ON ISRAELI POSITION

Sources Say US Applies Pressure

By United Press International
Diplomatic sources in Cairo said today the United States is pressing Israel to soften its position at the deadlocked military talks with Egypt and that this was the probable reason behind Israel's request for a 24 hour postponement of today's scheduled session.

The report by UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi in Cairo that the United States was applying pressure on Israel coincided with a London report by UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler that Russia, apparently piqued at Sadat's recent friendship with Washington, is taking a backseat to the United States in Middle East peace efforts.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has talked openly of resuming the war unless the deadlock is resolved. Today the leaders of the Arab world meeting in Algiers said there would never be peace until Israel gives up all occupied territory including Jerusalem and restores the rights of the Palestinian refugees.

The Cairo diplomatic sources said the United States would like to see a measure of agreement reached in the Kilometer 101 negotiations in advance of the projected Arab-Israeli peace conference expected to open in Geneva Dec. 18.

ON DRUG PROBLEMS

Task Force Still In Planning Stage

No date has been set as yet for a meeting between representatives of the Pampa school district, the city and the county regarding the formation of a task force committee to study the drug problem in Pampa.

Principal Don Walker, the Rev. Martin Hager, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Police Chief Jim Conner.

That problem was brought resoundingly before the public at a meeting of the Pampa school board Monday night.

A resolution calling for the formation of a task force committee, involving representatives of the school board, the city, the county and other citizens to study the problem was passed at the meeting.

At the meeting approximately 140 citizens, representing a wide spectrum of the city's population, heard several speakers delineate the fact that a problem of "hard drugs"—cocaine and heroin for two—as opposed to lesser narcotics, is now facing the city.

School Board President Ben Sturgeon was named the school's representative and, in a meeting of the city commission yesterday morning, commissioner Ray Thompson of Precinct One was named the city's representative.

Principal among the speakers were Pampa High School

They will meet with Gray County Judge Don Cain and the county commissioners to discuss county involvement, probably at the next meeting of the county commissioners Saturday at 9 a. m. in the courthouse.

Cabot To Hold Honor Banquet For Employees

Cabot Corp. will honor its employees' length of service with a service awards dinner at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

Among the difficulties in combatting the situation which were brought out at the school board meeting were the problems of surveillance at both the high school and junior high by school authorities and throughout the city by police.

Employees who have achieved 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 30 years of service will be recognized for their respective years of service.

Chief Conner said his staff is simply not adequate to maintain surveillance of all the areas in town where the exchange or use of drugs might be taking place.

Other invited guests will include employees who belong to the "25 Year Club." The club is composed of all active and retired Cabot employees who have 25 or more years of service with the company.

At the meeting of the city commissioners yesterday, Sturgeon told them, "There must be a public awareness of what is happening. One of our troubles is that parents think this is something that only happens to somebody else's child. They don't want to believe it can happen in their family."

Departments and divisions represented will be the Oil and Gas Division, including the Oklahoma and Kansas districts, Pampa and Schaefer plants, Carbon Black Division, Research and Development Department, Texas Technical Service Department, Engineering Division, and the Pampa Office Service Departments.

Something must be done to turn the tide. It is generally agreed there has been a breakdown on Pampa's home front. Parents and the general public must become involved.

Consideration Of Budget Set For PRPC Meeting

Consideration of a budget approximating $17 million is scheduled when the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission meets in annual session Dec. 7 in Amarillo.

Ernest Clark, PRPC executive director, said about 25 counties and 45 cities, including Pampa and Gray County, will share in the cost of equipment for the project.

The meeting will open with registration at 1:45 p. m., continue through the afternoon and conclude with an evening banquet.

Gray County's representatives on the PRPC General Assembly are Judge Don Cain of Pampa and County Commissioner Joe Clark of Lefors.

Bulk of the $1,695,890 proposed budget will be more than $1.25 million for a regional law enforcement radio communications network.

Mayor R.D. Wilkerson and Ward 4 City Commissioner Arthur Rohde represent the City of Pampa on the regional body.

James McCray of White Deer will be one of the officers up for election at the annual meeting. McCray, representing the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District, is the nominee for treasurer.

Old St. Nick will meet boys and girls downtown before the parade and at Coronado Center after the parade. He will have free candy for them at both places.

Charles L. Reynolds of Amarillo, associate justice of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals, will be the banquet speaker.

There will be first, second and third prizes of $100, $50 and $25 cash for the best parade entries in the non-commercial division; plaques for first, second and third place winners in the commercial division; $50 cash for first place winner in the individual or family division, and three prizes of $15, $10 and $5 for first, second and third prizes in the decorated bike and motorcycle division.

Morton Orders Oil Shale Opened For 'Development'

Ready To Issue Permit For Alaska Oil Pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton today ordered the western oil shale lands opened for development and said he is ready to issue a right-of-way permit for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Most of the industry experts are members of the National Defense Executive Reserve who, under the 1950 Defense Production Act, are on a standby basis for federal call-up in an energy emergency.

The twin actions by Morton will not warm the nation's homes or fuel its industry this winter or even in the next few years, but will open the way to vast new energy sources in the late 1970s and 1980s.

Morton called a news conference to announce he had decided to proceed with developmental leasing of federal oil shale lands that could open the way for a vast new source of fossil fuel.

Prospects for the immediate future, under newly published government regulations, are that homes and businesses will be 6 to 10 degrees colder than last winter.

Six tracts in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah are expected to be leased for prototype oil shale mining and processing facilities.

Morton said he expected to issue the trans-Alaska pipeline permit in the next two weeks. President Nixon signed legislation Nov. 16 clearing away legal impediments to construction of the 789-mile-long pipeline to carry oil from the frozen north slope fields in Alaska to the ice-free southern port of Valdez.

If all goes well, by 1980 the six plants to be built by private industry will be producing a total of 250,000 barrels of crude oil a day for further refining into gasoline, heating oil and other petroleum products, interior officials said.

Aleyeska Pipeline Co., the firm created by a consortium of oil companies to build the line, hailed Morton's permit as "a most significant milestone."

However, large scale production to provide a significant portion of U.S. energy needs may not come until 1990 or later, they said.

Edward L. Patton, Aleyeska president, said in a statement issued simultaneously with Morton's announcement that "we are hopeful that there will be no new challenges" in court to the project which he said would be started in the spring.

Hunt's association represents about 90 per cent of the oil and gas producers in Texas.

Patton also cautioned would-be job seekers not to go to unemployment ridden Alaska looking for work. "There are absolutely no pipeline construction jobs presently available in Alaska," he said, and that none will be available for quite some time.

Morton M. Winston of the Oil Shale Corp. said in Los Morton also announced he would ask about 250 private industry executives to serve temporarily in administering the government emergency fuel allocation program.

Realtors President Lauds Profession profession and the encroachment of the federal government.

Installation of officers for the upcoming year was also conducted at the banquet.

Jeffers said, "If we stand back, they (the federal government) are going to put us out of business."

Jeffers, a University of Texas graduate and real estate broker for six years, was introduced to the assemblage by Quentin Williams.

Control of the profession by such bureaus as Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) was one of the main items Jeffers addressed himself to. He said, "They will force their regulations down our throats if we let them."

In his speech, Jeffers said the TAR has become the protector of the real estate profession. He said the association is the main buffer between the

He also attacked efforts by the state legislature to put strictures on the real estate profession.

Of 88 bills put in the hopper during the last session of the legislature (none of which passed), Jeffers said, "They were some of the most foolish bills I've ever read."

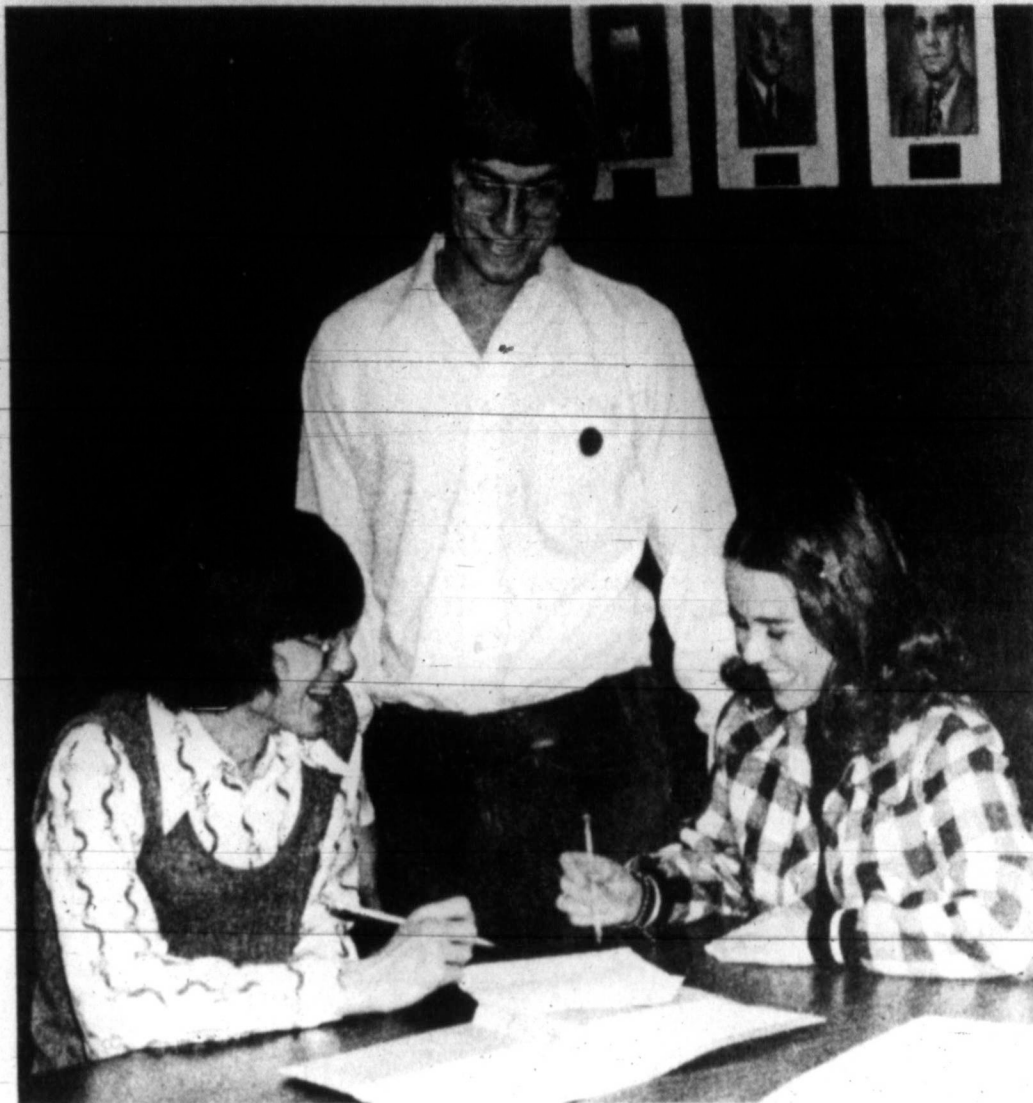

Concerning the real estate profession, Jeffers said, "The real estate license is sacred as far as I'm concerned." Those who are qualified professional brokers do a valuable service to their clients, he added.

In closing, Jeffers urged Pampa realtors to become members of the Texas Real Estate Political Action Committee (TREPAC). He said it was one very valuable way for real estate brokers to make themselves heard across the state.

TO ALL CONGRESSMEN

Nixon To Send Packets On Finance, Income Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon reportedly will send every member of Congress this week a "packet" of information on his personal finances and income taxes, but not his actual tax returns.

Some of 37 congressmen who had dinner and a private talk with the President at the White House Tuesday night said he told them the package would be on its way shortly.

That somewhat contradicted senators who met with Nixon the day before, some of whom said he promised to make public his actual returns. Nixon has said he paid only "nominal" income taxes in 1970 and 1972.

Meanwhile, the mystery of the erasing of 18 minutes of a key presidential tape deepened as Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, testified in federal court Tuesday she thinks she only obliterated "five or six minutes" when she stopped transcribing the tape to answer a telephone.

She realized when she finished the call that she had pushed the wrong controls on the tape machine, she told U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, but she doesn't recall any phone calls lasting as long as 18 minutes.

The tape, including an 18-minute hum, was played in Sirica's court. But even the portions which weren't erased gave no information about Watergate.

Only isolated words and phrases could be deciphered. Nixon was heard ordering a bowl of consommé from his steward, John D. Ehrlichman said the press "overresponded" to something—what it was inaudible—and Nixon replied, "Don't worry, the hell with it."

In other developments, —Former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said he proposed to the White House—and still believes—that Nixon should meet with ranking members of the Watergate committee along with the special prosecutor. Richardson was interviewed on the Dick Cavett Show on ABC-TV.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Earl Wilson

The latest Washington gossip is that Henry Kissinger hopes to retire soon, so he can have plenty of time to travel. The usual teen-age phone call lasts about an apple, a soda and two pieces of cake. Someone described a bore: "He's a guy who doesn't stop talking even when you've stopped listening." Business report: The girle business seems to be holding firm. This, of course, is based on last year's figures. Spriggy's advice to drinkers: "People who live in glass houses should never get stoned." (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 7.)

Pioneer To Adjust Rate Classification

AMARILLO — Pioneer Natural Gas Co. announced today that, effective Jan. 1, 1974, the rate under which several classifications of customers are receiving gas service will be adjusted, upward or downward, each month, based on the monthly current cost of gas purchased for the company's West Texas system.

This adjustment will not change the present base rate being paid by these customers. Presently, these rates are subject to the same adjustment on an annual basis.

In making the announcement, K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president, pointed out that because of the energy crisis facing the nation, the cost of new gas supply in the field is changing at an unprecedented rate.

The adjustment must be made on a monthly basis in order for Pioneer to remain in a competitive position for future gas supply.

Watson continued, "Pioneer is fortunate to have pipelines into two of the most promising areas for acquiring additional gas supply. However, there are a number of gas companies with pipelines in these areas who are aggressively acquiring gas as it becomes available.

Through the joint efforts of the company and its customers, the company is confident its ability to serve its customers' needs will continue to be favorable.

When this new rate plan becomes effective, more than 60 per cent of the gas delivered from the West Texas system will be subject to the monthly cost-of-gas adjustment.

In addition, the company has filed applications in all incorporated cities and towns on its West Texas system for approval of this same adjustment. To date, 19 of these cities and towns have approved the request.

The adjustment is also being placed in all new industrial contracts and the existing ones as they expire and are renegotiated.

He held that post until 1962 when he was elected district attorney for Anderson, Henderson and Houston Counties. He held this position until January, 1973 when he joined the Governor's staff.

Wallace, 43, was appointed by Gov. Briscoe as railroad commissioner to replace Byron Tunnel who resigned.

Since his appointment as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission Wallace has studied the oil industry and how it functions. His findings and remarks are expected to be of

Briscoe Plans To Ask Texans To Slow Down

AUSTIN (UPI) — Although he plans to order state vehicles to drive more slowly, Gov. Dolph Briscoe apparently favors asking Texans to voluntarily drive between 50 and 60 miles an hour without actually lowering the state's 70 mile an hour highway limit.

Briscoe plans to make his recommendations known today on how he feels the state should handle the energy crisis.

Sources indicate Briscoe's suggestions will nearly duplicate those of President Nixon. They also say the governor has no plans to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the energy crisis.

Briscoe has been known to favor a reduced speed limit of 60 miles an hour but apparently he does not plan to force that on Texas motorists. He will order state-owned vehicles to drive more slowly, however.

President Nixon has asked Congress for the authority to impose a national 50 mile an hour speed limit on all highways for all private vehicles and a 55 mile an hour speed limit on trucks and buses that consume diesel fuel.

Briscoe also plans to ask state employees to turn down their office thermostats.

Price Expresses Hopes For Middle East Peace

WASHINGTON — Congressman Bob Price of Pampa, fresh from a 10-day Middle East tour as a member of a select House Armed Services Committee subcommittee, today expressed hope for a lasting Middle East peace but stressed his realization of the deep enmity and fear which pervades both sides.

"We should not delude ourselves into believing that a lasting Middle East settlement will come either easily or quickly," Price said, "yet Egyptian and Israeli military leaders are holding face-to-face meetings for the first time in more than twenty years."

Price said, "Our fact-finding mission, carried out during the Congressional Thanksgiving recess, proved extremely interesting and helpful. It was probably the first time in history that any Congressional committee has been able to observe a major war from both sides while the conflict was still short of final settlement."

"We were able to talk with both Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Egyptian President Anwar El Sadat as well as a number of their ministers and members of Parliament. Also, each side gave us a tour of the combat areas so we were able to get a balanced view of the military situation there," the 13th Congressional Congressman said.

"The subcommittee was able to get an idea of how our military equipment functioned during actual battle conditions and to compare this with equipment provided by the Soviet Union, he added. The information is particularly helpful in Congressional decision-making processes.

He remains an outstanding leader today."

Skylab Faces Energy Crisis

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab orbiting space station has its own private energy crisis.

The giant space laboratory is using too much gas every time it tries to maneuver in space. And although the problem does not threaten the planned 84-day mission or pose any danger to the three Skylab astronauts, it could cripple some of the experiments unless repaired.

For instance, one of the most important jobs the astronauts have been assigned during this mission is taking pictures of the Comet Kohoutek. In order to get better pictures the astronauts need to maneuver Skylab for the best possible angle.

The astronauts were supposed to make a picture-taking tour of Earth today but those plans were scrapped because of the fuel problem. It was the third postponement of this study. Monday's and Tuesday's postponements were caused by bad weather.

CAN SHORTAGE LOOMS Service Stations To Close Sunday

Pampa residents looking for gasoline for their cars on Sunday or cans to store some in before they are liable to be disappointed in both cases.

A sampling of service stations in town this morning disclosed some will definitely be closed, some owners are undecided and one definitely plans on being open for this Sunday at least.

Service station owners gave as reasons for closing both the request by President Nixon that they do so and, in some instances, a shortage of gasoline.

J. D. Roth of the Hardin and Roth/Truck Terminal, 805 W. Brown, said his station would be closed from 9 p.m. Saturday through Sunday. He cited Nixon's request and a gasoline shortage as reasons for closing.

Pete Pettit of the Wiley Pettit Station, U.S. 60 East, said that station will be open this Sunday, but he expects the law making closing mandatory will be in effect the next weekend.

Claude Bigham, owner of the Coronado Conoco station in Coronado Center said, "I'll be closed if something doesn't change."

Richard Bright, owner of Richard's Mobil Service Station, 1200 N. Hobart, said he is holding off making a decision, "trying to see what the competition is doing."

Dewayne Cosgrove of Dewey's Deep Rock Station, 1801 N. Hobart, said he will definitely be closed this Sunday. Cosgrove said a combination of gasoline being in short supply and the President's request were the reasons for closing.

As for gasoline cans, Wayne Ivey of the White Stores, Inc., Pampa branch, 1500 N. Hobart, said he simply doesn't have any on hand. He said the store handles them only during the months when lawn mowers are in use.

Bill Gray of Western Auto, 217 N. Cuyler, said he has no five gallon cans on hand but does have a few one and two gallon cans in stock.

From all indications, Sunday driving in Pampa, as elsewhere, will be curtailed for a while at least.

Hijackers Surrender In Libya

BEIRUT (UPI) — Three Palestinian guerrillas who hijacked a Dutch jumbo jet airliner last Sunday surrendered today in the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Dubai, exhausted after an Odyssey that took them thousands of miles around the Middle East. Their 11 hostages went free.

A spokesman for the Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) said in Amsterdam "the jumbo jet hijacking has ended. The hijackers and crew have left the plane and are being taken to a hospital for medical check-ups." A spokesman in Dubai confirmed the report.

The hijackers had demanded and received 3,000 gallons of fuel for the big 747 that has flown without maintenance over a four day period and with a 10-man crew that has had no rest. But instead of taking off on another flight in search of refuge they turned themselves in after long negotiations with the leaders of Dubai.

A Dubai Airport spokesman said the government had rejected the hijackers' demands for a new plane and passports. He said the guerrillas might take off again tonight with their 11 hostages despite the fact the Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) 747 they hijacked Sunday has had no maintenance and the crew is exhausted.

"We told them there was no other plane available," the airport spokesman said, "and Prime Minister Maktoum ben Rashid refused their request for passports."

BIG ONE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The new MGM-Grand-Hotel here claims to be the largest resort hotel in the world—26 stories, 2,100 rooms, five entertainment lounges, movie theater, 145,000 square feet of convention space.

moving toward the rock beat because his version of "Hey Good Lookin'" is closer to 1973 than 1967.

Among the songs in this selection are "Half as Much," "Cold Cold Heart," "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry," "Wedding Bells." Rich gives each one his personal touch but preserves the original Williams idea.

Elvis Presley's latest album, "Raised on Rock, for Ol' Times Sake" (RCA APL 1-0388) is far removed from his pristine efforts that made him the King of the 1950s. Yet it is still Elvis and it should appeal to the hausfraus who were the bobby soxers of his heyday.

Presley Has Vitality
 When Presley returned to live performing in 1969 after a nine-year hitch before the movie cameras, he had lost none of the masculine drive that made him a sex symbol. But he was ready to accept new ideas and he kept his music moving forward.

That is the essence of this latest Presley performance. It has vitality from the beginning and Presley, with the help of amplified instruments, never really lets the pace slacken. That is why his records continue to enjoy popularity even though he has been rejected by the bubble-gummers as an old man. "Raised on Rock" and "For Ol' Times Sake" are the prime movers in this grouping of Elvis songs but there are others that give the program good impetus, among them: "Three Corn Patches," "Are You Sincere" and "Just a Little Bit."

An Odd Fact
 An even number of rows usually grow on an ear of corn. It may have 8, 10, 12 or more rows of kernels.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — My friend Rogers returned from a road trip, wan and visibly shaken, and laid a communication on my desk.

"Sociologists and psychologists have correctly perceived that many people undergo distinct personality changes when they get behind the wheel of an automobile," it said.

"The 98-pound weakling whom bullies intimidate on the beach by kicking sand in his face becomes an aggressive, menacing tiger in traffic, roaring along in a din of squealing tires and screeching brakes."

"The bullies, meanwhile, turn into little old ladies in tennis shoes, holding up traffic, blocking intersections and trying to make a left from the right hand lane."

Understanding Comes Late
 "Although long aware of these aberrations, behaviorists are only now beginning to understand the cause, which is simply a loss of means of communication."

"When a boy motorist sees a girl motorist his only means of sounding a mating call is to use a device intended by Detroit to serve as a get-out-of-my-way signal."

No wonder so many boy motorists are involved in accidents. They're frustrated.

Even a dog has an expressive tail to wag.

"And when you consider a dog also has a bark and a growl, you begin to see where the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration went wrong."

There's No Gainsaying
 "How much more understanding, cooperative and safe motorists would then become!"

Yea and verily! There is no gainsaying that the monotonal horn, which can only express itself through length and frequency of beeps, is woefully inarticulate.

Half the time you can't even guess why another motorist is honking at you—or even if you are the one he is honking at.

Cars need the equivalent of a bark and a growl as well as a tail wag. Here are a few of the basic messages a horn should be able to transmit:

—If you had used your turn indicator in time I could have gotten into a better lane, you fathead.

—Get back on the pavement, dammit, you're slinging gravel on my windshield.

—(To trucks) For God's sake pull off on the shoulder and free this string of cars you've been holding up for 50 miles.

Yes, communication is the key to happy motoring.

Iceland has no army, navy, air force or forts.

TRAIL IN THE HEAVENS — On the evening of Jan. 10, 1974, about one hour after sunset, Comet Kohoutek will be just above Venus and to the right of Jupiter. In this rendering, artist Victor Costanzo of the Strassenburgh Planetarium, Rochester, N.Y., shows the comet as it might look if it lives up to some of the more optimistic predictions. If it is this bright, it will be the most spectacular comet visible from the northern latitudes since 1881.

'A SPECTACULAR SIGHT'

Skywatchers Anxiously Await Comet's Arrival

With the anticipation and awe of ancient civilizations, but tempered now with the restraint of modern scientific curiosity, professional and amateur skywatchers alike await the arrival of Kohoutek — the comet of the century.

The comet, named after its discoverer, Czech astronomer Dr. Lubos Kohoutek, was discovered accidentally on photographic plates on March 7, 1973. Kohoutek, working at the Hamburg, Germany, observatory was, at the time, searching for asteroids between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter and for the lost periodic comet Biela.

At the time of discovery, the comet was very faint — visible only through large telescopes — and was just inside the orbit of Jupiter some 500 million miles from the sun. What alerted astronomers was the fact that, at that distance, the comet should not have been visible at all.

And so they reason that by the time it arrives nearest the sun, a distance of about 13 million miles, on Dec. 28, it will be a spectacular sight.

Comet Kohoutek's anticipated brightness and its very early discovery are of particular advantage for skywatchers and photographers. The comet should be visible to the naked eye in the predawn sky in late November. By late December it will be at its brightest as it passes within 13 million miles of the sun.

Brian Marsden of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory feels that the most convenient time for viewing will be in the early evening between Jan. 10-18, 1974.

At that time the full moon won't be visible, the comet should have come up well above the horizon and will probably be almost as bright as the planet Venus which, at that time, will be the brightest object in the sky, slightly to the left and below the comet. Observers should look just slightly to the right of where the sun has set.

Kohoutek's brightness will make it relatively easy to photograph. And because its path through the universe will probably not bring it back to our solar system for at least 82,000 years, viewers will be presented with a once-in-a-lifetime-photo opportunity for a few days in January.

A camera with a lens of f-4 or faster and which can be set up for time exposures with high speed film is a must. Set the camera on a tripod or other firm camera support and don't forget to use a shutter cable release to eliminate as much movement and vibration as possible.

Use Kodak Tri-X pan film for black and white prints or Kodak high speed Ektachrome film (daylight) for color slides. If you're using a camera with an f-1.9 or faster lens, you can even use Kodacolor-X or Kodacolor II film.

Try exposures ranging from 1-60 second to one or possibly two minutes with Tri-X or high speed Ektachrome film. The reason for this procedure is that it is sometimes difficult for astronomers to predict precisely how bright a comet might be or how its appearance might change.

Remember that because of the earth's rotation long exposures will cause background stars in your pictures to "trail" or streak. Also, exposures longer than two minutes will cause the head of the comet to blur. In any event, you'll have time to experiment.

Focus your camera on infinity, open the lens to its widest setting, and aim at the comet. To add dimension and interest to your comet photographs try to include silhouettes of the surrounding landscape such as trees, low buildings, hills, etc.

To improve chances of success in arriving at whatever is the correct exposure for a given time, bracket your exposures so that you'll have a complete series to work from.

With an f-4 or faster lens on your camera you can try exposures at 1-60, 1-30, 1-15, 1-8, 1-4, and 1-2 second, and also longer exposures of 2, 4, 8, 15, and 30 seconds; and 1, 1 1/4, 1 1/2, 1 3/4, and 2 minutes.

Exposure will vary as the comet moves closer to the sun and becomes brighter and then as it moves away from the sun and becomes dimmer. Exposure will also depend on local atmospheric conditions when you take your pictures, on background light in the sky from twilight, moonlight, and city lights, and on the equipment you use.

Best results can be obtained on dark, moonless nights away from city lights when the sky is clear and free from atmospheric haze.

The entire comet — head to tail — can be satisfactorily imaged through a normal focal length lens. But the head of the comet will be very small in the film frame. In this case a telephoto lens of moderate focal length can be used to obtain a larger image. So if your camera accepts interchangeable lenses, consider using an 85 or 90 mm lens. Such a lens will give you a larger head without cutting off too much of the tail.

For this once in a lifetime occasion, Kodak has made available a new booklet, "Tips on Photographing Comet Kohoutek." Kodak publication No. AM-30 Free, postage-paid single copies of the pamphlet can be obtained by sending a self-addressed business-size envelope with the publication title and number written on the back to Eastman Kodak Company, Photo Information, Department 844, Rochester, New York 14650.

Dear Abby

Forget brother in law, make husband happy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old housewife with two daughters. Two years ago I began what I thought was a carefree affair with my husband's sister's husband. He was an older man (48 and divorced) and had such a sweet, understanding nature. Well, I fell in love with him and even had illusions of running away with him, but I don't think I ever could have gone thru with it because he is a lousy provider, has six kids, and my husband is a good, hard-working 30-year-old man-who-loves-me.

I really love my husband, too, but I couldn't resist this brother in law. Three months ago a 22-year-old girl entered the picture. She and my brother in law began an affair, and he came to me and told me he loved me too much to take me away from my husband, but this young girl had nobody to care for her. I believe it. She is homely and acts like a 10-year-old. But I can't understand why he would leave me for her. I can't get this man out of my mind. Should I leave my husband and tell my brother in law he wouldn't be taking me away from my husband because I left him?

Love is a terrible thing. What should I do?
TORMENTED IN TENNESSEE

DEAR TORMENTED: This isn't love—it's insanity! Let the 22-year-old girl have him and put a little more energy into making that 30-year-old, hardworking man who loves you happy. Your brother in law is bad news.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 72-year-old woman, living alone on a pension in an apartment which had advertised for tenants while it was still under construction.

When I signed a year's lease I was not told that arrangements were being made with a "computer school" in this complex to rent 27 three-bedroom apartments to the students. [There are six students in each apartment.]

The students have no supervision, and the noise is unbearable where I live. The kids next door play their hi-fi so loud, my walls vibrate! I can't sleep in my bedroom. I have to sleep on a narrow sofa in my living room to get away from the noise from next door. I have a bad back and am a very large woman.

I complained to the resident manager, and he said he would do something about it, but so far he hasn't.

Had I known these students would be here I never would have signed the lease. I am a nervous wreck over this. Please help me.
SICK IN FAIRFAX, VA.

DEAR SICK: I don't know the laws in Fairfax concerning the validity of your lease, but if I were you, I'd find out fast. Contact your local Legal Aid Society, and, for a nominal fee, they will handle it.

DEAR ABBY: How long does it take to have a baby? In plainer language, what is the length of time normally between the conception of a baby and its birth?

I realize that a woman can be a week or two early and even late, but isn't there a certain number of days or weeks that can be considered normal for carrying a child?

I'm ashamed to ask my doctor, and I'd feel dumb asking anyone else, and I can't find it in any book. I am a married woman and the mother of three.
MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: The gestation period—from conception to birth—is normally 266 days.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, NOV. 29

Your birthday today: Patience is essential, difficult to achieve. All relationships encounter hard going, unfavorable external circumstances; the real ones survive. Today's natives can see two or more sides to most controversies, seldom fail to achieve a second job or line of career effort, sometimes scatter their resources.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: In the midst of a distorted view of your environment, a moment of truth arrives for your view of your funds and future. Take decisive actions.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: What had seemed definite and solid before becomes tenuous, temporary. Concentrate on stabilizing, firming up what you want to keep and promote.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: If you will first attend the needs of your spirit, all other concerns settle into place. People are well-disposed, need only some effective news of your projects, views.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Available career opportunities have unseen implications, many of them potentially of great benefit. Square off your accounts stringently.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Outside interest is readily attracted to any project you've organized, bringing suggestions for changes, conversion to other purposes. Give them thought before you reject.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Blunt commentary is the norm today, although the basic reasons for its happening are not so clear. Be explicit and consistent with minor concerns.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Early confusion passes swiftly into simple situations where it is clear what has to be done, and probably, who has to do the main share — yourself.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: If facts and people seem contrary to your wish, take the blame for some of the discrepancy, and make adjustments. You can't have everything your way all the time.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Routines are apt to be interrupted today. Kinks in emotional relationships are brought to open discussion, then smoothed out.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Having pursued all projects thus far, taper off, pull back to give yourself a break. A change of pace and scene help digest the results of recent experience.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Afternoon and evening promise definite forward ground-breaking moves. It is important to keep in mind your inner spiritual needs.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Get out of public view, strive for a quiet time in which to work alone on the questions most important to you. You have a serious social responsibility coming up.

Spray Painting Simplified

COLLEGE STATION — Spray painting isn't fool-proof — and may not be as easy as it looks, one authority warns.

"Satisfactory results depend on proper techniques," according to Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"First of all, read the manufacturer's instructions thoroughly.

"Also, shake the aerosol can every time it's used. The rattling noise inside the can is a metal ball that aids in agitation. If you don't hear it, tap the can bottom against a hard surface to dislodge the ball.

"Surface preparation plays a crucial part in spray painting — as any other method. Unless prepared correctly, improper drying, peeling and chipping can result.

"The clean, dry surface should be free of dirt, grease, wax, oil or any foreign substance," the specialist, emphasized.

Generally, hold the aerosol can 10-12 inches from the surface when spraying, she continued. "Depress the head (or button) completely to insure a uniform spray.

"Move the can in a straight line, keeping it the same distance from the surface at all times.

"For best results, begin spraying past one edge and continue past the other edge. Then release the button.

"Avoid stopping and reversing a stroke because a heavy paint build-up will result. Also, don't spray over the previous stroke.

"The specialist advised applying two thin coats rather than a heavy one.

"Spraying over wet paint causes a build-up or dripping — so let the first coat dry before applying the second."

"If a thin paint film 'sags' or 'runs,' the can is either too cold or it's used too close to the object's surface," Miss Bradshaw said.

"Rough-textured paint film occurs when the can is too warm or it's held too far from the work."

When the spray head doesn't spray — or sprays, then sputters and clogs — first try turning the can from side to side a few times. Often this clears it, the specialist added.

"If it doesn't, pull the spray head off the can. Clean out the head with a fine wire — or soak it in lacquer thinner.

"Then push the cleaned head back onto the can. To seal, give it half a turn."

Miss Bradshaw pointed out that the cost — per ounce of spray paint is far higher than paint bought in ordinary containers. "However, for a small job — and a quick, smooth one — the difference may be worth it."

Ask any fashion expert. Everyone will tell you that this is the year you can't have too many sweaters.

Fortunately, there's always room for one more sweater on a knitter's agenda and this is the sweater you should knit next.

The reasons are many. First, everyone — no matter her size — will look a little slimmer when wearing it. You'll literally knit a few pounds away. The vertical cables and ribs are an interesting combination and they're striped to slenderize up to size 18.

Next, this sweater is mohair, the best possible yarn for this season's soft, brushed look. You knit this topper in Bernat's Mohair Plus which is 60 per cent lush mohair blended with wool and nylon to give it something extra in the form of texture plus strength for long wear.

The view from the back is another point in favor of this sensational mohair style. The ribbing which defines the waistline in front extends to the back. While the front has a knit in striped pattern the back is an uncluttered stockinette.

If you need one more good reason for making this the next fashion you set your needles to, the sweater is topped off by a clingy cap in a matching pattern. The cap is wonderfully new and fresh this season. It's warm and wooly enough for the most unseasonable weather.

Instructions for small, medium and large for sizes 8 to 18 are available. Just send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time c/o this newspaper, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet S833 and be sure to include your name, address and zip code.

Soft mohair sweater in a stripe pattern is a mix of cables and ribs giving a slimming look. Back is in simple stockinette.

Bidding decides most Swiss team events. The reason for this is that the Swiss movement continually matches winners against winners and losers against losers, so that in later rounds, play tends to be the same. Poor in the losers' brackets, good among those contending for the championship.

Today's hand decided a very important Swiss match. The bidding in the box is that at the winning table. At the losing table North bid just four clubs. West thought about going to four hearts,

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Arnold's insult to his coed concubine should warn you girls! If you wish to make men beg to marry you, then follow the psychological strategy which I taught my coed students at Northwestern University. Note how Jim's girl friend used it.

CASE Y-581: Arnold Z., aged 20, is a college junior. He has been living with a coed classmate, without benefit of a wedding ceremony.

Recently they visited the college Guidance Counselor. "Arnold," the Counselor began, "have you considered getting married?"

"Well," Arnold replied, "I might, after I look the field over more widely and—if I find somebody I want to marry."

Meanwhile his "college concubine" sat there, doubly embarrassed by this verbal slap in the face!

For she realized the Counselor knew she was living with Arnold, and when Arnold bluntly ruled her out as of suitable marriage caliber, any normal college coed should have winced.

For when women cohabit with men, unless they are prostitutes or "Call" girls, they are using their sexual favors as "bait" to gain a wedding ring.

h. the modern Women's Libbers will scream in protest at my exposing their ulterior aims, but every experienced psychiatrist and Marriage Counselor knows the truth of what I am saying.

Women seldom indulge in sex except to gain some ulterior reward.

The professionals expect to be paid in cash. The amateurs gamble for a wedding band.

And those amateurs are "chicken."

For they are in a panic about losing their chance at marriage so they toss everything into one last throw of the sex dice.

Then they are often cast aside, just as Arnold demonstrates, for all virile males relish a challenge.

"Easy come, easy go," applies to college concubines.

Men are naturally competitive creatures so they are far more attracted to girls who hold them at arm's length, than to coeds who quickly submit to their sexual advances.

But it is time I paid Women's Libbers a sincere compliment, so I wish to commend them for having enough spunk to deny that they are putty in the hands of selfish males.

Indeed, that makes them even more attractive to virile men. In advising my coed students at Northwestern University, I would routinely remind them to disclaim interest in becoming a wife.

Instead, I urged them to be giddy and gay; lavish with compliments to the male sex, but then diffident about eroticism and marriage.

Their compliments of the male soon make him doubly attentive and eager to mold her to his own erotic desires.

Then she introduces the challenge, as by exclaiming with a smile:

"Jim, you are so wonderful, I wish I had never met you until 10 years from now!"

"For I have picked a career in music (advertising, medicine, etc.) so I dare not think about romance and marriage."

"After 10 or 15 more years—if you are still fancy free, I'd love to have you look me up."

No virile male can resist this challenge, so what happens?

Well, he begins to high-pressure such a girl with many reasons why she is too pretty and attractive to become a spinster medic, fashion designer, musician or missionary.

"Please don't talk to me like that," she can implore, "for all my education has been focussed on my career and I mustn't stop now."

Men are so perverse that if they think a girl doesn't want marriage, they immediately try to persuade her thereto!

So send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and pick choice partners!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellet, Indiana 47558. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—During last week's market slump, "it was apparent that stocks were weakening on diminishing volume, thus developing a potential for a rebound on developments affecting Mideast oil," says the Spear Market Report. Some good news pushed through the gloom, the letter continues, with reports of an increase in new orders for durable goods in September and a rise in personal income of $9.2 billion in October. Thus "tendencies to panic were held in check by investors groping in a fog of uncertainty," it adds.

The energy crisis may result in a "revival of the economic attractiveness of the older, declining cities," according to Manufacturers Hanover Trust. The urban environment with its mass transit and apartment houses are more efficient users of energy than the suburbs, the bank says. It adds, however, the relative attractiveness of cities will depend on their location, and the Northeast with its dependence on imported oil and its cold climate may be particularly vulnerable to the energy crisis.

The expected shortage of two to three million barrels (of oil) daily will constrict the U.S.

growth potential shortly, "but uncertainty over the impact of the embargo has prompted some forecasters to give vent to exaggerated fears," says First National City Bank. The energy crisis will be one of many factors contributing to an economic deceleration next year, the bank continues. "A number of signs indicate that economic developments in 1974 will have a ring resonant with that of a cyclical slowdown," it adds.

SONGFUL ENGINEER
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Christmas song "There's a Beautiful Star" was written by Rossiter Raymond, a mining engineer.

TO 'SNOW BIRD' LAND

Getting Cold? Go South, Young Man

McALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—If Horace Greeley were around today and someone asked him what his advice would be to escape the energy crisis he might say "Go South, young man."

And thousands of people will probably do just that.

Officials in South Texas, especially in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, expect an unusually large volume of tourist trade this year, even if the "snow birds," as they are called, have to drive only six days a week and 50 miles an hour to get there.

And barring some catastrophic wintery storm, these officials say they should have enough fuel supplies to keep everyone comfortable if not exactly mobile.

"Right now it looks favorable based on the unusually cold winter we had last year," said Bill Simpson, manager of a dealership that supplies propane to the numerous mobile home and camper trailer parks that dot the valley. "We haven't had a cold winter at all so far this year."

Simpson said his firm is being held to 93 per cent of last year's propane allocation already and President Nixon in his latest energy message proposed the figure be lowered to 85 per cent.

"We wouldn't get as much as last year, but it's not likely that we'll have as cold a winter as we had last year. That's what we're banking on," Simpson said.

The population of the palm-tree lined valley increases as much as 25 per cent each winter when the "snow birds"—arrive. McAllen, population about 43,000, expects 10,000 winter visitors this year.

"We began to get winter visitors a lot earlier than we have in the past," said John McNally, public relations manager of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce which earlier this year boasted of the availability of gasoline across the border in Mexico in encouraging

Americans Facing Registration Under Health Care Plans

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Almost every American will be registered under either a public or private health care plan by the end of this decade, according to Robert M. Ball, former Social Security commissioner.

"Over the long run, I believe we will move toward plans that will encompass low-income people in the same systems that cover the rest of the population," Ball said.

"Low income people will receive equal treatment in medicine only when they are free to go to the same hospital or clinic under the same conditions as the average worker whose costs are paid by an insurance plan," he said.

One inch of rain on one acre of ground would weigh 226,512 pounds and would consist of 27,192 gallons of water.

northerners to continue their annual migration.

Russell Willis, executive vice president of the Valley Chamber of Commerce, said the number of travel trailer "pads" is estimated at 20,000 this winter, up from 16,000 last year in anticipation of a larger migration from the north. Construction of new apartments also has been on the rise.

"I would say definitely that we're anticipating more than we've ever had," Willis said.

Although it appears propane for heating will be adequate barring any major winter storm driving deep into South Texas, gasoline likely will not be as plentiful as last year—on both sides of the border.

Gasoline sells for one peso and 50 centavos a liter across the border in Reynosa, Mexico, home of one of the largest refineries in Mexico. This is about 40 cents per gallon, comparable to the Texas price, and the Mexican government has laid no restrictions on who can buy from its nationalized petroleum company.

But George Copeland, vice president of a valley fuel dealership, says Mexico also is feeling the pinch on fuel.

"We've had inquiries from as far in as Monterrey. We had one man who wanted to buy from us 12,000 gallons of heating oil per day. He was just desperately trying to buy it from anywhere he could get it. That is an indication that they do not have any surplus at all in Mexico," he said.

Copeland said Mexico will not sell any gasoline to U.S. dealers. "They won't sell it to you. I tried to buy diesel fuel over there without success," he said.

South Texas sells butane and propane to Mexican dealers who truck it across the border, but Simpson predicted U.S. dealers would cut down Mexico's share of the liquid petroleum gas during this winter.

Pioneer 10 Ready To Take Photos

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI)—Space scientists sent signals a half billion miles through space Monday to fire thrusters on the Pioneer 10 spacecraft and align the probe's communications antenna for clearer details of its flyby of the planet Jupiter.

Pioneer 10's cameras have already sent back small clear color pictures of the mysterious red spot on the solar system's largest planet and NASA technicians plan to begin round-the-clock picture taking late Tuesday.

The delicate thruster maneuver for the $100 million craft occurred as it raced toward a week away rendezvous point at 26,200 miles per hour.

Pioneer 10 has already passed inside the orbits of seven of Jupiter's 12 moons, four of them planet size, and has yet to encounter the "bow shock," which could damage or destroy the probe's circuitry. The "shock" should occur at the point where ionized gases flowing out from the sun hits Jupiter's super-strong magnetic field.

A space agency spokesman said the pictures being sent back to earth from the spacecraft continued to be "excellent with colored television images now clearly showing the great red spot and the round black shadow of the moon Io on Jupiter's surface."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Concerned About Blood Count?

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife, who is 81 and in very good health, has been undergoing tests because her doctor was concerned about her low blood count.

They came up with what to me is a very unusual diagnosis. There seems to be some kind of indigestible substance in her stomach, which the doctor says is from eating persimmons. My wife likes and eats persimmons but not to excess.

Our doctor is a wonderful man with a string of degrees a mile long, and we have a great faith in him, but this diagnosis seems so far out that I would like another opinion whether this is medically sound or just an old wives' tale.

—C.B.R.
Your doctor sounds like a smart fellow. Too often a patient's eating habits are not sufficiently included in a medical history.

Indigestible fibers can accumulate into a ball in the stomach, becoming too large to escape from the stomach. Such a ball is called a bezoar. Children (and others) occasionally acquire a habit of pulling out hair and swallowing it. This can create a bezoar.

But about three out of four bezoars are from eating persimmons. Your wife may not have eaten them with undue frequency — but at 81 she doubtless has been eating them for a long, long time. The fibers have a resin that insulates them from the action of digestive juices, and when some remain in the stomach and begin to form a ball, they trap more fibers as they reach the stomach.

There may be no symptoms from a bezoar until it becomes large. Then there is a feeling of fullness in the upper abdomen, and there may even be some pain, nausea or vomiting. Foul breath is a possibility.

A bezoar can create enough irritation to cause an ulcer and bleeding of the stomach lining — and in your wife's case, a gradual loss of blood until the low blood count (an anemia) became apparent.

Distinguishing a bezoar from, for example, a tumor is possible with X-ray, since the bezoar will be seen to move about.

Relief from a bezoar is removal of it surgically; if that is not possible, then no more persimmons.

Repeat: you evidently have a shrewd, knowledgeable doctor to have spotted the trouble as quickly as he did.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife insists on not using salt with iodine in it. I feel the amount is more beneficial than harmful. We very rarely eat fish. Please send your opinion.

ROAD MONEY
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — More than 5,000 persons pull up to the toll plaza of the Golden Gate Bridge each year and discover, to their embarrassment, that they have no money.

About one-tenth of the broke motorists leave such items as watches and quarts of oil and cuff links as security deposits until they can return with the 50 cent toll, according to bridge authorities.

CANDY EATING
NEW YORK (UPI) — Today Americans consume an average of 19 pounds of candy annually from a selection of over 2,000 varieties.

It is difficult to justify today's dull, drab, shipping label type dollar bill once one has seen specimens of our 18th and 19th century paper currency. The difference appears as an almost deliberate attempt to devalue the note by first depreciating its aesthetic values.

Aside from being attractive, many of our early large size bills depicted a wealth of historic knowledge in their fine engraving and art work.

MONEY CLIPS

by Mort Reed

A case in point would be the One, Two and Five dollar "Educational Series" of 1896, considered by many as the three most beautiful pieces of paper currency ever produced by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

pointing in the direction of Washington, D.C.

An open book displaying a readable portion of the Constitution of the United States is on the extreme right hand side with the Washington monument and Capitol dome in the background.

The names of 23 great Americans, enclosed in laurel wreaths form the end and top borders. Starting at the lower left, those listed are: Longfellow, Sherman, Lincoln, Irving, Cooper, Fulton, Calhoun, Clay, Jackson, Adams, Jefferson, Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, Perry, Marshall, Webster, Morse, Hawthorne, Bancroft, Grant, Farragut and Emerson.

The reverse of the bill shows the heads of George and Martha Washington separated by a large ornate figure "one" against a field of Florentine scroll work.

William Donlon, in his "Catalog of United States Large Size Paper Money 1861-1923" 1973 and 1974 edition, lists the Educational One Dollar Note at $32.50 to $50.00, in Fine condition, and $110.00 to $325.00 in Uncirculated condition. For a copy of the Donlon catalog send $3.50 to William P. Donlon, P.O. Box 144, Utica, New York, 13503.

The two remaining pieces in the Educational Series, the Two and Five dollar bills will be covered in the later Money Clips articles.

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — Arthur Kennedy, who stars in "Veronica's Room" along with Eileen Heckart, is proud of his family name. He, like the more famous Kennedys, also comes from Massachusetts — Worcester — and believes that on the only occasion he met John F. Kennedy, he said the right thing.

"It was at a Jackson Day dinner in Maine," Arthur Kennedy remembers. "John F. Kennedy was a young Senator who had just been beaten for the Vice Presidential nomination by that Senator in the coonskin cap — Estes Kefauver.

"I said to him, 'Don't be discouraged. Maybe it's in the stars, maybe the next time around you'll get the big brass ring.' And I added, 'And just between us, I have a feeling you'll carry Massachusetts.'

"He was so delighted with that remark that he stayed with me for several minutes and I finally told him I was sure he had more important people to meet."

B'way landmark were auctioned by court order.

Debbie Reynolds, happy over her smashing success in "Irene," still selling out, invested in the Alice Faye-John Payne "Good News" opening Dec. 17 in Boston. Debbie wants to become a B'way co-producer. Toots Shor hopes to be "out of the crutches by Christmas."

Jimmy Coco went backstage to see Kay Ballard, who's of Italian descent but plays Jewish Gertrude Berg in "Molly," and said, "I brought you a couple of gifts. I'm taking no chances — here's some gefilte fish and a pizza."

Alfred Drake phoned about me saying he looked like Edward G. Robinson in "Gigi." "A coincidence!" he said. "I was a great fan of his and at our last meeting he said, 'Some day you'll be playing my parts.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Warning to all singers and groups! Record firms will drop many lesser artists saying that a shortage of vinyl, a petroleum byproduct, will make it harder to produce discs. Tony Curtis told his party hosts, the Richard Stones, he'll take all his brood to London as a Christmas and New Year's gift. Mayor Lindsay willingly stooged in the "El Grande de Coca-Cola" show at Plaza 9. Asked what his real name is, he replied, "Shapiro."

Show Biz Quiz: What actor was nicknamed "Cuddles?" Answer to yesterday's: Arf Carney was the voice of FDR on the March of Time radio shows. Maureen O'Sullivan's moving to London to be in a play (and to be near dir. Mia, who's expecting) ... Linda Lovelace (of "Deep Throat") will tour in the show "Pajama Tops" Secret Stuff: A producer's flirting with trouble, giving pot parties for his cast.

Willie Mays, dining at Copsin, said he's just starting to realize that in three or four months he won't be heading south again, for spring training as a player. Robert Mitchum, who opened a restaurant (Fat Tuesday) in Connecticut, is doing so well with it that he'll open a few more. Veteran director George Abbott, 86, was asked about the state of the theater and said, "There's nothing wrong that a lot of beautiful girls with a lot of beautiful voices wouldn't cure."

Joanne Woodward said at Benihana West she's going back to acting class to get ready for her Lincoln Center appearance next spring (in "Dance of Death") ... A show that's grossing almost $100,000 a week still isn't breaking even.

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Veteran actor Robert Morley was asked by a snobbish fan why he wrote for Play magazine. "Because, dear boy," said Morley, "I'm too old to pose for them any more."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Topical poem from Shelby Friedman: "As gasoline rationing Takes its course, I think I'll open a Rent-A-Horse."

REMEMBERED QUOTE:

"Any job is easy, if you work hard at it."

EARL'S PEARLS: Someone described a freeloader as "a guy who never turns down an invitation — even when he doesn't get one."

"Tabby" refers not to a female cat but to its markings.

Cowboys Ready For Broncos In Football's Big Contest Sunday

DALLAS (UPI) — Back around the middle of October the Dallas Cowboys could look toward the Dec. 2 spot on their schedule as perhaps a breather the week before what was obviously going to be a key meeting with Washington. That, however, has all changed.

"Denver and Atlanta are the two hottest teams in pro football right now," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "and we are catching one of them in their own park. It is going to be a tough chore."

Since Oct. 14 the Broncos have played seven games without a loss. In their last eight games the Cowboys are a woefully average 4-4.

Denver leads the AFC West. Dallas is struggling for the top spot in the NFC East and an eighth straight playoff spot.

"It's never too late to gain that Super Bowl momentum," Landry said Tuesday. "Something good might happen and we are going to do our best to make it happen."

"Things don't always stay the same. Three weeks ago Pittsburgh was sitting on top of the world. Now they have worked hard and they play Miami next Monday. That's not the best position to be in."

Dallas' task is clearly defined. The Cowboys must defeat Denver Sunday, then whip Washington by more than seven points the following week and finish up with a victory over St. Louis to ensure a playoff berth.

Winning by more than seven over Washington is a factor because if the two teams tie for the division title the playoff spot will be decided by the differences in point totals between the teams in their two meetings this year.

When Dallas met Washington earlier in the season the Redskins won by seven.

"This has been an unusual year for the Cowboys," Landry said. "We have worked hard and played consistently good week in and week out and yet we have a 7-4 record. It is discouraging from that standpoint."

"We missed seven points in three key games against playoff teams (Washington, Los Angeles and Miami). The team really only played bad in only the Los Angeles game and we almost won that one.

"It used to be if we played bad we got beat 58-0 or 35-0. This team has not done that."

The Cowboys have been plagued by injuries this year, particularly at the flanker position where Otto Stowe and Mike Montgomery are still out and Bob Hayes is plagued by a leg bruise, and at the defensive end spot, where both Pat Toomay and Larry Cole played at far less than top efficiency against Miami on Thanksgiving.

Bulls Drop Golden State

By United Press International
Chet Walker has the simple formula.

"They foul me," says Walker. "and I sink the free throw. I've been around long enough to know how to do it."

Walker did it 15 straight times Tuesday night and finished with 39 points to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 123-117 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

Walker, who is tied with the Warriors' Jeff Mullins for the league free throw percentage lead, took advantage of Coach Dick Motta's strategy—drive to the basket and draw fouls.

"They take a lot of those long outside jumpers," Motta said. "and you're not going to foul anybody on those. We drive and play inside and get fouled and I thought we should have had more free throws."

"They were running us," Motta added. "and we had to get them to walk."

Bob Love added 26 for Chicago while Rick Barry led the Warriors with 27.

Harvesters Zoom By Liberal For Pampa's Fifth Win, 84-61

LIBERAL, Kan. — Robert Young did his thing again Tuesday night — coming off the bench and pacing Pampa's offense with a hot hand — as the 6-0 forward fired in 15 points to turn a one-point Pampa lead into an 84-61 win over the Liberal Redskins in Liberal's gym.

The win upped Pampa's record to 5-1 while Liberal lost its first game in as many starts.

Pampa led 16-15 at the end of the first quarter, however, hot shooting by Young and 6-3 super-post Billy Wilbon stretched that lead to 47-33 at the half. Wilbon led Pampa's scorers with 25 points for the game as last year's Sophomore of the Year fired in seven of eight free throws.

Young came off the bench against Midland's JV in the Tall City Invitational last weekend, and fired 12 points as Pampa won, 80-30.

Liberal led 6-0 to start the game, but after the first quarter, Liberal fell behind and the deficit was too much for the outmanned Redskins to overcome.

Ray Jenkins and Charles Coleman scored 20 and 14 points to lead the Redskins. The only other Pampa scorer with double figures was Ricky Beatty with 13.

Liberal stopped the Shockers, 65-55 in the B-game.

The Harvesters will take on Perryton next at 8 p.m. Friday in Perryton, preceded by the junior varsity game at 6 p.m.

Pampa's Shockers will compete in a Berger JV tourney Thursday in Berger to try to defend the crown they won in 1972. Pampa takes on Berger's sophomores at 2:40 p.m. and the Pampa C team plays Hereford's junior varsity at 6:30 p.m.

Eight teams will play in the tournament.

Sports Complex To Let Giants, Others Compete

EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — New Jersey has altered the "exclusivity" of the Hackensack Meadowslands Sports Complex plan to let other football and sports teams as well as the New York Giants play in its stadium.

Gov.-elect Brendan T. Byrne said Tuesday he had made up his mind to pursue plans for the complex but seek additional National Football League teams and teams from the New World Football League to raise the income of the complex from $120,000 for the first year to more than $700,000 from the stadium alone.

New Jersey had hoped to have the $280-million complex ready for the Giants exclusively by 1975 but problems with financing the complex made it doubtful of achieving that target date.

Byrne also said he would support the state's moral pledge to back the $280 million bond issue to finance the complex. The pledge had been proposed by outgoing Gov. William T. Cahill to finance the stadium.

'Neglected' Rivalry To Highlight SWC THIS WEEKEND

By United Press International
Usually by this time each year, Texas has wrapped up the Southwest Conference football championship and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl, all the other conference teams that are going to bowls have been named and everyone else is getting ready for basketball season.

And yet there are still some regular season football games on the schedule left to be played and some of them are what you call "Your Traditional Rivalry" or "The Big Game" or some such.

For instance, this weekend there's Army vs. Navy, Auburn vs. Alabama, Florida vs. Florida State, Georgia vs. Georgia Tech, Oklahoma State vs. Oklahoma, Tulane vs. Louisiana State and, in what might be the most neglected "Your Traditional Rivalry" of them all, SMU vs. TCU.

The reason for the neglect of this game is because there are no titles or bowls to shoot for by December and also because this particular "Your Traditional Rivalry" doesn't feature "Your Traditional Powerhouses."

For example, in the last 15 years SMU and TCU have appeared in post-season bowl games a total of six times — SMU in 1963, 1966 and 1968 and TCU twice in 1959 (on Jan. 1 after the 1958 season) and Dec. 19 after the 1959 season) and in 1965. Two other SWC teams, Arkansas and Texas, have on the other hand appeared in 22 bowl games in that same period.

Bumbry Gets Landslide In 'Best Rookie' Voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Speedy Al Bumbry, the Baltimore Orioles' pesky "bumblebee" who was supposed to spend this season in Rochester, was named the American League's Rookie-of-the-Year for 1973 today by a landslide vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

A Vietnam veteran, the 26-year-old Bumbry is the oldest player to win the award in 10 years. Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox also won it at 26. Lou Piniella of Kansas City was 26 when he received the award in 1969 but he played most of the season at 25.

Bumbry, who teamed with Rich Coggins to add speed to the Baltimore lineup against right-handed pitchers, won it with surprising ease. He got 13 1/2 votes while Pedro Garcia of Milwaukee was second with three votes.

Pitchers Doc Medich of New York and Steve Busby of Kansas City and catcher Darrell Porter of Milwaukee each received two votes. Coggins got 1 1/2 votes to complete the balloting.

The voting was done by 24 members of the Baseball Writers—two from each league city. Three writers voted for Bumbry and Coggins as an entry, giving each of them one-half vote.

Weaver admits he was planning to send Bumbry back to Rochester for another year this season but his excellent play in spring training changed his mind.

"He's the fastest player I can ever remember playing for me," Weaver says. "And he can punt, as well as hit the ball off the left field wall. He expands our thinking so much."

MFC Has Warmth Pointers

By WALTER LOGAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Your apartment a little chilly in these days of fuel shortages? Do you get goose bumps at the office? Have they turned down the heat in your commuter train? Yes? Well, there's no problem if you know how to dress for it.

The Men's Fashion Association of America (MFA), the publicity arm of the men's clothing industry, has worked out a series of cold weather suggestions showing that the alternative to warmth and comfort does not have to be a four-month retreat in the Caribbean or a fireplace in every room.

The Chinese discovered the secret of living in poorly heated houses centuries ago — they developed padded garments that are still in use. The men's clothing manufacturers came up with a similar idea a few years ago but only as a fashion gimmick — the layered look.

What came in as men's fashion could easily become a way of life since wearing a sweater indoors can easily make up for the few degrees less on a thermostat. Here are some other cold weather suggestions:

—Wear thermal underwear or knitted, fitted regular underwear to keep body heat in and cold out.

—Get extra warmth by wearing T-shirts under dress or sportshirts. Tuck your shirt into your underwear for maximum retention of body heat.

—In robes, wear velours, heavy terry cloth, wool blends, wools and bulky acrylics. Wear long robes and caftans.

—Wear cotton knit or cotton flannel pajamas. Ski-type pajamas with cuffs on the wrists and at the ankles are warmest.

—In shirts, tightly woven fabrics such as cotton flannel, wool challis and Viyella are warm. General, tightly woven fabrics are warmer than some knits.

—Ties in either wool tweed or wool knit give added warmth to the chest.

—Tweeds and flannels, the heavier the better, in suits and jackets, are warmer. Also warm are wool blends in suits, jackets and coats. And don't forget: in a three-piece suit the vest gives extra warmth.

—Popular shawl collar and turtleneck sweaters give extra warmth. Regular sweaters in any style add warmth to any outfit. Take advantage of the fashionable layered look in putting together business and dressier outfits — shirt plus sweater plus jacket plus scarf.

—Over-the-calf socks are warmer than ankle or shorter length. Wool or acrylic socks are bulkier and warmer than silk. "Warm Johns," similar to a woman's pantyhose, are very warm.

—In shoes, crepe or rubber soles are warmest. Shoes with higher heels and thicker soles are warmer — the higher the foot from the ground, the warmer. Fleece-linked ankle or knee boots retain more heat than regular shoes. Fleece-lined slippers and slipper socks are good for at-home wear.

—Especially warm are fur and fake fur coats. Melton cloth, a heavy wool fabric that looks like felt, is also very warm. Fleece or pile lining adds extra warmth.

TWQB Wanting Recovery Outline

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Water Quality Board has asked a University of Texas engineering professor to outline methods the state might use to recover usable gas given off by sewage treatment plants.

Dr. Ernest Gloyna, dean of the university's engineering department, will outline the gas recovery systems available at a hearing of the Water Quality Board at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Water board officials said some European and Asian cities are now using gas generated by waste, and the board wants to determine if such a system would be economically feasible in Texas.

Radcliff Electric Prepared To Repair Your Equipment

Modern technology has brought many advancements to mankind, by providing various types of electric and motorized equipment for use.

But even with all the great labor-saving devices, equipment will still break down and need repairs.

When trouble comes to your magnetos, Radcliff's also repairs and installs electronic ignition systems. And they also offer complete diesel injection service, specializing in Rossmaster, Robert Bosch and American Bosch diesel pumps.

Radcliff's also services any pump for John Deere, International, Case and Minneapolis Moline tractors.

Their small engine repair service also extends to centrifugal water pumps and chain saws. A complete line of Homelite chain saws are in stock at the firm.

The household head who plans to save a little money by mowing the lawn himself can get awfully frustrated when he finds that his Acme Super-Duper Rotary doesn't click.

The frustration can be short-lived, however, if he will stick the mower in his car trunk and bring it down to Radcliff

Electric Co., where lawn mower repair service is unequalled anywhere in the Top O' Texas area.

All makes of lawn mowers are serviced and repaired at Radcliff's, including Briggs and Stratton, Lawson, Tecumseh and Wisconsin engines.

If you cannot afford not to have your mower in prime working condition, check with Radcliff Electric at 519 S. Cuyler or call 669-3395.

Fuel Crisis Affecting Christmas--Stores Say

NEW YORK (UPI) — Already the fuel crisis has made a difference in Christmas shopping, and it could affect it even more in the next two or three weeks, according to executives in selected department stores given in UPI's annual shopping outlook survey.

Many yule lighting displays are out. Some stores will be dimmed after dark, but remain open.

Christmas gift purchases are expected to run heavily to sweaters and warm clothing and to games and home entertainment items such as record players and TV sets because many people expect to stay home more than in past winters.

Merchandisers had been predicting sales increases of 8 to 10 per cent above last year, but now would be surprised if that happens.

"I expect a more modest increase," said Paul A. Salomone, president of Gimbel's. Two other New York department stores, Bloomingdale's and Lord & Taylor, took much the same stand.

Some price cutting was noted in New York stores along with special sales for charge customers.

Boston store managers say the only clear buying trend they've noticed this Christmas is for warmer clothing. Charles Colar, manager of Filene's children's department said parents are stocking up on warm sleepwear for kids.

In New Hampshire and Maine, merchandise managers predicted good sales increases. Howland's in Concord, N.H., predicted a 15 per cent rise. The Sears, Roebuck and Mammoth Mart chains in Maine also forecast gains, but on a more modest scale.

In 1520, Ferdinand Magellan entered the Pacific Ocean on his way around the world. He was the first European to sail the Pacific from the east.

In 1958, the United States fired an intercontinental ballistic missile at full range for the first time.

In 1963, Cape Canaveral, the space center in Florida, was renamed Cape Kennedy to honor the assassinated president. It is now back to Cape Canaveral.

In 1971, Jordan Premier Wafsi Tel was assassinated in Cairo by three gunmen.

A thought for the day: President George Washington said, "The basis of our political system is the right of people to make and alter their form of government."

Iowa Stations May Not Close

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — The head of the Iowa Petroleum Retailers Association has predicted many service station operators around the state will refuse to close on Sundays as requested by President Nixon.

Les Campbell, an Ames Texaco dealer elected temporary chairman of the association last month, said Monday many service station owners and operators will ignore Nixon's plea for stations to close between 9 p.m. Saturday and Monday morning because they are upset about government imposed limits on service station profits.

"The majority will go along with his request," Campbell said. "But if he doesn't give us some relief on margins of profit or gasoline I would guess about 20 per cent of the 6,000 dealers in Iowa will stay open on Sundays."

Santa Claus First Pictured In 1844

NEW YORK (UPI) — The oldest depiction of Santa Claus as we know him today—furred suit and cap, boots and back pack—was printed in a New York weekly newspaper in 1844.

The New Mirror's engraving by an unknown artist is captioned "Santa Claus. The Night Before New Year." It also states that the picture was designed expressly for the publication by Sherman & Smith, an engraving company.

The date of the engraving gives lie to the tradition that famed cartoonist Thomas Nast, who often portrayed Santa Claus in the 1860s and 1870s, was the first to picture the "jolly old elf" described by Clement Clark Moore in his popular poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas."

Since Nast was born in Germany in 1840, he would only have been four at the time of publication of the New Mirror picture. Apparently the engraving was forgotten for more than a century, when a copy turned up in the hands of a private collector.

The collector offered the print, along with some prints by Winslow Homer, a Nast contemporary, to the Fravessill-Lamont Card Co. of Springfield, N.J., about a decade ago. The company bought the print and published it as a Christmas card.

"It became a favorite of a number of celebrities," recalled Elinor-Jo Beall, president of the company. "J. Edgar Hoover (late head of the FBI) used it three years straight. We didn't publish it for several years but are reissuing it this Christmas."

The picture shows a white-bearded Santa seated in front of a stocking-hung fireplace filling a stocking. His pack and pockets are full of horns, dolls, watches and toy animals. He smiles as he works, a clay pipe clenched in his teeth. The chief variance in his appearance from the present day concept of Santa is his apparent slimmness.

There is no explanation why the picture is captioned "The Night Before New Year." Moore left no doubt as to the timing of St. Nicholas' visit when he began his poem.

"'Twas the night before Christmas..."

"To our best knowledge, this is the first drawing of Santa Claus in the United States," said Miss Beall. "If anyone has an earlier one, we'd love to see it."

Avoid money problems in marriage

By Carlton Smith
Marriage counselors differ as to whether sex or money problems are the most frequent cause of marriages breaking up, or threatening to. However that may be, money is probably the subject of more quarrels than any other bone of marital contention.

Bankers, who in recent years have decided it's good business to keep customers as happy as possible about money matters, have for this reason been edging over into the area of what might be called preventive counseling.

One of the country's giant banks, for example, recently urged young people headed for the altar to pause for a heavy session on money and its management, before taking the vows.

That may sound unromantic to young lovers, grants the family banker department of the Continental Bank, in Chicago. But it points out, "the dating relationship is, in many ways, a fairly-tale existence compared to the real-life character of marriage."

The transition from one to the other, without being prepared to steer a course through real life's rocks and shoals, may be one reason why the institution of marriage is in serious trouble, say the bank's counselors. So they've worked up a prenuptial money-management checklist, unromantic or not.

What strikes us as highly significant, and all too often neglected, is the emphasis on attitudes toward money, rather than on the money itself.

Often, it's pointed out, the real reason for marital money problems is not inadequate income but unrealistic or immature attitudes toward money.

Couples with quite adequate incomes are, in fact, more likely to wind up throwing dishes than couples with the tough, demanding problem of making it to the end of the month.

It's when you have more than you need for bare essentials that you can afford the luxury of immature behavior. The bank's checklist, for example, urges premarital agreement on financial goals — certainly a basic. Consider this couple: John is determined to salt away enough, as soon as possible, to start his own business. Mary thinks that's just wonderful — but she makes certain demands of her own on the family money.

It's important to Mary to keep up with, or ahead of, the Joneses. Their car has to be at least as big, and as new, as any on the block. John would gladly settle for a four-year-old compact and more progress toward his financial goal. Mary's life style calls for social activities that put quite a drain on the budget; to her, that's "getting ahead."

To John, money in the bank is getting ahead.

Sooner or later, they're going to have a knock-down, drag-out fight. And maybe sooner is better — before they get married — because probably the best way to save this marriage is to cancel it.

Other checklist items, along the same lines: Understand and accept your limitations. Agree that "we can't have everything we want instantly." Set up a list of priorities, and stick to it. Agree that there will be no "mine" or "yours" in money matters. Only "ours." Arrange for each to have a monthly allowance, to be spent as he or she likes, without accounting for it. The use made of all other family funds should be joint decisions.

Keep adequate records, so that you know how much you have, how much you intend to spend and how much you've actually spent. There's no earthly way of keeping finances under control without a record of what you're doing — and the feeling that "things are out of control" is a frequent cause of tension and trouble.

Don't ignore little problems. Assuming that they'll go away if you ignore them is not mature behavior. Good communication, to prevent them from becoming big problems, is.

MAYOR CRACKS DOWN PANAMA CITY (UPI)

The city of Panama has stepped up its campaign against English-language signs displayed by bars and saloons on Fourth of July Avenue, which separates Panama from the Canal Zone.

Mayor Sergio Rodriguez said he requested help from the Justice ministry and the National Guard "to eradicate the antipatriotic attitude of some owners of bars on the avenue of the martyrs (Fourth of July), who maintain signs in English both inside and out, forgetting that these establishments operate in Panama."

To kick off the pro-Spanish drive, Rodriguez fined the Ancon Inn, a bar frequented by U.S. soldiers stationed in the Canal Zone, $400 for displaying some English-language posters, which were torn from the walls of the bar by guardsmen.

SOYBEAN HARVEST AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)

Agriculture officials said total production for the year amounted to 5,460,000 bushels.

SOUND PICTURES STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)

Engineers at Stanford University are developing an instrument that would take pictures of organs inside the human body, using sound instead of light or X-rays.

The device, called the Ultrasonic Imaging System, would be a harmless alternative to the use of X-rays during pregnancy. The engineers say this new kind of camera will not be on the market for at least two years.
