AUSTIN (AP) — A 9-yearold girl who lived in squalor until her rescue by authorities this week seems to be responding to therapy and even has started talking.

"She said her first word today," Susan Wills, executive director of the Children's Shelter and Assessment Center of Texas, told the Austin American-Statesman on Thursday. "Mama."

The girl was removed from her rat-infested Austin home on Monday and arrived in Ms. Wills' shelter on Tuesday. Since then, she has given staff members signs of hope.

Wednesday, she laughed for the first time since being removed from her home. She plays with toys and responds to children's music, particularly the theme from "Beauty and the Beast," Ms. Wills said.

"She's showing remarkable response to the simplest hings — touching her hand, saying her name, smiling at Ms. Wills said her," Thursday. "Hearing her laugh yesterday, that was a moment." Shelter workers said the girl's case is not unique. The shelter took in 200 children last year and turned away another 200 for lack of space. "What people need to know," said volunteer Terri Harmon, "is that these horrible things happen all the time." The 9-year-old was placed in emergency state custody Monday, six days after Child Protective Services case worker Kathryn Allen visited the home after a neighbor's complaint and found it filled with rats, trash and rotted furniture The girl's grandmother told Ms. Allen the girl was mentally retarded, did not speak and had never gone to school or seen a doctor. District Judge F. Scott McCown has scheduled an Oct. 31 hearing to determine if the girl will remain in the custody of the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services. At the shelter, the girl has been examined by doctors and mental-health experts. Other sessions are planned with psychiatrists and psychologists. "I think with services, this child may blossom," Ms. Wills said. "We see the glimmer of the promise that so much more will be there."

Pampa ISD investment earnings up

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY Staff Writer

Money making money.

It's a comforting thought that sounds even better when the concept is applied to taxpayer money yielding approximately $777,570 for something worthwhile - something like education.

And guess what? That's what your dollars did last year in earnings from the investments made by the Pampa Independent School District.

Mark McVay, Pampa ISD Business Manager distributed the annual investment report to school board members at the last board meeting with a list of how the money was invested from Sept. 1996 until August of this year.

The $14,550,478 invested during this time was split between four different options. The greatest amount, 46.4 percent, went into a large money marketing type account called Texpool.

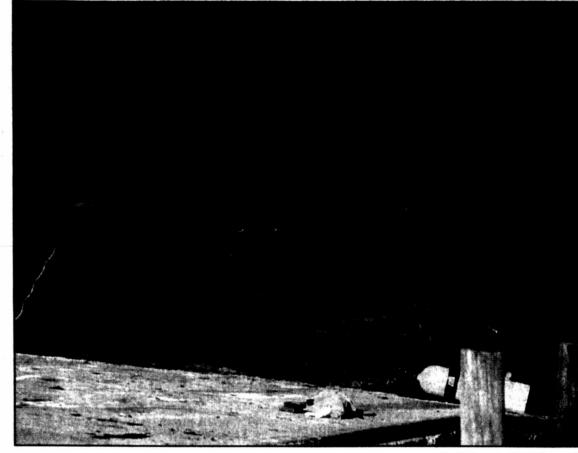

Texpool is an investment option that allows all Texas governmental entities to put their money into this "pool" with no time limits or restrictions as to how long it must stay there. Basically, it holds the money and makes interest until you need that money back.

Water meeting Tuesday

A public meeting designed for review and comment on the initial delineation and proposed water planning region rules is Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Hazelwood Building in Panhandle.

On Oct. 1, the Texas Water Development Board announced its intention to divide the state into fourteen water planning regions. In the initial draft, Region A covers the entire Ogallala Aquifer.

This would encompass 25 million acres, 40 counties, in excess of 100 cities and communities and contain seven groundwater conservation districts. Region A would be larger than 13 of the nation's states.

Of course, the hope for advancing to the state competition Nov. 3 is not lost on Collins or members of The Pride of Pampa Marching Band. But, although hopeful, Collins won't be disappointed if Pampa High School is not named among the top two in the area competition.

"I'm realistic to know that's a real tough thing to do," he said.

All bands performing in the area competition have already achieved first-division or superior ratings at their regional events. This increases the level of competition, said Collins. In addition, the smaller size of the Pampa band and the first performance slot could work against them. It's difficult to rank the first band as the top without having seen the others, said Collins of the judges.

Also, with a smaller band, it is more difficult to hide marching and musical mistakes, he said.

"Our size is going to affect us," said Collins. Regardless, he said the opportunity to perform once again and watch other performances is well worth the trip to the area competition on Saturday. "It's a chance to perform again and show how we've improved this week," said Collins.

All bands will be judged in three categories: musical competencies, marching competencies and general effect. Marching bands receiving the top two ratings in each division at the area A competition will progress to the UIL state competition in Austin on Nov. 3. Saturday's area contest will be held from noon until 10:30 p.m. at Dick Bivins Stadium.

The cost of attendance is $2 per person and is good all day.

Other area marching bands that received a firstdivision rating and will perform in Saturday's competition and their performance times are: Wheeler High School, Class 1A, 12:30 p.m.; Groom High School, Class 1A, 1:15 p.m.; Canadian High School, Class 2A, 3 p.m.; and Borger High School, Class 4A, 9:30 p.m.

A sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers: Galveston County Daily News on gun control: The issue

A 12-year-old League City girl died last week when she was shot by a 15-year-old who was being reckless with a gun.

We suggest:

The only way to prevent such tragedies is to teach kids about the danger of guns and to take steps to keep them out of the wrong hands.

For the family of 12-year-old Julie Gregory, it's too late for lessons

The youngster died because a 15-year-old boy was reckless with a gun. He faces a charge of aggravated assault a charge the prosecutor has the option of changing to manslaughter.

What happened in that house in League City last week is a tragedy for two families. One child is dead. Another might wind up behind bars.

All for a few minutes of stupidity.

Many Americans believe strongly in the right to keep and bear arms, but we strongly urge gun owners to think about what can happen when a gun falls into the wrong hands.

According to the National Safety Council, 185 American children were killed in 1994 in accidents like the one that killed Julie Gregory. Another 1,500 were hospitalized.

Ironically, Julie Gregory was shot on the day after major gun manufacturers stood with President Clinton at the White House to announce that they would install childproof trigger locks on all of the handguns they manufacture.

Such a safeguard might prevent some of the accidents that kill and maim children each year, but it will do nothing, of course, to make more safe the guns already in circulation. For those, the only safeguard is common sense, and a few lessons in gun safety.

If you have guns in your house, keep them out of the each of children. And make sure your children respect weapons for the dangerous devices they are and that they know the proper way to handle them.

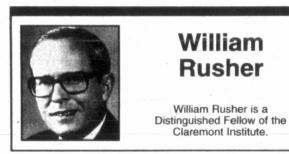

Make them plead the Fifth

As the Senate hearings into campaign finance under Sen. Fred Thompson stagger toward their final whimper and the House hearings under Rep. Dan Burton get under way, I rise to ask a simple but important question:

Whatever happened to the grand old custom of hauling recalcitrant witnesses before investigating committees and forcing them to plead the Fifth Amendment in public, with the TV cameras watching balefully?

Apparently, these days, if an important witness like John Huang doesn't want to answer lar cell of the Communist Party in New questions, he simply has his attorney notify the committee that he will "take the Fifth" if summoned to testify. The members and staff of the committee thereupon draw (and invite us all to draw) whatever conclusions seem justified from his refusal. Mr. Huang is spared the ordeal of testifying, and that's that.

Excuse me, but that isn't the way it used to be, and I respectfully submit that it isn't the Hawaii; and similar matters. way it ought to be.

As the parents of two Galveston County adolescents will no doubt attest, the penalties for failing to do so can be serious indeed.

Austin American-Statesman on "eight-liner" gambling machines:

Texas has an undeniable history of hypocrisy when it comes to gambling. If the state gets a cut of the action, then betting on an outcome loses some of its tarnish.

Texas actively promotes there state lottery and gleefully rakes in billions of dollars form it to pay for state projects and programs. Horse racing and dog racing also add to then government bounty, so they are sanctified, too.

But state leaders have adamantly opposed casino gambling. Bills to allow casinos in Texas have died quickly in the past several legislative sessions. And the Legislature is right to fend off the casino lobby, through it must so so with some embarrassment about the money it makes off other gambling operatons ...

The proliferation of eight-liner machines has brought problems the state needs to address with tighter regulation. But Texas is in no danger of becoming a new Las Vegas because of them.

Waco Tribune-Herald on Million Man March:

The Million Man March in 1995 proved to be a very positive event, even if it served as staging for a politically suspect person like Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan.

Personalities aside, from that event in Washington came a noble call for black men to assert themselves as leaders and family figures. That message is not far removed from what was heard at the Promise Keepers rally in Washington a few days ago.

Seeking to push the envelope of his appeal as a national leader, Farrakhan called on blacks to observe Thursday's second anniversary of the Million Man March as a "Day of Atonement.

In it, participating blacks would stay home from work, in part to show the void they would leave in the work force. In some cities, organized gatherings were held for dialogue.

Some of those black Americans who stayed away from the job could choose to do so because they owned businesses. Others requested a day off to which they were entitled. Hopefully, very few simply chose not to show up for work.

Whatever other controversies might be attached to Farrakhan and his penchant for divisive, sometimes racist rhetoric, and to the conservative Christian Promise Keepers, if responsibility is their prevailing theme, it can be embraced by all. Particularly the need is for males to act more responsibly as parents, to own up to fatherhood, to realize the ravages left in this country by abandoned wives and children.

It should go without saying that a big part of that responsibility must be manifested in the workplace. If a workplace boycott was Farrakhan's intent, it was contrary to the ideals for which the Million Man March stood. Jobs keep families together. Jobs mean self-sufficiency and pride. They are a living reflection of the imperative of education. It is hoped that no participant strained relations with an employer to participate in the "Day of Atonement."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. knew, as surely must Farrakhan, that economic power is at the heart of the quest. for political power and equality.

Commitment to the family, commitment to work, commitment to participate in local government, schools and service organizations - these are the essential qualities that must uplift all, and that can make our nation whole.

IRS: Knowing the numbers

Republicans were gaining an issue, the White House was getting a political headache, and the outcome was ordained: Congress is going to vote overwhelmingly to overhaul the IRS and rein in the tax collectors.

It didn't take an audit to add up the numbers.

Signing on to the inevitable, President Clinton may have blunted the GOP campaign preview that portrayed him as the defender of the government's most unpopular agency, and cast them as the friends of the taxpayer.

None of it is that simple, but that's the way it was playing before the administration scrapped its bill for modest changes at the IRS and endorsed the will-pass measure for a far more drastic overhaul.

And while the political case is Republican, the case for IRS overhaul has Democratic sponsors, too - Sen. Bob Kerrey of Nebraska cosponsored it and Rep. Dick Gephardt of Missouri, the House minority leader, endorsed it shortly before the White House came around.

It's been less than a month since embittered, wronged taxpayers told the Senate Finance Committee of their woes, and IRS agents testified off-camera, in theatrically disguised voices, about the excesses of their agency. Those three days of televised hearings dramatized a case the Republicans already were pressing. And the bill to change the IRS rolled off the sidetrack and became a streamliner.

House GOP leaders already had it on the the agency.

agenda for action this year. The Ways and Means Committee approved the measure on seek t Wednesday, 33-4. The dissenters were ment. Democrats.

In the Senate, the IRS issue this fall may center on questioning and confirming a new comm'ssioner, Charles O. Rossotti, a technology executive, to manage an agency more often run by tax attorneys. He is on Republican notice that he will have to display a powerful commitment to IRS reform to get Senate approval.

While the IRS overhaul bill probably could be passed there, too, Sen. William V. Roth, chairman of the Finance Committee, said he'd call hearings but wait until next year for action. That would reserve another round on the issue for the beginning of the congressional election campaign season.

The bill creates an 11-member board, including eight people from outside government, to oversee the agency; in a compromise with the administration, presidents will continue to choose IRS commissioners instead of yielding that the Congress is going to move." that power to the oversight panel.

The measure also guarantees new taxpayer rights and, in some cases, will shift the burden of proof in tax disputes from the individual to

A congressional commission on the IRS made the recommendations behind the bill three months ago; the administration rejected its proposals, arguing that to empower an outside board to supervise the IRS would invite conflicts of interest. The administration set up a board of senior federal officials to advise and seek to improve IRS operations and manage-

Even after the Senate hearings that started the bill rolling, the White House held to that line. Until Tuesday, when Secretary of the Treasury Robert E. Rubin went to the Capitol and changed course.

He said the would support the bill because of changes negotiated during the past week. While he said the administration would like other revisions, he wasn't insisting.

"We would sign this bill as currently drafted," he said.

Rep. Charles B. Rangel, the New York Democrat who sponsored the rival administration bill and now has signed on to the Ways and Means measure, told why.

"One of the chief assets that a legislator and certainly the secretary of the Treasury should have is to be able to count, and I think the secretary has counted," Rangel said. "He knows

Clinton knows it, too. He also knows how to adapt to what's coming.

In this case, it will be the most sweeping IRS reforms in 45 years, not on his terms but ultimately, under his signature.

Breast Cancer Awareness Month in Gray County

Visit us on the World Wide Web:

http://news.pampa.com

This month there will be a pink ribbon on the door of the Gray County Courthouse and on other courthouses across Texas as a reminder that October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The ceremony will demonstrate a commitment to fight the disease that has claimed the lives of so many women. This year an estimated 2,800 Texas women will die from breast cancer, and 11,500 will be diagnosed with the disease.

The good news is that early detection could save as many as one third of them. By celebrating Gray County Breast Cancer Awareness Day, the Texas Department of Health and the American Cancer Society, hope to increase awareness of how early detection can save lives.

This year marks the 22nd National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The goal of Breast Cancer Awareness Month is to increase awareness of the importance of early detection of breast cancer through public and professional education outreach efforts. To detect breast cancer early, women should do breast self-examinations every month, have a health professional check their breasts every year and have regular mammograms.

All women are at risk for developing breast cancer. More than 75 percent of all breast cancers are found in women 50 or older. Therefore, all women 50 or older are urged to get a mammogram and breast examination by a doctor or nurse every year. The American Cancer Society further recommends that women 40 or older get a yearly mammogram information, contact the American Cancer Society and breast exam. Getting a mammogram and breast exam only once is not enough.

Many mammography facilities offer reduced rates on mammograms during October. For more Service 1-800-4-CANCER (1-800-422-6237).

Fall Carnival set Saturday night Lecture series

As fall begins to show its face, many people's thoughts turn to new dren.

brings forth concerns in many parents minds. Concerns about costumed kids crossing busy streets, knocking on stranger doors and candy in abundance. Halloween can be a fun holiday, yet it can also be one fraught with danger and worry.

In an effort to ease this worry for many parents, the Mary Ellen & Harvester Church of Christ has instituted a fall carnival.

"We want to be a safe place in Pampa. We want to provide an avenue which is fun for families, yet is also safe for the kids," said Jeff Dunn, youth minister at the church.

This fall carnival will consist of many activities and surprises for children, all with a biblical basis.

"We are not trying to carry out any campaign against Halloween," said Dunn. "We just want to provide a safe place for kids to experience that fun."

The carnival will feature a "trick or treat" style walk through the church's building where Bible characters will hand out candy to chilthings. Fall brings thoughts of football, leaves and holidays. This time also "Many parents are concerned about the imagery of Halloween,"Dunn said, "The ghosts and goblins are replaced in our carnival by representations of actual biblical characters, and instead of seeing Frankenstein, the kids are greeted by Moses.

The carnival will also consist of songs, skits and puppets. This entertaining presentation is free to the community. The church is able to do this through the gracious donations of its own members as well as Wal-Mart, Alco, and Albertson's.

"We want to provide kids the fun of getting candy and dressing up without all the other things which might be associated with that, says Dunn.

The carnival will start at 7 p.m. on Oct. 25 at the Mary Ellen and Harvester church building across from the high school. The program and festivities will last until around 8 or 8:30 p.m.

Parents are encouraged to join their children. Kids can dress up if they choose, but it is by no means required.

"We want kids to have a safe environment," said Dunn, "Ultimately, this is what this is all about."

Florida county adopts Bible-based curriculum

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) - Public schools in this Gulf Coast county may teach Bible studies under a policy the school board adopted despite legal advice that it won't withstand a constitutional challenge

The 3-2 vote for an elective curriculum on the New Testament came after hours of heated debate Tuesday night on an issue that has divided this southwest Florida community for two years.

"You are allowing my community to be torn apart by bringing a very personal subject, one's religion, into the classroom," said Michael Jenkins, who was among 70 residents who spoke.

Parent Against Sports Bras Should Snap Out Of Attack

DEAR ABBY: A few nights ago, a girls' soccer team was practicing in a local field. We live in a hot, normally dry climate, but recent weather changes have made our humidity higher than usual, and very uncomfortable. Many of our players — ages 13 and 14 — were wearing sports bras. Sports bras are seen as outerwear and are worn by joggers, cyclists and aerobic dancers.

A parent approached some of the girls, called them "sleazy" and shamed them for their choice of apparel. While our organization has no precise rules for practice wear, we allow what our community deems acceptable. The parents of our team are standing behind our players' choices.

Abby, this vocal parent then went on to make phone calls to numerous girls' homes and chastised them over the phone. Your thoughts, please.

ARIZONA PARENT

DEAR PARENT: The parent you described appears to be slightly unbalanced and quite intolerant. He or she was out of line to scold the girls or call them names. And telephoning them at home is even further beyond acceptable boundaries. The parents of the offended girls would have been within their rights to order the person not to bother their daughters again.

Since all the parents are

If this parent views the other players' attire as harmful to his or her daughter's morals, the child may ultimately be withdrawn from the team.

DEAR ABBY: You have undoubtedly received many letters about the 11-year-old boy who was adopted by a gay man and is now living with two dads.

Well, here's one more:

Five years ago I adopted an 8year-old special-needs child after the system had given up on him. The caseworkers considered him unadoptable, but I fell in love with him in the first five minutes and I've never faltered in my commitment to him. When I told him I wanted to adopt him, he was the happiest kid I'd ever seen. He had believed he would never have a family. When I told him I was gay,

Since then, my son has become a bright, affectionate 13-year-old, and I take a great deal of pride and joy in watching him grow toward manhood. Our adoption was finalized $2^{1/2}$ years ago and all our relatives showed up to make it a very special day. We know how precious family is.

There are many older children and special-needs children in the system who will never be adopted due to a critical shortage of qualified adoptive parents. In the past 10 years, there have been more than 100,000 adoptions by qualified gay men and lesbians. Each and every one of these adoptions is an opportunity for a child to have a loving family. CLEVELAND (AP) - As far as television was concerned, the numbers for the World Series aren't getting bet-

Florida's 8-7 victory over Cleveland in Game 5 of the World Series Thursday night got an 18.5 rating and a 30 share on NBC, Nielsen Media research said today.

The national rating, which was to be released later today, was expected to be the lowest for a Game 5 on record. The previous low was the 19.0 for the 1993 series between the Philadelphia Phillies and Toronto Blue Jays.

Cleveland's 10-3 victory over Florida in Game 4 Wednesday night got a 15.5 rating and 26 share on NBC, Nielsen Media research said Thursday. The rating was the second-lowest ever for a Game 4 in prime time, ahead of only the 14.7 for the final game of the earthquake-interrupted World Series between Oakland and San Francisco in 1989.

FOOTBALL

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) Steve McNair is starting to have fun in the NFL.

He is no longer the worstrated quarterback in the AFC. During the Tennessee Oilers' current two-game winning streak, he hasn't thrown a single interception.

When he runs now, it's by design rather than scrambling for his life. And when he's at the line, he is changing signals and making switches that his coaches approve.

"I feel more comfortable in the system, and the more and more I feel comfortable with it, the more I can do," McNair said. "It's not like once I get back there, I'm a sitting duck. I'm not going to sit and wait for someone to get open. That's a bad thing to do."

Over the past two weeks, McNair has looked more and more like the quarterback the Oilers wanted when they drafted him in the first round in 1995. He has raised his quarterback rating more than 10 points to 71.8, throwing for three touchdowns with no interceptions. Now he's ahead of San Diego's Stan Humphries (70.5) rather than bringing up the rear for AFC quarterbacks. When in trouble, McNair can run and is second on the Oilers in rushing yardage behind Eddie George with 279 yards. He's averaging seven yards a carry. While the coaches only called one quarterback draw and a bootleg McNair against for Washington last week, he wound up running 10 times for 53 yards. Coach Jeff Fisher said McNair knows the coaches prefer that he throw but he knows when he needs to run. "Once things break down and it's not there, ... I'm moving around trying to make things happen and to break down the defenses and put a lot of pressure on them," McNair said.

CLEVELAND (AP) - Thanks to their lucky charm Orel Hershiser, Hershiser in their first-ever game the Florida Marlins are just one as a franchise in 1993, now head win away from their first World home with a chance to become the first championship since 1948. That

The 22-year-old Hernandez, boosted by some Cuban food sent earlier in the day from Miami by singer Gloria Estefan, allowed seven hits and left in the ninth. Game 6 is set for Saturday night in the warmth of Pro Player Stadium. Chad Ogea will pitch against Florida's Kevin Brown in a rematch of Game 2, won by the Indians.

The never-say-quit Indians tried to rally in the ninth. Bip Roberts reached when first base umpire Ken Kaiser did not see Hernandez tagging the bag while covering on a grounder and Omar Vizquel singled. That knocked out Hernandez after 142 pitches.

Nen, who struggled in a 14-11 victory in Game 3, gave up the hits Hernandez beat the 39-year-old to Justice and Thome before Sandy Hershiser for the second time in Alomar, who had homered and the Series and improved to 4-0 in driven in four runs, flied out short of the warning track in right.

Marlins just one win away from series title

Alou, who got a $25 million, fiveyear contract as one of several high-priced free agents signed by the Marlins, was not done after his third homer of the Series. He singled and scored in the eighth and got his fourth RBI of the night and ninth in five games with another single in the ninth.

"They kept throwing me a lot of sliders and I kept chasing them," Alou said. "I missed the first pitch, 2-1, he hung me another slider and I took advantage."

But bolstered by repeated encouragement from his teammates, Hernandez calmed down. The MVP of the NL championship series allowed only three hits after the third inning. He overcame eight walks, and escaped his biggest jam when he got Marquis Grissom on a grounder with two he hung me a slider. Then I got to runners on base to end the eighth with Florida ahead 7-4.

Hershiser once again looked nothing like the pitcher who has won MVP awards in the World Series, ALCS and NLCS. Tagged for a record-tying seven earned runs in the opener, he allowed six runs in 5 2-3 innings.

A single by Gary Sheffield and a walk to Bobby Bonilla set up Alou's homer. A bases-loaded walk by reliever Eric Plunk made it 7-4 late in the sixth.

Alomar gave Hershiser the cush-ion he needed — at least, it looked that way - when he launched a three-run homer in the third. A pair of two-out singles set up Alomar's drive into the left-field seats.

Alomar set a couple of postseason records with his shot, albeit he had the benefit of an extra round of playoffs. His 19 RBIs are three more than Fred McGriff's mark from last year.

Tech tangles with Aggies

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - In the moribund world of Big 12 South football, Saturday's most, important matchup pits teams that lost by a combined 48 points last week.

Yet for No. 20 Texas A&M and Texas Tech, a league championship bid could hang in the balance on a wintry afternoon in Lubbock.

"I guess we're playing for who. stays in the race," Red Raiders coach Spike Dykes said. "That's what it boils down to."

His counterpart agreed. "You would really be fighting an uphill climb if you got yourself two conference losses early in this race," head Aggie R.C. Slocum said.

Either A&M (5-1, 2-1 Big 12) or Tech (3-3, 2-1) will control its own destiny in the South race once, they're done with each other. The, loser will need help from the alsorans.

As usual, the teams bring similarities to their old-time Southwest Conference rivalry, though all aren't positive. For instance, A&M lost 36-17 to No. 14 Kansas State last week while Tech fell 29-0 to top-ranked Nebraska. Each also enters play with its top offensive threats hobbled and unlikely to play. Red Raiders receiver Donnie Hart is trying to shake a hamstring injury; a bruised knee has hampered Aggies rusher Dante Hall. 'Injuries are an inevitable part of this game. ... We have tried to prepare for that by playing a number of players," Slocum said. Sirr Parker, who has 438 yards on 69 carries already this season, should inherit Hall's playing time. With 562 yards on 70 attempts, Hall had been the slightly more effective tailback of the tandem. Besides Hart, Tech Zebbie Lethridge has been slowed by a sprained right ankle that has limited the usually mobile quarterback lately. "My style of play is to be able to run as well as to be able to pass," Lethridge said. "Hopefully this week I can come in and do the things I feel comfortable doing." Kansas State quarterback Michael Bishop's combination of speed and pass accuracy dismantled what had been a stingy A&M defense. But partially because of his ankle, Lethridge has lost 69 yards on the ground over the last four games after gaining 116 his first two.

reunion of champions

Mustang Memories: Wheeler High School will hold a reunion of former Mustang football players the weekend of Nov.7-8. They will be recognized during halftime of the Nov. 7 game between Wheeler and Booker. A reception will be held Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m. at the high school. The reunion-reception not only includes former players, but also coaches and managers. They will also be admitted free to the game.

That group will have some fond memories to live over. Wheeler, a traditional powerhouse, won state championships in 1977, 1979 and 1987

The 1977 team will draw some special recognition since it was 30 years ago the Mustangs stampeded past White Oak, 35-13, for the state title.

Wheeler beat High Island, 33-21, for the '79 championship and slipped by Bremond, 23-21, in '87.

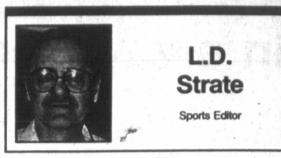

Some may recall that disappointing 1984 season. The Mustangs had put together one of their finest teams ever, but were eliminated by Munday, 20-17, in a heartbreaking loss in the second round of the playoffs. Munday went on to become state champions. It could have easily been Wheeler.

If more information is needed on the reunion, call Wheeler High School at 806-826-5241

Pampa-Borger series: Pampa may have lost the battle, but not the war against Borger last Friday night. Borger beat Pampa, 30-20, but the Harvesters still own a 34-30-2 series advantage against the Bulldogs. The two teams first met back in 1929.

Here's an interesting statistic: Not many teams with a losing record will have more first downs than their opponents. However, the 3-4 Harvesters have collected 85 first downs compared to 81 for the other side. The second quarter has been Pampa's best scoring quarter after seven games. The Harvesters have scored 31 points in the sec-ond. The least amount has been the first quarter with 10 points scored.

The third quarter has been a bad one for Pampa. The Harvesters have surrendered 45 points in the third. Opponents have tallied 24 in both the first and second quarters.

New basketball coach: The son of former TABC President and current Cypress Creek boys' coach Ray Murphree has joined the basketball coaching staff at Pampa this season. Jason Murphree played for Incarnate Word in San Antonio before going to Panola Junior College in Carthage as an assistant.

Speaking of basketball, a new season is almost here. Both the Pampa boys' and girls' teams open at home against Sanford-Fritch. Midnight Madness - which is fast becoming a traditional way to announce the new season in high schools and colleges across the country — is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 30, starting at 8 p.m. in McNeely Fieldhouse.

The PHS cagers will be scrimmaging each other and prizes will be available for fans to win.

To Baylor, even lowa State looks tough to handle

AMES, Iowa (AP) - On a schedule that includes Nebraska, Michigan, Miami, and Oklahoma, winless Iowa State must look like the next best thing to an open date to the Baylor Bears.

Not so, says Baylor coach Dave Roberts, whose 1-5 team visits Iowa State on Saturday.

"I'm concerned with us playing anybody right now," Roberts said. "We're a little bit undersized and we're awfully young. We're playing hard. We're just not playing real well sometimes.

Still, the Bears have more to crow about this season than Iowa State (0-6), which has lost 13 straight dating back to last year and has been outscored 273-97 in its last five games.

Baylor at least has a victory -37-35 over a Fresno State team that upset Air Force — and the Bears almost beat Oklahoma. They failed on a 2-point conversion try with 28 seconds left last week and lost to the Sooners 24-23.
