Russia's Big Guns Rain Shells On Jap Lines As Battle Gains In Intensity

Attack Equals Any Of Those Seen In The World War

YUKI, KOREA (Near The Siberian frontier), Aug. 9 (AP)—Soviet Russia's heavy artillery today subjected Japanese lines on Changkufeng hill to the most terrific shelling they had received since the current Siberian-Korean border trouble started July 11.

Six Shells A Minute
All afternoon this correspondent watched the Soviet guns pour six-inch shells at the rate of at least six a minute along the entire four-mile Japanese front.

A village at the foot of Changkufeng hill was blazing fiercely tonight as literally hundreds of shells scored direct hits.

Early in the afternoon both Soviet and Japanese representatives.

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The possibility of British mediation of the Russo-Japanese border dispute was seen today in talks Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, had with both Soviet and Japanese representatives.

An informed source in discussing the Russo-Japanese dispute on the Siberian-Manchoukuo border said:

"The question of mediation undoubtedly has been discussed by British officials but they will take no steps in this direction unless invited by either the Soviet or Japanese governments."

viet and Japanese machine gun fire was audible above the steady rifle fire.

Then the Russians poured more than 30 shells directly on top of height 82, at the southern end of Changkufeng and a battery of mountain guns began firing eastward from height 52, half a mile to the south, against what was assumed to be a Soviet tank charge.

The Russians next laid down with uncanny accuracy a blanket of fire along the hill crest which, after half an hour, left the green ridge bare and scarred.

Meanwhile, the Soviet guns poured down after dozen of huge shells in the folds of Tumen river north and northwest of Changkufeng, sending columns of dirty water high into the air.

They never left off firing for more than two minutes all afternoon.

Whatever Japanese fire was returned could not be identified.

Earlier Japanese officers reported fresh Soviet Russian reinforcements were being brought into the border battle zone after heavy shelling of the Shachofeng sector, northeast of Changkufeng.

They said they expected the Russians soon to take "still more vigorous measures" in the conflict over the border hills which Russian soldiers began fortifying July 11 and which Japanese forces captured July 13.

Severe shelling of the Shachofeng sector began at dawn today and continued through the day.

The officers said the Japanese army had made the fullest preparations to repulse any new attack on its positions.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR DESPERADOES

DALLAS, Aug. 9 (AP)—Search for two men believed to be fugitive desperadoes from Missouri shifted to Northeast Texas today after J. A. Davenport, 55, of Arlington, was kidnapped and forced to drive his abductors to Bassett, 35 miles west of Texarkana, where he was robbed of his clothing and forced from the automobile.

Chief of Police A. E. Gibbs of Arlington was informed by Davenport that his abductors told him they were the men who staged a running gun fight with Dallas, Fort Worth and state police Saturday night between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Gangster-Style Slayings Occurring In Chicago At Rate Of One A Week

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Daylight today uncovered the seventh gangster-style slaying in Chicago within seven weeks and the second within 24 hours.

Huddled near a wall of the Chicago White Sox baseball field, the body of Sam (Frog Legs) Picciotto, 33, was found by passersby shortly after daybreak.

The place is less than a mile from where James G. Duncan, business agent of a painters' union, was slain last night.

Police said Picciotto was shot twice through the neck from close range with a .35 calibre pistol. Tire skid tracks indicated, officers said, that the body was thrown from an automobile.

CORRIGAN SAYS LIE DETECTOR COULD BE WRONG

BOSTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—With the city's acclaim still ringing in his ears, blue-eyed Douglas Corrigan took off from the Boston airport today in a transport plane, looking forward to new welcomes in Newark and Baltimore, but stoutly insisting a lie detector erred in doubting his contention he flew to Ireland by mistake.

"I wouldn't say it was exactly correct," said the grinning Irishman from California when William Houston Marston, New York psychologist, announced last night at a dinner in Corrigan's honor that the machine showed the aviator had "fibbed."

The New York to Ireland flier had been asked, "Did you really start for California?" and answered "certainly." His voice was weak, however, and Dr. Marston noted a "slight rise" from normal in Corrigan's blood pressure.

The machine showed the greatest deviation from normal when Corrigan was asked, "Is it true that there is one girl that interests you very much?" His answer was "No, I haven't seen her yet."

FDR Facing Busy Period

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt will delve into pressing economic problems as soon as he returns here Friday from his tropical vacation.

He will find on his big oval desk a stack of reports telling about other things, of progress in the spending-lending program, preliminary arrangements for wage-hour administration, and the status of the anti-trust inquiry.

Even before Mr. Roosevelt reaches Washington he will receive a report on what he has termed the nation's "No. 1 economic problem"—conditions in the South. He will study it tomorrow at Warm Springs, Ga.

Mr. Roosevelt left Washington early last month just after the spending-lending program had started. During his absence all the agencies concerned have been working at top speed and have the program well under way.

The Public Works Administration, for example, has authorized construction projects costing more than $1,000,000,000. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has thrown its resources behind the PWA, making possible an expansion of the original pump-priming operations.

Rolls of the Works Progress Administration have been enlarged until they include more than 2,850,000 persons.

Officials of the commerce department and other federal agencies also have predicted improvement in business this fall. Government economists estimated the national income for 1938 would exceed $61,000,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000,000 over a winter estimate by the President.

RAIL EMPLOYMENT UP BY 15,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The railroads put nearly 15,000 back to work in July.

The Interstate Commerce Commission said today class one carriers employed 929,477 persons in that month, compared with 914,765 in June.

July employment, however, was about 20 per cent below July, 1937.

NAZI PRESS IRED BY CZECHOSLOVAK DEATH

BERLIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—The controlled Nazi press levelled a barrage of invective today against Czechoslovakia in the slaying of a 28-year-old member of the Czechoslovakia German minority.

"Present conditions in Czechoslovakia have reached the limit of what is bearable," said the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. It said the killing of Wenzel Baierle after a saloon quarrel was "outstanding" among the "great number" of Czech crimes against the Sudeten German people.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voeelksischer Beobachter, called Czechoslovakia a "twisted" country "where people in the streets are attacked and even killed daily" in a country in which soldiers and gendarmes fire wildly about them without being punished.

Value Of Dam Discounted If Water Stored

Engineer Says Silt Would Shorten Lake's Effectiveness

AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—Effectiveness of Buchanan and other dams in the proposed Colorado river flood control system will be destroyed in 25 years by silt deposits if the lakes are permitted to remain full, T. U. Taylor, dean emeritus of the University of Texas school of engineering told a state senate committee here today.

The veteran civil engineer made the statement under questioning of former governor Dan Moody before the legislative group conducting an inquiry into charges of mis-handling of flood gates at Buchanan dam, 60 miles north of here, contributed to the recent destructions and residents of five counties flooded. Moody represented offices south of Austin.

"Buchanan lake, if it remains full of water, will be ineffective as a flood control measure and as an electric power producing unit in 25 years," Taylor said.

"The silt deposits will reduce its water capacity to less than 25 per cent of the volume of the reservoir."

Taylor previously had informed the committee he had conducted numerous surveys over a period of 30 years on the Colorado river's silt deposits.

The dean testified Austin lake in seven years after completion of a dam in 1933 had filled to 48 per cent of its capacity with silt and that from 1913 to 1922, after the dam had been washed out and rebuilt, the silt had taken up 84 per cent of reservoir's volume.

"The increasing silt is not due particularly to newly-plowed fields," Taylor continued. "It comes largely from easily eroded soil which flanks the Colorado river valley."

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, committee chairman, said he and Senators Wilbourne, Collier, Eastland and Albert Stone of Erenham hoped to complete testimony which would clear the way for a report of federal and state engineers on Aug. 29.

The group yesterday responded to demands of farmers, city and county officials to conduct an investigation into causes of the flood with a view toward determining if there had been negligence by the Lower Colorado River Authority in management of Buchanan dam and lake.

Runoff Voting Is Underway

Much Shorter Ballot To Be Marked In Second Primary

After a one day delay necessary for certification of candidates and printing of ballots, absentee voting for the second democratic primary on August 27 got underway here Tuesday.

At noon Tuesday, with only a few hours voting time, seven ballots had been cast and many others mailed to those asking them. Absentee voting will continue through August 23.

Arrangement of positions on the ballot in Howard county has been determined for local and district candidates according to their positions in the first primary vote. Those who led the ticket the first time are given first place in the second primary ballot arrangement.

Here is the way the run-off ballot will stack up on district and local candidates:

District judge—Ceel C. Collings, Edward county; Paul Moss, Ector county.

District attorney—Martelle McDonald, Howard county; Boyd Laughlin, Midland county.

County treasurer—Mrs. J. L. Collings, T. F. Shepley.

County commissioner precinct No. 2—Archie Thompson; H. T. Hale.

County commissioner precinct No. 4—Ed J. Carpenter; J. L. Nix.

Justice of peace—J. H. Hestley; Errol A. Nance.

Constable—Carl Mercer; J. F. Crenshaw.

The ballot for the second primary will be considerably shorter than the July 23 voting list. Instead of the 24 offices and 101 candidates, the new ballot will contain only 13 offices and 26 candidates.

PIPELINE SURVEY IS NEAR COMPLETION

Completion of a survey for a projected pipeline route to a practical dam site on the Concho river is slated for completion this week.

Engineers working under Marvin Nichols are running their last group of levels and will be prepared to file a preliminary report possibly by the latter part of next week, city officials believed.

New Dealers Face Primary Tests In 3 States Today

Foes Of Incumbents In Arkansas And Ohio Also are Claiming Loyalty To The Roosevelt Program

(By The Associated Press)

Ohio—Senator Robert J. Buckley, recipient of presidential praise, opposed for Democratic renomination by former Gov. George White; Robert A. Taft, son of former president, and Judge Arthur H. Day contest Republican senatorial nomination; Gov. Martin L. Davey seeks Democratic renomination; three Democratic congressional races involve New Deal issues.

Arkansas—Senator Hattie Caraway asks Democratic renomination as Roosevelt supporter; Rep. John L. McClellan says he's equally loyal; J. R. Venable, third candidate, stays aloof from argument; Gov. Carl E. Bailey, Democrat, has two opponents.

Idaho—Senator James P. Pope, administration stalwart, challenged by Rep. D. Worth Clark, self-styled conservative Democrat, in clear-cut test of New Deal strength; three Republicans seek right to oppose winner; Gov. Barzilla Clark in four-sided race for Democratic renomination.

Nebraska—Gov. R. L. Cochran, Democrat, asks third term; one Republican and four Democratic representatives up for renomination; no national issues.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The popular strength of three pro-Roosevelt senators was being determined today in primary elections in Ohio, Arkansas and Idaho.

Only the Idaho contest, however, was conceded by both sides to be a direct test of New Deal appeal. It was between Senator James P. Pope, co-author of the 1933 crop control act, and Representative D. Worth Clark, foe of the government reorganization bill and other White House measures.

Senators Robert J. Buckley of Ohio and Hattie Caraway of Arkansas, who like Pope have gone down the line for the administration, also had opponents. But their challengers joined them in proclaiming loyalty to the President's principles.

Mrs. Caraway's major rival was Rep. John L. McClellan, who declared that Mr. Roosevelt's reference to the only woman senator as a "very old friend" did not constitute an endorsement. A third candidate, J. Rosser Venable, did not take part in this argument.

The quiet-spoken Mrs. Caraway did more speaking in the campaign than throughout her seven years in the senate. McClellan complained to the Senate campaign expenditures committee that she had received improper aid from federal employees, but she denied the charge. The committee has not finished its inquiry.

In Ohio, the Democratic contest between Sen. Buckley and former Gov. George White was less sensational than two other primary races in the state. Buckley was the apparent choice of Mr. Roosevelt, who spoke highly of him in a speech last month. White said he favored New Deal principles without being a "yes man."

The Republican senatorial battle was a heated one between Robert Taft, son of the former president, and Judge Arthur Day of the Ohio supreme court. Day contended Taft had made tremendous expenditures in his campaign, while Taft denied the charge and accused his opponent of "mud-slinging."

The third major fight in Ohio was over the Democratic nomination for governor. The incumbent, Martin L. Davey, was opposed by national committeeman Charles Sawyer. The Social Security board is commencing withdrawing grants for old age pensions in the state because it said Davey had made political use of the pension system.

TO APPOINT GROUP TO HEAD CRUSADE

Appointment of a steering committee appeared the next step in the organization of a sales crusade in Big Spring, chamber of commerce officials said Tuesday.

Leaders were deliberating the matter, and were planning to exercise great care in the selection of the committee and the chairman.

Once the committee has been chosen and other organization details set up, the crusade will be operated independently with the view of promoting increased sales in every type of business within the city over a given period of time.

On the board of equalization are Curtis Driver, Arthur Woodall, and G. H. Hayward.

SEWER LINES

Work in laying sewer lines to the state hospital is due to start this week.

Helps Flood Victims

DALLAS, Aug. 9 (AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas democratic gubernatorial nominee, last night made a radio appeal for contributions to a every type of business within the city over a given period of time.

What's more, every policeman and fireman will get a five dollar per month wage boost.

Councilmen decided last night that a $500,000 annual profit from the city's electric light plant would be enough to pay the expenses and take care of wage increases.

For instance, you will be told: Key was not a prisoner on a British ship when he penned the song; he was being detained on an American ship.

He did not write the song on the back of an envelope, but on an old letter.

The music of the national anthem is not American—it's either English or French.

Furthermore, the Star Spangled Banner was not the national anthem until 1861—and then only after a bitter battle on Capitol Hill during which it was described as a barroom tune.

Barbara's sweetheart, Paul Dwyer, sat on the witness stand that her father, Francis Carroll, killed Dr. James G. Tax Hearings Start Thurs.

Notice Of Valuation Changes Sent To All Taxpayers

Hearings by the board of equalization, serving jointly for the city and the Big Spring independent school district, will open Thursday morning.

The interviews will continue through Thursday, Friday and Saturday, or until the board has finished its work.

Notices were mailed last week to all city taxpayers whose valuation figures were changed, and the school district sent out 2,200 notices to its taxpayers last because of a 10 per cent blanket increase on the 100 per cent valuation. Accompanying the school notices was informational matter showing disposition of school funds and pointing out that additional bonded indebtedness and operation costs occasioned by two new school buildings was responsible for the valuation hike, since the school rate is against the $1 constitutional limit.

On the board of equalization are Curtis Driver, Arthur Woodall, and G. H. Hayward.

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART

Not Downcast

Pat Murphy, local high school athletic mentor, returned Sunday from the Texas High School Coaches' association annual coaching school about ready to begin fall practice here.

While in Lubbock he made the prediction with Bloddy Cross, San Angelo scribe, that the Steers would probably finish last in this year's Oil Belt's grid race but Patrick thinks a little more of his team than that.

Of course he isn't sticking his neck out and saying his crew will be the team to beat but neither is he pessimistic. If all the boys come through okay then Murphy's outfit might be a bit rough.

A contending team would suit the hungry populace here. They haven't had a champion since 1932 and that was in the heyday of Ollie Cordill and the Flowers boys, Sam and Bob.

Nothing like Cordill has appeared here for Murphy should have a fair crack field in Alton Beutick, Chuck Jones, Lefty Bethell and Ross Callahan.

Too, the line promises to be no slouch. It should be heavier than the one of a year ago and far more experienced.

The freshman is still looking for a camp site to send his charges through a two weeks grid before school begins.

Lefty Jacot and Robin Decker were recently nominated for the WT-AM League's "all ugly" team by Manager Charles Barnabe but Jake refuses to accept the honor. He looks mighty sweet out there on the mound some times, we think.

Bob Back—And How

Glad to see Decker back in the lineup. He didn't connect in any of his four attempts last night but he swiped two safes and there wasn't anything Catcher Jodie Tule of the Winks could do about it.

Robin, league's leader, has been threatened seriously in that department by Wally Watkins of the Lubbock club, has been handicapped for the past month with an injury after practice last night but he wasn't in the right direction last night and should come along.

It appears now that Jo-Jo Saportta, the Rockford, Ill., boy who patrols left garden for the locals, will be out for a week or longer with his leg injury. Joe was injured the same day that Decker went to the sidelines in Lubbock last week.

Bill Garbe, the California lad who showed a lot of promise when he signed with the Steers several weeks ago, has been turned loose by Fletcher Withers. Garbe, an outfielder, will not be eligible to sign with any other club of the circuit this season.

Hank Miller, who is getting good at that sort of thing, was tossed out of the Midland-Lubbock game Sunday afternoon for straining a point too strenuously with ump Dub Rowland. Miller may have plenty of pocket change to take care of all the fines he is pouring into the league's coffers but he's making a mistake in baiting the umpires.

Hobs To Be Ready

Cotton Cleaver, who helped to bring baseball to Hobbs, N. M., this season, and who is vacationing here, says that the Boosters will be a Hobbs institution again next year.

The Boosters haven't been doing so well at the gate lately, arousing fears among several parties that the New Mexicans would show in '39 level come September.

Pink Thornton, the old T. & P. slinger, remembered in local semi-pro circles for his terrific clouting, claims now to be a golfer. Now living in Glass, the big boy qualified for the championship flight of the East-Tex Co meeting in Rising Star last week with an 86 but lost out in first round play.

BOOSTERS COME TO TOWN FOR YEAR'S FINAL SERIES

Deviils To Play Pampa Here For Texas Title

All Games To Be Played In Baron Park; Winner Goes To Columbus

Ben Daniel, manager of the Devils, 1937 recognized Texas junior softball champions, received word this morning that Pampa's city champions had challenged their right to the state crown and would be here over the weekend for a series that will decide whether the locals will make another trip to the national junior championships.

The Devils and the Pampans will engage in their first game Friday afternoon at Baron park, will return for the deciding games Saturday night under the lights. Should the first two games be split a double header will be necessary Saturday night.

The national championships get under way at Columbus, Ohio, August 21 and Daniel is making plans to transport the team provided they beat down the challenge of the visitors over the weekend.

The leader had his crew out for practice Monday afternoon, intends to work them as much as possible before Friday's opener.

Cochrane May Have Known Of Release

Black Mike Turned Down Offers Earlier In Year

By EDDIE BRIETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—Out in Detroit they're still wondering what all the shouting was about... But Mickey Cochrane must have known it was coming... Two weeks ago a New York writer went to Mickey and asked him to collaborate on a piece for a big magazine to appear just before the world series... "Black Mike" shook his head and said, "No, they (the magazine eds) might not want me then..." Cochrane will be back in the majors one of these days and it'll be darn nice to see him back... Mebbe Phil Wrigley will grab him for the Cub board of strategy.

Cefarino Garcia, the No. 1 welterweight challenger, drove here from Los Angeles in three and a half days... They are telling it around town that Babe Ruth has sunk $100,000 in the Brooklyn Dodgers... Charlie Grimm should worry—his getting $100 a day for broadcasting games played by the Yankees is used to manage... Willie London, fastest man south of Washington, traveled all the way from High Point, N. C., to feed Ambers and Armstrong... Mike Jacobs probably would give him a pass only it takes three chairs to accommodate Willie... What is the real dope out there in Detroit, anyway?

Fight Tip: Eight former light-weight champs experted on Ambers and Armstrong via the air waves last night and seven of 'em picked Armstrong... Old Rocky Kansas four-star special appears in all editions—we hope tomorrow... Visiting help-players usually head straight for Jimmy Braddock's place... By the way, why doesn't Joe Gould make a heavyweight out of Mike O'Connor, his big Irish barkeep? ... That fellow is packing the dames so thick around the bar you guys can't crowd in for a quick one... The Yankees got back to town pulling Cochrane got a raw deal... We wouldn't know about that since neither side has spilled the inside.

Kipke and McMillan Leaders In Poll

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—The position of head man on the coaching staff of five which will guide the College All Star football team against the professional Washington Redskins August 31 appeared today to rest between Harry Kipke, former Michigan coach, and Ed McMillin of Indiana.

Latest available figures showed Kipke and McMillin far ahead, with Ray Pond of Yale and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, virtually assured assistant roles.

Redskins Begin Drills Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Coach Ray Flaherty of the Washington Redskins figures he has just about everything he needs for another professional football title—everything, except ideas.

Having signed Singlin' Sammy Baugh to a three-year contract, Flaherty said today he was hard pressed for new pass plays for the Texas toser, who pitched the Redskins to a world championship last season.

"Practically every football team in the country knows our passes," the coach wailed in his most collegiate way, for the first test of the year his champions will be against the College All-Stars at Chicago Aug. 31.

Baugh's style in heaving a football, sighed Flaherty, has become as familiar to football coaches and players as the Vardon overlapping grip to golfers.

"Everybody tries to copy it because it's the correct way," the coach explained.

The Redskins will begin practice at nearby Ballston, Va., tomorrow. Forty-five players have been ordered to report. Missing form the Redskins' line-up will be the great runner, Cliff Battles, who has turned to college coaching. The professionals are counting on a westerner to take his place.

"He's automatic Karamatic from Gonzaga, and he's a good boy," Flaherty said.

The Redskins had hoped to use Andy Farkas, fast-running back from Detroit, but he has been selected for the All-Star team. He will report to Washington after the Chicago game, having signed last year.

Henry Armstrong's Training Camp Pictures From Pompton Lakes, New Jersey

Henry Armstrong's Training Camp Pictures From Pompton Lakes, New Jersey

By DILLON GRAHAM
AF Feature Service Writer
POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—Henry Armstrong was chasing Lew Feldman around the ring at Doc Hier's training camp, trying to catch and lambast his quick-footed sparring partner.

And as I snatched up to watch Henry's preparations for his August 10th fight in New York with Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, who should be sitting on front row ragside but Mushky Jackson? Now Mushky can do more damage to the king's English than a handful of slugs at Ellis Island.

"How does he look, Mushky?" I inquired, politely.

"Sweet rat. In fact, he is about as pitiful as," replied Mushky, taking a mean swipe at a frankfurter.

The featherweight-welterweight king seemed some distance from perfection for he was having trouble stalking Feldman.

Law bobbed in and out, popping Henry now and then and running away.

"Don't know him?"

"His fighting style closely resembles that of Ambers," I commented.

"Yeah, that's why they got him," Mushky informed me. "He is a reptical of Ambers."

"You mean replica?"

"Mushky nodded, continuing operations on the frankfurter.

"Have you seen Lugl D'Ambradio yet?" I asked.

"I don't know dat guy, poisonously."

"I was referring to Ambers. His Italian name is Luigi D'Ambradio."

"Yeah, I see him 'other day. He didn't look so hot when Henry finished him last night at St. Francis day to lay him out of a ring."

"So you like Henry in this fight?"

"That Old Advers'!"

"Yeah, I'm following that old adverb to string wit da champagne."

"Have you been an Armstrong man all the time?"

"No, Ross was my chere to heat him, but Henry 'frowed so many punches at al'berry he oughta had a k. o. But dat larnt me my lesson."

"How do you believe the fight will go?"

"Ambers will make Henry look like a novice at foist, he'll be missing so much."

"You mean a novice, don't you?"

"Yeah, an amoutour, a beginner making his debut."

"Oh, I see."

"This Henry'll assimilate his style. He'll catch on. And he'll have dat jumping-jack jumping right into punches," Mushky predicted as he wolfed a last bite of frankfurter, wiping his mouth with his

Rowe Defeats Santone, Dean Is Beaten

Paul, However, Makes Better Showing As Indians Win, 2-1

By The Associated Press

Schoolboy Rowe continues to win games for the Beaumont Exporters but his performances still fall to show he's ready to return to the majors as the Detroit Tigers hoped when they sent him to the Texas league to heal an ailing arm.

Yesterday the Schoolboy won his seventh game against one defeat as he pitched Beaumont to a 12-2 victory over the San Antonio Missions. But he was forced to leave the game at the end of the seventh inning when his arm tired.

While Rowe was taking another decision, however, Paul Dean, also sent to the Texas league by a major league team to get his arm back into shape, was losing his fourteenth game of the season against six wins. It wasn't Paul's fault though, a couple of Dallas misouts allowing Oklahoma City to win 2-1. Dean also went the route and still seems to be making more progress than Rowe.

The fading Tulsa Oilers won their second game of a two weeks road trip by trouncing the Fort Worth Cats, 10-3, behind five-hit pitching by Lefty Millstead.

Shreveport downed the Houston Buffs, 8-3, to make it two in a row over the boys from the bayou.

DOOM OF SPEED RECORD BEING PREDICTED

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 9 (AP)—Certain doom for the world's land speed record of 312.42 MPH was predicted today by the racing fraternity that frequents this shimmering salt speedway each summer.

The would-be executors—Captain George E. T. Eytson and John R. Cobb, both Englishmen—hastened grooming of their weapons—one a mechanical monster that looks like an airplane without wings; the other a turtle-like car whose small size belies its power.

Only drying out of dangerous soft spots on the 13-mile straightaway track stands between the executors and their attempts to smash the record.

Captain Eytson, innk nerveless heir of high speed drivers, is ready with his record-holder "Thunderbolt"—a 33-foot long, 14,000 pound, juggernaut that set the 312.42 MPH mark last November when it was relatively untried.

The racing fraternity likes the turtle-shaped car—Cobb's "Taiton"—a 20-foot long, 7,000 pound creation.

Both cars have 24 cylinders.

Reason for favoring "Taiton" is that Cobb trundled the button-shaped machine onto the flats yesterday and in a trial run made a speed estimated by Cobb at 250 MPH.

REVOLTA CHAMP

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (AP)—Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., had a third straight Illinois Professional Golfer's association title today to add to his recent St. Paul open victory.

Revolta posted 10 birdies and a Bog Air Country club yesterday eagle along the 36 hole route at the end was over par but once he conquered Dick Metz of Chicago.

Revolta finished with 69-68-137, Metz was one stroke behind with a 68-70-138.

JOE PARKS KAYOED

HOUSTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—It took only three rounds last night for Stanley Hascato, 156-pound Syrian from New York, to beat down Joey Parks, Texas No. 1 light heavyweight.

Hascato floored Parks six times in the third before Referee Joe Muhl stopped the fight, giving the New Yorker the scrap by a technical k. o.

Will Ramsdell Is Victim Of Spuds Monday

Gives Up Only 5 Hits But Visitors Gain Upper Hand, 5-3

Frankie Jacot, the wrongheaded buried of the Baron corps who has enjoyed his greatest success at the expense of the Hobbs Boosters, goes out this evening seeking his third pitching triumph of the season over the Rabemans as the New Mexicans begin a three game series in Baron park at 8:30 p. m.

Jacot has given up but three runs in the two games in which he has faced the Boosters and Manager Charles Barnabe is counting on him to repel the Boosters' threatened headlong charge into the WT-AM Shughnessy playoff.

Willard Ramsdell was the victim of his mates' errors and his own wildness in Monday's "Ladies' Night" special and the Wink Spudders finally broke through for a 5-3 victory but the Big Springers had already gained the top hand in the series.

Ramsdell surrendered but five base runs but he set up potential runs in the fourth by passing Simpson and Spangler who went to bat in that order. The runners were advanced when Wano grounded to Ramsdell, came home on Stone's line single through second base. Stone went all the way to third when Stacey allowed the ball to hop through him, scored a moment later when Simmons dropped Tate's ball in left.

Doubles by Roberts and Simpson accounted for a Wink tally in his fifth and Ramsdell gave up his final run in the eighth on a hit by La Moller. Wano's walk, an intentional pass to Tate and Jubela's ground ball that Stacey took and missed turning into a double play by a split second.

The Rabemans hopped on Red Roberts, grizzled Spud veteran, for two runs and the lead in the second when Billy Capps singled home Ramsdell and Decker. They came back with another tally in the fifth when Ramsdell garnered his second base hit—a double—went to third as Hobbey's hopped to Jubela and loped home on Decker's long fly.

Roberts was in a tight spot in the ninth when Wano dropped Stacey's pop fly in the vicinity of their keystone and Finch Hitter Frank Jacot was hit by a pitched ball but Siebert skirted long to La Moller in left for the second out and Fowler's pop foul to Tate took of the disk retired the side.

Stone and Reeves contributed sterling catches in the eighth frame to save Roberts possible danger. Stone raced far to his right to snatch Decker's line smash out of the ozone when it looked as if the "Rabbit" would net two bases off his feet churning like pistons, got his finger nails into Fowler's fence wallop on a drive that would have been good for three bases.

Greenberg Has Ample Time To Break Record

Season Is Only Two Thirds Over; Play In Chi Today

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

If you're convinced the major league pennant races are practically over, even though there's an important third of the season left, it might be well to look into another of the season's interesting developments—whether big Hank Greenberg has a chance to break Babe Ruth's home run record.

For a while the burly Detroit first sacker was belting out four bangers at a terrific clip, eight of them in six games one week. Then he drew blanks for a week before connecting Sunday for his 38th of the season.

That wallop put Hank 15 games ahead of Ruth's 1927 pace when the Babe set up his all-time mark of 60 homers. Ruth's 38th came Aug. 17th in the 114th game of the season while Sunday's game was No. 99 for the Tigers.

Will Need Leeway

Greenberg, of course, is likely to need all that leeway, for Ruth's big push came in September when he smacked 17 homers in 27 games. The setup this year is so much the same that Hank's chances look pretty good.

In 1927, of course, the Yankees were so far ahead that they didn't have to worry when the Babe pulled off a homer whiffing in an effort to sock out of the park. The Tigers now are down in fifth place and there's not much their new manager, Del Baker, could do but haul them up into the first division. So they're not deeply concerned over the odd strikeout.

Then Hank, too, has a long stretch on the home grounds in September. Of Detroit's 50 remaining games, 27 are to be played at home and 23 away. And from just after Labor Day until almost the end of the season they'll be playing in Briggs stadium. So far Greenberg has connected 24 times here and 14 in other parks.

On To Windy City

Hank takes his mace to Chicago today as the clubs of both leagues begin a round of their own sections after calling a truce in the east-west warfare that boosted the Yankees and Pirates to high. Yesterday's only game, between the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns, was rained out in the second inning.

While they knocked off their closest enemies, the Indians and Browns, respectively, to gain their comfortable leads, the Yanks and Pirates can't afford to let up yet. The New Yorkers have to face such tough rivals as the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators while the Tribe can ease off against second-division clubs. Likewise Pittsburgh's main threats now may be the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds, tied for third, while the Giants try to recover against the Phillies, Bees and Dodgers.

Lou Ambers In Grand Shape

Displays Plenty Of Confidence In Last Workouts

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (AP)—It must be admitted that Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion, does not look nor talk like the pop-over he is supposed to be for Henry Armstrong tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds.

In his final training spasm yesterday, the 135-pound king looked as tough as a smoked boot and his conversation all was to the effect that he knew exactly how to take care of the fierce little Negro once he got him in the ring.

The average man wouldn't like to face Armstrong with a baseball bat, yet Ambers talks like he can't wait to take a smack at the fireball who has dethroned the featherweight and welterweight champions in the last nine months.

Still, Ambers makes a sound pretty convincing.

"All that's wrong with this fight is that I ought to have fought Armstrong first," he complained. "Then the winner could have whipped Barney Ross for the welterweight title. As it is, some of them are trying to say I won't be welterweight champion after I lick Armstrong."

While Armstrong loafed in his camp, Ambers rought a fast two rounds with Slinger White, a little Negro much like Armstrong in action, and did four rounds of other assorted work.

Pierce Brooks In Talk Here

Candidate For Lieutenant Governor Gives Platform

Pierce Brooks, candidate for lieutenant governor, traveling in his specially equipped sound truck, to which is attached an elaborate float depicting "A business man lieutenant governor" driving the "politicians" from the capitol building, was due to make a brief address here today at 3 p. m.

Brooks' panoramic float is a beautiful piece of artistry by one of the most famous scenic artists in the state. "After speaking to the people from every part of our state, I decided to portray my thoughts on to this beautiful float. I want the people to know that I am glad they have decided that now is the time to rid the state of the professional politicians, and place businessmen in office who, through years of experience, know the needs of the people." This display has attracted wide attention in every locality where he has spoken.

Brooks is supporting the full payment of the state's social security obligations, and in his platform informs the voters that this can be done without the levying of additional taxes. He offers a plan to save $10,000,000 in operation of the state government without impairing the usefulness of any department. He further favors the abolition of the liquor board, vesting control in local authorities and saving a million dollars. He would abolish the old age assistance commission, save another million, and place this power in the county judges, with warrants coming from the state comptroller.

Another outstanding feature he advocates is the abolishment of the auto license law. In its stead he would substitute a registration fee and retain a driver's license law.

Mrs. W. C. Bickley and daughter, Wilma Ruth, of Abilene, Alex Bickley, Janet Bankson, Rita Mae Bigony, Ruth Thomas and Conrad Watson made a trip to the Carlsbad Cavern over the weekend.

MONTGOMERY WARD

The Story of OD and AD

and the TOMATOES

OD and AD owned neighboring farms. Both decided to grow tomatoes. But when their tomatoes were ripe, OD and AD had different ideas as to how they would sell them. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomatoes

OD filled baskets with his tomatoes and put them in a wagon and drove to town. He went up and down the streets looking for people who wanted to buy tomatoes. Some days he sold all. Some days he sold only a few. When the season was over, he found he had made just enough to live on.

AD thought there must be a better way to sell his tomatoes. He knew he must tell people about them, but he decided he could never sell very many tomatoes if he talked to people one at a time. So he used one of the simplest forms of ADVERTISING. He built a stand by the side of the road where many people passed. He put up a sign that said: "AD's big, red, ripe, juicy tomatoes." Because so many people saw the sign, enough people stopped to buy so that he sold all his ripe tomatoes every day. Many who bought, remembering his name on the sign, came back again and again. When the season was over, he had money in the bank.

One day AD heard that tomato juice was healthful and good to drink. He thought it would also be convenient to handle, to sell, and to serve in the home. He told OD about it. The next year both decided to make and sell tomato juice.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomato Juice

OD's wife squeezed tomatoes all day and put the juice in bottles. OD took it to town and went from door to door, looking for people who wanted to buy tomato juice. In a whole day he could call at only about 50 homes. As most people had never heard of tomato juice and did not know how good it was, he sold only a few bottles each day.

AD felt sure there was a better way to make and sell his tomato juice. He took some money from the bank and bought a shiny new press that squeezed out juice easily and quickly. He put the juice in bottles that could be tightly sealed. He had labels printed for the bottles, reading: AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE.

He went to the grocery stores in town, where many people came every day, and asked the grocers to put a few of his bottles on their counters. Then he put an advertisement in newspapers read by thousands of people. The advertisement said:

"Enjoy the refreshing taste of AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE, pressed from big, red, vine-ripened Tomatoes. Good to drink and good for you. At your favorite grocery store."

Because so many people read about it, enough people asked for it to exhaust the supply quickly. And remembering AD's name on the label they came back and asked for it again. So AD bought tomatoes from his neighbors and made more tomato juice to supply the demand.

What OD and AD Did The Next Year

OD and his wife decided that if they were going to make any money, they would have to work harder. So she got up earlier in the morning and picked tomatoes and squeezed and bottled juice all day. OD spent a longer day in town trying to see more people in order to sell more bottles. But, even though OD and his wife worked long and hard, they could not make any money.

AD now saw how true it was that the more people he told about his tomato juice, the more he sold. So he advertised in other cities, telling women how good tomato juice was for their families to drink. He also sent salesmen to call on grocers. He got so many orders that he arranged to buy tomatoes from hundreds of other farmers, built a bigger building, bought more equipment, more bottles and labels, and employed more people. AD knew that, because his name was on every bottle, he must always maintain the high quality of his product. And, because he did this, women soon insisted on AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE.

AD already had found that the more he advertised and the more bottles he sold, the less it cost him to put up each bottle. Therefore, as his advertising was extended all over the country and his sales increased, he reduced the price. Thus more and more people could afford to enjoy tomato juice, and, although his profit per bottle was now very small indeed, he sold so many bottles that he had a very fine business. So both AD and his customers were benefited.

AD tells OD how an Idea Became an Industry—through ADVERTISING

ONE DAY, years later, OD called on his old neighbor AD. He said "It's remarkable how your business has grown since you got that idea about selling tomato juice."

"Yes," said AD, "but even more important have been the benefits to other people. We are now only one out of many producers of tomato juice. Yet we take all the tomatoes grown by more than a thousand farmers who have here an assured market for their crops. We give steady employment the year round to several hundred people and employ hundreds more on part-time. We pay more than half a million dollars a year to manufacturers of cans, bottles, labels, supplies, and equipment.

"The entire industry now sells more than twenty million dollars worth of tomato juice a year and the public enjoys its healthful benefits—at the lowest price at which it ever has been sold. Yes, tomato juice was a great idea, but that idea would have benefited very few—without ADVERTISING to tell the story."

READING AND WRITING

"35,000 DAYS IN TEXAS: A HISTORY OF THE DALLAS NEWS," by Sam Acheson; (Macmillan; $2.50)

Most newspapermen read books about newspapers with a good deal of joy, and most of us find it a little difficult to know how general the interest in such books may be. There seems very little reason to wonder, however, in the matter of Sam Acheson's "35,000 Days in Texas: A History of the Dallas News." For the Dallas News and Texas grew side by side, and Mr. Acheson's story of the newspaper is also a history of the state.

It will strike many as strange that the News began in Galveston when Galveston was a straggling village, and not in Dallas at all. That was in 1842, and Texas was a young Republic rather anxious about its future. Indian wars were in progress within the circulation territory of the Galveston News, and that means almost under the eaves of the little building that housed the paper, for then it did not circulate widely.

Time, Texas and the News grow alongside each other. Presently the "black lands" of Central Texas began drawing settlers, and little cities appeared which seemed to have promise. The publishers of the News believed it wise to sleep in, and the Dallas News was formed. Two papers, 315 miles apart, were combined and lived for years as Siamese twins, connected by telegraph and railroad. Eventually the Galveston News was sold to Galveston people, and the Semi-Weekly News was removed to Dallas. This was in 1885, and the Semi-Weekly News is still published from Dallas, alongside the daily.

The daily thus has behind it a tradition almost a century old. It has survived wars and famines and pestilence, even the envy of many men. Its staff is almost a phenomenon to younger news men, brought up in the whirligig of chain journalism—once a News man, always a News man, unless you quit or can't do a reasonably good job. The News has had almost no labor trouble, and it has produced a body of anecdotes second to none in "the game." It has had its share of "characters" as well.

So that Mr. Acheson's story is not merely one of names and dates. There is early incident to draw upon and the color of a state that always has been a law unto itself. One could hardly understand Texas without the book.

Extravagance Of King Dominates Modern Styles

Frocks Drip With The Gold Spangles, Signs

By Alice Maxwell PARIS, Aug. 9.—Louis XIV extravagance dominated displays today of Parisian designers' winter collections.

There was gold in brilliantly-brocaded satins and moires. Velvet was stiff with gold. Lace dripped with gold spangles. Signs of the sodas glistened on velvet jackets. Crepe evening dresses were heavy with gold designs.

Evening frocks with billowing skirts, crinolined laces and tulle in bouffant silhouettes and sleeves with small romantic puffs or ruffled shape recalled the opulence of the grand French monarch (1643-1715).

The rounded décollete of his epoch was enhanced by flowers, feathers and lace. Chiffons, jerseys and velvet satins were favored for slim evening frocks, some with draped backs in buckle effects.

Many models lacked shoulder straps. Long-sleeved dinner dresses had hand collars, slit skirts and contrasting bodices. A striking new note was quilted evening dresses in white and black satin and quilted evening coats.

Long evening coats of bright colored velvets were trimmed with Siberian lynx and white fox. Some were widely flared, suggesting the Persian influence.

African dress were noted in gold brocades and silver settings of satins, velvets and silks, some with full bishop sleeves. A simple lay silhouette was shown in flared skirts with bloused backs and wider shoulders.

Day shirts covered the knee but were longer for afternoon. Waists were unchanged. Winter coats were made in princess style, also long or in short a-line. Low tuxedo collars were seen with bell-shaped sleeves or sleeves widened at the elbow.

Morning suits featured contrasting jackets. Afternoon suits had flared three-quarter jackets lavishly trimmed with fur. Some long cape ensembles were shown.

Subscription Rates: One Year $3.00, Six Months $2.00, Three Months $1.50, One Month $0.50.

NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE: Texas Daily Press League, Dallas, Texas.

PURGING POLITICS: The senatorial investigating committee charged with looking into the conduct of primaries and elections for congressional offices is setting up its courage.

Referring by clear implication to both candidates in the heated campaign for democratic nomination to the United States senate from Kentucky, one of whom was majority floor leader of the senate and the other the governor of the state, the committee says it is certain that efforts were made on both sides to control votes by the use of federal relief funds or of state-administered funds for old-age assistance and unemployment compensation.

Mr. Dickstein, as chairman of the house immigration committee, also had asked for a free ticket.

Mr. Dickstein said, however, that he never got a free trip, but paid $500 for it.

Mr. Dickstein sought to head the current "ism" investigation but the house leadership sidestepped him, left him off the committee entirely and put Representative Dies at the top.

Instead of inviting incidents such as the Butler affair, Dies plans to attempt to measure the "true weight" of such movements as communism, nazism and fascism.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—A house committee is resuming the perennial hunt for Nazi, fascist, communist and other subversive influences.

Perhaps the most famous recent hunt was conducted by Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York. For days on end Mr. Fish had the country's headlines to himself as he conducted, in the pre-Roosevelt days, a chase of communists.

Remember General Butler? Undoubtedly the most persistent hunter of subversive influences in the country is Representative Dickstein of New York.

At one time Representative Dickstein had General Smedley D. Butler as a witness to tell a story of proposals made to him that he head an organization of veterans designed to set up a "fascist" type of government in the United States.

Mr. Dickstein, as chairman of the house immigration committee, also had asked for a free ticket.

Mr. Dickstein said, however, that he never got a free trip, but paid $500 for it.

Chapter Three: Death of a Frightened Girl. The trail had literally run out in and drift when we pulled up before a high iron gateway through which showed a small, gravelled court bordered with oleanders and backed by a low pink house smothered in wisteria.

The girl steps off the train or plane, contract in one hand, new bunch of roses in the other. The flash bulbs flare as she gets the Big Greeting, and then she's whisked off triumphantly in a luxurious studio car, presumably to plunge into the Glamour Pond for a big splash. She feels like a queen, and she is one—for a day.

Maybe it even lasts a week. Bubbling with excitement, she goes to the still gallery and they take enough pictures to fill a catalogue. The lenses take her to the beach and snap her in "play poses"—if the legs are passable—and pretty soon she sees her picture in the papers—if the legs the knockouts. And then she goes to training school. Or she just waits. Or both.

Two months ago I talked to Dorothy Coningore. She's just been signed after a scramble in which three studios participated. She was the girl Chapin applauded at the Carmel little theatre. From all the excitement I figured she'd go into a picture the next week at the latest.

Saw her again the other day, visiting the "Angels With Dirty Faces" set and watching Caprey and O'Brien work. She looked wonderful when I asked her what was up. "I don't know when I'll get a part," she said. "I wish I did."

Director William Keighley told me about a girl he'd spotted as a possibility and tested, using extreme care so that her dramatic deficiencies could be overshadowed by her photographic beauty.

The Effects of Liquor Cannot Be Repealed. REPEAL AT ITS WORST. Over one and one-third million girls are working in liquor-selling places in this country; one roadhouse is sending word to high school students that on every Friday and Saturday night free beer will be given to any high school pupil who comes in and mentions the fact that she is a pupil of High School.

SUSPECTS SOUGHT. Local officers are seeking two parties for questioning here. One is reported to have been active here with forged checks on a purported drilling concern, while the other is wanted for questioning in connection with missing materials.

By MAX SALTSMARSH

With one forward leap I was on my knees beside her. She lay crumpled on her face, one arm doubled under her head, the other flung wide, and I turned her gently on her back. Her wide eyes stared up at me, terrified; and then, even as I looked, she gave a little gasp, shuddered, mumbled something, and lay still, the dark eyes still gazing up at me, fixed in that haunting look of fear.

Pandemonium. At the same instant I felt a hand on my shoulder, shaking me, and became conscious that all around me was a confused babel of sound, people crowding in, staring, horrified faces ringing me around, and on his knees beside me a plump, youthful man that I recognized as the assistant maitre d'hotel.

"What is it?" he asked hoarsely. "I don't know," I answered stupidly. "She fell—right at my feet." A woman behind us screamed: "Her dear! She's murdered! That horrid cry steeled him—"Messieurs, messieurs!" he shouted. "It is nothing, nothing, nothing! I recognized as the assistant maitre d'hotel.

I scrambled to my feet and found Hugo beside me. "She's dead?" he asked abruptly, his face gray beneath the suntan. "I don't know," I said again, but his words had brought me to my senses. "Something must be done—there's bound to be a doctor here."

I swung round on the maitre d'hotel. "A doctor, man!" I said urgently, but he only gaped at me, wringing his hands, and in a flash I had scrambled on a chair. "A doctor, quickly," I yelled.

I looked despairingly out across the sea of upturned, staring faces. Every man in the room, waiters and guests alike, seemed to have gathered in a solid mass round the spot where the girl lay. But as I looked I saw a man's figure, medium-sized, stocky, and dark-haired, detach itself from the throng and shoot up the three steps to the dais that led to the entrance. A second later another figure, smaller, red-headed, and wearing like the first a white mess-jacket, sped after him.

The other wrung his hands. "The scandal!" he moaned, and then sunk to silence as a third man pushed through the crowd. "The manager," said Hugo. "In one stride he was beside the orchestra and had snatched up the leader's megaphone. "Messieurs, messieurs!" he called. "I regret to say there has been an accident, and until the affair is straightened I must ask none of you to leave the building. You will oblige me by returning to your tables." He turned to his pallid assistant. "Order the doors to be closed at once," he said sharply. "When that is done, telephone to the commissaire of police from my office, informing him what has happened. I will have the girl taken there at once."

The little doctor murmured approvingly. "The witness too," he suggested gently. "These two gentlemen were, I think, nearest the girl when she fell." The tall man turned to me inquiringly. "Yes," I said, and felt a strong sudden run through me. "She died," my feet.

The papaya is an ancient fruit but it never made much headway in this country until recently. I understand it's doing very well in Florida now. But it's a funny fruit. It has to ripen on the tree or it never attains a maximum of sweetness.
