DALLAS (AP) — Herb Kelleher, the chain-smoking and freewheeling chief executive of Southwest Airlines, has prostate cancer, the company said today.

Kelleher, 68, also the airline's longtime chairman and president, will begin about eight weeks of radiation treatment today at M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston.

Southwest said the cancer was discovered during a routine annual prostate examination. Dr. Andrew C. von Eschenbach recommended the radiation treatments after a series of tests.

"Because of his adherence to a regular examination and testing regime, his prostate cancer was discovered at a relatively early and fairly mild stage of development," said von Eschenbach, director of the Multidisciplinary Prostate Cancer Program at M.D. Anderson.

Kelleher co-founded Southwest Airlines in 1971. He was named chairman in 1978 and assumed titles of president and CEO in 1981.

Going for realism ...

Pampa Police Officer Don Rowell and Sgt. Stephanie Raymond cuff an aggressor, played by Lt. Terry Young, during a training exercise at Baker School.

'Game' may provide key to later survival

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Pampa Police Officer Don Rowell stepped quietly down the darkened hall of Baker School. Sgt. Stephanie Raymond and Officer Fawnsa Burrows backed him, watching to the sides and rear.

Ahead and to the right was the open door to the first classroom. Earlier, as Officer Corey Powell had searched this room, Officer Keith "Bart" Morris stood just outside, weapon drawn, watching the empty hallway. There was a "pop" and Morris staggered back through the door, shot in the head.

As Rowell rushed through the doorway, Sgt. Raymond followed him. Burrows watched the hall. Out of the quiet, still room came a voiced challenge, then a "pop" followed by a series of "pops" that sounded like a string of small firecrackers going off. Behind a stack of folding tables, Officer David Wilk lay in a pool of paint. "I'm dead," he said. Responding to a noise, Raymond and Burrows leaptrogged down the corridor, taking cover behind an open door. Rowell, crouched behind the first door, covering their advance. Lt. Terry Young sent a volley of pink paint balls down the hall at the trio. They responded with a dozen rounds of yellow.

Officer Fawnsa Burrows peers around the door as she advances down the hall.

As Rowell rushed through the doorway, Sgt. Raymond followed him. Burrows watched the hall.

Pampa Police Lt. Terry Young waits in ambush for Officer Fawnsa Burrows who is working her way down the hall of Baker School in a training exercise using paint ball guns.

School bells ring Thursday for PISD pupils

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

School bells will ring early Thursday morning as schools will swell with students following summer vacation.

Beginning class times for the students are a site-based decision, and will be at varying times on the school campuses.

Pampa High School will begin classes at 8:13 a.m. for the new school year. Classes will be dismissed at 3:25 p.m. Lunch period will be 11:25 a.m.-12:40 p.m. The school will not be a closed campus, according to high school principal John Kendall.

Middle school classes will begin at 8 a.m. with the tardy bell ringing at 8:05 a.m. Classes will end earlier for the 1999-2000 school year as the home room class period was cut. Ending time for classes is 3 p.m. Tim Powers is principal of Pampa Middle School.

The Partners In Education program at the middle school begins on the first day of school. Any parent who has completed the initial training is encouraged to assist monitoring with the first day of school.

Parents who have not been through the training should attend a

Russian Roulette kills teenager, 17

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

PANHANDLE — Playing Russian Roulette and drinking alcohol proved to be a deadly combination to a two-week resident of Panhandle, authorities said today.

Samuel Martinez, 17, died Monday night from an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head following the incident.

A 29-year old Panhandle man, Robert Kirk White, is in Carson County Jail in connection with the incident. He was arrested Tuesday on charges of making a firearm accessible to a child and making alcohol available to minors. He is being held pending arraignment by a magistrate.

Missing canoeist found unharmed

Spent two days in rugged area

FRITCH — The overdue canoeist who was the subject of an intensive search and rescue effort at Lake Meredith National Recreation Area was found unharmed about 8:45 Tuesday night.

Jon Blair of Dumas had spent two days in the most rugged area of the park, eating grasshoppers and minnows to survive, according to John Benjamin, park superintendent.

Though he was aware of search helicopters and rescue boats, Blair was in rugged terrain and unable to successfully signal to the searchers. He was finally able to attract the attention of visitors water-skiing near Plum Creek, who gave him a ride to Harbor Bay.

Blair had abandoned his canoe and set off on foot about one-half mile downstream from the Bates Canyon boat ramp when he reached a stretch of low water that was too long for him to portage around by himself, a park spokesman said.

About 6 p.m. Saturday Blair, an experienced canoeist, had set out on a two-day, two-night canoe trip down the Canadian River. He embarked from the bridge at highway 287 with plans to meet his wife at Plum Creek at 6 p.m. Monday.

Blair, 43, was traveling with his 3-year-old Rottweiler, Chance, and carried enough camping and fishing gear and had enough food for the trip.

Sen. Hutchison to host town meeting in Miami

U.S. Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison will be in Miami Friday at the Roberts County Museum, 120 E. Commercial, for a town meeting that gets under way at 1:15 p.m.

The meeting is designed to give area residents an opportunity to speak out on the issues and Sen. Bailey will give updates on current legislation.

Bailey, a Republican, is the first woman to represent Texas in the U.S. Senate. She lives in Dallas with her husband, Ray, a former colleague from the Texas House of Representatives. He is an attorney.

She grew up in La Marque, Texas, and graduate from the University of Texas and UT Law School. She was twice elected to the Texas House.

In 1990 she was elected Texas State Treasurer, where she trimmed her agency's budget more than any other state official while increasing returns on Texas investments to an historic $1 billion annually. She spearheaded a fight against a state income tax.

In Washington, Sen. Bailey is a member of the Defense and Military Construction Subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee chairs the Subcommittee on Surface Transportation and Merchant Marine. She is also deputy majority whip.

Study says workplace civility has gone downhill

CHICAGO (AP) — A co-worker slams down the phone. Someone snags the last of the office coffee without refilling the pot. The boss blows by without so much as a nod to the staff.

Sound like where you work?

Workplace civility has gone downhill in the past 10 years, according to a new study, and researchers say men are mostly to blame.

Although men and women are targets of disrespect and rudeness in equal numbers, researchers say men instigate the rudeness 70 percent of the time.

"Our goal is to make organizations aware of this," said study co-author Christine Pearson, a management professor at the University of North Carolina business school. "You can calculate the costs."

Pearson pointed to several broad societal forces as possible reasons for all the ill will: downsizing, the growing pressure to "do more with less" and technology — which allows workers to "zap people anonymously."

Twelve percent of the people who experience rude behavior quit their jobs to avoid the perpetrator, the researchers found. Fifty-two percent reported losing work time worrying and 22 percent deliberately decreased their work effort.

The study, "Workplace Incivility: The Target's Eye View," was presented Tuesday at the Academy of Management's annual convention. The authors interviewed and surveyed 1,400 workers and generated a list of suggestions to improve the workplace culture.

The majority of those interviewed, 78 percent, said incivility has worsened in the past 10 years. The authors also found that rude people are three times more likely to be in higher positions than their targets.

And, Pearson said, men are seven times more likely to be rude or insensitive to underlings than to superiors.

Women are equally rude to superiors and subordinates, the study found.

Fay Taylor, 49, a marketing director in Chicago, said she is not surprised.

"Men are more like bulls in a china shop when they are trying to get a job done," Taylor said.

"Women tend to couch things more carefully."

She added, "If a woman is going to be rude, she's going to be rude. She'll butt in at the highest levels and the lowest levels."

Jane Dutton, a University of Michigan professor who wasn't involved in the study, said its most important finding was "to make concrete the costs of these small acts of disrespect."

For companies and managers, experts recommend a quick response to disrespectful acts, setting parameters for behavior, training and feedback.

"We're all still kids," Taylor said. "If we can get away with it, we will."

Miami woman jailed, banned for life from airline

BOSTON (AP) — A Miami woman who ended up in handcuffs after swearing at a flight attendant was told she could go home today by an East Boston District Court judge.

Patty Lemerise, a 28-year-old art dealer, pleaded innocent Friday to disorderly conduct and interfering with a flight crew.

"I'm really shocked it's gone this far," she said after a court hearing today on the pending charges. "I don't think it was worth being arrested for."

Lemerise, who has family in Brookline, said she was tired and her wallet had been stolen when she boarded American Airlines Flight 2024 nonstop from Miami to Logan International Airport.

Halfway into the 2 1/2 hour flight, Lemerise got up from her window seat and stepped into the aisle to roll up some artwork. She blocked the path of the flight attendant, who was rolling the meal cart down the aisle.

Lemerise said she couldn't get back to her seat because the meal cart blocked her way, and there were no other empty aisle seats.

After she tried unsuccessfully to slip back into her own seat three times, she said she went back to first class and told the flight attendant, "I guess you're stuck with me for another (expletive) 20 minutes, because it seems that I'm under punishment."

That provoked an argument with the flight attendant and an off-duty pilot who was seated nearby.

When the plane landed, several passengers offered their names to the flight attendants, offering to support them as witnesses. Another passenger, Michele Haft Hudson, said she would support Lemerise.

"They were so rude that they deserved a passenger response," Hudson told The Boston Globe.

Lemerise was greeted in Boston by state troopers, who handcuffed her and took her to the airport barracks. She was released on personal recognizance five hours later. She said she is considering a lawsuit.

Travis Elementary students will begin classes at 8 a.m. Doug Rapstine is the principal. Classes will begin at 8 a.m. at Wilson Elementary. Principal will be Tommy Lindsey. Elementary schools dismiss students at staggered times beginning first with kindergarten students. Parents should check with each school to see what time a particular class lets out. Parents and motorists traveling in the vicinity of the school campuses are asked to be alert for small children in the area as well as be aware of the traffic congestion with school in session again.

TEENAGER

The Panhandle Police Department was notified by a 911 call that a child had been injured at a residence at 903 E. Fourth Street at 5:48 p.m. Lt. Bruce Baker arrived on the scene and notified the EMS personnel.

Martinez was airlifted Monday night to Northwest Texas Hospital by Lifestar where he was pronounced dead.

Local teens were drinking alcohol and playing with a loaded gun when the shooting occurred, according to a police department news release. Police have ruled this case a suicide pending further investigation. The police are currently interviewing witnesses and the investigation is continuing.

White was arrested at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday. Martinez had been residing with White at the residence for two weeks after moving from New Mexico. Martinez had relatives in the area and was planning on enrolling at Panhandle High School to complete his schooling while living among his relatives locally.

CANOEIST

When Blair failed to show up, park staff was notified and geared up for a search that began at daylight Tuesday, according to Benjamin. By 8:15 that morning Rangers had located his canoe, upright, with dry sleeping bags, food, fishing tackle and other gear inside. Missing from the canoe were his boots, his backpack.

By 11:45 a.m. Monday, occupants of Lifestar helicopter spotted Chance on a sandy bend in the Canadian River. Rangers Carl Dyer and Bill Briggs put in by canoe by Chicken Creek and searched the area, while Rangers Loyd Griswold and Paul Jones used their tracking skills to follow the dog tracks, according to Benjamin. The Lifestar staff flew Chance from Coetas Creek to reunite with Mrs. Blair as she waited for the search results.

A park spokesman quoted Blair as saying his dog "ran off."

Blair suffered no injuries but Benjamin said the canoeist was tired, hungry and ready for a shower when he arrived at Harbor Bay.

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Luciano Pavarotti was anticipating the solar eclipse with "deep emotion," but says he's not the superstitious type.

"Even if Nostradamus predicted the end of the world, I don't think it's going to happen," he said Tuesday.

Scientists and tourists have flocked to Romania to view the celestial event, expected by NASA to be visible in this country for 2 minutes and 23 seconds, longer than anywhere else in the world.

After today's eclipse, the singer was to perform an open-air concert in the shadow of the hulking, white palace built by late Communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu.

HONOLULU (AP) — Jim Nabors is ready to hit the stage again after being hospitalized earlier this summer for a minor stroke, said an assistant to the 69-year-old.

Nabors, who played TV's Gomer Pyle, had a scare in late June when he briefly lost movement in one arm and had trouble speaking, said Judy Murata.

Nabors had suffered a transient ischemia attack, or temporary tissue anemia caused by a blood clot, Murata said. He underwent a few days of tests at a hospital in Honolulu and was discharged in good health, she said.

"There was no permanent damage and his motor skills came back right away," Murata said.

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Baseball Hall of Famer Jim "Catfish" Hunter was unconscious and in critical condition in an intensive care unit after falling and hitting his head.

Hunter, 53, who suffers from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis — an irreversible deterioration of the muscles — fell Sunday while negotiating cement steps outside his home in Hertford, said his friend Charles Woodard.

Hunter was unconscious and on a ventilator Tuesday, said hospital spokesman Doug Boyd. His condition was downgraded to critical from serious Monday, when he was awake, Boyd said.

Hunter pitched for 15 years, winning 224 games, including a perfect game. He received five World Series rings while playing for the Oakland Athletics and New York Yankees.

"We just need everybody to keep him in your prayers," said Hunter's wife, Helen.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Singer and former talk show host Carnie Wilson gave an unusual performance — a live broadcast via the Internet of her gastric bypass surgery.

Wilson, the 31-year-old daughter of Beach Boy Brian Wilson, said prior to Tuesday's surgery that she was "morbidly obese" and the procedure provided a permanent solution to weight loss.

"I am so obese to the fact that I could die. That's really what it is. I could have a massive heart attack," she said in a videotaped interview provided on the Web site www.adoctorinyourhouse.com.

The surgery was performed at Alvarado Hospital Medical Center by a team of doctors.

Many people who tried to see the surgery weren't successful because the Internet server couldn't handle the demand, a hospital spokeswoman said. The Web site features celebrities and their health problems.

Wilson, part of the now-defunct Wilson Phillips trio, said she has battled weight problems since childhood, craving sugar to the point of sneaking into the kitchen to eat powdered cake mix.

College dropouts may have to pay back grant money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Education Department plans to require college dropouts to repay federal grant money regardless of how much they spend before quitting school, an across-the-board proposal that critics argue would hit poorest students hardest.

Under current rules, most students who drop out don't have to return federal need-based grants unless they leave on or before the first few days of classes. Financial aid officers take into account how much grant money the student received and the amount of expenses on books, parking stickers, supplies and the like. If students receive more grant money than their expenses justify, only then is repayment required.

The new proposal calls for one grant-repayment formula to cover every school and every student, based on how long the student stays on campus before withdrawing.

"Every student would owe a repayment regardless of whether the financial aid received was enough to cover the expenses they incurred," said Linda B. Michalowski, director of federal relations for the California Community Colleges system. "They no longer look at how much they (the students) got. It's just bam, you owe a percentage. And our students will pay the highest price."

Community college students, unlike those who attend more expensive state schools or private universities, rarely have loans and other money to supplement tuition, books, fees and housing, she said. Loans, unlike grants, always require repayment, regardless of student status.

The Education Department, which based its proposal on a federal law enacted last year aiming to make sure federal grants are used wisely, maintains the new approach is fair.

"Aid is awarded to a student with the expectation that the student will complete the period of time for which the aid has been awarded," said Dan Madzellan, the Education Department's chief policy analyst for higher education. "If the student doesn't complete the term, then there is a return that is required."

An estimated 1.1 million Pell

Grant recipients each can get a maximum $3,125 per year. The $6.3 billion program was responsible for 10 percent of federal student aid last year. College trade groups say colleges with nontraditional students, who may be older, working full-time or with lower incomes, report higher percentages of Pell Grant students dropping out.

The Education Department says it doesn't know how many Pell Grant recipients nationwide drop out in an average year.

The department's proposed rule throws out the old individual repayment calculations that could be based on a college's tuition instead of the grant amount and instead requires the return of "unearned" financial aid if a student drops out before completing 60 percent of an academic term. Both college and student are responsible for what's left, and the law applies only to federal grant aid outlined in the Higher Education Act as it was renewed last year. Veterans' grants and other programs are not covered.

The proposed rules account for student startup costs by drawing the repayment line at the 60 percent enrollment time, Madzellan said.

"If a student completes 60 percent of the enrollment, the assumption is that they've earned 100 percent of the aid," he said.

The new rule also would help the college, which must repay any grant money it receives from a student, Madzellan said. That's because, he said, they have more trouble filling the seat three-quarters of the way into a school term than on the first or second day.

Some college aid officers fear the enrollment-based formula could be cumbersome because not every student marches into a registrar's office to announce withdrawal as soon as he or she stops going to class, said Terry Hartle, senior vice president of the American Council on Education, a Washington-based college trade group.

"If you give money to somebody for a purpose and they don't make use of the full service, you have no idea how to figure what was spent," he said. "It's a difficult computation that is tilted against students and incomprehensible."

"We're not exactly sure what will happen to students who don't have the money to repay."

The Education Department, which based its proposal on a federal law enacted last year aiming to make sure federal grants are used wisely, maintains the new approach is fair.

Water Resources Board denies permit to Seaboard

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Opponents of a large hog farm being built in the Panhandle are savoring a victory against Seaboard Farms Inc., although somewhat guardedly.

"I'm not going to hold my breath. I've seen them in action for two years," said Betty Heitschmidt, who lives near the proposed farm being constructed near Floris in Beaver County.

Last year Gray County was in the running for a Seaboard hog processing plant but company officials chose a site in Kansas instead.

Ms. Heitschmidt spoke Tuesday after the Oklahoma Water Resources Board denied Seaboard's groundwater permit application.

It took two votes for the board to reach a 5-3 decision to support the OWRB's staff recommendation to deny the permit at Seaboard's Wakefield site. The board had voted 4-4 in an initial tally.

"I'm relieved and delighted. We finally have a major victory. What a relief," said Jay Clapp, a spokesman for many of the protesters.

The next step for Seaboard is to take the issue to court, where the Oklahoma Attorney General's Office will assume the role of defending the OWRB's position denying the groundwater permit.

The water board staff made the recommendation to the board due to the recreational activities of the rural Bethel Church of God, about two miles from the farm. The church holds potluck dinners and other outdoor activities at the site.

Seaboard attorneys Bill Beck and C. Thomas Lay argued the church's activities did not meet the criteria for the three-mile setback. They also claimed a 1998 law requiring setbacks from residences and businesses passed by the Legislature did not apply to them since they purchased the land in 1997.

"It was a decision that we didn't think was justified and in that respect we didn't expect it," Lay said.

Rex Sharp, attorney for the protesters, said that in rural areas, churches often serve as community centers. "That's an area that's vital to the livelihood of the whole area," he said.

"My people are just individuals, they're not a multi-billion dollar corporation. This has severely strapped them, it has interfered with their livelihood," Sharp said. "It has been a long, long ordeal. We'd like to foresee an end."

During the board meeting, a presentation was made by Richard Luckey, hydrologist for the U.S. Geological Survey. Study of the aquifer levels in the Oklahoma Panhandle and impact from crop irrigation, and potentially from hog farming was discussed.

Board member Richard Sevenoaks of Tulsa expressed concern that the aquifer could be pumped dry.

"The reason we've been pumping millions and millions of dollars into sprinkler systems is to conserve that water," said Ervin Mitchell, water board member from Buffalo. "We're not using near the water to irrigate that we did a few years ago. And that's why we're fighting to conserve our water."

The meeting Tuesday was the second time the staff at the state Water Resources Board had recommended Seaboard be denied a permanent water permit to operate a large hog facility in Beaver County.

Earlier this year, the board voted against the staff recommendation and granted Seaboard a water permit for the Wakefield Farms plant, much of which already has been built. However, because of opponents' objections, the board voted to reconsider its vote.

The water board's staff ruled the facility was not substantially complete until January 1999, preventing it from escaping the three-mile setback provision enacted by the legislature.

Seaboard has spent $10 million building the 27,000-sow farm. The state Agriculture Department granted the company a license for the operation in March.

- Canadian — 11 a.m.-12 noon and 1-4 p.m., Aug. 23, City Hall, first floor, 6 Main Street
- McLean — 2-4 p.m., Aug. 12, Rural Health Clinic.

Questions of Racism Defy Black-and-White Answers

DEAR ABBY: I am a teacher. One of the first things I tell students when we discuss examinations is, "Answer the question!" Your reply to the question, "Why is it OK to be a racist if you're black?" had nothing to do with the question. Want to try again?
CINCINNATI EDUCATOR

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR CINCINNATI: All right. Racism is never "OK," regardless of the skin color of the bigot. Not all people are alike, and it is ignorant to assume that you can prejudge a person because of skin color. You can't. There are no shortcuts. You have to get to know people before you can make intelligent judgments about them. To do otherwise is narrow-minded and short-sighted.

The letter from "My Kid's Mom" generated some thought-provoking responses. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am now retired, but during my 33 years of teaching American history at four universities, my primary research field was the history of race relations in the United States. One of my books, "The Arrogance of Faith: Christianity and Race in America From the Colonial Era to the Twentieth Century" (Knopf, 1990), was selected for the Cleveland Foundation's Anisfield-Wolf Award, and the publisher nominated it for a Pulitzer Prize. Racism is a complex idea and can mean different things to different people. The definition that has worked best for me is: "A belief in an innate inequality among races, and conduct in accordance with that belief." Civil rights laws can control conduct but they cannot legislate belief. Changing beliefs comes only with education, and that takes time.

"My Kid's Mom" said her daughter wondered why it "... is OK to be racist if you're black." Well, it's not OK. Discrimination by blacks toward whites is no more acceptable than the reverse, but it might be helpful if more people understood why it exists.

I know of no dark-skinned people who believe they are innately superior to light-skinned people, at least not those living in Western societies. But for five centuries, Europeans (and later Americans), driven by religious beliefs and supported by economic and military superiority, systematically oppressed — including enslavement and extermination — the aboriginal populations of undeveloped cultures. Today, dark-skinned people have the power to retaliate. As long as white racism exists, they will exercise that power.

FORREST G. WOOD, BAKERSFIELD, CALIF.

DEAR FORREST: The subject of bigotry is an emotional one for me, and I thank you for putting it into a scholarly perspective. I agree with your conclusion. Viewed from a historical perspective, reverse racism is understandable. But that doesn't make it any the less unfortunate. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the grandmother in the Florida retirement home reading your column to residents who can no longer see well enough to read prompts this letter. I, and others, read your column faithfully to the 10,000 or so Sun Sounds Radio listeners, as our service to the print-disabled. "Dear Abby" rates as a must in Tucson.
CONCHITA COLLINS

DEAR CONCHITA: Your letter made my day. I'm complimented that you and your listeners consider my column a "must." My congratulations for performing a worthwhile service for individuals who are unable to read on their own.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) *** Take care of business and get work done. Your efficiency is tested; a lot happens quickly. Making a snap judgment could backfire. Know your limits. Seek out another's expertise when you think you hit overload. News could throw you back to square one. Tonight: Exercise stress away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ***** Take in new information. Remain positive in the face of another's questions. An associate is skeptical. If your idea works, you won't have a problem making it even more sound. Remain positive about a personal relationship. Your attitude allows greater self-expression for both of you. Tonight: Start the weekend early.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) *** Your sense of self comes through to others. You don't always have to use your intelligence and wit as defenses. Others like the more vulnerable, caring side of you, too! Control games need not be part of your life. Don't play into another's manipulation. Tonight: Invite a friend over and make a favorite meal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

**** Reach out for others; initiate talks. A question needs to be answered, but realize that there are many solutions available. Be gentle with others. Network; positive opportunities come forth. A difficult situation at work will get better if you distance somewhat. Tonight: Make errands easy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) *** Be indulgent with a loved one who needs your attention. A boss, after being his ever-stormy self, sings a different tune. Patience is worth the rewards. Make a must appearance; another beams when he sees you. A child or a new love interest throws a tantrum. Tonight: Your treat.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ***** Others definitely respond. Your softer ways bring good news that is well worth celebrating. Listen before you take action. Handle a family member carefully. You might feel you can't do anything right, but your timing is just off. Don't argue, just smile through the hassles. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) *** Assume a low profile. A misunderstanding can blow in from nowhere. Listen to your inner voice. Reach out for that special person. Sharing feelings on a one-to-one level proves to be unusually successful. A key associate can only say yes. Tonight: Vanish while you can.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ***** Accept the limelight: Others turn to you for answers. Popularity soars; you are surrounded by admirers offering to pitch in and help. Use caution with finances, although you generally make excellent choices. A friendship could be developing into a lot more. Tonight:

Make yourself happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) *** A boss pushes nicely, promising rewards if you put in that extra effort. Success is possible right now. Be sensitive to work potential. You offer a lot more than you are aware of. Don't settle. You might opt to reverse course, given space and time. Tonight: The finish line is in sight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ***** Your vision of what is possible makes headway and allows you to do something totally different. Don't doubt yourself. Eliminate any fear or insecurity. You can do just about anything if you simply let yourself. Check out possibilities that could involve travel or a seminar. Be open. Tonight: Discuss options!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ***** Listen to a trusted associate, rather than getting into power struggles with a friend. When dealing with this person, it could feel like it's his way or no way. Caring warms up in a special relationship. Trust a loved one with your vulnerabilities. Tonight: Add more spice to your life.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ***** Others seek you out as your more social side emerges. Your sense of humor comes out. Others love sharing and talking with you. However, a boss could be displeased by all the distraction you allow in your work day. Recognize how long you have been putting off an important decision. Tonight: Start the weekend early.

'GAME'

"Those things will reach out and touch you," said Officer Colby Brown, as he followed the trio's progress with a video camera.

Brown speaks from experience, having gone through the paint ball shooting course earlier. The balls from the compressed gas weapons left not only brightly colored paint on his head and clothes, but bruises as well.

The three Pampa police officers would watch the video later as Young, Wilk and Brown would point out what they did wrong and what they did right during this training exercise with the department's newest equipment — paint ball guns.

"They're as close as you can get to the sidearms we carry," Young said in the briefing before the exercise.

The instructors and students spent two hours in the briefing room that morning, going over tactics and procedures. They reviewed video tapes of previous exercises, including the one of Morris with a pink paint ball splattered across the goggles of his rubber face mask.

Despite the bullet proof vests and rubber face masks, the paint balls can and do hurt. There is no doubt when some one is hit, but, according to Young, the department's training officer, it is an invaluable exercise. Each officer has to become an integral part of his team. Each officer has to think, evaluate and adjust in an ever-changing situation.

"The further you go down that hall," Young said, "the more your adrenaline picks up."

The department uses only one hallway in the school. To date, it has provided more than enough scenarios for their urban warfare.

Using the compressed gas powered weapons, the participants are forced to watch their fields of fire, cover their teammates and make split-second judgments in the half light of the dimmed hall with sweat streaming into their eyes from the rubber face masks.

It is the type lesson that can't be learned from books or lectures. It is a crucible that has to be experienced, and better here in a training exercise than on the street.

"There's no fool proof way of doing it," Wilk said.

Each exercise is different. Each student has to adjust to the situation. It is a training curriculum that offers experience. Other police departments around the country have used such training and, Young said, several area law enforcement agencies have already contacted the Pampa Police Department about it. They have shown an interest in either using Pampa's training ground or establishing one of their own.

Before the day is over, a bright yellow splatter of yellow paint was centered on the back of Burrows' vest, Raymond's face mask was painted, Wilk's legs and side are covered with pink paint in an ambush.

Young surrenders and is handcuffed after the gas capsule in his weapon is depleted.

After the exercise, there is good-natured kidding, threats of 'wait-til-next-time' and confessions of lapses that today covered a uniform in paint. As the officers move through the course of musty halls, classrooms and gym, there is nothing but rapt attention.

Each officer knows that it's not a game. It's a matter of survival.

"That's nerve-racking to have somebody shooting at you," Burrows said as she pulled the rubber mask from her sweat-soaked head.

Sgt. Stephanie Raymond, left, Officer Fawnsua Burrows and Officer Don Rowell crouch behind a door in the deserted hallways of Baker School during a training exercise.

Manhunt under way for community center shooting suspect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A manhunt spread across the West today as authorities searched for the balding suspect who walked into a Jewish community center and fired more than 70 bullets from an assault-style gun before slipping away and vanishing in metropolitan Los Angeles.

Police said the motive was unknown, but there were indications that hate may have been the reason for the attack that wounded five people and stirred new unease over gun violence. Among the wounded were three young children, one of them critically injured.

"There was nothing said by the suspect before the shooting," Police Chief Bernard Parks said. "It was indiscriminate."

The suspect was identified by police as Buford Oneal Furrow, a 37-year-old white man who was believed to have lived in California and Washington state.

Police said Furrow had no known links to center staff or children and it was unknown whether it was targeted because the students were Jewish. But the Simon Wiesenthal Center said a book was found in the van written by the American Nazi Party. The Union of American Hebrew Congregations advised its synagogues and Jewish schools to tighten security.

In Washington state, The Spokesman-Review of Spokane said Furrow had a relationship with Debbie Mathews, widow of Robert J. Mathews, founder of the hate group called the Order. Mathews was killed in 1984 when his hideout caught fire during a shootout with federal agents on Whidbey Island in Washington state.

The newspaper said he lived with Ms. Mathews for a time. It quoted Metaline Falls town marshal Rick Reiber as saying he understood they had been married around 1996 and later split up. The newspaper said records could not be found to confirm a marriage.

After Robert Mathews' death, 22 Order members were convicted or pleaded guilty after being indicted on racketeering charges. They were accused of robberies that netted more than $4 million, as well as other crimes, including the June 1984 murder of Alan Berg, a Jewish talk-radio host in Denver.

Police arrived four minutes after Tuesday morning's shooting, gun smoke still lingering in the lobby of the suburban community center, Cmdr. David Kalish said. The gunman had already disappeared, leaving behind the wounded: three young boys attending day camp, a 16-year-old counselor and a 68-year-old receptionist.

Furrow fled in a van and then stole a car, Kalish said.

Investigators followed his trail across the city, from the shell casings that littered the center's lobby to the abandoned red-and-white van filled with ammunition, bulletproof vests, explosives, freeze-dried food and a booklet titled Ranger Handbook. The trail led to a green Toyota Corolla he was believed to have stolen and then left in front of a hotel a few miles from the community center.

Officers surrounded the hotel, but the search ended after four hours.

"We were so close but still he managed to get away," Kalish said.

Investigators have fanned out across California and Washington state. FBI agents visited the Olympia, Wash., home of a man believed to be Furrow's father Tuesday night, but refused to answer questions.

The abandoned van was purchased Saturday from the Tacoma (Wash.) Kar Korner, said the manager of the lot, who refused to be identified. Kalish identified Furrow as the buyer of the van, which had Washington plates.

Furrow was sentenced in May to eight months in jail for second-degree assault with a deadly weapon, KOMO-TV in Seattle reported Tuesday night. It said he never reported to the King County Jail as ordered.

The Seattle Times reported today that late last year Furrow tried to commit himself at the Fairfax Psychiatric Hospital in Kirkland, a Seattle suburb.

Dr. Tim Rogge, the hospital's former medical director, said that Furrow was reluctant to submit to the inpatient treatment regime, and began causing problems, at one point pulling a knife on several staff members.

Court records show Furrow was charged with felony assault on Nov. 2, 1998, pleaded guilty to second-degree assault and was sentenced to five months in the King County Jail. He was released on probation, the newspaper said. It wasn't immediately clear if the charge described in the Times report was the same one referred to by KOMO.

The Times said Rogge didn't know what psychiatric problems Furrow may have been suffering from.

The violence was the latest shooting at workplaces and schools across the country, and President Clinton and others spoke out.

"Once again, our nation has been shaken and our hearts torn by gun violence," Clinton said in Washington. "It calls on all of us not only to give our thoughts and prayers to the victims and their families, but intensify our resolve to make America a safer place."

The most seriously injured was a 5-year-old boy, shot in the abdomen and leg. He underwent six hours of surgery was listed in critical condition today. Doctors said his prognosis for recovery was fair.

"He had a great desire to live and we supported that effort," said surgeon Clarence Sutton Jr.

Gonzalez suffered the injury, which is not thought to be serious, while running out a grounder in the third. The Rangers list him as day-to-day.

Gonzalez has 26 homers and 92 RBIs, second on the team to Rafael Palmeiro in both categories.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Tyrell Godwin hit two solo home runs to lead the USA National Team to a 3-2 win over the Hays Larks Tuesday in the National Baseball Congress World Series.

With the score tied in the ninth inning, catcher Mike Tonis hit a sacrifice fly to right field to bring home the go-ahead run for the National Team (3-1). The Larks (3-2) were eliminated from the tournament.

In Tuesday's second game, the San Francisco Seals (3-0) scored two runs in the 10th inning to top the El Dorado Broncos 9-7.

Seals catcher Gavin Hare went 3-for-6 with two runs scored and one RBI. For the Broncos (2-1), designated hitter Ryan Callaway was 3-for-4 with one run scored and one RBI. The two teams combined for 37 hits.

In El Dorado, the Kenai, Alaska, Peninsula Oilers scored six runs in the ninth inning to beat the Pueblo, Colo., Chieftans 14-10.

Kenai (2-1) scored 11 runs in the final three innings to beat the Chieftans (1-2), who were eliminated from the tournament. Josh Shackleford finished 3-for-4 with three runs scored and two RBIs.

Another Alaskan team, the Anchorage Bucs, beat the Valdosta, Ga., Blazers 11-5 behind third baseman Chris Russ' four RBIs.

In Tuesday's final two games, The Seguin, Texas, SMI Steelers beat Prairie Gravel, Ill., 11-9, and the Dallas Phillies beat the San Diego, Calif., Stars 11-5.

Today's matchups feature the Denver Blues against the Norman, Okla., Boomerangs at 2 p.m.; the Edmond, Okla., Mudcats against the Bellingham, Wash., Bells at 5 p.m.; the Liberal Bee Jays against the Beatrice, Neb., Bruins at 7:30 p.m.; the Santa Barbara, Calif., Foresters against the Topeka Capitals at 10 p.m.

BASKETBALL

HOUSTON (AP) — Senior center William Stringfellow has been declared academically ineligible to play at the University of Houston this fall, coach Clyde Drexler told a television station Tuesday.

"He failed to fulfill his obligations as a student athlete," Drexler told Houston station KRIV.

University officials declined to say when Stringfellow was declared ineligible. There was no listing for Stringfellow in the Houston phone directory.

Last season, Stringfellow averaged 7 points and 9.6 rebounds a game and led the Cougars in blocks with 50.

He transferred to Houston after playing his freshman year at Wake Forest.

PAMPA — Persons interested in coaching and assisting in Optimist Tiger League Football for players in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades will organize for the fall season Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Optimist Building, 601 E. Craven, announced Football Commissioner David Hutto.

"We are opening the Optimist program to third graders for the first time this year," Hutto said. "We want to have a third and fourth grade as well as a league for the fifth and sixth grades."

Hutto said the Optimist Club bought $11,000 in new equipment last year. "We are excited about being able to offer quality equipment to protect our players."

Hutto explained that coaches, referees, scorekeepers and league officials are needed to provide the opportunity for the players to participate.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' ability to contain the blitz will be on the "needs work" list as they roll tape of their exhibition opener.

"We didn't spend a whole lot of time in preparation for that kind of stuff," quarterback Troy Aikman said after Monday night's game against Cleveland. "We got good protection most of the game, but the blitz was tough. I'm sure we'll work on it some more."

The problems against Cleveland Monday night evoked memories of 1998, when the entire NFL took advantage of the Cowboys' problem with the blitz.

Particularly against the New Orleans Saints, Aikman was so dogged by blitzers that he sometimes had trouble receiving the snap.

Head coach Chan Gailey didn't

sound alarmed about the blitz problem. After all, it was only an exhibition, and Dallas used most of the game to look at young players.

"I got a chance to see some key personnel in action and what I saw was promising," Gailey said. "We need some work on the blitz, but that will come with a little more time."

On the flip side, there were some promising signs for the Dallas rush.

First-round draft pick Ebenezzer Ekuban recorded a sack, chasing down quarterback Ty Detmer. Former Texas A&M star Dat Nguyen halted a Cleveland drive by pouncing on quarterback Tim Couch on a third-down play.

"We saw some great defensive work out there from our young guys," Gailey said. "As far as I'm concerned, the game was a victory for our defense."

On offense, the Cowboys also had some bright moments.

Fourth-round pick Wane McGarity made some nice plays and MarTay Jenkins caught a 35-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter.

The Cowboys also found they still have a competent quarterback behind Aikman. Jason Garrett was 9-of-12 for 129 yards passing, with two touchdown passes.

The Cowboys resume practice Wednesday afternoon.

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Two hours, two days, two weeks or two months?

Eventually, Tim Couch will become the Cleveland Browns' starting quarterback. It's not if. It's when.

But following the rookie's sensational NFL debut Monday night, the beginning of the Tim Couch Era in Cleveland might come sooner than anyone expected.

"If he continues to play the way he has been," Browns coach Chris Palmer said Tuesday, "it will be an interesting preseason."

Interesting indeed. The Browns wanted to bring Couch, their No. 1 overall pick in April's college draft, along slowly in his first season, allowing him to develop behind starter Ty Detmer before making him the No. 1 QB.

Couch was their future, the team insisted.

But following Couch's 11-for-17, 137-yard performance when he moved the Browns up and down the field like a seasoned veteran in Cleveland's 20-17 overtime win against the Dallas Cowboys in the Hall of Fame game, the Browns may have to rethink their timetable.

Dee J. Preston (l-r), Jeremy Pierce, Caleb Barnes and Michael Steele are returning starters for the Lefors Pirates this season. Pierce and Steele are seniors while Preston and Barnes are both sophomores. The Pirates kick off the 1999 football season with their homecoming game Sept. 3 against Higgins at 7:30 p.m.

Rangers edge Tigers in 12

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers' bullpen stopped the bleeding Tuesday night.

The Rangers got hitless relief from three pitchers over the final 5 1/3 innings and Royce Clayton got the game-winning single in the 12th inning as Texas rebounded from a crushing loss to beat the Detroit Tigers 4-3.

On Monday night the Rangers gave up 25 hits in a 19-4 defeat to the Toronto Blue Jays.

"As a staff, we knew we weren't getting the job done," said Tim Lincecum who threw 2 1/3 innings of perfect relief. "We needed to bear down and get a well-pitched game and that's what we did."

Texas lost three of a four-game series to Toronto and watched its lead in the AL West slide to 6 1/2 games over the Oakland A's, who beat the New York Yankees 6-1 Tuesday.

Crabtree said the Rangers have been worried too much about securing home-field advantage in the playoffs and not enough about winning their division.

"We need to get our minds back on taking care of business and taking the division," Crabtree said. "I think we lost our focus there for a while."

Nelson Cruz (2-4) walked Roberto Kelly leading off the 12th. Kelly was sacrificed to second by Luis Alicia and scored on Clayton's liner to center, sliding home just ahead of Gabe Kapler's throw. It was the Rangers' first hit since the sixth.

"I just fought off an inside pitch and hit it up the middle," said Clayton after the Rangers won for the 14th time on their final at-bat. "You're up there battling, fighting for your life."

Ryder Cup fracas overshadows PGA Championship

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Tom Lehman was practicing 5-footers on the practice green in front of the clubhouse at the Medinah Country Club, all the while keeping a wary eye on a few reporters hanging around just outside the ropes.

A few minutes earlier, Lehman had emerged from a closed-door meeting with likely members of next month's Ryder Cup team and PGA officials aimed at diffusing a growing controversy over paying players to represent their country.

Much as he would have liked, Lehman knew the questions wouldn't be about his chances to win the PGA Championship that begins Thursday in this Chicago suburb.

The talk Tuesday wasn't about numbers, such as the 7,401-yard length of Medinah or how many under par it might take to win the final major of the year. It was about numbers like the $23 million profit the PGA reportedly will make from the Ryder Cup, and the $5,000 stipend players receive to compete in it.

It was enough to give Lehman a harried look as he stroked putt after putt to try and get ready for a week that could secure him a spot on the Ryder Cup team.

"All these issues will be resolved in the future. Now is not the time," Lehman said. "The idea of boycotting the Ryder Cup is, was and always will be ... ridiculous."

If the PGA Championship had enough image problems as the perennial stepchild of the four major tournaments, it didn't get any better as tournament preparations were overshadowed by the issue of paying Ryder Cup players.

PGA officials did their best to put the spotlight back on the tournament by holding an hour-long meeting with players at which they agreed to discuss ways of paying money to charities favored by the individual players on the team.

It seemed to work as the 16 top players on the Ryder Cup points list emerged from the meeting with a unified front, using phrases such as "non-issue" and "we're all on the same page" to proclaim their happiness with the current setup.

"We all agreed on everything," Jeff Maggert said after the meeting that included team captain Ben Crenshaw, PGA Tour commissioner Tim Finchem and Jim Awtrey, the CEO of the PGA of America.

Awtrey and Finchem said they would work in the next few weeks to come to an agreement with players on Ryder Cup money being paid to their charities. But both said the players will not be paid to represent their country.

"The players do not want to be paid," Awtrey said. "But the players are looking at how the Ryder Cup can be supportive of growth of the game and charities."

The midafternoon meeting put a hole in the practice schedules of the top players, with Tiger Woods hurrying off to play Medinah after it broke up.

Lehman, 11th on the Ryder Cup points list that accounts for 10 of the 12 team members, said he just wanted to get the issue behind him and play well enough to secure a spot on the team this week.

"Everybody is on the same page," Lehman insisted. "The players are focused on playing."

Expansion planned for Texas Speedway

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Motor Speedway will offer racing fans a chance to attend a unique doubleheader in April.

On the same weekend the track will have NASCAR's Winston Cup and Busch series races on its 1 1/2-mile superspeedway, the World of Outlaws will race on a new dirt track.

Bruton Smith, chairman of track owner Speedway Motorsports Inc., and track general manager Eddie Gossage were to announce plans today for a 15,000-seat dirt track.

"It's not going to be what you expect in a dirt track," Gossage said Tuesday. "What we're doing is turning a corner for dirt-track racing and taking it up several notches."

The dirt track will be oval-shaped and just under a half-mile long. It'll be built on about four of the speedway's 1,500 acres and it will feature luxury boxes. The price tag is expected to be between $2.5 million and $3 million.

In addition to World of Outlaws, USAC and motorcycle events also will take place there. Concerts also could be held at the facility.

The dirt track is the first of what could be a three-part expansion for the speedway. Gossage said he hopes to finalize plans soon to build a drag strip and a road course.

Gossage said he's already scheduling events for a road course in 2000, and drag races also are being considered.

"A drag strip is something we're studying real hard," he said. "We're putting pencil to paper to see if it works."

Billy Meyer, owner of the Texas Motorplex strip near Ennis, already has announced plans for a drag strip in nearby Grand Prairie. Meyer says he has an exclusivity agreement with the National Hot Rod Association that prohibits NHRA national events at any strip within 150 miles of his.

Offering many different types of racing events was part of the Texas Motor Speedway's grand plans when it opened in 1996, but the owners at Speedway Motorsports Inc. didn't expect to get around to them so soon.

"It was our intent to do those additions 10-12 years after we opened," Gossage said. "We've been able to move to these things quicker because of the success we've had."

The Texas Motor Speedway has drawn nearly 200,000 fans for each of its three NASCAR weekends, but problems and driver complaints led to track reconstructions after the first two races.

Despite heavy lobbying, NASCAR officials are reluctant to offer the TMS a second spot on the schedule.

The IRL visits Texas for its first race after the Indy 500 and again for its season-ending race in October. The Indianapolis Motor Speedway is the only facility bigger than the Texas Motor Speedway.

Having different racing surfaces is a staple for Speedway Motorsports facilities. The company announced Tuesday it is building a dirt track at Lowe's Motor Speedway in Concord, N.C.

"We want to increase frequency, give people more reasons to come out here," Gossage said. "We want to be a year-round destination, like any other entertainment facility in the area."

Red Sox win in 10th inning

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Brian Daubach's double capped a four-run 10th inning as the Boston Red Sox beat the Kansas City Royals 9-6 Tuesday night after Tim Wakefield struck out four in the ninth but still blew the save.

Boston, which has won four of five to remain one game behind Toronto in the AL wild-card race, led 5-3 in the ninth. Wakefield (4-8) quickly fanned the first two hitters and then got Johnny Damon to flail at a 3-2 pitch, but the ball got away from Jason Varitek as Damon reached on the passed ball.

Another passed ball advanced Damon to second and Carlos Febles, who had struck out three times, tied the game with his 10th homer. Carlos Beltran then struck out, giving Wakefield part of a major league record held by many.

Darren Lewis and Jose Offerman had RBI singles in the 10th off Matt Whisenant (4-4), and Daubach hit a two-run double off Mac Suzuki for a 9-5 lead. Daubach was 3-for-5 with a single, double and homer and three RBIs.

Postal Service raises $7.8 million for breast cancer research

WASHINGTON — One year ago the U.S. Postal Service issued the Breast Cancer Research "semipostal" stamp, the first U.S. postage stamp in history to have its net proceeds from sales earmarked for research organizations.

"Postal employees around the nation have embraced this effort and have demonstrated an outpouring of dedication to this worthy cause," says Postmaster General William Henderson.

"We are seeing tremendous initiatives in all of our cities from postal employees whose hard work and desire to help promote social awareness of this deadly disease have resulted in $7.8 million raised for research so far," Henderson said.

Among the many examples of awareness efforts across the country is the work of postal employees in Des Moines, Iowa, who have partnered with Mercy Medical Center, Mercy Cancer Center, and KCCI-TV to kick off the "Deliver The Cure" campaign. At a hospital ceremony, Iowa Lt. Gov. Sally Pederson purchased the first 100 sheets ($800) of the stamps.

In addition, Stamps by Mail, and Fax, order forms for purchasing Breast Cancer Research stamps are currently available at all Des Moines area post offices and partnering organizations. Through the program, customers can have the BCR stamps delivered to their home or business on the next delivery day.

In the Postal Service's Pacific Area, the Sacramento, San Francisco, and Oakland Districts are the top three districts in the nation in Breast Cancer Research semipostal stamp sales and money raised for research. Area and district employees are working closely with California Sen. Dianne Feinstein, who created television and radio public service announcements promoting the stamp. Both spots continue to air on TV and radio stations throughout California.

Over the past year, more than 104 million Breast Cancer Research stamps have been sold, raising approximately $7.8 million for research.

Breast cancer is considered the most commonly diagnosed cancer among women in every major ethnic group in the U.S. Experts say when breast cancer is diagnosed early (stages I and II), five-year survival rates are nearly 95 percent and there are better options for breast conserving surgery.

For six decades, the Postal Service has issued a variety of postage stamps to help raise awareness for health and social issues including drug abuse, AIDS, and environmental protection and conservation.

For more information on stamps, or to see an image of the Breast Cancer Research stamp, visit the Postal Service's Website at www.usps.com and click on "Stamps." To order stamps or stamp products, go directly to www.stampsonline.com.

September deadline for THC grants

AUSTIN — The deadline for 2000 Texas Preservation Trust Fund grants is Sept. 1, 1999. Last year, the Texas Historical Commission awarded approximately $340,000 to assist organizations around the state in preserving significant historic landmarks. In 2000, the THC plans to award $375,000. Applications are available from the THC.

buildings and significant archeological sites. Earned interest and designated gifts from the pool of public and private monies are distributed as matching grants. The program provides up to one-third of the total project costs for acquiring, planning and developing historic properties.

For more information or to receive an application for TPTF grants, see the THC website at www.thc.state.tx.us or contact Lisa Harvell, Architecture Division, THC (512) 463-6047.

The Texas Legislature created the TPTF, the only statewide preservation grant program, to preserve endangered historic
