DALLAS (AP) — Detectives investigating the kidnapping of 6-year-old Opal Jo Jennings have taken bloody car mats from suspect Richard Lee Franks' garage, his wife said.
But Judy Franks said she believes the blood is hers. She told The Dallas Morning News for a story in today's editions that she stained the mats when her husband drove her to the hospital in December 1997 after she cut her arm in a motor-scooter accident.
"I had to have stitches," Mrs. Franks said. "The doctor said it was so deep he could put his finger down in it."
She said the mats were taken in a police search of the garage of the Frankses' Fort Worth home on Monday. Investigators have declined to discuss the results of their search. Items seized have been sent to an FBI lab for testing.
Leon Haley Jr., the suspect's attorney, said he has seen the evidence list and found nothing of concern.

PEDC sues owners of U.S. Bus

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

The PEDC has filed suit against the owners of U.S. Bus trying to recover some or all of the $859,000 still owed for the failed bus company.

The suit was filed Aug. 20 in 223rd District Court against Irwin and Bruce Kushner, who signed personal guarantees for the loans made and guaranteed by the PEDC. U.S. Bus is not named, according to the suit, because "it is apparently insolvent and is under the protection of Chapter 7 of the bankruptcy code."

If the suit is unsuccessful, local taxpayers stand to lose the entire $859,000. Money for the PEDC comes from a half-cent sales tax assessed in Pampa.

If the suit is unsuccessful, local taxpayers stand to lose the entire $859,000. Money for the PEDC comes from a half-cent sales tax assessed in Pampa.

Three separate notes were signed by Irwin Kushner starting in October of 1996. That first note was for $299,107 the other two were for $350,000 and $210,000.

A fourth note for $100,000 was signed by Bruce Kushner in October of 1997 and due 30 days later.

Of the money owed the PEDC by the Kushners, $210,000 is money loaned directly from the PEDC. The rest are bank loans that are guaranteed by the agency.

PEDC board member Roger David said the board had to wait to file suit until after an auction of equipment and property at the old U.S. Bus building in order to see how much that raised. He said lawyers moved cautiously to ensure all the necessary steps were taken.

Both father and son reside in New York and have started another bus company there, according to some advertising seen at the PEDC.

David said he didn't believe the PEDC could move against that new company.

Miami ISD loses another funding battle

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

MIAMI — Miami Independent School District trustees will decide Tuesday night whether to pursue further legal action following the Texas Supreme Court's decision denying an appeal from the school district involving the 1993 school finance Robin Hood law.

Thursday's ruling was the third court decision to go against the Miami ISD during the past two years. The rural district is one of the school districts in Texas which was determined wealthy because the district's taxable values exceed $280,000 per student, and must share the wealth with property poor districts.

The district, which has 170 students enrolled in grades K-12, lost the first court battle when District Judge Scott McCown of Austin ruled against the district last year. His ruling was upheld by the 3rd Court of Appeals. The Texas Supreme Court denied the appeal Thursday without comment.

In their court battle, Miami ISD contends the district is exempt from the requirement that property-rich districts share their wealth with poor districts. The district was named exemplary recently for the third consecutive year.

Ratings are based on student performance on the state's standardized test, known as Texas Assessment of Academic Skills exam, as well as dropout and attendance rates.

Miami School Superintendent Allen Dinsmore said the case is not an issue over school finance, but instead is over accountability standards. He said the rural district's interpretation of the law is that achieving exemplary status by a school district is a reward, and that the funds do not have to be sent to the state for recapture.

Police cracking down on drivers around PHS

Anyone driving around the schools and especially Pampa High School can be on the lookout for extra traffic patrols.

That's the word from Pampa Police Chief Charlie Morris. He said the police have been getting a lot of complaints, and have noticed some careless driving, especially by younger drivers.

"We are going to be making a significant enforcement effort, especially around the high school," he said.

The police will be especially watchful for speeding, running stop signs and passing on the wrong side of the road, according to Morris.

"It's getting to be a dangerous situation and we don't want anyone hurt," Morris said.

Police will concentrate on Harvester, Randy Matson, Charles, Russell and others in that area and Morris warned all drivers to use extra caution in that area.

Exchanging home for a panhandle visit

By DARLENE BIRKES

"I'm not going to survive this," thought Marie Kessel of Denmark after her first day of school at White Deer High.

Things move so fast in the United States concluded the group of newly-arrived AFS exchange students meeting together from Pampa, White Deer, with one AFS returnee, Lacey Seuchs, of Miami who spent last year in Switzerland.

Seuchs said she sometimes missed the fast pace while in Switzerland but added that it was also great to be laid back and not feel pushed. Night activities were limited for her as the last train for home was 10:30 p.m., and no one had cars.

All three students, Kessel, Felix Stahli of Switzerland and Mitzi Pederson of Denmark, agreed they can not believe all of the cars students drive. They decided they might feel strange walking or biking here.

Kessel is now enjoying her classes, especially chemistry, because she knows the metric system and everyone else is trying to decipher it. She likes all the sports and is looking forward to participating in most of them. "When I am lifting

Repeat offender gets 20 years on drug charge

A Canadian man was given the maximum sentence on charges of delivery of a controlled substance this week in Hemphill County.

Victor Rodriguez, 50, 322 Garrard, was sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary for an incident that occurred July 29, 1998. According to 31st District Attorney John Mann, Rodriguez sold 3.6 grams of cocaine to an undercover DPS agent at his house on Garrard.

While this was Rodriguez's first conviction on drug charges he had twice been convicted of felonies, once in 1979 he was given six years probation for aggravated assault and got another six years probation in 1990 for carrying a concealed weapon in a licensed premise. He had also been previously arrested on misdemeanor charges.

During the prosecution in 31st District Judge Steven Emmert's court, Mann called the DPS undercover officer, who bought the drugs, as well as a chemist to testify the substance was cocaine.

During the punishment phase, Mann also had Constable Chris Lockridge testify about a previous arrest of Rodriguez he had made.

Rodriguez, who has served 222 days in Hemphill County Jail will remain there until transportation to a state facility can be arranged.

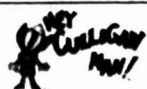

Don't forget the White Deer Land Museum Foundation's Evening Under the Stars fund-raiser, dinner and street dance at 7 p.m. Saturday at 112-116 S. Cuyler. Tickets are $15 per person.

Mother of Bessettes applies to administer estates of her daughters

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and Lauren Bessette has filed court papers to leave open the option to sue over the plane crash that killed her daughters and John F. Kennedy Jr.

Ann M. Freeman of Old Greenwich, Conn., on Thursday filed a petition in State Surrogate's Court in Manhattan to distribute existing assets totaling less than $1 million and any money that might be produced from lawsuits.

The court papers left open the option of lawsuits, saying there might be "personal injury and wrongful death claims against persons and parties as yet unknown."

Ms. Freeman's daughters Carolyn, 33, and Lauren, 34, were killed July 16 in the crash of Kennedy's single-engine Piper Saratoga, which plunged into the Atlantic Ocean about 7 1/2 miles off Massachusetts' Martha's Vineyard.

The National Transportation Safety Board has said the plane appears to have been functioning properly when it hit the water, but the weather may have been worse than indicated in a forecast the 38-year-old Kennedy had received.

So far, no will has been filed in Surrogate's Court for the estimated $100 million Kennedy estate.

The petition filed by Ms. Freeman, a teacher and administrator, showed that the daughters had not filed wills and that the estates totaled no more than $500,000 each. Lauren was an investment banker at Morgan Stanley and Carolyn was a former publicist for designer Calvin Klein.

Ann B. Lesk, co-chairwoman of the section on Trust Estates and Surrogates Court of the New York County Lawyers Association, said state law calls for the parents to administer the assets of someone with no living spouse or offspring.

MIAMI

The Miami school trustees will consider a proposed budget Tuesday night of $3,310,000. The 1993 law changing school finance in Texas, commonly known as the Robin Hood law, requires the Miami ISD must send approximately $1.5 million of the budgeted figure to the state for recapture, or share-the-wealth with other districts throughout the state.

Dinsmore said the school district may file a motion for rehearing before the Supreme Court.

If the rural district doesn't continue court proceedings on the appeal, about $2.5 million which the district sent to McCown's court will go to the Texas Education Agency. That is the amount of money the district was required to share during the past two school years under the Robin Hood school finance law. He said an additional $1.5 million is required to be sent by Miami to the state during the current school year.

Dinsmore says the rural district is losing 55 percent to 60 percent of the property wealth in the district. The district argued that the exemplary rating exempted it from the requirement that property-rich districts share their wealth with poor districts.

He said the share-the-wealth requirement that rich districts share their wealth isn't listed as a requirement placed on public schools. He said the state law that created the accountability system exempts exemplary districts from all requirements. The state argued that lawmakers never intended to exempt exemplary rich districts from the Robin Hood requirement.

Dinsmore said if the district had not been named exemplary the Miami ISD would have released the funds with no problem.

Miami ISD is among the majority of school districts across the Texas Panhandle which is declining in student population. The district ended the 1998-1999 school year with 188 students. Dinsmore reported there were 170 students enrolled in grades K-12 Friday.

weights, I like to look out the window and watch the football in practice. I never knew football," she said excitedly.

"I really miss hearing and speaking German," said Sehus as she practiced her German with Stahl. In her area of Switzerland, the people spoke in Swiss German, which was entirely different from the "high" German she was learning in school, reading in print and hearing on television. These two languages made it very difficult for her to adjust her first months abroad. Sehus even detected a dialect difference in the German Stahl from Zurich spoke and that spoken in her hometown of Olten, only 30 minutes away by train.

Pederson was so surprised with the size of Pampa High and Pampa, being from a town of 4,000. She had attended school with the same class of 20 students for 10 years. "Now I know 150 people, and I don't even know their names," she exclaimed. Her Dannish family knew nothing of Pampa until they heard a program on natural disasters, and Pampa was mentioned in connection with a tornado. They assumed that was where she was going.

All three agreed they knew a lot about American schools, the crowded halls and activities because they had seen movies. And even though they all speak English, having had from two to six years in school, they laughed at the mistakes they have made. "I'm known as the boy with the foreign accent," said Stahl. Pederson said she really mispronounced jallapeno one day and Kessel has embarrassed herself using the wrong word several times. As for the wide open spaces, Stahl really likes all the space.

They decided to say "goodbye" the European way, then hit each other's hands with the American "high five."

Dr. Craig and Nancy Shaffer are hosting Stahl, and Chuck and Brenda Meyer are hosting Pederson, both attending Pampa High. Kessel is with Tim and Sherrill Wheeler of White Deer. Wheeler, a business teacher at Pampa High School, is the AFS teacher liaison at PHS, and Joey Ray is the AFS teacher liaison at White Deer.

The students will be introduced on the Chautauque stage at noon on Labor Day. They will be available for programs after December. AFS has hosted students at Pampa High School since 1951.

Cow heads offend some

SABBATUS, Maine (AP) — Cattle and hog rancher Leon Hinkley doesn't mean to offend anybody, but the butchered cow heads on his fence posts really do serve a purpose.

"It keeps the evil spirits away," he said. "Seriously."

Five years ago, Hinkley was losing as many as 15 cows per year and veterinarians were at a loss to explain why.

"My grandfather always had a cow skull on the barn," Hinkley said. "He said it kept the dead away. I never believed it. I thought it was bull."

Figuring he had nothing to lose, Hinkley decided to try it. When he butchered his next cow, he planted the head on the fence that surrounds his herd of 100 animals.

The death rate has declined ever since. He repeats the process every time he butchers a cow. There are about 16 skulls currently on the fence.

Some passers-by have complained, but state health officials say no laws prevent Hinkley's practice and there aren't enough rotting heads to pose a public health hazard.

Not an average fire

AUGUSTA, Ky. (AP) — After police Chief Greg Cummins' cruiser caught fire, it started shooting at him: Flames were setting off ammunition inside.

"Bullets were whizzing around; 9 mm rounds were going off," he said. "I blocked the road and waited until there weren't any more bullets going off."

Cummins had made a traffic stop on Kentucky 19 late Sunday and returned to his cruiser to find smoke pouring from the dash. He tried using his fire extinguisher, but that only slowed the fire.

By the time firefighters arrived, the bullets had stopped but the fire was still burning. Firefighters said it was likely an electrical fire.

The traffic violator got off with a warning.

No one knew her talent

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Lillian Naslund made a small fortune after teaching herself how to invest. She never subscribed to magazines or newspapers, but spent hours at the library instead.

Lucky for them. Ms. Naslund, who died last summer at a nursing home in Florida, bequeathed more than $239,000 to the Duluth Public Libraries.

"I had no idea she had that kind of money," said Charles Walters, superintendent of Forest Hill Cemetery in Duluth, where Naslund is interred in a family mausoleum.

Ms. Naslund was born and raised in the mining town of Tower and grew up in a boarding house. She moved to Duluth as a teen-ager, after her mother's death, said her grandniece, Cheryl Davis of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

After a few tough years during the Depression, Naslund left for Gary, Ind., to work in the steel mills. She later went to school to become a medical transcriptionist and eventually taught herself how to invest.

She retired in Duluth before moving to Florida to escape the harsh winters. She was 91.

Earlier this month, El Cenizo passed an ordinance declaring that all city meetings and functions would be held in Spanish. The small community along the Mexican border is believed to be the only U.S.

city with an all-Spanish policy. According to transcripts of the Aug. 17 broadcast, Geronimo and O'Meara called El Cenizo City Hall and made race-related remarks to the woman who answered the phone.

"If your people cannot understand my language, they should get on their burros and go back to Mexico," the transcript says. "You are in America. You got to speak American. You Mexicans have your own country. You know why I don't have to learn to speak Spanish? Because this is goddamned America. Go back to your country."

The callers never asked the woman her name. However, she was city commissioner Flora Barton.

"I couldn't believe they would really be live radio — they were talking so terrible," Barton said Wednesday.

Thursday's protest was organized by Bob Ingersoll, vice chairman of the Bernalillo County Democratic Party. Ingersoll and several other groups, including the Hispanic Round Table of New Mexico, the League of United Latin American Citizens and the Hispano Chamber of Commerce, called for a boycott of Citadel.

"Citadel Communications is guilty of racist broadcasting," Ingersoll told the protesters. "We have to stop the racism and hate radio we've been having here. We won't let this go unanswered."

Citadel spokesman Art Ortega says the company will help protesters draft a letter making it clear to the show's hosts that similar remarks should not be aired again. He said Citadel had no plans to pull the show, however.

"We have listened to the tape of the show, and we agree that it was insensitive in the way it characterized the people of the town," Ortega said.

Ken Stevens, general manager of WJFK, said he hadn't heard the broadcast and hasn't yet obtained a tape.

"It's not a shock-radio kind of show," Stevens said. "I've never, in all the time I've worked with them, heard them do anything racist."

Consuelo Martinez, state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said her organization might file a lawsuit against WJFK.

"The language here was so racist and so demeaning, I would hope LULAC would do something to make a statement to the people who put these shows on the air that they must take responsibility for what they are producing," she said.

New driving-related laws to take effect

The Department of Public Safety is alerting citizens about driving-related legislation that takes effect Sept. 1 including:

Large trucks (including 18-wheelers), assorted vehicles pulling trailers and school activity buses will now be able to drive the same speed limit as cars on interstates and highways numbered by the federal and state government a maximum speed limit of 70 mph day/65 mph night on those roadways. The truck speed limit will remain the same (maximum 60 mph day/55 mph night) on farm to market (FM) roads and ranch to market (RM) roads.

School buses without commercial vehicle inspection stickers will now have a maximum speed limit of 50 mph. The prior law allowed school buses to travel 55 mph on interstates. School buses with commercial vehicle inspection stickers will now be allowed to travel 60 mph on interstates and state numbered highways.

The speed limit on beaches has been lowered to 15 mph.

Although legislation to raise the driving age had been introduced during the session, nothing passed. The standard legal driving age in Texas remains 16.

The current seat belt law has been broadened to cover all children in a vehicle, no matter where they are seated. That means that all children under 15 must be properly restrained period. The new law also now requires seat belt usage for children under 15 years of age in one ton pick-ups.

(Please note that children under two years of age must still be seated in an approved car seat.) One other change clarifies that safety belt means a lap belt and a shoulder strap, if the vehicle is so equipped.

The DWI threshold will drop from 0.10 to 0.08 blood alcohol content. This change in the law also will affect the Administrative License Revocation program, which allows for the civil suspension of driver licenses for those who register a .08 or above, as well as those who refuse a breath test.

Vehicle inspection fees will increase on Sept. 1, 1999.

—Safety Only Inspection-$12.50
—Motorcycles-$12.50
—Mopeds-$5.75
—New Car Initial Inspection-$21.75
—Emission Only Inspection-$13.00
—Safety and Emissions Inspection-$25.5

Starting Jan. 1, 2000, all gas caps will be pressure-tested during vehicle inspections to make sure caps are not leaking gas fumes into the atmosphere.

Beginning Sept. 1, new driver licenses, identification cards and renewals will have a writeable surface on the back, so license holders will have the option to fill in a contact number to call in an emergency if law enforcement agencies need to contact next-of-kin. License and I.D. holders already are able to write in where an emergency directive to physician is filed and any allergic reactions to drugs the license holder may have.

Widow Says Husband's Secret Should Have Stayed Buried.

DEAR ABBY: It has taken me years to write this letter. My husband and I were married 35 years when he died suddenly. I adored him. He was my whole world.

A few years later I was putting my life back together when out of the blue, my "best friend" told me my husband had had an affair, and she could prove it. All his pallbearers knew about it. After much looking back, I knew it was true. I was devastated and have been in therapy for several years.

I would like to thank all of those who knew and kept silent. When a person dies, let all secrets be buried with him.

I cry as I write this, Abby. I loved him so much. Perhaps my letter will keep someone from hurting a person who is already hurting.

WOUNDED IN MIDLAND, TEXAS

DEAR WOUNDED: A person who pours salt on the wound of someone who is already hurting is not a "friend"; she is a troublemaker. All you had left of your marriage were your memories, and I have to wonder why someone would want to destroy them. I hope that your years of therapy have helped you put your feelings of anger and betrayal into perspective, and to focus on the many wonderful years you had together — because in the long run that is all that's important. You have years of life ahead of you, and it would be a tragedy if you spent them crying over something that no one can change and was better left unsaid.

DEAR ABBY: The recent letter in your column about jury duty prompts this letter. How do we ever get a jury of our peers when the selection process weeds out anyone who has read a newspaper or listened to the news in the last five years? They seem to want only brain-dead jurors.

ARLEN B., HERCULES, CALIF.

DEAR ARLEN: During the last decade or so, the jury selection process has become very sophisticated — and counsel for both sides usually have specific criteria in mind as they go through the process. If I had to name the No. 1 complaint I receive from readers about jury duty, it's that so little money is paid to jurors that they fear it would cause financial hardship to their families. Someone has to pay for the groceries while the jurors sit in judgment.

DEAR ABBY: I thought you'd be interested to know that the story of the wife and mother in a sinking boat was used for courses for Western men who would be doing business in the Far East to show contrasts in the way the two cultures differ.

When presented with the choice of saving the wife or the mother, most men brought up in a Western culture chose to save their wife. The men brought up in an Eastern culture would choose to save their mother — the rationale being that it was possible to have another wife, but one could never have another mother.

DIFFERENT STROKES, LAKELAND, FLA.

DEAR DIFFERENT: That's why it's so important for women to know how to paddle their own canoes.

Abby shares her favorite recipes in two booklets: "Abby's Favorite Recipes" and "Abby's More Favorite Recipes." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 per booklet ($4.50 each in Canada) to: Dear Abby Booklets, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. ## Minister's musing ...

Is God a Catholic or a Protestant? That may seem like a strange question, but think about it for a moment. Recently I asked the Lord to direct me to what I should preach on next. In all of my 26 years of ministry I have never preached on "Crucifixes & Crosses." However, when you ask God for guidance and He gives it, there is no choice, but to proceed. (even if His guidance isn't what you wanted).

In preparation for these sermons I spent a lot of time talking with various friends concerning crucifixes and crosses. As most of you will already know, most crosses in Catholic churches have Jesus on them and they are therefore called crucifixes. However, in most Protestant churches the only appropriate cross has no Jesus on it. But why? Have you ever asked yourself why it is that way? Now the purpose of this article is not to travel back through history and document all of the background of both Christian symbols. The purpose of this article is to recommend for your consideration this thought: Believers need both the crucifix and the cross.

Since the crucifix points to the crucifixion and the cross (without a body) points to the resurrection, I sought out a list of all the biblical references and allusions to each event. I tried to find a list that someone wise had compiled, but struck out. That would myself. I am sure that I missed a few, but what I found kind of surprised me. From Acts through Revelation the subject of the crucifixion of Jesus is mentioned 150 + times. The resurrection is referred to about 55 times. Now that doesn't mean that the crucifixion is three times more important than the resurrection. Without the resurrection the crucifixion is no more important than the death of any other martyr.

By Rev. Mike Sublett
Hi-Land Christian Church

However, without the crucifixion the resurrection doesn't even happen. What is the point then?

The crucifixion and resurrection are eternally welded together. They cannot be separated, nor should they be if they could. What is the message of the crucifixion? Isn't it that Jesus loved so much that He was willing to shed His blood for our sins and even become sin for us? 1 Pet 2:21-24; 2 Cor 5:21. What is the message of the resurrection? Isn't it that Jesus overcame and conquered death once and for all times not only for Himself, but for each of us as well? 1 Thess. 1:10; Rom. 8:11.

So which message do you want? Don't you want them both? I certainly so. I chuckle now when I hear some Protestant glibly say, "I don't serve a dead Jesus. My Jesus is alive and that is why I won't wear a crucifix." HELL-O! Catholics believe in a risen Jesus as well and still wear a crucifix. I have the same kind of chuckle when I hear some Catholic believer say something like, "I just don't understand why Protestants don't appreciate the suffering and death of Jesus like us." HELL-O! Every faithful Protestant that I know treasures to the point of tears what Jesus did at Calvary. Why do we think that it has to be one or the other? What not both?

I need the crucifix. Not the jewelry itself, but the message that it sends by its very existence. But I need the cross too. Jesus isn't dead! he is a bodily resurrected Jesus! Since I need both messages, I will always wear both crucifixes and crosses. You see it isn't a "jewelry issue", it is a "Jesus issue."

On August 22 we put up a crucifix in almost every room at Hi-Land Christian Church. Not so that we could become a Catholic church, but so that we could learn from our Catholic brothers and sisters. Every time that I look at one of the crucifixes I remember vividly the price paid for my sins—blood of the Savior. We already have several "crosses" (no body) and each of them help me rejoice in what Jesus accomplished on Easter Sunday.

So if you've thought that crucifixes were wrong, maybe this will help you rethink the matter. And if you've never had as much respect for the "cross" as you have your "crucifix", maybe this article will help you do the same.

Personally I choose both. From now until I die I will wear both crosses and crucifixes. I will also have both in my office and in my home. Since "UNITY" is my obsession, I see the crucifix and the cross as symbols that can be used to draw both Catholic Christians and Protestant Christians together in oneness so that we might all worship our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ with one heart. After all, that is what we were created for—TO WORSHIP GOD!

So if you are a Catholic Christian, go out and buy yourself an empty cross as a statement for the UNITY of all believers. And if you are a Protestant Christian, go out and buy yourself a crucifix for the same reason. Thanks for reading these thoughts and God bless.

A thank you note to God ...

Thanks, God.

Thank you the fatty tumor with the name of many letters was benign. Thank you that I'm not following in Mama's footsteps. Yes, yes, I know statistically this is the proper outcome but it is good to hear a specially trained person say, "It's nothing to worry about."

It may have been nothing to worry about, that little pea under the skin I felt one summer day but just the same its niggling presence led me to do bizarre things. You know something's on your mind when you polish the sterling silver and clean both ovens and your mother-in-law isn't on her way to town.

I told my friends I'd let them know if meltdown was imminent in the most offhand way then cry when no one was looking. My mind occupied itself with not thinking about this offensive bit of flesh at the same time my fingers checked for its meaty hardness. Perhaps subconsciously I thought I might be pleasantly surprised by its absence on another summer day.

Not so. The lump rode around with me two months before its excision.

Now I only have to look at the red dimple which remains to be reminded of my mother's death and my grumpy body's decline into mortality.

With the good news in, I can breathe a little more deeply, liberating the tension which has consumed me. I can think and pray again.

I am humbly grateful for the good news graciously provided by those in the know. I haven't cuddled a grandchild, completely made peace with myself or enjoyed my fill of professional accomplishment. I wasn't ready to say goodbye to those I love and I didn't want to take time from living to stave off the inevitability of death.

Thanks, God.

Fun, fellowship at Ceta Canyon Camp

AMARILLO, Texas — Shirley Garrison never got to go to church camp.

"We lived down in the Lubbock County area, and it was work in the summertime when I was growing up," Garrison said. "I grew up during the Depression."

But during the years he spent as an agri-businessman and community leader in the Hereford area, Garrison sent his children and grandchildren off to Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp. He eventually became a trustee of the picturesque retreat near Happy.

Now he is 80 years old, and his grandchildren are experiencing the social, recreational and spiritual benefits of a camp that was founded in 1918 by pioneers who slept in tents and cooked over an open fire.

And Garrison continues to show his gratitude.

The camp is scheduled in October to break ground on a new lodge, and Garrison donated $510,000 of the estimated $1.7 million project cost. He also helped build the dining hall/multi-purpose facility in 1995.

"A lot of kids have said that is where they first met Christ, and they learned how to live with other kids in a Christian atmosphere," Garrison said.

General Manager Bill McCuaig said the camp is an invaluable resource to the spiritual life of the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church, which encompasses 177 congregations.

"In our conference, I would say a large majority of pastors and youth ministers felt the call at youth camps," said McCuaig, who was an assistant parks director in Amarillo before joining the camp staff six years ago.

Children, McCuaig said, "are so prime to hear the word before they turn 18. When they go through the series of camps from elementary to senior high, they're going to be hooked, in a mighty good way."

Some are so hooked they keep coming back.

Nancy Weinette, secretary at Booker United Methodist Church, spends a week out of every summer as a volunteer at the camp, leading crafts workshops.

"I went to camp here in sixth grade," Weinette said. "I had my first boyfriend here in sixth grade."

Associate Manager Wendell Brown was already familiar with the camp when he was offered a job 21 years ago, because his father had worked there for a short while. Brown and his wife, Susa, raised their children at the camp and attended church in Happy. Their children went to Happy schools.

"I feel like it's a calling," said Brown, who oversees camp maintenance. His wife is director of food service.

Ceta Canyon gets by with a permanent staff of eight people and a $600,000 annual budget. Churches provide their own counselors and programming, which keeps operating costs down, Brown said.

This summer, the camp hired 17 extra people to help with food service and maintenance for the church camps, family reunions and business retreats that keep the calendar full during the warm weather months.

"We're on course for a record year right now," Brown said. "Last year, we served 14,000 people in 173 groups."

The new lodge will sleep 160, replacing the seven oldest cabins, which sleep 140. Total capacity is 450 campers.

GROWING MORE DETACHED

Perhaps the biggest mistake sellers make is to set too high an asking price for their homes. This problem often arises as a result of dealing with what is both a home and an investment. As a consequence of being unable to view their homes with emotional detachment, sellers often think their homes are worth more than what anyone is willing to pay. This is where the real estate agent can provide perspective, by doing research on comparable homes in the area that have sold recently. Careful examination of these "comps" will reveal just what the market will bear. It is this type of information that helps sellers price their homes attractively so they stand the best chance of selling.

Selling a house can be complicated, and selecting just the right new home is important. Professional services from someone you can trust can make both much easier. At CENTURY 21 - PAMPA REALTY INC., our system is based on trust. No matter what your real estate needs, dealing with what is both a home and an investment. ### FOOTBALL

PAMPA — Tiger League football signups are scheduled this weekend at the Optimist Club.

Signup times are from 6 to 8 today and from 2 to 4 on Saturday and Sunday. Signup fee is $55.

The league will be divided into two divisions: third-fourth grade; fifth-sixth grade.

Tiger League Commissioner David Hutto can be contacted at 665-3017 if more information is needed.

BASEBALL

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Texas Rangers right-hander Mark Clark and outfielder Mike Simms are on their way to the minors on medical rehabilitation assignments.

Clark, who has been on the disabled list since June 20 with a partially torn ligament in his right elbow, will be assigned to Savannah of the South Atlantic League.

Simms, who has missed the entire season with left heel and foot problems, will be assigned to Port Charlotte of the Florida State League, effective Friday.

He took batting practice off Clark Thursday.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Brian Giles drove in four runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates roughed up Colorado ace Pedro Astacio for six runs in the first two innings of an 8-4 victory over the Rockies on Thursday.

Al Martin had three hits and two RBIs to back Jimmy Anderson (2-1), who retired the first 10 hitters before being lifted after 5 2-3 innings.

Astacio (14-10) yielded six runs and seven hits in two innings.

Giles had a sacrifice fly in a two-run Pirates' first inning and a three-run triple in the second that made it 6-0.

Martin added run-scoring singles in the third and the fifth.

Terry Shumpert's seventh homer, in the fourth, was the first hit off Anderson, who left following two singles, a walk and a run-scoring error by third baseman Ed Sprague in a two-run sixth. Todd Helton homered in the seventh off Greg Hansell.

BASKETBALL

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Free agent Samaki Walker is moving to the San Antonio Spurs from Dallas after accepting a two-year, $5.6 million contract, according to a published report.

The San Antonio Express-News said the power forward will fill a void in the Spurs left by another free agent, Will Perdue.

"I'm very excited about joining the Spurs," Walker told the Express-News in a telephone interview. "I don't think my role has been defined yet. The coaches will watch me play and see my abilities."

The Mavericks had been trying to sign Walker, whose three NBA seasons have been spent in Dallas.

But Walker, who was the team's No. 1 pick in the 1996 draft (ninth overall), was injured most of last season.

PHS cross country teams get ready for new season

PAMPA — When Beth Lee, Amanda White, Marci Hansen, Samantha Hurst and Anna Resendiz were 9th graders, the Pampa girls cross country team won the school's first state championship in that sport.

Now these girls are all seniors, and they would like nothing better than to bring their school another state title. The Lady Harvesters won the District 3-4A championship last year, but only one runner (graduated senior Jenny Fatheree) advanced to the state meet.

"Their goal is to be state champions again. They've been working out since August third and they're chomping at the bit. They're ready to go and compete," said Pampa head coach Mark Elms.

Elms considers Lee the top returnee of the group. She won a bronze medal at last year's Class 4A state track meet and is expected to be one of the area's top cross country athletes.

"Beth is fired up and we're looking for good things from her. But we have nine good runners and any one of the nine can step in and get the job done," Elms said. "They're all working hard."

Pampa's first meet isn't until Sept. 4 at Borger, but both the boys' and girls' cross country teams will have its annual "Run-A-Thon" on Saturday at Hidden Hills. Proceeds will go into the cross country activity account and the Pampa United Way organization. The Pampa teams will be running on the back 9 holes of the course and starting time is 7 a.m.

Sophomore Rebecca Fatheree is another returnee from last year's team. Freshmen T'Andra Holmes, Andrea Lee and Vanessa Orr move up to the varsity. "We've got nine girls and we can only pick seven of them for the team. They're all good ones and it makes for some strong competition," Elms said.

The Pampa boys' team will be thin this season. Listed on the team are sophomores Matthew Crow, Gonzo Salazar, Dustin Johnson and Chad Platt, and freshman Jay Gerber. Both Johnson and Platt are newcomers to the cross country program. Crow and Salazar were on the team last year and so was Gerber as an 8th grader.

Salazar finished second in the district meet a year ago to qualify for regional competition.

Other Pampa cross country meets are as follows: Sept. 11 - Liberal; Sept. 18-Dumas; Sept. 25-Amarillo; Oct. 2-Oklahoma State University; Oct. 9-West Texas State; Oct. 29-District meet.

Quarterbacks are on parade as college football kicks off Saturday

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

Looking for a few good quarterbacks?

Tune in this weekend, when some of the nation's top guns start flinging footballs to open the final college season of the century.

Start with Louisiana Tech at No. 1 Florida State on Saturday, when a healthy Chris Weinke matches passes with the Bulldogs' Tim Rattay, who threw for nearly 5,000 yards last season.

Or try North Carolina State at No. 17 Texas, where Jamie Barnette, the ACC's total offense leader in 1998, hooks up with the Longhorns' Major Applewhite, who threw for 2,453 yards and 18 TDs even with Heisman Trophy-winning teammate Ricky Williams running for 2,124 yards.

Want versatility? Then Notre Dame's Jarious Jackson is the choice. Jackson, who threw for 1,740 yards and ran for another 441 yards in '98, leads the 18th-ranked Irish against visiting Kansas on Saturday.

How about two against one? Check out State College, Pa., where No. 4 Arizona and its co-quarterbacks Keith Smith and Ortege Jenkins take on No. 3 Penn State and its starter, the much-maligned Kevin

Thompson. "Having two quarterbacks is amazing," Arizona running back Trung Canidate said. "You think it would be a distraction, but the bottom line is you have two phenomenal guys, and you just don't think about it."

Coach Dick Tomey said Smith, a senior, will start. Smith threw for 1,732 yards and 13 TDs, and ran for another 199 yards, while Jenkins passed for 1,011 yards and five TDs and ran for 156 yards.

If the Nittany Lions have a weak link, it's the passing game. Thompson threw just six TD passes and had eight interceptions in '98.

And if you're ready for something new, don't miss Sunday's Kickoff Classic between No. 9 Ohio State and No. 12 Miami. Both quarterbacks — the Buckeyes' Austin Moherman and the Hurricanes' Kenny Kelly — are starting for the first time.

"I haven't started since high school, and this is a whole new ballgame," said Kelly, a third-year sophomore. "Once I get those first couple of snaps out of the way, I think I'll get the butterflies out of my stomach."

Kelly threw for 433 yards and five TDs as Scott Covington's backup last season.

Moherman, also third-year sophomore, beat out Steve Bellisar to earn his start. But coach John Cooper expects both to play against Miami.

"Austin has more experience and a better grasp of the offense," Cooper said earlier this week in announcing his choice. Louisiana Tech at No. 1 Florida State Rattay opened last season with a record-setting 590-yard, four-TD effort in a loss to Nebraska, and then ended up as the nation's total offense champion. He threw for 4,943 yards and 46 TDs.

Once again, the Seminoles are loaded. Weinke has recovered from a neck injury that sidelined him for the final three games of the '98 season, and wide receiver Peter Warrick and running back Travis Minor return. Add seven starters from the nation's top-rated defense, and it's easy to see why Florida State starts the season No. 1 for the fifth time since 1988.

North Carolina State at No. 17 Texas (Black Coaches Association Classic)

All-American wideout Torry Holt is gone, but Barnette has a sure-handed target in Chris Coleman. The Wolfpack upset the Seminoles last season, and made it to a bowl for the first time since 1994.

Cavalier pleased with scrimmage against Borger

BORGER — The defense did good, the offense could do better. That was coach Dennis Cavalier's general assessment of Pampa's first scrimmage with Borger last weekend.

However, Cavalier was pleased with the Harvesters' overall scrimmage performance.

"The defense was very active. They performed very well most of the scrimmage," Cavalier added. "I was pleased with the way the offense moved the chains."

The coaching staff, however, is looking for more consistency from its offense.

"We went to the quarter format and I was a little concerned with the penalties, especially the illegal procedures," Cavalier said. "We also need to cut down on the fumbles."

Defensively, nose guard Tyson Curtis, tackle Cody Shepard and end Andy Schroeder looked good to Cavalier.

"I thought all three of our linebackers (Nathan Arnn, Jason Burklow and Justin Barnes) did well," Cavalier added.

Cavalier continues to be impressed with the play of senior cornerback Russell Robben, who has never played football before.

"This is his first season ever," Cavalier said. "I'm real pleased with him."
