TAKE YOUR FRIENDS TO POLLS ON MONDAY

Those who are working for the proposed tax amendment, on which voters of Gray county and the other counties will cast their ballots next Monday, are advancing arguments in favor of certain bills the amendment would make possible, but they can give no guarantee whatever that these pet bills would be passed.

The Legislature would be given nearly every power, but the passage of the harmless measures suggested is a matter over which no one now has any control. It is like releasing a goat in one's garden—he may eat only the weeds—but it is a dangerous risk.

California voters in 1910 passed a supposedly harmless amendment somewhat on the order of the one Texas has before it. Here is the frank statement of Comptroller Ray L. Riley of that state:

"When Amendment 1 was adopted in 1910, changing our system of taxation, it was argued that county taxes would decrease to the extent of the state tax rate. The contrary has happened. Local taxes not only remained as high as before the adoption of the new system, but kept pace with the increased state expenditures. The great mass of taxpayers, believing that the corporations would pay the tax, shifted many burdens upon the state and inaugurated others that would have received scant consideration if they had been aware that they would foot the bill. The tax bill in California for 1910 was $14,000,000, and for 1927 was $95,000,000."

The proposed amendment in Texas might not work out like the California plan did. It might take other directions, better or worse. Reading of the amendment does not enlighten the student of tax economics. The measure authorizes, ambiguously, a group of powers which may be shifted about at the will of the Legislature. It is a drastic change to an undefined future. It provides for the separation of the objects of taxation. This may be every year if desired. There would be no stability to the system. One year counties and cities might tax grocery stores; next year the state might decide to take the revenue. Neither the local nor state governments would be assured a steady income.

The proposed plan takes the state expenditures so far from the average person that he would not have direct control over appropriations. He would read of a big appropriation, perhaps, but would not realize the significance until his school children's term was cut short because the state cut off a big slice of school valuations to build a harbor on the coast. If the reader does not like these suggestions, he may weave his own, for the amendment gives plenty of leeway.

Taxation is getting to be a very live issue because every representative is expected to bring state money to his constituents. Extravagance is born of our political system. To remove the constitutional restrictions without imposing a reasonable restraint and defining at least the outline of the new tax system is too dangerous.

With the tax survey yet to make its report on the present system and the present facts, why rush into a new plan before the old is fully understood? California made a serious blunder; Texas might do the same.

It will take a big Panhandle vote to defeat this amendment, which is especially menacing to this section. Scratch the proposal Monday, and take your friends with you to the polls.

WANTED: A CANDIDATE
"The main Southern dislike of Smith's nomination proceeds from his dripping wet views, his Tammany origin, background and environment, and his general Manhattan point of view, and I see no diminution at all of objects on these grounds."

So writes George Fort Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News, in the Outlook.

"Opposition to Governor Smith insofar as it is grounded on his membership in the Roman Catholic church, is on the wane, and we can all rejoice in the fact," Mr. Milton declares.

Smith's "general Manhattan point of view" is the real bar to his nomination, and even more so of any possible chance to elect him president. The Manhattan point of view is the most provincial in America. It sees no farther than Manhattan.

To win, the Democrats will have to perform the almost superhuman task of finding a candidate big enough to sweep the country. "Big" does not mean large ability, for they scored John W. Davis, one of the biggest men in the country. It means geographical bigness—ability to see, seize and solve the national problems, particularly those of the Middle West and West.

In spite of his West Virginia rearing, Mr. Davis was a provincial—a New York provincial. He had the Manhattan point of view and the triple curse of the Manhattan mind.

Neither Smith nor McAdoo will measure up to the necessary standard. In truth, the ideal candidate has not yet been discovered, or rather uncovered. He may occupy an obscure position today, awaiting only the tocsin to bring out his strength and leadership.

That he is in existence there can be no doubt. That the Democratic leaders have sense enough to locate him, and party patriotism enough to stake all on his candidacy if found, remains to be seen.—Abilene News.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON.—The presidency of Nicaragua, which has caused the American government so much concern and expense in the last year, may next be voted to none other than General Jose M. Moncada, who threw up the sponge as commander of the Liberal army when he was threatened with the power of the United States marines.

The Moncadistas say that Moncada is the most popular man in Nicaragua today, and what is more important, that his election would have the consent if not the blessing of the American Department of State.

Word of Moncada's popularity is emphasized by Evarista Caraso-Morales, the 24-year-old grandson of a Nicaraguan president who served as secretary to President Sacasa in Washington and to T. S. Vaca, who fought Sacasa's battles here for him during the winter and spring. On his recent return to Nicaragua upon the death of his mother, Caraso Morales, was asked to represent Moncada in this country.

"Moncada became a national hero when he crossed the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, bringing his army through the jungle," explained Morales, who has just returned to a Washington university to complete graduate studies. "His soldiers stood in water up to their waists and formed a human bridge for rifles and munitions kept dry by passing them from one set of raised arms to another. He had to make several speeches a day to keep up the spirits of these men. His troops were not conscripts, as has been said in the United States. Most of them had come from conservative territory to find him and

Be Child's Pal, Urges Adviser Of Parent-Teacher Association

NEW YORK (AP)—Education will not advance as it should until parents take a more active interest in it for the sake of their children, believes Mrs. Florence V. Watkins, executive secretary of the National Congress of Parent-Teacher associations.

"Parents haven't played enough with their children," says Mrs. Watkins, who is conducting a course on the "parent-teacher movement" in the summer session of Columbia university.

"They have been censors instead of playmates. They should come down from their pinnacles, and become the children's pals. Parents, however, are more alive to the possibilities of training the child through the first six years of life. Teachers are more sympathetically inclined to problems confronting the home. Communities have become more concerned in making conditions right for the child."

Mrs. Watkins points out how by discussing child health and the use of leisure with parents in rural communities, cooperation between the parent and the teacher is being brought about. She tells of a town in Georgia where young women did not know how to play because they had worked since childhood. In cities, the problems of safety, thrift, juvenile protection, and motion pictures are considered in the parent-teacher study groups.

"We aim to send 100 per cent physically fit children into the first grade in September," she says. "On May Day, children who are to enter school in September are examined, and between May and September we have our summer 'roundup' when remedial ailments of children are corrected."

Improving motion pictures, Mrs. Watkins believes, will aid education. In the place of the "silly, plotless picture" she urges the adaptation for the screen of more of the great literary masterpieces.

ANATOLIAN SOLDIER IS MASCOT IN TURKISH SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN

Kara Fatma Hanem, mascot of Turkish suffragists, in uniform she wore in the war against Greece. Nezihe Mouhieddine (right) is president of the Stamboul Women's Union.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, July 29. (AP)—Turkish women have started a campaign for equal political rights and have adopted their slogan the expression "from harem to parliament."

In the press and National Assembly are echoes of the speeches and mass meetings of the Stamboul Women's Union and the activity of its fiery, bronze-haired president, Nezihe Mouhieddine, in campaigning for the election of the union's leading masculine supporters as deputies to the National Assembly.

A delegation of five members of the union, headed by President Mouhieddine, is preparing a petition for the franchise which will be presented to Kemal Pasha. It reminds him of his Ineboli speech two years ago when he made his first proclamation of emancipation for women with his historic cry of "Let Turkish women look the world in the face and let them show their faces to the world!"

The petition will bring up the point that the world includes ballot boxes and parliaments and that Turkish women are ready to look both in the face.

The Stamboul Women's Union has adopted "Black" Fatma Hanem for its mascot during the campaign.

She is one of the many Anatolian women who served as soldiers throughout the war against Greece. For bravery and skill as a soldier she was promoted to the rank of sergeant.

The Constantinople suffragists point to her in reply to the argument that women do not deserve the same political rights as men since they do not have the military prowess of men.

Camille's Apartment More Costly With Age

PARIS (AP)—Collectors of odd facts have discovered that the apartment occupied by the famous lady of the camellias, whom Alexander Dumas immortalized, rents today for 12 times what it did in her lifetime.

Marie Duplessis, the original lady of the camellias, lived in an apartment of five rooms without bath on the Boulevard Malesherbe. During her occupancy in 1847 the apartment rented for 3,200 francs a year, or about $130. The price today is considerably higher. The same rooms rent for $1,800 a year.

Paper Mulch, Hawaiian Crop Aid, Not Yet Adapted to American Use

Practical use on American farms for paper mulch, long used successfully in Hawaiian pineapple culture, is being sought by federal agricultural scientists, but they are not ready to say that they see any prospect of its adaption to gardens and cornfields.

In Hawaii the long strips of paper mulch are manufactured with holes at specific intervals, through which the young pineapples are planted. The paper lies between the rows, keeps the weeds down, retains the moisture in the soil and because of climatic conditions lasts several years.

On a government farm in Arlington county, Virginia, experiments are now under way with paper mulch but

Dr. W. A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry, is authority for the statement that "no developments of commercial value" have been found, and whether the mulch will ever be used as a practical aid to crop cultivation is a moot question.

The tests at Arlington are made principally on small garden crops. A texture must be developed which is strong enough to withstand violent changes of weather, the manufacture must be found possible at a practical cost.

"We are not ready to predict," Dr. Taylor says, "that it can be used advantageously on such a crop as field corn. Meanwhile the only manufacturer of paper mulch in the United States has quit business."

FEATURES FROM OTHER LANDS

SIR HALL CAINE RAPS DRAMA OF PROVINCES

LONDON, July 29. (AP) — Sir Hall Caine is not at all satisfied with the drama as served up in the English provinces. There's altogether too much insincerity, the author believes.

"I am not surprised to note that the provincial manager suffers heavily, both in purse and prestige, from the utterly insincere, impure thing that now too frequently goes by the name of drama," were the terms in which Sir Hall gave vent to his views in a letter to the Theatrical Managers' association, read at the annual luncheon here.

"I am sure," he continued, "the great public in the provinces does not want this kind of muck raking. I think it a lamentable sign of the times that the provincial theatres are reduced to the necessity of presenting the works of people who in too many of the London theatres are pouring their abortive passions into plays."

EAST END FASHIONS BRIGHTER CLOTHING

LONDON, July 29. (AP) — A "brighter clothes for men" movement inaugurated in London recently has not met with much success in the conservative and fashionable West End, but in the East End, occupied by the cosmopolitan working class, efforts of tailors, hatters and footwear specialists met with instant success.

Hats worn by the East End youth of today are vivid in color, bright blue, pink and claret being extremely popular. The favorite hue for clothing is purple, followed closely by a light strawberry, patterned with a darker check marking.

A banana colored shoe is being much worn. The seams of these shoes are covered with black patent leather, and they are long and pointed at the toe. Other shoes are patched with designs in snakeskin. Some are made entirely of lizard skin and others of bright blue kid.

LONDON, July 29. (AP) — Despite the closing down of a number of old-world industries, the village blacksmith is surviving and flourishing throughout the country.

secretary, said he had farmed in two countries and discovered that the blacksmith's business was one of the best in the country districts—this is not because of horses to be shod but because farm machinery which has taken their place has to be repaired frequently.

Postal Clerk Cited For Bandit Proof Aim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph Pitts, special clerk of the Des Moines, Ia., post office, has been cited by Postmaster General New for his development of bandit-proof marksmanship with a .45 automatic.

Firing five times in seven seconds at a 20 yard standard American target he hit the bulls-eye, number 10 once, put three bullets in the number 5 circle and punctured the outer ring, number 4, with another.

Red Cross Nurses Conduct Forum On Health Problem of Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—From every corner of the civilized world delegates to the International Council of Nurses convene in Geneva, the last week in July for four days intensive study of problems vital to the health of nations.

Those in attendance represent approximately 100,000 nurses and about 30 different countries.

The United States, a leader in the field of nursing service, sent four delegates to the conference. They are Miss Clara D. Noyes, national director of the Red Cross Nursing Service and a vice-president of the Council; Miss Elsie Lawler, superintendent of nurses at John Hopkins School of Nursing; Miss Lillian Clayton president of the American Nurses association, and Miss Adda Eldridge, a former president of the association and Miss Susan Francis, secretary.

The opening session, divided principally between speakers for the League of Nations and the Red Cross represents the newest alliance for peace and the union of 57 countries of the world in a program of practical idealism. It includes international cooperation to stamp out disease and care for the victims of disasters.

Geneva was chosen for the convention because it is the birthplace of the Red Cross. There Henri Dunant was born. In the guise of a tourist Dunant witnessed the battle of Solferino and helped comfort the 40,000 wounded and dying who were left unattended. He spent his life promoting "permanent societies of volunteers which in time of war could assist in caring for the wounded and in peace could help in disasters."

It was this idea which started the Red Cross movement in 57 countries. It is in deference to him that the only symbol of mercy recognized the world over is a red cross on a white field.

Gustav Ador of Geneva, President of the International Red Cross Committee, chose for his address the subject: "The Part of Nursing in the Red Cross Movement." Miss Noyes selected her topic, "Methods of Cooperation Between the Red Cross and the Nursing Profession," to emphasize a desire for closer cooperation throughout the Red Cross movement.

12 Better Company Than 20, Howe Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Ed Howe, journalist and author, prefers a young child of 12 to any woman over 20. He explains his preference in the August issue of the Pictorial Review, in which he appraises his daughter, Mateel Howe Farnham, and her $10,000 prize-winning novel, "Rebellion."

"A girl of twelve hasn't found the men out; a woman of sixteen is beginning to, and I blush when I think of what women of 20 and beyond think of us, most of it is true."

"I have not read 'Rebellion.' I do not know what it is about, but am willing to wager it does not contain the admiration for at least one man she displayed at 12. No doubt its comments on my sex will be just and accurate."

"We men were very harsh with women in the old days, and I rejoice they have achieved victory over us, but somehow I long for the trust, the love, this bright woman had for me when she was 12."

INVESTIGATOR FINDS HOMES HALF LIGHTED

HARRISON, N. J. (AP)—The average American home is only half lighted, asserts Miss Helen G. McKinlay of Harrison.

Miss McKinlay is one of a score of engineers and eye conservation specialists carrying on a nation wide investigation of light sight and safety under the direction of Richard E. Simpson of the Eye Sight Conservation Council of America. She is studying the effect of inadequate lighting in the home.

Sufficient lights, all shaded, and a center light in each room are the essentials of a well lighted home, declares Miss McKinlay. She sees no harm in reading in bed providing the light is good.

"It takes 12 per cent of the nervous energy the body generates to see under normal conditions," she explains. "When there is poor lighting 60 per cent is required."

"Every well lighted kitchen should have lights above the sink. If you work and can't see well, your irritability is increased. Why lose so much nervous energy in the kitchen?"

HOBO REPAYS KINDNESS

MARSHFIELD, Ore.—A letter has come to Mrs. Sarah Haughton of Myrtle Point informing her that 24 years ago when the writer was passing her home, afoot and tired, she gave him some sandwiches. Two dollar bills were enclosed to convey the time hobo's appreciation of the

Determines to Fly After Narrow Escape

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The terrifying experience of hanging helplessly from an airplane wing and surviving the adventure of an almost miraculous landing in the soft earth of a plowed field has strengthened the resolve of a Minneapolis girl telegrapher to become an aviator.

Answering an advertisement for a girl parachute jumper, Evelyn Barrett leaped from a plane and caught the harness of her parachute on a wing strut of the ship. Her own coolness and the skill of R. D. Ellis, her employer-pilot, brought her through alive.

She is practicing parachute jumps regularly, after hours at a commercial telegraph office, and is learning to operate a plane.

Parliament Women Are Good Orators

LONDON (AP)—Oratory is sexless, parliamentary reporters of long experience think.

In the speaking of Margaret Bondfield and the Duchess of Atholl there is much that recalls the prominent male members of past generations in the House of Parliament.

Miss Bondfield makes the same skillful use of her lorgnette that many male members of the House of Commons have made of their nose-glasses, or spectacles. She never lets her hands get in the way, never seems awkward nor ill at ease. Her voice rises and falls effectively.

Miss Bondfield, the Duchess of Atholl have had as many years of platform experience as most of the younger members of the other sex in the House of Commons. They are constantly speaking under all sorts of conditions in their own constituencies and have been fast to learn the successful methods of platform oratory.

Passenger Air Service Proposed For Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—South America, too, is to have passenger air service.

The South American Commercial Aero-Navigation Company, which operates an air mail service between Santiago and Valparaiso, has announced plans to establish passenger and mail airplane service between Iquique in North Chile, Temuco, in South Chile, and possibly Buenos Aires, across the Andes.

A representative of the company has gone to Europe to take charge of three passenger planes purchased for the new services.

Western Fillies Prove Maxim That Money Makes the Mare Go

LATONIA, Ky. (AP)—The old saying "money makes the mare go" has been emphatically demonstrated by two of the greatest fillies the West has sent to the tracks in many years—Handy Mandy and Princess Doreen.

Through a sensational victory in the Latonia Derby, in which she broke the track record and the American mark established by Man o' War, and in a subsequent triumph in the Latonia Oaks, Handy Mandy placed her owner, Hal Price Headley as the largest money-winning owner at the meeting, a position he also enjoyed when the great handicap mare, Chacoleet, carried his colors to the front in a number of handicaps on Kentucky and Maryland courses.

The career of Handy Mandy promises to eclipse that even of Chacoleet before her racing days are over. She was a three-year-old maiden until she graduated from that rank in the Latonia Derby and her victory in the Oaks, in which she carried the crushing impost of 130 pounds, stamps her as a filly of exceptional endurance and stamina.

Princess Doreen, a six-year-old filly, by all rights of thoroughbred standards, is entitled to be crowned Queen of the Turf. She has gained that title in years of service and by the fact that she has earned more for her owners, Montford and B. B. Jones, than any other racer of her sex in America has brought in.

She is but a few thousand dollars short of the world's record.

When Princess Doreen took the Independence Handicap at Latonia, July 4, she had accumulated $167,940 during her four years of racing.

Airplanes Drill In Musical Time

LONDON (AP)—A musical drill by airplanes was part of the Royal Air Force pageant at Hendon, a London suburb. The music was supplied by the air force band and transmitted to the pilots in the air by wireless.

The planes left the ground to the tune of "I'm an Airman." When the band played "Chick, Chick, Chick, Chick, Chicken," the craft dropped bombs at the line "Lay a little egg for me."

When the band played "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush," the planes went round an imaginary mulberry bush in midair. They rolled to the tune of "Rolling Home," and closed up on hearing the "Pro-blowers' Anthem." On the band's playing "Won't You Come Home, Bum Bailey?" the planes landed.

Santa Fe Asked To Bridge Gap In White Way

W. H. Curry, manager of the local branch of the Southwestern Public Service company, is in communication with officials of the Santa Fe railway, asking them to place lights at the crossing on Cuyler street, where the break of more than 100 yards comes in the white way.
A light on one side of the crossing, or better, on both sides, would not only improve the white way, but it would act as protection to motorists and pedestrians crossing the tracks at night, Mr. Curry says.
