President Returns Home From Barnstorm Swing

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A tired President Ford barnstormed his way home Saturday on a final GOP campaign swing through the West, exhorting voters to reject the Congressional "big spenders" and save America from "raging inflation."

At the Salt Lake City airport he was met by two of his sons, Jack, 22, a forestry senior at Utah State University, and Steven, 18, who is working as a ranch hand in Lolo, Mont.

Secretary Ronald Nessen told reporters, "There's no doubt about it." In the Utah speech, Ford also said the federal bureaucracy must be decentralized.

"The day is past when an octopus-like government in Washington can stretch its tentacles across the nation and squeeze itself more and more power," he said. "Now we have to chop off those tentacles."

PRICE REPORTS

McLean Hospital To Get RNs

By TEX DEWEESE
Federal accreditation for McLean Hospital to enable continued servicing there of patients under the Medicare program will be assured with the hiring of an adequate number of registered nurses. U.S. Rep. Bob Price of Pampa reported Saturday.

The Medicare Law requires that accredited hospitals servicing Medicare patients maintain on duty at least one registered nurse 24 hours every day.

McLean Hospital, which shares its administration with Highland General Hospital here in Pampa, has been operating by detailing an RN from Highland to McLean.

Price said, however, that Robert E. Monogue, administrator of both hospitals, is hiring a sufficient number of RNs to meet legal requirements. The congressman said the difficulty lies in the fact that one of the new RNs for McLean recently was injured in an automobile accident. She is expected to recover before or soon after the Nov. 8 deadline. Price stated.

He stressed that McLean hospital does not face closure even though its Medicare accreditation has been in jeopardy.

Medicare patients at the hospital remain legally eligible for Medicare payments for 30 days after accreditation has been removed. Price stated, so if the injured nurse can assume her duties by Nov. 8, the accreditation will not be lost and if she goes to work shortly after the date. Medicare patients still will avoid any loss of payments.

The congressman had sought a waiver from the Social Security Administration for the hospital since it was notified Oct. 15 that its accreditation would end Nov. 8 unless the nursing requirement was met.

US Auto Workers Begin Forced Layoffs Monday

DETROIT (UPI) — Nearly 17,000 U.S. auto workers begin forced layoffs Monday because their bosses misjudged the reception the higher-priced small cars would get from economy-minded Americans. Three Ford Motor Co. plants and one Chrysler Corp. small car assembly plant will be closed one week, with General Motors cutting back output at four small car plants the following Monday. Nearly 16,000 workers will be laid off temporarily with indefinite layoffs climbing to 51,000 in the next two weeks.

Ford's small car plants face one week on and one week off operations the remainder of the year as part of an industrywide cut of 100,000 cars from planned fourth quarter production schedules.

Automakers, who were caught short of small cars last year when the Arab oil embargo began, were determined that would not happen this fall. They have been building small cars in near record numbers. Sales didn't materialize and dealer lots are glutted with the small models.

Ford now has a 77-day supply of Pintos and a 76-day supply of Mustang IIs while Chrysler's stock of compact Valiants and Darts will last between 105 and 110 days at current sales rates. GM has a 65-day supply of its compact Novas while Vegas would last 100 days.

Overall, the industry has 1.5 million unsold cars either in dealer inventories, en route to dealers or in auto company lots — a stock that would last 58 days if sales don't pick up.

Price reported every indication is that the McLean facility will not only remain open but will remain accredited for Medicare following action of the hospital to install the required nursing staff.

SPOKESMAN SAYS

PLO Sees War With Israel Soon

United Press International
The chief spokesman of the Palestine Liberation Organization said Saturday another Arab war with Israel "is coming soon."

Yasser Abdel Rabbo, the PLO's director of information, outlined at a Beirut news conference his reasons for predicting renewed fighting. They included Israel's refusal to withdraw from occupied Arab territory and to recognize Palestinian "identity" in general and the PLO in particular.

"Don't all these points point the way to a fifth (Arab-Israeli) war?" he asked. "In our view the fifth war is coming soon."

A Soviet-made Katyusha rocket fired from Lebanese territory hit the north Israeli town of Qiryat Shemona Saturday but the military command said there was no damage or casualties.

Allon said Sauvagnargues did not offer to mediate with PLO chairman Yasser Arafat who met with the French minister in Beirut last week.

"I was not curious to hear anything about him (Arafat) because our files on him in the criminal department tell it all."

Speaking to newsmen, Allon said Sauvagnargues that unlike the Algerian revolutionaries who won their independence from France in the 1960s, the PLO "explicitly says in their Palestinian Covenant that they are aiming to destroy the state of Israel altogether."

"They are not to be considered as a national liberation movement or as a guerrilla force," Allon said. "These are a gang of terrorists who do not represent the people, who have not been assigned by an organized people to fight for their cause."

President Has Happy Reunion

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — President Ford had a happy reunion with two of his sons during a campaign visit to Utah Saturday.

"How are you doing on the job?" Jack Ford asked as he grasped his father's arm affectionately. The President just laughed.

Jack, 22, is a forestry student at Utah State University. Steven, 18, a ranch hand near Lolo, Mont., wore a much used pair of faded Levi's, cowboy boots and a brown Stetson hat when he greeted his father.

'Use It Or Lose It'

'Use It Or Lose It' That was the message which Dave Packard, chairman of Hewlett-Packard and former deputy secretary of defense, brought to a gathering of more than 100 top corporate executives meeting at Hot Springs, Va., recently, which by the way, echoes a thought we have often expressed in this space.

The reference was to the free enterprise system which, as Packard and other speakers at the gathering made clear, must be used if it, along with the benefits flowing from it, is to be kept.

And too often today, one speaker after another pointed out, businessmen in this country are failing to make use of the free enterprise system and its foundation of voluntary exchange, relying increasingly upon governmentally bestowed favors instead.

We have become a nation of supplicants. I suggested Senator James L. Buckley, one of the speakers arranged by Packard, and the cozy relationships between business and government have created a temptation to seek favors. I think it is unhealthy and I deplore it.

Such favors inevitably have the strings of bureaucratic regulations attached. Buckley went on to warn, and once businesses become regulated, they become comfortable and parochial, unable to

A Goliath's Fate

The United States is still a Goliath among nations. But it no longer stands alone as the giant of industrialized countries. And increasingly, the less developed but raw materials rich "Davids" of the world are finding that their supplies make effective slingshot ammunition.

This new found leverage of Third World nations, which became apparent when the Arabs cut off oil supplies, is further multiplied by our growing consumption of materials and energy. Our ability to produce raw materials has been far outstripped by our use of them.

For example, at the end of World War II we produced 25 million lbs. of nickel a year, which then equaled 25 percent of our need. Today, we consume 400 million lbs. of nickel but meet only 5 percent of that need domestically.

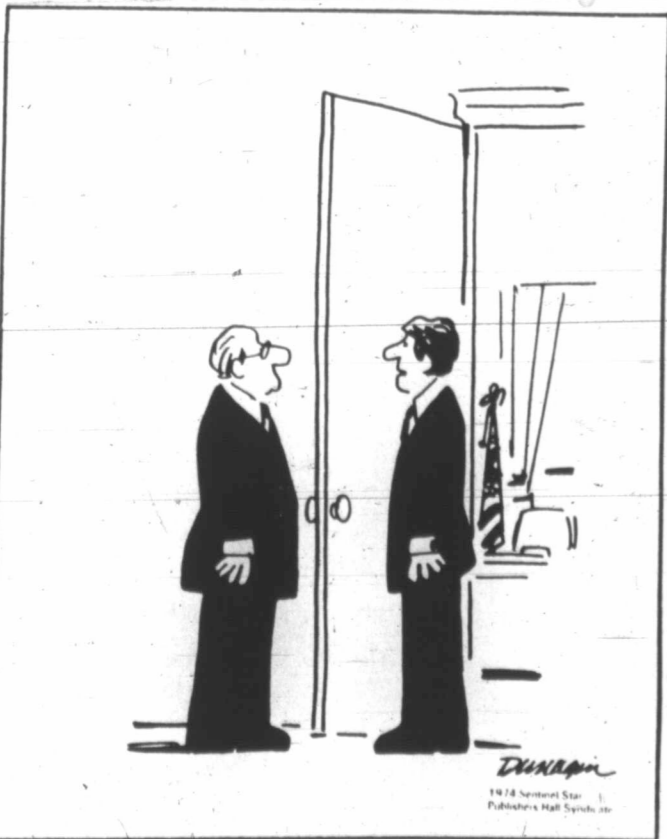

In that respect we moved from the world position of being a rich uncle to that of being a hungry second cousin. Unfortunately, too many people have not recognized this shift in position. Even more people fail to understand its ramifications.

In many areas, the U.S. is still acting like a domineering rich uncle trying to impose its will on other countries and influence their internal affairs. For instance, Congress is hung up on a trade bill because of emigration policies in Russia. A bill to embargo Rhodesian chrome ore as a protest against apartheid has been passed by the Senate and is waiting consideration in the House.

Allegheny Ludlum Industries Inc., a leading producer of stainless steel, makes an alarming point: either it imports Rhodesian or USSR chrome ore or ferrochrome or it does not make stainless steel.

Nobody can argue with the goal of improving and protecting the human rights of all people, but there are times when we feel we must question the means. No longer can the U.S. play the international game as it once did, with the air of confidence of a man holding all the aces. Unless we recognize that it's a new game and start implementing new rules, we may end up like Goliath. — INDUSTRY WORLD

Are We Facing Up To Doom?

By Garry Wills
NEW YORK — One of the most important books published this year is, appropriately, one of the gloomiest - dooziest too. We are in a period of pop apocalypses. Lifeboat Earth is rocking, and taking on water. Films and novels reflect it—killer sharks and crippled planes are the mythic equivalent for our dwindling supplies and our desperate spasms of demand.

It is perhaps too easy to cry wolf in these circumstances, but Robert Heilbroner's book shocks by its refusal to emote, exhort, or lament. It is a brief, cool, reasoned study called "An Inquiry into the Human Prospect," and it is having a profound impact. It has sold 80,000 paperbacks already — largely in universities. It is the subject of specially-called conferences and seminars and lectures.

Since Heilbroner is a respected economist, I asked him if he went to President Ford's economic summit. "No, I wasn't invited. And I wouldn't have gone if I had been. What I have to say would not have been seriously considered there. Heilbroner considers the summit an exercise in self-deception — not an education on our real needs, but an attempt to dither and fudge them out of sight.

And this is odd, because the reception of his book proves that people do sense bad trouble ahead, and are willing to give it calm study beforehand. They may even brace themselves, as Heilbroner has, to the need for social controls of a sort that Americans have traditionally hated.

Some reviewers of the "Inquiry" have written as if Heilbroner were advocating authoritarianism out of a love for controls in themselves. That drastically twists the message of the book. What he says is that we are entering a need economy, and typical situations of that sort always have led to rationing, a strict count of resources, and harsh restraint on the squandering of those resources, people on a lifeboat or in a besieged city have to know who is drinking how much water, and why. Even a libertarian hero like the capitalist Captain Eddie

President's Gag Writer Funny Man

By VIC GOLD
WASHINGTON — "I didn't promise you a Rose Garden," the man smiled as he opened his presidential news conference at fresco last week, "but I guess Ron Nessen did."

The voice was the voice of the President of the United States, but the words were the words of a professional gagwriter on the White House payroll.

His name is Bob Orben. He's been Gerald Ford's favorite jokewriter going back to the days when the President was House minority leader. In fact, Orben is considered as much a part of the presidential speechwriting team as the brow-furrowed specialists who draft the substantive sections of Ford's public addresses.

Thus, we have a Ford administration innovation to the executive branch staff structure: America's first Secretary of Humor.

Not that I'm complaining, understand. If this President thinks that joke-telling is an essential part of getting his administration's message over to the American people, who am I to be a killjoy?

Still, Bob Orben's official White House status deserves some mention, if only to mark the progress that our political system seems to have made in the past 20 years.

Consider, for example, how far we've come since the days when Adlai Stevenson was being criticized by his political allies and opponents alike for using joke material — most of which he wrote himself — in presidential campaign speeches.

The Democratic candidate in 1952 and 1956, running against Dwight Eisenhower, kept audiences laughing at his witticisms, although experts in the vote-getting arts questioned the political judgement of an office-seeker who flaunted a sense of humor in public.

According to the old conventional political wisdom, the country didn't want a wisecracker in the White House. Stevenson's limited ability to translate audience laughter into votes did nothing to change expert opinion on the subject.

Indeed, publicly displaying a sense of humor has always been a two-edged verbal sword for an American politician, tracing back, I guess, to our original Puritan tradition. Some of the sharpest criticism levelled at our first Republican President was directed at his penchant for telling jokes to relieve the tension of the job.

Not to compare Lincoln-style presidential humor with the Bob Orben brand, Lincoln's wit was in the tradition of the 19th-century political storyteller. In our own lifetime, former Vice President Alben Barkley was the greatest of that old breed of raconteur. Sen. Sam Ervin is probably the best-known representative of the old country boy style around today.

Ford-Orben humor, on the other hand, is as far removed from the style of the old country boy raconteurs as Bob Hope is from Artemus Ward's Mr. Dooley. The White House vogue in humor these days is for quick, punchy items which are used, in the showbiz phrase, to "warm up" an audience.

President Ford, to be sure, isn't the first national leader to go to outside talent for his crowd warmers. Presidents since Kennedy have been delivering ready-to-wear wit supplied them by professional gagwriters; though their ability to deliver punchlines varies as much as their general styles of running the country.

Frankly, it seems to me, more often than not, that the incumbent's timing and delivery as a joke-teller don't do justice to the professional material Bob Orben turns over to him.

TURNING SOUR

Editor Of The News

THERE IS still some flak in the air from the arrest in Pampa of that liquor agent who was indicted for assault with a deadly weapon. The charge grew out of an altercation in a S. Cuyler night spot.

A couple of weeks ago we quoted from a letter to the editor from a woman who said she was "saddened to learn an Amarillo Liquor Control agent was indicted for an incident happening in the performance of his duty."

Latest comment from another Pampa woman: "How saddened I would have been if I had read in the paper Oct. 14 that the trial of the Liquor Control Agent had been thrown out of court because he was an officer of the law."

"Please tell the lady that no group of people are 'Christian Law - Abiding Citizens.' There are always a few rotten apples in the barrel, even respected ministers who should be above reproach.

"If the day comes when we don't have city, county and district courtrooms with judges and lawyers, I can guarantee you I wouldn't stay in this town."

The note to Rearview Mirror was signed, "A Pampa Christian and Law-Abiding Citizen."

As usual, there are always two sides to every story.

IN THIS day and age of inflation you hear a lot about the high cost of living. But, what about the high cost of dying?

Well, Francis E. Vanderbur, president of Olinger-Neighborhood Mortuaries, Inc., of Denver (which also owns three cemeteries) says the cost of living is forcing up the cost of dying.

He adds, however, that the best way to beat inflation at the funeral home is to buy now — casket, headstone or tomb.

Vanderbur goes on to say that everything that goes into a funeral, every component, has gone up. He blames rising costs of personnel, caskets, urns, burial vaults and even gasoline used in hearses for a slump in profits. Casket costs are up, he says, because basic materials such as wood, bronze and steel have sky-rocketed.

The prices are continuing to climb and Vanderbur says the only way to escape the spiraling cost is to buy your funeral now.

Demos May Reap A Big Harvest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrats stand to make moderate gains in Congress and reap a big harvest of governorships in the first post-Watergate national election, a United Press International survey showed Saturday.

UPI election bureaus across the country, polled in the final week of the 1974 campaign, gave this assessment of the contests:

Governors—A net gain of five Democrats, giving them 37 of the 50 seats.

Senate—A net gain of five Democrats, giving them 63 of the 100 seats.

House—A net gain of 20 Democrats, giving them 268 of the 435 seats.

The survey also pointed to the possibility of even bigger Democratic gains, especially in the House. UPI bureaus rated 25 contests as tossups, including 21 in districts now held by Republicans. If a national political tide is running as heavily against the GOP as some observers believe, that could mean a Democratic pickup of up to 41 seats.

Four contests for governor and three for the Senate also were called tossups. If all went to the Democrats, it would produce as many as 11 new governors and eight new senators.

Significantly, even if the Democrats won all the tossup races in the House and Senate, they still would not have the numbers needed to produce a "veto-proof" Congress. Two-thirds majorities are required to override vetoes: 67 votes in the Senate, 290 in the House.

There was one element of the survey that could point to bigger gains for the Democrats: Democratic candidates for governor and senator, running statewide, could provide "coattails" that will pull some of their marginal House candidates through to victory.

But there was also evidence of stubborn Republican resistance to the strongest Democratic onslaught since 1964.

There was no clear sign that President Ford's heavy campaigning had rescued any Republicans, but some indication that GOP candidates in key contests had been able to neutralize the overriding issues of inflation and Watergate.

Politically as well as numerically, Democratic prospects are the most significant in the governorship contests. The survey showed the Democrats winning seven Republican seats while the GOP captures two seats now held by the Democrats.

Not only would this give Democrats control of 75 percent of the nation's states, the eight prospective pickups are impressive: California, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Oregon, Arizona and Wyoming.

The two expected Republican pickups were Alaska and Kansas. Tossups were called for South Carolina, now Democratic, and Colorado, Michigan and Tennessee, all now Republican.

Even without the tossups, the outlook would put Democrats into the governorships of nine of the nation's 10 largest states, with 21 electoral votes, and in control of five more states than they held after the 1964 landslide year.

The survey showed Democrats winning Republican Senate seats in Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, North Dakota and Utah. The contests in Nevada, now Democratic, and in Kansas and Oklahoma, both GOP, were rated as tossups.

Significantly, there are GOP incumbents seeking re-election in five of the seven contests called for the Democrats, while the incumbent has retired in the only Democratic seat rated as a possible GOP pickup.

In percentage terms, the GOP's brightest spot is in the House, where the survey showed 22 Democratic and two Republican pickups. These assessments were somewhere in the middle of predictions made last week by party officials here. Democrats were talking about a net gain of 37 to 40 seats, while the GOP projected a loss ranging from a low of five to a high of 20-25.

None of these figures were in the landslide range because the history of mid-term congressional elections shows a tradition of losses for the President's party. Over the long run—15 mid-term elections since the House reached its present size in 1914—the party in control of the White House has lost an average of 45 seats.

This figure has been coming down, however, in the six midterms since 1950, the "out" party has picked up only 25 seats on the average. The losers in Tuesday's elections are sure to cite these figures to ease the impact.

The survey showed Democratic pickups in the following states: three in Illinois, two each in California, Connecticut, Indiana, Michigan and New York; one each in Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Texas. Republican pickups are one each in Florida and Utah.

Houses Seeking Thieu's Resignation

SAIGON (UPI) — Demands for President Nguyen Van Thieu's resignation picked up momentum Saturday with a petition drive in both houses of the South Vietnamese National Assembly.

Street demonstrations subsided for the first time in a week. Police removed barricades and police reinforcements were disbanded. But opposition militants said more demonstrations could be expected.

In the National Assembly's Senate and Chamber of Deputies, antigovernment legislators were collecting signatures for a petition to demand the president's immediate resignation.

Deputies in the lower house Social Democratic bloc said there were already 32 signers and more senators and deputies would join next week. The petition was circulated mostly for its impact on public opinion. It was certain to be killed in any floor debate.

The opposition has boycotted recent elections on grounds they were rigged in advance. This has left Thieu with better than a two-thirds majority of the 159 deputies and 60 senators. Militant Roman Catholics and Buddhists planned rallies for Sunday but no street demonstrations were scheduled, spokesmen for the two groups said.

The current wave of protests is the heaviest in three years. But so far no demonstration has brought out more than 5,000 people, compared to the tens of thousands who demonstrated against the Thieu government in 1970 and 1971.

Agents Search For Cash In Vault Bobbery

CHICAGO (UPI) — With six alleged burglars in custody, FBI agents Saturday searched for the lion's share of the record $1.3 million taken from an armored express vault. Part of it was stashed somewhere in the British West Indies.

Only $61,000 of the loot taken during the Oct. 19-20 weekend has been recovered. Police and federal authorities believe at least $1.5 million has been buried on Grand Cayman Island, B.W.I., or deposited in one or more of the 172 secretive Swiss-style banks on the islands.

Two suspects, Luigi DiFonzo, 26, and Pasquale Marzano, 42, arrived at the island with suitcases carrying an estimated $1.5 million in cash. The money would be difficult to trace, authorities said, because the banks refuse to identify depositors and their accounts.

Investigators believe other sizeable bundles of the loot taken in the nation's biggest cash burglary are in the Chicago area, perhaps in the "safekeeping" of crime syndicate members with experience of laundering stolen money.

Peter Gushi, a twice-convicted hijacker who was arrested early in the armored express case, has dropped hints to federal agents that he would reveal where the money is if the U.S. attorney's office would go easy on him, a Chicago newspaper said.

The report, which the Chicago FBI office refused to confirm, said no deal has been made, partly because federal agents can't guarantee the kind of sentence a federal judge would impose on a guilty plea.

Gushi's careless talk to an undercover informant for the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission more than a month before the burglary, was believed to have alerted police that a "big score" in the Chicago area was in the making.

Republican Staffs Becoming Nervous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One large, Republican-flavored tranquilizer is needed badly on Capitol Hill.

Not so much for the 10 GOP senators and 136 House members seeking re-election, but for their thousands of office staffers.

If predictions of Republican losses are anywhere near the mark, many of them will be out of work—just when the unemployment rate is rising and the nation beset by inflation.

About 6,000 House employees and 1,000 Senate employees could be affected by Tuesday's election.

"It's tough on the nerves. I'll tell you," said Roy Julian, administrative assistant to Rep. Dick Shoup, R-Mont. "You never know what way it'll go."

Observers rate Shoup's race against Democrat Max S. Baucus a tossup. Another man considered in trouble is Rep. Joseph J. Maraziti, R-N.J., a vocal supporter of former President Richard M. Nixon during the House impeachment inquiry.

Sarah Brady, manager of his Washington office, said she was "really nervous" about the Tuesday outcome, but "not anticipating a loss."

"We all have home mortgages to make," she added. "There will be a lot of Hill people with no place to go." She said other government agencies appeared swamped with applications.

At the office of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who is favored by the polls, there were fears a Democratic gubernatorial landslide could give Javits' Senate seat to his opponent, Ramsey Clark.

Thunderstorms Cause End Of Balloon Project

WHITE SANDS, N.M. (UPI) — The Project Da Vinci manned research balloon landed safely in northeastern New Mexico Saturday, ending its scheduled 36-hour flight early because of approaching thunderstorms.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman reported the huge helium-filled sphere pulled its experiments in their drop lines and put down in a plains area about four miles east of Wagon Mound, N.M. The three men and one woman in the crew debarked from the gondola safely.

The balloon was launched at 8:45 p.m. (MST) Friday at Las Cruces in south central New Mexico and landed at 8:40 a.m. a couple hundred miles to the northeast.

Meteorologists assigned to the project detected a thunderstorm system moving in and it was decided to terminate the flight 24 hours earlier than scheduled, AEC spokesman Jim Griffin said.

Scarcely an hour before the landing, the balloon was reported drifting over the countryside conducting experiments.

The delayed flight, originally scheduled for Oct. 12, was plagued by poor weather conditions after it finally got off Friday night.

Winds of up to 25 knots pushed it at a faster pace than expected and the flight nearly had to be terminated at dawn Saturday when it headed for the Sangre de Cristo Mountain Range near Santa Fe, Griffin said.

However, the crew elected to keep the flight underway and the balloon, with a ton of scientific equipment in the gondola, passed safely past the mountains at dawn.

Then, said Griffin, "It was decided to put down" because of the approaching thunderstorms. An instrumented observation plane aided the balloonists selecting a landing site.

Project Da Vinci was sponsored by the AEC, the National Geographic Society and the Army's Atmospheric Sciences atory. The crew members were project director Rudolf J. Engelmann of the AEC, pilot Jimmie M. Craig, copilot Vera Simons and Otis Imboden, a photographer with the National Geographic Society.

Ms. Simons originated the idea of the flight to explore the lower atmosphere, the air just above the earth which she said "affects us the most."

Nixon's Vital Signs Good But Still On Critical List

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Given a "therapeutic boost" by the surprise visit of President Ford, Richard M. Nixon was showing stable and satisfactory vital signs but still on the critical list.

The morning medical bulletin said the former President had no indications of further internal bleeding and that he would be given light oral feeding for the first time since he lapsed into shock and almost died following an operation last Tuesday.

The former President of the United States remains under critical care at Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach, said the statement signed by Dr. John Lungren, Nixon's personal physician.

He had a fairly restful night. All vital signs this morning are stable and satisfactory.

Almost 96 hours had passed since Tuesday's crisis and it had been anticipated from previous doctors' statements that the 61-year-old Nixon might be removed from the critical category by now.

Albert Sees GOP Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert said Saturday President Ford's "hard sell" campaigning will spare the Republicans a terrific beating at the polls this week, because voters have inflation on their minds and they blame the administration.

And while you might expect Mr. Democrat to say that, he has been checking voter sentiment lately—traveling, in fact, aboard an Air Force plane provided on a pay-as-you-fly basis by, well, President Ford.

"We're going to have a solid victory," Albert said in an interview. "Better than average. We'll pick up 25 seats at least, probably more, maybe 30."

Democrats now occupy 248 of the 450 House seats.

Economic issues are on the minds of the biggest segment of the population," said Albert, fresh from a two-week campaign swing through Nebraska, Illinois, West Virginia, Texas, Ohio and his home state of Oklahoma.

"Their pocketbooks have really been clipped and they blame the administration."

When Ford came under the criticism of Democrats recently for campaigning intensively for Republicans aboard Air Force 1, he replied by offering Albert—and only Albert—the use of a government plane to do, in effect, some equal-time stumping for the Democrats.

The group hopes to collect all kinds of trading stamps to be used in buying Christmas gifts for a needy family.

Anyone wishing to donate trading stamps to the drive may contact any DECA member. The drive ends Thanksgiving Day.

The DE organization is also conducting short courses in the field of business for students and interested adults.

Courses will be conducted Monday night. Classes offered include sales demonstration, job interview, counting change and gift wrapping, all taught by DE students. There is no charge for the courses.

Adults wishing to take the classes may call the DE office at the school to enroll.

McLean DE students have also been invited to attend the short courses.

Two classes of each course, lasting 35 minutes each, will be taught.

Newsman pressed hospital spokesman Norm Nager on that point.

"Some of the information this morning was encouraging," Nager said.

"But as far as our personnel are concerned, he is on their critical list because the doctors have ordered critical care and have given nurses a list of dangers. Until the point of the dangers is passed, he is going to be on their critical list."

"This applies to former Presidents or Mr. Jones—to anyone."

Lost Kangaroo Keeps Illinois Police Hopping

PLANO, Ill. (UPI) — It was one of those routine nights for Patrolman John Orr, except that he almost ran over a kangaroo.

The kangaroo bounded from a cornfield as Orr, who happened to be off duty Friday night, was driving down Riverview Road.

"I'm positive I saw him," Orr said Saturday. "People don't believe you when you see things like that. I definitely know it was a kangaroo."

Newspaper readers and television viewers who are aware of the kangaroo's normal Down-Under habitat, would have to assume that this cornfield-haunting marsupial is none other than the one which has eluded Chicago police and other "bring 'em back alive" kangaroo stalkers for more than two weeks.

"If I hadn't slowed down, I would have hit him. My cousin was in the car behind me and when she saw him, she just plain ran off the road," Orr said.

The kangaroo paused in the middle of the road momentarily, then hopped into some woods and leapt-leapt gradually moved out of sight, heading in the direction of a Boy Scout camp, Orr said.

He said the kangaroo was at least five feet tall and had a tail about two or three feet long.

It was in a small car, so he looked pretty big from my angle," Orr said.

He filed a report on the sighting with Kendall County officials, who dispatched kangaroo searchers throughout this farm area.

Plano is 40 miles southwest of Chicago where a kangaroo was last seen in a Northwest Side neighborhood on Oct. 16. A day earlier, two policemen tried and failed to handcuff the animal, but the kangaroo punched one of them and got away.

The big questions about the cagey kangaroo are who does he belong to and where does it come from? No zoos in the area claim him and no one has reported a missing marsupial report.

Of the dramatic meeting Friday between Nixon and Ford, Lungren said, "President Gerald Ford's visit Friday was a therapeutic boost for former President Nixon."

Mrs. Nixon told White House physician Dr. William Dukash that she thought the Ford visit to her husband's bedside had done him a lot of good.

Since the operation to insert a plastic clip to block movement of blood clots and the relapse afterward, Nixon had been given nourishment intravenously.

Lungren said that he would now be given liquids and such foods as Jello and consume orally.

The former President also had received six units of red cell blood transfusions. The Saturday bulletin said he had required no additional blood since Thursday.

"There are no indications of continued oozing of blood and the hematoma or mass of blood in his left flank shows no evidence of enlarging," it said.

He remains at bed rest and is being encouraged to cough and deep breathe in order to maintain good respiratory function and expansion.

Lungren said that barring any significant change the next health report would be issued around 9 a.m. PST Sunday (11 a.m. CST).

Hearing Set On Vulcanus

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has set a public hearing Nov. 14 on the burning of chemical wastes in the Gulf of Mexico.

One such operation was completed last week aboard the German-owned incineration ship Vulcanus in which 4,200 tons of Shell Chemical Co. wastes were burned at a site more than 100 miles out in the Gulf.

Shell has requested permits to make three more incineration voyages, but Louisiana officials have said they would go to court to prevent future offshore burns. The EPA and Shell said they monitored the Vulcanus's first burn and all results will be disclosed at the hearing.

The hearing will start at 10 a.m. in the Shamrock Hilton Hotel.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You are at a peak of personal magnetism, so it is more pertinent than ever to stay busy. Go after your objectives, quickly claim your just rewards.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Get out of the glare of public view as much as you can. You've got some maintenance to do, revisions in your thinking to make. Romantic ventures thrive.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Teamwork is the theme now. You can attract support from the powerful as well as those nearby. Move to bring an abstract ambition into reality.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Where you've done your homework, make your deeds official today, but leave risky or speculative projects for future development.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Confirm distant contacts, long-range projects today, adding nothing new while perfecting the old. Legal matters can be settled quite successfully.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Partnership affairs take much of your attention. Unusual remedies are available for chronic problems. Take the time to say "thank you!"

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Get right into your day of action, pursue broad outlines vigorously, indicating detail areas for later. Opportunity for promotion improves today.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Mend your fences wherever needed. Advice from experts, progress reports on all sides offer encouragement. Add something to your savings.

NOW IT'S LAVA LINE HONOLULU (UPI) — Move over crisis lines, life lines, hot lines and soul lines. If you live in or visit Hawaii, you can now dial a "lava line" and find out when the next volcano will erupt.

It's the latest in the specialty lines, installed in the community of Volcano, on the island of Hawaii, largest of the Hawaiian chain and home of the Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

HELLO, CELLSIM!

Talking Cancer To A Computer

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cancer researchers and physicians can now talk directly to a computer in medical language to determine growth rates and the best ways to combat tumorous cells without the aid of a computer programming specialist.

The new computer program, called Cellsim, allows the physician to work with any standard computer with only a few hours training.

The program developer, Charles E. Donaghey, a professor of engineering at the University of Houston, said Cellsim is being used in medical schools and research centers around the world and may be in common use by cancer treating doctors within two more years.

There would be no problem if cell biologists knew regular computer language, but they don't and they aren't going to take the time to learn," Donaghey said. "Cellsim is a translator for them that permits them to use common medical language with any computer."

Researchers have for several years used computers in solving their problems with cell growths and treatment, but they have had to explain their problem to a programmer who would work the computer.

Donaghey said communication problems and misunderstandings cost the researchers time, but Cellsim cuts out the middleman.

"It's a problem oriented program with the vocabulary and conventions of his own field—in this case cell biology," he said.

The educator said cancer cells have a much faster growth than normal cells and the computer can tell the physicians the difference in the growth rates, thus enabling treatment at proper stages.

Most cells go through a four stage growth cycle and drug and radiation treatments can block the cells at certain stages or kill them entirely.

"The trick is to stop the tumor cells and keep as few of the good cells as the blocks as possible," he said. "They can kill cancer with some of these treatments, but they also can lose the patient. Knowing exactly when to treat the cells is the key."

Donaghey said several researchers at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute here are using Cellsim with good results. Dr. Elton Stubblefield, who helped develop the program, will begin teaching the system in his cell biology classes next semester, Donaghey said.

The University of Cincinnati and the National Cancer Institute in Melbourne, Australia, are also using the program along with two major drug companies. He said he gets two to three requests per week for the program.

Donaghey said the National Science Foundation has given him a new grant to further refine the program and add to the vocabulary.

"We've learned a few new things since we began this about a year ago," Donaghey said. "It took about five years to develop, altogether."

By FOSTER WHALEY WEED PROBLEM IN WHEAT

I've never seen the winter weeds as bad in wheat. Many of you should line your aerial spray man up and get after this the first warm and still day. Some time ago, the Experiment Station recommended spraying only in the Spring after wheat was fully tillered but before it hit the boot.

We now have wheat in just about every stage from having just sprouted to having it so rank you couldn't get to the weeds with a spray.

I would definitely advise against spraying wheat that was too small and not tillered good. In most cases the incidence of winter weeds are in direct proportion to the earliness of your planting date. The earlier you planted the more weeds you have. The later you plant the fewer you have. Check your fields and if spraying is necessary, line up your aerial spray man.

Kenneth Gray does an excellent job. He is very knowledgeable on rate of chemicals as well as kinds of chemical to use. Kenneth attends every one of Texas A&M's Aerial Spray Conferences at Texas A&M.

Speaking of A&M, for the benefit of the Baptists, Texas A&M 20, Baylor ZERO.

I have forgotten the A&M Tech score but one thing I do remember we never had a single Tech player waving at the Aggies to come on like they did in the Texas University game.

Caine Care Program Benefits 4-H Members

Besides the fun of working with animals, youthful dog fanciers can share in a variety of awards ranging from medals to transistor radios to scholarships.

Offered by Purina Dog Foods Group, Ralston Purina Company, the awards are given in the national 4-H dog care & training program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. This year, awards including six scholarships of $700 each are expected to be claimed by some 5,000 young people.

On his way to earning national recognition, a 4-H'er can earn a medal of honor at the county level; a transistor radio for state honors and one of 18 trips to National 4-H Congress from his geographical section. More than 143,000 young people enrolled in dog care and training projects nationwide are eligible to submit their records for consideration by the Cooperative Extension Service.

While happily accepting the awards, the youths enjoy other benefits - the companionship of their dogs, numerous events and activities, and the opportunities the program provides for earning and learning.

Kathy Abbott, 18, of Huntington, Conn., says, "My goal is to become a veterinarian and 4-H has made me realize there is nothing I want to do more. I have gotten a head start in learning many things about animals that I couldn't be taught in any school." Miss Abbott also has put her skills to work in a local kennel after school and on weekends.

Andrea Kutlick, 17, Lodi, Calif., has been busy showing dogs in obedience and conformation classes and helping with county health department rabies clinics. She and her mother also have led a 75-member 4-H dog care and training club and most recently produced a home movie on how to raise a pup.

A young man who has found part-time work in an animal clinic is Jervis Tucker, 18, Zachary, La. Besides working with a veterinarian, a career he hopes to later to make his own, young Tucker also operates a small dog-grooming business.

These are among the many 4-H members who are learning the responsibilities of dog ownership, successful care and management practices and generally enjoying their experiences.

For information on how to participate in the 4-H dog care and training program or serving as a leader of a group, contact the local county extension office.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
Last week we carried a portion of the testimony given by Tommy Swann for Water, Incorporated at the Public Hearing held on September 27, 1974 by the Senate Subcommittee on Water Resources. The purpose of the Public Hearing was to give the people of West Texas an opportunity to tell the Subcommittee what they want in the way of water and oil legislation.

Swann's testimony carried in last week's column concerned oil production, its water requirement, and the economic benefits from the secondary recovery of oil. The column ended with the statement that this secondary oil production would require 176,906 acre feet of water to produce 137,270,500 barrels of crude oil. We continue with his testimony concerning economic benefits.

The oil producers interviewed indicated the cost of producing one barrel of oil by secondary recovery, selling for $10 per barrel, for operating expenses, which includes the cost of lifting the oil, and $2 per barrel capital investment on the well. This is an estimated cost of $4 per barrel on oil selling for $10 per barrel or primary benefits to the oil companies of $6 per barrel. It should be pointed out that these are only "ball park" estimates and were derived through interviews and not through actual survey of cost records. These estimates indicate that the primary benefits to oil companies of secondary recovery of oil selling at $10 per barrel would be $4.65 per acre foot of water used. The primary benefits for production in the year 2020 for secondary oil production, at $10 per barrel, would be an estimated $824 million. This figure represents almost one-half the total quantified benefits of the Bureau of Reclamation study, with only 3.7 percent of the water.

The benefits of oil production are not limited to primary benefits to the oil companies. The income generated through production multiplies as it moves through the economy in terms of indirect and induced benefits. Grubb estimated the total economic activity generated by a one dollar increase in crude oil production in Texas to be $2.41 in 1967. Although the $2.41 multiplier is based on 1967 prices, it is the best estimate of economic activity per dollar of output that is available. Researchers who have worked extensively with the input-output model, believe the multiplier remains a reliable estimate of economic benefits when using current prices. In this study, a comparison was made using the 1967 crude oil price of $3.01 per barrel and the 1974 "new oil" price of $10 per barrel. Using the multiplier of $2.41 of total economic activity generated from each dollar of output of the crude petroleum sector, the economic benefits to the state from secondary recovery in 2020 can be estimated. The estimated economic activity from the production of 137 million barrels of oil varied from $995 million at the 1967 price of $3.01 per barrel, to $3.3 billion at a crude oil price of $10 per barrel. The total economic benefits to the state from secondary recovery would be $5.624 per acre foot at the 1967 price and $18,705 at a price of $10 per barrel.

The interviews conducted in this study indicated the oil companies can well afford to pay 100 percent of the cost of water imported to the Texas High Plains. One producer interviewed indicated he is now paying 70 cents per 1,000 gallons or $228 per acre foot for fresh water used in secondary recovery, a cost which exceeds the Bureau of Reclamation estimate of the cost of imported water. The economic benefits to the state in 2020 from secondary recovery at a crude oil price of $10 per barrel would exceed the annual economic cost of a project such as designed in the Bureau of Reclamation's study and require only 3.7 percent of the water. If all benefits were considered, secondary recovery alone would make importation of water to West Texas and Eastern New Mexico economically feasible.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Grant Helps Expand Texas Tomato Breeding Program

Texas doesn't produce nearly enough tomatoes for its own use. You've probably noticed that shortage reflected in the high prices you pay at the supermarket for both fresh and processed tomatoes.

Texas once had a thriving tomato industry. However, because of high temperatures, high humidity, diseases and labor shortages for harvesting, the industry declined and moved to other states and foreign countries. But now Texas production is increasing, thanks to improved varieties developed recently by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Weslaco.

Funds granted by the H. J. Heinz Company to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will enable expansion of tomato breeding research by Paul W. Leeper, Associate Professor, at the Weslaco Research Center. These funds plus recent break-throughs in tomato breeding will enable a three-fold increase in the Weslaco program and will aid in cooperative evaluation of the Weslaco developed lines in other states.

Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, Director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, states that release of all varieties to Texas growers as well as growers in other states will still be subject to decisions and actions of the Texas Station. Director Miller emphasizes that "the expanded program is expected to result in the development of improved varieties that benefit producers, processors, and especially consumers."

Leeper says that breeding emphasis will be placed on development of high-yielding, high-quality, disease-resistant varieties adapted to both processing and fresh market which will set fruit at extremely high temperature and high humidity conditions. All varieties will be adapted to machine harvest and should aid Texas growers in expanding the Texas industry.

The soundness of the approach to tomato breeding being carried out in this program is indicated by the eleven varieties developed and released which have proven to be useful to the Texas industry as well as tomato industries in other states and nations. Because of its wide adaptation to extreme weather conditions, Chico III, released in 1969, is now grown in more parts of the world than any other tomato variety. Chico III is the leading machine harvested variety in all U.S. tomato producing areas east of the Rocky Mountains and in Canada as well. Saladette, released in 1973, may ultimately prove to have the widest range of adaptation of any of the varieties released to date.

FHA Announces Staff Promotion

J. Lynn Futch, State Director, Farmers Home Administration, Temple, Texas, has announced the promotion of Ormel I. (Jack) Boyd to Chief, Business and Industrial Programs (B&I). Boyd has served as B&I Specialist for the past year, assisting with implementation of new guaranteed loan authorities assigned to FmHA by the Rural Development Act of 1972, Public Law 92-419.

Activity in the new program of providing loan guarantees to aid in business and industrial development in towns and cities of up to 50,000 has exceeded expectations according to Futch. He noted that eight conditional commitments to guarantee loans of $29.2 million were authorized in the past fiscal year. Since July 1, 1974, ten commitments for $1.6 million have been issued. Futch said fifty-eight requests for loan guarantees of $16.6 million are presently being evaluated or applicants have been advised to complete formal applications for final feasibility determination. Boyd has been a member of the State Director's staff since 1968, serving as Community Programs Specialist until 1973. He completed twenty years federal service in 1974. All his service has been with FmHA except for military duty in World War II. Boyd was FmHA County Supervisor in Seguin, Gadsden County from 1959 to mid 1968. He received special recognition in 1967 for his work with rural groups and communities on rural water systems. During 1957-58 he served as Assistant County Supervisor in Richmond, Fort Bend County. Prior to employment with FmHA, Boyd taught vocational agriculture for eight years.

Boyd is a graduate of Texas A&M University and holds BS and MS degrees in Agriculture Education. The new Chief, B&I Programs, is a native of Chilton, Falls County. He and his wife, the former Marjorie Beasley of Trent, Taylor County, have two sons, Don, a senior Aggie Band member at Texas A&M, and Alan, a freshman at Tarleton State University, Stephenville.

Productivity Advantageous In Dealings

AUSTIN - The turbulence we have all felt in the early 1970's may have been caused by the stark passing of the plow, according to a southwide agricultural leader.

"American agricultural productivity and know-how is the strongest single most effective advantage we have in dealing with the world community of nations," C. G. Scruggs of Birmingham, Ala., added.

"We may, however, forfeit this advantage unless we formulate a carefully thought-out U.S. food policy soon," Scruggs, editorial director for Progressive Farmer, predicted.

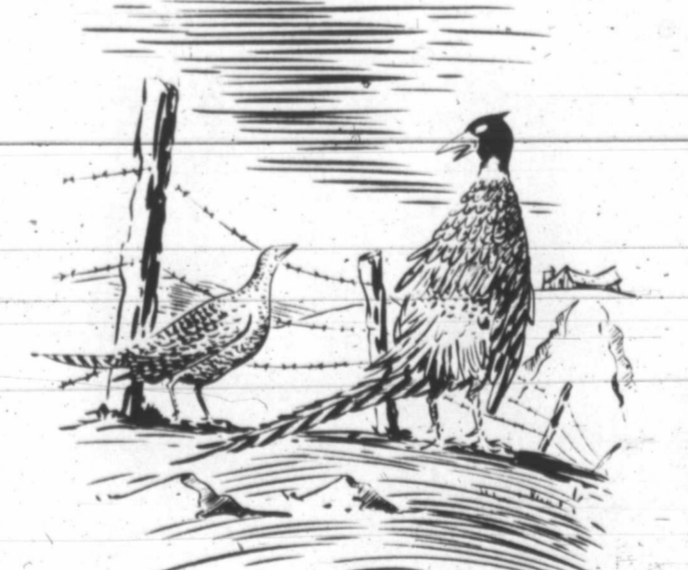

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Professional Agricultural Workers of Texas, Scruggs emphasized that populations continue to explode in many areas of the world. "Generally, we can expect that the number of people on earth will almost double by the end of this century."

Scruggs forecast a continuation of "boom and bust" prices, and said that farming will be increasingly difficult, or profitable, for those able to master new problems.

He predicted that grain will be increasingly consumed by people, farm equipment will become larger and faster, legumes will become increasingly important, producers will become more adept as financial and marketing managers, cultivation will be reduced in favor of permanent plant zones for water and fertilizer, and agriculturalists will become more efficient harvesters of the sun's power.

STORK PASSING PLOW?

According to the editorial director of the Progressive Farmer magazine, C.G. Scruggs, a carefully thought-out U.S. food policy is needed to keep American agricultural productivity and know-how strong in dealing with the world community of nations. This is essential due to population explosions in many areas of the world. He predicted that "boom or bust" prices will continue and that farming will be increasingly difficult, or profitable, for those able to master new problems. He also noted that the effective use of radiant energy could provide breakthroughs in food production.

Flash Floods Threaten Parts Of Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Flash floods threatened all of Oklahoma except the Panhandle and extreme northwest Saturday as torrential rains soaked the already wet ground.

A tornado was sighted near Cushing and another, or possibly the same tornado was indicated by radar west of Harrah.

The highway patrol reported two feet of water over S.H. 81 in Kingfisher County just north of Okarche and about one foot was reported at Dover.

The patrol said 4 to 6 inches of water was standing on S.H. 81 at five locations from a few miles North of Waukomis to six miles south of the Garfield County town.

A spokesman for Gov. David Hall said the highway patrol, national guard, state welfare department and civil defense had been alerted to be ready to help any community endangered by the water. He said the state Civil Defense had been been watching for the tornado reported in east central Oklahoma, but it apparently had not touched down.

Oklahoma City fire department officials said at least one bridge in northwest Oklahoma City was washed out and they plan to evacuate some persons from the area.

A flash flood watch was issued for all parts of the state except the Panhandle and northwest through tonight.

Poisoned Candy Kills Youth In Houston Suburb

PASADENA, Tex. (UPI) — Captain R. E. Rhodes Saturday said police were certain cyanide-treated candy straws which killed an 8-year-old boy Halloween night came from a two block area of this Houston suburb.

Police went from door to door, talking with each resident, in their effort to find who killed Timothy Mar O'Bryan by dropping the straw, filled with cyanide granules into his trick-or-treat sack.

Four other straws containing the candy power-powder mixture were located by police in the neighborhood where Timothy was a trick-or-treating, but apparently none of the other youngsters ate the candy.

"There is no question it came from those two streets," Capt. R.E. Rhodes said. "We are talking to everyone."

Timothy died Thursday night after his father agreed to let him eat one piece of candy before going to sleep. He was buried Saturday.

The weather had been rainy so Timothy, accompanied by his younger sister, his father, two friends and their father, had collected candy for only half an hour.

"Thirty seconds after I left Tim's room, I heard him cry to me, 'Daddy, daddy, my stomach hurts,'" Ronald O'Bryan said.

"He was in the bathroom, convulsing, vomiting and gasping and then suddenly he went limp."

Timothy's father, an optometrist, sobbed softly Friday and said his son had never had an enemy.

Business News Looks Good In State Economy

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Economic activity in Texas is resisting the downward tendencies of the national economy, the University of Texas Bureau of Business reported Saturday.

Estimated personal income in the state rose 2.2 per cent above the previous month, compared to an anemic .8 per cent national increase.

Industrial production for the first three quarters of the year rose 2 per cent above the 1973 levels in Texas, compared to a 2 per cent increase in the nation.

The index of business activity in Texas showed a strong level in September — 5 per cent above August.

Francis B. May, UT business statistics professor, cited the 13 per cent increase in the Texas business activity index during the first nine months of the year as an indication of the basic health of the Texas economy.

Average levels of activity were up in 14 of 20 cities included in the index. Only Amarillo, Port Arthur, San Antonio, Texarkana, Tyler and Waco showed declines.

Wichita Falls lead the field of increases with a 23 per cent jump for the first three quarters of the year. Beaumont scored a 20 per cent increase.

May cited employment as another bright spot in the Texas economic picture.

Nonfarm employment in the state through September averaged 5 per cent above the first nine months of 1973. Total unemployment was only 1 per cent above the first three quarters of last year despite a 4 per cent increase in September.

May said the boom in oil prospecting and drilling and related revival of the oil field machinery manufacturing industry was partly responsible for the bright employment picture.

Residential construction, however, plunged to a low of 82.8 per cent of its 1967 monthly average value during September — the lowest point since the building index sank to 55.8 per cent during the 1966 money crunch.

The residential construction index has declined irregularly since it reached a peak of 268.9 per cent in January, 1973.

PHS Planning Revision For Its Constitution

Members of the Student Council at Pampa High School are considering rewriting the school constitution again, according to student body President Glen Blanscet.

Blanscet said efforts will be made to rewrite the constitution to insure that student rights are listed.

The constitution was rewritten last year, but except for minor changes, it is almost word for word the same as the previous constitution, Blanscet said.

Blanscet is asking members of the student body and faculty to submit ideas for a new constitution. He plans to have a series of meetings for the purpose of studying proposed articles and amendments.

He hopes to have the proposed constitution ready for students to study in December.

The revised constitution will need approval from the Student Council before it is submitted to the student body for consideration.

The class is offering two styles of t-shirts which may be purchased by all students. The sweater shirt will be sold to only seniors.

The shirts are on sale in the main hall at the school.

Double-Ring Service Unites Teresa Huston-Randy J. Hill

Nuptial vows were solemnized at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18 in Episcopal Church of Clarendon by Miss Teresa Hope Huston and Randy Joe Hill.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Largent of Spearman. She is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Jo Young, 1602 Mary Ellen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hill of Clarendon.

CEREMONY

The Rev. Pettigrew Hamilton, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before the background of two altar urns of yellow spider mums and two candelabra.

Mrs. Raligh Adams, organist, accompanied Miss Beth Rutledge with "The Wedding Song" as she read a poem, "The Prophet."

THE BRIDE

Presented in marriage by her stepfather, F.J. Largent, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta. The Singapore styling was of Chantilly lace, enhanced by pearls. Chantilly lace and pearls also formed a V-shaped neckline.

The long Bishop sleeves were caught at the wrists by deep lace cuffs and the slightly gathered skirt fell to a lace band with a double tier of organza ruffling. She wore a matching Camelot cap of Chantilly lace traced by tiny pearls.

The bridal illusion veil fell to chapel length and was entirely edged by a wide band of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of baby yellow and orange mums surrounded by baby's breath and lace.

For something old, the bride wore an heirloom diamond and ruby ring which was her maternal grandmother's engagement ring. Her something new was the wedding gown and she wore a triangle diamond pendant which was borrowed. She wore the traditional blue garter.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Janet Florer, Amarillo, was matron of honor and Mrs. Terry Floyd, Clarendon, was bridesmatron. They wore identical fall print gowns of yellow, orange and avocado green with avocado green velvet headpieces. Each wore matching accessories and carried nosegays of orange and yellow baby mums.

Flower girl was Miss Linda Carol Hill, sister of the bridegroom, Clarendon. Ralph Hill served his son as best man and groomsmen were Tommy Hill, brother of the bridegroom, Clarendon.

Ushers were Danny Hill, Colorado Springs, Colo., brother of the bridegroom and Rodney Hicks, Clarendon.

RECEPTION

The wedding reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with a handmade lace crocheted cloth over pastel green and centered with an autumn arrangement of mums.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with orange and yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Lana Young, cousin of the bride, served cake and Mrs. Guy Dell Hill, poured punch. Guests were registered by Miss Jona Daniels, cousin of the bride.

For the wedding trip to Amarillo, the bride wore a three-piece wine and off-white pantsuit with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The couple will reside at 601-3rd St., Clarendon.

AFFILIATIONS

A 1972 Pampa High School graduate, the bride attended Clarendon Jr. College.

The bridegroom, a 1972 graduate of Clarendon High School, attended CJC and is presently employed at Chamberlain Motor Co. in Clarendon.

Whipped butter cannot be substituted for butter, as it is called for in recipes for cakes and cookies. That's because air has been incorporated into butter and there is actually less butter in the product that's whipped.

Members attending the October meet included Mrs. C.E. Fenno, Mrs. Lloyd McKnight, Miss Norma Lantz and Miss Ardelle Briggs. Guests were Mrs. Jesse Baker, Mrs. Randy Reeve and Mrs. Cleve Reed.

Refreshments were served following the business meeting and program.

"Bring Home The Bacon" (Bringing home the bacon) today means bringing home the paycheck, but originally, the phrase literally meant bringing home the pig itself. The phrase comes from the practice at rural fairs to awarding the pig to the winner of the greased pig contest. The person catching the slippery hog was actually "bringing home the bacon."

Hot Soup Good For Fall Days

COLLEGE STATION — Hot soup is made to order for crisp, cool fall days and can also be packed with nutrients, one foods nutrition specialist said this week.

She's Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Give hot soups a warm welcome on cool, fall days. They can perk up sagging appetites and help lighten the load on the food budget," she said.

She suggested trying meatball soup. Season ground beef with salt and pepper and other favorite seasonings. Shape the meat into marble-sized balls and bring to a boil in water. Add sliced carrots and celery with a little chopped parsley from your herb garden. Cook slowly for two hours and serve hot — sprinkled with cheese.

"The soup includes some of all the basic food groups except the bread and cereal group. So serve it with piping hot corn bread to round out the meal with a southern touch," the specialist advised.

She noted that one way to cut back on the cost of the ground beef for this soup is to mix the meat with textured vegetable protein.

'Antique Toys' Topic For Century Culture Members

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday, Oct. 22, in the home of Mrs. Rufe Jordan with Mrs. J.R. Donaldson, president, conducting the business meeting.

The Club was hostess for the Senior Citizens in Lovett Memorial Library Oct. 10.

Mrs. Ross Buzzard introduced the speaker, Mrs. Myron Marx, Jr. whose program was entitled "Antique Toys." Mrs. Marx presented a history of the progression of the toy industry.

The once cherished dolls of our great-grandmothers command small fortunes today and most end up as collectors' trophies rather than playthings for each new generation, she told.

Toys also have historic value as well as a nostalgic value because they reflect the way of life in a particular era.

In 1892 when economist Albert Bolles compiled a survey of American Industries, he reported in a brief section devoted to toys, "Playthings have become so necessary a part of American life that the trade in them has suffered the least of all by the hard times. Playthings are a luxury but, even if there is a retrenchment in the family, the children have to be amused just as much as ever. Children's amusements, as always, reflected the tastes and trends of the times. Dollhouse furniture, for example, duplicated the household fashions of the moment, she continued.

The toys of the early Colonial days reflect the unfrivolous nature of that period. Very often there were no toys at all and imagination served to turn sticks and stones into games. Children who lived along the seashore played with shells and pebbles.

By the end of the 17th century some English toys were being imported, but they were available to only a small fraction of the population. For the most part, the early settlers fashioned crude playthings out of pine, oak, and maple from the forest. The rocking horse was the most popular form of amusement for all children. Collectively, a group of hobby horses reveals the wide range of skills found among amateur craftsmen, the speaker told.

In New England villages the making of toys became a sideline for carvers and carpenters. The wooden figures, although faithfully executed, still lacked the animation so necessary to a child's sense of play. Out of this urgent need there developed wooden toys with moving parts. Tin toys followed those made of wood, in about 1840, and a new realm opened up for the toy makers. The windup or clockwork toys with spring action came in with the popular wave of tin toys.

The present scarcity of tin toys from the seventies and eighties is incomprehensible with the record breaking output of the toy makers in their heyday. One single manufacturer is known to have produced forty million tin toys annually in the 1870's.

Fortunately for today's collectors, the cast iron variety, which came in a bit later than tin, had a better chance for survival. Although cast iron toys were more solid, windup mechanisms were not suited to the heavier material and vehicles equipped with wheels or rollers had to be pulled along by the child. A bell device was often attached to the axle of a cart or wagon and the bell chimed when the toy was in action — which delighted young children, if not their parents.

Trains, trolley cars, fire engines, covered wagons, circus and farm wagons — any form of transportation served as a model for toy makers. These were favorites with small boys before the appearance of the automobile.

The bean shooter was the all time best seller with millions of "these infernal machines" sold each year. They were one of the simplest playthings made — known to every school teacher in the community. Toy timepieces were also childhood treasures. Toy firearms, soldiers and drums were in demand and increased sharply after the Civil War.

Dolls, puppets and marionettes have always figured largely in the child's world of fantasy. In the early days of the colonies the homemade dolls were crude. One of the earlier, which was called — because of the obvious similarity — a bedpost doll, was simply a rounded stick with a face painted on it. Every feasible material was used for dolls — paper, wood, muslin, china, bisque, celluloid, metal and papier-mache. The popularity of rag dolls event usually led to the manufacture of dolls in quantity. Gradually dolls became more elaborate. China heads from Austria and Germany came next, followed by heads from England.

The plush covered, excelsior-stuffed Teddy Bear was inspired by a bear cub that Theodore Roosevelt refused to shoot on a hunting trip in 1902. The craze for these snugly toys reached such heights by 1906 that one alarmed Michigan clergyman solemnly declared that little girls, in abandoning their dolls for Teddy Bears, were losing all instinct for motherhood and race suicide would inevitably follow.

Mainly About Wheeler

By RENA SIVAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Nig Clark were in Stinnett last Monday to attend the funeral services of her brother-in-law; Mr. John L. Shirley who had passed away unexpectedly. Mrs. Shirley and Mrs. Clark are sisters.

Loma Clemens of Seminole, Ella May Daberry of Shamrock and Lucille Walser of the Kelton Community visited last Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. White Whiteley. Mrs. Vivian Riley of Pampa visited her parents over the week end.

Mrs. Katherine Davidson, Mrs. Minnie Johnson and Rena Sivage transacted business in Erick and Sayre Thursday afternoon. The foliage made the trip very enjoyable. We can look about and see beauty everywhere this time of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Weatherly and Tammy of Littleton Colorado and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Atherton, Tonja, Terrie and Tracy of Pampa visited with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holdeman and with Loyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Weatherly over the weekend. Their visitors in the Weatherly home were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pond and sons of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Weatherly and family of Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cammack (Hattie Sue Wood) of San Antonio spent last week with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hill. Mrs. Cammack is the former Hattie Sue Wood daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wood. Mr. Wood was a former teacher and pastor of the First Baptist Church at Kelton and Hattie Sue and Esther visited in Kelton while they were here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whiteley and family of Irving and Miss Reba Nell Whiteley of Dalhart spent the weekend here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Whiteley and Mrs. Whiteley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ogle.

This writer paid a visit to her "ole Alma Mater" Kelton High School last Thursday afternoon. There were so many changes to the school that she would like to share them with former Kelton Exes. As you enter in the front door look up at the stairs and see doors closing off the second floor from the first. This was done to conserve the heating.

As this writer entered the building she was greeted by Mr. Killingsworth (That is Jerry) and he was kind enough to show me the tour of the building. The first room that we went into was Mr. Gandy's science room. My it seemed in such a mess, but was told that it was the art room and art was taught by Mrs. Ann Killingsworth.

The next stop was the Study Hall; and I am sure that you readers would have asked the first question that this writer did, "Where are our senior pictures?" and was told that they were moved down stairs into the Supt. office and teachers lounge which was the old home economics room.

There hung the old clock with Glen and Elder Stearns, Irene Thornton and Mildred McDowell's name on it. They gave this clock to the school in 1927 and we have looked at this clock many times to see just how long it was until four o'clock or until time to change classes.

We then went into the Senior Class Room. I could visualize Josephine Poole, Lorene Harris, J.D. Beaty, Evelyn Harvey, Thurman Richardson, Bertha Rogers and Rena Johnson there with Ozella Hunt as the class room supervisor and George S. Gandy as class sponsor.

The next stop the History room and it is now being used as the scout room and Mr. Dean Johnson is doing a good bang up job with the scouts there. More power to you Dean!!!!

We then came back through the superintendents office and we could almost see Mr. Webster Willoughby and Mr. Clyde Brown sitting at the desk and the many times that we have gone to them for conferences and how many times they have given us the best advice and it is appreciated more each day.

Out in the hall stood the trophy case and some of the trophies were still in it and had not been moved downstairs with the rest of them. We feel sure that Virginia Dale, Paula Bledsoe, Wanda Chead, Maryemma Johnson, Betty Whiteley, Sidney Faye Whiteley, were just a few of those who helped win these trophies.

The next stop was first floor and we went into the Old Home Economics Room and it is now the teachers lounge, secretary's office and Supt. room. At the superintendent's office was Mr. Dean Johnson. Mr. Johnson is not a former Kelton Ex, but he should claim it as he is a nephew of Joe Pitcock, A.T. Pitcock, Johnnie Pitcock, Mamie Pitcock who were all former Kelton Students.

There was a door where the cabinet was in the home economics room and it entered the first grade room that Mrs. Bledsoe taught with some of her former students, Phyllis Abernathy, Jack Daberry (deceased), Arlen Henderson, Twylah Rives, Sharon Stiles, Londell Dale (deceased), Peggy Baird, Currie Dell Abernathy (deceased).

There was the kindergarten room in the old part and it was taught by Mrs. Ann Killingsworth.

Mrs. Jewell Reed is still teaching school there and the students are still coming away from Kelton Grade School with the best math information that most students get in larger school.

The gym was lovely with new curtains on the stage and new rest rooms are being constructed on the north side of the gym. You could almost see Don Smith, Gene Burrell, Vernell Abernathy, Joan Addison, Zuanna Ledbetter, Rachel Motes, Sue Pitcock, Keith Abernathy, Clay Walser, Steve Davidson, just to name a few playing ball.

It was great going back to the school and if you ex students are ever back down there, why don't you go by and I am sure that you will be given a tour as this writer was and you coming away with good memories, of course there are some that are sad knowing that some of the class mates are gone, but we can remember them with the good memories.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ray Sivages of Hayes, South Dakota spent last week end here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nig Clark and Mrs. Irene Sivage and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sivage. Mr. and Mrs. Sivage were just recently wed and were in their honeymoon trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Anderson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wheeler of Canyon spent the week end here with Mrs. Dorothy Hink and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wheeler.

Word has been received here that Mr. Webster Johnson of Amarillo was seriously burned over more than 50 percent of his body on October 9th. He is in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. Mr. Johnson is the grandson of the late Mr. R.O. Johnson and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Muleshoe. He would appreciate cards and letters from his many friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Garrett and daughters of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Vanpoole of Azale were here to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Vanpool and attend the funeral services on Sunday of their grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Vanpool in Shamrock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wagner, Dena and David spent Sunday in Canyon with his sister. They were joined there by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wagner of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Johnson and Mrs. Rena Sivage visited in Shamrock Sunday afternoon with Mr. Johnson's sister, Exer Murchinson, who is a patient in the Shamrock General Hospital.

Visiting last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Whitener were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Miller and children of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. William Whitener and family of Topeka, Kansas.

Mrs. Sylvia Cross and Jay Swetnam left Thursday for their home in California after spending two months here at the bed side of their father, Mr. Jess Swetnam and with their sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fulks and family of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Turner and family.

Birthday Greeting go out for the week of the first through the ninth to David Hall, Teresa Ford, Myrtle Dorman, Maurita Stribling, Joe Atwood, David Campbell, Judy Vanpool, James Kreyling, Mrs. George Porter, Tom Puryear, Janice Verden, Elmer Simpson, Jerry Don Hefley, Chuck Hogan, Eric Zybach, Phyllis Jean Jamison, Donnie Manning, Grace Porter, Jo Ann Millet, Dorothy Hall Miller, the late Harvey David, David Wayne Jones and V.B. Hardcastle.

Baylor Whacks Froggies

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Stumpy, steam rolling Steve Beard scored twice and Neal Jeffrey tossed a touchdown pass Saturday to give Baylor an easy 21-7 conquest of Texas Christian and keep the surprising Bears alive in the Southwest Conference race.

Beard, a 5-7, 196-pound senior who came into the game as the ninth leading scorer in the nation, picked up his 10th touchdown of the year on a 12-yard run in the second quarter and then scored his 11th of the season on a three-yard burst in the third quarter.

Jeffrey had given Baylor a first quarter score with a 20-yard touchdown pass to flanker Alcy Jackson and on that drive, Beard picked up 48 yards of the 68-yard drive.

Baylor's defense had little trouble with TCU's impotent running attack, but proved vulnerable to the Horned Frogs passing game in the second half.

Houtson Nudges 'Dogs In Upset

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — The Houston Cougars erupted for two touchdowns in the first six minutes Saturday and then capitalized on four pass interceptions to beat the Georgia Bulldogs, 31-24.

The Cougars, now 6-2, went into the game as slight, twopoint underdogs, but a 76-yard pass from Bobby McGallion to Marshall Johnson set up a fiveyard touchdown run by McGallion with only 2:18 gone in the game and less than three minutes later Johnson scored on a 17-yard burst up the middle to put the Cougars ahead 14-0.

However, Georgia tied the score 14-14 late in the second quarter and it took a weird play in the closing seconds

Notre Dame Almost Falls To Middies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Fifth-ranked Notre Dame, outfought and stunned by underdog Navy for three periods, finally scored twice in the fourth quarter on a pass and an interception to squeeze out a hard-fought 14-6 victory Saturday over the Middies.

Navy, a 32-point underdog, led 6-0 after three quarters on the strength of two field goals by Steve Dykes and the punting of John Stufflebeem, which kept Notre Dame continually bottled up.

But the Irish finally got good field position on the Navy 28 after a 16-yard punt return and five plays later quarterback Tom Clements hit split end Pete Demmerle in the far corner of the end zone at 10:04 of the fourth quarter and Dave Reeve made the conversion to put the Irish into the lead.

Later, with 2:12 left in the game, safety Randy Harrison intercepted a pass from Middle quarterback Phil Poirier and dashed 40 yards for the final TD.

Navy, 2-6, led 3-0 at halftime due to Dykes' 48-yard field goal early in the first quarter which broke a Middie record set by Greg Mather in 1961, also against Notre Dame.

Notre Dame, 7-1, was able to mount only one sustained drive in the first half when it went from its own 20 to the Navy 9, but was held and Reeve missed a 27-yard field goal attempt.

The upstart Middies increased the margin to 6-0 at 5:43 of the third quarter when Dykes booted a 37-yard field goal.

left, to lead Lamar to a 9-7 college football win over West Texas State Saturday. Leonard set a Lamar school record with the three kicks as the Cardinals won their sixth game against a single loss. West Texas State dropped to 4-4.

Neither team was impressive offensively. Lamar had only 162 yards total offense and West Texas had 155.

Leonard gave Lamar a 3-0 lead midway through the first period with a 33-yard boot after the Cardinals had picked up a West Texas State fumble on the Buffalo 24.

Midway in the third period, West Texas put the only touchdown of the day on the board. The Buffs drove 47 yards in eight plays with quarterback Tully Blanchard hitting tight end Merced Solis for the touchdown from 20 yards out.

Again, neither team could man an offense as the game turned into a punting battle.

In the fourth quarter, Lamar got the benefit of a 20-mile-per hour wind and Leonard made good on the final two field goals. The first, coming with 9:24 left in the game, was from 24 yards out. The winner was from 45 yards away.

Lamar had excellent field position throughout the fourth quarter, as West Texas State punter John Paul Lee was stymied by the stiff wind.

The three field goals tied a Kimbrough Stadium record set by West Texas State Bruce Wyrle in 1973. Wyrle, who had three last week in West Texas State's loss to Utah State, missed on his only attempt from the 30-yard line in the second period Saturday.

of the half to set up the touchdown that put Houston in front for keeps.

Larry West intercepted a Houston pass at the Georgia 13 and fumbled the ball back at the Georgia 7 on the same play. On the very next play, Reggie Cherry scored with 27 seconds left in the half and Houston never trailed again.

Houston widened its lead to 28-17 late in the third period on a three-yard plunge by John Housman and made it 31-17 in the final minute of the period on a 38-yard field goal by Lennard Coplin.

But Georgia made as valiant effort to come back in the final quarter. The Bulldogs, who had scored on a 63-yard pass from Matt Robinson to Glynn Harrison in the first period, on a two-yard plunge by Horace King in the second quarter, and a 47-yard field goal by Allan Leavitt, closed to the final margin with 1:26 left to play on a 15-yard strike from Robinson to Richard Appleby.

Robinson completed 15 passes for 278 yards in the game but the four interceptions were the big difference. The last interception by linebacker Paul Humphreys at the Houston 7 prevented the Bulldogs from moving to within one touchdown with a half period left to play.

Houston's first interception was made by Bubba Broussard at the Georgia 36 and set up the Cougars' second touchdown in the first period. The second came at midfield at the end of the half and the third, by Mark Mohr, at the Georgia 40, set up Coplin's field goal.

Georgia now is 5-3 with nationally ranked Florida and nationally ranked Auburn facing the Bulldogs in the next two weeks.

PHS Throttles Borger Bulldogs, 25-0

By PAUL SIMS
Chuck Quarles, passing for the first time in four weeks, completed touchdown tosses of 25 and 75 yards to split end Howie Lewis and ran 14 yards for another score to lead Pampa to a 25-0 win over Borger Friday night here.

Perryton Loses

CANYON — Halfback Adrian Foil rambled 19 yards for a first-quarter touchdown and the Canyon Eagles' defense added another score in the first half to defeat Perryton, 14-0, in a key District 1-AAA game Friday night in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

yards and the two touchdowns. The 5-7 senior also scored on a dazzling 14-yard run, skirting right end and landing a foot just inside the end zone flag with 9:28 left in the first quarter. Joe Coutts missed the point after.

After forcing a Gary Benton punt on Borger's first series following the touchdown, Mike Adair returned the kick 41 yards from his own 15 to Borger's 44 and set up another Pampa score.

Four plays later, Quarles hit Lewis, who was alone near the goal line, for the TD. Halfback Rick Leverich tried right end for a two-point conversion but was stopped.

Pampa, which led 12-0 at the half, added another touchdown with 3:22 left in the third quarter as Quarles passed to Lewis, who broke loose from a Borger defender at the Bulldog 47 and high-stepped the rest of the way for the Harvesters' 18th point. Jimmy Eppison stopped Quarles on the conversion attempt.

The Harvester defense rose to the occasion for the eighth time this season, tormenting Borger quarterback Brett Land and coming up with the big play time after time.

Defensive back Willis Price intercepted a pass on the Borger 36 and returned it down the right sideline for a touchdown with 8:50 left in the contest. Coutts booted the extra point for the 25-point margin.

Borger, despite the lopsided loss, played well for a team with two defensive starters out, and inexperienced quarterback and its two top running backs dismissed from the squad for disciplinary reasons.

The Bulldogs forced four Pampa turnovers, including three fumbles, and gained 172 total yards against a defense which had been averaging 113. Lang, son of head coach Sonny Lang, completed eight of 25 passes for 98 yards, 81 in the first half.

Defensive tackles David Badeen and Dale Florer and end Robert Wells led the Bulldogs' sturdy defense, which yielded only 101 yards on the ground to Pampa's usually powerful running attack. Wells also came up with a spectacular second-quarter interception, grabbing the ball only a second after it left Quarles' hand.

Pampa's defense was much more impressive, though. The Harvesters gave up 81 yards through the air in the first half and it looked like Borger might come back in the last two quarters as Tascosa did, when Danny Ross was so effective throwing the football.

But Pampa only gave up one completed pass in the second half. The Harvesters held Borger to only 74 yards on the ground.

Noseguard Ron Willett, tackle Dane Rasmussen and defensive backs Jerry Bob Shoopman and Lewis Dinkins led the defensive charge for Pampa.

Dinkins thrilled the crowd of approximately 5,000 with an apparent 64-yard punt return for a touchdown. But a clipping penalty nullified the score and Pampa had to settle for the ball on Borger's 36.

Leverich was the leading rusher for Pampa with 51 yards on 13 carries. He was followed by Quarles, 24 yards on four rushes; Coy Free, 22 on five; Price, 13 on one; David Smith, 12 on five; Tim Thornburg, six on Agan substituted for Quarles at the start of the fourth quarter. His best play was a 22-yard pass to Lewis early in the period, but offsetting penalties on the play called it back.

Borger ground gainers were David Sargent, 50 on 17; Billy Thomas, 28 on 12; Kim Smith, 13 on five, and Johnny Rusten, two on three. Lang was sacked three times for minus 19 yards.

Iowa State contained the nation's leading offensive team in the first half, holding the Sooners to Elvis Peacock's nine yard scoring run in the second quarter. Oklahoma had outscored its opponents by a 163-8 margin in the first half in its six previous victories.

Iowa State scored its lone touchdown after Davis fumbled on the Cyclone 23 late in the game. Mason plunged in from the one with 1:39 left in the game. It was only the fifth touchdown yielded by the Sooners this season.

Rice Bops Texas Tech, 21-7

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Quarterback Tommy Kramer threw a 42-yard touchdown pass to Eddie Loftin igniting a two-touchdown explosion by Rice in the second quarter which carried the previously winless Owls to 21-7 victory over the 13th ranked Texas Tech Red Raiders.

After a scoreless first quarter, Rice's safety Gary Cox intercepted a Tech pass and ran to the aid 18. Two plays later sophomore Kramer flipped a screen pass to Loftin, and a clearing block by Danny Johnson sprung Loftin into the end zone.

On Tech's next offensive series third string Red Raider quarterback Rodney Allison fumbled a handoff and defensive end Brent Barnes recovered at the Tech 25.

From there it took Rice four plays to score. Kramer pitched to Gary Ferguson, and the senior tailback scooted 14 yards around right end for a touchdown less than three minutes after the first score.

Placekicker Alan Pringle booted his second of three extra points.

Tech drove back on its first possession in the second half, scoring on John Garner's nineyard run and cutting the Rice lead to seven points.

But Rice, the poorest offensive team in the conference, drove 80 yards minutes later for its third touchdown. Kramer walked over from the one for the score.

The loss, Tech's second in Southwest Conference play, crippled the Red Raiders title chances and dropped them two games behind Texas A&M.

The Rice Owls, who came into the game with only a 10-10 tie against LSU to highlight its season, improved their record to 1-5-1 for the season.

Besides Kramer's throwing and option running, Rice relied offensively on Ferguson, who rushed for 129 yards on 24 carries.

The American Junior Bowling Congress began the 1974-75 season with a record membership, eight new members on the AJBC Board of Directors, the addition of a full-time public relations staff member and larger office facilities within Bowling Headquarters in Greendale, Wisconsin.

AJBC membership and sanctioned leagues reached record highs during the 1973-74 season which ended July 31, according to Charles Hall, AJBC manager. Membership totaled 751,748 boys and girls to mark a 4.31 per cent increase of 586 or 2.83 percent ahead of the 20,748 leagues sanctioned during the 1972-73 season.

Some of the organizations which contribute to the financing of AJBC are American Bowling Congress, Women's International Bowling Congress, Bowling Proprietors' Association of American and the National Bowling Council. These groups contribute $200,000 each year in support of AJBC.

By their support there are many young people finding bowling as an outlet for their energies that might otherwise become misguided and perhaps self-damaging. You don't have time to hand around on the streets if you're active in a junior bowling program.

The organization has many activities such as tournaments to go to and compete for scholarships and it also serves as a good character builder which helps in coping with today's world.

We are proud of our local AJBC program and wish all of the young bowlers the best throughout this year's season and a fine future in your bowling lifetime.

IN COMEBACK Rattlers Nose Out Stubborn Wildcats

SPINNETT — Bobby Stinnett on the one-yard drive late in the third quarter to lift the state-ranked Stinnett Rattlers to a 10-6 win over spirited Canadian Friday here.

Stinnett, District 1-A champion, was favored to win by much more but encountered a stiff Wildcat defense, which according to Canadian coach Jack Hawthorne, "made the big play."

Stinnett trailed, 6-2, in the third quarter before Lantelme's go-ahead score, which capped an 80-yard, 18-play drive following a Canadian touchdown. Jerry Eddleman ran in the extras.

Canadian's score came on a one-yard sweep by quarterback Lonnie Hines. Marty Carr was stopped short on the conversion attempt. The touchdown came after Donnie Purcell forced a Stinnett fumble and Ronnie Schmidt recovered on the Rattler 20.

Stinnett led 2-0 early in the game as Ross Dodson tackled fullback Steve Schafer in the end zone for a safety. The two points followed a goal line stand by the Wildcats, who held

Dallas, Buffalo Trying To Remain Alive Today

United Press International Today could end eight years of playoffs for the Dallas Cowboys.

The Cowboys, struggling along at 3-4, are four games behind unbeaten St. Louis in the NFC East and play host to the Cardinals Sunday. A loss would leave Dallas five games out with six to play and with Philadelphia and Washington still a game ahead, it could end the Cowboys' long playoff string.

"We can't afford another loss," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "If St. Louis wins Sunday, that's about it. It would be pretty difficult for us to get them out of there if they beat us today. But Landry isn't giving up hope."

The Pampa Daily News SPORTS

"Realistically, it would be very unusual for St. Louis not to win our division. But I've seen some very unusual things happen in this business. We'll just take it week by week."

Landry claims the big thing worrying him today in the Cardinals' speed. "They have people who can break the game open and have done it," he explained. "Mel Gray caught the big pass the last time against us, they had the flea-flicker play with Jackie Smith and Terry Metcalf had the long kickoff return." St. Louis won the first game 31-28 on Jim Bakken's field goal with 62 seconds left.

"They've been a big play team and continue to make them," Landry said. "That's the thing you fear, because when a play believes it can make the big plays, it usually makes them."

Despite the difference in records, Dallas is a five-point favorite. Another key game today finds Buffalo at New England for first place in the AFC East. Both are 6-1 and a win would put either one in good position for at least a wild card berth, if not the title. But both still have to play the World Champion Dolphins in Miami.

In other games Sunday, Oakland is at Denver, Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at Chicago, Washington at Green Bay, New Orleans at Detroit, Cincinnati at Baltimore, Atlanta at Miami, the New York Giants at Kansas City, Cleveland at San Diego and Houston at the New York Jets. Los Angeles is at San Francisco Monday night.

Wheeler Surprises Clarendon Broncos

CLARENDON — Wheeler held superback Kenneth King to only 30 yards while its own talented runner, Kent Ware, picked up 103 yards on 24 carries and scored a touchdown to lead the Mustangs to a 15-9 upset of Clarendon here Friday night.

The win keeps Wheeler, 5-3 for the season and 4-1 in 2-A action, in contention for the title. Clarendon, on the other hand, is out of the picture with a 2-6 season record and a 2-3 district mark. The win also sets up a showdown with Memphis Friday night at Wheeler.

Ware opened scoring with a one-yard drive off right tackle after Wheeler had driven down from its own 43. Jim Verden kicked the extra point with 9:57 left in the first quarter.

Nobody scored until midway through the third quarter when Clarendon's Randy Croslin, a versatile quarterback, sneaked over from the two. A pass for two extras fell incomplete as Wheeler led, 7-6.

Clarendon went ahead in the game with a 41-yard field goal by King with 7:26 left in the game.

The Mustangs took the kickoff and drove 80 yards for another touchdown, which was scored by quarterback Don Brown on a 27-yard keeper around right end. Terry Tidwell had a 19-yard run in the drive, which also included two 15-yard penalties against the Broncos. David Massie ran over the conversion.

Clarendon drove to Wheeler's 21 late in the game but was held on fourth and three.

Following Ware for the Mustangs were Brown, 10 carries for 38 yards; Massick, 7 for 23; Tidwell, 1 for 17; Dale Helton, 6 for 2, and Champman, three for minus 7.

Lynn Floyd had 38 yards on nine carries to lead Clarendon.

Sawyer Carries Lefors By Booker In 1-B Opener, 42-18

LEFORS — Fullback Barney Sawyer carried 31 times for a whopping 252 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead Lefors to an impressive 42-18 win over Booker in an offensive District 1-B opener Friday night here.

Lefors racked up 352 yards on the ground and 95 through the air, while Booker managed 284 rushing and 86 passing in the game, which left the Pirates with a 3-5 season record and the Kiowas with a 4-4 mark.

Sawyer got Lefors off to a fast start with a two-yard off tackle plunge early in the game. Greg Beck kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Booker came right back, falling on a blocked punt in the Pirate end zone. Greg Mouncey recovered the loose ball, which had hit Sawyer in the back. Bradley Mills was stopped on the conversion run attempt.

Sawyer capped a 12-play, 58-yard drive with a five-yard run early in the second quarter and then ran over the extra points to give Lefors a 15-6 lead. The Pirates added another score in the middle of the second period when Beck passed to Bobby Dunn for 32 yards and a TD. Beck kicked the extra point.

Booker scored on a nine-yard pass from Marcus Lemon to Dean McQuitty with 10 seconds left in the half, and it looked like Lefors was going to settle for a 22-12 lead at halftime.

Booker kicked off and Dunn returned it 30 yards to the Lefors 45. On the first play from scrimmage, Beck lofted a bomb to Phil White, who scored on the 55-yard play. Beck's kick ended the first half.

Early in the third quarter, Sawyer broke up the middle and outraced everybody 64 yards for another touchdown. Keith Baker made the key block on the run, taking out the safety downfield. Beck added the PAT.

Early in the fourth quarter, Dunn caught an eight-yard pass from Beck as Lefors took a 42-12 lead. Phil White failed to convert the PAT kick.

Mike Lee of the Kiowas broke eight yards for a touchdown late in the game.

Beck added 75 yards on 12 carries for Lefors, which visits Texline Friday night.

Milwaukee Trades For Henry Aaron

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hank Aaron, baseball's all-time home run champion, came back "home" to Milwaukee—scene of some of his greatest triumphs—Saturday when he was traded by the Atlanta Braves to the Brewers for outfielder Davey May and a player to be named later.

Bill Bartholomay, board chairman of the Braves, and Allan "Bud" Selig, president of the Brewers, completed the deal in Milwaukee and immediately notified the 40-year-old Aaron in Tokyo, Japan, where only 24 hours earlier he beat Sadaharu Oh, Japan's Babe Ruth, in a special home run hitting contest.

Aaron, who broke Ruth's all-time record of 714 home runs last season and wound up with 733 at the end of the year, will be used as a designated hitter by the Brewers.

In Tokyo, he said he was delighted with the deal which brings him back to the city where he started his big league career and where he put in 12 banner seasons before the Braves moved their franchise to Atlanta in 1966.

"I'm thrilled to come back to the city where I started my baseball career," Aaron said in Tokyo. "I'm happy that the Atlanta Braves saw fit to work so closely with me in honoring my request. I appreciate the efforts of Bill Bartholomay to see that I was able to return to Milwaukee. I look forward to working with Bud Selig, Del Crandell and the entire Brewers organization."

Originally, Aaron had said he planned to retire following this past season, but when an opportunity came along to continue as a designated hitter in the city where he achieved so much lately showed interest.

The Brewers did not reveal the terms of Aaron's contract, but it was believed he will receive in excess of $100,000 a year.

Selig is a long-time friend of Aaron's who used to have him as a guest at his home when Aaron played with the Braves in Milwaukee. Both are rapid professional football fans and used to attend the Green Bay Packers' games together.

Aaron won the National League's Most Valuable award in 1957 when he led the Braves to their first NL pennant in Milwaukee. His home run against the St. Louis Cardinals was the pennant clincher and he finished the season with 44 home runs, 132 RBIs and a .322 average.

He won four home run titles as well as four RBI championships and led the NL in hitting twice in 1956 with 328 and in 1959 with 355.

Sanford-Fritch Whips Visiting Bucks By 13-3

FRITCH — Seven White Deer players were injured at some time during the game as Sanford - Fritch displayed a physical defense, which did not allow a touchdown, and the Eagles belted the Bucks, 13 - 3, Friday.

The game did not count as a district loss for White Deer since Sanford - Fritch was declared ineligible for the season after committing rules infractions. White Deer is now 5 - 3 for the season.

Denny King scored the first touchdown on a one-yard drive in the second quarter. Scott Richardson scored, also on a one-yard run, early in the fourth quarter.

Horns Stop SMU

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Longhorns, led by Marty Akin's two touchdowns, drove for scores on four straight possessions with the wind at their backs Saturday to defeat Southern Methodist 35-15 and keep alive their hopes for a seventh straight Southwest Conference title.

Quarterback Akin, running the Longhorns' triple option to perfection, ran eight yards for one touchdown for one touchdown and passed eight yards to wide receiver Pat Padgett for another to lead the Texas offensive effort.

Freshman fullback Earl Campbell bulled three yards for another Texas score, and halfbacks Raymond Clayborn took a last minute pitch from Akin on the option play and stepped one yard for a touchdown.

SMU, which had the wind advantage in the opening period, scored first on a 49-yard field goal by soccer-style kicker John Dunlop.

A Texas error in the second period set up another Mustang score. The Ponies had stalled at their own 20, but Texas safety Terry Melancon muffed a running catch of John Blackburn's punt and the Ponies recovered at their own 42.

On the first play quarterback Ricky Wesson found wide receiver Freeman Johns a step behind Melancon on the right sideline, and hit him for a 58-yard touchdown.

Halfback Brian Duncan ran four yards for the other

Mustang score after Texas had put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter.

Texas, which lost only to Texas Tech in conference play, remained one game behind the league leading Texas Aggies and will meet A&M Nov. 29.

Aggies Skin Hogs

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Reserve fullback Jerry Honore wrestled off a tackler and broke for a 60-yard touchdown Saturday, propelling seventh-ranked Texas A&M to a 20-10 victory over Arkansas and keeping the Aggies undefeated atop the Southwest Conference.

Honore, a senior from Lake Charles, La., scored both Aggie touchdowns and picked up 128 yards on 18 carries.

A&M kicker Randy Haddox booted a 57-yard field goal in the second quarter to set a school distance record and added a 40-yarder in the final minutes. The Razorbacks, shutting down the A&M offense until the final quarter, had tied the contest with a 32-yard field goal only seconds before Honore's decisive touchdown run.

Arkansas drove too the A&M 40 with 2:44 left in the game but the Aggies defense held on four downs to assure the victory.

Honore scored the first Aggie touchdown on a one-yard run in the first quarter following a fumbled punt reception by Arkansas' Floyd Hogan that set the Aggies up on the Arkansas nine.

Arkansas came right back, driving 73 yards in seven plays, the big one a 23-yard scamper by starting quarterback Mark Miller. Miller found halfback Ike Forte open in the flats on a second down play at the A&M 12 and hit him with the touchdown pass with 1:57 left in the first quarter.

A shanked 10-yard Razorback punt set the Aggies up at the Arkansas 35 early in the second quarter. Arkansas' defense held and Haddox came in for his record field goal with 12:49 left. The kick broke the old record of 54 yards set by Pat McDermott against SMU in 1972.

Neither team scored in the third quarter but with time running out in that period A&M quarterback David Walker threw a wild pitchout which Arkansas' Ivan Jordan recovered at the Aggies 18.

The Razorbacks drove to the Aggies four but had to settle for a 32-yard field goal by kicker Steve Little with 14:18 left in the fourth quarter.

The victory left A&M at 4-0 in the conference and 7-1 on the season. Arkansas dropped to 4-4 and 1-3 in the SWC.

Tigers Bombard Texline

By CHARLES BURK
TEXLINE — The Groom Tigers devastated Texline's Tornadoes with an impressive 52-6 conference opener in 1-B action Friday night in Texline.

Groom, after winning the toss of the coin, marched 62 yards in five plays with Stan Britten capping the drive on a 20-yard run, cleared by a fine block by Del Major, who also kicked the point after.

Following Droom's kickoff, Texline, in a punting situation, bobbled a high snap, which gave Groom possession at the Tornado five. Britten again got the call and scored. The conversion run failed and Groom led, 13-0.

Texline, failing to move the ball, punted to its own 37. Tim Britten scored his first of four touchdowns from three yards out to cap a four-play drive. The run attempt failed and Groom led, 19-0 with 3:05 left in the first quarter.

The next three exchanges saw Texline punt three times, while Groom fumbled once, had one intercepted, then scored on a three-play drive, in which Tim Britten carried for 28 and the final

Buckeyes Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Archie Griffin rushed for 144 yards and two touchdowns in a record breaking performance Saturday to lead top-ranked Ohio State to a 49-7 victory over Illinois, giving Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes his 200th collegiate coaching victory.

It was the 18th straight regular season game in which the junior All-American and Heisman trophy candidate rushed for 100 or more yards, breaking the former record set by Steve Owens of Oklahoma.

Griffin, who raced 16 yards for Ohio State's first score midway in the first quarter, broke the record with a 22-yard scoring burst up the middle early in the third period.

TV In Review

By F.S. SWERTLOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon sent a shockwave across the country, but the most surprised group of all was the White House press corps.

These august members of the fourth estate were caught flatfooted, they hadn't done their homework, and above all, they failed to sniff out the pardon.

During the weeks, the hours, the minutes before the pardon, the press seemed more interested in White House trivia than in digging for the aftermath of Watergate.

President Ford eeks his breakfast, President Ford kisses his wife, President Ford walks his dog. This is wonderful copy, a splashy photo display for magazines and television, but how much of this was the real Gerald Ford, and how much of this was the slick fabrication of a politician.

The optimists will say it was the real Ford, the cynics will say it was the politician. But in the end, the press lost its balance and failed to do its job.

Yes, the honeymoon is over, but the real question that has to be asked is why should the press have had a honeymoon with President Ford, or for that matter any president.

The lessons of Watergate, apparently, meant nothing. And now the press has to be reminded that its job is not to shout hosannas from the highest steeple, but to scream, shout, kick and scratch that "The Emperor Wears No Clothes."

On Sunday night, "Behind the Lines," PBS' journalism review of the news media.

will look at President Ford and the press in "The Honeymoon is Over." Much of this 30-minute show, produced by WNET in New York, has an all too familiar look. We have seen it before on television and in print.

Nevertheless, the show's new host, Harrison E. Salisbury, the former New York Timesman, and Jeff Wheelwright, the reporter producer, have come up with an attractive look at what went wrong.

Among the newsmen their interview are J.F. TerHorst, Ford's first press secretary; Bob Schieffer, CBS White House correspondent; NBC's David Brinkley and Mary McGrory, the columnist.

In retrospect, — Peter Lisagor admits, "We made him (Ford) out to be something he is not. He is a politician, they're all politicians. The press oughtn't engage in honeymoons, you know."

— Mary McGrory says: "I think part of the reason that we went — lost our heads over Gerald Ford was because it was a chance for us maybe to work out way back a little bit with the American public, who thought of us as jacks."

— And George Reedy offers: "You know, we have a tendency to forget that journalists are people. And that people have emotions, and they pretty well share the emotions of a society. And during this golden glow of the first few months of a President, the press is going to do very little other than reflect that golden glow."

Young Attorney Filing Libel Suit Against Milk Producers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A young attorney credited with exposing illegal political contributions by the nation's largest dairy cooperative has filed a $750,000 libel and damage suit against the San Antonio-based co-op.

Joseph A. Rose, 36, filed the suit in 131st State District Court on behalf of himself, his mother, wife, and five minor children.

Rose, granted immunity for his testimony before both the Watergate grand jury and Senate elect. Committee, said in the suit he was hired as general counsel for the Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) on April 9, 1973.

But Rose said he was summarily fired nearly five months later because he questioned and refused to approve "numerous items which were of extremely questionable nature."

The suit further alleged that Rose was libeled in an AMPI news release answering a Washington Star-News article which revealed part of Rose's testimony in the Watergate matter given in a secret deposition. The newsletter termed Rose's allegations "lies," but AMPI later pleaded guilty to the allegations.

Named defendants were AMPI, its political trusts, president John E. Butterbrodt of Burnet, Wis., and general manager George I. Mehren, of San Antonio.

AMPI pleaded guilty last Aug. 1 in Washington federal court to six counts of violating the corrupt practices act with illegal political donations.

The cooperative, which boasts 40,000 dairy farmer members in 17 states, also has settled out of court by submitting to consent decrees the anti-trust charges lodged both by the Justice Department and Texas attorney general's offices.

Rose asked $200,000 for alleged breach of a contract he signed with the cooperative, plus damages for himself and his family for an alleged attempt by AMPI to publicly discredit him.

Rose alleges he was fired when he tried to verify payments to certain lawyers employed by the co-op, but refused when he could get no cooperation from AMPI officials. The suit says that several of the matters with which he was concerned "have now been proven to have been parts of a serious and extensive criminal conspiracy involving illegal diversion of money and other assets to defendant AMPI into political contributions on a massive scale."

CHECKS BLOCK TRAFFIC LOS ANGELES (UPI) —

Traffic at a downtown intersection was blocked for an hour Tuesday after 2,000 canceled checks fell from a bank messenger's truck and blew into the street.

Most of the checks were recovered by 80 employees from a nearby bank who ran into the street to retrieve them. Two checks were found three blocks away.

Rules Delay Oil Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Staff lawyers have told the Federal Trade Commission its major antitrust case against the nation's eight biggest oil companies is at a standstill because of complex rules resulting in a long delay.

The lawyers asked the FTC to change the ground rules under which they operate so that they could get the information they need from the oil companies more quickly in order to prosecute the case.

The cold facts are these — that 15 months have passed since the complaint was filed, that 10 months have passed since the case was at issue and our discovery plan was filed, said a staff recommendation to the FTC.

During this extended period only nine depositions have been taken, merely scratching the surface of our first wave of discovery, and the factual development of this case has ground to a virtual halt.

Flabby Stomach Surgery Serious

By G.C. THOSTEON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your opinion on lipectomy, or surgery to correct a flabby stomach.

I have called a plastic surgeon about it and he assured me that it is quite common and being done all the time.

My reason is that after four pregnancies my stomach is so flabby, protruding and ugly. I've tried exercising but I seem to get too worn out.

I'm still young (28) and am 5-foot-3 and weigh 130. What does the surgery involve? Is there much loss of blood? My hubby thinks I'm out of my mind, but he's the one who teases and harrasses me about my bulge — Mrs. J.C.

Yes this type of surgery is being done right along — but I'm not at all sure that it's for you.

It involves removal of an "apron" of fat on the abdomen and is done both by plastic and general surgeons. But it is a serious and demanding operation and there is considerable loss of blood because of the amount contained in the fat that is removed.

Certainly, some people with big aprons of fat are healthier (as well as better looking) after such surgery.

But in your case you appear to be only perhaps 15 pounds over normal weight and I am of the opinion that the surgery would be a pretty drastic measure for you. Instead diet off about 15 pounds, and then figure that the "droop" is from flabby muscles rather than excess fat.

If you seem to get too worn out by exercising, it might not be a bad idea for you to have your doctor check you over to see whether anemia, or sluggish thyroid or other such common condition may be sapping your energy.

Incidentally you mentioned that you had "called" a plastic surgeon — but a surgeon would have to SEE you before deciding whether your bulge warranted serious surgery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will taking four tablespoons of pureed asparagus twice a day be harmful to me? What vitamins and chemicals does it contain? — P.L.D.

Can't see any harm. It's a wholesome vegetable. It is high in vitamin A, potassium, phosphorus and sodium. A small amount of calcium, thiamin and niacin. Because of its natural salt content, you shouldn't add any salt to it if you happen to be on a low-salt diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have one child and have been trying for six years to have another. I have done nothing to prevent becoming pregnant and I have seen three specialists and had a D. and C. and even took fertility pills three times.

The doctors say there are three things wrong: My nerves. Tipped uterus. Infection — which has been cleared up. — Mrs. D.

I'll mention such things as you may have overlooked. First — and very important — you make no mention of your husband having been examined. Is his sperm count normal, or has it become low?

As to the tipped uterus, it did not prevent your earlier pregnancy, so I would not dwell on that.

The infection: have you been tested, since clearing the infection, to make sure the infection has not closed your Fallopian tubes?

Fishermen Criticize Commercial Netters

BIG LAKE, La. (UPI) — Angry southwest Louisiana sports fishermen, accusing commercial fishermen of turning Big Lake into a dead sea, are launching a drive to regulate the taking of fish by nets in the lake.

Sportsmen claim the use of commercial fishermen use nets ranging up to 1,000 feet in length and use of popping fireworks to herd fish into them, destroying sports fishing in the lake.

Adolph Marx of Lake Charles, a department store owner, says that he has been fishing in Big Lake for 44 years and that in years past 100 to 200 salt water fish could be caught by two or three people with cane poles.

But since the advent of the netters, his last 35 to 40 trips have brought less than a dozen catches.

Calcasieu Lake, popularly called Big Lake, is 17 miles long and ranges up to seven miles wide. It spans the Calcasieu-Cameron parish lines, is fed by the Calcasieu River and empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

Sportsmen say an invasion of commercial fishermen, many from Florida, have chosen speckled trout as the main target and are swiftly depleting the species from the lake.

F. James Rouyer, a Lake Charles sportsman, said commercial boats extend 500 foot nets from the shoreline at each side of the mouths of bayous in which the fish spawn and then drive the fish into the nets with noisemakers.

He said he's seen commercial fishermen draw 1,000 foot nets into circles to trap fish as well.

Fisherman Jules Reinauer of Lake Charles said he wrote Rep. Morris Lottinger of Houma, chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee, to demand action.

He got a letter back saying "there is at the present time in Louisiana a complete hodgepodge of netting regulations."

Lottinger promised to name a subcommittee to try and make sense out of the netting laws.

Fishermen criticize, too, the inaction of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission and say they plan to form a nonprofit organization to begin an active push for protective legislative action.

Chitterling Chatter

Chitterlings, a favorite food of the "Old South," may gain new status in other areas of the country as a result of a recent U.S.D.A. regulation which permits their entry in interstate commerce for sale in retail food stores. According to the regulation, chitterlings must be prepared from the large intestines of hogs or calves, and must meet strict wholesomeness and safety standards. They are not permitted in already established commercial meat products, but may be used for chitterling pie or similar products if clearly labeled and sold in containers of not more than three pounds.

ELECTION BALLOT — Above is printed a sample ballot for the upcoming elections Tuesday, Nov. 5. Instructions are printed on the ballot. Workers will be on hand at voting precincts to answer any questions about the ballot prior to voters entering the voting booth.
