Ford Gives SALT Briefing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said today the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to limit their total number of nuclear delivery systems to somewhat less than 2,500 on both sides. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. reported.

"They probably did not get everything that we wanted but they have put a cap on the situation," Thurmond said as he emerged from a meeting of congressional leaders called by Ford at the White House.

Thurmond also said there was no on-sight inspection in the agreement.

Thurmond said the President asked those attending not to reveal the exact figures relating to limitation of land-based, submarine-based and bomber-carried missiles pending a later announcement on his weekend Vladivostok accord with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev—probably next week.

But in answer to questions about a published report that the overall limit for both sides on total number of delivery systems was about 2,500 each, Thurmond said "not quite that much."

The senator added that both sides had also agreed to limit the number of missiles which would be allowed to carry multiple nuclear warheads.

The lack of on-sight inspection raises a question how the United States will verify that the Soviet Union is not exceeding its quota for multiple warheads.

But Thurmond said the President had assured the lawmakers that the United States had adequate means of intelligence detection.

Thurmond said he believed the agreement as Ford described it would be ratified by the Senate.

However, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a strong arms control critic who was not invited to the White House session, said earlier that Ford should have gotten the agreement in writing.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, also told newsmen in the White House driveaway he felt "good progress" was made at the Vladivostok meeting.

He said that exact figures on the missile limitations was being withheld because there was still "some interplay" with the Russians. Ford is expected to write a communication from Brezhnev to confirm their verbal accord at the Nov. 23-24 meeting.

Thurmond said that the accord also "left the door open for further negotiations."

The United States and the Soviet Union are now expected to send new instructions to their disarmament delegations in Geneva where many of the remaining details on the new strategic arms agreement with the Soviet Union are to be negotiated.

Ford and Brezhnev hope to make the accord final in Washington at their next summit meeting in the summer of 1975.

House and Senate leaders and the ranking Democratic and Republican members of the committees on appropriations, foreign affairs and armed services were invited to the briefing.

Jackson, who does not fit in any of those categories but heads the Senate Arms Control subcommittee and has long been considered an expert on the subject, said today that the Vladivostok summit was "all verbal."

Interviewed on the CBS Morning News, Jackson also was suspicious of any secret agreements reached with the Russians.

City Awards Bids For New Vehicles

Pampa city commissioners today awarded bids for the purchase of approximately $100,000 worth of automotive equipment for various municipal departments.

The awards were made with the hope promises of delivery could be made by the bidders.

Today's action included approval of purchase contracts as follows:

Harold Barrett Ford, 4-door sedan, $4,277.63; Culberson — Stowers Chevrolet, three 1/2 ton pickups, $3,601 each; Harold Barrett Ford, 2-ton truck, $8,340.06; Pampa Chrysler-Dodge, two 2 1/2-ton trucks, $7,098.19 each; Pakmor Mfg. Co., three 36 cu. yd. refuse packer bodies, $7,770 each; Deckard Equipment Co., front end loader, $30,518.44; Harrison Implement Co., tractor mower, $4,662; Archie's Truck Service, truck tire changer, $2,702.61.

The city staff recommended awards for three 2 1/2-ton truck cabs with chassis be held up for additional study because of uncertainty of delivery dates.

Commissioners decided to give further study with the City Planning and Zoning Commission regarding a zoning change from agricultural to retail for a parcel of land just south of the nursing home on W. Kentucky Ave.

An ordinance changing zoning from agricultural to multi-family in the Kalene North Addition was approved on first reading.

Legislation prohibiting parking on N. Ballard between Browning and Sunset Dr. was passed on final reading.

In a brief discussion following routine agenda items, City Manager Mack Wofford said the City of Pampa, which already is a party to the lawsuit over operation and maintenance costs to be charged by the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, would continue in the legal action with Amarillo and Borger unless commissioners took action to withdraw.

No action in that direction was taken at today's meeting and Mayor R.D. Wilkerson said Pampa will continue in the case.

DIES MONDAY

U Thant To Lie In State At U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U Thant, the self-effacing Burmese schoolmaster who served a record 10 years as U.N. secretary general, will be the first person to lie in state at the United Nations.

Thant, 65, died Monday at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York. He suffered from cancer and had developed pneumonia.

The United Nations' third secretary general, Thant held what he once called the "lonely, frustrating job" from Sept. 17, 1961, to Dec. 31, 1971, the longest tenure of any U.N. chief executive.

"We have lost one of the great men of our age," U.S. Ambassador John Scali said.

"We admired above all his humanity, his respect for human dignity and his complete integrity," Kurt Waldheim, Thant's successor, said.

"Above all, he was a man of peace," President Ford said.

The General Assembly observed a minute's silence after Thant's death was announced and then heard tributes from diplomats.

Plans Readied For Industrial Burn Seminar

Final plans are being completed this week for the Industrial Burn Safety Seminar to be conducted here Dec. 4, 5 and 6 by the Southern Burn Institute with R.A. Kolvoord, educational director of the Institute, as the coordinating instructor.

The two and one-half day course is devoted to the latest techniques and strategies involved in establishing fire and burn accident prevention programs in industry and the community in general.

The seminar begins with an evening session, 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., on the first day. It is followed by two full day schedules from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Registration fee includes luncheons, Continental breakfast at 10 a.m. and coffee break at 3 p.m. on both full seminar days.

All classes will be held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn and everyone in the Top o' Texas area is invited to participate. The tuition fee for the three-day course is $75 per person.

Anyone interested in enrolling should contact the Chamber of Commerce, 669-3241, or write Box 1942, Pampa, Texas.

Lee Fraser, chairman of the Chamber's Fire Prevention Committee, and Dr. Raymond Laycock are in charge of details relating to the course.

U.N. officials made plans to have Thant's body lie in state in the main lobby of the United Nations starting Wednesday and to hold a memorial service later.

Born at Pantanaw, Burma, on Jan. 22, 1909, the son of a landowner, Thant began as a schoolmaster, wrote anti-British criticism as a newspaperman and was appointed by his close friend, U Nu, as U.N. Ambassador.

Self-effacing and physically small, Thant became acting secretary general following Dag Hammarskjold's death in a September, 1961, plane crash in Africa. A year later, he was unanimously named secretary general in his own right.

Since his retirement, Thant lived in suburban Harrison, N.Y. He is survived by his widow, a daughter and son-in-law and four grandchildren.

At the time of his death, he had almost completed a comprehensive book on his diplomatic experiences.

In Burmese custom, Thant had only one name—the "U" was an honorific.

While secretary general, Thant brought the Congo crisis to an end without the secession of Katanga Province, but was frustrated by his inability to bring an end to the Vietnam War.

CERTIFIES AUDIT

Board Okays Dress Code, Changes Married Policies

Pampa Independent School District's board of trustees met Monday in regular session and adopted a new dress appearance code for the district and rescinded a policy limiting married students to academic participation.

In other action the board approved a request by Jeff Doughten, band director, that the band be allowed to participate in the fourth annual Six Flags Over Mid-Continent Concert Band Festival in St. Louis next spring.

A report of the audit was submitted to the board for approval by J.G. Doggett. The board certified the audit to be filed with the Texas Education Agency before the Dec. 1 deadline.

Dr. Dan Long, superintendent, presented a report on the self-study of the schools which is underway. A self-evaluation report will be submitted to the board in the summer, Dr. Long stated.

The self-evaluation within the district will be on file for observation by a group of educators scheduled to evaluate the school system sometime in the Fall of 1975. This is in compliance with Texas laws which call for such studies within districts on a seven to 10 year basis.

Dr. Long said it had been 10 years since Pampa schools had participated in such a program.

An updating in insurance coverage for school buildings and contents was recommended by Warren Fatheree, and the board adopted a new plan of protection for the schools which will meet with problems created by increased inflation. The new plan will be effective immediately, Fatheree stated.

Dr. Long also recommended a textbook committee which was approved by the board. Fifteen instructors within the system will comply with Texas statutes requiring the board to appoint a selection committee to study textbooks which have been approved at state level for adoption.

Dr. Long strongly indicated the importance of this committee and said textbooks under consideration are available to the public for study. A full report of the committee will be submitted to the board in February.

A request by the Pampa Optimist Club to use elementary school gymnasiums for a fifth and sixth grade basketball program was approved. The gym will be used on an exchange basis for use by Pampa schools of the baseball facilities at Optimist Park.

In executive session, the board approved contracts for Caroline Hand as science teacher at Pampa Junior High School and Glenda Didway as vocational adjustment coordinator at Pampa High School.

The board also accepted the resignation of Carol Baumann, and approved requests for leaves of absence for Ron Rice and Frances Ogden.

Early Dismissal Set For School

All students of Pampa Independent School District will be dismissed from class at 2 p.m. Wednesday to begin Thanksgiving holidays.

It has been a tradition in Pampa to dismiss school early in order to permit families to get an early start in the heavy holiday traffic and enable those who are going out of the city to arrive at their destination on Thanksgiving, according to Superintendent Dan Long.

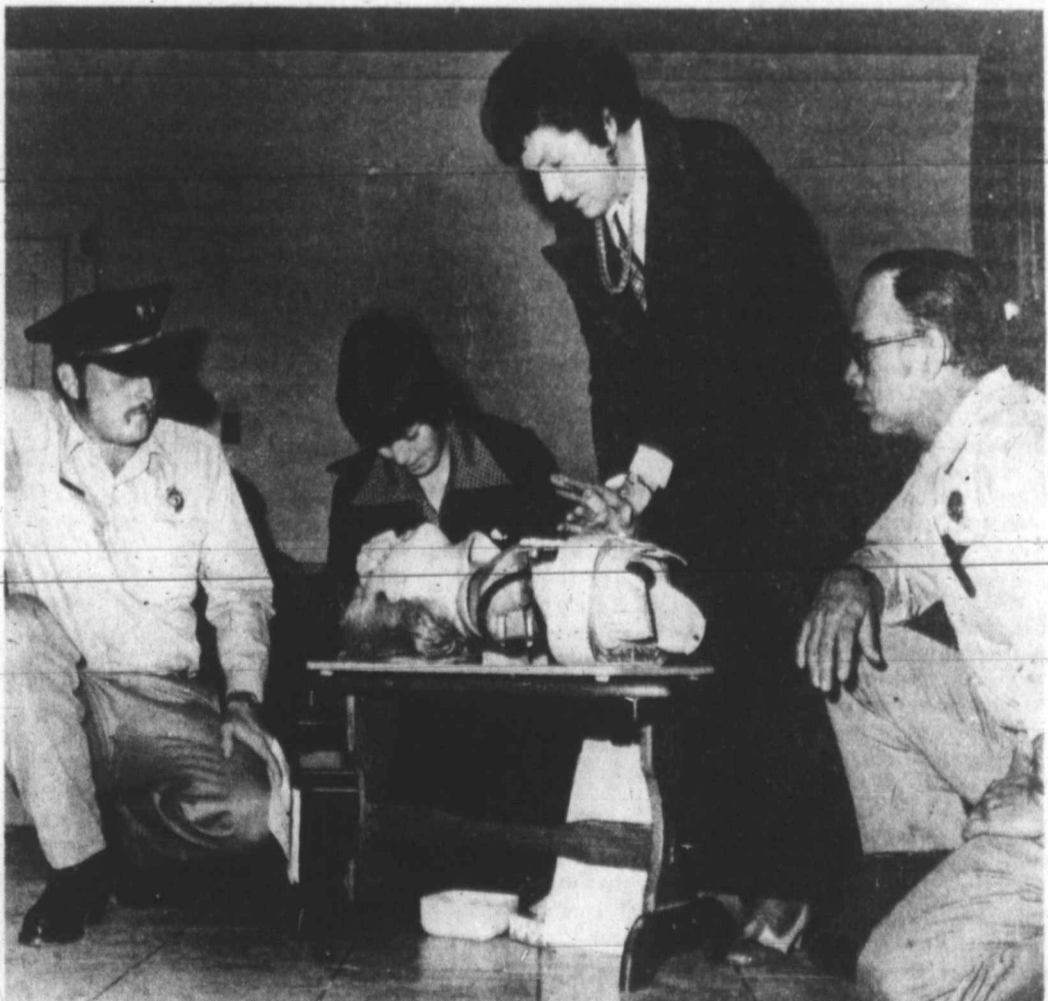

Classes and bus schedules will return to normal routine Monday.

Tanaka Resigns

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, whose rags-to-riches career came back to haunt him, resigned today in the face of charges he used his political power to amass a huge fortune.

"As a public figure I am solely to blame for the fact that my personal affairs invited the people's misunderstanding and I feel pain that I cannot bear," he said in a resignation statement.

Tanaka, whose popularity plunged from a euphoric high to a scandal-marred low during his two years in power, blamed himself for Japan's "political chaos" and unsolved problems.

Americans Get Warning Of Higher Food Prices

UPI Business Writer
Americans got warnings Monday of higher food prices and more unemployment, and the chairman of Ford Motor Co. accused Washington of inaction in the middle of a recession.

There was an encouraging note for home-buyers. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said mortgage interest rates on new homes dropped to 9.17 per cent in October for the first decline in 17 months.

"Interest rates might flatten out over the next three months," a board spokesman said.

In the wake of a 400 per cent increase in sugar prices, the Ford administration was told 15,000 independent bakeries could go out of business unless sugar prices declined. Sugar refiners said they were not to blame and a consumer organization called for a nationwide sugar boycott.

On the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange Monday, the price of raw sugar dropped 2 cents a pound, but at 59 cents a pound it still threatens to push the retail price to around 90 cents a pound when refiners, packagers and retailers add their costs and profits.

Sugar is not the only food item hitting record prices. The Agriculture Department said the cost of feeding a hypothetical family of 3.2 persons rose to $1,779 a year in October, nearly 10 per cent higher than last November.

Department economists predicted that by the end of the year food prices will be 20 per cent higher than in 1973, the biggest yearly jump ever.

U.S. automakers reported that mid-November sales were down 35 per cent from the depressed period a year ago, when the Arab oil embargo cut sharply into car sales.

The first nine selling days in November were the worst since 1970 in an industry already scheduled to lay off 200,000 workers before Christmas.

Louisville, Ky. The workers will be idled for at least a week, GE said.

In other economic developments:
—Prices on the stock market dropped slightly. The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 blue chip stocks dropped 3.36 points to 611.94. The New York Stock Exchange said member firms lost $34.1 million in the third quarter of 1974, bringing the loss for the first nine months to nearly $92 million.

FROM TUNISIA

PLO May Get Arab Hijackers

TUNIS (UPI) — A top government official said today Tunisia probably will turn over a group of breakaway Arab guerrillas to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Police guarded the four air pirates and seven freed commando prisoners in a secret hideout while Tunisian authorities decided what to do with the guerrillas.

"There are several possibilities, one of which would be to hand them over to the PLO," Foreign Minister Habib Chatti said. "This is the most plausible one. The PLO is determined to end this sort of operation."

The guerrillas surrendered Monday morning at the end of a four-day air and ground drama that began last Thursday with the hijacking of a British Airways VC10 jetliner in the Persian Gulf emirate of Dubai.

Four guerrillas seized the plane, shooting a stewardess in the back and killing a passenger before winning the release of seven commandos imprisoned in Holland and Egypt.

The Palestinian guerrillas had demanded to be "set free without trial and without being turned over to the PLO," but Chatti said the men gave up Monday without getting any solid guarantee.

"We did the maximum to save the hostages and the plane," he said in a radio interview. "Now the problem of what to do with the other people remains."

The PLO, the umbrella guerrilla group, has demanded custody of guerrillas, vowing to force the four hijackers to "pay for their crime."

Interior Minister Tahar Belkhouja said, "We are going to hold discussions with the PLO leaders who are presently in Tunis in order that the question be resolved in a political fashion."

In Washington, the State Department urged all nations to deny asylum to the four hijackers and to insure that all suffer "the consequences of their criminal action."

Daniel Birch of Syosset, N.Y., one of the passengers aboard the plane, said the hijackers "were mostly nice. However, one moment they would be very friendly and the next moment very nervous."

"One of them asked me to play my guitar, I did. Then he took it and put it over his machine gun and played an Arab song."

Pie In Face-A Joke Or Assault?

PORT HUENEME, Calif. (UPI) — A Navy court martial will hear from comic Soupy Sales to help answer the question: Is assault with a chocolate cream pie a joke or a dangerous breach of discipline?

Sales is the champion in the pie-in-the-face field, according to a civilian defense attorney at the court martial.

Sales had been hit in the face with 19,253 cream pies as of August, 1964, the attorney, William G. Smith, said Monday, and is thus the perfect expert witness to help defend Seabee Leon L. Louie. Louie, of Fresno, Calif., is charged under Article 90 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice with assault and battery upon a superior officer, a serious offense.

According to the charges, on the morning of Sept. 27, when Lt. (j.g.) Timothy F. Curtin called Louie's squad to formation, the 19-year-old Seabee plastered him in the face with a chocolate cream pie as others in the unit stood at attention.

The cream pie attack was "presumed to be premeditated," a Navy spokesman said, because someone filmed it, and the film was shown last Friday on a Los Angeles television station.

The station declined to say how it got the film.

Smith said Sales will testify that throwing a cream pie in someone's face is "regarded as entertainment or as a practical joke and not as an assault."

The motivation for Louie's attack has not been revealed, but there was a clue in the opening session of the court martial Monday.

The defense attorney asked the presiding officer, Lt. John Milliken, whether the term "gook" would be regarded as derogatory by most Asian-Americans. "I believe so," Milliken agreed.

Monday's session ended when it was discovered that Curtin had not been put under oath before swearing out the charges.

The presiding officer ordered the prosecutor to put him under oath and bring the charge again. The court martial was tentatively scheduled to resume Dec. 5.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I have three children and you can guess what Christmas morning looks like. Well, not any more...

I take the stockings with all the goodies and put one on the foot of each child's bed.

Imagine sleeping a half hour longer while the children play in their beds! But the best is yet to come.

The first thing they find on top of their stockings is a big paper bag with a note from Santa himself. The note says to use the bag for all the wrappings, and a note of praise is added.

It seems children love to listen to Santa... at least they do in my house. Now anyone can walk into my house (and I have lots of company) and it doesn't look as if the roof fell in. Best of all, I can sit and relax and enjoy myself as much as everyone else.

What Mommy or Daddy wants to miss those precious moments cleaning up? Love your column. Santa's helper...

Mrs. Rosemary DeMauro

Dear Heloise:
I am a bachelor and quite often have women guests in my home for dinner.

I have learned to use red napkins so if a lipstick stain should not come completely out when the napkins are washed, the stain is not so noticeable.

Don H.

Leave it to a man to figure out a shorter, easier way.

Heloise

HAVE YOU NOTICED:
The day you make homemade manicotti and a deep dish peach pie, you husband decides to go on a diet? (Just happened to me.)

M.M.M

Dear Heloise:
Here is an idea for anyone living in an apartment with limited space for storage.

I bought an inexpensive shelving unit, a metal one with three shelves, and set it in my 5-year-old son's closet. I gave him an old set of canisters that I covered with adhesive-backed vinyl paper.

He keeps his cowboys and Indians, small cars, crayons and other such items in the canisters on the shelf along with the "delicate" toys that can't go in the toy box.

All the mess is out of sight.

Cyndi Curtis

Dear Heloise:
This year for Christmas I've begun wrapping my smaller

'Sonic' Sewing' Predicted For Future

COLLEGE STATION — "Sonic Sewing" is one of the many new techniques being used by the textile and apparel industry, according to one clothing specialist.

She's Margaret Ann Vanderpoorten, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This new method, already in use by several manufacturers, uses high frequency vibrations to melt synthetic fibers and fuse them together. No needle or thread is needed, the specialist said.

This method works well for fusing seams in wearing apparel, adding decorative patterns and quilting several layers of synthetic fabrics and fibers together, she noted.

packages in remnants of fabric left over from my sewing. I have some red dotted swiss and some dark green velvet that make lovely packages.

For decoration I add sequins and beads arranged in the shape of a Christmas tree or I glue rickrack in the shape of gingerbread men. Certainly makes my packages original!

Camilla Russell

Dear Heloise:
Turn the covers of casseroles upside down to store in the refrigerator or freezer.

The knob often freezes into the food, but this is a small disadvantage when considering how evenly the casseroles stack!

Amy Simpson

Dear Heloise:
Here is a way to help eliminate handling of packages that are under the Christmas tree several days before opening.

Whenever we wrap the gifts, we number the gift and keep a list of who it is for. This causes great excitement among young and old alike.

Then Christmas eve, someone calls out the number and we can tell to whom it goes. Try it and watch the expressions on their faces. (Of course, be sure to hide the list of names because someone is always curious!)

Sneaky mother

Aren't we all? (Curious that is, and a bit sneaky, too, I imagine at this time of the year.) But the suspense is a great part of the fun, I think. You're great.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Being a busy housewife I found that I was neglecting to cut the weekly coupons out of the daily paper.

One day when my 7-year-old daughter was bored, and wanted something different to do, I suggested that she cut the coupons out of the paper for me. She just loved it!

I find it not only is helping me out, but she is also getting practice using the scissors and, most important of all, she is learning to save and look for bargains at an early age.

Mrs. Pat Jakubs

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

The question is frequently asked of me: "Why to the Italians always win the World Championship?" The answer can perhaps be observed in the statements of the former captain of the Italian team, Carl Alberto Perroux:

"A standard car produced in millions for the mass public is far different from a racing car. The former is more comfortable and easier to drive; the latter runs faster and requires more experience. Very few can drive a racing car without danger of breaking their necks. We have to consider whether bridge competition is a leisurely drive or an auto race."

"Here, then, is the major difference between the American systems and the Italian systems of bidding: the American systems, like all natural systems, are adopted for the millions who play rubber bridge; the Italian artificial system, full of conventions and difficult to memorize, provide an immense advantage in competitive bridge at the highest level."

"As an example, there is the Roman Club System. This system is based largely on distribution."

"Here is an example of the Roman Club in action. Sitting North and South were Giorgio Belladonna and Walter Avarelli, two members of the Italian team. The deal arose in the 1959 World Championships.

Neither side vulnerable. East deals.

NORTH

♥ K 8 7 6 2

EAST

♦ J 10 6

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass Pass 2 ♦
Pass 2 ♦ Pass 4 ♦
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♠.

Belladonna's opening two-diamond bid showed a three-suit hand, 4-4-1 or 5-4-4-0, with 17 more high-card points. Avarelli's response of two spades showed four or more spades, fewer than four hearts, and a count of less than eight high-card points. Belladonna then bid the game in spades.

West opened a diamond, and Avarelli easily made 11 tricks. He won in dummy with the diamond ace, and crossed-ruffed hearts and clubs for the next seven tricks. He then cashed the king and queen of diamonds, and made the trump ace.

When the deal was replayed with the United States holding the North-South cards, our American player opened the North hand with one heart, which was padded all around. This contract was defeated one trick. Nuff said?

Using A Spending Plan

COLLEGE STATION — Many consumers are making spending plans to see where their money is going these days.

But actually using the plan requires more effort, according to one family resource management specialist.

"This plan should be a guide for money spending, not a restriction," Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week.

"It isn't enough just to see where the income is being spent, what's important is to decide if that's where it should be going."

Fixed expenses such as mortgages are the ones that won't change. Anything else can change as needed, with the spending plan acting as a guide, she pointed out.

"One use for the plan is to help the family meet its goals. If vacation plans are a goal, cutting down on movies or entertaining might allow enough money saved for the vacation."

"Or if too much money seems to be going for transportation, considering limiting that expense by car pooling, using mass transit or walking more frequently."

"And if it looks like 'food' takes too much money, look into the food basket to see what's not needed or that's not even food," she said.

The specialist advised reviewing the spending plan at intervals with all the family.

Arabs Admire American Style

NEW YORK (UPI) — If Horace Greeley were around today he might advise: "Go east young man, but first learn to read and speak Arabic."

There are real executive gold mines in the Middle East and while the oil-rich Arab countries and Iran also want European executives and technicians, they greatly admire American business enterprise and training.

This is creating a lucrative market for American recruiting firms, says Russell S. Reynolds, Jr., head of Russell Reynolds Associates, Inc., a younger but growing recruiting firm with offices in New York, London, Chicago and Los Angeles.

"We have placed 16 executives, mostly top drawer financial men, in Kuwait and Iran in the past year," Reynolds told United Press International. Some of these have gone to work for American companies operating in the Middle East but Reynolds said an increasing proportion are being recruited for enterprises controlled by Arab or Iranian capital.

Lester Korn, head of KornFerry of Los Angeles and New York, one of the biggest executive recruiters, agreed. "We have been working in the Middle East almost five years and 2 to 3 per cent of our international business is done there," Korn said. "It's definitely an emerging market and I think in the next year it will account for 5 to 7 per cent of our international business."

Reynolds and Korn agreed a new and important good American and European financial executives to work at finding investment opportunities in their own countries for the Middle Easterners' huge surplus of oil dollars.

"But this hasn't really begun," said Reynolds. "The present need is for top American and European people to work in the Middle East, people who can plan and get enterprises going, not operating executives or technicians."

He said he was talking about men in the $100,000-a-year class. He has placed such people in banks, a national petroleum company, a cement company and other enterprises.

"Although the Kuwaitis and Iranians were a little shocked to discover the high salaries they must pay for such talent, they pay it," he said.

Korn and Reynolds emphasized their agreement on another point. Invariably, the best jobs for Americans in the Middle East are for fixed-time employment, usually five years, and the first duty of the executive is to train a national to be his own replacement and to institute a program to train many other citizens of the host country for executive roles.

"For this reason," Korn said, "the Middle Easterners have been willing in the past to pay premiums of up to 100 per cent over what the recruited executive could earn at home. The premiums are going down now, to perhaps 60 to 75 per cent, but it's still a good deal and most men have little trouble finding good jobs elsewhere after finishing their Middle Eastern stint. Some go in business for themselves or become high-fee consultants."

Korn said his firm also has been supplying operating executives and technicians in the Middle East, particularly in Saudi Arabia, for example, where it is now involved in supplying 2,000 persons for a string of hospitals.

Life On Mars? We'll Know In '76

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American spacecraft won't land on Mars until 1976, but space agency scientists already are looking ahead to the benefits and dangers of an unmanned mission that would bring some Martian soil back to earth.

The problem with such a sample return flight is that it conceivably could unleash some form of extraterrestrial germ that could play havoc with earthbound forms of life that have had no opportunity to develop defenses to it.

The same concern 10 years ago led to the stringent quarantine procedures used to protect earthlings against possible bugs from the moon. Extraordinary laboratory tests found no evidence of any life in moon soil and lunar quarantine precautions eventually were lifted.

But many scientists agree that the likelihood of life on Mars, slight though it may be, is considerably higher than it was for the moon. Mars has a thin atmosphere with some water vapor, it has temperatures in some areas that are reasonable for life as we know it and it has evidence that liquid water once flowed on its surface.

The two Viking spacecraft that will be launched next summer toward Mars will carry biology instruments designed to detect some forms of living organisms if they happen to exist where the probes will land in the summer of 1976.

But if Viking's life search results are negative, that doesn't mean that life is absent from the fourth planet from the sun. It would just mean that soil samples at that specific landing site don't contain biological specimens that Viking's automated instruments can detect.

"This conclusion is far different from one that there is no life on Mars," said Dr. Richard S. Young, chief of NASA's planetary biology program, and Dr. Donald L. DeVincenzi, assistant chief of the planetary biology division at NASA's Ames Research Center.

They discussed the problem of terrestrial contamination from a Mars sample return mission in an article in last week's issue of Science magazine and said some scientists believe the risk is virtually nonexistent while others believe it is high.

The report said serious thought is now being given to such an automated sample return mission. Such a feat is now technically possible and two return missions are tentatively scheduled for 1984 in NASA's long range plans.

Young and DeVincenzi noted that instrument analysis of Martian soil samples at Mars can make only crude measurements and that study in earth laboratories will be required for more sophisticated biological and geological research.

It might be possible to sterilize return samples before they reach earth, the scientists said, but this would degrade the specimens and eliminate most biological analyses.

One possible way to avoid contaminating the earth with potentially hazardous material is to place the sample in earth orbit on its return from Mars instead of having its spacecraft re-enter earth's atmosphere. An automated laboratory in the space shuttle orbital transport now under development could analyze the material in orbit or carefully protected scientists aboard the shuttle could carry out the job.

Zales Sponsoring Show Wednesday

Zales Presents Annie and the Hoods, television special starring Anne Bancroft, will air Wednesday at 9-10 p.m. (CST) on the ABC Television Network.

Alan Alda, Jack Benny, Mel Brooks, Tony Curtis, Robert Merrill, Carl Reiner and Gene Wilder will guest on the show, produced and directed by Martin Charmin.

Marking Miss Bancroft's first network special since her memorable "Annie — The Women in the Life of a Man," which won an Emmy as best variety program of 1970, "Zales Presents Annie and the Hoods" again focuses on the star's astonishing versatility as she sings, dances and clowns her way through a series of vignettes and sketches written by outstanding comedy writers of television, Broadway and Hollywood.

The special marks the first time Miss Bancroft has worked with her husband, Mel Brooks, comedy writer and director whose western spoof, "Blazing Saddles," is regarded by many critics as the funniest film of the year.

Miss Bancroft is one of America's most distinguished actresses. She won Tonys for her Broadway performance in "Two for the Seesaw" and "The Miracle Worker," and captured Hollywood's Oscar when she reprised the latter on film. Other screen triumphs include "The Graduate" and "The Pumpkin Eater."

Sole sponsor of "Zales Presents Annie and the Hoods" is Zales Jewelers.

Perrytonite Top Rookie

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Mike Hargrove can testify very vividly what difference a year can make. Last year at this time I was in an oil field with mud up to my rear," says Hargrove in his gentle Texas drawl. "Now I'm out signing autographs and people are paying me to do it."

Hargrove's autograph price is apt to go up sharply now that he has been named rookie of the year by the Baseball Writers Association of America in a landslide vote.

"I thought that I had a pretty good chance to get it," said Hargrove, the Texas Rangers first baseman who jumped from Gastonia in the Western Carolina League last season. "But I didn't want to get my hopes up too much and then be all disappointed."

"Of course I'm thrilled with the honor. But we didn't win the pennant and that is a disappointment. And I think I can play better defensive ball. I made nine errors at first base last year and I think I can do better than that."

Hargrove hit .323 (second best behind Rod Carew) and drove in 66 runs for Texas in only his second season in professional ball. He received 16 1-2 out of 24 possible first place votes and easily outdistanced Chicago White Sox shortstop Bucky Dent, Kansas City third baseman George Brett finished third.

Hargrove's honor was the second bestowed on a Ranger this year by the BBWA. Right fielder Jeff Burroughs was named last week as the American League player of the year. Earlier Ranger manager Billy Martin had been named UPI's American League manager of the year and right-handed pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was picked as UPI's comeback player of the year.

The Rangers finished second behind Oakland last season in the American League West, and although the consensus is that Texas needs pitching help to overtake the A's, Hargrove said he was not hesitant about fielding the same team again in 1975.

"Everybody likes to have help," he said, "but I think we can all have better years than we had last year. I would not mind at all lining up with the same guys and giving it a try."

Hargrove, a native of the Texas Panhandle town of Perryton, was an instant hero in Arlington. He batted .371 in his first 59 games and people in his home town became so excited they talked officials of the local radio station to pick up the Ranger broadcasts.

As Hargrove's talent became obvious, American League pitchers began experimenting with ways to get the rookie out.

"The second and third time around the league they started trying different things," Hargrove said. "I think the second time we faced the Yankees they had some success with me throwing fast balls up and in."

"But I was in a little slump right then and I wasn't hitting much of anything. I guess that "up and in" stuff got around the league because everybody started pitching me that way. But when I got out of the slump I began hitting that stuff pretty good."

But not even Hargrove

Rice Has Momentum After Win

HOUSTON (UPI) — Coach Grant Teaff won't be a spectator to the Texas-Texas A&M game. He has other business.

His Baylor Bears, who will gain a Cotton Bowl berth if Texas wins, close the regular season against Rice Saturday and the right combination — a Longhorn-Aggie tie — would put the pressure on Baylor to beat Rice.

Coach Al Conover of Rice knows that.

"We're out of it, but we've got something to say about who's in it," Conover said Monday at his weekly quarterback club. "With a few exceptions, this is basically the same Baylor team we beat 27-0 last year."

"But Neal Jeffrey, the (Baylor) quarterback, and the others have gained maturity, and Baylor has added some outside speed, mainly Aley Jackson, the wide receiver. We know about him."

Rice, 2-1-7, "tuned up" last Saturday with a sluggish 26-14 win.

"Our victory over TCU wasn't that impressive, to say the least. But it made me feel a whole lot better, plus 60 guys on the sideline, it should give us a little momentum, as far as Baylor is concerned."

Conover gave Rice fans a boost Monday when he announced nose guard Cornelius Walker is healthy for the first time since the Texas game.

There was concern, though, Conover said sophomore quarterback Tommy Kramer will start despite knowing he awaits operations on both his shoulders after the season.

Kramer, the schoolboy star from San Antonio, has dislocated both shoulders in his two years at Rice. Trainer Allen Eggert said Kramer should be able to play healthier next season.

Rice has beaten Baylor five of the last six games, and last year's win was the only shutout administered by Baylor.

Coach Teaff Monday gave one reason for that shellacking.

"The big difference is that we started six freshmen last year, and now we're just starting two and a third one alternates," he said.

TO PLAY HORNS

Darrell Says Aggies Best Team Since OU

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The winner of the Southwest Conference is the host team in the Cotton Bowl each year and for the first time in seven years that host isn't going to be Texas. And Texas coach Darrell Royal says he doesn't really care which of the two contenders — Texas A&M or Baylor — winds up in Dallas against Penn State Jan. 1.

"Texas has not lost to A&M in Memorial Stadium in 18 years, but Royal said that is probably the most misleading statistic being thrown around the week before the game."

"I don't believe in all that past business, it's all trivia," he said. "There are a number of people on that A&M football team that haven't lost in Memorial Stadium, and it doesn't matter what happened back in 1956. I don't believe in all that stuff. I do not think it's worth any points."

"It's going to be who recovers the fumbles that determines the winner more than whose AstroTurf we're playing on. I hope our guys are jumping on popcorn sacks or anything else that moves on the ground, it might be a football."

Royal said the Aggie who earned the nickname Kiddie Corps last season because the team was predominantly sophomore oriented, is the best the Longhorns will face since Oklahoma.

"They have a very impressive line of scrimmage," Royal said. "They've been blowing people off that line of scrimmage, and there hasn't been anything fancy about it. They're just wedging them out."

"They're no longer a Kiddie Corps. They're full grown now, shaving and all that business. They're savvy now. They're a seasoned bunch of football players."

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Yes, Virginia, sports writers are human, too. We get cold, we get frustrated, excited, hungry, thirsty, everything that normal people get. At least I got all those things last Friday night in a little South Plains town called Hale Center.

The occasion: Lefors versus Sundown in a Class B bi-district confrontation. The circumstances: I didn't think to call the high school principal and get two seats reserved in the press box for myself and my spotter. The result: sports writer turns human.

The 142-mile trip to Hale Center wasn't so bad, nor was the trip back, especially since Lefors had won the game. It was the game itself that caused me to forget myself for nearly two hours and become a normal person. Shudder!

My colleague and myself arrived about 10 minutes past seven, 20 minutes before kickoff. I should have known right then that doom was about to strike because the first thing I noticed was the large number of people packed inside the tiny pressbox, which towered over the small stadium on the opposite side.

We made our way across the field (we went in the wrong gate in the first place. Usually, sports writers enter the gate on the press box side, shortening the trip immensely.) and up the stands and into the press box at approximately 7:20 p.m.

The man at the door invited us in after learning for whom we were covering the game. Everybody I had noticed when looking at the box from the other side of the stadium was still inside and most were sitting down. We looked for a seat and it was then that we despairingly learned there was no place to sit.

The man at the door said, "Well, I think we'll be able to accommodate you. We'll just get everybody to move down and you can sit there at the end."

Everybody moved down and I sat down "there at the end." It was then that I noticed two things — I could only see the left half of the field because I was squeezed in against the right wall of the box and my buddy was still standing, behind me and with a disgruntled sneer on his face.

We told the man at the door, "Good bye," and thanked him for his hospitality and went outside, down the steps and found a place to sit down on the Sundown side of the stadium. That was my second mistake.

With the cold, night wind chilling my fingers and blowing the pages of my Big Chief, the game started. Immediately, I noticed how hard it was to concentrate with the yelling of the crowd which surrounded me.

"Knock his head off. Show 'em who the best team in the state is," yelled one man sitting somewhere behind me. Never again will I take the press box, where warmth and quiet reign, for granted.

I heard another statement. I think it might have been from the same man who was tiring my ears with his shouts of "Kill! Knock him down! Kill!" This time he said, "I wonder where Lefors is."

Another man answered, "I think it's somewhere near Dalhart." The yelling kept up, and more and more I was becoming less of a sports writer and more of a fan. I guess that's what happens when you sit in the stands; after all — man is a product of his environment.

I soon found myself "possessed" and I began to yell, "Hooray for our side," or something like that.

"Go get him, Barney! Come on, referee! Open your eyes — you're missing a good game." Then I heard a man behind me, so it might have been the big mouth who didn't know where Lefors was, say to someone beside him, "I'm gonna kill that greasy (expletives deleted)," and then I knew it was time to move.

At halftime, I was in bad condition — I was cold, I was hungry, I was thirsty (for some reason, you never get like that sitting in a press box). My spotter didn't look too miserable, so I guessed that he had watched games from the "outside" before.

We bought coffee and hot dogs, which dripped chili all over my Big Chief when we again took our seats — this time in the friendly confines of the Lefors folks.

A new problem confronted me on this opposite side — I couldn't see what I was writing because there were no lights like there were on the home side of the field.

All wasn't miserable, though. On this side, I was able to cheer for the Pirates and do it with people who were supporting the same team. I had almost forgotten how good it was to really watch a football game.

And that's something you can't do in a press box.

Amarillo High Takes Opener Over Demons

Amarillo High, which won a total of six games in two prior seasons, got off to a flying start Monday with a 45-43 win over Dumas in the Demon's gym.

Skip Howard put in both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation late in the game to put the Sandies in front to stay. Howard led all scorers with 19 points.

In other area games, Lubbock Estacado whipped Palo Duro, 84-72, in Amarillo and host Panhandle nudged White Deer, 53-40, in girls' action.

White Deer, edged Panhandle, 49-45. Ronnie Tatum and Alex Gaines led Estacado with 17 and 14 points respectively. High for White Deer in its loss was Eddie Milton with 25. The White Deer Does were led by Diane Cooper with 20.

Harvesters Start Basketball Season

By PAUL SIMS
PERRYTON — Injuries to a pair of 6-3 players, both expected to lead Perryton at the start of the season, and an extreme lack of size make the Perryton Rangers a 20-point underdog when they host District 3-AAAA favorite Pampa tonight.

Pennington, who owns an impressive 278-148 win-loss record as a head coach. "I think we'll have to rely on our outside game. Right now, size is our big problem. If we lose (Paul) Ogden now, we'd really be hurting on the boards."

He added, Perryton finished 3-19 a season ago and lost twice to the Harvesters. Roger Reimer, a 6-3 junior, and Rickey Merkey, a 6-3½ junior, who were reasons for Pennington's optimism prior to the season, are out with injuries — Reimer out until sometime after the Thanksgiving holidays with a sprained ankle and Merkey out for the season with torn knee cartilage. Perryton guards tonight will be 5-11 junior Russ Reagan, the best all-around player on the team and 5-7 senior Ronnie Smith. The two led Perryton's scoring Monday in a 60-44 loss to Borger with 12 each.

The lone forward is 5-10½ senior Doug Greenway, "a good outside shooter," according to Pennington. Perry Kennedy, a hot-shooting guard last season, has not played up to his potential this year and will be used only sparingly tonight.

Perryton is 0-2 with the loss of Borger and a 76-56 loss to Woodward, Okla., last Thursday in the season opener. In the contest to the Oklahoma school, Reagan was good for 19 points. Greenway added 14 and Smith scored 12.

Probable starters for Pampa tonight are 6-2 guard Billy Wilbon, 6-0 guard Robert Young, either 6-0 forward, Richard Lane,

6-1 forward Edd Drew or 6-4 forward Nick Slaymaker and 6-5 post Howie Lewis. Wilbon, Young, Drew, Lewis and Slaymaker, are seniors, the others juniors. Others who could see action are 6-2 sophomore Brian Bailey, 5-8 senior Noel Hansen, 6-4 sophomore Donnie Hughes, 6-1 junior Jewel Landers and 6-4 junior Charles Pearce.

The JV game starts at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity clash at 7:30.

Alternate Quarterback Destroys New Orleans

he didn't feel he played well enough.

However, Steelers head coach Chuck Noll thought he did and said he would start Bradshaw next week against Houston, ending for one week, anyway. Noll's game of quarterback roulette.

Bradshaw's statistics were not all that startling. He completed eight of 19 passes for 80 yards and two touchdowns and rushed nine times for 99 yards and another touchdown.

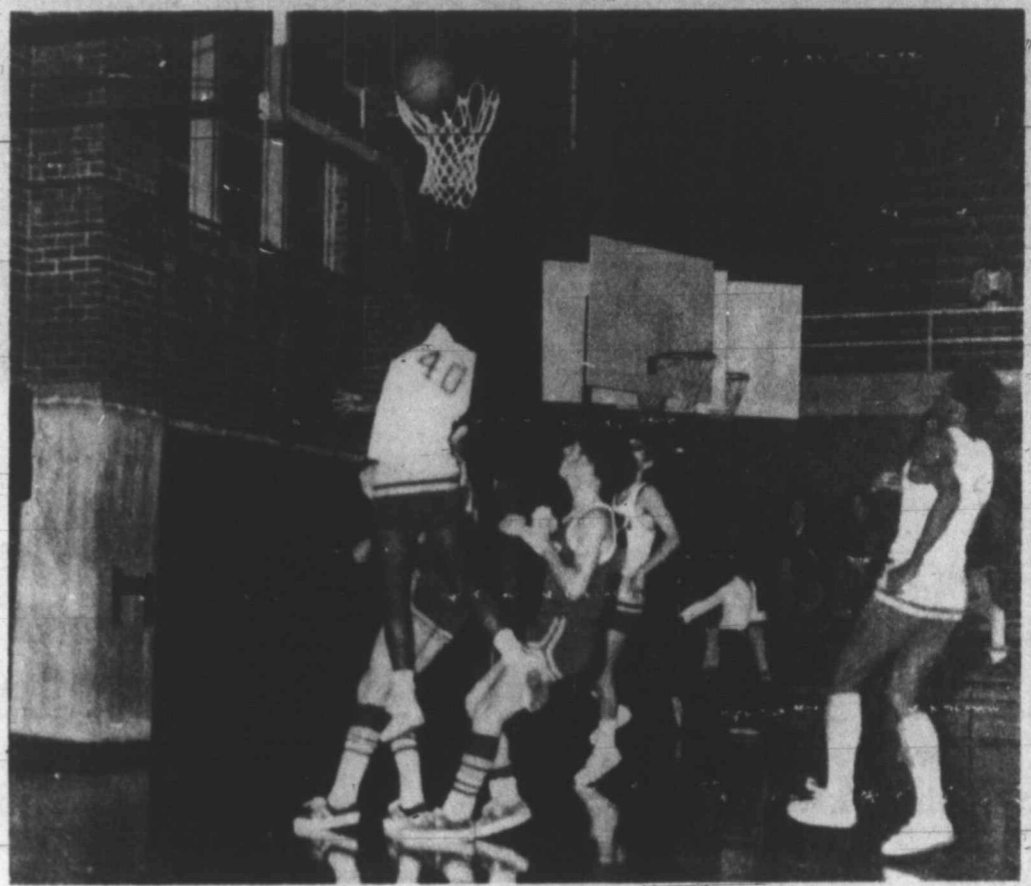

Asked if Bradshaw's play resolved the question of who's No. 1 in Pittsburgh—Bradshaw, Joe Gilliam or Terry Hanratty—Noll said it did.

"Yes, it does for a while," the coach said.

Bradshaw said, "Any win feels good. But I should have played better. The passing attack was not good enough."

The Saints, who decided to bench quarterback Archie Manning just before the half because he was only two of 10 for nine yards, scouted the Steelers offense well, Bradshaw said.

"You've got to give that New Orleans defense credit," said Bradshaw, who played his college ball at the other end of the state at Louisiana Tech. "They really came after us."

MISSED LAYUP — Lorenzo Griggs (40) of the Pampa Shockers missed this shot Friday night against Miami in Harvester Fieldhouse. Pampa got the rebound, but to no avail as a traveling violation turned the ball over. The Shockers, who won 65-45, play at 6 p.m. today in Perryton.

K-State Coach Resigns

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Coach Vince Gibson, who just completed his eighth football season with Kansas State University, succumbs today to the sport's victory idol.

Gibson will submit his resignation at 4 p.m. to the news media. He was unavailable for comment earlier. His contract had one year to go.

The 41-year-old coach, who played his college ball at the other end of the state at Louisiana Tech, "They really came after us."

pressure from the fans, but the university athletic department and faculty were in full support.

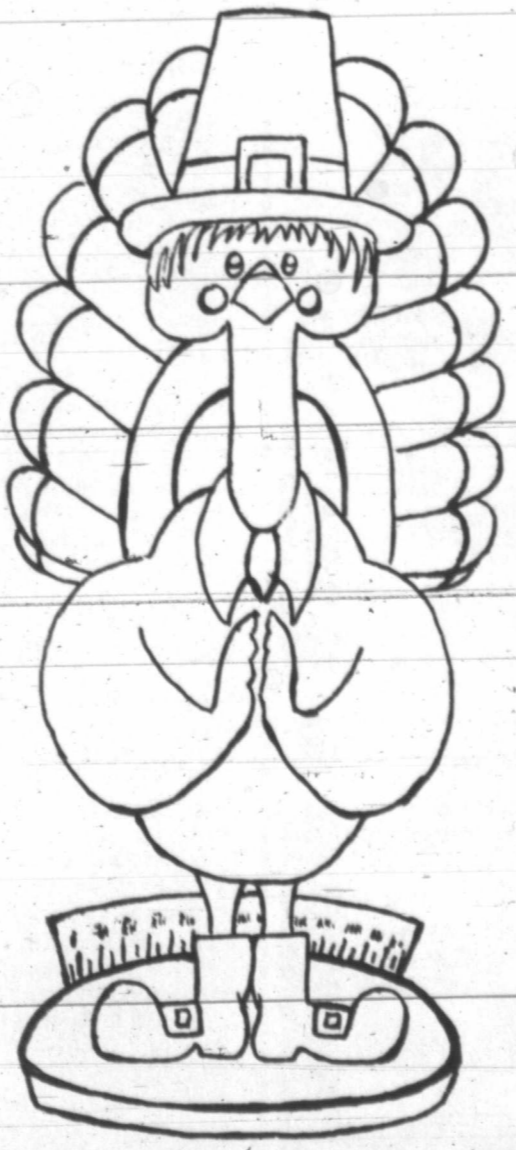

One said, "He apparently became dejected by the whole situation, a string of defeats and poor attendance, as evidenced by only 12,000 for Saturday's game when 20,000 were expected."

Gibson completed the season on a dazzling note with his team scoring an upset 33-19 victory Saturday over Colorado to snap a seven-game losing streak.

Since he took the reins at K-State in 1967, his teams won 33 games and lost 52. His finest years were 1969 and 1970 when the Wildcats defeated powerful Oklahoma, 59-21 and 19-13. The 1969 triumph was the first for Kansas State since 1934.

Many of his players graduated to star in the professional ranks, including Lynn Dickey, Larry Brown, Mike Montgomery, Mack Herron and Clarence Scott.

Mental Treatment For Nerves Suggested

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl, 17. About two years ago I started to be very nervous. I went to my doctor a year ago and he said nothing physical was wrong with me but that I might go to a mental health clinic. I didn't go because I don't have any problems.

I get so nervous I start shaking all over and I can't stop it. Twice now it's gotten so bad that my eyesight blacked out for a second and I felt like I was going to faint. I'm afraid next time I will.

When I was young I had meningitis and rheumatic fever. Please help me. I'm scared. — L.M.

What do you mean by trying to tell me that you "don't have any problems any problems," because you do. And you need some help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on inner ear trouble and ringing noises? — G.H.W.

Ringing noises in the ears may (or may not) signify inner ear trouble. High blood pressure can be a cause; so can certain medications; impacted wax is a possibility. For a discussion of the problem, I suggest that you send 15 cents and a long, stamped addressed return envelope to me in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for my booklet, "Ear Noises. Their Causes and Cures."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My year-old baby loves to chew the silver or gold paint off flashlight batteries. I fear this is dangerous. (Lead poisoning, you know.) His brothers are always leaving batteries from their toys around. What is the danger? — Mrs. R.N.

Chewing paint of any sort is dangerous. Some paint contains lead, but other chemicals also can be toxic. If the brothers can't keep their batteries out of sight, and reach, I would not let them have any more, until they learn how.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son just turned 4. He attends a day care center and catches every virus and cold the kids have.

I should mention that he is half of a set of twins. His sister died at the age of one week, a case of sudden infant death. Can you help us understand why the boy reacts to fever as he does? Whenever his fever goes to 101, he becomes extremely weak. — Mrs. B.R.

It is not unusual for some youngsters, especially gregarious ones, to pick up infections on starting school. Kids are careless about coughing and muffled sneezes, and even about exchanging eating utensils.

In view of the fact that your son's sister died of sudden infant death syndrome, and because of your son's apparent susceptibility to infection, it may be he has a low gamma globulin level. Gamma globulin is a factor in the blood contributing to resistance and immunity from infection.

This factor can be determined from an appropriate blood test, and I suggest you discuss his having such a test with your doctor.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

PORT HUENEME, Calif. (UPI) — Maybe silent film fans thought it was funny. The U.S. Navy does not.

A 19-year-old sailor, Leon L. Louie of Fresno, Calif., will face a court martial Monday at Naval Construction Battalion headquarters here for throwing a chocolate cream pie in the face of a chief warrant officer.

A Navy spokesman said he did not know why Louie threw the pie.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27
Your birthday today: Is a milestone beside a broad highway along which you have many lanes to choose from and can move at your own natural speed. This is a year that will seem very short in retrospect and is over before you've savored it. Today's natives are noted for their persuasiveness, which is often applied to altruistic or charitable enterprises.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Personal finances are favored. Silent-partner type support is available. Let well enough alone in management of marriage and home; enjoy what you have.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: The only source of trouble is getting past old errors and issues. Those closest to your heart are the most difficult; you can resist people you care nothing about.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Inside information is for your own use, not for general disclosure. If you've achieved anything special, this is not time to brag about it. Observe safety rules.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Friends are helpful in sharing experiences and release from emotional stress. Their financial moves involve unsuspected risks for you.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Start promptly. Once you make an outline of desired results you are on the way to achieving them. Be gentle to loved ones; express yourself simply.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: This is as smooth a day as could be expected during this season. Use every minute, tackle the main job early and tidy up later. Travel only if you must.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Shared enterprises encounter discrepancies, but are valuable experience in facing up to greater stresses later. Much can be done to improve working conditions.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Progress is easier in labors that need little or no assistance. Jointly held interests become complex; take time to sort them out before you proceed.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Consistent effort leads to added earning capacity, perhaps a job change. Avoid excess in everything. Once you have everyone's attention, a mild comment will do.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your originality is valuable and increases your financial strength. Family connections bring in extra results, according to how well you've developed them.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Attend to incomplete work before setting off on expansive new ventures. If household dilemmas annoy you, make at least a temporary settlement. Don't pass the buck.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Once past early morning crosscurrents, your day is well on the way. You make small to moderate gains—be serious, businesslike.

USDA Charges Livestock Dealer
WASHINGTON — Agriculture (USDA). Foster operates as a livestock dealer, purchasing livestock in north and west central Texas.

Foster consented to issuance of the order and waived oral hearing. He neither admitted nor denied the charges contained in an administrative complaint filed by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

USDA Administrative Law Judge John G. Leibert ordered Foster to cease and desist from issuing insufficient funds checks and failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price for livestock.

The cease and desist order — like a permanent injunction — was issued to insure future compliance with the Packers and Stockyards Act.

Livestock dealers are required — under the Act — to make prompt payment for livestock unless credit has been arranged in advance. Issuing insufficient funds checks in payment for livestock is considered to be an unfair business practice.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry, and meat.

The record in this case is open to the public. Copies of this order, P&S Docket 5006, may be obtained from the Information Office, Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA Washington, D.C. 20250.

WORLD OF MUSIC

Rankin records in honest style

By ROBIN WELLES Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — "Man, I'm just a musician who is really happy to be working and making a living and supporting my family."

Kenny Rankin, Little David recording artist, isn't being modest or coy, he's being honest because that's his style.

Yet Rankin, although he may not like to admit it, is probably on the verge of stardom. The prospect doesn't frighten or excite him because he's too busy doing what he loves — writing and performing his own special music.

"I love to perform," he said in an interview. "When you're performing you're taking your writing and recordings and putting them together in front of people."

"It's the same way in the studio," said Rankin, whose latest album "Silver Morning" on Little David Records was released in August. "We record live. I play guitar and sing. There's no splicing or over dubbing because I don't like it. I want to be honest in the studio and on stage."

There was a time when Rankin, who is married and has three children, wasn't so honest with himself.

"I was on uppers and had been snorting stuff for seven years," he said. "It got to the point where drugs became a priority and finally I decided that was enough."

"I put the stuff down and we left Los Angeles for a year and a half until I got my head together. I've been clean for four years and all I can say is that speed really slowed me up. I'd get high and crash some place and never show up for gigs."

"Man, I can see why they call it dope."

Rankin appears frequently on the same bill with another Little David artist, comedian George Carlin. He credits Carlin with exposing him to performing, especially in front of college audiences. "I really enjoy college gigs," said Rankin, whose earlier recordings for Mercury Records are considered folk-pop classics. "The kids are very knowledgeable and interested. I've always had good experiences with them."

One of the movie greats of all time is "Citizen Kane," a monumental study of a man being destroyed by his lust for power. The movie's music, composed by Bernard Herrmann, moves with the mood of the film: from the bright, tinkling sound of a boy playing with his sled in the snow, to the deep, restless, gloomy notes of the empire builder who has found he has lost everything.

Herrmann's score now is being released by RCA on an LP that also contains some other Herrmann classics: the famed piano concerto from "Hangover Square" (remember Laird Cregar?); the death hunt from "On Dangerous Ground"; the score from "Beneath the 12-Mile Reef"; and the African music from "White Witch Doctor."

The soundtrack of "The Sting" was hugely successful, and MCA tries with another soundtrack LP in the music from "Airport 1975." John Cacavas has composed a gorgeous score for the movie, a score that stands on its own feet in the manner of the music from "Spellbound." Millions of Americans already had heard the work of this brilliant new talent: the music for the TV hit series "Kojak" also was composed by Cacavas.

RCA-Camden looks back a few decades with a two-record album devoted to "The Big Band Sound." Highlights are Artie Shaw's "Temptation" and "Moonlight," Duke Ellington's "A Train," Bunny Berigan's "I Can't Get Started," and Charlie Barnet's "Cherokee." Good music lasts and lasts.

Huey P. Long was governor of Louisiana from 1928 until 1935, and Randy Newman sings of him:

"Kingfish, Kingfish Friends of the working man, Kingfish, Kingfish The Kingfish gonna save this land."

Delivered sardonically, of course. There is a lot of social commentary on Newman's "Good Old Boys" album for Warner Brothers. This could be deadly, but Newman, a very bright, young talent, brings it off. His ditty on "Rednecks" is a savage satire — but hilarious, too. Newman wrote the songs on this LP, and he says what he thinks. But very poetically.
