Refuge To Celebrate 75th Anniversary

Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge has a new manager. Al Jones and his wife, Dorann, have moved to the refuge from the Mackay Island National Wildlife Refuge in North Carolina. He explained that the refuge in North Carolina was at the north end of Currituck Sound and the main thing he misses are all the trees.

He first started in Wildlife Management in South Central Nebraska. The Michigan native graduated from the University of Michigan, and said he presently has no particular plans to change things at the refuge, although tentative plans are to perhaps host some type of celebration in conjunction with the 75th Anniversary of National Wildlife Refuges this year.

It so happens that the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge is the oldest refuge in Texas, having been started in 1937. Jones is the 17th manager to be stationed at the refuge since it started.

First was James K. Walton, 1937-1941; Andrew Schmitt, 1941-1942; Charles E. Keefer, 1942-1943; Leslie A. Beaty, 1943-1944; Edward J. O'Neill, 1944; Theodor Legler, 1944-1947; Charles R. Bryant, 1947-1948; Harold W. Sunburg, 1948-1950; Joshua J. Harmon, 1950-1955; Harold W. Sunburg, 1951-1955; Robert L. Darnell, 1955-1958; Wayne E. Gueswell, 1959-1960; Billy J. VanTries, 1960-1962; Melvin R. Evans, 1962-1966; Keith Hansen, 1966-1968; Bert E. Blair Jr., 1968-1976 and Paul E. Ferguson, 1976-1977.

Seventy-five years ago, a Presidential decree to protect some strange-looking brown birds created Pelican Island Bird Sanctuary, the beginning of what is now the world's largest network of lands managed for the benefit of wildlife—the National Wildlife Refuge System.

"The refuge system is this Nation's insurance policy for an enduring rich and diverse wildlife heritage for future generations of Americans," said the local manager, Al Jones.

"I would urge every citizen to visit a national wildlife refuge in this, the diamond anniversary year of the system's founding. It's ironic that many of us visit zoos, drive through animal parks, and watch countless programs about wildlife on television, but relatively few of us take advantage of the unparalleled opportunities our refuge provide for observing wild creatures in their natural habitat. Such experiences are not only enjoyable in themselves, they also demonstrate the foresight of past generations and impress on us our own responsibility for protecting and perpetuating our wildlife resources," he continued.

Play To Compete For More Honors

"Twelfth Night," led by a strong performance by Ernie Vela, advanced another step toward the state championship by winning the area contest in Plainview, Thursday night, April 13.

The Shakespearean comedy, under direction of Kerry Moore, surpassed strong competition from seven other plays in gaining the right to perform in the regionals contest Thursday, April 20, at Texas Tech University.

Vela captured the Best Actor award, the highest award given, for the second straight week, but the play group from Muleshoe High School said it was the overall harmony and unity of the play that achieved the win.

Critic judge, Doug Cummins of Texas Tech, praised the beauty and coordination of the play throughout the performance.

Also recognized for honors were LaVayne Lloyd, Martin Nowlin and Royce Clay, who were all selected to the all-star cast.

The seven other schools participating in the contest included Floydada, Lockney, Boys Ranch, Dalhart, Friona, Electra, and Henrietta.

Wheat Crop Suffers From Lack Of Rain

Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley said Friday afternoon that the area is in trouble, especially the dryland areas south of sandhills.

"Wheat on dryland is really hurting and may be lost if we don't receive some rain in the very near future," he said.

Also, dryland farmers need a minimum of two inches of rain before the first of May if they plan to plant cotton."

He said the localized heavy rain in western Bailey County last Saturday night did not do very much good. Although the rain measured up to two and a half inches, the county agent said it fell too fast and too hard to do very much good due to the heavy runoff.

The county agent said that up to 50 percent of the corn has now been planted, and irrigated farmers are finding the soil temperatures warm enough at this time to germinate the corn very well. He said the soil temperature is probably warmer this early in the year than it ever has been.

Irrigated farmers are expected to start planing cotton next week, he added, but the additional moisture will be necessary in dryland areas before the cotton farmers in that area can even think about planting.

Despite the fact that dryland wheat is suffering, Tanksley said the local irrigated wheat really looks good right now.

He added that he expects more vegetables to be planted this year than have been in years past, and said that potato and onion planting have been completed now.

He did issue a work of warning to producers about pea aphids. He said he had found infestations of the insect this week in several local fields. Tanksley said some spraying may be necessary to eliminate the pea aphid.

The county agent said that for additional information concerning the pea aphid, contact him at his office in the courthouse.

and leaves the alfalfa field. The adults stay out of the fields all summer and re-enter them in the fall. The cycle then repeats itself.

Very small alfalfa plants which are attacked in early spring can withstand only limited feeding by the larvae. Larger alfalfa plants (12-18 inches in height) can support considerably larger numbers of weevil larvae. If populations of alfalfa weevil are heavy, a damaged field will have a greyish appearance.

"We expect to have our peak alfalfa weevil activity in late April or early May in our area," said Tanksley. "If larvae numbers are high enough to reach the economic threshold, one properly timed application should give control. Chemical treatments are recommended if more than 25 percent of the terminals, or growing tips, are infested with larvae. Several effective insecticides are registered for alfalfa weevil control."

Whats Washin' In Washington

by Jan U. Turner
Washington*

Hon. Larry McDonald, Friday, November 11, 1977: Mr. Speaker, in recent months, the policies, plans and operations of the Trilateral Commission have become a subject for considerable public discussion and some controversy. The influence of organized special interest groups over Government is an issue of growing concern among American citizens. And it is heartening that the operations of this powerful, well-organized and internationally active special interest group of financiers, industrialists, academics, and politicians working to influence our Government's foreign and domestic policies to their own benefit are beginning to come under public scrutiny. The pioneering critical examination of the Trilateral Commission was written by a leading conservative political journalist, Gary Allen. Mr. Allen has reviewed the new wave of exposure being given to the Trilateral Commission's activities in the November 1977 issue of American Opinion. Mr. Allen has examined some of the new data on the Trilateral Commission which I commend to all of my colleagues as an aid in understanding the present administration's policies:

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON": Remember the bad old days when practically nobody but John Birchers believed there could be such a thing as a political conspiracy?...For those of us who recall how infuriating and frustrating all of that was, as Gabriel Heater used to declare: There's good news tonight! The good news is that Americans are catching on. Little lights are clicking on in the brains of "Liberals," Conservatives, Radicals, and Libertarians. Hallelujah, at last! And it means that we might just get out of this mess with what remains of American liberty. The fact that the Conspiracy being run by our Establishment

The Kiwanis Club voted to contribute $25 to the Bike-A-Thon. Twelve Kiwanians, sweetheart Benetta Roming, and Hugh Young, president of the Muleshoe Jaycees, attended the meeting.

The thought of life that ne'er shall cease,
Has something in it like despair.
-Longfellow.

Insiders is daily more obvious to people of all sorts of ideological persuasions is a major breakthrough. And the straw which seem to have cracked the camel's back was the election of Jimmy Carter. The Rockefeller have manipulated the foreign policies of every American President since Franklin Roosevelt; but Mr. Carter has been so obviously a creature of David Rockefeller that many are no longer willing to deny that there is a conspiracy involved.

While readers of this magazine were made aware very early that Henry Kissinger was as much a Rockefeller entity as the Chase Manhattan Bank, most Americans were either ignorant of the fact or ignored it. When the S.S. Watergate went down, sucking with it the entire Nixon Administration except for Henry Kissinger, a lot of people noticed. Following the Confirmation Hearings on the selection of Nelson Rockefeller to be Vice President, the connection between the gutteral, work-garbling German and the Standard Oil family began to be more widely mentioned in the media. When the new Administration from the "rival" party came down the main aisle, and it turned out that Mr. Carter was yet another confection from Standard Oil, stomachs began to turn.

The Spetember issue of Oui magazine, with a circulation of more than a million, carried an article by Craig Karpel entitled "Who Runs Jimmy Carter?" Karpel begins his feature story quoting Jimmy Carter's acceptance speech at the Democrat National Convention, in which candidate Carter hypocritically and cynically denounced the "unholy, self-perpetuating alliances (that) have been formed between money and politics... a political and economic elite who have shaped decisions and never had to account for mistakes nor to suffer from injustice. When unemployment prevails, they never stand in line looking for a job. When deprivation results from a confused welfare system, they never do without food or clothing, or a place to sleep. Then the public schools are inferior or torn by strife, their children go to exclusive private schools. And when the bureaucracy is bloated and confused, the powerful always manage to discover and occupy niches of special influence and privilege."

Then Karpel points out that at the time Jimmy Carter gave that speech he was himself a member of David Rockefeller's elitist Trilateral Commission, made up of "the world's most influential and powerful bankers and businessmen." Though the delegates were ignorant of it, that was hardly the best-kept secret of the decade. In fact Craig Karpel reports: "A delegate to the Democratic National Convention attempted to deliver a speech revealing Carter's relationship to David Rockefeller, Zbigniew Brzezinski and the Trilateral Commission, but was cut off as he spoke."

The speech was given by Alex Garnish of Pittsfield, Mass., to nominate antibussing candidate Gary Benoit for Vice President. Stopped in the middle of his carefully prepared speech and told that he must quit talking about the relationship between Carter and the Rockefellers, Alex Garnish stood embarrassed before millions of television viewers and an enormous hall full of delegates and national press. If this speech had been delivered, it would have electrified the convention. It would have explained the Carter "phenomenon" to millions of voters and changed the course of a close election. But when somebody actually started speaking lines that weren't in the script, the media assumed the Garnish must be a kook and a crank; they never bothered to find out what he had planned to tell his fellow delegates--let alone to determine whether his charges were true.

The major thrust of Mr. Karpel's piece strikes at a report, issued by the Trilateral Commission, which complains that many nations of the world (but especially the United States) are becoming too democratic. Conservatives, anxious that the Constitution remain preeminent in an American republic, see appeals to democracy as a means of using the mob to prepare the way for rule by the most ambitious and tyrannical crooks. What the Trilateral Commission is complaining about here, however, is that the Trilateralists are still limited in what they can do to us because of continuing widespread public support for the principles of the Constitution.

David Rockefeller considers himself to be a citizen of the world. His bank's and his family's business interests are worldwide...He does not spend any time futzing around in Albany or Washington like Nelson. To David Rockefeller, the national interests of the United States are parochial and particularistic, the sentimental preoccupation of smaller minds than his...such as that of his older brother, patron of that largest of small minds, Henry Kissinger--not to mention the vast majority of the American people.

David Rockefeller thus set about to replace Kissinger with ambitious Zbigniew Brzezinski, a streamlined practitioner of (Realpolitik) who harbors no anachronistic attachment to those values traditionally expressed through American's national Government which might get in the way of the world trade.

It is, however, considered gauche to campaign publicly for the job of National Security Advisor to the President. One of the main reasons for setting up the Trilateral Commission, therefore, was to supply Brzezinski with a forum in which to campaign privately. There was, moreover, a technicality: Brzezinski would have to be appointed to one or both of these posts by a President. Therefore, no sooner had Rockefeller and Brzezinski set up the Trilateral Commission in the summer of 1973 than they began casting about for a politician whom they could project into the Presidency in 1976.

Karpel theorizes that Rockefeller intends Brzezinski, first head of the Trilateral Commission and now Jimmy Carter's National Security Advisor, to be the man to institute the New World Order. Carter was picked to become the visible President so that Brzezinski could run foreign policy.

Why the unknown peanut merchant from roasting Plains? Karpel explains: "Rockefeller and Brzezinski's most important consideration was the need to induct a Presidential candidate into the foreign-policy establishment who, if elected, would be beholden to no other constituency. This ruled out such men who were considered Presidential contenders in 1973 as: Senator Edward Kennedy... Senator Hubert H. Humphrey... Senator Henry Jackson... Carter by contrast, had no such powerful constituency to satisfy--or to rely on. He had no backing of political debts to pay or to collect should he be elected President. The deal was simply:

All Carter had to do was promise to appoint Brzezinski to high office and give him the shot of free rein that Nixon had given Kissinger, and the entire resources of David Rockefeller's pyramid of influence would be at his disposal both in the following three years--during which it would do all in its power to get him nominated and elected--and in the ensuing eight years, during which it would help him govern..."

HECE Girls Enjoy Trip To Six Flags

Eight months ago a group of HECE girls started planning a trip to Six Flags Over Texas. This was not a school sponsored trip. Each girl had to earn her own money. In the past months the girls had such money-making projects as car washes, bake sales, poinsettia sales, and contracting cakes.

Their hard work proved to be a success after this past week-end when they spent an enjoyable Saturday at Six Flags. The plans were to drive to Lubbock at 5:00 and catch a flight to Dallas-Fort Worth Airport at 7:45 on Continental Airlines. The plane had engine difficulties; and the group finally departed at 10:45 and arrived at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport about 11:30. Taxis took them to their motel, and they were glad to have finally reached their destination. The next morning it was up and off to Six Flags.

They returned to Muleshoe Sunday. Those making the trip were Cindy Harris, Anna Hernandez, Jolinda Hawkins, Melody Mauldin, Frances Brown, Jane Green, Rhonda King, Janie Posados, Maria Pacheco, Loveta Black, LaDene Dudley, Tana Webb, Renae Ruthardt, Stephanie Bell, Nina Pitcock, Terie Wilmon, Mrs. Evelene Harris, Mrs. Johannah Gartin, Mrs. Sue King, Mrs. Mary Ferguson, and Mrs. Wanda Gramling.

Library News

By Anne Camp

Library Week was a very enjoyable and successful week. The Library would like to extend thanks and appreciation to all who helped make it a success. Special thanks go to the News Media for the excellent coverage in informing the public of all the activities; The Muleshoe Study Club for their work on the Used book sale; The Muleshoe AAUW for their substantial gift to the library; and all those who brought items to display during the week; and all who came to visit and buy books from the sale. I understand that this was the best one yet!

This week we were very busy the library checking out books to boys and girls participating in the READATHON. The children are so enthusiastic-it will surely be successful, and for such a worthy cause.

22 were present from the Goodwill Kindergarten this Wednesday, to watch "Ferdinand the Bull" and "Lambert the Sheepish Lion" movies in the basement of the library.

The "HISTORY OF BAILEY COUNTY" displayed is still in the library, and everyone has commented on how nice it is. An order for the book may be given at the library. These Junior High Historians and their sponsor, Mrs. Morris McKillip are to be highly commended for their fine work.

Tennis Duo Take First At Plainview

Danny Wilson and Billy Vinson competed against some stiff competition April 7 and 8 in the High Plains Tennis Association Tournament held in Plainview.

Danny and Billy received a first round bye and played only the second round on Friday. Their competitors were from Slaton and they gave the Muleshoe doubles team a slight bit of trouble. Danny and Billy went on to win this round by a score of 6-3, 6-4. The third round proved to be a bit easier for Muleshoe. They faced Hill and Butler from Dimmitt. The scores ended at 6-2, 6-3. In the quarter finals, Wilson and Vinson struggled through a very competitive first set and then breezed through the second. The final count was 6-3, 6-1. The Muleshoe duo advanced into the finals by default when Nazareth was unable to play in the semi-final match. In the finals the Muleshoe team had an abundance of problems with the opposition. Danny and Billy were unable to play their own type of tennis. Instead they played their opponents type which proved to be bad in the first set. But Danny and Billy rallied back in the final two sets to take a narrow margin of victory. The final score was 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Congratulations to these two and good luck in the upcoming district meet.

TTU Offering New Photography Course

The birds, the flowers, and now the cameras herald spring. So it goes at Texas Tech University where a 35mm camera course for the beginner has been announced as open to all amateur photographers on the South Plains.

Beginning Photography will meet on Thursdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. for six weeks beginning April 20. Training in operation of the 35 mm camera will be given before emphasis is placed on how to compose and shoot good pictures.

John McKinney, perennial teacher of the spring course and member of the Texas Tech faculty, has graduated 12 photo short course groups during the past 12 months. He credits popular appeal of the course to clear and simple blackboard talk, classroom demonstrations, one thousand educational color slides and films and 30 minutes photo guest lectures. "Photography is something to enjoy while learning," he explained. "It is an evening out."

"Among picture subjects that students will see 'critiqued' on the projection screen will be: landscapes, sports, children, travelogues, flowers, silhouettes, waterfalls, closeups, aerials, farm and ranch scenes, animals, closeup photography, adult portraits, sunsets and night effects.

"Sixes attending the photo course have run about 50-50. Teen-age to seventy five. And students communit from as distant as 90 miles one way," McKinney said.

For 26 years McKinney was photographic editor and cover photographer for "Progressive Farmer" and "Southern Living" magazines. His pictures have appeared in prestigious publications at home and internationally. In early 1977 he came to the Tech campus from lecturing as a Peace Corps Volunteer in photography at Universiti Pertanian, Malaysia.

The teacher has traveled in 40 countries on five continents. He will share his pictures and his techniques with students.

Beginning Photography devotes its entire time to use of the 35mm camera and composing and shooting of pictures. Course students will have their work processed commercially.

Tuition is $30 per person. At the end of the course a certificate will be awarded to each student qualifying. Information and application forms are available on Tech campus in Mass Communications Building, Room 102, phone 742-3385.

To predict the fate of emergency 1978 farm legislation being considered by Congress would be an exercise in irresponsibility, say officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Meanwhile, they say, farmers are raising questions concerning the only program they can be reasonably certain will be in effect. And PCG has contacted USDA officials in search of answers.

As of April 7 the originally announced 44-cent loan and 52-cent target price, with no mandatory set-aside, remained intact, along with the Administration's voluntary "set-aside for pay" announcement of March 29.

The latter program has prompted the most questions. It permits a producer to divert from production and devote to a conserving crop an acreage equal to ten percent of his 1978 planted cotton acres in return for a payment. The payment, at the rate of two cents per pound times the normal yield from planted acreage, is also conditioned on compliance with the farm's Normal Cropland Acreage (NCA) and on the farmer not planting more cotton than was planted in 1977.

Here are some of the USDA statements given in answer to PCG queries, with the caution that most were preceded by something like "As far as we know now . . ."

Setting aside ten percent of planted acres will not reduce a farm's Normal Cropland Acreage for future years of the program. The assigned 1978 NCA is intended to apply for the four years of the 1977 Act, through 1981.

One-half of the two-cent per pound set-aside payment will be made soon after the producer signs up his planting intentions, the other half after planting is completed.

In the event a producer is prevented from planting by drought or other condition beyond his control, the portion of the set-aside payment made at sign-up will "probably" be deducted from his prevented planting disaster payment.

However if planting is completed and the producer subsequently becomes eligible for a no-yield or low-yield payment, the full payment "probably" will be made.

The ten percent set-aside requirement applies to 1978 planted acreage, not last year's acreage. Thus the farmer who would have otherwise planted 100 acres of cotton will be required to set aside only 9.1 acres (approximately ten percent of 90.9 planted acres), not ten percent of 100 acres. The acreage that can be planted and leave the required acres for set-aside can be determined by multiplying the factor 90.91 times any number of acres that would have been planted without a set-aside.

NOW... Lambert Cleaners offers carpet cleaning that makes all other systems obsolete...

Professional Steam Carpet Cleaning the Bane-Clene® Way

- Safe, gentle cleaning--our warm vapor mixed with a cleaning agent is injected into the carpet at LOW PRESSURE so it doesn't wet the carpet backing. Then soil and cleaning agent are extracted at HIGH VELOCITY, leaving the carpet dry faster, stay cleaner, last longer. No soapy, sticky residue left in carpet.
- No heavy equipment to bump or scratch furniture, spill water or clog drains. Our equipment is in the truck, and all the dirty water, cleaning agent and odor go out through the hose into the truck. Portable equipment is also available for high-rise apartments or offices.

A Radiant CLEAN LIFE

The housewife cleans her home until it shines with a radiance that gives contentment and joy to those who view it.

It pleases God to see our lives clean and wholesome. We all need help, to keep our lives clean. David prayed to God for help in this matter.

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

Lean upon the Lord. Seek his help and he will not deny it. Attend church this Sunday and let your life be centered in the Lord.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
