OAS Cuban Embargo End Attempt Weakens

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — The attempt to end the 10-year Cuban embargo imposed on Fidel Castro by the Organization of American States weakened today and there were growing indications that it might fail altogether.

Haiti, considered by most as being in favor of lifting the Cuban sanctions, surprised many by announcing that it will abstain in the final vote. Guatemala, undecided until today, also chose to abstain.

The decisions by Haiti and Guatemala dropped the number of countries in favor of ending the Cuban embargo to 12, two short of the needed 14. Until now, most delegates were counting 13 in favor of repealing the embargo and hopeful that the 14th vote could be found before the conference ends Tuesday.

The United States' position of neutrality, coming increasingly under public and private attacks by Latin American foreign ministers, is slowly becoming the key vote of this conference. Brazil also is uncommitted.

Washington's wait-and-see attitude was criticized Sunday by Venezuela as a reflection of non-interest. Venezuela also deplored the absence of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and said it showed "a deplorable lack of interest" in inter-American affairs.

Venezuela was joined by Costa Rica today, whose foreign minister called the U.S. position one of "negative neutrality" and strongly criticized Kissinger for not being here.

It appeared that the best the conference could get was some sort of compromise agreement that would let each hemisphere nation decide whether to lift or maintain its own embargo against Cuba.

The Cuban economic and diplomatic sanctions were imposed in 1964 by the ninth meeting of consultation of American foreign ministers, under the inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance (Treaty of Rio).

Several Latin American countries, notably Argentina, Peru and Panama, have already reestablished relations with Cuba despite the OAS ban. Mexico never broke ties.

Diplomats from 21 Western Hemisphere nations have been meeting in the Ecuadorian capital since Friday to vote on the controversial issue of ending the OAS "Cold War" with the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

A two-thirds majority — 14 votes — was necessary for approval of a Cuban resolution, but diplomatic sources said only 13 countries are firmly committed to lifting the embargo outright.

U.S. policy in the private talks remained a mystery. American officials insisted it would "serve no useful purpose to make our position known since we have taken a neutral position."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who returned over the weekend from a trip to Asia, Europe and the Middle East, skipped the meeting.

Rotary Plans Second Travel Film Evening

"The Open Arms of Portugal," with James Metcalf as narrator, will be the second in the Pampa Rotary Club's World of Travel film series at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 20, in the M.K. Brown Civic Auditorium.

Jack Reeves, of the club's World of Travel Ticket Committee, said the season ticket is "still a good bargain" at $7.50 for adults and $5 for students since there are still four performances left.

Tickets for individual performances also may be bought at the door on the night of the show at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Reeves urged present season ticket holders to mark the Nov. 20 date on the calendar as a reminder.

Club officials also announced that the Rotary Club will present several financial assistance grants to local organizations at the Nov. 20 performance.

The grants will be presented by Rotary Club president Charles Zlomke. The project is under the committee leadership of Rotarian J.E. Thompson.

"The Open Arms of Portugal," according to Reeves, is not just another travel film, but it is an in-depth study of Portugal, its people, their ways, their work and their heritage.

A few of the highlights include Lisbon, the bright city on the Tagus River; Evora, with its bull fights; Portomao, with its golden beaches and sardine industry; and Oporto, famous for port wines, bridges and a fascinating water front.

Optimist Club Observing Youth Appreciation Week

Today marks the beginning of Youth Appreciation Week, according to a 20-year tradition of Optimist International.

Under proclamation of the president of the United States, Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, Pampa, has proclaimed this week, Nov. 11 - Nov. 17, to recognize adult faith-in-youth as they resume responsible roles in the future of mankind.

The week's activities here will officially commence this evening when Pampa Optimists honor ten Pampa young people, grades eight through 12, during a banquet scheduled for 6:30 in Optimist Boys Club.

Eighth grade students to be honored are Rhonda Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Wright, 517 Faulkner; and Julian Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clark, 1013 Charles. Ninth grade honorees are Kevin Cree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cree, 1819 Dogwood; Brenda Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith, 1208 Christine.

Tenth grade students are Linda Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thompson, 100 W. Nicki; and David Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fraser, 102 W. 18th.

Eleventh grade students are Selena Scoggin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.A. Scoggin, 2136 Dogwood; and Ted Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Brown, 2515 Aspen; and seniors being honored are Stephanie Secrest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newt Secrest, 2231

Christine, and Brent Boynton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Boynton, 1214 W. Crawford.

Members of Optimist International in more than 3,000 communities have promoted and developed Youth Appreciation Week observances. Citizens in the United States and Canada have been asked to support the proclamation.

Youth Appreciation Week began 20 years ago in North Carolina and has grown to the extent the Congress of the United States and the President issued a public law marking the observance.

The objectives of the movement include recognizing accomplishments of youth in the home, school, church and community.

C-C To Reveal Contest Winners

Awards to first, second and third prize winners in all six divisions of the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Contest will be made at a meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the chamber offices in the Hughes Bldg.

Ab Conway, chairman of the chamber's City Beautification Committee; Mrs. Joe Curtis, Garden Club president, and Gene Steel, chamber president, will participate in the award ceremonies.

Winners in all categories, to be announced tomorrow, have been notified to attend the meeting.

Coal Mine Strike Called 'Unavoidable' By Official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top United Mine Workers official said today he expected the nationwide coal miners strike — which begins at midnight — to last for at least three weeks.

Union Vice President Mike Trbovinch, said he expected the talks to take at least another three days and perhaps a week and a strike of three weeks was unavoidable.

Asked if there were hostilities between the union and management negotiators, Trbovinch said there were coal miners on both sides of the table and "we understand each other." Most mines were already closed down today because of the Veterans Day holiday.

Government officials have estimated that if a strike lasts four weeks approximately 400,000 workers in industries that rely on coal — like the steel and auto industries — would be laid off. If a strike were to last for eight weeks an estimated 1.5 million workers would temporarily lose their jobs, the officials said.

Union officials earlier predicted it would take up to two weeks to ratify a new contract.

On Sunday, there were some encouraging developments during the negotiations.

"We settled, I think, one of the major areas of the contract," Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said. Farmer did not say what dispute was resolved, but he indicated it was a non-economic issue.

Arnold Miller, president of the 120,000 member United Mine Workers of America, said negotiators reached agreement on some issues.

"I think we're moving. I'm hopeful," he said. "We're getting closer. I think it's sort of a compromise on both sides." "We continued to make progress," Farmer added. "That's the name of the game. I'm encouraged... we settled a lot of differences."

TO KEEP FBI OUT

Nixon Apparently Agreed To Haldeman's Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Richard M. Nixon apparently agreed to H.R. Haldeman's suggestion on June 23, 1972, to tell the FBI to "stay the hell out" of the Watergate investigation, according to a tape played today in the Watergate cover-up trial.

The jury heard the tapes of three conversations between Nixon and Haldeman, who was his chief of staff, on June 23 — six days after the initial Watergate arrests. The disclosure of these tapes last August led to Nixon's resignation.

On their first conversation that day, Haldeman told Nixon that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell had come up with an idea to have the CIA tell the FBI to halt its investigation.

He told Nixon "that the way to handle this now is for us to have (CIA Deputy Director Vernon A.) Walters call Pat Gray (acting FBI chief) and just say, 'stay the hell out of this... this is a business here, we don't want you to (act) any further on it.' That's not an unusual development."

"Um, huh," Nixon replied, apparently in agreement.

Walters testified earlier in the day that Haldeman later actually asked him to tell Gray that the FBI investigation of Watergate was interfering with CIA activities in Mexico. But he said he did not do so.

In a second taped conversation, Nixon was heard to express a fear that the Watergate disclosures would make the CIA "look bad" and hurt U.S. foreign policy.

U.S. District Judge John

J. Sirica ruled earlier that Haldeman's possible reference on June 23, 1972 to "Gemstone" — the code word for the Watergate bugging — will be read as "unintelligible" in transcripts given to the Watergate cover-up jury.

FOR FUEL USE

Consumers Could Face High Prices

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — Oil experts said today consumers may wind up paying as much for fuel as before despite the decision of three leading Arab petroleum states to cut prices.

Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates lowered the base price of petroleum Sunday, but corresponding tax and royalty increases threatened to cancel out any benefits for the world's energy users.

The three oil states said the complicated move was aimed at cutting oil company profits and warned consumers, to prevent the firms from passing on the tax and royalty hikes.

"The matter is in the hands of the consumer himself, and he should vigilantly observe the actions of the companies," said Manny Said Oteibeh, the United Arab Emirates oil minister.

The announcement of price cuts came at the end of a two-day meeting of six Persian Gulf oil states in Abu Dhabi, a tiny oil sheikhdom and capital of the United Arab Emirates.

Three of the gulf states — Iran, Iraq and Kuwait — opposed the price cut and said any change should be decided at next month's Vienna meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Two months ago, Saudi Arabia set a precedent by disassociating itself publicly from an OPEC decision to increase taxes and royalties 3.5 per cent.

Oteibeh told a news conference Sunday Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates decided to lower the posted price of crude petroleum 40 cents from $11.65 to $11.25 a barrel.

He said, however, the three governments would raise royalties from 16.67 to 20 per cent of the posted price and increase taxes from 65.75 to 85 per cent of profits. The changes would run from Nov. 1, 1974, to July 31, 1975.

Oteibeh said the move was aimed at cutting the cost for consumers and reducing the "excessive" profits of the major international oil companies.

Oil experts said, however, the world's energy users may wind up paying the same for petroleum products as before.

PRAISES SECRETARY President Gets Briefing On Kissinger's Travels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, overflowing with praise for Henry A. Kissinger, got his first briefing on the Secretary of State's diplomatic trip in which he may have reached a breakthrough on limiting nuclear weapons.

"Let me just thank you very much, Henry, for a great job for us as Americans and for me personally," said Ford, standing before his helicopter in the autumn night. "Thank you very, very much."

Ford personally welcomed Kissinger to his Camp David, Md. retreat Sunday afternoon and got a three-hour briefing. Another meeting with Kissinger led today's list of staff meetings.

Reporters were called to the White House Sunday night for an announcement as soon as Ford's helicopter returned. Kissinger, the President said, "reviewed the 17 countries on a backbreaking 17-day trip and I can say on the basis of his analysis that it was basically encouraging.

"The meeting with (Soviet leader Leonid I.) Brezhnev was very helpful; from the various capitals that the secretary stopped in the Middle East, I think he also brought back some encouraging news. The trips that he made to the Subcontinent were very helpful in redirecting our policies in that vitally important area of the world."

Ford said he was looking forward to meeting Brezhnev for the first time in Vladivostok, where aides to Kissinger said the two leaders are expected to discuss ways toward a Soviet-American approach to long-term arms control, although it was unclear whether an agreement would be announced.

Officials said Kissinger gave the Russians a number of specific ideas during his Moscow visit. They described the response as thoughtful and fairly detailed, containing a number of elements acceptable to the United States.

Kissinger wants a 10-year arms control agreement with the Russians by 1975, limiting offensive nuclear weapons not in the 1972 interim strategic arms accord. It would seek to limit multiple nuclear warheads, restrain the arms race and hold down the size of strategic bomber fleets.

Kissinger told reporters he was "reasonably happy" with his journey. Among the achievements:

—Improved United States relations with India after the great strain caused by the Nixon administration's "tilt" towards Pakistan during the Indo-Pakistan war of 1971.

Shoplifter Cops 'Radar Sentry'

Michael Hartsock, Pampa patrolman, working in the dark room of Pampa Photo, 1820 N. Hobart, Saturday, was notified by manager Norman Sublett that a "radar sentry" had been removed from a counter in the front portion of the shop. The item was valued at $42.95.

The manager gave the officer a description of a couple who had been looking at the device shortly before it was discovered missing.

On duty patrolmen were alerted and attempted to locate the truck believed used by the couple. A search of the north Pampa failed to turn up the vehicle police said. Investigation continues.

AT TRAVIS School Board Planning Informal Open Meeting

The Pampa school board of trustees will monitor an informal open meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

The session will be conducted in the cafeteria of Travis Elementary School, 2300 Primrose.

Parents of students enrolled in the Pampa school system are urged to attend.

Dr. Dan Long, superintendent, and Paul Simmons, board president, have expressed a desire for parents to take part in this session, one of a series designed to aid the board, administration and concerned persons to shift ideas which would benefit students and the systems.

No votes will be taken. The meeting is strictly informational for all parties concerned. Simmons said today the meeting might be a decisive factor in scheduled more input sessions.

In order for the meetings to continue, he stated, parents must be interested and responsive.

"A good crowd tonight would indicate more informal sessions would be beneficial," he concluded.

Blood Campaign Called Success

LEFORS — John Mitchell, public relations director, Coffee Memorial Blood Bank in Amarillo, today expressed gratitude to residents in Lefors who volunteered 47 pints of blood during a drive conducted to replace units used by Johnny M. Rowe Jr.

The Lefors High School student was injured in a fall Sept. 25.

The donations by citizens of Lefors will replace a part of 52 pints used by the youth who has undergone three surgeries as a result of his injury.

Rowe is confined to St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. Hospital officials today said his condition is slightly improved, but is still listed as critical.

In other efforts to aid the Rowe family, a fund has been established at First National Bank in Pampa. Donations may be sent to Glenda Anderson, fund officer, First National Bank, Pampa, Tex.

The youth's father, Johnny M. Rowe Sr., is attached to the U.S.S. Lapon (SSN 661), Naval Fleet, P.O. New York, and is home on emergency leave.

Mitchell said today the ship has forwarded 50 blood certificates to Coffee Memorial Blood Bank in young Rowe's name.

How To Feed The Birds

A businessman friend was outraged the other day after hearing President Ford's speech about tightening the belt.

"How can they tell people not to buy things or use things? That's what it's all about in this country."

Our friend had a point, and it is a point the politicians just can't seem to grasp and that is that the private economy provides the fuel for keeping the people of this country alive, well and reasonably happy.

The idea of conserving our resources is well taken. We have frequently pointed out that we support the idea of not being wasteful.

In the natural operation of the market, when goods become more dear and therefore more costly, buyers will be more reluctant to invest in things they might be able to do without. But such buying slowdown is generally a gradual trend and the producers have time to prepare for a reduced market. They will channel their capital investment and productive operations into other areas. This will tend to keep business going and keep people gainfully employed.

But if the pontification of a high-powered politician causes an abrupt reduction in sales of a particular commodity the opportunity for recovery is limited.

Fortunately Americans for the most part still think for themselves when it comes to spending their dollar for what they need or what they think they need or want.

But one of the effects of political meddling with the market place is that it creates uncertainty. The producers cannot know what effect some political idea will have on their customers. Producing things involves a long chain of activity.

Basic materials must be provided for the manufacturer. The market for such materials is geared to the need of the manufacturer. The manufacturer programs his inventory on the wholesaler's demands, the wholesaler programs his inventory on the retailer's demand, and the retailer, of course, buys what he hopes he can sell.

At any point along this production chain doubt and uncertainty can create problems. This happens from time to time even without interference of politicians. Business is a gamble in many respects, and he who bets on the wrong course of action will have a temporary setback while his competitor who made the correct decision may have a larger gain.

Seldom do these disruptions affect an entire industry adversely because the competitors are not all doing precisely the same things at the same time and with the same resources.

But with politicians meddling in the productivity chain, the whole machinery can grind to a halt.

In nature, birds seem to be a useful example of how freedom works. Individually, they seek their own food and provide for their own nests. When they are caged, as in a zoo, they become dependent upon their keeper's ability to provide. This dependence is not restricted to a single bird in the cage, but all the birds therein.

Obviously they will eat or not eat depending upon the ability or whim of the keeper.

If America's productivity and distribution of goods and services can be turned on and off by political edict, we will become as our feathered friends caged in the zoo... eventually plucked.

"GEE, I MISS WATERGATE!"

WEALTH REDISTRIBUTION?

Labor's Global 'International'

By VICTOR RIESEL
WASHINGTON — Marxists and their global "internationals" are of many kinds — some brutal, some gentle, but Socialists nonetheless, intent on Socialist domination and reorganization of both sides of the iron and bamboo curtains.

On our side of the world stage this just isn't understood. There is little comprehension of the role of the Socialists. Recently, in London, for example, I wandered through the House of Lords, with a lord, a Socialist lord. Until a year or so ago, he was the powerful leader of Britain's ruling trade union movement. It was all so pleasant amid the enormous oil paintings and memorabilia of the English Parliament's vast halls.

I asked my friend, the lord, if his Labor Party was seriously considering turning Britain into a Socialist nation. He chuckled. "Of course, sure, sure," he responded smiling tolerantly as he turned to describe the mammoth painting of a historic naval battle.

It's the sheer charm of these British Socialists which makes it so difficult to strip away the cultures trappings of their rhetoric and get down to what they plan to do to their society and its industrial plant — with which the United States is so intricately interwoven. Yet, rarely have the plans of British labor and Socialists, and their International, been so crucial to the U.S. than now in our ravine-edged inflation economy. If Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, needed by its veteran left-wing militants, really goes Socialist, I believe it will bankrupt itself and hurl much of the West's economy over the cliff.

They are serious. An analysis of their documents, which have just been made available in full, reveals a methodical plan for nationalizing industries in which America has heavy interest, financial and otherwise.

There are plans too for the "redistribution of wealth." In a speech written for Her Majesty by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, Queen Elizabeth told Parliament the other day, "A measure will be brought before you for introduction of a tax on capital transfers. My Ministers will propose the establishment of a Select Committee to examine the form which a wealth tax might take."

And this means far more than wealth — a Rockefeller. British Socialists think of "wealth" in terms of assets worth some $25,000 and more. In America this would include, soon enough, some of those West Coast carpenters and Southern pipe fitters on an annual basis.

But that's just for starters. There's the energetic Tony Benn, nee Anthony Wedgwood Benn (who fought against being known as a hereditary lord). He is Britain's Secretary of State for Industry. Sort of an American Secretary of Commerce. He has his eye on 10 Downing Street. Wants to be Prime Minister some day. And he believes the swiftest way to get there is to socialize Britain beginning with all major industries. And he has put it all on paper.

One road to such socialism is through something which will be called the National Enterprise Board (NEB) when and if it is created by Parliament. In effect, this Board would be able to control industry by a series of cooperative planning operations. The government, with the help of the big unions, would advise corporations on how to produce, and where, and what, and how to finance themselves, etc.

Such "planning agreements" between the NEB (which of course would be manned by Socialists) and British industry, would cover "major and strategic firms in key sectors of manufacturing industry and selected other industries including the British holdings of multinationals." This means many American corporations.

Further, the NEB would have the power to "start new ventures and participate in joint ventures with companies in the private sector." Obviously, all of this means that the full power of the government could be swung against any corporation which refuses to accept a "planning partnership" and that the governments could go into direct competition with any privately owned firm. Or clobber recalcitrant industrialists with many weapons, including taxation and withholding of permits, loans and subsidies.

Thus, though the first nationalization moves will come in the shipbuilding and aircraft fields, the rest of British industry merely will be waiting in line.

And as Britain goes, so will a score of other nations whose leaders are officials of the Socialist International (known decades ago as the Socialist and Labor International). Their power as Socialist or Labor Party leaders lies squarely on their trade union base — for money, for manpower, for election machinery and as was so dramatically and traumatically displayed in Britain recently, on the ability to paralyze all industry. The coal diggers virtually did that during their strike which forced the U.K. into a three-day work week for lack of fuel and electric power.

Prime Minister Wilson is a vice chairman of the Socialist International. During the last conference of the International leaders, there were high officials from 26 governments, including 10 prime ministers, one national president, five cabinet ministers and one former prime minister. They were Harold Wilson's guests. They are democrats, but Socialist democrats and they want to create a Socialist world. That's their answer to inflation.

They are Social democrats but are not opposed to economic dictatorship which isn't our way of life.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

New Major Party in Offing?

By WM. A. RUSHER

I continue to be surprised and impressed by the number of conservatives, both politicians and theoreticians, who are talking seriously these days about starting a new national party by 1976.

Third parties are a dime a dozen in American history, and the only thing they all have in common is that they were founded to express a strongly held viewpoint on some burning issue and disappeared when the issue stopped burning.

All but one, that is. The Republican Party began in 1854 like all the others, as a splinter party opposed to the extension of slavery into the new states of the West. But the Whigs were foundering on exactly that issue, and in surprisingly short order the Republicans replaced them as one of America's two major parties. That is what some conservatives have in mind for their own hypothetical new party, and at least you can't criticize them for failing to think big.

They begin with the observation that, according to Dr. Gallup, a full 59 percent of the American people identify themselves as "conservative," but only 24 percent will admit to being Republicans. The reason for the low estate of Republicanism as a party label isn't far to seek: How many parties have had a Vice President quit after pleading nolo contendere to a charge of tax fraud, and then within nine months, seen the President himself resign to avoid impeachment and removal for obstructing justice?

The clobbering that Republican candidates are widely expected to get at the polls next month will simply confirm the obvious: In most sections of the country, fairly or not, the word "Republican" is a grave and often fatal disadvantage.

So why not start afresh, in the year of this nation's 200th birthday, with a new party designed to bring under one roof most of those 59 percent of the people who think of themselves as "conservative"?

Of course, it isn't as easy as it sounds. That 59 percent includes voters who disagree bitterly among themselves on many important issues. Perhaps the sharpest single division is between what might be called "traditional conservatives" — the middle class backbone of Eastern and Midwestern

H. L. Hunt Writes

WHERE THE POWER OPERATES

One of the basic causes of the War for Independence 200 years ago was labeled "taxation without representation." What the founders of the U.S. were talking about was the fact that they were governed by people selected by other, not elected by the people. The colonists in America considered themselves to possess all the rights of Englishmen, including the right of self-government.

The King took a different view. Parliament acted too slowly to restore the rights of citizens to the colonists, so the colonists restored them for themselves and England lost the American colonies.

Today we find ourselves governed by millions of people we have never elected to office. Taxes are heaped upon taxes by those who benefit from the treasury, while the taxpayers find themselves virtually powerless to turn the tide.

One out of six employed persons is now on federal, state or local government payrolls. That totals nearly 15 million persons. No longer are these individuals simply low-paid clerks who carry out policies established by the people's elected representatives. They now constitute a powerful, self-perpetuating policy-making bureaucratic elite which not even a President as popular and powerful as John F. Kennedy was able to control, as he himself noted. This is not a healthy situation for our Republic.

Freedom cannot survive unless the people and their elected representatives regain control of government from the agency and department bureaucrats who really are the government, regardless of the party in power.

Republicanism — and the populists of the East, South and West: the hard-hats, "ethnics," blue-collar workers and lumpenbourgeoisie whom George Wallace has done so much to lure away from the Democratic fold, and who are summed up in television's Archie Bunker. Most (though perhaps not all) of what these two huge blocs of voters have in common, when they describe themselves as "conservative," is a profound detestation of the creepy, crawly things that inhabit the left wing of the Democratic party.

But nowhere is it written in the stars that an American political party, and especially one that aspires to major-party status, has to consist of a single monolithic viewpoint. On the contrary, our major parties have traditionally been coalitions — as Mencken recognized when he described the Democratic party (the longest-lived of them all) as "two gangs of natural enemies in a precarious state of symbiosis." He was referring, of course, to the Northern wing of the party, one boss-ridden and now largely in the grip of leftist ideologues, and the "South" of Cotton Ed Smith and his ilk. That coalition lasted from 1868 (or earlier) to 1948, and certainly no greater miracle would be required to fashion a new anti-left party that might dominate American politics for generations to come.

The theoretical foundations for such a party, in demographic terms, have already been laid in Kevin Phillips' seminal book "The Emerging Republican Majority," whose only mistake (as the title indicates) was to assume that the GOP would transmute itself into the new grouping. Attractive candidates are available too — Ronald Reagan, for one, would almost surely look with favor on a serious proposal to put the conservative case before the American people without millionstones like Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller around his neck.

All that remains is to build a bridge, if not in philosophical then in programmatic terms, between the hard-nosed economic prescriptions of traditional conservatives and the lunch-box necessities of blue-collar America. If and when that bridge gets built, the Democrats had better watch out.

Tradition has it that the ancient Egyptians would prominently display a skeleton at feasts to point up human mortality!

Her husband claims to be 18 and single

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: First let me tell you that my husband is 38 and I am 36. We have been married for six years, after dating for eleven years. We wanted to be sure we were ready for marriage.

I was not snooping, because I am not that type, but before the Goodwill people took away an old trunk which had been stored in our attic for a long time, I looked through it, and came across about 200 letters, addressed to my husband in care of a post office box in a nearby town. (He has to go through that little town on his way to work.)

My curiosity got the best of me because these letters were in three different handwriting, all addressed to him in care of the same box number. Some were dated as far back as two years ago!

It seems he is corresponding with three young girls (13 and 14-year-olds) through some pen pal club. I don't know what he has written to them, but they think he is a single 18-year-old boy, interested in a romantic relationship.

He is college-educated and I only graduated from high school. He is a religious man, Abby, and respected in his community. Why would he do something like this? Is he sick? What should I do about it?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your husband could be sick. Tell him exactly how you came upon the letters and insist that he see his doctor. His behavior is symptomatic of a serious physical (and/or mental) illness which, if treated in time, can be helped.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 42 year-old man who is normal in every respect, but I am 4 ft. 11 and weigh 115. I am single and very lonely.

I heard that there was a national convention of The Little People of America in Asheville, N.C. last July. I would have gone, but it was over by the time I learned about it.

If you use this in the paper, please omit my name and town because some normal-sized people tend to make fun of us little people although they mean no harm.

If you have any information about this club for little people, I would certainly appreciate it.

LITTLE GUY

DEAR LITTLE: I'll try. Anyone out there want to do a lot of little people a big favor? Write to Abby with the information and I'll print it.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to the same man for 30 years. When he picked a wife, he wanted a church-going girl who didn't drink, smoke or dance. One who was quiet, modest and not sexy.

I was that girl. I gave him two children (now 28 and 26, both married). Now my husband has decided that he no longer loves me. Instead he wants a younger woman who is sexy, can dance and "turn him on." He doesn't care if she smokes or drinks either.

Behind my back he had divorce papers served on me. We are both 52. He never let me work because he wanted me to stay home and be a full-time wife and mother, so I have no skills. I don't want a divorce, and am contesting it. I left my home and am living with my daughter. I attend church regularly, and I still love him regardless.

The lawyers say we could live separately and come and go as we please, but that's against my way of life. I don't believe in divorce, so what do you advise?

MARRIED FOR LIFE

DEAR MARRIED: You may prevent your husband from getting a divorce, but you can't force him to live with you or "love" you. Maybe if you hang on long enough, he'll change his mind and return to you, but you have no guarantees. In the meantime, instead of stubbornly clinging to a one-sided marriage, why not find something constructive to do with your time? Like volunteer work? At 52, you are still young enough. Life is short, make it sweet.

William Calley Plans To Go 'Job Hunting'

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — William Calley, a free man for the first time in almost four years, said "I'm going to relax and do what free people do." Then he's going job hunting.

The former Army lieutenant, convicted on March 29, 1971 of murdering 22 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968, was released from prison Saturday by U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott under a $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

Calley said he planned to live in the Columbus area and would "seek gainful employment."

Calley drew a life sentence upon his conviction of the My Lai murders which was later reduced to 20 years in prison. The former infantry officer, insisting from the start that he was carrying out the orders of his superior officers and was innocent of any wrongdoing, then turned to the civilian courts in an effort to gain his freedom.

Elliott freed Calley on bail while he was confined to the Bachelor Officer Quarters at Ft. Benning but the Army succeeded in getting the bail revoked in an appeals court. He was then imprisoned at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., to serve the remainder of his sentence.

On Sept. 25 Elliott overturned the court-martial conviction and ordered Calley freed, contending that publicity in the case had prevented him from receiving a fair trial and the Army again filed an appeal with the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeal in New Orleans.

Blues Singer's Funeral Slated

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Several hundred people Sunday viewed the body of writer-composer-singer Ivory Joe Hunter, who will be buried at his home town Kirbyville, Tex. Wednesday.

The blues and country artist best known for his 1956 Gold Record, "Since I Met You, Baby," died of lung cancer at the age of 63 Friday. He had been hospitalized since last December.

Hunter played honky tonks in the Texas area during the early 1930s before cutting his first record in the mid-1950s when "I Almost Lost My Mind," another Gold Record. The latter song won Hunter blues artist of the year and blues record of the year awards.

An as-yet-untitled Hunter album will be released in the near future, according to Bettye Berger, Hunter's manager and producer.

Yet, the friend of many of the past and present big-time singers and musicians, among them black soul singer Isaac Hayes, apparently died with no money.

Ms. Berger organized a benefit and tribute show for Hunter in Nashville Oct. 1 to raise money for Hunter's medical bills. She said prior to the show that his long illness had depleted his financial resources.

Volunteers Hunt For Missionaries

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — About 900 volunteers are searching roadside rights of ways and are asking hunters and farmers to check sheds, wooded areas and newly turned earth in hope of finding two Mormon missionaries missing for two weeks.

Gary Smith Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark J. Fisher, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., vanished Oct. 28, in the rugged hill country of central Texas.

Police have found a name tag pierced by a bullet that belonged to one of the missing missionaries in the mobile home of Robert Kleason, 42. The tag is undergoing chemical analysis, authorities said.

Kleason was charged with making false statements in acquiring a firearm and was held on $10,000 bond. He spent four months in the Burnet County jail this year awaiting extradition to New York on a felonious assault charge.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe refused the extradition because of a technicality and Kleason was released May 31, police said.

IT'S A DEPRESSION

Auto Workers Layoffs Soar Past 84,000 Mark

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto industry layoffs soared past the 84,000 mark today with the layoffs of 22,525 Chrysler workers. The United Auto Workers union has urged a strong government program to stave off a near-disaster economic situation.

"The auto industry is not in a recession," UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone said at a weekend news conference. "It's in a depression."

Of the 84,000 workers idled, 62,000 have been laid off indefinitely.

Bluestone said the layoff situation is "bordering on disaster."

About 40,000 workers at General Motor Corp. plants are already on indefinite layoffs with 8,400 idled at Ford Motor Co. and 17,800 at Chrysler Corp.

Bluestone, director of the union's GM department, attacked the Ford administration's economic efforts as "weak and inadequate."

He said top Ford administration leaders are "coming very close" to encouraging further layoffs.

"To try to stem inflation at the expense of people out of work is an intolerable situation," Bluestone said.

The UAW official urged stricter governmental regulation of the oil industry to bring about lower prices and called for increased energy research to make the nation less reliant on oil as a fuel.

"If the oil industry continues to gouge the public," he said, "then we will call for nationalization of the industry."

Bluestone said the UAW was considering a conference with new congressmen in January to focus on the unemployment crisis.

He called for increased unemployment compensation and enough public service jobs to provide full employment.

"We anticipate further layoffs," Bluestone said. "This is not the end of it. This is the beginning of it."

He noted the GM supplemental unemployment benefit fund, from which auto workers receive unemployment benefits, had dropped from $245 million in October of 1973 to $102 million at the end of last month.

The supplemental benefits, combined with state-paid unemployment compensation, provides idled UAW workers with 95 per cent of their after-tax weekly pay.

"SUB was intended to meet the normal ups-and-downs of the industry," Bluestone said, "not with a disaster."

Bluestone blamed auto price increases for the sales slump and consequent layoffs. He asked auto manufacturers to reassess their price boosts, particularly on the small cars.

There should be a reduction in car prices equal to savings from removal of items no longer required by the government, such as the ignition interlock, which was recently banned by Congress, Bluestone said.

The Vezina Trophy, given to the top National Hockey League goalie each year, is named in memory of Georges Vezina of Montreal who collapsed during an NHL game in 1925 and died a few months later of tuberculosis.

Israel Sticks To Austerity Policy

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The government stuck to its hardline austerity policy today in the face of street riots protesting devaluation of the Israeli pound and an overnight 17 per cent hike in the cost of living.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said the tough economic package, highlighted by a 43 per cent devaluation, marked only the start of a long-range program to end the drain on Israel's dollar reserves and stave off mass unemployment.

Government economists estimated the initial measures, including tax increases and a six-month ban on luxury imports, would save $700 million in foreign reserves but would lower the standard of living by only 3 to 4 per cent.

Workers in the Mediterranean port cities of Haifa and Ashdod planned a one-hour work stoppage today to protest price increases for 14 subsidized foods.

Union leaders said low-income families were hit hardest and vowed they would press for a 30 per cent increase in cost of living allowances to soften the blow.

Stone-throwing demonstrators protesting the large food price hikes smashed shop windows and looted a slum area Sunday night on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. The protesters turned over buses and cars.

Police said helmeted patrolmen carrying clubs and plexiglass shields arrested 32 rioters.

The protesters turned over buses and hurled rocks in Tel Aviv's Hatikva slum quarter.

No serious injuries were reported in either incident.

Rabin, in a radio and television broadcast, said the austerity moves were unavoidable and would affect all income groups.

"We have to face all the struggles: military, political, economic and social," he said. "And for this purpose I believe that each and every one of us is prepared to do a great deal."

Rabin said his government would "deal in the future with the roots of our economic and social problems, such as the problem of productivity."

Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz told a news conference that failure to act now would have led to

"100,000 persons out of work because of a lack of foreign currency for importing raw materials."

Treasury officials said foreign currency reserves were down to about $900 million and had been depleting at a rate of $3 to $4 million a day before Sunday's pre-dawn devaluation.

GOP Considering Party Losses

United Press International — The voters had a message for Washington, said lame-duck Rep. Richard Towell, R-Nev., and I was the messenger boy.

"Things just went sour," lamented Towell, who served one term in Congress before he was defeated by former Judge James Santini, a Democrat. "I flew with Agnew on a trip to Nevada and two months later he resigned in disgrace. I had a fine meeting with Nixon, and short months later he was totally disgraced."

Towell represented one of 10 key districts in which UPI bureaus across the nation asked political experts why the voters switched loyalty from the GOP to the Democrats or, in the case of one South Dakota district, why a Republican reversed the national trend and ousted a Democrat.

They were chosen to reflect the voter attitudes in suburbs of New York, Michigan, Virginia, and Illinois, rural areas in Minnesota, Iowa, and South Dakota, cities in Indiana and Connecticut and the statewide race in Nevada.

Defeated Republican congressmen were quick to blame Watergate and the state of the economy. But a deeper look at the results by their campaign workers, or by other political experts in the district, showed that voter resentment went further.

Virginia GOP chairman J. Kenneth Klinge blamed "Watergate and the Washington Post" for the defeat of Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, a Republican who served 11 terms from northern Virginia. "After all, it happened right across the river."

It wasn't that simple, according to Democratic chairman Joseph Fitzpatrick. A "more concrete" explanation, he said, was "Broyhill's arrogance in raising and spending more money than any other congressional candidate in Virginia."

Republican newcomer Larry L. Pressler defeated Rep. Frank E. Denholm, D-S.D., despite Watergate. Political observers there said Denholm ignored his district for two years.

Pressler tried to shake 500 hands a day during his campaign. Critical of Richard Nixon and later President Ford, he toured the district in a used car, spent only $25,000 and had no paid staff, billboards or bumper stickers.

"I didn't lose, my district lost, due to a multitude of issues, mainly Watergate," said Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa. Winner Thomas Harkin said Scherle failed to deal with the issues of the economy, the elderly and the environment, and Watergate problems were not that great an issue.

In Michigan, lawyer William Blanchard made Republican Rep. Robert Huber a one-term congressman. Huber won two years ago in a normally Democratic district because of the emotional furor over busing, but when the Supreme Court virtually halted cross-district busing, the middle class, labor-oriented district went back to the Democrats.

Suffolk County on Long Island has been Republican since Lincoln. But last week Thomas J. Downey, a 25-year-old backyard basketball player and Democratic county legislator, ousted Rep. James R. Grover by 5,000 votes. Here, Watergate and the economy seemed to accelerate a shift brought on by liberal New Yorkers suburbanizing Long Island.

Eastern Connecticut has also been Republican territory for years, but was captured by 30-year-old Democrat Christopher J. Dodd, son of the former senator. The name was a help in an area where Sen. Thomas Dodd was well-loved, but a hindrance because Dodd was censured by the Senate for misuse of campaign funds.

"If I hadn't had something on my own, I wouldn't have made it," said Dodd, who defeated Republican Samuel B. Hellier.

Democrats moved into a traditionally Republican district on the Southwest side of Chicago by the force of the labor movement backed by the Chicago machine. These factors, as much as Watergate and the economy seems to have elected Martin A. Russo by a narrow margin over Republican Rep. Robert Hanrahan.

In Minnesota, Democrat Richard Nolan almost beat veteran Rep. John Zwach two years ago. When Zwach retired this year, the stage was set, and Nolan won even though his Republican opponent, Jon Gruneth, broke ties with Nixon. Nolan campaigned on how inflation hurt farmers, and Gruneth defended President Ford's economic policies.

ARRESTED BY FBI

Veteran, Wife Charged In Bomb Extortion Plot

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A young veteran and his wife charged in a $1 million bombing-extortion plot were arrested when the FBI homed in on radio messages blown in code on a duck call on citizens band radio.

David W. Heesch, 34, an unemployed truck driver, and his wife, Sheila, 34, of Beavercreek, Ore., were held on $100,000 bail each, and were scheduled to be arraigned before a federal judge today.

The two were charged in connection with a letter threatening to black out Portland if $1 million was not paid by the Bonneville Power Administration. Eleven BPA high voltage power transmission line towers were damaged by bomb blasts.

The couple was arrested Friday evening in southeast Portland, after FBI agents tracked them by simple directional-finding equipment, homing in on dash-dot messages blown through a duck call over a citizens band radio.

A search of their 1968 Plymouth by FBI agents during the arrest turned up a portable citizen's band transmitter and receiving device, a duck call and a loaded 22 caliber derringier pistol.

Howard Lonergan, attorney for the couple, said he will ask for a preliminary hearing and a reduction in the Heesch's bail at the arraignment today.

A 2 1/2 page inventory of the FBI's search of the Heesch's rural Beavercreek home the night after the arrest did not list any explosives.

Julius Mattson, agent in charge of the FBI here, said he turned over results of the search to a grand jury, which is to decide if charges related to the bombing of the BPA towers in October will be filed.

"They seem to be fine people," Lonergan said. "They seem to be intelligent people, and have nothing in their past that would hurt them."

Mattson said during the past few weeks FBI agents had been in contact with the alleged extortionist who signed six letters to the FBI and BPA "J. Hawker."

Agents said "J. Hawker's" code was based on the Morse code and apparently consisted of sound signals blown with a duck call and transmitted on citizens band radio channel 9, the emergency frequency.

On two previous occasions the signals had been found to come from southeast

Portland.

It was learned that Heesch is buying his modern Beavercreek home and the acreage on which it sits under an Oregon veterans loan.

Records showed he was honorably discharged from the military Jan. 29, 1965, and is classified as a "post Korea" veteran. His branch of the service has not been made public.

Ancient bones found down under

VICTORIA, Australia — Bones of a gigantic emu-like ground bird estimated to have been more than six feet tall have been unearthed from a swamp here.

Among the thousands of 40,000-year-old bones of marsupials also found at the site were those of an extinct 10-foot-tall kangaroo, giant wombat-like creatures and a giant wallaby. — CNS

Preschoolers need more immunization

Nearly one-half of the nation's 14 million children between the ages of 1 to 4 went unprotected against such diseases as polio, measles, whooping cough, rubella, diphtheria or tetanus last year.

There were almost 10 million children of the same age not immunized against mumps, according to the Health Insurance Institute. — CNS
