PAMPA — Candidates Steve Emmert, Susan Winborne and Kurt Curfman are speaking tomorrow at a noon candidate luncheon at Furr's, a spokesperson for the Republican Women of Gray County said today.

The public is invited to attend and hear from Emmert, who is running for 31st District Judge. Winborne is also running on the republican ticket for Gray County Clerk and Kurt Curfman is running for precinct chair #2.

FORT WORTH, (AP) — A group of four women and their families have sued the founder and leader of Harvest Baptist Church, accusing him of engaging in "predatory sexual conduct."

Ollin Collin, 47, was named in five lawsuits filed Tuesday in Tarrant County.

The lawsuits, filed by three women, their families and the husband of a fourth woman, also claim officials of the church in the Fort Worth suburb of Watauga knew of the sexual acts, ignored them and tried to cover them up. They seek unspecified monetary damages for pain, suffering and mental anguish.

"Collins has projected a compassionate and shepherdlike demeanor in public, while in private actually preying on the flock — a wolf in sheep's clothing," the lawsuits state.

Child hurt...

Joshua Tabor, 13, 2221 N Christy, was listed in stable condition after an early morning collision between his bike and a Ford pickup driven by Sam F. Wyant, 33, 315 1/2 Kingsmill.

Student injured as bike, pickup collide at corner

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

A 13-year-old boy was in stable condition this morning after he was airlifted from Pampa following an accident in which his bicycle collided with a pickup.

Joshua L. Tabor was hurt at 7:01 this morning at the intersection of 23rd and Perryton Parkway in front of Pampa Middle School.

Police report that a 1994 Ford Ranger pickup driven by Sam Frederick Wyant, 33, 315 1/2 E. Kingsmill, was traveling north on Perryton Parkway and had a green light when the wreck happened. Officers said Joshua apparently disregarded a red light and Don't Walk signal and rode in front of the pickup. No charges had been filed this morning.

Skid marks indicate Wyant tried to stop but didn't see the bike in time, according to Pampa Police Officer Corey Powell. The officer said it was still dark when the accident happened and said the boy's clothes were fairly dark.

Powell said it appears the bike caught the corner of the pickup and the injuries occurred from the impact when the bike and rider hit the street. The boy was not wearing a helmet.

Tabor was flown to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Athletic, renovation bids agenda topics

Consideration will be given toward district athletic equipment bids and a renovation bid proposal for the middle school's special education classrooms at Pampa ISD's Thursday night regular meeting.

Other bids for consideration include a proposal regarding two of the elementary schools' heating and air conditioning systems, and district band instruments.

A request to the board concerning new high school computer course offerings is scheduled to be addressed as well. And the board will also take action on a request to construct the Super Playground on a portion of school district property.

During the administrative report portion of the meeting, Pampa Middle School administration will present the board with a middle school inclusion report regarding the integration of some special needs students into regular classrooms.

The board will also hear updates regarding the implementation of seat belts for district buses.

Finally, a representative regarding the high school tennis team's building renovations will review the progress of the team's fund-raising efforts in addition to matters concerning the portable building being transferred from the former Horace Mann Elementary campus to the high school for use by the team.

The board will meet at Carver Center at 6 p.m. at 321 W. Albert.

Super Playground materials arriving

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
For The News

Truckloads of materials are being unloaded at 900 N. Frost, the site of Pampa's Super Playground, in preparation for the "build date," Oct. 21-25.

Volunteers of all ages throughout the community are signing up to help build the 20,000-square-foot playground over the five-day period, regardless of the weather, organizers say.

City of Pampa and Southwestern Public Service Co. employees prepared the site with special lighting for the build last week, according to Reed Kirkpatrick, director of City Parks and Recreation.

Trucks filled with wood fiber mulch from St. Paul, Kan., are arriving almost every day, said Jack Reeve, a Pampa Rotarian who is co-chairing the playground steering committee. A total of 640-yards of the wood fiber will be used to make the handicapped-accessible playing surface, he said.

People don't realize the scope of this thing," Reeve said. "The wood fiber will be compacted to a depth of 12-inches. This will make it so that kids in wheelchairs can propel themselves around on it."

Eight 20-ton truck loads of river rock are to be brought in from Borger for the 4-inch thick drainage bed underneath the wood fiber, he said, adding that 30,000 square feet of Geotextile Fabric is to be sandwiched between the wood fiber and the rock.

CofC tourism budget questioned, then passed

By KATE B. DICKSON

Despite complaints about how some of the money is spent, Pampa City Commissioners approved next year's $10,000 tourism budget for the chamber of commerce by a vote of 3-to-1.

The money comes from the city's seven percent hotel/motel tax that generates about $105,000 yearly, according to Finance Director John Horst. The balance is used to support M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Commissioner Jeff Andrews voted against the measure Tuesday while voting for it were Commissioners Faustina Curry and Jeff McCormick and Mayor Bob Neslage. Commissioner Bob Dixon was absent.

"This budget thing is really a concern for me — the $2,500 that goes back into administration," Curry said during the work session prior to the regular meeting. These (administrative costs) are things the chamber should be doing itself. Saying that, there's nothing more to say with the status and the way things are at the chamber. With that said, let's vote."

The city contracts with the chamber to provide tourism services and Commissioner Jeff Andrews wondered aloud if the city can contract with a different agency.

In addition to the administrative costs, the tourism budget includes $375 for organizational dues, $1,134 for advertising/promotions, and $5,991 for market/promotional.

Cronkite: CNN beat CBS to the punch on coverage

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to landing the most trusted man in America, the early bird gets the worm.

Walter Cronkite will lead CNN's coverage of John Glenn's return to space later this month. The anchorman said the cable news network's coup caught his former employers at CBS by surprise.

"Their reaction was 'Gosh, we wish we'd thought of it,'" he said Tuesday.

"This is all giving me the chance to play the game again the way we used to play it at the networks," he said. But he said he couldn't criticize CBS for not spending as much time on the flight.

Cronkite said he prefers to cover Glenn's launch for CNN because it had more time to cover space flights more like the major television networks did in the 1960s.

The former "CBS Evening News" anchor comes out of retirement on Oct. 26 to anchor, with Miles O'Brien, CNN's coverage of Glenn's liftoff in the space shuttle. He'll participate in CNN's coverage off and on until the shuttle's planned landing on Nov. 7.

He won't be completely absent from CBS. Cronkite, who anchored most of CBS's coverage of space flights in the 1960s, will be interviewed by Dan Rather for a special CBS report and participated, along with Ed Bradley, in an interview with Glenn to be broadcast on "60 Minutes."

In addition to the surface materials, 869 2x6-inch by 14-foot and 819 2x4-inch by 14-foot pieces of treated yellow pine are to be used in building the playground, he said. More than 1,800 lineal feet of utility poles, 6x8-inches in diameter are also included in the structure, he said.

Add to that 710 3/8-inch by 5-inch lag screws, and 200 pounds each of 10-penny and 20-penny deck nails, just to put all the wood together, Reeve added.

The number of volunteers to build the playground is steadily growing, said Chuck White, Reeve's co-chair. Several businesses including Curtis Well Service and Wal-Mart are dedicating employees to help with the project, he said.

Local school children are doing their part to raise funds for the Super Playground, too, White said.

Super Playground boxes to save change were sent home with approximately 2,000 elementary students throughout the Pampa area. The boxes, filled with pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters, are to be returned to their homerooms this week. The homeroom that raises the most change for each school will win a pizza party, White said.

Reeve said a number of tools are still needed for volunteers to use during the build. He said the borrowed tools will be kept in a locked storage container when not in use. The tools will be checked out to volunteers and checked back in when volunteers finish for the day. Any damaged or lost tools will be replaced, he said.

Tools needed, he said, include slide compound miter saws, power miter boxes, orbital jigsaws, half-inch drills, 100-foot electric cords, hardhats, levels, 150-foot light strings with at least 15 100-watt bulbs spaced 10-feet apart, sawhorses, combination squares, framing squares and tarps.

Anyone having any of these tools to loan can contact Stuart Stoffle at 669-0568.

Individuals wanting to help build the playground may contact Kathy White at 669-0568. Times are flexible and child care is available.

tract with another entity as long as it is an agency involved with tourism.

Andrews said it is his understanding the tourism budget presented to commissioners "is not the same budget that came out of the (chamber's) tourism committee ... it was changed after that."

Lane said the tourism committee "serves under the chamber board," which has power to change the committee's proposed budget. "I assume they approved it," he said of the board.

"If we reject it, (the tourism budget) what happens?" Andrews asked.

City Manager Bob Eskridge said, "We would want to tell them why and they could resubmit the budget."

"We have been through this before and it always comes back to the same thing," Curry said right before the vote was taken.

Incumbents favored in new figures

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A new poll suggests House incumbents are in good shape to win reelection next month, USA Today reported today.

The USA Today/CNN/Gallup Poll found that 68 percent of those surveyed believe their House member deserves to be re-elected, compared to 16 percent who do not believe that. It also found that 47 percent approve of the way Congress is handling its job to 46 percent who disapprove.

And it found that 47 percent said they would vote for a Democratic candidate if the election were being held today, to 46 percent for a Republican candidate.

On other topics, the survey found:

—65 percent approve of the way President Clinton is handling his job.

—54 percent say impeachment hearings should proceed as planned.

—58 percent say Clinton should not be removed from office.

The survey of 1,004 adults was conducted Friday to Monday. It has a margin of error of 3 percentage points.

Pampa High Class of 1943 celebrates 55th class reunion

Members of the class of 1943 registered and picked up their name tags, which were special-made like a cowboy boot with a gold spur and a red kerchief out of the top of the boot. Time was spent renewing acquaintances over a cup of coffee or a glass of orange juice.

The school bell rang and school began. The students were asked to take their seats as it was time to start class. The day began with pledge of allegiance to the flag followed by the singing of the Pampa High School song. As the roll was called everyone was asked to stand with their spouse as their name was called, that everyone could recognize who they were.

In 1943, the superintendent was L.L. Sone; principal, Doyle Osborne; assistant principal, Aubrey Steel Mrs. Lou Roberts, registrar.

"Do You Remember?" that Leslie Burge, class president, joined the Navy and was replaced by Vice President Imogene Sperry Miller. Then Kenneth Lard was vice president and Dorace Jean Caldwell Guin was secretary.

There were 13 teachers that left Pampa High School to join the services of our country. We collected over 105,000 pounds of scrap metal and rubber for the war. We bought and sold $7,500 worth of War Bonds and stamps. Flint Berlin was the school's funny man and the co-captain of the 1942 Harvester Football Team. The Football Queen for 1943 was Mary Gurley Watts. Dorace Guin and Billy Waters were the two seniors chosen "Most Likely to Succeed."

Dorace Guin was valedictorian and Dorothy Stone Porter was the salutatorian. Margaret Burton Carlisle and Leonard Brummett were Best Citizens. Flint Berlin and Margaret Carlisle were Senior Favorites.

Sponsors for the Class of 1943 were B.G. Gordon, Mrs. J.R. Holloway, Miss Margaret Jones and Mrs. O.H. Alexander. There were 99 students on graduation

Tralee helps women in crisis

This article is one in a series of profiles on the agencies and organizations supported by Pampa United Way. This information is being provided by Pampa United Way as part of its 1998 "The Power of You" fund-raising campaign.

Tralee Crisis Center provides services at no cost to victims of family violence, sexual assault and other crimes. Those services include safe shelter when the home isn't safe, crisis counseling, legal and personal advocacy, a 24-hour hotline (669-1788), transportation, support groups for women and children, and transitional living arrangements.

In the past fiscal year, Tralee provided such help to 1,202 individual clients.

The greatest accomplishment for Tralee Crisis Center for Women Inc. in the past year has been the establishment of a plan of action with which to empower victims of family violence to further their education and become self-sufficient.

The agency, through its services to victims of spousal and family abuse, helps improve the quality of life in the community. Through a concentrated effort on inter-agency communication and collaboration, the quality and consistency of coordinated supportive services for family violence and sexual assault victims of crime have been improved. As with other agencies receiving United Way funding assistance, the story lies not just in the number of clients served by the agency, but in the way in which those services can help the individual.

For example, for 18 years, Shawna (not her real name) had been living in an abusive relationship with her husband. The emotional and physical abuse she had endured was, in her own words, "something she had learned to accept as part of marriage."

But then Paul (not his real name) began to direct his verbal venom at their children and Shawna was able to see changes in their personalities, tension welling up inside them, that brought into focus how serious the situation had become. She couldn't stand the hurt they felt or their painful bewilderment when he lashed out at them and ridiculed their accomplishments.

Shawna called the Tralee Crisis Center Hotline, talked with staff members and, after careful consideration, decided to take her children and leave the home. She talked to Paul many times, telling him she did not wish to end the marriage but only wanted them to seek counseling. But Paul would not accept that he needed

DOES THIS BELONG TO YOU?

THIS SUNDAY
WE'LL HAVE GOOD NEWS
FOR THOUSANDS OF TEXANS.
WILL YOU BE ONE OF THEM?

Every day, banks and businesses report unclaimed cash and valuables to the state—uncashed checks or refunds, forgotten bank accounts, jewelry and the other abandoned contents of safety deposit boxes.

Once each year, in an effort to reunite these unclaimed assets with their rightful owners, we insert the most recent Unclaimed Property list in the Sunday editions of 33 daily newspapers across the state.

In the past year, we've returned more than $38 million in unclaimed property to Texans.

But more than $800 million remains unclaimed. And in selected Sunday newspapers, we'll print the updated, latest edition of the list.

- Pick up a Sunday newspaper carrying the list and look for your name and the names of your relatives.
- Or call us toll-free at 1-800-654-3463.
- Or visit our Web site at <http://www.window.state.tx.us>.
- Or write to Comptroller John Sharp, Unclaimed Property Section, P.O. Box 12019, Austin TX 78711-2019.

If you find your name on the list, give us a call, drop us a line, or send us an e-mail at unclaimed.property@cpa.state.tx.us and we'll get you back together with your property.

IF IT'S YOURS, WE WANT TO HELP YOU GET IT BACK!

California gives Wilson just a 'C'

California Gov. Pete Wilson is too busy looking to the Oval Office.

With less than four months remaining in his tenure as governor of California, Pete Wilson appears to be looking to the snows of New Hampshire and a potential promotion to the Oval Office.

The last two years he apparently has been putting his campaign slogans in order: a state tax cut this year, education reform, welfare reform, a $4.2 billion budget surplus and a $1 billion reserve that's expected to improve the state's bond rating. But a new Cato Institute study indicates that voters from the Granite State to the Golden State should be aware that Gov. Wilson gave only a middling financial performance when compared with other governors, earning a "C" grade. "A Fiscal Report Card on America's Governors: 1998" focuses on taxes and spending, using statistical measures of the percentages that each were cut or raised during a governor's tenure.

Gov. Wilson scored better than the "F" earned by tax-addicted Govs. Mel Carnahan of Missouri, Lawton Chiles of Florida and John Kitzhaber of Oregon. But he landed behind the "A" grades earned by tax-cutting Govs. William Janklow, South Dakota and John Rowland, Connecticut.

Governors of other high-population states fared better than Wilson. Govs. George Pataki of New York, Tom Ridge of Pennsylvania, Christine Whitman of New Jersey, John Engler of Michigan and George Bush of Texas all earned "B" grades, mostly for commendable tax-cut records.

"Gov. Wilson has had a Jekyll-and-Hyde relationship with the taxpayers of California," the study said. "His first term was a fiscal and economic disaster for the state. He muscled through the Legislature a $7.5 billion tax increase, the largest in the history of the 50 states. California's already high income tax rates were raised to the third highest in the nation. The economy sank further into recession...."

"The tax hikes failed to raise the anticipated revenues, and the state's budget crisis intensified. The second term has been better. Wilson not only has allowed the ill-fated income tax hikes to expire but has recommended further cuts in the business and individual tax rates — proposals that have been mostly thwarted by the Legislature...." And he has signed a 25 percent reduction in the car tax. "Although Wilson now advertises himself as a fiscal conservative, his record fails to match his rhetoric," the study said.

This is important because, as the cases of Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton show, governors who become presidents tend to repeat in the White House what they did in the state house. "If Wilson's record as governor is any indication," Report Card co-author Dean Stansel told us, "a Wilson administration would look more like the tax-and-spend administration of Michael Dukakis (a former governor of Massachusetts) than the administration of a tax-cutter like Ronald Reagan."

Gov. Wilson has had eight years to show Californians, and the rest of the nation, his true colors — a track record well worth remembering as voters size up presidential hopefuls.

Cure not give a chance

Anyone with a broken ankle is grateful for the invention of crutches, and anyone who loathes mice is likely to look favorably upon mousetraps. Those suffering from a problem normally welcome a solution. But heroin addiction is different. In this country, government bodies that claim to want to stamp out this scourge actually seem more determined to get rid of the cure.

Physicians know how to treat heroin addiction: with a medicine called methadone, which, when administered once a day, satisfies the users' cravings while allowing him to function normally. A 1990 report by the Institute of Medicine at the National Academy of Sciences found that all the drug treatments known to man, "methadone maintenance has been the most rigorously studied and has yielded the most incontrovertibly positive results."

What sort of positive results? Just stuff like reducing drug use, crime and disease among addicts, while boosting their ability to hold jobs and stay off welfare. Methadone, says Mark Kleiman, a professor of public policy at UCLA, "is a real magic bullet." It can be safely used for decades.

But the only people treated with more suspicion than people who use heroin are people who want to help them stop using heroin. Methadone is supervised like the gold in Fort Knox, subject to rules stricter than those for any other pharmaceutical drug.

Addicts can't get it from their doctors — they have to go to special clinics, which are burdened with an array of regulations on staffing, security and so on. And since these special clinics attract — surprise! — heroin addicts, not many neighborhoods greet them with brass bands. New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani wants to get the city entirely out of the business of dispensing methadone, insisting that users should be able to abstain from heroin without relying on another drug.

Steve Chapman
 Syndicated columnist

Given the resistance, methadone clinics are scarce, and they tend to be in seedy urban areas far away from, and uninviting to, many middle-class users. The main achievement of these policies is to prevent addicts from getting help. For each one in treatment, experts say, there are another two or three who would get it if they could.

Hard-line drug warriors generally have no use for methadone. They complain that it merely substitutes one opiate for another — which is true and which is like saying that nicotine patches are as bad as cigarettes. Yes, methadone is a drug that many patients have to take for the rest of their lives to stay clean. But plenty of people take medications every day to alleviate ailments, from insulin to Prozac, without being verbally abused by Rudy Giuliani. Some heroin users can kick the habit without methadone. But that's no reason to abandon the ones who can't.

Even drug czar Barry McCaffrey, whose views do not always converge with my own, sees the wisdom of expanding methadone treatment. Not long ago, the White House drug czar was making disparaging claims about the effects of the Netherlands' tolerance of marijuana use, and I was suggesting that he wouldn't know how to pour water out of a boot if the instructions were written on the heel. But McCaffrey is not always impervious to evidence. He recently journeyed to Mayor Giuliani's fiefdom to argue that what we need is not less methadone treatment but more.

He made an incontestable case, noting studies which find that among heroin addicts receiving this medicine, good things happen. Heroin use typically drops 69 percent, cocaine use by 48 percent and crime by 52 percent — while full-time work rises by 24 percent. People who stop using heroin are also less likely to get AIDS, hepatitis and other nasty diseases. Treatment costs just $13 a day, and the government is likely to save far more than that for every addict it weans off heroin.

For government officials to rail against methadone is like a thirsty man rejecting water — irrational, self-destructive and indicative that the brain has shut down under stress. McCaffrey is trying to bring them to their senses by arguing that heroin addiction should be viewed less as a sin to be punished and more as a disease to be treated — preferably with the best means available.

Giuliani rejects such advice, contending that when it comes to drug abuse, McCaffrey has "surrendered." The mayor, of course, is right. The drug czar has surrendered to facts and reason — unlike Giuliani, who is still fighting them.

What is clearly needed, as McCaffrey suggested, is for laws to stop getting in the way of patients who need a safe and effective drug and doctors who want to prescribe it for them. If addicts could get their medication from ordinary physicians and ordinary pharmacies, they would be more likely to go into treatment and more likely to succeed at it.

'Our Father's Fields' is a must read

Southerners are indeed different from other Americans, and if you wish to understand that difference, a new and beautifully written book will tell you. It's "Our Father's Fields: A Southern Story" by James Everett Kibler.

This is a most unusual book. It is published by the University of South Carolina Press. Kibler is a scholar, teacher and poet. He bought a dilapidated old plantation house in Newbury County, S.C., and set out to restore it and its old gardens. The book is about that place and all the people who lived on it, all the plants and the animals that lived on it.

Kibler's research turned up a treasure store of old letters, recollections, ledgers and other sources of information, so that he paints a beautiful portrait of the Hardy family who lived on the plantation, called Tyger after the river that runs through the valley.

"Gone With the Wind" was fiction; this is non-fiction, but it is a beautiful revelation of how slave and planter alike lived in an Eden that would be destroyed.

The flavor of that remarkable Hardy family can be tasted in a letter the senior Hardy wrote to one of his sons who was away studying medicine in 1854:

"Today finds me thoughtful because it is the 50th anniversary of my birth. I reflect back on half a century of such joys and pains, remember when your mother and I first held you to us, the losses of your dear little brothers and sisters, of my own father who never lived long enough for me to know him and of my mother, dead before I knew to appreciate her properly well. For all this last my life has been so blessed with joy in your own dear mother whose smile is to me like the spring rain on the new planted furrough."

Charley Reese

Then Hardy tells his son of his philosophy toward wealth and toward the land: "The deeper spirit of things tells me that overmuch and excess of wealth can bear no proper fruit. There are bounds to all things and especially of man's earthly desires. The soil of your ancestral land has once again sustained us. We must also cherish and protect it, for from its furroughs we all grow and bear our modest fruit. We owe it our all. Neither must it be pushed to its limits and must itself have its own freedoms to lie-fallow and rest. All our fortunes lie with the generous fields with which our good Creator has blessed us."

"Never forget what you owe the Soil of Tyger, and I pray you never foreswear family and all those many who have toiled to give you the privilege that places you there in your schooling."

Not bad writing for a man who spent his hours in the fields and in the saddle, but that is the core of Southern Celtic heritage: a special love of the land, of place, of family and of God.

And there's one more characteristic of Southern culture that came from the war and defeat and Reconstruction, all of which are also vividly portrayed in this book. Hardy would know even more grief. Most of his sons would die, his fortune lost, his liberty lost, his land desecrated by conquerors hardly worthy of the name of vandals.

Yankee soldiers would ride their horses into the Hardy home, abuse the women both black and white, fire off their guns, rob them of everything portable, destroy and defile what food they couldn't haul away.

Kibler follows the fortune of the plantation and its family right on into the modern age.

Kibler says, "Southerners accept grief, death and loss as integral parts of existence better than most Americans and face them more realistically, at the same time retaining both a love of the tangible and a sense of awe at the inscrutable design and destiny. Maybe it is a Celtic thing with us."

Negotiators try to build budget bridge

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House and congressional negotiators promised to try again today after failing to bridge differences over education funding in their quest for a 1999 budget.

Completion of the giant $500 billion bill hinged on a few relatively narrow but politically sensitive issues, including how to run a $1.1 billion program to improve the nation's schools, family planning and the 2000 census.

"There are big philosophical differences on how this budget should be spent," said White House Chief of Staff Erskine Bowles, the chief administration negotiator.

But as Bowles left House Speaker Newt Gingrich's office Tuesday after nearly seven hours of talks, he said progress had been made. "I think we have a good chance to be done tomorrow."

The Senate was essentially in recess, waiting for the budget talks to end, while the House ran through dozens of noncontroversial bills. Without a budget deal, lawmakers can't leave for their districts and begin campaigning for the Nov. 3 election.

If no agreement is reached by midnight tonight, Congress and the White House must enact a fourth temporary spending bill to keep the government open. The 1999 fiscal year began Oct. 1.

Negotiators, worn down by a week of non-stop bargaining, went into Tuesday predicting a deal, but as the day progressed hopes faded. "I am much less optimistic than I was this morning," Gingrich, R-Ga., said late in the afternoon.

Milosevic takes steps to avert airstrikes

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Slobodan Milosevic's government has outlined a plan for a separate parliament in autonomy-minded Kosovo, taking the first steps to comply with a deal to avert airstrikes by NATO.

The plan, which calls for local elections in the separatist province for 1999, was announced late Tuesday, a day after U.S. envoy Richard Holbrooke reached a breakthrough in efforts to end the Kosovo crisis.

The government statement, carried by the state-run Tanjug news agency, appeared to recognize the likelihood of NATO airstrikes unless Milosevic's violent crackdown in the southern province ends.

According to the statement, Kosovo Albanians would have their own parliament, judiciary and police.

The government also said elections in Kosovo would be held within nine months and invited foreign monitors to observe them. It also offered amnesty for ethnic Albanian fighters except suspected war criminals.

In Brussels, Belgium, NATO officials made clear Tuesday that the threat of airstrikes remained in place to pressure Milosevic to honor his agreement with Holbrooke. They said the strikes could be conducted any time after Friday, the deadline for Milosevic's compliance.

Milosevic agreed Monday to withdraw his forces from Kosovo, begin peace negotiations with separatist ethnic Albanians and allow some 2,000 international inspectors into the troubled Serb province to verify compliance.

Weekend summit on middle Eastern peace try

JERUSALEM (AP) — For the first time in a generation, an American president is poised to usher Israeli and Palestinian leaders to a secluded setting, sit them down, and tell them in the plainest possible terms that it's time to work out their differences.

Although few believe a landmark Camp David-style accord is likely to emerge from this week's summit at the Maryland resort of Wye Plantation, the two sides could be pushed into some successful outcome — largely because neither can afford any more diplomatic false starts.

Not to mention the fact that their host, President Clinton, could sorely use a feat of statesmanship to assuage his impeachment woes.

In recent months, one high-level, high-profile Mideast gathering after another — in London, in Washington, in the Gaza Strip — have yielded little more than agreements to meet again.

Painting that as progress might have worked for a time, but this time, it would be read as clear failure.

Nabil Abourdeineh, an adviser to Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, likened the situation to "standing on top of a volcano."

"Either we reach a breakthrough or a dangerous deadlock," he told reporters Tuesday, on the eve of both leaders' departures for Washington.

Rudolph to be charged with Olympics bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The suspect in an Alabama abortion clinic bombing, Eric Robert Rudolph, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, is to be charged with the 1996 bombing at the Olympics and two other attacks in Atlanta, federal officials say.

A criminal complaint charging Rudolph with the Olympic blast and the 1997 bombings of a gay bar and an abortion clinic, also in Atlanta, was ready to be filed with a federal court, two federal law enforcement officials said Tuesday evening.

The complaint was to be filed as soon as Justice Department officials were able to schedule a news conference to announce it, perhaps as early as today, according to these officials, who requested anonymity.

The decision to bring charges came now because "we have the evidence to support it, and it might be helpful for the public to understand the full spectrum of what he's sought for — so people watch out for him and do not help him," a senior federal law enforcement official said Tuesday.

Last May, Rudolph was placed on the FBI's most wanted list with a $1 million reward based on earlier charges he bombed a Birmingham, Ala., abortion clinic Jan. 29. Rudolph was last seen Jan. 30 near his home in North Carolina, where his truck was abandoned.

For months, hundreds of FBI and state and local agents have fruitlessly searched the rugged, mountainous wilderness of western North Carolina, where the 31-year-old carpenter and experienced woodsman grew up and is at home. Buried garbage from canned food he may have consumed has been found and he is thought to have taken food from one elderly resident this summer, but he has eluded capture.

No more bulky carry-on baggage

CHICAGO (AP) — The airlines have a holiday message for passengers: No more bulky carry-on baggage.

In an attempt to solve one of the industry's thorniest problems, United Airlines executives said they will start putting Plexiglas cutouts in front of X-ray machines next month to make sure carry-on bags are small enough to fit under plane seats or in overhead bins.

If those baby strollers, packages for the in-laws or bulky computer equipment don't make the cut, below they must go. And that may mean a trip back to the check-in line to check the bag.

United and other carriers, concerned about improving on-time departure records and safety, said Tuesday they intend to rigorously enforce the restrictions.

"We're not backing off," said Chris Bowers, senior vice president of North American operations for UAL Corp., United's parent company. "That's the direction we're going because it's consistent with what the customer wants."

United, in partnership with Delta and Continental airlines, has been testing the template system at New York City's LaGuardia Airport over the past four months and received few complaints, said spokesman Tony Molinaro.

Texas roundup...

Victim of six-person train accident identified

SARITA, Texas (AP) — One of six men run over by a train while apparently sleeping on the tracks has been identified.

The man was identified as Amador Pasillas Sosa, 28, of Tepechitlan, Zacatecas in Mexico, Kenedy County Sheriff Rafael Cuellar Jr. said Wednesday.

Sosa's identification card had been found among the remains and debris at the site of the accident.

Cuellar said no details were available about Sosa's journey from Zacatecas to Norias, Texas, where he and five others were run over by a Union Pacific train Monday morning.

Officials have said Sosa and his traveling companions were probably sleeping on the tracks because they believed a myth that the rails would keep snakes at bay.

Fort Hood soldier shot dead in training accident

WACO, Texas (AP) — A soldier has died after he was apparently shot during a live-fire training accident Tuesday night.

The Fort Hood soldier was taking part in an infantry exercise when he received an apparent gunshot wound, according to a faxed statement from the Central Texas Army post. The soldier was flown to Darnall Army Community Hospital and pronounced dead around 10 p.m., the statement said.

The soldier is not being identified publicly until his family is notified.

The shooting is being investigated.

It's the third death of a Fort Hood soldier in training exercises in the past month. On Oct. 7, a soldier died while training in a gym on post. On Sept. 25, one soldier died during a training hike.

This is handicap accessible so that everyone can have pride & enjoyment in OUR SUPER PLAYGROUND.

Bossy Brother-in-Law Makes Man Want to Raise the Roof

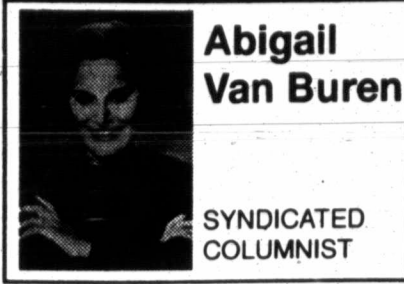

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I live with three friends in order to save money. One of our housemates is my wife's brother. I can't stand him. He's bossy and always wants things his way. The other housemates ignore him and let him do what he wants. I am the only one who seems to have a problem with him.

Abby, last night he held a "family meeting" and asked my wife and me not to fight on the front porch. We don't fight very often, but there are two things we fight about: money and her evil brother. I have considered telling him what to do with his thoughts on many occasions, but I have kept my mouth shut because my wife gets upset when I criticize her brother. She's very protective of him and feels he can do no wrong. She thinks I'm vindictive if I disagree with him.

Should I keep my mouth shut for the sake of peace, or do I have a right to say what I think of him?
FED UP IN WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR FED UP: As long as you're living under the same roof, you'd be wise to keep your mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your response to "Irritated in Minneapolis," the woman who was distressed because a minister's widow was chasing after her husband at church: You said the widow probably needed "verification that she's still attractive to men."

Abigail Van Buren

behavior and minimized the wife's distress. The minister's widow should know better. She does know better if she is trained in the holy Scriptures, which are guidelines for what is appropriate and what is not between the sexes.

The widow has already had a husband of her own, and though it's unfortunate he's deceased, pursuing someone else's husband (in her own church, yet) is not only inappropriate, but disloyal to the man's wife.

People like the widow invade others' boundaries and count on "compassion" in order to continue their game. The husband is not always "not attracted," and it's not the wife's job to find the widow a new man so that she won't steal hers.

I have been in similar situations and have a solution: I take the woman aside and say, "I may be wrong, but I get the feeling you're attracted to my husband, and it makes me uncomfortable." They always deny it at first, but I treat them with dignity and honesty, and it earns me their respect. I have no more problems with them. In fact, I get the sense they're relieved to have been stopped in such a loving way. It works.

A WIFE WHO CARES

DEAR WIFE: Your experience gives wise voice to the other side of the story. In a perfect world, no one would desire or deliberately entice another's spouse. Unfortunately, however, we're not living in a perfect world.

DEAR ABBY: I gave up my child for adoption when she was 7 days old. It was one of the hardest things I have ever had to do. Please do not get me wrong; the choice I made was a loving choice. I did what I felt was right for my child. You see, I love her more than the very air I breathe, as I do all my children.

This happened approximately 18 years ago, and I have since had two more children. The child I gave up has met her sister and knows that she is her sister. Now, as she approaches her 18th birthday, she has made it clear that she wants to meet me face-to-face.

Abby, I am terrified to meet her. I don't know what to say to her. Could you please advise me about what to do?
SCARED IN VISTA, CALIF.

DEAR SCARED: Tell your daughter exactly what you have told me, and do not be afraid. The most important message you can give her is that you never stopped loving her, and you did what you thought was best for her at the time.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ★★ Get into work, and pace yourself. There is a lot that you need to accomplish quickly. You have more energy than you think, once you start rolling. Schedule a dental checkup. Take advantage of someone's sound financial offer. Tonight: Don't work too hard!
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 ★★ Your serious approach helps you, but don't deny your creativity. Follow through on an idea; it might hold a lot of surprises. An attraction could be building. Think before you leap. Others respond to you quite strongly. Tonight: Let more naughtiness into your life.

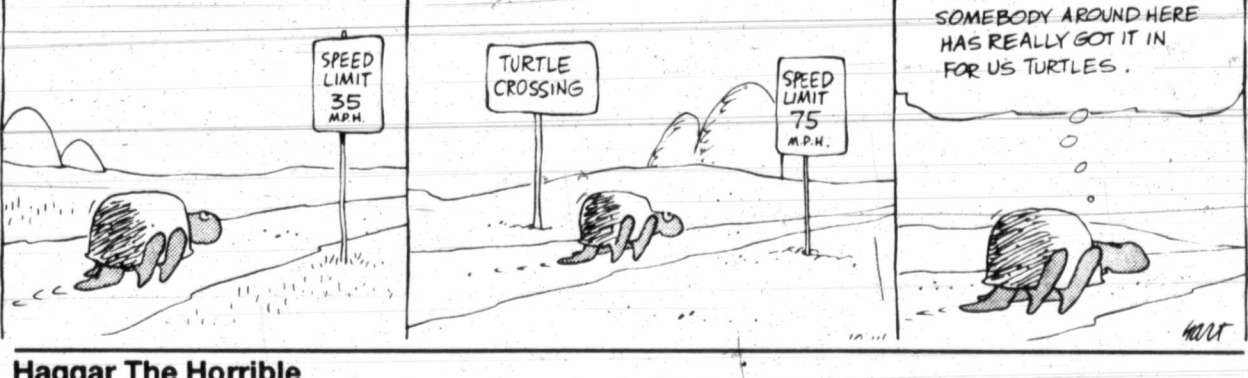

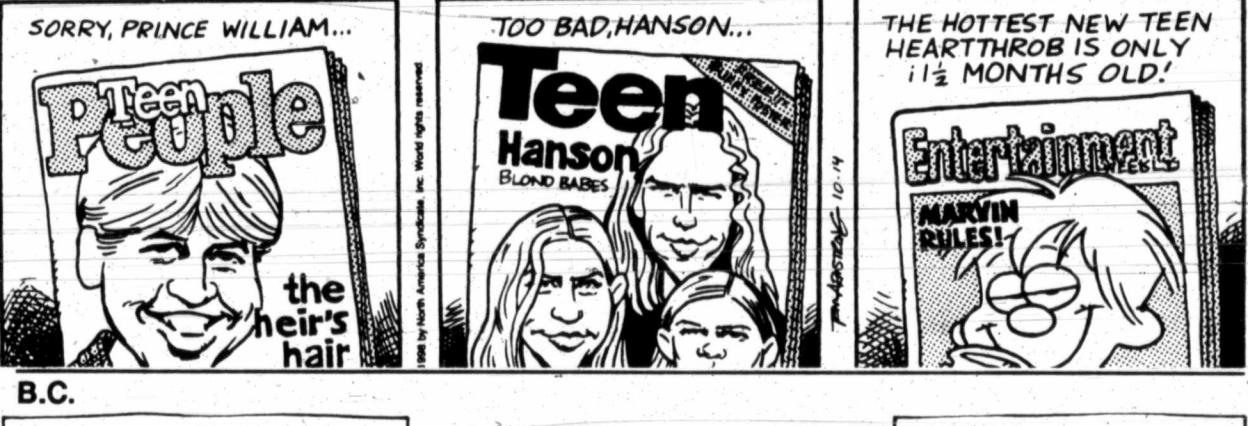

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★ Direct your high energy appropriately. You operate from a solid footing as you make various necessary changes. A family member questions your decisions. Listen carefully to the feedback; it allows you to be even more grounded in your choices. Tonight: Homeward bound.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★ Communications are enhanced by your ability to tell it as it is. Reach out for others, and make a difference where it counts. You are strong-willed and know what you want. Expand friendships, and be willing to meet new people in new places. Tonight: At a favorite spot.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ★★ Yes, expenses can get out of whack, and easily. Stay centered, knowing what you need to do. Honor responsibilities, no matter how uncomfortable you are. Someone is demanding, but you aren't going to change him; consider negotiating. Tonight: Indulge.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 ★★ Your smile rarely wins as much agreement as it does now. Ask for more of what you want, while the universe gives you the high sign. Read between the lines with someone who is at a distance. It isn't what he says but what he doesn't say that's important. Tonight: Beam.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ★★ Take a deep breath before taking any strong action. One-to-one relating is instrumental to building a good relationship. Seriously weigh financial matters before you commit in any way. Don't feel pressured by others. Take your time. Tonight: Do your own thing.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ★★ A partner might not mean to corner you, but ultimately that is what he does. Act on ideas, and remaining focused. Listen carefully to someone. Make strong decisions about what you want. Someone will agree with you eventually. Tonight: Be with the crowds.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★ Stay on top of work, as challenging or perhaps burdensome as it can be. You might not feel up to snuff, but you can handle whatever situation arises. A boss pushes hard to get what he wants from you. Stay focused on the ultimate goals. Tonight: In the limelight.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★ Allow more creativity and caring in your life. Inadvertently, you could be cutting off someone. Stay centered as news comes from a distance. A lot of activity surrounds communications. Don't listen to any gossip, especially in the office. Tonight: Let your mind wander.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 ★★ Stay focused on what you want. Listen carefully to a partner who means well. Together, you create a new understanding. A business venture succeeds beyond your wildest imagination. Be willing to put yourself on the line. Tonight: Happy with your favorite person.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 ★★ Evaluate what others are saying. You might not like the style of communications, but you will find that they are worthwhile. You need to keep discussions open, even if you want to walk away. Your ability to handle high tension helps you. Tonight: Visit a friend.

VOLLEYBALL

PAMPA — Dumas downed Pampa, 15-1, 15-6, in a District 3-4A volleyball match Tuesday night in McNeely Fieldhouse.

Pampa still holds down third place in the district standings with a 4-3 record. For the season, the Lady Harvesters are 17-7.

Pampa's next match is Saturday afternoon at Hereford. Dumas and Hereford are tied for the lead at 6-1.

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — An 11th-hour luxury tax proposal from the players' union wasn't enough to prevent the NBA from canceling regular season games for the first time in its history.

Players made their latest offer Tuesday in a 3 1/2-hour collective bargaining meeting with commissioner David Stern and the owners, but it was far from the breakthrough compromise the league demanded in order to save a full, 82-game season.

"It's evident we're not going to reach an agreement any time soon, so we are reluctantly canceling the first two weeks," a dour-faced deputy commissioner Russ Granik said at a midtown Manhattan hotel.

With those words, the NBA's perfect record of never having lost a game to a work stoppage came to an end. The streak encompassed 35,001 games over 52 seasons.

Asked to describe his feelings, Stern's first two words were: "Lousy, disappointed."

"My job is to put on games for the fans, not to cancel them. It's terribly disappointing," he said.

A total of 99 games from Nov. 3 through Nov. 16 will not be played or made up, and the vast majority of players will miss their first paychecks Nov. 15.

The next move is up to the owners, and it will come in a response that is scheduled to be sent to the players on Friday.

In the meantime, the sides may receive a ruling from arbitrator John Feerick on the players' grievance that some 220 players with guaranteed contracts should be paid during the lockout.

Feerick's decision is due by Sunday.

"We players feel we're taking steps to bridge the gap," union president Patrick Ewing said. "Now the ball is in their court to take steps to get closer to us."

The union's luxury tax would force owners to pay a premium for signing players to lucrative contracts under the so-called Larry Bird exception that allows teams to exceed the salary cap to retain their own free agents.

One such contract that has been repeatedly pointed to as symptomatic of reckless salary escalation was the $126 million, six-year extension signed by Kevin Garnett of the Minnesota Timberwolves.

A source close to the talks, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the tax would kick in on any contract worth more than $18 million, with a tax rate of 50 percent for the amount over that threshold. If Michael Jordan signed another $33 million contract, the tax on Chicago owner Jerry Reinsdorf would be $7.5 million (50 percent of the $15 million more than $18 million).

Pampa favored over 1-5 Dumas

PAMPA — Harris Ratings has Pampa favored by 19 points over Dumas in a District 3-4A game Friday night.

In other district clashes, Borger is favored by 22 points over Amarillo Caprock and Hereford is favored by 25 over Palo Duro.

Pampa stumbled in the ratings, from No. 58 to No. 74, while Hereford moves ahead of the Harvesters at No. 56. Borger is at No. 59 while Dumas is No. 134, Caprock No. 172 and Palo Duro No. 185.

Corpus Christi Calallen is still No. 1 in the Class 4A ratings, followed by second-place LaMarque and third-place Orange Stark.

Yankees win their 35th American League pennant

NEW YORK (AP) — As far back as May, this night seemed inevitable.

The New York Yankees weren't just good, they were great.

After winning 114 games during the regular season, anything less than the World Series would have been unacceptable.

Well, they're there.

"We expected it," shortstop Derek Jeter said Tuesday night after New York won its record 35th American League pennant, beating Cleveland 9-5 to win the AL championship series 4-2.

They almost ignored clinching a playoff spot, didn't bother to celebrate when they clinched the AL East. A first-round sweep of Texas was just another step.

Finally, with this one, they let loose a little.

"Somebody's dry over there!" Jeter shouted in the clubhouse, spotting owner George Steinbrenner.

A few seconds later, the Boss was all wet.

"Give me a towel," Steinbrenner said as the champagne dripped down his face.

New York, which opens the World Series at home Saturday night against Atlanta or San Diego, hadn't won the AL title at Yankee Stadium since the Reggie Jackson-Thurman Munson-Ron Gaudy team in 1978.

Still, amidst the celebration, there was a feeling that there's work to be done: winning the Series for the second time in three seasons.

"There's another step to go," said ALCS MVP David Wells, who likely will start the Series opener.

On May 17, Wells pitched a perfect game against Minnesota. Right then, it seemed like this would be a special season for baseball's most storied team.

From June 28 to Aug. 20, New York set a major league record by leading in 48 consecutive games. Also in August, the Yanks became the first team ever to clinch a playoff spot in that month. On Sept. 4, the Yankees won their 100th game — the earliest date ever — and later broke the AL record for wins set by Cleveland in 1954.

No such magic for the Indians, who beat the Yankees in the first round last year and came within two outs of winning their first World Series since 1948. On Tuesday night, they failed to force a seventh game because they made three errors — leading to five unearned runs for only the second time against them this year.

"Absolutely disappointed that we didn't go on," Indians manager Mike Hargrove said, "but we have to recognize the Yankees have a very good ball club and they played better than we did."

As soon as the game ended, thoughts turned to Darryl Strawberry, and his picture went up on the scoreboard behind the right-field bleachers. The Yankees outfielder underwent cancer surgery Oct. 3 and watched the game at a hospital. With Strawberry on the line, players passed a phone around the clubhouse after the game.

"Darryl, this is yours. You pushed us," manager Joe Torre said. "I know you're going to be all right."

Scott Brosius seemed to finish Cleveland off with a three-run homer for a 6-0 lead in the third inning. But David Cone nearly gave it all back, allowing a grand slam to Jim Thome that pulled the Indians within a run.

"I let them back in the game," Cone said. "But they picked me up, and that's been our trademark all year."

Jeter then restored the safety margin with a two-run triple in the sixth, a drive to right that Manny Ramirez tried to snag with a leap at the top of the wall. But the ball landed on a hop at his feet.

out, but I thought it was going to the wall," Ramirez said. "I turned and saw it hit. I was surprised where it landed."

By the eighth inning, fans were taunting the Indians with chants of "1948." Responding to a remark by Cleveland's David Justice that the only way Yankees fans could get tougher would be if they brought Uzis to the ballpark, one fan hung pictures of a machine gun from the upper deck for each strikeout by Cone, who fanned eight.

"I try to get the guys fired up any way I can," Wells said. "Sometimes, it's not the right way."

Forgotten with the win was Chuck Knoblauch's blunder in Game 2, which allowed Cleveland to tie the series and blunt New York's momentum.

"What a great team we've got," Knoblauch said. "They gave me a lot of support when I was down. We don't have to worry about that now."

PHS freshmen win 33-21 against Dumas

By JONATHAN LADD
Sports Writer

PAMPA — The Pampa Harvester freshmen team faced Dumas at home for their sixth game of the season. The Harvesters were able to pull out a 33-21 victory over the Demons.

Pampa started off well from the first of the game with two touchdowns from Orlando Madrid in the first quarter of play.

Dumas fought back in the second quarter with a touchdown and a two-point conversion at 9:07 left in the half. However, Pampa came back by deflecting a Dumas punt with Ryan Nash running the recovery for a touchdown.

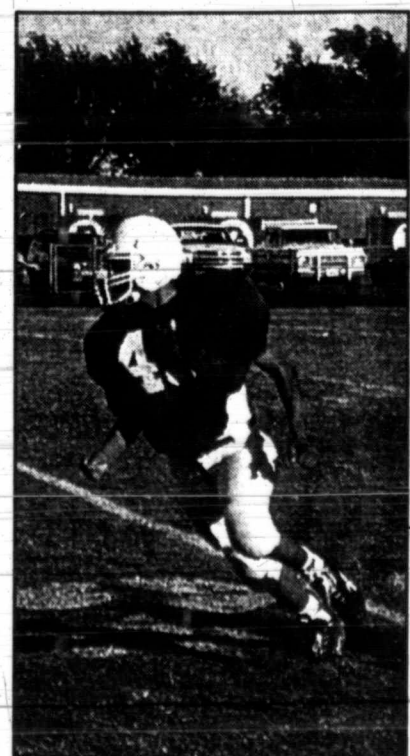

The score at the end of the first half was 20-8, Pampa's favor.

The third quarter began with an inside kick recovered by Dumas. Pampa then stopped a fake punt attempt. Toward the end of the quarter, Dumas threw an interception which Madrid returned for his third touchdown of the game. Dumas in turn scored a touchdown from a pass, but Ty Elledge blocked the Dumas extra-point attempt, then recovered the ball and ran about 40 yards. However, the clock prevented Pampa from gaining any more than a 13-point lead by the close of the quarter.

The Harvesters took up right where they left off by making two interceptions, one of which resulted in a short touchdown run by Gonzalo Salazar around the 2:30 mark.

Dumas fought back with a touchdown and the extra point, but was too little, too late with only 44 seconds left in the game.

Braves have reason to believe

ATLANTA (AP) — In an already incredible season, the Atlanta Braves are aiming to add one more amazing feat.

The Braves resume their bid to become the first team to overcome a three-game deficit in the postseason, meeting the San Diego Padres today in Game 6 of the NL championship series.

"With all the stuff that's happening in baseball, don't count out the Braves," left fielder Ryan Klesko said.

Consider all that's occurred so far: Mark McGwire hit 70 home runs, Cal Ripken asked for a day off and rookie Kerry Wood struck out 20, among other things.

And remember what took place in Game 5 on Monday night at San Diego — ace Greg Maddux and Kevin Brown both pitched in relief.

"It seems like it's been that kind of year, so why not?" Atlanta starter Denny Neagle said.

The Braves moved into position to pull off the wildly improbable, rallying two straight days to cut the Padres' lead to 3-2.

Tom Glavine was the scheduled starter for Atlanta at Turner Field against Sterling Hitchcock, moved up because of Brown's relief appearance. Hitchcock was pitching on three days' rest for the first time this season. He has done it four times in his career, going 0-2 with an 8.41 ERA.

"It's the time of year when sometimes you have to move up a day," Padres' manager Bruce Bochy said.

The Padres got one piece of good news during Tuesday's workout. Greg Vaughn, the 50-homer man who has not started since leaving Game 1 because of a strained left quadriceps, is expected to return to the lineup as San Diego tries to wrap up its first trip to the World Series since 1984.

"Obviously, it is not the position we wanted to be in," Glavine said. "But we felt we had a chance and we still do because of our pitching and how we are starting to swing the bats. We feel if anyone can come back from 3-0, we can."

Down to their final five outs Monday night at San Diego, the Braves came back for a 7-6 win that fit right into this year's theme of wild and wacky.

Looking to avoid a trip back to Atlanta, Bochy gambled and brought in Brown for just his third relief appearance ever, hoping his ace could give him two strong innings.

But Brown, who had been set to start Game 6, gave up a three-run homer in the eighth to Michael Tucker that put Atlanta ahead for good. Brown wound up throwing 41 pitches, meaning he'll now pitch Game 7, if necessary, against Maddux.

"I feel bad about that second inning because it opens up Bruce to second-guessing," Brown said.

Braves manager Bobby Cox made his own unusual move after closer Kerry Ligtenberg gave up a two-run homer to pinch-hitter Greg Myers that made it 7-6 with no outs in the ninth.

Cox summoned Maddux, who had not relieved since 1987. The four-time Cy Young winner got two quick outs, then issued a rage walk before retiring Tony Gwynn on a game-ending grounder for the first save of his pro career.

"I think it's the first time I've ever pitched in relief where, it actually counted," Maddux said. "I was like a fish out of water. I didn't know what to do, how to act. It was weird."

The narrow victory buoyed the Braves, who became the first team to win twice after falling behind 3-0 in a postseason series. Of the previous 21 clubs facing such deficits, 18

Successful Judson coach preaches winning attitude

CONVERSE, Texas (AP) — If D.W. Rutledge weren't a high school football coach, he would probably be a preacher.

The way he views it, the jobs are pretty similar.

"I think coaching is a ministry," Rutledge said. "We've got a platform to be around hundreds of young people on a daily basis. ... You can change lives through this profession."

Rutledge, 47, speaks from experience.

In his 15th year as head coach at Converse Judson, Rutledge has guided thousands of young men through the physical rigors of football and the "intangibles" they must conquer off the field.

"Do your best. Don't sweat the rest. Winning will take care of itself," is Rutledge's motto, posted prominently for his varsity players to see.

Through the years, victories have been plentiful for Rutledge and his Rockets.

The Rockets have been a perennial playoff team since 1982. They won state championships in 1983, 1988, 1992, 1993 and 1995.

Judson suffered an off-year last season, going 7-4 and losing to Austin Crockett in the first round of the 5A playoffs. That ended a streak of nine consecutive regional championships.

This season Judson is back with a surprising 6-0 start. The Rockets are ranked No. 2 in Class 5A.

"We're not playing good right now, but we're playing hard," said Rutledge, in his characteristic hoarse voice. "They're just good, hard-working kids."

Hard work and the right attitude are what Rutledge preaches to his players beginning in a classroom in January, when the team sets its goal for the year: winning a state championship the following December.

The journey to a state title requires going to school and to football practice and making good grades. It's all about self-discipline.

"Athletics is such a great laboratory for teaching that," Rutledge said.

With his friend Dennis Parker, football coach at Cleburne High School, Rutledge has written "Coaching To Change Lives," a binder book of short lessons on such topics as leadership, self-image and character.

The book, published by Zig Zigar Corp., is now in about 200 schools.

"D.W. is the best coach that I've ever worked with, and I've been fortunate enough to work with some good ones," said Parker, who was offensive coordinator at Judson while Rutledge was defensive coordinator in the early 1980s.

The two lived near each other in Seguin — where Rutledge still resides — and often rode to work together. During summer breaks, the two assistant coaches painted houses together to earn extra money.

"One thing he exemplifies is responsibility," said Parker, recalling a time Judson lost a game 7-6. Parker was feeling down about the team's offensive performance. Rutledge took the blame for the loss himself, saying, "I apologize. I should have never let them score."

The two friends coached against each other in the state 5A title game in 1990 when Parker coached Marshall High School.

"I told our kids, 'You better be better than they are, because they are coached better than y'all are,'" Parker said. "It was bittersweet for me, because I wanted so badly to win the thing but I didn't want to beat him."

Marshall won 21-19.

Rutledge was among the top 10 best paid high school football coaches in Texas according to an extensive survey conducted in 1996 by The Associated Press.

Stars off to 2-0 start after beating 'Hawks

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Stars goalie Ed Belfour never gets tired of beating his former team, the Chicago Blackhawks.

In four games for Dallas against Chicago, Belfour has a goals-against average of 0.50 following Tuesday night's 3-1 victory.

Belfour played for the Blackhawks from 1989-97, and signed a free-agent contract with the Stars prior to the 1997-98 season.

"I was there for a lot of years," said Belfour, who needed only 13 saves to help the Stars to their second victory in as many games. "So I definitely enjoy competing and winning against them. There are a lot of memories there."

Belfour got offensive support from Mike Modano, who broke a

1-1 tie with a goal early in the second period.

Modano scored on the rebound of linemate Brett Hull's shot 44 seconds into the period to give the Stars the lead for good.

"You expect a physical game every time you play them," said Modano, who has two goals in as many games. "It's either hit or be hit. You know it's coming."

The Blackhawks did a much better defensive job against the Stars under new coach Dirk Graham than they did last season, when Chicago was outscored 17-4 and went 0-4-1 in five meetings with Dallas.

"From the standpoint of energy and physical play, it had a lot of both especially for the second game of the season," Stars coach Ken Hitchcock said. "It felt like a playoff game. They (the Blackhawks) play with energy for 60 minutes. They're right in your face."

Jeff Hackett stopped 29 shots for Chicago (1-1), which got its only goal from Chad Kilger in the first period.

Stars defenseman Richard Matvichuk scored an empty-net goal with one second left.

Chicago did a good job killing penalties, as Dallas was able to score only once in nine power-play opportunities. But by taking all the penalties — six straight during one stretch in the first and second periods — the Blackhawks were never able to get into any offensive rhythm.

"We've got to be careful with the penalties," Chicago center Doug Gilmour said. "You do anything wrong and they're going to call it. We've got to calm down and keep our flow going. It seemed like we were killing penalties all night."

The Blackhawks didn't get their first shot on goal until 7:49 was left in the opening period, and they took a 1-0 lead 42 seconds later when Kilger beat Belfour from the slot.

Pat Verbeek tied it with 1:43 left in the first period, notching his second power-play goal in as many games by converting Jamie Langenbrunner's pass from the side of the net.

Hull is without a goal after his first two games in a Stars uniform, but he hasn't lacked for chances. Hull has 10 shots in the two games, and has two assists.

Tyson deemed 'fit to fight'

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Now that the doctors have had their say, Mike Tyson's return to the ring is only three votes away.

Declared mentally fit by a team of doctors to return to the ring despite being diagnosed with a host of emotional problems, Tyson goes before the Nevada Athletic Commission once again Monday in search of his boxing license.

He'll need to convince at least three of the five commissioners that the positive psychological report outweighs other concerns — most of them surrounding Tyson's alleged attack on two men following a Maryland traffic accident a month and a half ago.

"I've demanded that Mike tell us about Maryland," commissioner Luther Mack said. "If he can handle the questions and heavy statements at the hearing, it will really be a test of his character."

Doctors who examined Tyson for five days last month found him to lack self-esteem and to often be depressed. But they said they believed he would not snap again, as he did when he bit Evander Holyfield's ears 15 months ago and was banned from boxing.

Tyson's advisers were led to believe that a positive psychological report was all the former heavyweight champion needed to get the commission to allow him to return to the ring. But in the days following a marathon hearing last month, commissioners grew increasingly edgy over Tyson's refusal to answer questions about what happened in Maryland on Aug. 31.

"Maryland is still an open issue," Tyson lawyer Jim Ipperson said. "There will be a proper response to it. But what Mike has to say about it is still being discussed."

Tyson faces misdemeanor charges in Montgomery County, Md., on the same day as the commission hearing. Two men contend Tyson kicked and punched them after a car driven by his wife, Monica, was rear-ended. Tyson's lawyers have tried unsuccessfully to settle.

Groom emphasizes defense in six-man

Most six-man football teams which are ranked in the state's top 10 this time of year have those runaway offenses that seem to pour out points like an oil well gusher. Defense is sort of an afterthought.

The unbeaten Groom Tigers may be cut from a different uniform. Sure, the Tigers have been scoring 45 or 50 points every game, but their defense may be the key to Groom's success this season.

Last weekend, Groom held Follett to a measly 190 yards total offense while rolling to a 57-8 win.

One of those TDs came from the Groom defense when Wyatt Weinheimer intercepted a pass and raced 40 yards for the score to open the first-quarter scoring. All Weinheimer did on offense was to catch a couple of touchdown passes from quarterback Josh Evenson.

Dean Fields rushed for 214 yards and scored on runs of 61 and 52 yards.

There's no doubt the sixth-ranked Tigers can score points in a big way, but head coach Jim Reid seems to be more impressed with his defense.

"The key to the game was how we played defense. We let them break one early and get close. But I thought, overall, our defense really contained," Reid told Amarillo Daily News staffer Drew Butler after the Follett outing.

The Tigers are 6-0 and ranked No. 6 in last week's Texas six-man poll.

Groom has never won a state football championship, but this may be the year. The Tigers came close in 1975 in the 11-man ranks. Groom lost to Big Sandy, 28-2 in the state finals.

If they can avoid injury, I'm picking the Pampa girls' cross country team to have another state championship season.

Going into the Lake Meredith Invitational on Saturday, the Lady Harvesters are coming off two solid wins at the Cowboy Jamboree and the Buffalo Stampede. Both those meets drew a large number of teams because there's both a high-school and college division.

L.D. Strate
Sports Editor

To top it off, school record-holder Jenny Fatheree didn't make the trip to Stillwater, Okla. for the Cowboy Jamboree.

Pampa head coach Mark Elms decided to use only underclassmen in the meet. It didn't matter. Six runners finished in the top 25 and Pampa came away with the first-place trophy.

Fatheree was a vital member of the school's first state championship cross country team in 1996.

Pampa girls just flat dominated the Buffalo Stampede at West Texas A&M. Second-place Hereford finished a distant 28 points behind at the WT Horse Center.

The latest cross country state rankings by Texas Track & Field News has Pampa ranked second behind Highland Park in Class 4A.

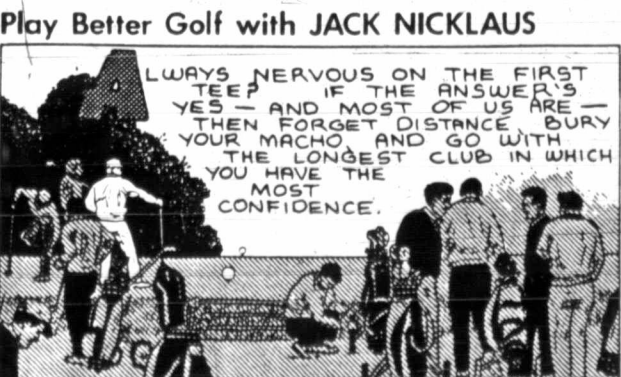

Highland Park is the defending champion and Pampa finished third a year ago. Canyon was second.

Flashback: 1976 — Joe Jeffers pitched Pampa to a 13-4 win over Borger in the Babe Ruth District Tournament at Optimist Park. Jeffers gave up eight hits while striking out nine and walking four.

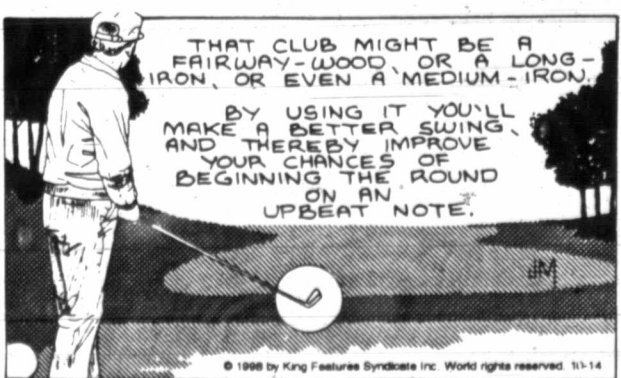

Outfielder Greg Koch was the only Pampa player to have more than one hit. Koch had two of Pampa's 10 hits and knocked in a run.

Carolina cuts Kerry Collins

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Kerry Collins apparently will land on his feet after being cut by the Carolina Panthers. Whether the same thing can be said for his former team remains to be seen.

Collins, drafted in the first round in 1995 to be the cornerstone of the Panthers, was waived Tuesday, six days after he said his heart was no longer into being the club's quarterback.

Less than an hour after he was cut, two other teams had called to inquire about his services, said Leigh Steinberg, the quarterback's agent. Steinberg called it an indication of the high level of interest he expects for a 25-year-old player who less than two years ago appeared in the NFC championship game and the Pro Bowl.

"Someone is going to get an outstanding quarterback whose best years are ahead of him," Steinberg said.

The Panthers' decision to waive their first-ever draft choice leaves them without much proven depth at Collins' position. The only two quarterbacks on Carolina's active roster are Steve Beuerlein, a 33-year-old playing with his fifth NFL team, and Shane Matthews, who has played in two games in five pro seasons.

Further clouding the picture is the fact that Carolina, which has lost a franchise-worst seven consecutive games, including five this season, is not scheduled to get a first-round pick in next year's draft.

"We'll have to take it step by step," coach Dom Capers said. "This is something that came unexpectedly. We hadn't anticipated this. So we'll explore various options."

Capers said the Panthers felt like they had few options after Collins walked into the coach's office last Wednesday and told him he thought it would be best for the team if someone else took over as the starter.
