Pampa's Gerald Sanders is one of 12 area artists whose work will be shown in a prestigious art show entitled "Canyon Rhythms" this weekend at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

"Much of my work is that of proud people, the American Indian and characters of the Old West," according to Sanders.

Born in Krum, Sanders grew up around the Fort Worth stockyards and rodeoed for mount money.

A bronze sculpture titled, "After the Storm," commissioned by Southwest Bell, became the cover of the telephone directory with a distribution of 14.5 million. In addition, Sanders' sculptures are in many private collections.

"I have a God-given talent, and I have decided to put it to work. My art career has been short compared to many, and I feel very fortunate to be accepted by peers and art patrons. I can only look forward to the future with great anticipation," he said.

The Preview Gala Auction will be Friday from 7 to 10. The event will continue on Saturday, Nov. 21 from 10 to 5, and Sunday, Nov. 22 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Artwork in a variety of mediums will include oils, furniture, jewelry, woodblock prints, batik sculptures, including those by Sanders.

There will be no charge to visitors to attend, if they present a publicity article about the show.

PISD looks to legislature... Hopes lawmakers help ease money crunch

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

A steadily declining enrollment and resulting loss of attendance-based funding coupled with state-mandated teacher pay increases have Pampa school officials looking to State Rep. Warren Chisum for help.

Chisum met with the Pampa ISD board Thursday night to talk about the upcoming legislative session and hear the concerns of educators.

This year the district covered its increased teacher pay, required as a part of SB 1, through the cost savings generated by closing two schools, said Mark McVay, district business manager.

Under the bill, teachers received an average of a five percent pay hike, which was more than the $300,000 the business man-

"While I'd like to see more babies born in Pampa, we aren't seeing that," Supt. Dr. Dawson Orr said. "We expect a continued 25-30 student decline as we have been seeing it."

ager said are given in teacher raises "in a normal year."

"So, your cost of staying open goes up at least $300,000 a year, no matter what?" Chisum asked rhetorically.

The district has about $600,000 on hand in a fund balance from the last fiscal year, something Supt. Dr. Dawson Orr told Chisum. "Clearly if there is a big increase (in state-mandated pay hikes) we'll use every penny of that to keep the doors open."

"While I'd like to see more babies born in Pampa, we aren't seeing that," Orr said. "We expect a continued 25-30 student decline as we have been seeing it."

And to add to the loss of average daily attendance (ADA) funds, Orr told Chisum and the board he expects revenue received through oil and gas values to decline next year as well.

The solution, Orr said is, "Our basic allotment has to go up."

Chisum said he expects "teacher pay raises to be a high priority" when the legislature convenes after the first of the year. And he wants the raises to be "...managed without putting a long-time strain" on districts.

The lawmaker noted the state has a $6 billion surplus and he speculated pay raises may be funded from "grants or a block of money" handed down to school districts.

"I don't want to see us get in a situation where school districts get locked into something when there is no surplus," he said.

And while education is where the state spends 60 percent of its dollars, Chisum said, "One of the most pressing issues we'll have is to give some property tax relief."

SPS electric rates headed downward 7-11% cut starts Jan. 1

Pampa residents will see a reduction in their electric bills over the next three years beginning in 1999.

Bill Crenshaw with Southwestern Public Service said this week the utility's customers across their 52,000-square-mile service region will have a reduction ranging from seven to 11 percent. Crenshaw said the amount will depend on the type of customer and use patterns.

He said residential customers will typically see about a seven percent reduction while industrial customers and high volume electricity users will see large percentage decreases. The reductions are based on the fuel costs as a percentage of the total electric bill.

The decreased costs, he said, reflect amendments to contracts between TUCO, who supplies coal to SPS, and the Burlington Northern and Santa Fe Railway, the railroad company that hauls coal from Wyoming to SPS power plants. The lower fuel costs will mean lower electric bills for SPS customers.

Crenshaw said fuel costs are a part of each customer's electric bill. "SPS does not make any profit on its fuel costs," Crenshaw said. "All savings are passed on to customers."

Mark Freeman, SPS director of energy, said the $210 million in total

$50,000 bonds set in drug cases

Two men stopped by Department of Public Safety troopers on Interstate 40 were in Gray County jail today in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

Jeremiah Kenton Ascher, 22, of Disney, Okla., and Eric Scott Westgate, 22, of El Cajon, Calif., were arrested by DPS Trooper John Nelson and Sgt. Donald Cameron shortly before 6 p.m. Wednesday on Interstate 40.

Officials said the pair was stopped for speeding on I-40 as they traveled east across Gray County.

After gaining verbal consent to search the vehicle, authorities said, officers found what they believed to be marijuana and methamphetamine.

Each was charged with possession of marijuana over five pounds and under 50 pounds and with possession of a controlled substance, methamphetamine.

Gray County Justice of the Peace Bob Muns set bond for each at $10,000 on the possession of marijuana charge and $40,000 each for the possession of a controlled substance charge.

Harvesters get set for Saturday playoff

By L.D. Strate
Sports Editor

The Pampa football team is making the long journey to El Paso with hopes of returning with the area championship trophy. In the meantime, Pampa head coach Dennis Cavalier wants his Harvesters to just sit back and enjoy the ride.

"I guess the theme of the whole thing, or how I want them to handle the trip, is to enjoy looking forward to the game and enjoy the fact that they're district and bi-district champs," Cavalier said. "A lot of these kids have never been to El Paso, so that's something else they can look forward to. It's a great opportunity for our guys."

The Harvesters bus left at 4 p.m. Thursday for the round trip of approximately 975 miles and 18 hours.

Starting middle linebacker Jared White, like many of his teammates, has never been to El Paso, which sits on the Texas-Mexico border.

"It's going to be interesting to see how we handle it. I'm sure it's going to be a learning experience for us. It's going to be kind of exciting," White said. "I understand there's a lot of barren desert out there."

The Harvesters lost a home-and-home coin flip with El Paso Riverside and will play in Rangers' Stadium at 3 p.m. Saturday in the 4A Division Two area game.

The Harvesters stayed overnight at Carlsbad, N.M., and planned to have a workout today at Carlsbad. The Harvesters hope to watch a Class 5A playoff contest between El Paso Montwood and Odessa Permian tonight in El Paso. A light practice is scheduled for Saturday morning.

Pampa goes into the area tilt with a 9-2 record while Riverside is cruising along at 11-0. Riverside defeated Clint, 58-12, in its bi-district game.

"It's going to be a good game. Riverside isn't 11-0 for nothing. If we win, it's going to be extra special because of the long trip," White added. Riverside's basic wing offense is averaging 451 yards per game, but Pampa's defense has gained a reputation for shutting down a strong ground attack.

The Harvesters defense allowed just 51.8 yards per game rushing in 10 regular-season contests. Pampa's defense improved on that average in the bi-district tilt last weekend.

State Rep. Warren Chisum lends an ear to hear a question in connection with issues that may come before the legislature when it convenes. At right is Pampa ISD Board member Bill Jones. Chisum was on hand at Thursday night's board meeting at Carver Center.

PISD

In other legislative-related matters, Orr asked Chisum to look at the state Worker's Compensation law as it pertains to school districts. The superintendent was making reference to the fact it requires that anyone hired to do work on school buildings must have the coverage.
 Often, small businesses, or individuals who may be hired for small projects, don't have the coverage and those who do charge more for their services so their insurance costs can be covered.
 Chisum said he will look into the matter in hopes of finding a remedy.
 Also requested is that lawmakers consider changing the date (August 31) of the fiscal year for school districts to June or July.
 McVay said 45 states have "off-season" fiscal-year ends which he says is more practical than ending during the busy time of the year.

 Orr said the Sept. 1 start of a new fiscal year "made sense" when that date was set because schools then did not start in August like most do now.
 Because of accounting procedures, school auditors won't allow any new equipment, such as computers, to be used during August even though school has started, Orr said. The auditors require the equipment not be used until at least Sept. 1 to prevent having them charged against the previous fiscal year.
 Orr thanked Chisum for coming to the meeting and for his work on education issues.
 "There have been at least two occasions where Rep. Chisum has called from the floor of the House before a vote to see what our viewpoint was on a particular piece of legislation."

OHS clinics offer free pregnancy tests

Do you think you or someone close to you might be pregnant? Now is the time to find out! Many experts agree that early prenatal care is the key to a happy and healthy pregnancy. That's why Outreach Health Services provides free pregnancy tests at its clinics throughout Texas — to give quick, definitive answers to women during this very important time.

Women who suspect they might be pregnant can visit an OHS clinic today to get a FREE pregnancy test. No appointment is necessary, and the results are available on the same day. Whether a woman tests positive or negative, OHS can help with the next step. "Women who come to OHS get more than just a free pregnancy test," said Mike Easley, Family Health Services Division director. "They also have the opportunity to benefit from a variety of other programs like WIC and nutrition education classes." For women who test positive, WIC and maternity care nurses teach expectant mothers everything they need to know to ensure a healthy pregnancy. The WIC program answers questions about breastfeeding, offers vouchers for healthy foods and provides ongoing nutrition education classes. See OHS, Page 12

Texas Editorials

By The Associated Press

A sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers: San Antonio Express-News on tobacco negotiations: Big Tobacco has offered $206 billion to settle all remaining state claims for government-paid medical care caused by tobacco-related illnesses and wants an answer by Friday.

Texas and three other states previously settled with the industry for $40 billion total, Texas for $17.3 billion. This latest offer gives the industry protections against future lawsuits while it surrenders much of its advertising and marketing rights. The settlement would be paid out over 25 years.

The offer is not great. Even with previous payouts, Big Tobacco would pay out more than $100 billion less than it offered in June 1997.

However, this one does not require congressional approval, as that one did. The states are doing the best they can by getting a huge sum out of America's worst industry, albeit one that is legal.

Three things brought Big Tobacco to the bargaining table two years ago:

- The threat of a snowball effect if many states sued it for damages.
- The danger of an outcry if the public learned that Big Tobacco had suppressed research about the danger of tobacco use.
- And the threat of federal regulation of tobacco as a drug and of cigarettes as a drug-delivery device.

The first two have happened. Congress should take care of the third by putting Big Tobacco under Food and Drug Administration oversight, regardless of the outcome of this latest settlement offer.

The Dallas Morning News on Iraq crisis: President Clinton took credit Sunday for getting Saddam Hussein to back down in the latest crisis over U.N. weapons inspections in Iraq. Yet what Mr. Clinton more specifically deserves kudos for is his eleventh-hour achievement in temporarily staving off instability in the Persian Gulf - no more, no less.

To be sure, even temporary stability in such a volatile region is no small feat. But a nagging doubt remains. Stability now rests on a promise by Saddam to do in the future what he has failed to do in the past.

Should the United States be willing to stake peace in the gulf on the word of Iraq's dictator? Obviously not. Events eventually may show that Mr. Clinton should have acted by now. In the meantime, everyone should support his decision to continue building up U.S. forces in the region. At the first indication that Saddam is playing games again, a sustained U.S. air and missile attack not involving ground forces should be unleashed without warning until substantial damage has been done to Iraq's military capabilities.

The issue of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction is critical. Current and former officials associated with the United Nations weapons inspections team - including its chief, Richard Butler - believe Saddam has plenty of such weapons. The latest suspension of inspections may have allowed him to reconstitute his arsenal or reshuffle it.

Mr. Clinton showed new deftness in diplomacy, however. He did well to get Arab states and Russia to call on Saddam Hussein to cooperate with the United Nations. Analysts at the Council on Foreign Relations note that the Arab states' posture likely would have changed if the U.S. had attacked Iraq. Yet the alliance served its purpose by pressuring Saddam. But in case he doesn't cooperate, lifting sanctions now is out of the question.

Make no mistake, Saddam is still the issue. On Sunday, Mr. Clinton took the unusual step of publicly supporting a change of government in Iraq. Coming on the heels of Congress' passage of a bill calling for spending $97 million a year to unify Saddam's opposition, the United States has demonstrated its commitment to squeezing the dictator on more than one front. Good. Anything that adds to the discomfort of Baghdad's Butcher cannot be all bad.

'Gimme' mind-set is unhealthy

Writing in the November/December issue of The American Enterprise magazine, Hendrik Mills relates the following true story about life on an Indian reservation:

A young couple brought their toddler in to see the dentist (government sponsored). Her teeth were all rotted down to the gum line. The dentist asked the parents why they had disregarded his instructions never to leave the baby alone in her crib with a bottle of milk or pop. "You fix her teeth," the parents responded. "That's your job."

The child with the rotting teeth is an excellent symbol of what has become of Indian reservation life in the past 25 to 30 years. Starting in the 1960s, Indians have demanded greater autonomy, more money (yes, there is a contradiction) and recognition of the unique Native American culture. They got it all.

Since then, they have been the "beneficiaries" of countless freebies paid for by the federal government. These include free health care with no co-payments for every kind of medical service (including cosmetic surgery); "impact aid" for the daily expenses of running a school district; federally funded tribal colleges on almost every reservation, with scholarships and living stipends; "treaty money," a lump sum of $10,000 given to every Indian in certain tribes who reach the age of 18 in settlement of various historical claims first asserted in the 1960s, and much more.

Throughout the larger society outside the reservation, Indians can demand preferences in hiring and school admissions, exemption from many taxes including vehicle, county, state income and, for some, federal income taxes, and more. State laws against gambling do not apply on reservations. And tons of unopened, donated food rots in garbage dumps near reservations every day.

Mona Charen
 Syndicated columnist

In the years before the '60s "gimme" model took over, American Indians certainly had problems. Poverty and alcoholism were particularly acute. But the structure of the Indian family was stable, children were cared for attentively by parents, and violence and disorder were not features of reservation schools.

But federal largesse — white guilt if you will — has changed the structure of life completely. As such, it is almost a perfect laboratory experiment. What becomes of people who a) wallow in victim mentality and b) get the essentials of life handed to them by distant benefactors? Answer: They get worse.

Of course, it is true that American Indians (like American blacks) were true victims. There is no question that in the three-century struggle for domination of this continent, the more advanced people won. It is also true that American Indians were cruelly treated (though they treated one another brutally as well) and repeatedly cheated out of what was theirs. President Andrew Jackson's reputation, to cite just one of many examples, is stained by his treatment of the Cherokee people, who were forcibly deported from the South.

But all of that might as well have been ancient Rome. In the late 20th century, the question is no longer "Who shall control this land?" but rather "How do you live a good and authentic life as an Indian in the United States of America?" And the welfare state approach of the last 30 years has been an abysmal failure at improving the lives of Indians.

The schools are full of poorly dressed, ill-cared-for children. It's not poverty but rather parental neglect that results in these sullen, ill-clad children. Academic standards have fallen sharply, but many of the children, steeped in an "America owes us" mentality, do not see the benefits of hard work. Those Indians who do graduate often take the Indian bureaucracy jobs reserved for them. Tribal government positions pay between $30,000 and $50,000 per year. But the tribal government is about as efficient as a Third World country's.

Hendrik Mills began life as a liberal. So sympathetic was he to the claims of Indians that he chose to go and live on a reservation with his wife. Hard experience taught him how devastating it is to take charity on a permanent basis — even if it comes in a bottle labeled "reparations."

Sixteen things / am grateful for ...

To loosen up the gratitude muscles in time for Thanksgiving, I made a preliminary list of things for which I am thankful.

1. I am thankful that I decided last year never to buy another National Basketball Association ticket or watch a game on television. It wasn't that I begrudged the players their salaries; I begrudged them their whining, complaining and malingering.
2. I am thankful that I never again have to listen to or watch Bill Clinton. Since no word out of his mouth can be trusted, it is a waste of eardrum vibrations to listen to him. Congress may not impeach him, but I have exiled him from my consciousness.
3. Ditto Newt Gingrich.
4. I am thankful that New Jersey folks finally discovered the obvious: that if you refuse to pay women for having more illegitimate children, they won't have them.
5. I am thankful that John Thompson's "Teaching Little Fingers to Play" (the piano) works just as well for big and old fingers.
6. I am thankful that 95 percent of the music groups and singers people mention I've never heard or heard of.
7. I am thankful that rodeos and circuses continue to prosper despite the animal nut protests.
8. I am thankful that I've gone 30 consecutive days without crashing my computer's hard

Charley Reese
 Syndicated columnist

9. I am thankful that I don't have cable or satellite TV.
10. I am thankful that Shrewsbury (in England) looked as I imagined that it would.
11. I am thankful that there are still Southerners of whom their confederate ancestors would be proud.
12. I am thankful that I can still keep all my shots in a pie plate at a reasonable distance.
13. I am thankful that a former wrestler won the governor's race in Minnesota.
14. I am thankful that I never had to attend a debate between Al D'Amato and Charlie Schumer.
15. I am thankful that someone tipped me off about the Judge Dee mysteries (wonderful stories about a magistrate in imperial China written by Dutch diplomat Robert Hans Van Gulik).

16. I am thankful that grits are still cheap.

Well, that's a starter. We Americans ought always to practice being grateful because we are luckier than we deserve. We're still a country where our poor would qualify as middle class in many countries. We're still a country where one of the big health problems is people eating too much. We're still a country in which ordinary folks are extraordinarily generous in sharing with people who suffer misfortune.

In our case, we often look at the empty half of the glass of champagne, but any country in which the big problem for a lot of government high schools is finding parking space for the students' $20,000 cars is still one fat cat of a country.

The real fly in our ointment is that it seems that the two things people can't stand are peace and prosperity. The more prosperity they have, the more, it seems, they think socialism is a good idea. The more peace, the less they are willing to make the sacrifices necessary to keep the peace.

We might, as a country, succeed ourselves right into failure. We might, like a newly crowned championed fighter, eat and drink too much and decide that training is far too uncomfortable to do.

The trick, I guess, is to enjoy what you got and to remember what it took to get it.

projected fuel savings compares future coal transportation charges under the revised contracts with what the railroad would have charged if SPS and TUCO had not disputed the railroad rates.

The utility and coal supplier have been in a dispute with the railroads since 1990 over the rates. In 1992, arbitrators ruled in favor of the railroad, but in 1997, the Texas Supreme Court vacated the arbitration panel's award. The new settlement is the result of renewed negotiations between the utility, coal supplier and railroad.

David Hudson, SPS director of regulatory and pricing administration, said the utility's rates have been decreasing since 1983.

"Our rates in 1999 will be about 25 percent lower than they were 16 years ago."

SPS is the major electric supplier for the Texas Panhandle, Texas South Plains, Eastern New Mexico, Oklahoma Panhandle and Southwestern Kansas.

First Assembly welcomes missions rep.

The Rev. Paul Hutsell, Assemblies of God Missions Task Force representative, will be speaking at First Assembly of God, 500 S. Cuyler and Hwy 60, at 10:30 a.m. and at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 22. Hutsell will discuss his experiences as a missionary as well as give the sermon.

Paul and Dreta Hutsell have served as missionaries to Latin America and the Caribbean since 1956. For more than 20 years, the Hutsells ministered in Paraguay and Honduras. In 1977, Hutsell was appointed area director for Assemblies of God missionaries in Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia. His area of oversight was changed to the Caribbean in 1989 where he served until 1994.

Now assigned to the Missions Task Force, Hutsell ministers primarily in the United States. The task force is set up to encourage a greater participation in missions within local churches. Representatives visit churches to help congregations develop a missions emphasis. Churches are encouraged to set aside special times to study and prepare to reach the world for Christ. Task force representatives also help in the planning and execution of missions conventions.

While Assemblies of God churches in America have been the backbone of prayer and financial support for the Fellowship's worldwide missions outreach, many churches have had little or no exposure to global evangelism. "These untouched churches represent, Hutsell believes, "a great untapped resource."

The public is invited to attend these special mission services. For more information, call 665-5941 or 665-0060.

Paul and Dreta are the parents of Beverly Moss, wife of the Rev. Mike Moss, pastor of First Assembly of God Church in Pampa. The Hutsells have four other children and seven grandchildren.

If marriage could be like a love poem

When Ally awoke the light was not right. It was too dim in the tiny bedroom and instead of patterned clothing hanging on a wardrobe rack against the opposite wall, she saw only a same shaped block of black.

She turned her head to the wind up Big Ben. It was only four in the morning, too early for another empty day to begin.

Ally felt her round, hard belly and sensed the weight as too heavy for her frame.

She slid swollen hands down her misshapen waist, down to slip hips and thighs losing their teenage tone.

It would not be many days until her baby would come. A bassinet rested side by side with the wardrobe rack. The occasional pack of tiny diapers Ally had purchased piled inside the little bed.

She wasn't ready. Not for a tightening ball in front of slender hips, not for swollen breasts and not for being alone.

The weight next to her shifted and the body next to her rolled warmly into her back.

If marriage were about warm beds and gentle mingled breaths, it would be like those love poems from English class, she thought.

Instead, it's about being broke and expected to cook for Army buddies who only want to watch football and talk about cars.

It is about feeling hopeless when you're just barely old enough to drive, Ally thought.

The warm body next to her shifted again and a left arm landed softly across her baby bulge.

She knew Sal was not long for this little dump of an apartment and not long for her world of dirty diapers and squawling babies. Ally couldn't decide if she'd be happier if he just split one day or if it would be more fun to walk out on him.

Either way, she knew her suitcase, the one Grandma gave her, was under her side of the bed with a $20 bill tucked in a side pocket. She knew $20 would get her exactly nowhere.

It wasn't that she hated Sal. It's just the whole thing - the quickie wedding in Aunt Rose's living room, the foolish belief that marriage solves problems - was so wrong.

Her baby rolled inside her and Sal snored lightly. The light was still all wrong and suddenly her room filled with smoke and she began to cough.

St Mark to celebrate anniversary

Welcome to the 66th Church Anniversary of St. Mark C.M.E. Church at 406 Elm Avenue, on Sunday Nov. 22 at 3 p.m. The speaker is Rev. Phillip Randal, pastor of Johnson Chapel A.M.E. Methodist Church in Amarillo.

Organ concert Sunday features new instrument

Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m., Zion Lutheran Church will host an organ concert on its new organ. The public is invited to attend this free concert of spiritual and classical music. Zion is located at 1200 Duncan Street in Pampa.

Rodgers Instrument Corp. of Hillsboro, Oregon built the organ and recently in stalled it. It is a combination pipe and electronic digital organ. The pipes are four-foot principals imported from Europe. The pipes are positioned to accentuate the interior of the sanctuary while providing optimum sound quality.

Judith Loyd and Ellen Malone of Pampa are the organists at Zion. They will each play several well-known and popular hymnody pieces during the concert. Other music for the concert will include classical pieces by Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Purcell and Decussy.

Jim Jordan of Amarillo will play classical pieces. Mr. Jordan has almost 40 years of experience playing both piano and organ. His musical training began at age four. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and a licensed minister of music. He is currently an organist at San Jacinto Baptist Church of Amarillo and is employed by the Rodger's Organ Company.

70th anniversary at First Pentecostal

This year the International Pentecostal Holiness Church observes its 100th anniversary. Across the denomination this significant milestone is being marked with special celebrations.

Locally, First Pentecostal Holiness Church at 1700 Alcock is also celebrating its 70th anniversary. The Sunday morning worship service will include brief highlights of the church's history, a note burning and dedication of the new piano and sound system. A pot luck luncheon will be served in the fellowship hall of the church during the noon hour, with a welcome extended to all who would like to help celebrate this special occasion.

This congregation was organized on Nov. 25, 1928, by the Rev. John T. Mahoney. There were five charter members. Jessie Williams of Calvin, Okla., had conducted revival services in Pampa and was helpful in getting the church going. While none of the charter members are still living, Faye Fleming, one of the earliest members, is still active in the church.

The Rev. Mahoney was a colorful part of the Pampa scene in the 1920s. Before his conversion, he was a businessman who supplied tools to the area oil fields — making many of his deliveries by wagon. Life was raw in the oil patch and Mahoney was rough enough to survive. He had a scrappy nature and a tongue that could match any tough oil patch resident's. When he found Christ, his life changed so instantly and dramatically that the "oil patch" was stunned. When he entered the ministry, many came to hear him preach — to see if it were really possible for God to make a saint from such rough material. They were convinced! The young church flourished.

Mahoney became a very soft spoken and gracious Christian gentleman. He went on to serve as founder of the Carmen, Okla., home for homeless children and the aged. Many told him that the church was too small to take on the care of homeless children. Mahoney fervently believed the Pentecostal Holiness Church had to be big enough to do anything God wanted it to do. His bold faith and daring spirit still influence thinking and policies of this church 70 years later.

The church building was first located in the 600 block of Roberta on the west side of the street. Here the first worship services were held. The first session of the Panhandle Conference (late called Great Plains) after its organization was held here. It's interesting to note the church is older than the conference. It had been organized as a part of the panhandle district of the Oklahoma Conference before the conference was organized.

Old photographs on display at the church Sunday will show such outstanding leaders as the late Bishop J.H. King and others who were part of the congregation's early days.

The church building was moved diagonally across the street to the corner of Roberta and Montagu sometime before 1945.

In 1945, the church moved from its old location on Roberta to the present site on the corner of Alcock and Zimmers. The building at that time faced Zimmers and occupied a space at the back of where the present sanctuary is located.

During the pastorate of the Rev. R.G. Sloan in the early 1950s, the group began construction of the larger building, which now houses the congregation. The father of the late Pampa businessman Jim McBroom, the Rev. M.C. McBroom of Oklahoma, was engaged to oversee the construction. The structure was soon completed and occupied by the growing church. A striking feature of the church interior is the extensive use of light colored woods throughout.

In the 37-year period from 1938-65, 16 different pastors served the congregation. The Rev. Albert and Mary Maggard came in March of 1966 and have remained for more than 32 years.

Ministers having served the church include: Mahoney; Mrs. H.O. Byerly; Vance Knowles; S.D. Dodd; Margaret Howard; J.M. Lemmon; C.R. Howard; Henry Maxwell; Irene Wilson; Luther Reed; Spenser Blake; R.G. Sloan; J.B. Caldwell; G.W. Roachelle; Robert Marstellar; Duane Snyder; and Maggard.

T'giving service Tuesday

The Traditional Thanksgiving Community Worship Service sponsored by the Pampa Unified Ministerial Alliance will be held Tuesday, Nov. 24, at 7 p.m. at Briarwood Full Gospel Church. The Reverend Mr. Doug Yates of the Church of the Nazarene will be preaching. John Glover, Minister of Music for the First Baptist Church will be leading the congregation in worship music. The Reverend Mr. I.L. Patrick of the Macedonia Baptist Church will sing a solo.

Briarwood Full Gospel Church is located at 1800 W. Harvester Avenue. The Reverend Mr. Lynn Hancock, Pastor of Briarwood, encourages the entire community to participate in this worship service of Thanksgiving. The offering for the service will be divided equally between Good Samaritan Christian Services and the Salvation Army.

Community Thanksgiving Worship Services are a long tradition in the Pampa Area. Attendance at the service is an opportunity to thank God for the blessings of the year, to lift up a voice in praise, and to worship together as a community, crossing denominational and theological lines, and thanking the Lord.

Note to readers:

The Friday minister's column has not been dropped from the weekly Religion Page. However, no columns have been submitted recently from ministers who belong to the Pampa Unified Ministerial Alliance.

College Keggers Are No Blast For Students Who Don't Drink

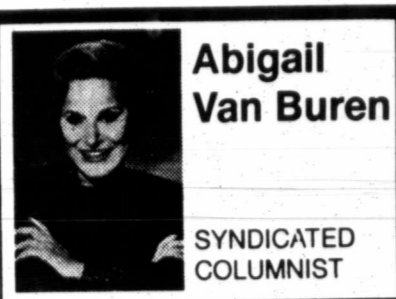

DEAR ABBY: I am a freshman at Michigan State. When I was home for Labor Day, I came across your column. In it was a letter from a student in Anaheim, Calif. I read it and instantly felt as though somebody knew how I felt.

I feel so alone. I knew that college life entailed keg parties and plenty of beer, but you have no idea to what extent until you experience it firsthand. Every night at about 9:30, my entire floor gets their cue. They call friends and go to the frat house. I have been asked to join them a number of times, but have no desire to go. I make up lousy excuses every night. My roommate comes back anywhere from 3:30 to 5:30 a.m. Last time she told me she had had around 13 beers!

Abby, getting drunk is not my kind of entertainment. While intoxicated, anything can happen, from a car accident to AIDS. Why are people so stupid? I am 18 years old and allowed to drink while on vacations, at weddings and things like that. Why would I want to kill myself or get in trouble with the law when I'm at college to better my future, not end it?

I thank "Grieving and Alone" for her letter. I have it taped to the front of my journal and read it at least once a day to remind myself what life is all about. Thank you, Abby, and thanks to all the people who still believe that there are some teen-agers who don't drink or do drugs.

ALCOHOL-FREE
IN EAST LANSING, MICH.

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR ALCOHOL-FREE: If your grades are as terrific as your decision-making about substance abuse, you'll finish college with top honors. My experts tell me that according to several studies, college students who drink excessively tend to earn poorer grades and are more likely to drop out than nondrinkers.

I hope you'll take heart in the knowledge that no matter how much noise those party animals make, you and others like you are in the majority. While it may seem like "everyone" on campus is partying at keggers, surveys from the Core Institute at Southern Illinois University reveal that on most campuses, fewer than half the students "binge" drink (down five or more drinks on one occasion).

At Michigan State, you can meet other students who share your views on alcohol abuse through Project IMPACT groups at Student Services 101, a social mentoring program for alcohol-free freshmen. Many campuses have similar programs through their student services centers. You might also consider moving to alcohol-free living accommodations to reduce disruptions from intoxicated roommates. That's an option at MSU as well as more and more campuses around the country.

Your roommate who downed 13 drinks in an evening engaged in very high-risk behavior that could have led to injury or even death. I urge you to persuade her to get some assistance through the student health services' "Alcohol and Other Drugs Program" before another campus tragedy occurs.

For referral to other resources to learn more about college alcohol problems and their solution, contact the National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information. It's a free government service. The toll-free phone number is 1-800-729-6886, and the Web site is: www.college.health.org.

I am pleased that taping the letter from "Grieving and Alone" in your journal helps you. I hope that someone will post your letter where many others can benefit from your wise and courageous example. Thank you for writing. You've given me one more reason to be optimistic about your generation.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Follow through on what you feel is right with a respected person in your life. You succeed beyond your wildest dreams. Start thinking about the holidays and bringing friends together. Your invitation means a lot to others. Tonight: Out and about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Reach out to people who are at a distance. Start making plans for the holidays. Talks with a dear friend open up. More focused energy makes this tie even closer. Lay your cards on the table. Clear up a misunderstanding. Tonight: Put some of the old fire into a relationship.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Popularity is high. Choose your company with care. You opt to spend quality time with a partner. Be more nurturing, open and willing to grow. Understand a loved one or friend better by putting yourself in his shoes. Tonight: Make quality time for someone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Let others play a bigger role in your plans. You discover new options and different types of fun things to do. Start thinking about the holidays; make some plans. Your caring comes out naturally. Let a loved one tempt you into doing what he wants. Tonight: Have a good time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Everyone needs to recharge his batteries, and you are no exception! Finally, you can talk about deeper feelings. Concentrate on the pleasures in your life, be it a child, a favorite hobby or a new flirtation. Tonight: Have a good time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Allow more fun in your life. Chat up a storm, and share with others. An encounter has you sitting back and thinking. Mull over a chat, but don't lose your playful attitude. Take time for a favorite family activity revolving around the holidays. Tonight: Dance the night away.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Invite friends over for a get-together. Laughter and conversation mix easily. Talk about a home purchase with those involved. You will be pleased by other people's responses. Return calls. Visit someone who may not be mobile. Tonight: Order a pizza.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Say what you feel. Don't hedge; be direct. You think you know what someone is going to say, but you can't be sure. Call a friend you've been thinking about. Make your holiday card and gift list. You can have more control of your budget. Tonight: Meet friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Spending is rarely a problem for you; don't expect today to be any different. Count on your intuition to tell you where to spend. Your energy charges up as the sun moves into your sign. Think about your birthday resolutions. Tonight: Whatever makes you feel good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You know what you want and what works for you. A friend calls; you like being with this person. If single, an encounter today could start turning a dream into reality. Be receptive to new faces, different styles and someone's startling insight. Tonight: Call the shots!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Follow through on what you want. Clearly, you put someone on a pedestal. Is this realistic? Intuition serves you well with a must appearance, though you are in the mood to play it low-key and vanish. Take some time for yourself. Tonight: Curl up with a good book.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Join friends, though you'll want to make a special effort for someone who is at a distance. Perhaps a phone call or planning a visit could work. Breaking away from your day-to-day setting recharges your batteries and freshens your perspective. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The only pass that came his way was two yards behind him and into the dirt. Double-covered and double-frustrated Michael Irvin's 117-game receiving streak ended in Phoenix last Sunday.

Irvin spent two days off wondering if there was anything he should have done. In the old days, Irvin would have come off the field ranting that he wasn't getting the ball. Once he threw a helmet and hit Emmitt Smith in the knee.

But these are different times and a different coach with the Dallas Cowboys. Coach Chan Gailey feels statistics are for losers. Quarterback Troy Aikman seconds the notion. Irvin calmly discussed his frustrations on Thursday but came to the conclusion a 35-28 victory was much better than a 10-reception, no-win day.

"It's frustrating but I'll take this kind of frustration any time compared to the frustration we had last year," Irvin said, referring to the Cowboys 6-10 collapse that cost Barry Switzer his job. "We won the game. That's the ultimate goal."

FOOTBALL

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The only pass that came his way was two yards behind him and into the dirt. Double-covered and double-frustrated Michael Irvin's 117-game receiving streak ended in Phoenix last Sunday.

Irvin spent two days off wondering if there was anything he should have done. In the old days, Irvin would have come off the field ranting that he wasn't getting the ball. Once he threw a helmet and hit Emmitt Smith in the knee.

But these are different times and a different coach with the Dallas Cowboys. Coach Chan Gailey feels statistics are for losers. Quarterback Troy Aikman seconds the notion. Irvin calmly discussed his frustrations on Thursday but came to the conclusion a 35-28 victory was much better than a 10-reception, no-win day.

"It's frustrating but I'll take this kind of frustration any time compared to the frustration we had last year," Irvin said, referring to the Cowboys 6-10 collapse that cost Barry Switzer his job. "We won the game. That's the ultimate goal." The last time Irvin was shut out was Dec. 23, 1990, in a loss to Philadelphia.

Tailback is tops for Riverside

PAMPA — Two of the primary reasons the Harris Ratings has El Paso Riverside as a 7-point favorite over Pampa are tailback Michael Flores and offensive guard Saumane Kennach.

"Flores seems to be the main catalyst for the offense," said PHS head coach Dennis Cavalier. "Besides running the ball, he's also used as a receiver. He's a standout player."

Kennach, who weighs right at the 300 mark, is a returning starter and a possible major college prospect.

"He's not only big, but he's mobile. He's the leader of the pack up front," Cavalier said.

Riverside's defense has an experienced group with nine returning starters from last season.

Linebackers Art Villegas and Pablo Garcia are both seniors and hard-nosed players.

They are among the team's top tacklers.

Pampa (9-2) meets Riverside (11-0) at 3 p.m. CST Saturday at Rangers Stadium in El Paso.

Originally the Harvesters were looking at a neutral site, possibly Odessa, to play the area contest, but that changed when Riverside wanted a home and home coin flip.

Borger is playing at Odessa tonight against El Paso Burges in another 4A area tilt.

Top teams try to stay in Fiesta Bowl chase

By The Associated Press

Five teams, two openings.

That's the outlook for the Fiesta Bowl heading into one of the last big weekends of the college football season.

Five teams still have a realistic shot at going to the Fiesta Bowl, which will match the top two teams in the Bowl Championship Series standings. And all five teams face tough challenges on Saturday.

Tennessee (9-0), which is No. 1 in the BCS rankings and The Associated Press poll, plays host to Kentucky (7-3).

UCLA (9-0), ranked No. 2 in the BCS and No. 3 by the AP, plays crosstown rival Southern California (7-3) at the Rose Bowl.

Kansas State (10-0), No. 3 in the BCS and No. 2 in AP, visits No. 19 Missouri (7-3).

Florida State (10-1), No. 4 in the BCS and No. 5 in AP, plays host to Florida (9-1), No. 5 in the BCS and No. 4 in AP.

In other Top 25 games, it's No. 11 Michigan at No. 7 Ohio State; No. 9 Arkansas at Mississippi State; LSU at No. 10 Notre Dame; Houston at No. 12 Tulane; No. 16 Penn State at No. 13 Wisconsin; Mississippi at No. 14 Georgia; No. 15 Oregon at Oregon State; Rice at No. 20 Air Force; Wake Forest at No. 21 Georgia Tech; Rutgers at No. 23 Virginia Tech; and No. 24 Syracuse at Temple.

Tennessee, which needed a fumble recovery and last-second touchdown to beat Arkansas last week, can clinch a berth in the Southeastern Conference title game by beating Kentucky.

Quarterback Tee Martin said the Volunteers want to avoid the desperate feeling they had last week when it appeared they were going to lose to Arkansas.

"For every game the rest of the season, we're going to remember that feeling and try to avoid it," he said.

Alyssa Bromwell, daughter of Bert and Christy Bromwell, competed recently at the North Texas State Gymnastics Championships for Level 6 gymnasts. She went against over 50 gymnasts for the right to participate in the Texas State Championships in December. Bromwell finished 15th on the balance beam at the meet and scored well enough to qualify for state. She trains at Gymnastics of Pampa under coach Kristi Fatheree.

OSU hopes to send seniors out with win over Baylor

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — The 14 seniors who will play Saturday for Oklahoma State helped provide a foundation for a program coach Bob Simmons believes is clearly headed in the right direction.

He would like a victory over Baylor so his seniors' final game is one they will remember fondly.

"As we close out their careers, they can remember certain things they have been part of," Simmons said. "They have been a great asset to this program, a great asset in terms of leading this football team."

Baylor committed four turnovers and had a punt blocked for a touchdown in its 28-16 loss to Oklahoma.

"Any time you turn the ball over, you struggle to win, although our defense I thought played pretty well," coach Dave Roberts said.

The Bears have been unsettled at quarterback and have struggled with their running game. They gained only 67 yards on the ground against Oklahoma, which uses the same defensive scheme as Oklahoma State.

Simmons said Baylor will have much better players than the Cowboys saw in their 44-20 victory over Southwest

Louisiana last week, although Roberts said his team still has a long way to go before it is a consistent threat in the Big 12.

"At some point we've been competitive and at other times we haven't even been close," he said. "I think our kids are playing very, very hard. We're making up some ground, we've got some ground to make up."

"It seems like everybody's got these 300-pounders across the front. Everybody's got a premier running back.... We need to get somewhere close to that to get competitive and we need to be able to run the foot-

These seniors were part of three victories in four years against in-state rival Oklahoma.

They were part of a team that last year won eight games and went to a bowl, something that had not happened at OSU since 1988.

This season has been far more disappointing.

The Cowboys hoped to have another winning season and return to another bowl game, but an early loss to Tulsa and near-miss losses to Nebraska and Texas kept that from happening.

A victory Saturday would leave the Cowboys 5-6 overall, 3-5 in the Big 12. It also, Simmons says, would provide something of a springboard heading into the offseason and next spring.

"I think the future is promising because there is a lot of kids coming back. I think the major players are coming back for next year," Simmons said.

Baylor (2-8, 1-6) is closing out a year in which the Bears played one of the toughest schedules in the nation. Prior to losing at home to Oklahoma last week, the Bears had played Texas A&M, Texas, Notre Dame and Kansas State.

Sosa claims MVP honors

CHICAGO (AP) — Sammy Sosa's been a roving ambassador for baseball and the Dominican Republic, piling up frequent flyer miles the last six weeks as he circled the globe after his greatest season.

He finally made a quick stopover at Wrigley Field on Thursday, a 24-hour respite so he could do something important for himself — pick up the National League Most Valuable Player award.

He didn't beat Mark McGwire in the greatest home run derby ever, but Sosa routed his good friend and long ball contemporary in balloting for the award as his league's MVP.

"In my heart, Mark's still the man. I would have voted for Mark. I always said I was pulling for him. Sixty-six was good enough for me. He hit 70 and I was happy for him," Sosa said Thursday.

Sosa's remarkable year — a .308 average, 66 home runs and 158 RBIs — propelled the Chicago Cubs to their first postseason trip since 1989 and won him respect throughout baseball. It also got him 30 of 32 first-place votes and 438 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

McGwire, the first to pass Roger Maris' hallowed 61 before finishing with 70 homers, garnered the other two first-place votes and 272 points.

Sosa landed in Chicago from Japan, where he was a member of a touring major league team.

OHS

For women who test positive, WIC and maternity care nurses teach expectant mothers everything they need to know to ensure a healthy pregnancy. The WIC program answers questions about breastfeeding, offers vouchers for healthy foods and provides ongoing nutrition education classes.

OHS maternity care nurses give pregnant women solid advice on how to take care of themselves so their baby will be born in the best possible health.

Counseling topics range from eating a well-balanced diet to the importance of avoiding alcohol, cigarettes and any drugs that have not been approved by a doctor.

For women who test negative, OHS can help with family planning counseling to provide information ranging from birth control options to women's health issues.

"Getting women in early to learn about a possible pregnancy creates a valuable opportunity to enroll them in the programs they need for their health and the health of their baby," said Easley.

Outreach Health Services has been a Texas health care provider for more than 20 years, and currently serves more than 60,000 Texans each month. In addition to offering free pregnancy tests, Outreach Health Services offers a wide variety of health services that may include WIC, family planning, maternity care, Texas Health Steps (well-child) screenings and immunizations.

For more information or if you know someone who could benefit from this free service, call your local Outreach Health Services clinic or 1-800-200-7121.

Students trash school at lunchtime

SAN BENITO, Texas (AP) — About 100 students smashed windows and toppled furniture during a lunchtime melee at San Benito High School.

School officials detained about 40 students suspected of damaging campus property during Thursday's ruckus.

The students apparently rioted to protest the school's new closed-campus policy. This is the first year that students may not leave campus for lunch.

Celia Longoria, community relations officer with the San Benito Police Department, said the brawl began when a group of students refused to report to class after the first lunch period of the day.

Ms. Longoria told the (Harlingen) Valley Morning Star that when security guards told them to report to class, the students threw apples at them.

District officials reported no injuries from the melee, but some students said they saw several people hurt.

Square House announces exhibit by Hopi artist Gregory Lomayesva

PANHANDLE — The Square House Museum in Panhandle will display the paintings and carvings of Santa Fe artist Gregory Lomayesva. Young, controversial, Hopi, and commercially successful, he will be in Panhandle on Sunday, Nov. 22 for a reception in the gallery beginning at 2:30 p.m. His show, "Untitled Works of Gregory Lomayesva," can be viewed from Nov. 22-Jan. 3. The gallery is open Monday-Saturday from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and on Sunday from 1-5 p.m.

Writes Dottie Indyke in "India Artist" magazine: "Despite dropping out of school in the ninth grade, there is wisdom and vision about Gregory Lomayesva that belies his 26 years. Moreover, his commercial success is outpacing that of artists twice his age. His pieces sell as fast as he can make them."

"The son of Bill Lomayesva, a carver and jewelry designer, and Maria Romero, an acclaimed carver of wooden saints, the young Lomayesva grew up in Santa Fe. He speaks in the vernacular of contemporary 20-something America, and his art reflects popular culture, combining the familiar logos of Pirelli tires and "Vogue" magazine with his interpretations of Hopi imagery. With one foot planted in each world and a firm grip on his chosen work, Lomayesva is a lightning rod for controversy, his major clash being with his own tribe, which they continue to work out."

When asked what attracts people to his work,

Lomayesva said, "It's hard to define. Some Indian art collectors like it as a breath of fresh air. They'll say, 'Wow, you're combining different aspects of two cultures!' I incorporate advertising into my paintings, or just things I like. You'll find Stealth bombers and things to do with planes. Not only is it a cool plane, everything about it is precision art. I love welding, mechanical engineering, drafting. I appreciate design."

In the 1997 "Indian Artist" magazine interview, Lomayesva was asked what he was up to now. In addition to a project for the Inn at Loretto (in Santa Fe), he "... just hooked up with the First People's Gallery in New York, and they want 15 paintings right off the bat. And the Museum of Northern Arizona assigned me a show for next year. I just finished a little show at the Wheelwright Museum. My work was in the Case Trading Post downstairs, and Dan Namingha was upstairs. I wanted to call the show 'Greg Lomayesva in the Basement Below Dan the Man'."

While Lomayesvas now hang with art by Dan Namingha, Tony Abeyta and Allan Houser, he would still prefer to be associated with Warhols and Rauschenbergs. "I want to be in that posse more than the other. I like the contrast of being Hopi and being in New York. I like combining Hopi symbolism and the commercial aspect. It's not so much being a Hopi artist doing Hopi things, it's more like being a contemporary artist of Hopi heritage."
