RUSK (AP) — A Baptist preacher has stepped down from the pulpit on the heels of an arrest for indecent exposure in a Dallas hotel.

Randall Stewart, 47, was charged Aug. 24 with indecent exposure after allegedly exposing himself to an undercover officer in the hotel restroom.

Stewart was sexually abused by an uncle years ago, the former preacher told the congregation in a prepared statement.

The ex-preacher was arrested at the Galleria Westin in North Dallas. Security guards there have long grumbled that the lobby is a hot spot for men seeking homosexual partners, according to Tyler television station KETK.

Della Moyer holds her 18-year-old mare while Don Baskins shoes the horse.

Truck mileage testimony to farrier's lasting popularity

Della Moyer held the 18-year-old mare steady in front of her red barn south of Pampa as Don Baskins quietly went about his work putting new shoes on the horse.

"I bought her when she was two years old," Della Moyer said. "Don's been keeping me on her for 16 years."

Working from his 1910 farrier's anvil off the tailgate of a Chevrolet Sonoma pickup with 300,000 miles on it, Baskins quickly trimmed the mare's hooves and put on a new set of shoes.

The Tucumcari, N.M., based farrier travels five states, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado, shoeing horses.

Baskins is now working with the third generation of many of the families that he's shod horses for. He's been shoeing horses for Moyer since 1979. He's been shoeing horses for the Drug charge nets $10,000 fine

WHEELER — An Ohio man was back on the road today after pleading guilty to drug charges here.

James M. Miller, 29, of Ohio, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana charges Tuesday in 31st District Court here. Judge Steven Emmert sentenced Miller to two years deferred adjudication and fined him $10,000.

Miller was a passenger in a car driven by Lawrence Banks when it was stopped by Department of Public Safety troopers in February, 1997. Authorities said the eastbound car was stopped on Interstate 40 on the west side of Shamrock.

Officers said Banks was stopped for a seat belt violation. After gaining permission to search the car, troopers found 85 pounds of marijuana in the vehicle.

The case against Banks is pending, according to officials with the 31st District Attorney's office. Banks is presently in prison on charges unrelated to the traffic stop in 1997.

Independent funeral homes fighting to stay alive

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Independent morticians like the Cantu Funeral Home are fighting to avoid a trend that seems nearly as inevitable as death and taxes: consolidation of the funeral industry.

Texas is home to Service Corporation International, or SCI, the world's largest chain of funeral homes. It and other "consolidators" are spreading from big cities to smaller ones, such as Corpus Christi.

Large chains often use one facility to prepare bodies for all its funeral homes in the surrounding area, giving them a cost break over independent homes. The efficiency of the cluster arrangement is the future of the funeral industry in the United States, said Claudio Herrera, an SCI executive in Corpus Christi.

SCI started moving into Corpus Christi in the 1960s and now owns eight local funeral homes — although each still carries its original, independent name — and two cemeteries. Another large Houston-based chain, Carriage Services, bought another cemetery in the area.

Texas is further into consolidation than most states. Of the 22,000 funeral homes in the United States, 87 percent are still owned by families or privately held corporations.

Manuel Cantu has worked 41 years at his family's business, Cantu Funeral Home. He remembers when most local families held funerals in their homes. Now he is worried that, along with the change in customs, the change in the industry's economics could threaten his ability to pass the business on to his children. Two of his daughters are attending mortuary school.

Jack Sawyer, part-owner of Sawyer-George Funeral Home in Calallen, also wants to stay in the business and told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times he has turned down offers from the chains.

"I'm not interested," Sawyer said. "I'm going to have to work somewhere. I'd just as soon be working for myself than someone else."

But many independent funeral directors are finding it hard to ignore the offers, especially when they have no one left to whom to pass on their businesses.

The lack of an heir apparent drove Claudio Herrera to sell Memorial Funeral Home to SCI last year. He said consolidating with SCI has allowed him to reduce costs and offer his employees better benefits. He sees consolidation in the funeral business as similar to the growth of Wal-Mart.

"The day is going to come when the independents are not going to be around anymore," said Herrera.

Consumer groups such as the Vermont-based Funeral Consumer Alliance say consolidation will limit choices and increase the cost of burial.

Lisa Carlson, the group's director, said funeral homes are not letting consumers share in the cost savings of consolidation. Consumers' only recourse, she said, is to shop around.

Surveys by the Memorial Society of the Southwest, a branch of the Funeral Consumer Alliance, showed consumers were just as likely to get cheaper prices from an independent as from an SCI-owned home, the newspaper reported.

Cases heard; sentences set in district court

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

Justice was served up in several cases yesterday in Judge Lee Waters 223rd District Court.

Onesimo Leal, 21, Edinburgh, Texas, was sent to prison for violating his 1997 probation. He was originally sentenced to five years probation for credit card fraud. That sentence was continued in January for technical violations. On May 11 Leal was arrested in south Texas on charges of possession of over five pounds of marijuana, a violation of probation.

He was also charged with failing to report to his probation officer for several months and not paying his fines and court costs as agreed to in his probation. Waters sentenced him to two years prison time but gave him credit for 250 days he has spent in the County Jail awaiting his day in court.

SPS Y2K tests today, tomorrow

Today and tomorrow Southwestern Public Service Company, which supplies power to Pampa and Gray County, will join other electric utilities around the nation in a Y2K readiness drill.

The drill is a rehearsal for the transition from Dec. 31, 1999 to Jan. 1, 2000, said Alan Davidson, SPS' Y2K contingency planning project manager.

"Our drill will test SPS's various backup communications systems — the communications systems that would be used if our normal systems were not operating," he said. "The drill will also test our ability to deploy personnel in the field, for instance to monitor critical electric systems and manually relay information to SPS power plants and service and dispatch centers."

About 400 SPS workers will be involved in the drill, the same employees who will work again on New Year's Eve.

Previously, SPS tested the Y2K readiness of its delivery systems and power plants by setting control clocks forward to Dec. 31, and evaluating their performances while computers "think" they are operating into the year 2000, he said. The tests also have operated the plants at simulated later dates in 2000.

"We are running this second, major drill because we want to be prepared for even the most unlikely of events on New Year's Eve, Davidson said.

FARRIER

Albert Mitchell's grand daughter, Lynda Ray.

He figures more than 75 percent of his customers have been using him at least 14 years, a testimony to his skills.

Born in 1931, Baskins grew up on a ranch near Cheyenne, Wyo. When he was 11, Baskins saddled his horse and rode to a boarding school in Northern Colorado. Baskins clowned at rodeos, fought bulls and rode broncs. He was well experienced with horses.

"I joined the Marine Corps so I wouldn't have to shoe horses," Baskins said.

He spent the next few years at El Toro Marine Air Base and at Camp Pendleton in California, shoeing horses.

After he got out of the Marines, Baskins continued to shoe horses, mostly on the West Coast.

Occasionally, his business took him to Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

It was one of his early trips to New Mexico that changed his life. It was in Santa Rosa, N.M., he was introduced to the woman that would become his wife Oda, a native of Cuervo, N.M.

They settled in Tucumcari. Baskins said it was centrally located in the area where he wanted to work.

"Everything I know, I picked up on my own," he said. "I learned from doing and observing everything else that people did wrong."

Over the years, he's developed his own method of working with horses, a method outlined in a book published by Western Horseman Magazine a couple of years ago.

"They've been doing books for 65 or 70 years," Baskins said. "It was the first horse shoeing book they'd ever published. I thought it was the greatest honor I'd ever had when they asked me to do it."

Adults Jumping to Conclusions Trip on Misconception of Teen

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl with wonderful parents and a great little sister who is 13. My mom just had a third child. My brother's name is "Nathan." He is 6 months old now and I don't think any baby could be more loved.

Because my mother works part time, I take care of my brother for a few hours each day.

The problem is that when I take him for a walk or to the mall, I am faced with disapproving looks and rude comments from adults who obviously think he is my baby. I see people shake their heads when I walk by, and I hear them mutter about irresponsible teen-agers.

I don't know how to respond to people like that, but I do know that adults should stop seeing something wrong with every situation they encounter. They seem to think my entire generation is hopeless. This is far from the truth.

Abby, how should I deal with this situation when I next encounter it?

SWEET 16, SEATTLE

DEAR SWEET 16: I know it's far from the truth, and you shouldn't be put in the position where you feel you "must respond" to disapproving looks and rude remarks from strangers. Have a T-shirt made for your little brother bearing the message: "She's My Sister!"

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letters in your column about children's behavior in restaurants, I had to write.

When my current husband and I began dating, we had three toddlers between us. Two were his, one was mine. The youngest, his 1-year-old, ran wild. I was ashamed and embarrassed. The two girls were fine. (His daughter was 3 and mine was 2.) But oh, that son! He threw temper tantrums, insisted on a particular cup or plate or he wouldn't eat, stood on chairs and benches, etc. He was spoiled rotten, and I told my husband so. I also told him it was wrong to allow such behavior. It didn't faze him.

One day we were in a restaurant, and a stranger came to our table and said, "You two have three beautiful children. What a shame that your son's behavior is all I'll remember when we leave."

What an impact that made! My husband began right then and there teaching his son acceptable behavior.

Three years ago, on an airplane flight, a flight attendant approached my husband and said, "Your three kids are so polite. They say please and thank you. Half the adults on this flight could learn from them!" The kids were 12, 13 and 14 at that time. We were, and still are, so proud. And the son, who is now 15, is a very well-mannered gentleman.

So obviously, children will do what the parent allows.
STEPMOM IN TAMPA

DEAR STEPMOM: Absolutely! And that's why it's important for parents to set limits for their children. How else are they going to learn what is acceptable and what is not?

YOUR CHUCKLE FOR THE DAY: A woman came home from work and found a note from her husband. It said: "Your doctor's office called. Your Pabst beer is normal!"

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)  Listen carefully to another in your business arena. Resolutions made today are likely to get a green light. Others want to pitch in and help in any way they can. Efficiency is high; maximize productivity. There's no need to overspend. Tonight: Working late.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)  Allow your imagination to soar. Recognize that the only existing limits are set by you. Knowing that the sky is the limit, brainstorm and go for that heartfelt desire. Both business and personal lives thrive under the present configurations. Tonight: Talk through a problem.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)  Sometimes you just need to stop and think. Consider all you have done, where you've been and what your limits are. Make new decisions; start a conversation; open a new door. Improve the quality of your personal life. Be honest with yourself. Tonight: Make resolutions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)  You make inroads where you never thought any were possible. Listen to a friend. Discuss possibilities. Go for what you want, make calls. Don't stand on ceremony. Discussions prove to be fruitful. Make a long-overdue resolution. Tonight: Hanging out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)  Dig in your heels at work. You gain financially because you think on your feet and make solid decisions. Someone else could be quite challenging. But do you really care? New beginnings are possible. Just state your goals. Tonight: Talk about your budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)  You are personality plus. Listen to others. Exchange and discuss information with one who sees life far differently than you see it. Another is absolutely serious about an offer. Talk turkey while the signs point to "Go."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)  Take an overview when you deal with others. Somehow, the way you see a difficult situation could change. A fresh start can happen, but only if you change your attitude. Allow more laughter into your life. Don't take that difficult person's words to heart. Tonight: Opt for quiet as opposed to crowds.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)  Attend meetings; join others and hone in on your dreams and wishes. An overly serious person chips in and makes a project doable. Make a commitment; it can succeed under present aspects. New beginnings are available in a friendship. Tonight: Do some research on the Internet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)  Take the next step in your profession. Don't be intimidated by a co-worker who seems much more responsible.

Make work decisions. Discuss plans with others. Start fresh. Listen to someone who has at least as much expertise as you have. Tonight: Working till the wee hours.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)  Reach out for someone at a distance. Another clearly cares about you; make decisions for the long term. Say "yes" to an experience that will open doors. Success is yours. Channel your creativity into work. Seek to learn more in your profession. Tonight: Take in a movie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)  Partners renew promises. Others make that extra effort. What is decided upon could last for a long time to come. New beginnings are possible with finances as well. Listen to what another shares. Get to the bottom of a problem, even if you are uncomfortable. Tonight: Go for togetherness.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)  A stiff conversation allows you to get more of a vision of what may be possible. Others have a different concept about what is needed. Clear up a misunderstanding. Brainstorm. Somehow you find a midpoint of agreement. Tonight: Let another decide.

Postal service sings praises of Broadway as part of Legends of American Music series

WASHINGTON — Nine world-renowned songwriters, whose Broadway music and lyrics have delighted music lovers for decades, will be commemorated this month by the U.S. Postal Service with the issuance of the Broadway Songwriters stamps.

George and Ira Gershwin, Alan Jay Lerner, Frederick Loewe, Lorenz Hart, Richard Rodgers, Oscar Hammerstein II, Meredith Willson and Frank Loesser are featured on the pane of 20 (six designs) 33-cent stamps. The stamps will be available in New York City on Sept. 21 and at post offices nationwide beginning the following day.

"The nine men represented on these stamps created exceptional songs and lyrics which that blended American music with quintessentially American themes," said Postal Service Senior Vice President for Government Affairs Deborah Willhite. "It is appropriate that we honor them on U.S. postage stamps. Stamps capture our American history and culture in a unique way. These songwriters are a rich part of that history and culture."

Brothers Ira and George Gershwin worked together from the early 1920s until George's untimely death in 1937. George wrote the music and Ira provided the lyrics for more than a dozen shows including "Of Thee I Sing" (1931), which was the first musical to win a Pulitzer Prize. They also wrote "Funny Face" (1927) and "Girl Crazy" (1930), and added immeasurably to American popular music with well-known songs such as "I Got Rhythm" and "S Wonderful."

Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe wrote together from 1942 until the 1970s. Their remarkable musicals include "Brigadoon" (1947), "Paint Your Wagon" (1951), "My Fair Lady" (1956), and "Camelot" (1960). Song favorites from their shows include "I Could Have Danced All Night," "Almost Like Being in Love," and "If Ever I Would Leave You."

Lorenz Hart crafted clever lyrics that often employed untraditional rhymes and memorable turns of phrase. He is best remembered for his collaborations with Richard Rodgers which include "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered" and "I Could Write a Book" from the musical "Pal Joey" (1940), and

"My Funny Valentine" from "Babes In Arms" (1937).

Richard Rodgers also collaborated with Oscar Hammerstein II. Together they ushered in a new era of the Broadway musical with an innovative integration of music and plot. "Oklahoma!" (1943), "Carousel" (1945), the Pulitzer Prize-winning "South Pacific" (1949), "The King and I" (1951), and "The Sound of Music" (1959) are examples of some of their masterful gifts to the stage. Many of their songs, including "Some Enchanted Evening," "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," and "Climb Ev'ry Mountain," are still frequently sung to appreciative audiences.

Meredith Willson wrote several Broadway musicals including "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" (1960) and "Hurt'n' Love" (1963). His greatest success was "The Music Man" (1957), his affectionate portrayal of small-town America, which ran for 1,375 performances and included the songs "Seventy-Six Trombones" and "Till There Was You."

Frank Loesser wrote music and lyrics for movies before devoting his time and talent to the musical theater. He delighted audiences in 1950 with "Guys and Dolls," and his other successes include "The Most Happy Fella" (1956) and "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," which won a Pulitzer Prize in 1962.

The 33-cent Broadway Songwriters stamps were designed by veteran stamp director Howard Paine of Delaplaine, Va., and illustrated by Drew Struzan of Pasadena, Calif.

The Postal Service began the Legends of American Music Series in 1993 with the issuance of 15 stamps in three categories: Rock & Roll/Rhythm & Blues, featuring Elvis Presley, Country & Western, and Broadway Musicals. In 1994, five Popular Singers and eight Jazz & Blues Singers stamps were dedicated. Jazz Musicians represented the series in 1995 with ten stamps. In 1996, eight stamps were dedicated; four for Big Band Leaders and four for Songwriters. Four Opera Singers and eight Classical Composers & Conductors stamps were introduced in 1997, and last year four Gospel Singers and four Folk Musicians joined the series.

Broadway Songwriters, along with the Hollywood Composers stamps that will be issued Sept. 16 in Hollywood, mark the final additions to the Legends of American Music Series.

For more information on stamps, visit the Postal Service website at www.usps.com and click "Stamps." To order stamps or stamp products, go directly to www.stampsonline.com.

FOOTBALL

BOYS RANCH — White Deer was defeated by Boys Ranch 13-0 in a season football opener last weekend.

Boys Ranch led 6-0 at half-time on Bo'Don Wilson's 1-yard run in the first quarter. The Roughriders added another run in the fourth quarter on a 49-yard run by Ronnie Anderson.

Anderson led the Roughriders with 156 yards on 22 carries. White Deer back Aaron McLean rushed for 116 yards on 28 carries.

The Bucks go to Turpin, Okla. for their next game Friday night.

TENNIS

NEW YORK (AP) — The war of words has moved to center court.

Martina Hingis and Venus Williams. No. 1 vs. No. 3 at the U.S. Open semifinals.

"I think it will be very, very close," Anke Huber predicted. "It's going to be a tough match for Martina, I think. Venus is hitting the ball hard and very aggressive."

Huber lost to Hingis 6-2, 6-0 in a wind-swept quarterfinal Tuesday, while Williams joined the semifinal party by stopping No. 12 Barbara Schett 6-4, 6-3 in a night match, setting up the Hingis-Williams match on Friday.

In the bottom half of the women's draw, defending champion and second-seeded Lindsay Davenport took on No. 5 Mary Pierce today, with the winner to play the survivor of tonight's final quarterfinal pitting No. 7 Serena Williams, the younger sister of Venus, against fourth-seeded Monica Seles.

The possibility still exists that the Williams sisters will meet for the title.

In her first U.S. Open two years ago, Venus Williams reached the final, where she was hastily dispatched by Hingis.

"Last time, I honestly did not know what I was doing," Williams said of the 1997 meeting. "I'm a different player now."

Last year, Williams reached the semifinals, only to fall to Davenport.

The men completed their quarterfinal matchups Tuesday with yet another retirement. Fifth-seeded Gustavo Kuerten advanced when Magnus Norman retired with a strained back after losing the first set 7-6 (7-4).

In other matches, Cedric Pioline ousted 14th-seeded Tommy Haas 6-4, 7-5, 6-3; Slava Dosedel defeated Jiri Novak 6-4, 7-5, 5-7, 7-5; and No. 7 Todd Martin rallied for a 5-7, 0-6, 7-6 (7-3), 6-4, 6-4 victory over No. 9 Greg Rusedski.

Hingis and Venus Williams will be meeting for the 11th time. Williams is 19, three months older than her Swiss opponent. Hingis, however, has dominated, winning seven of their encounters, including their last meeting in San Diego earlier this summer.

"We both go out there knowing we're going to have to play good tennis," Venus Williams said of Hingis. "We both go out there ready to play. ... The key for me is definitely to abandon all unforced errors. In order not to play her and myself, I have to stop making errors." here for a couple of years, since '97, when, unfortunately I became her victim."

While Williams sparked at night, Hingis solved the blustery winds during the day. She lost the first two games before winning the next 12 against Huber, playing as if the wind was part of her game plan.

"She used the wind very well today to her advantage," Huber said. "She's just a very smart player, smarter than anybody else on the tour."

"The wind wasn't always against me, but it looked like it. I just overpowered the balls a little bit, made too many mistakes."

Rebs win VB match

AMARILLO — Amarillo Tascosa, a team that could challenge for the Class 5A state volleyball championship this season, sent Pampa to a 15-5, 15-6 defeat Tuesday night.

The Lady Rebels improved their record to an impressive 16-2. The Lady Harvesters are 4-8.

Pampa's Tandi Morton turned in a strong performance in the losing effort.

Morton finished with 4 kills and 5 digs. Teammate Chasity Nachtigall added 4 kills.

Megan Moore had 7 kills and Amy Hays 5 to lead Tascosa.

The Lady Harvesters are entered in the Amarillo Invitational this weekend

Jersey guy goes Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — So far, the most difficult adjustment for Chris Simms, the New Jersey high school star quarterback turned Texas freshman, has been the language.

Like many Yankees, Simms has no concept of that mainstay of Southern dialects — "fixin'."

"I say I'm going to the movies. They say they're fixin' to go to the movies," Simms said, laughing. "I just do not understand what that word means. What are you fixin' to do?"

Simms, the son of former New York Giants quarterback Phil Simms, got to play for the first time last week in Texas' 69-17 romp over Stanford.

After throwing for 27 yards and a touchdown in mop-up duty, he could play again when Texas (1-1) faces Rutgers (0-1) Saturday in Piscataway, N.J., just 40 miles from his home in Ramapo.

Under Texas rules, freshmen can't talk to the media until they have played in a game. Finally allowed to speak, Simms rolled off stories about how an Easterner with NFL pedigree and a rocket of a left arm had adjusted to life in the Lone Star State.

For the record, he loves barbecue, his teammates tease him about his clothes and he digs watching his old man sweat it out in the stands in the Texas heat.

His most embarrassing moment was his first on campus. After spending the night at the posh Four Seasons hotel, he was ready to move on campus when freshmen were due.

Having no car in town, he asked the hotel for help. It sent the hotel limousine service, an attention-getting white van with leather seats and a wet bar. The van, and the two female attendants dressed in black suits and ties, left Simms feeling a bit sheepish.

"I told my mom I'm not riding in that. I knew I was never going to live it down," Simms said.

Teaming Up

Pampa High defenders Orlando Madrid and Nathan Arnn team up to bring down a Lubbock Estacado ballcarrier in the season opener last week. The Harvesters host Amarillo High at 7:30 Friday night.

Ismail joins Irvin in battle versus Green and Bailey

IRVING, Texas (AP) — For the last decade, a game between the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins has meant Michael Irvin trying to use his size to counter the speed of Darrell Green.

When the teams meet Sunday, the receiver-cornerback duels will be even more interesting.

Joining Irvin this season is Raghib Ismail, whom quarterback Troy Aikman says has the best combination of good hands and fast feet he's ever had in Dallas.

Joining Green is Champ Bailey, a rookie cornerback whose exhibition play showed why Washington took him with the No. 7 overall pick in the draft.

The Cowboys don't expect the Redskins to try putting Green on Irvin, Bailey on Ismail or vice-versa. Each cornerback will likely take a side and try stopping whoever comes their way.

"It'll be a great matchup for our receivers," Dallas coach Chan Gailey said. "Champ is not playing like a rookie. And Darrell looks to me like he hasn't lost a step at all."

The Cowboys will use as many as five receivers and could throw the ball to eight or nine players Sunday as they open the second year in Gailey's offense.

There's no doubt that Aikman is looking forward to hitting Ismail early and often.

"Clearly, we hope to take some shots at Rocket running down the field at a lot of people this year," Aikman said.

Aikman's plan to spend training camp getting in sync with Ismail was interrupted when the receiver slightly separated his left shoulder, keeping him out of practice for two weeks and forcing him to miss the first three exhibition games.

Their first game action was against Denver and it took four tries before they finally connected. When they did, it went for 33 yards.

Ismail's second reception came in the following exhibition game against Jacksonville. The speedster caught a 24-yarder across the middle despite being mauled by a defender on the play.

"You'd always like more time, but I feel like we're at a point where we're going to be able to be on the same page and have some success," Aikman said.

Playing for Carolina last season, Ismail caught 69 passes for 1,024 yards and eight touchdowns — by far his best in each category. He cashed in on his success with a seven-year, $21 million contract in Dallas.

One of Ismail's worst games last year came against the Redskins, when he caught one pass for 16 yards and hurt his knee in the fourth quarter.

Green was part of the reason Washington stopped him, just like the ageless wonder has been doing to receivers since 1983.

Aikman is amazed by the 38-year-old Green.

"When I came into the league, he was a Pro Bowl player who had been in the league for several years. Here I am going into my 11th year and he's still a Pro Bowl player," Aikman said.

"He never slows down. He's an amazing, amazing athlete. He's like the Nolan Ryan of football."

PHS tennis team has 2-2 record at Texas Team tourney

PAMPA — Pampa's varsity tennis team entered the Texas Team Tournament last weekend in Wichita Falls and broke even against some strong competition.

The Harvesters came away with a 2-2 record, defeating Dumas 11-8 and Odessa High 10-9. Both losses came against powerful Lubbock Coronado (13-0) and Wichita Falls Rider (14-5). Coronado is ranked No. 1 in Class 5A and Rider is No. 4 in 4A.

"It was a fantastic weekend for experience," said Pampa head coach Carolyn Quarles. "We played four good teams in 103 degree temperature and won two of them. I can honestly say that every player showed improvement this weekend."

Quarles was especially impressed with the way seven sophomores performed at the varsity level.

"I was totally amazed at their ability to step up to the level of competition," she said. "Juniors Michael Cornelison and Bryce Jordan went from being an average doubles team to a force to deal with at No. 1 doubles."

Quarles said Jordan played the best singles match of his career against Rider, winning 6-3, 6-2. She said Matt Rains and A.J. Smith played with confidence and intensity all weekend and finished with a big win over Rider No. 2, 6-1, 6-1.

Seniors Emily Waters and Emily Curtis at No. 1 and No. 2 went 4-4 for the weekend, dropping a couple of matches that could have gone either way.

"Curtis was extremely strong, defeating Rider's No. 2 player, 6-4, 6-0, using her athleticism to wear her opponent down," Quarles said.

Seniors Ryan Mills and Kerry Turner went 3-1 on the weekend at No. 3 doubles.

Players of the Week are sophomore Brittany Kindle, defeating Odessa's No. 6 singles player 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, to swing the way for Pampa, and the entire varsity team for their effort in the final match against Rider.

Pampa opens District 3-4A play against Hereford in Hereford on Tuesday.

Pampa individual results from the Texas Team Tournament will be published in Thursday's edition of The Pampa News.

Astros rally past Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Despite his team's fifth straight victory and a three-game lead in the National League Central, Houston manager Larry Dierker wasn't overly impressed with his team's latest performance.

"We had an awful lot of chances to break the game open," Dierker said after Tuesday night's 8-6 win over the Philadelphia Phillies. "If we'd converted even half the chances we had to break the game open, it wouldn't have been such a tough win. On the other hand, the Phillies are probably saying the same thing."

The Astros rallied from a 4-0 lead for the second straight game and pulled ahead for good on Ken Caminiti's two-run single with two outs in the top of the ninth with the game tied at 6.

"It was a big at-bat," Caminiti said of his game-winning hit off Wayne Gomes (4-5). "I was looking for a curveball, but he kept throwing fastballs."

Caminiti, who missed 69 games before being activated on Aug. 16, is now 7-for-16 on the current road trip and has boosted his average to .288.

"I'm just glad to be back," said Caminiti, one of many Astros to have been on the disabled list this season. "From the standpoint of all the people hurt, we have had a lot of obstacles to overcome, but this team just keep scrapping."

Bobby Abreu's three-run homer in the third inning gave the Phillies a 4-0 lead, and Philadelphia led 5-3 after five.

The Astros tied the score in the sixth and moved ahead 6-5 in the seventh on pinch-hitter Ryan Thompson's first home run of the season.

The Phillies tied the score in the bottom of the seventh after they loaded the bases against Trevor Miller. Winning pitcher Jay Powell (5-4) then walked Kevin Jordan, forcing in a run.

In the ninth, a walk to pinch-hitter Russ Johnson and a single by Matt Mieske put runners at first and third, and Mieske went to second on a wild pitch. After Jeff Bagwell struck out, Caminiti connected with his game-winning hit.

Philadelphia, which lost its fourth in a row and 11th in 12 games, used eight pitchers who allowed 11 walks and 12 hits.

"We gave up 11 walks, and that in itself is asking for trouble," manager Terry Francona said.

The Phillies, 13 games under .500 on Aug. 6, have now lost 22 of 29 games and have slipped to 68-70.

"It's a long season of ups and downs," Francona said. "We were good enough to win some easy games, and now we're just finding ways to lose. We just have to fight through it."

Notes: The Astros have drawn 612 walks, tops in the major leagues. ... Thompson's homer was the first pinch-hit homer of his career and the Astros' fifth this season. Russ Johnson hit one Monday night.

Harvesters need to sack Harris Ratings

It's time for the Pampa Harvesters to sack those Harris Ratings for a big loss this weekend.

Van Harris was the good guy last week when he picked Pampa to beat Lubbock Estacado, even though he was a touchdown off. He's bad like a Borger Bulldog this week after picking Amarillo High as a 10-point favorite over the Harvesters.

Actually, it's tough being a prep prognosticator. High school coaches don't have to submit an updated injury report like the National Football Lotto League is required to do. The Las Vegas Gold Sheet would fold without that important information.

Injuries to key players can make a big difference, but that's part of the game. Bobby Livingston, Estacado's starting quarterback, was sidelined with a leg injury last week, but I don't believe his presence would have fazed the Harvesters. They were fired-up and their hard-nosed play made up for 60 penalty yards and a couple of turnovers.

"Our backs blocked hard, they ran the ball hard and our defenders tackled hard. Overall, I was pleased with the way we played our first game," said PHS head coach Dennis Cavalier.

Sports Editor

Estacado's defense found 190-pound backs Terrance Lemons and Thomas Long tough to bring down all night long. Slippery tailback Tristan Perry at 145 was just that...slippery. Senior quarterback Kaleb Snelgrooves was steady at the helm for the Harvesters.

Junior J.J. Roark was all over the place on both sides of the ball. His two interceptions at defensive cornerback helped nail the lid on Estacado's coffin. Shifting to offense, his 42-yard touchdown pass to tight end Justin Barnes on a flea-flicker put the hometown crowd on its feet, giving Pampa a 6-0 lead in the second quarter. Roark also snared two passes for 20 yards and Barnes caught two for 51 yards.

Pampa's defense allowed a few break-away runs, but the Harvesters came through when a big play was needed. Senior linebacker Nathan Arnn made of the most of his first game as a starter with a team-leading 12 tackles. Sophomore safety Orlando Madrid and junior linebacker Jason Burklow had 11 and 10 tackles, respectively.

No doubt, the Sandies will be a hard nut to crack. Amarillo High returns eight starters from a 9-4 club, including running back Garrett Glass and middle linebacker Casey Clements. They were the key figures in the Sandies' 31-0 romp over Clovis, N.M. last week. Clements, a 189-pound senior, was the leading tackler for the Sandie defense. Glass, a 205-pound senior, rushed for 144 yards and a touchdown.

It's been five long years since Pampa has beaten AHS. With the homefield advantage Friday night, it's time to end that streak.

Flashback, 1952: Pampa defeated Vernon 44-21 in the first home game of the season. Ed Dudley scored three touchdowns and Jimmy Keel had two for the Harvesters.

Rangers' pitching staff getting ready for prime time

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — As the playoffs near, the Texas Rangers' starting pitching is getting ready for prime time.

Aaron Sele continued his impressive stretch run, pitching seven strong innings to win for the ninth time in 10 decisions as the Rangers beat the Cleveland Indians 4-3 Tuesday night.

Sele (16-7) allowed three runs and six hits, struck out eight and walked two in his 12th straight start of six or more innings. Only one AL pitcher has more wins than Sele — Boston's Pedro Martinez with 20.

"My confidence comes from my teammates," Sele said. "We've got a great team, we've been playing good defense and getting good hitting. When you're in a tight game like this one, you have to bear down and make your pitches."

Sele, Rick Helling and Esteban Loaiza would make up the Rangers' playoff rotation. They have a combined record of 36-17.

Texas has gotten starts of six innings or more in 11 of the last 13 games.

"It (getting innings from the starter) takes pressure off the bullpen," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "Any time a starter gives you seven innings, that's a plus for your team."

Oates will face a tough decision on Game 1 starter between Sele and Helling (13-7).

Sele's sharp curveball had the Indians off balance for most of the night, and when they were looking for the curve, Sele had an effective fastball.

"I've told him many times that when he shows his curve, hitters have a hard time with his fastball," Oates said.

Ivan Rodriguez hit a two-run homer to give Texas a 4-3 lead in the seventh inning. Despite the loss, the Indians clinched at least a tie for their fifth straight Central Division Central title when Chicago lost 14-1 at Anaheim.

The White Sox are 23 1/2 games behind the Indians.

The Rangers, who lead the AL West, have won six of nine games against the Indians this season and are 27-16 against Cleveland since 1996.

"It's always a good win when you beat the best team in the league," Rodriguez said. "It's especially good to win when you come from behind."

For the Indians, questions about the Rangers are getting old.

"We really want to play them tough," Indians starter Charles Nagy said. "You know you might have to play them in the playoffs."

Cleveland took a 3-2 lead into the seventh behind six strong innings from Nagy, who was trying for his first win in Texas in three years.

Steve Reed (3-2) walked Royce Clayton leading off the seventh, and after Mark McLemore's bunt advanced Clayton to second, Rodriguez lined his 32nd homer into the right-field seats to put Texas in front 4-3.

"I wasn't trying to hit a home run, I was just trying to hit the ball hard," said Rodriguez, who is two short of matching the league record for homers by a catcher set by Oakland's Terry

The only thing more maddening than seeing referees blow a call once is having to wait around to watch them do it twice.

History does repeat itself, though rarely the way we'd like it to. That's why the return of instant replay to the NFL after an 8-year hiatus reminds us of something Mychal Thompson said about Vlade Divac when the two were teammates with the Los Angeles Lakers a few years ago.

"He's a quick learner," Thompson said, "but he forgets quick, too."

Instant replay was the law of the turf from 1986-91, when league executives were again convinced to shut off the VCR. It wasn't foolproof, it delayed games unnecessarily, intimidated referees, and the NFL's own study only confirmed what everybody should have known: The calls on the field were almost always right.

There were 216,540 plays and 376 reversals during a 5-year span. Of those reversals, 38 were later judged to be wrong — roughly 10 percent. What that meant was that one call was correctly reversed for every 641 plays — roughly once every four games. Exactly one game in those five years was decided by a replay call in the final minute, resulting in a 14-13 win by the Packers over the Bears in 1989, and the league wound up conceding the replay official didn't have enough evidence to overturn the original call.

Anybody who bought a VCR in the last few years can attest to the fact that they're easier to operate. But even though the league spent $10 million on its men and machines, it faces the same dilemma people face at home, one that former NFL broadcasting head Val Pinchbeck framed this way in a recent interview with The Orlando Sentinel: "Can humans do it properly?"

If the preseason experiment is any indication, the answer in too many cases is still "no."

Through 34 exhibition games, coaches asked to have 30 plays reviewed. Three were overturned and NFL supervisor of officials Mike Pereira admitted that replay officials got two of them wrong. Some improvement.

And that wasn't the worst of it. For a while, the push-button devices given coaches to signal their challenges were so sensitive that Rams coach Dick Vermeil buzzed the referee nearly every time he bent over. In one game, a computerized system failed, causing a 4-minute delay while officials switched to a backup. In another, Broncos coach Mike Shanahan signaled a challenge, found out from his assistants in the press box that the call was correct and told the ref he hit his buzzer by mistake. In yet another, a TV technician crossed the wrong wires, a definitive replay made it to the stadium JumboTron, but not to the official who needed it in time to make the right call.

Baltimore Ravens owner Art Modell used to rail about the deliberate way his fellow owners went about the business of the league. "The U.S. Congress," he said, "can declare war with a simple majority, but we need a three-fourths majority to go to the job."

The reason instant replay was banished for the intervening years is because six teams refused to cave in and bring it back. Now they might regret it.

Arizona keeps big lead in NL West Division

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Matt Williams' grand slam highlighted a seven-run sixth inning as the Arizona Diamondbacks beat the Milwaukee Brewers 11-9 Tuesday night in a game that featured a major league record-tying 15 pitchers.

Arizona used eight pitchers and Milwaukee had seven as the teams equaled the major league record for most pitchers used in a nine-inning game.

The Diamondbacks, who are 28-11 since July 20, lead the NL with eight grand slams.

Arizona remained 6 1/2 games ahead of San Francisco in the NL West.

Arizona starter Todd Stottlemyre lasted 4 1-3 innings and walked four batters in his fourth start since returning from a partial rotator cuff tear. Darren Holmes (4-3) got two outs and the win in relief.

Tax clinic slated in Amarillo

AMARILLO — Representatives from the IRS will offer a tax help clinic from 2-7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 16 at the Amarillo IRS office, 7201 West 140, Room 105. The traveling tax clinic is slated during Problem Solving Day and is open to all panhandle residents.

"Sometimes the only way to get a tax problem solved is by sitting down face-to-face with a real, live human being who's capable of listening to the problem and offering solutions," IRS District Director Ladd Ellis, Jr. said. "What we do is to bring all of the decision makers in one place to cut through the red tape and help people solve their tax problems, once and for all."

In a survey administered during the first complete resolution of their problem. Of those people who did not receive complete resolution, 86 percent reached agreement with the IRS on what steps to take in order to resolve their problem.

The last time the IRS conducted a Problem Solving Day in Amarillo was in October 1998. A total of 44 Amarillo residents sought help during the event.
