't know he had a wife.

Pry marks found on Ramsey's door, documents show

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Newly released documents in the JonBenet Ramsey case show that investigators found no clear sign of forced entry into the Ramsey home — but did find an apparent pry mark on the doorjamb of a rear entrance.

That "demonstrates substantial evidence of an intruder," said Hal Haddon, an attorney for the Ramseys.

Haddon said the information released Monday supports the theory that someone broke into the house, including "pry marks on an exterior door, a broken window in the basement and a blue suitcase removed (by investigators) from under the broken window."

Sixty-five pages of documents were made public detailing requests for four warrants to search the Ramsey home and vehicles in December 1996 and January. They list dozens of items seized from the home after the 6-year-old girl was found dead Dec. 26.

There have been no arrests.

Pop Art pioneer Roy Lichtenstein dead at 73

NEW YORK (AP) — At age 38, Roy Lichtenstein found the inspiration that would earn him a place in 20th century art history in the comic book images of his childhood.

Having failed to make a mark with abstract expressionist works and modern art-style depictions of American cowboys and Indians, Lichtenstein took a bubble gum wrapper comic and blew it up into a full-scale painting.

The 1961 work Look Mickey, I've Hooked a Big One! transformed commercial art to an object of fine art and became a landmark, placing Lichtenstein, with Andy Warhol, at the forefront of the Pop Art movement.

Lichtenstein died Monday, at 73, after being hospitalized at New York University Medical Center for several weeks. His personal assistant, Cassandra Lozano, said the cause was pneumonia.

Roadside chapels a welcome sight for truckers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Semitrailer driver David Pianezzi can get gas, food and other supplies when he pulls into a truck stop. Sometimes, he can even go to church.

Pianezzi was recently singing hymns and listening to the Rev. Doug Kraus preach at Prayer Heaven, a converted freight trailer at the Antioch Truck Stop of America off Interstate 24 in Nashville.

The Sistine Chapel it isn't. But chaplains are there 24 hours a day, providing everything from Christian services to counseling.

"It's a safe zone," said Dale Love, a truck driver from Portland, Tenn., motoring toward the paneled walls in the narrow trailer lined with chairs holding Bibles and hymn books.

Prayer Heaven is part of Transport for Christ, which operates 22 chapels in 16 states, Canada and Russia. There also are Trucker's Christian Chapel Ministries of Enon, Ohio, and Truckstop Ministries Inc. of Jackson, Ga.

The chapels bring the church to the parking lot, which is about the only way some truckers can worship, said Kraus, who drove trucks for 27 years before becoming a minister.

"They are hardly ever at home to go to church ... When a long-haul trucker gets home he's generally only there Friday and Saturday. He has to leave Sunday for a Monday morning delivery," Kraus said.

Toxic release inventory figures report available

COLLEGE STATION — Individuals and communities seeking information about toxic chemical wastes released into Texas air, water, land and underground spaces now have access to the data both in a printed book and on the Internet.

The Toxic Release Inventory includes data on more than 1,200 manufacturers in 138 Texas counties as of 1994, the latest year for which information was available from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The work, produced by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, reports on some 250 million pounds of toxic waste released and more than 273 million pounds of toxic chemical wastes transferred offsite, according to Dr. John Thomas, Experiment Station environmental sociologist. The report breaks out the Toxic Release Inventory results by county, Thomas noted.

"The report also looks at the change between 1988 (the first reliable year of EPA collected data) and 1994," Thomas said.

The 1994 figures include more than 340 EPA-tracked chemicals, about half of which are considered carcinogens. "About 50 of those are released in Texas," Thomas noted.

The rural sociologist said the report could be a valuable research tool for a variety of audiences.

"If a chamber of commerce is interested in expanding its industrial park, for example, they could identify in the Toxic Release Inventory what industries participate in the reporting effort and what chemicals and how much they release into the environment," Thomas said.

He noted that the manufacturers are producing items in demand by the public, so it is not likely that production will slow. But he said the report shows that "industry is trying to improve because they have found out that it pays to recycle and it's more efficient to have a production process that minimizes waste."

"There is a different mindset toward the environment among today's corporate citizens," he said.

Among the report's highlights:

—Counties that had the largest volumes of releases and transfers in 1994 and during the six-year comparison were clustered east of I-35 and along the Texas Gulf Coast.

—The chemical industry was by far the source of the largest volume of releases and transfers of toxic chemicals in Texas, but it experienced the most improvement in the reduction of these wastes.

—In 1994, air emissions totaled 127 million pounds, releases to land were 13.9 million pounds, releases to water were 2.7 million pounds and 106 million pounds were injected into special underground wells.

—Since 1988, substantial reductions have occurred in the volumes released to air (-39.5 percent) and land (-60 percent). Releases to water increased, however, by 28 percent since 1988.

—Recycling and energy recovery of toxic chemicals were the most prevalent forms of transfers in 1994 at 47 percent and 27.5 percent, respectively.

The 1995 data, which will be released by EPA to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission, will analyze more than 600 chemicals, Thomas said.

To obtain a copy of the report, contact Thomas at (409) 845-5332, johnthomas@tamu.edu, or write Thomas at the Department of Rural Sociology, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas, 77843-2125. On the web, the report may be found at <http://hwwv-tsdc.tamu.edu/tri.html>.

House votes in favor of extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting the day before tens of thousands of illegal immigrants lose their eligibility to remain in the United States while applying for legal residence, the House has agreed to a three-week reprieve.

The Senate was expected to take up similar legislation before expiration of the immigration provision at midnight tonight.

On a 355-57 vote Monday, the House approved a stopgap bill bankrolling government operations beyond the Oct. 1 start of the fiscal year. The legislation funds government through Oct. 23 while Congress completes its appropriations process. It also extends the immigration statute through Oct. 23.

Immigration lawyers, charitable organizations and other advocates have been swamped by thousands of calls in recent weeks from immigrants panicked over possible loss of the loophole first provided by Congress in 1994.

Envisioned as a temporary measure, the statute allows undocumented immigrants to file here for legal status instead of at U.S. consulates abroad. In exchange, filers must pay a $1,000 fine.

The provision doesn't benefit the entire undocumented population in the United States, which now exceeds 5 million. Instead, it is targeted at those eligible for legal residence, either because they're already in line for visas or are the spouse or minor child of a U.S. citizen. Parents of adult U.S. citizen children also can apply.

Some 345,000 people took advantage of the rule in 1995 and 1996. This year, an estimated 214,000 are applying.

Critics contend the measure fosters illegal immigration and wrongfully rewards those who broke U.S. laws by entering the country without authorization or overstaying their visa.

"Common sense says you don't reward people for breaking the law," said Rep. Brian Bilbray, R-Calif.

Rep. Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif., termed the provision "blatantly unfair" to those who apply for visas overseas, waiting sometimes years for permission to enter the country. "It makes a joke of our immigration system," said Rohrabacher, who last week derailed an attempt to include a longer extension in the spending bill.

Lawmakers will decide next month whether to renew the provision for a longer period. The Senate already has approved a permanent extension.

Fund-raising scandal:

Lawmakers make calls on federal property ...

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Justice Department investigates use of the White House to solicit political donations, a trip down Pennsylvania Avenue could find the same activity under the Capitol dome.

Former members of Congress and staffers said such solicitations have occurred in congressional offices in the past and that they believe they still go on — even though they may violate U.S. criminal law and ethics rules that prohibit fund raising in government buildings.

"I don't think any will admit it, but it's so damn hard not to occur," said Dennis DeConcini, who retired in 1994 after 18 years as a Democratic senator from Arizona.

If lawmakers want to stay within the law and avoid political ruin, they can raise money legally by using telephones near the Capitol — in space rented by the Republican and Democratic congressional campaign committees.

It got sticky whenever donors called the lawmaker's office in response to a solicitation. "I would say something like, 'I'm having a fund-raiser but I'll have to call you back.' I felt that was fine," he said.

The former lawmaker, now an attorney and lobbyist, is the recipient of fund-raising solicitations that "periodically" have a congressional number left for a return call.

DeConcini would call donors from a cellular phone while standing outside the Capitol.

"One phone was paid for by my campaign and the other was a Senate phone," he said. "I hoped I didn't take the wrong one."

Every so often, a lawmaker's questionable fund raising becomes the subject of news stories. For example:

—Articles, quoting sources, said lobbyist Mark Siegel

he made illegal fund-raising calls from his congressional office, Burton responded, "I can't say never, categorically, but I don't remember ever making them."

—Sen. Bob Smith, R-N.H., a member of the Senate panel investigating campaign fund-raising, left a message on a prospective donor's answering machine soliciting a $1,000 ticket for a fund-raising event. Smith left his Senate phone number for return calls. He currently is chairman of the Senate's ethics committee.

—Sen. Christopher S. Bond, R-Mo., when he was vice chairman of the Senate GOP campaign organization, sent a fund-raising letter and told prospective donors they could respond by calling his Senate office.

DeConcini would call donors from a cellular phone while standing outside the Capitol.

France defends oil giant Total's deal with Iran

PARIS (AP) — Prime Minister Lionel Jospin defended a $2 billion deal a French oil company signed over U.S. objections to develop a natural gas field in Iran — and warned Washington not to retaliate.

A year-old U.S. law provides for sanctions against foreign companies that invest more than $20 million in Iran.

"American laws apply in the United States, not in France," Jospin said in a television interview Monday night.

"No one accepts the idea the Americans can make laws that apply on a global scale. If not, the planet would be a different place and we would not be the old, independent nation that we are."

The deal signed Sunday by the French oil giant Total risks aggravating the sometimes strained relations between allies France and the United States, especially if Washington were to seek sanctions against Total.

The State Department said Monday it will conduct an independent investigation into the agreement to develop the South Pars natural gas field before deciding if sanctions are warranted.

State Department spokesman James P. Rubin said the United States regretted the decision by Total, Russia's Gazprom and Malaysia's Petronas to go ahead with the deal.

Rubin declined to say what sanctions would be imposed if the investigation showed the companies are violating U.S. law.

The United States accuses Iran of state-sponsored terrorism and has expressed concern that Tehran is trying to develop nuclear weapons that could threaten its Middle East ally, Israel.

Rubin said the law's intent is that "the world should focus on how to prevent Iran from having the money to ... finance weapons of mass destruction."

France and other European nations resent what they see as U.S. attempts to impose its will on foreign countries economically as well as politically.

The European Union, which supports France and has advised its members not to submit to trade restrictions based on U.S. law, has prepared retaliatory measures to react to such sanctions.

In Brussels, E.U. Trade Commissioner Leon Brittan defended Total's plans and said today the company was "legally fully entitled" to invest in Iran.

Brittan also called the U.S. legislation "counter-productive" and said it created "tension between Europe and the United States, which makes it more difficult to work together to achieve shared political objectives in Iran. It plays into hands of hard-liners in Teheran."

Brittan said in a statement that he hoped the United States would "reflect long and hard" on the wisdom of taking action against Total.

France's foreign ministry said it hoped the United States carefully weighed the consequences of putting the law into effect.

"France hopes that the U.S. administration will use the maneuvering room that the text allows," Foreign Ministry spokesman Jacques Rummelhardt said Monday. "The application of this law would have serious consequences on international trade."

Total's president, Thierry Desmarest, said the French government approved the project.

"We had very clear responses from all levels recognizing it was perfectly within our right," Desmarest said in an interview published Monday in the newspaper Le Monde.

Jospin denied a government role in the project.

"French companies freely decide on their investments, and that is the case of Total," said Jospin. "This very big French company has the possibility of winning very big contracts. Personally, I rejoice." Jospin's conservative opponents also backed the deal.

Business groups oppose Clinton's global warming policies, make dire predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business groups are waging a pre-emptive strike against the Clinton administration's global warming policies, predicting economic havoc if the United States commits to cutting greenhouse gases at a December climate conference.

A number of economists and industry representatives were to testify at a Senate hearing today and warn of soaring energy prices and economic problems for U.S. industries if they are forced to cut carbon pollution to 1990 levels by the year 2010.

While Clinton has said he is convinced the threat of global warming must be addressed with new international commitments, the White House has yet to propose specific cuts and deadlines. It has rejected a European proposal to cut carbon emissions by 15 percent by 2010.

But senators, amid heavy lobbying from industry, already have expressed their concern. Earlier this year the Senate passed by a 95-0 vote a resolution urging the White House to commit to no binding pollution cuts unless developing countries like China do likewise. The talks in Japan in December are aimed at getting binding commitments from industrial countries and only promises of voluntary action and perhaps future commitments from the developing countries.

A powerful coalition of business groups, ranging from the petroleum industry to the Big Three automakers, manufacturers and farm interests, has stepped up its attack on a proposed climate treaty in a $15 million national television ad campaign.

The climate treaty "isn't global and won't work," the ads assert, noting that emerging industrial powers such as China would not be forced to curb greenhouse emissions. "Americans will pay the price," the ads say.

Environmentalists accused business groups of resorting to scare tactics and argue that releases of carbon dioxide, the key greenhouse pollutant, can be reduced to 1990 levels without major economic dislocation. They maintain that energy efficiency and development of renewable energy sources will allow the country to ween itself from more polluting coal and oil.

Last week that argument got some support from an Energy Department study, based on research from three federal laboratories, that said huge economic costs could be avoided and carbon emissions still curtailed significantly through the use of new technology.

Such technologies, including fuel cells, more fuel efficient automobiles, and improved lighting, motors and appliances, are either already available or within reach, the DOE study said.

But on Monday, another report said that if the United States committed to carbon emissions at 1990 levels by 2010 it would put U.S. industry at a clear economic disadvantage against its European and Japanese trading partners — as well as competitors in emerging countries such as China.

University to mark anniversary of mascot during homecoming

CANYON - This year marks the 75th anniversary of the buffalo as West Texas A&M University's mascot. Graduates, students and campus supporters are invited to celebrate homecoming complete with a bonfire, parade, barbecue, football game and other activities Oct. 10 and 11.

"Homecoming is a great time to remember what it was like to be on campus and to share in the pride that exists at WTAMU," Misty Price, director of the Alumni Association, said. "It's an opportunity for graduates, students, community members and friends of WTAMU to celebrate."

The weekend will begin with a four-person scramble golf tournament at noon, Oct. 10 at Palo Duro Creek Golf Course in Canyon. Trophies will be awarded. Cost to play is $36 per person. Businesses can sponsor a tee box for $25. To enter the tournament or to sponsor a tee box, contact WTAMU Career Services at (806) 656-2345.

The Alumni Association will host an open house for all graduates from 3-5 p.m. Oct. 10 at Buffalo Courts on campus.

Special receptions for the Class of 1946 (the 50-year class reunion) and the Class of 1972 (the 25-year class reunion) will be from 5:30-7:30 p.m. on the 11th at Buffalo Courts. Admission is free to graduates.

FPC hosts Counselor's Roundtable

BORGER - Frank Phillips College recently hosted the Counselor's Roundtable at which area high school counselors and FPC staff discussed various issues such as concurrent enrollment and tech prep. The input assists FPC in improving services provided to area high school students.

High school counselors in attendance included: Carla Howell, Pampa High School; Cecil Thomas, Wheeler High School; and Linda Cook, White Deer High School.

from the honor classes and their guests.

The Former Cheerleaders' Reunion is scheduled from 6:30-7:30 p.m. Oct. 10 in Mary Moody Northern Hall Atrium. There is no charge, but reservations are requested. To make reservations, contact the Alumni Association at (806) 656-2311.

Evening activities will include the traditional Pigskin Revue, a variety show, at 8 p.m. in MMNH Recital Hall and the bonfire/dance. Tickets for the revue are $3 for general admission and $1 for WTAMU students. Tickets can be purchased at the Jack B. Kelley Student Center Information Desk and the Alumni Association, Buffalo Courts.

A procession to the bonfire/dance will begin at MMNH at 9:15 p.m. Oct. 10. Dr. Russell C. Long, university president, and J.B. Horton, WTAMU student body president, will conduct a short ceremony at the Eternal Flame at the west entrance to the campus. The flame will be carried to light the bonfire and kick off the dance at 9:30 p.m. at Spur 48 and WTAMU Drive. There is no admission charge for the procession, bonfire or dance.

Alumni registration will continue at 8 a.m. Oct. 11 at Buffalo Courts.

The day's activities will begin with an Alumni Breakfast at 8:30 a.m. in the MMNH Atrium and the Alumni Association Annual Business Meeting and Elections at 10 a.m. in the MMNH Atrium. Tickets for the breakfast are $6 per person and can be purchased at the Alumni Association, Buffalo Courts.

The annual Homecoming Parade will begin at 11 a.m. and travel down Fourth Ave. to 26th Street. More than 30 parade entries and floats are expected.

The barbecue will be served from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. on the lawn east of Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum. Class photographs of the classes of 1947, 1972 and 1987 will be taken during the barbecue. Tickets are $6 for general admission, $4.50 for WTAMU students with meal cards and $4 for children 10 and under. Tickets are available at the Alumni Association, Buffalo Courts and the JBKSC Information Desk.

College reunions (College of Agriculture, Nursing and Natural Sciences-Agriculture and Natural Sciences Building Atrium; College of Education and Sciences-Old Main, Second Level Foyer; Sybil B. Harrington College of Fine Arts and Humanities-MMNH Atrium; T. Boone Pickens College of Business-Classroom Center, Room 115) will be held from 1-2:30 p.m. Oct. 11.

The Alumni Association will host an open house from 1-3:30 p.m. at Buffalo Courts. Walking and van tours of the campus will leave at 1:30, 2, 2:30 and 3 p.m. from Buffalo Courts. Organizational reunions will be from 2-3:30 p.m. in the JBKSC Commons.

Dr. Charles Townsend, a retired history professor, will present a history Buff lecture from 2:30-3:30 p.m. in Old Main, Room 220.

WTAMU will face Tarleton State University in the homecoming game. The kick-off will be at 6 p.m. in Kimbrough Memorial Stadium. Tickets are $9 for reserved chairbacks, $8 for reserved benches, $7 for general admission and $3 for children. For more information, call (806) 656-2670.

A post-game dance will be held in the Virgil Henson Activities Center. The dance is free of charge and open to the public.

'Elderly' Need Not Apply To Those Young At Heart

DEAR READERS: The many responses I received to the question, "How would you define the term 'elderly'?" were wonderful. Permit me to share a few:

DEAR ABBY: I have a definition that has served me well most of my life: Anyone is elderly who is older than I am.

This was confirmed when I heard my dad, who was 84 and in a convalescent home, speak of the "old codger who lives down the hall." He was 87.
CARL FISHER (AGE 82), WALNUT CREEK, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I am 79 and just beginning to think of myself as "elderly." Fifty, to me, is middle age.
DOROTHY KENT, HENDERSON, NEV.

DEAR ABBY: I am 52 years old and consider the term "elderly" as being a synonym for dead!
JANE ANDERSON, CINCINNATI

DEAR ABBY: How would I define elderly? I am reminded of the old joke that went, "I enjoy drinking; he's a drunk." I'm an older woman; she's elderly!
BEA SHAW, TOLUCA LAKE, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know a great deal about how ladies view themselves, but to me they are forever young. However, I do know a little about men.

Abigail Van Buren

By my reckoning, until age 35, he is an adolescent.

From 35 to 55, he is a young man.

From 55 to 75, he is middle-aged, and anyone who is 75 or older is a senior.

TOM DANAHER (AGE 71), LAS VEGAS

DEAR ABBY: When you ask someone to define "elderly," you open a can of worms. It is my belief that few people think of themselves as a specific age.

Society seems to want to label each of its members by age, race, religion, etc. Let's forget all that and just live. Elderly is as elderly does. Enjoy life and, as the French say, "Vive la difference!"

ROBERT L. CASEY, LAS VEGAS

DEAR ABBY: I am 76 and don't consider myself elderly. When I curl my hair, which is naturally a blondish-gray, I have my makeup on, my nails nicely manicured and I'm dressed in a nice outfit. I don't feel or look a day over 55. So I think, "If I were married, I'd be looking for a live one."

I define elderly as "over the hill." STILL KICKING AND ABLE

DEAR ABBY: Being elderly to me is having the dignity to grow older with dignity.

PEGGY O'NEIL, PUYALLUP, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: Most of us associate "elderly" with those who are older than we are, who have become incapacitated physically or mentally. People our own age may be "senior citizens" — but never elderly!
MARION E. GRAFF, LOS ANGELES

DEAR ABBY: "Elderly" is a politically correct euphemism for "old." What's wrong with being old? I am an aging boomer and I want to be as old as possible.

In this baby- and youth-obsessed culture of ours, it's time to shout, "Old is great!"
MICHAEL PEARCE, PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR MICHAEL AND READERS: I'll second the motion. I regret that I am unable to print all of the delightful definitions I've received for "elderly"; however, from time to time, I will share more of them.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Bob Simmons would like to forget the 1996 Texas game, if only people would let him.

"I wiped it from my memory, but a thousand people remind me of it," the Oklahoma State football coach said Monday. "There's nothing I can do about it. It's over."

Texas wiped out the Cowboys last year in Austin, 71-14. James Brown threw for 232 yards. Ricky Williams and Shon Mitchell each ran for more than 100. The Longhorns compiled 624 yards and handed OSU its worst loss since 1970.

"That was the worst loss I've ever had," safety R.W. McQuarters said. "It was just one of those days where everything we had went wrong. Everything that did went right. We just couldn't stop 'em, bottom line."

The Cowboys get another crack at Texas on Saturday morning. Oklahoma State is 4-0, including routs of Southwestern Louisiana, Fresno State and Northeast Louisiana. Texas is 2-1 after surviving a wild 38-31 game against Rice.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A college football referee was listed in critical condition after a massive heart attack during the second quarter of Saturday's Virginia-North Carolina game.

Knight has been a 21-year ACC official before and after a short stint in the NFL.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Turnovers have vexed Tulsa's offense. The defense has failed to stop the rush. But don't expect this team to throw in the towel Saturday against Rice, coach Dave Rader says.

Tulsa players see their first Western Athletic Conference game of the season as a chance to start fresh.

"They have the strong mindset they are a better team than they have shown and are working toward proving that and winning the next game," Rader said Monday.

At 0-3, the Golden Hurricane has a lot to prove.

Tulsa has given up 42 points on eight turnovers this season. The defense has let a game-average 43.3 points slip by. The Hurricane's 42-21 loss to Missouri gave Rader his worst start in 10 seasons as a coach.

But after a week off, Tulsa has had five extra practices to prepare for the formidable option attack of Rice (2-2, 0-1 WAC).

That extra practice time will help, Rader said. But he figures he could really use 12 defenders to shut down the Owls' running game.

"They most definitely can cover the whole field sideline to sideline — and in both directions," he said.

Despite losing to Texas 38-31 last week, Rice has topped 400 yards rushing the past three games. Halfback Michael Perry ran for 211 yards against Texas and quarterback Chad Nelson has averaged 104.3 yards rushing per game.

Rader sees Nelson as the Rice offense's biggest asset and Tulsa's greatest threat.

"Until you play him, you don't realize his quickness, nor do you realize his speed, nor do you realize his strength," he said.

BASKETBALL

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Heat center Alonzo Mourning underwent surgery on his left knee Saturday and is expected to miss 8-12 weeks of the NBA season.

The surgery repaired a partial tear of the patellar tendon. The injury was discovered last week during a routine pre-season physical examination before an MRI revealed the tear.

The 6-foot-10 Mourning signed a $112 million, seven-year contract last year. He averaged 19.8 points and 9.9 rebounds last season.

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Once again, baseball in October begins with this question: Can anybody solve Atlanta's pitching and beat the Braves?

Greg Maddux was set to throw the first pitch of the 1997 postseason — in September, this time — today when the Houston Astros visited Atlanta for the first playoff game at Turner Field.

"I don't feel like we've got a lot of holes," said Maddux, opposed by Darryl Kile. "We stack up well against any team in baseball."

Of course, that's what the Braves figured last season. And they were right, up until the New York Yankees bounced back to win the final four games of the World Series.

The wild-card Yankees begin defense of their title tonight at home against the AL Central champion Cleveland Indians. A pair of postseason veterans, New York's David Cone and Orel Hershiser, pitch the opener.

"It's a tough matchup," Cone said. "It's a good team matchup, and a good matchup individually."

In the other best-of-5 series that starts today, Barry Bonds and the NL West champion San Francisco Giants visit the wild-card Florida Marlins, making their first postseason appearance.

In what could be a tell-tale opener, Kevin Brown starts for the Marlins. He's 4-0 with a 0.61 ERA lifetime against the Giants, including a no-hitter on June 10.

A big part of Brown's success has been his ability to shut down Bonds. The Giants star is just 1-for-18 in his career against Brown.

"Let's just hope you're asking me the same question after Tuesday's game," Brown said. "When you do well against somebody, you're not sure you want to know the answer."

Bonds, meanwhile, will be trying to reverse his past postseason fortunes. In playoff appearances from 1990-92 for Pittsburgh, he batted .191 with one home run.

Not that Marlins manager Jim Leyland, who guided Bonds and the Pirates in those playoff flops, is resting easy.

"Barry is a time bomb," Leyland said.

The final first-round series starts Wednesday night at the Kingdome. Cal Ripken and the AL East champion Baltimore Orioles take on Ken Griffey Jr. and the West champion Seattle Mariners. Randy Johnson starts for Seattle against Mike Mussina in a marquee matchup.

"I don't think they want to come here," Mariners closer Heathcliff Slocumb said. "Besides the noise of the dome, they're going to have to face Randy Johnson inside."

"I think they're a little intimidated by our bats, especially starting on the road," he said.

This is the third year that baseball has had an extra set of playoffs and, for the most part, it's been dullsville instead of drama in the first round.

Four of the eight sets have been sweeps. Three others have been over in four games. Only the Yankees-Mariners meeting in 1995, which Seattle won on Edgar Martinez's two-run double in the 11th inning, went a full five games.

Will it be any different this time? Jeff Bagwell hopes so. He knows his Astros, winners of the NL Central, are not given much chance against the East champion Braves.

"There's absolutely no pressure on us. No one is expecting us to win," Bagwell, who had 43 home runs and 135 RBIs, said Monday. "We usually play to the level of our competition. We play bad against bad teams and good against good teams, and we've played good against the Braves."

Though the Braves beat Houston 7-4 in the season series, all 11 games were decided by either one or two runs.

While the Braves became the first team to win six straight division titles, the Astros reached the playoffs for the first time since 1986. Derek Bell, Thomas Howard and Tony Pena are the only Houston players who have appeared in the playoffs.

"No matter what anyone says, the amount of postseason games in this clubhouse is a big advantage," Braves pitcher Denny Neagle said.

"I know Bagwell, Craig Biggio and Kile have been to the All-Star game, but even that's a little bit different than this," he said. "No matter who you are, this is a different ballgame. Guys react differently to it."

Operating Co. Cowboys unbeaten in Tiger League

PAMPA — The Operating Co. Cowboys are the only unbeaten team in the Tiger Football League, but they finally gave up their first touchdown.

The Pampa Packers scored against the Cowboys in a 32-6 loss last weekend in the fifth-sixth grade division. In other fifth-sixth grade games, the Pampa Raiders beat Shamrock, 14-0, and White Deer beat Wheeler, 14-0.

The fourth-grade Pampa Storm defeated Shamrock, 12-0.

In the Cowboys-Packers game, Jessie Tarango started the scoring for the Cowboys with a 75-yard run from scrimmage. Billy Bob Terry threw a pass to Jessie Hernandez for the two-point conversion. In the second quarter, Mac Smith picked up a Packer punt at the 50-yard line and ran it all the way for a TD. Terry then completed his second pass to Hunter Craig to make the score 16-0 at the half.

T.J. Nickleberry ran back an interception 35 yards for a touchdown to start the third quarter. Alex Couch Jr. threw a pass to Seth Foster to make the score 24-0 after three quarters.

In the fourth quarter, Antonio

Shorter broke loose from 40 yards out for another Cowboy TD. Couch then threw a pass to Shorter for the two-point conversion.

Andrew Curtis engineered a fourth-quarter drive for the Packers and Curtis displayed some outstanding passing skills. Curtis took the ball in from the three-yard line with time running out to make the final score, 32-6.

DALLAS (AP) — There's certainly no shame in being three points worse than Class 5A's top-ranked Tyler John Tyler. When that team is from Class 4A, such a loss is considered quite an accomplishment.

Voters in The Associated Press high school football poll took all that into consideration and kept La Marque atop 4A in the ranking released Monday despite a 35-32 loss last Friday night.

Never before has a No. 1 team lost and held onto the top spot. That's just another first to come from the first game between No. 1 teams from different classes.

While La Marque's non-movement is the highlight of this week's poll, there was plenty of movement in 5A and 2A as newcomers took over the eighth through 10th spots in both classes.

Lufkin, Beaumont West Brook and San Antonio Churchill moved into the 5A poll, replacing Fort Bend Dulles, Converse Judson and North Mesquite.

The seasonlong merry-go-round in the 2A rankings continued with defending champion Iraan falling out along with Rosebud-Lott and Stamford. Garrison, Stanton, Lexington and Quanah took their place.

The 4A, 3A and 1A lists barely changed.

That's not usually the case when a ranked team loses, even if it is to a ranked team from a bigger class.

In the only other such game this year, Burkeville dropped from No. 7 out of the 1A poll after losing 55-0 to 2A No. 5 Alto.

Borger, Dumas, Randall emerge as leaders after District 1-4A openers

PAMPA — Borger, Dumas and Randall came away as the big winners in District 1-4A openers last week. Pampa, Caprock and Hereford will be looking for the win column while Canyon plays its first district game this week-end.

After their 13-0 loss to Dumas, the Harvesters, 1-3 overall, take on Hereford at 2 p.m. Saturday in the annual homecoming contest. Hereford, 1-4 overall, fell to Borger, 35-18, in its district opener.

Borger meets Canyon and Dumas tangles with Caprock in other district clashes. Randall plays Palo Duro in a non-district game. Randall opened district play with a 47-20 win over Caprock.

Dumas at 4-0 overall remains the only unbeaten team in district. Borger, Randall and Caprock are all 3-1. Canyon is 1-3.

In team scoring, Dumas is averaging 24.5 points per game to lead the district. Borger leads the district in offense, averaging 429 yards per game. Dumas is the defensive leader, allowing 114.5 yards per game.

Bears face quarterback woes

By RICK GANO
AP Sports Writer

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Wins? The Chicago Bears don't own one. A quarterback dilemma? That they might have.

Coach Dave Wannstedt said Monday the plan is for Rick Mirer not only to start Sunday's game against New Orleans but to maintain that role for the remainder of the season — if he can show some improvement.

That's news to Erik Kramer, who started the first three games this season and relieved Mirer in last Sunday's 27-3 loss to Dallas. Kramer said he was told by Wannstedt that Mirer would be given one more week to prove himself and "see what happens."

It's a muddled situation for an 0-5 team that can't move the football or score points. The Bears have gone 11 quarters without a touchdown and managed just 13 points the last three games.

Mirer's quarterback rating is 43.5. He's thrown four interceptions and no touchdown passes and the Bears have failed to reach the end zone in either of his two starts.

Lady Harvesters host Caprock

PAMPA — The Pampa Lady Harvesters go for their second win in a row in District 1-4A volleyball action tonight, meeting Caprock at 6 in McNeely Fieldhouse.

The Lady Harvesters won their first district match in five outings last Saturday, defeating Canyon, 8-15, 15-5, 15-13.

"It was a marathon match and we're looking for the same thing against Caprock. They're the type of team that keeps the ball in play," said Pampa head coach Sandra Thornton.

Pampa has a 10-8 record for the season. Caprock is 0-5 in district and 4-13 overall. The district leaders are Hereford (5-1), Randall (4-1) and Dumas (4-1).

The Lady Harvester showed considerable improvement in their serving in the match against Canyon.

April Lopez was 15 of 16 in serves, including 8 points and 1 ace. In serves received, Thornton said Katy Cavalier had one of her best matches of the season with 23 of 23. Keili Earl was 17 of 17.

Lisa Dwight led the Pampa offense with 13 kills, followed by Lisa Kirkpatrick with 10 kills and Cavalier 9.

In setting, Crawford was 66 of 67 with 21 assists and Lopez was 51 of 51 with 18 assists. In digs, Crawford had 17 and Cavalier 16.

Pampa also won over Canyon in the junior varsity match, 15-9, 15-10.

Harvester scramble held at Hidden Hills

The annual Harvester Golf Scramble was held last weekend at the Hidden Hills Public Course.

Proceeds from the tournament went to benefit the Harvester basketball program.

The team of Mike Hood, Pat Coleman, Bob Olson and Keith Gilchrist won the Nicklaus Flight. The team of Elmer Wilson, Dale Haynes, Carl Johnson and Butch

Reynolds won the Woods Flight. Results are as follows:

Nicklaus Flight

First place: Mike Hood, Pat Coleman, Bob Olson and Keith Gilchrist, 61.

Second place: Lee Garcia, Bill Robben, Danny Cagle and Howard Musgrave, 62.

Third place: Jeffy Brown, Chadd Giles, Todd Collier and Joey Mendoza, 64.

Woods Flight

First place: Elmer Wilson, Dale Haynes, Carl Johnson and Butch Reynolds, 59.

Second place: Bill Hammer, Ronnie Loter, Jerry Stephens and Tim Whupkev, 61.

Third place: Sam Haynes, Jeff Nicklas, Dick Dunham and T.B. Moore, 62.

'Pokes win but can't impress themselves

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Not even meeting a training camp goal can cause harmony at Valley Ranch.

Dallas was 1-3 in September a year ago. They reversed it this September. It was a goal the players and coaches talked about.

But the long faces at the lockers of the offensive players paint a somber story.

"You are dealing with a bunch of players who are realistic," quarterback Troy Aikman said on Monday. "Everyone is happy around here with a big 27-3 win except the offensive players."

The Cowboys could manage only 180 yards total offense against the winless Chicago

Bears on Sunday and Aikman was thrown around like a rag doll, sacked three times and hit almost every time he threw the ball.

"It's very frustrating and disappointing to get only 180 yards and we've just got to do better," Aikman said. "That's why there is a cloud hanging over this team."

Dallas, with a 3-1 record, flipped last year's 1-3 September. They've been one-week wonders, whipping Pittsburgh in the opener 37-7 but unable to handle blitzing defenses in a loss to Arizona, and wins over Philadelphia and the Bears.

"We've always been able to handle the blitz in the past," Aikman said. "But we're not able to take advantage this year. Teams are going to keep doing it against us until we beat it."

Aikman threw two touchdown passes against the blitz on Sunday but spent most of the day picking himself off the artificial turf of Texas Stadium.

"The defense kept us in the game," said fullback Daryl Johnston. "The offense only put up 10 points. It wasn't good. I know it was one of the poorest games I've ever played. Still, it isn't time to press the panic button although we very easily could be 1-3. We're fortunate we're 3-1."

1 Public Notice

NOTICE OF APPLICATION
Hochstetler Chemical Group, Inc. has applied to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) for renewal of Air Quality Permit No. 5083A for the existing Pampa Plant boilers, ash handling, and coal handling facilities located on US Highway 60, West of Pampa, Gray County, Texas. The facility emits the following air contaminants: oxides of nitrogen, sulfur dioxide, volatile organic compounds, carbon monoxide, and particulate matter. A person who may be affected by air contaminants emitted from the existing facility may request a hearing. If the applicant demonstrates the existing facility will comply with all applicable air quality requirements, the applicant will qualify for issuance of a permit renewal. The subject of a hearing would be limited to applicable air quality requirements, which do not include issues such as water quality, noise, traffic safety, or zoning. If a hearing is held, it will be a legal proceeding similar to civil trials in state district court. To request a hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number, and fax number, if any; (2) the applicant's name and permit number, (3) the statement "I request a public hearing;" (4) a brief, specific statement of how and why emissions from the facility would adversely affect you in a way not common to members of the general public; and (5) the location of your property relative to the facility. Hearing requests or comments on the application must be received in writing at the Chief Clerk's Office, MC-105, TNRCC, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087, within 15 days after the second publication of this notice. This notice is to be published on September 25 and September 26, 1997. A copy of the registration is available for review and reproduction at the TNRCC Office of Air Quality, 12124 Park 35 Circle, Building C, Austin, Texas 78753. Registration documents and further information may be obtained from the TNRCC Amarillo Regional Office, Air Program located at 3918 Canyon Drive, Amarillo, Texas 79108-4996, telephone (806) 353-9251. Individual members of the public who wish to inquire about the information contained in this notice or to inquire about other agency permit applications or permitting processes should call the TNRCC Office of Public Assistance, toll free, at 1-800-687-4040.
