PAMPA — The Pampa Red Cross Office is taking applications for volunteers who are qualified to take readings for blood pressure and blood sugar one day a week. The volunteers must be trained and qualified to do the readings. Anyone interested should contact the Red Cross at 108 N. Russell in Pampa or call 669-7121.

No ticket matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The ticket would have been worth an estimated $14 million. The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 1-23-41-43-47-49. Saturday night's drawing will be worth an estimated $19 million.

CORPUS CHRISTI, (AP) — A Corpus Christi-area man was sentenced to nearly 500 years in prison after he admitted he sexually molested five young girls and used some of them to produce stacks of child pornography. Jeffrey Alan Orr, 50, of Flour Bluff, will never have a chance to be paroled. Orr pleaded guilty Wednesday to nearly 200 separate counts, including four counts of indecency with a child and more than 150 counts of possession of child pornography.

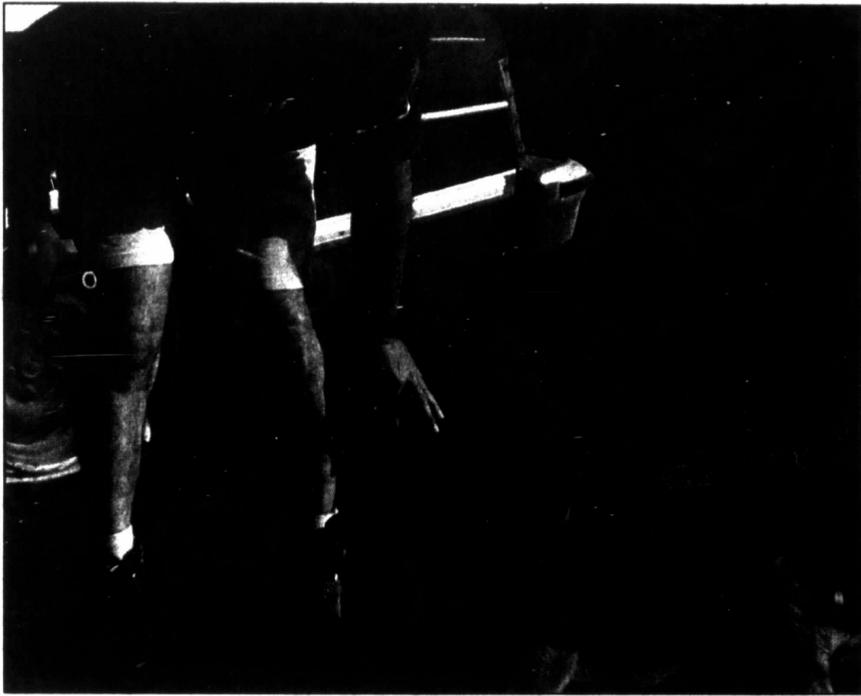

- Harold 'Diz' Conner, 63, retired oil field pumper.
- Marguerite E. Martin, 82, former employee of Hi-Way Cafe, Heard and Jones Pharmacy and Malone Pharmacy.

Drug bust... Three Pampans charged

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

A tip that drugs were being brought into Pampa by car sent local officers into action and after a brief high-speed chase three city men were nabbed. The trio, arrested at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, face charges of possession of crack cocaine and were in the Gray County Jail late this morning awaiting arraignment. Those arrested were Rhoston Odell Young, 24, 1044 Huff; Patrick Lee Edwards, 21, 1164 Varnon; and Felix Wilburt Scott, 24, 1169 Huff. Young reports that almost $1,000 in cash was also seized as evidence from Edwards. The Pampa Police Department received a tip the three would be bringing cocaine into the city and had unmarked units following the car before it got into Pampa, said Sgt. Terry Young. He would not reveal from where the men had traveled. Police report the suspects drove on some back roads at high speeds to avoid being tailed but the undercover car was able to track them until the car reached McMullough and Barrett where a marked police unit attempted to make the stop. The vehicle attempted to run but hit a curb and blew out a rear tire on the 1978 Thunderbird. Police reports indicate someone in the car threw out three "cookies" of crack cocaine, which were recovered. All three men were arrested on charges of possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute. A drug dog owned Curtis Dalton was called in to search the vehicle but no additional drugs were discovered. According to Sgt. Young, the cookies weighed out at 64.5 grams, or 2.3 ounces (28 grams make one ounce). The estimated street price of the narcotics is between $6,500 and $7,000. "This was a cooperative effort by citizens of Pampa and the Pampa Police Department. It's an example of the efforts of Pampa to try and rid itself of drugs," Young said.

Judge denies defense motion in cocaine case

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Despite an apparent misunderstanding in the language used to request a car search, evidence surrounding a traffic stop last September on the east side of Pampa will be used in the drug case of Carlos Regalado. Judge M. Kent Sims in 31st District Court Wednesday afternoon denied Regalado's motion to suppress evidence in his case concerning possession of a controlled substance. Regalado, 52, was arrested Sept. 8, 1997, near the intersection of Dwight and U.S. 60 after law enforcement officers received an anonymous phone call saying he was transporting drugs. Ken Fields, Regalado's attorney, cited case law during Wednesday's pretrial hearing indicating that acting on an unsubstantiated anonymous tip was not reason enough to stop and search a vehicle. Authorities said Pampa police received a 911 call on Sept. 8, from a person at a pay phone who refused to identify himself, saying only that a late model

Gov. Bush proposes $400 million tax cut

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. George W. Bush today became the latest candidate to propose a tax cut as the state government enjoys a $3.7 billion projected budget surplus. Bush said he would push repeal of several sales tax levies totaling $400 million. His plan includes repealing the taxes on over-the-counter medicines, such as aspirin and cold medications; diapers; first-aid items; and access to the computer Internet.

PEDC gives $55,000 grant to rehab unit

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

After some criticism from members of the public, and some requests for clarification from the board of directors, the Pampa Economic Development Corporation agreed to give a grant of $55,000 to help fund the Gray County Juvenile Facility on Hobart Street. The facility will use the building next to NBC Plaza that is currently being used by Columbia Medical Center as temporary housing for nurses. It is owned by the county and was used in the 60s to house nurses when the county owned a hospital where NBC bank is now. The county has applied for a state grant to fund the first year of the facility. County Judge Richard Peet anticipates revenues from housing juveniles drug offenders from other counties will pay for its continued operation. Peet told the PEDC the state, which is considering the request, informed the county last week certain items in the request can not be funded by the grant. The amount of the request was reduced from just over $903,000 to $774,000. Among the items the state said it can not fund are a dietitian, cook and some rehab, according to Peet. He said those items have to be paid for somehow and that is why he

A New Mexico man is dead today and a Borger man is recovering after a pipeline accident happened about three-fourths mile west of Phillips Petroleum Co. Refinery in Borger. Following the 4:52 p.m. accident Wednesday, Loren Hemming, 51, of Eunice, N.M., was pronounced dead at Great Plains Community Hospital in Borger, said Hutchinson County Deputy Sheriff Eric Forseth. Injured was Bill Keel, 45, of Borger. The men worked for Enerpipe Corp. of Amarillo and were part of a construction crew contracted by GPM, a Phillips division, to lay 4.2 miles of new 24-inch pipe, an Enerpipe spokesman told The Pampa News. The accident occurred in an open ditch when the men were welding two pipes together, the deputy said. They were fitting

Burton pledges defiance, Demos demanding proof of intimidation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Dan Burton says he won't be stopped by "friends of the president" he claims are trying to intimidate him and other Republicans into halting investigations of President Clinton's campaign-finance activities.

"I can tell you one guy that's not going to be intimidated, and that's the guy you're looking at," Burton declared Wednesday. "We're not backing down on this investigation a half-inch, no matter what they do."

The top Democrat on Burton's investigative panel quickly challenged him to come up with evidence to support his allegations at town meetings in Indiana that the White House inspired a "scandal story" about him in a future edition of the magazine Vanity Fair and is spreading rumors designed to intimidate him.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said Burton is obligated to produce proof of his allegations.

"If he has evidence, he ought to come forward with that evidence," Waxman said. "Otherwise, for him to say that the administration or the White House is responsible for somebody looking into his personal life, I think, is absurd. The press ought to hold him responsible."

The magazine has denied that any such story is scheduled or that it is working with the White House.

Burton did not offer details Wednesday in Washington, refusing reporters' requests that he name people who are trying to harm him.

"I think they're trying to send a message through me to all of my colleagues on Capitol Hill who may feel inclined to really want to push this issue," said Burton, an Indiana Republican whose House Government Reform and Oversight Committee is investigating Clinton's 1996 campaign finances.

It was the second time this week that Burton contended Clinton's associates and Vanity Fair were looking into his private life. On Monday, he acknowledged his 38-year marriage had had rocky periods and apologized to constituents in advance for details that might appear in the magazine in coming weeks.

PEDC

came to the PEDC. Several of the board members questioned whether the Gray County Commissioners Court has given final approval to the facility.

Peet had copies of resolutions in which the court had authorized asking for the grant and approving the payment of the quarter county match the state requires.

President of the PEDC board of directors Lewis Meers asked, "Will there be another vote required by the Commission to approve this facility?"

Peet said he did not believe that is necessary, saying the votes already taken were an approval of the facility.

PEDC board member Richard Stowers said, "I have strong reservations, not necessarily about the project but with the location, the tie in with the commissioner's court's support of it and whether it should even be brought to this board for a vote."

Meers said the facility is an economic development issue because 20 jobs could be created by the facility.

Two Pampa residents were present to protest the facility and asked that the PEDC not help with funding.

Gene Barber said he is opposed to the location and said, "I don't believe the commissioners have made themselves available" to discuss the idea.

Ken Olsen said he doesn't believe the facility has been discussed enough and would like the funding put up to a bond election.

PEDC board member Roger David, who had questioned the judge on whether or not the county commission needed another vote, disagreed that the issue had not been properly discussed.

"I attended a public meeting that was jam-packed with people," David said. "Now, whether I'm for or against it I don't really have any doubt that the public isn't aware of this [juvenile facility] in some shape or form. I have to say there was adequate public hearing, that was very well attended."

Peet said that any information he has on the facility or the financing is available if a citizen requests it.

David then pointed out that Chief Juvenile Officer Albert Nichols said if the facility isn't successful in two years it should be shut down. David then asked Peet if he feels that making the county repay the grant if the facility closed down after two years is fair. Peet said if he were on the PEDC board he'd make such a contingency.

David then made the motion to approve a grant of $55,000 for the facility that will have to be repaid if the facility is not operating after two and a half years. The motion was approved on a 3-to-1 vote with Stowers voting against the grant. Board member Jerry Foote was not present. Meers and Riley Kothmann voted with David to approve the grant.

the pipes together with the help of heavy machinery, cables and clamps. A clamp holding one of the pipes came loose, causing the pipe to flip back and hit the men, pinning both against the embankment.

No one at Phillips was available for comment this morning and a woman who answered the phone in the office of Lake Ellis, Phillips refinery spokesman, said Ellis was in a meeting and is referring all inquires to Enerpipe.

At Enerpipe, officials were not available. A spokesperson there said "they are doing an investigation." She read a statement which reflected the information in the sheriff's report.

Keel, she said, had worked for the company nine years and is recovering from a fractured pelvis. He is in Baptist St. Anthony Hospital in Amarillo.

Hemming had worked for the company on several occasions and his latest hire date was in May, the Enerpipe spokesman said.

BUSH

Bush also proposed a two-week "sales tax holiday" on clothing and footwear during the back-to-school period.

"This is a tax cut for the people who pay the bills, the moms and dads who buy diapers and school clothes for their children, and the senior citizens who spend a disproportionate share of their income on over-the-counter medications," Bush said.

Bush's Democratic opponent, Garry Mauro, launched his campaign last year with a proposal to eliminate the state sales tax on cars, pickup trucks and minivans.

And on Wednesday, state Comptroller John Sharp, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, proposed a limited state sales tax moratorium designed to give some of the budget surplus back to taxpayers.

Sharp's plan calls for all clothing under $50 and school supplies to be exempted from the state's 6.25 percent sales tax for two weeks beginning Aug. 15, 1999.

Texas would save an estimated $80.3 million as a result — more if Texas cities agree to waive their 2 percent sales tax for the same period.

Texans would save an estimated $80.3 million as a result — more if Texas cities agree to waive their 2 percent sales tax for the same period.

A spokesman for Sharp's Republican opponent, state Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry, said Perry would support Bush's plan.

Noon stock report shows Dow Jones down 86.51 points

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks fell this morning, extending a slide that began late Wednesday and halted a partial rebound from Monday's brutal selloff.

At noon on Wall Street, the Dow Jones industrial average was down 86.51 at 7,695.86 after sliding by as much as 150 points near the open.

Broader stock indicators also recovered partially from an early hit after a weak showing on European markets, which have been rattled by Russia's deepening economic crisis, added to the negative tone created by Wednesday's late downturn on Wall Street.

The Dow rose as much as 125 points Wednesday afternoon after rallying 288 points on Tuesday, but a late sell-off left the blue-chip measure 45 points lower at the close.

Earlier this week, a 512-point plunge on Monday and a 138-point slide Tuesday morning pushed the Dow as low as 7,400, a drop of nearly 2,000 points from the July 17 record of 9,337.97.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index was down 9.09 at 981.38 today, and the technology-heavy Nasdaq composite index was down 16.55 at 1,576.30.

Declining issues outnumbered advancers by a 5-to-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume came to 382.00 million shares, on par with the hectic pace of the past week.

The NYSE composite index was down 5.36 at 489.27, and the American Stock Exchange composite index was down 5.17 at 597.44.

King's Chorus to perform at Chautauqua celebration

By LARRY BROWN AND BILL COX
For the News

In most choruses, one must try out or compete for a part, but not in the King's Chorus. It doesn't even matter how well you sing, for there is, quite simply, no competition for parts among its members. The only stipulation the King has, is that you sing your very best!

Most choruses perform for different audiences, but not the King's Chorus; they only sing praises for the King and to one another.

Most choruses are very particular about what part you sing whether: Bass, tenor, soprano or alto, but, strangely enough, not the King's Chorus. For you see, the King is very unusual, as far as kings go, for He hears music in a very peculiar way, He listens to the heart!

And, as far as choral performances go, the grapevine has it that other choirs sound far better than the King's Chorus; and, that they attract larger crowds of listeners; yet, when the King's Chorus performs, the King always beams with pride and never loses the look of love and admiration, nor the splendid rapport He has with each member!

Of course, the King has heard the finest groups with the best voices perform, but no chorus has ever duplicated the look of deep satisfaction that the King has when He listens to His chorus!

One day, a world renown chorus performed for the King. And, one of its members had been a former member of the King's Chorus who felt his musical skills had far surpassed that of the King's Chorus. He thought the King should have recognized his superior talents and abilities. After their best performance, the ex-chorus member noticed that they had failed to engender that look of love and admiration that the King's Chorus produced. Somewhat bewildered, the ex-member addressed the King.

"Oh, exalted King, seeing that I once belonged to Your Chorus, and, now have performed a return engagement, may I ask You one question?" With The King's blessing he asked, "I joined this group of world renown singers that I might favorably impress You, oh, King, for no finer voices, no finer musical talent than these exists in all the earth! Yet, by Your facial expression, I see that You enjoyed Your Chorus' renditions far better than ours. Would You be so kind as to give me the reason why You enjoyed their performance best?"

The King looked on the man with humble compassion and said, "I agree, your chorus has the finest trained voices in all the land, and are very enjoyable to listen to, but, I, the King, listen not entirely to sound that is pleasing to the ear, for I listen to the sound of one's heart. It takes a combination of both voice and heart to really satisfy my soul!"

Alas, the King's ex-chorus member's countenance fell for he finally realized that he had only been singing to please himself and not the King, nor His royal subjects, and really, no one was helped by his singing.

The King's Chorus will be performing the following contemporary Christian music, acappella, at Chautauqua Monday, Sept. 7 in Central Park: "Highest Place," "Faithful Love," "As the Deer," "The Steadfast Love of the Lord," "Holy Ground" and "Day Is Dying in the West." Tim Walker will direct the choir.

TFB issues call to action

WACO — The president of the Texas Farm Bureau issued a call to action to the membership, saying the 1998 drought has produced a Texas-sized disaster of catastrophic proportions.

"Let's be honest," said Bob Stallman, president of the state's largest farm group. "Low interest loans are not the solution by themselves because more debt is the last thing that many farmers and ranchers need."

Stallman, a rice producer from Columbus, warned that some very good agricultural producers will be lost this year. The federal Farm Service Agency estimates that as many as 30 percent of Texas producers could go out of business this year.

With less than a month remaining before Congressional adjournment, Stallman urged Farm Bureau members and other farmers to contact their representatives in Congress immediately.

Stallman said the drought crisis is growing in magnitude daily, and recent spotty rains have done little to relieve the situation.

"Texas agriculture is already looking at a $2.1 billion direct impact on farm and ranch families," Stallman said. "The overall impact on the Texas economy is now pushing $6 billion."

Stallman cited the failure of federal crop insurance programs and last year's removal of many traditional disaster programs as part of the problem.

Taken together, Stallman said, the droughts of 1996 and 1998, have had a cumulative and disastrous effect.

"Without immediate and substantial assistance, many Texas farm families will leave the land before this year is over," he said.

Stallman urged Farm Bureau members to contact their members of Congress and urge passage of a major disaster relief that will provide direct financial assistance to producers.

"The safety net of previous farm programs is gone, and the only responsible action is to take immediate steps to preserve family farms and ranches," Stallman said.

National finals Junior Ranch Rodeo returns to Amarillo

AMARILLO — The nation's rankiest stick broncos, fastest wooden horses and meanest mutton busters meet in a showdown at the Tri-State Fairgrounds beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 24 for the second annual National Finals Junior Ranch Rodeo hosted by the Tri-State Fair. Only the toughest little wranglers will walk away with the title of rodeo champion.

Contestants between the ages of 4-12 compete in five different events — barrel racing, cow doctoring, calf scramble and pony express race and mutton busting — for a chance to fulfill their gold buckle dreams.

Each contestant receives an official NFJRR T-shirt. The top three winners in each event earn championship plaques with the all-around cowpoke in each age category taking home their own trophy buckle.

Last year's event saw 60 of the panhandle's smallest cowboys and cowgirls competing on 15 teams.

"1997 was the first year for the event, and the kids had a lot of fun," said Cheri Christensen, the fair's general manager. "We hope to have even more fun this year with more contestants and more awards."

Contestants may enter as teams or individuals. Entries are limited to the first 10 individuals or teams in each event, so hurry to get your entry forms in.

For more information, contact the Tri-State Fair Office at (806) 376-7767.

Symphony to light up Labor Day display

AMARILLO — Cellular One of Amarillo will sponsor the annual Labor Day fireworks display on Sept. 7 at Don Harrington Discovery Center in Amarillo for the ninth year in a row. The festivities will begin at dusk and will coincide with the performance of the Amarillo Symphony.

This year's fireworks will again be coordinated for Cellular One by the Gucci family. The Gucci's have produced fireworks displays for the American Bicentennial, Statue of Liberty Celebration, Los Angeles Olympics, Bush and Clinton Inaugurations, Desert Storm national troop homecoming, 150th birthday celebration of the Smithsonian Institute, and much more.

Danny McWhorter, vice president and general manager of Cellular One of Amarillo, noted regarding the fireworks and Cellular One's sponsorship, "Throughout the years, we have used our sponsorship of the Labor Day fireworks to say thank you to the many citizens of Amarillo and the surrounding areas who have made Cellular One of Amarillo such a big success."

The joint symphony-fireworks program will be simulcast at 8 p.m. over Amarillo's KMMML Radio at 96.9 FM and KIXZ Radio at 94.0 AM.

The shopping nightmare

Builders Square is bad for a marriage. After this last weekend, my husband and I made the commitment to never spend three and a half hours at that store while in each other's presence ever again.

It didn't start out bad — a lot of things never do. I think that's part of the reason why things seem so bad after everything's said and done. (Except for the movie, "The Avengers." That was the worst movie I've ever seen from start to finish and I wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy.)

When we first walked through the door, and we gazed into the warehouse of home remodeling possibilities, I said to myself "This could easily become my new favorite store."

With light fixtures, and closet organizers, and wall paper and shiny door knobs, and those cute little kitchen cabinet demo's, a home owner can feel a little like he or she is in a house-decor-version of Disneyland. It's overwhelming. So many possibilities down every aisle. And there were at least 50 aisles.

First of all, I was excited with the fact that I was excited to be in Builders Square. It somehow meant I was crossing over the final bridge to adulthood. (I have horrible memories of my dad dragging me around hardware stores as a kid.)

But the terrible experience I had in this store on Saturday had nothing to do with the fact that we wanted to spend thousands of dollars there that we didn't have. I was prepared to find plenty of things to buy that I never knew I needed before; I'm confronted with that feeling no matter what store I walk into these days.

No, my problems at Builders Square came from within.

Random Revelations
Miranda G. Bailey
Pampa News staff writer

See, I like to get things and go. My main man, Mark, he likes to be thorough and linger.

These two qualities, while they can work together in some ways, do not go good when you're stuck in home-repair-hell together.

We both scoped the store in the same manner. We both like to see everything the "world" has to offer.

But I'm what they call a compulsive buyer. I see what I need. It's the price I thought it would be. Sometimes it's not. But, it looks good. Let's go, and be on our way. When your better half is the shop-n-compare type, things can get complicated.

Little comments about the price of the Pampa delivery charge can soon turn into snide remarks about my brother's dog bashing in the sliding glass door.

And snide remarks concerning the price difference between metal French doors versus wood French doors, turn into a nagging argument about when we're going to have time to build our own door frame if we don't get the ready-made one. Throw in a small portion of indecisiveness from both parties on exactly how many screen door protective covers to buy, and before you know it, a war has been waged.

It didn't take much. But in a matter of minutes, we pretty much loathed one another. And like most humans, we spent a substantial amount of time discussing whose fault it was. Then we fought about it. And then we separated.

I went to the kitchen cabinets to ponder why I got married, while he sifted through the lumber thinking about why he stays married — all the while looking for suitable wood for shelves that we couldn't decide where to put, or how many to make.

In the end, it was the lumber department that brought us back together.

Perhaps it is their strategy to make you stand at the lumber counter, sweat, and wait for 40 minutes to place an order. Maybe they've got it all planned out over there so that when you get in line after fighting with your spouse, you just so happen to get that one new checker who has to do three separate transactions before you get out the door.

It's at this point when you're so frustrated with the inane checker who is putting shelf holders and strips of wood in your basket and asking, "Wow, that's a lot of wood and stuff. What are you gonna do with that?" that you forget exactly what all it was you fought about for three hours.

All you can do then is get in the car, make fun of the checker, swear to call the manager about the time you waited in line, and promise not to go back there for a very, very, long time... or you can watch your blood pressure go through the roof when you go see a very bad movie later that night, and make things even worse.

Your friendly IRS is seeing some change

Charles O. Rossotti, commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, has appointed a new top management team designed to implement what Rossotti describes as "a major, major change from top to bottom."

Such a change would be welcome, and we have no reason to doubt Rossotti's sincerity. But he is likely to have a more difficult time than he hopes in making changes stick, and the IRS is still operating within the context of the current tax code, which was always a bigger problem than the attitude and conduct of IRS employees.

Among the positions Rossotti filled was that of "taxpayer advocate," with W. Val Oveson, who has been chairman of the Utah State Tax Commission. He is credited with having streamlined the state's appeals process for taxpayers and creating a new mediation system.

The new law specifies that the taxpayer advocate not have worked at the IRS for two years prior to being appointed and it makes regional taxpayer advocates report to Oveson rather than to their local district directors. Both those provisions are healthy. But rather than appointing a state tax man, Rossotti might have thought about appointing one of the whistle blowers who have been forced or eased out of the agency — or maybe a citizen who has never worked in a tax agency.

Rossotti also appointed John LaFaver, now the revenue secretary for Kansas, to be deputy commissioner for modernization. Bob Wenzel, now the agency's chief operations officer will fill another deputy commissioner slot. And Paul Cosgrove, recently a technology consultant, will become the new IRS information officer. All will work on trying again to upgrade the IRS's computer system.

"From what I can see, most of these changes seem positive," J.D. Quisenberry said. He's the former IRS inspector whose charges 10 years ago of mismanagement and intentional violation of taxpayers' rights and IRS policies in the Oklahoma district led to the flurry of stories and hearings about IRS horror stories last fall. "But Mr. Rossotti needs to find a way to get in touch with the front-line employees to make any real changes, and I don't know if he can do it."

Despite all the horror stories of recent years, Quisenberry notes, none of the top managers responsible for wrongdoing has been brought to justice. If those top managers are advising Rossotti, introducing him to the culture and ways of the agency, being his eyes and ears, his prospects for making real changes are not very good.

Instead of holding management accountable, Congress in its reform bill made IRS front-line employees the only federal enforcement officers who can be sued for simple — not "gross" or "willful" but simple — negligence. "That means nobody will want to stick his neck out," says Quisenberry.

It would be helpful if the new IRS chief found a way to get honest feedback from employees who meet the public every day. "The computer system failed last time because they never really asked the front-line employees what they needed," says Quisenberry. "So who's giving him advice now? All the boneheads who screwed it up the last time?"

Rossotti seems to be well-intentioned and he has experience shaking things up in business. Whether he understands yet just how difficult it will be to make the IRS "user-friendly" or how to solve the age-old problem of getting honest feedback from mid-level employees are still open questions.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Sept. 3, the 246th day of 1998. There are 119 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Sept. 3, 1783, the Treaty of Paris between the United States and Great Britain officially ended the Revolutionary War.

On this date:
In 1189, England's King Richard I (the Lion-Hearted) was crowned in Westminster.

In 1939, Britain and France declared war on Germany, two days after the Nazi invasion of Poland.

In 1940, Artie Shaw and his Gramercy Five recorded "Summit Ridge Drive," "Special Delivery Stomp," "Keepin' Myself for You" and "Cross Your Heart" in Hollywood for RCA Victor.

In 1943, the British Eighth Army invaded Italy during World War II, the same day Italy signed a secret armistice with the allies.

In 1951, the television soap opera "Search for Tomorrow" made its debut on CBS.

In 1967, Nguyen Van Thieu was elected president of South Vietnam under a new constitution.

In 1970, football coach Vince Lombardi died in Washington, D.C.

Sensational cases make bad law

Early on the morning of May 25, 1997, police say, Jeremy Strohmeier and David Cash were patronizing a Nevada casino, where Strohmeier began playing hide-and-seek with a 7-year-old girl named Sherrice Iverson. But the game didn't last long. When she went into a restroom, he allegedly followed her in, sexually assaulted her and strangled her.

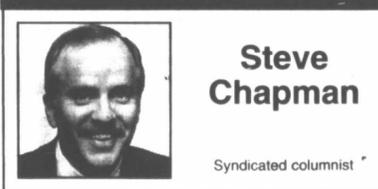

Strohmeier, who police say confessed to the crime but now insists he is innocent, went on trial Aug. 31. So justice will be done, right? Not in the view of Sherrice's mother, Yolanda Manuel, who is angry because only Strohmeier was charged.

Cash, by his account, went into the restroom after Strohmeier and saw him struggling with the girl. After briefly trying to persuade him to let her go, Cash walked out and waited for his friend instead of getting help. Even after Strohmeier emerged and said he had killed Sherrice, Cash did nothing.

But prosecutors, who have no evidence that he participated in the attack, say he can't be punished for doing nothing. "It may be a crime in the eyes of God," said Clark County District Attorney Stewart Bell, "but not in the eyes of the Nevada legislature."

Manuel, who lives in Los Angeles, thinks it should be, and so do a lot of other people. Twenty thousand Californians have signed a petition demanding action against Cash — a student at the University of California at Berkeley who has not helped his cause by saying he feels no remorse for what he did and even bragging that his notoriety has helped him get dates. Demands have also been made that Berkeley expel him.

The petition calls for Nevada to pass a "Good Samaritan" law making it a crime for anyone who has knowledge of a sexual assault on a child to fail to report it. Manuel also wants a federal law enacted. The New York Times says the campaign has the support of a broad coalition of conservatives and liberals, Christians and Muslims, blacks and whites (Sherrice was black; Strohmeier and Cash are white).

Steve Chapman
Syndicated columnist

But sensational cases make bad law. O.J. Simpson's acquittal doesn't mean we should scrap the jury system, and our inability to punish David Cash doesn't mean we should abandon a fundamental principle of Anglo-Saxon legal systems: that the government may put you in jail for hurting someone but not for declining to help someone. You have the right to mind your own business, even in extreme circumstances. Citizens may not be conscripted by police to serve as unpaid informants.

It's the very rarity of Cash's conduct that makes it shocking. Most people in his situation would either intervene or report the crime — even at the risk of harm to themselves. Cash, of course, did make an effort, however inadequate, to stop it. There is no national epidemic of wanton indifference that needs to be cured. Passing a law to express our disgust with one person is a terrible use of legislative power.

This proposed new law, of course, would have no effect whatsoever on Cash, who can be grateful for the constitutional ban on ex post facto laws.

And it's hard to see why it should be limited to sexual assaults on children: Why not any assaults on children? Why not sexual assaults on adults? Why not any violent crime?

But however it is worded, the law is not likely to ever be used as intended.

Vermont and Minnesota are cited as examples of states that have Good Samaritan laws. But they serve only a symbolic function. If Sherrice Iverson had been murdered in Minnesota, David Cash could get nothing worse than a fine of $50; in Vermont, $100.

Says John Docherty, an assistant attorney general in Minnesota, "It's no comfort at all. It's almost insulting." As far as he knows, the law has never been used. Sue Harritt, a spokesperson for the Vermont attorney general, says, "To my knowledge, no one has ever been cited under the law."

If the laws were enforced, prosecution would inevitably be capricious and selective. If someone drives down the street and sees a fight, is she required to find a phone and call the cops? Is a resident of a housing project obliged to invite retribution by ratting on the local gang leader? Should rural North Carolinians be punished if they see Eric Rudolph, the suspected abortion-clinic bomber, pilfering food and choose not to turn him in? Should a black person with a deep distrust of the police and the courts be prosecuted for refusing to help them? The number of people who could be affected is potentially vast.

A law like this may look innocuous, but it is a step toward changing our system from one in which the government tells us what we may not do to one in which the government tells what we must do. Tinker with a bedrock principle of American law that works well 99.9 percent of the time, and the consequences could be far worse than letting a single contemptible person go free.

Depression in baby boomers' future

Baby boomers who missed the Great Depression are going to be treated by Fate to their very own, or so it looks to me.

Whether it will be as severe as the 1930 Depression, I don't know, but that's what is starting, slowly but surely. Production capacity now exceeds demand. Too many factories around the world are making more stuff than people want or can afford to buy.

It's that "can afford" element of demand that confuses people whose vision is blurred by greed. Gee, 1 billion Chinese customers. No, there's more than 1 billion Chinese people but considerably fewer who can afford to buy much of anything.

That's why people can starve while grain rots in storage bins. How can people starve when there's so much food in the world? Because they can't afford to buy it, that's why. That's also the fallacy of the don't worry-about-population-increase crowd. Why look at the statistics on food production. Well, you can look at them, but what counts is what people can afford to buy, not how much somebody 5,000 miles away can produce.

Let me pause and give you a great tip that will help you wade through the postmodern horse manure that is being mass manufactured by special pleaders in this country.

Statistics count things and measure things. They do not and cannot prove anything. Furthermore, they are abstract mental concepts. They are not real. Wheat in Nebraska is real. A starving child in Sudan is real. Statistically you can show that food production equals food needs, but that has nothing, and I mean nothing, to do with the wheat in Nebraska and a dying child in Sudan.

Charley Reese
Syndicated columnist

So what happens when demand falls is that the producers begin to cut prices. As they cut prices, and bid for the shrinking number of buyers, they have to start cutting, expenses, which means layoffs. Some go bankrupt. More lose jobs. Every lost job is a reduction in demand because people out of work can't afford to buy much.

That's a truth American corporations seem to have forgotten. They seem to long for the day when they can produce their product without any workers. They do not seem to understand that if they ever do, they will also be producing a product for which there are no customers.

And, as the supply of jobs shrinks relative to the number of people who need jobs, the price of labor is bid down, so even when you get a job, you don't make as much. That's more reduction in demand. So many married women work today not because of feminism but because it's harder and harder for a single paycheck to maintain a decent standard of living.

Don't worry too much about the Dow Jones index. Heck, that's only 30 stocks of blue-chip companies. Watch how many stocks go down as opposed to how many go up. Watch commodity prices. They are way down. Oil, as of this writing, is about $11 a barrel. That's below what it costs an American oil producer to pump it. That tells you there isn't a great demand for oil right now.

Here's a told-you-so: Keep that $11-a-barrel oil in mind and go back to 1976-77, when Jimmy Carter and his CIA were telling the American people that the world was fast running out of oil and that it would soon be unaffordable. The independent petroleum producers pointed out some years ago that American politicians have been proclaiming the imminent end of oil production periodically since the turn of the century. Kind of like those end-of-the-world guys.

Anyway, what you baby boomers will discover is that depression means that the price of everything goes down — both products and labor. The cycle won't start again until there is some balance between production and demand.

Contrary to popular belief, Franklin Roosevelt didn't end the Great Depression. Adolf Hitler and World War II ended it. Maybe you'll get your own great war, too.

JUDGE

green Pontiac Grand Am was on its way to Pampa carrying drugs.

Gray County Sheriff's Deputy Dave O'Brien reported that he saw a car matching that description traveling toward Pampa on U.S. 60 and followed it. He testified that he was westbound on U.S. 60 when the eastbound car passed him. O'Brien testified that he thought the car was speeding and followed it. He testified that he stopped the car shortly before 9 p.m. Sept. 8, after it began weaving.

Fields, however, noted that a video tape of the traffic stop taken from a camera in O'Brien's car showed Regalado driving without weaving.

"Mr. Regalado drives better intoxicated than I drive sober," Fields said following the video which was played in court.

Fields also attacked inconsistencies in O'Brien's testimony and what he wrote in his report the night of the arrest.

Regalado, testifying through a translator, told the court he did not understand that officers wanted to search his car.

Department of Public Safety Troopers Lee

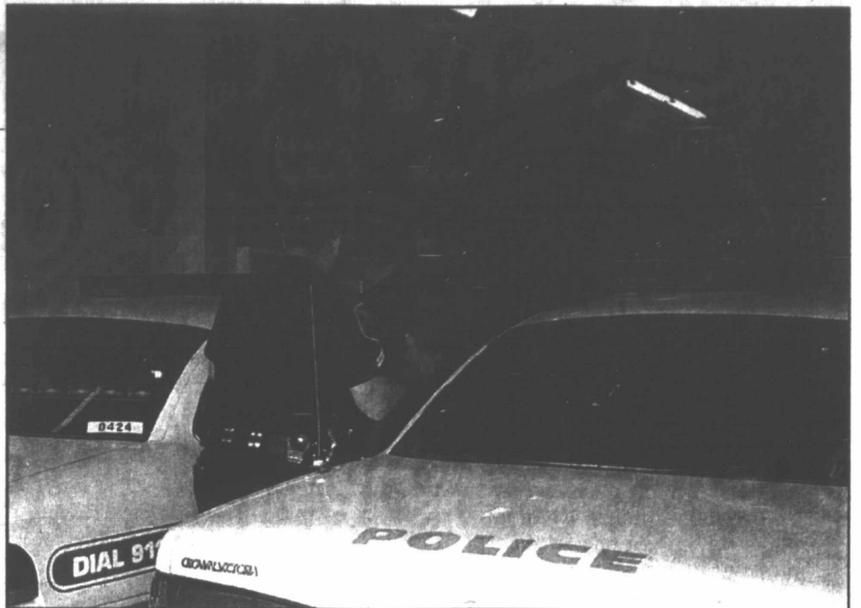

Coronado testified Wednesday that he and Trooper Ron Shank joined O'Brien and Coronado testified that he questioned Regalado in Spanish.

The translator, Eunice Moreno, testified that a word used by Coronado in asking permission to search the car, while proper Spanish, was not a slang term normally used in this area and that Regalado, who has a 4th grade education may not have understood the trooper.

Judge Sims, however, noted that O'Brien's statement, included in the defense motion to suppress the evidence, quoted Regalado as saying he wouldn't have given permission for the officers to search the car if he had known there were drugs in it.

Regalado and Juan C. Hernandez, 37, a passenger in the auto, were taken to the Gray County Sheriff's office where deputies searched the car and found a bag of white powder in the center air conditioning vent. Tests later indicated that it was about 12.88 grams of cocaine. Regalado and Hernandez were charged with possession of a controlled substance of more than four grams but less than 200 grams.

Regalado, who also tested between 0.123 and 0.118 on an intoxication test, was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Show double-checks data in Kennedy assassination

By ROBERT G. WIELAND
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — A film crew, technicians and dozens of spectators gathered at the site of President John F. Kennedy's assassination this morning for a laser beam experiment retracing the trajectory of the fatal bullet for a TV documentary.

Associated Television International is producing the film to be shown on the TNT cable channel in November. The makers plan to compare the results of the laser experiment with data submitted to the Warren Commission.

"It still does matter 35 years later. Maybe we can learn from this and put this terrible national tragedy partially to rest," Chuck Harter, a researcher from Los Angeles who is working for Associated Television said this morning.

"The JFK Assassination Files" is not trying to debunk the Warren Commission report that Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone gunman — or champion theories of a conspiracy, said producer Dan Goldman.

"The show will not be leaning or slant in any direction," Goldman said Wednesday as the production team set up equipment in Dealey Plaza, where Kennedy was gunned down on Nov. 22, 1963. Dallas police have agreed to close Elm Street for several hours Thursday and Friday as the crew films experts re-measuring the angles of bullets Oswald is believed to have fired from the sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository.

Laser measurements will also be made from the nearby grassy knoll and two other vantage points. A limousine convertible similar to the one that carried Kennedy has been rented to help recreate that fateful day.

Gary Mack, an archivist at the Sixth Floor Museum in the former School Book Depository, has been providing information requested for the documentary.

"We're a museum; that's what we do," Mack said. Goldman said the investigation would be as factual as possible "in as much as the information in the past 10 years seems to point away from the initial Warren Commission findings."

The commission depended heavily on a 1964 FBI recreation of the assassination, including angles and distances for possible gunshots.

Associated Television has hired its own team of experts, including an FBI firearms ballistics instructor, medical examiners and laser measurement specialists.

Swissair jet crashes into ocean; 229 on board; no survivors found

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — A flotilla of coast guard and fishing boats searching in the darkness early today found only bodies and human remains from a Swissair jetliner that crashed off Nova Scotia.

The Geneva-bound Flight 111 had 229 people aboard when the pilot reported smoke in the cockpit and attempted an emergency landing Wednesday night at Halifax International Airport, airline spokeswoman Beatrice Tschanz said.

"About 30 miles south of the airport, the aircraft disappeared from radar screens," Tschanz said at a news conference in Zurich, Switzerland.

"We have no survivors," said Lt. Cmdr. Glenn Chamberlain of the Halifax Rescue Coordination Center, as rescuers worked through the night off Canada's eastern coast.

Four bodies had been recovered so far, rescue official Andre Ereaud said early this morning.

The passengers were thought to be mostly Swiss, Tschanz said, though it was not immediately known how many Americans were on board.

Father who won custody charged in slaying of tot

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who recently gained custody of his 18-month old son has been charged with capital murder in the boy's death.

Darren McAfee, 28, McAfee was arrested Wednesday morning after witnesses told police he had beaten the child Sunday night, tied him to an ironing board with a leather belt and propped it against the wall.

Investigators said McAfee's girlfriend found the toddler, Darren Jones, unconscious Tuesday at her home. He was taken to Texas Children's Hospital, where he died.

The arrest surprised Harris County Children's Protective Services officials, who placed the child with McAfee in June.

"We had been heavily involved with this little boy," said CPS spokeswoman Judy Hay.

The child was taken into custody in May 1997 when his mother could no longer care for him.

Pirate Football

staff writer:
DeeJ Preston

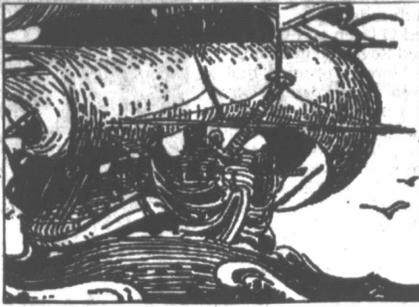

August 21 the Lefors Pirates opened the 1998 football season with a scrimmage in Higgins.

In the beginning the Higgins Coyotes created a tough obstacle for the mighty Pirates. The coyotes offense dominated the first couple plays of the game until the Pirates started playing real defense; from that point on the Coyotes didn't move the ball much.

The Pirates discovered that their most affective offense is the spread. Using the spread they can show their speed. Although the pirates fought hard, the scrimmage was rough. A few people sustained some minor injuries, which we are hoping will be healed by the next scrimmage.

The Pirates are working hard in practice and are looking good despite their inexperience. The team is looking forward to a successful season and with hard work and determination the Pirates will achieve their goal.

Long live the pirates!

The First of many School Years

staff writer

Calling all three and four year olds, if you turned three or four before September 1 then you are eligible to be in the newly started Lefors pre-k class.

In one week, the Lefors High Pirate lounge was transformed into a bright and colorful pre-k room. This newly implemented program starts at 7:50am and ends at 11:00am. Fran Milton, kindergarten teacher and Tiffanie Carothers, librarian and the four-year old age group developed the program. Hired to teach the three-year old age group was Tojuana Pierce. Paula Whitney is the teacher over them both.

"I really enjoy working with this age, it's a valuable experience for me, it's a lot of fun and I'd almost do it for free, but don't the board," replied Mrs. Carothers when asked how she views her job. She also expresses that "I feel that they, the children of the early grades, are of the up most importance." Mrs. Pierce views that this pre-k class is "a valuable resource for the children."

Both teachers want their students to be able to recognize colors, basic numbers, shapes, the alphabet, and to be able to write or at least recognize their name. Mrs. Pierce wants her students to learn how to share and to get used to the idea of being away from mom and dad. Mrs. Carothers is going to be preparing her students for kindergarten. She wants them to have a lot of hands on experience.

This program was implemented because incoming kindergartners didn't have the essential skills to be successful in class. They couldn't cut with scissors, sit still, color in lines, they had no listening skills, vocab was low, and no exposure of every day things and environment rich homelike.

Name first and last please. Larry Gray
Where did you go to college? West Coast University, California
Have you had any other jobs besides teaching? Yes, more recently, I was a consultant to the nuclear power industry, namely Pahtex, before that I worked for Hewlett Packard and IBM. I have a master's degree in system engineering. I also worked for North American Aviation on the Apollo mission that carried the men to the moon.
How long have you been teaching? I taught as a special tutor at California University. I was an evening instructor at the North Carolina Davis Community College and two years at a Texas public school at Lakeview; I also taught in industry.
How do you like the school here in Lefors? I love it here; I think the students are nice. The administration and faculty are great; I like their attitude about quality education for the students.
In a few sentences, explain your method of teaching. I use a method that was developed from structured design, which decreases complex systems into simpler components. These ideas were derived from the space program and working many years in industry.

THE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM KNOWS NO BOUNDS

staff writer

Even being struck by lightning couldn't stop the Tibetan Freedom Concert '98. After eleven fans were struck, most people expected the concerts to be cancelled. But the show went on.

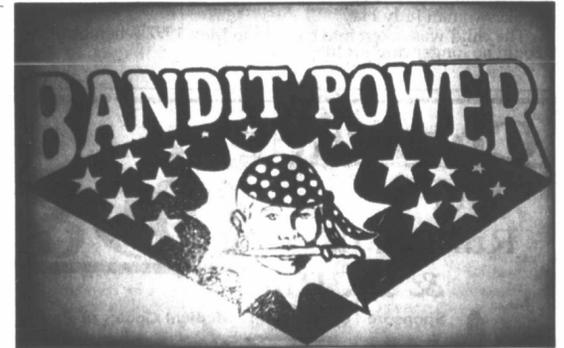

The next day featured many of the hottest acts in alternative rock, all playing for the freeing of Tibet, a country being ruled by Communist China. Bands headlining the concert included R.E.M., Sonic Youth, Beastie Boys, and the Red Hot Chili Peppers.

66,000 fans attended the two-day festival, coming from all over the country, and around the world. The highlight of the day was when the massive crowd stood in hushed silence as they listened to the perils faced by a monk who was forced to abide by Chinese rule. He told of being tortured for refusing to stop practicing his religion. Before he was done with his story, there were tears in a majority of the people's eyes, including Beastie Boy member Adam Yauch.

When the music ended, the real purpose began. About 15,000 people, including many of the bands that performed that day, marched to the capitol lawn. They were there to attempt to convince Clinton to aid Tibet in their plight.

FDA says contaminated corn can be used

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — This summer's Southern heat wave has done more than shrivel crops and kill cattle. It has also encouraged the spread of a cancer-causing mold — so much that the Food and Drug Administration is temporarily lifting its rules on the toxin.

The FDA has given grain dealers in Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee permission to mix corn contaminated with the carcinogen aflatoxin with untainted corn for livestock feed.

The FDA does not usually allow such blending, but is making an exception because of this summer's harsh weather — perfect growing conditions for the molds that produce aflatoxin, which has been linked to cancer in animals.

"The organism is ubiquitous, but it only attacks a weakened plant," said George Latimer, who works as a chemist for the state of Texas. "It can be weakened by drought, by excessive heat."

Latimer said that high levels of aflatoxin have also been found in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Georgia, Florida and southeastern Kansas. This in a time when the heat, drought and low corn prices already have farmers in a bind.

Parents' Divorce Is Painful For Mother and Daughter

DEAR ABBY: After nearly 40 years of marriage, my parents are in the middle of a divorce. My mother is devastated and humiliated. My father is now living with "Carol," who was my mother's best friend. They are living in what used to be my grandparents' home, less than a mile from Mother.

Mother is trying to get on with her life, but how can she when Carol insists on shopping at the store where my mother works? My father acts like he's done nothing wrong.

Abby, have they lost their minds? I'd like to think my father is sane, but I'm not too sure anymore. I'd greatly appreciate some advice about how to deal with this.

Abigail Van Buren

important that she meet new people. Assure her that this is only the end of a chapter, it's not the whole story. And please tell her she is in my prayers.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reference to some old coins that were left to me. I have no idea how to determine their worth, if any. I have some pennies that are dated back to 1842, 1832 and 1803. I'd really like to find out more about them, but I don't know where to begin.

I was hoping that you or one of your experts could advise me where to get an honest appraisal of these coins.

I would appreciate any help you can give me. I am a longtime fan of your column.

J.McW. IN RIVERSIDE, N.J.

DEAR J.: To get an honest appraisal, consult several coin dealers in your area and compare their estimates. In addition, your public library will have many books on coins and other valuable collectibles, and there are also many magazines for collectors. These should also provide some guidance on the value of your coins. You might consider locating a coin collector's club in your area to learn more about your pennies.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for a letter I wrote you. No, I didn't mail it, but writing the letter and sharing it with my family afterward helped me greatly. It forced me to organize my thoughts and get in touch with my feelings, and it opened up helpful, healing dialogue.

May I suggest to your readers that they try this approach to whatever might be causing their sleepless nights? Sending the letter is optional, but writing it can be essential in coming to terms with, and even solving, life's problems.

PAM HANSEN, SAN MATEO, CALIF.

DEAR PAM: I am a firm believer in the healing power of the pen, and I'm certain that many more letters have been written to me than have crossed my desk. For years readers have closed their letters with the statement, "Thank you, Abby ... I feel better just having gotten this off my chest." I'm delighted to help in any way I can, even as a silent sounding board.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 4, 1998
BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ***** Pressure is high to perform. Others are quick to tell you what they think, whether or not you want to hear it. Tempers flare; your energy is subject to unexpected swings. Maintaining a level course takes work. An associate does the unpredictable. Tonight: Join friends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ** Count on working with volatile personalities. Higher-ups are prone to unusual behavior. Review recent decisions. Your diplomatic skills are sorely tested. When you set boundaries, someone just might not get it. Question what you need to do to feel OK. Tonight: Put in overtime.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ***** Your sense of humor comes into play with others. The unpredictable runs roughshod over your day's plans. Maintain a sense of humor. Pick and choose your words carefully. Your mood could change, but you cannot take back words. Tonight: Share war stories.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ** Stellar forces announce a financial red light. Stop spending, back track and balance checkbooks. Could you or an associate have made a mistake? Before this error gets out of control, catch it. You need to check investments and insurance policies. Tonight: Be open to a partner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) *** Your temper flares when dealing with people who are stunned by your strong stand and somewhat sharp tone. Let go of something you want to control. It isn't going to happen! Listen to options, and allow your natural charisma to flow unimpeded. Tonight: Be among your throng of admirers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ** Events emphasize why it would serve you to discuss feelings before they become explosive. Learn to express yourself. Work to create more independence and professional freedom. Your nerves could be frayed; you react more strongly than usual. Tonight: Mellow out.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ***** Friends push hard. It is clear that your agenda differs from other people's. Seek to be more goal-oriented. Listen with care, and be willing to use your resources and maintain independence. Creativity runs high. Visualize what you want! Tonight: Get into a favorite activity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ** Pressure is high. A family member continues to be a wild card; you wonder which way to go. Honor limits; stay in contact with needs. A boss triggers your temper. Pull back, and don't react. Make professional changes if need be. Tonight: Turn on the answering machine.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ***** Unexpected activity triggers communications and travel. You could feel as if your life is like a roller coaster, but you can deal with the excitement. Trust the soundness of your decisions. Others react far more than you do. Your stability causes others to gravitate to you. Tonight: Roll with the punches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ** Once more, you pull the financial wild card. You have mixed feelings. Follow through on what you know works. Do not settle; stay connected to basics. A confrontation over spending is likely with a partner. A money under tanding is needed. Tonight: You make the call.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ***** Others need to roll with your unconventional, inventive style; you'll need to flow with heated reactions to you. All seems out of control, but you continue your independent stance and feel it is justified. Relationships might need more give and take. Tonight: Do your thing!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ** Take a breather from what is happening. Plug into work, and get the job done. Don't negotiate away your long-term needs; just avoid making a commitment for now. Your sense of humor comes out with a dear friend. Given space, you gain insights. Tonight: Vanish.

SOCCER

PAMPA — Pampa Soccer Association will hold a meeting for its coaches at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 8 and a meeting for its referees at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10 in First Christian Church. Schedules, playing rules and other information will be distributed to both groups.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mauricio Cienfuegos scored in the first half and Carlos Herмосillo and Cobi Jones in the second as the Los Angeles Galaxy defeated the short-handed Dallas Burn 3-0 Wednesday night.

Playing without three of its usual starters, including leading scorer Jason Kreis, Dallas took six shots, one on goal, both season lows.

Los Angeles goalkeeper Kevin Hartman made one save before being replaced with 9:50 to play by Matt Reis, who did not need to make a save to complete the Galaxy's fifth shutout.

The Western Conference-leading Galaxy (21-7, 61 points) improved to 17-2 against teams with losing records. The Burn (13-15, 31 points) remained two points ahead of Kansas City (11-17, 29 points) in the race for the conference's fourth and final play-off berth. Both teams have four matches remaining.

BASEBALL

MIAMI (AP) — Mark McGwire is going home to St. Louis with 59 homers and four new souvenirs.

Mighty Mac hit two homers for the second consecutive night Wednesday against the Florida Marlins, leaving him just two shy of Roger Maris' 37-year-old major-league record.

And for the second night in a row, fans who retrieved the balls turned them in.

"I'm glad there are people like that out there," McGwire said. "It shows you what the game means to some people."

What McGwire means to the game was evident following his latest home runs, which came in a 14-4 victory by the St. Louis Cardinals. The crowd of 45,170 responded to each homer with a standing ovation that continued even after he disappeared into the dugout, and he eventually re-emerged for a curtain call, punching the air three times with his fist.

Now it's three to go to break Maris' record. The only other player ahead of McGwire is Babe Ruth, who hit 60 homers in 1927. Ruth also hit 59 in 1921.

"Quite amazing, isn't it?" McGwire said. "What's going on now is pretty big."

The Cardinals begin a three-game series Friday at home against Cincinnati, but McGwire declined to speculate about his chances of breaking the record this weekend.

"I'll do my best," he said. "Let's not look so far ahead and just take what today has given us."

McGwire's eighth multi-homer game this season was the 51st of his career. With 23 games remaining, he's on a 69-homer pace, and his recent charge — 12 homers in 15 days — gives him a shot at 70.

Sammy Sosa remains in the race. The Chicago Cubs outfielder hit his 56th homer Wednesday afternoon.

A few hours later, McGwire again feasted on the worst pitching staff in the NL, homering in the seventh inning against Brian Edmondson and in the eighth against Rob Stanifer. Each was a two-run homer, giving McGwire 125 RBIs.

"You can't throw the guy any pitch he can reach, or he hits it 500 feet," Stanifer said. "It's a little unfair at times. He's like the Michael Jordan of baseball. He's unreal."

The first homer, which landed halfway up in the upper deck in left field, was estimated at 497 feet, making it the third-longest in the history of Pro Player Stadium. The second homer 30 minutes later was to left center and traveled an estimated 458 feet.

DETROIT (AP) — Rick Helling threw a lot of pitches, which worried Texas manager Johnny Oates. Still, he had more than enough zip on his fastball to hold off the Detroit Tigers.

"I think Rick showed very good stamina," Oates said after the Rangers' 5-3 victory Wednesday night. "His stuff was as good in the seventh as it was in the first."

"I was concerned about his pitch count, though. We've still got a lot of big innings we need him to pitch for us."

Helling (17-7) threw 134 pitches before giving way to Xavier Hernandez after 6 1-3 innings. He gave up one run on six hits with four walks and seven strikeouts, becoming the first Texas pitcher since Kenny Rogers in 1995 to win 17 games.

"I'm not going to leave anything on the field," said Helling, who started the season 6-0. "My pitch count might be high, but I'm going to give them everything I've got."

Helling felt the key might have come in the second inning when Detroit had the bases loaded with one out. Helling got Kimera Barteo on a pop fly and got Frank Catalanotto swinging on a full count.

"With a guy like Brian Moehler pitching for them, who is capable of throwing a shutout, you know you can't afford to give up many runs," Helling said. "So I thought that was probably the most important inning — to get out of that without giving up any runs."

Helling got offensive support from Ivan Rodriguez, who snapped a 1-for-11 slump with two hits, including a two-run homer.

"Moehler usually keeps the ball down," Rodriguez said. "But that ball was up and I took advantage of it and hit it to the opposite field."

The win enabled Texas, 26-26 since the All-Star break, to remain 2 1/2 games behind first-place Anaheim in the AL West. The Angels beat Cleveland 13-5.

John Wetteland pitched the ninth for his 39th save. He allowed a run on Bobby Higginson's sacrifice fly.

Moehler (12-12), who started the season 9-0 at home, lost his fifth straight decision and dropped to 9-3 in Tiger Stadium. Moehler gave up four runs on eight hits with three walks and one strikeout over the first seven innings.

"I just didn't have good stuff," Moehler said. "I went out there and battled, but I didn't have it."

"I'm tired. I won't kid you. This is new to me, pitching this deep into September. But I'm going to stick it out. I've got at least four starts left. This is a good learning experience for me."

Juan Gonzalez, who started the Texas sixth with a single, scored on Will Clark's RBI double, breaking a 1-1 tie. Roberto Kelly, running for Clark, came around when Rodriguez, who went into the game 1-for-6 against Moehler, hit his 16th homer.

Royce Clayton had an RBI double in the Texas eighth.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the third. Todd Zeile reached on Gabe Alvarez's error at third, moved up on a walk to Royce Clayton and Tom Goodwin's bunt, then scored on Luis Alicea's sacrifice fly to center.

The Tigers tied it in the fourth on Deivi Cruz's RBI single. Paul Bako had an RBI grounder in the Detroit eighth.

in the fifth.

Notes: The Rangers finished 8-3 against Detroit, winning the season series for the fourth time in five years. ... With his win Tuesday night, Larry Parrish extended Detroit's winning streak to four games under interim managers. Joe Schultz started the streak by winning the final game of the 1973 season and Dick Tracewski was 2-0 in 1979. ... Higginson has "BB 25" printed on the back of his cap in white ink, in honor of Buddy Bell, fired as manager Tuesday. ... The Rangers have homered in 12 straight games for the first time since 1993. ... Clark left the game because of an upset stomach. ... It was the 250th save of Wetteland's career. ... Higginson had two outfield assists, moving him into the major league lead with 17.

North Texas State golfer Les Phillips of Borger will be back to defend his Top Of Texas Tournament championship.

Phillips is returning to defend TOT golf crown

PAMPA — The Top Of Texas Golf Tournament has that collegiate look once again.

A current college player or a college-bound player had not won the TOT title since 1993 when Oklahoma Stater Bryan Guetz of Laketon, Colo. claimed the championship with a four-round 283. Les Phillips of Borger turned things around last year by shooting a 276, winning the tournament by three strokes. Phillips is attending North Texas State on a golf scholarship.

Pampa Country Club pro Mickey Piersall expects 12 to 15 collegians — coming from Texas Tech, Oklahoma University, Cameron University and North Texas — to enter this year's tournament, which starts Saturday at the PCC course. Phillips is returning along with Pampa's Phil Everson, who was the TOT runnerup a year ago.

Pampa's Dan Nicolet, who won in '96, and Amarillo's James Bischof, the '92 champion, are expected to challenge for the title. Bischof led after two rounds a year ago before slipping to fifth place.

Former Pampan Clint Deeds has signed up again. Deeds, who now lives in Amarillo, was the 1986 winner.

Lefors, Fort Elliott will meet in 6-man clash

LEFORS — It seems only fitting that two teams which didn't have a football program a year ago should meet in the 1998 opener.

Lefors and Fort Elliott tangle in six-man action at 7:30 Friday night in Briscoe.

Neither school played football last year because of a shortage of players.

"Everyone's excited to start again," said Lefors coach Ronny Miller. "I'm sure the emotions will be soaring for both groups of fans and players when the ball is kicked off Friday night."

Miller believes his Lefors squad could have problems handling the Cougars because of their quickness.

"Fort Elliott is about in the same boat as we are. They don't have a lot of experience, but they do have quite a bit of quickness," Miller said. "I look for them to use quickness against us by running a spread and opening it a little wider than usual."

Leading the Pirates is senior running back Len Lock, the only returning player with varsity experience. Kody Franks is the only other senior on the 13-man roster.

"We're coming around," Miller said. "We're improving every week."

Much like Lefors, Fort Elliott couldn't come up with enough people for a football team last season. The Cougars didn't start their football program until 1996, but were able to compile a respectable 5-5 record. Because of a rule that states a team is ineligible for district honors in its first football season, Fort Elliott had to forfeit five district games.

The Cougars are sparked by junior quarterback Curt Smith and junior split end Clay Zybach. Smith completed 82 of 160 passes for 1,290 yards and 21 touchdowns two years ago. That same year, Zybach caught 15 passes for 209 yards and four touchdowns. He had seven total touchdowns.

DALLAS (AP) — They say that to be the best, you've got to play the best. Well, many of the state's top ranked high school football teams will be testing that theory this weekend.

Killeen Ellison, the top-ranked team in Class 5A, will open Saturday night at home against No. 8 Aldine Eisenhower. Also Saturday, third-ranked Arlington Lamar will be in Florida to play the team from Panama City.

Second-ranked Tyler John Tyler will be in Fort Worth to play Wyatt, the 10th-ranked team in 4A.

And those three games may not even be the best matchups. That honor may go to the clash between No. 4 Duncanville and No. 5 Plano East.

Defending 5A Division II champion Flower Mound Marcus, ranked seventh, opens at North Mesquite and No. 9 Katy opens its Division I title defense against Klein on Saturday.

Rounding out the top 5A games are No. 6 Longview against DeSoto and No. 10 Converse Judson playing host to Laredo Nixon.

Groom seniors

Johnson victorious over Braves' Maddux

ATLANTA (AP) — Power beats finesse — this time, at least.

Randy Johnson's 97 mph fastball was too much for Greg Maddux's diverse repertoire Wednesday night, especially when Maddux's pitches kept floating over the center of the plate and winding up in the outfield seats.

The Big Unit dominated Atlanta for eight innings and easily won the head-to-head showdown with four-time Cy Young winner Maddux as the Houston Astros defeated the Braves 4-2 Wednesday night.

"Greg Maddux is probably the best pitcher in all of baseball along with Roger Clemens," said

Johnson, allowed only four hits and struck out 10.

"He's much more intelligent than I am because he doesn't have a 95 or 98 mph fastball. I would tell any pitcher who wants to be successful to watch him, because he's the true definition of a pitcher," he said.

Well, not on this night.

Well, not on this night.

Well, not on this night.

Handful of season openers have national title implications

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

Looking for that one great college football game Saturday? There's plenty to choose from.

While this is only the first full week of the season, when lots of top teams usually play lots of bottom teams, this time there's a few blockbusters on tap, starting with No. 1 Ohio State at No. 11 West Virginia.

"Everyone we play, it seems like we're their game of the year," Buckeyes coach John Cooper said as he awaited word on whether linebacker Andy Katzenmoyer and two other starters were academically eligible to play. "This is a rivalry because we're not that far away. It will be a hostile place to play."

Several other highly-ranked teams travel to hostile territory this weekend, beginning with No. 16 Virginia at No. 25 Auburn Thursday night.

But back to Saturday, where four other matchups between ranked teams are set — No. 5 Michigan at No. 22 Notre Dame, No. 18 Washington at No. 8 Arizona State, No. 10 Tennessee at No. 17 Syracuse and No. 21 Southern Mississippi at No. 13 Penn State.

By the time the day ends, several teams may find themselves off the national title radar screen.

For only the second time, West Virginia is entertaining a No. 1 team — the Mountaineers lost to Miami 58-14 in 1986. Twelve years later, coach Don Nehlen has a team capable of staying with the Buckeyes.

"If I didn't think I could win," Nehlen said, "I'd go fishing and call in to see how you did."

Amos Zereoue, who needs 25 yards to become West Virginia's career rushing leader, could be the key. West Virginia also has two dangerous receivers in David

College Football

Saunders and Shawn Foreman and a solid quarterback in Marc Bulger.

But the Buckeyes counter with Joe Germaine (1,847 yards, 16 TDs), who no longer shares the starting role, and perhaps the best receiving duo in the nation — David Boston and Dee Miller. Cooper's biggest headache, however, is whether Katzenmoyer, cornerback Damon Moore and guard Rob Murphy will pass their summer school classes.

"There have been a lot of distractions because of academics," Cooper said.

Last time teams met, in '77, Arizona's Dick Tomey was coaching Hawaii. ... ARIZONA, 31-10.

— Last week: 3-1 (straight); 2-2 (vs. spread).

Mets use power attack to beat Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mike Piazza, Edgardo Alfonzo and Lenny Harris homered off faltering Andy Ashby for all of New York's runs as the Mets beat San Diego 4-1 on Wednesday night to remain a game behind Chicago in the NL wild-card chase.

Armando Reynoso (6-1) limited the Padres to four hits in eight innings. He struck out six and walked three. John Franco finished for his 31st save.

Harris homered with two outs in the second, his fifth; Alfonzo hit a two-run shot with two out in the third, his 15th; and Piazza went the opposite way to right-center for the second straight night.

Ashby (16-7), who on Aug. 12 became the first NL pitcher to win 16 games, failed for the fourth time to win his 17th.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTES — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
I S L O N G F E L L O W

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
