BORGER — Cowboys on horseback made a grizzly discovery Saturday when they found a body in the Canadian River bed in Hutchinson County.

Hutchinson County Sheriff Mickey Blackmon said the call came into his office about 10:30 Saturday night.

The body was decomposed enough deputies estimated it had been there several days. A rifle was found nearby and Blackmon said he believed the man was hunting and tripped and died from injuries suffered in the fall.

Justice of the Peace Faye Blanks had the body sent to Lubbock for autopsy. Preliminary reports do not indicate foul play. The body was that of a white male but no other identification has been made yet, according to Blackmon.

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas death row inmate facing execution next month has been blocked by prison officials from donating his organs.

Convicted killer Jonathan Nobles is scheduled to die Oct. 7 for stabbing and killing two Austin women. Kelly Joan Farquhar, 24, and Mitzi Johnson Nalley, 21, after breaking into their North Austin home in 1986.

Chautauqua fun...

Chautauqua went to the dogs Monday as people brought their four-footed friends to the park to celebrate Labor Day in Pampa. Ryan Barnes, 12, plays with Taz after the Columbia Medical Center 5K Run, while his mother, DeDe Barnes watches. The dog, decked out in the appropriate tee shirt, did well in the run, Mrs. Barnes said. Taz finished it in 40 minutes.

City eligible for $6,881 grant Money's to fight juvenile crime

250 state entities and Pampa can get its share.

Pampa City Manager Bob Eskridge said the city has not yet received official notification but he will soon consult with law enforcement personnel and thé city commission about the grant.

The federal grants vary in size from $5,000 to $1,000,000. The amounts were determined using a formula based on size and amount of juvenile crime. Pampa is eligible for a grant of $6,881 according to the governor's office. A spokeswoman

The state of Texas is giving grants to more than also said the grant will be awarded automatically if the city puts in an application.

After the grant is awarded, a mayor, or in some cases, a county judge is to put together a "juvenile crime enforcement coalition" to determine how to best use the money to fight juvenile crime.

In announcing the grants, Governor George W. Bush said, "Children must learn respect for the law, for their peers, and for the adults in their lives if they are to become well-adjusted productive citi-

No tax hike in 98-99 city budget plan

No tax increases are included in the proposed 1998-99 City of Pampa budget which is on tonight's commission agenda for a public hearing at 6 followed by a first-reading vote on the document.

City Manger Bob Eskridge said today there was "no talk" of tax, increases during any of the work sessions leading up to the final; plan. However, a $50-cent-per-month increase in sanitation fees are planned. (See related story this page).

"We have the same tax rate as before and there's not a whole lot of change to the overall budget with the exception of adding one person in the sewer department," he said.

The additional person will be responsible for the rehab of manholes and for helping conduct a study of how much rainfall infiltrates the city's sewer pipes, the city manager said. The infiltration report is required by the state.

It's anticipated general fund revenues will total $7,512,797 during the next fiscal year which, if predictions are on target, amounts to a 1.4 percent increase over the current year.

The general fund, which will have a carryover balance of about $1 million, covers all city operations with the exception of the water/wastewater department, landfill, M.K. Brown, library and

General fund expenditures planned in the upcoming fiscal year total $8,091,495, according to a budget summary given commissioners. This amounts to increased spending over last year of 3.4 percent.

Sanitation fee likely to go up by 50¢ a month

Residents will pay more for sanitation services next month if a proposed increase passes today as expected when the Pampa City Commission meets in regular session at 6 p.m. at city hall.

A 50-cent-per-month increase will bring the residential charge up to $12.50 and proceeds will fund an ongoing dumpster replacement and maintenance program, said City Manager Bob Eskridge "We'll only use the money for dumpster reserve funds," Eskridge said this morning. "The money will be put into a separate account. We don't want to end up with the same situation we had a couple of years

The city manager was making reference to the recently-completed major dumpster replacement and maintenance program that had to be funded with borrowed money.

ing $500,000 funded the dumpster program which is bringing inventory back to acceptable standards.

Eskridge says to avoid the dumpster inventory from declining again, the city must fund adequate dollars to perform routine maintenance and replacement each year.

The proposed 4.2 percent rate increase will fund about $50,000 per year, he said. The reserve fund should insure the city does not have to fund such a massive replacement program in the future.

First worldwide telethon sets $52 million pledge record

LOS ANGELES — The Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Association Labor Day Telethon raised a record $51,577,023 in pledges and contributions for the fight against neuromuscular diseases during its Labor Day weekend broadcast

The funds raised by the telethon support MDA's service and research programs to benefit people with any of 40 muscle-wasting disorders.

The 21 1/2-hour entertainment extravaganza was broadcast live from CBS Television City in Hollywood Sunday and Monday and was carried by some 200 "Love Network" television stations to an estimated audience of some 75 million in the United States and Canada. The show was also viewed live on-line by individuals and families in 60 foreign coun-

Satellite feeds and taped segments from such cities as New York, Chicago, Las Vegas, Nashville, Puerto Rico and Denver brought a wide spectrum of entertainment including Celine Dion, Leann Rimes, Enrique Iglesias, Pam Tillis, Billy Joel, Gloria Estefan, Hanson, Yasmine Bleeth and

The show's Los Angeles stage was graced with many notable performances including songs by Patti Page, Ray Charles, Chuck Mangione, Mindy McCready, six-year-old piano protege Wesley Chu and symphonic music by the Young Musicians' Foundation conducted by MDA's number one volunteer. Laughs were provided by top comedians including Bill Maher, Max Alexander, Kevin Meaney, Daine Ford, Jeffrey Ross, Bob Zany, Carrot Top and Jerry Lewis, MDA national chairman.

A special tribute to comedian Henny Youngman stopped the show as Lewis, Norm Crosby and Schecky Greene delivered more than a dozen jokes popularized by the legendary comedian who passed away shortly after his 1997 telethon appearance.

MDA is the world's leading voluntary nonprofit organizational sponsor of research on neuromuscular conditions as well as the nation's primary provider of direct medical services to adults and children affected

During the past 12 months, MDA has:

—Begun preparation for human trials of gene therapy for Duchenne and limb-girdle muscular dystrophies;

-Successfully inserted the protein utrophin into mice indicating increased utrophin might be able to replace dystrophin, the protein missing in the muscle cells of youngsters with Duchenne and Becker muscu-

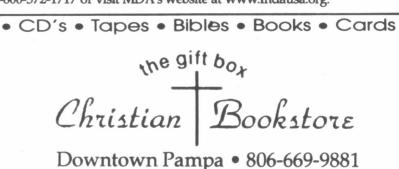

-Uncovered vital information about the genetic causes of several other neuromuscular disorders;

—Expanded promising clinical trials of potential new drug therapies for neuromuscular disorders including Duchenne MD, facioscapulohumeral muscular dystrophy and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease.)

In its comprehensive services program, MDA has assisted adults and children affected by neuromuscular diseases through summer camps, a nationwide network for some 230 hospital-affiliated clinics, flu vaccinations, support groups and assistance with the purchase and repair of wheelchairs and leg braces.

MDA annually funds some 400 scientific teams worldwide. These investigators have made significant advances toward cures for several muscle-wasting diseases. They've pioneered breakthroughs that may well lead to therapies for heart disease, cancer, AIDS, Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, Huntington's and cystic fibrosis.

For more information about MDA and/or referrals to MDA clinics, call 1-800-572-1717 or visit MDA's website at www.mdausa.org.

War against terrorism will wage far into the future

A lot of folks thought that when the Soviet Union collapsed, we could relax our defense efforts a while and not worry as much about those who might want to hurt us. The events of the past few weeks remind us that we can't afford to relax at all — in fact, in some ways the world is more dangerous than ever.

One of the reasons we have to have a strong defense is terrorism. There are a number of groups around the world which have essentially declared war against the United States. They look for ways to attack us here at home and around the world. They want to cause the maximum amount of terror and damage. They don't distinguish between military and civilian targets. They just try to kill Americans and all that America stands for.

Many of these groups are willing to sacrifice their own lives to hurt us. They are actively seeking ever more dangerous weapons — including weapons of mass destruction, like chemical, biological, and nuclear weapons. If they continue to gain strength, many more Americans will die in the months and years to come. We must hit back, and we must hit back, hard.

The war against terrorism will not be won in a month or a year. It will require a constant effort to gather information about terrorists, to prevent their attacks where possible, and to retaliate against them when necessary.

But the war against terrorism will be a fact of life for some time to come and is one of the reasons we must make sure that our military and intelligence capability is the

America needs shield, time for long overdue

Fifteen years ago, Ronald Reagan first proposed developing a shield that could protect our nation from incoming bal-

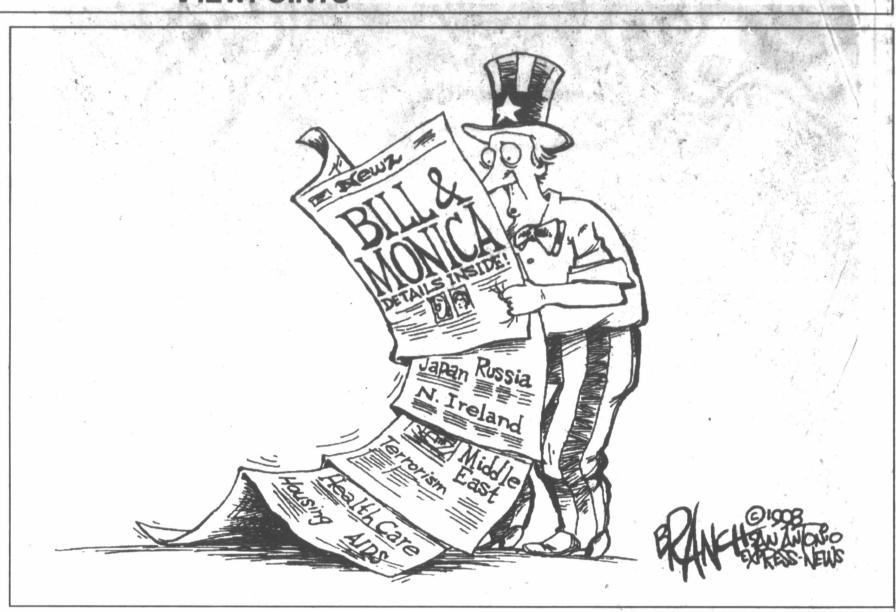

A lot has changed since then. One thing that hasn't changed is that the world is still a dangerous place. In many ways, it's even more dangerous than before. For although the Soviet Empire has fallen, there are still many countries who have missiles that could reach our shores today.

Russia has a superpower arsenal with a very unstable government and economy. We know for a fact that China has a number of missiles aimed our way. We also know that North Korea and Iran are improving the range of their missiles. Other nations — and terrorist groups — are also in the

In the face of this threat, it's more important now than ever to follow through on President Reagan's vision and build a national missile defense system.

Now, some critics say we should move slowly in this area, while others say we shouldn't build such a system at all. But the fact remains that we are currently defenseless against a threat to our own people at home. And the number one responsibility of the federal government is to keep our nation secure. We not only have an obligation to build a missile defense system. It is our duty.

That's why I'm pushing a plan that would make it the official policy of our government to do just that, and why I believe that building a missile defense system is something that's not just in our national interest, but also something that just can't wait.

Being different is the point

I've just read about the current controversy at Pampa High School and all I've got to say is I'm getting too old for this stuff.

I don't mean the gothic look. That's just something different that teenagers do. Every generation has to express itself in a different way. Having entered school in 1960 and then seeing various nieces, nephews, cousins and kin go through school, I've seen more different fashions than you can shake a stick at. (Yes, I know you can't shake a stick in school).

skirts, long skirts, T-shirts, T-shirts on girls, Tshirts with expressions on them, mustaches, beards, (or what passed for a beard when your 17), gum chewing, holding hands, kissing, hair styles of every description, and loitering strange rule since the kids are only there boy's hair and girl's skirts were whipped out administrators do now. to check cuff lengths

Now there's the gothic look. Black is in, eve makeup is in, except it's not in at PHS apparently. And that's why I'm feeling too old. I've seen hundreds of fashion statements banned and not once have I seen that any part of the educational process was improved. Of course "reading, writing and 'rithmatic" not worry yourselves.

Jeff West

Pampa News staff

I've seen fashion police ban long hair, short gothic is stupid looking. Probably not as bad as Nehru jackets, Afros on white guys or love beads but it certainly looks stupid to me, and apparently to the principal vice at PHS.

The difference is I learned a long time ago that being different was the point. Because it is in the hallway (which I always thought was a something different. When you are 16, the process of finding out who you are is as because they have to be). I even remember a important as remembering when Columbus first week, after that, who cares? year when the style was for guys to buy jeans sailed the ocean blue. The other part that you think administrators would learn is it's a losing battle. Long hair, short skirts, baggy jeans, tight jeans, gum, they are all a part of school now. Stopping change is a very hard thing to do. Especially when your job is supposed to be preparing people for it.

Disruptive? I've never figured out how long hair, girls wearing pants (which was banned before) or even an expressive T-shirt was disruptive, I sure can't make the jump to makeup. I'll tell you what was disruptive in the classroom to me in High School. A window with a nice view of a pretty day, that was disruptive, a cute teacher under 30, or a boring teacher who droned on and on in a monotone now that was disruptive. Here's a tip for your mental health, but don't tell my boss where it came from: If you find yourself getting antsy and anxious, take an information vacation.

How can you not be anxious if you have to worry about floods and locusts in China; hurricanes in the Atlantic; the Asian economic collapse; the widening war in the Congo; the collapse of the Russian ruble and probably its government; economic flu in Latin America, Mexico and Canada; our own nervous economy; the worldwide AIDS epidemic; the development of medicine-resistant bacteria; mad cow disease; the explosive situation in the Middle East; the president's new war on ter-pretty soon things will start to look normal rorism; the decay of public education; child murderers; the Brazilian rain forests; and Al Gore's political future?

So why worry about it? Why even be conscious of it?

In the pre-computer days, reporters used to take a lot of information over the phone. In one place I worked, the weather man would call us and give us all the weather statistics such as the time of sunrise and sunset, tides

One day, he got a rookie kid reporter on the phone. He started his spiel. "Sunrise, 6:05, sun ...

And the kid interrupted him. "Sir, is that a.m. or p.m.?"

There was a long silence, and then the old weatherman said, "Well, son, if ain't a.m., you're going to have one heck of a big story."

That's true. If the sun doesn't rise one morning, that would be important, but it would also be something you wouldn't need to read about in a newspaper or hear about on TV. You would experience it yourself.

When Benjamin Franklin was publishing a newspaper, he had a rule: If the information wasn't either useful or entertaining, it didn't get in his newspaper. Editors don't use that rule anymore, but you can. Just ask yourself, Is this information going to help me, inspire me, make me feel better or make me chuckle? If the answer is no, dump it.

You might even try a little game of self-discipline that I play. When I drive to work, I discipline myself to look at trees, shrubs, flowers signs (traffic signs excepted). Work at it until you can give directions by natural landmarks, for example, turn left at the three cedars, go south until you see the tall pine on the left, then turn right and proceed to the large oak that leans to the left.

Remember, just because the world is going crazy, we don't have to go with it.

Teens face murder charges

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Two teen-aged boys face murder charges after the death of a man they are accused of severely beating.

Fredrick O'Neill Young never recovered after he was attacked early in the morning of April 26.

The 44-year-old Young was in a coma until he died around Sunday night at Hospice of Wichita Falls, a police detective told the Wichita Falls Times Record News in Tuesday's editions.

William Matteson, 16, and a 15-year-old boy had been charged with attempted murder, aggravated robbery and aggravated assault. Matteson was certified in July to stand trial as an adult, while the 15year-old's case was sent to juvenile court.

Activist who warned about danger of drugs found dead of apparent overdose

DALLAS (AP) - A 24-year-old who counseled others about the dangers of drugs apparently fell victim to them himself.

Elliot "Eli" Lizauckas was found dead in his North Dallas apartment Saturday night, apparently of a heroin overdose, The Dallas Morning News reported in Tuesday's editions. Police reported finding syringes and drug capsules in the apartment.

Lizauckas' death shocked relatives and friends who watched him battle back from a drug problem that began several years ago and take his "don't the displaced children are," Mayor Robert Chavira start" message to young people in his hometown of told the San Antonio Express-News.

Lizauckas finished a drug-treatment program in Dallas last spring, lived in an apartment, worked part-time and took classes at Richland College for a career in computers.

He also worked with parents and teens who had drug problems. He spoke recently at a town-hall meeting sponsored by a local television station and gave a eulogy a friend who died from heroin, said his stepfather, David Liles of Allen. That made his death even more stunning to those who knew him.

Death row inmate can't donate organs

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas death row inmate facing execution next month has been blocked by prison officials from donating his organs.

Convicted killer Jonathan Nobles is scheduled to die Oct. 7 for stabbing and killing two Austin women, Kelly Joan Farquhar, 24, and Mitzi Johnson Nalley, 21, after breaking into their North Austin home in 1986.

Nobles told the Austin American-Statesman he is prepared to die for what he did but also wants to do something positive after "bringing so much darkness into this world." He insisted the donation attempt is not a ploy to have his death sentence

People out there who need organs are more than willing to accept inmate organs," Nobles said. "There are sins of commission as well as sins of omission, and for me not to attempt to do whatever can that's good is wrong of me.'

DEAR ABBY: A restaurant's posted closing time means no additional customers after that time. Or, that's when the kitchen closes. Or, no more food service after that time. But it does not mean that the door is locked at the stroke of 9 and diners should stop what they're doing and get out. If a person has been seated 15 minutes before the posted closing time, certainly the expectation is that the customer will have time to eat.

SEMINOLE - The Pampa Lady Harvesters finished fourth out of 15 teams at the Volleyball Seminole Invitational last weekend.

"I felt like we finished real good," said Pampa head coach Carmen Pennick. "It was tough tournament."

Pampa senior Kimberly Clark was named to the alltournament team.

After pool-play competition, the Lady Harvesters were seeded No. 8 in the tournament.

Pampa opened the tournament with a 15-6, 15-12 win over Seminole. Clark had 5 kills, 5 blocks and 9 digs while Lori Lindsey had 22 digs and 23 assists; Lisa Kirkpatrick had 11 kills.

The Lady Harvesters then lost to Class 5A Lubbock Coronado, 15-3, 15-8, and Midland High, 15-8, 16-14. Pampa's Lisa Dwight had 8 kills against Midland High.

FOOTBALL

Tyler John Tyler was pretty impressive last weekend in its 51-12 victory over Fort Worth Wyatt, at the time the 10thranked team in Class 4A.

But voters in The Associated Press high school football poll were even more awed by Arlington Lamar's last-second 24-21 victory over Springfield (Fla.) Rutherford in a game played at Disney's Wide World of Sports Complex in Orlando, Fla.

In the AP poll released Monday, Lamar overtook Tyler for second in Class 5A. Killeen Ellison remained No. 1 defeating Aldine Eisenhower 23-20. Eisenhower remained No. 8 despite the Duncanville held No. 4 by beating Plano East 25-21. The loss sent Plano East to 10th from fifth.

HOUSTON (AP) — Placekicker Cindy Wright has made it into the record books again.

Wright, the first girl to join Westbury High School's football team, last Thursday became the first girl in the Houston Independent School District to score in a football

"It's pretty cool. It's something to be proud of," Wright

The senior kicked an extra point in Westbury's 28-8 win over Jones High School.

Other girls have played football in HISD, but none has scored.

For the past 10 years, soccer has been Wright's game. Then last spring her soccer coach asked her to try kicking for the football coach, after the Rebels' only kicker graduated.

She tried out with other soccer players, hitting field goals from 25, 30, 35 and 40 yards.

"She hit it from 40 yards dead center," coach George Campbell said. "I told her if she wants to play, I have a uniform for her.'

DENVER (AP) — John Elway made plays that 38year-old quarterbacks aren't supposed to be able to make.

He rolled out and threw a 44yard completion on the first play from scrimmage. He made a head-first dive at the end of a 13-yard gain to keep a scoring drive alive. He repeatedly scrambled out of harm's way to complete passes downfield.

Defying the ravages of age, Elway completed 22 of 34 passes for 257 yards and a touchdown as the Denver Broncos began defense of their Super Bowl title with a 27-21 win over the New England Patriots on Monday night. While the Patriots were shutting down Denver's running game and Super Bowl MVP Terrell Davis with sevenand eight-man fronts, the Broncos countered through the air. Davis scored twice, but finished with just 75 yards on 22 carries, well below his average of 117 yards last season.

Everson — who trailed tournament leader Jason Jeter of Cameron University by five strokes at the end of the first two rounds — birdied half the holes and parred the rest in Monday's third round to set the stage for the final 18. Everson's nine-under par 62 is believed to be the best competitive score ever shot at the PCC course. Everson's one-over par 72 in the final round gave the University of North Texas collegian the one-shot win, 275-276, over Nick Hughes of Oklahoma City University.

(SPECIAL) -- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on lotion form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back

High school football poll By The Associated Press
DALLAS (AP) — This week's Associated Press high school football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses. Total points are based on 10 points for a first-place vote through one point for a 10th-place vote. The previous col-umn indicates the team's ranking in last week's poll. Voting is by a panel of 20 sports writers and broadcasters.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTES — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONG FELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

IRA dissidents declare 'complete' cease-fire

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Without offering any apology, the Irish Republican Army dissidents responsible for Northern Ireland's worst terrorist attack called a "complete" cease-fire today.

In a statement issued to the Irish state broadcasters RTE, the dissidents dubbed the Real IRA said they had decided on a "complete cessation of all military activity."

Church leader admits affair; seeks forgiveness

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The president of the one of the nation's largest black denominations admitted having an affair with a church employee charged with him in a multimillion-dollar fraud case.

Both Henry J. Lyons and Brenda Harris asked for forgiveness from the National Baptist Convention U.S.A.'s board Monday after he admitted the lengthy, "improper" relationship.

Harris also apologized to Lyons' wife, who has been accused of setting fire to a $700,000 Florida home Lyons owned with another woman.

The board granted Lyons and Harris their wish and forgave them, said the Rev. E.V. Hill, a board mem-

But other ministers were not so quick to follow suit.

"At this point, if Dr. Lyons had any love left for himself and the National Baptist Convention, he would step down," said the Rev. Charles Kenyotta of New York. "To drag millions of people through all this mud is a shame. In the 118 years of our existence, we've never had a president this dumb."

Lyons, Harris and Bernice Edwards, a former convention public relations director, were indicted in July in Florida and charged with money laundering, wire and bank fraud and extorting money from corporations that thought they were doing business with the convention. Lyons and Edwards also are charged with tax evasion.

During a news conference to start off the convention's annual meeting Monday, Lyons conceded that he had not given "all the sterling leadership" he could have, but he said the convention made progress, and he planned to run for another five-year term as president. He has one year left in his current term.

Last month they had declared a "suspension" of what they called their "military operations," a step short of a formal cease-fire.

The Real IRA, which had previously rejected the Irish Republican Army's July 1997 cease-fire, has admitted responsibility for the Aug. 15 car bombing that killed 29 civilians and wounded 330 in the Northern Ireland town of Omagh. The last victim was buried Monday.

British and Irish leaders welcomed the cease-fire announcement but said it did not diminish the tragedy of the Omagh bombing.

"I am glad that these people have come to their senses and realized the futility of their actions," said David Trimble, leader of the Ulster Unionist party and the new Northern Ireland Assembly. "That doesn't change the enormity of what they have done and their culpability for Irish Prime Minister Bertie Ahern called the cease-fire "an important and a positive development," if it is fully implemented and final. "It will not, unfortunately, bring the dead of Omagh back to life, heal the injured or comfort their families," he said. Ireland's President Mary McAleese, in Australia on a diplomatic visit, said she was heartened by the announcement. "I simply hope that those who were slain in Omagh will be the last to be added to the grim roll call of victims of violence," she said. The British government's Northern Ireland Office issued its own statement emphasizing that "the Real IRA needs not just to talk but to convince the Irish people that their violence is at an end for good."

The cease-fire brings the group into line with the mainstream IRA and several other paramilitary groups. The IRA's main anti-British rival, the Irish National Liberation Army, called a truce Aug. 22, and Northern Ireland's two major outlawed pro-British factions, the Ulster Defense Association and Ulster Volunteer Force, called a joint cease-

In response to the Omagh atrocity, the British and Irish governments passed anti-terrorist legislation that would give police greater power to secure conviction of suspected Real IRA members.

So far, however, police in Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic have yet to use those extra powers to round up suspects.

Ahern said the cease-fire declaration would "not affect the unrelenting determination of the two governments to pursue the perpetrators of this and other crimes, and bring them to justice."

British and Irish security forces say the Real IRA has recruited 50 to 100 members since October. Most supporters are believed to live south of the border that has divided Ireland since 1920.

Real IRA members and supporters claimed last week that senior IRA figures had visited their homes and threatened that "direct action" would be taken against them if they committed any more car bombings in Northern Ireland.

The Omagh attack was at least the seventh car bomb the dissidents had planted in a Northern Ireland town. The others had either been defused or exploded after police evacuated the immediate area, causing severe commercial damage and many injuries but no deaths.

The Real IRA's announcement came hours after the Ulster Unionists, Northern Ireland's major Protestant party, ended its ban on direct communication with the IRA-allied Sinn Fein party, another symbolic step down the road to reconciliation.

products of both U.S. and foreign origin. The legislation also provides for voluntary labeling for ground beef and lamb, as well as study of groundmeat labeling practices, due to the difficulty in determining the source country of ground meat.

"Mandatory meat labeling is long overdue for farmers and consumers alike," said Texas Farmers Union President Sims. "Consumers know where their car, their clothes and their computers come from. They also have a right to know where their food is produced," he said.

"Moreover, our farmers produce the safest and highest quality food supply in the world. Labeling will allow consumers to support that proud tradition," added Sims.

Local Alzheimer's Unit meets specific needs of patient group

Nursing homes have changed. Today's facilities provide specialized care for patients with dementia including Alzheimers. Activities and therapies are designed especially for the Alzheimer's patient.

Pampa's local Alzheimer's Unit, located at the Pampa Nursing Center, offers a specialized program which includes music therapy, pet therapy and activities. Even daily tasks such as grooming are done in a cheerful and adaptive style.

Because many residents enjoy moving from place to place and constantly exploring their environment, the physical design of an Alzheimer's unit should provide that freedom. Cooking areas and cleaning supplies are kept in locked cabinets. This allows the residents to explore in safety.

The design of Pampa Nursing Center's unit allows residents access to an outdoor courtyard and re-entry into the building through a different door. There are no alarms or buzzers on the doors. "Our residents can go in and out of the building a dozen times a day, and some do," says Administrator Tim Miller.

"Medications are administered in a manner that allows them the maximum amount of independence and participation in activities of daily living," according to Medical Director Robert

At 98, Keeton still going strong

By JEFF WEST Staff Writer

You don't have to be around George Keeton long to find out he loves to tell jokes and he loves to 98 and going to be 99 in December. "I'll be 101 when I have to get my license renewed," he said.

One of his first memories involves singing, shortly after the turn of the century, when he was 8, he said he met Henry Ford. Keeton said there were several grown-ups around but with the boldness that seems to come with youth he walked right up to the automobile builder. What's more, he said Ford looked down and spoke, asking Keeton his name.

"George Keeton, sir."

Ford then asked what the little boy liked to do and was told he liked to sing. Ford asked him to sing Ol' Time Religion. Keeton said he belted out the tune and Ford gave him a bag of candy and told the boy, "I'd take you along with me but there's not room in this car,"

"I couldn't go anyway, we have to get back and pick cotton," Keeton said.

Cotton and farming were all Keeton knew to do back then. He was born in 1899 in Red River County, Texas near Paris. He spent most of his early life in that area. He met his wife, Nellie, in Hill County Texas in 1921. They were together until

He said he doesn't really know what it takes to live to be a healthy 98-yearold, but he has a couple of ideas.

He'll quickly tell you that he's l've been a Christian since before l "I've never smoked a cigarette and was married," he said.

her death in 1992. He was a cotton farmer mostly, leasing his land. Sometime after the birth of two daughters, Violet in 1922 and Letha Bell the following year in 1923, and then a son, J.R., born in 1926, he moved to some land near McLean. He moved into Gray County from Hillsboro driving a Model T, bringing a wife, three kids, and all their possessions.

After Doyle, who born in 1930 and Helen who came along in 1933, Keeton decided finally that he couldn't make a living on the farm. He started working at Cabot Corporation and moved to Pampa in 1941. He worked for Cabot for over three years before falling for the lure of "big money" working at the Puget Sound Shipyard near Washington D.C. during the last part of World War II.

He worked up there a couple of months before he could bring his family up. He said the money really wasn't any better there and he came back home to Pampa and started working at the Pampa Machine Shop in 1946. The business and the building are no longer here, he said.

During much of this time he and his daughter would tour area churches to sing, and he said he would often get requests for them to come to various places.

He was one of the workers who built the Celanese Plant starting in 1951 then worked in the oil field until a heart attack

Auto Insurance Tips

(NU) — The insurance experts at InsWeb offer these tips on auto insurance for seniors:

 Look at the overall value of the policy, not just the price. Choose an insurance company that provides good service and has a reputation of renewing your insurance as you get older. Some carriers won't renew seniors after the age of 74.

• Re-evaluate the level of bodily injury coverage. Seniors should look at carrying more coverage than someone who is 30-years-old. The older you are, the less time there is to recover from a substantial financial loss.

• Take a mature defensive driving course. Many insurance companies will offer seniors a discount on their policy if they participate in a defensive driving course.

• Look at joining an affinity group. Some carriers will provide a larger variety of value-added services if you belong to an organization like the AARP. The Hartford PLIC, for example, offers AARP members many perks such as lifetime renewable, 12-month policies instead of the normal six-month policy, and flexible payment options.

InsWeb offers term life, individual medical, fixed annuities, disability income as well as some specialty coverage. Seniors also can use the website's research and level of coverage based on their individual insurance needs.

According to a survey by Yankelovich, eight in 10 people renew their auto insurance automatically — primarily because it's too difficult to analysis tools to help shop around — yet many determine the appropriate believe they could get a better See INSURANCE, Page 5

Aging gets a bad rap...

HOUSTON-America's population is aging at an unprecedented pace. Every eighty seconds, another baby boom turns 50, and by the year 2011, the number of Americans over the age of 65 will double.

What do these senior-citizens-in-themaking have to look forward to?

"Plenty," said Dr. Robert Luchi, director of the Huffington Center on Aging at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"We can enjoy tremendous growth as we age. It's not physical growth but it's growth of the spirit and learning to accept these changes can help us enjoy life as we grow

The key is to focus on living instead of

The people who mature and who appreciate the fact that the process of forming ourselves is a lifetime effort are the ones who grow old successfully," he said.

And moving up in years does not always mean a move to the rocking chair. In fact, nearly 90 percent of people ages 65 through 74 have no disability that prevents them from leading a full life.

New treatments give new hope for sufferers of rheumatoid arthritis

By LAURAN NEERGAARD AP Medical Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elizabeth Petersen fought the pain of crippling rheumatoid arthritis for 35 years. Some of her fingers and toes were swollen stiff. Waking each morning was like "breaking out of a mold" as she struggled to unfreeze her joints and climb out of bed. One severe attack so paralyzed her leg with pain that she could only crawl, dragging the leg behind her, for days.

Then she was injected with an experimental drug called Enbrel — and the next morning, "I was skipping down the alley to prove to my husband how good I felt," the 64-year-old Chicago woman recalled. "There were times I prayed for death, but now I'm enjoying life."

For the first time in over a decade, the nation's 2 million sufferers of rheumatoid arthritis are about to get a surge of new help. Both the biologically engineered Enbrel and a competing drug are expected to win Food and Drug Administration approval by year's end. A third medicine is completing final testing, and the FDA also is considering a blood-filtering therapy.

In addition to drugs designed to attack the root of rheumatoid arthritis — the immune system — companies are poised to seek FDA approval this fall for a new class of arthritis painkillers known as "super-aspirin."

"The next 12 months will be as exciting as we've had for therapies in 10 years," said Dr. Michael Weinblatt of Harvard University, a medical adviser to the Arthritis Foundation.

None of the potential treatments is a cure — and nobody knows just how many people they'll help.

But they've been long awaited by thousands of rheumatoid arthritis sufferers who have failed today's standard treatment, called methotrexate, or can't tolerate its side effects. "There's little else they can take now," said Dr. Marc Hochberg of the University of Maryland.

This is not the kind of arthritis common in the elderly because of the wear-and-tear of aging. Instead, rheumatoid arthritis is an autoimmune disease. Patients' own immune systems go awry and attack their joints, causing inflammation and stiffness as rogue immune cells eat away cartilage and eventually erode bone.

The disease mostly strikes women, usually between ages 25 and 50. Within 10 years, about half of patients are too disabled to work.

Drug companies are testing 28 possible new therapies. First out of the pipeline:

—Immunex Corp.'s Enbrel, the drug that helped Petersen. It targets tumor necrosis factor, or TNF, a bloodstream protein that causes much of rhematoid arthritis' inflammation. Enbrel is a biologically engineered copy of a cell "receptor," the spot where TNF hooks onto cells. It sops up excess TNF before it can damage patients' joints. In a study of 234 severe rheumatoid patients who have failed standard therapy, 62 percent who tried Enbrel

United States and it is the most frequent cause of blindness in black Americans. Approximately 80,000 year 5,500 people are added to stabilize that total. Almost 900,000 glaucoma visually impaired secondarily to glaucoma. At least two million Americans have glaucoma and approximately half of these people are not aware of it.

Glaucoma is a disorder of the optic nerve and as the disease worsens so does the appearance of the optic nerve head. The etiology or cause of damage is secondary to having an intraocular pressure that is too elevated for the eye and there is a large range of acceptable pressures. The type of glaucoma that is most common is Primary Open Angle Glaucoma.

POAG is defined by elevated eye pressure, optic eye appointments because nerve cupping and/or once the optic nerve is associated Visual Field changes. Most patients have no symptoms when first diagnosed but in its late stages there are major visual field reductions. POAG occurs primarily in patients over 50 years of age, but can occur in younger patients as well. Major risk factors are:

Glaucoma is an important increased age, positive family cause of blindness in the history, being nearsighted, history of vascular eye problems, diabetes mellitus and cardiovascular disease.

Only rarely can glaucoma Americans are legally blind be cured so the goal of therapy due to glaucoma and each is to control the disease and vision. Good management people in the United States are consists of monitoring eye pressure and optic nerve changes every three to four months and checking visual fields and the eye drainage angle yearly.

> Treatment comes in three different forms: medicines, laser surgery or incisional surgery. The first two options are a good starting point and incisional surgery is usually used in patients whose disease is progressing after other therapies have been tried.

With careful exams and good patient cooperation the outlook is bright for almost all patients with this disease. The most important thing to remember is to make routine damaged there is no known medical or surgical therapy to restore it. The way to limit the damage is early detection and therapy.

significantly improved, vs. just 23 percent who took a placebo. An FDA advisory committee will consider next month whether Enbrel should be approved for general sale. Weinblatt said side effects appear restricted to minor injection site reactions.

—FDA advisers have recommended approval of a competing drug, Arava. Unlike its biotech competitor, Arava is a chemical that blocks the overproduction of immune cells that also inflame joints, similar to how the standard treatment, methotrexate, works. In a study of 480 moderately ill people, Arava helped about 41 percent, compared with 19 percent who took a placebo. But animal studies show it can cause numerous birth defects, and unlike most drugs that clear out of the body soon after patients' last dose, Arava can linger six months. So if the FDA approves Arava this fall as expected, women will have to use effective birth control until tests show Arava has cleared out of their bloodstream.

—Centocor Inc. is completing final testing of Remicade. It's a monoclonal antibody, a drug biologically engineered to track down and neutralize TNF in the bloodstream. Early testing suggested Remicade could help some 60 percent of patients, and that combining it with low-dose methotrexate worked better. Centocor will seek FDA approval to market Remicade for rheumatoid arthritis later this year. But Remicade won FDA approval this week to treat another problem, Crohn's disease, so doctors could begin prescribing it for arthritis patients without waiting for the FDA's separate decision on that disease.

Drugs aren't the only option. The FDA also is evaluating a blood-filtering machine called Prosorba. It works much like dialysis, except the filter removes from patients' blood a small amount of immune cells called antibodies.

In healthy people, antibodies fight off bacteria and viruses. In rheumatoid arthritis, some antibodies are believed to go out of control. Just how Prosorba works is unclear, because scientists do not know which antibodies it removes from blood. But a study showed almost half of test patients who had failed all drug therapy got some relief after 12 weekly Prosorba treatments, with improvement lasting about 10 months, said Jay Kranzler, chief executive of manufacturer Cypress Bioscience.
