More money for drug treatment sought $100,000 increase wanted to aid teens

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

The Juvenile Probation Board today requested an increase of $100,000 to the juvenile placement budget for the rest of the '98/'99 fiscal year.

The move was made at the request of Chief Juvenile Probation Officer Albert Nichols who cited four youths under his jurisdiction who he said needed treatment.

Nichols said he had two males and two females who had problems either with drugs or alcohol. He said the one in the most immediate need is a boy who was picked up last night for assault causing bodily injury. Nichols said the youth is currently being held at the detention center at the Canadian "boot camp" for juveniles but will be coming to court today. According to Nichols, the youth broke into a girlfriend's house for money. Nichols believes the money was to buy drugs.

The second case involves a girl who is in a free placement facility in Round Rock, Texas. While she is currently being treated she is doing poorly in school and threatening suicide, according to Nichols. The facility, the Baptist Children's Home, wants to have her removed because of the suicide threats.

Nichols said she needs to be sent soon to the drug facility in Corpus Christi.

He said there is a plan from the state that sometimes pays half of the cost of treatment for indigent youths who are under juvenile supervision and that two of the youths might qualify. He said if they did, it might still run as high as $100,000 more for the year. The state reimburses the county for treatment for up to two youths at a time. Currently there is one Gray County youth in Corpus Christi and one in treatment in Fort Worth, Nichols said.

The budget for treatment is currently at $25,000 with about $4,500 having been expended so far this fiscal year which began September 1. Nichols said the $100,000 is not just for these four he is currently seeking help for but hopefully take care of any others requiring treatment through the year.

Judge Lee Waters, one of the board members, wondered about the timing, wondering if it had anything to do with the defeat of the juvenile treatment center earlier this month. He said that whatever the budget is on paper, the decision to commit a youth is at the discretion of the trial judge and wondered if the "timing was appropriate now" to increase the budget or wait until after legal proceedings.

County Auditor Elaine Morris said she has to have money in the budget before any bills like that can be paid so, "it's not inappropriate" to ask for the budget increase now.

Waters said as a member of the Juvenile Probation Board he is "attentive" of the county's money, and doing what is best for the taxpayer. But he added (See MONEY, Page 2)

AMARILLO — Two Collingsworth County escapees, believed to have been in Pampa shortly after their Oct. 28 escape, have been captured in Amarillo. Andre Dupree Steptoe and Melvin Mason, both 20, were caught about 5 p.m. yesterday after a brief foot chase when the two fled a residence. The third escapee, Gilbert Salinas, 33, was caught Nov. 1 in Shamrock.

Two tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas, according to the state lottery.

The jackpot was worth an estimated $4 million.

The winning tickets were sold in Houston and Spring Branch.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 5-13-23-35-43-50.

If sales continue as expected, Saturday night's drawing will again be worth an estimated $4 million.

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. George W. Bush appointed Republican Al Gonzales to the Texas Supreme Court today, giving his party control of the last statewide office held by Democrats after last week's elections.

Gonzales, the Texas secretary of state, replaces Justice Raul Gonzalez, the first Hispanic elected to statewide office in Texas.

Prolific authors visit Pampa schools

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

Two of the best selling authors in their field were in Pampa yesterday. Dave and Pat Sargent.

Anyone who hasn't heard of them probably doesn't have elementary school children. Readers from the first grade up most likely have bought, read, or seen books by one or both of them.

Lots of books. Since Dave Sargent started writing in 1990 he has written 78 books. Pat says she hasn't kept up but has written hundreds. And the couple, who visited Pampa's elementary schools, have collaborated and co-written 40 books together.

And while both are getting closer to the age where people think about slowing down or retiring neither is thinking of that. They plan to keep up their writing and their travel around the country promoting reading, writing and their books.

Dave said they travel about nine months a year speaking to elementary schools about the life of an author and how to become one. Afterwards there is a book sale and autograph session for the children and their parents. Lots of parents.

Special school activities getting pupil parents involved

In an effort to emphasize the importance of parent involvement in the lives of Texas students, the state has marked today as "Parent Involvement Day."

Pampa ISD plans a number of annual activities throughout the year to keep parents involved with their children's schooling. For example, a project like "Dads Day" last year brought a huge group of area fathers into the schools, said Sue Thornton with Pampa ISD.

"We're encouraging all parents, educators, and community volunteers to establish enduring partnerships that work to strengthen Texas public schools," according to Mike Moses of the Texas Education Agency.

The IEA has provided four "easy steps" to remind parents how to stay involved with their children's education.

- At home, show your child that you value learning. Read books together, talk about things, keep plenty of materials to stimulate your child's imagination.

- At school, teachers need your guidance as much as you and your child need theirs. Communicate with teachers what you know about your child and listen to what they have discovered. Volunteer to help in class or to perform non-teaching tasks.

- In your community, teach your child to be a good citizen by your example. Do your part to make your community a safer and better place for your child. Be an advocate for education.

- In the world, visit parks, zoos, construction sites, fire stations, airports and offices with your child. The world is your classroom.

City approves new fire pact with Gray Co.

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

A new $130,000 city-county fire contracts for 1999 has been approved by Pampa city commissioners and all that awaits for the pact to become final is for county commissioners to do likewise.

During the summer, the city and county squabbled over the contract with the city seeking a $250,000 contract and complaining the amount paid by Gray County was inadequate. This year the county paid $105,000 and it then offered to pay $125,000 for 1999.

At that time, city Commissioner Jeff Andrews, a certified public accountant, researched the numbers based upon last year's fire department budget of $1,234,656. There were 862 calls which, when averaged, cost $1,432.32 per call.

Of those, 164 were county calls. Using the then proposal of $125,000, Andrews said that translated into $762.20 per county fire call with city taxpayers picking up the balance of the tab.

'98 Ranch Rodeo underway tonight

AMARILLO — Cowboys from a dozen ranches will be at the Amarillo Civic Center this week to ride for their brand in the World Championship Ranch Rodeo Finals.

Twelve ranches from across the nation have qualified for the 1998 World Championship Ranch Rodeo Finals Nov. 12-14.

Qualifying ranches are Fields Cattle and Rana Creek Ranch, Morgan Hill, Calif.; Hecross Cattle Co., Uniontown, Kan.; Hitch Ranch, Gaymes, Okla.; Horse Creek Ranch and Vestal Ranch, Little Valley, Calif.; Nail Ranch, Albany, Tex.; Padlock Ranch Co. and Widener Ranch, Dayton, Wyo.; Pitchfork Land and Cattle Co., Guthrie, Tex.; RVI-4 Ranch, LaBroussardie, Manitoba, Canada; Stuart Ranch, Caddo, Okla.; Thompson Ranch, Munday, Tex.; Turkey Track

Ranch, Artesia, N.M.; and Wilson Cattle Company and Sillassen Ranch, Arthur, Neb.

"These cowboys and cowgirls are the real deal," said Eric Miller, a spokesman for Working Ranch Cowboy Association, the sanctioning organization for the rodeo tour. "They earn their living from the back of a horse in all kinds of weather."

Each ranch or combined team, has earned the right to be at the finals by winning sanctioned rodeos in their region, competing in ranch bronc riding, team doctoring, team penning, wild cow milking, team branding and wild horse racing.

All horses in the World Championship Ranch Rodeo Finals will be judged over the three performances, Miller said. The highest rated horse will be named Top Horse.

Unemployment benefit claims rise to 4-month high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Americans filing applications for unemployment checks jumped to a seasonally adjusted 321,000 last week, the highest level since the General Motors strikes flooded Midwestern unemployment offices with applicants this summer.
 First-time benefit claims during the week were a larger-than-expected 12,000 higher than the week before, the Labor Department said today. The total was the highest since the week ended July 11.
 A four-week moving average of claims, which smooths fluctuations in the volatile data series, rose to a 14-week high of 312,500, up from 311,000 during the four-week period ended a week earlier.

The report fit with other data showing world economic turmoil is taking a toll on American jobs, particularly at factories exporting goods to Asian nations mired in slumps. The unemployment rate, which hit a 28-year low of 4.3 percent in the spring, was 4.6 percent in October.
 During the week ended Oct. 31, California, Texas, Washington, South Carolina and North Carolina led the list of states with significant increases in joblessness. They cited layoffs in agriculture and manufacturing, particularly at factories producing metal products, machinery, electrical equipment and rubber-and-plastic products.

Bullet hits FBI bombing command post

ANDREWS, N.C. (AP) — A federal agent was nearly hit by a bullet when a shot was fired at the command post where federal agents are coordinating their search for bombing suspect Eric Rudolph.
 "Whether it was accidental or intentional... we'll check it out," Patrick Crosby, a spokesman for the Southeast Bomb Task Force, said today. "A shot hit our building. It's not exactly a rural area, but there's a bunch of big fields. Weirder things happen."
 The shot, fired at the command post building around 8 p.m. Wednesday, "brushed the hair" of an agent but did not wound him, authorities said.

 Agents were busy this morning trying to determine whether the command post was the shooter's intended target. They searched an area where they believed the shot came from.
 The shooting comes as the task force intensifies its efforts to find Rudolph. They are pinning their hopes on the dwindling tree canopy, which provided Rudolph with cover to elude authorities over the summer.

MONEY

that as a judge, in a case involving a juvenile, he can only be concerned with what is in the best interest of the juvenile, regardless of the budget.
 County Judge Richard Peet said he hopes the effort isn't perceived as an effort to counter what the public wants [concerning a facility here]. He said the four youths spoken of at the meeting would not have been affected by any facility here. That's because two are female and would not have been allowed in the all-male facility and because all need treatment now.

 The Board voted 2-0, with Judge M. Kent Sims unable to attend, to formally request the budget increase from the Gray County Commissioners Court which has final say over the Juvenile Probation Department budget.

FIRE PACT

"While $130,000 is not much of a change, the big key to me is that the contract gives us a discussion period in August..." Andrews said at Tuesday's commission meeting. "There are non-financial issues to look at, too. We've learned a lot [during negotiation]... the city and county both."
 Andrews was making reference to a city-county committee that met to hammer out the pact. He and Commissioner Jeff McCormick represented the city. County Commissioners Jim Greene, and Joe Wheley made up the county half of the committee. "I don't think it's where we want it to be, but this is a step in the right direction," said Commissioner Faustina Curry.

 Andrews explained that when negotiations began this year both entities had set their tax rates and there was not much room for increases. He said by starting the negotiations earlier next year, there will be more latitude.
 "The communication has opened up doors with the county," McCormick said. "They will be open in the future. I think instead of closed which I felt they were."

publisher, Ozark Publishing, are also offered for sale but the children want Dave's autograph. He is the one who speaks to them and asks if they want a pet skunk. Sometimes Pat gets requests for autographs, too, but she's spends a lot of time helping the children pick out the books.
 Dave spent most of his life as a dairyman in Arkansas, Pat was a school teacher, first in Oklahoma and then Arkansas.
 Pat said she has been writing stories since she was in the fourth grade but never tried to get anything published. But it was she who convinced her husband to try and write down some of the stories he told. He published his autobiography, "An Uphill Climb," in 1990 and hasn't stopped since. About a year later Pat decided to take some of her 500 stories and submit them as well. She is currently doing a series of books on "Barney the Bear Killer," a dog that has appeared in other books by the pair. Many of the books by both authors involve animals.

 Dave said it takes him about two weeks to outline a book, either in his head or on paper for the longer projects. He then takes about two to three weeks to write the book and then there's the rewriting, which he said he does five or six times.
 While the Sargents still make their home in Prairie Grove, Ark., they often only spend a day or less back home reloading their "big long van" with books. The sides of the van are lined with bookshelves so they can stay out for quite a while.
 Pat said 150 of their titles have been approved by the Accelerated Reading Program, which is used by many of the schools in Texas. She also said the National Reading Program has done a lot for their books.
 After spending two days in Pampa the Sargents will go to Amarillo and Borger. Later on this month they will head to Georgia to encourage reading and writing.

Blind man files complaint for cyberspace access

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A blind man has filed a complaint against a mass transit commission, claiming his inability to access its Web site of bus and train schedules violates federal law.
 Randy Tamez, who was blinded 12 years ago by treatment for a brain tumor, cited the Americans With Disabilities Act in his formal complaint Nov. 2 against the Metropolitan Transportation Commission. The commission oversees nine Bay Area counties' mass transit systems.

toward the Web. The disabilities act was passed by Congress in 1990.
 "The online world was friendly when it was a text-based medium," said Cynthia Waddell, the city of San Jose's ADA coordinator, who is deaf. "But as it has rapidly grown to a robust multimedia environment, it has erected new barriers that were never there before."

Tamez, 36, sees only shapes, shadows and light. His complaint is part of a growing mound of paperwork that is steering ADA regulations

Devices that allow a blind person to use the Web, for example, work well with a site that has a lot of text. As Web sites fill up with pictures, video clips and sound, though, text often becomes a secondary concern to online designers.

Better Business Bureau cautions consumers to beware of roofers

AMARILLO — In lieu of recent information released by Amarillo Police Department, the Better Business Bureau in Amarillo has the following tips for consumers on how to protect against deceptive door-to-door roofing employees:

- Determine if your roof needs repair by having it inspected by a reputable roofing company. Don't take the word of someone who just happened to knock on your door.
- Verify that the company is properly licensed, if they need to be.
- Get several written estimates, talk to neighbors and friends for recommendations.
- Make certain all work needed or desired is quoted in the estimate. Get all the details of the offer in writing and thoroughly review it.
- Ask for references and then call those references. Check them out.
- Call the Better Business Bureau to check out the companies before you decide who to do business with.
- Know that reputable roofing companies do not send their employees looking for work door-to-door. Nor do they have "left-over materials" that they need to get rid of.
- If you are unable to climb up on the roof yourself, or if you are elderly, exercise extreme caution. Oftentimes, these scam artists, just passing through, target the most vulnerable.
- Do not give anyone cash for a job and do not pay for a job in full until it's complete and you or someone you know has had an opportunity to inspect it. Make the check payable to the company and not to the salesperson or any other individual.
- Don't be swayed into believing the offer is good "today only." A reputable company will honor a fair price when you are ready to do business with them.
- If someone is offering you a deal that sounds too good to be true it probably is.
- A "bargain" or "good deal" will probably come back to haunt you soon enough. Remember, any legitimate company will be more than willing to allow you the time to check them out. Don't fall prey to lines such as, "this is the only chance you have," or "by tomorrow the extra materials will be gone."
- If you have an expensive repair, be especially cautious of these offers. Obtain bids from several companies. Take the time to review the bids and don't always go with the lowest bid. In many cases, you get exactly what you pay for. To avoid problems, buy from reputable companies with a proven track record.

Government must tell the total truth

■ It is the fundamental right of Americans to know the facts of government investigations.

When historians look back at the United States at the end of the 20th century, they may ask themselves why that society grew increasingly suspicious of its own government and why its citizens began turning in droves to libertarian thought.

One event may shed light on their conundrum: The investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In a report issued recently, the Assassination Records Review Board accused the government of "needlessly and wastefully" withholding millions of records about the murder, fueling mistrust. And the secrets continue.

A federal law requires releasing the data from the investigation, but not until 2017 — 54 years after the crime.

The stated reason for this lunacy is national security.

It is hard to imagine anything from a 1963 murder investigation as a serious threat to our national security. If the data reveal a government plot to assassinate Cuban leader Fidel Castro, so what? We know that anyhow. If there was a government cover-up or even government involvement in the murder of Kennedy, why shouldn't we know that too? Is the national security argument being used merely to protect an inept investigation of the murder? If we find out U.S. agencies were involved in the killing, will the republic collapse? No.

Let all Americans know all the facts. It is our fundamental right. We can handle it. The man we chose to lead the government was murdered. We investigated the murder. A few bureaucrats continue to withhold the complete story from us.

"Change is long overdue and the review board's experience amply demonstrates the value of sharing important information with the American public," the board said in its report.

It is time to put the conspiracy theories to rest. Full disclosure will help.

Zero percent financing

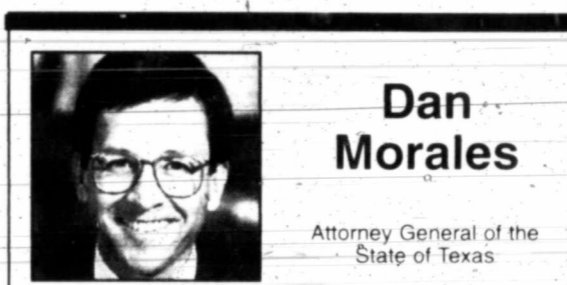

When shoppers are looking to buy big-ticket items like furniture, appliances or computers, they are often drawn in by retailers' offers of "No Payments, No Interest" or "No Interest for Six Months." Offers of this kind can be very attractive and may seem to make pricey items more affordable.

Unfortunately, such offers are not always such a good deal. Because of complaints received from consumers about these types of offers, the Office of the Attorney General, along with officials from several other states, took action against several major retail chains. These actions resulted in settlements of nearly $1 million from those retail chains.

Based on complaints received by the Office of the Attorney General, the following are some pointers to consider when shopping for big ticket items.

Nearly all "zero" interest offers have similar terms and conditions, offering no interest charges for a specified period of time: 6 months, 12 months, 2 years. If you are able to pay off the purchase price within the specified time period, it really is a no-interest loan. Be aware however, that even if you do intend to pay off the amount promptly, the debt may still be entered on your credit report.

Many consumers will not be able to pay off the purchase price in the specified time. If the entire amount has not been paid off on the date the offer expires, the consumer will be charged interest. Usually the interest accrues from the date of the purchase and applies to the total purchase price, not just the remaining balance. Additionally, interest rates offered are often higher than those given by credit card companies.

Dan Morales
 Attorney General of the State of Texas

For consumers who do not clearly understand the terms of the purchase, being hit with a bill for a large amount of interest can be quite a shock.

Most major retailers now make financing terms clear in their advertisements and on purchase agreements. However, there are still some retailers who use confusing language, burying the terms of the purchase in the fine print of the contract.

When you are shopping for a big-ticket item, keep the following in mind:

—Shop around to make sure you are getting the best possible price.

—Ask when the full payment is due and whether or not you must make payments during the "interest-free" period.

—Ask what penalty is imposed if you don't make the full payment within the specified time period.

—Find out the applicable interest rate should you not be able to make the full payment.

—Ask about other conditions and restrictions such as minimum purchase amounts or excluded products or manufacturers.

—Read the credit application carefully as many include information on complete financing arrangements; and —Be realistic about your financial status and the type of payments you can afford.

Although it is not the most popular option, when shopping for big ticket items, the wisest consumers wait until they have the cash to pay for the purchase. Or they charge it on their credit card, allowing the charge back option should there be a defect, and then pay the charge on the credit card in full.

If you want more information or wish to lodge a complaint against a retailer, please contact our Consumer Protection Division at 1-800-621-0508. Additionally, further consumer information and a consumer complaint form are available on the Office of the Attorney General's website at www.oag.state.tx.us.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 12, the 316th day of 1998. There are 49 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 12, 1948, former Japanese premier Hideki Tojo and several other World War II Japanese leaders were sentenced to death by a war crimes tribunal.

On this date:

In 1920, baseball got its first "czar" as Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was elected commissioner of the American and National Leagues.

In 1921, representatives of nine nations gathered for the start of the Washington Conference for Limitation of Armaments.

In 1927, Josef Stalin became the undisputed ruler of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist Party.

In 1942, the World War II naval Battle of Guadalcanal began. The Americans ended up winning a major victory over the Japanese.

In 1954, Ellis Island closed after processing more than 20 million immigrants since opening in New York Harbor in 1892.

In 1980, the U.S. space probe Voyager 1 came within 77,000 miles of Saturn.

In 1982, Yuri V. Andropov was elected to succeed the late Leonid I. Brezhnev as general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee.

In 1990, Japanese Emperor Akihito formally assumed the Chrysanthemum Throne.

Not a bad day for tolerance

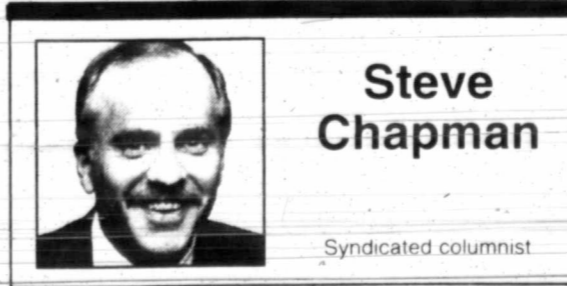

In America, we have the Democratic Party, which can't keep its hands off our wallets, and the Republican Party, which can't keep its nose out of our personal lives. Each had its victories and defeats on election day recently, but the real preference among voters is for a third party: one that is willing to live and let live.

This is a growing segment of the electorate. In the last 25 years, according to Bill Clinton's pollster, Mark Penn, the percentage of people who agree with the statement "The best government is the government that governs least" has risen from 32 percent to 56 percent. But neither of the two major parties gives Americans a consistent choice between being governed more and being governed less.

So voters have to pick and choose from the available options. The clearest evidence of the "leave us alone" trend came from the states that voted on marijuana policy. In five referendums, citizens voted in favor of allowing the medical use of cannabis, despite the bitter opposition of die-hard prohibitionists from drug czar Barry McCaffrey on down. In Oregon, which has decriminalized marijuana use, voters also overwhelmingly rejected an attempt to make it a crime once again.

Arizonans, who saw their legislature try to overturn their 1996 vote for medical marijuana, thumping it through in the District of Columbia, where the same issue was on the ballot, the Republican Congress was so afraid of the results that it barred district officials from reporting the vote count.

Citizens of Washington state did something that may sound liberal when they approved letting patients use pot to cure ailments that don't respond to conventional treatment. But they did something that is regarded as conservative by supporting a ban on racial and sexual preferences in government contracting and college admissions. What do the two positions have in common? Nothing, except a respect for the rights of the individual and a distrust of government power.

The same outlook found expression in the upset triumph of former professional wrestler Jesse "The Body" Ventura in the Minnesota gubernatorial race. He was running against Hubert H. Humphrey III, who in addition to having a golden Minnesota name had used his position as state attorney general to sue the tobacco industry.

Ventura talked about legalizing prostitution and drugs and respecting gay rights; Humphrey bragged about punishing an industry for selling people a legal product they choose to consume. Even in strait-laced Minnesota, the case for individual choice prevailed. Ventura got 37 percent of the vote, while Humphrey came in third with 28 percent.

Down in the Bible Belt, there were other surprises. Alabama is one of the most conservative and most Republican states in the country, but it has its limits. Voters there evicted Republican Gov. Fob James, who defended a judge's display of the Ten Commandments in his courtroom and argued for restoring organized prayer in public schools. James had the endorsement of religious right leaders Pat Robertson, Jerry Falwell and James Dobson, which may do him some good with St. Peter but failed to impress Alabamians. By a gaudy 16-point margin, they abandoned James for Democratic Lt. Gov. Don Siegelman.

Another favorite of the Christian Coalition was South Carolina Gov. David Beasley, a Republican who proclaimed his moral opposition to gambling, refused to allow a referendum on whether to establish a state lottery and tried to outlaw video poker. Despite being governor at a time when South Carolina is booming, and despite being a Republican in a Republican state, he was trounced by an unknown Democrat whose most potent campaign theme was that South Carolinians should be allowed to decide for themselves whether to allow these forms of gambling.

California Republican Matt Fong, who publicly endorsed a law banning anti-gay discrimination, looked like he had a very good chance of beating incumbent Sen. Barbara Boxer. But then the news broke that he had made a $50,000 contribution to the Traditional Values Coalition, which is best known for opposing gay rights and urging the teaching of creationism in public schools. The connection was not a boon to Fong, who on Election Day found he was about as popular as an oil spill.

The most conspicuous Republican victors were those with a reputation for independence from the party's Puritans and busybodies — George Bush in Texas, George Pataki in New York, George Ryan in Illinois. The ones who lost were those most closely identified with Newt Gingrich, who often sounds like he's leading a jihad. Judging from this year's results, the party that wins in 2000 will be the one that can portray itself as the party of freedom and tolerance — two traditional values that are still very much in style.

Studies: Serious heart trouble rare from diet drugs

DALLAS (AP) — About 10 percent of people who took the diet drugs Redux and fen-phen have mildly leaky heart valves, but serious heart problems are extremely rare, a new analysis concludes.

Experts also say the latest evidence hints that the valve problems may gradually go away after people stop taking the drugs.

Redux and the chemically similar "fen" half of fen-phen were pulled from drugstores a year ago under pressure from the Food and Drug Administration because of concern that the medicines damage heart valves.

At least 13 studies, most of them small, have looked into the problem. While their results vary widely, experts say the results in general show that serious problems are very unlikely, especially for those who took the drugs for only a few months.

Dr. Robert Bonow of Northwestern University compiled the results of the evidence so far, much of which was reported this week at a meeting of the American Heart Association. It suggests that lens resulting from the pills are less common than indicated in warnings issued when the drugs were yanked from the market.

Shuttle experiment results under examination by students

AUSTIN (AP) — A potential roadblock to interplanetary travel — bacteria that can clog water purification systems — is under review by researchers looking at the latest shuttle mission's results.

But this time, the researchers are primary and middle school students.

They're studying slimy biofilms that could jeopardize lengthy trips to Mars by clogging recycling systems used for drinking water.

"We're the only ones on Earth right now who know that biofilms can form in space," Robert McLean, a professor of biology at Southwest Texas State University, told the students from Travis Middle School in Port Lavaca on the Gulf coast, and Scudder Primary School and Bowen Intermediate School in Wimberley.

"That's the fun of science," he said as students helped count bacterial colonies grown last week aboard the space shuttle Discovery.

Attorney and former gubernatorial candidate dies of self-inflicted gunshot

FRISCO, Texas (AP) — An attorney who won acquittal for a woman accused of killing her ex-lover's wife with an ax has died — apparently from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Don Crowder, 56, died Tuesday night after locking himself in his weight room, said his wife of two years, Sheri Crowder, 38.

She told police he talked to her through the door in their home in Frisco, about 25 miles north of Dallas, telling her he had "too much pressure."

Crowder, a Democrat, also ran for governor in 1986. He was a former law partner of former congressman and Attorney Gen. Jim Mattox.

Crowder was the defense lawyer in 1980 for Candace Montgomery, who was accused of killing Betty Gore at the Gore residence in Wylie during a quarrel. Ms. Montgomery had learned of a relationship between he husband and Mr. Gore.

Next year's snapper harvest set at 9.1 million pounds

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — In a widely criticized move, regional fisheries managers have voted to allow 9.1 million pounds of red snapper to be harvested from the Gulf of Mexico in 1999.

The total allowable catch, or TAC, remains the same as this year's and will be divided evenly between commercial and sport snapper fishermen.

The same action for 1998 by the Gulf of Mexico Fisheries Council raised the ire of the National Marine Fisheries Service, which chastised the council for ignoring congressionally mandated scientific reports that recommended a catch of no more than 6 million pounds to preserve the endangered fishery.

Wednesday's vote was criticized by environmentalists, shrimp industry advocates and the federal government. It was accepted as a necessary evil by red snapper fishermen.

Deploying its veto power over the regional body, the National Marine Fisheries Service officials held the council and the industry in limbo until September by reserving the 3 million pound difference until a study of bycatch reduction devices, normally required for Gulf shrimpers, could be completed.

Congression report criticizes Justice Department role in shooting probe

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A report on the shooting death of a young West Texas goat herder by U.S. Marines criticizes the U.S. Justice Department for its handling of the investigation.

The report on the Justice Department's investigation of the May 20, 1997, shooting death of Esequiel

Hernandez Jr., 18, of Redford, was to be made public in Washington today.

Congress Lamar Smith, who is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said the Justice Department failed to do its job.

Hernandez was shot by U.S. Marines on an anti-drug patrol along the Rio Grande.

"The next step is for the Department of Justice to take some additional actions," Smith told the San Antonio Express-News on Wednesday.

Former POW gets Bronze Star half century after war

EMORY, Texas (AP) — Half a century ago, Joe Sisk spent four years as a slave laborer in a Japanese prison camp. On Veteran's Day, the nation thanked him.

The 75-year-old Greenville man was presented with the Navy Bronze Star on Wednesday during a Veteran's Day ceremony at Rains High School. More than 500 people rose to their feet as U.S. Rep. Ralph Hall pinned the medal on Sisk's coat.

"The Bronze Star is a great honor, and I'm glad to receive it, although it took 56 years for me to get it," Sisk said.

Sisk served aboard the USS Pope during World War II. On March 1, 1942, the ship was sunk, and surviving sailors were stranded in the water for 56 hours before they were discovered by a Japanese ship.

Sisk spent the next four years in a prison camp in Makasar, on the Indonesian island of Celebes. He and others were used as slave labor, building bomb shelters and airports, unloading ships and digging coal out of the ocean.

Seniors blast proposal to test older drivers

AUSTIN (AP) — Some seniors want to slam the brakes on a plan to institute new driving exams for older Texans.

But a lawmaker says it's time for the state to give a green light to such a proposal because older drivers must prove they're roadworthy.

"We are not trying to penalize anybody," Rep. Tony Goolsby, R-Dallas, told the Austin American-Statesman on Wednesday. "We are trying to make the roads safer."

Goolsby, 65, has filed a bill to order the Texas Department of Public Safety to come up with a method to ensure drivers 75 and older can "exercise ordinary and reasonable control in the operation of a motor vehicle of the type that the license authorizes the person to operate."

The idea threatens to collide head-on with some seniors' groups.

University of Texas regents to vote to re-open tower, observation deck

HOUSTON (AP) — The famous University of Texas clocktower, once the scene of one of the nation's worst mass murders, has been closed for 23 years because suicidal people used its observation deck to jump to their deaths.

University regents were to meet at Houston today to consider a proposal to reopen the tower. If they approve it, renovation to the 231-foot tower could begin immediately.

"It's just really important that people have a positive experience with the tower," says UT president Larry Faulkner.

It was from the clocktower's outdoor observation deck, 28 stories above the campus, that sniper Charles Whitman opened fire at around noon on Aug. 1, 1966. He killed 16 people and wounded 31 that day before being shot and killed by lawmen.

"There's a very large body of support for it," Faulkner said of the plan, insisting it's time to bring back positive associations with the tower instead of allowing negativity to "freeze" it in history with the Whitman shooting.

UT acquires art collection valued at $35 million

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas is acquiring — through gift and purchase — a one-of-a-kind collection of more than 700 European paintings and drawings valued at nearly $35 million.

UT President Larry R. Faulkner personally intervened to secure the Suida-Manning Collection for the school's Blanton Museum of Art. The acquisition was expected to be announced today, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

"The art collection is a very big deal," Faulkner said. "This is a great day in the cultural life of the university, the state of Texas and the art community."

The prized collection includes works from the Renaissance through the Rococo period and by Old Masters such as Rubens, Poussin, Lorrain and Correggio.

The works range from 14th-century Italian paintings to late 18th-century French drawings. Certain Baroque masterpieces, such as Giovanni Guercino's "Landscape with Tobias and the Angel," were actively sought by the nation's wealthiest musuems.

Diana memorial garden scaled down after resident protests

LONDON (AP) — The committee overseeing memorials to Princess Diana announced Wednesday that it has scaled down plans for an elaborate project in Kensington Gardens after angry protests from area residents.

British treasury chief Gordon Brown, the committee's chairman, said the original proposal for an elaborate 2.7-acre site costing $16.5 million had been replaced by a more understated plan involving a smaller garden and memorial walk.

The most significant aspect will be a walkway connecting four of London's great parks — Kensington, Hyde, Green and St. James's — but the walkway no longer will follow Diana's funeral procession route, Brown said.

The parks will be connected in a figure-eight shape, with Hyde Park in the center, allowing people to start and finish the walk however they choose.

"This will be one of the most magnificent urban parkland walks in the world," Brown said.

A cost estimate for the new project was not provided.

Residents and local legislators overwhelmingly opposed the original plans centering on Kensington Gardens — located outside the palace where Diana had lived — fearing the damage on the neighborhood by millions of extra visitors expected each year.

Brown said the committee's other main proposals were on track, including a commemorative 5-pound coin (worth about $8) to be released next July 1, which was Diana's birthday.

The other projects are community children's nursing teams, dubbed Diana's Angels, and the Diana, Princess of Wales Memorial Award, to be given to youths ages 11-18 for community service or overcoming personal problems.

U.N. stages second evacuation of relief personnel from Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A second group of U.N. relief workers left Iraq by bus today, and the ruling party's newspaper condemned the increasing possibility of U.S. airstrikes as American "psychological warfare."

U.N. humanitarian program spokesman Eric Falt said 25 workers left instead of the 40 that officials initially decided would go. He did not elaborate. Another 130 left Wednesday for Amman, Jordan, the same day all 103 United Nations weapons inspectors flew to Bahrain.

About 295 humanitarian workers remain in Iraq, mostly in the Kurdish north, which is unlikely to be targeted. All relief workers thus far evacuated have been based in southern and central Iraq, Falt said.

Despite mounting military threats, Iraq showed no sign of allowing U.N. arms inspections to resume. Official Iraqi newspapers published a statement today by the ruling Baath party urging Arab nations to rally behind Iraq and strike at American interests in case of U.S. aggression.

In a front-page editorial, the Baath party newspaper al-Thawra said the U.S. military preparations in the Persian Gulf were part of American "psychological warfare."

"Iraq no longer pays attention to these empty threats," it said, asserting that Iraq will not back down.

The official al-Qadissiya newspaper said President Saddam Hussein's Cabinet discussed the crisis Wednesday. Iraq's five official dailies published pictures of Saddam meeting ministers and senior military commanders to discuss a response to "American and Zionist aggression."

Iraqis appeared to be taking the situation in stride, and there was little evidence of panic or people rushing to stockpile food.

The United States and Britain have been threatening a military response since Iraq announced Oct. 31 that it was halting the activities of the U.N. Special Commission, known as UNSCOM, which is responsible for eliminating Iraq's weapons of mass destruction.

In London, British Prime Minister Tony Blair issued a fresh warning to Saddam today. "We have been through the threats and the strong words," Blair said in a British Broadcasting Corp. interview. "He has got to come back into compliance or action will follow."

With U.S. warships in the gulf region and the Pentagon beginning a major buildup of warplanes and troops, President Clinton has warned that spurning U.N. demands for arms inspections would be a costly mistake for Iraq. The U.N. Security Council has backed Secretary-General Kofi Annan's call to Saddam to immediately resume cooperation with the inspectors.

Iraq says it will not do so unless the council moves to begin lifting trade sanctions imposed to punish Iraq for its 1990 invasion of Kuwait, which led to the 1991 Persian Gulf War.

But the council is bound by a resolution that will not allow the lifting of sanctions until UNSCOM certifies that Iraq has dismantled its nuclear program, biological and chemical weapons and long-range missiles.

Lewinsky besieged by interview offers and sources say she is about to go public

WASHINGTON (AP) — With her and her family's legal bills and other debts from the past 10 months well in excess of $2 million, Monica Lewinsky is about to go public. The only question is where.

Ms. Lewinsky's representatives are negotiating overseas for her to do a television interview that would bring in a lot of money, according to people familiar with the matter.

Until an international interview is arranged, a possible deal with ABC's Barbara Walters is on hold, added the sources, speaking on condition of anonymity. An ABC appearance would be for free, since major U.S. networks don't pay for interviews.

Congress may take some of the punch out of any TV appearance by Ms. Lewinsky.

The House Judiciary Committee may soon release the tape-recordings Linda Tripp made of conversations with the former White House intern about her relationship with President Clinton.

British TV's Channel 4 said Wednesday it is negotiating with Ms. Lewinsky, and "I don't think it will be very long before" a deal "is complete... days rather than weeks," said a Channel 4 official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The price for any interview would be steep. The sources estimated the Lewinsky camp's costs at $2 million-plus.

Ms. Lewinsky's first lawyers were her father's attorney,

William Ginsburg of California, as well as Washington attorney Nathaniel Speights.

Ms. Lewinsky's second set of lawyers are veteran Washington defense attorneys Plato Cacheris and Jacob Stein, who negotiated her immunity deal with prosecutor Kenneth Starr's office. Cacheris and Stein also will have to get a release from Starr's office before she can talk to anyone in the media. A no-talk provision was in her immunity agreement with the prosecutor.

Ms. Lewinsky's mother, Marcia Lewis, also incurred large legal bills, becoming a major witness in the investigation because she listened to her daughter's confidences about her relationship with Clinton. For a time during Starr's investigation, she also had custody of the dress Ms. Lewinsky wore that had Clinton's DNA on it. Mrs. Lewis' lawyer, Billy Martin, struck an immunity deal with Starr at the same time as Ms. Lewinsky's immunity agreement.

Gates: Federal government's case is weak

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — The government's reliance on Microsoft competitors to make its antitrust case against the software giant will backfire, chairman Bill Gates predicted.

"As our witnesses come forward you will see the facts simply don't support the government's claim," Gates told shareholders Wednesday at Microsoft's annual meeting.

The government's action threatens to stifle innovation in one of the nation's most dynamic industries, Gates said in his first extended remarks about the case since the trial began.

Gates was greeted with a standing ovation by the roughly 2,000 shareholders when he entered the room — not surprising, considering the software giant's 23 straight years of record profits and revenues.

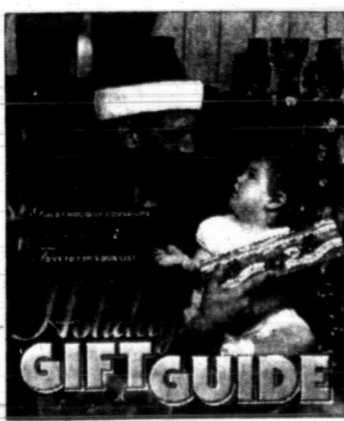

Last month, the company reported first quarter earnings of $1.68 billion, or 62 cents per diluted share, up from $663 million, or 25 cents per diluted share in the same period a year earlier.

Gates' comments came a day after notes made public at the antitrust trial in Washington, D.C., said he had told executives at computer chip manufacturer Intel three years ago, "this antitrust thing will blow over."

Gates complained that Department of Justice lawyers had been selective in their editing of electronic mail evidence presented to the trial judge.

Man Feeling Low on Birthday Is Lifted by High-Tech Cards

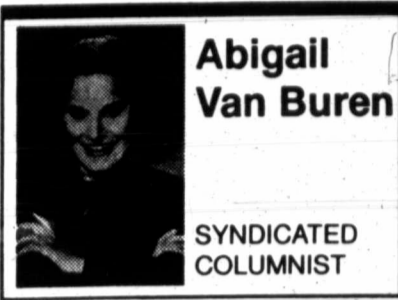

DEAR ABBY? I usually get a bit depressed around my birthday, and this past year was especially hard. Two years ago, I lost my grandmother, my father and a girlfriend shortly before my birthday. Also, my new girlfriend dumped me a year ago, just before my birthday. Now I associate my birthday with the loss of people for whom I cared deeply and I become depressed weeks before the occasion.

This year I received two cards in the "snail mail" — one from my stepmother (which reminded me that my dad can never send me a card again) and one from my oldest sister. I was, however, surprised to receive an e-mail card from another sister and her two small children, another e-mail card from my younger sister and several from Internet buddies. The real kicker was an e-mail greeting from my mother! One of my sisters had shown her how to create a card on the computer and send it to me online.

Because of the snail mail and e-mail cards I received, I didn't feel quite so alone this year. In fact, it was the most loving birthday I've had in years.

KEN IN GROVE CITY, OHIO

DEAR KEN: Congratulations on having overcome the birthday blues. Thirty years ago, who would have believed that so many people would own personal computers and use them for greetings and personal messages? This age of sophisticated communications technology is a marvel to behold, isn't it? Belated happy birthday, Ken.

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to you, but after reading about the woman's husband who urinates in their front yard, I just had to write. When I read your answer I laughed out loud even though I was alone in the house. I was reminded of a solution to a problem that we have here in the desert Southwest.

It isn't unusual for critters from the desert to cruise through town looking for food. The javelina (wild boar) especially can be a nuisance because it travels in family packs, and a group of at least six was checking out my porch every evening to see if my cats had left any food. I'd chase them away, but that deterred them only for a little while. I needed a more permanent solution.

Someone told my daughter about a group of beer drinkers who usually drank outside the house. Instead of going inside to urinate, they'd just do it in the yard — and they had no problem with javelinas. Other people who were bothered by the pesky creatures tried it, and it worked. I finally talked my grandson into marking his territory in various spots around my yard.

It worked at my house, too. It has to be repeated every so often, but it's such an inoffensive way to be rid of the pests. I'm signing my letter, but do not use my name. It's a small town and I don't need that kind of notoriety.

ARIZONA READER

DEAR ARIZONA READER: Thank you for an intriguing letter. Several readers wrote to tell me that urine is a pest repellent. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you're aware of this or not, but according to the master gardener, Jerry Baker, urine can be very beneficial in the garden to control pests. I can tell you from experience that urine seems to have eliminated the pack rats that were around our home for years. Since pack rats can be very damaging to one's house, my theory was, "If a little urine gets rid of them, whatta deal!"

FRIDAY, NOV. 13, 1998
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  You feel changes in the wind, so you start taking actions that you had postponed. Your high energy impresses others and gets the ball rolling at work. Be gentle with a partner, especially if you want him to meet you halfway. Take time with a co-worker. Tonight: Relax.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Your imagination goes haywire, and you come up with unusual solutions. What seems too good to happen can now occur. It is a definite possibility. Become goal-oriented. Make time for meetings, brainstorming and clearing your desk. Tonight: Indulge a loved one.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  A career opportunity drops into your lap. How can you refuse? Listen to a family member whose ideas could improve your home life. Be willing to take home some extra work. You could get more done and free up additional time. Tonight: Happy at home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  Reach for the stars. Erase the word "no" from your vocabulary. Nothing is impossible. Get away from rigid thinking, be willing to pull apart preconceived notions and look at new ideas. A child or loved one clearly adores you. Tonight: At a favorite spot.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  No sign knows how to enjoy more than yours. There is no time like the present to let go. A partner or money arrangement finally comes through for you. Your high energy helps a new venture that will affect you financially and emotionally. Tonight: In the moment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  You beam in what you want. Others are happy to go along with your creative ideas. Strike while the iron is hot. You have the energy and charm to make events happen. Understanding marks your conversations. People gravitate toward you. Tonight: Make it easy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Right now, your best move is to say little and enjoy what is happening. Your humor remains high as you gather information. A present or card you choose will be perfect. Trust your taste and judgment. A bonus or pay raise becomes possible. Tonight: Add more mystery to your life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Don't hesitate to zero in on what you want, personally or professionally. You are on the winning path; nothing can stop you. Expansion and opportunity drop into your lap. Someone you meet today could be a long-term influence in your life. Tonight: Love happens.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 31)

 Opportunity strikes. It is worth it to hang out and resolve a problem. A domestic matter can now work itself out. You get more of what you want. Intuition works with a boss. Appeal to his professional side. Show your willingness to work hard. Tonight: All eyes turn to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Reach out for others, and take an unusual risk. Your willingness to break patterns and get past limitations translates into success. A friendship could develop into more. Network, expand your circle, touch base with others. Tonight: Where the gang is.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  One-to-one relating brings many promises. Ask for that pay raise or bonus. Others see your work favorably. Be willing to put in that extra effort. Examine what you want. Defer to someone who has a lot to share. Togetherness builds. Tonight: Dinner for two!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  Let others seek you out. There is only good news from someone who is at a distance. Celebrate, let go and be more open. Someone comes off as combative, but he is only trying to get your attention. Listen more. A trip proves to be more than you thought. Tonight: Say "yes!"

Notebook HOCKEY

DALLAS (AP) — Jeremy Roenick is pleased with the Phoenix Coyotes' quick start. He still wants to reserve judgment on their long-term outlook.

The Coyotes continued their best start in the 20-year history of the franchise as backup goalie Jimmy Waite made 38 saves Wednesday night in a 2-0 victory over Dallas, the Stars' first home loss of the season.

"We still feel we have a lot to prove," Roenick said. "This is only 11 games. We'll see after 82 games. Around February if we're way above .500, then we can say we have a shot."

Roenick was echoing the party line of coach Jim Schoenfeld, who said it takes more than 11 games to make a champion.

"To do it on a consistent basis month after month is the key," Schoenfeld said. "We're thrilled about the start, but it's more important to finish strong."

SOCCER

PAMPA — The Pampa Soccer Association will hold its fall awards ceremony from 7-8 tonight at M.K. Brown Auditorium. All players, coaches and parents are invited to attend the ceremony. Players should wear their uniforms. Trophies and other awards will be presented on stage.

FOOTBALL

PAMPA — There will be a community pep rally for the Pampa football team at 8 tonight in McNeely Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters meet Frenship at 7:30 Friday night in a bi-district game in Frenship.

BASEBALL

HOUSTON (AP) — With a handful of offers already in his pocket, free agent pitcher Randy Johnson's latest proposal is from the San Diego Padres, the team that beat him in the National League playoffs.

"San Diego is the latest on the list," agent Alan Nero said Wednesday. "Right now, we are going through a process of gathering information for Randy and Lisa (Johnson's wife), so they can make the best decision for them."

Nero expects the process to continue through the end of the month.

The Padres beat Johnson twice in their NL first-round series victory over the Astros. San Diego eventually lost to the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Padres ace Kevin Brown also is a free agent. The team is thought to have offered him a four-year contract averaging about $11 million per season, but like Johnson, Brown is shopping around.

The Houston Astros, Texas Rangers, Anaheim Angels and now the Padres, have offered contracts to Johnson and Nero expects others from the Arizona Diamondbacks, New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Nero and agent Barry Meister are shopping Johnson, who compiled a 10-1 record and 1.28 ERA for the Astros after an 11th hour July 31 trade from the Seattle Mariners. Johnson led the major leagues with 329 strikeouts.

Padres general manager Kevin Towers was not immediately available for comment. "We're going to L.A. on the (Oct.) 20th and when we return, we will spend the next week reviewing the offers and narrowing them down," Nero said. "We have not made any proposals. We have just been accepting offers. Later, Barry and I will sit down and come up with counterproposals."

Nero said Johnson has two three-year offers, a three-year deal with a fourth year option and a four-year offer.

Harvesters face strong Tiger attack

PAMPA — Pampa has District 3-4A's No. 1 defense. Frenship has District 4-4A's No. 1 offense. Something will have to give when these two teams meet at 7:30 Friday night in Frenship in bi-district play.

Pampa's defense has been nothing short of superb this season, allowing the opposition only 131.1 yards per game. Only 51.8 of those yards have come on the ground.

Pampa's relentless pursuit defense is led by middle linebacker Jared White, who finished as the district's leading tackler with 143 tackles. Linebacker Kris Davis follows with 88 tackles and free safety Joel Barker has 74. Up front, end Brandon Hill and tackle Tyson Curtis have 60 and 58 stops, respectively.

Frenship's offense, which is averaging 317.7 yards, is sparked by tailback Jonathan Shelby and quarterback Trace Vineyard. Shelby has rushed for 1,131 yards and 11 touchdowns, marking the second year in a row the 172-pound senior has went over 1,000 yards rushing.

Fullback Dustin Peters has rushed for 664 yards and has caught 14 passes for 110 yards.

Vineyard has thrown for 1,023 yards and 10 touchdowns. Split end Tommy Potts has caught 14 passes for 210 yards and flanker Ryan Kirby has snared 10 passes for 266 yards. Shelby has pulled down 6 passes for 160 yards and a touchdown coming out of the backfield.

"Big and strong is how I would describe Frenship," said Pampa coach Dennis Cavalier. "They've always been able to mix up the run and the play-action pass very well."

Pampa's offense, which is averaging 235.5 yards per game, is led by tailback Curtis Johnson, who has rushed for 776 yards and 4 touchdowns.

Sophomore fullback Thomas Long gave the Harvesters quite a boost in the 14-12 win over Berger last Friday night. Making his first varsity start, Thomas rushed for 169 yards and scored both Pampa touchdowns.

Quarterback Justin Roark has thrown for 352 yards and 3 touchdowns with two of those scoring passes going to Barker. Roark has been effective as a runner, rushing for 326 yards and 3 touchdowns.

Frenship's defense is led by safety Steven Todd and end Robert Caballero, who have 74 and 70 tackles, respectively. Caballero also had 10 sacks. The Tigers have given up 254.9 yards per game.

Fatheree heads for state, again

Pampa senior Jenny Fatheree (right) is getting ready for her fourth consecutive trip to the state cross country meet this weekend in Round Rock. Fatheree finished fifth at regional to qualify for the state meet. She helped lead the Lady Harvesters to their first state title in 1996. It was also the first time a Pampa boys or girls team had ever advanced to the state meet as a team.

The Lady Harvesters came in third a year ago after a fall on the course almost cost them a chance to place.

Fatheree also qualified as an individual her freshman year and finished 10th. She owns the school record in the girls' division.

Fatheree is the daughter of Tim and Sue Fatheree.

PHS cagers have impressive scrimmage

CANYON — The Pampa boys' basketball team had an impressive opening scrimmage Tuesday at the West Texas A&M Fieldhouse.

Going against Plainview and Dimmitt, the Harvesters won 7 of the 12 quarters they played and tied 1.

"We had a good scrimmage," said Pampa coach Robert Hale. "We played well and everybody got to play. I realize it was just a scrimmage, but the kids played hard and they had fun playing."

Returnees like Jeremy Silva, Zane Powers, Jesse Francis, Russell Robben and Shawn Young are showing what another year of experience can do.

"Jeremy Silva was considered a small forward last year, but he's playing much bigger now," said Zane Powers. "I don't know if he's any taller, but he's stronger and quicker. The same can be said for Shawn Young, Russell Robben and Jesse Francis," Hale said. "Overall, we'll be a little taller, but it might not show up on the court because we'll be playing with three guards a lot of the time."

Pampa's second and final scrimmage will be Saturday at Lubbock High against Abilene Cooper and Lubbock High. Starting time is 12 noon.

"We've got several on the varsity who were on our junior varsity last year," Hale said. "They should all be ready to play and really help us. Everyone's excited about the season getting started."

Pampa opens the season on the road Nov. 17 against Canyon.

"We're facing another tough schedule, but that's nothing new to us," Hale said. "It's like being small. We're so used to it by now that it doesn't faze us."

Dierker is NL's top manager

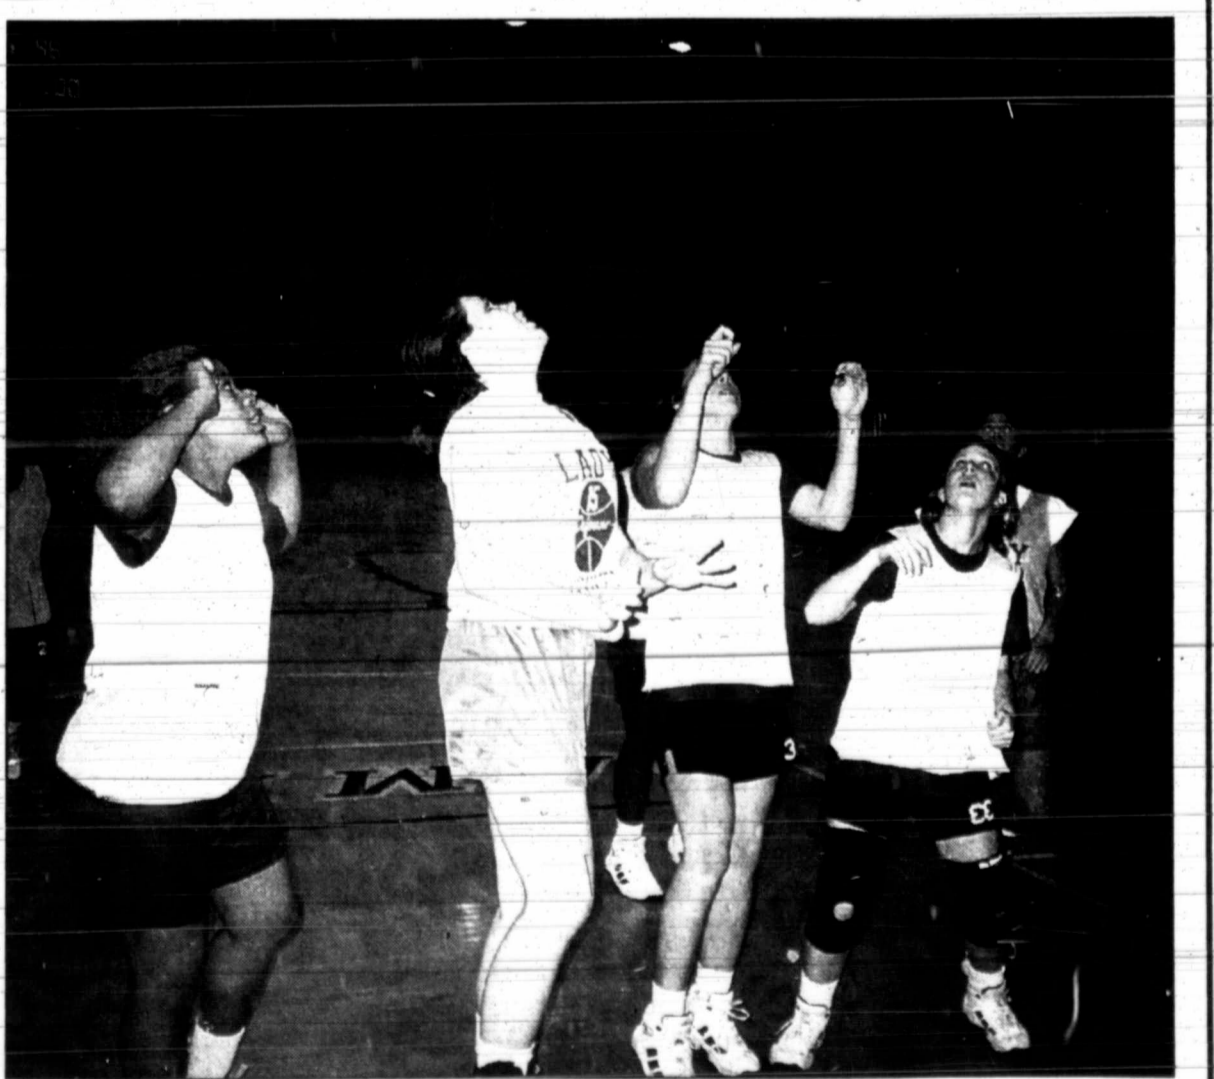

HOUSTON (AP) — Larry Dierker thought he had the kind of team that wins awards for its manager. The Houston Astros were good, but not good enough to raise expectations too high.

Dierker, who led the Astros to the NL Central championship for the second straight year with a club-record 102 victories, won the NL Manager of the Year award Wednesday.

"I thought we had a good club, maybe better than some realized," Dierker said. "I considered it (the manager award) might be possible because the guy that gets it is the one that outperforms expectations."

"I think of Bobby Cox and Davey Johnson with their tremendous winning percentages and they don't get manager of the year votes. I realized that having a good club can work against you."

Basketball scrimmage

Pampa's Lisa Dwight (second from left) is in position for a rebound in a girls' basketball scrimmage Tuesday night at McNeely Fieldhouse. The scrimmage was against Clarendon and Childress. The Lady Harvesters open the season Nov. 17 against Canyon.

The fighting Pirates have completed another season of triumph and heartbreak. Although the win-loss column will show 3-7, the season was a success. The Pirates had many inexperienced players, most of which had not even stepped a foot on a high school football field until this year. They took some hard knocks, but they endured. Let's recap the last couple of games.

The Pirates played Groom on the 30th of October. Yes, indeed, that was the night of the ravaging storms that plagued the panhandle. The night started out on the wrong foot, yet somehow it turned out to be the right foot for the Pirates. For starters, it was cold, and then it rained, and rained, and rained a little more. The harder it rained, the more the Pirates got their adrenaline pumping. They held the Groom Tigers to only two first quarter touchdowns, which is amazing. The Pirates also stopped the Tigers on their opening drive, which had not been accomplished until then. The second quarter was much of the same, the Pirates stuttered on offense, but their defense was exceptional, especially against the number 6th ranked team in the state. At the half it was 36 to nothing in favor of the Tigers. Not as bad as it sounds, for many predicted it would end at half time. The Pirates refused to give up. Groom scored on the opening drive of the second half, but the Pirates still hung in there. They were not going to go home early. Mother Nature disagreed with them. The game was called in the third due to tornadic activity in Carson County.

The end score was 42-0, but the Pirates held their heads high, they proved they were not a bunch of pushovers.

On the 6th of November the Pirates met the Cougars of Ft. Elliot. The Pirates had revenge on their mind. The cougars had been beaten at Ft. Elliot by the 45-point rule. Not to happen again. The predictions where bad. Lefors-28, Ft. Elliot-75, this just set a fire under the Pirates. The Pirates were up for this game; nothing could get in their way. They were ready. The coaches were ready. Now it's time to play. The Pirates started the game on defense; the cougars couldn't even see the first down markers. A fumble when the Pirates were on offense gave the Cougars a 6-0 lead. The Pirates decided then that they had to get rough with them. It was back and forth; one team scored a touchdown then the other. The trading of touchdowns continued until halftime. The Pirates trailed

The Lefors Lady Pirates are ready for another year of battling on the hardwood. With only two seniors on the team, they must rely on their outside shooting, and ball handling.

Playing this year are seniors Penny Summers and Heather Howard. Juniors Melody Seely, and Candid Ray; and sophomore Amber Ehmann will join the two seniors to finish off the starting five.

Coming in off the bench to add a 1-2 punch, will be freshmen Amanda Woodard, and classmate Tiffany Lucas. Sophomore Amanda Sprouse will also add to the teams chemistry. The Fighting Lady Pirates don't anticipate too much difficulty from their district, with the exception of Groom, Hedley, and McLean.

This is Jennifer Moore's first season coaching the team, but so far the majority of players have responded well to her presence.

Even though this year's team "is still building, with a lot of younger, more inexperienced girls, they have shown a lot of determination, and are focused on the season" this is according to the coach.

The 1998-99 Lady Pirates are ready to unleash the BLACK ATTACK!

The Pirates expectations this year are high. They want to be district champs! With not completing last season and having a fairly young team they will need to concentrate and do what they can to better themselves to reach this goal.

Coach Richard Moore feels that they will reach this expectation with running the 2-3 match-up zone and man to man on defense.

He knows the feeling of exasperation because of last year's shortage of players. This year he hopes to turn out 10 players. Out of these 10 players he senses that the two to watch out for will be Michael Steele and Kody Franks.

With teams that have older and more experienced players, the Pirates know that they will have some challenging teams including; Miami, Hedley, Groom, and Mclean. This just means that the Pirates will have to work a little bit harder to stay out on top.

Whatever the outcome this season, the Pirates will always be the number one team here in Lefors.

STUDY HISTORY?

"Why do we have to study history?" has to be one of the most commonly asked questions in nearly twenty years of teaching. Since I always loved history, it was not a question I'd spent much time contemplating. History to me was my grandpa's stories of growing up on a tobacco farm at the turn of the century and parents' stories of the Dust Bowl in the 1930s. Unfortunately, either most students didn't have a family who made history live through their stories, or students considered the storytellers too old to have any worth while contributions. Several answers have become standard as I try to give students a reason to study history with the hope that someday it can live for them as it lives for me.

Some junior high/high school students find the "it will help you understand the movies and television shows set in the past" an acceptable answer. Consider the Disney movie Pocahontas. When the eighth grade was studying Jamestown, many were amazed to learn that Pocahontas and John Smith did not fall in love and marry. What about the recent movies about JFK and Richard Nixon, do we accept the director's view with no questions? Do you know enough about Kennedy's assassination and Watergate to draw your own conclusions, or is Hollywood going to decide how you interpret history?

Another response ties in with government. Are there precedents in history for the events of today? With all the talk of impeachment today, what does history say about that area dissolve into a mass of turmoil. Then he explained to us what could cause potential problems there. I'd say he knew what he was talking about. So often Americans have considered problems in the world "their problems" having no effect on us. As our world shrinks, we will be forced to understand how those problems originated and what we can do to fix them.

Even after these arguments, some students still can't see a need for history. They consider boring, people today unconnected with the past, and the world's problems someone else's. For them I save my "the state of Texas requires it for high school graduation, so you must take it and pass" answer.

idleness a place for evil to take root and encouraged industriousness. Can you truly understand the America of today with out looking at her past?

Before we send troops into Bosnia and other countries, risking both life and money, shouldn't Americans understand where these problems started and what it will take to achieve a solution? A history professor said if communism ever fell in Yugoslavia we would see that area dissolve into a mass of turmoil. Then he explained to us what could cause potential problems there. I'd say he knew what he was talking about. So often Americans have considered problems in the world "their problems" having no effect on us. As our world shrinks, we will be forced to understand how those problems originated and what we can do to fix them.

Even after these arguments, some students still can't see a need for history. They consider boring, people today unconnected with the past, and the world's problems someone else's. For them I save my "the state of Texas requires it for high school graduation, so you must take it and pass" answer.

football is all about. Some say winning is everything, they are wrong. Sports are a way to push each other to excel. The Pirates of 1998 had more heart and determination than many teams of the past years. The coaches, Mr. Ronny Miller and Mr. Richard Moore instilled in the Pirates that improvement and teamwork will take you much farther than the gridiron. These things added to self discipline will equal success in years to come. It was a great ride, and next year should be even better.

Long Live the Mighty Pirates!

Congratulations to Sarah Schwab who was selected to be a member of Jr. High All Region Choir. Sarah was 13th out of 56 girls with only the top 25 being selected. She will perform with the Jr. High All Region Choir on Saturday, November 21 at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Many times during the season the Pirates seemed down and out, but they keep on coming. This show of Pride and determination is what
