FORT WORTH (AP) — One of America's richest women has been dragged into court by a moving company that is calling her a deadbeat.

United Van Lines is suing Wal-Mart heiress Alice Walton, alleging she refused to pay a $14,000 bill for moving her property from her fancy Upper East Side Manhattan apartment to a ranch 50 miles west of Fort Worth. The company has filed its lawsuit in a Fort Worth federal court.

But Ms. Walton, the daughter of Wal-Mart founder Sam Walton, believes she has a case of her own. She's accusing the company of damaging some of her belongings during the move to the Mineral Wells ranch.

"There was significant damage done to some of Ms. Walton's personal property," Jay Allen, a Walton family spokesman, said. "The bill is in dispute."

He was not specific on what kind of property was damaged, but suggested the items were of significant value.

Attorneys for the Missouri-based moving line would not comment on the lawsuit.

Ms. Walton and her mother are the country's richest women, with an estimated $16 billion apiece.

Meals program needs drivers to deliver food

By KATE B. DICKSON
Associate Publisher

Pampa's Meals on Wheels program needs you.

That's right. Summer vacations have taken away a number of volunteers upon whom the community organization relies to get hot meals delivered daily to 150, mostly elderly, Pampans.

Mary Jarvis, assistant director of the program, says the 18 routes are run five days a week meaning it takes a total of 90 drivers to get the job done. Then there are the kitchen volunteers who don't cook but play an important role in serving up the meals in preparation for delivery.

Jarvis and the others at Meals on Wheels hope some citizens will come forward to fill the summer void. There's also a need for regular drivers, too.

To make do right now, she said staff members are running routes and some of the volunteers are "doubling up."

Routes usually are run between 10:30 a.m. and noon to the homes of elderly people many of whom are no longer able to cook for themselves and for many "who have no family in town," said Jarvis.

If you want to help out as a driver or kitchen helper, give Meals a call at 669-1007. And to make a tax-deductible donation, send a check to Meals on Wheels, P.O. Box 939, Pampa, TX 79065.

All PISD pupils to have internet access in schools

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Pampa ISD students are becoming more and more knowledgeable of computers at earlier ages. This aptitude is causing the school-age students to be ready sooner for more advanced computer classes at school.

"As students become more and more computer literate in the earlier grades due their access to computers at home and a school, many of the students are ready for more things," said Lee Carter, technical director. He said teachers have been exploring internet research methods, multimedia and other subjects which are in the mode of computer literacy. "Students today are pretty much beyond word processing and how to turn the computer on by the time they get to middle school," said Carter.

All students in Pampa schools will have access to the internet at the beginning of the upcoming school year. He said the networking project for the school district is expected to be completed in September.

Carter said each room in the high school and middle school will have a network drop and, when computers are in the rooms, all students will have access to the internet and to the campus network. He said computer literacy at the middle school is slowly but surely turning into more of an application type of course.

Country Fair October 16

Event and solicitation committee members for the annual Country Fair to be held Oct. 16 conducted a planning session Thursday to kick off the initial activities prior to the annual event.

A silent auction, live auction, dinner, bingo and dance will be held during the evening. The event is the major fund raiser for the Pampa Chamber of Commerce each year.

Committee members will soon be soliciting cash, items and gift certificates for the annual October event.

Chairman of the solicitations committee is Becca Golden while Paulette Hinkle-Kirksey will chair the event committee.

Committee members attending the planning session were June Bever, Andrea Baker, Kim Hill, Bob Marx, Bill Bridges, Ann Franklin, Kerrick Horton, Susan Tripplehorn, Paulette Hinkle-Kirksey and Golden.

Other members of the committee are Ralph West, Debbie Donnelly, Melody Oliphant, Kathy and Bill Hammer, Dennis Godwin, Dana Terry, Kathy Phillips, Mary Kneisley, Kristi Coble and Debbie Hooley.

Car wash tomorrow!

Fundraiser Saturday for teen police Explorers

Pampa drivers can get their vehicles clean while helping Pampa youth who are interested in law enforcement. The Pampa Police Department Explorers will hold a car wash tomorrow from 1 p.m. until dark to raise money for uniforms and supplies for the 10 or so youths, ranging in age from 15-18.

The youngsters are learning skills, including team building and civic pride, while also seeing what is required to be in law enforcement. Among other activities the explorers have participated in was directing traffic for this year's rodeo.

There will be a charge of $3 for cars, $4 pickups and $5 for vans with larger donations gladly accepted. Helping the explorers will be members of the Pampa Police Department, Gray County Sheriff's Department and employees of Lentz Chevron where the car wash will be held.

PEDC elects new officers

The Pampa Economic Development Corporation elected new officers and discussed recent sales tax figures at their recent meeting.

Richard Stowers was elected as the new president of the board while Roger David was elected as vice president. Jerry Foote was re-elected as secretary/treasurer.

While the board admitted the latest sales tax figures were down quite a bit this month Outgoing board president Lewis Meers pointed out that the total for the year was only down about 10 percent.

"The surrounding communities were also down substantially," Stowers said. "Ours was down 19.3. 4 percent Perryton was down 23.6 percent (in May) Canadian and Miami were down 32 and 37 percent respectfully (in May)."

Others said the drought and low oil prices that were problems earlier are improving now.

Bush's self description What do folks think about it?

WASHINGTON (AP) — George W. Bush's description of himself as a compassionate conservative is being ridiculed by liberals and, at the same time, annoying people whose conservatism comes plain and simple, with no adornment.

In that sense Bush has bridged the ideological divide — some on the left and the right alike say the phrase is nonsense.

But Bush is speaking to the great mass of voters in between. What they make of it will help determine whether he wins the Republican nomination and becomes president. The Texas governor says "I'll take my stand" on compassionate conservatism.

"It would be a good slogan for someone if there was a clear-cut definition and everyone knew what it meant," says Kyle Rodillas, 31, a Los Angeles salesman and Republican who votes across party lines. "Mushy," offers Sarandis.

MEALS

The Meals drivers also play an important role for the elderly recipients because the volunteers "check on them" and it also gives them "someone to talk with," Jarvis said.
 "We have some teachers who are helping us out this summer but part of the time they are on vacation, too," Jarvis said. And there are a few people who use their lunch hours to deliver a few meals.
 To pay for the program, which costs about $3 a meal, recipients "pay what they can based upon a sliding scale," Jarvis said. United Way helps, too. Donations also play an important role but, sadly, these gifts are down.

 The meals, which include a "regular diet" and "special diet" offering of meat, two vegetables and dessert, are prepared in the kitchen at First United Methodist Church where the Meals office is also.
 If you want to help out as a driver or kitchen helper, give Meals a call at 669-1007. And to make a tax-deductible donation, send a check to Meals on Wheels, P.O. Box 939, Pampa, TX 79065.

PISD

Early in the summer all principals held planning sessions with Carter at the individual campuses to make technological plans for PISD.
 He said one of the computer labs will be updated as the computers, which are 486 machines, are about five years old. Carter said the machines are becoming a challenge to run some of the newer software. He said the lab would be replaced and those computers would be put into the classroom for as long as the machines have a useable life.

"These computers would certainly be able to work well for work processing and for e-mail to be used for communication for a lot of teachers," he said. He said the six computers which were in a teacher workroom would be moved out to classrooms as the school moves away from a centralized location. He said that everybody within reason would have a computer in their classroom within a year or two.

Pampa High will have additional computers in the classrooms. He said the labs will continue at the high school as English students and students from other subject areas will require the labs for research, doing classes and spend as much as a week in there. The computer assisted drawing design class at PHS is a very popular class, said Carter. He said not only do the students receive many awards, but it is a well-liked class with the students, said Carter. He further commented that the vocation which the students are learning is currently one which the persons who complete the courses are very sought after in the business world. Each lab has approximately 25 computers which are utilized by the students per class period.

World history and geography students will receive an expansion of computers. Carter said the students in the popular classes complete 100 percent of research papers on the computer.

Each classroom does not have a printer from the computers but plans are to have that corrected soon. Two computers and printers will be added to the learning center and some are replacements. Carter said that much of that will be Microsoft Office for the students.

Elementary campuses are planning to become equalized within the district. He said each campus is having their library computer updated as there are serious concerns about the libraries making the Y2K.

BUSH

Karathanasis, 27, working a baklava booth at a Concord, N.H., fair. "It's almost like what people want to hear — too much what people want to hear — a little corny."

Bush proposed Thursday to spend $8 billion in one year on tax credits and grants to encourage charitable giving and support an increased role by religious organizations in reducing poverty, welfare and crime. He would summon America's "armies of compassion."

A lot of people are baffled by compassionate conservatism. But it's early, and millions are at the beach or have their minds there.

"Conservatively compassionate?" mused Sharon Lyndon, 25, pausing to think on the campus of George Washington University in Washington. "I have no idea," she concluded, shrugging. "It sounds a little superficial."

"I think it pretty much means to take a really big picture view of things ... so you do a greater good for most of the people," said Rodillas in Los Angeles.

"I guess it all depends on whether you're a partial conservative or a total conservative," said Tom Murray, 56, a cable company executive in Dallas who is not a conservative at all.

Some scholars see the phrase as a pretty frame for a largely blank policy canvas. Others believe a mutation is going on in politics, a drift toward the center that has seen liberals abandon their ideological label and conservatives now starting to do the same.

Unqualified conservatism has become identified with unyielding Republican leadership in Congress, personified in the House by former speaker Newt Gingrich, Majority Whip Tom DeLay and Majority Leader Dick Armey, said Wayne Fields, a professor at Washington University in St. Louis who has studied presidential speechmaking.

"These are exterminators," he said. "Zealots don't believe in synthesis. That's not how George Bush built a career. He's saying, 'I'm not one of them.'"

Bush consistently scores well in opinion polls on leadership qualities, including his identification with problems of ordinary people. But polls also find Americans don't yet know him well.

"We like to be compassionate," said Robin Lakoff, linguistics professor at the University of California, Berkeley. "We don't want to seem cruel and hard and unfeeling." Still, "I really have a feeling it's one of these phrases that's not intended to have a whole lot of meaning."

Liberals have their own euphemisms, among them "progressive." Vice President Al Gore advocates "practical idealism" while President Clinton still talks about his centrist "third way."

Columbia University presidential historian Henry Graff thinks Americans are wearying of Madison Avenue-inspired catch phrases that seem to get emptier with time.

"I don't know how to implement compassionate conservatism," he said. "If there's a hurricane that wipes out Tampa, the government will send out aid. Presidents have all been compassionate, I think."

Bush counts tax cuts, higher education standards and welfare reform among his conservative touchstones. The conservative ledger is said to include aid to schools and students, a welcoming tone to immigrants and a dependable but undefined social safety net.

Clinton says a compassionate conservative is a polite Republican.

"It means, 'I like you. I do,'" he said mirthfully. "And I'd like not to squander the surplus and, you know, save Social Security and Medicare for the next generation. ... But I just can't, and I feel terrible about it." Later he said he was kidding and people should lighten up.

Bush's GOP rivals see red when they hear the phrase. "Those are weasel words," Lamar Alexander said. "I think we need to say in plain words, 'I am a conservative.'"

Former Vice President Dan Quayle ordered his staff "never — ever — to utter the words 'compassionate conservative.'"

"Conservatives ARE compassionate," Quayle said. Elizabeth Dole calls herself a "courageous conservative."

"Is compassion beneath us?" Bush shot back at his critics.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Aches and pains may prevent Minnesota Gov. Jesse Ventura from joining other Reform Party members at their national convention.

Ventura — the only Reform Party member to hold statewide office — was supposed to speak at the convention in Dearborn, Mich., tonight. However, Ventura has complained this week of pains in his back and legs.

His pain was evident Thursday as he hobbled into a Capitol conference, grimacing with each step.

"If it's this bad (today), I'm not going," he said.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Deciding whether to hobnob with President Clinton or coach the next generation of soccer players was not a hard choice for World Cup soccer champion Michele Akers.

The 34-year-old eschewed the post-victory celebrations of the U.S. women's championship team, including a trip to the White House, to work in a summer soccer camp. On Thursday, about 400 young soccer players showed their appreciation with wild cheers.

She was emotional and surprised by the large and eager crowd.

"I expected maybe three people," she said later. The Washington state native said the past year has been an emotional roller coaster of victories and losses and battling her personal challenges, including the chronic fatigue syndrome that leaves her feeling like she has the flu every day.

"It's been a tough year and a tough career," she told the crowd. "I've been on the U.S. team 14 years and not all of it has been easy. I've been beat up a bit."

Akers credited her strong Christian faith, her family, coaches and fans for sustaining her.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Don't expect to see tears streaming down Lawrence Taylor's face when he is inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame next month.

"You got a better chance of hitting the lottery than seeing me cry," the former New York Giants linebacker said Thursday. "I'll tell you now, if I cry you can come up and spank me."

Taylor, 40, will be inducted at a ceremony in Canton, Ohio on Aug. 7.

Taylor's off-the-field problems, which included two drug-related arrests after his retirement in 1993, were his biggest obstacle to being voted into the Hall of Fame in January. Several didn't vote for the man considered the prototype for the modern linebacker because of it.

Taylor admits he still has to struggle to stay clean. "The demons come up every day," he said. "You do the best you can with it. I have it under control today and, hopefully, I'll have it under control tomorrow."

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Billionaire Carl Icahn and his wife, Liba, have settled their divorce out of court.

The terms were not disclosed, but Icahn's lawyer, Jay Goldberg, said the financier agreed to go beyond what he owed Mrs. Icahn under a prenuptial agreement.

At last count, Icahn, who made millions with quick moves on Marvel Entertainment, TWA and Donald Trump's Taj Mahal casino resort, was worth $2.5 billion. Mrs. Icahn reportedly had complained that she was being offered only one-half of 1 percent of that — $12.5 million. The Icahns have two children.

"Whatever Carl did to settle this he was not forced to do," Goldberg said Thursday. "This was the mother of his children. He will never say a bad word about her."

Mrs. Icahn's lawyer, William Beslow, did not return a call seeking comment.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Happy Days" actress Roz Kelly has pleaded no contest to charges she fired a gun at a neighbor's home because she was angry about a car alarm.

Kelly, 56, who played Fonzie's biker girlfriend, Pinky Tuscadero, in the '80s sitcom, entered her plea Thursday. In exchange, the Los Angeles County district attorney's office planned to drop charges that Kelly fired into two cars during last November's incident.

Kelly was scheduled to be sentenced Oct. 20. The actress will undergo a 90-day evaluation to determine whether she should be placed on probation or sentenced to prison.

Controllers partly to blame for parachutist collision

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that air traffic controllers were partly to blame for a November 1993 collision between a parachutist and an airplane that killed all four people aboard the plane.

The ruling Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Michael Ponsor ordered the government to pay $330,000 to the collision's lone survivor — parachutist Alfred Peters, whose foot glanced off the Piper Cherokee Warrior's tail during his 7,400-foot jump.

Peters suffered a broken foot and other injuries.

Ponsor said the plane's pilot, Elliot Klein, bore most of the fault, but air controllers at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, Conn., should have issued a warning when they saw the Klein flying into an area below and behind Peters' jump plane.

The judge also said that Klein should not have been piloting the plane because he had taken medication for depression just before taking off from Red Hook, N.Y.

Klein, of Rhinebeck, N.Y., and three passengers, including his 18-year-old son, Jonas, died in the crash.

Weather focus

PAMPA — Fair tonight with temperatures in the low 70s.

South winds from 5-15 mph are expected. Tomorrow, weather to be hot and humid with temperatures in the low to mid 90s. Winds are expected to be five to 20 mph.

PANHANDLE — Tonight, partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of evening thunderstorms. Low in the mid 60s. South wind 5-15 mph. Saturday, mostly sunny in the morning, partly cloudy in the afternoon with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. High in the lower 90s. South to southwest wind 10-15 mph. 3 to 5 day forecast, Sunday through Tuesday, partly cloudy with a slight chance of afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms. Lows 65 to 70. Highs 90 to 95.

STATEWIDE — An upper-level ridge of high pressure persisted across West and South Texas this morning, bringing near normal temperatures and isolated showers.

South Texas reported early morning temperatures ranging from 73 degrees in Hondo, San Marcos, Victoria, Harlingen and Corpus Christi to 80 degrees at Rockport.

Lows dipped into the 60s in parts of West Texas.

The National Weather Service predicts mostly sunny skies going into the weekend. The ridge of high pressure will weaken on Sunday and Monday, bringing an increase in rain chances.

The forecast for South Texas calls for mostly sunny skies with highs generally in the 90s.

West Texas should see partly cloudy skies and a chance of afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms. Highs mostly in the 90s, with lows in the 60s and 70s.

Forecasters predict partly cloudy skies in North Texas, with highs from 92 to 99 degrees today, and up to 102 and 103 in the Big Bend river valleys on Saturday. A slight chance of thunderstorms is possible beginning Sunday.

Baseball uniform made for JFK, Jr.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — As relatives gathered for John F. Kennedy Jr.'s funeral at sea, visitors to the Legends of the Game Baseball Museum at The Ballpark in Arlington admired a tiny Washington Senators uniform among Hall of Fame artifacts.

The uniform was made for Kennedy when he was less than 1 year old in 1961 and was to have been presented to his late father, President John F. Kennedy.

But it was never delivered. "It's really sad," Maureen Phillips, who visited the museum from Oklahoma, told the Arlington Morning News in today's editions. "We just came here to look at baseball artifacts and happen to see this uniform made for John F. Kennedy Jr. on the same day he's being buried at sea."

On Thursday, ashes of Kennedy, his wife, Carolyn Bessette Kennedy, and her sister, Lauren Bessette, were cast into the Atlantic Ocean off Martha's Vineyard, near where their bodies were recovered. The trio died July 16 when a single-engine Piper Saratoga plane piloted by Kennedy, 38, crashed into the sea about 16 miles from Martha's Vineyard Airport.

A private Mass in memory of Kennedy and his wife was planned today at a New York City church where his mother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, formerly prayed.

The uniform was one of several gifts to be presented to President Kennedy, said Charlie Wangner, a retired Texas Rangers executive who was with the team when it was called the Washington Senators.

The late Ed Doherty, who was then-general manager of the Senators and a friend of the Kennedys, convinced the new president to throw out the first pitch in April 1961.

At that time, the tradition was for the president to throw out the first pitch on Opening Day and give the president a gold pass "to get into Major League Baseball games," said Wangner, who was controller of the 1961 Senators and now lives in Arlington.

"Ed also wanted to give him other gifts and called Lefty Gomez, a great pitcher who worked for Wilson Sporting Goods at the time," Wangner said. "He agreed to make a small uniform for the president's son."

Minister's musings ...

I remember well, as a small boy and later as a young man, something my father said to me. "Son, when you figure out you don't know very much, you're beginning to get smart."

Having been in the ministry now for almost 30 years, I think I know what he meant by that little saying. The last 30 or so years in Christendom here in America have been somewhat exciting. About the time we think we have everything figured out, God bursts on the scene with some new method of displaying His love and grace. Now we will all agree that God doesn't change. That is in the essence of His nature, His attributes and all that He is; He doesn't change. His methodology of course is a different story!

In the scriptural history of mankind, we see the different ways that God dealt with His created people. We see the Age of Innocence, the time of the Patriarchs, the Judges, Kings, etc. The Old Testament and the New Testament. The Early Church, certainly would not recognize what we call church today as the same as them. Then throughout church history, there has been constant change to the methods we employ to worship our Father, God and His son, Jesus Christ. I have visited with enough foreign missionaries to know that what we call church here in this blessed nation we are privileged to live in that most of the brethren around the world don't do church like we do church! Does this mean that we or they are wrong? Not at all!

There are certain essentials that we should agree upon. I'm not ignorant of the fact, though, that some have trouble agreeing upon those certain essentials. However, that is not what I wish for us to consider in this article. I do want us to consider the diversity of methods of expressing our love and devotion to almighty God. Should not we be free to worship God in ways that please Him? All of you just might be surprised if we really knew what He desires of us. I long for the day when all true believers in Jesus Christ might truly be one as He prayed there in Gethsemane. (John 17:21)

The New Testament clearly shows diversity of methods in worship of our Creator. Can't we loosen up just a little and accept that every person who confesses Jesus Christ as Lord, and their lives give evidence to the fact of His Lordship, that one is our brother and sister in the family of God?

Sometime ago, as I visited with a person from another fellowship who had trouble believing that anyone from another group could be a Christian, I was prompted to express my love for the Lord Jesus Christ. I reminded them of 1 Corinthians 12:3b, "no one can say that Jesus is Lord except by the Holy Spirit." I looked deep into their eyes and said, "Jesus Christ is my Lord." Upon which they looked into my eyes and repeated the same statement back to me. At that moment, I believe, there were some walls torn down. I truly sensed that the love of Jesus which has been placed within each of us, somehow reached each heart and something good happened that day. Praise the Lord!

I trust that you are bearing the message in this article. Father God wants His body to come together. Not in uniformity, but rather in unity.

Ps 133:1-3
1 Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!

2 It is like the precious oil upon the beard, running down on the beard, the beard of Aaron, running down on the edge of his garments.

3 It is like the dew of Hermon, descending upon the mountains of Zion; for there the LORD commanded the blessing—life forevermore.

Eph 4:3-6
3 endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

4 There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called in one hope of your calling;

5 one Lord, one faith, one baptism;

6 one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

I pray that in the days ahead, that each of us will examine our hearts, search our minds, and be willing to reach out to those around us who love the Lord Jesus Christ.

To sum up my ramblings, let me say, I think, just maybe, I might be gaining a little ground on smart! You see, there was a time that I knew I had all the answers, now I know better.

Fish symbol creates disagreement in town

REPUBLIC, Mo. (AP) — Leaders of this small Missouri town have agreed to remove the Christian fish symbol from the city seal, ending an 18-month legal battle that has driven a wedge between neighbors.

Gasps, hisses and shouts of "Spineless cowards!" filled a packed community center as Mayor Doug Boatright announced his tie-breaking vote Monday night.

"This has been a very trying, a very difficult year and a half," Boatright said, his voice shaking slightly. "There are a lot of hard feelings on both sides."

After listening to nearly two hours of public testimony — almost all in favor of keeping the symbol — the Board of Aldermen voted 5-4 not to appeal a July 9 federal court ruling ordering the fish removed from the city's seal within 30 days.

About 200 people attended the meeting. Former Republic resident Jean Webb, represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, sued the city last year claiming that the symbol — known as an ichthus — blurred the separation of church and state and created an uncomfortable environment for non-Christians.

Webb is a practitioner of Wicca, or witchcraft. She moved to Republic, a southwestern Missouri town of about 8,000, in 1995. She wrote an opinion piece in the city newspaper opposing the seal, saying the symbol suggested her religious practices would not be tolerated.

After her essay was published, Webb said she and her two children were harassed. She moved to Springfield after the lawsuit was filed.

The ichthus, a historical symbol of Christianity, has appeared on Republic's seal since 1990. Resident Marilyn Schexsnayder designed the ichthus for a public competition and has said she thought the fish represented all religions.

Hutterites focus on today, not on Y2K

By BECKY BOHRER
Associated Press Writer

EDGELEY, N.D. (AP) — At Willowbank Colony, folks don't pay much attention to the approaching millennium. There's too much work to do.

A crop must be tended. An order of wooden trusses has to be hauled out. Livestock must be fed.

A distraction like the arrival of the year 2000 is of little concern to Dan Wipf, a spiritual leader of the Hutterite colony for 29 years.

"It'll just be another day, another hour, another minute," said Wipf as he rushed from his home late one morning to the on-site truss company where he works.

Wipf, a short, bearded man, also dismissed forecasts that the so-called Y2K computer glitch could have catastrophic consequences, a phenomenon that some in other religious groups have seen as signaling the end of the world.

"God does not want us to know when that will happen, so why speculate?" said Wipf.

Outward preparations for the end times aren't being made at the colony. There's no need.

The 90 or so Hutterites who live southeast of Edgeley, population 680, are self-sufficient. They drink the milk from dairy cows among the 100 head of cattle, raise 100,000 turkeys each year, use eggs from their chickens, and farm about 2,000 acres of corn, soybeans and wheat, plus garden crops.

They built the colony — the long barns and garages, a church and school, a dining hall and laundry, a lumber business and identical three-apartment homes.

Hutterites are Anabaptists who trace their roots to the 16th century Protestant Reformation and take their name from Jacob Hutter, an Austrian religious reformer who was burned at the stake in 1536. They arrived in North America from Germany in the 1870s and number about 25,000, mainly in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The Hutterite religion is based on communal life. A colony provides its members with food, clothing, shelter and medical care, and all eat at a common dining hall. The colony owns all property. Community life, including farming, is inseparable from religious belief, Hutterites say.

Hutterites speak a German dialect, reserving English for dealings with others.

Those relationships have improved. For the most part, Hutterites are no longer viewed as extremist or threatening and, after many years, are being accepted as part of the larger community.

"They're good for their word," said Clint Hoggarth, a salesman at the local farm implement dealership. "They're good people to deal with."

Pam Schrader agrees. The Hutterites often come into her Edgeley cafe. "They are very polite, very reasonable," she said. "You don't hear complaints."

The commune resembles a small-town neighborhood. Trees grow in generous clusters, kids ride their bikes on paved sidewalks, and an underground sprinkler system waters the grass.

Women and girls wear ankle-skimming dresses they've sewn and head coverings that Wipf says are "the mark of a true Christian." Women spend most of the day preparing large meals they serve to the men in the dining hall. Women and men eat separately.

The interior of each home is the same: basic furnishings and cabinetry made by the Hutterites, and perhaps a toaster and refrigerator.

The Hutterites do not live strictly off the land. Their communal income is primarily from their on-site hardware store and truss company, Golden Rule Lumber and Willowbank Truss. The trusses are sold through contractors to customers across the country.

Wipf has a fax machine and desktop computer in his office and a laptop and two-way radio at home. Internet access for a select few is in the works. A pool of vehicles is available. There are delivery trucks for the trusses, plus tractors and a new combine.

At Wipf's home, which he shares with his wife, Mary Ann, and their son and his family, a stack of Bibles sits in the living room, and Wipf leads nightly church services and reads Scriptures daily.

Spirituality is central to colony life. A chaste lifestyle means no card games, photographs, jewelry or makeup. Smoking or swearing could lead to expulsion.

Rarely do Hutterites leave the colony, Wipf said. And rarely do newcomers join.

Hutterites pool their money. They get allowances for trips, but no pay for their work.

Work begins at age 10. Children are assigned to the dairy barns, fields, truss company, gardens or turkeys and chickens. They adopt the trade that a five-member governing board believes they do best. Their formal schooling ends after eighth grade.

The Edgeley Public School District provides two teachers and an aide for the colony's 17 students. In addition to their schooling in English, they have two hours a day of German studies taught by a Hutterite.

Hutterites can go to college, though most don't, Wipf said, adding that he and others taught themselves their vocations.

The group has evolved this century, Wipf said, adding, "You have to change. You can't always be the same." Women, for example, no longer milk the cows by hand. They now have milking machines.

Unchanged and unaffected by public perceptions is the Hutterites' faith, Wipf said.

"Let people say what they want. This is our way of life," he

NEIGHBORLY ATTITUDES
Those who are looking for residential property are primarily focused on the layout, size, style, and location of the homes they view. It should also be realized, however, that no one lives in isolation. With this in mind, buyers are encouraged to become intimately familiar with their prospective neighborhoods by walking and driving around. They should try to get a good impression of the quality of life, including schools, recreational areas, shopping, commuting services, and the general quality of surrounding homes and yards. Much of this information can come from talking to locals and prospective neighbors. For more detailed information (including tax rates, zoning regulations, current home values, etc.), no one is more knowledgeable than a real estate agent.

If you are considering buying a house, the professionals at CENTURY 21 - PAMPA REALTY INC. can provide information on schools, shopping, and places of work in the area. We also offer national relocation services. Put our experience to work for you today; visit or call us here at 312 N. Gray Street (669-0007).

Taliban Hears Outcry Against Afghanistan's Gender Apartheid

DEAR ABBY: Some months ago I wrote to you describing the nightmarish situation of women in Afghanistan, stripped of even the most basic human rights by the Taliban militia. I asked people to join the Feminist Majority's campaign to end this cruel system of gender apartheid.

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

Reporters told me the reason the Afghan situation had received so little coverage was that their editors thought Americans aren't interested in this kind of news. The Taliban assumed that their treatment of women would be of no consequence to the rest of the world. Even the Afghan women, who thought the people of America were their last hope, were afraid to believe we would speak for them.

Well, Abby, someone forgot to tell that to your readers! To date, well over 45,000 of them have called to join our campaign. And they've made a huge impact.

The State Department tells us that the high volume of mail we have generated is historic. The campaign has received unprecedented bipartisan support, with both conservatives and liberals offering backing and action. The president has met with us to express support for our goals and discuss ways to end gender apartheid. We've also met with United Nations officials who tell us that our campaign has put the issue of gender apartheid on the world stage.

The Taliban are now claiming they have eased some restrictions, allowing some home-schooling for girls and some segregated hospital wards for women. Those changes are unverified. But, true or not, the fact that the Taliban are making these assertions shows that they now realize the rest of the world has drawn a line in the sand over their denial of human rights to women — a line the Taliban can no longer pretend not to see.

And, Abby, now the Afghan women themselves know we are speaking out for them and will continue to speak. Radio Free Europe and Voice of America have carried news of our campaign into Afghanistan, and letters have been smuggled out to us from women who are daring to hope again.

I would like to share with you more than 45,000 readers who took up their cause a letter of thanks from a woman in Kabul: "I wish I could cover you with flowers to show how grateful I am. I know I cannot do so. From this prison I can only send you a few drops of my tears as a gift. Let me call you 'the angels of mercy.' Your love is our hope." Though she courageously signed her letter, I can't reveal her name for fear she would be killed.

I hope your readers will join us in keeping up the momentum they helped our campaign to build. Our work is beginning to have world impact.

MAVIS NICHOLSON LENO, CHAIR, CAMPAIGN TO STOP GENDER APARTHEID IN AFGHANISTAN

DEAR MAVIS: I'm sure my readers will be as thrilled as I am to know that their efforts are having such a profound effect. This is our turn on the stage of history, and for the sake of our children and grandchildren, we must not stand idly by.

Those of you who have been a part of this campaign, and those who are interested in joining in the effort, can make your voices heard by calling the action line: 1-888-WE-WOMEN (1-888-939-6636) or visiting the Web site at www.feminist.org. There are many ways we can help. By taking action now, we can make a difference.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Maintain a high profile. Touch base with family, especially older relatives. Indulging and treating others well seems to be the natural order right now. Discuss a long-distance trip. Consider what might be a real treat for another. Nurturing will be returned exponentially. Tonight: Get a head start on tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Be optimistic, and take a leap of faith. Worry less about the implications. Consider other ways to reach the same goals. Be flexible. Let some of life's long-desired rewards come to you. A key person in your life touches you on a deep level. Let give-and-take happen. The good times roll! Tonight: Take in a movie.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 See what happens when you let others run the show! You might be more relaxed if you do nothing. Follow your instincts. You know intuitively what a partner wants; why not give...im just that? Share your wonderful feelings with a loved one. Tonight: Close to home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Others seek you out. Whatever you do works. Bring friends together. Your popularity draws many new friends and invitations. Try to squeeze everything in — this could be a wonderfully special time. A friend might have more interest in you than just being a pal. Tonight: Out and about.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Pace yourself. If you want, take some time to rest. Sometimes you take on way too much. An invitation could nevertheless be too enticing for you to turn down. Enjoy yourself a little more, although eventually you will have to slow down. Let others indulge you. Tonight: Early to bed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Invite others for the day or take-off-to-visit. Share more of yourself. A child or loved one adores what he sees when you are just you. Cut the ticker tape that's running in your mind. For once, don't be practical — be emotional! Let the child in you out. Caring grows. Tonight: Be a wild thing (yes, you)!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Reach out for others. Plans involve a very special friend in your life. Catch up on everyone's news; you love what you hear from others. Don't forget to make quality time for one-on-one relating. Quiet time together allows greater understanding and more trust. Tonight: Happy at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 Your sense of direction is strengthened. Handle certain personal matters early in the day. Others quickly lure you out of your cocoon. Make plans for later in the day. Join friends at the beach, attend a party or take in a movie. Take time to visit with others. Tonight: A force to be dealt with!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

* Do anything you want — whatever makes your heart skip a beat. You find others highly responsive and open. Your charisma speaks. Put in that extra effort. Another applauds — he is certainly part of your fan club. Take time to do something special for someone you care about. Tonight: Let a friend treat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Take some quiet time just for you. You recharge and are ready to do whatever you want by late afternoon. Lounging around with a loved one or family member seems the perfect way to spend most of your day. Charisma builds; others are drawn to you. Now, use some of that magic. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Where your friends are is where you need to be. Join others for a late brunch, a healthy game of softball or whatever brings everyone together. Plan on spending time at home with family. A partner draws you in later; make plans for togetherness and a little chat. Tonight: Draw the shades.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Maintain a high profile; bring others together. It seems you can do no wrong. Communication flourishes; you receive many different invitations. Socialize and be yourself, and everything will work out. In some sense, the weekend begins late tonight. Consider taking a personal day tomorrow. Tonight: Let loose.

Friends, relatives remember JFK, Jr.

Ted Kennedy gives eulogy

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — At the stately 126-year-old church where Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis often found solace, friends and relatives remembered her son John Fitzgerald Kennedy Jr. and his wife today at a private Mass.

An invitation-only group of about 350 people, including President Clinton and his family, streamed into the Church of St. Thomas More in Manhattan for the 1 1/2 hour service.

Dr. Richard Freeman and his wife, Ann, the stepfather and mother of Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and Lauren Bessette, were among the first to arrive, walking quietly into the church about 90 minutes before the 11 a.m. memorial. Kennedy's sister, Caroline, and uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, arrived later.

The Massachusetts senator, who became a father figure to his nephew, had the job of eulogizing JFK Jr., one insider said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Other mourners included JFK Jr. hero Muhammad Ali, hip-hop artist Wyclef Jean, cousins Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and Maria Shriver, her husband, Arnold Schwarzenegger, and former U.S. Sen. Alan Simpson.

After the service, the congregation was invited to walk two blocks uptown to the landmark School of the Sacred Heart for a reception. Caroline Kennedy once attended the independent girls school, which was founded in 1881.

As Secret Service agents carried two vases with white flowers and a white wreath into the church, ordinary people filled sidewalks outside. Some arrived as early as 4 a.m. for the chance to be with the family in spirit.

Kathleen Sheehan, 51, who attended Robert F. Kennedy's 1968 funeral in St. Patrick's Cathedral, came from Philadelphia with her 24-year-old daughter, Heather. Although stuck behind a police barricade with the church out of view, they were happy about their trip.

"We're not here to gawk," Heather Sheehan said. "We're just here to show the Kennedy family our support."

The privacy of today's Mass — and of the service aboard a Navy destroyer when the ashes of Kennedy, his wife and sister-in-law were committed to the sea — contrasted with the public Mass held Thursday by New York's Irish community.

Thousands gathered at Old St. Patrick's Cathedral in Little Italy, once the city's main Roman Catholic shrine.

They honored the Bessette sisters and Kennedy, who inherited his father's sense of promise, his mother's glamour and his family's tragic legacy.

"He never asked what we could do for him, but rather what he could do for us," Carolyn Ryan told the thousand mourners at the service marked by bagpipe music, hymns and Scripture read in Gaelic. Some 3,000 more people were outside.

Ryan, of the Emerald Isle Immigration Center, asked congregants to salute Kennedy in memory of

The Church of St. Thomas More has become an impromptu shrine, much like Kennedy's apartment in the Tribeca neighborhood and the Boston library named for his father.

While the family mourns, admirers across the country are expressing their sorrow in services arranged for disheartened congregations.

"People want to be with others at a time like this, people want to have some sense of healing, and for most of us, you can't do that privately," said the Rev. Keith Fennesy, who celebrated the Mass at Old St. Patrick's. "We need other people."

his famous gesture to his slain father, the nation's 35th president, on JFK Jr.'s third birthday.

The bodies of Kennedy, his wife and his sister-in-law were recovered Wednesday in the waters off Martha's Vineyard, Mass. Authorities said the three were killed on impact when the single-engine plane piloted by Kennedy spiraled into the sea a week ago today.

JFK Jr. was 38; his wife of nearly three years was 33. Ms. Bessette, who was 34, was to be remembered at a separate, private service Saturday at an Episcopal church in her family's hometown of Greenwich, Conn.

The service aboard the Navy destroyer USS Briscoe was led by Ms. Kennedy and Mrs. Freeman. The senator and cousins William Kennedy Smith and Maria Shriver also attended.

About 15 mourners, some wearing black and flanked by sailors in dress whites, gathered on the stern of the destroyer. A Navy honor guard fired a rifle volley for the three victims.

"It was very simple, but very solemn," said the Rev. Louis Iasiello, a Navy chaplain who assisted the Rev. Charles O'Byrne in the ceremony.

O'Byrne presided at Kennedy's wedding and was presiding over today's Mass.

The Church of St. Thomas More has become an impromptu shrine, much like Kennedy's apartment in the Tribeca neighborhood and the Boston library named for his father. Bouquets, cards and stuffed animals that were left outside the church were cleared away by the Secret Service. The Secret Service also ordered residents to keep away from windows overlooking the church.

'Sopranos' top Emmy nominee, but how will it fare at awards?

By LYNN ELBER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The lead character is a mob boss, the scene-stealer is his scheming mother and the whole show revolves around a New Jersey crime family's collective angst. Hardly the kind of television show Emmy voters tend to shower with awards come September. But HBO's critically acclaimed series "The Sopranos" still nabbed 16 Emmy nominations on Thursday, including best drama, the first cable show ever to be recognized in the dramatic series category.

"I hope what it is is the character flaws, people identify with them," "Sopranos" creator and producer David Chase said from New York after the awards were announced in Los Angeles.

Also out in front of the Emmy pack, with 13 bids apiece, were Fox's "Ally McBeal," ABC's legal drama "The Practice" and the CBS miniseries "Joan of Arc." HBO's racy "Sex and the City" became the second cable series to be nominated as best comedy.

Although "The Sopranos" was the front-runner in nominations, some speculate that its cynicism and tough cast of characters might turn some people off when it comes time to vote on actual awards.

"The lack of sympathetic characters and how courageous the show is in championing them can hurt its chances," said Thomas O'Neil, author of "The Emmys."

Another HBO series, Garry Shandling's talk-show satire "The Larry Sanders Show," also was showered with Emmy nominations during its run. But it failed to win the top prize, as best comedy series, and O'Neil believes its pervasive cynicism was a factor.

Other bids for "The Sopranos" went to series star James Gandolfini; Edie Falco, who plays his wife; Lorraine Bracco, the unwilling mob therapist; and to Nancy Marchand, the former "Lou Grant" star who plays Tony Soprano's treacherous mother.

Many of the other competitors are colleagues as well: Camryn Manheim, Lara Flynn Boyle and Holland Taylor of "The Practice" are all named in the best supporting actress category.

Dennis Franz of "NYPD Blue" will be competing for a best actor trophy with his former co-star, Jimmy Smits.

"I'm not going to say I wouldn't want to win it, because I would, but I will be just as happy if his name was announced," Franz said.

Emmy winners will be chosen by academy peer panels meeting in August. Fox will air the ceremony live on Sept. 12.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Arizona Diamondbacks finished an eight-game road trip with three consecutive victories, which changed the mood of manager Buck Showalter after the trip's 1-4 start.

"We've done a good job the last three nights. To finish this road trip 4-4 is encouraging. It's nice to win three games like these," Showalter said after the Diamondbacks defeated the Houston Astros 2-1 Thursday night.

Andy Benes led Arizona with a solo homer and six strong innings on the mound. "I've only hit six in 10 years, so I don't have the right to pound my chest," he said. "I'm just happy I hit one when we won."

The Diamondbacks are in their longest winning streak since they won four in a row June 13-16. Houston has lost three straight after winning eight consecutive games.

Pampa 11-12 team advances to state championship finals

PLAINVIEW — The Pampa Optimist 11-12 Bambino All-Stars certainly like to give their fans their money's worth at the West Texas Bambino State Tournament here this week. They won their second extra-inning game by tip-toeing past Plainview North 8-7 in seven innings. Pampa previously defeated Seminole in an extra inning.

The 8-7 win sends Pampa into the state championship game tonight at 6 against undefeated Andrews. Pampa is now 3-1 in the tournament with its only loss to Andrews.

Plainview North came out determined to avenge an earlier 13-5 loss to Pampa in the tournament opener for both teams. Pampa collected 12 hits in the first game, including five home runs.

Two singles and a double steal allowed Plainview to take a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Pampa ended the inning with a double play which went from Tyson Hickman at shortstop to Eric Kingcade at second for the first out, to Shea Brown at first too late to get the batter and to Seth Foster at home to get a runner trying to score from second on the play.

Two more Plainview runners crossed the plate in the second inning as a result of two walks, a hit batter and a double steal. Plainview led 3-0.

Pampa scored an unearned run in the bottom of the second. Eric McClure was safe on an error winding up at second base. Heath Miller walked and Kingcade forced McClure at third. Eric Willingham and Hickman walked to force the run home. An unassisted double play by the second baseman closed out the threat.

Plainview increased its lead to 4-1 on a double, a groundout and a single in the third inning. In the bottom of the inning, Brown reached base on an error. Foster walked and Tyler Doughty hit the second pitch high over the center field fence to tie the score at 4-4.

Pampa took the lead for the first time in the fourth inning. Keaton Hutto laced a single down the left field line. Hickman and Mateo Campos followed with singles to lead the bases. All runners were safe as Brown reached base on a fielder's choice. Foster forced Hickman at home and Doughty hit a twisting foul fly near first base. Campos alertly tagged up and scored, giving Pampa a 6-4 lead after four innings.

Plainview closed the gap to 6-5 with a run in the fifth inning resulting from a hit, an error and two walks. They tied the score in the sixth on a walk and an error leaving the teams tied after the regulation six innings had expired. Plainview took the lead in the seventh on two walks, two wild pitches and an error.

Pampa was a run behind in the bottom of the seventh. McClure drew a walk. Miller drilled a double to left center field and McClure stopped at third. Kingcade fouled off two pitches after getting a count of one ball and two strikes. He slammed the next pitch into left field for his first hit of the tournament and plated McClure with the tying run.

Jake Craig came off the bench as a pinch hitter. He lined the second pitch down the first base line just out of reach of the first baseman to bring in a triumphant Miller, who was mobbed at home plate by his teammates.

Campos was the winning pitcher, surrendering three earned runs and two hits. He struck out two and walked five. Doughty relieved Campos in the second inning and allowed one run on two hits. He struck out five and didn't walk a batter. Miller came on in the fifth. He was touched for two unearned runs and one hit. He struck out two and walked three. Campos returned to the mound with two out in the sixth inning and also pitched the seventh to receive credit for the win.

Eight different players had hits for Pampa. Doughty's home run and a sacrifice fly produced four RBI. Seven different players scored runs with Miller scoring twice.

The tournament ends today with the winner advancing to the Southwest Regional Bambino Tournament in Springdale, Ark. Pampa must win the 6 p.m. game to force a second game, which follows at 8.

Strikeout King

FOX Sports Net Southwest will present a documentary chronicling the life and career of Hall of Fame pitcher Nolan Ryan, major league baseball's all-time strikeout leader. The one-hour program premieres Sunday, Aug. 8 at 6 p.m. (CT) with several encore airings throughout the rest of the year. The documentary concludes with footage of Ryan's Hall of Fame induction ceremony July 25 in Cooperstown, N.Y. Ryan threw seven no-hitters and won 324 games while playing longer than anyone in major league history.

Rangers nip Angels 9-7

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Rafael Palmeiro snapped the Texas Rangers' power drought in a big way.

Palmeiro hit his seventh career grand slam to key a six-run third inning as the Rangers won their fifth in a row, 9-7 over the Anaheim Angels on Thursday night.

In their first four victories of the streak, Texas had no homers.

"The way we did it was exciting," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "That home run put a lot of wind in our sails. They kept coming at us and we kept responding."

The Angels took a 3-0 lead in the third, but the Rangers kept up the torrid pace they set during a homestand that closed Thursday night with Texas winning seven of eight.

British soccer camp is coming to Pampa

PAMPA — One of the most respected and experienced soccer training organizations in the United States has been invited to hold one of its camps in Pampa.

Challenger British Soccer Camp will be held Monday through Friday at the Pampa Soccer Association fields. The week-long camp offers three-hour sessions for novice players; three-hour sessions for older, more experienced players and teams, and an advanced group camp for competitive players and teams.

Each player will be coached by a member of the professional British staff, flown to the United States, exclusively to perform a series of summer coaching camps for the Challenger Camp, a Kansas City-based organization.

Nebraska no longer the big fish in Big 12's pond

DALLAS (AP) — Matt Davison still remembers the days when the Big 12 was composed of two parts — Nebraska and everyone else.

It was only two years ago when Davison and the Cornhuskers stormed through the conference schedule, routinely dismantling league opponents en route to their third national title of the decade.

But as players and coaches converged Thursday at the Big 12's fourth annual media day, it was obvious Nebraska no longer is viewed as the Goliath of the conference.

"It's changed quite a bit," said Davison, a junior wide receiver. "Nebraska used to always be put on a pedestal, and I don't think a lot of people thought they could beat us. Now everybody thinks they have a chance to beat everybody."

In the media's preseason poll released Wednesday, the Huskers once again were picked to win the conference's North Division. But after last season's disappointing 9-4 record, opponents say Nebraska is looking considerably less invincible than in past years.

Up to eight schools have realistic goals of winning the Big 12 in 1999, and most agree that the Huskers' struggles against the rest of the conference last fall is a major factor.

Texas A&M, Texas and Kansas State beat Nebraska last season, while Oklahoma State, Missouri and Colorado came within a touchdown of doing the same.

Aggie quarterback Randy McCown explained that because of those signs of vulnerability, the Huskers won't find it as easy to win games through intimidation.

"A couple of years ago when we played Nebraska, we were kind of in awe of them," McCown said. "I don't think that's the case anymore."

Second-year head coach Frank Solich has taken the brunt of the criticism for the sudden end to the Huskers' dynasty.

Auto accidents, murders and suicides leading causes of child deaths

AUSTIN — Auto accidents, homicides and suicides are among the leading causes of children's deaths in Texas, according to a study published in a recent issue of "Texas Medicine."

The article, written by George R. Kerr, M.D. and David J. Ramsey, Ph.D., both of The University of Texas at Houston Health Science Center, and William Spears, Ph.D. of the Texas Health Care Information Center in Austin, concluded that efforts to prevent the death of children in Texas should focus on reducing such causes as motor vehicle accidents, homicides and suicides.

"Texas Medicine" is the official news magazine of Texas Medical Association. The study was based on figures analyzed from 1987 through 1996. Child deaths from all causes averaged 2,498 between 1987 through 1996. Deaths from natural causes averaged 871 per year and external causes averaged 1,627. The average number of deaths relating to motor vehicle accidents was 1,089; homicides, 334 and suicides, 187.

"Of the deaths that had potential for primary prevention, more than 95 percent involved accidents, suicide and homicide," the authors wrote. "By 1960, primary prevention of many contagious diseases had been accomplished through immunization, and secondary prevention through improved medical and surgical therapies had prevented many deaths." Other findings in the study were:

- In homicide deaths reported from 1989 through 1991, firearms were involved in 73.8 percent of the deaths.
- Firearms were used in 69.7 percent of the suicides from 1989 through 1991.
- During the past decade there has been a decline in deaths related to drowning and burns.
