Johanny Connell is still among the unemployed. The solons of district two, generally known as the committee on rules and regulations et cetera, turned their backs on the plea of Cisco that they reconsider and reinstate Connell. They did reconsider, but they didn't reinstate. They considered by a vote of four to two, or thereabouts, that Connell is still ineligible, notwithstanding. Which is quite a blow. His presence in the lineup which will take the field against Ranger Armistice Day, would have greatly boosted the present stock quotations of the Big Dam Leboes. But it looks like the showers for the fleets, sensational backfield man that drifted from his native haunts to the pleasant environment of the Eastland County village.

In the same session, J. T. Adams, a Breckenridge tackle, was declared eligible. His papa lives at Breckenridge, although some of the team thought otherwise. It was definitely proved, however, that his pater maintains a room there and calls Breckenridge his hearthside, so Adams was given the Okay by the solons. It is understood Ranger popped a protest against Steen of Cisco, but it was passed.

Sweetwater, up to noon today, had lodged no protest against Delbert Rogers. It is a Lawson County product, but his eligibility was held up by the fact that he is a member of the local high school. However, it is something of a compliment to know that such a thing is contemplated. Lots of teams in this district never have been protested. Incidentally, looks like Brownie Henshaw and Nagle Henshaw, together with the Captain, will be eligible to participate in the Armistice Day affair with the Mustangs of Nolan County. They are getting along fine with their work, and should have a nice string of 90s and 95s by the time the whistle blows. They were held out of the Brownwood fray and their absence was quite noticeable. They will be needed against Sweetwater, and maybe some more besides. The dopsters are kicking Sweetwater to practice right on through the Bostines, declaring in no uncertain terms that the Steers comprise an "in and out" club, "mostly out."

The Southwestern Conference eleven start the morning process Saturday. Schmidt's Texas Christian machine moves into Houston for a game with the up and coming Rice Institute Owls. While the Frogs are finding out if the complexion of Rice teams really has taken a change for the better, Mitty Bell's Aggies take on the badly battered Methodist Mustangs at Dallas. The University of Texas' orange and white brigade with the scalp of the Forties dancing from the spear tops take on plenty at Waco with the Baylor Bruins. Arkansas meets the Oklahoma Aggies in a non-conference conflict. Named in order, T. C. U., S. M. U., Texas and the Porkers should crash through. The dope points that way. Therefore it behooves the warring class to take the opposite side and give four for one.

Take a turn at the so oft referred to "dope." Texas' crushing defeat of Southern Methodist University, rather tore the dope sheet in shreds. The team that should have whipped Notre Dame; the team that did whip Indiana; the team with a dazzling aerial circus, bowed to a team that was whipped by Rice University. Few gave A. & M. an even shot at the Gentlemen of Centenary, but the Aggies scampered through. Yet, Southern Methodist is likely to crush some of the others as they go along. The S. M. U.-T. C. U. affair is likely to be one of the closest tussles in the conference this year. Look at it in this district of high school. Dope pointed a shaking finger at Cisco, and Breckenridge broke the joint. There was not a rabid fan in the district who would have picked Eastland to be Abilene. Big Spring beat Eastland, and Abilene beat Big Spring 33 to 0. Few would have selected Brownwood to defeat Big Spring. Not Brownwood did, and how!

The San Angelo scribbler sounds harsh note in declaring Big Spring had a very successful season, having obtained a tie with San Angelo. That is about as an intelligent statement as the blond haired one is capable of making. One of the boys who used to watch the lad push the glove in a four poster ring in Fort Worth, declared once Cross took an awful sock from the fast right of another batter and even yet, at intervals, is punch drunk. If any team should feel lucky after that game, it is San Angelo's privilege, not Big Spring's.

Hot Shot Owls Pointing To Frogs

Schmidt Watches Jamerson, Wallace Step Thru Sewanee

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Four conference games on four successive Saturdays is the formidable schedule facing the champion Texas Christian Horned Frogs in their drive for another title. Coach Schmidt's eleven, so to speak, goes back to work this week after an extended vacation, meeting those tobacco-laden Rice Owls at Houston.

In other years there was nothing hazardous about invading "the Owls' roost." It was considered a "soft spot." But it is far from that now. Coach Schmidt probably has done as much advance worrying in preparation for this week's bout as he will for any on his schedule.

Instead of remaining at home and watching his team smother Abilene Christian College, the Purple mentor was reported to have occupied a choice seat at the Rice-Sewanee affair. From all accounts, he must have felt a few quins as two sophomore half-backs, Wallace and Jamerson, ripped through the "Tigers" in the second half.

One thing in the champion's favor as they open their tough November schedule is the fact that they have not been "pointed" for a single one of their eight preliminary bouts. They have taken them as they come, winning all except that muddy, scoreless contest with the Simmons Cowboys of Breckenridge. They have not been seriously extended but once, that when the Aggies forced them to kick a field goal to win, 3 to 0. They are free of injuries, splendidly drilled and conditioned by two months of steady play.

Each of their four remaining opponents, on the other hand, has been "pointed" for at least one game and has been beaten at least once. Texas was steamed up to the limit for the Mustangs Saturday; the Mustangs put all they had into their game with Notre Dame; Baylor played at fever heat against Southern Methodist, and Rice reached a crescendo against Texas. It is highly improbable that any of the four will attain such a pitch again as it did in those contests.

Eagle-Buckie Fray Holds Stage

Boone Magness Looms Before Elephants of "Athens"

Unless the Abilene Eagles can get their respective heads together and scrape out some way, not only to stop Boone Magness of the Breckenridge Buckaroos, but hold to him after the halting, the Mayhemmen are scheduled to have their standstill in the percentage column whittled by a one-game margin Saturday afternoon.

Psychologically speaking the Eagles stand a better chance now of bottling the green wave than they did a week ago. A 64 tie decision like the Eastland Mavericks let the Eagles have done work well on the side of psychology. It is the same proposition of Rice unexpectedly beating Texas, and then having the state school fight a brilliant battle to crush the S. M. U. Mustangs.

The Eagles did not expect the turn of events that occurred over in the West Texas "Athens" last Saturday. In fact they looked for the Eastland sweet breeze of years gone by. Eastland hadn't been so hot prior to the Abilene game, so there was little reason to expect them to get overheated in that affair. So the Eagles went in expecting to win, and as a result were practically eliminated from the 1930 title scamp.

Bad Temper
If such a thing had to occur, it was well it did occur just before the Breckenridge battle. Dewey Mayhew and his tribe of elephants are in a frame of mind now to take on a couple of Breckenridge teams and a basketful of Prince Shotwell. It takes a defeat, or a near-defeat, to bring out the best there is in certain aggregations.
So on the one side of the ledger goes a great fighting frame of mind in credit of the Eagles. On the other is Boone Magness and Prince Shotwell. There is no doubt but what Magness has hit his stride. In fact he has surpassed. The passing, punting, running young man couldn't chalk up but six touchdowns against the Sweetwater Mustangs the past week. They say Magness was ill at the beginning of the season. But the malady didn't effect his feet or his hands. He is still the great football player he was in 1929.

The dope, which has been so rudely interfered with that it no longer is of much use, points in the direction of Breckenridge. No one knows the cunning of Silent Shotwell as well as an Abilenean. Unless, of course, it is Breckenridge. Abilene holds the highest respect for the football knowledge of the greatest coach in high school football today. And they realize that this non-talkie already has his plan of battle mapped out and will have it working smoothly Saturday afternoon when the two ancient enemies again come together.

Kayo Eagles

A defeat at the hands of the Buckle Boys would definitely put the kayo on the Mayhemmen and leave the field clear for Breckenridge and Ranger. Abilene has a couple of tie games to the debit side already, and defeat would shove them away from the flag pole. Ranger is just below the Breckenridge standard, having a scoreless tie to smirch their record. Cisco has a defeat already and is scheduled to have another one Tuesday night when the clash with the maroon clad Bulldogs. Should each of the two teams come through as expected, the title will be decided Thanksgiving day when the Bulldogs and the Buckaroos meet in their annual bloody affair. It is a very nice time of the year for the flag presentation ceremony to take place.

On the other hand, should Cisco slip the package to the Bulldogs, anything could happen. A defeat also would eliminate Ranger, but it would leave the way clear for a chance for Cisco to cop. Should Ranger defeat Breckenridge, providing each wins the rest of the games on schedule.

Interest in this district has two outlets within the next seven days. Outlet No. 1 is the Breck-Abilene affair Saturday. Outlet No. 2 is the Cisco-Ranger controversy Armistice Day.

The only other game scheduled until Nov. 15 is the Sweetwater-Big Spring game to be played here Armistice Day, with the Mustangs favored to cop in a breeze.

Kid Chocolate Loses To La Barba

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Regardless of the fact that a fellow down in Connecticut named Battling Battalino holds the official rating as world featherweight champion, a young man from Los Angeles, rugged Fidel La Barba, can justly claim himself the best of the 120-pounders flinging leather today.
La Barba, once a student of Stanford University and before that champion of all the flyweights, proved his right to titlur recognition among the featherweights last night by clearly outpointing Kid Chocolate, the Cuban sensation, in a torrid ten round engagement that drew 16,000 persons, the biggest crowd of the season so far, to Madison Square Garden. Chocolate dropped a decision last summer to Jackie Kid Berg, foremost challenger for the light-weight title, after winning a decision from Al Singer, present 125 pound king, about 18 months ago. Last night, however, was the first time Chocolate has ever been beaten by a man in his own class, the featherweight division.

By the victory La Barba reversed a decision that went against him in his first match with Chocolate here two years ago. Last night, having learned apparently by the previous engagement, Fidel kept up an everlasting bombardment of the negro's body with left hooks that buried deep under the smiling "Kid's" stamina. He fought back only in spurts and was but three of the ten rounds. La Barba won five with two even.

"Boy, They Sure Do Feed You!" Say Hungry Men Who Tried Methodist Turkey Dinner; Other Sales Planned

"Boy, they sure do feed you," was the enthusiastic, if ungrammatical comment on the Methodist turkey dinner held last Saturday noon at the Holman building on West Third street, made collectively by several men whose home is a hotel and whose dining room is a succession of cafes and "greasy spoons."

Without a doubt the food sales put on by the good ladies of the various city churches serve two good causes. They furnish funds for church work and food for men hungry for home cooking.

This coming Saturday there will be three food sales and probably more. Homemade cakes, pie, chili, bread and other delicacies will be sold for little more than the cost of making them.

The Christian women's groups will hold two sales on this day. The West Side group will spread its wares at the Clarence Saunders store No. 2 on East Third street. The East Side group will hold its sale at the Piggly Wiggly store No. 1 on Main street.

The Birdie Bailey Missionary society which has clothed and put in school seven children during the past month will hold its food sale at the Heby Selfy store No. 1 at 119 East Second street on Saturday.

The proceeds of these sales go directly back to the people—those deserving of help. Children with no shoes and coats for the coming winter are outfitted by these efficient groups. Families with the husbands out of work are investigated and helped. Calls are paid to the sick and flowers and fruit are sent. These women are also doing their bit to help pay the expenses of their church organizations.

James E. Hopper, Dallas, was a business visitor in Big Spring Monday.

Methodists And Birdie Baileys Elect

Mmes. C. T. Watson, and V. H. Flewellen Head Groups

Mrs. C. T. Watson and Mrs. V. H. Flewellen were re-elected presidents of the Birdie Bailey Missionary Society and the Methodist W. M. S., respectively, at yesterday's meeting of both groups.

These women are experienced heads of these church organizations and have served for some time in the past. They will take their new offices at the first of the year.

Birdie Bailey

These are the officers elected by the Birdie Bailey Missionary Society at yesterday's meeting at the home of Mrs. M. A. Cook, 2041 Gregg street.

Mrs. C. T. Watson—president. Mrs. A. Knickerbocker—vice-president. Mrs. L. A. Tally—treasurer. Mrs. A. Schnitzer—auxiliary treasurer. Mrs. Calvin Boykin—local treasurer. Mrs. J. C. Holmes—publicity and "voice" agent. Mrs. Hal Hart—corresponding secretary. Mrs. C. C. Carter—supt. school service. Mrs. V. W. Latson—supt. supplies. Mrs. Hugh Duncan—supt. Mission study. Mrs. G. H. O'Brien—supt. Bible study. Mrs. C. C. Carter led the scripture reading and Mrs. C. T. Watson led the group in prayer. The officers gave their monthly reports. Mrs. Carter, supt. school service, reported that the group had clothed and put in school seven children.

It was decided to have a food sale this coming Saturday, place to be announced later.

Methodist W. M. S.

The W. M. S. met at the church and elected the following officers: Mrs. V. H. Flewellen—president. Mrs. W. G. Bailey—vice-president. Mrs. W. A. Miller—secretary. EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Cincinnati, Ohio
Do you not think the London Conference was a failure? It still looks as though the old gang of militarists were on top.

Naval experts exercised too much influence in its decisions, but the present tumult of the international mind forbids their exclusion. It would seem that solemn repudiations of war simultaneously paraded by military and naval expansion programs are utterly inconsistent if not hypocritical. Nevertheless, the peace movement exists with such vigor and pertinacity that renegade conferences could not stay its progress. Countless multitudes in all lands hate war with an enduring hatred. Dr. Otto Dibelius, "Chevalier of Peace" in France, has said that increasing large groups in nations, formerly antagonistic, are not lacking for electors who point to the more excellent way of peaceful arbitration and adjustment.

Big navy factionists are active here and elsewhere. Chauvinistic parties furnish material for mutual suspicion, jealousy and fear at home and abroad. Professional patriots denounce as pacifists and traitors everyone who does not join in their claims of blind nationalism. But behind them all are the plain people who once bitten are twice shy, and they will yet make effective God's outwary of war. Moreover, the conference accomplished a laudable result which will be of lasting value. I have referred to these results in this column. They contradict the assertion that the conference was a failure. It is more accurate to say it a compromise looking in the right direction.

Why was the Resurrection of Christ to fulfill the law?

The word "fulfill" has various significations. It may mean to consummate or to bring to an end, or to finish and thus complete. The New Testament which you quote, especially uses the word in its first sense, namely to consummate. Hence the word law is fulfilled in that sense of it, and of our fellow man, Jesus, who declared in his Sermon on the Mount: "I have not come to abolish the law, but to fulfill it." The law, according to the Apostle, Christ fulfilled in the divine law when He subjected all His commandments to the law of love. The law had made righteous formal, mechanical, without of true and ceremony. It was therefore necessary for Christ to simplify its provisions and also to emphasize their spiritual nature. In so doing He related God's claim to man's reverent obedience and God's grace to man's actual needs. In the far-reaching sense the Master fulfilled the law.

Some New Testament writers, being Jews naturally inclined to the idea that Jesus recognized in His life and ministry all that had been foretold by Israel's prophets and precepts. But Christ's teachings clearly show that His Gospel was nothing if not an inward and spiritual power, which inspired the laws of God on the hearts of men and thus made them the believer's inward conviction rather than an outward ordinance. Read in this connection the classic prediction of Jeremiah (31:31-33):

Anderson, S. C.
In the light of "The Tragic"

Era" by Claude G. Bowers, with its revelations of venality in the period immediately following the Civil War, would you not say that the condition of the public mind in our time is healthier than it was then and that opinion is much sounder?

The book you mention is a foremost portrayal of conditions in the United States during the trying days of reconstruction. Some leaders of that period and on a few of the rank and file were guilty of unscrupulous turpitude. But their recklessness and corruption did not blot out the heroism, idealism and honor of many sincere patriots who finally restored the moral sanity of the nation.

A similarly distressing picture could be drawn of our own day, and few could paint it more faithfully than Mr. Bowers. But knowing him as I do, I believe he would be prompt to admit that the historian must be impartial above all things. Otherwise he is bound to convey an incomplete impression of people and movements. It should be said that a comparison between them and now, taken in all its bearings, shows a marked progress in public opinion which would not tolerate many of the practices of those former days. We have certainly learned our lesson and there is a greater readiness to respond to the requirements of honesty and justice. Provincialism, bigotry and intolerance are gradually giving way to a more informed and charitable temper, not only among ourselves but in our relations with other nations. Indeed the very fact that we are conscious of the defects of Mr. Bowers' chronicle, and are desirous of removing them, is a proof that we are headed for better times.

Read also the recent biography of that much misunderstood and abused official, President Hayes who lived in the better day we now enjoy.

Editor Of Railway Magazine Lays Blame For Reduction In Number Of Employees On Uses Of Highway

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 4.—Calling attention to the fact that the average number of persons employed by the railways in the first eight months of 1930 was only 1,554,532, or smaller than for more than 20 years, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age, vigorously attacked government highway and waterway policies in an address delivered at the annual conference of the officers and general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks here.

automobiles, should be thoroughly investigated and determined on sound economic principles by expert government authority, and then their operators should be compelled to pay accordingly. It is unfair to the taxpayers, including private motorists, for the owners of buses and trucks to be allowed to use the highways principally at the expense of the taxpaying public, and it results in subsidized and unfair competition with the railways, and reduction of railway employment.

Reduction In Crude Prices Costs Heavily

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—Reduction in crude oil prices in the Permian Basin from 10 to 27 cents a barrel to the lowest levels since 1918, will cost royalty owners in 10 West Texas counties and in Lea county, New Mexico, approximately $201,000 monthly. This is based on daily average production of 279,924 barrels by 2,636 wells in those counties, during the week ending Oct. 15.

Daily average production in the Permian Basin during that period actually totaled 316,028 barrels, but some counties with small yields were not included in computing the cost of the crude slash. The reduction was the first change in prices in the basin since April 10 when the market was advanced 10 cents a barrel.

On Jan. 15 prices had been cut an average of about 25 cents a barrel.

Producers in the Permian Basin will receive $52,630.32 less daily or $1,638,620.60 less in a month of 30 days. Since many of the major producers also are purchasers of oil, the cut will not affect them as seriously as it will operators, especially the independents, who have no outlet and marketing facilities.

Since it produces more oil than any other county in the basin, Pecos county will feel the cut more than other areas. Daily average production of 106,315 barrels by 105 wells, 100,000 barrels of it in the great Yates field will be worth $19,900.88 less, a reduction of $507,026.40 monthly and a loss to royalty owners of $63,378.30.

The heaviest loss will be Winkler county, where daily average production of 60,000 barrels by 521 wells, will be worth $9,608.96 less daily, a reduction of $288,268.80 monthly and a loss to royalty owners of $36,036.10.

Figures on the other counties, showing the monthly to royalty owners in each follows: Howard, Glasscock, $24,142.70; Lea county, New Mexico, $33,915.75; Crane, $23-

A. P. I. Session November 10-13

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—More than 100 of the leading figures in the oil industry in Texas will attend the meeting of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago Nov. 10 to 13. A special train, sponsored by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, of which Edward T. Moore of Dallas is president, will carry the Texas oil men to Chicago.

The importance of the problems which are to be discussed at this meeting, has attracted a larger attendance from Texas than usual, it appears from reservations that are being made for the trip. A number of Texans, who are now on important committees of the institute, are up for re-election. The petroleum industry in the past has been very partial to Texas, having selected two residents of the Lone Star state as presidents of the institute, and having for its executive vice-president a native Texan, who now resides in New York.

Because of the predominant position of Texas in production and refining, the situation in the oil industry in this state will obtain a large share of the institute's attention. The magnitude of the oil business in Texas likewise attaches a great deal of Texas interest to the deliberations of the A. P. I. The effect of the proration programs now in progress and the possible effects of the tariff on oil, are expected to occupy an important place in the institute's deliberations.

The special train will be made up of sections from several Texas cities. These sections will convene at Denison on the evening of Nov. 8.

She stated she knew Mason was in Mrs. Turman's room after midnight on several occasions, and said she had seen them go riding together many times at night. On cross-examination by Mrs. Turman's attorneys, Mrs. Murphy said that she could not say that others were not in the room at the same time with Mrs. Turman and Mason.

William McDowell, auditor for Turman, testified about various conferences between the Turmans over reconciliation. He said that Mrs. Turman demanded half the property and $200,000 in cash.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 4. (AP)—Speakers to get a statement from W. L. "Speedy" Mason, Southern Methodist University football star, whose name was brought into the divorce hearing between L. C. Turman and his wife at Fort Worth, failed today.

At first authorities of the University said Mason was attending classes and could not be recalled. They said they were in the football favorite would not care to make a statement pending arrival of his father, reported en route here from Lometa.

Later inquiries were told that Mason's whereabouts were unknown.

When the Republican party in Texas does gain enough strength to make it interesting for the Democrats the latter will have no reason to fear the outcome. It will have always an advantage because its principles are sound and in a majority of cases it will win.

Sterling scarcely raised his voice after his nomination by the Democrats.

Colonel Talbot's addresses as a rule dealt with economic problems of the state, and as he brought his campaign to a close said he had been more interested in Texas' progress than in politics.

Despite Republican activity, greater than in most normal years, the apathy of the electorate was notable.

Gov. Dan Moody and Mr. Sterling issued appeals for voters to go to the polls and both expressed approval of all the constitutional amendments. The governor said Democrats should be proud of the opportunity to roll up a big vote in their first general election since 1928 when the state returned a majority for Herbert Hoover for president.

can the balance of power in the new senate, the election conceivably will give scope to the operations henceforth of the independent Senator Borah.

In two thirds of the states, measures of legislation or public policy are before the voters for approval by referendum. Prohibition provides the medium for three, Illinois and Rhode Island voting their opinions whether the eighteenth amendment should be repealed, and Massachusetts deciding whether to do away with her state enforcement act. Bond issues for public works totalling upwards of a half billion dollars, advocated as a boon to employment, are on the ballots in twenty states.

In many communities the voters turned out today with eleven-th hour appeals by party spokesmen still fresh in overnight memories.

Last Words

Nationally, both parties said their last word last evening over the radio. Speaking for the republicans, James Francis Burke repeated again the watchword of the republican campaign, "Stand by the president." For the democrats, Joseph Shouse and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, asked that the congressional election express a nation's disapproval of the Hoover policies.

Fair weather over most of the country augured for a heavy vote, although of course the total, as customary in off-years, was expected to fall far below the monthly figures of 1935. Only for the South Atlantic states, where there are few electric newspapers, did the weather map show signs of rain.

Most of the states close their polls at nightfall, and comprehensive returns from the east and middle west seemed likely by early evening. The far west will be well behind. In Washington and Oregon the closing time was 3 p. m. Pacific time, or 11 p. m. on the Atlantic seaboard. Kentucky, under a new law, will not begin to count the ball' until tomorrow morning, a circumstance which held possibilities of leaving an important gap in election night tabulations. For this year the Blue Grass state was one of the most bitterly contested among them all.

Seek Control

To gain control of the house—the big prize in every off-year election—the democrats must make a net gain of 52. Technically, they have 435 chances in 1009 for the entire "trash" comes up for election. Actually, however, the field is much narrower. A total of 91 nominees, most of them southern democrats, have no candidates against them. In the four Maine districts, republicans already have been elected; for Maine votes in September, and was the only state casting no ballots today. In many other districts the result was a foregone conclusion, one way or the other.

Many scattered districts, one or two to a state, were on today's list of "actually disputed, but Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Missouri were the states which were feeling the full force of the democratic shock troops.

In the senate, which elects but one third of its membership this year, the democrats need a net gain of 10 for a majority, and the whole number of really disputable states numbered only about a dozen. States which today were writing the verdict on especially aggressive democratic efforts to unseat republican senators included Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island and West Virginia. The contest to which prohibition will determine the net result, and what light it will throw on 1932, is hotly disputed by the leaders of wets and dries.

Planks

In many states one or both parties adopted planks referring to prohibition but indirectly, or not at all. In New York, New Jersey, Washington, Wisconsin and Connecticut both party platforms disented from prohibition, while in nine other states—Illinois, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Vermont—the democrats declared for a change. The republicans of Illinois and the democrats of Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota proposed a referendum.

In several of the larger states, including some where party platforms do not raise the issue, the dispute over the dry laws became involved in contests over governor or senator. Robert J. Bulkley, democratic nominee for the senate in Ohio, has attracted national attention by his campaign on a repeal platform, in the home state of the Anti-Saloon League, against Senator McCulloch, a dry. In Massachusetts, likewise, the democratic senatorial nominee, Marcus A. Coolidge, is for repeal and the republican nominee, William M. Butler, is against it.

In Montana, on the contrary, the democratic Senator Walsh, one of the dry leaders of congress, is opposed by a republican, Albert J.
