

Around And About The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley ... BIG SPRING'S young football hopefuls drove into Brownwood today, confident that they will be back on the victory trail after tonight's game with the Brownwood High school's Lions.

FAT CAGLE and his boys are just as confident of victory. The locals remain slight favorites to cup the decision, but the Lions will be tougher for the Steers than they were for Ed Hennig's Sweetwater Mustangs.

THESE ONE encouraging note Coach Cagle has indicated that his team will fill the air with passes. Unless we badly mistake those Lions are not going to have much back taking to the air.

THESE WEEKS starting line: Smith L.E., McCullough R.G., Harris L.T., Trainer R.T., Wilson R.H., Hill-dreth L.G., Rayburn C. Madison, Henninger, Rigony and Woods will probably start in the secondary. Settles is due to see considerable action.

COACH CAGLE believes he has a better ball club than Sweetwater, but admits that the Nolan county club was the better team last Friday night. The Mustangs won, 5-0, in the Sweetwater tilt the Lions ran off to a bad start in the first quarter when the Mustangs pushed over their touchdowns.

LIONS TO OPEN AGAINST BOVINES TO PLAY WIDE OPEN

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 1 (Sp.)—Brownwood high school's new $25,000 concrete-steel stadium and athletic plant will be officially dedicated tonight when the Lions open their 1936 Oil Belt home schedule against the Big Spring Steers.

Although slightly stunned by their unexpected reversal at the hands of the Sweetwater Mustangs last week, the Lions still have championship ambitions and confidently hope to get started on an uphill fight against the Big Spring Steers.

Coach Cagle has had his boys filling the air with passes this week and indications are that the Lions will resort entirely to an open brand of football from here on out.

THE MUSTANGS mad rush for a score and from then on neither was able to do much in the heavy rain and wind that drove everyone to cover except the competitors.

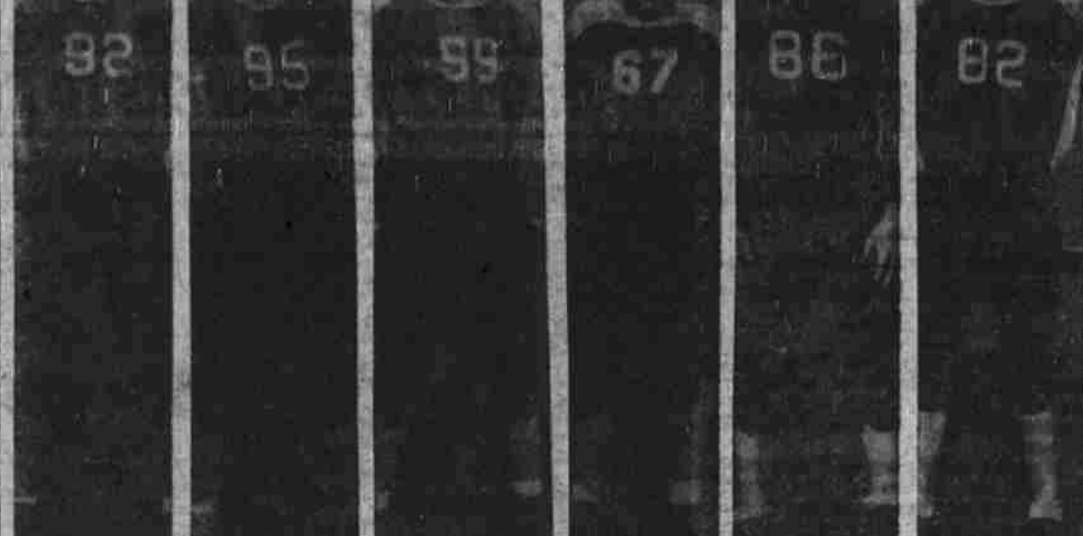

WOMEN GOLFERS qualify via the eighteen hole route this afternoon at the country club for their annual tournament. Match play starts tomorrow.

SIX-MAN football is rapidly taking hold in various parts of the county. It appears that the game will be very popular among the smaller schools.

THESE WEEKS Class A school football card: (West) Interdistrict games will appear under the district of the home team.

Out-Moded Clubs Win Amateur Title

Fine Set of Clubs Failed Johnny Fischer ... BY W. C. PETERSON ... CINCINNATI, Oct. 3 (UP)—Out-moded hickory shafted clubs won the United States amateur golf championship for quiet, slender Johnny Fischer, 24-year-old senior law student at the University of Cincinnati.

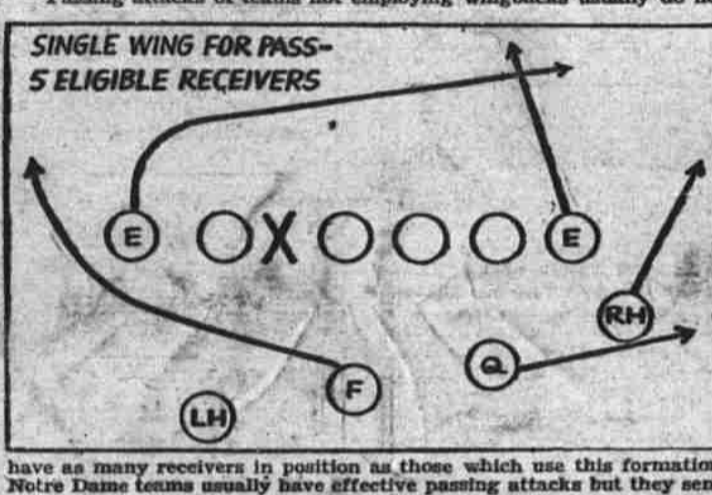

Johnny bought a fine set of steel-shafted irons last spring and gave them a trial. But his shots didn't click, and he discarded the new clubs long before he went to London, England, to win the national title in a stirring final battle with Scottish Jack McLean.

He says now he's glad he kept to his old standbys, for in the nip-and-tuck semi-final struggle with Johnny Goodman of Omaha, the well-worn grips saved him many a shot.

Playing through a rain-laden gale with conditions all but impossible, Goodman and Fischer had difficulty keeping a firm grip on their clubs. Goodman's clubs slipped a time or two, but Fischer says the grips on his own old clubs, roughened by long use, enabled him to retain control.

There's a story in those old clubs, most of which have been in Fischer's bag for six to 10 years. Johnny told in his own words while practicing at his home course here months ago for the Walker cup competition.

Grid Outlook Not So Bright For Spartans ... BACHMAN Calls Schedule At Michigan State 'Plain Suicide' ... EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 1 (UP)—Faced by a schedule which he characterizes as "plain suicide," Coach Charles W. Bachman is reluctant to predict any measure of success for Michigan State this fall.

Many Backs Available ... The squad is composed of five centers, 10 guards, nine tackles, seven ends, four quarterbacks, 12 halfbacks and seven fullbacks.

Aggett and Pingel are the best of the kickers. Both can average 50 yards. Rather unusual in a Spartan camp this year is the presence of a wealth of backfield material.

Guards will be plentiful again this year, as will tackles. Outstanding among the backs will be Aggett, Ciolek, Pingel, Steve Sauer of Arlington Heights, Ill., Charles Hill, East Lansing; Jeff Haney, Kingsport, Tenn.; and Steve Sebo, Battle Creek. Sauer is speedy.

Art Brandstatter, last year's regular fullback, appears destined to hold down that job again with Kubke, George Kovach of Whiting, Ind., Sam Nusser of Dearborn and one or two others in reserve. This department is well fortified with strong backs.

Harrison Neumann or Charlie Hulbert is expected to direct the team in most of its battles. Neumann has been on the squad for two years and has proven himself an able leader, while Hulbert will be a junior and may be prepped for the starting post in 1937.

Hubbell was prevented from registering a shutout by George Selkirk's home run into the upper right field stands in the third inning, a clout that loomed large on the score-board until it was offset by Dick Bartell's blast into the upper left field stands to tie the score in the fifth.

The wait-high fast ball that he grooved for Selkirk was Hubbell's only real mistake, but the slender Oklahoma man was aided in the Yankee half of the eighth by the greatest defensive "break" of the whole soggy afternoon.

New York Giants officials announced that 30,419 persons paid $122,157 to see the first game of the world series.

Six-Man Grid Game Popular

Arkansas High Schools To Play 6-Man 'Elevens' This Fall

MARION, Ark., Oct. 1 (AP)—Miniature golf... table tennis... and now miniature football. Through necessity, five small east Arkansas schools will present football this season played by 6-man teams on under-sized grids. It's an innovation the coaches believe will click with the fans. Students and townspeople wanted football, but the combined grade and high schools had an average attendance each of only about 200 students. Squads reporting for practice in previous years numbered between 12 and 20 players. Reserves were few. Under such conditions, it was highly problematical from one weekend to the next whether there would be a team on the field at all. So the football coaches at Crawfordville, Marion, Earl, Tyrone and Lepanto got together and evolved a scheme to play the game with only six men on a side—three in the line and three in the backfield.

"It was the only way we could have football at all," says L. H. Cook, Marion coach. "I have only 14 men out for the team, and it would be impossible to put an 11-man team on the field throughout the entire season. This idea gives us a chance to teach the boys the fundamentals of football and at the same time have a wide open, fast game that should give the spectators plenty of action and thrill. The fields will be 80x40 yards instead of the regulation 100x63 yards. The scoring system will be the same, but a team will be required to make 15 yards in four tries for a first down instead of 10 yards as in regulation football. Backfield men on offense and defense must be three yards behind the line of scrimmage before the ball is snapped. We may have to change the rules slightly after we have played several games," Cook explains. "It is more or less an experiment, but I believe it's here to stay." Cook, after several days of drilling his small squad, is still puzzled over building a defense. "It will be an open game," he points out, "and there will be less of the type of body blocking seen in the regular games. That will eliminate the danger of injuries almost entirely, with no piling up on line plays. It's hard to stop the offense with only three men in the line. There'll be plenty of touchdowns."

Tech Matadors Expect Rough Game Saturday

LUBBOCK, Oct. 1 (Sp.)—Anticipating a rough evening against a club that is sure to be "set" for them, the Texas Tech Red Raiders have been going strong on defense this week in preparation for Saturday night's game against the Oklahoma university Goldbugs. The clubs are meeting for the third time in as many seasons. Tech turned back the Bug menace, 20 to 0, in 1934, but were held to a 7-7 tie in the season's windup game last

OILERS LEAD IN TEXAS PLAYOFF

DALLAS, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Tulsa Oilers took a 3 to 2 lead in the Texas league's final play-off series, defeating the Dallas Steers last night, 8 to 4.

Rangy Clarence Pickrel left a nicked to sidearm the Steers into submission for eight and third innings. Finally being relieved in the last frame after being nicked for three hits. The Oilers move into Tulsa tonight for the sixth game with Irv Stein, ace of the staff, ready to take his turn against Vic Fraser, veteran Dallas flinger. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played at Dallas Friday night.

Plans for the Dixie series with the Birmingham Barons were completed. The Texas league champion will open in Birmingham, where the first two games will be played. The next three are carded in the city representing the Texas loop and the clubs will return to the Alabama metropolis for the remaining contests. In event of rain or ties, the teams will remain at the sites where they are scheduled until decisions are reached on the playing field. Actual dates cannot be fixed until the Texas loop champ is determined.

December in Oklahoma City. Victorious over the Oklahoma Aggies, 9 to 6, last Friday night in their opener, the Goldbugs are considered powerful opposition in anybody's league this season, and particularly this Saturday night. Highly pleased with the performance of the 13 men who worked against the Horned Frogs last Saturday night, Tech coaches have turned their attention to the reserves this week, leaving the No. 1 lineup to run offensive plays while training the shock troops on the defensive now and then alternating with the sheppers running O. C. U. plays against the regulars.

Event To Open At Midland Downs Friday Of This Week

MIDLAND, Oct. 1.—Final plans have been completed and everything is in perfect readiness for the opening of the fall race meet of Midland Fair, Inc., on Friday, October 2. No admittance will be charged at the gate on the opening day of the meet when visitors from all over this vast section will be the guests of officials of Midland Downs. ### Big Narcotic Ring Smashed

Syndicate Had Been Doing 12-Million-Dollar Annual Business

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1. (UP)—General Jose Siurob, chief of the department of public health, revealed today that Mexican, United States and Cuban authorities have smashed a $12,000,000-a-year narcotic syndicate.

The ring, Siurob said, has been importing from Shanghai every three months, narcotics worth $4,000,000 at bootleg prices in the United States.

Mexican authorities arrested Joseph Furstenberg, a Russian born Mexican citizen, owner of several theaters, and L. Katz, a junk dealer, following a tip they belonged to the same syndicate as did Molly Wendt, who was arrested in Los Angeles August 5 with $600,000 worth of heroin as she was getting on a train for Mexico.

Siurob said another member of the ring was Nathan Loffelholz Brandstater, who committed suicide aboard the steamship Oriente as it was entering New York harbor on Sept. 4.

Brandstater recently arrived in Havana from Shanghai by way of Africa. He was caught in Havana and was being deported to Spain by way of New York.

Soviet Claims First Place

Supremacy Based On Survey Showing Reserves Of All Kinds

MOSCOW, Oct. 1. (UP)—With only 37 per cent of its territory explored and prospected, known reserves of coal, iron, oil and other natural resources in the aggregate are greater than those of any other nation in the world according to Ivan Gubkin, chairman of a council for the study of such resources.

Gubkin, on the basis of a survey begun less than 10 years ago, reported the following known reserves as of Jan. 1, 1935:

Coal—1,031 billion tons, an increase of 60 per cent over resources mapped at the time of the revolution, placing the U.S.S.R. second to the United States in known resources.

Oil—3,200 million tons, 30 per cent of world reserves. United States in second position.

Ferrous metals—Rich iron ores, 10,612 million tons; iron ore quartzite containing from 35 to 45 per cent of iron, 250 billion tons.

Manganese Claims Sweeping Manganese—Three-quarters of world deposits concentrated in the U.S.S.R. (No exact figures given.)

Copper—17 million tons, 16 per cent of world deposits, placing U. S. S. R. in fourth place among nations possessing copper reserves.

Lead—4,680,000 tons, 11 per cent of world reserves.

Zinc—8,630,000 tons, 19 per cent of world deposits, as compared with known deposits of 1,100,000 tons in 1913.

Nickel—Rich deposits not yet completely surveyed, discovered in Elivava, Aktubinsk, Kola peninsula, whereas none were known prior to the revolution.

Transvaal First in Gold Gold—Second only to Transvaal. (No exact figures given.)

Uranium—21,650,000 tons.

Rental Rise Noted Over Whole Nation

Spurt In Building This Year Has Little Effect On Housing Shortage

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 1.—In spite of the 71 per cent increase in home building volume so far in 1936, the accumulated housing shortage has been little affected (in 37 out of 74 cities reporting in a rental survey just completed here. Numerous increases in house and apartment rental rates were made on Sept. 1 in 58 of the cities, the report shows, the increases ranging from 1-2 per cent up to 30 per cent. In 55 cities further rent boosts are expected between now and May 1, 1937.

Twelve widely scattered cities estimate that 75 per cent or more of their new and renewal rentals were raised on September 1. The twelve cities are: Minneapolis, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore., Tacoma, Wash., Atlanta, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., Tampa, Fla., East Orange, N. J., Madison, Wis., and the Chicago suburbs, Oak Park and Wilmette. Dallas had no rental rise September 1, but has already had four increases on various groups of residential property during the past twelve months. Another fourteen scattered cities report that half or more of their new and renewal rentals were raised September 1. Many rental agents have made blanket increases of five per cent to 10 per cent on all apartment and house rentals in their hands, the report shows. Pacific Coast cities from Los Angeles to Seattle report that in spite of residential building increases ranging from 22 per cent to 30 per cent, construction gains have not kept pace with the growth in demand; numerous rental increases are being made, of from five per cent to 25 per cent.

Washington, D. C., reports that its extensive residential building program of 1935, with the further increase of 61 per cent to a volume of over $16,000,000 in the first seven months of 1936, has approximately kept pace with the rapid increase in population in the capital city; no general rent rise is anticipated.

The situation in Minneapolis and St. Paul is cited in some detail, as typical of that in a great many cities covered by the report. Apartment vacancies are near the vanishing point. Apartment buildings which were foreclosed during the depression have been largely rehabilitated and the rents raised to levels consistent with the improvements made. In a number of cases apartment rentals again approximate 20 per cent annually on the building valuation—considered a sound operating basis during the late twenties. Further rental raises contemplated in the next six months will bring other buildings to that ratio. With very few houses for rent, there is nevertheless a considerable supply of houses for sale in both cities. Sales are proceeding at a more rapid rate than last year, however; many would-be renters are being forced to buy in order to have a place to live. Some rental houses which were for sale earlier this year have recently been withdrawn from the market as owners see better rents.

Increases in residential construction over the corresponding months of 1935 are shown in 68 of the 74 cities reporting, the margins of increase ranging from slight gains to expansions of several hundred per cent. In the majority of cases, in spite of the encouraging improvements recorded, the construction rate is still much below that of pre-depression years.

Ship Owners Criticized In U. S. Report

Eastman Says Inadequate Attention Given To Labor Problems

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (UP)—Joseph B. Eastman, presenting a federal survey of domestic shipping labor conditions, sharply criticized American shipowners today.

The report, prepared under his new expired authority as federal transportation coordinator, came on the eve of a threatened Pacific coast maritime tie-up. The report centered on conditions in coastwise and inland waterway shipping.

Conclusions presented by Eastman:

1. The "hiring hall" method of employing longshoremen—crux of the present labor disputes—was better than the employer "pierhead" method.

2. Employers too often give inadequate attention to labor problems preventing needed employer-employee co-operation.

3. Ship quarters for unlicensed personnel "usually are overcrowded, ill-ventilated and unsanitary."

4. "Ghost liners of world war times now tied up as abandoned mud bank fleets should be used to train youth for the American merchant marine.

The report said that the following principles suggested by the shipping board for a maritime labor program in 1918 could now be "reaffirmed as indispensable." The principles itemized were as follows:

1. Recognition of the right of employees to organize for collective bargaining purposes.

2. Determination of wages and working conditions by agreement.

3. Establishment of machinery to facilitate and maintain such agreements.

4. Enrollment of the co-operation of employees and employers in securing and maintaining efficient and dependable service to the public with the assurance that their interests would be fully protected.

HOUSTON WAGE HIKE HELD UP BY COURT. GALVESTON, Oct. 1 (UP)—The state court of civil appeals issued a restraining order...

Most visitors (and New Yorkers too) are bewildered by the sign language used by maestros at important broadcasts in Radio City.

NEED VOTES AND MONEY Electing Franklin Roosevelt to his second term is not going to be a push-over because there are more interests and ignorance working against him than a presidential candidate has had in a long time.

Texas voters who have the good of their state and country at heart should be especially active, both in voting, and in contributing to the fund that is necessary to pay expenses of speakers and of printing and postage, for Texas was partly to blame for putting Herbert Hoover into the presidency with all the ills that followed that political mistake.

Other extraneous matters are being injected into this campaign. The Jeffersonian democrats, the Hoovercrats, the believers in all sorts of isms, are pecking away at normal Democratic majority of Texas hoping to split it to an extent that the vote of the state will at least be so small as to in a sense discredit the present administration, even if it cannot be entirely weaned from its proper allegiance.

Contributions to the campaign fund are needed, and should be forthcoming, but votes are also needed and the vote of Texas should be so big as to leave no doubt in the minds of the people of the nation of how Texas feels about what is best for all of us.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

Chapter 23
BURSTING DAM

It was time, finally, to meet Margery's mother. There was no change, Dr. Howard assured them; nothing unnecessarily alarming. They could do nothing here, he suggested, supper and bed and a restative for them all. He would call them instantly if there was any change.

Harry nodded. "I guess you're right. Well—thanks, Doctor."

Dr. Howard's fine tired eyes smiled. "Nonsense. Go home and get some sleep." He disappeared.

Blake was there in less than fifteen minutes after Carol telephoned. She saw him from the waiting-room and stumbled down the steps to the sidewalk.

He sprang from the car and put a steady hand under her elbow, eyed her with a quick ravenous look. "Are you exhausted?" he asked unevenly.

"Not quite." She smiled at him. "I'll be all right as soon as I get home."

He asked about Harry, and she told him what the doctor had said. He had, she realized, no intention of leaving her at the Sherwood. He swung the car into a parking space and helped her carefully out, then went with her to her own doorway. She handed him her key with a third gesture that shook him from head to foot.

He was coming in with her and she had neither strength nor will to stop him. Thank heaven, she thought irreverently, I took time to make the bed and put it away.

He closed the door softly and led her to the couch and took off her hat.

"Lie down," he ordered, "and I'll fix you a drink."

She said, "Fix two," and closed her eyes and listened to him moving about in the kitchen. The night might be disaster, she knew, and could make no move to prevent it. The apartment was warm and still, and sleep dragged at her eyes and her mind. Sleep, and the intimate scud of Blake moving about in her kitchen.

He came back with two tall glasses and bent over the couch. She opened her eyes and sat up to take the glass.

"You're a life saver," she said inadequately, in an effort to push back the impending crisis. "I'm not used to being up at five o'clock."

"Don't get up," he said roughly. "Here," and slipped another pillow beneath her head. She lay back and sipped her drink, and he sat in a chair and devoured her with his eyes.

She shivered suddenly, as if a cold wind had lashed her. "Being rather alone has its compensations, hasn't it?" she whispered. "To care—that much—for something is frightening. The more things you love, the greater your hostages to fortune."

His eyes were on her face. She looked white and tired and lifeless; a stranger would have thought her without charm or color. But her very exhaustion aroused in him an uncontrollable tenderness.

"No," he said harshly. "Just being able to love that way—even if you lose the thing you love; even if you never possess it—is worth all the suffering it entails."

The air was vibrant, and the thing that filled them was a physical force, drawing them together. He thought desperately: You can't say it—you can't! And tried to summon a commonplace remark that would break the spell. But the spell was too strong upon him, and in the end it was his self-control that broke. He heard his own voice, shaken and almost inaudible. "Oh, God, it's no use! I love you, Carol—love you."

He realized suddenly, hearing what he said, that the words had left his spirit free. They heard the words together, throbbing in the air like the echo of a carillon, and then the torrent poured over them.

She closed her eyes and heard the echo die away. He sat motionless, waiting for a word or sign, not daring to touch her until he knew she wished it.

She said at last: "No, it's no use. Because—I love you—too."

The words pulled him to his feet and he crossed to the couch and took her in his arms. After a second she lay motionless, one arm about his neck and her mouth against his.

He held her close, and revelled in the youth and resilience of her body. To love someone like this, he thought exultantly—someone who was young! Thirty-three years was not too long to wait. His mouth moved, gentle and lingering, over her mouth and eyes and throat.

She drew away and looked at him, seeing the physical details of his face. It was incredible now that his eyes had been like slate, or that his thin mouth had ever been straight and hard. His head was beautifully modelled, she realized, and the thinness of his face threw his bones into sharp relief. She sat up suddenly and pulled his head down to her breast, and he lay still and felt the quick strong beating of her heart.

They recovered finally a fragment of reason, and sat apart and looked with wonder at each other. She said unsteadily:

"Blake, that was insane. . . ."

Fear darkened his eyes for an instant. "Are you trying to tell me—you didn't mean it?"

"You know better than that. I told you because I couldn't help it. But—what can we do?"

He said simply: "Spend the rest of our lives together."

She could almost believe, hearing his words, that it was as simple as that. A mutual longing that would achieve a desired end. Almost—but not quite.

"My darling, that's not possible."

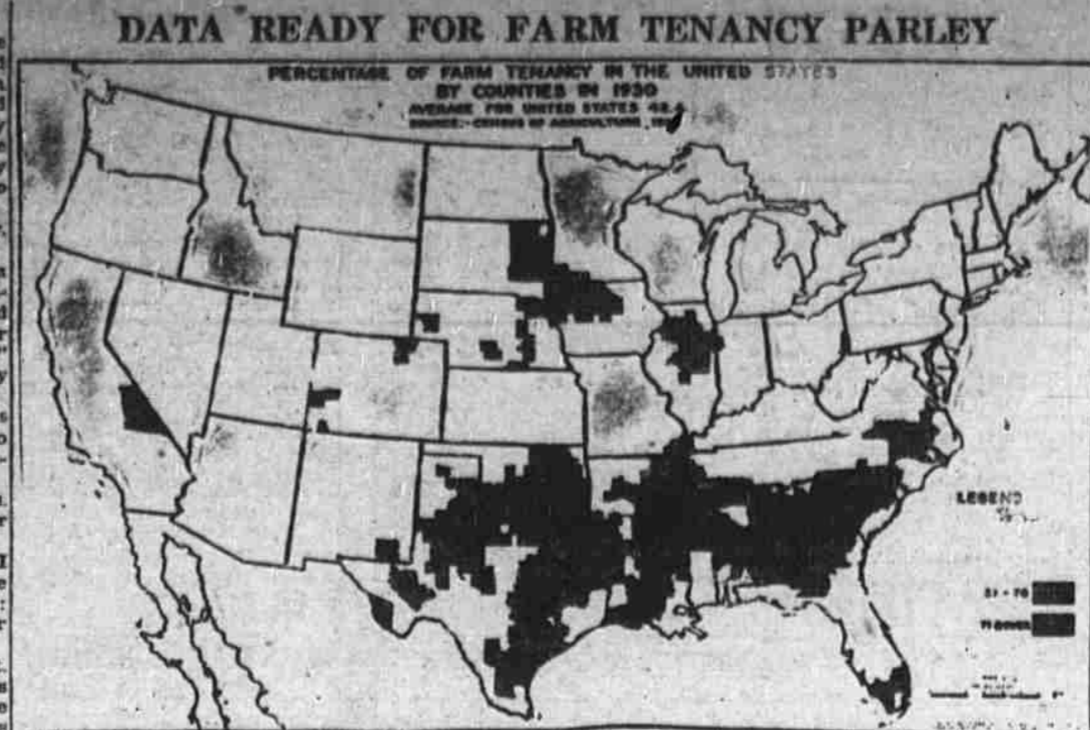

"I don't see why not." He sprang to his feet and began to pace the floor, driven by the new-found energy within him. "Unpleasantness first, yes. Tears and reproaches, maybe; but heaven knows they don't matter. If Irma's life and mine had been different I'd reproach myself; but I can't and won't."

Carol followed him with her eyes, and when she spoke her voice trembled between laughter and tears.

"Blake, my darling, think. What has Irma ever done to make you think she can be generous? I don't know much about her, but I'm afraid I know that much."

He said hotly: "Of course I'm willing to insist, if that's the only way. But I still don't believe it will be." He made an impatient gesture and came to her again.

"Don't think about it tonight;

US NEUTRALITY POLICY FACES A TEST IN THE SUPREME COURT, TWO LABOR ACTS CHALLENGED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (UP)—The government's efforts to keep the United States out of war and the new deal's labor policies emerged today as principal issues that will come before the supreme court this term.

The Wagner labor act and the corresponding railway labor act will present labor's problems to the tribunal which already has condemned NRA, AAA, the Gulf railway labor act, and the Guffey coal control act.

The question of neutrality is posed in an attack on the indictment of airplane manufacturers who were charged with violating the president's embargo on arm shipments to participants in the Chaco war.

Later in the term, the utility holding company act probably will come before the tribunal.

Lumber Company Brings Test

An attempt to have the Wagner act declared invalid is being made by the Bradley Lumber company of Arkansas which sued in the lower federal courts to restrain officers of the national labor relations board in proceedings designed to force the company to take back 200 dismissed workers.

Because of the technical questions involved it was doubtful that a direct ruling on the act would be obtained in the Bradley suit. If such a ruling is not made it was believed that an appeal in some other pending case will reach the court soon.

The railway labor act is challenged by the Virginia Railway company which is disputing the NLRB right to hold an election among its men. It also challenges the result of an election previously held whereby the majority of workers were found by NLRB to have chosen the System Federation No. 40 to represent them in collective bargaining.

Appeal From New York

In the neutrality test, the federal district court in New York held that congress improperly delegated power to the president to embargo arms shipments. The government contends that this ruling endangers the neutrality resolution of the last session of congress which gave the president unprecedented power to keep the United States out of war.

Early in the term, the court will hear argument in the Duke power case which challenges the right of the PWA to make loans and grants to municipalities for the establishment of municipal power plants. Appeals of the Texas Utilities company and the Alabama Power company have raised the same question in the lower courts.

TVA May Face New Test

Observers believe that a fresh attack on TVA, upheld as far as Wilson dam is concerned in a decision last spring, will be made this winter.

New York state will make an early attempt to have the court reconsider its decision condemning an unconstitutional legislation fixing a minimum wage for women and children. It will also be asked to reconsider its invalidation of the municipal bankruptcy act.

Three cases involving the validity of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage act, sponsored by the union party which is headed by Rep. William Lemke (R.) N. D., have been brought to the court. The tribunal will probably announce on October 12 whether it will entertain the appeals.

May Be Arkansas Day In Horned Frog Stadium

FORT WORTH, Oct. 1.—It is to be T.C.U. day at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial next Saturday, but it looks as if it will be Arkansas day in the A.G.U. stadium.

The Razorbacks' 25-0-0 record over the Pittsburg Teachers and the Frogs' weak showing in the first two contests will place the latter in the role of underdog for the first time this season.

The Christians are scheduled to work hard all week, on both offense and defense.

"I still believe we have something in this 1936 squad," Coach Dutch Meyer said. "We've been slow getting started, but we'll make up for it. We'll give the Razorbacks a game just the same."

Because of the Centennial there is a record crowd for an opening game is expected. Mayor Vandt Jarvis has declared Oct. "T.C.U." day in Fort Worth and the Frontier Centennial.

St. Paul Registers And Fingerprints Former Convicts

ST. PAUL, Oct. 1 (UP)—St. Paul, weary and disgruntled by charges that gangsters have been given a warm hand and a policeproof hide-out, has started a cleanup.

The city's present mood is a consequence of the Bremer and Hamm kidnappings, which gave St. Paul a black eye the nation over. The resultant allegations of police alliance with high-time gangsters intensified civic displeasure.

St. Paul has become keenly aware that it has been a hideout for outlaws. This has resulted in an ordinance requiring registration, fingerprinting and photographing of every ex-felon who is seen here. Attorneys say it sounds "unconstitutional."

Civic officials have put their foot down. The city is "closed," they say, firmly. This, likewise, indicates the extraordinary nature of the resolution.

Slot Machines Ousted

Authorities have gone to great lengths in the cleanup. Not a slot machine or punch board is permitted. The city has tightened enforcement of the liquor laws.

In fact, Chief of Police C. A. Hackert has his orders straight from Safety Commissioner G. H. Barfuss. The latter banged a fist on the top of his desk and shouted "politics must go. They have no place in a police department."

Hackert declares the new drive has produced results, because, he adds, "the cheater gets it hard and square between the eyes in the way of revocation of licenses—right down the line, no holds barred and no favors given."

Trapped by Dictographs

First indication of the cleanup came when, through an intricate and elaborate stage-managing wire dictographs the reform element blasted into the very front office of the police department.

They had records of cryptics, corner-of-the-mouth conversations between gangland and the high-ups of the police department. The actual results, in the manner of discharges and convictions was not especially astounding, but the effect was there. It impressed the public mind immeasurably.

But the ordinance really has the teeth.

It requires that anyone convicted of a felony within the last decade must report, be fingerprinted, photographed and measured. He must report every change of address. If he fails—jail. And police so far have been highly successful in checking in the "forgetful" ones, much to the dismay and discomfort of the hoodlums.

TWO DERBY FLIERS KILLED IN CRASH

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 1 (AP)—Pilot Max Findlay and Radioman A. H. Morgan, entries in the England-to-Johannesburg air derby, were killed today in a crash in Northern Rhodesia. It was the second mishap of the race, Capt. S. S. Halse having been injured yesterday when his ship crashed near Salisbury.

C. W. A. Scott and Giles Guthrie won the derby with a time of 53 hours and 55 minutes.

Alfred Doesn't Approve Applicants

He said it was not always possible to tell from an application whether a case should be classed as "distress" and that efforts had been made to obtain accurate information from county judges and the relief commission.

No applicant had been denied a pension for the sole reason he might be living with his children, he said, nor would such denial be made until the children had been contacted by inspectors and indicated willingness to support the applicant.

"Is it true that the governor must approve applicants for jobs as inspectors," McKinney, queried touching for the first time on reports "politics" figured in the organization set-up.

"No sir," Carpenter said flatly.

He then described the recent institution of a "merit" plan for choosing county investigators, saying it was required by the federal social security board.

DEADLINE EXTENDED ON US WHEAT LOANS

Deadline for government wheat loans has been extended until Oct. 15, Mrs. Fulton Smith, who has been taking applications, said here today.

Ed Jay, field representative, will be in the county agent's office Thursday to interview farmers interested in making applications for the loans.

RADJO OPERATORS' LICENSES GRANTED

Third class radio operators licenses have been granted by the Federal Communications Commission to Harold Shumate, traffic officer, Roy Ayers, amateur radio operator, who constructed the city police radio transmitter, KACM, and to M. I. Murphy and W. S. Murphy.

Granting of licenses to the four gives the city staff a total of six operators. It is now likely that some arrangement may be worked whereby the transmitter will be put in constant service during nights.

ATTEND POSTOFFICE PROGRAM AT MIDLAND

Postmaster Nat Shiek, accompanied by Mrs. Shiek, B. Reagan and W. T. Strang, Jr., went to Midland Thursday afternoon to attend the conversations laying ceremonies for the new post office building in that city.

STUDY OF SAVINGS THROUGH POOL OF POWER AGREED UPON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Intensive study of savings that might be effected through regional pooling of electric power generated in private and public plants was agreed upon yesterday by President Roosevelt and private power executives.

A brief statement was issued by Chairman Frank McNinch of the federal power commission and Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, after two White House conferences on the pooling plan suggested by the president.

The statement issued by McNinch and Willkie following the second conference of the day, which President Roosevelt had summoned and which was attended by Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company, and Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan and Company, said:

"It appeared from the discussion of experiences here and abroad that there might be savings made in pooling of transmission which would be beneficial to the public and the investors.
