No ticket correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said.

A winning ticket would have been worth an estimated $14 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 5-19-28-31-34-36.

Saturday night's drawing will be worth an estimated $18 million.

Agri waste collection day set tomorrow

An opportunity to properly get rid of unwanted pesticides, plastic containers, used oil and oil filters or lead acid batteries doesn't come around too often.

So, its urged that people take advantage of Texas County Cleanup and Ag Water Collection Day Friday from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Clyde Carruth Pavilion (bull barn) at Recreation Park.

According to Danny Nusser, Gray County extension agent-agriculture, "We will take all types of agriculture chemicals with the exception of chemicals containing 2, 4, 5 T-Silvex and Pentachlorophenol."

No explosive materials or compressed gas cylinders can be accepted.

Empty pesticide containers should be triple rinsed, he said. Oil and oil filters from commercial businesses will not be accepted. Also, no tires are being taken.

There will be no fees charged, no questions asked and no signature is required from any participant. The program simply allows pesticide applicators the opportunity to dispose of unwanted products that are posing a hazard to them, their families and their surrounding farming/ranching community.

The program is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission and Texas Department of Agriculture.

Payment pause for hot weather electric bills ends

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

Starting today, Pampans and other Texans who got behind on their electric bills due to the record-setting heat wave can expect to have their electricity cut off unless they pay the bill today or make arrangements to do so.

While an SPS spokesman would not say just how many customers in Pampa are affected, he said the number is two-thirds larger than the amount who would be typically behind.

Statewide, the number of households behind in their bills because of hot weather is about 400,000.

Those affected in Pampa and the rest of the Texas panhandle and south plains area served by SPS, are people who received a disconnect notice before Aug. 12, said SPS spokesman Bill Crenshaw.

It was on Aug. 12 the Public Utility Commission ordered utility companies not to disconnect anyone's service for non-payment. However, the PUC's moratorium on disconnections is up today.

For those who can't pay their full bill, Crenshaw urged they call the SPS collection department at 1-800-530-4907 to set up a payment plan.

Today also triggers the disconnect notice period for anyone who received a cut-off notice since Aug. 12, Crenshaw said. Those customers have until Oct. 10 to pay their bills or arrange with SPS to catch up.

Homecoming parade...

The 1998 PHS Homecoming Parade begins tomorrow at 4:15 at the intersection of Harvester and Mary Ellen. The parade route will travel from Mary Ellen to Atchison Street.

Coronation of Homecoming royalty will be at 7 p.m. at Harvester Stadium. The game, at 7:30 p.m., is against Randall.

Bill Walters is the parade's grand marshal, and a special float

Two corrections officers, on their way to work at the Jordan Unit about 1:45 p.m. yesterday, received minor injuries in an accident in the 900 block of Tyng. Both Richard Lavon Shay, 27, 928 E. Denver, and Jason Thomas, 24, also of the Denver Street address, were treated and released at Columbia Medical Center, a hospital spokesman said. Shay, driver of a 1992 red Dodge Dakota pickup, was cited by Officer Keith Morris for passing on the right side without safety. The other auto involved as a 1997 blue Chevrolet Silverado pickup driven by Kevin Ray Mahaffee, 20. His city of residence was not on the report. A passenger in the Silverado, Keith Shaw, 28, of Amarillo, received possible injuries.

Police talk man out of suicide

Tragedy was averted this week when a 42-year-old Pampa man was persuaded to remove a noose from his neck and come down from a tree.

Pampa Police Department officers responded during the lunch hour Tuesday when a call came in saying a man had climbed a tree near McCullough and Barnes and was threatening suicide.

When Lt. John Goes and Sgt. Terry Young arrived they found the man had tied a rope around a tree limb and put a hangman's noose around his neck.

The man was despondent over his marriage, according to Young. Young started talking to the man, attempting to persuade him to come down. Officer were soon joined by the man's uncle. Eventually the man's wife also arrived and the three spent at least an hour talking the man down.

When Lt. John Goes and Sgt. Terry Young arrived they found the man had tied a rope around a tree limb and put a hangman's noose around his neck.

Eventually the man did take the rope off and surrendered to the police. He was taken to Columbia Medical Center and then transferred to Amarillo for psychiatric evaluation.

Police Chief Charlie Morris said, "The great thing about this event is that everybody walked away."

Lubbock official: All cities should practice Y2K disaster

LUBBOCK, (AP) — Lubbock officials have a message for other cities around the country: Ignore the potentially disastrous millennium computer bug at your own risk.

The West Texas city on Wednesday conducted what was called the nation's first citywide simulation of the chaos that many fear will ensue if computers driving vital public systems fail to recognize the year 2000.

It wasn't actually a test of any city equipment but rather a drill to see how city personnel responded to mock crises.

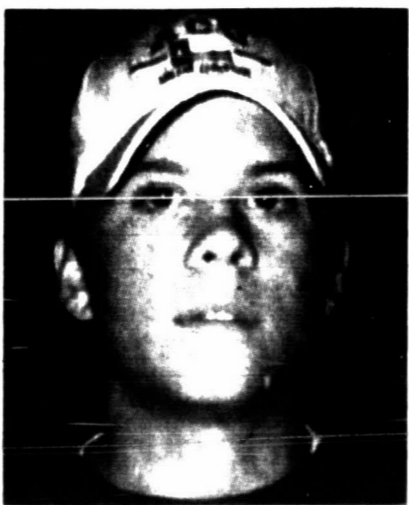

Some simulated results: a crashed 911 emergency system and trouble delivering natural gas to residents, all during a winter storm and with a prison riot erupting outside of town.

City manager Bob Cass, scheduled to testify about the experience Friday before a U.S. Senate committee, said the clear lesson was that cities risk being blindsided if they don't work on contingency plans for the worst-case Y2K scenario.
 "This is the one disaster that we know exactly when it could occur, but it's also the one disaster that we have no idea how bad it will be," Cass said.
 "One thing that sticks out in my mind is that there is the potential for so many things to go wrong all at once. It would be a good thing for other cities to do what it takes to be prepared."

Mary Jane Collipriest, communication director for the Year 2000 Congressional Committee, said Cass' experience could be essential in educating other cities.

"What if you're in Detroit or in Chicago and you have no power or heat and its minus-10 (degrees) outside," Mrs. Collipriest said by telephone from Washington. "What does that mean for the social fabric of our society. Activities and efforts of cities like Lubbock will keep the sky from falling."

Some computer scientists fear the Y2K bug could cause water systems to shut down, traffic lights to go haywire or life-support systems to fail.

The Lubbock experiment coupled such effects with mock emergencies that would make for an extra-busy night at the police department.

"Our simulation took into account things like slick roads and traffic accidents that would be standard fare for New Year's Eve," Cass said.

The test was essentially a role-playing game. Test conductors sent e-mail messages to city officials notifying them of mock natural disasters or failed systems. Emergency officials, including police, fire and utility workers, then had to react. A system also was set up to judge response times.

At emergency management headquarters, officials frantically practiced deploying police officers to deal with problems and posted red flags on a giant city map to highlight emergency areas.

The illusion was made complete with reporters summoned for "news conferences" and mock reports from a National Weather Service official.

The city's 911 emergency system was said to have failed just as the drill period began.

Officials quickly switched over to a county system and broadcast two new police fire department emergency numbers on television. A passenger jet also was said to have made an emergency landing at Lubbock International Airport.

Cass said city workers improvised well when unexpected problems arose.

"We pulled together and acted like a team," he said. "A lot of these agencies aren't used to dealing with each other like they had to tonight. The fire department, the police department both did great jobs of improvising solutions."

Corruption trial starts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy was "easy pickings" for corrupt businesses or lobbyists with hopes of influencing his decisions, a prosecutor charged as Espy's corruption trial got under way today.

Espy was a huge sports fan and chronically short of money. Independent Counsel Donald Smaltz told jurors in his opening statement. Companies whose business was heavily dependent on Agriculture Department regulations or decisions knew they could get Espy's ear when he was secretary by giving him tickets to such things as a Chicago Bulls championship game or the U.S. Open, Smaltz said.

"They used Mr. Espy's fondness for sports to get on his good side," Smaltz said. "He was easy pickings for companies that wanted to slip him something special."

Espy is charged with taking illegal gifts, lying about it and trying to get a friend to cover for him. He is not charged with taking bribes, and prosecutors do not have to prove that the companies giving gifts to Espy got anything in return.

Nonetheless, defense lawyer Theodore Wells told jurors the notion of a quid pro quo is key to the case. Espy sometimes made decisions his supposed benefactors did not like, Wells said.

"He called it straight down the middle. If you were his friend and you were right, he called it your way," Wells said. "If you were wrong and you were his friend he called it against you."

"He's completely innocent. He did not commit any criminal acts. He's not a crook," Wells said. Espy did make mistakes in filling out financial disclosure forms and in forgetting to repay at least one company - Quaker Oats - for a sports ticket, Wells said.

"When you make a mistake and it's done in good faith that's not criminal - that's a mistake," Wells said.

Prosecutors have lined up about 100 witnesses, and attorneys for Espy plan a similar number of witnesses at his federal trial. Espy faces 38 charges involving allegations he accepted about $35,000 worth of travel, sports tickets, luggage and other goods.

Four days of jury selection ended Tuesday with a panel of 12, plus six alternates. U.S. District Judge Ricardo M. Urbina predicted the trial will last a minimum of six weeks.

Espy pleaded innocent last year to 39 charges, including one that has since been dropped. The potentially most serious charges are three alleged violations of the 1907 federal meat inspection law, each of which carries a mandatory minimum one-year prison term.

A former Democratic congressman from Mississippi, Espy was President Clinton's first agriculture secretary. Espy resigned in 1994 after Smaltz began an investigation of his relationships with several companies, including chicken processor Tyson Foods Inc.

Arkansas-based Tyson was fined $6 million after pleading guilty to giving Espy more than $12,000 in gifts.

Smaltz's four-year investigation also included Espy associates and former employees. Espy, 44, practices law in Mississippi.

Two newspapers file copyright-infringement suit against Web site

LOS ANGELES (AP) - In a case with broad implications in cyberspace, the Los Angeles Times and The Washington Post filed a copyright-infringement lawsuit against a Web site that posts their stories without permission.

The federal lawsuit filed Tuesday in federal court in Los Angeles accuses the Free Republic site of using hundreds of stories from the newspapers, violating their copyrights and diverting users and potential revenue from their own Web sites.

Rex Heinke, an attorney for the newspapers, said the Free Republic site has been posting the stories "on a very large scale for a very long time."

The Fresno-based site posts the stories and allows users to write comments about them. The site's operator, Jim Robinson, said he has ignored warnings from the newspapers because the practice is protected by the First Amendment and the "fair use" doctrine of copyright law.

The doctrine allows portions of copyrighted works to be duplicated when presented in the context of commentary, such as a book review that contains excerpts.

"I'm resolved to do whatever it takes to win this case," said Robinson, a computer programmer. "I will not back down." He said he is being singled out because of his political leanings. The Free Republic site features many right-wing messages.

The suit is widely seen as a potentially groundbreaking attempt to address how copyright protections apply to the Internet.

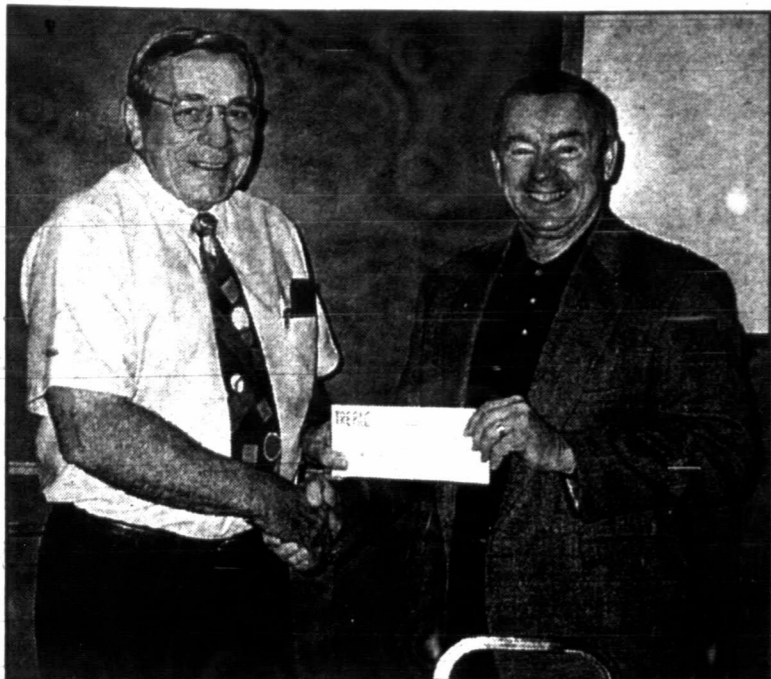

"It's a very important lawsuit because it's a question that needs to be settled," said John Shepard Wiley Jr., a law professor at the University of California, Los Angeles.

"The Net is one giant copying machine, and producers, authors and content providers have been worried that the Net would threaten their basic economic incentives," he said.

Bridge provides much-needed services to abused children

This article is one in a series of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 1998 "The Power of U" fund-raising campaign.

The Bridge, an agency providing services for abused children, is in its second year of funding assistance from the Pampa United Way. In 1994, the Amarillo office provided nine services to abused children in Gray County. However, after the satellite office in Pampa was established in May 1995, 30 services were provided to clients. In 1998, The Bridge office in Pampa provides services to dozens of abused children in Gray County.

In the spring of 1995, agency leaders, representing child protective services, law enforcement, the judiciary and prosecutors, signed a memorandum of understanding establishing the first case review team for Gray and surrounding counties.

In April 1995, The Bridge began conducting on-site child victim interviews in Pampa. The result of services was a 46 percent increase in the number of children served.

This caseload increase, combined with the overwhelming community support, necessitated the opening of a satellite office located in Pampa and the hiring of a part-time child victim interviewer and case review team facilitator.

The Bridge has two main goals in Gray County: providing an accurate account of sexual and/or physical abuse through the use of a non-leading videotaped interview of the child, and providing follow-up reviews of open abuse cases in the area to ensure children do not "fall through the crack." The videotaped interview allows the children to ideally tell their stories one time and allowing all investigative agents and prosecutors a fair and accurate view of the abuse without subjecting the children to continued retelling of their traumatic experiences. This allows the individual child an opportunity to begin a healing process.

The case review teams, consisting of representatives from law enforcement, child protective services, the medical community and prosecutors, meet regularly to discuss current child abuse cases. As a result, more offenders are held accountable because of these coordinated efforts to stop child victimization.

The combination of these goals increases the rate of conviction of those who victimize children. Without the videotaped interview, coupled with consistent case review, children in Pampa would be more susceptible to child abuse re-victimization with a lower percentage of convictions for the offenders.

Through the funding assistance provided by the Pampa United Way, The Bridge can maintain its satellite office in Pampa and more immediately provide the services to help children begin the healing process and become free of the victimization.

'Children with Sexual Behavior Problems' conference slated this month in Amarillo

AMARILLO — The Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority Child and Adolescent Services and Amarillo College Center for Continuing Healthcare Education are hosting "Children With Sexual Behavior Problems" conference on Oct. 8, 9, and 10. The conference will be held at Amarillo College Business and Industry Center for professionals on Thursday, Oct. 8 and Friday Oct. 9 and for parents on Saturday morning, Oct. 10. The fee for professionals for the two-day conference is $169 (was $149 until Sept. 16) and a half day conference designed for parents is $6.

The first two days of the conference are designed for professionals. The speaker, Toni Cavanagh Johnson, Ph.D., will talk to professionals about natural and healthy sexuality, children who molest, ways to work with the child and their parents, treatment modalities and ways to help the child and the caregivers stay healthy while dealing with the trauma of sexual abuse. On Saturday, parents, foster parents, and childcare providers will have a half day to learn ways to understand sexual behavioral problems with children.

Dr. Johnson, a licensed clinical psychologist, is in private practice in California. She has been working in the field of child abuse for over 20 years as a researcher, trainer and clinician.

For the past 12 years, Dr. Johnson has provided highly specialized treatment for children below the age of 12 with sexual behavior problems. She has published her research on boys and girls who molest other children "Child Abuse and Neglect." The "Journal of Interpersonal Violence" published her paper on a treatment program for these children.

Dr. Johnson is the author of several publications including "Child Sexuality Curriculum for Abused Children and Their Parents." She has developed and now markets a game specifically designed for sexually abused and sexually aggressive children and another game for victims of incest. She co-authored a book with Dr. Eliana Gil entitled, "Sexualized Children: The Assessment and Treatment of Sexualized Children and Children Who Molest."

This recognized authority on childhood sexual abuse has lectured in Australia, New Zealand, South America, Europe, South Africa, England, Ireland, Scotland, Canada and throughout the United States. She provides consultation to protective service workers, mental health professionals, attorneys, the police, probation and the courts in the area of sexual victimization and perpetration.

Sexual abuse or abuse of any kind is horrible for a child. Research has shown that children are born knowing that there are certain parts of their bodies that belong only to them and when someone — usually a person who is well known to the child — violates the child, the child has a hard time handling the devastating experience.

Pre-registration is required. For more information, call Gene Ann Grant, TPMHA Family and Community Education director, at (806) 354-2191.

International Club, Public Library plan Greece Week

AMARILLO — Amarillo International Club and Amarillo Public Library recently announced the seventh annual Amarillo International Week will focus on Greece Oct. 4-10.

Amarillo International Week began in 1992. The first country celebrated was Spain. In subsequent years, countries honored were China, Argentina, India, Scotland and Germany. The public is invited to help celebrate the culture, heritage and people of Greece. There will be lectures, children's stories, free Amarillo College faculty concert, a Greek festival and much more.

For more information, call Amarillo Public Library at (806) 378-4226.

High school seniors invited to attend CC Sneak Peek '98

CLARENDON — Area high school seniors are invited to attend Clarendon College's fourth annual Sneak Peek Friday, Oct. 16. Sneak Peek '98 participants will be able to tour the campus, meet with faculty, staff and students, audition for choir and drama scholarships and more!

Sneak Peek '98 will begin at 9 a.m. in the Bairfield Activity Center with a welcome from Interim President Dr. Ray Hawkins. From 9-11 a.m., students will have the opportunity to speak with instructors in their area of interest. CC Student Ambassadors will provide a walking tour of campus and all visitors will be treated to lunch in the college's Dining Hall. Both parents and students are invited to attend Sneak Peek '98. Overnight on-campus accommodations are available for students. Individuals interested in staying on campus need to reserve a room by calling 1-800-687-9737 by Monday, Oct. 12.

High school seniors interested in drama and choir are encouraged to audition for college fine arts scholarships. Administered by Fine Arts Chair Jim Stewart, choir auditions will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Auditorium. Students will need to provide their own accompaniment music and prepare to sing one song of their choice.

Drama scholarship auditions will begin at 3 p.m. in the Harned Sisters Auditorium. Drama students will need to complete an application and provide a recent, close-up photograph. For the audition, students will need to perform 45-90 seconds of prepared monologue material. Students must call CC at 1-800-687-9737 by Oct. 12, to reserve a tryout position for choir and drama scholarship auditions.

Sneak Peek '98 attendees are also invited to attend the annual CC Intramural Rodeo at 1 p.m. at the city rodeo arena. At 9 p.m., there will be a dance in the Community Center, located next to the rodeo grounds.

For more information about Sneak Peek '98, call CC at (806) 874-3571 or 1-800-687-9737.

Environmental mob deals in generalities

■ Environmental activists always tend to turn to government for answers.

One of the most effective strategies of environmental activists is to portray their opponents as enemies of Mother Nature who'd rather line the pockets of corporate polluters than preserve the land for future generations. Once the debate is framed in such emotional terms, only the bravest hearts dare to oppose the green lobby's latest designs.

With that in mind, consider the media campaign launched recently by The Wilderness Society. As the Interior Appropriations Bill continues to be debated in the Senate chambers, the society rallied its troops against some "riders" it said would degrade the environment and pushed for the adoption of others more to its liking.

Some people have echoed the society's argument. For instance, a New York Times editorial in July accused the "Contract-With-America Republicans" of trying "every legislative trick in the book to undermine the nation's environmental laws."

Heroism on the part of the Clinton administration and moderate Republicans kept these Bambi-haters at bay. "But the GOP contractors are a patient bunch, and after lying around in the weeds for a while," they added 20 appropriations riders that "threaten the nation's struggle to clean its air and water, restore important fisheries and protect its public lands."

To the casual reader, it's an open-and-shut case: Conservative Republicans care little for the environment and have been working by stealth to deprive Americans of clean air and water.

The issues, however, aren't nearly as clear as some pundits would have Americans believe.

For instance, the Times was particularly angry about a rider moving forward in another appropriations bill to forbid the Environmental Protection Agency from implementing the Kyoto Treaty on global warming until the Senate votes on it. The newspaper views it as a particularly shameless assault on the environment, but there is another way to look at the measure.

The Clinton administration doesn't seem to have the Senate votes to implement a treaty that would mandate cuts in U.S. fossil fuel use. Rather than make its case to the Senate and the public, the administration is using the federal bureaucracy to implement Kyoto's provisions anyway.

Other appropriations riders are similarly complex. Is it really anti-environment to approve of some logging on public lands? Or to allow helicopter use over 135 million acres of Alaska wilderness? He'll not weighing in on the merits of specific riders, but suggesting there's more involved than white-hat-wearing environmentalists battling black-hat-wearing ecological despoilers.

The Wilderness Society's "good" riders, by contrast, allocate funds for public agencies to buy more land or limit the use of vast public tracts for logging or energy exploration.

Most 1999 appropriations bills are still up in the air, so we don't know what environmental riders will pass. But, clearly, environmental activists continue to unfairly demonize anyone who believes the federal government is not the best steward of the land.

Liberals and the Constitution

Clinton's scandal and his possible impeachment have produced somewhat of a metamorphosis among liberals in and out of Congress. They've become strict constructionists of at least a sentence or two in the Constitution.

In trying to save Clinton's presidential hide, they're saying that the "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors" language in Article II, Section 4 of the Constitution has a very narrow and precise meaning. They warn us that the Framers of the Constitution would be appalled if today's Americans deviated from the meaning they had in mind and impeached a president over something as trivial as sex and lies.

I'm not sure liberals have any idea of what the Framers had in mind, much less any respect for what they had in mind. One thing for sure is their sudden conversion to strict construction of the "high crimes and misdemeanors" language of the Constitution is nothing less than disingenuous manipulation.

The fact of business is that liberals have open contempt for the Constitution and rule of law, except when it suits their purposes. Reps. Zoe Lofgren, D-Calif., and Barney Frank, D-Mass., are leading proponents of the Framers-intent, strict constructionist interpretation of the Constitution's impeachment language. But ask either one of them, or their colleagues, whether they also espouse the Framers-intent strict construction of, say, the Tenth Amendment, which

Walter Williams
 Syndicated columnist

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people," and they'll hem and haw a bit, feigning constitutional respect, but their answer will boil down to a big fat "No."

Lofgren, Frank and their liberal colleagues have contempt for Framers intent in most of our Constitution. I say most, but not entirely. Liberals do call for a narrow, literal interpretation of the First Amendment, which mandates that "Congress shall make no law ... abridging freedom of speech, or of the press or of the right of the people to peaceably assemble. ..."

Liberals support freedom of speech, the press and assembly because it's vital to their agenda of persuasion and organization to restrict other liberties. They'll argue that our Second Amendment rights to keep and bear arms or our Fifth Amendment rights against the taking of property should be restricted and modified in order to promote the public good in a society far more complex than that during the times of our Founders. But, they wouldn't apply that same reasoning to free speech, press and assembly protections.

Try it for yourself. Ask a congressional or a news media liberal how the government should regulate and control speech and the press in the public interest in today's complex society. They'll concede to no government regulation and control whatsoever.

Liberal support for freedom of speech and the press is simply a temporary expedient. Once they gain full control, freedom of speech and the press will be restricted, as have our other freedoms. There's both worldwide and domestic evidence of this process. The most leftist institutions in our country today are colleges and universities. The 1960s hippies are now college presidents, deans and professors. These ex-hippies are the very people who've promoted and sanctioned campus speech codes that violate free speech. They are also the people who turn a blind eye to campus thugs who shout down speakers with whom they disagree and burn entire campus newspaper runs when they publish views they deem offensive.

If there's a silver lining to Clinton's sex and lies scandal, it's the exposure of liberal contempt for constitutional principles and rule of law.

Time to get Clinton out of office

Well, now you know. William Jefferson Clinton is, as Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr., said, one "unusually good liar." I'd say he's a world-class liar. I've never seen anybody else who can lie with such conviction.

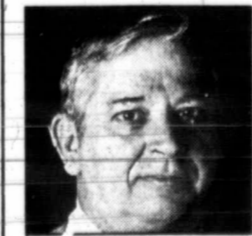

Now for a pop quiz. You have a man who is proven to have lied to his closest friends and supporters, who ruthlessly manipulated his people to peddle his lies for eight months. Question: On what subjects and on which occasions can you trust him to tell the truth?

If you say "none," you get an I for intelligent. If you say "on any occasion," you get an EG for extremely gullible.

Please remember that this entire business is 100 percent the fault of Clinton. One, he didn't have to have the affair. Two, since he had it, he could have admitted it the first time the question came up. Three, he could have said nothing in public but told the truth in his sworn deposition.

If he had done any of these things, he would not be facing an impeachment hearing, the country would not have had to endure eight months of the Monica Lewinsky affair and Ken Starr could have wrapped up original investigation.

What Clinton did was evidence of madness. He took a sexual dalliance with a young girl that nobody but Hillary would have cared about and, by lying, turned it into a massive problem, not only for him but for the country. What Clinton did was clearly irrational, and I want to quote you a passage from a book about sociopaths (they used to be called psychopaths).

Charley Reese
 Syndicated columnist

Dr. Ken Magid and Carole A. McKelvey, authors of "High Risk: Children Without a Conscience," write the following:

"These Trust Bandits (sociopaths) are everywhere. Most don't murder. A few even become powerful figures in the world, politicians or corporate presidents. Since they are not controlled by accepted norms and do not have consciences, the usual rules don't apply. This can give some psychopaths a so-called edge. But the mistake would be in believing that the murderers are the only ones who can hurt us. Nothing is further from the truth. It is what most people don't know about these people that is so dangerous. At the core of the unattached is a deep-seated rage, far beyond normal anger. This rage is suppressed in their psyche. These bondless men, women and children see those around them as objects, targets, stepping stones. Most lie, steal and cheat without a conscience, and they feel no remorse for their actions. If the suppressed rage ever surfaces, they are capable of much more than a con."

Remember the vicious vilification of Starr and everyone else who crossed him?

Sounds like Clinton, doesn't it? If you think not, read the complete Starr report. Nobody, I mean nobody, was so close or loyal or fond of Clinton that he didn't ruthlessly manipulate them. And even as he does his "I'm sorry" bit, which he has practiced all his life, you can still see the rage he feels toward Starr and anybody else who crosses him.

This guy is dangerous. One Arabic newspaper in Egypt has reported that he is planning a military attack on Iraq in October close to the congressional elections. Clinton is a guy perfectly capable of killing innocent people just for public relations purposes and will not feel one ounce of remorse.

I've said before that Clinton is a sociopath. If you look at his life, what he has always done is nutty. His actions certainly have shown a callous contempt and indifference to women when he's not playing the con job. He needs to be taken out of power. The sooner the better.

Houston mayor randomly selected for city's drug-testing program

HOUSTON (AP) — The city's random drug-testing program might be working a little too well for Mayor Lee Brown. Brown was picked to be tested under the program, making him the first Houston mayor chosen since the city implemented the tests in October 1992. "I was happy to take part in the testing," Brown said Wednesday. "I believe strongly in leading by example." The drug policy is designed to test employees in positions that impact citizens' safety, such as equipment operators and police officers. But when the policy was approved, then-Mayor Bob Lanier and City Council members also tossed their job titles in the mix. If an employee tests positive, the results are forwarded to an independent medical review officer who interviews the employee. If there is no medical reason for a positive test, the employee is fired. Brown, who submitted a urine sample about three weeks ago, won't be leaving his job any time soon. His test came back negative.

12-year-old charged in 10-year-old's shooting death

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — A 12-year-old Lancaster boy has been charged with juvenile delinquency/criminally negligent homicide after shooting a 10-year-old boy. Elisha Speaks died early Sunday morning after being shot in the head at the older boy's home. Police said they believe the 12-year-old got the gun from his sister's room, returned to the living room, pointed it at Elisha and pulled the trigger. "Pointing a pistol at someone is not normal behavior," Sgt. Pat Stallings told The Dallas Morning News for Thursday's editions. "A 12-year-old should know better than to point a firearm at any individual." The 12-year-old was released to his parents after the shooting and will remain in their custody until a hearing can be held. No date has been set. The boy's 15-year-old sister is facing charges of making a firearm accessible to a child, police said. Witnesses told police the 12-year-old was playing with the gun earlier in the day but that his sister took it away from him. Police said they do not know why the girl had the gun. Elisha's father, the Rev. Dale Speaks, said the issue of how the girl got the gun is crucial.

1. Name please?

Ruby A. Blackwell

2. Date of birth and age?

September 17, 1903 (95 years)

3. When did you marry?

June 25, 1924

4. Husbands name?

Fred Wyatt Blackwell

5. Do you have any kids?

Yes, I have three their names are Bettye Sue Clegg, Evelyn Shelton, and Fred W. Blackwell

6. When did you move to Lefors?

We moved to the area in 1928, we lived outside of town about six miles east of Lefors on Red Mud Creek.

7. What Brought you to Lefors?

Well my husband worked for a water supply company for the drilling rigs in Vernon TX. and he was transferred from Vernon to Lefors where he went to work at the water company outside of town furnishing water for the drilling rigs in the surrounding areas. Later went to work for texaco.

8. What major changes have there been in Lefors since you have been here?

The population has decreased at one time there was a population of about 800 people in Lefors and there were about a thousand kids going to school in Lefors. There were several plants outside of town and there were many families living at these plants and their children attended school in Lefors.

The town used to be rather big there were two grocery stores, two drug stores, a variety store, a movie theater, four fueling stations, cafes, also there were doctors offices that were only here for a short time and moved to Pampa.

Ms. Ruby Blackwell, long time citizen of Lefors, TX.

9. What jobs did your husband have while living in Lefors?

Texaco was his main object in working, he was with them for 40 years, he was also the mayor of Lefors, he owned real-estate, had rent houses (which were sold when he died), and ran the Credit union out of his own house for 14 years to the location of a fueling station where it remains today. He retired at the age of 65 working for Texaco.

10. How has the wages changed since you have been in Lefors?

The wages have changed quit a bit, when we moved here my husband was making normal paying cost at an oil company which was very little, when my husband died he was amazed at the wages that the oil company workers were making at the time doing the same work he did.

11. Do you believe Lefors is getting better or worse?

Well for a while it was going down and getting worse but the last couple years it has been on an up swing.

12. How do you see Lefors' future?

I believe its gonna get better; it has been rotten the last two years, but I believe its gonna get better.

13. If you could change one thing about Lefors what would it be?

I would love to see the streets paved or grated one or the other they are bad for the public that are out driving around on them, and there are a couple of water lines that need some improvement.

14. What do you think of the technology of today?

Well I haven't used the technology much such as computers but I am sure that it is useful to the credit union a lot they are always working and doing something on them, they are gonna be great for the kids that are growing up.

15. If you could give a person a piece of advice, what would it be?

Look to the future, hope for the best, and do great things to make it the best.

Ground Zero has Arrived!!!

Pirate Pride editor
Jeremy Pierce

This just in.... All citizens of Lefors should seek shelter at the nearest football field; the Pirates have invaded the area and are showing no mercy toward their victims - Follett JV and Groom JV take direct hit.

The Pirates invaded Groom JV on the 17th of Sept. The clash ended with the Pirates victorious, 62-34. The Pirates surprised the Tigers with a new formation, tight I and T. The Pirates unleashed their new style of play, the blitzkrieg. A strong ground attack supported by intense blocking. Michael Steele, one of the Pirates big guns, blew away the Tigers with 202 yards on the ground. He also added 6 touchdowns. Grooms air charge failed as the Pirates Defensive Backs shot them out of the sky. The Pirates took no prisoners and showed no mercy.

The Pirates next offensive was against the Panthers of Follett. 53-26 was the score, not counting the hearts and souls of the men lost in the battle. The Pirates ground descent was unstoppable, compiling 235 total yards - 83 of these belonged to Michael Steele and 73 belonged to the once injured soldier Caleb Barnes. The Pirates air attack was small but effective with 2 passes and 2 touchdowns. Follett had a strong air attack, but no ground support. The Pirates held them to 39 rushing yards.

The Fighting Pirates are back. The only way to be prepared for them is to observe their battle tactics. Inside intelligence had reported that the Pirates next assault will be at Shaw Field in Lefors on the 1st of October. Watch from the stands, for venturing onto the field in putting a price on your head.

The Making of a Rock Star.

The Story of Billy Corgan

staff writer
Chris Alexander

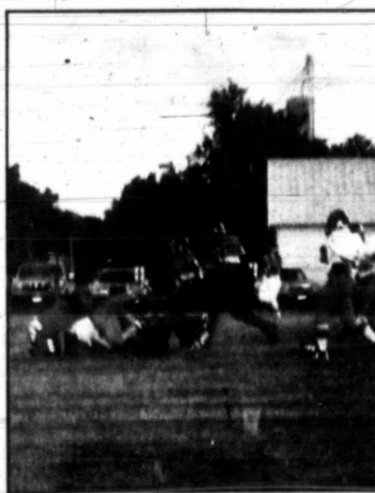

Since he was in high school, Smashing Pumpkin Billy Corgan has put his music as his priority. In 1984 he was writing for the Glenbard High School Newspaper as a record reviewer. Even back then he had an eye for music trends: he predicted that U2, REM, and Metallica would make it big in the future.

Corgan picked up his first guitar when he was fifteen years old. He started playing Jimi Hendrix and Black Sabbath style rock, and blended it with Pink Floyd and Beatles-esc lyrics. After school everyday he would run home just to practice with his guitar.

Despite being a straight A student, Billy hated school. What people put worth in confused him. The only thing peopled cared about was who's cuter, and who's a jock. No one seemed to accept individuality or creativity; they just expected everyone to fit into the mold and blend in with the crowd.

Corgan got his first job washing dishes at a local Chinese restaurant, which he quit, along with basketball, apparently to protect his fingers for guitar playing. This was first sign of his dedication to the music. He would later go on to lead one of the most popular groups of the nineties.

Neighbor Who Breaks Garden Tool Is a Bust as a Friend

DEAR ABBY: I have never written for advice before, but this really bugs me. A friend and neighbor of ours borrowed a very expensive gardening tool and broke a part on it.

My husband, "Walter," and I have always believed that when you break something you have borrowed, you repair it, get it repaired or replace it. Our neighbor brought the tool back and told Walter what had happened, but made no offer to pay for the repairs. So far, Walter has spent more than an hour on the phone trying to get information on repairs and parts. He'll have to travel at least an hour (there and back) to purchase the parts, and has been told they will cost at least $40.

When Walter approached our neighbor about the problem, the guy responded, "I don't have a problem!" Then he reluctantly offered to pay half the cost.

Walter is afraid that if he presses the issue, he'll lose this friend. Abby, I'm married to a nice guy, but I think he's being played for a sucker. I told Walter that if it were my tool, I'd have it repaired, forget about getting reimbursed, and never loan anything to this neighbor again.

We've been married almost 50 years and never had a problem like this before. All our friends have been real friends. I contend this neighbor is no friend, only a user. However, he is a neighbor, so that complicates the matter.

Is there a solution I'm overlooking here?

MRS. NICE GUY

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR MRS. NICE GUY: No. Your gut reaction is right on target.

DEAR ABBY: My father was recently diagnosed with a terminal illness and given less than six months to live. With my wife's blessings, I am staying at my parents' home on weekdays to assist as much as possible with his care. I do this following a 12-hour night shift, so the time I can devote to actually talking with my father and doing everything he needs done is limited. Much of my time is taken up with bathing him, helping him into his wheelchair and tending to his personal needs — and of course, I must sleep a little.

My eldest stepson asked to visit my father, and I told him that I prefer no visitors at this time (my father sleeps most of the time). Dad will not see anyone unless he's dressed and in his wheelchair, because he doesn't want anyone to feel sorry for him. It is time-consuming to prepare him for visitors.

My wife is upset with me for not allowing my stepson to visit. If the boy were close to my father, it would be different, but he hasn't seen Dad more than six times in the last four years.

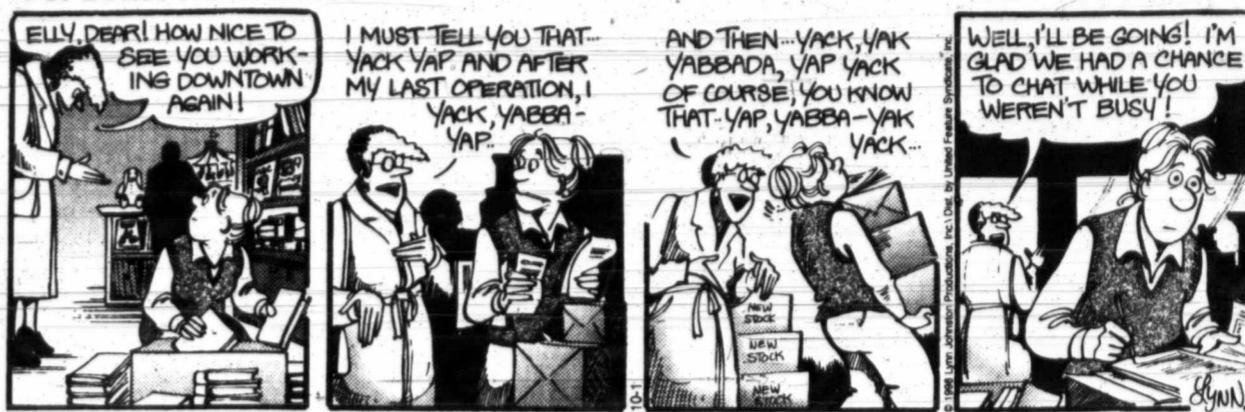

Abby, am I being unreasonable in making sure my father gets everything he wants?

DUTIFUL SON IN NEVADA

DEAR DUTIFUL SON: Dutiful is the right word to describe you, a son who is making every effort to make his father's last days as pleasant as possible. However, you made the decision there would be no visitors, and your father is the one who should decide that. Even though it creates more work for you, your stepson should be allowed to visit your father unless your dad doesn't want to see the boy. A short visit can provide a psychological lift for those who are ill. Also, your stepson may need to make amends or say goodbye before your father passes away. Unfortunately, there is very little time for him to do so.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, OCT. 2, 1998

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

**** Work with a partner's spontaneity and ideas. You feel pressured and could react strongly. Be careful how you tell someone off. Remember, you don't want to burn any bridges. Intuition helps you work through a questionable money matter. Tonight: Do your own thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

**** You feel pulled in two different directions. Recognize that someone wants what he wants, when he wants it. You are quite capable of denying him. Aim for your goals. Be direct in your dealings with friends. Make time for a must meeting. Tonight: Where the crowds are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

**** Reach out for others, make headway and touch base with experts. Seek out only the finest information. You need to gain perspective about a loved one. What appears like a misunderstanding could be you not accepting this person's expectations. Tonight: Have an important chat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

*** Finances tend to take unusual twists and turns. You wonder what the best course of action is. Evaluation takes you down a new trail. Be open to feedback from an older friend. Though you might not always agree, he might have the answer. Tonight: Take off ASAP.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

**** Others don't hesitate to ask for what they want. You find them rather argumentative. It is their way or no way! Of course, you won't agree to anything that doesn't work for you. Keep a steady pace, helping others stay focused. Tonight: Play with a favorite person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

**** Dynamic interchanges mark your day. You might not realize how angry you are about key matters. Ease up, and stay on course. Pace yourself, clear your desk and remain confident. Make a long-distance call later in the day. Someone means business. Tonight: Party time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

**** A friend lets you know exactly what he thinks, whether you want to hear it or not. You feel the need to juggle various forces. Stay focused on goals, but remain diplomatic. A partner decides to go along with your plan. Make solid financial decisions. Tonight: Work late?

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

**** A boss is assertive and pushy. You need to think through what appears to be a good idea. Take care of your priorities first, then worry about others. A domestic matter demands your personal attention. A trusted associate has good advice. Tonight: Count on that loved one!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

**** Open up to what could be, rather than negate a situation because of someone's rough-and-tumble ways. Listen carefully to the real message behind the words. Attend to a family member who really cares about you. Check out an investment soon. Tonight: Head home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

**** Don't take a back seat when a partner takes an aggressive stand on finances. Let him know what you really want. Be reasonable about your requests. A creative, yet very serious talk might be necessary to straighten out this problem. Tonight: Tell it as it is!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

**** Allow others to say what they feel. After all, you want the same for yourself. But you don't have to follow through on what doesn't feel right. Your strong personality melts barriers; others feel close to you. Be careful with financial investments; avoid any risks. Tonight: Go overboard.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

**** You might not believe what a co-worker or boss does. It's important not to get involved. Remember what is going on, but remain above it all. Humor plays a significant role. Make plans for an important discussion as late in the day as possible. Tonight: Dinner for two.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — There will be coaches meeting for the Optimist Club Girls Basketball League at 7 p.m. Monday at the Optimist Club.

The meeting is mandatory for persons wanting to coach in third & fourth grade divisions or the fourth and fifth grade divisions.

Call Monte Covalt if more information is needed.

FOOTBALL

PAMPA — Mac Smith scored on a 34-yard run to give Pampa a 6-0 win over Borger in 7th grade football action earlier this week.

Borger won the B team game, 14-12.

Scoring for Pampa were Danny Meza (85-yard interception return) and Chance Henley (3-yard run).

Pampa's A team has a 3-0 record while the B team is 1-2. In the 8th grade division, Borger won over Pampa, 20-12.

Pampa scored its first touchdown on Tristan Brown's 15-yard pass to Devin Sessions. The second TD came on a 65-yard run by Jordan Klaus.

Pampa won the B team tilt, 24-20.

Anthony Dunn scored twice for Pampa on scoring runs of 57 and 24 yards. Ryan Zemanek threw a 70-yard touchdown pass to James Boones and James Botello scored on a 9-yard run to round out the Pampa scoring.

Pampa's A team has a 1-2 record while the B team is 2-0-1.

BASEBALL

ATLANTA (AP) — The lovable losers were no match for baseball's playoff warriors.

The wild, magical ride that carried the Chicago Cubs into the postseason for the first time in nine years got a reality check Wednesday in Game 1 of the NL division series. John Smoltz and the Atlanta Braves saw to that.

Following their usual formula — pitching and power — the Braves rolled to a 7-1 victory and showed no respect for Chicago's emotional bandwagon. As Harry Caray might have said, "Cubs lose! Cubs lose!"

"We wanted to put a lot of pressure on them right from the start," said Michael Tucker, who hit a two-run homer for the Braves. "If they get down, get themselves in a no-lose situation, that's pretty tough to be in."

Smoltz has turned the postseason into his own no-lose situation. That is, he hardly ever loses at this time of year.

"He's amazing," Chipper Jones said. "He can go out with less than his best stuff and continues to get people out. It doesn't matter how he feels at this time of year. He goes out there 100 percent expecting to win."

Smoltz became the winningest postseason pitcher in baseball history, pushing his record to 11-3 in 21 starts to break the mark he shared with Whitey Ford and Dave Stewart.

"It means a lot to me," Smoltz said. "It's the product behind me that allowed this to happen. It's a team and organization thing more than an individual thing."

Smoltz was 17-3 and had the best winning percentage in the majors during the regular season — a remarkable performance considering he had elbow surgery in December and went on the disabled list twice early in the season.

"I have been humbled a lot," Smoltz said. "But when you have humility, you understand how to handle adversity. This has been a year where I have not been able to enjoy many of the games I've pitched, but it has allowed me to learn a lot."

Tucker got things going for Atlanta by homering in the second, and Ryan Klesko turned the game into a rout with a seventh-inning grand slam.

Pampa hopes to avoid homecoming letdown

PAMPA — Pampa is 3-1 and Randall is 1-3. Pampa is favored by 20 points in the Harris Ratings System. However, those favorable figures doesn't make PHS coach Dennis Cavalier erupt with optimism going into Friday night's homecoming clash in Harvester Stadium.

"There's always the potential for a letdown following two straight victories. We just don't want to take Randall for granted," Cavalier said. "I'm sure that's something that entered Borger's mind when they played Canyon."

Cavalier was referring to Borger's 24-17 overtime loss to Canyon last week. The week before, Borger had ended Sweetwater's 40-game regular season win streak with a 19-14 upset.

"I've been preaching that message to our guys this week. Randall is always a well-prepared team. I feel like they're going to come and be ready to play us," Cavalier said.

The Harvesters have a two-game win streak going after knocking off a talented San Angelo Lakeview squad, 24-7, last Friday night.

"I felt like we played great defense throughout the entire course of the game. Earlier on our offense was in bad field position and I made the decision not to take any risks because the way our defense was playing," Cavalier said.

After a scoreless first half by both teams, Pampa's offense started picking up steam.

"I felt confident about our offense going into the second half. I felt we could move the ball and score some points," he said.

Pampa finished with 226 yards of offense as fullback Erich Greer and receiver Armando Tarango each had touchdowns. Greer has now rushed for 347 yards and four touchdowns.

Pampa's defense held Lakeview to 158 total yards. Linebackers Brent Phelps and Jared White, along with cornerback Jarred Bowles, were the defensive leaders. Phelps had 10 tackles while White was in on 14 tackles. Bowles had four tackles, an interception and caused a fumble. Pampa's other TD came from the defense when Andy Schroeder recovered a fumble in Lakeview's end zone.

Pampa's Friday night lineup will be intact except for starting offensive tackle Jonathan Waggoner, who has a stress fracture in his foot and will be out several weeks. Backup center Jonathan Waggoner will be starting in his place.

Junior quarterback Brandon Knapp leads a Randall offense which is averaging 235 yards per game despite three losses.

"I'm very impressed with the way he runs their option," Cavalier said. "He can run and throw behind a good offensive line."

Senior fullback Tyson Erwin is a tough runner in the Erich Greer mold, Cavalier added.

Matt Byrd, a 182-pound linebacker, leads the Raiders in tackles while 6-5, 270-pound lineman Matt McCormick has been hard to run against.

Top 10 Schedule

  10. Sweetwater (3-1) vs. WF Rider, 7:30 p.m.

Harvester cornerback Jarred Bowles had four tackles, an interception and caused a fumble against San Angelo Lakeview.

McLean, Wheeler look to get back on winning road

MCLEAN — After suffering a heartbreaking setback last weekend, the McLean Tigers must go up against unbeaten Groom in six-man action Friday night at Groom.

McLean has a 2-2 record while Groom is at 4-0.

Higgins scored 14 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to rally past McLean, 20-19, last week. The Tigers were leading, 19-6, going into the fourth quarter.

Frankie Sparling had scored two TDs for the Tigers on runs of 11 and 21-yard runs. Charlie Carter also tallied on a 6-yard run for McLean. The Tigers had one conversion, an Ike Hanes pass to Sparling.

Garrett Barton threw for a touchdown and ran for another one to account for Higgins' winning scores in the fourth quarter.

Higgins evened its record at 2-2.

WHEELER — Before beginning defense of its District 1-1A title, Wheeler welcomes Class 2A White Deer at 7:30 Friday night.

It will be the final non-district contest of the season for the Mustangs, who fell to Spearman, another 2A team, 42-6, last week.

Casey Childress scored Wheeler's lone TD against Spearman on a two-yard run. Aaron Dunnam was Wheeler's leading rusher with 50 yards on 17 carries.

The Harris Ratings System has White Deer favored by three points over Wheeler.

White Deer won last year's game, 28-0.

Wheeler has a 2-2 record, but both of its losses have come against 2A schools. The Mustangs were 1A state runner-up a year ago.

Wheeler opens district play in two weeks against Claude. The Mustangs have an open date next Friday night.

Wheeler is ranked tenth in the 1A Harris poll while White Deer is No. 32 in the 2A poll.

DALLAS (AP) — Longview took a week off and found itself ranked No. 1 in Class 5A.

The team was second-ranked last week, but benefited from Marshall's victory over previously top-ranked Killen Ellison.

Longview (3-0) plays Ruston, La., Friday night.

The four other No. 1 teams in The Associated Press weekly high school football poll also are in action.

La Marque (2-0) plays Beaumont West Brook in 4-A. Breckenridge (4-0) plays Merkel in 3-A. Stanton (4-0) plays Jim Ned in 2-A, and Tenaha (3-0) plays Elysian Fields in 1-A.

Other featured games in 5-A involve No. 2 Katy at Baytown Sterling, No. 3 Lewisville vs. Carrollton Newman Smith and No. 4 Converse Judson vs. Temple. All three of those ranked teams have 4-0 records.

The No. 2, 3 and 4 teams in Class 4-A also are 4-0. Second-ranked West Orange-Stark plays Little Cypress-Mauriceville, No. 3 Andrews plays Lubbock Estacado and No. 4 Stephenville plays Crowley.

In 3-A, No. 2 Sweeney (3-0) is at Brazosport on Thursday night. No. 3 Sealy is idle. No. 4 Tatum (4-0) is at White Oak, and No. 5 Commerce (4-0) is at Quinlan Ford.

In 2-A, the next five teams behind Stanton are all 4-0, so a loss would be costly in terms of the rankings. No. 2 Mart is at Crawford, No. 3 Winters plays Bangs, No. 4 Pilot Point is at Decatur, No. 5 Italy plays Pittsburg, and No. 6 Spearman plays Perryton.

Iola, ranked second in 1-A with a 2-0 record, plays the Bryan junior varsity tonight. No. 3 Aspermont (3-0) plays Kress, and No. 4 Era (2-0) plays Alvord.

Lady Harvesters host Palo Duro Lady Dons

Volleyball

PAMPA — After two straight District 3-4A losses, the Pampa Lady Harvesters volleyball team will be looking for a win against Palo Duro at 2 p.m. Saturday in McNeely Fieldhouse.

Pampa is 1-2 in district play after falling to Hereford, 15-2, 15-2 Tuesday night. The Lady Harvesters are 14-6 for the season.

"Hereford is good, but they're beatable," said PHS head coach Carmen Pennick. "The bottom line is that we just didn't play very well."

Lcrease Ford had 3 kills and Lisa Dwight 2 to lead Pampa in that category. Lori Lindsey had 7 assists and 6 digs.

Palo Duro is tied with Hereford for second place in the district standings at 2-1, 15-7.

The Lady Dons defeated Amarillo Caprock, 15-7, 15-3, Tuesday night.

"We're going to have step play much better than we have the last two matches," added Pennick.

Pampa is atop the district standings at 3-0.

Pampa did come away with a win over Hereford in the junior varsity match. No score was available in the match, which Pampa won in three games.

Charity Nachtigall, Chasity Nachtigall and Destiny Engel paced the Pampa wins.

BRISCOE — Fort Elliott split recent matches with Perryton and Dalhart.

The Lady Cougars defeated Dalhart, 15-3, 15-4 and lost to Perryton, 15-0, 15-4.

In the junior varsity matches, Fort Elliott lost to Dalhart, 15-7, 15-11, and Perryton 15-2, 15-7.

Kirby Kinaman, Ashley Estes and Ja'Nae Goad were impressive for Fort Elliott.

Yankees go up two games against slumping Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — By today, the whole baseball world will know the tale of Shane Spencer.

Spencer spent eight full seasons in the minors. Bounced between Triple-A and the majors this year. Put up big September numbers.

Spencer capped an amazing month in which he went from a virtual unknown to New York's newest hero, homering in his first postseason at-bat as the Yankees beat Texas 3-1 Wednesday night for a 2-0 lead in their AL division series.

"He doesn't get cheated up there," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "He knows what that piece of wood is made for, and it's not to clean off his shoes."

The 26-year-old rookie also singled ahead of Scott Brosius' homer, and that was plenty of support for Andy Pettitte. Texas, the top-hitting team in the league this season, has managed just 10 hits and one run in the series so far. Spencer has outscored the Rangers all by himself.

"It won't be storybook until it's all over," Spencer said. "We've still got eight or nine more wins to go.

"I'm just riding it now, cherishing the moment. Maybe someday I'll look back on it," he said.

The Yankees will try to sweep the best-of-5 playoff on Friday night in Texas. David Cone (20-7) starts for New York against Aaron Sele (19-11). Playing in baseball's most storied ballpark, Spencer added his own chapter. Then again, he certainly had enough time to look forward to this day.

Drafted in the 28th round in 1990, the outfielder did not even hit a home run in his first two years in the minors, totaling 360 at-bats. He made it to the majors this year, though he made three round trips between Triple-A Columbus and New York.

Special Olympians compete in Borger bowling tournament

PAMPA — On Oct. 26, sixteen Special Olympians from the Pampa Sheltered Workshop traveled to Borger to participate in a bowling tournament.

First place went to Richard Nolen, Debbie Ellis, Gladys Kysar, Dicky Con Hendricks, Lisa Busby, Jennifer Roden, Mark McMinn, Linda Lou Pierce Liberty, Blomox, Chris Bradley and Donald Stuart.

Second-place winners were Jaime Arebalo, Taisey Phillips and Amy Hammer.

Gary Carr and Heidi Venal came home with third-place medals.

A special thanks goes to Kaci Cooper, Francis Isbell, Shannon Horton, Mary West, Jane Goode, Imogene McMinn and Jackie Hendricks for helping coach Cindy Cooper.

Pampa Special Olympians will be hosting an Area Bowling Tournament Oct. 10 at Harvester Lanes.

Over 300 Special Olympians from Pampa, Canadian, Wheeler, Shamrock, Borger, Canyon, Hereford and Amarillo will be participating in the tournament that day.

Volunteers will be needed throughout the day for three different bowling shifts.

To volunteer, contact Cindy Cooper at 665-2137 or 665-5477 as soon as possible.

Two wideouts better than one for Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Not since the days of Alvin Harper have the Dallas Cowboys had a receiver opposite Michael Irvin who could scare opposing defenses.

Right now they are alternating two receivers they hope will eventually give defensive backs some restless nights.

One receiver, Billy Davis, has been on the team since his rookie season as a special teams star.

The other, Ernie Mills, once had a spectacular season for the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Put their totals together and they are four catches behind and 20 yards ahead of Irvin's totals.

"Together, they have done a nice job," said Dallas coach Chan Gailey. "We were looking for some balance opposite Mike because teams double-team him a lot. We're pleased with the way things are progressing."

Irvin has caught 26 passes for 356 yards, an average of 13.7 yards per catch, but has yet to score a touchdown. Davis averages 19.1 yards per catch and Mills 14.7 yards per catch.

Davis has caught 12 passes for 229 yards and scored twice. Mills has caught 10 passes for 147 yards and scored twice.

Davis has been the Cowboys training camp MVP. Under coach Barry Switzer, the Cowboys used Mills as a wide receiver in camp but relegated him to the special teams once the regular season started.

"I want to be known for more than being a Hall of Famer in the preseason," said Davis, who has such a sense of humor that he has been dyeing his hair different colors to try to get some attention. "Every pass that comes my way I need to take advantage of."

Davis can make the spectacular play like he did on an 80-yard touchdown pass against the New York Giants. Or, he can drop passes like he did in last Sunday's 13-12 loss to Oakland.

"I've got to get to the point where I make every play," said Davis, who isn't used to playing on a daily basis. "I can't have any drops."

Mills had only three passes in the preseason but gave an indication of his talent to get open by catching a 36-yard touchdown pass against the defending Super Bowl champion Denver Broncos.

Mills played for Gailey at Pittsburgh two years when the new Dallas coach was offensive coordinator.

"It helped that I knew the offense Chan liked to run," Mills said. "I think the longer the season goes, the better we will get at running it."

The Cowboys offense no longer relies on the timing patterns of the "West Coast" offense. Instead, the receiver looks for soft spots in the defense and the Dallas quarterbacks have to find who's open.

Sometimes it doesn't work — as in the loss to Oakland when Jason Garrett thought he saw Davis wide open down the middle and threw an interception.

Sometimes it works perfectly — as it did for Irvin in the season opener when he caught nine passes for 119 yards. Gailey occasionally puts Irvin in the slot to put pressure on the defense.

"It's just a matter of us getting on the same page with the quarterback in reading coverage," Davis said. "Then we can really get dangerous."

Stars fall in exhibition

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Greg Adams had to be pleased after slamming in a rebound in the final minute to give the Phoenix Coyotes a 2-1 victory over the Dallas Stars in an NHL exhibition game.

But the happiest man in Target Center spent the game up in the stands.

Bob Naegele Jr., chairman of the group that owns the Minnesota Wild, spent as much time watching the crowd as he did watching the game Wednesday night.

His heart was warmed by the largest crowd ever to attend an NHL game in Minnesota. The Wild announced a sellout of 18,294, and most of those seats were occupied. That, Naegele said, showed that the NHL is back in the minds of Minnesota hockey fans.

The crowd watched Adams break a 1-1 tie with 57 seconds remaining to give the Coyotes (3-2-1) their second consecutive exhibition victory. Adams, at the right edge of the goal crease, snared a rebound and smashed it past goalie Roman Turek of Dallas (2-2-1).

The Coyotes took a 1-0 lead at 4:06 of the first period on Shane Doan's goal and held it until 4:12 of the third, when Mike Keane tied it for the Stars — the former Minnesota North Stars — by flipping a rebound past Coyotes goalie Nikolai Khabibulin.

Khabibulin kicked out 29 shots, including 14 in the third period. Turek had 23 saves.

Both teams struggled on the power play, going 0-for-7. The same teams meet Friday night in Dallas.

"We're very pleased with the seats sold," said Naegele, whose team begins play in 2000 in St. Paul. "This game drew attention to the sport. ... It was nice to see a good, spirited crowd here that is anxious to have the NHL back."

The Wild has been taking season-ticket deposits and selling souvenirs for several months. But Wednesday night's game gave the team a prime marketing opportunity.

The Wild plastered its insignia everywhere but the players' jerseys: on the ice, on the scoreboard, on hats and shirts worn by Target Center staff. Concession stands hawked season tickets, and team merchandise.

The crowd tended not to take sides.

It cheered for the newly assembled Dallas line of Brett Hull, Mike Modano and Jere Lehtinen and roared at a fight between Coyotes forward Joe Dziedzic and the Stars' Jason Botterill.

Despite the relative quiet, former North Stars player and executive Lou Nanne thought the mere presence of a large crowd boded well for the NHL's future in Minnesota.

"There had to have been 14,000 in the building," Nanne said. "And the tickets weren't cheap, either. To sell 18,000 at those prices, that's a really nice sign. It tells me people are anxious to have hockey back."

Buckeyes look too strong for Penn State

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

This year, it's Ohio State, not Penn State, with the No. 1 ranking entering Saturday's Big Ten showdown at The Horseshoe.

This year, it's the Nittany Lions with the two-quarterback system, not the Buckeyes.

And this year, there's a good reason the Buckeyes are favored by two touchdowns: Curtis Enis no longer plays for Penn State, and Joe Germaine, David Boston and Dee Miller are still around for Ohio State.

"This is one of the best teams we have played since I've been at Penn State," said Joe Paterno, in his 49th year — 33rd as coach — at Penn State.

Compliments aside, Buckeyes coach John Cooper knows the seventh-ranked Nittany Lions can cause problems.

"They put a tremendous whipping on us last year, and Enis ran for 200 yards in one of the worst defensive games we played and one of the best offensive games they played," Cooper said. "We look forward to them coming here this week."

He should.

Not only is Enis gone, but running back Aaron Harris has yet to recover from knee surgery in '97. Harris' 51-yard TD run late in the third quarter started the Lions' comeback. Cordell Mitchell starts at tailback, but Harris will play. Also, the Lions (3-0) are going with two quarterbacks — Kevin Thompson and Rashard Casey.

The Buckeyes (3-0) have no such concerns. Germaine, who threw for 378 of the Buckeyes' 459 passing yards against Penn State, now has the job all to himself. Boston and Miller, who combined for 299 receiving yards in last year's game, are even more dangerous in '98.

An added dimension is tailback Michael Willy, fifth in the nation with 166.67 yards per game.

"I think they are better," Penn State linebacker Brandon Short said. "You don't stop their offense. We're not going to stop their offense. They're going to score points. The only thing we can do is try to make sure the points they score are not easy ones."

The Lions also have to contend with one of the nation's best defenses, led by Butkus Award winner Andy Katzenmoyer and defensive backs Antoine Winfield and Damon Moore. Ohio State is ninth nationally in total defense, allowing 238.3 yards per game.

Penn State is playing a No. 1 team for the first time since beating top-ranked Notre Dame 24-21 in 1990. The Lions are 4-5 against No. 1 teams under Paterno.

The picks:

No. 7 Penn State (plus 14) at No. 1 Ohio State

Buckeyes' defense too tough, Buckeyes' offense too talented for young Lions. ... OHIO STATE, 37-17.

No. 16 West Virginia (minus 15 1/2) at Navy

Amos Zereoue provides scoring punch for Mountaineers. ... WEST VIRGINIA, 38-17.

No. 18 Texas A&M (minus 14) at Kansas

Aggies hoping new QB Randy McCown gives the offense a spark. ... TEXAS A&M, 31-22.

Arizona State (plus 3) at No. 21 Southern California

Sun Devils due for a breakout game from Ryan Kealy and J.R. Redmond. ... ARIZONA STATE, 24-21.

Kentucky (plus 4) at No. 22 Arkansas

Hogs livin' high after win over 'Bama, but Wildcats' Tim Couch ready to pitch an upset. ... KENTUCKY, 35-28.

Northwestern State (no line) at No. 23 Missouri

Toss in a gimme for Mizzou. ... MISSOURI, 49-0.

Stanford (plus 18) at No. 23 Notre Dame

Narrow escape against Purdue has Irish looking for 3-1 start. ... NOTRE DAME, 30-17.

No. 25 Michigan (minus 9) at Iowa

Wolverines on the rebound after opening-season losses. ... MICHIGAN, 35-21.

Last week: 16-1 (straight); 9-8 (vs. spread).
Season: 63-13 (straight); 43-29-1 (vs. spread).

Ex-Royals' ace Quisenberry dead at 45

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dan Quisenberry's dry, subtle wit charmed fans. His funky submarine delivery baffled batters.

From the time he first came up with Kansas City in 1979 through the Royals' World Series season of 1985, no other relief pitcher in the major leagues got more saves than Quisenberry, or more laughs.

He worked tirelessly for civic and charitable events.

He kept a humble spirit. All through the glory years of American League pennants and World Series triumphs, he remained the skinny kid who wasn't good enough to be drafted, but yearned for a chance to pitch in the major leagues.

Quisenberry had known he had brain cancer since going to the doctor in December with terrible, persistent headaches.

After nine months of pain, a dawn was breaking over Kansas City on Wednesday, he died in his home at the age of 45. He is survived by wife, Janie, and teen-aged children Alania and David.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

"Dan was one of the finest people I've ever known," said Atlanta Braves general manager John Schuerholz, who was general manager of the Royals during Quisenberry's career.

"I don't remember him as the guy who got all the ground balls and double plays," said Jamie Quirk, a Royals coach and long-time teammate. "He was more important than that. He was much more."

Pale and skinny, Quisenberry had an awkward-looking, submarine delivery and a sinkerball that big-league hitters figured to murder.

Instead, they almost always pounded balls into the ground, where a talented infield headed by nine-time Gold Glove second baseman Frank White scooped them up.

"Dan didn't believe in the strikeouts," White recalled with a smile. "He used to tell me, 'My job is to get them to hit it on the ground. It's your job to get them out.'"

In a 12-year career, Quisenberry compiled 244 saves — now ranked 17th all-time. He was named to the All-Star team three times and led the American League in saves five times while helping the Royals win pennants in 1980 and 1985.

His 45 saves in 1983 was then the major league record. Between 1979 and 1985, when Kansas City beat St. Louis for its only World Series title, Quisenberry's 217 saves topped the major leagues.

"The memory that I'll always have of Dan was when I went to see him right after his surgery in January," former Royals star George Brett said.

"I was dreading every inch of the drive going to his house. But he put me at ease right away. He talked about how glad he was for every blessing he'd had. Everybody has the baseball memories. But there was so much more to Dan than baseball."

The inveterate joker's humor was usually directed at himself.

"I'll tell you a false sense of security by letting them watch me pitch," he once deadpanned. "If overconfidence can cause the Roman Empire to fall, I ought to be able to get a ground ball."

Once after coming out of a slump, he said, "I found a delivery in my flaw."

"He would always be able to make light of (situations) whether he did well or did bad," said former teammate Bret Saberhagen, now with the Boston Red Sox. "He was a great teammate, a great friend."

Parties differ on scope of Clinton inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — For all their talk about bipartisanship, House Republicans and Democrats have vastly different ideas about the scope of any impeachment inquiry into President Clinton's relationship with Monica Lewinsky.

A proposed GOP resolution outlined Wednesday would give House Judiciary Committee investigators broad, Watergate-style authority to subpoena witnesses and evidence without a committee vote if Chairman Henry Hyde, a Republican, and Rep. John Conyers, the panel's top Democrat, agreed.

It also would afford Clinton's lawyers the right to cross-examine witnesses, attend all meetings and object to evidence. It would not, however, meet Democratic demands that the inquiry be limited to the allegations against Clinton in the Lewinsky matter, which include possible perjury, witness tampering and obstruction of justice.

Conyers and House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., planned to meet today to hear from four committee Democrats who have been exploring ideas for a more limited probe.

Among the suggestions being weighed, according to Democratic officials, were limiting the inquiry to the Lewinsky affair, setting an expedited timetable for any further investigation or recommending a lesser penalty for Clinton, such as a censure and fine.

Another possible proposal was to delay a vote on impeachment until Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr completed the remainder of his investigation and made those materials available, Democrats said.

Conyers, D-Mich., decried any open-ended inquiry as "preposterous." A narrower alternative, he said, was favored by the public. In a closed-door meeting with House Democrats on Tuesday,

Another possible proposal was to delay a vote on impeachment until Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr completed the remainder of his investigation and made those materials available, Democrats said.

Gephardt said a recent poll in his own district showed that Americans overwhelmingly favored a quick resolution.

Republicans planned to hold a vote in the Judiciary Committee on the GOP resolution as early as Monday. The panel also prepared to release more evidence to the public, possibly on Friday, that included partial transcripts of the Linda Tripp tape recordings that spurred the Lewinsky sex and cover-up investigation.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., called the upcoming vote about whether to launch a full impeachment inquiry "a vote of conscience."

"The most important thing about the next few months is not the outcome, but whether people can look back 50 years from now and say, 'We did it the right way,'" Gingrich said while campaigning Wednesday in Texas.

Under the proposed text of the resolution, the Judiciary Committee would be "authorized and directed to investigate fully and completely whether sufficient grounds exist for the House of Representatives to exercise its constitutional power to impeach William Jefferson Clinton, president of the United States of America."

The resolution's language, "in pertinent part, follows the Watergate resolution word for word," Hyde, R-Ill., wrote in a letter to Conyers. "Specifically, the resolved clause and the subpoena and deposition language are exactly the same."

Conyers welcomed the Republican proposal to use bipartisan Watergate-style rules to govern the mechanics of the investigation, but he said any proceeding should be limited to Ms. Lewinsky.

"The notion that this review should be open-ended like Watergate, as the speaker continues to insist, is preposterous. Watergate involved a wholesale corruption of government, which extended through the FBI, the CIA, and other federal agencies," he said.

Republicans have discussed broadening the inquiry to other controversies surrounding Clinton, including uses of executive privilege to thwart investigations into White House misuse of FBI files, the White House travel office and campaign fund raising.
