RUTH ELDER PICKED UP AT SEA

Greatest Trade Day Real Service in This Territory

FINE SAVINGS ARE EFFECTED BY SHOPPERS

Institution Is Growing Rapidly in Favor in District

THIRD EVENT TO BE NOVEMBER 9

Specials Grouped to Save Money for Customers

Crowds of shoppers, arms loaded with packages, mingled with Pampa business men yesterday in what is declared by all to have been a very satisfactory occasion.

From the buyers' viewpoint, Trade Day meant extra service and bargains worth going miles to obtain.

"It was the best day I have had in a long time, and I am certainly old on Trade Day," many merchants said today. Trade Day is taking the lead over any Saturday, and has the effect of having five Saturdays where the month provides for but four such big days, it is pointed out.

Every business allied with Trade Day each month features on the second Wednesday, one "special" at cost or below. When all these specials are grouped, they mean the biggest bargain day possible in Pampa trade territory. This is why Trade Day means much more than the old fashioned trades days, on which much junk was dumped without regard to real service.

Nearly every line of merchandise is represented, making it possible for the buyer to have a big variety of bargains to choose from. At the same time, the stores make other efforts to make the big day a success. Many of them sold many times the amount of specials advertised, and many saw general sales greatly increase.

Trade Day is a growing institution. Yesterday's event was the second, and the third will be observed November 9. No attempt is made to provide entertainment, but the inducements are put in the bargains, which all alike may enjoy.

Mystery in Death of Doctor and Wife in Burning Home

(By Associated Press) BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 13.—Doctor F. F. Blair, former state physician and Mrs. Blair were found hot to death today lying on the floor of their burning residence.

The corner is undecided whether the deaths were due to murder or suicide.

First American Envoy to Turkey Recently Arrives

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—Joseph Crew, the first American ambassador to Turkey since the world war, presented his credentials to President Kemal today.

CLARENDON JAIL BROKEN

Two men, Clyde Lafton and E. T. Tucker, who forced their way to freedom from the Donley county jail at Clarendon Tuesday night, are still at large. A reward is being offered for the arrest of the men.

Tucker arrested in Quannah and was wanted in Amarillo on a charge of theft.

Mrs. F. A. Cary has returned from a trip to Lubbock and Snyder, where she visited relatives.

Lowden and His Daughters

Frank O. Lowden, war-time governor of Illinois, regarded as a strong presidential possibility, is pictured here with his two daughters. Lowden withheld his final "yes" from more than 2000 farmers and business men who recently visited him at his farm near Oregon, Ill., asking him to declare his candidacy, but he has declared that "no man would run from the presidency."

Reserve Bank Official Refuses To Comment on Request for His Removal as District Governor

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—"I have not prepared a statement and do not intend to," said Lynn Tally, governor of the eleventh Federal Reserve bank at Dallas, when asked today if he would reply to the action taken at the meeting of the 37 South Plains bank executives at Lubbock yesterday.

They went on record, by resolution demanding the removal of Talley and Deputy Governor R. R. Gilbert.

The Lubbock meeting criticized Talley and Gilbert for their policy of retiring loans to members in smaller cities, when the money was needed to advance business credit.

Sheriff and Men Return With Owen Edwards, Suspect

Sheriff E. S. Graves and Deputies O. T. Smith and Scott Rheudisal returned last night from Okmulgee, Okla., with Owen Edwards, who is wanted here in connection with the robbery of the First National bank.

The officers went to Okmulgee, but the prisoner had been moved to Oklahoma City for safe keeping.

Edwards claimed to the officers that he was not implicated in the robbery of the bank. He was calm and cheerful until reaching Wheeler, the officers said, but commenced to show extreme nervousness after leaving there.

He has not yet been identified by any of the men who were held up. An investigation will be conducted this afternoon.

Presbyterians of Miami and White Deer Get Pastor

WHITE DEER, Oct. 13.—The White Deer and Miami Presbyterian churches have called the Rev. A. W. Yell, of Baird, Texas, to occupy the pulpits of the two churches, alternately. Rev. Yell accepted the call and preached his first sermon in White Deer left Sunday. He will conduct services in Miami next Sunday.

Rev. Yell will make his home in White Deer.

Greatest Style Show Will Be Seen Tonight

The largest style show that has ever been seen in Pampa will be featured tonight at 8 o'clock at the Rex theatre when eight of Pampa's leading merchants will have a co-operative autumn style show.

Gowns, wraps, coats and hats will be displayed on living models on the stage at the theatre.

Dame fashion will reign supreme at the style show which demonstrate latest styles from New York and Paris on pretty models. Even the men will be shown the latest styles of fall wear.

The following merchants are taking part in the big parade of Millady's styles: Cross Dry Goods company; Diamond "C" company; Gordon Stores company; Barnard Dry Goods company; L. T. Hill company; Mitchell's the Ladies' store; J. E. Murfee and company; and Kees and Thomas.

Pampa Harvesters To Be Crippled For Game Friday

When the Pampa Harvesters, high school football squad, take the field tomorrow afternoon against Memphis, they will be without the services of Carlton, Hardin and Stalls, in the regular line-up.

The boys may get in the game for a short time, but owing to injuries, will be saved for the big game with Miami next Friday.

The team from Memphis is reported to be strong and the Harvesters will have to travel to keep up their record. Their line has been crossed by only one team this year, and the boys will be out to keep up that record.

Several new men and subs will be used in the exhibition game tomorrow as well as the regular line-up. Walstad, Roberts and Green will be in the game making their usual sensational drives through the line and around the end.

CLEAN-UP WORK IS GOING WELL OVER THE CITY

Inspection Saturday to Check Progress for Council

WILL PLAN AT BANQUET FRIDAY

Fire Hazards to Be Noted By Boy Scouts

Boy Scouts, members of the fire department, and city officials will have a banquet at the Methodist church tomorrow evening to discuss Fire Prevention week and plans for the fire hazard and sanitation survey to be made Saturday.

The scouts met last night and organized to take the survey. They intend to inspect every business house and residence and all alleys and vacant lots. Fire hazards will be particularly noted. The public is urged to cooperate with these boys.

Reports will be made and delivered to the city council. The reports will be studied, and next week city wagons will be provided to remove trash bunched in the alleys.

Cleaning up processes are in progress all over the city, and columns of smoke mark the scenes of work. Indications are that this will be the most extensive and effective clean-up campaign ever held here.

Experienced Boy Scouts will be in charge of the groups which will take note of this progress. The city has been divided into four sections, and Scouts for the inspections have been designated as follows:

Northwest—Berton Doucette, captain; Chester Nicholson, Leon Robinson, Franklin Baer, Wiley Reynolds, Siler Faulkner, Jr., H. L. Ledrick, Tom Sweetman, Noel Reynolds, George Borgen.

Southwest—Vernon Lawrence, captain; Bud Doucette, Clayton White, Raymond Fritchle, Joe Kahl, Turney Mullinax, Dean Washam, Leo Saulsbury.

Southeast—Lawrence Fogleman, captain; LaVerne Twiford, Orval Haskell, Ray Webb, Eddie Glen Phillips, Bob Stapp, Walter Kahl, James Pierson, Wayne Kennison, Glen Haskell, Albert Doucette.

Northeast—Lewis Fogleman, captain; Harry Dowlin, Rufus Walker, Earl Rice, Ellison Husted, Wilks Clayton, Ivey Berry, Earl Lynn Hatman, Claude Sullins, Robert Moore, Bill Welch, Paul Camp.

Lions Interested In Starting Band

Pampa needs a municipal band, and the Lions club is going to make the first move toward starting such an organization.

This decision was reached today at the weekly luncheon, following a talk by the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, who has had experience in managing bands. Rev. Brabham said there are enough trained men here to make a good start within a short time.

Clarendon Lions will visit Pampa and attend next week's luncheon of the local club, it was announced by President Otto Studer.

Musical entertainment, provided by Mrs. Nina McSkimming of the local division of the Amarillo College of Music, and Miss Dorothy Dodd, one of her pupils, was enjoyed by the club. Mrs. McSkimming also played the piano accompaniment to the group singing.

Visitors included H. D. Lewis; P. M. Bailey of Miami; F. E. Beecroft of Amarillo; and J. O. Gillham.

Hip Shotgun

Chief of Detectives Herman Cline of the Los Angeles police department is shown here with one of the new shotguns that shoots from the hip. An officer can carry it in a belt concealed under his coat, and it can be brought into action even faster than a revolver.

Phillips Buys Oil Lease at $750,000

Phillips Petroleum company has come into the Pampa field in a big way by the purchase, from Clark Baldridge and Sherrin of Wichita Falls, one-half operating interest in 880 acres south of Pampa.

The big lease deal involves acreage in sections 64, 63, 87, and 88, block 2.

The consideration was not given by either party, but is understood to have been near $750,000. Because of prior negotiations, the companies did not wish to speak in terms of figures.

Phillips' bid for local production is taken to mean that the company, which will do the drilling, will start big operations within a short time. The terms of the sale are said to have contained no mention of cash, but of payment from the production as it is obtained.

The Phillips company does not now contemplate erection of a big refinery, as reported, Amarillo officials say, but a small skimming plant will be built, likely in southwest Hutchinson county, to increase the firm's gasoline production.

Coolidge Goes on Auto Trip Before Speaking Today

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13.—Under an overcast sky, President Coolidge went sightseeing by automobile about Pittsburgh today, before going to Carnegie Institute where he will speak late in the day at the Founders Day celebration there.

Andrew Mellon, secretary treasurer, was the president's host for the day, and led him and Mrs. Coolidge on their automobile trip about the city.

AMERICAN GIRL LANDS BESIDE DUTCH TANKER

Break in Oil Line Forces Plane to Ocean

"O. K." WIRELESS SENT TO A. P.

Rescue Ship on Way to Baytown Texas

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The Radio Corporation of America announced today that it was informed by wireless from the steamer Olympic that the steamer Brendrecht had picked up the crew of the monoplane American girl, off off the Azores.

The message follows: "Landed by the steamship Brendrecht with a broken oil line. Both Haldeman and myself O. K. Ruth Elder."

News of the safety of Miss Elder and her companion came to turn gloom into joy when growing anxiety was causing the conviction that the American Girl had gone to join the other missing trans-oceanic planes.

Its maximum time limit in the air was almost up and the plane was several hours overdue at Paris.

No word had been received from the plane since Tuesday night, when a steamship saw her winging her way overhead, and barely started on her long trail leading from New York to Paris.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Agents of the tanker Brendrecht here said that the steamer left Rotterdam, October 8, for Baytown, Texas. Her position was given as approximately 1,000 miles out at the present time.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—A message to the Paris office of the Associated Press, received this afternoon from Miss Ruth Elder the aviatrix, told of her landing at sea beside the Dutch Brendrecht. The message, which said that she and Captain George Haldeman were O. K., said the landing of the American Girl while enroute to Paris from New York had been caused by a broken oil line.

The message, which did not give the position of the tanker, was received at the Paris office of the Associated Press at 4:30 p. m. The message had been radioed from the Brendrecht to the steamer Bayano which relayed it to the wireless station at Debizies.

T. D. Hobart Visits Major G. S. Storrs While in Dallas

T. D. Hobart returned yesterday from Dallas.

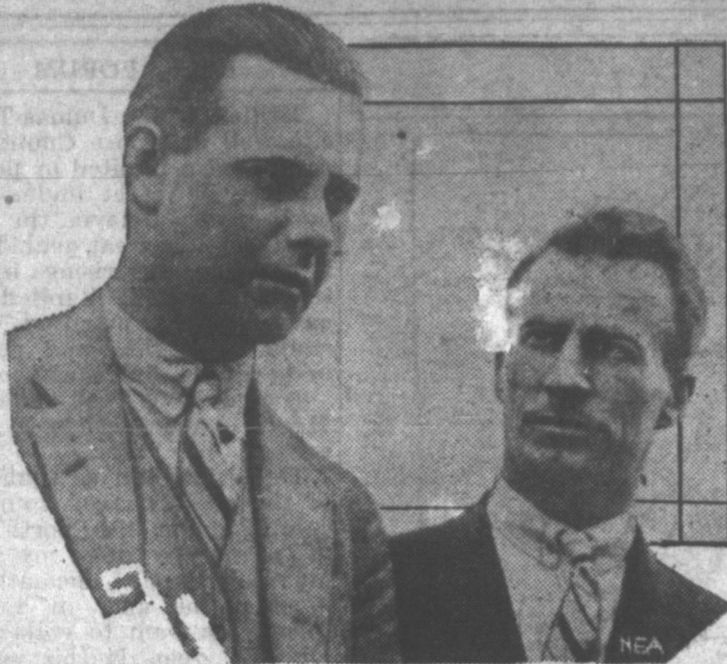

While in Dallas Mr. Hobart made a visit to the Dallas County poor farm, where he saw Major Geo. S. Storrs, who in former days was a classmate of Admiral Geo. Dewey in a naval school, and later accompanied Dewey on a two-year cruise.

Major Storrs at the opening of the civil war joined the Confederate army and was the man who placed the Confederate battery on Kenesaw Mountain in 1864. In 1887 he was appointed state surveyor and was in charge of the H. and N. N. survey in Gray county along with Mr. Hobart.

Major Storrs is 87 years old and was pleased to see Mr. Hobart.

While in Dallas Mr. Hobart had as his guest at the Dallas fair Miss Margaret Buckler, who is attending the Hockaday school there.

Ready for Flight to Australia

With a sack of mail from this country to Australia as their cargo, C. T. P. Ulm (left) and S. E. Kingsford-Smith are ready to start from San Francisco on their journey to Melbourne. They will fly via Honolulu, the entire distance being 9514 miles.

BILLY EVANS Says

Big Year for Moore

This has been a big year for Pitcher Wilcy Moore, of the New York Yankees, who just a year ago at this time was finishing a very successful year in the South Atlantic League. He had won 30 games and lost only four.

Despite his remarkable record, none of the major league scouts fancied he had a chance to make the grade in the American or National Leagues.

It seemed as if his great year in the minors would be wasted until the New York Yankees decided that a pitcher with so remarkable a record must have something. He was bought for a very nominal sum.

"He had a great year in the minors but not a single scout turned in a favorable report," was the comment of Manager Miller Huggan during spring training.

Yet Wilcy Moore, 30 years old, won 19 games in the American League last season and saved probably 15 others to make the most remarkable record ever made by a first year man.

Constantly in Reserve

Now for the very pleasing part of the big season that Moore has enjoyed as a member of the Yankees' pitching staff.

In the Sally League, Moore was paid, so I understand, $2400 a year a rather healthy figure for that league. His rights in baseball 7890 the Yankees to pay him $3000. Moore was delighted to sign such a contract.

There is no denying that Moore played a major role in the winning of the pennant by the Yankees. The greatest weapon a manager can have is a relief pitcher capable of meeting most any emergency. Moore early proved that he could.

With Moore in constant reserve a glutton for punishment. Miller Huggan was able to so shift his pitchers that it was the exception for one of the veteran pitchers to act in a relief role. That helped.

Got Salary Boost

Now for the part that has made a big hit with Moore.

Unless I have been badly misinformed, Owner Jake Ruppert tore up Moore's $3000 contract and made out a new one calling for $10,000. He well deserved it.

If the story is true, and I have every reason to believe it is, Moore stands out as one of the few pitchers to receive such a substantial offer, with the race practically over.

Figuring that the Yankees' share of the world series will probably be around $6000, Moore will receive something like $16,000 for one year's work, about seven times what he earned in the minors.

"I never thought it was possible for one man to make so much money in so short a time," is the way Emmett Ormsby says Moore told him about it.

No wonder the Yankees have a most kindly feeling for Wilcy Moore. The same kindly feeling exists from club house boy to president.

Grand Rapids Picks New Trolleys; Mayor Applies Torch to Old Cars

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Oct. 4.—The public picks the colors for its street cars in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Its every preference has been consulted in the rejuvenation of the city's trolley service, and the success of the Grand Rapids Railway company in making it stylish to ride the street cars has won it the Charles A. Coffin prize, annually awarded to the electric railway company contributing most to the advancement of local transportation. The prize, consisting of $1,000 and a gold medal, was awarded today at the convention of the American Electric Railway association.

L. J. DeLamar, former showman, is general manager of the company, and under his guidance it has gone after public favor with a series of smashing innovations. Several years ago it invited three car builders to construct cars of different types, and it gave the car riders a chance to choose their favorite. The result was a lighter car, of brilliant hue, with cushioned seats and numerous devices for comfort.

Then the public was invited to a celebration at which all the old cars were burned, with the mayor applying the torch. When Colonel Lindbergh came to town the company named a street car for him. Other cars were named for leading citizens. High school and college groups, boy scout troops and other organizations were invited to adorn the cars with their pennants.

Whenever a new resident moves to Grand Rapids the street car company sends him a letter of welcome. Employees sit in all conferences of department heads, and those who avoid accidents get their uniforms free. As a result the company declared its first dividend this year since 1918, and the Grand Rapids system is being demonstrated at the electric railway convention to executives who plan to duplicate it elsewhere in the country.

SWEETS, CLOTH HELP EXPLORER IN JUNGLE HUNT

(By Associated Press) PITTSBURGH—With sweets and colored cloth among its armament, an expedition headed by Dr. Samuel H. Williams of Pittsburgh has entered the wilds of British Guiana seeking secrets of insect life in the jungle.

The gaily colored cloth and the sweets do not, however, have anything directly to do with insects. They are destined to help smooth relations with the Indians.

"I am not going on a ruthless hunting expedition," explained Dr. Williams, who is head of the department of biology at the University of Pittsburgh, "and the natives can be won over with persuasion."

Dr. Williams knows something of both terrain and natives, for he has previously explored the jungles of British Guiana.

On this expedition his object is to learn something about the remarkable variation between insect life of the highlands and the lowlands.

The expedition is to penetrate to the headwaters of the Cuyani river and on into Venezuela.

Air Race Unknowns of 1926 Heroes Today

PHILADELPHIA—In the year which has intervened between the 1926 national air races scheduled at Spokane Sept. 23 and 24, two minor prize winners of a twelve month ago have made their names internationally known for air triumphs.

In the 1926 races an entrant listed as C. C. Champion, Jr., won two speed and efficiency trophies, ranking fourth in a free-for-all race and was fifth in a speed contest. Today, as Lieut. Carleton C. Champion of the naval aviation corps, he holds the altitude record for single seated planes, set last May, and his recent ascent of 38,550 feet, after which he brought his plane down in flames, may be recognized as the world altitude record through divestment of the titles of Jean Callizo, French aviator. Callizo's claim to a 42,000-foot mark has been jeopardized by discovery that his instruments were altered on a subsequent altitude flight.

The other comparative unknown of 1926 was Clarence Chamberlin, who took third place in a sport plane race and third in a precision landing contest, alighting seven feet, 10 inches from a mark. Today Chamberlin is one of the select group of trans-Atlantic pilots, with a nonstop New York-to-Germany flight to his credit.

Bushmen Compete in Dance Marathons

PORTCHESTER, Australia—Not to be outdone by their civilized brethren, the bushmen of Queensland have started a series of "long distance" dancing contests of their own.

The savages call these contests "Corobores" and they last for two or three weeks, the natives dancing sometimes for two or three days at a time before dropping in sheer exhaustion and being relieved by some other young blood anxious to break all previous records.

White observers of these savage rites say that the bushmen are perfect exponents of the Charleston and can dance as deftly as the most sprightly American flapper.

The Australian aborigines are still untouched by civilization. They are the most backward of indigent tribes and are probably the lowest level of human being.

Their customs are primitive and habits revolting to civilized races. Essentially, nomadic, grass seed and herbs from their staple diet.

The aborigines have never come into regular contact with the whites fleeing further inland as civilization touches the outposts of the huge Australian bush desert. From Perth to Brisbane, from Melbourne to North Cape, the tribes are decreasing at a great rate and in another 100 years' time it is believed that a few of the natives will be left.

"I agree with George White that Luckies are the Best"

Said Flo Brooks to Lou Holtz while waiting for their cue to appear in "Manhattan Mary."

George White, Producer of George White's Scandals, writes:

"In the theatre world, Luckies have become almost universal. Stage folks are very critical—voices must be kept in condition, throat irritation is a handicap. In 'George White's Scandals', most actors and actresses whose voices are important smoke Luckies both for voice protection and finer flavor. For these reasons I prefer them, too."

FINE!—Comments on the American Legion convention in Paris have been guarded, since such a trip, with its possibilities for relaxation of every sort, might have had its ill effects.

The spirit of reverence for fallen buddies permeated the gatherings, and the comments, carefully measured after a passing of a decade, came very near the truth of the great struggle.

Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, internationally known sociologist saw the convention from a critical viewpoint. He said this week:

"The boys created a splendid impression, and I was never more proud of my country."

ROCKING THE BOAT—"A new state, made up of the Panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, with Amarillo as the capital, should be formed, declared Senator Wallace Hughes in an address before the district convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Perryton Monday."

The reporter assigned to the meeting asserts that "the statement was greeted with wild applause and pandemonium reigned for several minutes."

It is not entirely true, as was stated by Senator Hughes, that "the Panhandle of Texas and the Panhandle of Oklahoma were joined to their respective states for taxation reasons only."

There would be some advantages to a state carved out of the Southwest as outlined above. These benefits would have been greater a few years ago, when transportation was less perfect and taxes were less equitably distributed.

an applause getter, and as a political threat the proposition has its merits, but active agitation for the project should be undertaken only after the most careful study.

Texas Tech has been established for the whole state and more, and is no small tax burden. The Teachers college at Canyon is more nearly a sectional institution, but draws its students from a wide territory.

The difficulties of bringing about the plan suggested are many. The disadvantages must be weighed along with the expected advantages.

"LARRUPING LOU"—It was more than the much desired "sock" that caused Gehrig to be chosen as the most valuable player in the American league this season—in fact, his admirers are seeing in him the same qualities which make Lindbergh the idol of many.

In the first place Lou is a "natural" player. He "went up" after experience on the sand lot, high school, and university diamonds.

Gehrig is a "gentleman" player, and, unlike in boxing, the fans allow a favorite this privilege without disgust. Ban Johnson calls Gehrig "a great example of American youth."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—When you want to check up the record of a World War veteran through the War Department, please be specific.

A request came to the army the other day for some information about Abraham Solomon.

Investigation disclosed that the A. E. F. had: Seventeen Abraham Solomons.

Fourteen Abraham Solomons with middle initial. Ten Abe Solomons.

The War Department wonders why, with all the argument over who won the war, the Solomons haven't put in a claim backed by sheer force of numbers.

Estimating the time that will be required to enforce prohibition may become a popular sport in the next Congress, now that the question has been raised. The dyes, or many of them, have been saying all along that prohibition could be enforced and the wets have been saying that it never could be enforced.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Selmour Lowman suggested that we do well if we had a dry, sober America within 50 years—an estimate which did not please other high enforcement officials.

promise made in a recent speech by William C. Deming, chairman of the Civil Service Commission. Mr. Deming did not promise absolute enforcement, but after explaining that enforcement officials and agents had been put under Civil Service to cope with an "intolerable" situation, he said:

"The Civil Service Commission cannot perform miracles. We do not promise the impossible, nor will the entire character of the service be changed in the twinkling of an eye, but I am willing to say this—that given seven years, the length of time elapsed since the Volstead law became effective, we promise you results."

Officials of the State Department assume that in time, the rulers, premiers and cabinet members of the world will be able to talk with each other by long distance. Perhaps, in time of strain, serious trouble may be averted by a frank telephone talk.

The department looks forward to talking with Ambassador Morrow whenever necessary. The comparatively new telephone service to Cuba is frequently utilized to communicate with our ambassador at Havana and it requires no more than five minutes to complete the call.

The wire to Mexico City was clogged with a rush of business almost immediately after it opened when the revolution broke out against the Calles government. Government calls came first, of course and there were plenty of them between the State Department and the American embassy here and the Mexican foreign office.

Press associations and newspapers immediately undertook to raise their correspondents in Mexico City by telephone, especially when telegraphic dispatches seemed to be held up. They had little success in completing calls on the first day, however, although the Mexican embassy here got one call to its foreign minister through in less than half an hour.

Sunday School Classes to Give Series of Programs

There was a council meeting of the Sunday School teachers at the Methodist church Tuesday evening with twenty present. Plans were made by which the problems arising from promotions may be worked out. Next Sunday all individual promotions will be observed by the teachers.

Several new teachers were elected for the coming quarter.

The usual program of worship will be varied hereafter for the different departments will have charge of the entertainment for Sunday school. This next Sunday, the senior boys and girls will have charge of the program under the direction of Miss Whitley.

Mrs. Dave Pope Is Hostess to El Progress Club

Mrs. Dave Pope was hostess to the El Progress club Tuesday afternoon. After a short business session, the subject of study for the day was taken up in the form of a debate.

"The Sun Also Rises," by Ernest Hemingway, was the subject of the lesson, and those taking part in the debate were Mrs. Dave Pope, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, and Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar.

The debate was followed by a general discussion, after which Mrs. E. E. Fisher gave a short review of the book.

A most delicious plate luncheon was served to the following guests, Mrs. George Walstad, Mrs. V. E. Fatheree, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. T. D. Hobart, Mrs. P. C. Ledrick, Mrs. Lee Ledrick, Mrs. Carson Loftus, Mrs. W. Purviance, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, Mrs. E. E. Fisher, Mrs. John Andrews, Mrs. Clinton Henry, were guests of the club.

The next meeting of the club will be held at Mrs. W. Purviance's home on October 25, with Mrs. V. E. Fatheree as leader of the subject, "The Green Forest" by Mrs. Nathalie S. Colby.

Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. S. Irwin entertained the teachers of the B. M. Baker school and a few other invited guests with a moonlight picnic near the B. M. Baker school.

After the picnic lunch, while sitting around the blazing fire, it was agreed to organize a club of the teachers of the Baker school, with Mrs. S. Irwin as president, to meet at least once each month with one of the teachers as hostess.

Hamburgers, buns, salads, bacon and beans, hot coffee, jelly, and watermelon were served to the following guests: Prof. and Mrs. A. Meek, Mrs. J. B. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Cockrell, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stowell, Mr. and Mrs. Kullman, Miss Tally, Miss Noble, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lester, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Irwin and two sons, Ralph and Lloyd. Mrs. C. W. Stowell will be hostess to this club October 29.

Baptist Circles Enjoy Fine Meetings Wednesday Afternoon

Circle One of the Baptist W. M. U. met at the home of Mrs. Greenly Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Brake led the devotional and also presided over the short business session. Refreshments of delicious season's fruits were served to the nine members and two visitors present.

Circle Two of the Baptist W. M. U. met at the home of Mrs. John McKamey Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Stark as leader of the business session. Mrs. Clem led the devotional. During the business session the members voted to pay $25 as their share on the new Sunday school building.

Refreshments of cocoa, sandwiches and cake were served to eleven members and two visitors.

Circle Three met at the home of Mrs. J. P. Wehrung Wednesday afternoon for a short hour devoted to special prayer for the series of meetings going on at the Baptist church. There were ten members present. The meeting adjourned at 3:30 o'clock after which the members attended a general meeting at the church.

Mrs. W. W. Merten Is Bridge Hostess Wednesday Afternoon

Mrs. W. W. Merten delightfully entertained a number of her friends Wednesday afternoon. Bridge was the source of entertainment and was greatly enjoyed by the guests.

Mrs. J. S. Wynne was awarded high score, and Mrs. Carson Loftus won low score. The prizes were composed of novelty gifts.

A delicious plate luncheon was served to the following guests: Mrs. J. M. McDonald, Mrs. J. S. Wynne, Mrs. De Lea Vicars, Mrs. C. L. Thomas, Mrs. E. E. Fisher, Mrs. Morris Finney, Mrs. Lester Chiles, Mrs. Marion Howard, Mrs. C. M. Bryson, Mrs. J. M. Dodson, Mrs. Bradford Griffin, Mrs. G. C. Walters, Mrs. W. A. Bratton, Mrs. O. K. Baker, Mrs. Alex Schneider, Jr., Mrs. C. M. Carlock, Mrs. John Andrews, Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. Charles C. Cook, Mrs. Alex Maloney, Mrs. P. O. Sanders, Mrs. L. N. McCullough, and Mrs. Carson Loftus.

Halloween Theme Prevails at Home of Mrs. McCullough

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. McCullough was the scene of a lovely dinner party Tuesday evening in entertainment of a number of their friends. The decorations, in thoughts of Halloween, were composed mostly of Black cats, and added a spirit of the occasion to the enjoyment of the guests.

A delicious three-course dinner was served, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge. High score for men was won by W. A. Bratton, while high score for ladies was awarded Mrs. Morris Finney.

The list of guests included Mr. and Mrs. Morris Finney, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Chiles, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bratton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Borran of Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murfee.

Missionary Society Hears Several Talks On Study Topic

The Methodist Society met Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church in very interesting mission study. The lesson was taken from the text, "Moslem Women," with Mrs. R. C. Campbell, Mrs. Twiford, Mrs. Roy Tinsley, Mrs. C. T. Nicholson, and Mrs. Irvin Cole ably discussing various topics.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. W. Purviance, with a short devotional, while the Mission study was led by Mrs. Tom Brabham. Mrs. Jim Bodkin was hostess to the twenty members present.

The next meeting of the society will be held at the church next Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. R. C. Campbell as hostess.

Politics Is Hobby of 96-year-Old Woman

(By Associated Press)

CHEROKEE, Ia.—Instead of sitting in a corner with her hands folded, Mrs. Phoebe Turton of Cherokee makes the study of political affairs her hobby. Her greatest delight is having her friends and relatives read to her of the latest developments in politics.

Mrs. Turton is one of the few living grand-daughters of the American revolution. Her grandmother, because of the heroism of her husband, was given a special pension by the continental congress.

One of Mrs. Turton's happiest recollections is of meeting Abraham Lincoln at a reception in New York. As Miss Phoebe Cook she was an instructor in the first high school of Newark, N. J.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Suspicion falls on Miss St. Clair, but Vance demonstrates by measurements at the scene of the shooting that the murderer must have been approximately six feet tall. Pfyfe tells Markham that Leacock had once threatened to kill Alvin Benson. This is corroborated, reluctantly, by Major Benson. Markham sends for Leacock.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

"Take a seat, Captain," said Markham, with a formal bow. "I have asked you here, as you probably know, to put a few questions to you concerning Mr. Alvin Benson. There are several points regarding your relationship with him, which I want you explain."
"Am I suspected of complicity in the crime?" Leacock spoke with a slight southern accent.
"That remains to be seen," Markham told him coldly. "It is to determine that point that I wish to question you."
The other sat rigidly in his chair.
"You recently made a threat on Mr. Alvin Benson's life, I believe."
Leacock started, and his fingers tightened over his knees. But before he could answer, Markham continued:
"I can tell you the occasion on which the threat was made—it was at a party given by Mr. Leander Pfyfe."

"Leacock hesitated; then thrust forward his jaw.
"Very well sir; I admit I made the threat. Benson was a cad—he deserved shooting. . . That night he had become more obnoxious than usual. He'd been drinking too much—and so had I, I reckon."

He gave a twisted smile, and looked nervously past the district attorney out of the window.
"But I didn't shoot him, sir. I didn't even know he'd been shot until I read the paper next day."
"He was shot with an army Colt—the kind you fellows carried in the war," said Markham, keeping his eyes on the man.
"I know it," Leacock replied. "The papers said so."
"You have such a gun, haven't you, Captain?"
Again the other hesitated.
"No, sir." His voice was barely audible.
"What became of it?"
The man glanced at Markham, and then quickly shifted his eyes.
"I—I lost it . . . in France."
Markham smiled faintly.
"Then how do you account for the fact that Mr. Pfyfe saw the gun the night you made the threat?"
"Saw the gun?" He looked blankly at the district attorney.
"Yes, saw it, and recognized it as an army gun," persisted Markham, in a level voice. "Also, Major Benson saw you make a motion as if to draw a gun."

Leacock drew a deep breath, and set his mouth doggedly.

"I tell you, sir, I haven't a gun. . . I lost it in France."

"Perhaps you didn't lose it, Captain. Perhaps you lent it to someone."

"I didn't sir!" the words burst from his lips.

"Think a minute, Captain. . . Didn't you lend it to someone?"

"No—I did not!"

"You paid a visit—yesterday—to Riverside Drive. . . Perhaps you took it there with you."

Vance had been listening closely. "Oh—deuced clever!" he now murmured in my ear.

Captain Leacock moved uneasily. His face, even with its deep coat of tan, seemed to pale, and he sought to avoid the implacable gaze of his questioner by concentrating his attention upon some object on the table.

When he spoke his voice heretofore truculent, was colored by anxiety.

"I didn't have it with me. . . And I didn't lend it to anyone."

Markham sat leaning forward over the desk, his chin on his hand, like a minatory graven image.

"It may be you lent it to someone."

"Prior to . . ." Leacock looked up quickly and paused, as if analyzing the other's remark.

Markham took advantage of his perplexity.

"Have you lent your gun to anyone since you returned from France?"

"No, I've never lent it—" he began, but suddenly halted and flushed.

Then he added hastily, "How could I lend it? I just told you, sir—"

"Never mind that!" Markham cut in. "So you had a gun, did you, Captain? . . . Have you still got it?"

Leacock opened his lips to speak, but closed them again tightly.

Markham relaxed, and leaned back in his chair.

"You were aware, of course, that Benson had been annoying Miss St. Clair with his attentions?"

At the mention of the girl's name the captain's body became rigid; his face turned a dull red, and he glared menacingly at the district attorney.

At the end of a slow, deep inhalation he spoke through clenched teeth.

"Suppose we leave Miss St. Clair out of this." He looked as though he might spring at Markham.

"Unfortunately, we can't!" Markham's words were sympathetic but firm. "Too many facts connect her with the case. Her hand-bag, for instance, was found in Benson's living-room the morning after the murder."

"That's a lie, sir!"

Markham ignored the insult.

"Miss St. Clair herself admits the circumstance."

—He held up his hand, as the other was about to answer. "Don't misinterpret my mentioning the fact. I am not accusing Miss St. Clair of having anything to do with the affair. I'm merely endeavoring to get some light on your own connection with it."

The Captain studied Markham with an expression that clearly indicated he doubted these assurances. Finally he set his mouth, and announced with determination:

"I haven't anything more to say on the subject, sir?"

"You knew, didn't you," continued Markham, "that Miss St. Clair dined with Benson at the Marseilles on the night he was shot?"

"What of it?" retorted Leacock sullenly.

"And you knew, didn't you, that they left the restaurant at midnight, and that Miss St. Clair did not reach home until after one?"

A strange look came into the man's eyes. The ligaments of his neck tightened, and he took a deep, resolute breath. But he neither glanced at the district attorney nor spoke.

"You know, of course," pursued Markham's monotonous voice, "that Benson was shot at half past twelve?"

He waited; and for a whole minute there was silence in the room.

"You have nothing more to say, Captain?" he asked at length; "—no further explanations to give me?"

Leacock did not answer. He sat gazing imperturbably ahead of him; and it was evident he had sealed his lips for the time being.

Markham rose.

"In that case, let us consider the interview at an end."

"The moment Captain Leacock had gone, Markham rang for one of his clerks.

"Tell Ben to have that man followed. Find out where he goes and what he does. I want a report at the Stuyvesant Club tonight."

When we were alone Vance gave Markham a look of half-baiting admiration.

"Ingenious—not to say artful. . . . But, y' know, your questions about the lady were shocking bad for."

"No doubt," Markham agreed. "But it looks now as if we were on the right track. Leacock didn't create an impression of unassailable innocence."

"Didn't he?" asked Vance. "Just what were the signs of his assailable guilt?"

"You saw him turn white when I questioned him about the weapon. His nerves were on edge,—he was genuinely frightened."

Vance sighed.

BAN JOHNSON CLEARS DESK; SUCCESSOR MAY MOVE IN NEXT MONTH

Mentioned for the presidency of the American League is E. S. Barnard (above), president of the Cleveland baseball club. At right is Ban Johnson, retiring president of the league, who is making things ship-shape for his successor.

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO—Ban Johnson is putting his baseball house in order. The doughty old warrior is about ready to step out as president of the American League.

He may hand over the reins to some one else November 1, but no one knows definitely when he will step from the stage to the wings. He says he will retire when he gets everything straightened up. In the meantime, he has tidied up his office here. He and his clerical staff have swept through an accumulation of papers that tell in stray figures and records the fighting career of Ban Johnson. The office is about in shape for his successor, who, it is freely predicted, will be E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland American League baseball team. Technically, the American League magnates are expected to dispose of the very important business of selecting a president at the annual meeting which usually is held about December 1. But they may move swiftly and secretly before then, according to the gossip in major league circles.

But, whenever the action is taken, the new president will find the decks cleared for him. Barnard has been connected with organized baseball for nearly a quarter of a century. He had been a football coach, sporting editor of a newspaper, and secretary of the Columbus, O., builder's exchange before that. He went to Cleveland in 1903 as secretary of the Cleveland club. In 1910 he became vice president and in 1916 was made manager. He held that post until July, 1922, when he was made president. Barnard was graduated from Otterbein College at Westerville, O. In 1896 and 1897, he coached the Seventeenth U. S. regiment football team and in 1898 was coach at the Ohio Medical University. He was sports editor of the Columbus Dispatch from 1898 to 1902, helped organize the Columbus baseball club and later was president of the West-

Society Women of England Make Archery Favorite Sport

LONDON—Archery as a sport is as popular in England today as it was in the time of Robin Hood when one's life often depended upon the bow. Women in particular are making archery a favorite sport. Many May-fair hostesses have put their official stamp on the recreation by including bow and arrow shooting in Regent's Park or Kew Gardens in their morning's itineraries. The bow used in England today is about 4 feet high and the arrows 28 inches long. The strings are of stout hemp. The archer uses fingertips of leather to protect the fingers from the string. The use of quivers is the prerogative of women. Men carry their arrows in long tin boxes. Charles II of England first put archery on a basis of fashionable sport. He and his Queen, Catherine, were good shots. Societies sprang up to encourage the sport, and although many of these have disappeared there still remain many famous archery clubs. There is "the John O'Gaunt's Bowmen Club," "the Woodmen of Arden," and "the Royal Company of Scottish Archers." The most important archery association in England today is the Grand National Archery Society under whose rules all championship meetings are held. British women have always been adepts at this sport. Many made distinguished records, such as Mrs. Piers Leigh and Miss Bowley. The latter was champion for 19 years in succession, and did much to popularize archery. There has never been any popular enthusiasm for archery in the United States. The only club that lasted any length of time was "the United Bowmen of Philadelphia," founded in 1828 and disbanded in 1859. While there are few devotees of the sport in the United States now, matches are still held. The world's record for the greatest number of "bulls" is held by a Japanese. A bowman of Tokyo, named Wada, in 1852 made 5,583 shots in 24 hours—more than four a minute.

Helen's Defeat Rests in "Taking" Her Lightning Shots—Nuthall

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Helen Wills today is absolutely unbeatable, says Miss Betty Nuthall, the British tennis prodigy, in the Sunday Pictorial. "Miss Wills is a greater force than Mlle. Suzanne Langlen ever was," she avers in her article: "What I think of Helen Wills." Miss Nuthall says: "A sportman from the top of her classic head to the tips of her toes, Helen Wills, the lady lawn tennis champion of the world, has, I think, never been appreciated as she deserves to be in this country. "Perhaps it was because she followed so close on the heels of Suzanne, who held the public imagination for so many years. Suzanne was always springing surprises on us. She was always, in her own amazing way, picturesque. "Helen is exactly the opposite—in her own way. And it is a way which I, for one, admire and desire most to emulate. "It was a great day for me when I was privileged to play against her in America. It will be a greater day, the greatest day of my life, if ever we shake hands over the net and I have won. Yes, I know I am flying high. It is Helen's glorious game that inspires me to do so. "I really think Miss Wills is the hardest woman in the world to beat. One of the reasons is, I am sure, that she does not seem to be hard to beat when you watch her playing—somebody else. She seems so slow and deliberate, almost to an irritating extent. But that slow deliberation is not reflected in her shots when they come over. Lacking some of the deadly accuracy of Suzanne, she is the hardest hitter of all the women players, and that devastating cross-court drive of hers has to be faced to be believed. Miss Nuthall writes a hundred words about Miss Wills' "Poker face," then goes on to say: "How will she be beaten, if ever she is beaten before she retires? My Own opinion is that, as a match player, and particularly when she is 'up against it,' she is a greater force than Suzanne ever was. At the moment she is, on her day, absolutely and entirely unbeatable. How is that to be overcome? "I hope I will not be thought presumptuous in making the suggestion. Helen will be beaten when someone learns to take the lightning shots of hers.

"One thing is sure. If Helen does go down, she will do it with just as charming grace, just as great a sportsmanship, as she wins, for she is a really great-hearted player."

Photos Help Teachers Spot Absent Freshmen

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—No classmate will shout 'Here!' on behalf of the absent Freshman henceforth at Vanderbilt University. For Vanderbilt has a "Freshmen's Gallery." To help the faculty put names, faces and records together new students were photographed when they registered this term. Several copies were made of each picture, and the "gallery" was opened to professors to whom most Freshmen previously have looked alike. The plan first was tried out in the medical school, where it proved so successful it was extended throughout the University. The People's Store, home of McCall Patterns, they printed. 85-3c

As tough as varnish As beautiful as enamel . . . but dry in 30 minutes

DEVCO Brushing Lacquer is amazing in more ways than one! It is as tough as a varnish; as beautiful as an enamel. But instead of taking hours to dry, it actually dries hard in 30 minutes! Think what this means: you can lacquer a chair with Devco and sit down safely on it in half an hour; refinish a floor and walk across it 30 minutes later; decorate things without taking them out of service for more than half an hour.

Own Winning Horse But Sticks to Jobs

(By Associated Press) GEORGETOWN, Ky.—Although the trotting horse sport generally is considered a rich man's pastime, two street car conductors, of Youngstown, O., have found it both profitable and interesting. Two years ago, J. M. Gill and H. B. Heimbaugh purchased Victor Frisco, a two-year-old out of Victoria Hall by Walnut Hall, Kentucky bred, from C. O. Brown. The next year, Victor Frisco won a small race at Cleveland.

This year he began demonstrating his worth by winning twice over the Ohio half-mile tracks. Moving to Akron he captured the $3,000 trot and then went to acquire his record of 2:03 3-4 in a sparkling victory. Since then he has won at Monree, Goshen and Middleton, in the Orange county circuit. Gill and Heimbaugh still work their "rags" regularly, but manage to see their horse in action occasionally. G. C. FINANCES CAUSED BREAK-UP OF MISSOURI VALLEY GROUP

(By Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY—The high cost of athletics, particularly football, was the big factor in the recent disruption of the Missouri Valley conference.

Established in 1907, when teams were glad to get their expenses paid to games, the conference has seen the development of athletics to a point where success in a financial way has caused its virtual collapse.

Six of the most important members—Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Iowa State and The Kansas Aggies—announce their withdrawal from the conference to form a new six-school association, leaving only Grinnell, Drake, Washington, and the Oklahoma Aggies in the old conference. The withdrawal becomes effective in June, 1928.

Financial reasons alone and the necessity for making every football game a super-attraction caused the break, several Valley athletic heads declare.

King Football, which foots the bill for most of the other intercollegiate sports, must pay in a large measure for the monster athletic stadium and field houses in the larger Valley schools. The withdrawing members all have huge physical athletic plants to maintain, and none of the four remaining teams in the conference has ever drawn the large crowd necessary to pay fancy amounts to rival schools.

Each of the six withdrawing members must realize from $10,000 to $25,000 profit on each football game played to keep the books balanced, one athletic director pointed out.

"The football season," he said, "must show a balance, above expenses, of between $75,000 and $150,000 in order to pay the expenses of intramural and the lesser intercollegiate sports and the salaries of the coaching staffs, buy equipment and keep up the athletic plants."

The football season is too short, directors point out, to sandwich in games with non-profit paying schools. A few years ago Nebraska made a long trip to Oklahoma on a financial guarantee of $3,800. The actual expense of the trip was $3,000. Oklahoma university recently journeyed to St. Louis to play Washington University and the guarantee failed by $300 to pay the expenses of the trip.

"Sentiment, strained relations, hard feelings, or other reasons which have been assigned to the break up of the old conference, had nothing to do with our withdrawal," one of the coaches said. "It was a matter of dollars and cents and where we can do so profitably we will continue to play the four remaining members of the Missouri Valley conference. Oklahoma and the Oklahoma Aggies doubtless will play every year as their game now is a big drawing card because local sentiment brings a crowd. Others will do the same."

The new association brings together the teams having the best facilities to handle crowds and insure the financial security of its members. Nebraska now can handle a crowd of 50,000, and probably has the finest athletic plant in the Valley. Both Missouri and Kansas can seat nearly 40,000, the Kansas Aggies and Ames each have facilities for more than 25,000, and Oklahoma soon will have facilities to seat more than 30,000 spectators.

At the same time, it is asserted in Valley sport circles, the four remaining teams in the Valley will have better opportunity to develop and become stronger because they no longer will be forced to stand the heavy financial drain incident to keeping pace with the schools with larger enrollments and longer established sports plants.

Short-Course for Farmers to Bring Good Speakers

The Vocational Agricultural department of the Pampa High school is planning a two-day short course for October 21 and 22.

During the short course there will be discussed vital questions relating to dairy cattle, beef cattle, poultry husbandry, field crops, forage crops, and special attention to legumes, as both a forage crop and a soil builder.

Men and women with a state and a national reputation will take part in these discussions.

Among those who will be present at this short course will be A. A. Tampke, vocational teacher at McLean, who will speak on shop work; Frank Dupree of White Deer, who will address the students on farm crops in relation to soils; C. T. Sims of Claude, who will speak on feeding farm animals; C. C. Dodd, Pampa, will talk on poultry; and Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, with a well chosen subject.
