PAMPA, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1925

NO. 31

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM OVER THE STATE

Paris.—Whisky confiscated here by officers was found to contain a quantity of concentrated lye. When tops of the jars were removed to dispose of the liquor it was found that the rubbers had been eaten almost away.

Lubbock.—Mrs. Grady, Scarborough, 20, Grapefield, was instantly killed and four others slightly injured Sunday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding nine miles northeast of this city, turned over.

Bastrop.—The pecan crop around Bastrop is said to be somewhat larger than was at first predicted. The crop will be the shortest known here in years. The nuts are of a fine grade and are exceptionally well filled, and are of about the average size.

Lagrange.—Joe Zaleski, recently released from the state penitentiary by executive clemency, was arrested near here for an alleged disturbance at his home. Officers said he displayed a gun in the presence of his wife and eight children.

Sherman.—Miss Sarah Harris, 78, was burned to death at Pilot Point at midnight Sunday, when a one-story frame house in which she lived was destroyed by fire. A brother, John Harris, 65, with whom she lived, is in a critical condition from shock. The origin of the fire is undetermined.

Austin.—Miss Katy Lacy, teacher, who, though bitten, held a mad dog in order that scores of children in the State Orphan Home at Corsicana could escape, is being considered for Carnegie hero fund award and the "Liberty" Weekly heroism award.

Mineral Wells.—Ernest Maddox, a deputy sheriff, and Lee Jackson, both residents of this city, got into an altercation on the court house lawn at Palo Pinto Monday morning. Two shots were fired at Jackson, both missing him, but one taking effect in the foot of Mrs. Jackson, who was standing near her husband. Maddox was arrested charged with assault to murder.

Austin.—Governor Ferguson Monday issued a requisition on the secretary of the U. S. Navy for extradition of Charles E. Hoffman, sailor aboard the U. S. S. Altair at San Diego, Cal., wanted in Harris County, Texas, on a charge of murder.

Brownsville.—As the result of an automobile accident on the highway near Harlingen, in which Private Jno. W. Brown of Fort Brown was killed, A. W. Cameron, Hidalgo County Judge has been found guilty of negligent homicide by a jury in the criminal district court, it was made known Monday.

Wichita Falls.—After blowing four safes in Saul's Store Sunday afternoon in one of the most daring daylight robberies ever committed here, burglars Sunday night entered the Federal Tire Company building and robbed the safe of $585. A glass was taken out of the skylight, and the burglars lowered by means of a rope. Saturday night burglars entered the office of A. M. McPherson and made their escape with a special model Colt revolver and approximately $190 worth of engineering supplies.

SEVERAL ROBBERIES IN PANHANDLE TOWNS

A series of safe robberies in the last three days has caused a general warning to be issued to police officers over the Panhandle to be on the lookout for things as well as to take steps to thwart their probable visits.

The Wherry Jewelry store at Memphis was entered late Sunday and jewelry valued at $3,000 taken. Entrance was gained through the rear door.

At Shamrock thugs used nitroglycerin to blow the safe of the Forbes & Stone store, making their escape with $1,850 in cash and checks in addition to a dozen silk dresses and other articles. Authorities there used bloodhounds in an effort to trace the burglars, but no clew has been uncovered.

Elk City, Okla. authorities reported to other towns to be on the lookout for a trio of men who had entered a store there, taking $300 in cash.

Advertising is an investment.

OIL FIELD ACTIVITY IN THIS LOCALITY

Unconfirmed reports reached town about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon that the Wilcox No. 2 Combs & Worley, six miles southeast of here, had come in and was flowing considerable oil.

Anderson et al Beavers-Bradford is drilling around 3375 feet.

The Phil Engel well on the Ledrick ranch is down between 3860 and 3900 feet, and it is understood that the water will be cased off and the test taken on down.

Young & Patrick's No. 1 Byrum, being drilled by Cady & Conner with standard tools is making good progress. It is located in section 188 block 3.

The new Empire test to be drilled about three miles west of town, is said to be signed up to spud in by Nov. 20.

LYCEUM NUMBER FRIDAY EVENING

The seat sale for the First Number of the Home Lyceum course has been on for the past few days, and reports are that tickets have been selling well.

This program, which is under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Assn., will be presented by pupils of the various grades of the school at the auditorium Friday evening at 7:30.

The entertainment will be varied in form and promises to be a very interesting number.

Orchestra music and a number of specialties will be included with the other numbers.

It has been said that the children taking part in the program would be forced to buy admission tickets. We are informed by those in charge that this is not the case; children having a part in the entertainment will be admitted without cost.

The teachers have been working hard drilling the children and mothers have been busy making costumes. Between 200 and 300 children will take part in the entertainment.

The second number of the Home Talent Lyceum will be given Dec. 11. It will be a Chinese operetta entitled, "Crimson Eyes," and will be in charge of Mrs. T. E. Rose, Mrs. Carson Loftus and Miss Leila Rorex.

Seats are on sale at the Pampa Drug Co.

PINNED UNDER AUTO WHILE DUCK HUNTING

Judge W. R. Ewing of Miami, was the victim of a peculiar accident last Saturday at his farm north of Miami.

He had gone duck hunting and stopped his car on a slope near a lake. The brakes failed to hold the car and when it started to roll down hill into the water he ran back to it and attempted to stop it. He was run over by the car and his clothing caught in the wheels in such a manner that he was imprisoned for several hours before a searching party rescued him.

Judge Ewing suffered a broken hip and several broken ribs, which added to his suffering from the exposure to the cold, but unless complications set up he is expected to recover, although he will be confined to his home for several weeks.

When Judge Ewing failed to return home at dark his wife became uneasy and phoned to the farm. The man on the place informed her that he had been there about noon but had not been seen since. He started out in search of the missing man and finally found him pinned beneath the car.

The judge had abandoned hope of being rescued as he had scribbled a note to his wife explaining to her how the accident occurred.

Judge Ewing, who is the popular district judge of this judicial district, has many friends here who regretted to learn of his misfortune, but all are pleased to know that he is recovering.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

All services Sunday. The evening service will begin at 7 o'clock, and this will be the hour for the remainder of the winter season. You are cordially invited to attend services with us Sunday, if you do not attend elsewhere.

JAMES TODD, Jr., Minister.

Miss Anna Barnard returned Wednesday evening from Denver, Colo. She was accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Joyce. The latter left for Wichita Falls Thursday, and Mr. Joyce went on to the J. A. Ranch.

CAMPBELL ANSWERS FOOTBALL ARTICLES

Supt. R. C. Campbell makes reply under his signature to recent football articles and reports, as follows:

Gentlemen: An article appeared in the sporting column of the Sunday Amarillo News over the signature of C. C. Bradshaw, which does an injustice to Pampa and the writer. In keeping with my former statement as to the ineligibility of the Pampa Harvesters of last year, I submit the following sheets as taken from the Pampa school records, and the same was examined and passed on by ten witnesses before being submitted to you. The records are as follows:

Player No. 1. (A. K.)—Record for first half year, B plus; record for three months, good; days absent for first three months, one—Eligible.

No. 2. (T. C.)—C plus; for three months, good; absent first three months, 15 days—Eligible.

No. 3. (D. S.)—C plus; for three months, good; absent ten days first three months—Eligible.

No. 4. (H. W.)—C grade; record for three months, fair; absent nine days first three months—Eligible.

No. 5. (T. W.)—B minus, record for three months, fair; absent six days first three months—Eligible.

No. 6. (A. H.)—B grade; record for three months, good; absent seven days first three months—Eligible.

No. 7. (B. S.)—B plus; record for three months, good; not absent during first three months—Eligible.

No. 8. (F. C.)—Record first half year, D; record for first three months, fair; absent five days during first three months—Eligible.

No. 9. (A. L.)—Record for first half year, C; carried three subjects and failed in one for first three months; absent 15 days first three months—Ineligible.

No. 10. (W. W.)—Record first half year, D plus; first three months, carried four subjects, failed in two; absent 21 days during first three months—Ineligible.

No. 11. (H. G.)—Record first half year, F; failed two months out of three; absent six days first three months—Ineligible.

No. 12. (R. B.)—Made F first half year; made grades first three months; absent 11 days first three months—Eligible.

No. 13. (H. C.)—Made F first half year; failed all in first three months; absent 25 days in first three months—Ineligible.

No. 14. (H. P.)—P plus first half year; first three months, passed two half courses on permanent record, in conflict with daily report; absent six days first three months—Ineligible.

No. 15. (J. B.)—Made F first half year; passed three courses first three months; absent 17 days first three months—Eligible.

No. 16. (E. P.)—First half year C plus; passed one month, the two months out of first three; absent ten days of first three months—Ineligible.

No. 17. (C. S.)—Made F first half year; failed in all courses, but given credit in one course three months; absent 30 days of first three months—Ineligible.

No. 18. (R. C.)—Made F first half year; failed two out of four courses, in first three months, twice marked Inc.; absent 16 days of first three months—Ineligible.

No. 19. (J. A.)—F in two and passed in two first half year; failed second and third month; absent two days in first three months—Ineligible.

No. 20. (C. B.)—Record first half year, C plus; passed three in first three months; absent 11 days during first three months—Eligible.

No. 21. (T. D.)—Made F first half year; failed all in first three months; absent 23 days first three months—Ineligible.

The permanent records and the teachers' daily registers show, in the aggregate, that a majority of the players were ineligible; while the daily registers alone showed only ten of the 21 players to have been ineligible. The Harvesters, therefore, did not play one legal game in the fall of 1924. No one has questioned the "cleanliness" or the clean playing of the Harvesters. The blame for the illegality of the players must rest with the coach and his chief, the superintendent. They must have known the records, and ignorance, here, is not a legal excuse.

Enough for that. My statement does not cast a reflection on the boys or the community; but only on the coach and his chief. They could not

COLD WEATHER HARD ON COTTON PICKING

Cold weather of the past week has seriously hampered cotton picking, but the fleecy staple continues to come in. Up to Thursday noon the local gin had turned out 75 bales. A number of bales from this section have also been ginned at Miami and White Deer.

The cotton market has been away off the past few days, and Thursday middling cotton brought only 19.75.

D. W. Osborne stated Tuesday night that he had finished picking his crop and had the land planted in wheat. He got 15 bales off of 35 acres, which is probably about the average yield for this section this season.

Renters on Rob Campbell's quarter section just south of town expect to get 70 bales off the 160 acres. Mr. Campbell has about 400 acres of cotton on his farms this year, all of which will make a fair crop.

There is still a scarcity of pickers, and many farmers need men to help gather the bumper feed crop.

Those not busy with cotton and feed are trying to finish wheat sowing.

Seldom has this section of the country gone into the winter with more feedstuff on hand and a better season in the ground than this year.

ADVERTISING RATES—Local readers, when run among personals, 10c per line; classified ads, 1c per word, each insertion. Display advertising rates upon request.

Man never realizes how weak he is until he tries to quit smoking or meets a couple of women solicitors.

The old adages don't all run true. For instance, we have found—"that he who laughs last—is dumbest."

The News now claims to have it pretty soft, all machinery operated by electricity and heated with natural gas—nothing to do but work and nothing to drink but pure, sparkling city water. We do not hesitate to advise anyone seeking a location to come to Pampa, where the conveniences of the city and the manifold advantages of the smaller town may be enjoyed at one and the same time.

"General" Mitchell stated facts his superiors didn't like and they made him a colonel. "Colonel" Mitchell said things even more bluntly than General Mitchell did. Now a court-martial is in the offing—but after that how "major" will talk. We hope to be around when "Corporal" Mitchell hands out an interview on the Army and Navy, and the conduct of the air service.

If folks who severely criticize newspapers for getting things twisted occasionally could only relieve the print shop force for about a week they would be thoroughly prepared for an operation to remove the stinger from their wagging tongues. If there is any doubt about this statement, just count the types in one issue of the paper and then estimate how many of them you would get in the wrong place were you to do the job. If that does not seem like a fair test, just write up the news items that concern your household for the next month and send them in for publication. We offer to make quite a substantial wager than you will conclude that you were placed on earth for some other purpose than to criticize the papers for always getting things wrong.

"Medicine, surgery, everything that is directed by the human brain and human ingenuity, in 20 years has progressed, except government," says Governor Al E. Smith of New York. Commenting on this remark, Collier's says: "The explanation is to be found in the fact that business and science have offered more attractive rewards than has politics. There are exceptions. Al Smith is a notable one, Andrew W. Mellon is another. His administration of the treasury has been of incalculable value during these difficult years of funding the great war debt. But generally, the more gifted men and women have avoided public service. A 150 years ago politicians offered the largest opportunities to ambitious men. Today the George Washingtons and Alexander Hamiltons are managing businesses or conducting experiments in laboratories. Progress will come when once more the public service gives the first-rate men and women space to use their full powers."

From time to time bill posters and advertising men come to Pampa with window cards, posters and other advertising matter. The good natured, easy-going people here usually accommodate the advertising men. They give window space free of charge and other facilities without even a free pass to the entertainments. The business of this paper is advertising. It has sales value. For some person in town to give away advertising is just as unfair competition with the newspaper as it would be for us to give away or sell at cost hardware, tires, shoes, clothing or any other commodity. The next time somebody asks you to take their advertising matter and place it in your window for nothing, why not inquire the reason for not using the local paper for advertising. Our business, we repeat, is advertising; when it is given away except to charity, it is unfair competition. Without advertising no newspaper can exist. Think it over.

Among Our Exchanges

Chillicothe Valley News: Mass meetings usually get up a lot of talk but don't accomplish the same result as concentrated effort on the part of well meaning and intelligent citizens, determined to put something over for the good of the town.

Claude News: If your local paper is not up to what you consider "the proper standard," just stop, look and "loosen." It may that you are not doing one solitary thing toward making it better. A paper is pre-eminently a public utility, and cannot possibly be any better than the business men and its country subscribers make it.

Clinton Post-Dispatch: It seems to us that now-a-days the young people consider fortunes rather than affections when they decide to pick a life partner. Acquire a husband much like they would a Ford car or a new hat—and get rid of them with about as little compunction. Cupid feathers his arrows from the wings of the golden eagle and he is careful not to shoot the guy without a bank roll.

McLean News: We note that the mayor of Lubbock is seeing that the sanitary law is enforced in his city. One man was fined $5 last week for letting the alley back of his store become unsanitary. The law is also being enforced in regard to hotels, restaurants, rooming houses, drug stores and confectioneries. There have been times in McLean when such a move would be a good thing.

Higgins News: C. A. Skaggs, better known as "Shorty" of the Lime-light at Follett and Statesman at Fargo, has annexed another paper—the Gage Record. Just which one will be the main sheet on which Editor Skaggs will give his personal attention, is not stated, but however that may be, "Shorty" and the girls are equal to any occasion, not to slight the rest of the family who are pretty handy to have around a print shop. Here's best wishes.

Sayre Journal: Representative Longworth, who will be speaker of the next congress to convene in December, predicts that the tax reduction which will be authorized by congress will be about 400 millions, naming that figure as the amount which can be lopped off without causing harm. This will be very cheering news from one end of the country to the other. There would be no kick from the taxpayers if the axe of congress should slip and cut 'em out altogether.

Higgins News: The wonders of the world have never been told. We see a few things in this life, but, how many things we pass by and never realize their presence. The world is a big affair, and no one man may know it all. While some men may have wide experience and know many things, yet, when everything is summed up man's knowledge is a mere glossary of a thousand and one odd things he knows but on the surface.

Panhandle Herald: The dates for holding the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce next year have been set for June 21-23. This is going to be the greatest opportunity the Panhandle has ever before had to get before the public its wonderful agricultural and oil and gas resources. Carson county is one of the leading counties in both oil and agricultural development and we must begin now dressing up for this great event and help Amarillo make the meeting the greatest in the history of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Lynn County News: There are doubtless heroes and heroines living among us today but, rarely do they have opportunity to prove their heroism. Such an opportunity came a few days ago to a young lady teacher in the State Orphans Home at Corsicana. A rabid dog came upon the grounds and began a vicious attack upon the little children under the teacher's care. In rapid succession it bit twenty of them, when the lady seized it with her bare hands and prevented it from biting a number of other children. She herself was bitten on both of her arms. All of the children and the teacher went to the Parmer Institute at Austin for treatment. That is the kind of heroism that makes American womanhood the greatest in the world.

Perhaps Governor Ma Ferguson is so obliging to those convicts because they are always begging her pardon.

Some people never will wake up and find themselves rich, simply because they never wake up.

A LESSON FROM HISTORY

We quote the following from an article by Guglielmo Ferraro, great Italian historian and philosopher:

"The disease which killed the Roman Empire was in fact excessive urbanization. Neither the attacks of barbarism from outside, nor those of Christianity from within, would have prevailed against its might and its massive weight if the strength of the colossus had not been already undermined by this internal cancer."

"After two centuries of war, an epoch of rapid increase of wealth, of lucky enterprises, of frequent, close and varied commercial and intellectual intercourse between the most distant peoples began. In every part of the empire new industries and agricultural enterprises gave rise to a prosperous middle class and to provincial aristocracies — nouveaux riches families which gradually came to form the governing classes of the empire, migrated to the cities, strove to enlarge them, to embellish them and to make them more comfortable, reproducing in every part of the empire the splendors of the urban civilization as perfected by the practical Roman spirit of organization."

"The empire covered itself with cities great and small, rivaling each other in splendor and wealth; and into these cities at the expense of depopulating the countryside where nobody was willing any longer to live. It attracted the peasantry, the village artisans and the yeomanry. In these cities schools were opened in which the youth of the middle class were taught eloquence, literature and philosophy, and trained for official posts, the number of which increased from generation, and for the liberal professions."

"Perhaps this country is not traveling quite the same way, but here is a lesson out of history that points to a real danger. It is for the people of every small-city to demand together, build-up and develop the rural areas, and create that community spirit in the country which is necessary to maintain a well balanced civilization."

"YOU KNOW 'EM

You know that there are a few men who can stand on the outside of anything and tell you how it ought to be run, but when they are put in charge of the same thing they were trying to tell you how to run them there is always something wrong about the thing itself, and not about the way they manage it.—Lamesa Reporter.

Amen! There are just whole cowpens full of us in this boat. Many a man who never saw the inside of a printing shop a half dozen times in his life could tell you just how you ought to run a newspaper. And you know that it is the newspaperman's prerogative to tell the courts where to head in and the legislature how to legislate, and the governor how to govern, etc. This is a funny old world, anyway.—Lynn County News.

Some farmers have gotten the idea that those engaged in that industry can be legislated into prosperity. And they cannot entirely be blamed for it, for certain politicians are always on the job telling them what they can accomplish for the farmer if put into office. They don't succeed very often, but the next election brings them around with a good excuse and a new line of bunk which some farmers will again swallow without hesitation. Edward Nordman, in a recent address, emphasized one point that the farmer must remember in the following statement: "The progress of agriculture toward real and lasting prosperity is wholly dependent upon the recognition and wise application of economic law." Wise legislation without doubt, is one factor in bringing about prosperous conditions. But no amount of legislation could have raised the price of potatoes from 50 cents a pound, which they brought last year at this time, to around $2 a pound which they are bringing today. A drop of a hundred million bushels in the crop did the trick. The farmer, in order to more thoroughly stabilize his industry and make more certain reasonable earnings must make a thorough study of economic law and apply modern devices in production.

"Would you marry a man simply because he is wealthy?" "No," protested Miss Cayenne, "He might be a bootlegger."

FARM & POULTRY

WINDOW GLASS IS HELP FOR POULTRY

A short time ago scientists found that animals do better when they can be in the open at least a few hours each day exposed to the direct rays of the sun. This has been demonstrated to be especially true of hogs and chickens. The reason is that ordinary window glass acts as a filter to the direct rays of the sun. Glass filters out the so-called ultra-violet rays—the rays that have a great deal to do with invigorating the animal.

Recently Prof. L. V. Crum, physicist of Iowa State college, has completed some tests that are of interest in this connection.

Professor Crum took 24 chickens that had been kept under ordinary glass for three weeks. The birds were divided into three groups of eight each. One group was housed under glass cloth. The second group was housed under celo-glass, another product that does not exclude ultra-violet light, and a third group was housed under ordinary window glass. All were given the same feed and general care. The experiment continued for four weeks. Two of the chickens kept under ordinary glass died of rickets. The remaining six gained 180 per cent in weight during the four-week period. All of the eight chickens kept under the glass cloth remained healthy and made a gain of 250 per cent during the four-week period. The group kept under the celo-glass did not do so well as that under the glass cloth. In this group two birds also died, but it appears that one of them died from an unavoidable cause, for which the celo-glass could not be blamed. The other, however, died of rickets, but it was not a healthy bird when the experiment began.

While this test is not reported because it is conclusive, we refer to it merely to remind our readers that ordinary window glass is not as good a product as we have been in the habit of thinking, because it screens out some of the most active rays of the sunlight, says the Wisconsin Farmer. No doubt the open front houses that have come into such general use in recent years owe their beneficial effect upon the flock at least partly to the fact that the ultra-violet rays of the sun pass freely through the curtain fronts.

Many Poultry Diseases

Are Easily Preventable

Though most poultry diseases are curable, they all require more time and work than the average farm flock is worth. Therefore, it may easily be seen that prevention should be the first and most important rule in poultry sanitation and disease control. Roup, tuberculosis, chickenpox and fowl cholera are the most dangerous diseases affecting chickens.

Most farm poultry houses lack a simple and effective method of ventilation. It many houses the fowls are overcrowded, and when this is the case and there is no good method of ventilation, the air is sure to become damp, and we all know that it is just this sort of an atmosphere that roup thrives. To avoid this condition, see to it that the front of your poultry house has an open space that equals at least one-fourth of the floor space of the building. And allow at least three square feet of floor space for each fowl.

Poultry diseases spread through the droppings of diseased birds. Most flock owners have dropping boards under the roosts, and if they haven't they should have by all means. If a part of the flock is diseased, millions of germs may be removed through the droppings instead of leaving them in the litter to contaminate the other birds. Much of the surplus moisture is also removed through the droppings.

Keep the drinking water pure and clean, and sterilize the vessels every two or three days so long as disease is present in the flock. A teaspoonful of permanganate of potash may be dissolved in all the water it will make purple for drinking water whenever the birds seem in need of a tonic.

Poultry Notes

Separate the cockerels and the pullets.

Give plenty of feed to growing stock.

Each duck yields about two ounces of marketable feathers.

Houses must be sprayed frequently with a good disinfectant to keep down mites, lice, and disease germs.

Rations for the laying hens should be compounded so that the hens will eat at least one-half as much mash as grain.

Soft-shelled eggs may be caused by a lack of shell material, which may be the case if the hens do not have access to oyster shells.

It is profitable to keep hens comfortable. Keep the coop free from draft, still well ventilated and dry. The coldest coop is the tightly closed, ill-ventilated one.

PROPER FOOD FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

The age during which children are attending school may aptly be called "The Dangerous Age." It is the period of rapid growth and every care should be taken to insure the child of a normal and healthy body. The idea of eating only fit and wholesome foods should be early impressed on the younger members of every family in order to protect them against later ill health and its accompanying helplessness. If the utmost care is not taken in the diet that is used by children, cases of food poisoning, indigestion and kindred ailments may result.

And milk, being the chief item in the diets of most children, should be carefully guarded. It is, because of its nature, prone to infection if exposed to germs and may soon become unfit for use. Wherever there is the slightest reason for doubt as to its purity and food value, steps should be taken to insure the sterility and the fitness of milk intended for consumption by children. Many mothers have adopted the excellent practice of using milk that is absolutely pure and sterile and free from any germs or bacteria. The most satisfactory, as well as the safest milk used in preparing food for the growing child is evaporated milk.

It is sterile, and therefore safe. It is more digestible than market milk. Its uniformity, convenience and cost are qualities that recommend it.

The following dishes are well suited to the needs of the growing child; they are easily digested and very nourishing:

Caramel Custard.

1 cup evaporated milk diluted 1/4 cup sugar (caramelize) with 2 tbsp. sugar 1 cup water 1/4 tsp. salt 3 eggs 1/4 tsp. vanilla Scald the diluted milk. Caramelize the sugar and add to milk to dissolve. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt, and flavoring and combine with scalded milk. Pour into custard cups and set in a pan of hot water and cook in a moderate oven. When done, a knife blade run in the center will come out clean.

Fish Chowder.

1 pint raw fish cut in 1-inch dice 3 cups boiling water 5 small potatoes, sliced 1 cup evaporated milk diluted 2 onions chopped with fine 1 cup water 1/4 pound fat salt 8 crackers pork, sliced

Fry out the salt pork. When brown, remove pieces of pork and put fish, potatoes, and onions in kettle. Cover with boiling water. Simmer until potatoes are tender. Add the milk and cook 5 minutes longer. Season with salt and pepper. Just before serving add the crackers.

Ready for Trial

The prisoner was not professionally represented. Before proceeding with the case the judge said: "This is a very serious offense you are charged with. If you are convicted it means a long term of imprisonment. Have you no counsel to look after your defense?"

The prisoner, in the most confidential manner, leaned toward the judge and replied: "No, your honor, I have no counsel; but I have some very good friends on the jury."

Father—Are you sure he loves you? That it isn't your money? Daughter—He swore he worshipped me since he first saw me. F—Where was that? D—At the beach last summer. F—Were you in a bathing suit? D—Why, yes. F—He's after your money.

SPORTSMANSHIP

By W. D. TROTTER
in Southwestern Machinery.

The greatest athlete is not always the best sportsman. Sportsmanship is like many other things worth while in this life—it is often found in the most unexpected places.

Only the other day we saw one of the nest examples of sportsmanship that has ever come to our attention. It was only an incident in a football game, the winning or loss of which bears but little importance. It was one of those football games between fellows of prep or high school age, staged in the hour before a great grid classic such as at least make college history.

The little fellows, grim warriors of the gridiron, were in there fighting as though their very souls depended upon winning. One team was perceptibly lighter than the other, and the empty substitute's bench on their side of the field indicated that the school was a small one.

The score was tied, 6 and 6. The little fellows (and you will pardon us for sympathizing with them, but we always have a kindly feeling for the under dog), had made a touchdown early in the game through sheer fight, and their opponents had rallied long enough to run the ball down the field twice to within striking distance, where they tied the score with a couple of field goals.

After that, neither side had been able to gain much ground, and it was possibly in the middle of the fourth quarter. While the ball was being played for an advantage backward and forward on the gridiron, one of the backs fumbled, and quicker than it can be told the ball was downed behind the goal line of the little fellows who had been getting my moral support.

Out of the crush of the tackle that failed to down the runner until he had succeeded came a lad of a few years and little of the brawn that is the protection of most youths who play football. The stands, which had by that time almost filled with the throng waiting for the start of one of the greatest games of the season, was a roaring applaud. The little player who had carried the ball was raised from mediocrity to become an idol of his fellows. He was that sort of little fellow, you could tell by a glance, that doesn't readily make a big hit.

with his classmates, and this must have been the greatest accomplishment of his lifetime.

In the meantime, the captain of the opposing team was urgently talking with the officials. Something seemed wrong, and he was protesting.

After talking among themselves and with various players, including the youth that had made the sensational touchdown, the ball was carried back to where the play was begun and the score was denied. Nothing happened of particular interest after that before the timekeeper fired his gun for the end of the last quarter. The teams dispersed and the impatient varsity squads took the field.

The following day, while looking over the sports sheet, we chanced upon a small writeup of the game. It told of the small local school holding the strong visiting team to a tie score, and of the sensational run that netted no score because the player was offside.

That play was still fresh in our mind, and so was the little player. It was not until we had read the article that we realized what had happened. That little fellow in all his eagerness, had been off-side, and had admitted his guilt. It was clear at the time that they had not observed the infringement of the football rule, and it had rested within his power to say yes or no.

Doubtless, his laurels of the moment have withered; his brief popularity is gone and he has sunk back to mediocrity, but no one can question his brand of sportsmanship and say, "he has it not!"

One Pampa wife told the members of her club that every time she quarreled with her husband she sent the children outdoors.

"And," added a catty member, "they are the healthiest children in the neighborhood."

KNOW TEXAS!

Texas as all know, is the largest state. It has an area of 265,896 square miles. It is fifth in population with 4,663,228 people. If it had the same density of population as Ohio, for instance, it would have a population of 37,305,000.

There are 110,000,000 acres of land in Texas capable of producing crops. Of this less than one-third has been brought under cultivation.

The total value of Texas farm crops is more than a billion dollars a year, which is about eleven per cent of the total value of farm crops for the entire United States.

Texas people use more than half a million telephones and there is more than 1,250,000 miles of telephone wire in use within the state.

WHAT THIS FARMER
LEARNED ABOUT RUN-NING A NEWSPAPER

Once a farmer had 1,800 bushels of wheat, which he had sold, not to one grain merchant, but to 1,800 different dealers, a bushel to each. A few of them paid cash, but far the greater number said they would pay later. Months passed and the man's bank account ran low. "How is this," he said, "my 1,800 bushels of grain should have kept me until another crop is raised, but I have parted with the grain and instead I have a vast number of accounts, small and scattered, that I cannot get around and collect fast enough."

So he posted a public notice and asked all who owed him to come and pay quickly. But few came. The rest said: "Mine is only a small matter and I will pay you some other day." Though each account was very small, when all were put together it meant a goodly sum to the man, and enough to enable him to pay his own bills, and meet his needs. Things went on thus. The man got to feeling so badly that he fell out of bed and awoke running to his granary he found the 1,800 bushels of wheat still there.

The next day he went to the publisher of his home town paper and said: "Here, sir, is pay for your paper, and when next year's subscription is due you can count on me to pay you promptly. I stood in the position of an editor last night and I know how it feels to have his earnestly earned money scattered all over the country in small amounts."

The moral is: "Go thou and do likewise." —Exchange.

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

"AT LAST, John, after my years of hoping, you're to meet Justine Evans. She's been at the Loring's two weeks now. I'm afraid Frank has aspirations. I've been worried," Kittle Phillips, driving her brother home from the station, stopped the little car at the garage door. They climbed out, Miss Phillips still chattering.

"I chose her for you at Wellesley. Terrifically clever, yet handsome. She'd be absolutely wasted on Frank—he's forgotten all his college Greek and hates philosophy and modern poetry."

"Really," interposed John Phillips, placidly. "I've seen a number of people become eminent without Greek or philosophy or Carl Sandburg."

"Of course, Frank is a splendid engineer, but Justine is a Ph.D., and is writing a book—a very deep book." She led him in, still volatile. "The Loring's are giving a dance tonight and you'll see her. I shan't point her out—we'll see what your intuition will do. Even your heart should thrill at the prospect of an affinity."

"Anything to please you, Katherine, though I wouldn't take any prizes for intuition." "But," he spoke seriously, "I confess I am home-loving and lonely."

As John had prophesied, intuition proved a poor illuminant. At the significantly young Phillips, with fluttering pulses, pointed out to his sister a slim, pink-draped blonde.

Kittle's face was a study in baffled consternation. Her words came sharply:

"Beauty is a candle and all men are moths. Celeste Ballenstyne doesn't know a thing except a few domestic and social stunts. I thought you'd look deeper."

"What need? Her clothes aren't mummy robes," observed John, shamelessly. "Present me, please."

"Not yet," Katherine was firm. "You are to find Justine."

"Produce your affinity," he demanded, wearily. "I'll not make a fool of myself twice."

John, even with his eyes still full of Celeste's rosy splendor, had to own that Justine merited his sister's praise.

Kitty Phillips led Frank Loring firmly away. John seated himself dutifully beside Justine. She looked up with a piquant laugh, a spic of malice in her tone:

"So you are the Great One?"

"I am professor of Greek and Latin in a small western college, if that constitutes greatness," he replied grimly.

"I am pleased to meet the female Solon."

"I stood sixth in my class," she broke in angrily. "But because Kittle Phillips round me once screening my eyes with 'Creative Evolution' she started this intellect bluff."

John rose, quenched an incredulous smile and offered his arm.

At the end of the dance she turned her vivid, dark face to him.

"Now, run away, please, and get acquainted with Celeste Ballenstyne; she's the sweetest girl here. I'm busy now, but you may call tomorrow afternoon. I really wish to consult you about my book."

John saw Frank Loring hastening up. Delightedly he joined the moth hovering about the pink candle that was Celeste.

During the fortnight following the dance John and Justine conformed to their friends' plans with sufficient ability. But as time went on, the angel-matched pair had uneasy moments. Justine, dense and blundering in love's ways, marveled that she enjoyed tennis with young Loring when she had always loathed games. Phillips, fluent in four languages, wondered openly that he was tongue-tie before Celeste Ballenstyne when conversation with Justine was so easy.

"Celeste has no brains," explained Kitty.

"Oh, come off!" was John's un scholarly request. "Celeste is not showy intellectual, but she is cultured, reposesh, sympathetic, responsive—"

Kitty recognized the symptoms, if John did not.

John and Justine had discussed everything. Far too often they agreed: the end of the day began to leave a drag of monotony.

"Justine," John interrupted a dissertation on French verse forms to ask, "have you noticed how irritable we are growing, though we rarely differ? Can it be love? Perhaps, we should marry."

"Perhaps, we should—if you mean that for a proposal," answered the girl, listlessly. "But if this is love, it is an over-rated emotion."

"You are flattering," snapped John, unexpectedly, and fell into silence.

"Let's go tell them," said Justine, rising. They crossed the road silently. Frank was speaking earnestly.

"Good heavens, Celeste! That man isn't in love with Justine—reading philosophy to her! He's a rotten dancer, but when he tries to waltz with you—"

"I know, but I can't propose, can I? But you're a man; why don't you speak for yourself? Your heart is bigger than hers, anyway, and that's what one marries for."

Justine and John fled back. They were unlearned in love, but they looked understandingly into each other's eyes.

"I'll just step over to Ballenstyne's," said John, eagerly.

"Send Frank home, won't you?" smiled Justine, demurely.

RED CROSS YEAR A RELIEF RECORD

Huge Relief Work After Midwest Tornado the Greatest in American Annals.

DISASTERS DROP IN 1925

Ranged From Fire to Earthquake and Covered Wide Area at Home and Abroad.

Virtual completion of the largest peace-time project of post-disaster rehabilitation ever known has been accomplished by the American Red Cross in less than a year, as a part of its relief work in the more than 90 disasters in which it served in the past year.

This great program was undertaken following the tornado which struck five mid-western States last spring killing 796 people, injuring 2,239 more and causing inestimable property loss. It left a huge area of devastation in its wake, presenting a real problem. The Red Cross, however, went to work on the heels of the storm, caring for the injured, sheltering and feeding whole communities, and helping every individual sufferer from the destruction back to normal.

The magnitude of the problem is indicated by comparison of its huge casualty list with that of the entire preceding year, whose combined losses were 735 dead and not quite 2,000 injured, as a result of the record number of 192 catastrophes.

The story of the Red Cross service in the past year, recounted by the report, ranges from fires heading the list of destructive forces with 23 disasters to mine explosions, tornadoes, typhoons, floods and earthquakes.

The Santa Barbara earthquake was among the outstanding events recorded in the report. The Red Cross had completed its relief organization on the scene within a few hours of the disaster, and in addition had launched a program designed to permanently restore every person affected by it to his former status once more.

The Red Cross service in the period following the wreck of the Navy airship "Shenandoah" was typical of its promptness and effectiveness. Service in this instance was afforded by Red Cross chapters in the vicinity of the wreck, and by representatives of the national organization. It demonstrates graphically the value of each of the more than 3,000 chapters of the society which are at work in virtually every part of the country, in the facility they afford the national organization in emergencies.

There were 61 domestic disaster operations reported in which the Red Cross rendered service either through chapter or national staff personnel during the year. In 34 of these the national organization appropriated a total of $3,947,256.49, the greater portion of which was received as direct contributions for the relief of specified disasters. The relief operations following the northern Ohio tornado of June, 1924, were brought to a close in May, 1925, after an arrangement had been made with the Lorain chapter to provide expert services to the families of any tornado sufferers who required such assistance in the next two years. In this single disaster the relief work, as finally accounted, reached a total of $1,019,751.22.

The mid-western tornado of this year, covering a strip of territory 400 miles long involved an expenditure up to June 30 of $774,000, while the total amount turned in to the fund through the agency of the Red Cross was $2,645,000. In addition to this sum specifically collected for the purpose, the Red Cross had expended from its regular reserves $124,000.

In all these disasters, Red Cross workers have been impressed by the spirit of determination and hopefulness shown by the people. Once they recovered from their grief and bewilderment, they began at once to rebuild, materially and otherwise, and always on a better scale where possible. Another significant feature of these occurrences, as noted in the report of the Red Cross, was the promptness with which the local chapters organized emergency relief before help could be received from outside sources. A direct effect of this example has been to stimulate disaster relief preparedness among chapters all over the country.

The services of the American Red Cross are performed invariably in the name of the American people. On the effectiveness of this representation during the past year, it will launch the ninth annual roll call this year on November 11, to continue until Thanksgiving, November 26, during which support through membership will be invited for 1926.

What Becomes of Red Cross Sweaters

What becomes of the sweaters which the American Red Cross has asked for? In the first place, they are needed for the 30,000 disabled veterans still in hospitals this winter, the garments being in great demand. The surplus left from the war has been exhausted since the Armistice, hence the new call for the sweater-knitters to resume their needles, a call already being met.

The American Red Cross serves in your name; you can make it more effective by adding your name to its membership during the Roll Call Nov. 11-26.

DOINGS IN WEST TEXAS

Furnished by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce

Eastland.—Local citizens will vote will take over the local gas company and operate it as a municipal utility.

Slateron.—The City Commission has called an election for Nov. 17 to pass or a proposed $100,000 paving program here. The Slatoron Public Square will be the first unit paved.

Lubbock.—Lubbock will entertain the 1926 convention of Texas Commercial Secretaries Association. This action was taken by the executive board which held a recent meeting in Dallas.

Brady.—Abolition of meter rents and material reductions in water and light rates have been announced by the City Water Board. Water rates receive a flat 50 cents per 1,000 gallons cut, while light rates are designed to benefit large users of electricity.

Amarillo.—The Southwest is growing better according to Judge Wilson. The extremely light criminal docket of the United States District Court reflects the prosperity of the Southwest and crime has all but disappeared. Good crops and plenty of work for all labor is the answer.

Tahoka.—This city has decided by election to sell the municipally owned light and ice plant to the Mutual Light & Power Co. of Amarillo. The consideration is approximately $86,000 and the new owners will take charge about Nov. 1.

Snyder.—The R. S. & P. Railway here is erecting a modern depot adequate to take care of Snyder and the city's needs. This city is making great strides in civic progress and the new station is necessary in order to keep pace with the growth of the city.

Oliny.—A new natural gasoline plant will be erected here at once. This will be the third such plant to be put in here and it has been made necessary because of increased production of wet gas in this field.

Throckmorton.—Survey of the proposed new Post-Fort Worth line of the Santa Fe is progressing rapidly. Three gangs are pushing the work and at the rate work is now moving the gang should be in Fort Worth within a fortnight. One of the gangs which ran a line from Double Mountain formed a liaison here with the other two gangs indicating that the line might run direct from Haskell.

KINGSMILL CLUB

(Too Late for Last Week)
The Kingsmill Club met Friday, Oct. 16 with Mrs. R. T. Abersold as hostess. The afternoon was spent piecing a quilt for the orphans home, and same will be quilted at Mrs. J. C. Barnard's Nov. 20. The hostess served refreshments to the 11 members and one visitor present. The next meeting will be held Nov. 6 with Mrs. G. G. Frashier.

EL PROGRESSO

El Progresso Study Club met at the home of Mrs. V. E. Fatheree, Tuesday at 3 o'clock. At the close of the business discussion the meeting was turned over to Mrs. G. C. Walstad as leader. The subject for study was "The Mother's Recompense," a present-day novel by Edith Wharton. Special mention is made of the admirable way in which Mrs. Cook gave the plot. The climax is reached in the early part of the story, but at no time does the author allow a lack of interest on the reader's part. Mrs. H. L. Ledrick gave a description of the characters, the chief points of interest being centered around the mother, Kate Clephane, and her daughter, Anne. Mrs. Walstad concluded the discussion with the setting of the story which deals with New York society of the present day. A delicious salad course was served the following members present: Mesdames C. C. Cook, C. P. Buckler, Siler Faulkner, G. C. Walstad, H. L. Ledrick, R. B. Thompson and the hostess, Mrs. Fatheree.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Joe M. Smith for social, business session and work. The rooms were decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season and the afternoon hours were spent working on articles for the coming bazaar. Later a business session was held, presided over by Mrs. B. J. Osborn. Plans were made for the Thanksgiving dinner. A social hour was then enjoyed during which pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coco were served the twenty ladies present. Miss Parish of Connecticut, was a welcome visitor. Mrs. C. C. Dodd, Mrs. W. The grocer saw his best customer was a bit ruffled over something, so strove to be extra obliging and pleasant. "I think," he said blandly, "living is getting cheaper. For instance a year ago those eggs would have cost you five cents more."

"A year ago," said the customer, "when these eggs were fresh, they would have been worth more."

RED CROSS FINANCES SHOW WIDE SERVICES

Past Year Cost $10,321,679.80;
Duty to Ex-Service Men
Paramount.

Washington.—The national and international services of the American Red Cross are portrayed graphically in a statement of the Red Cross finances for the past fiscal year ended June 30, 1925. Expenditures by the Red Cross (including both the National Organization and the Chapters) during this period aggregated $10,321,679.80.

The obligation of the American Red Cross to the ex-service and service men is represented in this sum by a total expenditure of $1,225,292.61. In the interests of disabled veterans, the Red Cross expended $3,577,916.42, of which $1,677,916.42 came from the National Organization, and $1,903,000 from the more than 3,000 Chapters and local branches of the society. Red Cross services to the men of the Regular Army and Navy the past year called for $647,376.19, of which the National Organization furnished $310,376.19, and the Chapters, $327,000.

Sharing in importance with this responsibility was the Red Cross work of disaster relief during the year. In these operations there was absorbed a total of $1,922,782.90 up to June 30, this year. This represented $1,622,782.90 of National Organization funds and $300,000 from the Chapters. Relief in foreign disasters amounted to $285,579.85. This sum was appropriated altogether by the National Organization.

Insular and foreign operations of the American Red Cross during the year included relief in foreign disasters, the League of Red Cross Societies, Junior Red Cross Foreign Projects, assistance to insular Chapters and similar functions. Besides its disaster relief, the National Organization financed these other branches of foreign work also, including $110,238.72 for assistance to insular chapters, $177,450 for the League of Red Cross Societies, $84,381.43 for Junior projects abroad, and $80,657.62 for other insular and foreign operations.

In addition to its paramount duty to assist veterans and other service men and their families, and its disaster relief, the Red Cross expended at home through its national and chapter funds, a total of $1,029,616.05 for its Public Health Nursing Service; $154,135.09 for nutrition instruction; $314,422.76 for First Aid and Life Saving; $45,507.34 for Junior Red Cross; $132,759.88 for instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick; and carried on similarly important home duties. Included in the latter were such valuable services as the Enrolled Nurses' Reserve, for which the National Organization expended $45,562.64; while other national operations at home amounted to $302,957.64. The chapters, in addition to the large part they played in all Red Cross activity, spent $678,000 of their own funds on general chapter services.

The broad humanity of the American Red Cross can never be measured by the money it costs, but even in bare terms of dollars and cents, the scope of its work is indicated. A study of these facts also shows the necessity for the largest possible enrollment, since Red Cross service is maintained almost entirely by its membership. The annual invitation to participate in this work through membership in the American Red Cross, is extended from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving, November 26.

Red Cross First Aid Popular in America As Accidents Gain

The rapidly mounting toll from traffic accidents has brought home to the public the necessity of being prepared to render prompt assistance while awaiting the doctor. During the past year 356 chapters of the American Red Cross were instructing classes in First Aid, and in the same period certificates were issued to 26,691 persons qualified by Red Cross experts.

Many cities throughout the United States are showing interest in securing first aid instruction for their police and fire department personnel, and through the work of local chapters, practical results have been obtained in such cities as Washington, D. C.; Toledo, O.; Boston, Mass.; South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind.; Port Arthur, Texas, and other communities. In co-operation with the State authorities, intensive training in first aid and rescue methods has been given to State police and constabulary members at four State training schools.

Instruction in these subjects in public and private schools, colleges and universities has increased during the year. Attention has been given to training teachers at institutes and summer schools.

The Red Cross first aid railroad car has been in continuous operation throughout the year. It covered 16,340 miles, visiting 127 cities, where 1,200 meetings were conducted by the surgeons, with a total of 146,827 people.

Industries particularly have availed themselves of the instruction afforded by the Red Cross. The Western Electric Company, for example, reports a reduction of the accident rate per 1,000 employees.

CAMPBELL ANSWERS ARTICLES

have had but one aim, and that was to further split this community, if possible. I am accrediting the citizenship of the Pampa Independent District with sufficient intelligence, and, with sufficient honesty to see the truth in this matter. Not only did they play illegal ball, but he and his chief passed pupils in school and gave them credits for work that they never completed according to the specifications laid down in the regulations governing high schools. In addition to this there were some gross irregularities practiced in connection with the examinations.

Not only did a large group of the boys who played, quit school at the end of the football season last fall, but they quit again this year when they found out that the eligibility rules would be enforced. Had these boys been made to do the work last year, and not been permitted to walk the streets, they would have been eligible this year, not only for football, but for the next higher grade.

Mr. Bradshaw's chief made the statement that we were "kicked out" of the Interscholastic League when we played some ineligible men at Amarillo; and he further stated that a game was forfeited to Perryton by Pampa, because we failed to carry out a contract. Both of these statements are untrue, as the Amarillo coach knew that we were playing some ineligible men, and we never had a verbal or written contract with Perryton. In fact we have never paid our dues and have, therefore not joined the league this year. Just as soon as we discovered that we had been left a group of ineligible men, we requested Mr. Henderson that we not be placed on the list. An illegal team cannot forfeit to a legal team; and as soon as a legal team plays an illegal team knowingly, they become illegal.

We had a contract with McLean, and as soon as we discovered that we were ineligible, we called them up and requested that we not play the same. We told them that we were ineligible; and even though they beat us (that is a town team and a few boys in school) I doubt if they can claim a legal victory. The letter that Mr. Irvin received from Mr. Henderson about the Pampa case, was written before he knew the true status here, and the credit of victory will not go to Perryton.

I witnessed the game between Pampa and Vernon last fall, and must state that the boys did well; but they lacked the team-work that was exhibited by Vernon. This was due to lack of superior coaching.

I believe in good clean athletics, but I am not one of those who think that the athletics should "wag the school," but that the school should "wag the athletics. Good athletics always follow in the wake of a good school.
