To New Officials: DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: Now that you have come along to join my official family, I sincerely hope that you will have a successful term of office and that things will run along smoothly for you. However, to those of you who are brand new at this public office business, I suspect that you already know that you have not stepped into a bed of roses, and that things are going to come up from time to time which will try your good judgment to the limit. May you seek wise counsel in reaching your decisions and may your tenure of office be such that the voters will be happy to endorse you again two years hence.

PA PAMPA. To County Commissioners: DEAR FELLOWS: Soon you will be asked to decide whether or not precinct officers in my county shall be returned to the fee system in place of the present salary system of operation. Just from past experience it occurs to me that the disadvantages of the fee system far outweigh those of the salary system. If these officers are to be maintained, it appears to me that the salary system is the fairer of the two plans. At least, you cannot make a "rocket" out of the salary system. Almost everyone I have talked to about the matter is in favor of salary retention. You should give this issue some mighty serious consideration between now and Jan. 11, when you must decide.

PA PAMPA. To Postal Employees: DEAR WORKERS: Just a word to compliment you on the glowing report of the year's business as just released by your postmaster, C. H. Walker. It is a splendid report and a remarkable indication of community prosperity and return to normalcy. And, while I'm on the subject, may I add a word of praise for the splendid holiday service given to my public. I know you worked hard and long at the annual holiday season, and it is just about the toughest that can fall to the lot of anybody around that season of the year. It was a difficult job, well handled.

PA PAMPA. To The Weatherman: DEAR TOOTS: I'm inclined to be a little bit disgusted with you. You turned out to be a big flop in 1936 when it comes to rainfall. Here, all along, without digging up the records, I had been figuring that you had done right by Neil and sent a record year of rainfall. I'm sure you know that. And then, what do I find when everything for the year is totaled? Fact of the business is, 1936 was next to the worst year, insofar as precipitation is concerned, in the last decade. A swell guy, you turned out to be! If you don't cut loose with some moisture soon, you can consider yourself off my list for life.

PA PAMPA. To First Baby of 1937: DEAR FLORENCE ELIZABETH: Welcome to this old world of ours, and congratulations, too, on being the first-born in Pampa in this new year of ours. And, while I'm about it, I suspect that congratulations are in order for your parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Easley. About all I have to say in this connection is that I am happy to know that you are to receive the array of presents which have been donated by my merchants, and that, after all, this isn't such a bad world into which you have come. I always have been told that the first hundred years are the toughest and after that everything will be just dandy.

PA PAMPA. To KPND Staff: DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: I can't pass up the opportunity to say a few words to you.

GERMAN CRUISER SHELLS FREIGHTER

FAMILY STILL TRIES TO DEAL WITH KIDNAPER

BOY SCOUTS HUNT FOR LAD IN BRUSH NEARBY

SEATTLE, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Post-Intelligencer tonight published, under copyright, what it termed the authentic ransom note left a week ago tomorrow night by the kidnaper of Charles Mattson, 10, in Tacoma. The asserted text follows: "Get eighteen thousand dollars, five and ten dollar bills, numbers not to run consecutively. "Get ten thousand in fifty dollar bills, numbers not to run consecutively. "This amount will double each week. "The boy is safe. "When you are ready, insert in a personal column of the Seattle Times—Mabel, what is your address, Ann?" "Discard any notes received by you unless this type and this color ink is used and signed 'Tim.' "Use an old Ford car. "Tim."

The newspaper asserted it had discovered that the note was written several weeks previous to the Mattson kidnaping and was intended for the abduction of the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Franklin, who had purchased Haddaway Hall, the mansion of the late J. P. Weyerhaeuser, grandfather of the boy.

First 1937 Pampa Babies

The first 1937 baby born in Pampa, Florence Elizabeth, and mother, Mrs. Donald Easley, are shown in the upper picture taken 12 hours after the New Year baby was born. A son born to Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Vaden at 3:39 a. m., 19 minutes after Florence Elizabeth was ushered into the world, is shown lower left. The baby, lower right, was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Silor at 6:45 a. m. The Easley baby was born at the home of her grandmother at 826 W. Kingsmill. The Easleys have lived in Pampa two years. Six weeks before Christmas Mr. and Mrs. Easley stayed with relatives in Sunray where Mr. Easley sought work. They left their belongings in Pampa and returned at Christmas. The grandmother with whom the Easleys have lived for two years was employed at the sewing room until recently. She is a practical nurse. The gifts offered by a group of Pampa merchants to the first baby of the year will go to Florence Elizabeth. The remarkable photographic study of Mrs. Easley was made by Foster Fletcher, NEWS photographer. It is highly unusual for babies 12 hours old to be photographed with their eyes open.

Hudson Faces Charge Of Murder In Hays' Death

Ted Hudson, 25, held in the hit-and-run traffic death of Wilford P. Hays, 23, Skelly Oil company employe and widely-known soft-ball pitcher, today faced a charge of murder. Hudson waived examination at a hearing before Justice of the Peace E. F. Young late Friday afternoon and is being held for grand jury action under $2,000 bond. Hays was fatally injured at 2:30 a. m. Christmas day and died the following afternoon in a local hospital. The accident happened when Hays and his brother, Ed Hays, were pushing their disabled car in S. Cuyler street in an effort to get it out of the way. The car struck on the legs by a passing auto as he was starting to get back into his own car. When the car struck him, Hays was hurled to the pavement. The scene of the accident was near Six O'Clock restaurant where Hays and his brother and two girl companions had stopped to eat. Hays was to have been married this week to Miss DeAnn Heiskell, Miss Pampa of 1935 and 1936. Miss Heiskell was in the automobile at the time of the accident. Hays was taken to the hospital where he died the following afternoon.

1936 BUILDING DOUBLES 1935

Pampa's building permits for 1936 were $462,187, or more than double the amount of 1935. Inspector J. R. McKinley revealed yesterday. The figure does not include permits for buildings moved into the city or new residences in the Cook-Adams heights or west of the Cook-Adams addition. Only three large permits, amounting to less than $150,000, were listed in the report. New homes and business houses led the list to give Pampa an outstanding record. Thirty-five houses were moved to Pampa and remodeled. They were valued at about $75,000. Several smaller buildings, valued at about $15,000, were also moved to the city. "It can be conservatively estimated that the valuation of Pampa property increased more than $550,000 in 1936," Mr. McKinley said. "Many Pampans are waiting until spring to start construction work and I believe 1937 will see Pampa having another excellent building program."

Large buildings constructed during 1936 included the high school auditorium, additions to ward schools, Figgy-Wiggly store, Harris Food store, Williams and Brown garage, Central Baptist church, now under construction, and others. Building permits in recent years were: 1933—$158,540. 1934—99,915. 1935—206,440. 1936—462,187.

HOLD TO FIGHT BACK WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Senator Holt, youthful West Virginia democrat, warned today that he would fight back if the Senate declares war on him for opposing the re-election of a democratic colleague and conferring during the presidential campaign with Governor Landon. At the same time he indicated in a letter to several senators that he would appeal to the democratic Senate cause against removal of his patronage.

BUSES DISCONTINUED SECOND TIME IN CITY

Buses were again withdrawn from service in Pampa last night after several weeks of operation by L. C. Gomillion. Mr. Gomillion stated that public support of the bus service was not sufficient to make the running of the buses a worthwhile business. The bus service was suspended at 11 o'clock last night.

Strikers Ordered To Vacate Plants

WORKERS HEAD SHOUTS DARE AT OFFICIALS

COURT ORDER ISSUED TO MOVE 'STAY-IN' LABORERS

The first reprisal in strikes which closed 12 plants of the General Motors corporation and affiliates came yesterday in a court order for two "stay-in" strikes to vacate two Fisher body plants at Flint, Mich. Officers were mobilized immediately to enforce the order. One hundred and seventy-five officers who had been held in readiness to enforce the order were demobilized tonight, however, when plans to eject the strikers from the plant were deferred while authorities and company officials discussed legal procedure. The action, initiated by General Motors officials, came on the eve of a conference which may determine the future course of scattered labor difficulties threatening to involve much of the automobile industry. General Motors, with 30,000 workers idle in a fifth of its plants, has been the most seriously affected. Representatives of the United Automobile Workers union, a committee on industrial organization affiliate, from 10 cities in five states will meet at Flint today with Homer Martin, union president of the union. Martin warned that "we anticipate the spread of the present strikes," unless General Motors agrees to negotiate in the manner demanded by the union. Elsewhere in the industrial world the strike situation was moderately quiet. A move was reported underway for settlement of the three months old strike at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company. In New York, union longshoremen refused to load two ships whose operators had reached an agreement with striking seamen and the owners said the vessels would sail empty. The first report of violence in the maritime strike on the west coast came when three longshoremen said they had been beaten at San Francisco. A meeting scheduled there between ship owners and longshoremen did not take place. Attention in the maritime strike turned toward Washington, with some predicting that only congress-

LATEST INCIDENT IN SPANISH WAR IS ANALYZED

BY JOHN EVANS Associated Press Foreign Chief Nazi Germany's warships brought the Spanish civil war back into the international danger zone again tonight. War nervousness in the chancelleries of Europe was induced by German reprisals against two Spanish Socialist merchantmen, one of which was shelled and the other taken off to an unrevealed port. Germany said this was to punish Madrid for seizing at Bilbao the German vessel Palos with a supposed cargo of munitions for the fascists. She served notice she would force respect for her shipping. The danger statesmen saw was that German intervention might grow, might encourage others to do likewise and end in a general quarrel. To prevent this, 28 nations have participated in non-intervention conferences in London with vague results. The immediate fear in foreign offices is that Germany and Italy, who have recognized the Fascist government, may support it actively and openly. This might drag in Soviet Russia and perhaps France and ultimately the whole war machinery of the old world might grind out disaster. Five months of wrangling, charges and denials have muddled the issues for many. Civil war began in Spain July 18, 1936. General Francisco Franco, reputed Spain's best soldier, and commander in Morocco, started an insurrection there that spread overnight to the mainland. This is the sixth month of the war. The insurgents have two-thirds of Spain. The civil war started in a deep-seated political controversy. The country last February elected a "left" or Socialist government that is still in power. Bitter hatreds continued. General Franco, with four-fifths of the army supporting him, rallied

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGMOR You can't be around her fifteen minutes without wanting to call her mother, even if you do think your own mother is the best in the world—and there are a lot of young fellows in Pampa, mostly unattached, who adore Mrs. Mickey Conley and love her as a mother. She looks after their food with solicitude, and their religion with circumspection, including fast days on special days. First, you'll like her impressive Irish brogue and her motherly voice. It is heavy with Celtic wisdom and kindness. She can carry on five or more conversations at one time. She has not missed a Sunday mass at Holy Souls church but once in the ten years she has lived in Pampa, and that was the day she buried her husband, a pioneer oil well driller, known and loved by oil men all over. He was a favorite of young boys, and that means something to drillers, new and old. Out in the cemetery, his is the only grave that has a cross above it. Of a Sunday morning, she gets up at 4 o'clock and goes down to her small cafe and makes the coffee and mixes the hot cake batter, and then she is ready to go to mass, and she does not miss mass during the week days either. Here is a spray of her favorite flowers for Mrs. Conley!

Postal Receipts Set New Record

LEGISLATURE WILL CONVENE IN TEN DAYS

SESSION TO BE WITHOUT PERSONAL RANCOR

Pampa's postal receipts in 1936 were greater than in any year in the history of the office and broke all existing local records. Postmaster C. H. Walker and Assistant Postmaster O. K. Gaylor yesterday released the figures for the fiscal year which were $74,033.90. They also revealed that the office enjoyed the largest December business and the best last quarter in the history of the office. Receipts for December 1936 were $8,672.35 compared with $8,213.36 for the same month in 1935. The closing quarter of 1936 showed receipts of $21,284.52 compared with $20,755.75 for the same period in 1935. Pampans purchased during 1936 a total of $76,000 worth of government baby bonds. The postoffice had on deposit more than $375,000 in postal savings. "This past year was one of intense activity as far as the postoffice was concerned," Postmaster Walker pointed out. "The postoffice was the headquarters for distribution of the bonus to World War veterans and for registration of employees under the Social Security Act." Figures reveal that there has been a steady increase each year since 1932. Pampa's postal receipts for the last 16 years were: 1921—$ 6,278.23, 1922— 5,701.24, 1923— 6,968.72, 1924— 7,012.06, 1925— 7,518.12, 1926— 20,244.03, 1927— 36,605.07, 1928— 42,279.84, 1929— 50,996.76, 1930— 61,241.91, 1931— 50,901.15, 1932— 45,940.15, 1933— 48,054.69, 1934— 61,691.19, 1935— 72,214.45, 1936— 74,033.90.

MISS AVIS THOMPSON NAMED DEPUTY CLERK Miss Miriam Wilson, new district clerk in the Gray County court-house, Saturday was preparing to "break in" to her new duties with a rush of court business when the January ten-week term opens at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The appointment of Miss Avis Thompson, formerly of Tulla and Amarillo, as deputy court clerk also was announced by Miss Wilson. Miss Thompson, a former school mate of Miss Wilson, is an experienced court clerk, having held similar posts in Swisher and Deaf Smith counties. Miss Thompson assumed her duties yesterday.

Mercury Drops To 13 Degrees In Cold Spell

The mercury in Pampa was headed for the lower regions again at 1 a. m. today when the thermometer had dropped to 19 above after hitting a high of 34 1-2 at 3 p. m. Saturday in a new cold wave that swept over the Panhandle late Friday night. The minimum temperature recorded on the Daily NEWS government thermometer Friday night was 13 degrees. This same reading held steady through 8 o'clock Saturday morning when the sun warmed things up and a steady rise followed until an advance of 21 1-2 degrees had been reached. In three hours late yesterday afternoon the mercury dropped back nine degrees and kept falling steadily until 1 a. m. today. The weatherman's forecast for the Panhandle region was "fair and colder" for Sunday. (By The Associated Press) A cold wave brought sub-freezing temperatures to the Texas Panhandle and moved slowly southward Saturday night, losing much of its sting as it spread toward the gulf. The norther from the Rockies caused the temperature to tumble to a minimum of 16 at Amarillo. Saturday, however, it rose to a maximum of 38. Continued cold and fair weather was forecast for that section Sunday. At Wichita Falls a cold wind sent the temperature down to a minimum

WORLD PEACE AGAIN JOLTED BY NAZI GUNS

HITLER WARSHIP TAKES ANOTHER SPANISH FREIGHTER

(By The Associated Press) Threats and counter-threats in the wake of German retaliation for seizure of a German freighter by Spanish socialists last night dimmed European efforts to keep the Spanish civil war confined to Spain. Germany announced the pocket battleship Graf Spee had seized the Spanish freighter Aragon and forced it into an unnamed Spanish insurgent port and the cruiser Koensigberg with shell and the Spanish fish freighter Soton aground on the Basque coast. In the battle, Spanish socialists claimed a decisive victory in their offensive to cut off a fascist march against Valencia, seat of the socialist government. Great Britain and Italy meanwhile signed a pledge to respect each other's rights in the Mediterranean.

PARIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—German attack against a Spanish government freighter followed by the shelling of a French ship by Spanish fascists roused official quarters here tonight to grave concern lest the peace of Europe is disrupted. The Valencia socialist government declared it was prepared to "reply in fitting manner" to shelling of the freighter Soton by a Nazi warship and termed the attack an "act of war." Basque authorities at Bilbao ordered warships to fire on German ships or ships of any other nation if the attacks were repeated. "The French foreign office pressed diplomatic and consular representatives in Spain for full reports on shelling of the French vessel by three insurgent trawlers. (The German government followed its announcement the Soton had been shelled and the Spanish freighter Aragon captured with the declaration such measures would be continued.) The French merchant vessel, border and foreign office reports said, was shelled off the northern coast of Spain near the fishing village of Elandchove. The French ship, much faster than the armed trawler pursuers, escaped without damage. Spanish government airplanes took up the chase. Diplomatic circles were particularly gloomy over the Soton incident, terming it an "extremely bad augury for the future." "The German action hardly permits one to conclude Germany is sincerely in favor of efforts made by other nations to prevent the Spanish socialist merchant ships, said one diplomat. "Several other nations had citizens killed and ships stopped, even sunk, by one side or the other in the Spanish civil war, but did not adopt the German method of dealing with it."

BILBAO, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Basque government warned Germany tonight that shell fire will answer any new attempt to interfere with Spanish socialist merchant ships. Roused by attack against the freighter Soton by the German warship Koensigberg, the autonomous Spanish regime invoked the order "to uphold the dignity of the Basque republic." Patrol boats in the Bay of Biscay area were ordered to fire on any vessel of any nation attacking Spanish merchantmen. The Basque charged German warships were being harbored at Guetaria, fascist coastal city between Bilbao and San Sebastian. "The Basque government is not disposed to permit any German interference violating international law and has given orders for the most extreme measures if necessary, fully realizing what may be the international repercussions of these measures," the official announcement said. (Three fascist ships fired more

ARMY ADOPTS 25-YEAR OLD PLANE DEVICE

LANDING INSTRUMENT OF WRIGHT BROS. IS COPIED

DAYTON, O., Jan. 2 (AP)—Air corps engineers went back to Wright Brother's plane of 25 years ago for their latest contribution to the science of blind flying—a "tricycle" landing gear which they said today promised a solution of the problem of making instrument landings with safety.

Army and commercial pilots have been making blind landings successfully for several years—guided by radio signals—but the question of exactly when to "level off" for a wheels-and-tail contact with the fog-shrouded field has been a ticklish one.

With this landing gear you forget about leveling off, the engineers explained. "Simply follow the signals into a normal gliding position approaching the field, and keep that glide until you are on the ground."

It sounds simple. It really is, said pilots who tested the landing gear of a multi-motored Amphibian plane, selected because of its great weight.

The tricycles gear's future is a nose wheel used on Wright planes of the 1912 period and later abandoned for the now standard wheels and tail wheel landing equipment.

The engineers installed a nose wheel on the Amphibian, moved the two side wheels well back on the center of balance—their normal position—and told the army's test pilots to try it.

The test pilots did, under all sorts of landing and weather conditions. They reported that the trick gear eliminated all tendencies of the plane to nose over or ground loop, a common mishap resulting from faculty landings of craft equipped with standard wheels.

SOLDIERS REVIVE PLANS TO BAN PROFITEERING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Amid congressional talk of strengthened neutrality legislation, some members of the House military committee began reviving plans today to outlaw "profiteering" in event of war.

Informed sources said Representative Hill (D-Ala.), high ranking member of the military committee, would introduce a bill to take the profits out of strife. Strong committee support was predicted.

A somewhat similar measure passed the House in 1935, but after being drastically revised by Senate committees failed to reach the statute books.

Mobilization of labor and capital in wartime was advocated by Representative Wilcox (D-Fla.), a member of the committee, as one of the "most practical" methods of making war unpopular.

"If industry knew its plants would be taken over upon the outbreak of war and operated for the good of the country," Wilcox said, "you would find the heat being turned on Congress to prevent war being declared. Too many people stand to profit from the way things are now."

The Florida man said he favored paying all agricultural and industrial workers the same wages as soldiers.

300 NAVAJO INDIANS ARE STILL MAROONED

GALLUP, N. M., Jan. 2 (AP)—Prospects of a second night of zero weather increased fear for the safety of more than 300 snow-bound Navajo Indians today, as E. R. Fryer, Navajo reservation superintendent, blamed "fly-by-night" Indian traders for their predicament.

Fryer flew over the area in an airplane piloted by Bill Cooter of Albuquerque, seeking to locate the scattered bands of marooned pinon nut hunters and direct the rescue and supply trucks which pushed through heavy snow drifts toward the region, south of here.

Indian service officials here said the trucks were reported "making progress" from Ramah and Magdalena, and that absence of further snowfall gave hope they would reach the stranded groups possibly by midnight.

Although the United States weather bureau at Albuquerque saw some relief from last night's temperature of ten degrees below zero, Meteorologist E. L. Hardy said the mercury probably would reach zero tonight.

Miss Julian Baker has returned to Mary Hardin-Baylor college at Belton, after a visit during the holidays in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Baker.

President Prays for Rebel Cause

In an atmosphere of great solemnity, Gen. Miguel Cabanellas, head of the Spanish rebel provisional government, stood with head bowed in silent prayer as hundreds of young officers were sworn in before joining the insurgent forces of Commander Francisco Franco. The ceremony took place in Burgos, insurgents' capital.

15 MEN TO DIE

OSSENING, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP)—Fifteen men who had dreaded the approach of the New Year sat in the death house at Sing Sing prison tonight hoping for a miracle to save them from dying during the next three weeks. Their only chance of being spared from the electric chair lay with Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, and it was slim.

TOUGH GUYS BOOKED

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Bill Terry's New York Giants will prepare for baseball's "tough" guys right from scratch. The 1937 spring exhibition schedule, released today, shows that the champs will tangle with the "Cuban armed forces" in their first practice game of the year. The game will be played at Havana, Feb. 24.

IMMUNITY TO PNEUMONIA IS NOW POSSIBLE

By STEPHEN McDONOUGH, Associated Press Science Writer, PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A new immunity to some diseases, such as pneumonia and streptococcus poisoning, appeared possible today in a report before a special meeting of the American Philosophical Society.

The meeting, which brought together some of the nation's leaders in medical research for a symposium on viruses and diseases they cause, was declared by Dr. Edwin G. Conklin, executive officer of the society and president of the American Association for the advancement of science, to mark "a history-making turning point" in the concept and treatment of disease.

Dr. Stuart Mudd of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, reported on three new methods of destroying bacteria without at the same time destroying the substances they contain which protect persons against disease.

Under this concept, Dr. Mudd declared, bacteria carry or contain the very substances, called "antigens," which bring about disease resistance within the body of humans or animals. Previously it was impossible in many cases to separate these antigens from the harmful substances produced by the bacteria and therefore the use of vaccines containing antigens was limited by the amount of harmful substance present. With the three new methods discovered, Dr. Mudd added, it is now possible to prepare potent disease preventers which are not harmful.

The most spectacular of the methods is the subjection of the disease-causing bacteria to audible sound waves "of enormous intensity" which disintegrates them; drying them and subsequently freezing and grinding them under intense cold liquid air, or drying and grinding them at low temperature in a special mill. The resulting material is then put in solution and put in a fast whirl centrifuge machine. Because of a difference in weight the beneficial antigens fall out as sediment and can be gathered for use in disease prevention or treatment.

Dr. W. M. Stanley of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research was unable to read his paper describing the crystalline protein which causes a virus disease of tobacco, tomatoes and phlox and which is the link between living and non-living things. He was confined to his home in New York by one of the very viruses which he has studied, influenza.

NEWSPAPERMAN KILLED

CORPUS CHRISTI, Jan. 2 (AP)—Funeral services for George Frederick Evans, 25, Houston newspaperman and a member of an old Corpus Christi family, who died here this morning of gunshot wounds received when a gun in his hand was accidentally discharged, will be held here at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

MAYORS URGE RELIEF FUNDS BE PROVIDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The United States conference of mayors tonight urged that the federal government provide $877,500,000 to give work relief to 2,700,000 persons from February 1 to June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

This exceeded the $750,000,000 Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, is understood to have proposed to the president.

With present work relief funds nearing exhaustion, the president indicated some time ago he would ask congress for an additional appropriation of $500,000,000 for the rest of the fiscal year. However, he later made known that he was looking into the idea of transferring funds from some other source to augment this $500,000,000.

A bulky report was left at the White House by Paul Bettens, secretary of the mayors conference, whose members had surveyed relief conditions in 100 major cities.

Based on its estimate on an average job of $65 a month, the report said $877,500,000 would keep at work 2,700,000 who were on WPA jobs on December 31 and provide jobs for 500,000 more "employables" estimated to be still on relief without jobs.

BUILDING IN STATE NEARLY DOUBLES 1935

LUBBOCK REPORTS THE GREATEST PERCENTAGE GAIN

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Texas building in 1935 as measured by permits issued in 21 of the state's largest cities came within a few dollars of doubling 1934 activity.

Permits for 1935 totaled $65,990,385 compared to construction authorizations of $34,554,877 by the same cities in 1934.

Houston showed the greatest dollar gain, permits issued bounding from $7,000,000 to $13,400,000. Dallas and Fort Worth both felt the stimulation of huge Centennial celebrations and more than doubled their building.

Lubbock reported the greatest percentage gain, permits jumping from $27,748 in 1934 to $1,135,995 in 1935, an increase of more than 400 per cent. Austin and Corsicana reported building permits slightly under 1934 figures.

In addition to the total for building in the city proper, Corpus Christi officials estimated suburban building totaled $1,500,000. Longview's permits totaling $1,591,117 established a new all time high record.

Beaumont issued permits for the construction of 80 homes compared to 30 in 1934.

PLANES READY
NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—At least 20 crated second hand American airplanes are at North Beach airport, Long Island, tonight, airport officials said, ready for immediate shipment to Spain; and more are expected.

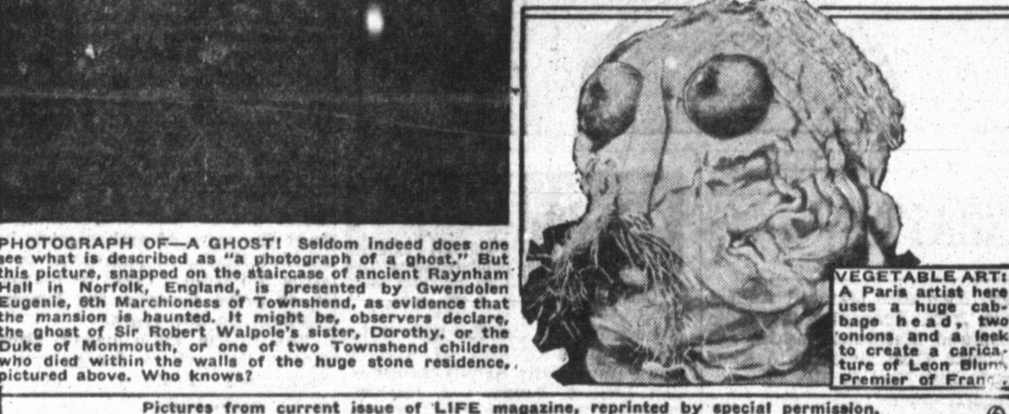

Oddities of LIFE

BY-PRODUCT OF SPORT: Penalty for a gallant ride on a muddy race track is the splattered countenance of this young jockey, who has been drenched and doused with mud thrown up by the heels of the horse running ahead. The picture establishes that at times racing is a semi-amphibious sport.

ENGLAND SWEEPED BY TORRENTIAL STORMS: Supported by its wires, this telegraph pole, clipped off at the base by a sliding truck, swings in the wind, a warning to drivers on the slippery highway. The shipwrecked hen roasts gravely atop her coop as heavy rains and a 70-mile gale sweep Southern England.

PHOTOGRAPH OF A GHOST! Said indeed does one see what is described as "a photograph of a ghost." But this picture, snapped on the staircase of ancient Raynham Hall in Norfolk, England, is presented by Gwendolen Eugenie, 8th Marchioness of Townshend, as evidence that the mansion is haunted. It might be, observers declare, the ghost of Sir Robert Walpole's sister, Dorothy, or the Duke of Monmouth, or one of two Townshend children who died within the walls of the huge stone residence, pictured above. Who knows?

BEER BOTTLE BOMB IS FOUND AT CALLES HOME
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—A beer bottle "bomb" found at the home of former President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico was filled loosely with black blasting powder, but would not have exploded and probably would have done no serious damage if it had, police and explosives experts said today.

Police had been unable to establish a motive for what they believed may have been a crude attempt on Calles' life. Detective Captain Harry J. Kelly said his men had been unsuccessful in attempts to interview Calles.

Chief of Police George Sears reported experts who examined the powder said an electrical cap would have been necessary to explode it.

An unidentified man was sought by detectives. They said they had his fingerprints, and fingerprints were found on the bottle.

Braulio Estrada, chauffeur-guard of the Calles household, reported he found the bottle, fuse burning, 20 feet from the front of the house last night, just after seeing a man flee from the grounds. He said he snatched the fuse out and pursued the man into nearby Balboa park, but lost him.

EXTENT OF PROSPERITY UNDERESTIMATED SAYS CHARLES GATES DAWES

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (AP)—Former vice president Charles G. Dawes who predicted the end of the depression two years ago, said today prosperity was here with greater potentialities "than we are inclined to predict or to feel."

Minus his underslung pipe because it was forenoon, the noted banker and statesman said in an extemporaneous talk before two score prominent Chicagoans at a breakfast meeting.

"The extent of returned prosperity is being underestimated. There is going to be a greater activity in exchange of goods than we are inclined to predict or to feel—and these things are largely a matter of feeling," he said.

BOY KNIFED ANOTHER IN COOKING ARGUMENT

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—Police records told this story today: Daniel Sieger and William Antkowiak, both 16, were arguing over the comparative cooking abilities of their mothers.

Suddenly a knife flashed. The Antkowiak boy ran screaming two blocks to his home.

His father, John Antkowiak, tried in vain to remove a knife from the boy's head. Physicians operated to remove it. They said the boy may recover.

Sieger was charged with assaulting and stabbing Antkowiak.

MILLION DOLLAR PAINTING
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon paid $1,000,000 for Raphael's "Maggona Alba" one of the paintings in the collection he wants to give the government. It was one of five purchased in 1931 from the famous Hermitage collection in Russia for $3,241,250.

IOWA COACH ACCEPTS SYRACUSE COACH JOB

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 2 (AP)—Ossie Solem broke his silence regarding acceptance of the Syracuse university football coaching position tonight by issuing a formal statement announcing his resignation at Iowa and acceptance of the Syracuse position.

Solem's statement follows: "Syracuse university has been good enough to invite me to take charge of its football affairs in a very flattering manner. The University of Iowa has been gracious enough to give me the opportunity of accepting this invitation. Sometime during every man's career he naturally faces east. In doing so I am aware of the distress involved breaking many ties of years standing in Iowa. I have reason to believe that I have many in this state, and I am grateful for having them. It is also inevitable that I should have had my allotment of criticism, fortunately for me I do not resent them. They are all a part of the picture."

'I'll Be Running Into You Again'

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 2 (AP)—"I'll be running into you again sometime" might well be the greeting of Charles Sauerwein and Anthony Nagy.

Their automobile collided yesterday under virtually the same circumstances as a collision between the two Sept. 5, 1928.

None was seriously hurt in either. Neither man would prosecute the other.

TO LAY OFF WORKERS
NEWARK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Between 500 and 700 employees of the Hyatt roller bearing company at Harrison will be laid off Monday, it was reported tonight, because of the strike which already has closed seven General Motors plants and partially closed five others.

STRIKE SETTLED

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Butchers' strike at the Plankinton Packing Co. was settled today, members of local 248, butcher workers' union, accepting an agreement to return to work Monday.

William A. Mansfield, union organizer, said the union was recognized as a collective bargaining agency, all strikers would be taken back in the order of their seniority, and no new employees would be hired until all of the 300 men who struck Nov. 28 returned to work.

RANKIN PULLS OUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Representative John Rankin of Mississippi pulled out of the contest for the House democratic leadership tonight and Reps. John O'Connor of New York and Sam Rayburn of Texas settled down to fight it out alone.

Democratic congressmen will pick their leader in a caucus Monday afternoon.

E. C. Davis of Oklahoma City is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Davis and sister, Mrs. T. E. Vaden.

CARDINAL ARRIVES TO VISIT FAILING POPE

ROME, Jan. 2 (AP)—Dennis Cardinal Daugherty of Philadelphia arrived in Rome tonight and was summoned to Pope Pius' sick bed at 10:30 p. m. to receive letters of credence as papal delegate to the International Eucharistic congress at Manila.

Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, met the visiting prelate at the station and escorted him to the Vatican.

PHOTOGRAPHER

BEDFORD, Ia., Jan. 2 (AP)—M. G. Maxwell huddled up all the pictures he took in his 53 years as a commercial photographer and turned over his studio today to Jack Smith of Franklin, Neb., who purchased the business. In all the pictures Photographer Maxwell could not find one of himself. "You know," he said at last, "don't believe I've taken a picture of myself or had one taken in 50 years."

MODERN PIRATES!

The days of pirates are over — or are they? The buccaner looting his victims' possessions was fore-runner of a modern freebooter who, trafficking in delusive "cures," takes millions from the public.

NEEDLESS TRAGEDIES WAR'S REAL HORRORS

Volumes have been written about the horror of war—the suffering, the sacrifice, and the heartbreak that go with it. But the very worst thing about it seems to be the utter needlessness of some of the tragedies which it causes.

You can stand the thought of suffering if you console yourself by thinking that it was in a good cause. Men's deaths are not completely wasted if they go to advance a great end.

But when Mars stalks across the landscape, he goes roughshod, and he tramples heedlessly. He demands innumerable sacrifices, for no good reason at all; he strews the countryside with causeless, senseless accidents. He destroys lives whose loss does not affect the outcome of the conflict in the slightest degree.

There lies the true meaning of the horror of war; and the news columns gave a brief but significant glimpse at it the other day when they told how 32 Hungarian war prisoners finally had succeeded in making their way back to Budapest from Siberia.

These men, former soldiers in the Austro-Hungarian armies, were captured in 1915. Along with thousands of others, they were sent to Siberia for safe-keeping. And there the war god seems simply to have forgotten them.

The war ended, the empire that they had served collapsed, and so did the empire whose soldiers had captured them. Civil wars, famines, and plagues swept across Russia. There was no one around to bother his head about repatriating wartime prisoners; it was every man for himself, and if a former soldier couldn't find his way across 3000 miles of strange country, that was just too bad.

We don't know what happened to these soldiers during the long years after the war ended. It doesn't especially matter. All that counts is that nearly two decades of their lives were completely wasted.

Whatever useful work those men might have done in those years is gone forever. Whatever human happiness they might have found, whatever significance they might have put into their brief mortal moment between two eternities—that, too, is gone forever. They simply were robbed of the best years of their lives . . . and for no reason at all.

There is where war's real horror lies. The man who dies in battle at least dies for something; the civilian who suffers at home at least knows that he is suffering for something; but casualties like these mean nothing at all. Nobody wills them, nobody profits by them.

They just happen—senseless accidents which no one even notices—except the human beings whose lives they rob of all meaning.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT

Airplanes roar over Madrid and Burgos, capital of the Spanish rebels, dropping bombs on helpless people below. Combat planes meet high in the air, maneuvering for position until finally one of them starts a screaming descent to the earth, carrying its pilot to death.

Who is the pilot? Is he a Spaniard fighting for his principles, for his family, or perhaps even for his life?

Maybe he is. But he may be, also, a professional warrior, fighting for money and the fun of it, killing and running the risk of being killed in a war which doesn't affect him.

The Spanish civil war is drawing adventurers and professional soldiers from all over the world, to the point where it threatens to become an undeclared world war. There is a difference between infantrymen and gunners, engaged in impersonal slaughter and defense, and aviators, who are the only individualists left in modern warfare. Highly skilled, they command and obtain good wages.

There is nothing admirable about these professional killers. Americans, who have hated mercenaries ever since the Hessians were sent here by England to kill them in the revolution, are ashamed to acknowledge that among the cold-blooded killers in Spain are some of their own countrymen, who, being citizens of a country which doesn't condone bloodshed, should know better.

NO NEWS IS GOOD NEWS

There has been an unusual amount of foreign news lately—disturbing, because where international alliances and threats of war are concerned it is particularly true that no news is good news.

At the same time there has been a marked decrease of important domestic news of the political type, certainly the smallest amount there has been at any time since Americans began to argue about the meaning of the new deal.

Of course, when congress convenes again there will be more domestic news. But for the first time in four years it is questionable whether the supply of domestic news will be great enough to monopolize front page space day after day. Normalcy has returned.

Editorial of the Day

VAST FACTORIES (New York Sun)

Of the types of unfair competition described in the annual report of the federal trade commission, one is likely to awaken a nostalgia for the past among some of the unrepentant. The commission affirms that the seller sometimes misrepresents "the size and importance of the seller's business by the use of illustrations and fictitious buildings, or exaggeration of the space occupied by the seller's business, or the extent and value of his equipment."

With the first and third of these offenses there need be no concern; it is the reprimanded exaggeration which brings back memories of some of the business letterheads of the past. A button factory in Poland, with five hands at work, could be made to appear a veritable expanse of industry. A small patent medicine plant could be made to look as large as all outdoors.

Where are those letterheads now? They are one with yesterday's snows and with the roll-top desk. If the federal trade commission is correct, there are still offenders against propriety and ethics, but they must be few, indeed, for the old-fashioned letterhead, dedicated to exaggeration and to overawing the customer, is now so infrequently encountered as to be almost in the category of the collectible antique. How many recipients of those letterheads were deceived by the magnified factory, by the impressive contrast of a tiny pedestrian and a vast plant or by the suggestions of speciousness permitted by such addresses as "24 to 98 Smith street" could never be determined, but, wickered as that deceitfulness was, the mere sight of such a letterhead in this day and age would make many a person think the long, long thoughts of youth again.

Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON. — A host of writers have voiced their views on the familiar questions of what will happen under Roosevelt in the next four years and will the president "turn right or left"?

Certain of these forecasts are much more important than the others and the cream of the crop to date—in this writer's opinion—are recent articles by Dr. Stanley High in Liberty, Ernest K. Lindley in the Nation, and Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell in the New Republic.

All three writers are personal friends of Roosevelt; all three have discussed his policies with him.

High was one of the half-dozen men closest to Roosevelt in the campaign and one of a trio which worked intimately with him on his speeches.

Lindley, a first-class reporter, as well as perhaps the most intellectual of the Washington correspondents, was Roosevelt's authorized 1932 biographer and has written probably the best available evaluation of the New Deal in "Half Way With Roosevelt."

Tugwell was once the president's top brain-truster and is likely to be an influential adviser in future months.

Roosevelt expects to be assailed from the right for going too far and from the left for not going far enough, according to High. He indicates F. D. R. is ready to take to the radio against certain newspapers if they repeat the distortion and misrepresentation of which the president feels they were guilty in the campaign.

Roosevelt will go ahead with policies for the regulation of business monopoly and economic power, High believes, but not until he first tries to win voluntary co-operation from business. High predicts, however, that "prestige of money as a power in government will almost certainly decline in the next four years—as it declined in the last four."

Further predictions: The U. S. Chamber of Commerce and business lobbyists will have less authority. Roosevelt believes he can balance the budget without new taxes, but if new taxes are necessary they will be imposed as far as possible on higher-income brackets.

The president hopes the landslide election endorsement will influence the U. S. Supreme Court to a much more liberal attitude toward New Deal laws, says High, but if there's no change Roosevelt is likely to propose various constitutional amendments.

Roosevelt, High suggests, would most of all like historians to be able to say that because of his New Deal "freedom and free institutions survived and were strengthened."

Lindley points out that future New Deal history depends on whether we have war or peace. He's sure Roosevelt would resist "the economic and emotional suction that would be applied to us," but isn't confident we could keep out of a European war.

Tugwell doesn't predict Roosevelt's course, but calls for "economic statesmanship" and national planning. Industry, he complains, "continues its unplanned and directionless course."

"The purchasing power of consumers must be enlarged until it suffices to take off the market the goods that an expanding industry can supply. Otherwise, employment will flag, debts will again increase and the two—unemployment and debt—will again bury us in disaster," he says.

Tugwell deprecates unwillingness of big business men to co-operate in national planning, attributing it partly to ignorance of economic facts.

THE WORLD REVOLUTIONIST

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—Perusal of names which are representatives of the arts, sciences and letters, in New York convinces me that this town is merely a clearing house for the rest of America.

You shake hands with a portrait painter and he is from Arizona. Your hostess at dinner is a sculptress from Texas. The principals in tonight's fight at the Garden are from New Mexico and Mississippi. Just to be noisy, let's inquire into the geographic background of some of these New Yorkers and see where they are from.

Song writer Cole Porter and actress Irene Purcell are from Indiana; actress Margaret Perry is from Colorado; actor Alfred Lunt is a Wisconsin boy; novelist Edna Ferber and actress Mary Boland hail from Michigan; siren Miriam Hopkins and singer James Melton are products of Georgia; actress Maxine Elliott and crooner Rudy Vallee are from Maine and Vermont (remember?); actress Helen Hayes, warbler Kate Smith, and handsman Duke Ellington are from Washington, D. C.

Comic artist Don Flowers hails from Oklahoma; opera diva Gladys Swarthout is from Missouri; actress Kitty Carlisle and pugilist Tony Cassano are from Louisiana; Margaret Sullivan is from Virginia; comedian W. C. Fields, actor Regis Toomey, dramatist Maxwell Anderson are from Pennsylvania; radio lyric-soprano Margaret Speaks, actress Lillian Gish, actor Otto Kruger, cartoonist Noel Sickles, humorist James Thurber are Buckeyes from Ohio; actor Tom Powers is a Kentuckian.

Bring-'em-Back-Alive Frank Buck, actor John Boles, Fred-astairette Ginger Rogers, producer-press agent Bill Fields are all Texans; singer Ruth Etting is a Nebraskan; actress Pauline Lord and producer William A. Brady are Californians; Buddy Rogers is from Kansas.

Glamor-girl Bankhead is an Alabamian; comedian Will Mohoney is from Montana; coon-shouter Sophie Tucker hails from Massachusetts; dramatist Paul Green, North Carolina; baseball Carl Hubbell, Arkansas; actress Virginia Valli, Illinois; minstrel man Eddie Dowling Rhode Island; prize fighter Jim Braddock, New Jersey.

Strip dancer Gypsy Rose Lee, Washington; dramatist Philip Dunne comes from Connecticut; playwright Ward Keefe, Minnesota; actress Katharine Cornell, New York; writer Guy Bolton, Delaware; home run hero Babe Ruth, Maryland.

This isn't an exhaustive list by any means—it is merely a composite picture of the sovereign states, hung in a gilt frame and labeled New York.

How's your health? There is no known cure for psoriasis. Every claim to the contrary is without valid scientific basis.

There are any number of remedies prescribed, and many of these under varying circumstances can alleviate or even temporarily remove the skin lesions. But there is no known cure.

Even the cause of psoriasis is unknown. The disease presents a variable picture. One patient's condition differs from another's, and the same patient may present a different picture from time to time.

In winter the skin patches are likely to be more numerous, larger and more active than in summer. The essential lesion is a scaly inflammatory formation located most frequently on the palm side of the forearm, about the elbows and knees, and on the scalp. The nails may also be involved.

The scales are silvery white or mother-of-pearl in color. Usually they are dry and mica-like. Sometimes the scales are thin, and at other times they may be crust-like. Treatment of psoriasis is an "individual" matter. The dermatologist uses many agents and medications in treating it. It all depends on the location of the lesions, their size, number and activity.

The HOLIDAY MYSTERY

Chapter XVI It was, beyond doubt, another muggy day. The sun had slipped on the snow and fallen to his death. There had been a mysterious hand striking him down with the knife, then pitching him over the edge of the mesa.

Pearl John stared down at his brother's lifeless body. Ramon Vasquez took off his overcoat and carefully covered the body, then motioned to the Indian and Bob to help carry it to the house. Betty slipped her arm into Pearl John's and the strange little procession started back across the snow.

Not a word was spoken until they entered the patio. Then Pearl John seemed to have recovered enough to direct them to take the dead man to the chapel. This time, however, as they left the room he locked the door and put the key in his pocket.

"We don't want anything to happen as it did to Pearl Sam," he said. "If this was a better job, would there be another victim? If so, who would it be?"

As though he, too, had the same thought, Pearl John announced, "I have decided to destroy the obsidian knife. It seems, still, to crave sacrificial blood and I'm going to pound it to powder."

Professor Shaw moved forward and looked down at Pearl John intently. "You can't do that, de Forest!" he protested, his voice shaking. "You're destroying one of the most valuable relics in this country. I beg you to sell it to the Museum and let me take it away where it can be studied and preserved. Almost any price can be arranged. Don't act so hastily. It would set back the work of archaeologists here in New Mexico immeasurably to destroy the knife. I hope, by means of it, to prove a contention I've been working on for years."

"As if the knife hasn't already played its part, as far as you are concerned," Professor, answered Pearl John, icily. "Now, de Forest, that's treating Professor Shaw pretty roughly isn't it?" Ramon interceded. "We all understand what a blow you've just had, but after all, you haven't a clear idea of what has happened to the knife when your oldest brother's body disappeared, have you?"

Pearl John colored and, after a minute, he turned to the professor. "Forgive me, please. I shouldn't have said what I did. But—" his lips quivered as though to dispose of the knife. I shall never have a minute's peace until that is done."

Ramon laid a hand on his host's arm. "Listen, de Forest. I've an archeological interest in the knife, too. Although I've never had the chance to examine it, I'm sure that the professor says it must be of more than ordinary value. I'd think twice before destroying it."

"So?" Pearl John did not say what was in his mind, but the manner in which he looked at the other man was eloquent. Ramon shrugged and turned away. Pearl John called a servant. "Tell Broken Shield to bring the heaviest sledge hammer from the shop here to me," he directed. "You may as well see me do this," he added meaningly. "I think you'll feel safer when we know the knife is no longer in existence."

Professor Shaw walked rapidly up and down the room while they waited, as though trying to think of some way to dissuade de Forest. Finally Bob said irritably, "For gosh sake, Professor, do you have to prance around like that? We're all on edge, you know."

"Pardon." The archeologist paused in the doorway. "I'll be in my room if you want me. I can't stay here and see this thing done. It's too outrageous, too preposterous!" He stamped off down the hall.

The Indian, coming to the door just then, distracted everyone's attention from the excited scientist. "Stay here, Broken Shield," ordered Pearl John. "I'm going to see that the obsidian knife is destroyed and you may as well be the one to do it. I'd like you to know, too."

PAMPA OF YESTERYEAR

Pampa ended its first "boom" year and amazed residents looked back over 12 months that brought the population from less than 1,200 to 10,000. . . . Building permits averaging $250,000 per month for several months. . . . School enrollment that jumped from 500 to 1,200. . . . A new record in postal receipts including money orders amounting to almost $85,000 and other business totaling more than $10,000. . . . Harvest of more than a million bushels of wheat in the best crop year since 1921. . . . Oil production that was still expanding and bringing sudden wealth to humble landowners.

A birthday party was given for Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McConnell, with a cake for each lighted by 70 and 65 candles, respectively. City officers killed 30 dogs after a rabid dog had given residents a scare.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY. Numerous candidates were announcing for offices as Pampanas hurried to pay poll taxes for an election year. E. A. Conley survived burial for 15 minutes under four feet of sand in a cave-in while he worked on a pipeline job near McLean.

Announcement was made of the marriage of Miss Alice Ingram, student at Texas University, and Younger Cockrell. Parent-Teacher associations organized to prepare for the annual district convention, scheduled for April in Pampa.

Lloyd O'Neal of Dallas, deputy regional Boy Scout executive, conferred with Executive C. A. Clark here to map plans for the year's Scouting program. Year-end reports showed that 150 persons died in Pampa the preceding 12 months, 16 in accidents.

ADOBE WALLS SCOUTS

CLARKS TO BE TEA HONOREES

WALTER STEINS TO BE HOSTS TO SCOUT EXECUTIVES

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clark will be honored at a tea this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. G. Stein, 421 East Browning avenue.

Mr. Clark, Boy Scout executive of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout council for the last eight years, resigned last week to accept a more lucrative and bigger council job as executive at Amarillo. Mrs. Clark has been her husband's assistant and helped organize several cub packs. She was the guiding spirit of the Christian church pack.

Mr. Clark's successor will be named in the next month. A committee, headed by Mack Graham, will interview applicants sent here by the national office at New York. All the applicants for the post probably lived within the confines of the ninth region, or the southwestern area.

Minor Huffman, deputy regional executive here last week, said that the Scout movement was in dire need of Scout executives at the present time and that the vacant office here may be hard to fill.

Business Values Eagle Scout Rating.
Boys who become Eagle Scouts, the highest rank in their organization, have a better chance of securing good positions in the business world. If a letter received by the Scout Executive at Appleton, Wis., from a large insurance company, can be taken as an indication in that direction.

The letter requested a list of young men who became Eagle Scouts between 1921 and 1929, to be considered for a high position now open in that company.

It said in part, "Our purpose in asking for this list is one of increasing our personnel and we do so for the reason that we know Eagle Scouts are held in high esteem and should furnish the caliber of individual that we wish to have working in our organization."

Winter Camps Thrill Scouts.
While camping is a year round activity within the Boy Scouts of America and hundreds of troops "camp the calendar," the greatest thrill of all is the Christmas holiday camp. In the north, ice and snow make possible numerous activities including skating, ice hockey, sleighing, tobogganing, snow ball fight, ice boating and the like.

In southern states, Scouts also have their fun whether or not there is ice and snow. In fact, in some places where the heat is oppressive in July and August, the best camping weather is available during the Christmas holidays and Scouts make the most of it.

In the northern areas, winter camps generally have smaller groups than the summer camps. The program is more vigorous and those taking part are the more seasoned campers, who are qualified to clothe themselves properly for freezing temperatures.

In addition to winter sports, Scouts use the daylight hours for nature stunts, hikes, tracking, small game across the snow and other outdoor Scout activities. In the evenings the Scout campers renew their acquaintance with stars and observe how constellations have shifted from their summer positions.

Evenings are also enjoyed before the blazing campfire with games, stories and songs. The principal program is that of New Year's eve when there are special events and a big feed and the campers wait up to welcome in the new year.

TROOP 4

Troop 4 had their regular meeting Wednesday, Dec. 30, with Leonard Dull opening the meeting with the Scout oath. Grover Foster examined Bobby Gilchrist on his Tenderfoot tests before troop. Scoutmaster Emmett Gee made a last call for dues for the coming year. A game using the names of some of the cities of the United States was played.

These present were Leonard Dull, James Mitchell, Bernard Austin, Frank Shotwell, Roy Russell, W. A. Meyers, Bobby Gilchrist, Bryan Edwards, and Scoutmaster Emmett Gee.

TROOP 20

Presentation of a five-year charter to Boy Scout Troop 20 was the last official act of Scout Executive C. A. Clark of the Adobe Walls council, who is assuming a new post at Amarillo this week.

The charter was presented to Dr. Paul Owens, troop committeeman. Troop 20 is sponsored by the Rotary club.

Present for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Clark, Dr. Owens, and Ralph Proper, visitors; Assistant Scoutmasters R. L. Batton and Ely Fonville; Senior Patrol Leader Robert Kilgore, Scouts Floyd Cockerill, Frank Kinross, Jack Horner, John Snuggs, and Claude Lard Jr. A number of troop members were reported out of town for the holidays.

TO THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Yours has been a worthy record upon the pages of which are written courage, dependability, faith, loyalty and service. You have won a signal place in the life of the youth of America. As today you are the Boy Scouts of America, so in the years to come may you be the men to whom your country can look for the realization of unselfish devotion and civic righteousness.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

TROOP 14

Boy Scout troop 14 held its regular meeting at Sam Houston school, Dec. 29. Due to a troop committee meeting the Scoutmaster, Walter F. G. Stein, was not able to be at the session and assistant patrol leader, Eugene French, took charge.

Several games were played and after several boys passed their tests the meeting was adjourned. The troop committee met in the same building and prepared plans for the coming year.

Present were L. L. McCollm, chairman; W. A. Bratton, A. L. Patrick, representing the sponsor; W. W. Stribling, J. G. Cargile, Clyde Winchester, all assistant scoutmasters, and Mr. Stein, the scoutmaster.

The committee and the sponsor pledge their full support to the troop program which will be planned and carried out by all adult members of the troop. The troop is proud of the fact that it was able to reregister this year on time with three committeemen, scoutmaster, 3 assistant scoutmasters and 24 boys on the roster.

The scoutmaster was presented with a nice Christmas present by the Flying Eagle patrol. All boys received as a Christmas present from the scoutmaster, a Boy Scout diary.

The next regular troop meeting will be held Friday evening at 7 o'clock at Sam Houston school. Patrol leaders' meeting will be held at the scoutmaster's home, 421 East Browning, on Tuesday, Jan. 5 at 6 o'clock.

TROOP 80

Fifteen members of Boy Scout troop 80 left Pampa at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon on a week-end camping trip and returned Saturday morning, camping at the Hoover-Strader ranch, 14 miles south of Canadian near the Washita river.

The boys pronounced it the best camping trip of the many the troop has enjoyed. Thursday night the troop split into three groups and hiked down the river in search of nature objects, meeting later under a certain cottonwood tree. However, the best thing about this hike was the tracking and the various gangs. Back in camp, there was a trial and several were tried for stealing Soren Jensen's cake. The "district attorney," Bert Isbell, using third degree methods finally wormed confessions out of the culprits, and they had to pack up wood.

The rest of the night until bedtime was spent in telling stories. Friday morning, the troop hiked to the Washita river where in the heavily wooded bottoms they built rafts for their camping tents and played hound and deer. Friday afternoon some of the boys went horseback riding and some played football in the sandy river bed. Friday night, the scoutmaster and Squire Isbell formed a gang to intimidate the others, but Squire rebelled and the scoutmaster formed a new bunch to crush the rebellion. The method of attack was capture each other. Squire's bunch took one cabin and the remaining boys took the other. The idea was to capture members of the other gang and hold them prisoners in the cabin. The battle ended in a draw.

The trip was made in Frankie Baer's truck which was driven by Doyle Auld.

The following boys made the trip: Jack Baker, Fozy Green, Archer Pullingim, the scoutmaster; Jack Cunningham, Jack Croot, Billy Mounts, Bert Isbell, Doyle Auld, Keeton Rhoades, Bobby Fralley, Jerry Stroupe, Jack Smith, Soren Jensen, Ed Terrell and Bennett Wray.

Several of the boys lost their hats and knives but finally found them.

Despite the fact that troop 80 had 34 boys reregistered several days before the deadline, Dec. 31, the troop was not able to reregister on time. Troop committeemen have not yet paid their dues, including one life and two star Scouts who have not re-registered. Until these boys reregister, the rest of the names will not be turned in.

Mellon Offers Art Collection To Government

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The White House said tonight that Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasurer in the Hoover administration, had offered his $19,000,000 art collection to the government and that President Roosevelt would recommend that congress accept it.

Correspondence between the president and the Pittsburgh multimillionaire disclosed that Mellon also had offered to build at his own expense an $8,000,000 or $9,000,000 "national gallery of art" here to house his famous collection and other art treasures.

Mellon and administration officials have been sharply at odds in the past over the proposed gift and other matters. In a suit which the United States board of tax appeals now has under advisement, the government has sought to collect $3,075,193 from the former treasury chief as back taxes and penalties.

Lee Strader of Canadian is expected home this week-end from the Rio Grande valley where he has been visiting a week.

George Weyerhaeuser who was kidnaped and bought back by his parents for $200,000 a year ago last summer.

(By The Associated Press)
TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 2 (AP)—The supposed "contact" advertisement in the Charles Mattson kidnaping reappeared tonight, indicating a continuation of family efforts to deal with the abductor regardless of sudden police pursuit of several "clues."

"Mabel—we are ready, everything entirely in accordance with your desires. Ann." Said a classified ad in the Sunday edition of the Seattle Times.

Except for the spelling of the initial word it was the same as one which appeared Thursday, Friday and yesterday. The first ad spelled the name "Mabel."

The Seattle Times, which published the ad as before, said it was paid for in cash by an unidentified person and ordered to run Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Reappearance of the missive was taken to mean in some quarters that the family's intermediary had not yet contacted the abductor who seized the 10-year-old boy last Sunday night and left a note demanding $28,000 ransom.

At the same time, Boy Scout schoolmates of little Charles began searching through brush and along hillside trails on a bluff back of the Mattson home avowedly on their own initiative in a search for clues.

Other groups of boys gathered across the street from the home anxiously querying newsmen about the case. The youthful searchers explained they wanted to do everything possible in the hunt before going back to school Monday.

Police investigators sought the trail of a swarthy bewhiskered man near Olympia. Laboratory workers turned to an examination of ink specimens to match the writing fluid used in the ransom letter.

Detectives continued to hold for questioning a former convict who allegedly answered in some respects a description of the abductor.

In a fruitless hunt for clues, police searched a poultry ranch east of Olympia belonging to Joan Mattson, a relative of the abducted boy's father, Dr. W. W. Mattson.

The officers then turned to an "old turkey ranch" southwest of Olympia which was described as being near a possible hideout camp.

The two ranchers were brought into the investigation when L. E. Rucker of Olympia reported a dark, bewhiskered stranger approached his home last Sunday night, about an hour and 45 minutes after the abduction, and asked directions to the farms.

taining recommendations as to a program for the four-month session. He is expected to discuss the financial condition of the state and possibly recommend steps to reduce the deficit in the general revenue fund.

Much interest is centering on talk that a determined effort will be made to repeal the oil proration law.

Other subject slated to occupy much of the legislators' discussions include: Enabling acts under constitutional amendment approved last year, proposed new amendments, redistricting the state for legislative representation, old age assistance eligibility requirements, educational, eleemosynary, departmental and judicial appropriations, additional social security legislation, repeal of pari-mutuel wagering on horse racing, liquor law changes to permit sale by "drink or hard liquor", tightening the drivers license law, public utility regulation, labor protective laws, game and fish regulation, creation of a public welfare department, sub-surface water regulation, laws on probation and parole, a unicameral legislature and a constitution revision convention.

In this twisted wreckage on the side of a ravine 20 miles northwest of Burbank, Calif., searchers found the bodies of 12 persons who were plunged to sudden death when a San Francisco-Los Angeles airliner

hurtled into the mountainside while seeking an open landing place in the San Fernando Valley, two ridges away. Bodies of the pilot, co-pilot, stewardess and nine passengers were found in what re-

Where 12 Plunged To Death in Airliner

In this twisted wreckage on the side of a ravine 20 miles northwest of Burbank, Calif., searchers found the bodies of 12 persons who were plunged to sudden death when a San Francisco-Los Angeles airliner

hurtled into the mountainside while seeking an open landing place in the San Fernando Valley, two ridges away. Bodies of the pilot, co-pilot, stewardess and nine passengers were found in what re-

The Madrid Socialist government had the support of left Republicans, Communists, Anarchists, Syndicalists, some Basques and the autonomous Catalan government around Barcelona.

The Fascist insurgents proclaimed a fight to prevent Spain going Communist.

Then other nations lined up. Germany, Italy and Portugal favored the Fascists.

Soviet Russia and France sympathized with the Madrid Socialists.

For approximately two months the two armies have fought for Madrid.

The Fascists repeatedly gave themselves "ten days" to take the capital.

Europe is afraid some false step will make the civil war become a general one. They know how Europe is divided in strong sympathy with one side or the other and they know Europe is armed and still is arming as never before since the great war ended.

That's why two German war craft, the cruiser Koenigsberg and the "pocket battleship" Admiral Spee, may have started a lot of new history by shelling one Spanish Socialist vessel and capturing another.

"Stay-in" strikers at the Guide Lamp Co., GMC affiliate at Anderson, Ind., were entertained by a 30-piece orchestra.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Confronted with a possible tie-up of the motor industry by strikes, stocks leaned backward for fractions to 2 or more points in today's market.

As unions centered their fire on the General Motors Corp., and curtailment of production in allied fields was threatened, Wall Street turned to the selling side at the start of the first session of the new year.

Automotive and steel issues were foremost in the retreat, but many recent leaders were quick to follow.

At the same time the trading volume dwindled to the smallest since Oct. The Associate Press average of 24 transfers totalling 690,660 shares, 60 stocks yielded 6 of a point at 89.4.

TO PERMIT SIT DOWN

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Jan. 2 (AP)—E. L. Peck, manager of the gasoline divisions of the Empire Oil and Refinery company, issued a statement today declaring the company would permit eight of its plants included in a sit-down strike, to remain shut down until an agreement was reached. The statement came after Empire officials cut short their New Year's holiday to assemble for a day-long conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carmichael and son Bobby have returned from Granbury where they spent the holidays with his parents.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

Do Bank examiners investigate loans?

YES, Federal and state examiners investigate loans—and in a very thorough manner. They frequently spend as much time—if not more—on loans than in examining any other phase of banking. Since loans constitute a major investment for bank funds the examiners carefully scrutinize the loan file.

Many questions are asked and much detailed information about the borrowers is scrutinized. On business loans up-to-date financial statements—usually over a period of years—are required, showing such things as earnings, inventory, debts, management, etc. Recommendations are then made directly to the Board of Directors of the bank.

These examinations constitute a real protection to the money of depositors against undue risks. In fact, the primary purpose of these examinations is to assure depositors their money is properly safeguarded.

Another Type of I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp at our showroom

1. Wide opening at the top of the shade throws light to ceiling and eliminates shadows.
2. Glass reflector softens light, prevents glare.
3. Wide shade gives ample light over your work.
4. Shade lining is white to reflect more light.
5. Lamp is high enough to light a large working area.

IMPORTANT—Be sure to look for the authorized certification tag on the lamp you buy. It's the I. E. S. Better Sight Lamp. It doesn't have this tag.

IT'S OKAY TO READ IN BED ... IF THE LIGHT'S RIGHT!

TO many people, reading in bed is one of the grandest pleasures ever invented but it's a frequent source of eyestrain unless the light is right. One of the new "pin-it-up" type of lamps is ideal for this. Properly pinned to the wall, (about 4 1/2 feet from the floor between twin beds or just above the head of single beds), this lamp not only gives ample light but permits reading in a comfortable, relaxed position. Come in and let us show you the latest styles of "pin-it-up" lamps in their different models. Prices are surprisingly low.

Amarillo Places Four Men On Team, Kerrville 2, and North Side 2.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm that dominated the Texas Interscholastic League football race for the third consecutive year also carried off the major share of honors in the 1936 All-State team selected by The Associated Press.

Four Sandies—Mike Sweeney, end; Edwin Ricketts, tackle; Don Williams, guard; and Henry Hauser, fullback—easily made the eleven, each leading in the voting for his position. Three others staged a hot race, Newman Miller, tackle; Will Kilman, guard, and Raymond (Wild Horse) Mays, halfback, coming very close to making the first team.

North Side (Port Worth) and Kerrville, which gave Amarillo such terrific battles in the semi-finals and final, each landed two on the election. Henry Hauser, Antler center, got votes for both center and guard and polled a sufficient number to land the latter. Fred Shook, the North Side star, nosing him out for the pivot post.

Roy Holbrook, main spring of the fine Kerrville team, tied with Odell Herman, Ablene's mighty defensive player and blocker, for the fourth position in the backfield. Marion Pugh, North Side's one-man offense, made the team easily.

Hillsboro's brilliant wingman, E. L. Keeton, became Sweeney's running mate. Derwood Peveto, giant Port Arthur tackle, landed a place.

The team was selected by poll of sport writers and coaches in every section.

It averages 179 1-2 pounds with the line showing 185 1-2 and the backfield 169.

Others close in the voting were: Ed—Chester Beermann of Kerrville; Dick Brunley of Edinburg; Calvin Raup of Port Arthur; Alfred Rust of Kerrville, and Garland Terrell of Childress; Stark of Gainesville.

Tackles—Newman Miller of Amarillo, and Len Jeris of Ablene; Kyle Holloman of Kerrville.

Guards—Necé Formaque of Port Arthur; Will Kilman of Amarillo; Bob Sherrod of North Side, A. Coleman of Kerrville.

Center—Ivan Noblitt of Pampa.

Backs—Raymond Mays of Amarillo; Harry Hays of San Angelo;

'The Great Dane' Ate All This To Win A Wager

SWEET GRASS, Mont., Jan. 2 (AP)—Here's what Gust Christian ate to win a wager:
Four and a half pounds of fried pork liver, two pork chops, two bowls of soup, a can of corn, several helpings of potatoes, six cookies and nine large slices of bread. Along with it, he drank nine cups of coffee.

Gust, 30, six feet three and weighing 293 pounds, is a farm hand in the Couits district just over the Canadian line. Some friends call him "The Great Dane."

Once Gust ate 74 pancakes at a meal, and another time he drank fifty glasses of beer, and topped them off with a "lunch."

He says his grandfather and an aunt in Denmark held "eating records."

Gust explained, modestly, he has "good teeth and a good, strong stomach."

Mangrum Takes Lead From Tony

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (AP)—Ray Mangrum, 26-year-old Dayton, Ohio, golfer, carried a 167, to dislodge Tony Manero, national open champion, from the lead at the half-way mark of the Miami open tournament today.

Mangrum, winner of two tournaments in 1936 and runner-up in four others, shot five birdies on the second round 18 to bring his total for 36 holes to 136.

Short on his chip shots and off on his putting, Manero took 74 nine strokes more than he used yesterday, for 139 and second place.

The remaining 36 holes over the Miami Spring course will be played tomorrow.

Last year's winner, Willie Klein of Miami Beach, appeared delicately out of the running today after shooting a 76 to make his total score 149.

Frank Walsh of Chicago carded a 71 for 141 and third place.

Among the juniors for McNeill, and was the first national title he has held. He is the eastern and western outdoor champion.

McNeill's showing in the current title play impressed tennis bigwigs.

Roland Hallory, chairman of the Junior Davis cup committee, said the Kenyon college performer is one of the most promising youngsters the committee has watched.

Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian is visiting in San Antonio.

COLLEGE GAGE SEASON OPENS ON WEDNESDAY

AGGIES AND OWLS TO PLAY IN FIRST GAME

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Seven southern-west conference basketball quintets, crowded to the background by late next week.

To Baylor's Golden Bears goes the initial task of stopping the University of Arkansas' Stringbean team in the standout battles of the first week's games.

Semi-finalists in the Oklahoma City invitation tourney, Baylor travels to Fayetteville, Ark., for games Friday and Saturday night with the Razorbacks, defending champions and favored to repeat after their rousing Sugar Bowl triumph over the University of Tennessee, Southeastern conference titlists.

Don Lockard and Gilliland, leading scorers of the Porker five last year, led the rout of the Tennessee and it was this pair that Coach Ralph Wolf's charges planned to watch.

First game of the schedule finds Texas A. & M. bumping into Coach Jimmy Kite's Rice Institute powerhouse at Houston Wednesday night.

The Aggies, with Dale Freiburger, lanky junior college transfer, Ed Lee and Pete Dowling, as their biggest scoring threats, meet a Rice team that fared well in early season games before taking an enforced layoff because of examinations.

Erratic in early games but showing scoring punch, the University of Texas invades North Texas for a pair of games over the week-end.

Texas Christian, weakened in practice games because of the bulk of its squad was still engaged in football antics, must whip the late starters into shape before the Longhorns visit Fort Worth Friday night.

Sammy Baugh, grid hero, will take his first cage workout Monday but Willie Walls, down with malaria fever and a football injury, may not crack the lineup for several weeks.

Texas moves on to Dallas Saturday night to meet a Southern Methodist team that has won but one game but impressed fans by losing four others by slight margins.

J. D. Norton, Billy Dewell, lanky football end, and Bill Blanton carry the burden of Methodist basket tossing duties but Coach St. Clair has promised a surprise in Kenneth Goodson, wiry football halfback.

About 20,000 United States troops are stationed in the territory of Hawaii.

FLOYDADA NOSES OUT PAMPA 29 TO 27 IN EXTRA PERIOD

FLOYDADA, Jan. 2—A field goal in overtime play gave Floydada a 29 to 27 victory over a Pampa Harvester basketball team here last night. The game was rough, especially in the last half when both quintets went on a wild scoring spree.

Pampa led at the half, 9 to 8. Both teams started shooting the works in the final periods with first

SHAMROCK EXES BEAT McLEAN 6 TO 0 IN THRILLING GAME

SHAMROCK, Jan. 2—A 79-yard touchdown drive, grouping a series of tricky running and passing plays, in the second quarter was enough for the Shamrock high school "exes" to defeat the McLean high school "exes" 6 to 0 on Denver field yesterday afternoon before 1,500 fans.

Vernon Close, former Vanderbilt university star who received several all-American mentions, scored from the three-yard line. The drive opened with Davis passing 10 yards to Fields who scampered an additional 36 yards before being stopped.

Close picked up seven through the line and then Davis passed to Gorman for 23 yards, putting the ball on the three-yard stripe from where Close plowed through for the touchdown.

McLean came back in the final quarter but lacked two yards getting across for the tying touchdown. C. Christian, Tolliver and Dowell did most of the ball carrying on the 60-yard drive. Young, Shamrock center, spoiled the day for the McLean backers when he intercepted a short pass on the goal line and carried out of danger.

McLean had the advantage of the defensive battle with six first downs to four for Shamrock.

The opposing lines played hard-charging games. Backfield play was also about even.

The starting lineups:
Shamrock Pos. McLean
O'Gorman LT Dwyght
Skidmore LT McCarty
Taylor LG Christian
Young RG G. McCarty
Chance RT Cook
Fuller RT Kennedy
Williams RE Back
Mills QB Christian
Fields LH Dowell
Davis LH Tolliver
Close FB Tolliver
Officials: George Close Shamrock; Bill Allen, McLean.

By ALAN GOULD

While the Swedish clubs in Greater New York City are planning a dinner for Eric Hjertberg on his 70th birthday, the veteran track and field coach is busily engaged in doing missionary work on behalf of his pet project, the neighborhood athletic club plan.

Hjertberg has been coaching track and field sports since back in 1909, and he still is as enthusiastic as ever. He has produced more than one man's share of Olympic and national champions. Many of the outstanding track and field mentors teaching the fine points of the sport today—fellow like Lawson Robertson, head coach of four Olympic teams and the University of Pennsylvania's squads; Harry Hillman of Dartmouth, Peter Waters of Manhattan, and Mel Sheppard, were all coached by Hjertberg in their competitive days.

The list of athletes developed by Hjertberg while he coached the Knickerbocker A. C., Columbia university, Irish-American A. C., New York A. C., and Rice Institute track teams looks like a page from the blue book of track and field sports. Even present-day track enthusiasts are familiar with the exploits of athletic heroes like Matt McGrath, John Flanagan, Jim Rosenberger, Charlie Taylor, George Bonhag, Johnny Hayes (Olympic marathon winner in 1908), Dan O'Hearn, Jimmy Archer, Martin Sheridan, Pat McDonald and other past greats developed by Hjertberg.

Coaches Swedish, Dutch.
Hjertberg coached the New Jersey A. C. from 1890 to 1897. In 1899 and 1900 he coached the Berkeley school and developed scholastic teams that won championships and would have been capable of giving any leading scholastic teams of today a real battle. The Knickerbocker A. C. took up his time around 1902.

He was instrumental in starting the Military Athletic league and coached several of the regiments which took part in the colorful exhibitions and waged such heated battles for track and field trophies. Hjertberg was coaching at Columbia university at the same time. Later he took charge of the Irish-American athletes.

Hjertberg's experience with athletes has by no means been confined to this country. In 1912 he was called abroad to organize and coach the Swedish team for the Olympic Games which were to be held in Stockholm. His Swedish charges made a great showing, finishing in second place behind the American team, a squad numbering many of the athletes developed by Hjertberg in the United States. He was called back to Sweden for the 1920 games, when his team took third place in the point score with 30 places in 27 events.

In 1927 he was called to Holland to introduce track and field sports. The country did not have a single cinder track when he took charge, yet in the short space of a couple of years, he sent a team to the 1924 Olympic Games that made a creditable showing and best several countries boasting far greater experience.

Calls Plan 'Simple.'
Ever since 1924 Hjertberg has been

PANTHERS PROMISE TO COME BACK TO BOWL

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2 (AP)—The Golden Panthers of Pittsburgh, conquerors of mighty Washington in the annual tournament of roses grid spectacle, looked over the calendar today and promised to come back to the Rose Bowl next New Year's day.

As the praises of Pitt echoed from here to there, the Panthers relaxed this morning and enjoyed their first real experience of smiling after a solid month of sony-faced determination. Even John Bain Sutherland, the rigid jawed Pitt coach, showed signs of restrained hilarity, which is quite a step for the good doctor.

Washington, that rollicking band of Warriors from the northwest, was keenly disappointed over the 21 to 0 licking Pitt handed out yesterday in the bowl, but Jimmy Phelan's outfit is hardly the brooding type.

This afternoon Pittsburgh players were guests of the Los Angeles turf club at the Santa Anita races, and the husky squad made a round of the Hollywood motion picture studios, an annual event for Rose Bowl teams.

SOLE MENTOR

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP)—Oscar Salem, for the past four years athletic director and head football coach at the University of Iowa, was named football coach at Syracuse University today to succeed Victor A. Hanson who resigned after a disastrous season.

POPE RALLIES

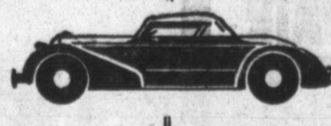

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XI, rallying courageously against illness but unable to gain strength, received today expressions of hope for his recovery from rulers throughout the world. Diplomats accredited to the Vatican presented messages from their kings and presidents, conveying sympathy for the Pontiff and wishes for his restoration to health.

CHURCHES HAVE NEW-YEAR EVE WATCH SERVICE

Social and Religious Program Is Given Thursday

The auditorium at Harrah Chapel was filled for the New Year's Eve program of Harrah and McCullough M. E. Churches Thursday evening.

Music was furnished by a stringed quartet composed of J. R. Combs, Ivan Stokes, Clyde Perkins and Jimmy Hill.

Mrs. Jess Beard and Miss Lucille Johnson were in charge of the registration desk and Mrs. Ed Stokes and Mrs. Henry English presided at the punch bowl.

Games were enjoyed by the entire crowd divided into four age groups. A religious program followed with a devotional by Mrs. H. L. Wallace; plans for the new year discussed by superintendents of the two Sunday schools; an inspirational talk by the president of the official board; and remarks by Rev. Hubert Bratcher, pastor.

The program was closed with a prayer of consecration with the members of the board kneeling at the altar. Board members present included H. L. Wallace, pres., Neeley Rogers, supt. at McCullough Memorial, J. R. Combs, supt. at Harrah Chapel, Jerry Nelson, Mrs. Ed Stokes and Ben Ward.

Everyone enjoyed the sing-song and novel presentation of dramatic sketches later in the evening. The new year was greeted by the singing of the hymn "Near the Cross," and a prayer for guidance during the year.

Food Served in New Form Coaxes Ailing Appetite

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE.

The preparation of foods which will appeal to the dormant appetites of a sick or convalescent member of the household will present a real problem for many mothers this winter.

They will find it difficult to vary the usual creamed foods which are not only monotonous for the patient but are even boring for the person who is preparing them.

Some ingenuity in providing interesting as well as proper foods for the invalid will seldom fail to stimulate the lagging appetites of members of the family who are recovering from prolonged illnesses.

Try Surprises. When our 11-year-old son was convalescing from scarlet fever we played a game in which I always added some "surprise" to his tray.

Often it was a little toy or a letter. Often it was food molded into an unusual shape. And still other times the surprise came in the bit of china in which his meal was served.

Fruit added to puddings, gaily-colored paper cups. (Incidentally, they are easy to dispose of and are, for that reason, very sanitary.) Dates and figs were added to prosaic cereals—with brown sugar sprinkled over the top. Toast and bread were cut into fun shapes.

Milk Toast Is Good. We discovered that milk toast, which is ordinarily far from alluring after it has been served a few times, became much more appetizing when it was combined with cooked asparagus, beans, mushrooms, or hard-boiled eggs and topped with a mound of fluffy mashed potatoes.

We also tried out a number of varieties of frozen and gelatin desserts—which we found the whole family devoured. And we had a lot of fun adding chocolate, coconut, maple sugar, marshmallows and other delicacies to baked custards and cornstarch puddings.

In fact, we all decided that "sick dishes" weren't so bad after all.

Mrs. Averitte, whose home is now in Fort Worth, Texas, is a child of the Panhandle, being the youngest daughter of Judge and Mrs. T. B. Humphrey who were real pioneers in West Texas.

Her father, now deceased, was one of the early school teachers in this section and served for a number of years as county judge of Hemphill county.

A product of the best educational institutions of the state, Mrs. Averitte has for some years been a writer of prose, mainly on historical subjects, most of her poetry having been written the past three years.

This book is dedicated to Frances, the eight-year-old daughter who died in 1933. It was then that Mrs. Averitte seriously took up the study of poetry. Her poems have been used in a dozen publications which include some of the well-known poetry magazines as Warp and Woof, Bozart, Five, Nebulae and The American Poetry Journal.

The poems of part one are the outpouring of a mother's grief and despair at the loss of her child. Part two opens with "Strange Things," wherein she sees "three

BUSINESS WILL FOLLOW MERRY HOLIDAY PERIOD

Young and Older of City Danced the Year Out

Business of starting a new year faces Pampa women this month, at the close of the gayest holiday season in several years.

Club elections will be of chief interest, and several organizations will install officers elected during the fall as they begin new years.

Two federated clubs, Civic Culture on Tuesday and Treble Clef Wednesday, have scheduled elections for the coming week.

Most of the city's clubs meet regularly the second week in the month, and will hear reports of their nominating committees then.

Several church societies will install new officers and begin new programs with the new year.

Mrs. Donald Adair Powell takes office Wednesday as head of Holy Souls Altar Society; Mrs. H. McBea, who was installed last month as president of First Methodist Missionary society, has called her executive board to a meeting tomorrow.

Mrs. C. P. Buckler, also installed recently, takes charge of the Episcopal Women's Auxiliary Wednesday.

Bridge clubs will resume in the next week meetings that have been discontinued through the holidays.

Holiday entertaining was more formal and more general than in several years. Dancing proved the most popular entertainment and the Country club ballroom was the scene of a series of merry parties.

On Christmas Eve the J. C. D. club and Beta Gamma Kappa, social organizations of young Pampans, entertained friends at the club.

Employes of Pampa theaters were guests Christmas night of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benefiel and Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Webb.

Young dancers again formed the crowd last Saturday, when Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jefferies were hosts to friends of their daughters, Misses Virginia and Claudine.

On Tuesday evening the Business and Professional Women's club gave its Christmas dance at the Country club while old-timers from a wide area gathered at the high school gymnasium here for a pioneer charity ball.

Two parties at the club house this week were for quite young Pampans. Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cree entertained Friday for their son, George, on vacation from New Mexico Military Institute, and on Wednesday Messrs. and Mmes. Ivy Duncan, Mel B. Davis, Dick Kennedy, Bonnie Rose, L. W. McCoolm, W. D. Kelley, and C. P. Buckler were hosts to about 100 friends of their children.

New Year's Eve was reserved by Country club members for their own dance, to which they invited guests for a merry evening welcoming the new year.

'Big Show' Offers Public Front Row Centennial Seat

Again the astute showmen of Republic Pictures have beaten Hollywood to the punch by obtaining the $25,000,000 production background of the Texas Centennial at Dallas, for Gene Autry's latest special musical western, coming Jan. 10 to the Crown Theater.

"The Big Show" is really that. Aside from the Texas Centennial atmosphere placed at the photographic disposal of Republic over a period of several weeks, the film boasts a cast of twenty-odd noted names, four nationally known radio orchestras, a large University band and numerous specialty singers and performers.

The Dallas exhibition events captured by a crew of four movie cameras include Henry Ford's $3,000,000 exhibit, General Motors' building which cost $1,000,000. Chrysler's estimated at $500,000.

The famous jungle of reconstructed dinosaurs created under the supervision of the world's leading paleontologists; the mammoth show "Cavalcade," a moving stage epic depicting the history of Texas under six flags; hundreds of side shows and concessions along the famous Midway; negro cultural life building; nudist camp, etc.

Gene Autry, star; Armand Schaefer, supervisor; Mack Wright, director, and a crew from Dallas, were guests of the City of Dallas during the filming. Autry, because of his popularity with Texas officials and guests at the fair, was officially made a captain of the Texas Rangers.

Back at the studio in Hollywood twenty-one supporting players and four orchestras joined the cast. The players include Kay Hughes, leading lady; Sally Payne and Christine Maple, former Follies beauties; William Newell, Grace Durkin, former child star; Max Terhune, famous musician; Smiley Burnette, Mary Russell, Rex King, Harry Brown, Jerry Larkin and Vic Lacerdo; Wedgewood Nowell, Jeanne Lafayette, Richard Beach and Frances Morris.

BOBBY BREEN WILL STAR IN REX FEATURE

MAY ROBSON IS RICH GRANDMOTHER IN FILM

Set in the colorful background of New Orleans in the gay 70's, "Rainbow on the River," Bobby Breen's new singing vehicle produced by Sol Lesser for RKO Radio release, offers film patrons a lavish musical drama boasting a strong story, color film, elaborate settings and a group of songs by the talented nine-year-old star.

May Robson heads the supporting cast of the young songster who skyrocketed to fame in his debut picture, "Let's Sing Again," after having won wide popularity as Eddie Cantor's radio protégé.

Charles Butterworth, Louise Benvers, Alan Mowbray, Benita Hume, Marilyn Knowlden and Henry O'Neill essay important roles. More than a thousand atmosphere players appear in the several spectacular sequences.

Adapted from the well-loved novel, "Toinette's Philip" by Mrs. G. V. Jamison, the screen play presents young Bobby as a winsome waif raised in the southland by a devoted negro servant, Louise Beavers, until he is taken away to live in New York with a wealthy Yankee grandmother, May Robson.

In this strange environment Bobby yearns for the colored mammy and the simple life they lead in their humble cabin. Because of her hatred for the South, inspired by the loss of a Confederate son who died in the Civil War, the cold-hearted grandmother is reluctant to claim the southern lad as kin. Bobby, however, finally melts her heart with his enchanting voice while innocently revealing his loneliness by singing those songs which endeared him in the hearts of his southern friends and playmates.

The musical numbers which are keyed to the action of the story and mood of the characters, come from the pens of foremost composers.

Three immortal numbers by the beloved Stephen Collins Foster are sung by the young lyric tenor, "Ring, Ring de Banjo," "Old Folks at Home" and the "Camptown Races." Representing the modern mode in music is the catchy theme song, "Rainbow on the River," written by Paul Webster and Louis Alter. "The Flower Song" was written especially for the star by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, the musical director, with words by Selma Hantuck. Other important numbers include "Waiting for the Sun," a typical negro spiritual by Koko Taylor and Arthur Swanstrom; the traditional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy," the hymn from Vol. Flotow's "Stradella," and Franz Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Elaborate settings are said to mark the production. Its locale includes the picturesque French Quarter in New Orleans, during the reconstruction period of the 70's, the Mississippi River in springtime, an entire southern village, humble plantation slave quarters, a war-torn southern mansion, a simple parish east, elaborate settings and a group of songs by the talented nine-year-old star.

One of the highlights is the singing of the famous Hall Johnson Choir of fifty-four negro voices in cotton-picking and Mississippi levee scenes.

Kurt Neumann, who directed Bobby Breen's first film, "Let's Sing Again," also directed "Rainbow on the River." Earl Snell and William Harbutt wrote the screen play and additional dialogue was supplied by Clarence Marks. Edward Gross was the associate producer.

It will open at the Rex today for a two-day run.

'THE LAST OF MOHICANS' TO SHOW FRIDAY

FAMED CLASSIC TO BE ON SCREEN AT LA NORA

Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes and Henry Wilcoxon head one of the greatest casts of stars ever assembled on the screen in "The Last of the Mohicans." Reliance Pictures' film version of the immortal James Fenimore Cooper classic, which begins a two-day engagement at the LaNora Theater Friday.

Also featured in important roles in this unforgettable story of glorious adventure, heart-stirring romance and thundering conflict for a nation yet unborn are Bruce Cabot, Heather Angel, Phillip Reed, Roger Barrat, Hugh Buckler and Willard Robertson.

Scott is seen as Hawkeye, the brave and handsome Colonial scout hero, beloved by the millions of readers of the book. Miss Barnes is cast as the glamorous Alice Munro, who is torn between love for him and loyalty to the gallant Major Duncan Heyward, played by Willard Robertson. Cabot has the role of Magua, the renegade Indian spy; Miss Angel is seen as the lovely Cora Munro and Reed plays Uncas, the young Indian brave who hopelessly worships her.

Breathtaking highlights of the picture are the defense of Fort William Henry against the onslaught of the French Legion; Cora's death leap from the heights of Lover's Cliff; the thrilling rescue of Hawkeye from the torture-stake of the savage Hurons; the barbaric war dance of the Indian tribes, and last but not least, the hand-to-hand tomahawk battle to the death between the renegade half-breed and "The Last of the Mohicans."

The picture was produced by Edward Small and directed by George B. Seitz. Phillip Dunne prepared the screen play from an adaptation by John Balderston, Paul Perez and Daniel Moore. The film is presented by Harry M. Goetz and released through United Artists.

The United States' gasoline consumption last year exceeded 18,000,000,000 gallons out of a world total of 26,000,000,000.

William Powell Had Inferiority Complex, He Says

William Powell believes that all actors are egotists with inferiority complexes.

"I can at least say so myself," said Powell. "I was obsessed with an inferiority complex in my early youth. It made me very unsure of myself and it was about in that period that my reputation for savvy had its beginning."

"My inferiority complex made me observe the suave, well-poled fellows. I studied them and learned how they got that way. I studied their tricks and mannerisms and it provided me with a comfortable shield."

"Since then I have been pretty lucky. At each of the many crossroads I always found somebody willing to help me across with sound advice that I needed."

"I don't have enough sense to know that actors do not make themselves great. It takes good roles and good stories to make good actors. Actors can give everything they have to poor roles, yet the poor pictures will wreck them. I hope I am thorough in my choice of roles and clothes, horses and sophisticates. At least since the 'Thin Man' I have been enjoying flesh and blood roles."

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD—The Mauch boys are what the casting director call a "natural."

Identical twins, 12 years old, Billy and Bobby have their work cut out for them. If they stick around Hollywood, they will be the answer to the problem of every picture requiring great similarity between two characters.

Ten years from now, when "A Tale of Two Cities" should be ready for another filming, Billy and Bobby will be a convincing Sydney Carton and Charles Darnay, without benefit of shadows in the prison scene. Later, perhaps, would come "The Masquerader," recently done with Ronald Colman in both roles.

Fencing Decides Roles.

Even now, the boys have found a vehicle in Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper."

Bobby plays the prince and Billy plays the pauper. This casting was determined by one of the relatively few differences between the boys. In tests, both proved equally proficient in performance, so that the choice seemed immaterial. Then they began fencing lessons, whereupon Billy was revealed as left-handed. The prince has to wave a sword proflicately. Right-hand led Bobby got the job.

The director, William Kleighley, has his difficulties. Like others in Hollywood, except their mother, he cannot tell them apart. He has coined the name "Billy-Bob" to apply to either. Audiences are likely to have the same trouble, especially when the prince and the pauper exchange clothes.

So remarkable is their resemblance that when both were on the stage in New York their mother could send either on a job when the other happened to be working already. (This should make her the envy of every movie manager.)

No Jealousy.

Billy got the "Anthony Adverse" role because Bobby was on another job, making a choice unnecessary. When Bobby arrived, he "stood in" for Billy, and occasionally fooled the director by playing a scene for him. There's no professional jealousy between them.

A serious sleuth could distinguish between the two easily. For one thing, Bobby's chest is one-eighth inch larger than Billy's. But, for on occasions wears spectacles. And when their father, a New York railway agent, comes with their dog it will be Bobby the pet trails but Billy that he "minds."

For ordinary identification, the boys wear rings. Sturdy youngsters and mischievous, they sometimes exchange these tokens. Their mother playing safe and giving no quarter, insists this ruse seldom confounds her. But I wonder.

Mrs. C. Coons and son Bill spent the week-end visiting relatives in Wichita, Kas.

'REMEMBER LAST NIGHT?' WILL OPEN AT CROWN THEATER TODAY

A group of socially prominent young people—the faster set on Long Island—wake up after staging a gay party to find that a murder has been committed in Universal's special production, "Remember Last Night?" which opens at the Crown Theater today. Chief among the players is Edward Arnold, who has scored so heavily in "Diamond Jim," while also in the star studded cast are Constance Cummings, Sally Eilers, Robert Young, Robert Armstrong, Gregory Ratoff, Reginald Denny, Monroe Owsley, and a number of other stage and screen favorites.

The story opens with Constance Cummings, as Carlotta Milburn, and Robert Young, as her husband, Tony, awaking in a vast Long Island mansion after a party given the night before to celebrate the fact that they've been married six months—one of those progressive parties which goes from house to house—the wealthy Vic Erling, has been shot in the heart.

They begin making their own investigation into the killing and discover that there are grounds for suspecting everyone, including themselves. First an ace detective, played by Edward Arnold, and his assistant, Edward Brophy, are called in. They are making some headway when a hypnotist is summoned. But then new murders are accomplished and clues are lost and facts distorted. It is only through the clear deductions and Herculean efforts of Arnold that the killer is apprehended under unusual circumstances.

The principal roles are cast to perfection. Jean Harlow, as the reporter's saucy sweetheart who helps tangle things up for every concerned, has her most amusing role since "Dinner at Eight." Powell as the romantic reporter gives vigor, humor and punch to a part which gives him plenty of opportunities. Miss Loy is delightful as the libeled lady, and Spencer Tracy completes the stellar foursome with another of his attractive virile and natural portrayals as the harassed managing editor. Not to be overlooked at the head of a top-notch supporting cast is the splendid work of Walter Connolly as Miss Loy's millionaire father who has a penchant for trout fishing. The story moves at lightning pace. The dialogue is constantly entertaining. As a whole, "Libeled Lady" is a picture not to be missed.

COURT TERM TO OPEN HERE ON TOMORROW

ENTIRE DOCKET TO BE SOUNDED BY JUDGE EWING

Activity will be resumed in Gray county district court tomorrow when Judge W. R. Ewing opens a ten-week term which is expected to set some kind of a record for the handling of litigation.

The entire court docket will be sounded on the opening day of court tomorrow, Judge Ewing stated. The appearance docket will be called Tuesday, and on Wednesday the non-jury docket will be called for trial.

The court has made the following designations for each of the ten weeks in the January term: first week, non-jury cases; second week, criminal jury; third week, civil jury; fourth week, civil, subject to criminal jury; fifth week, civil jury; sixth week, civil jury; seventh week, civil jury; eighth week, civil subject to criminal jury; ninth week, civil subject to criminal jury, and tenth week, non-jury.

The entire criminal docket is set for Monday of the second week which falls on Jan. 11 and all criminal cases will be called for trial at that time. Cases that cannot be reached for trial during that week will be re-set for a later day in the term.

The entire jury civil docket, which includes all cases now pending, has been set for Monday, Jan. 18, the third week, and will be called for trial in their numerical order of filing.

More than a score of non-jury actions have been set for trial on Wednesday of this week.

LEGION TO ENTERTAIN PANHANDLE, CANADIAN POSTS ON WEDNESDAY

By losing a wager made at the last American Legion district convention, Kerley-Crossman Post No. 384 will pay off with a "feed" and entertainment to the Legion posts of Panhandle and Canadian. The wager was to the effect that any post obtaining their membership quota before Pampa in this district, would be entertained by Pampa, Panhandle and Canadian obtained their quota at the same time. Being good losers, it was voted by Kerley-Crossman Post to have both posts here Wednesday, January 6, at 8 p. m.

Word has been received from Canadian that from 95 to 100 couples would be here en masse. All members are expected from Panhandle as well as from the eighteenth district commander of Borgers. This will be the first meeting of the new year and every member in Pampa is expected to help entertain these visitors. All World War veterans are invited whether they are members of any post or not. This invitation was issued by Charlie Malsel, local commander.

PIANO PRACTICING EXERCISES DEPLORED

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 2 (AP)—The head of a university music department recommended today that his profession kick out bodily the traditional piano practicing exercises in an effort to reduce the "mortality rate" among piano students.

Though unappreciative listeners might deny mortality among musicians is too high, Thomas Giles, director of the University of Utah music department, asserted the disparity between the number who start piano lessons and those who become finished players is both deplorable and unnecessary.

"If you are a piano student with normal hands, you are wasting your time, deadening your natural musical sensibilities and misusing physical energy when you practice dull exercises."

PARKER BEATS GRANT NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Young Frankie Parker of Lawrenceville, N. J., won the 1937 Sugar Bowl tennis championship today, defeating Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant of Atlanta in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 7-5.

CAPITOL JIGSAW

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Jan. 1 (AP)—Gov. Allred was late for a press conference one morning, held regularly at 9:30, and correspondents suggested that Pat Moreland, his secretary, telephone the mansion.

Moreland obligingly complied, dialed a number and spoke fiercely into the telephone, saying something like "What the devil are you doing at this time of day?" Then he grinned and remarked that the governor was not at home.

"I did that one time," he said, "and, unfortunately, Jimmy was on the phone and heard me."

Regents of the University of Texas probably will seek in the near future to attract attention of wealthy men to the endowment needs of the school.

"Persons outside Texas constantly are being approached with reference to gifts," said H. J. Litcher Stark of Orange, chairman of the regents, recently.

"The time has come to acquaint the people with the needs of our own institutions."

A full-time employee will be assigned work on the matter although no "drive" or campaign is planned. The university has about $22,000,000 in its permanent fund.

Partitions for offices are going up in the corridors of the statehouse first floor again after being removed to permit laying a new floor.

The engineering and budget divisions of the board of control have been established in the west wing, while the Confederate pension board will settle down in the east. The postoffice has been moved from the west to the east wing.

"We hate to do it," said Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, "but there seems to be no other solution. We must have more office space."

It is probable Senator Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur will introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature providing for an office building. Such a building admittedly would relieve the congestion in departments and make it possible to restore the capitol to something like its original appearance.

Rep. Conde Hoskins of Gonzales, as chairman of the House of Representatives game committee, has to be something of an expert on hunting matters.

However, he ran into hard luck recently when he took the field looking for deer.

"I didn't see a single buck," he said.

Rep. Bob Calvert, candidate for speaker of the House, was another who tried and failed to get a deer.

ANDERSON TO GIVE ADDRESS BEFORE PANHANDLE EMPLOYERS

AUSTIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—R. B. Anderson, chairman-director of the Texas unemployment compensation commission, will address a meeting of employers from all parts of the Panhandle in Amarillo, Wednesday, January 6, commission headquarters announced today.

Anderson will explain the provisions and the administration of the recently-enacted Texas Unemployment Compensation Act, which will affect more than 15,000 employers and 600,000 workers.

The meeting, which is being sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo, Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. Anderson will be introduced by Senator Clint Small of Amarillo and Lawrence Hagy, Amarillo attorney.

Since employers must pay their first contribution under the Texas law before January 25th, Anderson will outline the steps that employers should take in the payment of their tax and discuss how employers may qualify for a merit rating in future years through stabilization of employment.

Q. Where was there a town in North Texas known as Jonesboro? N. D. A.

A. At the crossing of Red river due north of the present Clarksville, the community antedated Austin's first colony. Houston used this crossing on his trip to Texas. The town, however, was not laid out until 1826. At one time it had a population of 1,200 or 1,400.

Q. Where was David G. Burnet's home at the time of the Battle of San Jacinto? H. J. L.

A. Near Lynchburg, where he settled in 1826. He had spent a year in West Texas in 1817-18, among the Indians, in search of health. Recovering from lung trouble, he returned to Cincinnati where he remained until 1826, before coming back to Texas.

Q. How much land is now under irrigation in Texas in the Lower Rio Grande Valley? H. L.

A. About 390,000 acres.

Q. To what extent is citrus wine manufactured in Texas? H. L.

A. The first citrus winery began operation at McAllen, Dec. 1, and is now making grapefruit wine, which is reported to be of fine flavor, and for which a large demand is expected. The winery has a capacity of

THE FINANCIAL WHIRLIGIG

By LOUIS SCHNEIDER

REMOVED.

Informed circles are certain that in addition to the presidential neutrality power recently upheld by the Supreme Court, Congress will pass additional powers. The most important measure planned is that of a bill which will be passed to allow the President to order an impounding of foreign funds in the event of a general conflict abroad. Thus the risk of foreign stock dumping will be eliminated.

Financial interests believe that when this bill is presented to Congress, foreign holders of American shares will start easing out of our markets. In that way the "hot money" threat feared by President Roosevelt will be removed.

CONCESSIONS.

Bond investors are galled at low interest rates. Protests continue over the loss of income resulting from recent bond and preferred share refundings of corporations. These people feel that with living costs increasing there is no reason why their income should be reduced. The movement of complainers is gathering momentum. They want new inducements to make investments at low yielding rates.

Underwriting circles know that if the protests grow to the stage where bond buying is halted they will be left in a hole. That is why these houses are urging corporations planning to do financing to make the issue more attractive. They suggest that warrants to subscribe to common shares be attached to all new issues.

The belief is that such offerings would satisfy the protesting investor. As business improves corporations earn more money. It places the common shares in a better position to benefit from dividends. Bonds with warrants attached or having stock conversion privileges would therefore have an added attraction. The suggestions are expected to be followed which should assure success of pending new financings.

NEW MONEY.

For a good many months expansion programs in the steel, automobile accessory and oil industries have been met out of corporate funds. Underwriting circles know that this can't keep up forever. They expect financing operations in a big way early this year. The monies thus obtained will be used to reimburse the corporate treasuries for the capital expenditures involved. The offerings, therefore, will be for new money and not along the lines of recent flotations which were for refunding purposes. As a result money rates may harden.

PSYCHOLOGY.

Psychology is playing a big part in the upward movement of commodity price levels. The public wishes to take advantage of the demand for basic commodities such as cocoa, rubber, wool, cotton, wheat, etc. The public seems to have cornered the knowledge that manufacturers are in bad inventory positions. The public knows that war buying has only started. The belief is current that the Roosevelt administration has permitted a shortage to occur because of its farming policies. With all of the same mind the rule of mob psychology accounts for the upward rush of commodity prices. This is the view of a nationally known banker.

FARM TOOLS.

According to the trade the outlook for farm tool makers is bright. Equipment manufacturers are doing their utmost to prepare large stocks for inventory purposes. Since the farmer's income is larger a big buying wave is expected this spring. Dealers are reported to be contracting for early shipping dates. During 1937 they were caught short of demand. They don't want it to happen again. With the statistical position of the farm equipment industry so constructive long pull interests have been buying but only on sharp recessions.

SHOES.

The shoe trade sees a 1937 production figure of 400,000,000 pairs. To supply such tanner requirements would take more hides than there are in the country. It means that Argentine hides will be sought. But Russia, England and Germany are also bidding for the Argentine output. The competition lifts prices. As a result shoes will rule higher this year. But the profit margins for the manufacturers will not increase.

Soviet Air Passengers Now Ride 'on the Shelf'

A revolutionary method of air freight transport is envisioned by Russian aviation leaders as a result of experiments in placing passengers in wing slots. Under the lower wing of a two-seated biplane, above, compartments were built to hold 16 passengers equipped with parachutes.

GREAT BRITAIN SIGNS PLEDGE WITH IL DUCE

ROME, Jan. 2 (AP)—Great Britain and Italy signed a pledge today to respect each other's rights in the Mediterranean—high road to Britain's empire and key to naval defense of the Italian peninsula.

A brief communique announced the agreement, centering on these objectives: 1. Furtherance of good relations to peace between the two nations.

2. Respect for rights of other nations in the Mediterranean. 3. Continuance of existing British and Italian positions in the Mediterranean and liberty of navigation.

The communique said tersely that the document was signed in the Chigi palace by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and son-in-law of Premier Mussolini, and Sir Eric Dymond, British ambassador to Rome.

This Italy, worried lest her power in the Mediterranean be challenged ever since Britain took the lead in invoking sanctions during the Ethiopian campaign, won a long desired "gentleman's agreement."

Some observers say in today's accord the wedge to eventual regulation of the Spanish civil war and enlistment of foreign volunteers so far as Italy is concerned.

But it was emphasized the agreement in no way detracts from the force of the recent Italo-German pact to consult each other on European problems and to unite in opposition to communism.

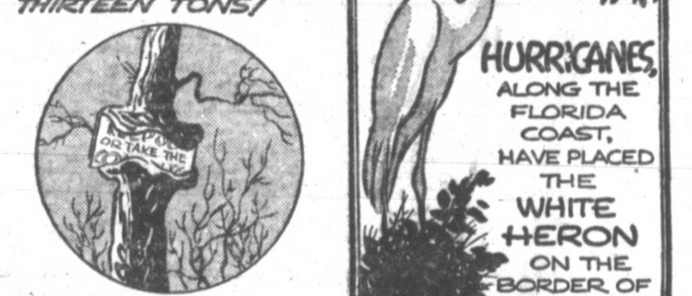

The authoritative commentator, Virginia Gayda, observed that the Italo-German understanding "always remains the backbone of Italian foreign policy."

Likewise, he said, the Italo British pact will in no way result in modification of Il Duce's attitude toward Spain and his recognition of the government of fascist General Francisco Franco.

'Listen Folks'

By JIM FERGUSON The 1937 Legislature (Editor's Note: This article is published as a news item, and represents the personal views of Mr. Ferguson only.)

The 45th legislature of Texas will meet in the capitol city of Austin on January 12. This session will be the most interesting and eventful in a generation.

There are momentous questions that will demand consideration as well as the usual great number of worthless bills that are always thrown in the legislative hopper.

With the 50 young members who are under 30 years of age and who will be serving their first time, it can be expected that personal ambition will have much to do with the general trend of legislation.

AMEE, RHEBA FIGHT IT OUT IN NEWSPAPER

EACH PUBLISH LARGE ADS PROCLAIMING ACTIVITIES LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2 (AP)—Almee Temple McPherson and Rheba Crawford, her warring former lieutenant in Angelus Temple, said it with printer's ink today—in the advertising columns of the church page of a local newspaper.

Each had an important announcement to make, with no bearing on Rheba's $1,000,000 slander suit against Almee.

Rheba's notice, two columns wide and two inches deep, proclaimed the first services tomorrow of her own "interdenominational church."

Two columns of Almee's advertisement were occupied by a portrait of Angelus Temple's red-headed, em-battled queen, tenant figure in suits and counter-suits which have embroiled the temple organization and its leaders consistently during the past year.

The convention opened today, attended by approximately 2,000 military and 3,000 lay delegates, and will continue until Jan. 12. The "world's most noted evangelist"—in the language of the announcement—will speak every night. Her Sunday night topic will be "poor little butterfly."

Old age pension, social security, natural resources, sales tax, ad valorem taxes, tenant farmer legislation, unemployed relief, appropriations and taxation, and the relation of the state to federal government, topped off with a good big row over liquor—and horse racing will be among the very important and pressing questions that are sure to knock at the doors of both House and Senate with a loud clamor for attention.

There are eleven new faces in the Senate, and there are some bright minds among the number who have some very pronounced views on legislation. Already there is talk heard about a Senatorial bloc that will claim the right to be heard, and nobody will be surprised if an explosion occurs. In the meantime the older hands are keeping their heads cool and their powder dry, waiting to see what will show up.

If I am permitted to speak, I advise all members of the legislature, both House and Senate, to inform yourselves on the merits and demerits of these important questions and let the trash drift on, and if this plan is followed, you can hope to have some part in doing what the people sent you to Austin to do.

Since the Ferguson Forum was suspended I have received a great many requests to continue my feeble remarks through the columns of the city and country press. As much as my time will permit, I shall respond to this request, especially during the coming session of the Texas legislature.

As I live here in the state capital, it is convenient for me to get early and first hand information, as to what is being said and done and the effect thereof.

Subscribe for your local paper and look for this column each week. I am going to tell you all about the big "doins" at Austin.

1936 WAS YEAR OF UNUSUAL OIL ACTIVITY IN PANHANDLE FIELD

PROSPECTS IN FIRST DAYS OF 1937 BRIGHT

GRAY COUNTY LEADS COMPLETIONS FOR LAST MONTH

The Panhandle oil field looks back on 1936 as a year of unusual activity. Steady drilling kept the field one of the bright spots of the nation.

December went out brilliantly with 15 completions with a total potential of 8,195 barrels, and 22 new locations, divided as follows: Hutchinson 7, Gray 5, Carson 4, Wheeler 3, Moore 2, Dallam 1.

Gray county led the parade of completions with seven, closely followed by Hutchinson with five. No gas wells were tested during the closing two weeks of the year.

With so many new locations, January is expected to be registered as an active month. The weather has been ideal for drilling, no bad storms have struck the area so far this winter.

A 10,000-barrel hike in the field allowable, effective as of Jan. 1, sent the output to 69,110 barrels and raised the percentage of proratable oil allowed to 2.113 per cent.

Completions by counties: Gray County, Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. C-9

Cobb, section 165, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 185 barrels with pay from 3,250 to 3,326 feet in lime.

Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. No. 4-6 Morse, section 16, block A-2, H&GN survey completed for 286 barrels in granite wash pay from 2,475 to 2,538 feet following a shot of 440 quarts.

King Oil Co. No. 7 Vollmert, section 140, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 492 barrels with pay in lime from 3,238 to 3,265 feet.

Empire Oil & Refining Co. No. c-5 Archer, section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 440 barrels with pay from 3,200 to 3,220 feet in lime.

Kewanee Oil & Gas Co. No. 21 Smith, section 149, block 3, I&GN survey, completed for 874 barrels in lime pay from 3,160 to 3,260 feet after a shot of 480 quarts.

Champlin Refining Co. No. 1 Lovett, section 57, block B-2, H&GN survey, tested 575 barrels with pay from 2,783 to 2,857 feet in granite wash.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 5 Holmes, section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, was drilled to 3,542 feet but plugged back to 3,200 feet. Oil pay was from 3,174 feet to 3,200 feet with production 37 barrels.

Hutchinson County. Drilling & Exploration Co. No. 5 Halle, section 5, block M-21, TC&RR survey, was good for 768 barrels from lime pay between 3,018 and 3,080 feet.

The Texas Co. No. a-8 Garner, section 20, block M-21, TC&RR survey, tested 554 barrels following a shot in lime pay from 2,940 to 3,030 feet.

The Texas Co. No. 5 Moore, section 21, block M-21, TC&RR survey, was completed for 541 barrels in the lime after a shot of 340 quarts placed in pay from 3,070 to 3,130 feet.

14 Oil Fields and Five Gas Pools Discovered in 1936 in Gulf Region

HOUSTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Fourteen oil fields and five gas-distillate pools, with an estimated reserve of 40,000,000 barrels of crude, were discovered in 1936 in the Texas gulf coast region, considered one of the most active areas of the nation.

It was estimated that 86,000,000 barrels of reserve was uncovered in proven fields due to extension, new sands and developments, making a total of 126,000,000 barrels of crude reserve opened in the area during the year. The estimate did not cover the Serno and South Cotton Lake pool, discovered Christmas week.

Estimates on the reserve were made by the oil weekly, which said there remained in the coastal area an ultimate reserve of 1,800,000,000 barrels. More than 60,000,000 barrels of crude was produced in the area last year.

Discoveries included: Amelia (Jefferson county), Silsbee (Hardin county), Withers (Charton county), Lockridge (Brazoria county), Greens Lake (Galveston county), Hawassville (Matagorda county), Nowe (Jefferson county), Cotton Lake and South Cotton Lake (Chambers county), Satsuma, or Fairbanks (Harris county), Greens Bayou (Galveston county), Hitchcock (Galveston county), Spanish Camp (Wharton county), Five Corners (Wharton county), Seabreeze (Chambers county).

Wildcatting development also hit a new high, 110 tests being drilled in the 13 months. Another important development was the trend toward deeper drilling. A few years ago a 5,000-foot hole was considered an extremely deep test. In 1936, however, most of the wildcats were projected to at least 7,000 feet, accounting for some of the newly discovered sands. Operators expressed the opinion that in 1937 most of the wildcats would go down 10,000 feet.
