Plan afloat to raise Hidden Hills fees purchase of 40 new carts will be put out

40 new carts for bids soon. With trade-ins, it's expected the new carts will cost about $68,000, said golf pro David Teichtnann also in works

Memberships, which allow for limitless play but not free cart use, are expected to rise from: Single - $400 to $435, Couple and Family - $450 to $475, and Senior -$350 to $400. Senior memberships are only good for weekday play. No change is proposed in the individual youth membership of $150.

Cart fees would go from $17 to $19 if final approval is given. The weekday green fee would rise from $9 to $10 and and weekend fee from $12 to $13.

When Teichmann presented the advisory board's recommendations along with a list of fees at area public courses, Mayor Bob Neslage said Pampa's tees were out of line (too low) with other area courses. due to the quality of the local course.

"We have a real nice course," Neslage said. "We are not asking enough of an increase.

Even at raising the fees to the commission's plan, charges at Hidden Hills will still be at or below the lowest fees charged at area courses which include those in Dumas, two in Borger and two in Amarillo.

Commissioner Faustina Curry questioned if there is a philosophy to keep Hidden Hill's charges lowest in the area. Community Services Director Bill Hildebrandt said there is a "fine line" on that issue balancing remaining competitive but yet charging enough not to drive away golfers." "We don't know where that line is," he added.

Hildebrandt said the golf course is not breaking even but is drawing closer to that point each year.

brought in $107,804, green fees totaled. $74,000, annual members garnered $73,200 and the hitting range brought in another $11,283.

Teichmann said he wants to keep four of the best old carts which he thinks will provide enough carts when summer weekend demand is heavy. Carts whose batteries are in good enough shape to hold a charge for two 18-hole rounds a day are needed.

The course can accommodate 120 golfers in toursomes at one time, the golf pro said. You'll have one group on a tee, another on the fairway and the other leaving a green.

Asked what will help the course get more players, Teichmann grinned and said, "We need more population. You (commissioners) should have more kids." "I'm sorry," said Curry. "But you are

Carson deputies see likely meteor

Carson County Deputies saw a strange sight Tuesday night. Deputies report seeing a light fall out of the sky

"It was almost kind of like a flare. It was changing colors white, blue, green," Deputy Chris Richardson said.

"[Panharidle] City Police Officer Curtice Spencer heard it. He said it made a crackling sound," Richardson said.

Richardson said the object fell from the sky sometime between 11 11:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

Dispatcher Shelton Montgomery called the Amarillo International Airport to see if anything showed up on airport radar. Airport radar didn't show anything, Richardson said.

"Airport police officers said they saw it," Richardson said.

Montgomery also called Channel 7 in Amarillo. Channel 7 didn't report anything showing up on their weather radar.

Richardson said he believed what he saw was a meteor, and he believed it might have landed in Carson County.

No meteor has been reported found.

Oil prices jump but not enough By DAVID BOWSER

Oil prices jumped over a dollar a barrel this week, but area oil and gas representatives said it still needs to come up another five dollars. or so before rigs will start drilling again on a large scale.

H. Wayne Hughes, a White Deer native and executive director of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said the sudden surge didn't surprise the industry, but neither were they sure it would happen.

"We had our fingers crossed that the OPEC tolks would decide to hold out another quarter," Hughes said. "We didn't have much faith in that prospect, but as it turns out, they decided to have mercy on us for another three month period, apparently."

Hughes explained that the price of crude oil is essentially set by OPEC. Last year, they had agreed to limits on the amount of oil that they would produce and export thereby holding up the price of oil at least through March. This week, they indicated they would stick to their self-imposed production quotas through the second quarter of the year.

While analysts say the industry could see $30 a barrel oil this year. Hughes said today that the price of oil in the Texas Panhandle will be probably closer to the mid to upper $20 range if prices continue to Local residents who have failed to return overdue library books have an opportunity to have the slate wiped clean. The library is getting its books back in circulation while a local food pantry is receiving additional food to teed the hungry people of Pampa.

During the first week of the amnesty period at the local library, 96 people made a donation of canned food to the library and had fines removed from their records.

The number of books returned to the library was 177, said Lovett Library Director Anne Stobbe on Monday

Stobbe announced in late December that library patrons will be granted amnesty from fines on overdue books during the first 17 days of January on a one-time basis.

The library will continue to erase existing fines through Ian. 17 with a donation of canned food or any nonperishable food item as a donation to Good Samaritan Christian Services.

Thornberry at Pantex today

Pampa's congressman was touring the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant today in Carson County. A spokesman for U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry said today that the tour was in connection with his duties as head of the congressional oversight panel on security concerning the nation's nuclear weapons facilities.

Thornberry and Rep. Ellen Tausher, the ranking Democrat on the panel, were to tour Pantex today, then move on to Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Savannah River, Ga., Thursday to tour nuclear facilities there.

Tuesday, they began their three day tour with a stop at Kansas City. A spokesman for Thornberry said today the tour was to discuss the role of each plant within the new National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA).

In early December, the panel visited the Nevada test site, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratories in California. Sandia National Lab in Albuquerque and Los Alamos National Lab north of Santa Fe.

Thornberry is the chairman of the special conressional oversight panel on the Department of Energy reorganization. He was also involved in writing and passing the law which established the NNSA.

The new agency was created by Congress in September and signed into law by the President in October.

The law was passed partially in response to reports of problems with security within the nuclear weapons complex, according to Thornberry's office.

Rep. Chisum's car vandalized

State Rep. Warren Chisum filed an offense report with the Pampa Police Tuesday.

Driving early Tuesday Morning to the Pampa Youth Center to work out, Chisum discovered that someone had slashed the roof of his convertible Ford Mustang.

The incident occurred sometime between 6 p.m. Monday and 5:30 a.m. Tuesday, at his Chisum Ranch.

"An unknown person intentionally slashed the roof up," Pampa Police Sgt. Fred Courtney said. "If we catch the person, it's a felony," Courtney said.

"They're really in the driver's seat," Hughes said. He said OPEC's long standing policy is to keep the price of oil below $30 a barrel.

What this price is bringing on now is confidence among landmen," Hughes said. "That's the very basic part of the industry."

The landmen are the ones that go out and negotiate leases and make the drilling deals.

"There's a lot of activity now among landmen," Hughes said. "That's where the industry is coming partially back to life. You see more lease work being done. Atl the landmen I know are very busy."

But that has little to do with the natural gas industry which has done well over the past several years.

"Let me emphasize that gas has never slacked off for two years," Hughes said. "Crude oil is a very risky business because of the market conditions. It takes a big gamble to put your faith in crude oil." The gas business, on the other hand, is primarily dependent on the weather on the East Coast.

"If they get snow and it stays on the ground for a week," Hughes said, "we'll see a bump in gas prices.

Doctor says child's bruises similar to car crash victim

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) - As Rita Marie Chapman sobbed audibly, the jury in her capital murder trial looked at autopsy photos of the defendant's 2-year-old niece.

A pathologist counted at least 15 to 16 marks on the girl during Tuesday's first day of testimony. Dr. Hal Hawkins said the day after she died, Crystal Leann Chapman's body had so many cuts and bruises it appeared she had been in a car crash.

"This little girl was beaten to a pulp," Brazoria County District Attorney Jeri Yenne said.

Prosecutors aren't seeking the death penalty for Ms. Chapman, 41.

Her niece was found dead on a couch in Ms. Chapman's trailer home near Pearland. A deputy sheriff testified that when he arrived at the residence last Feb. 17, her husband and another officer were struggling to take a shotgun from her.

Defense attorney Katherine Scardino of Houston told jurors that Ms. Chapman intended to shoot herself. Her client didn't intend to kill the child and was influenced by the effects of prescription medicine she was taking for chronic back pain, the attorney said.

Psychic's Advice Clouds Picture for Woman in Fog

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend, who is wonderful, is always trying to help me out, so she suggested 1 meet "Phyllis," her psychic. For $35, Phyllis told me about my present, my past and my future. She told me that "Johnny," the man I've been involved with for the last five years, is my soulmate and if I want him to propose, I will need to get spiritual cleansing. That means she and a few other people will meditate for six weeks on my behalf to disperse the dark cloud that is interrupting my life and relationship and causing me to fail in life. She says that's the reason life has been so difficult financially and personally, and things won't improve without a spiritual cleans-ing. The cost is $500.

I have been divorced for 16 years and I'm raising three kids on my own with no child support. I've been trying with no luck to convince Johnny to marry me, and I've been out of work for two months because of knee surgery. I'm beginning to think I'm never going to get what I want out of life. That's why I went to see Phyllis for answers.

Is this as silly as I suspect it is, Abby? Or do I need some professional counseling? Please help me decide

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Arkansas gave football coach Houston Nutt a raise to almost $1 million annually as his name sur-faced as a possible replace-ment for Dallas Cowboys coach Chan Gailey, who was fired Tuesday. Arkansas Athletic Director

Frank Broyles said it was coincidence that he raised Nutt's salary to $950,000 amid talk that the coach might leave. Nutt has taken the Razorbacks to two consecutive Jan. 1 bowl games.

Nutt was mentioned on a Dallas radio talk show as a possible replacement for Gailey, and Fox Sports News said Jones had contacted the Arkansas coach. Nutt's team practiced at Texas Stadium, the Cowboys' home field, as the Razorbacks prepared for the Cotton Bowl two weeks ago. Cowboys lose another head coach Cowboys owner Jerry Jones considered asking coach Chan Gailey to make some changes to his offense.

Then Jones decided it would be better if he just changed coaches.

Another option might be Gary Kubiak, Denver's offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. If Jones goes to the college ranks, as he did when he hired Jimmy coached in four Super Bowls in Johnson and Barry Switzer, 10 years as an assistant before Texas' Mack Brown or even coming to Dallas.

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas season. He'll be a candidate for Cowboys' coach not to win a Super Bowl.

"I understand it's part of the process," Gailey said. "I don't agree with it, but I understand it. If you're not tough enough to handle it, you shouldn't be in the business in the first place."

team.

Nutt said he had not been "officially contacted" about the job and said the talk. already had hurt recruiting.

"I tell you, I just don't want to hurt ourselves in recruit-ing right now," Nutt said Tuesday "I've already gotten two calls from Dallas prospects and it's just killing me. They heard it down there.'

Broyles said Tuesday night that Jones had not been in touch.

"That is false. I talked to Houston. Nobody has contacted me or Houston," Broyles said.

Broyles said he could understand that Nutt would be a desirable candidate but said he did not believe Jones would raid his own alma mater for a coach.

"That is a faise, damaging and erroneous report, Broyles said.

Most college coaches work with five-year contracts, but Arkansas officials have been trying to make final a 10-year contract for Nutt. Nutt worked through last year without a signed contract, but was paid about $650,000 according to a ver-bal agreement with the university.

When he was hired Dec. 10, 1997, he received a sixyear contract worth about $500,000 a year.

"I want the job to be comparable with the other schools in the top of the SEC," Broyles said. "We will have him over $1 million as soon as we can."

He said it would be another year or so before Nutt's compensation could be raised again.

Kevin Scanlon, Nutt's agent, said parts of the new contract have been completed, but the entire deal had not been executed.

"I'm excited to hear coach Broyles talking about $950,000," Scanlon said. "It's a good start. In the past, the university has said that Houston should be the highest-paid coach in the SEC West."

Nick Saban, hired last year as the new coach at LSU, will make $1.2 million annually.

Miami Dolphins face a shorter trip against longer odds than last week.

After winning Sunday at Seattle, Miami has only five days to prepare for Saturday's game in Jacksonville. The Jaguars enjoyed a first-round bye and have the NFL's best record at 14-

But after 17 seasons, Dan Marino isn't fazed by such details.

"We understand what the circumstances are," he said. "You have to be optimistic in the playoffs. Seattle was a real tough situation, and we were able to pull through and win. You've got to feel good about our chances."

Much to Marino's relief, the 20-17 victory at Seattle has redirected South Florida's football focus. The primary topic is no longer whether he's headed for retirement, but whether he's headed for the Super Bowl.

He's coming off his best game in three months. He threw no interceptions at Seattle and made several clutch completions in the fourth quarter, when an 85-vard touchdown drive gave the Dolphins their only lead.

The fourth-quarter comeback win was the 37th in Marino's career.

"The thing that helps is that you've done it before," he said. You know how to handle it. I expect to do well in that situation."

Marino's heroics aside, Miami beat Seattle by asking their 38year-old quarterback to do less. For the first time in seven games, the Dolphins ran more than they passed. The conservative approach eliminated turnovers and produced a 10-minute advantage in time of possession.

Coach Jimmy Johnson has longed preached patience with the run, straining his relationship with Marino. But the most prolific passer in NFL history has now embraced the concept and expects to hand off a lot again Saturday.

"We're going to go in with pretty much the same game plan," he said.

Controlling the ball will be dif-ficult against the Jaguars, who have the top-ranked running attack in the NFL. But the Dolphins discovered the hard way that throwing a lot doesn't work.

Down the stretch, when Miami went 1-5, Marino averaged 38 passes per game and Johnson

"I don't know if I'm ever going to be comfortable throwing it 40 or 50 times, the way we had been doing lately, whether it's a Hall of Famer like Dan Marino or a practice-squad quarterback," Johnson said. "I don't like to throw it that much." Marino said he'll throw 60 times if that's what it takes to win, but keeping it on the ground is fine, too. He just wants to put off the retirement issue for another week.

Stars trim Oilers

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) -Mike Modano scored with 1:23 left to give the Dallas Stars a 3-2 victory Tuesday night over the Edmonton Oilers.

Modano shoveled in the puck from close range after Mike Keane's dump-in deflected off Oilers defenseman Jason Smith to the Dallas forward.

Aaron Gavey and Kirk Muller also scored for Dallas.

Jason Smith and Ethan Moreau had goals for the Oilers, who had an eight-game home-undefeated streak end.

Smith opened the scoring on a wrist shot from just inside the blue line at 12:53 of the first period. His screened shot beat Ed Belfour high on the stick side.

That probably was the case why everybody wasn't on the same page."

The Cowboys had the NFL's eighth-best offense in 1998. when they went 10-6 and swept all eight division games. But they lost 20-7 to NFC East rival Arizona in the playoffs.

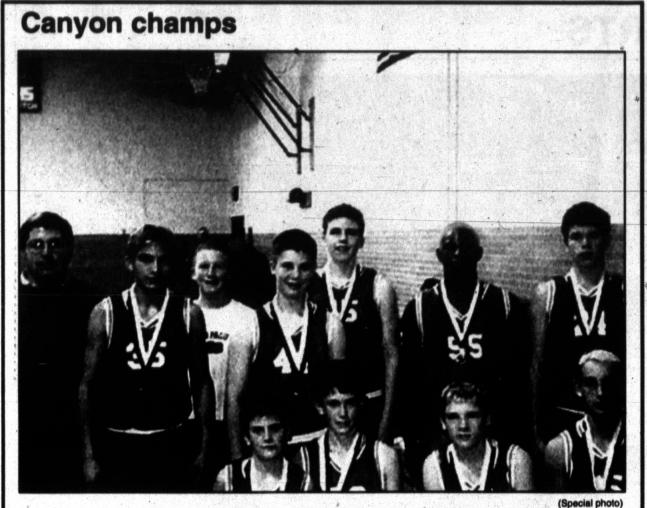

The '99 team started 3-0, but finished 8-8 and lost 27-10 to Minnesota last Sunday. Dallas dropped to the No. 16 offense and failed to score more than 10 points in five games; the defense allowed 13 points in four of them. The Cowboys also led the league in penalties and penalty yards.

NEW YORK (AP) — A quarnight at Fenway Park. Now they meet again, entering the Hall of Fame together. The pair, linked by home runs in perhaps the greatest World Series ever, were elected to the Hall on Tuesday, wiping away the times they fell just short.

"I'll be happy and proud to be standing up there in July at the same podium as he is,' Fisk said.

Fisk is best remembered for waving his 12th-inning homer fair in Game 6 of the 1975 World Series. Perez's two-run shot off Bill Lee the following night, which helped rally Cincinnati from a three-run Perez said. deficit to the title, is largely overlooked.

"It's sweet now, when I'm in. It doesn't matter how long I had to wait," said Perez, who made it on his ninth try. "The first thing I thought of was calling my mother in Cuba. The family was there, too. They started jumping around. My mother was crying."

Fisk, who caught the most games in major league history (2,226) and hit a record 351 of 376 career home runs while playing the position, received 397 votes among the record 499 ballots cast by 10-year mem-bers of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Perez received 385 votes.

To be elected, a player had to be listed on 375 ballots (75 percent). Fisk, who fell 43 votes short last year in his first time "It's something you never on the ballot, received 79.6 per-forget," Perez said. "I still feel cent and made it with 22 votes it. I can close my eyes and I still to spare.

Perez, 71 votes shy last year ter-century ago, the lives of when Nolan Ryan, George Carlton Fisk and Tony Perez Brett and Robin Yount were intersected on an October chosen, got 77.2 percent and was elected with 10 votes to 1,652 RBIs. spare, becoming the first Cuban chosen by the BBWAA. And it could be an even bigger '75 reunion when induction ceremonies are held.

Fisk, Perez elected to Hall of Fame

Fisk, who played from 1969-93, and Perez, active from he agreed to following an 1964-86, will be inducted into the Hall at Cooperstown, N.Y., on July 23. Sparky Anderson, who managed the Reds to Series titles in 1975 and '76, is a leading contender for election by the veterans' committee, which meets Feb. 29 at Tampa, Fla.

"That would be something special, if I went in with Sparky at the same time,"

Fisk, who spent 11 seasons with the Boston Red Sox and 13 with the Chicago White Sox, acknowledged his Game 6 homer off Pat Darey was his defining moment, especially for director Harry Coyle's reaction shot of his using every bit he wants a Red Sox or White of body English to wave the ball fair as it traveled down the left-field line. When it finally hit the foul pole for a home to reserve judgment on that for run, he jumped with his arms thrust in the air.

"A lot of people who viewed that game realized we're all people and we run the full gamut of emotions, maybe even more intensely than the fans," Fisk said.

Cincinnati trailed 3-0 in the sixth inning the following night when Perez hit a two-run homer on Lee's blooper pitch.

see it."

Joe Morgan in the Hall. Missing is career hits leader Pete Rose, ineligible because of NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - tackles with 85 and had 18 sive rookie completes a double the lifetime ban from baseball investigation of his gambling. Rose received 17 write-in votes

"He's a great player and should be in it," Perez said, "but right now I don't want to get into it." Fisk, a New Englander from

New Hampshire, left both the Red Sox and White Sox on bad terms, but Boston has reached out in recent years, making him a special assistant to GM Dan Duquette.

"My relationship with the Red Sox has improved," Fisk said. "They've made concerted efforts to open the door of communication."

Yet, he still hasn't decided if Sox hat on his Hall plaque.

"I have to think about it a little more," he said. "I'm going a little while.

He still sounds angry at the White Sox.

'Some of that is water under the bridge, but some of the issues still haven't been addressed," he said. "There are some very definite scars from our relationship."

Jim Rice, Fisk's former Boston Red Sox teammate, was third with 257 votes (51.5 percent), followed by Gary Carter (248), Bruce Sutter (192), Rich Gossage (166) and Steve Garvey (160).

Sometimes the biggest danger quarterback pressures. Tennessee Titans end Jevon Kearse poses is to his teammates. Too often, they find themselves stopping to watch him flying around the field.

and he's fun to watch," linebacker Barron Wortham said. "You just never know what he's going to do because he's all over the place. The motor's running. I could talk all day about that dude."

Most Titans agree that Kearse has the ability to be the greatest player to ever play defensive said. end.

"He's definitely fun to watch," tackle Mike Jones said. The record-setting Kearse ran away with The Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year award Tuesday. He got all but one vote from a nationwide panel of 50 media members. Washington cornerba Champ Bailey got that vote. cornerback Kearse's secret to success is simple.

"I go every play like it's my last play," he said.

Last April, he was considered so much of a "tweener" between and linebacker first rookie to lead a conference in sacks with 14 1/2, a rookie record.

He also led the Titans with 10 forced fumbles, was fourth in

All from the "Freak," the his hands, which measure 12 inches from pinkie to thumb, a vertical leap of 40 inches, an 86-inch armspan and 4.4 speed. The scariest part is that Kearse, also the first rookie end voted to start for the AFC in the Pro Bowl, is just scratching the surface.

"When he develops a couple of moves, he'll dominate game in, game out for a long time to come," safety Blaine Bishop

Off the field, Kearse is a polite, quiet man who was voted the team's soundest sleeper earlier this season, sometimes even napping at his locker. A National Honor Society member in high school, he is a semester short of his sociology degree, which would make him the first person in his family with a college

His teammates don't hesitate to rave about the rookie who has remained humble despite comparisons to Reggie White and Hall of Famer Lawrence Taylor.

"He feels 'I can learn somethat he dropped to the No. 16th thing from you. I'm going to pick overall. But he became the give you the respect that you deserve.' It's truly exciting,' Wortham said. "You just don't find that out of young people today."

Being named the top defenplay for Kearse and his friend, Edgerrin James of the nickname earned at Florida for Indianapolis Colts. The two grew up near each other in Florida and used to dream of winning the NFL's top rookie awards.

"I talk to him every week," said James, named offensive rookie of the year Monday. "He is out there handling his business. He got picked 16th, which was way low, and he's going out and playing great." Kearse has given the Titans the pass rusher they've needed for years.

The best part is that Tennessee, which tried to trade up 10 spots, didn't have to give up anything for him. The teams ahead of the Titans who needed defensive help passed on Kearse, spurring him to play his best.

"I wanted to show all the teams that passed me up ... that they missed out. I think I did a pretty good job on stating that," he said.

Kearse has played only at end this season, switching only occasionally to rush from the. right side. Eventually, coaches hope to move him around, but Kearse is patient since he feels he has been turned loose.

"They are allowing me to just go out there and use my talent and do what I am known for doing - running around and making plays," Kearse said.

Texas roundup

Testimony to begin in corruption trial AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — The $1,000 payments the owner of a taxicab company gave to Dallas City Councilman Al Lipscomb for 3 1/2 years swayed his votes, prosecutors allege.

Lipscomb's federal corruption trial was scheduled to get under way this morning, following Tuesday's selection of a jury.

Lipscomb, a long-time civil rights leader in Dallas, is immensely popular among the city's black community. A judge moved the trial to Amarillo in hopes the case would be heard by a jury without preconceptions one way or the other. Lipscomb is charged with 65 counts of bribery and conspiracy for accepting payments from taxi-cab owner Floyd Richards. Prosecutors say the payments directly affected the way Lipscomb cast his votes as a city councilman, thus defrauding the federal government.

Defense attorneys for Lipscomb said during opening statements Tuesday that the $36,000 in cash payments he accepted from Richards had no effect on the way he voted during his tenure in city government.

East Texas man set to become 200th person executed by Texas since '82

HOUSTON (AP) - Earl Carl Heiselbetz Jr. still says he doesn't remember killing an East Texas woman and her 2-year-old daughter. Yet the former neighbor accepts that he probably will die tonight for the crime.

Heiselbetz, 48, would become the first Texas inmate this year to receive lethal injection and the 200th since capital punishment resumed here in December 1982.

Texas leads all states in executions since the U.S. Supreme Court effectively reinstated the death penalty in 1976. Virginia is second with 72. "I'm not worried about myself," Heiselbetz said in an interview last month, adding that he needed to "just get my heart right with God."

Rena Rogers and her 2-year-old daughter, Jacy, disappeared the morning of May 30 after grocery shopping. The woman's husband found her car keys, purse and a jar of coins missing from their secluded home close to the Sabine National Forest. No signs of foul play were evident.

Ag Department says 1999 one of driest years on record

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - After another vear of drought in Texas, farmer Rodney Ripple says he's just glad his wife, a school principal, has a job off the farm.

In 1999, Ripple grew half or less of the cotton he normally grows on his farm in Tom Green County in West Texas.

"When you've got a lack of rainfall and 100degree-plus days, that's just pretty hot on the cotton plant," he said.

Last year was one of the driest on record in the state, the Texas Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

Ball lowered for mom in custody case

HOUSTON (AP) - Bail has been slashed from $3 million to $30,000 for a woman who took her six children to Guatemala during a custody dispute in 1996.

Gloria Joy Coates, 42, was to appear today before state District Judge Belinda Hill, and attorneys said they expect her to post bond soon. Tuesday's bond reduction resulted from a deal among defense attorneys Jim Lindeman and Alex Azzo and prosecutor Cindy Merrill.

If released on bond, she will be under order not to leave Harris County without permission and must wear an electronic ankle monitor. She also must live in a designated location with a phone and must surrender her passport.

Ms. Coates, who is charged with six counts of interference with child custody, must also report to court officials once a week.

Her bail was set at $500,000 on each charge after her arrest on Dec. 7.

Defense attorneys said her bail was set unreasonably high in an attempt to coax her into plead-ing guilty. She previously rejected a deal to plead guilty in exchange for a sentence equal to time served.

Grand jury indicts man accused of soliciting wife's murder

HOUSTON (AP) - A 32-year-old Houston man accused of seeking to have his wife and son killed to collect on their insurance has been indicted on a charge of solicitation of capital murder.

The motive for Bobby Benjamin Wigley II of Katy "was greed and money, and he didn't care who got killed," prosecutor Casey O'Brien said.

The indictment was handed up on Tuesday. Wigley has been held 'without bail in Harris County Jail since his arrest on Jan. 6.

He was indicted only for alleged attempts to hire a hit man to kill his wife. O'Brien said Wigley also wanted his 9-month-old son killed, but that charge was dropped because the final deal involved only a contract on his 28-year-old wife. The purported hit man turned out to be an undercover officer.

O'Brien said Wigley suggested he would leave the door to his home unlocked one night so the hit man could come in and break his wife's neck in the bathroom, so it would look like an accident.

Reward for killer of rare albino hawk notable residents of Bee County is gone.

A reward is being offered for information lead-ing to the arrest of whoever shot a rare albino red-tailed hawk near Mineral, about halfway between Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

The hawk, thought to be one of only about 100 in the United States, was found shot to death Dec. 19 along Highway 673.

Birdwatcher Jimmy Jackson, of Beeville, told The Victoria Advocate that he has notified the Texas Ornithology Society about the bird's winter arrival in the area for about five years.

Many drove for hours for a chance to see the unique bird, often spotted high atop a utility pole.

"He comes every winter and is well known to the people here as well as the birder nation," VICTORIA, Texas (AP) - One of the most Jackson said. "He was kinda my bird. I've been watching him for years. He was admired by a lot of people. He was special because he was albino. "He was a pretty famous bird." The investigation into the shooting is a joint effort between the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"I don't know why he was killed. Sheer mean-ness? I don't know why," said Tom Mason, lead investigator for Bish and Wildlife. "You wouldn't expect a bird of that color to last that long in the wild."

Dan Marshall of Victoria, also a special agent with Fish and Wildlife, said there are three or maybe four other albino red-tailed hawks in the state.

Killing a red-tailed hawk is a violation of state and federal law.

Pit bull terrier gets death penalty

HOUSTON (AP) - A pit bull terrier was con-rier, Kelo, saying she didn't want him killed. She said the year-old brown-and-white male dog belonged to her son, who she said is incarcerated at an area boot camp.

However, after she acknowledged that she is the dog's caretaker, the judge ruled she had the authority to relinquish the dog. She then agreed to authorize his destruction.

She relinquished her right to a hearing and agreed to let authorities put the dog to death.

Clarissa Ewell, victim of the dog's bite, was seatdemned to die for biting a 7-year-old girl, inflicting leg wounds that required 40 stitches to repair. Martha Torres pleaded for the life of her son's ter-

She had been talking to friends on the sidewalk beside her home when the dog escaped from a fenced back yard. She said she tried to run, but fell as the dog pounced on her. She said he dog bit her legs as she tried to kick the dog off.

The bitten child is expected to miss another four to six weeks of school while recuperating.

Prosecutor Julie Escalante said a 6-year-old boy, a relative of the Torres family, had also been bitten by the dog and was ready to testify.

GOP lawmakers fire own salvo in Confederate flag debate

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) - A coalition of state ings planned for South Carolina. Republican lawmakers said they won't consider removing the Confederate flag from the Capitol until the NAACP drops its South Carolina boycott.

The controversy over the flag overshadowed other events as the Legislature convened Tuesday. Lawmakers bickered as flag supporters and opponents lobbied legislators on the issue.

The Confederate flag flies on the Statehouse dome and in House and Senate chambers. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which considers the flag an offen-sive symbol to blacks, has called for an economic boycott of South Carolina because lawmakers refuse to take the flag down.

The civil rights group says the boycott has resulted in the cancellation of more than 200 meet-

Republicans vowed not to discuss the flag issue until the NAACP lifts the boycott.

House Speaker Pro Tem Terry Haskins said the NAACP needs to drop its boycott and time needs to pass so that the impression isn't left that the Legislature acted under pressure from the boycoft.

"Perception is reality," Haskins said.

James Gallman, president of the South Carolina AACP Conference of Branches, said the Republican action won't affect the boycott. "We cannot control what they do," he said.

The flag has flown above the Statehouse since 1962. Five years ago, legislators rebuffed then-Gov. David Beasley's attempts to take it down.

BEAVER, Utah (AP) — Eight teens who escaped rom a wilderness camp for troubled youth last month, prompting a four-day search in the desert, from $3,700 to more than $7,000.

The boys had been placed in the RedCliff Ascent wilderness program by their parents.
