HOUSTON WILL BUILD BIG HALL

Moody Asks Investigation of Wounding of Oil Scout

ASSOCIATION IN SAN ANGELO IS BEHIND MOVE

E. V. Hall is Recovering From Injuries at His Home

HAS 37 SHOT WOUNDS IN LEG

Man Was Fired Upon Wednesday by Posse After Bandits

(By Associated Press) SAN ANGELO, Jan. 14.—An immediate investigation into the shooting of E. V. Hall of San Angelo near Justiceburg Wednesday, when a posse seeking robbers who looted the bank of Sylvester, has been requested by Governor Moody.

A telegram of protest was sent the governor last night from the headquarters of the West Texas Oil Scouts' association. Hall is at home here with 37 shot wounds in one leg. His condition is not regarded as serious.

One Family to Mail Box, Postal Rules Provide

Postmaster W. A. Crawford wishes it to be known by box users in Pampa that only one family can use a postoffice box according to law, and that if anyone is allowing other persons to receive mail in his box it must be stopped at once. He is trying to check up on the number of boxes needed and the size of the extension to the building, but with several families getting mail in the same box he has no way of doing so. He is continually receiving complaints of persons not getting mail in their boxes, and when an investigation is made it is found that the complainant has no right to get mail in that particular box. If that practice does not cease, Mr. Crawford says he will be compelled to close the boxes. The rule of only one family getting mail in a box does not apply to business houses where the employees get mail in their employer's box. It applies to private boxes only, Mr. Crawford states.

Federal Reserve Directors Must Restore Peace

(By the Associated Press.) DALLAS, Jan. 14.—Responsibility for restoring peace and harmony in the eleventh Federal Reserve district rested today with the board of directors, said a statement by E. F. Perkins of Mineral Wells, attorney for J. F. Williams, who has led the faction seeking to oust Governor Lynn Talley. The board was in executive session this afternoon.

H. A. Gilliland, manager of the Crescent theatre has installed a number of special built air-cushion seats in his theatre here. More of the seats have been ordered and will be installed as soon as they arrive. New aisle runners are being installed today. Mr. Gilliland says that the entire theatre will be modernized in the near future.

AUTO SHOW PLANS ARE GROWING

Hospital Wants Home for Baby

Who wishes to adopt a healthy, normal little girl just two days old. Pampa hospital has such a child for adoption and will be glad to discuss the matter with responsible persons. This tiny blonde has brown hair and should quickly win the hearts of anyone interested. Further information may be obtained at the hospital where the attendants are anxious to place the baby in a good home.

Old Fiddlers' Contest and Square Dances Arranged

Committees were appointed and plans for the Pampa Automobile show to be held here January 27 and 28 were more fully discussed at a meeting of the Pampa Automobile Dealers association and representatives of the Pampa Daily News, who are sponsoring the show, at the Schelder hotel Friday evening. Chas. H. Sharp, in whose building the show will be held, told the members that his building would be ready for the big show and that he was delighted at the way the dealers were working together to boost Pampa. W. H. Curry, manager of the Southwestern Public Service company, stated that his company is for anything for the good of Pampa, and that he personally would be of any assistance possible to the show. The dealers individually expressed their faith in Pampa and the success of the automobile show and decided to meet again next Friday night, when the various committees will make their reports.

Poll Tax Drive To Start Monday in Pampa Vicinity

Commencing Monday morning omnibuses will make a campaign to collect poll taxes it was decided Friday night at a meeting of the "Pay Your Poll Tax committee" of the Chamber of Commerce. The committee is composed of I. E. Duncan, Chairman, J. H. Lavender, P. B. Carlson, F. H. Reid, Baker Saultsbury and Scott Barcus.

Search for Slayer Appears Futile

PLINT, Mich., Jan. 14.—A widespread search for the slayer of 5-year-old Dorothy Schneider, kindergarten pupil, whose mutilated body was found Thursday in a creek 3 miles from her home at Mount Morris, continued today. Two men are being held by police, who have little hope that either suspect would prove to be the right man. Two thousand dollars in rewards has been posted.

Spring Drilling in Gray County Being Outlined

Handsome production dropped to 74,626 barrels daily this week, averaging 1,945 barrels less than last week. Daily production by counties: Carson, 7,375 barrels, loss of 165 daily. Gray, 15,709 barrels, loss of 945 daily. Hutchinson, 50,630 barrels, loss of 670 daily. Potter, usual 25 barrels. Wheeler, 590 barrels, loss of 165 daily. Of seventeen locations in the Pampa field recently, fourteen were in Gray. Spring drilling activities in the Gray county field apparently opened this week as fourteen new locations were made by various companies, with the intention of immediate drilling. The Empire Fuel and Gas company led the field with six new locations. Other companies are drilling offsets and semi-wildcat tests. The Empire Fuel and Gas company has spudded in its No. 1 Bender, in the southeast corner, of section 164, block 3, and is down more than 100 feet. The cellar is being dug for the Empire Fuel and Gas company's No. 1 Bell in the center of the southeast quarter of section 134, block 3. Material is arriving for the Empire Fuel and Gas company's No. 1 Barrett in the center of the southwest quarter of section 132, block 3. The material is arriving for the Empire Fuel and Gas company's No. 1 Barrett in the center of the southwest quarter of section 132, block 3. The cellar has been dug for the the Empire Fuel and Gas company's No. 1 Case in the center of the east half of section 180 block B-2. In Carson county, the Empire Fuel and Gas company will drill its No. A1 Texas in the center of the northeast quarter of section 60, block 4. The Texas company has made a location to drill in section 44, block 25, on the S. A. Cobb lease. The cellar is being dug for the Texas company's No. 1 Henry That in the northeast corner of section 1, about a half mile northeast of the LeFlore townsite well. AUDITORIUM TO SEAT 25,000 IS JONES' PLAN

Committee Chairman Sends Decision to Mayor Holcombe

CAPACITY NOW IS BUT 6,500

4000 Persons and More Than 20,000 Visitors Are Expected

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The committee on arrangements for the Democratic national convention at Houston today announced plans for the construction of a temporary auditorium building in which the next Democratic nominee for the presidency will be named. In announcing that he had revised the committee's decision to Mayor Oscar Holcombe of Houston, Chairman Jesse Jones said the temporary building would accommodate about 25,000 persons, instead of 6,500, which is the capacity of the present Houston auditorium. About 4,000 persons are expected to attend the convention proper, and visitors are expected to exceed 20,000, Jones said.

THAT POLL TAX

(An Editorial.) PEOPLE of this community owe it to themselves to pay their poll taxes. Those who do not are going to regret the fact before many months pass. He who neglects this duty now is nothing less than socially derelict. Voters owe it to their community to arm themselves with the ballot privilege. Preparedness is a good word at this time. ARE YOU WELL ARMED? You owe it to the schools to pay your poll tax. They get $1 of the $1.75. The public schools greatly need the money. Much of Pampa and Gray county progress has been and will continue to be measured in ballot results. He who neglects to pay his poll tax before January 31 cannot claim to be an alert citizen. He will be called to the front of progress and have to acknowledge his lack of weapons. Be prepared—with a poll tax receipt.

Three Business Houses Suffer in Fire Saturday

Holsten's Lunch, the Superior Barber shop, and the Red Ball station suffered heavy smoke and water damage, and the building in which they are located were partly burned yesterday afternoon soon after 5 o'clock. The fire evidently started back of a stove in the small cafe. Firemen were hampered by the dense smoke, but soon extinguished the blaze. The building, located on North Caylor street, is owned by Ed Vicens, Deles Vicens, Dr. A. R. Sawyer, and Lee Banks.

Young Man Dies Saturday Morning

O. L. Carrington, 24 years old, died at the Pampa hospital early Saturday morning, after having been there a short time. The body was sent to Cleburne for burial. The young man was an employe of the Cabot Co.

OIL MAN KILLED

Non Stop Flight to Nicaragua Completed

MIAMI, Jan. 14.—The tropical radio station here was advised late today that Major Bourne and his two companions landed safely at Mangua, Nicaragua, at 5:35 p. m., completing the non-stop flight from Miami. The aviators were making the flight in "a line of duty." They averaged about 100 miles an hour for the 1,200-mile flight.

Mrs. J. W. Campbell Dies Suddenly

Mrs. J. W. Campbell, 77 years old, died at her home here at 13:30 p. m. Saturday. Death resulted from heart disease. Mrs. Campbell had lived here fifteen years, coming with her husband, who died seven years ago, from Gainesville. The body has been sent to Gainesville for burial, and the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon. She was the mother of W. R. Campbell of Pampa, who lived with her, and of W. H. Campbell, a ranchman at Gainesville. Mrs. Campbell was a member of the Methodist church, and until her health failed was a very faithful worker. Her knowledge of the Scriptures was deep and broad. A large circle of friends saw with much regret the passing of this good woman.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The story is laid in the Indian Territory and along the Kansas border in the '90's, when a fight was being waged for the opening of Oklahoma to settlement. Chief characters are:

Tony Harrison, orphaned at 18 when his father was shot in a poker game.

Fawnee Bill, adventurer, teacher, Indian interpreter, showman;

Joe Craig, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;

Titus Moore, owner of the Bar K brand;

Rita, his daughter, with whom Tony later falls in love.

Moore is one of the chief enemies of the movement to open Oklahoma. David Payne, leader of the "Boomers," dies and Tony in his loyalty to Moore is troubled because of his sympathy; for Payne's cause. He tries to forget his hopeless love for Rita, but is unable to keep from declaring his love, and when she admits she is engaged to another he disappears.

Fawnee Bill organizes his own show. Tony goes with it. It fails and Fawnee Bill is persuaded by the city of Wichita to go there and lead the Boomers into Oklahoma. The fight finally is won. On April 22, 1890, the gun is fired that sends 50,000 homeseekers scrambling over the border. Tony rides on to Guthrie, which in one day is springing from nothing to a city of 8,000. There he accidentally gets into the hardware business.

Mrs. Moore meanwhile has died in the east and Titus Moore and Rita go back to the Bar K.

A scar-faced man drops into Guthrie and at sight of him Tony is troubled by the notion that he has seen him before.

CHAPTER XLVI

When he dropped into his favorite haunt that evening for a quiet game of poker, Tony Harrison found the scar-faced Forbes standing beside the bar. Once more he was assailed with the feeling that somewhere he had encountered that face before, but to save the life of him he could not resurrect the image of a man with sleek black hair and a short mustache and goatee. Most men, if they affected mustaches, favored the long, flowing ones with drooping or upturned ends. "And," he told himself, "it can't be the scar. I'd remember that anywhere."

He lingered nearby, that he might study the other's face unobserved; and presently Forbes as if he felt unseen eyes upon him, turned around.

He smiled. "Have a drink?" he asked.

For a moment Harrison experienced the uncomfortable feeling of having been caught in an act of rudeness. "I don't drink," he answered as pleasantly as he could. "Some time ago I decided to get along without it."

"Most of us would be better off if we felt the same way about it," the man agreed pleasantly. "How about something soft—ginger ale?"

Tony hesitated. The man was courteous enough, and yet. . . .

Tony Harrison wondered then how he possibly could have failed to recognize him at first glimpse.

"Generally," he said, "I don't permit a stranger to stand treat for me; but I'll break the rule if you let me buy the next one."

Forbes lifted an arm to signal the bartender. After he had given his order he said, "I won't be a stranger much longer. I'm figuring on locating here."

"Going in business?"

"Drug store. I've been looking over the ground to see if it would pay."

"You know we've got one, of course?"

Forbes nodded. "Room for another one—a good one. Thought I'd see how things were going in Oklahoma City, though, before I made up my mind."

"You know," Harrison said boldly, "I've been bothered by the notion that I've seen you before some place. Is that possible?"

"Been to Chicago?"

Tony nodded.

"Well, that's where I'm from." Forbes laughed a little drily. "Folks are not likely to forget this face," and he indicated the scar. "Bull-whip wound," he explained. "Plowed up my cheek considerable, didn't it?"

He shifted impatiently and glanced about him. "Got a poker game on," he explained apologetically and withdrew.

Harrison watched him as he sat down at a nearby table, and frowned. He heard his own name called a moment later and a bit reluctantly walked across the room and dropped into the seat that was reserved for him by his friends.

He played mechanically, with only a half-hearted interest in the cards; and from time to time he found himself staring absently toward the table where sat Forbes.

The man's back was to him, though, and Forbes presented nothing more than a sleek black head and a pair of broad shoulders.

"There's something on your mind, Tony," Fred Perkins laughed as he gathered in a sizable "pot." "I raised the ante, draw two cards, and you called me with two little pairs. That ain't natural for you."

Harrison shrugged and smiled. "Too much business, Fred." To Jenkins, the restaurant owner, he said, "That partner of mine thinks up more things for me to do than I can attend to in working hours and criticizes me when I carry them in my mind at night. All right; deal me a hand—and look out for me, I'm out for blood."

He picked up his cards, saw two kings and announced: "She's off," and threw in a chip. Others clinked beside it.

"Everybody stays," said Jenkins, who was dealing. "How many cards, Harrison?"

"Three." When they fell in front of him he slipped them, unlooked at, between his pair of kings and shuffled the five cards, face down.

"Now let me peel down, Fred," he began—and stopped short.

There were four kings in his hand and an illuminating flash of memory through his brain. He turned quickly in quest of Forbes but the man had left—at least he was not at the table where Tony had last seen him. His eyes roved the crowded room. Not there. Very well—the Leaving a winning hand and an uncashed stack of chips on the table, he pushed back his chair and darted for the door, his companions too overcome with astonishment for speech.

When he had vanished through the door, Fred Perkins leaned over the table and picked up Tony's cards. "Four kings!" he announced in feeble amazement, and slid back in his chair. "Now, what the hell—" he broke off, to stare weakly at the five cards.

In the street, Tony Harrison was saying to himself, "I knew it—I knew I wasn't wrong. Now, if he's only at the hotel—if he didn't get scared at what I said and light out—"

The way to the hotel led past his own store, which stood just two doors away from the bank. He proceeded at a run, stumbling now and then over a rut, for there were no street lights in Guthrie yet and the sky was overcast and black. The far-off rumble of thunder accompanied him down the street and once he tripped and sprawled his length on the ground, to pick himself up, cursing, and hasten on.

Far off a light shone through the blackness. From the bank, he told himself. It would be Morrison, the cashier, who religiously devoted one night a week to "checking things up."

Morrison—what was it Morrison had said about the scar-faced man—that he hadn't inspired him with confidence?

"Morrison's own words," he whispered, and ran on.

His eyes, accustomed better to the darkness now, could discern fairly clearly the gaunt outlines of the hardware store and the framework of the addition under construction. Perkins and Harrison, a "going" business—and nine years ago.

A jagged flash of lightning rent the sky, lighting the makeshift buildings in all their starkness and giving him a brief glimpse of something else. He stopped with such abruptness that his hands sought the ground for balance. It could not have been his imagination, he told himself. Under that brief lightning flash he had seen horses moving outside the little bank, and Morrison, he knew perfectly well, had not ridden any of them.

His amazement gave way to rapid calculation and he stopped quickly toward the dark shadow of the store. It was all very clear now—the scar-faced stranger strolling into the bank from time to time and asking numerous questions under the pretense of an interest in Guthrie's business outlook.

He slipped swiftly and silently from the hardware store to the building next door. Hugging it closely he cut around to the rear and then tiptoed toward the side facing the bank. He could make out three bulky shapes in the darkness and could hear the stamping of horses' feet. Besides them was the faint glow of a cigar of a cigarette.

His mind revolved on various plans of action. Should he lie in wait until the bank robbers emerged and then fire on them from his place of concealment? A safe course but not to be considered because of the uncertainty of hitting a man in the darkness. No—he would have to get to the bank and surprise them.

He fingered the holster at his hip, drew out the slender-barreled revolver and, dropping to his hands and knees, began a slow and silent progress toward the shapes in the darkness beside the bank.

A horse whinnied nervously and Harrison flattened himself against the ground like a snake. But he was reassured by the sound of a man's voice. "Quiet, you fool!" and presently he began to inch forward again.

From where he now lay he could see the horses quite clearly. There would be no danger of running into them. And the faint glow of the

American Women Find Cure for Boredom in Paris, Writer Says

Middle aged American women living in Paris are there largely to find artistic interests, asserts Mrs. Edwin Neugass (above), of New Orleans and New York. She is assisting Grand Duke Alexander (upper right) of Russia with the translation of his books.

PARIS—Unless middle aged women study and develop what gifts they have become bores to their families and themselves, believes Mrs. Edwin Neugass of New Orleans and New York.

That, she adds, is why Paris has numerous middle aged American women studying intensively along various artistic lines. Mrs. Neugass is the daughter of the late Isadore Neumann, wealthy New Orleans philanthropist.

"What can we middle aged women do?" demands Mrs. Neugass. "Modern children no longer need their parents after the age of ten or twelve years or they need them very slightly. No one makes preserves any more; the bought ones are better."

Besides doing her own writing, studying painting and dabbling in sculpture, the American woman is assisting the Grand Duke Alexander, uncle of the late Czar of Russia, with the translation of some of his books into English, among them "The Religion of Love" and "Your Soul." Mrs. Neugass is the author of "Fairy Flowers," which has been translated into French and Hungarian, and a new book of poems, "Shades of Blue."

CANYON, Jan. 14.—County Agent W. H. Upchurch and R. P. Hale, son of H. P. Hale of the Zita community, recently went to Panhandle where they purchased a registered Holstein bull from Mr. Grout to be used in the Zita Bull circle. The animal cost $200. The Zita community is thoroughly sold to the idea of making their dairy operations pay for securing the best foundation stock possible and then taking the best care of it.

BORGER, Jan. 14.—As a health measure, the Borger Chamber of Commerce and city officials are taking steps to curb the menace of escaping gas from leaky gas lines and gas wells within the corporate limits of the city.

J. E. Higgins, city commissioner, said that in most instances oil companies have immediately taken measures to prevent the escape of gas when approached with protests from citizens residing near leaky lines or wells.

Millions, at 21

William Woods Plankinton, Jr., of Milwaukee, who has just inherited three or four millions from his father, and who is a trustee of the $10,000,000 trust fund his father created, says he'll wait a little while before marrying because "the right girl hasn't come along." Young Plankinton, just turned 21, has been doing engineering work in New York for his grandfather at $20 a week.

College President Finds Ex-Students in Many Towns

CANYON, Jan. 14.—The president of the West Texas State Teachers college recently made an auto trip of approximately 800 miles, during which he passed through 53 towns of all sizes. In every town there were former students of the college which President J. A. Hill represented.

This trip was made to Fort Worth, one way being made down the Fort Worth and Denver Route, passing through Amarillo, Clarendon, Memphis, Wichita Falls, Bowie and other towns. The return trip was made by way of Stamford, Spur, Floydada, Plainview and Tulla.

In towns where the Canyon car stopped for a short time it was invariably greeted within a few minutes by former students or the relatives of former students who were much interested in Canyon happenings and development.

A majority of these students are teachers, a large per cent of them being superintendents, principals and other executive officers. Others are successful lawyers, doctors, bankers, merchants and other business men, farmers, mothers and successful club women.

Coolidge Pick

Colonel C. B. Robbins of Cedar Rapids, Ia., has been nominated by President Coolidge as assistant secretary of war to succeed Harford MacNider. Colonel Robbins is a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars and a former superior court judge in Cedar Rapids.

Multimillionaire Heiress Is Bride

Here is Mrs. William R. Yaw, the former Madeleine Couzens, daughter of Senator James Couzens of Detroit, just after her wedding. The ceremony took place in the Bloomfield Hills (Detroit) home of the bride's parents and only the immediate families witnessed the marriage. The bridal gown carried a train six yards long, over which fell another train of tulle, caught to the lace cap.

OUR INDUSTRIES—It is often said that Pampa needs industries, which is true. It would be more accurate to say that Pampa needs MORE industries. Those who fail to see industrial development around Pampa have not used their eyes. The amount that is daily being expended in industrial building within a radius of ten miles is in terms of many thousands of dollars.

Taking for example only the oil industries—which should be the first to develop in a new oil center—we note four gasoline plants and a big carbon black plant on the south, with another carbon black plant to be started within the next few days. On the west two carbon black plants are under construction, and the smoke from other plants constantly lays a dark bank against the sky. Large gasoline plants and napping wells furnish employment for hundreds of men.

Add to these the drilling wells, the oil pumping stations, the office and field activities, the water plants, and the oil field traffic and you have the basis of a big community. True, not all of this is within sight of our city limits. It is well. Pampa profits nearly as much as it is, without having wells and escaping gas within the city. Oil development largely follows natural conditions. That is why, in the South Pampa field, one drives along winding roads through rugged breaks before arriving at some of the gasoline plants. Where the cattle used to bask in the warm sunlight in the shelter of the canyons, now blackened derricks stand like mute sentinels and rows of buildings and tanks mark the sites of gasoline plants and oil pumping stations. Show places these. Take a visitor to the top of the hills overlooking the new Bowers pool, and watch his reactions. Yes, Pampa has industries.

The Empire booster station is a costly and permanent plant, and is of especial significance because it ties Pampa for publicity purposes to the huge Cities Service company gas lines in the Middle West. Supply houses and machine shops are oil industries in a real sense. They will remain as long as the oil lasts, and in this huge, unexplored field that is due to be a long time.

There are reasons why many of these industries have not located closer to the city limits. Most of these are natural, answering the demands of place. Some of them would have been adjacent had sites been available at more reasonable prices.

The one industry connected with oil that Pampa has yet to obtain is the refinery, which is especially desirable because of the large payroll. Improvement in market conditions, coupled with the high gravity of Gray county crude oil, will likely make refinery men come here to investigate possibilities. The new railroad plans will encourage them. How close to Pampa will the refineries locate? That will depend much upon the reception given the proponents by men who own appropriate sites.

Pampa citizens ought to get into a receptive frame of mind this spring. Pampa needs MORE industries.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Some members of this Congress are content to orate and vote for farm relief measures the effect of which can't possibly be foretold until they're tried. A few are working more quietly toward some surer though less spectacular method of helping the farmer.

One, at least, is working in both ways. He is the Hon. Robert Beecher Howell, the other senator from Nebraska.

Senator Howell has been promoting programs looking forward to the time when American farmers may be able to produce the great quantities of sugar and tea consumed in this country, which are now imported.

If that could be achieved, the farmers should be much better off. And if the same principle could be worked to the extent of making us entirely independent of foreign farm products, it might become a vitally important factor in solving the general farm problem.

The farmer's main ailment, as has been explained times without number, is overproduction. The remedy most frequently advanced is diversification of crops. The trouble with diversification seems to be that, like farm production, it can't be controlled.

Too much uncontrolled diversification would spread the ailment of overproduction. On the other hand, if American farmers can take overproduction of commodities now produced abroad for American consumption, that's all to the good. Acreage thus devoted can be taken from acreage now contributing to overproduction.

In 1926 we imported 95,930,000 pounds of tea, valued, according to the Department of Commerce at $31,349,000. In the same year, we imported 9,540,000,000 pounds of sugar valued at $232,330,000.

If that sugar and tea could be produced at home, the benefit would be the farmer's.

For some time, Senator Howell has been ballyhooing artichokes for domestic sugar, and cassina mate, a species of holly growing from Virginia to New Mexico, for domestic tea. He has been sponsoring tion at which he served puree d'artichoke, artichoke sugar (levulose), artichoke chips, artichoke salad and artichokes in other palatable forms.

The stalks of the plant are great food for cattle. The plant is the Mammoth French White Jerusalem artichoke and is not to be confused with the common table brand of artichoke. As much as 11,620 pounds of artichoke has been raised on an acre. It is an extremely hardy plant.

"Levulose is 75 per cent sweeter than sugar and is a desirable sugar in every form," says Howell. "I believe that the artichoke can eventually be made the mainstay of our national sugar supply and largely relieve us from the necessity of importation."

So Howell has sent Department of Agriculture bulletins to 110,000 Nebraska farmers recommending that they experiment in growing the tuber.

Pampa's Two Federated Clubs, Which Are El Progreso and Child Study, Are Taking Active Part in District Work

While Pampa has been taking rapid strides forward, her club life has not been dormant. There are two federated clubs in Pampa, El Progreso and Child Study. It means much to be a part of the greatest organization for women in the world, The National Federation of Women's clubs. Their influence is of national importance. Much credit is due to concerted efforts of women's clubs in bringing about needed legislative action such as in Child Labor and the Shepherd-Towner Act.

The National Federation urges all club women to consider their franchise not a privilege but a duty, now that they have the right to vote. Good citizenship is one of the main issues stressed in all branches of this wonderful organization.

Pampa is indeed fortunate and honored in having one of her own women, Mrs. R. R. House, as chairman of Good Citizenship for the seventh district, the largest district in Texas.

Pampa's first federated club was El Progreso, organized and federated in 1925. Mrs. L. C. McMurtry was the first president and the course of study was Modern Authors. For the second and third years Mrs. V. E. Fatheree was president, the courses were Texas Writers and Current Events and Modern American writers, and miscellaneous. Modern novels and miscellaneous were under the leadership of Mrs. G. C. Walstad for the fourth year.

For the current year, Mrs. Dave Pope is president, and Modern Fiction, poetry, and miscellaneous is being studied. Other officers are Mrs. W. M. Craven, vice-president; Mrs. James Todd, Jr., secretary; Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Woodward, parliamentarian; Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, reporter. The program committee is composed of Mrs. W. M. Craven, Mrs. J. V. Andrews, Mrs. W. L. Woodward, and Mrs. G. C. Walstad.

The Child Study club was organized the spring of 1927 and was federated in November, 1927. Their course of study is based on Dr. Berle's Self Culture Books, but is not confined exclusively to them. Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar is president; Mrs. T. H. Barnard, vice-president; Mrs. S. A. Hurst, secretary; Mrs. Joe Smith, treasurer; Mrs. B. E. Finley, membership chairman; and Mrs. A. H. Doucette, program chairman.

It is a privilege and an honor to have two clubs nationally federated in a town no larger than Pampa. These clubs have had a part in bringing the great biennial meeting of the National Federation of Women's clubs to San Antonio this spring. This is one of the greatest honors that has come to Texas in recent years. It is also one of the few times this army of women has ever met in the South.

Pampa should be proud of the fact that her women are progressive enough to take their places among the foremost women of America—Contributed.

Mrs. W. Purviance To Be Hostess to Society Wednesday

Mr. and Mrs. Gober Entertain Friday With Bridge Party

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gober were host and hostess at a most enjoyable bridge party Friday evening. Bridge games claimed more than the usual attention during the hours of the evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Holt were awarded high score. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dublin received consolation.

The hostess served a delicious plate luncheon to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Manson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Berry, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Holt, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dublin.

Central P.-T. A. Meeting Friday Talks Important Questions

The Parent-Teachers association of the Central school met Friday afternoon in the auditorium of the Central high school. An important business session was held which was presided over by Mrs. Joe Smith, president.

It was voted to organize a high school P.-T. A., and a meeting was called for next Friday afternoon at 3:15 in the school auditorium for the election of officers and further organization. It was also voted to discontinue the meetings of the Child Study club in connection with those the P.-T. A.

Mrs. B. E. Finley was leader of the Child study program and was assisted by Mrs. Harry Barnard, Mrs. Guy Farrington, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, and Mrs. Roy Tinsley. The subject of the program was "Music as an Aid in the Development of Character."

Hereafter the P.-T. A. will meet at 3 o'clock in the auditorium of the Central high school.

Baker Teachers' Club Is Entertained in Anderson Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meek and Miss Helen Anderson were host and hostess Thursday evening to the Baker Teachers' club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Anderson.

The fun of the evening was opened with old time "Fiddling" by Mr. Anderson, the entire time being enjoyably spent in interesting games and music.

Delicious refreshments were served the following members and guests: Bill Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lester, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stowell, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morris, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cockerill, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. King, Miss Beeler, Miss Noble, Miss Talley, Miss Wilson, Miss Kate and Blanche Anderson, Harvey Anderson, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meek and Miss Helen Anderson.

The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morris.

Mrs. Roy Sullivan Is Hostess to Coterie Club Meeting

The Coterie club met with Mrs. Roy Sullivan Thursday afternoon. After a short business session, Mrs. Ollie Smith, as leader of the lesson, gave an interesting talk on the stimulation afforded by the French in the Spanish settlement in Texas. This was followed by a round-table discussion.

The hostess presented each guest with a novelty pencil as favors and served refreshments to the eleven members and four visitors present.

Baker P.-T. A. Holds Enthusiastic Meeting With Large Attendance

The Baker Parent-Teachers association met Friday evening at 7:30 in the Baker school building. There was an excellent attendance of fathers and mothers, numbering approximately 125. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bill Gray, and after immediate business was accomplished, a splendid program was rendered by the school.

At the close of the program, several talks were given by various members of the faculty, the Central P.-T. A. and Baker P.-T. A. These were opened by an address given by Mrs. Joe Smith with the subject "Cooperation." The other subjects and speakers included "The Needs of the Baker School," by Supt. J. A. Meek; "The Relation of Teachers to the School," Supt. R. C. Campbell; and "Why every School Needs a P.-T. A.," Joe Smith.

At the close of the meeting, 27 new members were enrolled by Mrs. Stout. Refreshments were served those present following the adjournment of the meeting, and it is

Morning worship, 11; subject, "Indifference."
B. Y. P. U.'s, 6:15 p. m.
Evening worship, 7:30; subject, "Sis."

Mr. Vaughn, our new educational Director, will be with us Sunday, and we are sure he will bring us a great message in song. As always, we extend a cordial invitation to all to attend these services.

D. H. TRUHITTE, Pastor.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Sunday school, with B. E. Finley as superintendent, begins at 9:45 a. m. We have classes for all ages, from the beginners to the Bible class for the older people, and we extend a cordial invitation to all who are not in some other Sunday school to attend ours.

Morning worship and the sermon begin at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "The Fire of the Holy Spirit." Mrs. Chaffin will sing. The young people will meet in the Christian Endeavor at 6:30 o'clock. A short program will precede the election of officers. All the young people are cordially invited.

The evening preaching service will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The subject of the message will be "Jesus Our Savior and How He Saves Us from Sin." Mrs. Ralph Dunbar will sing.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

W. L. EVANS, Minister.

CATHOLIC CHURCH
Catholic services will be held Sunday at 11 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

CHURCH OF CHRIST
Preaching at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m., on the first and third Sunday of each month.

Bible study is held each Sunday at 10 a. m., and there is communion at every morning service.

You are invited to attend these services at the church six blocks east of the high school.

CHARLES BANKHEAD, Pastor.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

We are expecting to have a record attendance today at the services, so be on time to be included in the attendance report. Sunday school meets promptly at 9:45 a. m., and church services begin at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The choir will render a beautiful anthem for the morning service, and Mrs. R. R. Jones and Prot. R. E. Fisher will sing a duet for the evening service.

Since Rev. Brabham is out of the city, the pulpit will be filled at both services by Joe Strother, assistant pastor. This will be his first time in our church; let's give him a full house.

The Intermediate League under the direction of Mrs. Cravey will meet at 6:30 p. m. Let all the boys and girls of that age join the league and be present for a big beginning. The senior League also meets at 6:30 p. m., and the program for tonight is under the direction of Clarence Coffin.

Let all the young people of our church get into these Leagues and pull for a great program. Outsiders are invited and welcome to all the services of the day.

Among the plans of the new organization is the pie sale to be held Jan. 21. Further announcements will be made later. The next meeting will be held February 12 at 7:30 p. m.

Perryton Guests Are Honored Thursday in R. McConnell Home

Mr. and Mrs. Roger McConnell were host and hostess at a lovely party Thursday evening honoring their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Williams of Perryton.

Unusual interest was displayed in the five games of bridge played with Mrs. Williams winning high score. A delicious ice course was served the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Wade Duhan, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Wise, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Darby, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eller, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stalls, Mr. and Mrs. Hamp Brown, and Miss Mattie Ruth Stalls, and the honor guests Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Williams.

Civic Improvement Club Organized by Local Women

On Thursday afternoon a number of ladies met at the home of Mrs. V. E. Fatheree and organized a new study club to be known as the C. I. C. club.

The object of this organization is self-improvement in the study of the fine arts and the members are going to work in harmony with the State federation. They are agitating a tree-planting campaign and hope to introduce "garden week" a little later.

It is the purpose of this club to cooperate with the city administration in asking that the city be ridged of the tin cans and bits of rags and paper that make the town so unattractive. Pampa has long needed clean streets and alleys, pretty trees and grassy lawns bordered with flowers to make it the "Queen City" of the Plains.

This club is also planning a move toward the establishment of a public library. The need was never so imperative, and many books are available if a proper place could be found to place them. A committee will at once investigate the securing of a suitable location.

The officers of this club are Mrs. V. E. Fatheree, president; Mrs. W. A. Bratton, vice-president; Mrs. W. R. Mitchell, secretary; and Mrs. H. G. Twiford, treasurer.

The following enrolled as members: Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Mrs. A. R. Sawyer, Mrs. A. H. Doucette, Mrs. Joe Smith, Mrs. H. G. Twiford, Mrs. Henry Thut, Mrs. W. A. Bratton, Mrs. I. B. Hughey, Mrs. H. D. Lewis, Mrs. John Willis, Mrs. W. R. Mitchell, and Mrs. James Todd.

The entire afternoon was devoted to the organization and appointment of the various committees. The hostess served refreshments of ice cream and water, then the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. W. A. Bratton the fourth Monday of the month.

University Club to Be Organized in Cook Home Thursday

A University club will be organized next Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at a meeting at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cook. All university, college, and conservatory women are cordially invited to be present and aid in the organization.

A list of requirements and other particulars will be printed in a later paper, and for further information call Mrs. C. T. Henkapillar at telephone 90.

Weldon Jolly of Clarendon has been employed at the local post-office as relief man during the vacation season. He arrived yesterday morning.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN FIVES IN RACE WITH BOBCATS DEFENDING TITLE

Captain John ("Brick") Breeden (left) is the ace of the Montana State College Bobcats, who hope to repeat last year's victory in the Rocky Mountain Conference basketball season just getting under way. Captain Forrest Phelps (right) leads Colorado College, last year's runner-up. Both are guards. Vadal Peterson (upper inset) and Joe Ryan (lower inset) make their Conference coaching debuts with Utah University and Colorado Aggies respectively.

DENVER, Colo.—Montana State College and Colorado College which fought it out for the title last year in a thrilling three-game series, with Montana winning, stand out as favorites in the Rocky Mountain Conference basketball race beginning the first week in January.

Although these teams are rated at the top of their respective divisions, plenty of opposition is assured in both the eastern and western sections. Two of the 12 teams in the race have been bolstered by the coming of new coaches, Vadal Peterson taking charge at Utah University and Joe Ryan at Colorado Agricultural College.

Coach Ott Romney of Montana State with the 1927 championship to defend is building his 1928 entry around three formidable veterans led by Captain John Breeden, versatile guard and member of the 1926 all-conference team. He has scoring threats in Aashworth Thompson, all-conference forward, and Frank Ward, wily center. For the other positions he has a flock of material headed by Gilbert McFarland, sharpshooting forward.

At Colorado College, Coach Twichell has his entire 1927 squad, winners of the eastern division race, back for this year's campaign under the leadership of Captain Forrest Phelps. The Tiger attack again probably will be marked by the sharpshooting of Dutch Clark and Ernie Simpson, main cogs in last year's offense. With two full teams of seasoned material, Twichell is out gunning for Montana State.

At least four other schools are prepared to question the Bobcats' supremacy. Utah Aggies, nosed out in the western division race last year by Montana State, show promise of another fast team with only one man lost from the 1927 outfit. The Aggies were handicapped in starting the season because of absence from practice of several regulars due to a post season football game in Hawaii.

Coach Vadal Peterson at Utah University and Coach Joe Ryan at Colorado Aggies are making their first appearance in conference basketball coaching circles. Peterson is building a team around three veterans from last year's outfit and a number of former freshman stars. Ryan has Captain Vickers and six other regulars from last year's squad.

Coach Potter at Denver University is building his hopes around Ed. James, all conference star, and Cook at forwards, Captain Weakley at center, DeRose and Byers at guards. Colorado Mines has four veterans back headed by Captain Wells as has Coach Howard Berestford at Colorado University.

While Wyoming lost two guards from its 1927 team, Coach Clark is developing a smooth working combination that may prove a conference threat. Colorado Teachers and Western State quintets are rounding into shape.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Jesus and Sinners. Scripture Lesson—Mark 2:3-12, 15-17.

3. And they come, bringing unto him a man sick of the palsy, borne of four.

4. And when they could not come up to him for the crowd, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed whereon the sick of the palsy lay.

5. And Jesus seeing their faith saith unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins are forgiven.

6. But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts.

7. Why doth this man thus speak? he blasphemeth: who can forgive sins but one, even God?

8. And straightway Jesus, perceiving in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, saith unto them. Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9. Which is easier, to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins are forgiven, or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed and walk?

10. But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority on earth to forgive sins (he saith to the sick of the palsy.)

11. I say unto thee, Arise, take up thy bed and go unto thy house.

12. And he arose, and straightway took up the bed and went forth before them all; insomuch that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw it in this fashion.

15. And it came to pass that he was sitting at meat in his house, and many publicans and sinners sat down with Jesus and his disciples; for there were many, and they followed him.

16. And the scribes of the Pharisees, when they saw that he was eating with the sinners and publicans, said unto his disciples. How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?

17. And when Jesus heard it, he saith unto them. They that are whole have no need of physician, but they that are sick; I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.

Time: The healing of the palsied man, May or June, A. D. 18, in the second year of Christ's ministry. The call of Matthew, soon afterward. His great feast, in the autumn of the same year.

Place: Capernaum. Golden Text: "I came not to call the righteous, but sinners.—Mark 2:17.

Introduction.

Our Lord with his disciples had been making a circuit of the many towns of Galilee, preaching and healing. Of the late his popularity and the incessant demands made upon him for cures of the sick had compelled him to teach in the uninhabited places, though still the crowds flocked about him. After weeks of this toilsome evangelism Jesus and his little band felt the imperative need of rest and returned to their headquarters in the finishing town of Capernaum, on the northwest coast of the sea of Galilee, probably staying in Peter's house where they would be very grateful to him for the cure of Peter's mother-in-law. How glad we should be to know what he said when he returned from his first home-missionary tour! But Mark does not tell us. Peter, his informant, doubtless heard the address, though he may have been so busy superintending the crowds that pressed into his house that he did not give much heed to the Master's discourse. At any rate, what (as was natural) most impressed itself upon his mind was the breaking of a hole in the porch-roof of his house! The Palsied Man Borne of Four v. 3

"And they come, bringing unto him a man sick of the palsy." "Palsy is a general term for paralysis, the loss of muscular power resulting from injury or disease of the brain or nervous system." He was helpless, in a pitiable state and of course unable to earn a livelihood. "Borne of four." One man was at each corner of the mattress on which the sufferer lay. A burden under which two men would stagger could be carried easily by four. Co-operation is the secret of ready accomplishment. It is the great word of today in all commercial, mechanical, financial, and social operations, and has made possible the enormous material progress of the world in recent decades. Christians are only beginning to utilize the principle in church work, but already it has brought about many triumphs.

Bringing Our Friends to Jesus

"These four men teach us a lesson. We ought to help one another. If there is a lame boy in the school, the other boys should lend him their legs. If one girl is not able to go out, the other girls should try to brighten her loneliness. Christians who have been healed by Christ should try to carry to him their un-saved friends."

Those four men were determined. They allowed no barrier to defeat their purpose. It was not easy to carry that weight on the clumsy mattress. It was difficult to pull it up the steep and narrow stairs. It was hard to break up the roof under that hot sun. But their friend's cure was at stake, and they were undaunted. Should we be less determined when the eternal welfare of a soul is at stake!

Jesus a Forgiver of Sin v. 5

"And Jesus seeing their faith." The faith of the bearers, who had taken so much pains and shown so much boldness in their loving efforts for their friend; and the faith of the sick man himself, who may have originated the plan and urged the bearers on. Nothing seems to have pleased the Savior more than an exhibition of faith; he reserved for that his most enthusiastic praise, and he is just as much pleased with faith today as then. Whatever faith in him and in his promise we manifest, for ourselves and for others, we may be sure gives Christ the greatest joy and wins from him the most glorious rewards. "Saith unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy sins are forgiven." "Christ's inspired insight had discovered that the paralytic craved healing for his soul as well as for his body." Perhaps his sickness had been caused by his sins. Thus the sins of the sick man at the pool of Bethesda are not mentioned, but after Christ had healed him he bade him "Sin no more, lest a worse thing befall thee." (John 5:14.)

The "Son of Man." v. 10

"But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority on earth to forgive sins." (he saith to the sick of the palsy.) Fourteen times in this one Gospel of Mark our Lord applies to himself the title, "Son of man." Though he declared with all earnestness that he was the Son of God, the earthly incarnation of Deity, his favorite name for himself was Son of man; though the name is never in the Gospels applied to him by others. This title, which takes its origin from the Messianic passage, Dan. 7:13, would be understood by any Jewish hearer as tantamount to a declaration of his Messiahship. At the same time it signified that Jesus was typical man, the Second Adam, who was to be tempted in all points as men are tempted, and to die on the cross as a sacrifice for the sins of humanity.

The Palsied Man Healed, vs. 11-12

"I say unto thee, Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thy house." The "bed" which the sick man was to take up was the common mattress-like pallet on which people were wont to throw themselves down for a mid-day sleep. It could easily be rolled up and carried under the arm. He was to go home, giving joy to his dear ones, there, and resuming the long-interrupted tasks of daily life.

"And he arose, and straightway took up the bed, and went forth before them all." The cure, as in the case of most of Christ's miracles, was immediate and complete. It made an unanswerable reply to the scribes' criticisms. If God had given Christ the power to work such divine miracle, Christ was to be believed when he claimed for himself that other attributes of God, the power to forgive sins.

"Publicans and Sinners," v. 15 "And many publicans and sinners sat down with Jesus and his disciples." The publicans were ranked by the Jews with the vilest sinners. They were the sub-ordinate tax-collectors of the province, required to pay over to the Romans (or, in the case of Galilee, to Herod Antipas) certain large sums every year, and allowed to collect for themselves as much as they could wring from the people by all manner of brow-beating, blackmail, and cruel threats. They oppressed poor and rich alike, and were heartily hated by all. A Jew who would take such an office under the Romans and so persecute his countrymen was the most despised of mortals.

Christ Came to Save Sinners, v. 17

"I came not to call the righteous, but sinners." "All have sinned," wrote Paul, and Christ came to call all men to repentance and summon the whole world to the Father. Those who in their self-righteousness deem that they have no need of a Saviour need him most of all. Those who like the publicans in the temple beat their breasts and say, "God be merciful to me a sinner," are not far from the kingdom of God.

"Just as I am, without one plea But that Thy blood was shed for me, And that Thou bidst me come to thee, O Lamb of God, I come, I come."

AVOID THE RUSH

Pay your school taxes now, and avoid the rush of the last few days of January—when hundreds of taxpayers will be scrambling for service, which it will be humanly impossible to render.

The Pampa Independent School District is some 12x14 miles in area, and if you own any property in the district you are subject to school taxes, whether you have received a statement for same or not.

These taxes should be paid before Feb. 1, to avoid the payment of an additional penalty.

"BLOOD SHIP" SHOWING AT THE CRESCENT TODAY

One lone woman on a ship crowded with the flotsam and jetsam of the San Francisco waterfront! A single rose in a garden of vicious weeds!

How many girls would care to be placed in such a position?

Yet there are many who would quickly raise their hands in assent and be glad of the opportunity. Jacqueline Logan was, when offered the part of Mary in "The Blood Ship," the poignant drama of the sea which Columbia Pictures has made from Norman Springer's novel of the same name. And that in spite of the fact that her role was the only feminine one in the cast!

When Miss Logan was told she would have to put to sea in an old clipper ship, with only men as her companions, did she complain? She did not!

Out of the vast reaches of the Pacific there were re-enacted the exciting scenes that Mr. Springer crowded into his thrilling novel. The result, a production to impress even the most callous, which comes to the Crescent theatre today and Monday.

January 15, 1928.

TO OUR FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS:

With the closing of our books for 1927 and our inventory taken to start the new year's stock account the matter of figuring cost has necessarily been gone over and serious consideration has been given to the question of selling prices and business policies for 1928.

We feel that while unusual conditions may arise in the furniture market, the outlook is such that we can pass along to our customers and friends some lower prices on leading furniture lines which we handle.

For example, during 1927 we had to sell 9x12 seamless Axminster rugs at $42.50 to $47.50. Now for 1928 trade, we have purchased 50 similar rugs, in new patterns and colors, and we will be able to sell them from $28.50 to $37.50.

Last year we sold many suites from a fine line of living room furniture. We were forced to sell these suites at $185.00. This year we are selling similar models from the 1928 line at only $165.00.

These generous reductions have not been occasioned by any reductions in the raw materials or the finished products. Nor is the quality of this 1928 merchandise a bit below the standard of last year's goods. In fact, the 1928 lines are in many cases of better quality than the older lines, due to more efficient manufacturing processes. These generous reductions are made possible, principally, through better merchandising methods in wholesale channels, as well as in our own establishment.

Hoping to have the privilege of serving you frequently during 1928, we are, with very best wishes—

G. C. MALONE FURNITURE CO.
G. C. MALONE.
