Professor captured on fugitive charges

A Colorado college professor and his fiancée were in Gray County jail today while her son was free on bonds totaling $1,500.

Jody Robert Overland, 39, of Highland Ranch, Colo., was in Gray County jail today after being arrested Friday on a fugitive warrant out of Denver County, Colorado. Overland was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia.

Overland's fiancée, Denise Gail Scruggs, 37, who gave Gray County officers a rural Mobeetie address, was in Gray County jail on a Tarrant County warrant charging her with prostitution.

Casey Douglas Brittain, 18, who gave officers an Amarillo address and was described as Scruggs son, was free on bond after being charged with possession of marijuana under two ounces and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Gray County Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge set bond for Overland on the fugitive warrant at $200,000. She set bond for Scruggs at $1,000.

Judge Prestidge set bond for the marijuana charge against Brittain at $1,000 and for the paraphernalia charge at $500.

The fugitive warrant out of Colorado, officers said, relates to a charge of aggravated theft of a motor vehicle over $15,000.

Authorities said Gray County Deputy Dallas Hardin was called to a Pampa motel Friday afternoon after the motel manager complained that guests in one of the rooms had not checked out and refused to answer the door. Check out time was 11 a.m. Deputy Hardin was called to the motel about 2:30 p.m.

Hardin said Overland and Brittain were loading a 1989 Hyundai when he arrived. The deputy ran a computer check of the two men and found there was a fugitive warrant out for Overland. Further investigation led to Brittain's arrest on the drug charges.

The motel manager told authorities that there was a woman involved, too. As Hardin questioned the motel manager concerning the woman, the manager pointed out a gray Honda driving by the motel, saying the Rick Villarreal, 30, 112 N. Faulkner, was taken to Columbia Medical Center after a pickup he was a passenger in lost control in the 800 block of Kentucky. The pickup struck the curb and then the top of a fire hydrant, finally hitting another part of the curb flipping around and over. The driver, Marlon Bryan Larue, left the scene of the accident on foot and is being sought on a felony charge of failure to stop and render aid.

Clinton decides to hold fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. military forces already were in motion when the Iraq government signaled it would accept renewed weapons inspections, posing a dilemma for Clinton administration officials.

If they let the warplanes destroy their targets, critics surely would ask how they could strike even as Baghdad acquiesced, if they held their fire, they would face doubts about their resolve.

In the end, President Clinton decided to stand down. But he made clear Sunday that the United States would strike militarily if Iraq did not live up to its renewed commitment to give U.N. inspectors unfettered access to suspected weapons sites.

The first test could come Tuesday, when the inspectors are scheduled to return to Iraq.

If Iraq President Saddam Hussein is not serious, "there's plenty of time to go forward militarily," said a senior administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity. "The balance of risk here was in the favor of waiting and testing."

After consultations with U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan, Clinton declared Sunday, "Iraq has backed down, but that is not enough. Now Iraq must live up to its obligations."

With national security adviser Sandy Berger, Defense Secretary William Cohen and Gen. Hugh Shelton, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, at his side, Clinton told a hastily called news conference that Annan shares his understanding of Iraq's obligations.

Iraq must allow inspectors "unfettered access" to view any site they wish, it must turn over all relevant documents on chemical and biological weapons production, and it must not interfere with the inspectors themselves.

Annan welcomed Clinton's "statesmanlike response" in accepting the latest Iraq assurances for now.

Iraq declared itself the victor in the crisis.

Vice President Taha Yassin Ramadan told state-run television that Iraq had been able "to prove to the whole world that our views are correct" and that the Americans were misguided.

Many analysts expect Saddam to turn detainee again within months, as he has done several times since the 1991 Persian Gulf War.

Eliot Cohen, a professor of strategic studies at Johns Hopkins University, who directed a Pentagon study of the Gulf air war, questioned whether Arab nations would stick out their necks again to stand with the United States against an unpredictable Iraq.

"Our Gulf allies must be just shaking their heads at the Clinton administration," Cohen said. "If you're Saudi Arabia or Qatar or Bahrain, you think the Americans flinched. You wouldn't say Saddam flinched. He's had another confrontation with the United States where he gets to go back to the status quo ante without having paid for it."

Clinton acknowledged that deep skepticism surrounds Saddam's promises, but he argued that holding back from a military strike is the best long-term strategy.

"If we take military action, we can significantly degrade Saddam Hussein's ability to develop weapons of mass destruction and to deliver them," the president said. "But that would also mark the end of UNSCOM," the U.N. special commission on Iraq.

Clinton called for a new government in Baghdad "that is committed to represent and respect its people, not repress them, that is committed to peace in the region." He said the United States would intensify its efforts to work "with the forces of change in Iraq."

The reaction from Baghdad was swift.

Deputy Prime Minister Tariq Aziz criticized Clinton's pledge that the United States is committed to replacing Saddam's regime in Iraq.

"I have to condemn strongly the statement of Mr. Clinton, the plans of his government to overthrow the government of Iraq," Aziz said in an interview on CNN. "This is a flagrant violation of the U.N. Security Council resolutions as well as international law."

Clinton had given Shelton the go-ahead to begin the operation on Friday morning, according to the administration.

Stealth fighters ready to respond: Aircraft seen in Panhandle skies

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

ALAMO, TEXAS (UPI)—A dozen Stealth fighters were positioned at advanced bases today ready to respond if Saddam Hussein fails to live up to his promises in a letter sent to the United Nations late Saturday.

Five F-117A stealth fighters rolled out of their individual hangars here at Holloman Air Force Base, turned right to taxi through the canyon of hangars toward Runway 34 and took off precisely at 9 p.m. (MT) Saturday headed for bases from which they could strike Iraq if needed. Thirty minutes later, a second cell of the Stealth fighters took to the air.

The two groups of fighters from the three Stealth squadrons here were the first of a dozen ordered to the Middle East in the latest confrontation with Iraq. Brig. Gen. William Lake, commanding officer of the 49th Fighter Wing, said he was ordered to send 12 of the sophisticated aircraft to Southwest Asia. The flights Saturday night included eight combat aircraft and two spares. Four more of the F-117As were expected to leave Sunday night along with additional spare aircraft to join the vanguard unit.

By 11 p.m. Saturday (CT), the aircraft were over the Texas Panhandle, refueling en route to their unannounced destination.

"They will refuel numerous times," Col. Kevin Smith said above the roar of the jet engines as the fighters rolled past at 200 miles an hour and disappeared into the black New Mexico sky.

Earlier Saturday, Air Force transports were launched from Holloman carrying 250 support personnel and equipment.

Five B-1 bombers from the 7th Bomb Wing left Dyess Air Force Base for the Persian Gulf region about 11:20 a.m. Saturday.

CLINTON

tion official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. But shortly before missiles were to be launched, news reports from Baghdad on Saturday morning indicated that the Iraqi government was prepared to back down. Clinton put the mission on hold, and attack plans began forming for a later hour. U.S. and British officials rejected Iraq's first statement over protestations by U.N. officials who were prepared to accept it. Iraq then produced two additional letters clearly stating its "unconditional decision" to resume cooperation. Clinton conferred again with members of his team, and with British Prime Minister Tony Blair and French President Jacques Chirac by telephone Saturday night.

At 3 a.m. Sunday, national security adviser Berger asked Gen. Shelton to scrap the attack plans.

"It was close. Very close," Defense Secretary Cohen said. He said the U.S. military will "maintain a steady force" in the region "that is more than adequate to deal with Saddam Hussein."

Cohen, Shelton and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright had urged Clinton to go ahead with the airstrikes Saturday despite the early word the Iraqis were prepared to back down, but Berger's recommendation that the attack be called off prevailed. The Washington Post reported today in a story quoting unidentified administration sources.

Connally disagrees with Warren Commission

DALLAS (AP) — Nellie Connally, the last surviving passenger of the car in which President Kennedy was assassinated, is reasserting her belief that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone gunman. The Warren Commission was wrong about one bullet striking both JFK and her husband, former Gov. John Connally.

"I will fight anybody that argues with me about those three shots," Mrs. Connally told Newsweek magazine in its Nov. 23 issue. "I do know what happened in that car. Fight me if you want to."

The Warren Commission concluded in 1964 that one bullet passed through Kennedy's body and wounded Connally, and that a second bullet struck Kennedy's head, killing him. It concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone gunman.

The Connallys maintained that two bullets struck the president in Dealey Plaza 35 years ago and a third hit the governor. Connally died in 1993 at age 75.

The Warren Commission concluded there also was a bullet that missed the car entirely. Some conspiracy theorists argue that if three bullets struck the men, as the Connallys insisted, and a fourth missed, then there must have been a second gunman because no one person could have fired four rounds from Oswald's bolt-action rifle so quickly.

Mrs. Connally says in Newsweek that personal notes she wrote a few weeks after the assassination reaffirm her belief of the number of shots.

She said the notes were meant to be a chapter of family history for her three children and grandchildren. After coming across them a few years ago, she began reading excerpts to small groups in Houston and Dallas.

Mrs. Connally wrote that after hearing the first shot, Connally turned to his right to look back at Kennedy "and then wheeled to the left to get another look at the President. He could not, so he realized the President had been shot."

Then, she wrote, Connally "was hit himself by the second shot and said, 'My God, they are going to kill us all!'"

According to her notes, that was followed by the third shot that passed through Kennedy's head.

She wrote: "With John in my arms and still trying to stay down ... I felt something falling all over me ... My eyes saw bloody matter in tiny bits all over the car. Mrs. Kennedy was saying, 'Jack! Jack! They have killed my husband! I have his brains in my hand!'"

Accidents

The Pampa Police Department reported the following accidents during the 48-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Friday, November 13
Charles Eric Wood, 17, 1140 Prairie, was cited for following too close when the 1991 Chevrolet Van he was driving rear-ended the 1996 GMC pickup driven by Keith Georg, Schollenbarger, 58, Booker, who was stopping at a light at Kentucky and Hobart. No injuries were reported.

Sunday, November 15
Felony charges of failure to stop and render aid have been filed on Marlon Bryan Larue, 30, 1217 E. Kingsmill, who lost control of a 1974 Chevrolet pickup in the 800 block of E. Kentucky. The vehicle struck the curb and a fire hydrant and rolled. Larue left the scene but a passenger, Rick Villarreal, 30 112 N. Faulkner, was taken to Columbia Medical Center where is listed in stable condition.

William Don Wainscott, 19, 409 Dwight, was charged with backing without safety when he backed a 1985 Ford pickup out of his driveway and struck a parked 1987 Crown Victoria owned by Fernando Martinez. No injuries were reported.

Corrections

In a photograph of St. Matthew's students during All-Saints Day celebrations last week, student Miranda Patterson's name was inadvertently left out of the caption. In addition, Rance Schindler's name was spelled incorrectly. We regret any inconvenience this might of caused.

Also, we regret that John Triplehorn was incorrectly identified on page 20 of yesterday's paper in the Letters to the Editor. The letter entitled, "Youth of today have a lot to offer—don't sell them short" was written by John, not Jim Triplehorn.

Amarillo Symphony to hold 'Symphony Backstage' for area music lovers

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Symphony will present the second of three 1998-99 season Symphony Backstage programs at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19 in the Civic Center Auditorium. Symphony Backstage is a chance to meet Music Director-Maestro James Setapen and the musicians of the Amarillo Symphony in an informal and informative setting. Symphony Backstage is free and open to all music lovers who would like to learn more about the Amarillo Symphony. No reservations are required.

Symphony Backstage is held on the Thursday evening the week of a symphony performance. On Nov. 19, Symphony Backstage begins at 6:30 p.m. with a talk given by Music Director and Conductor James Setapen. Setapen said, "I will speak about Symphony concerts, how to listen to the music, and how a program is put together. We will answer questions you've always wanted to know about classical music, but were afraid to ask! In addition, members of the orchestra will demonstrate their instruments and then you are invited to attend an open Symphony rehearsal."

The open rehearsal begins at 7:30 p.m. The Amarillo Symphony will rehearse the music for their concert on Saturday, Nov. 21, Mendelssohn's "Elijah." The guest artists are soprano Lucy Creech, mezzo-soprano Linda Munguia, tenor Karl Dent and bass-baritone Terry Cook.

The featured Amarillo Symphony musician at Symphony Backstage will be Principal Bassist Robert Zimmerman. He will demonstrate the double bass and speak about its role in the orchestra.

The last Symphony Backstage program of the season will be held Feb. 18, 1999.

'Breakfast with Santa' in offing

AMARILLO — The Don Harrington Discovery Center will host "Breakfast with Santa" from 8-11 a.m. Dec. 5 at the Don Harrington Discovery Center, 1200 Streit Drive in Amarillo. Children and parents are invited to eat breakfast with Santa, participate in craft activities, enjoy Christmas carolers and have a photograph made with Santa.

Admission prices for children are $5 for members and $7 for nonmembers. Admission is $4 for adults having breakfast. Those adults who are just escorting a child and who are not eating breakfast are free. Photographs are $3 each. Tickets are available at the Discovery Center gift shop. Gift shop hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 1-5 p.m. on Sunday. The Discovery Center is closed on Monday. Tickets are also being sold at the Discovery Center Mail store. The store is located between JC Penney and James Avery.

Breakfast with Santa is made possible by the generous contributions of J&M Catering and Restaurant, Nestle, KFDA, KGNC, Lowe's, Western Builders, AmeriPride, Autoplex, Baxter Lane Co., Coca-Cola, Costume Castle, Miller National Printing and Communications, Street Toyota and Zip Print.

The seasonal planetarium show "Tis the Season" will be showing on weekends beginning Nov. 28 and running through Jan. 3. It explores the holidays of the seasons of many different cultures and shows the origins of many of our traditions. Admission is $3 per person.

For more information, call (806) 355-9548 ext. 13.

ACS sponsoring cancer program

AMARILLO — The American Cancer Society is sponsoring "Look Good ... Feel Better" program from 7-9 p.m. Nov. 23 at the American Cancer Society Office located at 3915 Bell Street. The program was devised to help cancer patients cope with unpleasant side effects of cancer treatment.

With the help of cosmetology professionals, participants will learn quick and easy makeup techniques to make them look and feel more like themselves as well as how to compensate for hair loss including how to use scarves and turbans to best advantage.

For more information or to register, call ACS at (806) 353-4306.

Wheeler Chamber to host open house

WHEELER — Wheeler Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the annual Wheeler Open House from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 29 and from 4-8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 30. Santa will be on hand during these times to talk with children and have his picture taken with the youngsters. He will also have gifts for each child.

Participating downtown merchants will be open these special hours for pre-Christmas shopping and booths with crafts and information from local businesses will be open.

Parent Case Management to sponsor child seminar

AMARILLO — "Understanding Your Child's ARD Meeting: How and Why," a seminar for parents of children in special education will be presented from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday Nov. 17 in Room B, Amarillo Public Library, 813 East 4th Street. Marilou Wright, area director of the PATH Project will be the speaker. There will be no charge for the program. The meeting is co-sponsored by Parent Case Management of Amarillo.

PATH is the statewide Parent Training and Information Program for parents of children with disabilities in Texas funded by the U.S. Department of Education. Training, information and referral, consultation and emotional support are provided without charge to parents of children with all types of disabilities.

Mrs. Wright, mother of a son with a disability, has been active as volunteer in disability-related organizations pertaining to children for many years. She was state president of the Learning Disabilities Association of Texas and editor of the state LDA publication, "The Texas Key." She has served on the Texas Education Agency's Continuing Special Education Advisory Committee, TEA's Learning Disabilities Criteria Task Force, and the Board of Directors of Advocacy, Inc. She is currently serving on the Texas Rehabilitation Commission's State Advisory Committee. Mrs. Wright has been with the PATH Project for nine years, two as a volunteer and seven as area director. She has recently been assigned responsibility for serving 69 counties in north and central Texas and the panhandle.

For information call Parent Case Management (806) 345-4573. Mrs. Wright may be reached at (940) 767-3996 in Wichita Falls.

Monica Lewinsky inks book, TV deals

NEW YORK (AP) — Monica Lewinsky has signed a seven-figure deal for the North American rights to a tell-all book and agreed to terms for her first television interview, the New York Post reported today.

St. Martin's Press inked the pact for the former White House intern's tale about her affair with President Clinton last Friday, the Post reported. It will be co-authored by Princess Diana biographer Andrew Morton.

The book is scheduled to be published in February, the Post said, citing a source familiar with the negotiations. Exact terms were not reported.

Ms. Lewinsky also agreed to be interviewed by Barbara Walters on ABC when the book is released, the source said. Ms. Lewinsky would be allowed to sell foreign rights to the broadcast.

An ABC spokeswoman would not confirm the interview, but the Post quoted a source as saying a deal was likely.

Ms. Lewinsky declined to comment Sunday. St. Martin's Press officials could not be reached for comment.

Last week, sources told The Associated Press that the price for any interview would be steep — at least $2 million.

An ABC appearance would be for free, since major U.S. networks don't pay for interviews, but British TV's Channel 4 said it is negotiating with Ms. Lewinsky.

Ms. Lewinsky's lawyers will have to get a release from independent counsel Kenneth Starr's office before she can talk to anyone in the media. A no-talk provision was in her immunity agreement.

TV offers have been rolling in, including ones from daytime television queen Oprah Winfrey and Roseanne Barr. Both foundered.

New AIDS treatment flushes virus from a few patients

DENVER (AP) — Federal researchers say they have managed to flush the AIDS virus out from one of its most stubborn hiding places and erase it to undetectable levels in a handful of patients.

Dr. Anthony Fauci and other researchers at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases cautioned that their method of rinsing the virus from resting immune cells is highly experimental and unconfirmed.

However, the technique appears to have removed HIV from the blood of three of the 26 patients in the study. In one of the three, there was no trace of the virus in the lymph nodes, either.

Fauci said it would take years of follow-up studies to determine if the treatment works. The process still could be derailed by toxic side effects, or the ability of the virus to develop a resistance to the therapy.

Still, researchers said, it is a promising step in the battle against AIDS.

Now that powerful drug combinations work effectively in many patients to reduce the virus to extremely low levels, the next — and perhaps — final step is to find ways in which the remaining copies of the virus can be flushed from its deepest haunts so antiviral drugs can erase those traces, too.

Data on the patients was discussed Sunday in Denver at the annual meeting of the Infectious Diseases Society of America.

"It's conceivable that we'll take these people off their drugs and the disease will come roaring back from a reservoir we didn't find," Fauci said in today's USA Today.

Another hurdle is whether new cells can be infected by the virus as it is flushed out — in effect, whether the aggressive treatment might inadvertently continue the disease cycle.

"We would like to get to the point of sterilizing immunity," said Dr. Roger Pomerantz of Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia, who did not work on the study. "But different patients may react differently. "In some, you might eradicate the virus and in others, the virus may be activated and infect new cells," Pomerantz said. "You might not be able to withdraw therapy."

Fauci and his team originally announced their experimental treatment last February.

The treatment targets CD4T cells, which function as the immune system's memory and are found throughout the body. They appear to hang onto the blueprint of bacteria and viruses for as long as 10 years so the body will recognize the infection and mount a defense if it appears again.

In the case of AIDS, the genetic coding of the virus takes up long-term residence in the genes of the CD4T cells. This protects the virus from drugs when it circulates in the bloodstream.

When the body's immune system is activated to fight an infection — or when drug therapy slips — these cells turn on and produce HIV again.

given a combination of three anti-HIV drugs in an AIDS "cocktail treatment." Fourteen also were given the powerful immune system stimulator Interleukin-2.

IL-2 is the synthetic version of a substance naturally produced by the immune system. It alerts several types of disease-fighting cells to begin reproducing and fighting an invading infection.

Researchers believed that the IL-2 would activate dormant, infected CD4T cells. This would expose these reservoirs and the drug cocktail would eradicate it.

After the treatment, researchers said they could not grow live HIV from more than 300 million immune cells extracted from three men in the study.

Later this year, the researchers said they would take the three men off of the drug cocktail therapy to see if their viral loads increase again.

The other 23 men in the study remained HIV-positive, researchers said. Fauci said repeated treatments with IL-2 might be necessary.

In the study, 26 men were

New York gala deja vu for John Glenn

By DIEGO IBARGUEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — John Glenn has made New York City's short list.

The 77-year-old astronaut — who was treated to a ticker-tape parade after becoming the first American in orbit 36 years ago — was to be joined by his six crewmates from the shuttle Discovery for another celebration today.

Slated to chauffeur the world's oldest astronaut was police Officer Thomas Halinan, the son of former Officer Kevin Halinan, who drove Glenn in the 1962 parade.

The other shuttle crew members are Cmdr. Curtis Brown, Steven Lindsey, Scott Parazynski, Stephen Robinson, Pedro Duque and Chiaki Mukai. All were to be presented with keys to the city.

It's the second parade in less than a week for the crew. Last Wednesday, thousands lined the streets of Houston to honor Glenn & Co.

Besides baseball's hometown Yankees and Mets, the few others given more than one ticker-tape parade in New York include former Ethiopian emperor Haile Selassie, Dwight Eisenhower and Amelia Earhart. Recent honorees include Nelson Mandela, Pope John Paul II and Gulf War veterans.

Ticker tape, the paper ribbon on which telegraphic tickers print information, is no longer used. Participants now throw shredded computer paper, confetti and toilet paper rolls.

Japan, U.S. to fight Asian crisis

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The United States and Japan announced proposals tonight to pump an additional $10 billion into troubled Asian economies to help lift the region out of its worst economic crisis in decades.

The package of new proposals would include $5 billion in new support offered by the United States, and the creation of a $5 billion joint initiative supported by the United States, Japan, the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank.

Details of the measures were announced in Kuala Lumpur by Vice President Al Gore, who was attending an economic summit in place of President Clinton, and by a Japanese official in Tokyo.

According to Gore, the new $5 billion in U.S. support includes $1 billion each in loans to Indonesia, Thailand and South Korea, the three countries hardest hit by the Asia crisis. The remaining $2 billion will provide loan guarantees through the Overseas Private Investment Corp., a U.S. agency, to support private business deals.

"We want to do all we can to encourage trade and investment here, so American businesses can be an active partner in your growth and recovery," Gore told a meeting of business leaders.

Gore repeated U.S. insistence that Asia will not be able to recover unless Japan does more to revive its own economy and deal with its troubled banking sector.

Because of legal restraints, the United States is not providing any direct financial support to the $5 billion joint initiative. The exact amounts that Japan, the World Bank and the Asian Bank will put up for this have yet to be determined.

The package of new proposals follows an offer last month by Japan to provide $30 billion in credit to ailing Asian economies.

Gore's speech also made a direct reference

"Clinton is threatening war on Iraq!" The other replied: "An excuse not to attend the APEC summit."

Like other top officials of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation group, Gore spent today in bilateral meetings with other leaders before the summit Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gore and China's leader, Jiang Zemin, discussed China's efforts to join the 124-member World Trade Organization, a Chinese official said. They also discussed Tibet and Taiwan.

Without providing any details, Zhu Bangzao, the Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman, said Gore and Jiang had not changed their positions on the subjects.

The two countries have disagreed on terms to allow China entry into the World Trade Organization, which sets global trade rules. The United States also has pressed Jiang to start a dialogue with the Dalai Lama, the spiritual leader of Tibet.

Jiang has said Chinese control has enhanced conditions in Tibet and, as long as the Dalai Lama was willing to acknowledge that Tibet and the island of Taiwan are both part of China, then "the door to dialogue and negotiation is open."

During lower-level APEC meetings over the weekend, protesters held two demonstrations demanding the resignation of the Malaysian prime minister.

Today, protesters threatened to demonstrate at the auditorium where Gore was to deliver Clinton's speech.

"Because of legal restraints, the United States is not providing any direct financial support to the $5 billion joint initiative."

to the troubles that have erupted in Malaysia since Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad fired and jailed his deputy prime minister, Anwar Ibrahim.

Gore said there were growing calls for democracy among many nations.

"We hear them today, — right here, right now — among the brave people of Asia," he said.

Clinton sent Gore to the conference so he could stay in Washington to handle the latest crisis with Iraq. A Malaysian newspaper took note of Clinton's dealings with Iraq, portraying him as Rambo in a cartoon.

At the bottom of the cartoon in the government-backed New Straits Times newspaper today, one small snake said to another,

Man among most vicious Texas murderers faces Tuesday execution

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Kenneth Allen McDuff's Internet plea is brief: "If there is anyone left out there, drop me a letter."

No one need reply after Tuesday, when prosecutors hope the man they consider one of Texas' most sadistic and vicious killers will be executed for the 1992 abduction, rape and slaying of a young woman.

In trouble since grade school and first imprisoned in 1965 for a string of burglaries, McDuff is thought to be responsible for as many as 14 murders, all in Texas.

And the 52-year-old former machine operator has the distinction of being the only inmate released from Texas death row to return there. His parole after his first stint on death row, and subsequent murder spree, prompted more stringent procedures for paroles of capital offenders.

Brenda Solomon planned to witness the execution of the man convicted of killing her daughter, 22-year-old Melissa Ann Northrup.

"I wouldn't miss it for the world," Ms. Solomon said. "I'm not getting my hopes up. We know he could get a stay. But we are wanting this."

McDuff's attorneys asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to block Tuesday's scheduled lethal injection, arguing a lower court erred in refusing their request for additional tests on hair samples taken from the crime scene.

McDuff lawyer Walter Reaves also was prepared to take the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, but wasn't optimistic.

"I think the chances of getting relief are fairly remote," he said.

McDuff, who says he passes his time making jewelry, refused to speak with reporters in recent months. In the past, he has denied involvement in the crimes and blamed the news media for his convictions. His Internet request for letters is one of several from death row inmates that are listed on a Web site by a nonprofit prisoners advocacy group.

McDuff first went to death row in 1968, for the shooting deaths two years earlier of two teen-age boys and the rape-strangulation of their 16-year-old female companion.

While awaiting execution, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the death penalty as unconstitutional and in 1972 McDuff's sentence was commuted to life.

He won parole about 17 years later. Exactly a year after his release, he returned to prison as a parole violator, then in seven weeks was out again, paroled when Texas inmates served just a fraction of their sentences because of prison overcrowding.

When at least a half dozen young women disappeared in the Temple-Waco area of central Texas, McDuff became a suspect.

He was arrested in Kansas City and convicted of abducting Ms. Northrup, a pregnant mother of two, from a Waco convenience store where they both once worked. Her body was found in a gravel pit. Her hands were tied behind her back and she had been strangled with a rope.

He also was sentenced to death in 1994 for killing 28-year-old accountant Colleen Reed, who'd been abducted in Austin. A companion who testified as part of a plea bargain described the sound of McDuff beating the woman as "like a tree limb breaking."

It wasn't until last month that an informant's tip led authorities to Ms. Reed's skeleton, buried along the Brazos River south of Waco. Unearthed nearby were the remains of two other women, also believed to be McDuff victims.

Yet until now, McDuff has managed to avoid execution, even winning reprieves several weeks ago. His execution for Northrup's killing was originally set for Oct. 21 but was delayed by a federal judge.

Latest elixir to thwart aging

By LISI de BOURBON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Adrienne Denese, a doctor on Manhattan's wealthy Upper East Side, has skin as flawless as porcelain and a body as tight as a drum. In fact, the forty-something blonde could easily pass for someone in her 20s.

Her secret? Regular doses of human growth hormone, she says, along with exercise and a good diet. She started taking the drug more than a year ago and now prescribes it for about 100 patients.

"I don't have to talk anybody into it," says Denese, a specialist in rehabilitative therapy, whose patients pay hundreds of dollars a week for the treatment.

For baby boomers with disposable income, human growth hormone, or hGH, is the latest weapon in a growing arsenal to combat aging. But while some doctors such as Denese promote it as the latest youth elixir, others warn that there's been too little research and the drug could be risky, high-priced snake oil.

The National Institute on Aging, an arm of the federal National Institutes of Health, said in a report on hormone therapy last year that too much hGH can result in diabetes, joint pain, high blood pressure, swelling and carpal tunnel syndrome. There was no proof that any supplement worked as an anti-aging remedy, it said.

The institute is running clinical trials of hGH, with results expected in January.

Until recently, hGH was taken mainly for developmental disorders such as dwarfism. Now an estimated 5,000 Americans have begun taking it to look and feel younger, says Dr. Ronald Klatz, president of the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine in Chicago.

Made naturally by the pituitary gland, human growth hormone helps regulate development and maintain tissues and organs. The body produces more of it during adolescence, and less with age.

The National Institute on Aging, an arm of the federal National Institutes of Health, said in a report on hormone therapy last year that too much hGH can result in diabetes, joint pain, high blood pressure, swelling and carpal tunnel syndrome. There was no proof that any supplement worked as an anti-aging remedy, it said.

"It's extremely seductive to conclude that ... restoring those levels to back to what you had when you were young would make you younger," says Dr. Huber Warner, acting associate director of the National Institute on Aging's biology of aging program in Bethesda, Md. "There's no evidence to logically support that conclusion."

Warner says he knows of only one small study that showed potential benefits of hGH. Conducted in 1990 by Dr. Daniel Rudman, the study of 12 men aged 61 to 81 who took hGH for six months saw an increase in muscle mass, a decrease in flab and tighter skin.

It also showed enlargement of the breasts in some of the men. Proponents say moderate doses of hGH are safe.

"All these horrible side effects are dose dependent. They don't exist in the anti-aging arena," Klatz says. His academy, whose motto is "aging is not inevitable," was founded by a dozen doctors in 1993 and now has more than 4,000 member physicians in 37 countries.

Among anti-aging therapies, Klatz says, human growth hormone has "the most visible effects of not just slowing but actually reversing the outward signs of aging. It will definitely have profound effects in our society."

It also is probably the least used anti-aging therapy because of its high cost and the difficulty of administering it, Klatz says. Patients must inject themselves almost daily with a half-inch needle.

That hardly stops hGH's fans. "My 10-year-old loves to give me the injections," says Jan Griscom, a 43-year-old trainer in Las Vegas who has taken the drug for about three months. She pays about $1,600 a month for hGH treatments at Cenegeics, an anti-aging clinic.

Griscom says her wrinkles have diminished, she can lift heavier weights, and she needs less sleep since she started taking hGH.

She reports no negative side effects. Neither does one of Denese's patients, a 41-year-old Manhattan jury consultant who declined to give her name. They view hGH as a sound investment in good health.

Denese predicts that human growth hormone, which is not approved as an anti-aging remedy by the federal Food and Drug Administration, would become cheaper and more accessible when its patent expires in 2002.

Health briefs

It's time to get a flu shot

HOUSTON — It's that time of year again. And that time when flu season rears its ugly head. It usually comes knocking around the first of November and stays until March.

"Every year influenza kills thousands of people, mostly the elderly, so it makes sense to get a flu shot," said Dr. Pedro Piedra of the Influenza Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Keep in mind it is virtually impossible to get sick from a flu shot because it is not made from a live virus."

People at risk of contracting the flu include:

- People who are 65 years of age or older.
- People with heart disease.
- People with diabetes, kidney failure, AIDS, cancer.

- People with chronic lung disease, including asthma and bronchitis.
- Children or teenagers on long term aspirin therapy.

The flu virus strains expected during the 1998-99 flu season are A/Beijing (H1N1), Sydney (H3N2) and B/Harbin. This year's vaccine will help provide protection against all of these strains.

Thanksgiving does not have to be an unhealthy holiday

HOUSTON — The traditional Thanksgiving feast doesn't have to be a full of fat, cholesterol, and added calories to taste good.

"There are plenty of ways to make the dinner healthy," said Dr. Rebecca Reeves with The DeBakey Heart Center at Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital in Houston. "Using margarine instead of butter, low-or-no-fat mayonnaise, gravy from meat drippings and a pie topping made out of low-fat ice milk instead of whipped cream will all cut down on the calories, fat, and cholesterol."

A meal of turkey, stuffing, candied yams, broccoli with cheese sauce, rolls and other goodies can total thousands of calories and hundreds of grams of fat. Meanwhile, a menu that consists of turkey, corn, pumpkin pie, and mashed potatoes without butter can result in a meal with as few as 1,100 calories and 33 grams of fat, well within the recommended guidelines.

Hormone-replacement therapy isn't just for women

HOUSTON — Men of all ages can experience a shortage of androgen hormones, such as testosterone, causing loss of sex drive, impotency, muscle weakness and fragile bones.

"Treatment options range from pills and shots to medicated patches and skin creams," said Dr. Glenn Cunningham, chief of endocrinology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston and associate chief of staff for research and development at Houston's Veterans Affairs Medical Center. "The benefits and skin risks depend on the patient's age."

During puberty androgen hormones promote the development of male secondary sexual characteristics such as facial hair, voice changes and muscle bulk. In adulthood, they help sustain sex drive and penile function and preserve muscle and bone mass. Hormone-replacement therapy can help strengthen libido and prevent osteoporosis in men over age 18.

Up until age 50, risks of therapy include sleep problems and lowering of good cholesterol. Over 50, there is an increased risk of prostate enlargement, worsening of prostate cancer, and stroke.

Inventory of household allergy triggers can ease suffering

HOUSTON — Allergy sufferers can help control allergy triggers by conducting a household inventory.

"Your home should be a safe place, but for allergy or asthma sufferers, it can be a source for triggers that set off a reaction," said Dr. Robert Moore, a pediatric pulmonologist at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

Some common household allergy triggers include:

- Overstuffed furniture, shelves and other dusty surfaces
- Excessive humidity, which spurs dust mite growth
- Rugs
- Pet dander
- Tobacco smoke
- Poor household ventilation

There is no such thing as an allergy-free house, but by taking a few steps to get rid of triggers can make life a more more comfortable.

Managed care creates barriers for people with disabilities

HOUSTON — A new study indicated managed care has made access to medical care more challenging for people with disabilities.

Research with the Center for Research on Women with Disabilities at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston found people enrolled in managed care organizations encountered several obstacles that were not issues in traditional fee-for-service health plans.

"People with disabilities in our study were concerned that their physicians did not always know how to treat their disabilities," said study coordinator Ellen Grabis, a Baylor postdoctorate fellow. "They were also concerned about the brief office visits, and not getting approval for the most effective medications or the expert specialist they needed."

Some participants were also concerned about delays in receiving approval for services from managed-care companies. Managed care is a system, usually available through an employer, in which consumers pay a set fee to a health plan a receive a network of providers in the plan.

A study finds new psoriasis treatment that works

HOUSTON — A custom-designed medication improved or cleared psoriasis in two-thirds of patients enrolled in a study at Baylor College of Medicine and the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Houston.

"The new topical cream, called Tazorac, is designed to interact with specific parts of the cells found in psoriasis and turn them off," said Dr. Ted Rosen, director of the and a dermatologist at Baylor and the V.A.

Psoriasis, a hereditary skin disease with no cure, is characterized by red, scaly and flaky patches of thickened skin usually found on the elbows, knees and scalp.

The treatment is applied daily until the psoriasis improves or clears and can be stopped until the psoriasis reappears. "For patients who respond well to the treatment, the result is normal-looking skin with perhaps a slight pink discoloration," Rosen said.

Researchers say gene inserted into cold virus combats ovarian cancer

DALLAS — Researchers at UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas are using the p53 gene, inserted into an inactive common-cold virus, as a novel way to attack ovarian cancer in a patient.

Drs. Carolyn Muller and Robert Coleman, assistant professors of obstetrics and gynecology, said p53 is known as the housekeeper gene because it patrols for damaged cells, and if the cells cannot be repaired or are growing out of control and can't be obtained, the p53 gene turns on its second line of defense: a built-in cell-death program, a process called apoptosis. The p53 mutations are the most common mutations in solid tumors and are found in 50 percent to 79 percent of ovarian cancers.

Muller said the normal p53 genes are replicated in the laboratory and inserted into adenoviruses, which act as carriers. During the treatment procedure, the patient's large amount of abdominal fluids, caused by the cancer, is withdrawn, and a therapeutic mixture of engineered p53 genes floating in saline is injected into the abdominal cavity. There the viral "geneboats" deliver the p53 gene to all cells. Once the gene is turned on in cancer cells, the invading "housekeeper" goes to work, recognizes the cancer cell's DNA damage and condemns it to death.

Muller and Coleman, who work in the Harold C. Simmons Comprehensive Cancer Center and the Nancy B. and Jake L. Hamon Center for Therapeutic Oncology Research, said that this trial will determine several things. They include the appropriate mixture of engineered viruses in the solution, the sequence of doses, the length of treatment and the manner in which the patient reacts to it. The first patient's treatments are occurring in three weekly visits with two-week intervals between them. Patients will continue treatments as long as a positive response occurs unless significant side effects develop. Fifteen to 18 patients are expected to be treated in this study.

Nancy Ruff, a 65-year-old wife, mother and grandmother, never intended to be a pioneer. But when she was referred to Coleman and Muller to discuss the first human p53 trial for ovarian cancer, she had run out of treatment options. Ruff had gone through two surgeries and six different chemotherapies in the last two years. She said that after each chemotherapy series she felt better for a while, but the signs of the cancer would reappear.

Ruff's ovarian cancer was discovered when she had an endoscopy for an ulcer that wouldn't heal. Later she learned that she also suffered from a hernia, so she hadn't connected the "bloaty feeling," often symptomatic of ovarian cancer, with any other illness.

"The first time I went to see the Southwestern doctors, I took six pages of typewritten questions in with me, so I wouldn't forget anything I wanted to ask," Ruff said.

Ruff said that "so far the treatment at its worst is like a bad case of the flu. And I know what I'm talking about since I've had a lot of chemotherapy." She's also delighted that the p53 treatment doesn't cause her to lose her hair.

The two researchers have been part of a large medical team that has been looking at using the p53 gene for four years-performing extensive studies with genetically engineered cells and animals before receiving approval from the National Cancer Institute to treat women with advanced, persistent or recurrent ovarian cancer.

The researchers hope that therapy with the engineered p53 gene may provide a strong second front for fighting ovarian cancer because of the low survival rates with surgery and chemotherapy. "With this trial, we will learn a lot about how the gene works in humans, and we will be able to improve the treatment strategy, stage III and IV ovarian cancer patients or their physicians should call clinical research nurse Paula Rogers at (214) 648-2806.

Mother's Wedding Suggestions Bring Brickbats, Not Bouquets

DEAR ABBY: My 27-year-old daughter just announced her engagement. Now we are having trouble with our relationship. I am shocked and hurt. She has accused me of trying to plan her wedding.

Abby, I give my opinions and ideas only, and certainly don't "insist" on anything. Is this lack of communication normal? We are usually very close. What gives?

She has instructed me to just get information, and she will "decide" whether to use it or not. That's fine with me.

Although the wedding is nine months away, she insists on a guest list — NOW! Our church holds more than 500, so what is the rush? No, I never expressed my unhappiness to her.

I thought this was supposed to be fun, but I'm both angry and sad. How do I handle this? Please advise me.

HURT MOM IN WASHINGTON

DEAR HURT MOM: It appears your daughter is trying to establish her independence right at the time you feel you should be closely bonded. Emotions often flare during "rites of passage," which is why etiquette books are such enduring best-sellers.

Don't take your daughter's sudden determination to do it "her way" too personally. Now is the time to back off a little and wait for her to seek your input. Take it from me, the most unwelcome advice in the world is that which is unasked for.

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old, the mother of two small children, attending college full time. My boyfriend is 27 and the father of my second child.

I'm looking for work, but it's hard finding a job that allows me to make my classes and have time for my children. My boyfriend paid the rent and helped me take care of the kids, but he recently left me. He said there were too many problems, and he couldn't take the stress anymore.

Abby, I admit he didn't have it easy with me going to school, taking care of the children, studying and trying to look for work. However, when times were hard for him, I didn't run away. I stayed and tried to help him. I even paid the rent and bought food for him out of the little support money I get for my first child. Now that I need him, he says he "needs his space." He wants us to separate until each of us gets our economic problems and personal issues resolved. I love him, but I feel like a fool for sticking with him through thick and thin only to be cast aside when he's tired of the problems. Do you think I should keep trying to reconcile, or move on?

BEFUZZLED DOWN SOUTH

DEAR BEFUZZLED: How much can this man love you if he takes off when you and the children need him? Granted, the circumstances were difficult, but a burden shared is only half as heavy.

I cannot make your decision for you; however, you should carefully consider whether you want a man you can't count on.

P.S. Should you choose to move on, don't hesitate to have child support legally established — you'll need it.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from "Torn in Texas," who was receiving flak from her family because of taking legal means to recover $750 from a sister-in-law who charged calls on "Torn's" cell phone. "Torn's" family said she should just let the money go because the woman is "family."

The next time a family member suggests that the debt be forgiven for "family reasons," "Torn" should say, "I agree that it is a family matter, and the whole family should share in the burden. Your share of the bill is $75."

I'll bet that will shut them up.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Let others carry the ball. You are unsure of someone's motives, but giving him free rein reveals them. Unexpected developments force you to readjust goals. Distant drummers bring good news. Accept an offer. Tonight: Celebrate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Others need to dominate, and you have little choice. Working conditions continue to be unnerving. Be flexible, and look at alternatives. Not everything is as you see it. A partner comes through for you in a big way. Look at the big picture. Tonight: Play time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Dig into work, and get a lot done. News from a distance complicates your workday. Others are happy to pitch in and help out. Review recent financial and emotional developments within a partnership. Think before you leap. Tonight: Someone entices you out the door.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

You tend to suppress your imagination. Let your creative juices flow. A partner confuses you when it comes to your budget. Consider taking more responsibility in this area rather than being at someone's mercy. A co-worker appreciates your efforts. Tonight: Don't overindulge!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Heed your own counsel. Don't push someone; if both of you aren't in agreement, it isn't worth it. Avoid a power struggle involving domestic matters. Give someone space to think through his impulsive actions. A child makes your day. If single, flirtation builds. Tonight: Put your feet up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Honor someone's request, even if sounds odd or inconvenient. You. Somehow, you sense there is more to the story here. Listen to a new friend's logic; he is appealing and a source of tremendous pleasure. Buy a new item for the household. Tonight: A favorite hangout.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

Be sensitive to someone, yet be aware of how much you offer. Sometimes you sell yourself short. Evaluate decisions, especially if they involve a loved one. You could have a surprise or two. Spend money with care. There are many ways of indulging people. Tonight: Your treat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

Return to basics. Security remains a major issue for you. Don't count on someone right now; take your own actions. Listen to feedback. A card works as well as an expensive gift as a token of affection. Build on an existing friendship. Tonight: Talk about feelings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Listen carefully to feedback before you take an action that jolts others. Intuition serves you well with a gift and funds. You will naturally please someone as Venus moves into your sign; your magnetism will do the talking. Tonight: Vanish, and let others wonder.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Aim for what you want. Unexpected financial developments force you to regroup. Intuition works for you. A friend tells you an important secret; don't let the cat out of the bag. Carry your business cards; networking can happen at any moment. Tonight: Join friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Eyes turn to you; key work decisions are yours to make. The unexpected occurs, and you are more of a vehicle in these events than you realize. Pull back, and be accountable. Intuition works with a boss. Before you know it, you receive compliments! Tonight: Work extra hours.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Look at the big picture. You could be stunned by what you see. Consider your limits, then be willing to break past them. They might be irrelevant now. Integrity counts. Be honest with yourself. If you need to talk to the boss, postpone it until later in the day. Tonight: Surf the Net.

PAMPA — The Harvester Booster Club has tentative plans to take two chartered buses to El Paso for the area football game Saturday between Pampa and EP Riverside.

Interested persons need to call Dennis Roark at 665-5778 or 665-2892 (after 6 p.m.) as soon as possible.

Cost is $60 per seat. There will be a $15 refund if the buses are filled.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The Cinderella part of the season is over for Texas. Now the Longhorns are back where they started the year: hoping to play spoiler and trying to lead Ricky Williams into history.

Six straight wins under the leadership of redshirt freshman Major Applewhite allowed Texas fans to dream big. Had the Longhorns upped the streak to eight by beating Texas Tech and Texas A&M (10-1, 7-0), they would've played Kansas State (10-0, 7-0) for the Big 12 title.

But Tech ended all that Saturday night. The relentless Red Raiders (7-3, 4-3) scored touchdowns on their last three drives, the final one with 25 seconds left, to come from behind and take a 42-35 victory.

"Texas Tech played a good ballgame and we didn't make the plays we needed to," said receiver Wane McGarity, who caught four touchdown passes and became the first Longhorn to have 1,000 yards receiving in a season.

Texas' loss clinched the Big 12 South crown for Texas A&M and reduced the importance of their meeting the day after Thanksgiving. The incentive for the Longhorns (7-3, 5-2) now is to make the Aggies stumble into the conference championship game against Kansas State, while also helping themselves jockey for a better bowl bid.

But the main focus of the A&M game will be Williams and the 63 yards he needs to become the leading rusher in the history of major-college football.

With 141 yards against Tech, Williams upped his career total to 6,020 yards, making him only the second Division I-A player ever to go over 6,000. The other is Tony Dorsett, whose 6,082 yards for Pittsburgh has been the record since 1976.

Williams reached several other milestones in the game, including:

- raising his nation-leading season total to 1,865 yards, moving him within 29 yards of breaking the school record he set last year.
- scoring a touchdown in a 32nd game, breaking the NCAA record he shared with three others, including Dorsett.
- scoring his 52nd touchdown over the last two seasons, tying the mark set by Barry Sanders in 1987-88 at Oklahoma State.
- moving into No. 2 on the all-purpose career yardage list with 6,911. He's 262 yards from passing Napoleon McCallum's total at Navy from 1981-85.

Although Williams became the highest rusher Tech had allowed in 15 games, it wasn't enough for the Longhorns.

"We were not that consistent," Williams said. "They were excited and played with more emotion than we did."

Texas Tech's Ricky Williams had seven more yards than his same-named foe. The Red Raider said he got "a big charge out of outrushing him."

"I wished him luck and congratulations on a great season," the Tech sophomore said. "I told him I hope he wins the big prize (the Heisman Trophy)."

Williams scored the second of Tech's three fourth-quarter touchdowns to put the Red Raiders ahead 35-28 with 5:02 left. McGarity's fourth touchdown tied the game at 35 with 2:18 to play.

Cowboys hold off rallying Cardinals

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys went from overwhelming in the first half to nearly overwhelmed in the second.

With scrambling Jake Plummer throwing for a career-best 465 yards, the Arizona Cardinals rallied from a 28-0 deficit, but fell just four yards short of catching the Cowboys.

Instead, Dallas won, just as it has in 15 of the last 16 meetings of the two teams. When the desert dust settled and the Cowboys rode off with a 35-28 victory, two things were certain: Dallas is perfect against the NFC East and Plummer is one young quarterback on the move.

"If you keep the right personnel around him, he's a special quarterback," Deion Sanders said. "He looked like a young Fran Tarkenton out there."

Arizona's second-year quarterback completed 31 of 56 passes for three touchdowns and had the Cardinals on the Dallas 4 as the game ended. His 57-yard pass to Rob Moore gave him two shots at the end zone with nine seconds left. Both passes fell incomplete.

The last one, a fade pass to Moore in the corner, was knocked away by Kevin Smith on a play the Cardinals insisted was pass interference.

"The guy was grabbing him — point blank," linebacker Jamir Miller said. "He was grabbing him, tugging him. That's called pass interference."

Plummer, whose passing performance was No. 3 on the Cardinals' career list and 1 yard short of the most by a Dallas opponent, charged the referees as they left the field. He said he told them: "You've got to step up and make that call."

Smith, often the target of NFL offenses, expected a flag.

"It would have been a sad situation if a flag had been thrown," he said. "I get that every week if I make a play, everyone on the sideline is jumping and screaming for a flag. I thought it was a clean play."

Cowboys coach Chan Gailey could afford to be philosophical.

"You don't get everything you holler for out there," he said. "That's part of the game. You hope it evens out through the year."

Dallas is 6-0 against the NFC East and has a two-game lead on the second-place Cardinals, a team the Cowboys now have beaten twice.

"We're ecstatic," Sanders said. "They're going to talk about it for a few days, but a win is a win."

Emmitt Smith rushed for 118 yards in 26 carries and three scores to move ahead of Walter Payton and Jim Brown to No. 3 on the NFL career touchdown list with 127. Only Jerry Rice and Marcus Allen have more.

Troy Aikman completed 14 of 18 passes for 208 yards and a touchdown, but Michael Irvin did not catch any, snapping his 117-game streak dating back to 1990.

This was billed as the Cardinals' biggest game since the franchise moved from St. Louis a decade ago, and it quickly looked like it would be one of their ugliest pratfalls.

With Aikman finding wide-open receivers and Smith running through big holes in the Arizona defense, Dallas was up 21-0 less than two minutes into the second quarter.

After Sanders, playing despite a toe injury he sustained a few minutes earlier, intercepted a pass and returned it 22 yards to the Arizona 2, Smith barreled over for his second touchdown to put the Cowboys up 28-0 with 3:29 left in the half.

Plummer's 2-yard pass to Frank Sanders with 14 seconds left in the half cut the lead to 28-7 at the break.

Deion Sanders sat out most of the second half with the injury, coming in only in the final 4 1/2 minutes. His explanation for the Arizona comeback was simple: He wasn't on the field.

"If you take Aeneas Williams off the field (for the Cardinals), the outcome would be a lot different, so with my injury they had freedom," he said. "They had some freedom to do things on the corner."

The teams traded scores in the third quarter, then a 7-yard pass from Plummer to Adrian Murrell cut Dallas' lead to 35-28 with 3:09 to play. The Cardinals decided against an onside kick, then held Dallas and got the ball on their own 22 with 52 seconds to play and no timeouts. Plummer almost pulled it off.

"We should have had a chance to go to overtime," Arizona coach Vince Tobin said. "It was very disappointing."

The Cowboys left the field the runaway leaders in their division. The Cardinals walked away a wiser team still in the thick of the NFC wild-card chase.

"We haven't even scratched the surface of what this team can do," Andre Wadsworth said. "The bright side of this loss is that we might face them again in the playoffs."

Wheeler wins district

WHEELER — Wheeler captured the District 1-1A title by rolling past Memphis, 41-8, Friday night.

Aaron Dunnam ran for three touchdowns and 218 yards rushing while Casey Childress scored twice and ran for 118 yards on 18 carries.

Brooks Brown scored Wheeler's final TD in the fourth quarter. Brown also had two pass interceptions.

Memphis' lone TD came in the fourth quarter on a fumble recovery by Josh Harrison.

Wheeler had 533 yards in total offense while its defense held Memphis to 104 yards. The Mustangs collected 25 first downs to 4 for Memphis.

Wheeler held a 21-0 lead at half-time.

The Mustangs take an 8-2 record into the playoffs. They advanced all the way to the state finals a year ago.

CLARENDON — Unbeaten Groom rolled to a 47-2 win over McLean in a six-man bi-district game last Friday night.

Groom quarterback Josh Evenson threw three touchdown passes, two to Evan Crowell for 23 and 27 yards. Jamie Shuck caught a 31-yard scoring pass from Evenson.

Wade Ritter had touchdown runs of 1 and 18 yards. Dusty Crump recovered a fumble for a touchdown. Alberto Vega added a 22-yard TD run.

Groom (11-0) meets Rule (10-1) at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Silverton in area action.

chills — be it ever so slightly — and the high school football playoffs commence, members of Corpus Christi's greatest football fraternity become schoolboys in their mid-50s.

Ray and Miller high schools, which turned an unprecedented trick in 1959 and 1960 by winning successive state football championships, produced two of Corpus Christi Independent School District's best-ever teams. Possessing volatile offenses and unyielding defenses, the Texans and Buccaneers became the first teams from different schools in the same city to win state titles in back-to-back seasons.

Fading for some, more vivid for others, the former players' memory banks start working overtime once the tail end of the year comes.

"I think you'd have to say it comes around pretty much every time this time of year," said Wayne Morris, a member of the Texans' '59 titleists.

"It's been a long time ago — you're pushing 40 years. There's certain things that, of course, stand out," said Morris, a Corpus Christi dentist for the past 30 years. "I think the things that I remember most are the players and the people and the coaches."

Titles aside, most of the ex-players from Ray and Miller cite camaraderie as the main by-product of those teams.

"It brings back special moments and more importantly it brings back special friends," said Morris Wilson, a commercial fishing guide who was a defensive back and punter on the Miller team.

High school basketball is here

PAMPA — High School basketball has arrived on the sports scene as both Pampa boys' and girls' teams tip off the season Tuesday night at Canyon.

Starting time is 6 with the girls' game, followed by the boys around 7:30.

Both Pampa and Canyon boys will be trying to bounce back after disappointing seasons.

Pampa was 10-20 a year ago while Canyon was 8-19.

The Harvesters will be looking to senior guard Shawn Young (14 points) and junior guard Kevin Francis (8.0 points) to get Pampa over the hump this season.

Other returning starters are inside players Zane Powers, a senior, and Jeremy Silva, a junior.

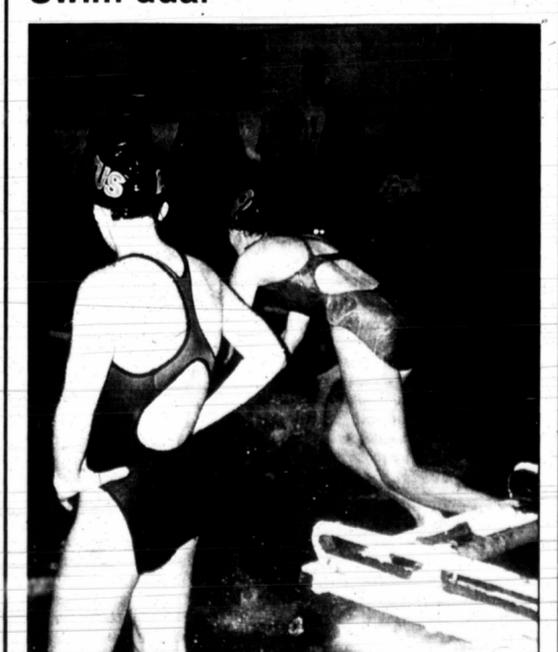

Returning starters Kyle Joy at forward and Tanner Thiel at post both averaged around 10 points per game for the Eagles.

The Lady Harvesters, 10-16 a year ago, return leading scorer Jordanna Young, who averaged around 13 points per game as a sophomore. Lisa Dwight and Kelsey Yowell will give Pampa height under the boards.

Canyon girls, 27-2 a year ago, return T'nae Thiel and Jolee Ayers, who both averaged around 12 points per game last season.

Tennessee holds No. 1 ranking

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

It's getting closer at the top of The Associated Press' Top 25 college football poll.

Tennessee, with a last-minute 28-24 win over Arkansas, was No. 1 for the second straight week but Kansas State made up lots of ground with its 40-30 victory over Nebraska on Saturday.

The Volunteers (9-0) received 37 first-place votes and 1,709 points, while the Wildcats (10-0) collected 29 first-place votes and 1,699 points from the 70 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP panel.

Last week, when they became No. 1 for the first time in 42 years, the Vols had 46 first-place votes and 1,718 points. Kansas State had 19 first-place votes and 1,677 points.

After Sunday's balloting, the Wildcats trailed the Vols by just eight first-place votes and 10 points. Next Saturday, K-State is at Missouri and Kentucky visits Tennessee.

UCLA (9-0) remained No. 3 after extending the nation's longest major-college winning streak to 19 games with a 36-24 victory over Washington. The Bruins had four first-place votes and 1,618 points.

Florida (9-1) and Florida State (10-1) were 4-5 heading into their showdown Saturday at Tallahassee, Fla., as the top seven teams remained unchanged.

Texas A&M (10-1), a 17-14 winner over Missouri, was No. 6, followed by No. 7 Ohio State, No. 8 Arizona, No. 9 Arkansas and No. 10 Notre Dame.

Even with the loss to Tennessee, the Razorbacks (8-1) moved up one spot from last week. The Irish (8-1), 30-0 winners over Navy, returned to the Top 10 for the first time since the first regular-season poll.

In the USA Today/ESPN coaches' poll, the top five teams were Kansas State, Tennessee, UCLA, Florida and Florida State.

Michigan (8-2), which beat previously unbeaten Wisconsin 27-10, was No. 11 in the AP poll, followed by No. 12 Tulane (9-0), No. 13 Wisconsin, No. 14 Georgia, No. 15 Oregon, No. 16 Penn State, No. 17 Nebraska, No. 18 Virginia, No. 19 Missouri and No. 20 Air Force.

Georgia Tech (7-2), which beat Clemson 24-21 last Thursday night, was No. 21, followed by No. 22 Miami, No. 23 Virginia Tech, No. 24 Syracuse and No. 25 Texas.

Wyoming, a 10-3 loser to Air Force, dropped out of the Top 25, while Syracuse (6-3) jumped back in after a week's absence.

Michigan, the defending national champions, moved up four spots this week and can clinch a return trip to the Rose Bowl with a victory over Ohio State on Saturday. The Badgers (9-1) fell five spots after their loss.

PSA holds annual 4 x 4 Tournament

PAMPA — The Pampa Soccer Association held its annual 4 x 4 soccer tournament last month with 114 teams competing from Pampa, Panhandle, Amarillo, Canyon, Borger, Perryton, Lubbock, Odessa and McKinney.

The 4 x 4 soccer matches were played at the association fields. Each of the 18 fields used in the tourney were 20 yards wide by 30 yards long. Each team played four player son the field with no goalkeeper and with only a goal box of three foot high by four foot wide.

Games in the one-day tournament started at 8:30 a.m. and ended with the last game at 7:30 p.m.

All teams entered in the event were guaranteed to play at least three games. Some of the out of town teams set up tents and more or less just camped out at the fields all day long. Besides playing soccer, players were able to test their skill at kicking the ball to goal with a police radar gun to time the speed of the kick.

Referees were from Pampa, Amarillo and Perryton.

In the Under 6 boys and girls, and Under 8 boys and girls, all players received a trophy for participation. All other divisions competed for first through fourth place trophies.

Pampa Soccer Association would like to thank all volunteers for their help in making the tournament a success.

Tournament proceeds go to the improvement of the soccer association and to the Pampa High School soccer programs.

Results are as follows:
 Under 10 girls (green division) 1st place-Dale Ann 3 (Pampa)
 Under 10 girls (gold division) 1st place -Stingers Gold (Amarillo)
 Under 10 boys: 1st place - Tornados 2 (Amarillo)

 Under 19 boys: 2nd place - Childress

Top 8 stay put in Top 25 in college cage poll

State was 13th and was followed in the Top 20 by Washington, Purdue, Xavier, Cincinnati, Tennessee, Arkansas and New Mexico.

The last five teams in the poll were Indiana, Syracuse, Massachusetts, Clemson and Rhode Island.

Clemson, which opened its season with an 83-59 victory over Arkansas-Pine Bluff, moved into the poll at No. 24, replacing Texas Christian (2-1), which fell out from No. 25 after opening with an 89-87 loss to Rhode Island.

Larry Shyatt replaced his former boss, Rick Barnes, at Clemson after one season at Wyoming. The Tigers were No. 5 in last season's preseason poll, but fell out for good in January. They finished 18-14 and lost to Western Michigan in the first round of the NCAA tournament and Barnes was headed for Texas soon after.

Tennessee (1-1) dropped from ninth to No. 18 after the 73-72 loss to Arizona in the BCA Classic at Albuquerque, N.M. The only other ranked team with a loss is Rhode Island (2-1), which dropped from 23rd to No. 25 after losing to Providence 87-63.

The first full week of the college basketball season didn't produce any significant changes in The Associated Press' Top 25.

The top eight teams — led by Duke — held their preseason places today in the first poll of the regular season with Clemson the lone newcomer to the rankings.

The Blue Devils (1-0) received 42 first-place votes from the national media panel, and their 1,738 points were 41 more than Connecticut (1-0), which was No. 1 on 18 ballots.

Stanford (1-0) was third with 10 first-place votes and 1,637 points, while defending national champion Kentucky, which opens its season Tuesday, had the other first-place vote and 1,507 points.

Michigan State, Maryland, Temple and Kansas remained Nos. 5-8 and were followed by Utah and North Carolina, which both moved up one spot from the preseason poll.

UCLA moved up one spot to lead the Second Ten, while Arizona, which beat then-No. 9 Tennessee in its opener, jumped from 18th to 12th. Oklahoma

Clemens on track for record 5th Cy Young

NEW YORK (AP) — Last year, when he won his fourth AL Cy Young Award, Roger Clemens joked that his job was complete.

"I got one for Koby and Kory. I got one for Kasy, and I needed one for Kody," he said, reeling off the names of his children. "It kind of takes the pressure off dad a little bit."

The Houston resident didn't stop there, following up with another stellar season that made him the favorite to win his record fifth Cy Young Award today.

He went 20-6 with a 2.65 ERA for the Toronto Blue Jays, striking out 271 in 234 2-3 innings. Clemens tied for the AL lead in wins and was tops in ERA and strikeouts. In 1997, he led in all three categories and joined Atlanta's Greg Maddux and Boston's Steve Carlton as the only four-time Cy Young winners.

On May 29, a repeat season seemed impossible. He was just 5-6, but then went undefeated in his final 22 starts, winning 15 consecutive decisions. While he had his agents explore trade possibilities in July, Clemens sounded upbeat about Toronto's future after the Blue Jays challenged Boston for the AL wild card in September.

"Everything became a little bit more meaningful and I think that was the big thing," Clemens said on the season's final weekend. "I think that some guys need to go home and know that they can be better."

But he once again got frustrated after watching Toronto go into an offseason stall as executives waited for a budget from the team's owner, the Belgian company Interbrew.

"I'd like for someone to let me know which way the team is going," Clemens said in a statement posted on his web site last week. "After all, this uncertainty has been lingering for two whole years. And that's the biggest disappointment to me."

If not, he might push for a trade. He was interested in going to the New York Yankees last summer, and the Boston Red Sox might be interested in getting him back. Boston general manager Dan Duquette is still criticized for letting Clemens leave after the 1996 season.

Clemens keeps waiting for Blue Jays general manager Gord Ash to send a signal.

"What do they want to do?" Clemens asked. "Are they going to get some guys who will help bring another World Series to Toronto?"

Broncos 9-0 going into Chiefs' game tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A year ago today at Arrowhead Stadium, the Kansas City Chiefs beat Denver on a last-second field goal in one of the most exciting wins in team history.

The Chiefs needed a miracle — and Pete Stoyanovich delivered, hitting from 54 yards for a 24-22 win.

Since then, the Broncos returned to Arrowhead to beat the Chiefs in the AFC playoffs, won the Super Bowl and are 9-0 going into tonight. Kansas City is playing with shattered confidence at 4-5 after four straight losses led to the benching of quarterback Elvis Grbac.

"This team is just hungry for a win," said Chiefs quarterback Rich Gannon, who led that game-winning drive last year while Grbac — and who will start tonight after replacing Grbac in Seattle last Sunday.

"We'll take a win any way we can get one."

But the Chiefs all stopped short of calling this a make-or-break game.

"Don't ask me that," cornerback James Hasty said. "People ask me that every week. Every game is make-or-break. You don't believe that, you don't last long in this league."

To reverse their skid, the Chiefs must cut down on a recent rash of turnovers — 12 in the last four games.

"They've got the personnel to beat us," Denver tight end Shannon Sharpe said. "Their secondary is better than any other secondary in the game. Period. Their linebackers are probably as fast as anybody in the league."

"Their offense has just put them in some bad situations," Sharpe said. "As good a defense as you may have, if your offense keeps putting you in bad situations, you're going to falter."

The Broncos' offense has put the opposition in plenty of bad situations.

Denver, the NFL's top scoring team at 33.3 points per game, has outscored opponents 100-13 in the first quarter. That first-quarter dominance includes a 34-3 advantage on opening drives.

The key to disrupting that offense, Chiefs defensive coordinator Gunther Cunningham said, is forcing the Broncos out of their early routine.

"They script their first 20 plays and come out shooting," he said. "Those are the plays they focus on each week in practice, and they practice them until they can execute them flawlessly. That's what you have to be aware of, because the huddle's not going to take long."

Raiders trim Seahawks, 20-17

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Greg Davis' second field goal of the fourth quarter, a 38-yarder with 21 seconds left, gave the Oakland Raiders a 20-17 victory over Seattle on Sunday, their second win over the Seahawks in three weeks.

After Warren Moon drove the Seahawks 65 yards in eight plays

Caminiti rejoins Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Money couldn't buy happiness for Ken Caminiti, though he readily admits it's not as though the Houston Astros have made him a pauper.

Giving up millions on the free-agent market to play ball closer to his family, the third baseman has agreed to a two-year, $9.5 million contract with the team that launched his career.

The two-time National League Central champion Astros, who traded Caminiti to the San Diego Padres four years ago, have an option for a third year at $5.5 million.

The offer didn't match the reported $21.5 million, three-year deal the Detroit Tigers dangled before him before signing Dean Palmer last week.

"Baseball is a strange life on a family, and I think happiness is being with my family, my kids and my wife," Caminiti said Sunday, acknowledging that he's still going to continue to be a rich man.

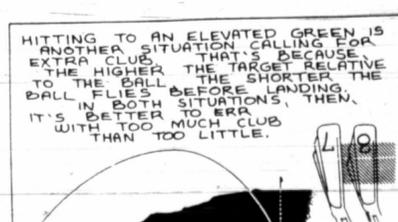

Astros general manager Gerry Hunsicker was pleased with the relative bargain.

"One of the real problems of our

ONE SITUATION WHERE YOU ALWAYS NEED MORE CLUB THAN YOU MIGHT THINK YOU DO IS HITTING FROM AN UPHILL SLOPE. REMEMBER THAT THE SLOPE INCREASES THE EFFECTIVE LOFT OF THE CLUBFACE THEREBY PRODUCING A HIGHER AND SHORTER SHOT.

HITTING TO AN ELEVATED GREEN IS ANOTHER SITUATION CALLING FOR EXTRA LOFT. BECAUSE OF THE HIGHER TARGET RELATIVE TO THE BALL, THE SHORTER THE BALL FLIES BEFORE HITTING THE GREEN, THE BETTER IT WILL BE WITH TOO MUCH LOFT.
