Open Letters by Pa Pampa

To John B. Hessey DEAR SIR: As representative of the Old-Age Assistance Commission in District 12, permit me to commend you upon the effort and the energy you are expending to speed up the investigation of pension applications from my aged folk.

I realize that this is a huge task to follow through on the thousands of applications that come to you from persons in the 20 counties in your district. We in Gray county, although there was considerable delay at first, feel that you are doing a splendid job. I understand that you expect within the next four or five weeks to have the entire list of investigations in my county complete. This will be a job well done. Opening of your Pampa sub-office has greatly aided in speeding up this work. I understand that thanks to this is due to our new county judge, Sherman White, who made your office space available so that applicants in this community would know where to contact you for information on their applications.

PA PAMPA. To Safe Crackers DEAR BURGLARS: Shame on you for having so little respect for my courts. Just a day or two after one of my judges had praised you up and said that almost all crime was on the decline here in Gray county, you have to spoil the record by cracking a couple of safes in my city. Your habit of dropping around every third Sunday is becoming a bit irksome, too. I understand all the law boys will be kind of on the lookout for you when your scheduled appearance falls due next Better have a care.

PA PAMPA. To County Commissioners GENTLEMEN: Well, I see the question of "to be or not to be" as it relates to the salaries of precinct officers in the county has been settled in the affirmative. One suspects you acted wisely in the matter by your decision to retain the salary plan rather than to return to the fee system of remuneration and its incidental abuses.

PA PAMPA. To Kidnap-Slayer PIEND: If there is an ounce of sanity left in that beclouded brain of yours, what must be your thoughts today?—with a nation, stirred to the depths of horror by your brutal killing of the Mattson boy, calling to every corner of the world for your apprehension and punishment. Certainly, if you have any sane moments at all, yours must be a living death as you recount the details of that revolting crime and the sorrow that you have brought upon grief-stricken parents. It is almost impossible to conceive that any but a maniac of the worst type could have committed this crime. As you walk in the shadow of your conscience, you must know that it is only a matter of time until the wrath of a nation shall fall upon your head. May your freedom be cut short before you can do any more harm.

PA PAMPA. To Two Tenderfeet DEAR OHOANS: How are you doing? I have been seeing something in the papers about you and your visit out here in the Panhandle. I heard one of you say over the radio that the Panhandle is stealing your stuff with the north wind blowing in off the plains, and that that is supposed to be an exclusive feature from the Great Lakes region where you reside. My friends, nothing is exclusive from the Panhandle. You have all the advantages of Alaska and the tropics here and you can take your pick now and then. I have been waiting, too, for some word about that trip to the range that has been planned for you. I feel positive that when you get back East you will have something interesting to relate to the boys in the C. B. M. A. and the Kiwanis Club. And, when you DO get back—always remember when in doubt, to "go west, young man, go west."

PA PAMPA. To B. S. Via DEAR JUDGE: Congratulations, my friend, on a job well done in your capacity of acting judge on the 31st district judicial bench last week. I'll take this occasion, too, to say that you were righter than two rabbits when you came back here a couple of weeks ago after a visit to Corpus Christi to say that you preferred Pampa and the Panhandle to vanilla. We need more boosters like you.

PA PAMPA. To Coach Odus Mitchell DEAR COACH: I'm a pretty good checker player, but I don't know much about basketball. However, I overheard some of the boys talking last night about the Pampa "B" basketball team winning a basket-

NEW YORK GAPES AT YOUNG TEXAS RANGER

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—The big, brown eyes of Texas' "tiniest ranger," 10-year old Maria Squires, the official "Sweetheart of Galveston," sparked today at the sights of Broadway—and Broadway sparked right back. Noon hour crowds stopped to exclaim. For Marie was quite a sight herself in a white cowboy suit, white boots and a big white 10 gallon cowboy hat. In as southern a deep south accent as New York has heard in some semesters, Marie explained patiently and repeatedly to curious Broadwayites: "This is my ranger outfit. I'm a Texas ranger—a real one. Marie and her mother came all the way from Galveston to commission Lanny Ross, radio star, as king of Galveston's 1937 Mardi Gras. Feb. 1 to 9. She is the youngest ranger ever appointed by the governor of the Lone Star State."

Separate Eligibility Rulings Discussed

AMARILLO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Dr. Lewis B. Cooper, from the office of the Texas State Teachers' association in Fort Worth, was the featured speaker at a convention of Panhandle school superintendents here today. Dr. Cooper outlined the proposed bill that will be submitted to the present session of the Texas legislature, calling for a teacher retirement system. One of the highlights of the meeting was a round table discussion with Superintendent R. B. Fisher of Pampa, George Heath of White Deer, and Frank P. Wilson of Gruver leading the informal talks. The group discussed the possibility of separate eligibility rulings for the three classes of interscholastic league schools, since they have separate and distinct problems. They made no recommendation. The resolutions of the TSTA convention at Fort Worth recently were unanimously endorsed. Panhandle principals also convened here today. Forming tentative plans for a West Texas organization.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULGINIUM The word "pioneer" is often misused but not when it refers to New Locke and Mark Huseley and Mills O'Loughlin, and today we offer special flowers for the living and for the dead... For Mark Huseley, a gentleman, judged by the two most exacting standards: the English code and the cowboy code, a man who loved the very earth, and who, amidst the sagebrush, the cottonwoods of the Panhandle... A pioneer who might have sprung full-bodied from his beloved plains... For New Locke because on January 13 he and his numerous descendants celebrated his 84th birthday at Miami. Recently a neighbor of New Locke said of him, "New Locke is the best man I ever knew. I ratched next to him... and I know him. I could never find any fault with him, and I am a man who is hard to get along with." Today the old man at Miami is sad because of the friend who is gone, and he and a few others who "came with the soldiers" and stayed when they left remember the long ago. They are the real pioneers.

Excellent Safety Record Is Made by Magnolia Company

Carbon black employees of the Magnolia Petroleum company lost no time through accidents in 1936, it was revealed at a banquet in the Schneider hotel Friday night. Q. D. Donahoe, in charge of carbon black plants in the Panhandle, made the startling revelation of the excellent record. Twenty-five employees were present. W. J. Kent of Dallas, safety director of the company, acted as toastmaster. He congratulated the Panhandle workers on their great accomplishment and then introduced for brief remarks: V. L. Dickerson, superintendent of the natural gas and gasoline division; G. A. McGrew of Kingsmill, superintendent of the pipeline department. Entertainment was by Ray De Oriens and his Casa Loma Cowboys and Cecil Hunter.

I Saw...

A clean-cut modest-appearing youth being sent into the game in the last quarter at the Miami tournament Friday afternoon, and the fans gave Center Arrington the biggest ovation of the meet. He is a and Mark Huseley, famous Panhandle pioneers. Another member of the first string is Locke, grandson of New Locke who also came to the Panhandle with Huseley and the soldiers. A letter from Rep. Gene Worley and he wrote that persons who want to attend the inauguration of Governor Allred may secure invitations from him to the affair when they come to Austin.

[[QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING]]

"How does a Bank handle out-of-town checks?"

WHEN you deposit a check written on a distant bank, your bank ordinarily routes it for prompt collection to a city correspondent bank with which it maintains an account, or to a Federal Reserve Bank. The following steps are usually taken:

1. The account of your bank is credited with the amount of the check at the correspondent bank or Federal Reserve Bank.
2. The check is charged against the account of the bank on which it is written.
3. It is sent to the bank on which it is written, and charged by it against the account of the person or firm which issued it.
4. The amount is then credited to your account as soon as advices are received that the check has been honored.

RIVIERA FOLK EXPECT DUKE BEFORE SPRING

THEY THINK HE WILL TURN UP AT ANY MOMENT

CANNES, France, Jan. 16 (AP)—A sudden dash of the Duke of Windsor to the woman for whom he sacrificed his throne would be no surprise to most Riviera folk.

Repeated and emphatic statements made in behalf of Mrs. Wallis Simpson that she has no plans for seeing the Duke before spring and that in no event will he come to Cannes, have not dispelled the local belief that he may show up at any moment.

The voluntary separation of the two who seem destined to a high place in future accounts of the great loves of history puzzles the people of Cannes and nearby resorts.

Why, they ask, should two persons who showed a disregard for conventionalism to the extent of shaking an empire, now become so scrupulous on the score?

Some fine day, they predict almost unanimously, the Duke, bored with the loneliness of his Austrian castle, will rush to her, final decree, or no final decree.

The coming of the former king would not necessarily prevent the granting of Mrs. Simpson's final decree of divorce. In the period between the granting of the decree and the final decree, Mrs. Simpson is put on good behavior. But she is not forbidden to see any man; not even one who has publicly declared his love for her.

Cannes folk don't deny they would like to see him come—the visiting foreigners because it would provide a new thrill and the local people because it would be good for business.

INDIAN IS JAILED FOR NOT PAYING ALIMONY

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 16 (AP)—Plenty of money but none for alimony, a ward of the government but in county jail just the same—that remained the status of Joe Elghorse tonight.

Carefully watching the court procedure but plainly bewildered by it all, the four-times-married Osage fullblood heard himself sent back to jail for at least another week as District Judge Harry Halley granted a delay in a hearing to vacate commitment.

Joe has been in the calaboose since May 5, for failure to pay alimony.

Back in Washington the Great White Father's department of interior says Joe may be a hero.

Joe's case, if they decide it's good enough, may become a federal court test on whether a state court can lay claim successfully to the funds of a restricted, competent ward of the government.

Clad in a yellow pigskin jacket, his bulk overflowing a big chair, Joe didn't look like a hero, his opinion: "I want to get out of jail."

The union head said that "it seems quite evident that there is a desire on the part of General Motors to reach a settlement." Knudsen had said the governor's conference agreement showed "we are willing to cooperate, to get somewhere."

A 15-day period for the negotiations was set aside by the agreement.

As an aftermath of the Monday riots, Prosecutor Joseph R. Joseph said he would "prosecute to the limit" seven union leaders on charges of inciting to riot. Four of them stood mute on arraignment today; pleas of innocent were entered for them and a preliminary hearing set for Jan. 21. They were released under $500 bond each. The maximum penalty on the charge would be five years imprisonment, or one year and $5,000 fine.

The union said it was prepared to "fight these cases to the end."

ROBERTS the Hat Man

By CAPT. HERMAN LAMBRECHT Editor's Note—The following article is one in a series prepared by Capt. Herman Lambrecht, head of the Pampa Salvation Army post, setting forth the Army's methods, aims, and activities so that the public may become better acquainted with the organization's plans as they relate to Pampa.

"Oh Lord, Thou art our Father; we are the clay, and Thou our potter; and we all are the work of Thy hand."—Isaiah.

The Salvation Army takes pleasure in presenting to the public this interpretative statement of its aims, methods and purposes, hoping thus to help all those who are sincerely desirous of understanding and adequately evaluating its contribution to the religious, social and economic life of the United States.

The Salvation Army is unique in that it numbers among its friends many who are willing to take its worth for granted. Because they feel confident of its motives, these generous men and women frequently approve its methods and activities without necessarily knowing much about them. On the other hand, we are occasionally subjected to criticism by citizens who are equally honest in their point of view but similarly uninformed as to our peculiar field of operations and our reasons for approaching it as we do. We are human enough to enjoy the unquestioning approval of our friends and we hope we are intelligent enough to heed the helpful and constructive suggestions of our critics. But, whether, it be praise or blame, we prefer that it be based upon a full knowledge of our ultimate purposes and a complete grasp of our wide range of religious and humanitarian service.

We will endeavor in the following chapters to sub-divide our material in such a way as to serve the convenience of every reader, whether he should wish to absorb the whole story or merely to seek information on some particular phase or aspect. We hope that the reader will find herein enough of fact to become well informed on the work of the organization as well as thoroughly interested in the Army program.

No organization or enterprise has ever been granted a broader charter than that embodied in the certificate of incorporation issued by the state of New York in 1899, from which The Salvation Army derives its legal existence in the United States.

This charter defines The Salvation Army as an organization "designed to operate as a religious and charitable corporation in all the States and Territories of the United States," and enumerates the following as its purposes: the spiritual, moral and physical reformation of all who need it; the reclamation of the vicious, criminal, dissolute and degraded; visitation among the poor and lowly and sick; and the preaching of the Gospel and the dissemination of Christian truth by means of open air and indoor meetings. The Act of Incorporation further authorizes the establishment of a wide variety of homes, bureaus and institutions within the scope of these general purposes, and the maintenance of such business activities and relationships as are essential so long as the profits or proceeds, if any, are devoted exclusively to religious and humanitarian pursuits.

As indicated in this legal definition, and as clearly set forth in every section of the act, the ultimate purpose of all Salvation Army activities is to lead men and women into a proper understanding of their relationship to God, with particular regard for the erring, the bewildered and the unfortunate. It endeavors to accomplish this through the teaching and practice of the religion of Christ. It is an evangelical organization, with a military form of government, including a vast and diversified system of social service.

NOTE: Subsequent articles will deal with the entire program of The Salvation Army.

BUBBLES OF WATER TO BE USED AS FLICKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Bubbles of water will be used as electric lights at the world's fair of 1939.

They operate like soap bubbles floating in the sun, shimmering light in all directions. Science conjured them up today, in a laboratory high in the Empire State building, to help illuminate the vast fairgrounds.

The bubbles dance up through a column of water which rises slowly in a tall glass cylinder and overflows. Their number and size is regulated by compressed air, which enters at the bottom of the tube where a lighting unit is placed. The light shoots up and the rays bounce off each bubble they hit.

Without the bubbles, the water gives only a dull glow, decorative but impractical for lighting purposes. With the bubbles, the water sparkles out a wide circle of soft, clear light.

The bubble bulbs are only one of the lighting tricks that will make the fair easy on the eyes.

Whole building will be designed to emit light from their own walls instead of being flood-lighted from the outside.

O'NEILL'S SON 'ON OWN' AS HE STARTS WRITING CAREER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Centennial Sharron O'Neill, 17, is his father's son, but he wants to get along in the writing game strictly on his own.

Unaffected by the Nobel literary award recently given Playwright Eugene O'Neill, he plugs away at his job as editor-in-chief of the Florida Military Academy bi-weekly, "The Bomb," writing editorials, planning make-up, and working his fellow reporters like a hard-boiled city editor.

Wants Newspaper Job.

Sharron is the son of O'Neill's second wife, the former Agnes Boulton. O'Neill is now married to Carlotta Monterey, former actress.

The boy would like to enter newspaper work when he leaves military school, but after that, he isn't planning that far ahead. He just wants things to work themselves out.

Already he is making an effort to develop an imaginative style of writing.

For instance, this example taken from a recent by-lined article in "The Bomb":

"He crept by the headmaster's house, and his shadow jerked along as if undecided whether or not to accompany him."

Writes Private Thoughts.

Sharron is proudest of his contribution to "The Tower," a new campus magazine, on "A Private's Thoughts on Parade"—the running mental comment of a rear rank private during the battalion's full dress parade.

Last year the young journalist was associate editor of "The Dugout," academy annual, and is in line for a key appointment on the publication for 1936-37. He is a member of the Quill, a scroll, national honor society for high school journalists.

A senior at the academy, O'Neill has been writing constantly on school publications, but so far has done nothing for use outside.

Already he has shown as keen interest for the legitimate stage, pays scant attention to the movies. He attends the theater at every opportunity.

Last season he became stage manager for the Academy Players' annual production.

He is sergeant-major of the cadet battalion, highest non-commissioned officer in the school.

Chapter IV

Started, Paul spun about. There stood a short man in a tweed suit—a short man, profoundly tanned, with a little gray goatee, and with dark eyes that looked out of a network of fine wrinkles.

"Dr. Sonders said Paul. "Wherever did—"

"Where did I come from, and how did I get here?" said the little man, shaking the hand which Paul thrust at him. "I'm on my way back to the diggings in Guatemala. Stopped off to see the Marquis de Saue and try to get a contribution out of him. He brought me over here. And, meanwhile, what about answering my question?"

Dr. Sonders was looking up quizzically. He had been Paul's tutor, or one of them, back in the university days. Now he was one of the world's most famous archeologists. He was an outspoken, sardonic little man, awed by no one and impressed by nothing.

"Your question?" said Paul blankly.

"Yes. I asked you"—Dr. Sonders waved his hand vaguely at the chattering crowd—"if it was a good bargain, to exchange a throne for this?"

Paul looked about him. The air was hazy with tobacco smoke, heavy with that and with perfume, powder and infinitely mixed aroma from the bar. People were beginning to look flushed and disheveled. Their voices were louder than need be, their laughter was a little shrill.

"Let's go outside in the air," said Paul. He guided the little scientist out to the veranda and found a little table by the railing. Out in the bay gleamed the lights of a cruise ship at anchor. The two men sat down and Dr. Sonders subjected Paul to a careful scrutiny.

"You needn't answer the question," said Dr. Sonders. "After all, there's only one answer you could possibly make."

"But it wasn't a fair question," objected Paul. "After all, Doctor, I didn't exchange my throne for this."

"No? What did you exchange it for?"

"I didn't exchange it for anything, strictly speaking. But if you must make a bargain out of it, let's say I exchanged it for—for life, for freedom, for the chance to realize whatever potentialities I have for living."

"Hm. And all of this is life, freedom and the chance to realize your God-given potentialities?"

Paul colored. His old tutor could always make him feel like a stammering schoolboy who had scamped his lessons.

"That isn't fair, either, Doctor," he said. "You take one night at a frivolous resort and make it stand for a whole career."

Dr. Sonders shook his head and thrust his goatee forward aggressively.

"Paul, Paul, it isn't just one night. I read the papers, my boy."

"The papers?"

"Surely. You don't suppose that the people of Northumbria are left in ignorance of the life in which you are spending your time, do you? They get all the details—including, doubtless, some that are quite imaginary. But unless there is a great deal more of imagination in these accounts than I have ever known our newspapers to be guilty of, this night is a pretty fair sample, after all."

"I don't mean," he went on, raising a hand as Paul opened his lips to protest, "I don't mean that there's anything so terribly bad or abandoned about this crowd here tonight. There's no harm in them, not in most of them, anyhow. But Paul, Paul—I do hate to see pears cast before swine."

"Meaning—?"

"The doctor stroked his goatee and piercing eyes in the bronzed and wrinkled face.

"Grant that everything you say is true," he said. "What am I to do? My abdication is over and done with. I couldn't withdraw that even if I wanted to. What am I to do?"

"You paid a tremendous price for your freedom," said Dr. Sonders. "To make a good bargain out of it, you must make that freedom worth a tremendous lot to you. You must justify it—not so much by what you do, for you have given up your chance for doing, but by what you are."

"Freedom in itself means nothing. The poorest beggar on the highway has it. What are you going to do with it? Are you going to drift your life away here, a bored and useless idler? Or are you going to be what you were born to be, a king among men, a prince in the great kingdom of free minds?"

The doctor looked at him sadly.

"I will tell you something," he said abruptly. "Your brother Joseph is on the throne of Northumbria now. You know Joseph—young, intense, serious, idealistic. His people are learning to love him. And already it is being said—in newspapers, magazines and so on—that his accession has changed the moral tone of the kingdom. It is being said that there is a revival of the homely old virtues because of the change in kings."

"Are you going to let that be your epitaph—the fact that your kingdom was made the better by your departure?"

Again he paused. Then he burst out:

"Get away from this! Put your mind to work, live with everything there is in you. If you can think of nothing better to do, come out to Guatemala and help me dig into the ruins of buried cities and lost civilizations, so that when you come to die you can at least know that you left the race a little wiser than you found it. Do that, do anything, but don't drift. For the sake of what you might be, Paul, don't become the prisoner of your lost crown and your own freedom!"

The doctor got up and laid one hand gently on Paul's shoulder. His attitude suddenly changed.

"Write to me, my boy," he said. "I loved my young king. I still love him. There are millions like me, all over the globe. Don't let us down. For us, there will always be a crown on your head. Be worthy of it!"

He gave the young man's shoulder a final squeeze, turned quickly, and was gone.

NUMBERS RACKET TEMPORARILY CLOSED AFTER POLICE RAIDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—Thousands of New Yorkers were balked today in their efforts to beat a 1,000-to-1 gamble because policy racketeers, frightened by a mass police raid, were not doing business at the usual stands.

Housewives couldn't write numerals on a slip of paper and leave it with the corner grocer; elevator operators couldn't list the numbers of the first three floors at which they made stops and give the answer to a "runner." The policy collectors were not making the rounds.

Thomas E. Dewey, special prosecutor, was holding 70 alleged members of a ring he said did an annual business of $5,000,000—one tenth the yearly take from the policy racket in New York.

Other rings—Dewey said there were at least two others equally as big and dozens of smaller ones—were lying low, uncertain where the lightning might strike next.

Dewey described the numbers racket as the biggest source of organized crime's slush fund, with indications approximately 750,000 persons in New York City contribute to it regularly.

In Harlem, where "The Numbers" is played enthusiastically by a negro and Spanish-American population, they call the game the "poor man's lottery." Anybody having one cent or more can play it, and winners get 540 to one. For a nickel, you can get $27.

Dewey's chief captives, held under bonds of $50,000 and $20,000 respectively, were Joe Ison and Moe Weintraub. The special prosecutor charged that Weintraub was attorney for the ring, that Ison has a partner, Alexander Pompei, who escaped, and that the pair, both of whom are West Indian negroes, had been in the business 20 years.

In the petition of Mrs. Ruth Converse against Frank E. Converse, Rufus Dinkle pleaded guilty to driving an automobile on the public highway while intoxicated and was given a one-year suspended penitentiary sentence by Judge E. S. Vin. Dinkle also was deprived of his driving privilege for six months.

Texans In Washington

BY DONALD A. YOUNG, Associated Press Texas Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Vice President Garner neatly sidestepped the National Press club's tradition that luncheon speakers subject themselves to pointed questioning after finishing their remarks.

The day before Congress convened, Texas No. 1 citizen in Washington talked "off the record," as customary, at the club's noon weekly luncheon. As he finished, he remarked:

"Now, boys, I think you really should listen to some one who can tell you something; I yield the balance of my time to the Senator from Idaho."

Senator William E. Borah, as surprised as anyone in the room, arose as Garner sat down and "the boys" didn't have an opportunity to question the Texan.

While thousands clamored for tickets to the galleries to hear President Roosevelt deliver his annual address on the state of the union, a Texas publisher and his wife chanced on a break that gave them "ringside" seats.

Houston Harte, San Angelo publisher, appealed to Senator Tom Connally to get their reservations. As a result, Harte walked into the House chamber with Connally and Mrs. Harte found a place in the gallery next to Mrs. Roosevelt.

News of Interest From Nearby Towns

The Canadian city commission Tuesday decided to have a public address system installed at the city auditorium, to try to insure those who attend programs there of hearing well no matter in what part of the auditorium they are seated. Commissioner Jesse Lindley informs the Record.

The annual meeting of the Canadian National Farm Loan association, which was held at Canadian, Tuesday, Jan. 12, was one of the best meetings in the history of the association, according to H. S. Wilbur, who was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the association for 1937.

J. P. Strader, S. E. Allison, A. V. McQuiddy, J. B. Lindley, and Wiley W. Wright, all of Canadian, were elected directors of the association for the ensuing year.

Bishop H. A. Boaz, who is in his eleventh year as presiding bishop of Episcopal Area of the Methodist church, will visit Clarendon and preach at the First Methodist church at the 5 o'clock vesper service Sunday, according to an announcement by Rev. E. D. Landreth.

The President's birthday ball sponsored by the Hemphill County Young Democratic club, will be held on Friday evening, Feb. 5, rather than on Jan. 30, on account of the Canadian Invitation basketball tournament which will extend through Jan. 30, at the city auditorium.

Rev. S. D. Davis, pastor of the Canadian First Christian church, tendered his resignation to his congregation last Sunday. He has accepted a call to the First Christian church at Portales, N. M.

Blair Cherry, famous coach of the three state championship Amarillo Sandies football team, has been secured as the principal speaker at the Perryton Lions club sponsored banquet to be held next Tuesday evening honoring the boys and girls of the Ranger football and basketball squads. The banquet will start promptly at 7 o'clock in the evening in the Masonic hall dining room with the ladies of the Eastern Star serving.

Hemphill county commissioners' court this week decided to increase the county's sponsorship donation to the WPA sewing room project. The county will now pay the rent on the building, housing the sewing room and the rent on the machines. It will also buy findings for the work, Judge E. C. Fisher says.

The commissioners' court was in session both Monday and Tuesday this week. Much of the time was taken up with routine business and relief questions.

The court decided to contribute $130 this year to its quota toward the Panhandle Conservation Association to carry on a water conservation program. One-quarter of the amount decided on for the year was appropriated by the court this week.

Approximately $2,500 is being paid monthly for labor on the Perryton WPA road project, which consists of having a 10-inch culch base on highway No. 4, beginning at the south city limits and extending six miles to where the old and the new roads fork.

Sixty laborers are employed on the project, although this many do not work at one time as each man is allowed to work only 98 hours per month. Twelve trained men are used regularly and from eight to 12 trucks are required.

Stockholders of the Southwest National bank at Canadian were guests at a dinner given by the bank Tuesday night, at the Methodist church, in honor of the sixteenth birthday of the banking house.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the bank was held in the afternoon. Following the stockholders' meeting directors met and re-elected the same officers. They are: A. V. McQuiddy, president; H. S. Wilbur, vice president and cashier; Toy Hobdy, assistant cashier, and Harry S. Wilbur Jr., assistant cashier. Directors are F. M. Chambers, A. V. McQuiddy, S. M. Nunn, J. P. Strader, J. C. Studer and H. S. Wilbur.

Colorful cities of South America, gay fiestas, and the desolate wastes over which thousands of men have battled during the past few years are the thrilling backgrounds for Universal's gripping drama of aviation and love, "Storm Over the Andes," coming to the Crown theater today, with an all-star cast, including Jack Holt, Antonio Moreno, Mona Barrie, Grant Withers, Juanita Garfias, Barry Norton and Geo. LA NORA

Romantic as the radiant Chinese moon, and as glamorous with its surrounding company of great stars, teeming with danger, excitement, thrills, war-lord bandits, and Shirley Temple as a little waif who talks and sings Chinese, Twentieth Century-Fox's new film, "Stowaway," comes today to the LaNora theater for a three-day run.

Yes, Shirley's in China now—and you'd think you'd never seen her before—so different is the setting... so surprising the story!

As Shing-Ching, the adopted daughter of a missionary couple killed in a rebel raid, Shirley is picked up by Robert Young, a care-free young millionaire who is touring the world in a vain attempt to get away from himself. Shirley, accidentally stowing away in Young's car on a cruise ship, is instrumental in his meeting Alice Faye, pretty fiancée of stuffy young Allen Lane.

While waiting for Allen to join her at Hong Kong, Alice tours the town with Young and his little protegee, all of them having a glorious lark, which culminates in Shirley's winning a prize in a Chinese amateur show, singing in the native language.

REX

Braving hate, defying fear, fighting for love fiercely amid sinister dangers that threaten their very lives, Warner Baxter and June Lang, the thrilling sweethearts of "The Road to Glory," are even greater dramatic heights in their newest Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "White Hunter," which opens today at the Rex theater.

Crowned by the outstanding performance of the stars and an impressive supporting cast including Gail Patrick, Alison Skipworth, Wilfrid Lawson, and George Haskell, the picture depicts driving drama charged with the menace of savage passions.

Warner Baxter plays a hunter-guide in a strange and forbidding country. By a fateful coincidence he is engaged for the hunting expedition of Wilfrid Lawson, munitions magnate, and the man responsible for Baxter's exile and his father's death. Lawson is accompanied by his young wife, Gail Patrick, his daughter by another marriage, the beautiful June Lang, Alison Skipworth, a talkative shrew and George Haskell, her henpecked spouse.

INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT IS WEDNESDAY

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN WILL BE PLAYED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt will stand before a mighty throng in front of the capitol next Wednesday noon and renew his oath of office.

Then, in a brief address to which millions in this and other lands may listen, he will sound the keynote for his second administration.

The vanguard of thousands who will join in celebrating the second Roosevelt inauguration already is crowding into Washington. Buildings are bedecked with bunting and workmen are rushing completion of covered stands from which those who wish to pay $3.50 to $10 a seat may watch governors, military units and bands parade down Pennsylvania avenue after the ceremony on capitol hill. Hotel accommodations are at a premium.

Best indications are that the president's traditional "weather luck" will hold for the occasion.

Fair skies will mean that an old Dutch Bible long in the President's family may be used in the ceremony, as it was when Mr. Roosevelt took the oath four years ago.

The chief executive will place his left hand on the Bible, held by the clerk of the supreme court, while Chief Justice Hughes administers the oath.

If the day is rainy, another Bible will be used.

For the first time in history, according to Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson of the inaugural committee, the United States Army band will play a non-military air during the parade. The band will swing into "Happy Days are Here Again" as it passes the President's reviewing stand in front of the White House.

Then there was the case of "Barbary Coast" in Italy. The villain, Brian Donlevy, went through the film clad in a black shirt. Italians did not see the picture.

Local producers suffer heartbreak in their pocketbooks over censorable inadvertencies like these. But they can take cheer from an English concern that has been most successful in America—Alexander Korda's London Films.

Scarcely a Korda production to date has not encountered unforeseen difficulties of the sort. "The Ghost Goes West," outstanding satirical comedy of last year, got by in America—which it kidded—but China did not see it. Ancestor worship—and the ghost. Of course, said the censors, if the English gentleman would consent to cut out the ghost.

"Henry the Eighth" was banned in Japan, where royalty is sacred. "Catherine the Great" received official approval of the censors in a tiny kingdom, but was not shown because a court favorite took offense.

These enlightening bits of information were relayed by Stephen Pallos, London Films general manager, here on a visit. London Films is rather a misnomer. Alexander Korda, once of Hollywood, is Hungarian. So is Louis Biro, his associate. So is Pallos.

This trio formed the company—in Paris—some four years ago with a capital of $500. Today it is capitalized at $1,000,000.

Pallos is a quiet, courtly-mannered, and genial ambassador in Hollywood. He frankly wishes that London had Hollywood's facilities and organization for picture-making. He frankly proclaims that his company needs American stars, directors, technicians.

One of his most interesting discussions, I thought, concerned differences in Hollywood's and England's approach to historical themes. Hollywood's is romantic, England's factual—of necessity, because liberties with history are not tolerated in English films.

They are condoned in American pictures, even passed over lightly. "Oh, well, these pictures are American—but we'll not have it in English pictures," is the English public's attitude.

SO YAH WANT TALK, EH? DENVER—Denver university co-eds listed the qualifications they desire most in the men they date.

In the order of preference, they want: a pleasing conversationalist; an intellectual; an athlete; the matinee idol type; one who is quiet and reserved; the fellow with plenty of money to spend.

At the bottom of the list, co-eds agreed, is the date who "knows it all" and doesn't mind advertising the fact.

Half Billion in Gold Takes a Trip

Four guards with machine guns were only a part of the stern-faced contingent which guarded half a billion dollars in gold bullion when it was transferred from the Philadelphia mint to the new federal repository at Fort Knox, Ky. The upper picture shows a truck leaving the mint with 78 of the precious gold bars, which weighed nearly a ton and a half. The 78 bars in each truck load were worth a million dollars. The lower photo shows the impregnable granite, steel, and concrete "pillbox" which Uncle Sam has built as a safe-guard in case of war and against theft. From the trucks, the bullion was loaded on four mail cars and it was sent to Fort Knox by the government's own registered mail.

Ping-Pong Tourney Is Conducted for Pupils at Laketon

LAKETON, Jan. 16—After weeks of practicing, the first all-school ping-pong tournament was held Thursday and Friday. Round Robin elimination contests left Irene and Ruth Godwin in the semi-finals of the girls' division and Hugh Terry and Willie Renner in the boys' division. Ruth downed Irene by a score of 21-16; Hugh Terry defeated Willie Renner by the same score. In the three-game final series the girls' winner came through as victor after losing the first game; the final scores were 21-16, 15-21, and 16-21. All of the games were close and showed great improvement in everyone's playing, particularly in Ruth Godwin's, all-school champion.

The Get-Together club met at the home of Mrs. W. H. Paris, Thursday, for their monthly meeting.

After a period of long delay, work has been resumed on the Laketon-Miami road WPA project. Needless to say, residents of this community welcome its continuation heartily.

Manson and Ralph Gillespie are confined to their homes because of illness.

4 NEW WELLS COMPLETED IN PLAINS FIELD

TWO TESTED IN GRAY AND COUPLE IN HUTCHINSON

Sub-freezing weather during the last 10 days curtailed activity in the Panhandle field. Frozen water lines and breaks caused many shut-downs of wells that should have been completed and tested.

As a result of the arrival of winter, only four oil wells were tested by the Railroad Commission. Two were in Gray county with the other two in Hutchinson county. The four wells had a total output of 1,426 barrels.

Two gas wells, one in Moore and one in Wheeler county, added 81,267,000 cubic feet to the field output. The Shamrock Oil & Gas company gasser in section 20, block 26, Moore county, was gauged at 73,676,000 cubic feet for one of the best wells in the last few months.

Arrival of winter failed to halt the drilling campaign which has kept the Panhandle field alive during the winter months. Although building of rigs was halted by the weather in some instances, 15 intentions were filed at the local office of the Railroad Commission last week.

Hutchinson county continued to receive the largest play with nine of the locations. Gray county had three, Carson two and Moore one. The Skelly Oil company led the race in locations with four, three of them in Hutchinson county and one in Carson county. Benonine Oil company and International Petroleum company each registered three locations in Hutchinson county.

Completions by counties:

Gray County. Adams & McGhee No. 1 Morse, section 2, block 26, H&GN survey, gauged 187 barrels with pay from 2,415 to 2,575 feet in granite wash following a shot of 600 quarts placed from 2,415 to 1,640 feet.

King Oil Co. No. 2 Barrett, section 127, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 576 barrels in lime pay from 3,205 to 3,278 feet following a shot of 330 quarts in pay dirt.

Hutchinson County. Cy Reiger No. 4 Hodge, section 14, block X02, LAP survey, tested 627 barrels in lime pay between 2,984 and 3,038 feet.

S. J. Iverson No. 2 Halle, section 24, block M-21, TC&RR survey, completed for 36 barrels (five day average) in lime pay from 3,080 to 3,165 feet.

Gas wells tested were: Moore County. Shamrock Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Neild, section 20, block 26, ET&RR survey, gauged 73,676,000 cubic feet.

Wheeler County. Skelly Oil Co. No. 1 Callum, section 46, block 24, I&GN survey, tested 7,591,000 cubic feet.

"APPAREL FOR WOMEN"

DATA ON PROPER SPACING OF OIL WELLS TO BE COLLECTED

A committee of oil company executives has been appointed by President Axtell J. Byles, of the American Petroleum Institute, to collect fundamental data on the proper spacing of oil wells and to prepare an educational program designed to promote proper well spacing as an important factor in petroleum conservation.

George A. Hill Jr. of the Houston Oil Co. of Texas, Houston, Texas, has been appointed chairman of the Committee of Well Spacing, which has 32 members and alternates. Creation of the committee was authorized by the institute's executive committee at the seventeenth annual meeting in Chicago last November. Inauguration of the work was recommended by the general committee of the institute's division of production in a resolution, subsequently adopted by the executive committee, declaring that well spacing "probably is the most important matter before the production branch of the industry."

Studies of means and methods of conserving petroleum resources already made by the institute and by other organizations have revealed that proper spacing of wells is essential to economic development of oil pools. Attention was attracted to the need for proper well spacing shortly after the publication in 1929 of the report of a cooperative study made by the U. S. Bureau of Mines and the institute revealed the importance of the function of natural gas pressure in lifting crude oil to the surface and indicated that the drilling of unnecessary wells, and particularly the unnecessarily close spacing of wells, tended to dissipate gas pressure and curtailed the productive life of oil pools.

Recent experiments in well-spacing particularly through the development of oil pools on the unit plan with all wells drilled in strict accordance with scientific determination of production needs, largely have established the advisability of spacing wells in such a way as to conserve and to utilize to the best advantage the pressure of natural gas, and also of water, with resulting recovery of a larger proportion of oil and an extension of the producing life of the pool. In recent years the tendency has been to space wells more widely and also to curtail the number of wells drilled so as to facilitate control of gas pressure, and to maintain water pressure.

A social meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary is planned for tomorrow evening at 8. After a short business session, bridge will entertain members. Mrs. T. K. Manley and Mrs. Roy Sewell will be in charge of entertainment, Mrs. Hoyt Allen and Mrs. Ida Burns of refreshments.
