JUNCTION (AP) — Weirich Brothers Co. has been mining sand and gravel from the beds of the North Llano and South Llano rivers for more than 30 years, and no one gave it a second thought until recently.

A brouhaha broke out when the company applied for an air discharge permit to operate a portable asphalt plant on the riverbank.

Terry Weirich and his sister, Sandra Danz, say producing asphalt-coated gravel for a few months each year is no big deal, that they must produce a small amount of asphalt to meet new requirements by Texas DOI, which buys their gravel.

Junction, a town of 2,800, is named for the two unspoiled Llano rivers that come together 120 miles northwest of San Antonio and flow to the northwest, eventually emptying into Lake LBJ.

Prayer advocates plan to address school board Issue involves pre-game prayer ban

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

The issue of whether or not prayers can be offered prior to a football game is facing school districts across the state of Texas, and Pampa is no exception.

Pampa Independent School District trustees will discuss the matter Thursday when they meet at the Carver Center Board Conference Room at 321 W. Albert. The meeting starts at 6 p.m. and the public comments segment is set for 7 p.m.

It has been reported numerous representatives of churches and the religious community are planning to attend the Thursday night meeting.

Pampa has hosted two varsity games this season and is not having a prayer prior to the games. Dr. Dawson Orr, school superintendent, said the school district will follow the law. "Until the Supreme Court rules and changes it, (the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals) is the law of this land," said Orr.

Reports of a possible confrontation over the issue in the press box prior to the first game were downplayed by both Orr and public address announcer Jack Gindorf. Orr said Gindorf was going to call for a moment of silence prior to the game. When PHS principal John Kendall became aware of it he informed Orr. The superintendent said there was not a confrontation. A moment of silence was not observed.

"Dawson (Dr. Orr) is acting on the way he is interpreting this issue, but it is time when we have to say Christianity is first. We're a Christian community and it is time for Christians to stand up and be united."

Gindorf said everybody involved has different impressions and opinions of whether or not prayers prior to the beginning of a game should be given and just how to handle it. He said there is some confusion locally.

"Dawson (Dr. Orr) is acting on the way he is interpreting this issue, but it is time when we have to say Christianity is first," said Gindorf. "We're a

Woman charged with filling own sacks with stolen goods

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

If you're shopping at Wal-Mart you don't need to bring your own bags, the store will be glad to provide them.

That may be the lesson learned by Teresa Dinsmore, 44, 1722 Duncan, it charges against her hold up. Meanwhile, she's in the Gray County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Dinsmore was spotted in Wal-Mart by alert store employees. She is alleged to have brought her own Wal-Mart sacks with her which she is said to have begun filling with merchandise. Items taken, police said, include Fruit of the Loom Briets, a camisole, a $90 camera and $100 VCR as well as quite a few other clothing items.

She then, according to police reports, attempted to walk out of the store quietly without bothering to visit with any of the checkers at the check-out lanes.

She didn't quite make it. She was arrested on charges of what would normally be a Class B misdemeanor, but since Dinsmore has "at least" two convictions for theft, according to Pampa Police Chief Charlie Morris, the charges will be enhanced to a state jail felony. That could bring up to a two-year sentence. She is currently under indictment for theft charges from an incident in April.

Teen Crime Stoppers tip leads to burglary arrests

Teen Crime Stoppers and good police work combined to catch three juveniles suspected of breaking into Pampa Middle School over the weekend. Pampa School Resource Officer Colby Brown said three juveniles ages 13 and 14 have confessed to the break-in, damage and theft.

Police believe the young burglars forced their way into the building through a window.

Inside, officers found several walls were covered with spray-painted graffiti.

Police records indicate that burglars took five two-way radios worth about $250 each, $100 worth of candy, a projection screen worth $350, seven Beanie Babies valued at $125, a microwave oven worth $300. An estimated $100 worth of damage was done to an overhead projector, officers said.

Brown said three of the radios have been recovered, one was destroyed and one was apparently thrown into a dumpster.

Brown said one of the suspects had been interviewed about the break-in before but it was a Crime Stopper tip that gave Brown and Officer Andy Alaniz the information they needed to break the case. Teen Crime Stoppers had offered a $300 reward for information.

Brown said the three alleged thieves weren't identified because of their ages but said all are currently on probation on other charges. They are currently in the detention center at Canadian Juvenile Boot Camp awaiting a court appearance.

LUBBOCK — Area chuckwagon aficionados did well at the National Cowboy Symposium's chuckwagon cook off here over the weekend.

While a Hartley chuckwagon, C Bar C, won first place, K-Land and Cattle chuckwagon from Miami won second and the Darsey Ranch chuckwagon from McLean was fourth.

The Two Circle G chuckwagon of Lubbock was third. Less than 10 points in the judging separated the first four places in the chuckwagon judging.

K-Land and Cattle chuckwagon crew, led by Joe Peirce, was third in the dessert competition and fourth in potato food judging.

The Darsey Ranch wagon, led by Les and Lyda Darsey, was second in the trail wagon contest and second in the bread competition.

Monster Floyd bears down on Southeast coast

By TRACY FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Authorities urged nearly 2 million people to evacuate coastal areas stretching from Florida to North Carolina today as Hurricane Floyd, one of the most powerful storms to ever threaten the United States, roared through the Bahamas.

Floyd's eye was expected to pass within 90 miles of southern Florida today, and perhaps come within 50 miles of north Florida's coast by Wednesday morning, before striking land somewhere farther north.

"If this thing parallels us, it could act like a weedeater going up the coast," said Craig Fugate of the Florida Emergency Operations Center in Tallahassee. "It's going to be pretty devastating."

Floyd's top sustained wind eased slightly this morning to 150 mph — only a few miles less than Category 5 strength, the most powerful designation for a hurricane.

But south, Ga. Nursing homes in coastal South Carolina had started moving residents inland on Monday.

Farther north, residents of North Carolina's Ocracoke Island, still drying out from Hurricane Dennis a week earlier, also were urged to evacuate. Waves had already started washing across the island's only highway.

Many of Ocracoke's 700 residents had stayed to ride out Dennis. However, said Hyde County Manager Jeff Credle, "I think most people are going to leave this time."

National Guard forces were being activated in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina. Tolls were suspended on major Florida toll roads to speed traffic away from the coast.

"We'll have a couple thousand troops in place to help with the evacuation and to ensure property safety," South Carolina Gov. Jim Hodges said.

"We are making fervent and feverish preparations here," said Bill Bartlett, a Red Cross official in South Carolina.

Martha Thompson, 48, worried about being alone during a storm and went to a Miami-Dade County shelter Monday night.

"Unfortunately, my husband died last year, and I can't stay alone in my house during this hurricane," she said. "I would not know what to do."

South Carolina residents with memories of Hurricane Hugo — which battered the coast with 135 mph wind 10 years ago — packed up as best they could.

"How do you prepare for a storm that's going to wipe you out?" asked Buster Browne, a McClellanville, S.C., resident who rode out Hugo, a Category 4 storm.

"Category 1 or 2, you run out and buy plywood and do what you can," he said. "If a Category 5's going to hit you, what the hell are you going to do? Get the stuff you want to save and leave town."

Only two Category 5 hurricanes have hit the United States since records have been kept: the 1935 Labor Day storm that slammed the Florida Keys, killing 423 people, and Hurricane Camille, which roared ashore in Mississippi in 1969, killing 256.

ABC's Donaldson to host Internet show

NEW YORK (AP) — Television news' latest convert to the Internet is ABC's Sam Donaldson.

The veteran White House correspondent will be host of "SamDonaldsonABCNEWS.com," a 15-minute news report that will air three times a week on the Internet only, the network said Monday.

It's part of a restructuring of his duties that will include work as a national political reporter for ABC and occasional hour-long TV specials for the network. Donaldson is ending his second stint as White House correspondent and will no longer be host one night a week on "20/20."

With Cokie Roberts, Donaldson will continue as co-host of the Sunday morning show, "This Week with Sam Donaldson and Cokie Roberts."

The Webcast will air Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12:30 p.m., starting Sept. 27. The general news broadcast, with an emphasis on Internet issues, is an experiment that could expand if there's enough interest, Donaldson said.

"A lot of smart people tell me the Internet is the future," said Donaldson, 65. "If there is, there's nothing like being on the ground floor."

Donaldson was the odd man out when ABC's Barbara Walters decided she wanted to be a sole host of Friday's "20/20" edition following the retirement of Hugh Downs. Connie Chung and newly-hired Jack Ford will be hosts of "20/20-Monday," and Diane Sawyer and Charles Gibson will anchor Wednesday's newsmagazine.

ABC also announced that Thursday's "20/20" will be renamed "20/20 DOWNTOWN," with Elizabeth Vargas, John Quinones, Jay Schadler and Cynthia McFadden as revolving hosts. The network describes it as an "edgier" broadcast with a greater emphasis on first-person narratives.

Donaldson, meanwhile, is on the mend from surgery to repair a nodule on one of his vocal cords. The owner of TV news' most insistent voices will know by December whether he's completely cured of hoarseness that has plagued him.

"Psychologically, it's been very bad," he said. "If you cut off my right hand, I'll wear a glove ... But if you take my voice away, that's what I do for a living, that's my self-image."

Execution set tonight

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — It took a Harris County jury a day to find William Prince Davis guilty of capital murder. Some 21 years later, he's finally about to head to the Texas death chamber.

"As a citizen, I'm outraged it takes this long," said Ken Sparks, the former Harris County assistant district attorney who prosecuted Davis. "You ought to get a fair trial, a fair appeal. If it's upheld, punishment ought to be carried out."

The execution is scheduled for sometime after 6 p.m. today. The seventh-grade dropout from Harris County was convicted of fatally shooting Richard Lang, the 60-year-old manager of a Houston ice cream company, during a robbery the evening of June 2, 1978.

Davis, now 42, has spent half his life on death row. He would be the 24th convicted killer to be executed in the state this year and the third this month.

While it takes an average of about 10 years before convicted killers in Texas are executed, Davis' case languished in the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals for 8 1/2 years before his initial appeal was denied in September 1989.

United Supermarkets teams with state to introduce label to mark Texas foods

LUBBOCK — Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs joined United Supermarkets officials to introduce the first ever GO TEXAN trademark labels on the High Plains through a partnership between the Texas Department of Agriculture and United Supermarkets Inc. The labeling of fresh and processed Texas foods took place at the United store at Kingsgate Center.

Combs said United plans to use the GO TEXAN logo throughout its 40-store network to make it easy for shoppers to spot Texas food, plants and cut flowers.

"Looking for Texas-grown products in a store filled with so many choices can be difficult. The GO TEXAN logo will eliminate that problem by clearly identifying items from Texas," Combs said.

"As proud partners in a Texas-owned company, we are thrilled at United to join Commissioner Combs in introducing the GO TEXAN program. As United's customers already know, when Texas wins, we all win," said Matt Bumstead, United Supermarkets district manager.

Shoppers were invited to try products from GO TEXAN member companies. The supermarket also gave away samples of jambalaya made of all-Texas ingredients.

GO TEXAN is a Texas Department of Agriculture campaign to persuade Texans to choose Texas agricultural products first. A TDA survey of Texas shoppers found that almost 90 percent would buy a product identified as coming from Texas.

Gov. George W. Bush joined Combs to introduce the marketing campaign. To date, more than 700 Texas growers and companies have become GO TEXAN members. The campaign's trademark is a glowing brand in the shape of Texas.

A GO TEXAN public service announcement featuring pitching great Nolan Ryan will soon be released to Texas television stations. Ryan and actor Tommy Lee Jones have donated their time to promote Texas agriculture through two PSAs scheduled for release to television stations during the summer and fall of this year.

"Using nationally recognized celebrities to promote GO TEXAN will give Texas agriculture a high-profile presence that will make it uncool and unTexan to buy anything but Texas products," Combs said.

Combs pointed out that states with less agricultural production than Texas outspend the Lone Star State in promoting their agricultural industries. New Jersey, which ranks 40th nationally in agricultural cash receipts, spends more than $1 billion a year to promote agriculture. Until now, second-ranking Texas with nearly $14 billion in cash receipts has spent only $200,000.

Combs said dramatic results have occurred from promotions in other states. In Washington, for example, a $5 million advertising campaign over a one-year period caused apple sales to increase 12 percent. A $10 million campaign in California boosted cheese sales by 9 percent.

"That's the kind of success I envision for GO TEXAN," Combs said. "No other state can match the sense of pride Texans feel for Texas. I want to convert those feelings into sales for our producers and manufacturers, revenue for our state and jobs for Texans."

Twins both break ankles during game

REFUGIO, Texas (AP) — Fifteen-year-old identical twins Shane and Lane Myers will do anything, it seems, to keep people from telling them apart.

Shane, a quarterback for the Refugio High School junior varsity football team, broke his left ankle Thursday night in a 36-12 victory over the Odem High School junior varsity. A defender dived for his feet as he was falling to the ground.

A couple of minutes later, on the last play of the game, Lane, an offensive lineman, stumbled while trying to make a block and broke his ankle.

"I can think of 10 to 12 kids in my 40 years of coaching that broke ankles. Here we had two that broke their ankles on the same night. It's weird," Refugio head football coach George Harris said.

"I just couldn't believe what was happening on the field," said the twins' mother, Margaret Myers, who was watching from the stands.

"I was watching Shane put ice on his ankle, when I heard the people in the stands say, 'Oh no, Look! It's the other one.'"

She took her sons to the hospital emergency room.

Neither Shane nor Lane ever had suffered a broken bone before, their mother said, although each has required stitches from non-football related incidents.

Man Who Did Everything Right Now Feels Terribly Wronged

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago, the most beautiful woman in the world came into my life. I'll call her "Mary." We dated for seven months before she started asking for a proposal. I happily agreed, and in 1993 we were married.

Two years later, she convinced me that we should buy a house. A year after that, she said she wanted to have cats in our home. I don't care too much for cats, but I gave in to two cats.

Then she started yearning for children. When we married, we both realized that she could not get pregnant. So she began inquiring into adoption. I wasn't too fond of the idea of bringing a child into our home when we knew little about its medical or psychiatric history. Again, to make her happy, I agreed. Now don't get me wrong — not a day goes by that I don't look at my son and thank God for him.

Then Mary wanted to help us get ahead financially. We both agreed that she would be the one to return to college, since we could not afford to lose my income and my study habits are not great. So we struggled for two years to put her through school.

After a while, Mary started going out with her friends from school for a few hours. Then the outings turned into all-nighters. Keep in mind, my son and I were at home while she was out partying with money we couldn't afford. Eventually she confessed to me that she'd had a fling with a guy she met. I forgave her by telling her that six years was too much time to throw away over one mistake.

Two months ago, she told me she doesn't want to be married anymore. She moved in with her mother. We alternate weeks with our son, but he has trouble staying with her. Part of the reason may be that she yells at him for every little thing he does wrong. He's only 5 years old.

Two days ago, she informed me that she's moving to Florida for an opportunity to attend school and have a good job. Mary does not want our son to come with her. In fact, she says she doesn't want him at all. Sometimes she says she wishes she could take him back to the agency.

Abby, I gave my wife everything she wanted — a house, an education, a son and plenty more. Now she's leaving me high and dry to cope with the responsibilities of paying the bills and being a parent. So much for deadbeat fathers.

Care to offer any advice?
DESERTED IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR DESERTEED: Only this, and it's offered with my sympathy for the treatment you have received from this immature and self-centered woman. The house will appreciate in value, and the emotional and psychic gratification you will receive from raising your son are priceless. If you can let Mary go without bitterness, you will be the winner in the long run. And please, consider counseling for both you and your son to help you through the heartbreak in the aftermath of this desertion.

DEAR ABBY: Is the mother of the bride supposed to ride with the bride in the limo on the way to the ceremony, or should I drive myself?
THERESA IN VERNON, CONN.

DEAR THERESA: Ride in the limo with your daughter, dear lady. You deserve a little pampering.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 Opt for new beginnings, breaking patterns where you might previously have been rigid. Understand that you might not always communicate the essence of what is needed. Creativity remains high. Let your imagination help with a business discussion. Tonight: Make unusual weekend plans.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Close relating takes you in a new direction. Evaluate money and emotional decisions. Be willing to brainstorm. Work remains a high priority. A boss is difficult or vague. Trust that, underneath it all, he has a concept or idea. Tonight: Take time to understand another who is key to your well-being.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Breeze into work. Focus on efficiency. Don't hedge; speak your mind. Make better communication a goal. Just thinking or feeling something isn't enough! Express your views. Make long-distance calls. Plan to take a seminar or workshop. Tonight: Spend time with people, not alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Pace yourself; listen to feedback and zero in on the job at hand. Don't take a back seat with others. Make your ideas known. You don't always have to be politically correct. Your sixth sense helps you read an associate and discern what he really wants. Tonight: Work late, if necessary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Take care of personal matters first, then launch into a brainstorming session at work. Money-making ideas add to your sense of security! Let your imagination merge with another's; together, you come up with amazing ideas. Note the energy between you. Tonight: Add some heat to your relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 Handle calls, work and errands that involve others as soon as possible. By afternoon, your concerns and sense of direction could change. A family member makes a request that you need to evaluate. Carefully consider a dietary or health change. Tonight: Roll on home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Reach out for others; make sure the facts are being presented. A child or new love interest could be most deceptive. You can't seem to see beyond the fog this person creates. Your inner voice gives you financial direction. Use it. Tonight: Visiting with a friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You are personality plus. Make time for networking and visiting with others. Make it OK to have a lengthy lunch. Mix business with pleasure. Your imagination might be making more out of a money offer than you realize. Tonight: Get some chores done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Do research in the morning. Have an important discussion with a boss once you establish what is what. Though he may not always agree with you, you'll get powerful feedback. Accept some facts, rather than digging for logic. Some things just are. Tonight: Beam in what you want.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Take an overview. Question what might be another route to the same end. Make goals; brainstorm and discuss objectives. Take charge. Do some serious thinking later in the day, although you don't have to make a final decision just yet. Tonight: Curl up with that best seller.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 Aiming for what you want remains a key priority. A partner attempts to keep you focused. Thank him for his good intentions, realizing that he doesn't always have the most diplomatic style. Network. Make an extra effort to pitch in. Tonight: Where your friends are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Others give you their opinions, whether you seek them out or not. Take the high road. Consider other opportunities. You might not always agree with others, but they are doing their share. Intuition helps you with your career and a boss. Tonight: Burning the midnight oil.
