MIAMI — There will be a special meeting in the administration building at 7 p.m. Monday of the Miami ISD board. Business items include appraisal district board appointments, appointment of a committee to review board policy update 57, bus bids and transportation needs will be considered, a district academic excellence indicator system report and an update on the district's funding lawsuit against the state.

LUCAS, Texas (AP) — Animal cruelty investigators are trying to get to the bottom of the death and mistreatment of more than 70 head of cattle in this North Texas town.

SPCA of Texas officials discovered rotting animal carcasses in a 140-acre patch of land they've dubbed "the bone yard," just off Estelle Road and Farm to Market 1378.

Investigators found 12 dead and dozens more "extremely malnourished," said SPCA North Branch Director Ed Rose.

The SPCA "humanely destroyed" two other cows beyond medical help, he said.

A seizure warrant served by the Collin County Sheriff's Department identified Claude Brewer as the cattle owner. Brewer, who leases the land in Lucas, told the SPCA he is an Allen resident.

- Juanita Adams, 59, homemaker, Pampa resident since 1958.
- Thelma M. Clarke, 95, a P.E.O. teaching organization member for 50 years.

There's interest in home-equity loans

A lot of Texans are wasting no time jumping on the home-equity loan bandwagon. And that goes for some Gray County residents, too.

After Texas became the last state in the union to permit the loans when voters approved a state constitutional amendment to permit the change many banks reported a surge in interest.

At Boatmen's First Bank in Pampa, the home equity loan business "has been pretty good especially since it is foreign to Texas," said Steve Brown, assistant vice president. "We've had about five or six customers a day" since Tuesday.

Because home equity loans haven't been available, Brown says most people

"just forget about" the possibility of borrowing on that asset.

Brown said many of the loan customers Boatmen's is seeing "want to pay off high-interest credit card debt.

"With home equity loans you can pay off debts...usually at a lower interest rate and get the tax benefits, too," Brown said. He was referring to the fact interest payments on home equity loans are tax deductible. Also, some people who have been through bankruptcy and can't qualify for traditional loans, may be able to get a home equity loan, the banker said.

For loans of up to $25,000 with a 60-month payoff, Brown said the current interest rate is 8 percent. With a 120-month payoff, the rate is 8.5 percent.

Loans over $25,000 with up to five years payoff, are carrying an interest rate of 7.75 percent.

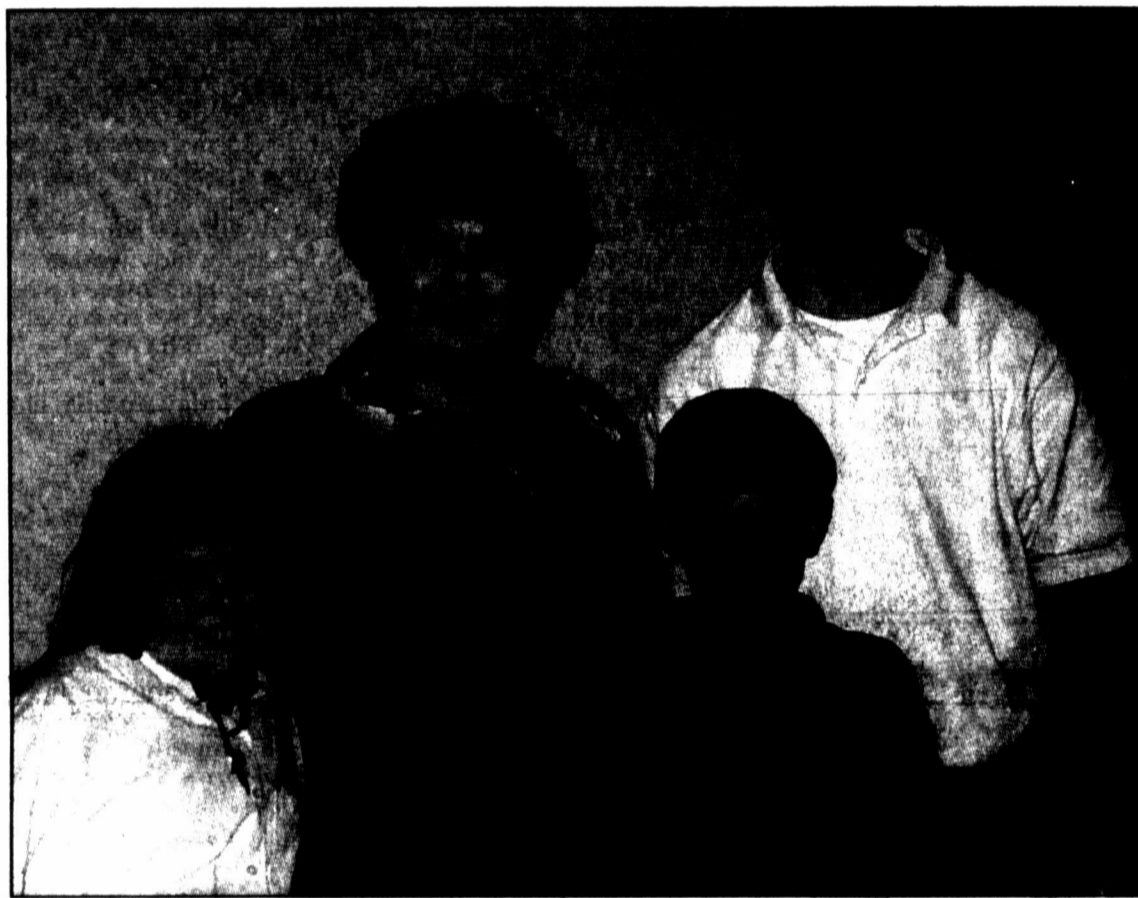

Elsewhere in Texas, small businesswoman Dee Dee King said, "It's about damn time," after 60 percent of the Texans voting Tuesday approved the amendment.

The 46-year-old Liberty Hill woman and her husband hope to expand their small landscaping business, Flowerbeds and Watergardens, by borrowing on their home.

"We've already talked to a mortgage company and they're sending us an application," Mrs. King said.

Family, church, teaching at heart of woman's life

By MIRANDA G. BAILEY
Staff Writer

At the heart of principal and teacher Lynn Smith there is a student. A student of life. A soul who seeks after truth, thirsts for knowledge, and hungers to share that with the lives of those who come into her path. And what a path she has.

Smith is the administrator of Community Christian School. In addition to keeping up with the curriculum, the staff, the students and the day-to-day operations of a private, Christian school, Smith also teaches seventh-grade English and Spanish.

Born and reared in a ranching and farming family in Wheeler County, Lynn came to Pampa when she married Herb Smith, the owner of Foto Time. She has steadily helped her husband through the years with his businesses. And somehow in between, she managed to home school her son during his middle school years and remain actively involved at First Baptist Church.

"Most of my activities have been centered around church all my life," Smith said.

She plays the piano, sings and says she loves music and would eventually like to do even more with the musical talents the Lord has blessed her with.

"But I have always taught children," she said.

Smith received her secondary education college degree at Hardins-Simmons and studied both English and Spanish. She recalled a bus tour of Mexico she took with a girlfriend in 1973.

LOANS

She's not alone.

Workers at several banks say their telephones have rarely stopped ringing after the vote to allow the loans.

"I couldn't even fathom it. There are far more than we expected, I'm sure," said Kurt Marstin, a consumer banker at NationsBank's Virginia telephone center. "I'm talking thousands. This is a large call center and we are getting crushed."

"The fact that home-equity loans are being offered in Texas will open the floodgates for a giant untapped market. The estimated untapped equity is more than $140 billion," added Darryl Ewing, manager of public relations for Bank of America Texas.

Texas had been the only state to prohibit general-purpose loans based on equity, which is the difference between a home's market value and the amount owed on it. The state allowed equity loans only for limited purposes, such as paying for taxes or home improvements.

Propositions 8's supporters — led by lending institutions — said lifting that ban would give Texans access to what's really their own money. Opponents — including the Texas Farm Bureau and organized labor — said the ban has protected Texans in hard times.

The home-equity lending measure provides for a 12-day cooling-off period to allow borrowers to back out of a loan without penalty and has a "non-recourse" provision, so only the home can be taken if someone defaults on a second mortgage.

The loans of up to 80 percent of a property's value can be used for a variety of purposes, Ewing said, such as paying for unexpected medical expenses or college tuition.

"A lot of people who have not necessarily been able to get the financing they need to make those kinds of purchases now will be able to invest in the equity in their homes to make that happen," he said. "I think that's exciting for Texas homeowners."

Although some banks took out full-page newspaper advertisements after the constitutional amendment passed, Bank One is delaying its blitz because right now, all the bank can do is calculate homeowners' equity, said Dean Angel, a spokesman for Bank One's southern region.

"Until January, they really cannot get the loan. They can't get their hands on the money," Angel said.

State Attorney General Dan Morales issued an opinion Thursday to allow consumers to apply for home equity loans before the Jan. 1. However, the amendment's 12-day waiting period won't be triggered until the law takes effect.

Still, Angel applauded the loans, which he said will make another financial tool available to consumers.

"It's something Texans have never had and all the other states have had it," he said. "Any opposition has been because people have been afraid there may be some default on their homes. In other states, it hasn't proved to be a detriment at all."

"I think Texans are just as smart as people in other states."

they were false and/or with heedless and reckless disregard for whether they were false and without any factual basis.

Roach says in the complaint, filed Friday in Roberts County District Court in Miami, that as a result of the articles' publication he is also exposed to financial injury. He also Roach is the attorney of record on the court papers for both lawsuits.

Identical letters to the editors written by Brown and published in The Pampa News and The Booker News in Lipscomb County are attached as exhibits to the suit.

In the letters, Brown writes that a Roach political ad in both papers which incorporated the masthead of The Canadian Record implies Roach is endorsed by her newspaper.

Brown wrote that such an endorsement could be nothing further from the truth and said the candidate had not earned or requested to use the masthead. Further, the editor said, "Roach is a habitual offender of honesty and ethics..."

The other exhibit contains an editorial written after the election in which says Roach made a "...gross misrepresentation of the truth" in reference to accusations that his opponent, John Mann, had given probation to child molesters.

The letter also addresses Roach's use of the above-mentioned advertising of a supportive letter to the editor that showed The Canadian Record's masthead in the advertisement.

The suit seeks general damages in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of the court.

WOMAN

"It was great!" she said laughing. She has been instrumental in her church during her life in Pampa. Lynn and Herb taught in the preschool division at First Baptist for 13 years and she taught in the children's choir program for a number of years as well.

Most recently Smith has undertaken the responsibilities of being administrator of the two-year-old Pampa Community Christian School. She confirms that she is enjoying her position.

"I like being able to work with teachers and children," she said. "It's been very stretching."

When asked to come up with three words that describe her best, Smith took a few moments to think and quietly answered.

"I believe I'm content. I have learned to be content," she said.

"And responsive, I hope that I'm responsive rather than reactionary," she added.

"Response comes after evaluating and praying about it versus a hasty decision, or being harsh, and usually, in my opinion, the wrong thing to do. So I'm learning to be more responsive," she explained.

Last, but certainly not least, Lynn Smith described herself as loving.

But she discussed her desire to investigate things, and her love of studying.

"I love education," she said.

Smith thought about the time in her life when she wasn't teaching and described how wonderful and endearing even the very smell of a school building was to her.

"In a school, there is a smell, an aura like no where else," she said.

So she came back into education.

"I always pictured this time in my life to be a time when I was going to sit down and rest. But God didn't let me do that when I got involved in the school. I see it's now in these years that God can use me to make a difference," she said.

"I have these years and hopefully I will make a difference. And I hope it has an eternal purpose, especially in the lives of the youth I've worked with."

FLAGS

"Patriotism and loving flags is not emphasized in the schools enough," he said. "Plus a lot of the kids' parents help with what we're doing, so there are a lot of positives in the flag project."

It's because of the help of the 4-H members that the flags get to now fly twice a year — on Memorial Day as well as Veterans Day, he said.

"We want to encourage as many local vets to interact with these kids as possible," Tripplehorn added. "And I encourage everyone to go out and see the flags."

Cuts in coffee prices trickling down

CINCINNATI (AP) — Grocers across the country began cutting their coffee prices this week in response to a drop in wholesale prices announced earlier by manufacturers.

Prices have been falling on the world market due to improved supplies and the prospect of a bumper Brazilian harvest next year.

The price of unprocessed green coffee on commodity markets closed at $1.50 a pound Friday, compared to the 11-year high of $2.23 a pound in May and a peak of $3.44 in July 1994.

Cincinnati-based Procter & Gamble Co. on Monday cut the U.S. list price of a 13-ounce can of Folgers — the nation's best-selling coffee — by 30 cents. That dropped the list price — what manufacturers charge stores — of regular ground Folgers to $2.76, and decaffeinated ground Folgers to $3.46.

Kraft Foods, of Tarrytown N.Y., maker of the competing Maxwell House and Yuban brands, also announced a 30-cent decrease, said spokesman Pat Riso.

But consumers probably won't see any price breaks at restaurants and specialty stores such as Seattle-based Starbucks, which has 1,400 stores in the United States and Canada.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers: The Monitor (McAllen) on mass spiritual gatherings:

In little more than a year we have seen the Million Man March, the Promise Keepers gathering and, most recently, the Million Woman March. All three were convened with the stated purpose of fostering responsibility, honoring the family and building a better life for our children.

But the segregation these events required is the very opposite of the kind of unity that is required to meet those goals. These groups now need to join along with other people in our society to foster the changes for which they gathered.

Such gatherings had their good and bad points. On the off side was the fact that even though they were offered to keep families together, they split them apart at least for the weekend. The first two were for men only, while just women were invited to Philadelphia last weekend.

However, some analysts say the gender-specific congregations allowed participants to meet on common ground without feeling the need to worry about how a spouse would react. Another selling point was the focus on individual responsibility, rather than a call for government to fix their problems.

An underlying issue also was empowerment of the various groups. Black men felt they are too often stereotyped as derelict in their duties to their families. The Christian men saw themselves as a silent majority who needed to exert their common concerns, and the women felt that they were perceived as people who couldn't take care of their own charges. Together they could show that such generalizations shouldn't be made.

Victoria Advocate on IRS overhaul:
President Clinton's sudden change of heart on the IRS overhaul bill must strike true anti-tax conservatives as both delightful and distressing.

Delightful because it means the overhaul is now all but certain to become law and because it showed Clinton once again as inconstant, abandoning a long-held fortress at the first sign of attack.

But it was also distressing for conservatives to realize that once again — just when they had him right where they wanted him — Clinton had dodged the punch. In fact, the president has positioned himself to play the hero when he signs the bill in the Rose Garden, thus stealing the idea from Republicans.

...If Clinton has rarely been accused of consistency, he has certainly shown political acumen. By leaving the IRS to its fate, he has once again walked away from the ramparts of big government, depriving Republicans of their most convenient bogeyman.

Houston Chronicle on lottery troubles:
The Texas Lottery has a problem, not with the integrity of its games — there is no evidence of trouble there — but with its image.

Ticket sales are down. Fewer citizens are playing the scratch-off games, and that means less revenue for the state. To make matters worse, the Texas Lottery Commission has fired its second executive director, Lawrence Littwin only four months after he was hired. The public is worried about what's going on, with good reason.

Events over the last year have created many questions about the lottery in the minds of the public. Unanswered, the questions give way to suspicions.

...The experience of other states has shown that lottery sales tend to decline as players become more aware of the odds against their winning. If it is to produce state revenues anywhere near expectations, the lottery has to be open and above board in all its dealings, with controversies quickly defused by public disclosure of all the relevant information.

At this point, the lottery commissioners have an uphill climb ahead of them.

San Antonio Express-News on federal whistleblowers:
A ruling by a federal judge in Houston challenges the ability of whistle-blowers to file suit against government contractors for fraud and abuse under the federal False Claims Act.

If it is upheld on appeal, it will undercut taxpayers' ability to point to those who cheat government programs.

The False Claims Act is a necessary tool in the battle against corruption. Since 1986, it has been used to recover $1.8 billion in false claims and penalties.

In the 1980s, whistle-blowers helped curtail notorious abuses by defense contractors. In the '90s, the targets are health-care providers who make false claims.

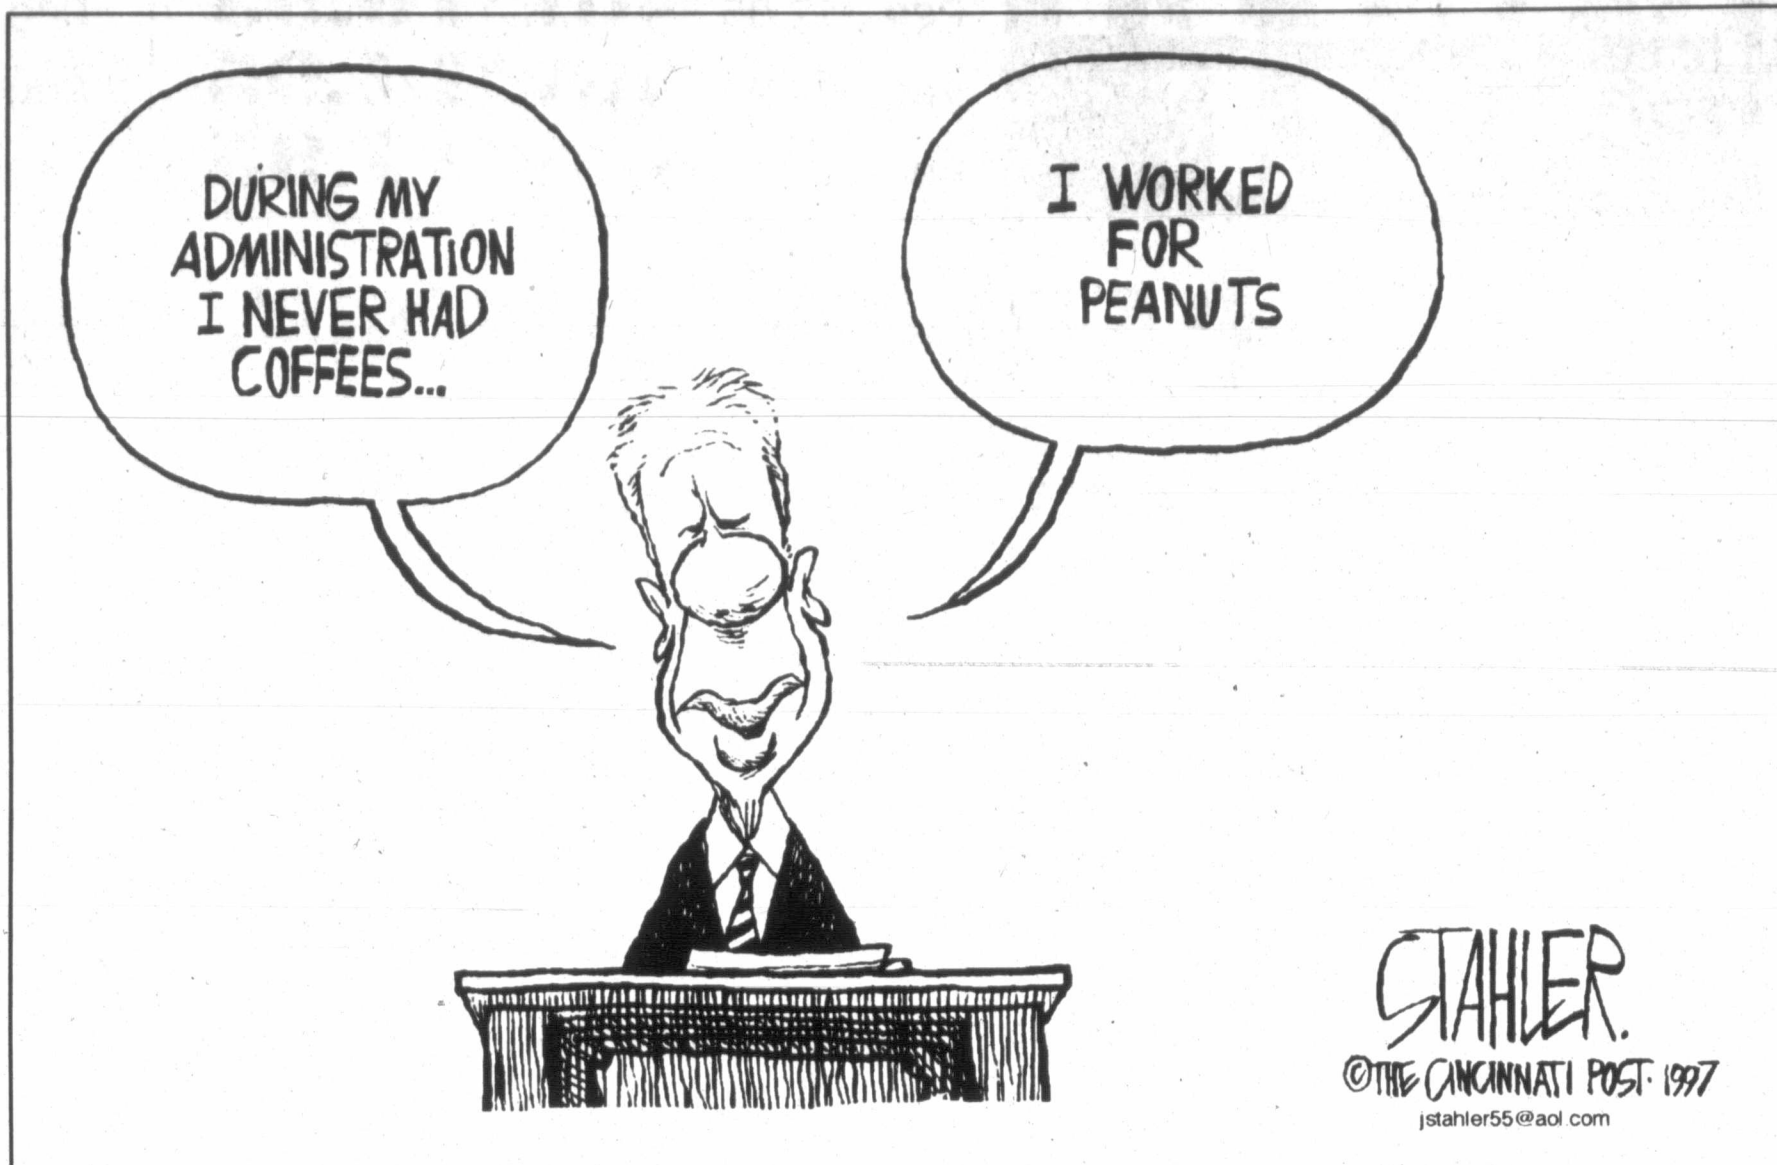

A San Antonio physician, Dr. Charles Robinson Jr., was one of the whistle-blowers who filed against SmithKline Beecham for double-billing Medicare, the taxpayer-provided health-care program for senior citizens, resulting in a $325 million settlement, the largest Medicare fraud recovery to date.

Whistle-blowers were instrumental in the Justice Department's ongoing probe of HCA/Columbia, the nation's largest health-care provider, for alleged Medicare fraud.

The inspector general of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services estimated this year that 14 cents of every $1 paid in Medicare claims — about $23 billion last year — was fraudulent.

The Houston case involves a nurse who sued St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital. Federal Judge Kenneth Hoyt ruled her suit is unconstitutional.

If the appellate court finds him correct, it will undercut this law and the ability of taxpayers to root out cheats who abuse government programs.

Pictures equal proof!

Oh yuck! Did you see my picture in my column on Thursday? Could I look more bad. Actually, yes I could ... but let's not go there. I think I'll try another picture.

I had to get my picture taken, well, actually, a ton of mug shot-type pictures taken almost two years ago for one of my acting classes in college. So, that's why I have these pictures. Otherwise, all you would find on me would be those trillion-zillion pictures my mom took of me as a kid.

Don't you hate pictures? That's the focus of my sermon for this column. Not really. I don't preach do I?

Not that preaching's bad. It can be a good thing. Better than getting your picture made, unless you're a model, which I am not.

Then, if you're a model it must be tres cool to get your picture taken because you make tons of money doing it. But still, I'm hoping that even models hate getting their picture made sometimes. I'm banking on it. Why? Because I have the sincere opinion that we all have those days when we would just rather not smile or try to get all dolled up. Is that how you spell it? Dolled?

Miranda G. Bailey
Pampa News staff writer

Back to the subject — pictures bite the big one, don't they? Especially when someone is trying to take your picture when you are simply are not in the mood. Like Christmas! All you want to do is open your presents, but nooooooo, you have to hold it up and let mom take a picture first!

But I finally have come to treasure pictures these days, to tell you the truth. Like my mom just sent me pictures of my brothers and my husband when they went on a hunting trip a few weeks ago. It was hilarious seeing those three guys with shotguns in one hand and dove heads in the other. No, I'm not sorry I didn't make the trip, but thank goodness for pictures and some proof that supports my life-long claim that all the men in my life are maniacs!

See, pictures are good for at least one thing: proof. Proof that shows you were 10 pounds lighter at one time. Proof that you were a baby. And proof that, like it or not, the camera does not lie. Wait. Pictures are also good for another thing. For it's definitely true that a picture can say a thousand words. Or in my case, it can produce 344 ... at least so far. (That was the word count on this document up until the word "produce.")

See, if I hadn't seen my hideous picture, I would not have felt the strong urge to sit directly down in my chair and type an absurd explanation of why my picture is so lame.

So there.
Smile.
Say cheese.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, Nov. 9, the 313th day of 1997. There are 52 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Nov. 9, 1965, the great Northeast blackout occurred as several states and parts of Canada were hit by a series of power failures lasting up to 13 1/2 hours.

On this date:
In 1872, fire destroyed nearly a thousand buildings in Boston.

In 1918, Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm II announced that he would abdicate. He then fled to the Netherlands.

In 1935, United Mine Workers president John L. Lewis and other labor leaders formed the Committee for Industrial Organization.

In 1938, Nazis looted and burned synagogues as well as Jewish-owned stores and houses in Germany and Austria in what became known as Kristallnacht.

In 1953, the Supreme Court upheld a 1922 ruling that major league baseball did not come within the scope of federal antitrust laws.

In 1953, author-poet Dylan Thomas died in New York at age 39.

In 1963, twin disasters struck Japan as some 450 miners were killed in a coal-dust explosion, and 160 people died in a train crash.

In 1967, a Saturn 5 rocket carrying an unmanned Apollo spacecraft blasted off from Cape Kennedy on a successful test flight.

In 1970, former French president Charles De Gaulle died at age 79.

In 1989, communist East Germany threw open its borders, allowing citizens to travel freely to the West. Joyous Germans danced atop the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole formally announced a bid for the Republican presidential nomination during a visit to his hometown of Russell, Kan.

Five years ago: Visiting London, Russian President Boris Yeltsin appealed for help in rescheduling his country's debt, and urged British businesses to invest.

One year ago: President Clinton used his weekly radio address to condemn the decision of the nation's distillers to end their voluntary ban on airing hard-liquor ads, calling it "simply irresponsible."

Evander Holyfield upset Mike Tyson to win the WBA heavyweight title in an 11-round fight in Las Vegas.

Today's Birthdays: Actress Hedy Lamarr is 84. Sportscaster Charlie Jones is 67. Baseball executive Whitey Herzog is 66. Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., is 61. Actor Lou Ferrigno is 45. Rock musician Dee Plakas of L7 is 37. Rhythm-and-blues singers Mike and Ike Owensby of Twice are 29. Rapper Pepa of Salt-N-Pepa is 28. Rapper Scarface of Geto Boys is 28.

Thaw not in China's future

The nation's capital is atwitter, I'm told, over the state visit of Jiang Zemin. Jiang's seven-day U.S. tour is said to signal a thawing of Sino-American relations, which took a turn for the frosty following the 1989 Tiananmen Square massacre (which Jiang described as "much ado about nothing"). But while things may be warming up between Washington and Beijing, China is far from being a friend of the United States.

Not as long as it continues to deny its people the right to democratically choose their leaders. To brazenly trample upon human rights by sentencing thousands of political dissidents to slave labor camps.

To build up an offensive military capability that poses an increasing threat not only to China's immediate neighbors, but also to the United States. To pursue a protectionist trade policy that denies American products the access to China's market that Chinese-made products enjoy in the United States.

Now, that is not to say that China has replaced the former Soviet Union as the "Evil Empire." Or that U.S. defense strategists ought to develop a "containment" policy for China (at least not at the moment). Or that the United States and its allies ought to banish the world's most populous nation to isolation.

But there ought to be no illusions about China. No matter what goodwill gestures Washington makes toward Beijing, no matter how many summits there are between Jiang and Clinton, China will remain stuck in its authoritarian ways. And Chinese officials have told American officials as much. "We oppose any interference in China's internal affairs," said Yu Shuning, a spokesman for the Chinese Embassy in Washington. "We do not welcome" any advice from the Clinton administration, he added.

Joseph Perkins
Joseph Perkins is a columnist for the San Diego Union-Tribune.

Despite such declarations, there are still members of the U.S. foreign policy establishment, so-called "internationalists," who continue to believe that Beijing can be swayed. And they advocate policies toward China that border on appeasement.

The most obvious example is in the area of trade. Over the past decade, Beijing has knowingly pursued a mercantilist trade policy with the United States, limiting imports of American goods and services, while building up exports to the United States.

The result is a huge trade imbalance in China's favor. In fact, the Commerce Department projects a record $50 billion trade deficit with China this year. That's up from a record $40 billion trade deficit in 1996, which was up from a record $34 billion in 1995.

So how does the appeasement crowd propose to reduce America's trade deficit with China? By selling the Communists nuclear technology, which ostensibly would be used to build electricity-generating reactors (but which also could be used for weapon-making purposes).

The decision is up to President Clinton. If he certifies that China has satisfied the conditions of a 1985 law, which permits commercial nuclear trade only with those nations that practice nuclear non-proliferation, then Beijing will get American nuclear components.

But it is highly premature to certify China as a committed member of the non-proliferation community. For while Beijing has acceded to both the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty and the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, that hasn't stopped Jiang's government from making arms transfers to terrorist states.

Indeed, barely a year ago, a top secret CIA report revealed that China sold cruise missiles, advanced radar components and nearly 400 tons of chemicals (for weapon-making) to Iran. Previous U.S. intelligence reports revealed that China sold missile technology to Syria and nuclear technology to Pakistan.

If the Clinton administration ignores these intelligence reports and clears the way for China to buy U.S. nuclear technology, that hardly will improve Sino-American relations.

It will only signal to Beijing that it can continue to conduct business as usual — trafficking in military technology, practicing unfair trade, violating human rights, staunching democracy — and the paper tiger of the West will sit idly by.

Letters to the editor

What does it take to get help in Pampa?

To the editor:
I am writing this letter on behalf of myself and probably a lot more people like me in Pampa.

You keep seeing in the Pampa paper bring more economy to Pampa, bring more businesses in, bring more people in, make people stay ... Well, I have lived in Pampa almost all of my life with the exception of the first six years of my life. I was raised here. I raised my kids here, and my parents are buried here. But I'm beginning to see why people don't want to stay here. It's probably the attitude of Pampa people.

I know cancer is a deadly disease and dreadful. But there are other diseases just as bad. Diabetes is one of the worst there is. It takes as much toll on the victim and family as any other disease. I've been through heart attacks, one pretty good stroke, pretty bad, several mini strokes — more than I can count in the last year with my husband.

He hasn't even eaten but very little in the last year. He lost 100 pounds. He went from a normal 56-years-old to the equivalency of an 80- or 90-year-old man. There are times when he falls down. Ninety-nine percent of the time he doesn't know if he is here or there.

A month ago, he was told he needed open heart surgery. He had it only recently and is still being watched very closely. He had it in order to get well.

I have been working all the time trying to make a living and take care of him, too. Sometimes up and down all night and working in the day.

I have gone about as far as I can go and felt like it was time to ask for help.

I'm always reading about all the help there is for people. When I started asking, I found out all the help in Pampa needed was utility bills paid, and that I shouldn't have taken an extra few days off after the surgery on my husband. I should have been working to pay my bills instead of asking for help.

It made me sound like I was a bum and like people like me should not even be on the face of the earth.

Now is there something wrong with me and other people in town? If some of these other people that's so high and mighty think it's funny to go through what myself and others go through, let them go to bed just one night worrying about what they are going to lose besides being under the stress of illness and being the caregiver and breadwinner.

Is Pampa turning in to a dog-eat-dog town? Do you have to belong to big clubs and wear fancy clothes and be in a certain type or class of people before you can get help?

Some of us can't afford to do those things. Even laundry soap and toilet paper are almost a luxury at times. They are always saying help the needy. What do they call needy? Are all those people that are so concerned about helping and donating to a worthy cause just doing it for show and tell? So their friends will have something to talk about? Where's all the help they so generously offer?

Altrusa is indeed a worthy organization

To the editor:
The Altrusa Club has done it again. They have sponsored one of the best get-togethers ever for the Pampa Sheltered Workshop. On the evening of Oct. 23, they sponsored our recognition banquet for our volunteers.

Thank God for the good people of Pampa and their dedication to the participants of the Pampa Sheltered Workshop. We were able to recognize over 30 volunteers that have made an appreciable difference in the services provided to our participants through their volunteerism to the Sheltered Workshop.

The appetizers were fantastic, the program presented by workshop participants was stupendous, and all of the volunteers, parents and staff enjoyed a very fun-filled evening.

Thank you Altrusa Club for sponsoring a very worthwhile evening for the Pampa Sheltered Workshop participants.

Charles moves London home to please sons

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles is swapping his modest London apartment for a bigger home so his sons can stay with him in London.

Charles, who returned last week from a tour of southern Africa, plans to trade his flat in St. James's Palace for a larger five-bedroom home in the same complex of buildings, a royal spokesman said Saturday.

Princes William, 15, and Harry, 13, have always loved London life.

After their parents divorced in 1996, the boys stayed with Princess Diana in her spacious apartment in Kensington Palace when they were in London.

The Red Cross saved my family after tornado

To the editor:
My name is Jacqueline Mears. I am 22-years-old. I just want the people of this community to know a few things.

About nine years ago, the Red Cross did some things for my family. A tornado hit our trailer house taking the roof off and ripping one side of the trailer open. A telephone pole went through the wall and destroyed my bed. If I hadn't been in Colorado at the time, I would have been hurt. The American Red Cross paid for the materials for the roof to be replaced and a new bed for me!

I don't think the people of this community realize what this chapter of the American Red Cross does to help the people of this town. Lynda Duncan does not just work there, she dedicates her heart and soul to this Red Cross. People here need to understand what all it takes to make this Red Cross function. Everything isn't always as easy as they may think.

We don't need another dollar coin in circulation

To the editor:
Rep. Michael N. Castle of Delaware plans to introduce a bill authorizing a new "Statue of Liberty" dollar coin.

His idea shows good thinking in his proposed use of a non political object rather than a political figure, as this will prevent an immediate knee-jerk reaction from half of our citizens. Rep. Castle is working on question number two; however, as he has neglected question number one: "Does the nation need or want a circulating dollar coin?"

Question number one was answered almost 100 years ago, and the half dollar stopped circulating about 25 years ago.

After Rep. Castle tells how many half dollar or dollar coins he has in his pocket, I will decide if I should listen to his reasons for promoting a new dollar coin.

We deserve to know the truth about our water

To the editor:
I agree and disagree with Anne McKandles. Most of the prisoners would probably never, EVER, hurt the children, but we never know what is in someone's heart. Several years ago there was a child molester living on my street, unbeknownst to me, he molested his stepdaughters. God only knows the dangers lurking around us. We are living in strange times, all sorts of things are happening. I want the children safe.

On the other hand, after sittings through a trial recently, my own experiences, experiences of my friends, I am also very suspicious of some of the judgments of the court. Will the real crooks please stand up? When I was young I never questioned the integrity of lawyers or, heaven forbid, judges. Now many of our judges are Godless men, and lawyers — well ... ??? What in God's green earth are they teaching in law school these days? Con, greed, connive? What is it, "Greed 101"? How to slay our own clients in five easy lessons? Really, it's incredulous!

Take it easy, I didn't say allllll of you, but I would estimate, well... I won't estimate.

I am still very angry about the water situation here. I still believe there are BIG problems with our water. What about it Promise Keepers, where are the men of God? Is our water safe to drink or not? I've been drinking spring water and will continue to do so. New people coming to town don't know of our little secret, do they? Seems to me the least thing God's real people could do was make sure our drinking water is not going to kill us.

This town is in need of a 'good' mall ...

To the editor:
Pampa needs a good mall. If we had it then many people would have a job. And even more teens would have jobs. That would be great! More people would move to Pampa because there would be many jobs. We already have the building. Now all that we need now is some stores to put in it. The mall would entertain people too.

Pampa should construct some type of tourist attraction

To the editor:
I am surprised you would devote so much space to a one-sided attack on your town. (Editor's note: the writer is referring to a letter that ran Oct. 19th)

As an attendee at the 55th reunion of my Lefors High School, held at the Coronado Inn, I came away with appreciation for the outstanding attempts to operate a hotel with totally new and inexperienced help. Almost all employees were completely untrained, but they kept the place open and almost all tried especially hard to see that as possible were fixed. Two refused "tips" for coping with a situation they felt was the fault of the hotel (but not one they caused). The cook and assistant, with only two days notice since departing staff failed to record a commitment for our banquet, organized, purchased, cooked, and served as good a meal as most local cafes.

The people were kind and polite; the "Coney" still has wonderful memories, White Deer Land Museum is outstanding. The brick streets and other nostalgic landmarks were intact.

We began to joke about the challenge of overcoming the missing amenities (after all we were children of the depression era so we knew how to cope). We appreciated the efforts and mostly ignored the failures. The hotel could have closed down during their trying transition period and left all of us adrift. Half a loaf is better than none????? (I believe this).

The hotel coped with the Lefors reunion (we meet every two years so we weren't so surprised at changes in Pampa as if we'd been absent 50 years) and they had the Pampa High School 50th reunion the same weekend, Oct. 4, 5, and 6. I say we were lucky they tried and kept the hotel open. The drives to Borger (great oil boom museum) and Lefors (back road) were beautiful! Palo Duro is lovely; the Quarter Horses Museum in Amarillo is on par with Los Angeles dinosaur museum.

It's a pity more Pampa students didn't come to reunion

To the editor:
As a member of the Pampa High School Class of 1967, I had the pleasure of attending our 30th Class Reunion on Aug. 2.

The reunion organizers, Mary Britton Cantrell, Doris Bray Reed and Larry Franklin, did a fabulous job in planning the event. A special "thank you" to the entire committee for a job well done! Classmates traveled from all over the world (Saudi Arabia) and the United States (Alaska, Wyoming, California and New Jersey, to name but a few) to attend the gathering.

I was profoundly touched by my classmate's achievements as well as their perseverance and survival in the face of extreme adversity. The event was truly a fellowship of remembering and caring!

I am, however, extremely disappointed that the majority of our classmates who still reside in Pampa did not make the effort to attend the reunion. Many journeyed great distances at considerable expense to be a part of the 30th Reunion. It's a shame that those could not drive a few miles.

The Class voted to have a 35th reunion in 2002. Maybe those still in Pampa should mark their calendars now.

Retired judge is mediator

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A retired judge has been appointed to mediate differences between Texas Attorney General Dan Morales' office and San Antonio lawyers who have filed a class-action lawsuit seeking billions of dollars in interest on past-due child support.

District Judge John D. Gabriel on Friday appointed retired District Judge Peter Michael Curry of Bexar County to act as mediator.

Gabriel said he would allow Curry 30 days to resolve objections by Morales to the suit filed by San Antonio attorneys Steven A. Sinkin and Richard R. Orsinger.

They lived with Charles only at Highgrove, his country house in Gloucestershire, west of London.

Since Diana's death on Aug. 31 in a Paris car crash, the boys have had no permanent London base, and Charles has said he wants to be close to his kids.

The new apartment is being renovated and will be ready early next year, after the royals' traditional Christmas at their Sandringham estate in Norfolk, the spokesman said on customary condition of anonymity.

St. James's Palace, built by Henry VIII, is the official residence of the monarch, although Queen Elizabeth II lives at nearby Buckingham Palace.

Parrots may be smart as chimps and dolphins

CHICAGO (AP) — Calling someone "birdbrain" is not as insulting as you might think.

New research suggests that parrots, like chimps and dolphins, are capable of mastering complex intellectual concepts that children cannot handle until age 5.

Pet experts gathering in Chicago on Friday for an American Veterinary Association forum believe the parrot's intelligence is why the bird has grown faster in popularity than any other pet over the past decade.

Irene Pepperberg, an ecologist and evolutionary biologist at the University of Arizona who studies the intelligence of parrots, has focused her studies on a bird she bought at a Chicago pet store in 1977.

The parrot, Alex, can name 50 objects when shown them, knows colors and numbers up to eight and even understands the concepts of same and different.

"All of the tests we've done with dolphins and great apes to investigate their intelligence, we've done with Alex," Pepperberg said. "He scored as well as they did in many of them, better in some."

Intelligence doesn't always equal a good pet, however. Experts said parrots can be domineering.

"I have seen entire families, their German shepherd included, buffaloed by a bird," said Chris Davis, a parrot psychology expert. "They are never subservient."

But Liz Wilson, a parrot-behavior consultant from Philadelphia, said she has heard of cases in which people come home feeling blue and their parrot asks: "Is something wrong?" "You have to earn their love. I like that," she said.

60 baby orangutans confiscated from traders

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian authorities have confiscated at least 60 baby orangutan apes this year from illicit wildlife traders.

The red-haired apes were confiscated in Surabaya, East Java, throughout the year and are now being cared for at the Wanariset Samboja conservatory on the island of Borneo, the official Antara news agency reported Friday.

It quoted Willie Smits, chief of the conservatory, as saying hunters usually kill mother apes in order to capture the babies. The report did not say whether any of the traders had been arrested or prosecuted.

Smits said earlier that at least 120 orangutans have been tortured or killed by residents as the primates were forced out of their habitat by wildfires now raging on Indonesia's islands of Borneo and Sumatra.

Fires in Indonesia have been burning for months and have smothered a large area of Southeast Asia, with thick smoke haze. Large tracts of rain forest, the orangutan's habitat, have been destroyed.

Board overrides objections Texas school textbooks tentatively adopted

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education today adopted a slate of books for use in classrooms beginning next fall, overriding contentions that a proposed biology textbook gives too much weight to evolution and an algebra book waters down math.

One board member, David Bradley of Beaumont, tore the cover off of the algebra book to show his displeasure.

While a state law prevents the board from rejecting books based on content, they can reject them for manufacturing defects.

Bradley, in objecting to the book, said the board should be able to regulate content and that he would use the binding provision as an excuse to reject the book, if necessary.

Ripping the cover off the book with some effort, he said, "Ladies and gentlemen, worthless binding. I reject the book."

The board voted 9-5 for the slate of books covering algebra, art, biology, business computer courses, computer science, exploratory languages, French, geometry, Latin, microcomputer applications and spelling. The state expects to spend $177 million on the new materials in next fiscal year.

Voting no was a five-member bloc backed by religious conservatives. But the five emphasized that they supported all the books except for algebra, biology and art.

The five are Bradley, Richard Neill of Fort Worth, Robert Offutt of San Antonio, Randy Stevenson of Bullard and Richard Watson of Gorman — all Republicans. One seat on the board, which has a total of eight Republicans, is vacant.

School districts that choose books from board lists get them at state expense. Districts can buy books not listed by the board, but they must pay for all or part of them with their own money.

One listed book — Biology: The Living Science, published by Prentice Hall Inc. — was targeted by Watson, who raised concerns about its treatment of evolution. Watson contended that "glaring weaknesses" of the theory aren't presented.

"The Darwinian hypothesis is on very shaky ground to begin with," Watson said.

Book author Kenneth Miller outlined for the board examples in which care was taken to cite what is theory and what is fact. He said the book contained a fair statement of the strengths and weaknesses of evolutionary theory.

Miller added that the "undercurrent" to the debate is that evolution is critical of religious beliefs. "If it were, the authors of Biology: The Living Science would have none of it," he and his co-author said in a statement.

Watson sought to move the book from the board's so-called conforming list, which includes texts that meet all state knowledge and skill requirements, to the non-conforming list, which includes texts that meet at least half the requirements.

requirements. The state pays for books chosen by school districts from either list. The effort failed 9-5.

Neill criticized a high school algebra book, published by Addison Wesley. He said it watered down math instruction by including such things as poetry, recipes and recycling.

"There are chili recipes. You can use it as a cookbook. ... There's lectures on what environmental sinners and destroyers we are," Neill said, adding he has heard from teachers who agreed with him.

"If we are forcing them (teachers) to mix garbage recycling and Vietnam war protests with math, they can't do their job," Neill said. He said he also had been told the book had errors.

Robert Kelley of Addison Wesley said the publisher followed state curriculum requirements. He said he has heard from teachers supporting the book and noted that it's up to school districts whether to choose it.

"We trust the teachers at the local level to decide what's best for the kids," he said. Several board members also defended the book.

"As a young person, I remember having recipes in my math book ... It taught me about measurements," said board member Mary Helen Berlanga of Corpus Christi.

The vote to reject that book failed on a 6-6 tie, with Republican board Chairman Jack Christie of Houston voting with the five-member bloc. Two board members abstained.

Some board members emphasized that a 1995 state law cut off their ability to regulate textbook content, a view backed by key lawmakers and an attorney general's legal opinion.

Bradley said, "We may have a new attorney general after the next election cycle that may have a different opinion."

FOOTBALL

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona Cardinals Pro Bowl defensive tackle Eric Swann will miss Sunday's road game against the Dallas Cowboys because of a sore right hamstring, breaking a string of 25 straight games.

Swann, who has a team-high 6 1/2 sacks, will be replaced by rookie Mark Smith, who will be making his first start.

Swann was bothered by the injury last week but played and had a sack in Arizona's 31-21 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Last week, I should have rested it," said Swann, who played in all 16 games last season and all nine this season. "I ended up injuring it more."

Smith, a seventh-round draft pick from Denver, has been a surprise this season. He has two sacks, six pressures and five passes defensed. Smith will square off against Larry Allen, the Cowboys' All-Pro guard.

GOLF

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Winning father-son combinations are even rarer in golf than in life. Bob Duval hopes he's started a successful one on the course this week, tied for the lead halfway through the Senior Tour Championship.

Duval's 66 Friday left him at 9-under 135 along with favorites Hale Irwin and Gil Morgan at the Dunes Golf & Beach Club.

"What's the next question now? Can I win this like David?" said Duval, whose son won the PGA Tour Championship a week ago.

"I don't know, but I've played with David, a top 10 money winner, the last two years and beaten him a couple of times, so that makes me feel pretty good," said Duval, who had seven birdies after a first-hole bogey.

KAPALUA, Hawaii (AP) — The final Kapalua International's sentimental favorite is David Love III.

And this year's PGA Championship winner is going to miss the event in more ways than one.

"It's always fun to win," Love said Friday after an eagle on the final hole put him in a tie for the lead at 11-under-par 133 with David Tom at the midway mark.

"I wasn't thinking so much about this being the last Kapalua International until I got here," Love said after his round of 66.

White Deer downs Clarendon to take District 2-2A title

WHITE DEER — White Deer's Craig Urbanczyk led the attack against Clarendon Friday night, rushing for 260 yards and two touchdowns that helped boost the Bucks to a 27-6 victory in District 2-2A action.

White Deer's offense took over early on, kicking things off with a short 4-yard touchdown scamper by Buck quarterback Jeremy Crook that was followed by an Urbanczyk extra point that gave the Bucks to an early 7-0 lead.

Then Urbanczyk took over the show, scoring the next couple of touchdowns for White Deer. The first, a 13-yard second quarter scoring rush, was followed by another extra point and sent the Bucks into halftime with a 14-0 lead. His second scoring drive was a 77-yard sprint in the third quarter that was followed by a missed extra point but still gave White Deer a strong 20-0 lead over Clarendon.

T. Dale Fulton evened out the Bucks scoring in the fourth quarter, taking the ball 3 yards into the endzone for the final White Deer touchdown of the contest that was again followed by an Urbanczyk extra-point.

Clarendon avoided the shutout by scoring the final touchdown of the game, a Scott Elliot scoring strike that found Kareem Abdullah from 21-yards out. The extra-point attempt failed, leaving Clarendon stewing with a 21-6 loss in their final game of the 1997 season.

The Bucks gained a total of 413 yards despite losing 143 due to 15 penalties and two turnovers. Out of Clarendon's total of 185 yards more than half (85) were gained through the air. Clarendon also turned the ball over once.

The Buck's victory, along with Quannah's 38-13 victory over Wellington boosted White Deer to their first playoff spot since 1993. With a 9-1 overall and 4-1 district record, White Deer claimed second in district, trailing only the undefeated Quannah squad. Clarendon finished their season at 3-7 overall and 0-5 in district action.

White Deer's first post-season game will pit them against the Canadian Wildcats in a contest tentatively scheduled for 7:30 next Friday in Pampa.

Leyland will stay in Florida; Devil Rays name their manager

NEW YORK (AP) — The Florida Marlins kept their manager. Now, they need to hire a pitching coach.

On the day Jim Leyland said he will be back to manage the Marlins, Larry Rothschild left the World Series champions and moved up Friday to become the first manager of the expansion Tampa Bay Devil Rays.

"I don't expect to hit the first month and win 90 percent of the games," Rothschild said. "But what I do expect is that the effort and preparation to win games will be there."

Also on the move was pitcher Kenny Rogers, traded along with $5 million from the Yankees to the Oakland Athletics in a deal that eventually will bring third baseman Scott Brosius to New York.

Rogers, signed to a $20 million, four-year contract as a free agent before the 1996 season, never adjusted to the turmoil of the Yankees. He nearly was demoted to the bullpen during his first spring training with New York, and his confidence never appeared to recover.

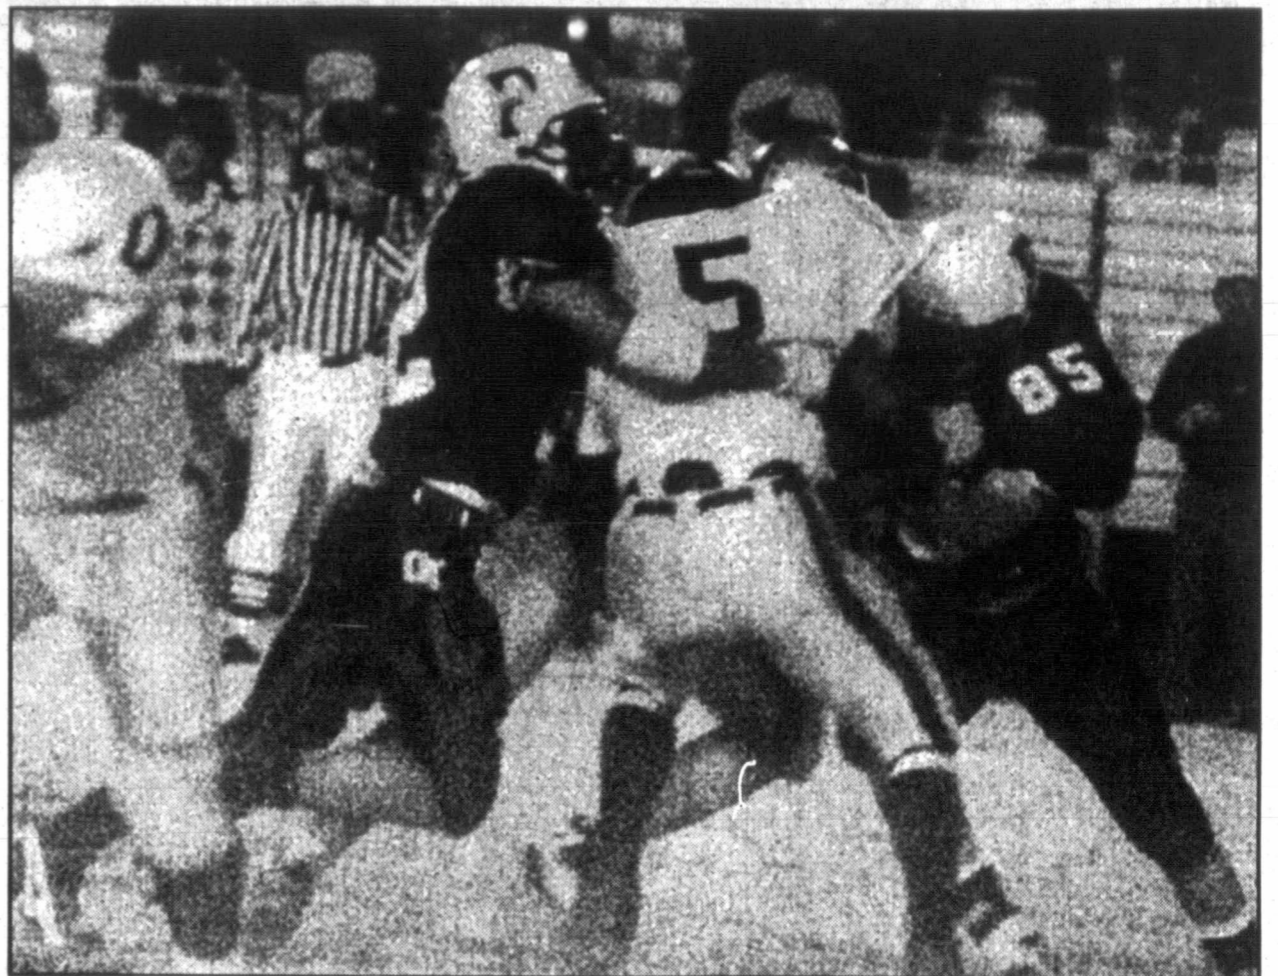

"He did not live up to our expectations or his," Yankees general manager Bob Watson said. "I don't know exactly what the problem was."

Speculation had been building about Leyland's future since Marlins owner Wayne Huizenga announced Thursday he had agreed in principle to sell the club to an investment group headed by team president Don Smiley.

"I will stay in Florida and manage the Florida Marlins in 1998," Leyland said a team charity fund raiser. "I want to give Don Smiley and his group the benefit of the doubt and make this thing work."

"I think that it is very important for South Florida that we get some stability. It would be wrong to desert these people after winning the World Series," he said. "I'm going to try to do my job to the best of my ability and see what we can do."

As teams finalized their rosters prior to the Nov. 18 expansion draft, right-hander Ken Hill declined his $4.6 million option with the Anaheim Angels and chose to receive a $400,000 buyout. Cleveland exercised its $3.35 million option on right-hander Charles Nagy; Seattle declined its $2.9 million option on reliever Norm Charlton and gave the left-hander a $125,000 buyout.

Pampa's Brandon Hill (85) and Jared White stop Randall running back Jessie Hunnicutt in his tracks during District 1-4A action Friday night at Harvester Stadium. Pampa defeated Randall, 21-12.

Harvesters end '97 season with victory

PAMPA — Pampa looked like a playoff team in defeating Randall, 21-12, Friday night.

However, Randall is the team that is going to the playoffs and Pampa will be staying home for the first time since the 1994 season.

Randall clinched a playoff spot the week before after beating Borger while Pampa had its playoff chances spoiled in a loss to Caprock last Saturday. But in the regular-season finale at Harvester Stadium, Randall certainly lost some momentum going into post-season play thanks to the Harvesters.

Randall did draw first blood, scoring on the game's second play from scrimmage — a 75-yard touchdown strike from Brian Evans to Micah Ladd. But the Raiders would not score again until victory was out of their grasp.

After a Pampa punt, the Harvesters got the ball right back when linebacker Jared White recovered a fumble on the Randall 23. On the very next play, Pampa's Justin Roark threw a 23-yard pass to Bryan Waldrip, who outmaneuvered a defender to make a leaping catch in the end zone. Josh Blackmon's extra point kick gave Pampa a 7-6 lead with 8:39 left in the first quarter.

As it turned out a strong goalline stand by the Harvesters midway in the second quarter set the stage for another touchdown. White and Vincente Martinez led a defensive charge to keep the Randall out of the end zone after the Raiders had reached the Pampa one. After the Harvesters gained possession just short of their own goalline, the Raiders drew unsportsmanlike penalties which moved Pampa out to the 30.

Three plays later, Pampa running back Erich Greer found a huge hole in the Randall line and scampered 64 yards for the touchdown.

Blackmon foiled a Randall drive with an interception and Pampa went to the locker room at halftime with a 14-6 lead.

In the third quarter another interception, this time by Dustin Hall, set up Pampa's final touchdown.

Hall stepped in front of an Evans pass near the Randall 30 and Pampa took over on the Raider 20 with 5:30 left in the third quarter.

Pampa's offense ate up the clock and Greer's one-yard plunge seven plays later gave Pampa a comfortable lead.

Randall finished with 316 total yards, but only 54 came on the ground. Pampa's defense was superb in shutting down Randall sweeps and chasing Evans out of the pocket on pass plays.

In the fourth quarter, cornerback Shannon Reed knocked down a pass in the Pampa end zone and Martinez sacked Evans for a big loss to highlight Pampa's defense.

Randall did finally score again on Shane Stumbo's two-yard plunge, but there was only 1:56 left in the game.

Brandon Hill, Justin Ensey and White made some big defensive stops for Pampa in the second half.

Pampa closes the season 4-5 overall and 3-3 in District 1-4A play. Randall is 7-3 overall and 4-2 in district.

Trail Blazers trip up Rockets, 86-85

HOUSTON (AP) — Controversy with the Houston Rockets usually comes from Charles Barkley, not Hakeem Olajuwon.

Olajuwon is more often the peacemaker, but he spouted off Friday night after Isaiah Rider's 14-foot jumper with 6.6 seconds to play rallied the Portland Trail Blazers to an 86-85 victory.

Olajuwon wanted to know why he wasn't the go-to guy in the closing minutes. Instead, the Rockets' final play was for Barkley, who missed twice for the Rockets after Rider's basket. Arvydas Sabonis rebounded the second shot and held the ball as time expired.

"I don't understand why I was not an option at the end," Olajuwon said. "When you have a big man it is not justified when I am not an option."

Wink falls to Rankin; Runge likely new 1A number one

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The end of the regular season also likely marked the end of Wink's reign atop Class 1A.

The Wildcats, ranked fourth in the preseason and No. 1 since the third week, fell behind Rankin 14-0 in the first quarter Friday night and never recovered, losing 28-23.

That loss means No. 2 Runge will probably go into the playoffs as the team to beat.

However, don't count out defending champion Windthorst. The Trojans knocked off No. 5 Alford 24-21 in the only game between ranked teams, giving them 24 victories in their last 25 games.

Only four other ranked teams ended the regular season in defeat. The most notable was defending Class 4A Division I champion Grapevine, which was shut out 24-0 by McKinney.

The usually pass-happy Lions pulled off the upset behind a career-high 335 yards rushing from Rickey Houser. His night included a 98-yard touchdown run in the first quarter.

Despite the victory, McKinney missed the playoffs for the fourth time in 15 years because of Carroll's victory over Coppell. The Lions tied Carroll for third place in district, but the Dragons advanced because of their 39-33 seven-overtime victory against McKinney last week.

It was the first district loss in two years for the Mustangs. Quarterback Jordan Wilson was just 6-of-26 for 106 yards with four interceptions.

Wink outgained Rankin 465-345 and had 23 first downs to Rankin's eight. But the Trojans were repeatedly beat by big plays from Frankie Rodriguez and Ricky Guadarrama.

Guadarrama had a 7-yard touchdown run midway through the first quarter, then he threw a 60-yard touchdown pass to Rodriguez minutes later.

Doro Mendoza's 1-yard run with 3.7 seconds left in the first half got Wink within 14-9 after a 2-point conversion attempt failed.

Early in the third quarter, Rodriguez ran 51 yards for a touchdown to extend the lead. Wink scored as the third quarter ended, but minutes later Guadarrama went 55 yards for the game-sealing touchdown.

The other four No. 1 teams all won easily, almost definitely assuring their rankings will hold when the final Associated Press poll of 1997 is released Monday. They are: Longview (5A), Denison (4A), Sealy (3A) and Elysian Fields (2A). All are 10-0.

Elsewhere, ranked losers included 5A's ninth-ranked Aldine Eisenhower falling 21-7 to Spring, Rockdale — tied for 10th in 3A — falling 10-6 to Cameron; and 1A's No. 6 Cross Plains losing 35-21 to Baird.

Among the more unique results of the night was Celeste's "victory" over Fannindel. Fannindel forfeited because it didn't have enough healthy players.

Austin Westlake, the defending Class 5A Division II champion, upped its regular-season winning streak to 65 games by defeating San Marcos 27-7.

The Chaparrals have won 26 straight and have seven straight undefeated regular seasons.

Canadian captures district title

STRATFORD — Two defensive touchdowns in the first half alone helped to boost the Canadian Wildcats to a decisive 41-6 rout of the Stratford Elks Friday night in Stratford. The victory also guaranteed Canadian's District 1-2A status as the Wildcats finished at 8-1 overall and a flawless 5-0 mark in district.

Canadian started the offense running early, beginning with a 3-yard rush up the middle by quarterback John Ashley that was followed by a Taylor Tubb extra point. Following the Wildcat's first scoring drive Stratford took over determined to find the endzone.

But an interception by Canadian's Jesus Reyna changed all that and left the Elks struggling for what might have been a touchdown saving tackle. Nonetheless, Reyna found the endzone for an 85-yard scoring sprint and after the extra point Stratford found themselves staring at a 14-point deficit with a good portion of the first quarter still left to play.

The Elks next possession was also somewhat of a let-down. Stratford was able to compromise the Wildcat defense, driving the ball within 10 yards of the endzone before being held up on the 8 yard line. Looking at second and goal, quarterback Levi James was again picked off, this time by Kevin McCasland, who sprinted the full 92 yards to the endzone adding to the gray cloud slowly forming over Stratford.

Ty Dickinson, Canadian's leading rusher with 184 yards on 11 carries during the contest, scored the next two Wildcat touchdowns, the first a 24-yard scamper in the second quarter and the second a 20-yard run in the third quarter. Both touchdowns were followed by missed extra points.

George Peyton's three yard end zone rush was the final touchdown of the game for Canadian and was scored in the fourth quarter.

Levi James 20-yard scoring strike to Eric Hernandez helped the Elks to avoid the shutout and capped off the last scoring drive of the game for either team.

Canadian finished with 391 total yards while Stratford had 361. The Wildcats had 362 yards on the ground.

Stratford finished the season at 6-4 overall and 2-3 in district action.

Canadian moves into post-season play next week, scheduled to go head-to-head with the White Deer Bucks (District 2-2A's second seed) Friday night in Pampa. Canadian fell short of the playoffs last year.

Longhorns looking at Phillips?

AUSTIN (AP) — Buffalo Bills' defensive coordinator Wade Phillips has been informally contacted by key University of Texas alumni to gauge his interest in the Longhorns' head football coaching job, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

Phillips said he is too involved with the NFL season to think about coaching moves. But a source close to Phillips told the Austin newspaper that the Bills assistant would love to be considered for the Texas job if it becomes vacant.

Stars slip by Rangers, 3-2

DALLAS (AP) — Ed Belfour had shut out Wayne Gretzky in 22 previous career meetings, but that streak came to an end Friday night as the most inopportune time for the goalie. Gretzky scored on Belfour with 7:08 remaining to lift the New York Rangers to a 2-2 tie with the Dallas Stars. "Down 2-1, we needed somebody to do something and Wayne has a knack for coming up with the big play at the right time," said Rangers goalie Mike Richter.

Once Upon A Mattress

Long ago and far away

in a kingdom ruled by an overbearing queen and a mute king, a young sad prince longed for a wife. Prospective princesses failed to pass his mother's tests until one day a beautiful, but rugged girl from the swamps arrived on the scene. Unable to sleep on twenty mattresses with one hidden pea, she was victorious and won the prince's hand.

When "Once Upon a Mattress" opened on Broadway in May of 1959, it would not only become a popular show with a run of 460 performances, but would rocket its unknown lead, Carol Burnett, to stardom. A recent rival, starring Sarah Jessica Parker, has brought renewed interest.

This musical fairy tale, full of singing, dancing and sumptuous costumes, will be presented by PHS Concert Choir, under the direction of Fred Mays and Susie Wilson at M.K. Brown auditorium Nov. 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 16 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for students. They may be purchased from choir students or at the door.

Above: Mindee Stowers and Brad Allen are the princess and the prince. Right: the queen and the wizard are portrayed by Faustine Curry and Seth Stribling. Below right: Amanda Howell and Josh Blackmon are Lady Larken and Sir Harry. Below: Andy Fernuk is the minstrel, Matthew Kirkpatrick is the king and Thann Scoggin is the jester.

Allen anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Allen will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at 2 p.m. Nov. 15 at the Senior Citizens Center in Pampa. Children of the couple will host the reception. Darwin Allen and Francis Wood were married Nov. 19, 1947. The couple have been Pampa residents for the past seven years. Mr. Allen began work for Skelly Oil Company in 1948 and retired from Texaco in 1990. Mrs. Allen was a self-employed beautician in Skellytown from 1960-1980. Children of the couple are Eddie and Linda Westbrook of Winters, Texas, Rick and Mitzi Allen of Amarillo and Hubert and Jeanne Moore of Shamrock. They have eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Top cops share arresting recipes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Even its author admits the concept of The Cop Cookbook may be difficult for food lovers to swallow. After all, how many versions of coffee and doughnuts can you stomach?

But Greta Garner-Hewitt aims to dispel the myth that all cops crave are crullers and java. Her cookbook includes more than 300 recipes from officers around the country, and from celebrities who have worn badges on TV and in movies.

There's veal cordon bleu from the police chief of St. Paul, Minn.; red beans and rice from the head lawman in Jackson, Miss.; chalupe from the chief in Phoenix; and tripe from Providence, R.I.'s top cop.

There's also tuna casserole from Dennis Franz of NYPD Blue, angel sugar cookies from Cheryl Ladd of Charlie's Angels, paella valencia from Richard Roundtree of Shuff fame, and lamb shanks from James MacArthur of Hawaii Five-O. Cook 'em, Danno!

This is your opportunity to be informed about how the 4-H money is spent and have some input into what we do during the year. This is the time to let your feelings, concerns and ideas be known.

Project groups or clubs with specific requests for money should have these in Extension office by 5 p.m., Nov. 10.

Newsmakers

CLARENDON - Katisha Jackson of Lefors recently attended Clarendon College's third annual Sneak Peek in Clarendon. An opportunity to visit the campus, Sneak Peek '97 offered Jackson the chance to meet college faculty, staff and students.

The fall event attracted more than 60 students from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Students toured academic departments, auditioned for fine arts scholarships and ended the fun-filled day at the annual intramural rodeo.

NORFOLK, Va. - Marine Corporal Russell J. Woollard, a 1994 graduate of Wheeler High School at Wheeler, Texas, recently participated in training exercises while on six month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans with the 13th Marine Expeditionary Unit.

While at Oahu, Hawaii, Woollard and fellow Marines received training on invading enemy training camps, basic infantry skills, small unit tactics, leadership and fieldcrafts. Woollard also received instruction on supervised land navigation, patrols, ambushes and night land navigation.

Woollard's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel and are divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group and a command element.

Woollard joined the Marines in August 1994.

Easy Cheesecake Enjoys Long Tradition As Family Favorite

DEAR ABBY: Ever since I was a child, my mother clipped interesting recipes from newspapers and magazines and pasted them into a scrapbook.

Finally, her scrapbook deteriorated and fell apart. Mother threw it away instead of restoring it. When I found out, I was devastated. I told her I had been hoping that one day the scrapbook would have been passed down to me. Thank goodness, several years ago, when I left my mother's nest, I photocopied certain recipes from her scrapbook. One of them was a handwritten recipe for cheesecake.

For years, I thought it was her famous cheesecake recipe. Just this week, I discovered that the handwritten recipe I copied is not Mom's famous cheesecake recipe, but yours, clipped from the newspaper decades ago.

This is my entire family's favorite dessert and Mother was always asked to bake it for special occasions. My parents divorced and my mother rarely bakes now. My father's family always reminisces when dessert time comes around about my mother's delicious cheesecake.

My brother was married last February. He bragged to his future family about what a great baker my mother was and how everyone raved about her cheesecake. He then "volunteered" our mother to bring "her" famous cheesecake to the wedding shower.

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

Well, since Mom had thrown away her scrapbook with the recipe in it, she asked me for mine. I then realized that I had loaned mine out and never got it back, so Mom tried a different one.

The results were disastrous. The crust was a watery mess. This was not discovered until the morning of the bridal shower. Mom was in a state of panic. She had to rush out and buy a cake. The shower guests had expected my mother's famous cheesecake and she was embarrassed having to explain her predicament to everyone.

So, Abby, please grant me one wish. Print your famous cheesecake recipe again. It will guarantee that the tradition of having it at our family gatherings continues for generations.

EAGERLY AWAITING
IN WOODLAND HILLS, CALIF.

DEAR EAGERLY AWAITING: I'm happy to oblige. That recipe is included in my cookbooklet,

"Dear Abby's Favorite Recipes," and it's a cinch to make.

CRUST: 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs, 1/2 cup butter (1 cube), melted, and 1/3 cup powdered sugar.

CHEESECAKE: 3 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened; 4 eggs; 1 cup sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 pint dairy sour cream (room temperature), and a 21-ounce can prepared cherry, blueberry or strawberry pie filling.

METHOD: Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Combine graham cracker crumbs, powdered sugar and butter. Press into bottom of an 8-inch springform pan.

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese, eggs, sugar and vanilla until smooth. Pour mixture over prepared crust.

Bake at 350 for 50 minutes (until center is set). Remove from oven and spread sour cream on top of cake. Return to oven and bake an additional 5 minutes. Remove from oven and allow to cool. Spread desired topping on cheesecake. Chill overnight. Before serving, carefully remove sides from pan.

Serves: 16.

Tip: To minimize cracking, place a shallow pan half full of hot water on lower rack of oven during baking. Be sure the sour cream is room temperature when you spread it on.

Horoscope

Your Birthday

Monday, Nov. 10, 1997

The entrepreneur within you will be vying for expression in the year ahead. You might become involved in some interesting endeavors in unfamiliar fields.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Make a concerted effort today not to fall behind on your list of things to do. If you start to run late or let things overlap, you're apt to do a poor job. Major changes are ahead for Scorpio in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 and $ASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Fun diversions are likely to take precedence over your serious obligations today. You could wind up falling behind in your more productive endeavors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When you shoot out of the gate today, you may be a few strides ahead of the field. However, you could peak early and end up an "also-ran."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you can grasp the essence of a situation quickly and proceed in a logical manner. Today, though, your impulsive thinking could distort your schedule.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not leave anything of value in an unlocked car today, even for a short while. It could prove too tempting to an unethical individual.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If your way of doing things conflicts with those in authority, it's smarter for you to bend a bit to make adjustments rather than demand they do so.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do your very best to eradicate hard feelings today instead of nurturing them. Reopening wounds can contribute to a headache.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not impose upon friends for special favors today. They may concur with your wishes reluctantly, but they may resent being forced to do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your chart shows you'll be more effective today if you can operate independently, especially in matters pertaining to your career.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep your focus on your work today, especially if you're engaged in a difficult assignment. If your thoughts drift, you could make errors in judgment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Subdue inclinations today to take speculative risks, especially if they have to deal with something in which another has more control than you do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not let an assertive associate coerce you into agreeing to something today that doesn't serve your best interests. You may regret it later.

Jenny Jones tours to rehab image

AP Photo NY384 of Nov. 7
By DAVID BAUDER
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wrapping up another interview on her image rehabilitation tour, talk show host Jenny Jones has one last point to make.

She's heading back to Chicago in three days to tape more episodes of her syndicated show. As of now, she has no idea what the topics will be, whether she'll talk to beauty makeover recipients, sexual abuse victims or someone else entirely.

"That's not so shocking," she says. "Why is that so shocking?"

Talk with Jones for a half hour and read her new book, "Jenny Jones: My Story," and you understand the point she's trying to make: There's so much that goes into producing the daily show that it's impossible to keep track of everything.

Yet if you're working to erase an image of being an empty vessel disconnected from the show that bears your name, it's hard to see exactly how such an admission helps.

Jones understands she's been branded for life for a sensational crime tied to her show. In 1995, Jonathan Schmitz murdered Scott Amedure, three days after Amedure revealed that he had a secret crush on Schmitz during a taping of "The Jenny Jones Show."

She became the unwanted symbol for a cultural attack on "trash TV." Then she saw her personal reputation battered by her dazed and confused testimony in Schmitz's murder trial. She blames one day's notice to testify — and a sleepless night.

The whole experience has frustrated and bewildered Jones, who is using her book and a series of interviews to, in effect, take the witness stand again.

"There's a lot of stuff there that people don't know," she says. "And if they only read that chapter of the book, some of the people that judged me and judged our show won't feel the same way. They only heard half the story."

Schmitz's defenders argued that he came on the show believing his secret admirer was a woman and was humiliated to learn it was Amedure. Jones insists that Schmitz was not ambushed, that he was told the admirer could be gay.

Even after the show, Schmitz changed his plane reservation so he could fly home with Amedure and a woman who was a mutual friend. The three went out drinking, Jones says, and Schmitz suggested three-way sex but was turned down by the woman.

"There was no sign of humiliation," she says. "I don't know what happened between them. Nobody knows what happened between them three days later... This whole thing could have happened with or without our show. People are saying that if it hadn't been for the show, (Amedure would) be alive. Not necessarily."

Jones and her staff thoroughly examined their procedures after the murder and concluded nothing had been done wrong, and nothing would be changed.

"I don't mean to sound uncaring when I say my conscience is clear, but there is nothing for us to feel any sense of responsibility for," she says. "This was a fun topic. Secret crush shows are a staple of daytime. We do it all the time..."

"People are shocked to hear me say that I would do it again, but I would do it again," she says. "I don't think there's anything wrong with the topic."

To counter her trial testimony's impression that she has little backstage involvement in putting together her show, Jones spends page after page of her book detailing what she does, including studying at home the nights before tapings.

She considers herself something of a control freak. "I'm involved in day-to-day activities," she says. "I write, discuss production ideas, discuss topics with them. I approve the makeover clothes. I run the office. I go in the kitchen twice a day and make sure it's clean."

Wait a minute. Clean the kitchen?

She's not kidding. She says she conducts surprise kitchen inspections, and woe be to the staffer who leaves a messy microwave.

The murder — she bristles when it's called the "Jenny Jones murder" — accounts for only one chapter of her book. The rest details a bumpy show biz career that includes stints as a rock-'n'-roll drummer, a backup singer for Wayne Newton, a standup comedian and a "Star Search" winner.

It also poignantly describes five operations to clean up botched breast implants and a relationship with an alcoholic mother whom Jones never could quite satisfy. In fact, she'd make a great talk show guest.

Jones says she feels comfortable in the knowledge her audience never abandoned her.

"Most of the critics don't watch the show," she says. "But the people who do watch the show never judged us."

The Market Forecaster

By George Kleinman

(Kate: This copy is spell checked, but needs to be read over.)

Wheat (Bull/Bear)

Outlook: Speculative enthusiasm for the wheat market appears to be waning. It will pick up again at some point in the future if there is an El Nino induced crop problem somewhere in the world. This could easily happen, but not right this moment. Meanwhile, the winter wheat crop in the U.S. has begun its life under favorable moisture conditions. U.S. free wheat supplies appear adequate right now. World wheat supplies are much tighter, but the market will only focus on that fundamental when unexpected new export demand develops. I still look for a robust grain market later this winter and into spring, lead by corn, but followed by wheat. For right now, however, don't look for anything too dramatic.

Strategy: Hedgers: We continue to suggest as a farmer you do not own any cash wheat. With stored grain, your risk is not predetermined, and there are opportunity costs lost. Rather, you should maintain ownership of wheat on paper with the purchase of call options. Remember, with options, your risk is limited at most to the cost of the options plus fees. Selective hedgers (those who will assume the risk of the marketplace at times) were advised to take profits on lower strike calls and should have been able to repurchase on 15-20 cent price corrections.

Traders: Last week, our stop was touched in the December Minneapolis at 389. Since our recommended entry level was in the 352 to 356 range, this was a nice profit of greater than 30 cents or $1500 per contract. Due to the uncertain trend at this time, I suggest standing aside for now.

Corn (Bull)

Outlook: The news for corn has been mixed lately. China remains a major corn exporter in Asia. As we have pointed out before, for this market to make the big gains, we will need confirmation China has banned exports. I think this will come eventually, but there is no evidence of this at present. Meanwhile, the U.S. corn crop looks to be getting smaller, not bigger. We believe a significant amount of corn, 50 million bushels or more, was lost in the unusual early winter storm last week. More definitive confirmation will come with the USDA Nov. 10 crop production report. It is my belief the government will have to lower the crop size, perhaps to under 9.2 billion bushels. This would be quite bullish to the market, but until the actual number is released we have to admit we are still dealing with the unknown to an extent. Still, we remain bullish!

Strategy: Hedgers: Look to maintain ownership of this year's production with the purchase of March at the money call options after you sell your cash crop for cold hard cash. The calls, which are trading for about 16 cents at press time, will limit your downside risk to this level. Your upside potential remains open. This makes sense from a risk to reward standpoint!

Traders: We still own March futures in the 290-295 range. Our stop is 280. Our profit objective is 320.

Soybeans (Bull)

Outlook: Despite record exports last week, the market fell a bit. It seems outside financial conditions remain as important to the soybean market as direct supply/demand factors.

The fear is a collapse in the Asian currencies or the Asian stock markets will curb the buying power of these very important customers. It is true that China, Japan and the "6 tigers" are extremely important to our export market. So are the South Americans this year. I contend, regardless of what the Hang Seng stock market is doing, people still have to eat. When the smoke clears, the fundamentals of record demand should once again prevail.

Strategy: Hedgers: We are out of all hedges at profits. We continue to suggest maintaining ownership after you sell your cash crop with the purchase of March call options.

Traders: We remain long November futures from below $6.26, and this continues to look like the low. Our risk point is now $6.64. If you have not already done so, you will need to roll this position to the January now. Leave the upside profit objective open at this time.

Cattle (Bull/Bear)

Outlook: As we pointed out last week, the major seven state supply of cattle is a whopping 8.56 million head, up over one million from last year. However, if one takes a closer look at the data, a different picture develops; at least for the longer pull. It seems the sharp increase in on-feed numbers is primarily due to a dramatic increase in heifers. Heifer and heifer calves on feed are up a whopping 21 percent. This indicates adequate beef supplies for the winter, but this is herd reduction and is very bullish for next year's outlook. It will be even more bullish if market forces again point to expansion and heifer retention at some point next year. In the meantime we have a lot of cattle to work through. Look for a choppy market in the coming weeks.

Strategy: Feeders: No future price protection is suggested at current prices at this time.

Cow/calf operators: We remain short November feeder futures. Cover these hedges under 74, or as you market your cattle.

Traders: We continue to suggest a sidelines approach at present, however, are still searching for a longer term buying opportunity.

Railroads up to one month behind hauling grain harvest

Some farmers pile up crop in the streets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The harvest-time shortage of trains is so bad in the Midwest this fall that farmers around Madelia, Minn., had to pile grain in the streets.

None of 600 cars that the Union Pacific Railroad promised to the local elevator showed up for a 90-day stretch. "No explanation. Simply no cars," the elevator's manager, John Graff, told a House Agriculture subcommittee on Thursday.

The cooperative that owns the elevator has lost $500,000 because the grain it bought from farmers could not be shipped on time, Graff said.

"We have a train wreck in this country, a wreck that is directly affecting many sectors of our economy, none worse than agriculture," said Rep. Bill Barrett, R-Neb. The approaching cotton harvest in the Southwest will add to the problems, he said.

As of Monday, the Union Pacific was 30 days behind in delivering hopper cars, and there is a two- to three-week delay on the Burlington Northern Santa Fe's lines, the committee was told.

The Union Pacific, which merged last year with the Southern Pacific, is plagued by gridlock throughout its 36,000-mile network.

The Burlington Northern blames its problems on a big crop of winter wheat, soybeans and corn. To cope with its delays, the railroad is requiring grain elevators to load trains seven days a week; Sunday had been a day off.

The Agriculture Department says those two railroads and the Kansas City Southern are delivering only about 16,000 carloads of grain a week — 21 percent less than they shipped during a severe shortage of rail cars in 1995.

In some areas, grain may start to deteriorate, said Michael Dunn, an assistant agriculture secretary.

The Surface Transportation Board last week imposed some 30-day emergency measures designed to get the Union Pacific's trains moving faster. The actions included granting trackage rights in Texas to a competing railroad and ordering Union Pacific to report weekly on its grain shipments.

The Union Pacific said it loaded 7,601 grain cars last week, down from 9,414 the week before.

Drew Collier, a Union Pacific vice president, said the railroad expected to make "considerable progress" over the next two months in working off its backlog.

Meanwhile, grain elevators say they are losing money and farmers are worried that their crops may be ruined.

Sorghum-attacking fungus invades eastern N. Mexico

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A fungus that attacks sorghum has made its way from Africa to Clovis, where New Mexico's first case has been recorded.

"Since it's an airborne fungal thing, there's no way we could put up a fence and stop it," said Bruce Hinrichs, the Curry County extension agent.

Sorghum ergot has infected less than an acre of a 30-acre seed sorghum crop on the eastern edge of Curry County near the New Mexico-Texas border.

"It's probably not going to create too much damage," Hinrichs said. "We're not expecting huge acreages of the disease. I think we'll see bits and pieces. I think we'll see isolated outbreaks."

Sorghum farmers must take a gamble in efforts to stem the disease: They can either treat it with an expensive chemical or hope conditions are unfavorable for the fungus.

"The seed guys are going to have to plan ahead. They're probably going to have to be doing some treatments," Hinrichs said.

A fungicide sold under the brand name Tilt has been approved to battle ergot, which has infected the Texas Panhandle — the heart of the world's sorghum seed crop.

Growers in Asia and Africa have dealt with the fungus for decades, but it did not move into the Western Hemisphere until 1995. Since then, it has moved steadily northward from Brazil, through Central America and Mexico.

It crossed the Rio Grande into Texas last winter.

It is hard to know how much of New Mexico's sorghum crop could be affected by the fungus, which reduces grain yield and damages seed quality, Hinrichs said. New Mexico farmers planted 230,000 acres of sorghum in 1996. Sorghum, or milo, is an important feed grain.

Conditions have to be right for the disease to develop, Hinrichs said.

"Temperature, humidity, the stage the crop is in — all have to come together at one time for the disease to manifest itself," he said.

The fungus attacks only unpolinated plants, so sorghum grown for seed production is more vulnerable than grain crops, which pollinate themselves.

"If the fungus, instead of pollen, hits the plant, this really sticky substance is produced and no grain is produced," he said.

The sticky substance also can gum up machinery during harvest.

Young wheat growers can compete for awards

AMARILLO — Young Texas wheat producers are eligible to compete for leadership development awards. The program of the Texas Wheat Producers Association and the National Association of Wheat Growers is being sponsored by Monsanto Agricultural Products Company and by Production Credit Associations of Texas.

Forty participants are honored nationally, two of which are selected from Texas. These awards are designed to acquaint young farmers with the wheat association's organizational structure, leadership development, policy development and educational aspects of attending wheat organizational meetings.

The awards, totaling more than $1,000 each, are to defray the cost of the winners to participate in their choice of either the NAWG 1998 Annual Convention to be held Jan. 14-17 in San Diego, Calif., or the NAWG Summer Leadership Conference to be held Aug. 15-21 in Albuquerque, N.M.

Any Texas wheat farmer between the age of 20-35 who has not previously participated in either of the NAWG meetings mentioned above is eligible to enter. The winners will be selected based upon completion of a short questionnaire relative to their perception of the current greatest need of wheat farmers, how they are or would be utilizing their leadership abilities, along with a 50-word essay explaining why they would like to receive the educational grant.

For information or for entry forms, contact Jana Barrett of the Texas Wheat Producers Association, 2201 Civic Circle, #803, Amarillo, TX 79109, (806) 352-2191. The deadline for submitting completed forms is Nov. 28, 1997.

Range management meet set

WHEELER — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service will hold a range management meeting at 6 p.m. Nov. 17 at Wheeler School in Wheeler. This program will offer two continuing education units to licensed private applicators. Participants will need their application numbers. A meal will be provided by Rolling Plains Production Credit Association.

The following topics will be discussed during the meeting: Increased quality and quantity of forage; determining forage availability; chemical brush and weed control; chemical safety; weed identification; predator control and wildlife damage management.

To attend the meeting, contact the Extension office by 5 p.m. Nov. 13 at 669-8033.

REPENTANCE

"And he spake unto them this parable, saying, What man of you, having a hundred sheep, and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and his neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost. I say unto you, that even so there shall be joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine righteous persons, who need no repentance." (Lk. 15:3-7)

Repentance is sorrow because of the recognition of guilt, the resolution of what to do about it, and the turning away from sin. This is taught further in the story of the man who had the two sons (Lk. 15:11-32.)

Genuine repentance is a universal commandment for all of mankind (Acts 17:30-31.) It is probably one of the most common of all of man's acknowledgements. We are constantly reminded of our humanity when our mistakes and wrong-doings are pointed out to us. Thus we have to admit we are wrong and must go about correcting those mistakes if possible.

Thanks be to God who has granted us time to repent. The apostle Peter wrote: "The Lord is not slack concerning His promise, as some count slackness; but is long suffering to you-ward, not wishing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." (2 Pet. 3:9)

The Lord also tells us what to do to be saved. Among those required things is repentance (Acts 2:38.) But it must be genuine repentance as is seen in the conversion of Saul of Tarsus. Even though he was guilty of persecuting the church of Jesus Christ, when he learned the truth, he repented and was baptized for the remission of his sins (Acts 9:1-19; 22:16.) He was a genuine repentance because he completely turned away from the old life of sin and began to follow Christ. So it must be with us today. The old man of sin is to be buried in baptism and the new man in Christ is raised to walk in newness of life (Rom. 6:1-11; 2 Cor. 5:17; Col. 3:9-10.)

The universal guilt of man is established by Paul in Rom. 3:9-23.) Hence, the need to all men everywhere to repent (Acts 17:30-31.)

Helping hands...

The young men of First Baptist Church recently participated in a "help ministry" to replace a badly leaking roof for a fellow member. It was an opportunity to serve others as well as have fellowship and share in work skills. The roofing supplies were donated by Blake Brothers and Steve Blake. Workers included Rob North, Rex McKay, Tim Hutto (taking a rest at bottom, right), Greg Story, Randy Dyson, Ted Hutto, Stan Stabel, Robin Intemann, Lee Cornelison, David Teichmann, David Hutto, Jerry Stucki, Jerry Carlson and Ron Nelson. All the refuse was hauled to the city landfill in a truck donated by Jerry Carlson.

Odds and ends...

By The Associated Press
WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Perhaps Grace just lost herself in the part.

A year ago, this Columbus suburb was terrorized by a squirrel that jumped on at least 10 people, biting some of them. Police thought they shot the perpetrator, but aren't positive.

Grace, a trained gray squirrel who recently appeared in "The Edge" with Alec Baldwin and Anthony Hopkins, was here to portray the renegade rodent in a film about wild animals in cities.

The problem is that Grace, in order to portray the attack squirrel, was taught to jump on people. Her trainer, Debbie Betson of Anne's Animal Actors of Monroe, Wash., worries that residents might think Grace is the real bad guy.

"She's really friendly, but she'll jump on people," Betson said Thursday. "If somebody smacks her, it will just make her mean."

Police Sgt. Mike Hatz said there have been no sightings.

"Nobody's seen or heard anything," he said. "It's not like we have a squirrel patrol."

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Dozens of migrating song birds that stopped off for refreshments at a downtown berry tree ended up grounded for drunken flying.

"This time of year, the berries are starting to ferment," said animal rehabilitator Jeremy Richardson. This fall's early snow knocked leaves from the tree, leaving the berries more visible. "They are eating wine."

By Thursday afternoon, about 50 of the little birds, called cedar wax wings, had flown into the windows at a convenience store next to the tree. A handful died.

The solution? Spread cranberries and bananas around the area to draw the birds away from the tree and tie a blue tarp over the berry tree.

"The bar is closed for the night," said Animal Control Officer Chris Whitmore. When she arrived at the scene, roughly 30 tipsy birds clung to the tree branches — another 40 were passed out around its trunk.

Richardson said the incident isn't as uncommon as it may seem, though he never had seen so many inebriated birds in one area.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — It's the naked truth: Dancers in this city can perform in the altogether.

The city cannot make dancers wear a G-string or pasties because municipalities don't have the authority to ban nude dancing, Brown County Judge William Griesbach ruled Wednesday.

The ruling — made on an appeal by five dancers and the manager of a strip club — pertained to Green Bay's amended 1996 ordinance that required genitals and breasts to be covered completely and opaquely.

"We're very happy with it," said Robert Henak, lawyer for the Centerfold Exotic Show Lounge.

Griesbach said that federal and state laws preempt municipal ordinances in matters regarding nudity. However, the judge denied Centerfold's motion to dismiss the case because "remaining provisions of the city's ordinance may be properly applied to other conduct the defendants may have been engaged in."

Jerry Hanson, Green Bay assistant city attorney, said other provisions of the ordinance, such as licensing of adult establishments and the prohibition of "lap dancing," still stand.

CARLYLE, Ill. (AP) — To Dale Hedberg, the argument was simple: He didn't owe taxes because money is worthless until spent.

Jurors didn't buy the argument, convicting the 55-year-old Breese man of tax evasion on Thursday. He was charged with failing to pay Illinois income taxes in 1994 and 1995, though he admitted he hasn't paid for a decade. He will be sentenced Jan. 9.

Prosecutors said Hedberg, who claims to be a citizen of the "Republic of Illinois," earned $208,888 in 1994 and 1995.

Hedberg, an anesthetist who acted as his own attorney, offered an arcane economic argument as his defense.

"Income has no value," Hedberg told jurors Wednesday. "Labor is my investment into my income. I'm not the source of my income. I have not received any payment in a form that is taxable."

Hedberg repeatedly sparred with Assistant Attorney General Randall Bower over currency definitions. He refused to acknowledge receiving dollars in payment for his medical services and balked when Bower referred to income amounts preceded by a dollar sign.

Hedberg said the proper symbol contains two vertical lines through an "S," while the symbol on Bower's list contained just one line.

McDougal moved to Texas prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Whitewater figure James McDougal said Thursday he has been transferred to a federal prison in Fort Worth, Texas, and was happy to be closer to home.

McDougal said he was transferred from a federal medical facility in Lexington, Ky., to one at the former Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth a couple of months ago and was liking his new digs.

"Everybody's Southerners," McDougal said. McDougal entered prison June 16 after being sentenced to three years for fraud and conspiracy. He had faced 84 years in prison, but won a recommendation for a reduced sentence after pledging to cooperate with prosecutors.

In a telephone call from the prison, McDougal said he was on 12 different medications for a variety of ailments, including heart trouble and blocked arteries.

McDougal suffered a stroke in 1986, and during his trial last year appeared fatigued at times. U.S. District Judge George Howard Jr.

recommended that McDougal serve his time at a federal prison with medical facilities.

McDougal is a manic-depressive with reduced blood flow to the right side of his brain.

McDougal and his former wife, Susan McDougal, were partners in the Whitewater land development with President and Mrs. Clinton when Clinton was governor of Arkansas. Mrs. Clinton also did legal work for McDougal's Madison Guaranty Savings & Loan.

Pampa fire marshal issues warnings

PAMPA — Fire Marshall G.R. Stevens reminds citizens that the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the halogen lamp industry are cooperatively recalling for in-home customer repair some 40 million halogen torchiere floor lamps because the bulbs can cause fires. The CPSC is aware of at least 189 fires and 11 deaths since 1992 involving these lamps. If you own a halogen torchiere floor lamp without a glass or wire bulb shield you can get one free at many stores including Wal-Mart, K-Mart, Lowes, Office Depot and Target. Or you may call 800-985-2220.

Alco recently held a cutest baby contest to raise money for United Way. Twelve-month-old MacKenzie Parks (center) received a $25 prize award and helped raise $125 of the total $460 that was given as a donation to United Way. Alco Store Manager Ed Ringering (left) presented the prize to MacKenzie and her parents Stephanie and Karl Parks. United Way Director Katrina Bigham (right) was on hand to congratulate the winners.

Joe Stodghill, computer genealogist of Perryton, loads the Family Tree Maker genealogical program onto the Lovett Library computer while Vera Plunk, Friends of the Library member, watches. The Friends donated the program, purchased with a grant from the David D. and Nona S. Payne Foundation. Stodghill was one of the participants in the recent genealogy workshop held at the library. The computer program is available for community use.
