

America Makes Grave Decision— To Combat Russia For Germany

By JOSEPH ALSOP
BERLIN — The United States has now begun a struggle for Germany against the Soviet Union. The decision to do so—one of the gravest ever made by American leaders—was necessary by the competition between the Soviet and western systems which is now going on all over the world. It was precipitated by Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov's statement to Foreign Ministers meeting in Paris on July 14, which first disclosed Soviet purposes beyond any possibility of doubt.

The great American decision must be understood as a direct, unavoidable response to Soviet policy in Germany. From the first, this has been based on Lenin's terse but truthful dictum, "Who controls Germany, controls Europe." The opening move of the campaign to incorporate Germany in the Soviet system actually occurred before the formal surrender. While Berlin was still in flames, the Soviet commander ordered a performance at the State Opera House. Smoke an stench of corpses were heavy in the nostrils of guests who picked their way through the ruins to the "revival of German culture under Soviet auspices."

From that day onward Soviet policy has not wavered. No method has been left untried, from such propaganda devices as the masochistic reopening of the State Opera to the kidnapping of courageous German socialists who have resisted being swallowed up by the Communists. No tool has been left unused, from woolly-minded American officials to former Goebbels henchmen and Nazi youth leaders. Occasionally Soviet organization has not been equal to its task, as when the collapse of Russian army discipline in a vast, hideous carnival of raping and looting. But the long-objective, of transforming Germany into a decisive westward extension of the Soviet system, has never been changed for an instant.

The purpose of the new American policy is to deny control of Germany, and therefore of Europe, to the Soviet Union. Statesmen on public rostrums do not of course speak so plainly. Yet that was the real motive of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' reply to Molotov in Paris—which was to demand immediate economic unification of Germany, and to announce that the United States would make a start by uniting its zone of occupation with any or all of their zones. By this statement, Byrnes in effect invited the British to join with us in the "great contest" for Germany.

Curiously enough, Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin was at first dismayed. The British are quite as dermined as the Americans that control of Germany shall not pass to Russia. But Bevin at first felt that Byrnes was prematurely abandoning hope of inducing the Soviets to alter their policy. Further study made the Foreign Office realize, however, that Byrnes' tactics were a remarkable blend of subtlety and realism. Therefore the economic unification of the British and American zones of occupation is now being negotiated here in Berlin, and will soon be undertaken.

Byrnes' tactical theory was very simple. It was obvious there was no value in any scheme which did not assure true political and economic unification of Germany. Past experience proved that nothing but unworkable compromises could result from any ordinary negotiations with the Soviet. Therefore Byrnes decided to join the American and British zones; take all needed measures to improve the economic and political health of this region; and thus to confront the Soviets with an accomplished fact which they could take or leave as they chose.

Our new policy, in truth, is a policy of maximum and minimum

Iturbi Won't Fuss With His Music Critics

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, (P)—It's no use—Jose Iturbi won't battle with Xavier Cugat or Artur Rubinstein. The irrepressible Cugie was quoted in a recent magazine as saying that Iturbi had "the hands of a woodchopper" and audiences crowd his concerts to see "Iturbi the movie star," not the pianist. I repeated this to Iturbi, expecting a Latin explosion. But no.

"My good friend Cugie called me to deny it," said Jose, who is as nice a piano player as you'd ever meet. "But he's right—my concerts now appeal to audiences, music lovers and those who go to movies."

The Spanish musician explained that he has not chopped much wood, but if Xavier claims he has that type of hands, "it must be true."

Nor would Jose get excited about bombardment on the long-hair front. Pianist Artur Rubinstein was reported in a trade paper, as scolding film offers "because he feared involvement in things beneath his dignity, i.e. cinematography of Jose Iturbi."

"My good friend Artur called me about that," he replied blandly. "I told him to forget it."

Where, then, is the famous temperament we hear about in the higher reaches of the musical world?

"That is largely a myth. Musicians have no more temper than business executives. But executives are said to have displays of temper, whereas musicians are 'temperamental.'"

"Then you won't fight with Cugat or Rubinstein?"

"No. What we need these days is solidarity."

Nomination: Iturbi for a UN post.

... that's ONE reason why your plumber put the faucet where he put it

What could be simpler than to screw a faucet on the end of a piece of pipe to provide water to a fixture?

Well, it's not so simple. That equation above, for instance, is only one of many calculations devised by engineers at leading U.S. universities to determine precisely the set of a faucet and other water inlets, so that pure water in the home may never be polluted.

Yes, carelessly located faucets, installed without regard to such data, can actually bring disease into your home. But that's no cause for worry. Selecting a competent plumbing-heating contractor gives you full protection. It's the only thing you have to do to bring into your home the benefits of intensive scientific research.

If your doctor had not bothered to inform himself about the values of the sulphur drugs, penicillin and other new discoveries in the field of medicine, you wouldn't tolerate him. Give yourself all the breaks in your home plumbing, too. Select your master plumber with care — and for the same reason: health protection in the home.

TINY 'WING' GLIDER — This man-carrying glider, long a war secret, was the ancestor of the Northrop "flying wing" B-35 bomber. Less than 30 feet in span, it was built to test the efficiency of the flying wing design in jet bombs. After a test pilot flew the glider, the twin-jet-propelled buzz bomb was built to a similar pattern.

Prepare All-American Favorites For All-American Holiday Sept. 2

Labor Day should be a holiday for the homemaker as well as for the family, and it certainly will be if the dinner includes Hot Dogs and Baked Beans smothered in your favorite sauce. Easy to prepare in the porcelain enameled baking pan, the Bean and Hot Dog combo will be a fine party treat for the folks. Prepared in the faster-heating porcelain enameled baking pan, the beans will be a golden brown and the hot dogs will be tender and juicy when you take the pan out of the oven.

Labor Day, the traditionally American holiday, calls for a dinner menu that spells "treat" for the family and light work for the homemaker. And what is more American or easier to prepare than hot dogs and baked beans?

Using a porcelain enameled pan, take two hot dogs for each person and two No. 2 cans of baked beans and cover with your favorite barbecue sauce. Bake until the hot dogs are tender. In the faster cooking porcelain enameled baking pan, this should take about 20 minutes. No sticky pots and pans to worry about either on Labor Day. The gleaming, smooth surface of the porcelain enameled baking pan requires only a wash with a sudsy cloth and a clear water

Egg Supplies Due To Be More Plentiful

Egg supplies are expected to be relatively large during the next five or six months. July production was 16 percent more than the 1935-44 average, but 8 percent below a year ago.

Milk production begins a seasonal decline about this time of year, but the past month almost set a new record for July. Unusually heavy production per cow was the reason, since about four percent fewer milk cows are reported on farms than a year ago. Higher prices may cause a decrease in fluid milk consumption during the rest of 1946 and start the shift toward greater production of manufactured dairy products.

"Best Buys"

Best buys of the week, according to the US Department of Agriculture, are Irish potatoes, onions, cabbage, lettuce, carrots and watermelon.

Third Trial Slated In Littlefield Killing

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 29 (P)—District Attorney H. M. LaFont has announced that a change of venue has sent the case of Jim Thomas, paroled convict charged with the slaying of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hunt of Littlefield, Tex., in 1943, to Sweetwater.

The trial had been scheduled for Lamesa. No date has been set for Sweetwater.

The bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Hunt were found in a bed in their Littlefield home. Thomas, on parole during the serving of a sentence on an assault with intent to murder charge from Lubbock, was arrested the next day in Galveston.

In two previous trials, the state based its case against Thomas on circumstantial evidence. Thomas was first tried here in August 1944 for the slaying of Dr. Hunt after a change of venue from Lamb county. A mistrial was declared after he had been found guilty and sentenced to death.

At a Lamesa trial last January he was found guilty again and assessed the death penalty. The sentence was reversed.

Dust Off Lunchboxes, Dig Out New Recipes

MAN-SIZED SANDWICH . . . For a five-star lunch . . .

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the toughest jobs for any woman who cooks is to provide a variety of interesting, palatable, nutritious food in a lunchbox which has to be packed day after day.

Lots of us have to do it, though. Any man who works in a plant needs a good lunch. Lots of children take their lunch to school. Almost anybody, big or little, gets very tired of lunch out of a box unless the person who provides it has imagination and real interest in providing an appetizing variety.

Now what's to go with this cold drink for September lunches? Sandwiches must be used at least a part of the time. The big trick is not to have them always the easiest thing—cold cuts, or a slice of cheese or something else equally dull. Here's a good one, for example:

Man-Sized Sandwich
 3/4 cup sharp American cheese, grated
 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
 4 ounces canned corned beef
 1/4 cup finely chopped sour-sweet pickles
 1 tablespoon grated onion
 2 tablespoons minced parsley or celery

Cream the cheese well with the mayonnaise. Add corned beef, finely shredded. Mix well and add remaining ingredients. Season with salt, paprika, curry powder and Worcestershire sauce. Lay lettuce leaves on rye bread and spread with this mixture.

Always include some raw vegetable. Right now, though, there's a great plenty of vegetables to be had and almost all of them are delicious raw. But never forget to put in a bit of salt and pepper—or sometimes, for a change, smoked hickory salt or one of the many types of seasoned salts.

If you just get some paper cups with lids, or use old mayonnaise jars with screw tops you can send workers off with delicious salads to vary the old sandwich routine. With any of these send crisp crackers or melba toast so that there is variety even in the bread department. Here are some suggestions for hot-lunch salads:

Salad Combinations
 Crab-Meat mixed with mayonnaise on raw spinach.
 Crab-Meat and green bean salad with mayonnaise on lettuce.
 Egg Salad with green pepper rings and whole anchovies on lettuce.

Chopped devilled egg salad on shredded cabbage.
 Tomato stuffed with cole slaw.
 Potato salad with ham shreds on lettuce.
 Mixed cooked vegetable salad on lettuce.
 Mushrooms and tuna fish with mayonnaise, sprinkled with crisp bacon.

Shipment Of Supplies Arrives For College

A shipment of school supplies, including chairs, teaching equipment, library books, etc., has arrived for the Howard County Junior College, E. C. Dodd, president, announced today.

Dodd also said that he has a promise from the War Assets to secure 200 tablet chairs used at the bombardier school for the college, and he has a possibility of obtaining 350 more from a field in Houston.

Securing adequate furnishings and supplies is one of the major headaches of the infant college, Dodd commented.

Salvation Army To Organize Troop

Jones In Fort Worth At College Meeting

J. F. Jones, head of the department of business administration at the Howard County Junior college, is in Fort Worth today representing the college at a conference concerning the recently passed Mead bill.

The bill provides financial aid for colleges in the veteran training program. E. C. Dodd, president of HCJC, expressed hopes that Jones would be able to effect federal aid in the work of converting the hospital area at the bombardier school into a building for classrooms.

The conference is to be attended by colleges throughout Texas and some adjoining states.

Rice Harvest Good News To Homemakers

Good news comes to homemakers from rice producing states. Harvest is already underway in the southern belt. Showers have slowed harvest in some sections but in general cutting and combining has made excellent headway in Louisiana and Texas, where harvest will be in full swing in a few days. Combining is expected to begin soon in Arkansas, followed by harvest of the California crop about the middle of September. Barring unforeseen difficulties, the new crop should be available for market next month. The set-aside order remains in effect which requires millers to reserve a percentage of their milled rice for government purchase.

Try Corned Beef Hash "Quicklets" To Hurry You Out Of The Kitchen

The only person who could possibly like corned beef hash more than a man is the gal who serves it to him quick and easy from a can! A true time-and-trouble-saver on a summer's sizzling day, canned corned beef hash is as easy to serve as opening the can and zipping the meat to a skillet. Even more intriguing is the dish shown in the picture elsewhere on this page that turns out perfect cutlets with not a bit of the usual pre-cooking, patting and fussing. All you do is "slice" corned beef hash into cutlets, and as neat and fleet as that, you're on your way to a mighty good summer meat main dish! Good nutrition, too, in this time-saver because canned corned beef hash has high quality protein, the B vitamins and essential minerals found in all meat.

Corned Beef "Quicklets"
2 12-ounce cans corned beef hash
2 eggs
1-4 cup milk
3-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2-3 cup fine dry bread crumbs or cracker crumbs
Lard or fat
Chill corned beef hash well; remove from can and cut in 3-4 inch slices. Beat eggs slightly with a fork; add milk, salt and pepper and mix well. Dip corned beef hash slices in egg mixture, then in crumbs. Brown slices slowly on both sides in a small amount of hot lard or fat on a griddle or skillet. Drain on brown paper and serve hot with tomato sauce or gravy if desired. Makes 6 servings.

ACC OPENING IS POSTPONED

ABILENE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Opening of Abilene Christian college for the fall semester has been postponed for two weeks until Sept. 30 to permit completion of emergency dormitories to care for an expected large enrollment. President Don H. Morris has announced. Morris said enrollment estimates have been increased from a March figure of 900 to 1,300 at present.

Run Over By Train

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind.—Cyril Manhaska, 30, fell asleep on a railroad track. A train came along and ran over him, but he was lying flat between the rails and escaped unhurt. Then police arrested him on a charge of public intoxication.

TRUE LOVE RUNS ROUGH FOR STARS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29. (AP)—"True Love . . ." runs the old saw. And it's been bumpy up to now for blonde and comely Virginia Bruce of the movies and mustached, Turkish Ali Ipar. But despite disturbances, they were quietly married Tuesday night, sipped champagne at a star-studded reception, then headed for Las Vegas, Nev., to honeymoon.

Ipar, 25, spent several uncomfortable hours Monday night under questioning of army investigators about, he said, his leave from Fort Lewis, Wash., where he is a private in the army. Released, he announced "everything's all right now." But he reckoned without the Beverly Hills police department. At the door of the friend's house where they were to wed, they were met by two officers, armed with a warrant for the former movie producer's arrest on an unanswered citation accusing him of running through a stop light. It was settled when Ipar dug down, came up with $25 bail pending a hearing next Tuesday.

McAllen Firm Plans More Lemon Juice

McAllen, Aug. 29 (AP)—Plans to increase production of dehydrated lemon juice from 10 tons to 30 tons daily have been revealed by Bolton Hyde, manager of the Universal Colloids Company plant near McAllen. The citrus by-products plant also produces pectin extracted from grapefruit peel and dried tomato flakes for use in commercial and domestic soups. Hyde said the plant started its first dehydration runs of lemon juice two weeks ago on a schedule of 10 tons per day. The increase to 30 tons will be made as soon as fruit matures. Marketing of mature fresh lemons by valley growers began nearly a month ago. Demands for the fruit have been so great that relatively few shipments have moved out of Texas to date. The McAllen dehydration plant ships its lemon product to the firm's plant at Lockport, N.M., where it is combined with other ingredients for a lemon pie mix.

TWO OLDSTERS RETIRE, BUT THREE KEEP ON BUILDING AT 85, 80, 73

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
Sam Smith has started taking life easy. It's about time.

The Fort Worth postman figures he has walked 91,900 miles delivering more than 11,000,000 letters. He is 86, and has been a city mail carrier for 39 years with the Fort Worth postoffice.

Helping out the building situation are three young fellows in San Angelo—youngsters aged 85, 80 and 73. They're young because they say you're just as young as you feel and they feel fine.

Edward McIntosh, 80, is a bricklayer. He's a very active bricklayer. And of Scottish ancestry. "I tried to quit but people won't let me," he said.

His assistant is R. F. Bob Sullivan, 85. His mudmiking would do credit to a much younger man. He's Irish.

The youngster of the trio is Enoch Smith, 73, a union painter. The man who created the slogan "If you drink, don't drive; if you drive, don't drink" is a Texan. The slogan is nationally used. J. E. Johnston of Fort Worth, a former Denton Katy ticket agent, came up with the famous slogan about 1931. Slogan writing is a hobby of his. He has more than 1,700 of them to his credit.

He's retired now after 50 years with the railroad, but he spends several hours a day at his desk writing more slogans. He gets ideas from reading, talking, and listening to the radio.

Regarding his "don't drink" slogan, A. G. Pat Mayse, publisher of the Paris News, wrote him, "I know of no one who has rendered a finer service of putting ten words together."

And C. S. Potts, dean of SMU law school, wrote, "nobody knows how many lives you have already saved."

Second Man Files In Mayor's Election

TEXARKANA, Aug. 29 (AP)—A second candidate today had filed for the special election to select a mayor of Texarkana to succeed Mayor W. H. Harkness who resigned recently.

William V. Brown announced late yesterday that he will allow his name to be filed in the mayor's race. A petition had been filed by 100 Texarkana residents with the city secretary asking that Brown's name be placed on the ballot.

Brown, once a candidate for governor of Texas, has formerly served as mayor here for 12 years. The first candidate to file for the special election was J. Ralston Crowder, Texarkana insurance man.

Harkness and three city aldermen resigned recently after a grand jury indicted the aldermen on charges of accepting bribes in connection with a street extension project. Harkness was not indicted.

Attractive After-School Jobs for Teen-Age Boys

The Herald has openings on a number of its residential delivery routes, for which it would like to interview school boys of 14 years of age and up—boys who want to earn an income of their own by working a few short hours after school and on Saturdays.

These are "Little Merchant" routes, which the boys conduct on their own, buying, distributing and selling papers and operating on business fundamentals. They pay well for the time and work involved.

Parents who want their sons to find such a productive activity are asked to talk over the prospects with their boys.

Young men who want to make some after-school money and to get valuable experience are invited to examine the possibilities of a Herald route.

Chiang Said To Approve Unit To Form Coalition

NAKING, Aug. 29. (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported reliably today to have approved the creation of a committee of five, headed by American Ambassador John Leighton Stuart, to clear the way for a coalition government taking in all parties. This was regarded here as the most hopeful development in the Chinese situation in recent weeks. It came as fighting in the north increased sharply in intensity, and as the Communists announced they might set up their own separate "national government" rather than accept any new constitution in which they did not have a voice. The primary objective of Stuart's committee would be to bring the Kuomintang and minor parties together in a 40-man state council which would serve as an interim coalition governing body until a more permanent administration is framed at the Nov. 12 national assembly. The committee probably would not begin functioning until early next week. The most difficult problem before the group would be to strike an acceptable voting balance to satisfy Communist fears of being dominated by the Kuomintang. Yenan wants a veto power—two-thirds vote instead of a simple majority—on all questions affecting decisions reached by last February's all-party political conference. These decisions laid out the course the nation must follow if it is to achieve constitutional democracy. Formation of the council presumably would bring an end to hostilities and give General Marshall and the Communist and Nationalist members of his committee of three a free hand to proceed with military reorganization of China and the restoration of disrupted communications.

Locomotives Have Long Life, But Do Job In Modern Manner

By WACIL McNAIR
Motorists traveling highways which parallel railroads might be surprised when fast, sleek trains thunder by if they knew the age of the "iron horses" furnishing power to keep the string of coaches or box cars rolling.

Wearing out is not a habit of locomotives. Therefore, the engine builders and railroads must actually foresee the future with accurate foresight when designing new equipment.

During the war many a weary passenger probably was thoroughly convinced that railroad facilities, especially passenger train equipment, had made no appreciable advancement in convenience since the civil war. As a matter of fact they were right to a certain extent, because the railroads pressed into service both engines and rolling stock which had not been used for years.

For example, engine No. 4 of the Pecos Valley Southern, a T & P branch line, was in regular service hauling valuable freight during the war, although it was built in 1890. Now of course, it has been relieved and is "resting" in the yard in front of the T&P round house in Big Spring, after an active life of 56 years. With a little "fixing up" which could be effected at the roundhouse, it still could be used, railroad men say.

However, the big horses, even today are considered the class of the road, also have many seasons of work to their credit. The T&P's 600's still are favorites of the engineers, and they pull long freight trains across Texas at at 60-mile an hour clip with ease. Their speed and dependability measure up to the qualities of any other land conveyance of present-day vintage. Since the first group of 600's entered service on the T&P 20 years ago (the youngest of the series is 18 years old), they offer proof that the life of the locomotive is long. Also still in service, pulling light freights and passenger trains are the 400's, a series now 40 years old.

Keeping the engines rolling, however, is not a simple task. It keeps hundreds of employes busy in the shops and roundhouses. The T&P's Big Spring shops and roundhouse, which handles about 80 percent of the work between Fort Worth and El Paso, compose a scene of constant activity. The work ranges from minor inspections, which are made after each run, to complete reconditioning of engines.

Each part of the locomotive is covered by federal law, and maximum time limits are set for inspection and minimum depreciation limits for replacement. Government inspectors make the rounds to the various shops about every 60 days. They usually remain at each shop for two or three days, checking engines under repair and parts that are used.

The Big Spring shops manufacture many of the parts used, provided, of course, they are not covered by patents which require that they be made by certain factories. Precision work is involved in most of the machine shop work, since, large and cumbersome as they may appear, locomotives have hundreds of minute, intricate parts which must be made with skilled perfection from the finest steel, brass and alloys.

The standards for parts and the quality of workmanship which is the pride of the railroad shops, account for the dependability and long-life of the engines, and a trip through a roundhouse proves that there are men "behind the scenes" that make possible the fast freight and passenger schedules that America has come to take for granted.

New York Publisher Killed in Wreck

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Aug. 29 (AP)—Roy C. Hollis, 56, acting president of the News Syndicate Company, Inc., publishers of the New York Daily News, was killed here early today when his automobile crashed into a pole.

The car was being driven, Officer Morris Kessler of the Fairfield police department said, by Frederick H. Bedford, Jr., 55, president of the Atlas Supply company of New York and a director of numerous corporations, including Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Bedford was taken to the Bridgeport hospital where attaches said he was expected to live.

Kessler said the auto, owned by Hollis, crashed into a tree near Bedford's home, where the two executives were headed.

He reported that Hollis apparently was killed instantly.

In the first quarter of the 14th Century, the jester was an important part of every large household.
