CCPC opens new building Tuesday

Latest equipment, computers will greet Spring 2000 students

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Classes will begin this week at the newly constructed Clarendon College Pampa Center.

The new 26,000 square foot campus will open its doors for Spring 2000 classes Tuesday.

Registration is currently underway for day and night classes at the campus. Classes will be offered on the local campus in arts, business courses, computers, English and other languages, mathematics, natural sciences, social sciences as well as behavioral sciences, machining technology, office technology and speech.

Prospective students may contact academic advisors and faculty members for assistance in determining what classes in which they would like to enroll.

The college has a special incentive for older students. Senior citizens, persons 65 years of age and older, may take up to six hours for credit in any term without paying tuition. The seniors are charged all fees except the student activity and building use fees, said Joe Kyle Reeve of Clarendon College.

He said registration will continue through Jan. 24 at the local campus located 1601 Kentucky.

The new PampaCenter houses 10 classrooms, two labs, study areas and offices. The center features all the latest classroom technologies. With two-way conferencing capabilities for dis-

Heidi Searl, an incoming freshman, registers for classes with Leslie Smith in the registration office at Clarendon College Pampa Center's new facility. Joe Kyle Reeve, head of the college's Pampa campus, said they are still moving into the new building. "We'll be open and going when classes start Jan. 18," he said.

Judges pick new probation department head

223rd District Judge Lee Waters and 31st District Judge Steven R. Emmert last week appointed Jeffery Don McClendon of Bandera, Texas, Director of the Gray County Community Supervision and Corrections Department.

McClendon will replace the pro-tem director of adult probation Jeane Roper Autry. Autry, former director of Gray County Community Supervision and Corrections Department, has served as the director since Carolyn Taylor resigned in Oct. 1999.

(Carolyn Taylor replaced Joe Riley, who resigned in Sept. 1998. Joe Riley replaced Autry, who retired in Sept. 1997.)

Autry served as director from 1987 to 1997. She was called out of retirement to manage the department while the judges searched for a new director. Autry did not apply for the current position.

"My husband and I are going to Hawaii. We were married in Hawaii three-and-a-half years ago," Autry said.

"I plan to enjoy my retirement," Autry said.

Jeffery Don McClendon is expected to take over as director March 1.

McClendon has served as Assistant Director for the 198th and 216th Judicial District's Community Supervision and Corrections Department for Kerr, Kendall, Gillespie, and Bandera Counties since Jan. of 1990.

A probation director oversees alcohol and drug counseling, pretrial services, and a literacy lab. The director also prepares a community justice plan which is sent to Austin, oversees a budget of around $400,000 dollars, and carries a caseload of probationers, Autry said.

Dalton constable hopeful in county Precincts 1, 3

Curtis Dalton is a Republican candidate seeking Constable in Precincts 1 and 3.

He was born to C. J. and Deca Dalton in 1958, and was raised in Pampa and a 1977 Pampa High graduate.

Dalton and his wife of 10 years, Kimberley, two children reside in Pampa.

He has been a licensed peace officer since 1992. He completed the Panhandle Regional Law Enforcement Academy at Amarillo College in the top five percent of his class. Dalton also

Gee commissioner candidate

Gene Gee, native of Lefors and graduate of Lefors High School and West Texas State University, seeking the office of county commissioner for Precinct 1.

Gee is married to Verneice and is the father of three — David, James and Michella. He has seven grandchildren.

He has been active in civic activities in Lefors. He is a member of Lefors Church of Christ and Lions Club and Senior Citizens Club. He was elected to three consecutive terms as mayor of Lefors before moving to the Dallas area in 1992.

Gee said Lefors fared well during the years of his mayoral terms — equipment was updated, grants were secured for water well and related equipment, EPA and other governmental regulations were met or exceeded and the budget had begun to develop a surplus.

"I'm not a change for change sake person," says Gee. "I believe in gathering all the information possible and observing the action of persons and entities before deciding if changes are necessary. I don't offer to fix something that is not broken. However, I do believe in service."

County declares surplus goods, oks building bridge in Precinct 3

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Gray County Commissioners approved Sheriff Don Copeland's request to declare certain equipment and computers from the sheriff's department as surplus property when the commission met Friday morning.

Numerous office and computer surplus were on the list, including monitors, printers and Xerox copiers.

County Judge Richard Peet said he will contact the City of Pampa to inquire about the possibility of the county and city holding a joint auction for surplus properties.

Three former grand jury members' names were drawn to serve on the Salary Grievance Committee. They are Jane Skinner, Rosemary Cadena and Robert Gerald Herring. Alternate names drawn were Richard E. Morris and Karen Charlene Scott.

Approval was granted for a construction and maintenance agreement on Bridge 229 in commissioner precinct 3. The bridge has been declared unusable. If not replaced the road will have to be closed, according to Peet.

Cost of constructing a new bridge was reported to be $116,000. Under the agreement, the highway department will contribute 90 percent of the cost while the 10 percent portion of Gray County will be $11,600. The first payment will be $500 with the balance due when the contract is let.

Approval was granted for a mental health contract between Gray County and Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. The Psychiatric Pavilion is located in the NWTX system at Amarillo. Judge Peet reported five county residents have been committed during the past week. He said the county also utilizes the Golden Phoenix facility at Pampa Regional Medical Center.

has numerous hours of continuing education in law enforcement.

His hobbies include training drug dogs and protection dogs. He has won and placed in several competitions, including national trials.

Dalton is a member of the United States Police Canine Association, and has been a member of the National Narcotic Detector Dog Association. He has certified several dogs in both associations.

The candidate said on occasions when he has been available and not been at work, he has run a drug dog for Pampa Police Department, the Task Force and the Highway Patrol.

While employed as a deputy sheriff in Roberts County for four years, he provided drug education to parents and children.

Dalton has been a reserve deputy for several years, and has also been a full time unpaid deputy for Carson County.

If elected constable, he would not be working full time at another job, he said. Dalton said it would make him and the drug dogs he owns more readily available for use by all agencies in the Panhandle. His main objective would be assisting in drug interdiction for children.

Dalton would also be available twenty-four hours a day to assist parents of children who have a problem with drug use. Curtis said he feels he would be an asset to Gray County by bringing prior law enforcement experience and knowledge in addition to the availability of trained drug dogs, into the position of Constable.

Doctors: Letterman should make full recovery from bypass surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — David Letterman has a "very good" chance to return to full health following his emergency quintuple bypass, but will likely need six to eight weeks of recuperating at home, doctors say.

Letterman, 52, underwent surgery on Friday after a test found one of his arteries was seriously blocked.

Dr. O. Wayne Isom, who performed the procedure at New York Presbyterian Hospital, said it went smoothly and predicted a rapid recovery.

He called Letterman's outlook "very good" and said the "Late Show" host "has the heart muscle of a 20-year-old."

Letterman had submitted to an angiogram because of what he said was high cholesterol and a history of heart disease in his family. The test, during which a flexible tube is inserted into an artery and dye is injected, revealed the problem.

Letterman's personal physician, Dr. Louis J. Aronne, and his cardiologist, Dr. Martin Post, said it was too early to determine how long recovery would take.

Dr. Amaranth Saxena, a cardiothoracic surgeon at St. Joseph's Medical Center in Paterson, N.J., said if there are no complicating factors, Letterman should be hospitalized for three or four days before a home recuperation of six to eight weeks.

Saxena, who was not involved in Letterman's case but has performed several bypass procedures, said such a patient should avoid high blood pressure and cholesterol, in part by avoiding fried foods and red meat.

Like everything else, Letterman has made a long-running joke of his health, starting years ago when he discovered he had high cholesterol.

Like everything else, Letterman has made a long-running joke of his health, starting years ago when he discovered he had high cholesterol.

During Friday's "Late Show," which was taped in New York on Thursday, Letterman joked about his cholesterol level with guest Regis Philbin.

"It's borderline ... 680," Letterman quipped. Doctors usually recommend people keep their levels under 200.

Letterman spokesman Steven Rubenstein said CBS will telecast reruns of the "Late Show with David Letterman" while the host recovers.

Mujibur Rahman, who runs a shop near The Ed Sullivan Theater near Letterman's show and a frequent straight-man on the program, said he watched television throughout Friday in hopes of catching an update about his friend.

"I'm praying for him and his good health," Rahman said.

Lowered production expected to continue as oil tops $28 a barrel

Taking a cue from OPEC that lowered production will likely continue for several months, oil prices have shot up 5 percent to a nine-year high, making a barrel cost more than $28 for the first time since 1991 and the Gulf War.

Frigid weather in the northeastern United States also contributed to a sharp rise in crude oil on Friday, as well as gasoline, heating oil and natural gas futures.

Crude climbed as high as $28.10 a barrel, the highest price since Jan. 16, 1991, just before the Allied military strikes on Iraq.

Intermediate crude for February delivery oil settled up $1.33 at $28.02 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange — jumping 16 percent for the week.

"It's a big move, and we've seen close to four dollars' gain in the last few days," said Chris Stavros, an analyst for Paine Webber in New York. "Most of it seems to be driven by what OPEC has come out and said clearly — that they would extend the cuts beyond March."

Meeting in Vienna, the market monitoring committee of the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed to strongly recommend that the 10-month-old production cutbacks be continued beyond their scheduled March 31 expiration.

The extension could be longer than expected, a factor that helped accelerate the price increase. Iranian Oil Minister Bijan Namdar Zanganeh said he anticipates a six-month extension, while Kuwait and Saudi Arabia indicated Thursday it could go until the end of the year.

OPEC will vote on the length of an extension at its March 27 meeting.

Also underpinning the rally were the season's first subnormal temperatures in the northeastern United States, the major heating oil-consuming region. Parts of New England saw wind-chill factor temperatures of minus 20 to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit — conditions certain to send demand soaring.

Five PHS students make Texas All-State Choir

Five Pampa High students were chosen to the Texas All-State Choir over the week-end in Midland.

Tiffany Bruce, second soprano, and Dillon Hill, first bass, were first chairs in their respective sections.

Josh Gibson, second tenor, was second chair in his section while Meredith Hendricks and Shelby McGahen were chosen for the All-State Treble Choir.

At the area audition, the local students were in competition with students from the Lubbock, Midland-Odessa and El Paso regions.

From 20 students in each section, five were chosen for the All-State Mixed Choir. In addition, five girls were chosen from each of their sections to sing in the All-State Treble Choir.

This is the fourth in a series of auditions that began in September.

Over the course of these auditions, students learned an entire major work, Vesperae solennes de confessoris by Mozart, as well as eight shorter works.

The All-State clinic and concerts will take place in February at the Texas Music Educators Association Convention in San Antonio.

I like books, all sorts of books

One of the more recent technological gadgets is a computer device which can hold one or more books in its memory and is read on its screen. You can carry the 'thing' around in your hand.

Now, I'm not sure how good it will look on your bookshelf — will these become obsolete, too?

My mother and I were talking about these devices not long ago when she said with a hint of worry in her voice, "Then you won't have a book."

Exactly. That's why I am not too keen on these. (Here I go again fighting a no-win battle against technology.)

I love books. I like how they feel and how they smell. I like the sound the binding makes when I open a new book for the first time. I like to see them on my bookshelves. There's a warmth I get from them. There's a warmth the room gets from them.

Will I get those same feelings from a plastic gizmo?

I don't think so.

Admittedly, I have not read all the books I have. I intend to read them ... some day, but meanwhile, those I haven't read still give me some comfort.

Kate B. Dickson

associate publisher/editor

Like Shelby Foote's three-volume Civil War set. One reason I haven't read them all is that I read all day ... or much of it, anyway.

Currently I am finishing another serial killer book. Yes, I like serial killers. Well, not exactly. I like true crime books.

And I am "reading on" another one. It's titled Mutual Contempt and is about the relationship between Bobby Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

At the newspaper we get review copies of books from time to time. Some of them are books that interest me, while others do not. Frankly, I have not even cracked the binding of a book of essays entitled Czech Americans in Transition.

And, it goes untouched on the counter where anyone can have it.

It's not that I have anything against Czech Americans, but ....

This week, though, we got a review copy of what looks like it should be interesting. It's a one-volume biography of LBJ entitled A Life - LBJ. It's by Pulitzer Prize winning author Irwin Unger and Debi Unger.

Sometimes I envy those big newspaper folks ... someone who gets paid to do nothing but read and write about books or watch television and write about that.

But at a community newspaper there's not enough money or staff for such a luxury.

Thumbing through the LBJ book does, however, want to make me put it in my stack to read. Especially the part in which the authors examine the personal and political influences that determined both Johnson's behavior and decisions.

The authors say it was Johnson's unstable background — such as his stormy relationship with his parents and his poor education — that contributed to his often shrewd and intimidating behavior.

Sounds interesting, doesn't it?

And I venture it'll make better reading with ink on paper than it ever could on a plastic gizmo.

U.S. veterans deserve special recognition

Seeing a United States flag lifted off of a coffin, neatly folded, and handed to a widow is very moving.

It is a small but meaningful expression of appreciation by the federal government for those who have risked their lives to preserve our freedom.

Until now, these funeral honors were done as a courtesy, not as a right. Thanks to the Defense Authorization bill passed last fall, that is about to change.

As of Jan. 11, full military funeral honors are now guaranteed by law to every active military veteran discharged on honorable or general conditions. Two service members will fold and present the American flag to survivors, and Taps will be played.

The Defense Department is sending information kits to funeral home directors, who should request the military honors.

By all reports, this law is coming at a time when it may be used most. Over 16 million World War II veterans will reach age 80 by the year 2008. The Defense Department estimates that nearly 600,000 veterans will die this year.

It is important to honor those who have honored their country by serving in our military. It is important we remember them with an expression of this nation's gratitude. It is an opportunity to say thank you for a debt that can never be fully repaid.

Their sacrifices have made possible the freedoms we enjoy as Americans.

Mankind's most brutal century ...

This year marks the last year of the 20th century. The century will be remembered for unprecedented technical progress, advance of knowledge and improvements in living standards.

It will be also remembered as mankind's most brutal century. International and civil wars have yielded a death toll of roughly 50 million lives. As tragic as that number is, it's small in comparison to the number of people murdered by their own government.

R.J. Rummel, professor of political science at the University of Hawaii and author of "Death by Government," estimates that since the beginning of this century governments have murdered 170 million of their own citizens. Top government murderers are: the former Soviet Union, who between 1917 and 1987 murdered 62 million of their own citizens, and the People's Republic of China, who between 1949 and 1987 murdered 35 million of its citizens. In a distant third place were the Nazis, who murdered about 21 million Jews, Slavs, Serbs, Czechs, Poles, Ukrainians and others deemed misfits such as homosexuals and the mentally ill.

Less well known murdering governments include Turkey, who between 1909 and 1918 murdered close to 2 million Armenians. Two million Cambodians lost their lives under the Khmer Rouge; Pakistan's government murdered 1.5 million people; and Tito's Yugoslavian government murdered a million citizens. Our neighbor, Mexico, murdered about 1.5 million of its citizens between 1900 and 1920. Professor Rummel estimates that prior to the 20th century, government murder, from the Christian Crusades and slavery of Africans to witch hunts and other episodes, totaled about 133 million.

We might ask why the 20th century was so barbaric. Surely, there were barbarians during earlier ages. Part of the answer is that during earlier times there wasn't the kind of concentration of power that emerged during the 20th century. Had Joseph Stalin, Mao Zedong and Adolf Hitler been around in the 18th century, they could not have engineered the murder of millions of people. They wouldn't have had the authority. There was considerable dispersion of jealously guarded political power in the forms of heads of provincial governments and principalities, nobility and church leaders whose political power within their spheres was often just as strong as the monarchy's.

In the case of Germany, when Hitler came to power, he inherited decades of consolidation by Bismarck and later the Weimar Republic that weakened local jurisdictions. Through the Enabling Act in 1933, Hitler destroyed any remaining local autonomy. The decent Germans, who made Hitler's terror possible, would have never supported his territorial designs and atrocities.

Decent Germans are paving the road for tyranny just as Germans did. In the name of one social objective or another, we are creating what the Constitution's Framers feared — concentration of power in Washington and the creation of a superstate. The Framers envisioned a republic. They guaranteed it in Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution, making an individual state's authority competitive with, and in most matters exceeding, federal authority. Now it's precisely the reverse. In the pursuit of lofty ideals like health care, fighting crime and improving education, we Americans have given up one of our most effective protections against tyranny — dispersion of political power.

Try this thought experiment. Pretend you're a tyrant. Among your many liberty-destroying objectives are extermination of blacks, Jews and Catholics. Which would you prefer, a United States with political power centralized in Washington, powerful government agencies with detailed information on Americans and compliant states or power widely dispersed over 50 states, thousands of local jurisdictions and a limited federal government?

You say, "Williams, what happened in Germany could never happen here." I'm betting that Germans who lived prior to the end of the Weimar Republic would have said the same thing.

Too many errors in medical profession

The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941 killed about 3,000 Americans. On the week before the anniversary of that event, the Institute of Medicine released a report that claimed doctors and hospitals kill 44,000 to 98,000 Americans per year by mistake.

Well, well, well, what do you think of that? Apparently, American medicine is more dangerous than firearms. Firearms accidents kill about 1,400 people a year. In fact, the death toll from accidents, homicides and suicides is less than the low number killed by medical mistakes.

Yet many doctors have the gall to the propaganda campaign against private ownership of firearms — one of those rights which Americans fought to preserve in World War II. It is absurd to live under a government that says to its citizens: We will train and equip you with lethal weapons, but as soon as you are discharged from the service, we cannot trust you to own a private firearm.

It is even more absurd for a medical profession in dire need of cleaning up its sown act to self-righteously and erroneously claim that murder is a public health problem. No, murder is a moral problem. Getting killed by doctors' errors is a public health problem. Doctors allowing pharmaceutical corporations to turn them into drug salesmen is a moral problem. Doctors participating in so-called clinical research for a drug while taking money from the drug company is a moral problem.

Charley Reese

Syndicated columnist

And here's a tip for wolfishly hungry trial lawyers: If a gun manufacturer is liable for the criminal misuse of a firearm, then certainly a pharmaceutical manufacturer must be legally liable for the fatal misuse of its products by doctors. And talk about deep, deep pockets — the pharmaceuticals have them. Sic 'em, boys.

Come on now, folks, an official study has just shown you that doctors and hospitals are three to five times more lethal and dangerous than the nation's murderers. After all, what serial killer ever approached 44,000 victims per year? The odds of surviving a criminal encounter are much higher than the odds of surviving a visit to your doctor and his hospital.

In fact, when you compare American fatalities in World War II, American doctors and hospitals kill more Americans in a comparable time period than the Japanese and German armies did in 1941-45, if we use the high end of the Medical Institute's estimate. It would be a sour turn of events indeed for an American fighting man to survive a war only to come home and get killed by his doctor.

In all seriousness, it is clear that what can be rightfully called a public health crisis is caused, at least in part, by the following factors:

—Pharmaceutical companies have way too much influence in organized medicine. They literally bombard doctors with advertising and new nostrums. This goes back to the days when the Rockefellerers, heavily invested in pharmaceuticals, got into cahoots with the American Medical Association and managed to convince the world that allopathic medicine (treatment with drugs) was the only legitimate form of medical care.

—Doctors try to treat too many patients.

—Government regulations place too great a burden on doctors and hospitals while not placing nearly enough of a burden on the price-gouging pharmaceutical industries.

—Americans have been indoctrinated by both their doctors and commercial advertising into the false belief that whatever ails them can be cured by popping a pill or sniffing a liquid drug. Why is anyone surprised that the war on drugs has been a failure?

So there is a lot of work to do to correct medical errors. In the meantime, you doctors should lay off attacking the Second Amendment right to keep off bearing arms. My guns are less of a threat than you are.

Polish teen-agers accused of clubbing teacher over low grades

By MONIKA SCISLOWSKA
Associated Press Writer

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Two Polish teen-agers were arrested for brutally clubbing a teacher who gave them bad grades, police said Thursday.

Witnesses said the attackers waited for the teacher in a school parking lot Wednesday morning in the town of Kety, 210 miles south of Warsaw, and then beat him with a baton made of metal and wood.

The victim, identified only as Andrzej S., a 43-year-old technology teacher, was hospitalized with serious injuries and is expected to survive.

The attack was the latest example of violence in what many Poles see as a rise in agitators, who say it reflects frustration and disillusionment among young people who expected faster rewards as capitalism took the place of communism after 1989.

The teen-agers arrested in the latest attack were identified only as Adrian S., 17, and Tomasz R., 16. It is illegal in Poland to make public the last names of suspects who have not yet been tried in court. Students at the scene caught one of the attackers, and the other turned himself in later, said Maciej Stanek, the police commander in the nearby city of Oswiecim.

"There is a rising rush for money, for unloading frustration, feeling power," Stanek said. "The youths don't know how to fill their free time."

The attack was the latest example of violence in what many Poles see as a rise in agitators, who say it reflects frustration and disillusionment among young people who expected faster rewards as capitalism took the place of communism after 1989.

The national police chief spokesman, Pavel Biedziak, said that the number of crimes by people under 17 appears to be declining, but that the brutality of attacks is rising. He blamed the trend in part on the influence of movies and other media.

Poverty and violence at home also have taken blame for the country's youth violence.

People in the news ...

NEW YORK (AP) — "Late Show" host David Letterman was to undergo a heart test Friday to determine if he has a blockage in his arteries.

The 52-year-old funnyman scheduled an angiogram at an undisclosed hospital because of what he said was his high cholesterol and a history of heart disease in his family.

During an angiogram, a flexible tube is inserted into an artery and dye is injected so doctors can get a picture of how blood is moving into the heart.

"He thought it prudent to do this now as a precaution," said his spokesman, Howard Rubenstein.

Letterman disclosed he was going to have the procedure during a taping of the CBS program with guest Regis Philbin. The segment was to air Friday.

The host turned momentarily serious when he asked Philbin about his own successful emergency angioplasty at age 59 in 1993.

"The reason I'm bringing this up is that I have very high cholesterol, and I also have a history of this," said Letterman, whose father died of a heart attack in his 50s.

Letterman returned to jokes when Philbin asked him how high the cholesterol level was.

"It's borderline ... 680," Letterman wisecracked. Doctors usually recommend people keep their cholesterol levels under 200.

Letterman said the worst-case scenario would be to "open Daddy's rib cage ... and I don't want that."

After the taping, Philbin said he was surprised by the news.

"He sprang it on me," Philbin said. "You never know if he's kidding or not, but it became clear he was serious."

BOSTON (AP) — It was a merry holiday season for James Taylor and Boston Symphony Orchestra executive Caroline "Kim" Smedvig.

The singer-songwriter proposed to Ms. Smedvig on Christmas Eve at their home in Brookline, presenting her with an antique diamond ring from Tiffany's, said Jessica Kusmin, their personal assistant.

"I was very touched and charmed by how traditional and romantic it was," Ms. Smedvig said.

The marriage will be Ms. Smedvig's second and Taylor's third. They have not set a date.

Taylor, 51, and Ms. Smedvig, 44, met when Taylor taped a Boston Pops concert in 1993. They began dating two years later.

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) — George Jones has completed his court-ordered alcohol-treatment program in connection with an auto accident that nearly killed him last year.

The country singer pleaded guilty to driving while impaired in the March 6 accident. An open bottle of vodka was found in the wreckage.

He spent two weeks in rehab.

"George said when he went to the court he felt the Lord had spared him for a reason, and he wanted to do well in view of being granted that measure of grace," said his lawyer, Ed Yarbrough.

NEW YORK (AP) — David Bowie, Sister Helen Prejean, Bill T. Jones and Ruben Blades helped honor Susan Sarandon for her two decades of human rights work.

"It's a chance to use my celebrity instead of being used by it," said the 53-year-old actress, who is up for an Oscar as a ditzzy mom in "Anywhere But Here."

The tribute Thursday was sponsored by the Center for Constitutional Rights.

Sarandon was arrested last year while protesting the fatal shooting of a West African immigrant by four police officers. She is supporting a lawsuit filed by the center to disband the officers' special police unit.

"She's photogenic in handcuffs," joked Tim Robbins, master of ceremonies and Sarandon's longtime companion.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Chelsea Clinton attached one condition to the Christmas gift she wanted to give students at Escondido Elementary School: The media couldn't be invited to watch her give it.

Only first-graders and their teachers were present as the 19-year-old first daughter read "A Visit From St. Nicholas" — more popularly known as "Twas the Night Before Christmas" — on Dec. 10 at a coffeehouse, the Palo Alto Daily News reported Friday. Afterward, she chatted with students as they snacked on gingerbread cookies and sipped hot chocolate.

"She was really wonderful with the kids, very gracious and warm," said principal Gary Prehn. "She answered their questions and talked about her mom and dad and living at the White House."

Ms. Clinton is a junior pre-med student at Stanford University.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Billy Wilder received a salute from a crowd that included some of the hot young directors in the industry.

"When you get to be 93, your legs start to give out," the director of such classics as "Some Like It Hot" and "Sunset Boulevard" told a sellout audience at a Motion Picture Academy salute Thursday night. "I just hope that my mind doesn't give out."

Wilder, who had to be assisted to the stage by an aide, is no fan of tributes — "These things are so boring," he told a reporter. But he seemed moved by three standing ovations.

The audience was a mixture of old Hollywood — Edie Adams, June Haver, Evelyn Keyes — and the new — Kevin Spacey, director Curtis Hanson ("L.A. Confidential"), and director Paul Thomas Anderson ("Boogie Nights").

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Barbra Streisand wants her name off the marquee of a $15 million estate she donated to the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy because the group wants to let tourists in.

When she donated The Streisand Center for Conservancy Studies in 1993, the star intended it as "a small conference center for scientists, academics and environmentalists," she said in a letter Thursday to the California Coastal Commission.

"I am not in agreement with the proposed use of the land, my name will no longer be affiliated with the property."

The commission delayed until April a decision on whether to grant the conservancy a permit to open its 22 acres to visitors. It has already been renting the grounds for weddings, bar mitzvahs, conferences and tours.

Joseph Edmiston, the conservancy's executive director, said now is "a good place to part the way" with Miss Streisand. Using the property more as a park than an academic center "fits more of our profile," he said.

A rodeo without calf roping, steer wrestling?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — What do you call a rodeo without calf roping and steer wrestling? A San Francisco rodeo, if a city Animal Control and Welfare Commission recommendation becomes law.

The commission voted to ban steer wrestling, calf roping, greased pig contests and the use of cattle prods and bucking straps. Thursday's recommendation now goes to the Board of Supervisors for final action.

The ban would not apply to the Grand National Rodeo, the area's largest rodeo, held at the Cow Palace, just over the city line. It would, however, cover the Juneteenth Black Rodeo and smaller events held in San Francisco.

Rodeo animals "are not willing participants," commissioner Catherine Tschen said. "It's our duty to protect animals."

Douglas Corey, a veterinarian who works with rodeos, told the commission that the animals are well cared for and that accidents are few.

PHS student to compete in Miss Texas High School Pageant

Celeste Stowers was recently selected to represent Pampa High School in the Miss Texas High School Pageant, a scholarship pageant for girls who are juniors in high school, to be held June 9-11 at Austin Hilton Hotel in Austin. Judging will be based on poise, interviews, how active they are in high school and personality. The participants may also compete in the optional talent competition and Miss Photogenic.

Each entrant must meet a sponsor fee. Individuals or organizations wishing to sponsor Stowers should make checks out to "Miss Texas High School" with Stowers' name at the bottom of the check and return it to Stowers. The fee is tax deductible and will be used for scholarships and pageant weekend expenses.

Hog producers hope for a better year

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — For the first time in more than 18 months Nebraska pork producers have something to smile about.

A recent U.S. Department of Agriculture report shows that hog inventories are down 4 percent, which has helped improve prices.

Fewer hogs plus a strong economy and rejuvenated Asian export markets have contributed to the largest upswing in hog prices in at least 18 months, said Dillon Feuz, an agriculture economist with the University of Nebraska.

"It's looking like prices in 2000 will finally be above break even for most of Nebraska's producers," Feuz said. "Those prices probably won't be enough to recapture all the losses toward the end of 1998, but it will be positive."

In Nebraska, the average price per pound of pork has jumped from about 18 cents a year ago to around 37 cents now, said Steve Cady, executive director of the state Pork Producers Association.

Pork prices hit a record low in December 1998 because of an excess of hogs, which cut into prices.

Most producers are close to breaking even, but they aren't into the clear yet, said Creston Pork Producer Stan Rosendahl.

"We still have a concern of whether the market is going to get good enough to allow producers to pay back lost equity," said Rosendahl, president of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association.

He estimates that producers lost about 40 percent of their net worth in the last 18 months.

Rosendahl was one of many producers to cut down his operation in order to get by.

Madison Pork Producer Merlin Oswald said he didn't have to scale back his operation, but even with prices per hundredweight about $7 higher in 1999 than 1998, he is apprehensive about celebrating.

"That sure doesn't generate the types of profits that would be needed to look at recapitalization or even to weigh what the future of the industry is," he said.

MARSHFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Jane Livingston doesn't think the 50 llamas she breeds are exotic and she hopes the state government agrees.

Livingston supports a Missouri bill that would reclassify llamas from "exotic animals" to livestock, making them cheaper to raise and more attractive as alternative stock.

"Here's another industry a farmer could possibly use," Livingston said.

Even the Missouri Farm Bureau is putting its considerable clout behind the llama legislation, which would affect some 125 llama farmers in Missouri as well as those who keep llamas as a hobby.

If the bill passes, llama owners wouldn't have to pay taxes based on the value of an individual llama, but on the same basis used for cattle and other livestock.

Livingston, who helps organize llama shows at the Ozark Empire Fair, said there are about 150,000 llamas in the United States, about 5,000 of which are in Missouri.

An increasing number of southwest Missourians keep llamas on small farms or in larger herds, said Gary Naylor, a livestock specialist.

Naylor said farmers sell the wool and the llamas are considered good guard animals because they scream when upset and are tough enough to kill dogs.

Food production intertwined with medicine, environment in futurist

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — Widespread social and lifestyle changes, coupled with unprecedented household wealth, will allow 21st Century farmers to use emerging technologies to deliver safer, healthier foods to consumers at premium prices, a futurist says.

Lowell Cattlett, a professor at the New Mexico State University, outlined his vision for the future Wednesday at the Agriculture Vision 2000 conference.

Changes in the past century have created a spoiled society with the money to demand agricultural products that integrate the latest medicinal benefits and are produced on environmentally safe farms, he said.

"It means we are not just feeding hungry mouths. It means we can take agriculture to the next step," Cattlett said.

Technologies are now being developed that will intertwine medicine and agriculture to produce foods that can vaccinate the world against diseases such as small pox.

The future of Kansas wheat production, for example, may lie in growing genetically modified wheat to produce bread for people who are glucose intolerant, he said.

"It is a world totally inseparable from medicine, totally inseparable from the environment," Cattlett said.

As 1900 dawned across America, the average person lived to the age of 46. But by the end of 1999, the average person lived to age 76 1/2.

"We have four generations of people alive and healthy — with lots of money," he said.

That money — $36 trillion in household wealth in this country — will play an increasingly bigger role in the coming years, he said, because $26 trillion of it is held by an aging generation that will soon pass it on to the free spending, baby-boom generation.

"When we get the $26 trillion, we are going to spend it," Cattlett said.

In agriculture alone, $7 trillion in farm real estate is going to change hands as aging farmers retire in the next few years, he said.

"It's a phenomenal change — get ready for it," he said.

The two-day Vision 2000 conference was sponsored by Kansas State University, Water Protection Association of Central Kansas and the consulting firm of Kennedy and Coe, LLC.

The conference explored some of the emerging technologies and issues shaping agriculture in 2000 and beyond. Among them is growing use of precision agriculture to do such things as help farmers calculate — using ground positioning systems from orbiting satellites — the exact amount of fertilizer to put on a field.

For some, the vision of the future includes returning to some of the practices of the past.

Pete Ferrell, a Butler County rancher, has put together the Tall Grass Prairie Producers Cooperative to help him and his neighbors raise beef cattle in the Flint Hills in the same manner that buffalo once roamed the plains — without intervention from the rancher.

"For all our technology and hoopla, we haven't improved over nature," Ferrell said.

His vision for the future includes cooperatives where ranchers have pooled their land to allow cattle to range unfenced prairies.

Hotline for hay continues

AUSTIN (AP) — With dry weather worsening across the state, the Texas Department of Agriculture is reminding livestock producers that its telephone hotline service continues to match hay sellers with buyers.

"Based on long-range climate predictions and La Nina remaining strong, the forecast may not improve any time soon. I want to ensure that Texas producers are able to locate hay for winter feeding," Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said.

The hotline connects producers needing forage with hay suppliers from Texas and other states. Begun during the 1996 drought, it was used again in 1998 and revived last March because of the potential for another drought.

Farmers and ranchers can make contact either through a phone call or through the department's Web site.

"In some areas of the state, forage for grazing is nonexistent and hay supplies are depleted or are dwindling fast since producers had to start feeding earlier than normal," Ms. Combs said.

Wheat acreage lowest since 1972 as farmers cutting back

By PHILIP BRASHER
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers planted less than 43 million acres of winter wheat last fall, the smallest amount since 1972, as producers trying to cope with depressed grain prices continue switching to more lucrative crops, the government said Wednesday.

Plantings of winter wheat are down 1 percent from last season's crop and 8 percent below 1998, according to surveys by the Agriculture Department. About three-fourths of the wheat produced in the United States is a winter variety, which is planted in the fall and harvested the following spring.

Wheat plantings started dropping after Congress enacted the 1996 Freedom to Farm law, which ended production controls and let farmers start switching between crops without losing subsidies.

"With Freedom to Farm we've had the ability to try to go to crops that have a better potential to be more profitable," said Dean Stoskopf, president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers. "With the wheat prices we have had the last couple of years, the incentive is to do something different."

Farm commodity prices collapsed in 1998 and are expected to rise only slowly over the next several years because of the heavy production and big surpluses worldwide.

Support has been building in Congress and among farm groups to come up with a new subsidy program that would guarantee farmers a higher income in periods when prices are low. The nation's largest farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, in the past has resisted altering the 1996 law, but endorsed such a proposal Wednesday during its annual convention in Houston.

Prices for the 1999 wheat crop are averaging between $2.50 to $2.60 a bushel, down from $2.65 in 1998 and $3.38 in 1997, according to USDA.

Kansas farmers are growing 9.8 million acres of wheat this winter, down from 10 million last year. Oklahoma's plantings are down to 6.1 million acres from 6.4 million in 1998. In Texas, where dry conditions either delayed or prevented seeding last fall, the wheat acreage is down to 5.8 million this winter from 6.2 million a year ago.

USDA also issued yearend reports on 1999 crops:

—The corn harvest reached 9.4 billion bushels, down 3 percent from the year before but still the fourth largest on record.

—Soybean production declined 4 percent to 2.6 billion bushels but was still the third largest ever. Soybean yields were hurt last year because of the drought in the East and South.

—Total wheat production last year, including spring varieties, was 2.3 billion bushels, 10 percent less than 1998.

—The rice crop was a record 21 billion pounds, up 12 percent from 1998. The cotton crop was up 22 percent last year to 17 million bales.

Meanwhile, USDA slightly raised its estimates of the prices that farmers are getting for their 1999 crops of wheat, corn and soybeans to reflect heavier-than-expected demand. The prices of soybeans and wheat were raised 5 cents a bushel, while the projection for corn was up 10 cents.

"This is a fairly modest adjustment from where we would like to see prices go," USDA economist Larry Salathe said.

Nursery industry strong part of agricultural economy

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The West Coast nursery industry can look at the 1990s as a boom time fed by population growth, while the rest of agriculture suffered from low commodity prices, oversupply and other perennial problems.

Nursery sales increased every year this decade in Oregon. The trend might date back even further, but 1990 was the first year the state's agricultural statistics service surveyed the industry.

"When you think about everything that's happening in agriculture, that's a phenomenal growth record," said Clayton Hannon, executive director of the Oregon Association of Nurserymen.

Sales totaled a record $532 million in 1998, making nursery and greenhouse products the state's top-selling commodity for the fifth consecutive year.

Ornamentals make up the bulk of the state's nursery crop, and roughly 70 percent of the stock is exported to other states.

"The early indication is that sales in 2000 will be even better," Hannon said.

California, which features a broader range of products than Northwest states, reached $2.4 billion in sales for 1998, which includes cut flowers, flower seeds, Christmas trees, roses, bedding plants and ornamentals.

In the last 10 years, nursery products have moved from sixth to third in agricultural sales in California behind milk and cream, and grapes, respectively.

"The industry is doing well and will continue to do well for at least the next five years because the population keeps growing," said Jack Wick, regulatory consultant with the California Association of Nurserymen. "People need lawns and everything we sell."

In Washington, which features a retail-oriented industry, a comprehensive statewide nursery survey commissioned by Washington State University was completed for the first time last year, looking at the 1996-97 season.

Wholesale operations in that state fetched nearly $282 million, making nursery products No. 8 in sales in Washington.

Even in Idaho, where potatoes, cattle and dairy are dominant, nursery sales are increasing and totaled $55.5 million in 1997. Heavy construction activity in Boise and Post Falls-Coeur d'Alene is keeping the state's nursery industry growing.

Another indication of growth is the number of attendees and exhibitors at the region's producer- and consumer-oriented shows.

Duane Kelly, chairman of the Northwest and San Francisco Flower and Garden Shows, expects a record 90,000 visitors to attend his Seattle show in February. More than 100 companies are on the waiting list to exhibit.

The popularity of the nursery industry is spilling over. Some farmers of commodities such as berries are converting their farms to nursery.

And new events and exhibits are being established. The Washington Nursery and Landscape Association is selling booth space for its first Emerald Expo at Seattle's Stadium Exhibition Center.

The surging popularity may also have something to do with the aging population, nurserymen say.

"The Baby Boom generation is largely embracing gardening," Kelly said. "People live and work at a fast pace these days and that creates a need to get away from that. I don't see the pace of life slowing down."

Tests determine if crops have been engineered

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — A North Dakota company has started testing seeds and crops to verify they have not been genetically changed through biotechnology.

Consumer fears have led some major grain buying companies to offer premiums for non-altered crops and to segregate the crops they buy.

"It's something new and it's not going to go away," said Steve Adams, owner of the North Dakota Grain Inspection Service in Fargo.

Adams' company started testing soybeans two weeks ago with a simple positive-negative test that costs about $12 per sample.

So far, Adams' tests only verify that soybeans being bought and sold are not Roundup-ready, or made immune to the herbicide Roundup.

We must never temper our thoughts ...

To the editor,
About the article dated Jan. 11, 2000:
I want to apologize to Keith Anderson. I honestly didn't know our reading of Charley Reese might cause you to think some of us are nuts. I don't mind people calling me a nut, so long as they let me run loose.

In the past, I have read or heard Edward R. Morrow, Paul Harvey, Jack Anderson, Walter Williams, George Will, along with "Rash Limbo," and others, besides Charley and yourself. I have even read The Daily Spokesman in my youth.

I think what might have possibly gotten me to doing such things was when I was very young I watched my granddad, that I loved dearly, listen to Gabriel Heater on the radio. Before the program was over, he would be either laughing or up pacing and cussing with his little dog Betsy right behind him also cussing. I really enjoyed those shows of opinion.

I promise I will try to break this filthy habit.
I feel in order to do this properly, I shouldn't read the paper at all. As you well know, the comics and want ads are part of the staples of life. I truly hope you will forgive me my "Mallard Fillmore." The next time you feel your grapes of thought turning sour, please feel free to call on me for possible jollifying. If I cannot produce, I have other help available.

I would like you to remember the general public is not in a position such as yourself.

In order for us to be heard, we must temper our words.
Our thoughts ... never.
Charley Dykes
Skellytown

The answer is ... there is no answer

To the editor,
The recent controversy surrounding the Harry Potter children's book series poses an interesting question for parents in this, the 21st century. The series in question is ostensibly perceived as being a handbook for witchcraft and sorcery. Quite naturally, those with strong religious beliefs are the most outspoken critics. For, if the Bible, the Qu'ran, and the Torah cannot be utilized in school curricula, it certainly seems in conflict with the separation of church and state to introduce concepts pertaining to witchcraft — no matter how innocuous they may seem. But, while this First Amendment question will be something for the nation's judiciary to ponder, perhaps an even bigger issue for parents involves the apparent inviolability enjoyed by the written word in this country.

There is a commonly-held belief among adults today that children don't read enough. Our violent culture is often attributed to movies, video games and music that features violence. But is reading really a panacea for the nation's ills? Prior to answering, consider these passages:

- 1) The papa is delighted that the twigs he uses to flog the child (his 7-year-old daughter) have knots in them. "That'll add to the stinging effect," he declares and proceeds to use them on the little girl.
- 2) Under the pretext that the child (a five-year-old) dirtied her bed, they forced her to eat excrement, smearing it all over her face.
- 3) The General orders the boy (an eight-year-old) stripped naked. The whole pack was set on the boy and the hounds tore him to pieces before his mother's eyes.

Did these passages appear in an adult magazine or an X-rated movie? Sadly, no. The painful truth is that these passages appear in a piece of literature heralded as one of the best novels ever written. But, while Fyodor Dostoevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov" may well be a literary masterpiece, the aforementioned passages — among others in the book — should result in this critically-acclaimed work being banned from school libraries across the nation. After all, there have been many books banned from school libraries over the years for being inappropriate. Among these, according to the American Library Association, are the Mark Twain classic, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" as well as John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," both of which are infinitely less violent in nature than "The Brothers Karamazov." But, rather than being banned for its graphic violence, it is far more likely that the Dostoevsky classic will be offered, by conscientious parents, as an alternative to violent video games — even though the most politically incorrect manufacturer would be appalled by such graphic depictions of child abuse. So, what's the answer? It's simple — ban all books!

If such a proposal seems a little Nazi-ish to the American way of thinking, it is meant to. The actual answer is, there is no answer. If you attempt to ban a book, you simply cause it to become more sought after. And quite frankly, one would probably be able to count, on one hand, the number of students in a given high school who have read Dostoevsky. Indeed, most adults in this country have never indulged. And it's quite likely that those few who have did not run out and try to flog a 7-year-old or sic hounds on an 8-year-old. They were brought up better than that.

So maybe that's the answer. No matter what we do, no matter how many books we ban, no matter how many V-chips we install, young people are going to be exposed to things parents consider inappropriate. But, if parents were even marginally successful at imparting proper values to their children, all of that exposure would be received in the spirit in which it was offered — as entertainment.

It takes work to learn the art of patience

To the editor,
A couple of situations concerning the residents of the Pam Apartments has come up that I believe needs to be clarified. For some time now, Albertson's Bakery has been donating day old bread, rolls, cakes, pies and etcetera to the residents out here. Someone contacted the bakery who did not appreciate the "gently aged products" and called Albertson's to state their opinion. That one complaint has brought a change to their kindness and, therefore, they have stopped donating their baked goods to us.

While one bad apple has spoiled the barrel, I would like Albertson's and this community to know that the rest of the residents here have always appreciated the baked goods. As you all know, our income is not overflowing and these baked goods have been an enormous help with our budgets. The overwhelming majority here at the Pam Apartments have been very thankful for the help Albertson's has given us.

Therefore, it is our desire that Albertson's reconsider donating those goods to us and to please excuse that bad apple. We do need that help and that person who complained does not have to accept those goods nor any others that may be available to us. To the management that made the decision to stop donating, please reconsider the very grateful help the others of us out here really do need and appreciate.

Another situation has also arisen that needs to be addressed.

Chicken Express always donates one of the big Bingo prizes each week. It is a free ticket for a four-piece Chicken Tender meal. Someone went there to redeem a coupon and apparently whomever waited on them was not familiar with the procedure. We can all understand that when a person starts a new job, they do not know everything they need to know to wait on the customer 100 percent. All of us have had a new job and all of us have been in that situation where we had to ask a question in order to follow store policy.

Whomever tried to redeem one of these coupons apparently was waited on by a new employee who had to ask about the procedure. Then the coupon-holder got a little hateful and apparently caused some trouble. Now, we are faced with the possibility of having that very welcomed coupon taken from us as well. We would like to let Chicken Express know how grateful we are that they have always donated that prize for Bingo.

In closing, I would like to say that I don't understand someone being ungrateful about good things that are given to us to help with our budget. To whomever made the two mistakes I have mentioned, next time you don't like the food, please be quiet because the majority of us do appreciate it. And not just to the resident here who got a little impatient, but to the rest of the residents of Pampa in general, try to remember that new employees are just that — new. They are not expected to know everything when they first start a new job. We all started from somewhere. We would all, every one of us, be far better if we worked to learn patience as we so readily have learned the art of impatience.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — Pampa Red defeated Borger 63-36 in a 7th grade boys' basketball game Thursday.

Britten East was top scorer for Pampa with 18 points. Clayton Hall had 15 points and Heath Miller added 12.

Pampa Red's record is now 8-0 for the season.

Borger defeated Pampa Red 54-34 in the 8th grade game.

High scorers for Pampa were Johnny Moore with 9 points, Jed Martin 7, and Colin Bowers 7.

Pampa Red's record is 3-5.

GENERAL

PAMPA — A new air gun program with opportunities for on-going competition is being offered in Pampa. The program is for boys and girls ages 8-17.

There will be training by qualified adults with strong emphasis on safety.

A meeting is planned for 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 20 at First Christian Church fellowship hall, 18th & Nelson Street.

Parents must accompany children at this first meeting.

For more information, call Larry Chancellor at 665-1301, Darrell Evans at 665-1744 or Larry Nunamaker at 665-9394.

BASEBALL

BOSTON (AP) — Carlton Fisk will wear a Red Sox cap for his induction into the Hall of Fame, ending speculation that the Vermont-born catcher would spurn Boston because of lingering bitterness.

"I think I've known for a long time," Fisk said. "It's not like a light bulb came on or I had a vision. I think this has always been a part of me."

Fisk spent his first 11 seasons with the Red Sox and his final 13 with the Chicago White Sox.

His departure from the White Sox also was unpleasant.

The Red Sox said today they will retire Fisk's number 27, only the fifth number in team history to be retired.

The others are Ted Williams (9), Carl Yastrzemski (8), Bobby Doerr (1) and Joe Cronin (4).

The White Sox have already retired number 72, which Fisk wore in Chicago.

Fisk hit the most famous home run in Boston history, a 12th-inning drive off the left-field foul pole that won Game 6 of the 1975 World Series against Cincinnati. The replay of Fisk waving frantically for the ball to stay fair, then leaping when it struck the pole, is one of the most memorable ever in baseball.

Fisk left Boston unhappily in 1980 after the Red Sox missed the deadline for mailing him a contract. He signed with Chicago as a free agent.

Fisk also left the White Sox unhappily.

The team released him in 1993 at age 44, then refused to let him into the clubhouse to greet his former teammates during that year's playoffs.

Fisk, who now lives outside Chicago, was born in Vermont and grew up in New Hampshire.

The Red Sox and Fisk recently made amends, with Fisk accepting a job as a special assistant to general manager Dan Duquette.

Fisk caught the most games in major league history (2,226) and hit a record 351 of his 376 career home runs as catcher.

He and former Cincinnati Reds star Tony Perez will be inducted into the Hall on July 23 during ceremonies at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Lady Pacers victorious

Pampa's Lady Pacers returned from the Christmas holidays to defeat Victory Academy of Amarillo last Thursday. The Pacers led from the outset and dominated the game to come away with a 47-16 victory. Erin Raber led the scoring with 20 points and 14 rebounds while Kendra Raber added 18 points along with 11 rebounds and 10 steals. Others scoring were Rainy Hopson with four, Kellie Mullican with three and Courtney Echols with two points.

Monday night the Pacer women met their rivals from Plainview Christian. During the game, the lead changed numerous times, but in the end the Lady Eagles came away with the win. Heather Parry led the scoring in the first quarter with six quick points which gave the Pacers a 26-22 lead at the half, but a slow third quarter gave the Eagles an edge going into the final period. The Lady Pacers came back to within four in the fourth quarter, but were edged out in the end by a score of 51-43. Those scoring for the Pacers were led by Erin Raber with 15, Rainy Hopson with nine, Heather Parry and Kendra Raber with eight each and Kellie Mullican had a three pointer.

Tuesday night the Lady Pacers traveled to Amarillo to meet Alamo Catholic. The Lady Pacers dominated from the beginning and won the game with a score of 57-36. Erin Raber topped her career record scoring 32 of the Pacers' points. Rainy Hopson had eight points, Kendra Raber had seven, Kellie Mullican had six and Heather Parry and Courtney Echols each had a basket.

The Lady Pacers play at home Tuesday night when they again meet Victory Academy of Amarillo.

Modano held out by Stars

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Stars are holding center Mike Modano out for one week after he sustained his second concussion in three months and was evaluated by doctors.

Modano had to be helped off the ice this week after Calgary's Jason Wiemer took him out along the boards with 9:09 left in the third period against the Flames and he suffered a slight concussion. Calgary won, 2-1.

Although Modano said Thursday that he was ready to play, trainer Dave Surprenant decided to hold him out after consultation with team physician Dan Cooper and the doctors who evaluated the player in Calgary after Wednesday's game.

The Stars said Modano will likely return for next Wednesday's game against Anaheim. But the National Hockey League must clear the Dallas captain to play.

"It's not a matter of how many you've had; it's how frequent they are," Surprenant told The Dallas Morning News in Friday's editions. "You don't want a large number in a short period. This is Mike's second one of the year and no matter how mild it was, it goes on the chalkboard with the other."

"This is normal protocol for a second concussion in a two- to three-month period," Surprenant said.

On Wednesday night, Modano said he felt dizzy and heard a ringing after his head hit the glass when Wiemer checked him in the corner. But a medical evaluation that included a motor skills test after the game showed no problems and Modano began to feel better later in the evening.

The player also sustained what was described as a mild concussion on Oct. 2 when he was sent headfirst into the boards by Anaheim's Ruslan Salei.

The Titans are a little more experienced.

They have eight players back from the Houston Oilers team of 1993, the last time the itinerant franchise made the playoffs. And they have nine more who had postseason experience with other teams.

And, of course, they all played last week.

The most experienced Titans player is one of the most experienced in NFL history — 38-year-old guard Bruce Matthews, who this season set an NFL career record for games by an offensive lineman with 264. He has 11 playoff starts, including last week, more than any player on either team but Bennett, who has played in 20 postseason games.

But a lot of players on both teams don't think that matters much given their big-game college experience.

The Titans start two rookies on the defensive line — Jevon Kearse, the former Florida star who was defensive rookie of the year and an All-Pro and John Thornton, their second-round draft choice.

"Jevon played for a national championship every year," said Thornton, who played at West

Hereford sweeps Pampa in district action

PAMPA — Hereford defeated Pampa by a score of 81-38 Friday night in a District 3-4A basketball opener.

Cody Hodges led Hereford's scoring assault with 24 points. Slade Hodges followed with 13.

Casey Owens had 9 points and 6 rebounds to lead the Harvesters. Adam Rodgers and Derek Williams added 8 each.

Pampa trailed by only three points (16-13) at the end of the first quarter. However, the Harvesters managed only three points in the second quarter as Hereford sped to a 43-16 halftime advantage.

Other Harvesters who

High School Basketball

scored were Gary Alexander 5, Victor Brooks 4, Jesse Francis 3 and Russell Robben 1.

Pampa's next district game is at Palo Duro on Tuesday night with the tipoff around 7:45.

Hereford notched a 53-43 win over Pampa in a District 3-4A girls' game Friday night.

Tori Walker had 13 points and Toni Eicke 12 to lead Hereford scorers.

Leading Pampa was junior pivot Emily Hartman, who had 15 points and 8 rebounds. Joy Young followed with 12 points.

It was a close contest for much of three quarters with Hereford ahead by five (37-32). The Lady Whitefaces ran off the first six points of the fourth quarter and stayed comfortably ahead the rest of the way.

Also scoring for Pampa were Lindsey Narron with 8 points, Vaughn Evans 5, Cali Covalt 2 and Jennifer Lindsey 1.

The Lady Harvesters visit Palo Duro for a 6 p.m. game Tuesday.

GROOM — Groom rallied past Lefors 39-31 Friday night in District 9-1A basketball action.

Wade Ritter's 17 points paced the Tigers in scoring. Dustin Babcock chipped in 8 points.

Groom had trailed by eight (19-11) at halftime.

John Dausek had 12 points and Michael Steele 9 to lead Lefors.

Groom won the girls' game by a score of 58-14.

Krisanne Davis, Carrie Davis and Jodi Homen led Groom scoring with 10 points each.

Amer Ehmann had 5 points and Melody Seely 3 for Lefors.

Colts, Titans not your normal playoff teams

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis tight end Ken Dilger, at 27 years old, will be the oldest starter on offense when the Colts play host to the Tennessee Titans on today at the RCA Dome.

No, there's not a lot of experience in this matchup of two teams with six losses between them.

The Colts have 13 wins and the Titans 14, the extra win being the "Music City Miracle," that 22-16 wild-card victory over Buffalo decided by Kevin Dyson's kick-off return after taking a lateral from Frank Wycheck.

"This is a time when our veterans have to step up," said Colts quarterback Peyton Manning, one of many stars on both sides in their first playoff season.

"It will be a learning experience for us and the only way to learn is to go out there and play and experience it."

The problem for the Colts is that those veterans are primarily on defense. Not only that, but Cornelius Bennett, who's played in five Super Bowls with the Bills and Falcons, will miss this game with a knee injury.

The Titans are a little more experienced. They have eight players back from the Houston Oilers team of 1993, the last time the itinerant franchise made the playoffs. And they have nine more who had postseason experience with other teams.

And, of course, they all played last week.

The most experienced Titans player is one of the most experienced in NFL history — 38-year-old guard Bruce Matthews, who this season set an NFL career record for games by an offensive lineman with 264. He has 11 playoff starts, including last week, more than any player on either team but Bennett, who has played in 20 postseason games.

But a lot of players on both teams don't think that matters much given their big-game college experience.

The Titans start two rookies on the defensive line — Jevon Kearse, the former Florida star who was defensive rookie of the year and an All-Pro and John Thornton, their second-round draft choice.

"Jevon played for a national championship every year," said Thornton, who played at West

Virginia. "We have a whole lot of guys that come from winning programs in college."

The Colts, meanwhile, have a small group of veterans left from the 1995 and '96 playoff teams, including Dilger, defensive linemen Bernard Whittington and Ellis Johnson, and safety Jason Belser. The other starters in the secondary also have playoff experience — Jeff Burris with Buffalo and Tyrone Poole and Chad Cota with Carolina.

That seems to make Sunday's game a wash in terms of experience, or lack of it. That doesn't make it very different from the rest of this weekend's four games in the Super Bowl countdown.

Applewhite knee surgery successful

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas quarterback Major Applewhite, the Big 12 offensive player of the year in 1999, underwent successful surgery Friday to repair a torn knee ligament.

Team surgeon Dr. Cary Windler repaired the anterior cruciate ligament in Applewhite's left knee and found no other serious damage. Applewhite suffered the injury

"I read in the paper where there's not much fan interest because the Denvers and the Dallases and the 49ers and teams like that are not playing now, but I'm not sure that's right," Indianapolis coach Jim Mora said. "We have fans. Tennessee has fans. The Rams have fans. People want these teams to win, too. So I think it's good. I think it's great."

Mora himself has some playoff experience, all of it bad — he was 0-4 in 10 seasons in New Orleans.

"That makes no difference," Mora says. "I'd feel the same way about this game if I was 4-0. This is one you want to win for the team."

in the second half of Texas' Cotton Bowl loss to Arkansas.

Rehab is expected to take between six and nine months, which means Applewhite, a sophomore, will miss spring practice. Freshman Chris Simms will assume the role of starter when practice begins Feb. 29.

"We expect him to have a complete and full recovery," said Texas trainer Tom McVan.

Amarillo Academy Sports & Outdoors to host fishing clinic

AMARILLO — Fish can take a breather on Saturday, Jan. 22. Instead of being on the water, fishing pros and enthusiasts will be at Academy Sports & Outdoors for "Meet the Pro," a day-long fishing clinic.

Academy Sports & Outdoors will host more than 200 of the top fishing pros and manufacturer representatives from all over the country in 46 stores.

At "Meet the Pro," customers can trade fishing tips with top local and national fishing pros in stores Saturday, Jan. 22 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The pros will sign autographs and offer advice.

"This is the chance of a lifetime for anglers to gain a world of fishing knowledge as they buddy up with their favorite pros in their own backyard," said Dennis Krieger, fishing buyer for Academy Sports & Outdoors.

Lew Killebrew of Daiwa will be at Academy Sports & Outdoors, 4400 Soncy Roach (at 45th Avenue).

Customers can also register in the "meet the Pros Sweepstakes" to win a 14-ft jon boat with a trailer and motor or one of the following:

Fishing trip for two to the Florida Keys with Jose Wejbe, host of ESPN's "Spanish Fly," courtesy of Yo-Zuri.

Fishing trip for two with Terry Shaughnessy at Hackberry Rod & Gun Club in Hackberry, La., courtesy of H&H Lures.

Fishing trip for two with Billy Murray in Venice, La., courtesy of Excalibur Lures.

Fishing trip for two with Blaine Frierhood in Galveston, Tx., courtesy of All Star Graphite Rods.

Anglers, ages 12 and younger, can register in the Academy Kids' Fishing Team

Coloring Contest for a chance to win a rod and reel combo and a tackle box. Forms are now available at Academy Sports & Outdoors.

Academy Sports & Outdoors currently operates 49 stores in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee. The stores carry a full selection of athletic equipment; athletic footwear and apparel; and fishing, hunting, camping and marine equipment.

Success of Minnesota and St. Louis reflect decisions their coaches made

ST. LOUIS (AP) — When you think of the Minnesota Vikings in the 1990s, you think of the play-offs, which they've made in all but one of Dennis Green's eight seasons as coach. When you think of the St. Louis Rams of the '90s, you think of losing. They carried the NFL's worst record of the decade into this season. So while Green just had to keep on keepin' on, Rams coach Dick Vermeil had to make some serious changes. That he did reflects well on Vermeil, whose Rams take a 13-3 record, the best in the NFC, into today's playoff game with the Vikings (11-6). "There is no question how good a job Dick has done with the Rams," Green said. "It's a 180 percent turnaround from last year to this year," added Rams linebacker London Fletcher. Vermeil's Rams were 5-11, then 4-12 in his first two seasons after a 14-year hiatus from coaching. Questions of whether Vermeil, 63, could still handle the rigors of coaching — he left the NFL in 1982 with burnout — dominated summer talk. Vermeil adapted, making changes in staff, players and style. And the Rams now have the inside track to the Super Bowl. "I talked to Bill Parcells on Wednesday," Vermeil said. "He said, 'I'm excited to see our generation of coaches experience success.' (Colts coach) Jim Mora and myself, and the way he experienced success a year ago and finished so strong this year. He says it proves the old way isn't a bad way, and I agree with him. We aren't done yet." While Vermeil's job security was minimal before the season, Green didn't have such worries heading into 1999 — for the first time in a long while. Each year, his Vikings would get to the post-season, then underachieve. But last year's 15-1 mark and record-setting offense eliminated talk of Green's job being in jeopardy. Then the Vikings started the season 2-4. "I think our guys played hard," Green said. "I never had any question about our guys' attitude. I just don't think we were playing as clean a game as we should have been playing. When you're playing Tampa Bay and Detroit and Green Bay, those are teams that you play twice every year. They have a great understanding of how they want to play you. If you make a few mistakes, they can beat you. "We've been around long enough to know not to panic. You either know your team or you don't." Green knew enough to bench Randall Cunningham for Jeff George at quarterback. He also knew that if he relied on his stars, they would begin coming through. Minnesota won five in row. "We went 8-2 down the stretch and we won our last three games," he said. "In the history of the Vikings, I don't know how many times we won three consecutive games at the end of the regular season." It's five times, but now they have won four straight after the 27-10 playoff victory against Dallas. "I don't know him personally, but I do as a coach," Vermeil said of Green, whose games Vermeil occasionally broadcast while Vermeil worked for ABC and Green was coaching Stanford. "He has done a great job at Minnesota. He is a leader within the coaches' organization and with his role on the competition committee. Everybody in the profession has a lot of respect for Dennis Green." If Vermeil lost some of his players' respect, he quickly recaptured it this year. Success — and a slightly less intense approach — will do that. "You always know where you're coming from with coach Vermeil," defensive end Grant Wistrom said. "He's never going to beat around the bush with you and everybody appreciates that he's so straightforward with you. It is kind of nice. You see so many coaches who are so stoic, and you know when he's excited and when he's upset. He's not too difficult to read."

Azinger leads Sony Open by five strokes

HONOLULU (AP) — For Paul Azinger, winning the Sony Open would finally end his bridesmaid role in Hawaii. He still has 36 holes to go, but his 12-under 128 is good enough for a five-stroke lead over three other golfers — John Huston, Jim Furyk and Stuart Appleby. Azinger shot a 5-under 65 in Friday's second round at the Wai'alae Country Club, despite what he described as a less-than-average round. "I'm really surprised," Azinger said. "It didn't feel that good." He'll have to be on his game if he's going to avoid what's befallen him in what was then the Hawaiian Open. He finished second three times and in the Top 10 on five other occasions. Two of the three players in a position to challenge him in the $2.9 million event are familiar with the 6,070-yard oceanside course, having won the Hawaiian Open. Huston set a PGA Tour record when he posted a 28-under-par total in 1998, and Furyk took the title in 1996. Defending champion Jeff Sluman is at 134 with Jerry Kelly, Vijay Singh and Chris DiMarco. Larry Mize jumped into contention with a 63 to join Ernie Els, Sean Murphy, Neal Lancaster, Scott Dunlap, Jesper Parnevik and Chris Riley at 135. Gary Nicklaus, making his PGA Tour debut on a sponsor's exemption, shot a 70 to reach the midway mark at 1-under 139. The cut was placed at par 140 with 74 players advancing to the final 36 holes. Two Japan PGA Tour players made the cut with Shigeki Maruyama at 136 and Kaname Yokoo at 138. "I've been in this position before," Azinger said in not trying to look beyond today's round. "Winning here would mean as much to me as all the guys behind me, I'm sure," he said. "If I don't win, I'll feel secure, I'll be in the place I'm supposed to be. I'm willing to accept whatever happens. I'm at a point I believe everything happens for a reason." Although he is five shots behind the leader, Furyk said he and the other challengers are in good positions because of their familiarity with the course. "I'm not going to be upset with my position," he said. "Paul is distancing himself from the rest of us, but I can't worry about how he is playing. I just have to get my game going."

Baker ignites Sonics past Spurs, 91-85

SEATTLE (AP) — If the Seattle SuperSonics are going to have a chance against the NBA's elite teams, Vin Baker is going to have to perform like a player with an $87 million contract. Baker did just that on Friday night as the Sonics won their fourth straight game by beating the defending NBA champion San Antonio Spurs 91-85. Criticized for being soft and disappearing in big games, the 6-foot-11 Baker had 23 points and nine rebounds in Seattle's second victory over the Spurs in less than two weeks. "When you play hard and you work hard, good things can happen," said Baker, who received his big contract from the Sonics this summer. "It boosts your confidence when you beat the world champions twice in 10 days." Gary Payton led the Sonics with 25 points on 9-of-26 shooting, while the Spurs' twin towers, Tim Duncan and David Robinson, combined for 52 points and 23 rebounds. Duncan had 32 points and 16 rebounds, while Robinson scored 20 points. "We're winning because we're playing the way we're supposed to play, like a team," Payton said. The Spurs lost for the second time in two nights. They were beaten 107-103 on Thursday night in Sacramento.

San Antonio saw its road record slip below .500 (10-11). The Sonics never trailed after grabbing an 18-2 lead in the first 5:20, but the Spurs got to within one point at 60-59 in the third quarter.

Flashback
1993: Pampa came from behind to defeat Dumas 32-30 in a high school girls' basketball game.
Alana Ryan was high scorer for Pampa with 14 points. Christie Jones and Kasey Bowers added 9 points each.

Gray County Ag Day slated this month

The Annual Gray County Ag Day is slated to begin with registration at 8 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 20 at M.K. Brown Auditorium in Pampa. Private, non-commercial and commercial applicators will receive 6.0 continuing education units for attending the meeting. Navartis Seed Co. will sponsor a free meal.

Featured speakers will include Dr. Dale Fjell, Extension agronomist from Kansas State University, and Extension agronomists from Texas A&M, Dr. Cloyce Coffman and Dr. Travis Miller.

Fjell will discuss the production of soybeans on irrigated and dryland acres. He has been involved in soybean research in Southwest Kansas and will discuss his findings for producing soybeans in this area.

Coffman will explore gene transfer in plant materials and how corn varieties are effected by heat units, elevation and environment. Coffman specializes in corn and grain sorghum and is located on campus at College Station.

Miller will focus on the production of sunflowers on the high plains. He is the small grain, soybean and sunflower specialist for the State of Texas and is located on campus at College Station.

Other topics and speakers: Randy Rivera, Texas Department of Agriculture, "Pesticide Laws and Regulations"; Leon New, Extension irrigation specialist, Agri-Partner test data; Ray Brady, Panhandle Underground Water District #3, Precipitation Enhancement program; Dr. Brent Bean, Extension agronomist, weed problems and control; Dr. Carl Patrick, Extension entomologist, insect problems and control methods; and Dr. Steve Amosson, Extension economist, on-farm storage from a marketing point-of-view.

The deadline to RSVP the Gray County Extension Office is 5 p.m. Jan. 18. For more information, call the Extension office at 669-8033.

THE Pajama Game

Traci Shelton and Dillon Hill as Eabe Williams and Skid Scrockin

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

A strike is imminent at the Sleep-Tite Pajama Factory. The union is seeking a seven-and-a-half cent raise and to further complicate matters, the factory supervisor has fallen in love with the head of the Grievance Committee.

Add to this a trick-shooting, jealous, efficiency expert and a host of other entertaining characters, and you have the fast-paced musical comedy, "The Pajama Game."

The musical, which is filled with such memorable songs as "Steam Heat" and "Hernando's Hideaway," opened on Broadway in 1954 and ran for over 1,000 performances.

The Pampa High School Concert Choir, under the direction of Fred Mays, will present The Pajama Game on 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 21, and another evening performance on Saturday, Jan. 22. The Sunday performance will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 23.

All presentations will be at the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

Assisting in the production are Jennifer Scoggin, Wanetta Hill, stage director; Maegan Dyer, stage manager; and Courtney Lang, choreographer. Choir parents have also assisted by building sets and designing costumes.

The local musicals presented by the PHS students are always popular presentations, and demonstrate the exceptional talents and proficiencies of the student performers.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $4.50 for students, and are available from Concert Choir members or at the door.

Allyn Gayle Schaub and Gary Adam Kronen

Schaub-Kronen

Allyn Gayle Schaub and Gary Adam Kronen, both of Naperville, Ill., were wed Oct. 30, 1999, in Oscar Swan Country Inn at Fox River Valley in Geneva, Ill., with the Rev. Gary Goldacker of Denver, Colo., and Rabbi Mordecai Rosen of Chicago, Ill., officiating.

The maid of honor was Dr. Emily Mathis of Chicago. The best man was Dr. Jason Pozner of Boca Raton, Fla. The ushers were Kelly Jones, brother-in-law of the bride of Amarillo, and Dr. Roderick Quiros of Chicago.

Music was provided by violinist Jennifer Silk of Arlington Heights, Ill.

A reception was held following the service at the inn. The bride is the daughter of Robert and Monty Schaub of Pampa and is the granddaughter of Pauline Slott of Deerfield Beach, Fla., Audry Huff and Bonnie Schaub, both of Pampa, and Jules and Mona Kronenberg of Hallondale, Fla. She graduated from Pampa High School in 1990 and from the University of Dallas at Irving cum laude in 1994, receiving a bachelor of science degree in biology. She attended medical school at the University of Texas Houston Health Science Center and earned a medical doctorate degree in 1998. She is currently a physician completing her residency in surgical obstetrics-gynecology at Loyola University Medical Center at Chicago.

The groom is the son of Sheldon and Arlene Kronen of Riverdale, N.Y. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry. He earned a medical doctorate degree from State University of New York in Syracuse and completed his residencies in general surgery and plastic surgery at Montefiore Medical Center/Albert Einstein College of Medicine in Bronx, N.Y. He holds fellowships in microsurgery at the University of Louisville in Louisville, Ky., and hand surgery at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. He is currently in private practice, establishing "Hand and Plastic Surgery Associates" in Chicago.

The couple planned a honeymoon trip to Paris, France, and intend to make their home in Chicago.

Should Your Child Have a Professional Eye Exam?

Did you know that in-school vision screenings detect only 20 to 30 percent of vision problems in children? According to the Better Vision Institute, they can miss up to 80 percent of problems which may affect your child's ability to learn. A child can pass an in-school vision screening and still have undiagnosed eye problems that can cause learning difficulties. Sometimes youngsters display symptoms of vision problems, such as squinting or frequent daydreaming; some vision problems, however, may not have obvious symptoms. As children grow, their eyes grow and change, too. That's why a professional Annual Back-to-School Checkup is so important. By ensuring your child is free of vision problems, you'll give your youngster the best chance to perform to his or her fullest potential.

Having your child's eyes examined is as easy as ABC!

Aimee Jo Francis and Matthew Keith Fields

Francis-Fields

Aimee Jo Francis and Matthew Keith Fields were wed Jan. 1 in Rock Creek Church of Christ with John Francis, great-uncle of the bride, officiating.

The bride's maid was Jennifer Sava of Canyon. The bridal attendant was Matt Francis, brother of the bride of Dumas.

The best man was Barry Sanders of Canyon. The groomsmen were Dave Davis of Pampa.

The ushers were Matt Francis, brother of the bride, and Clint Babcock of Groom.

Music was provided by vocalist Stacy Fields, sister of the groom.

A reception was held following the service in the fellowship room of the church with Amanda Breeden of Shallowater, Maria Marlin of Lubbock and Abbye Lovell and Sarah Quisenberry, both cousins of the bride, serving the guests.

The bride is the daughter of Danny and Donna Francis of Silverton, is the granddaughter of Denny and Johnnie Quisenberry of Lockney and is the great-granddaughter of Booger and Garnie Taylor of South Plains and E.A. and Velma Bonner of Lockney.

The groom is the son of Keith and Shirley Fields of Groom and is the grandson of Edward and Juanita Vincent of Lefors and Shirley and the late Billy Fields of Groom.

The couple plan to make their home in Groom.

Newsmakers

AMARILLO — Amarillo College recently announced students named to its fall, 1999 Honor List.

To be eligible for the Honor List, students must maintain a 3.6-4.0 grade point average while enrolled in 12 or more semester hours. Honorees earning 4.0 GPAs include: Chris Broadbent, Kevin Hucks, Rodney Kelley, Jeremy Miller, Mandy Parks, Heather Robben and Allyson Thompson, all of Pampa. Other honorees were Justin Morris, Joseph Davis, Kasey Garrison, Amy Hahn, Louis Heard, Adam Hillman, Christoval Martinez, Dianna McCoy and Scotty Stribling, all of Pampa.

CLARENDON — Clarendon College recently announced its Dean's Honor Roll for the 1999 fall semester.

To be eligible for the honor, a student must maintain a 3.6 grade point average while enrolled in 12 or more semester hours. Students named to the honor roll include: Kristen Elizabeth Bell, Casey Suzanne Blalock and Donna Joy Hathcoat, all of Pampa.

PORTALES, N.M. — Eastern New Mexico University recently announced its Dean's Honor Roll for the 1999 fall semester.

To be eligible for the honor, a student must maintain a 3.25 grade point average while enrolled in 15 or more semester hours. Students named to the honor roll include: Amanda Diane Wells of Pampa.

LUBBOCK — Cami Stone was recently named to the Dean's List at Texas Tech University, earning a 3.6 grade point average.

ODESSA — Van B. Ragsdale, Pampa High School graduate and son of Audie Ragsdale and the late Robert B. Ragsdale, wrote the band piece "A Walk with McCarley," recently published by Southern Music Company. The piece was written to honor the memory of Robert McCarley, late principal of Ragsdale's junior high school in Odessa. In addition to "A Walk with McCarley," Ragsdale has two other band arrangements published by Chicago Music in New York City, N.Y.

During his 31-year career as a music educator in Texas and New Mexico, Ragsdale's bands have earned numerous awards. He also has the distinction of preparing honor bands for the Texas Music Educators Association clinics in two different school districts and at two different levels — Odessa's John B. Hood Junior High School, 1974, and Midland's Robert E. Lee High School, 1979.

In addition to being twice awarded the TMEA Leadership and Achievement Award for these performances, he has also received the National Band Association's Citation of Excellence. He is listed in "The World's Who's Who of Musicians" and is presently international vice president of Phi Beta Mu International Bandmaster's Fraternity.

In the fall of 1996, after serving seven years as a junior high school band director and 21 years as a high school band director/music supervisor, Ragsdale returned to his first love, teaching beginners and younger musicians at Nimita Junior High School in Odessa. Along with colleague Cindy Bulloch, he has developed a series of band director workshops and together they are co-authoring a forthcoming text, "The Art of Teaching Band: A Systematic and Practical Approach."

Reports: Feds to return vast chunk of land to Utah tribe

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Clinton administration is reportedly preparing to return 80,000 acres of federal land to the Northern Ute tribe in a deal also intended to help clean up tons of mining waste near the Colorado River and two national parks.

Rep. Chris Cannon, R-Utah, said Energy Secretary Bill Richardson was expected to detail the plan today during visits to Moab and Ute tribal headquarters at Fort Duchesne.

"We consider this part of the Clinton-Gore environmental legacy," Richardson said in today's New York Times.

Just this week, Clinton signed declarations for two new national monuments in Arizona and another in California. In 1996, he created the 1.7 million-acre Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument in southern Utah.

According to reports this week in The Salt Lake Tribune and the Times, the land swap will involve the 88,890-acre Naval Oil Shale Reserve No. 2, about 150 miles southeast of Salt Lake City.

The reserve was acquired by the federal government in the early 1900s to protect petroleum deposits in case of a national emergency. The reserves no longer are considered important.

The plan is to return about 80,000 acres to the tribe with the stipulation that a percentage of revenue generated by oil and gas development on the land be returned to Energy Department.

The agency will then use the money to clean up the abandoned Atlas mine near Moab, in southeastern Utah.

There are 10.5 million tons of uranium tailings at the site not far from both the Arches and Canyonlands national parks. The sediment spans 150 acres and stands 40 feet high.

Contaminants from the Cold War-era tailings are seeping into the Colorado River, 750 feet away, and threatening three endangered fish, the southwestern willow flycatcher, razorback sucker and Colorado squawfish. The river is also a source of drinking water for 25 million people in the West, though authorities have said there is no significant threat from the tailings.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission estimated that capping the waste and groundwater cleanup would cost about $47 million and moving the waste more than $100 million. The Clinton administration plan was expected to support the removal of the waste.

The proposal also calls for designating 21,000 acres of the land being returned as a wilderness area and transferring the remaining 8,000 to 9,000 acres of the reserve to the Bureau of Land Management.

"We're taking a close look at the proposed trade," said Heidi McIntosh, conservation director for the Southern Utah Wilderness Alliance. "We're pleased DOE wants to move the Atlas pile and we want to continue discussions to see if we can't find a way to maximize the Utes' development opportunities and protect wilderness at the same time."

Tribal leaders have agreed to a number of concessions in return for the new land, the Tribune said, including accepting the new land as private property — meaning taxes would go to local governments — rather than as tax-exempt reservation property.

"The tribe will once again be the true owner of its traditional lands," O. Roland McCook Jr., chairman of the tribe's governing body, told the Times.

Former Border Patrol agent sentenced in bribery scheme

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A former Border Patrol agent has been sentenced to two years in prison for his role in an immigration bribery scheme.

Roberto D. Longoria, who worked as a senior Border Patrol agent, had pleaded guilty to six counts of bribery and fraud violations. He was also ordered to pay $4,970 in restitution by U.S.

District Judge Filemon Vela.

Frutoso Villareal, an immigration specialist also convicted in connection with the scheme, was sentenced to 16 months in prison and ordered to pay $4,220 in restitution by U.S. District Judge Hilda Tagle. He pleaded guilty to one count of bribery and one count of transferring fraudulent documents.

Longoria and Villareal worked with Los Fresnos Middle School teacher Carlos Villareal to process fake immigration records so that undocumented immigrants could remain in the United States.

Carlos Villareal, who pleaded guilty to misdemeanor counts, will be sentenced Jan. 21.
