CONATSER SENTENCE IS 99 YEARS

Pampa Field Is Most Promising of Panhandle Region

GULF BOWERS WELL BEST OF NEW GUSHERS

Gray County Produces 13,676 Barrels In Week

PANHANDLE IN ANOTHER DROP

Many Locations To Boost Total Very Soon

A week featured by the sensational performance of two Gray county gushers nevertheless showed a continuation of the general Panhandle crude oil production decline.

The entire area, with 1,386 producing wells, made 88,499 barrels, representing a drop of 1,685 from the figures of the previous Thursday.

Gray county declined 329 barrels daily during the week of calculation, when the Delaney gusher was shut off by paraffin for a few days, but maintained its big lead over the previous week, totaling 13,676 barrels.

Carson's 162 wells made 8,128 barrels.

Hutchinson's 1,114 producing wells made 65,292 barrels.

Moore had no production, but Potter was back at her 35 barrels. Wheeler county remained steady, with her 38 wells making 1,870 barrels.

Jackson Well Increases

Delaney and others' No. 1 Jackson is back up to 250 barrels an hour after three weeks of production. Following big lease deals, more than twenty new locations have been made in that sector.

Chief among Panhandle developments of the week was the deepening of the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Bowers, which came in for 250 barrels hourly of 43.6 gravity. This big well is in section 89, block B-2, while the Delaney gusher is in section 88. The Bowers well came in Thursday morning, leaping to 360 barrels the first hour, and averaging 4,800 barrels each 24 hours since that time. The new depth is 3,015 feet. The well was first drilled into the pay September 11, when it made 162 barrels daily from the first granite wash.

The Gibson Oil corporation's No. 1 Bowers, has been completed at 3,130 feet for about a thousand barrels daily. It is three-quarters of a mile northwest of the Delaney well, in section 92.

Big Gas Killed

The LeFors townsite well is cleaning after slight cavings which developed as the gas, estimated at 70,000,000 cubic feet, was being killed.

These big strikes in the Pampa field, combined with relative poor showings in other parts of the Panhandle, gave this area a position of great prominence. Without any changes in the oil market, a big drilling campaign is getting under way as winter—often pleasant here—approaches.

Larger production, estimated to be within a few fortnights of 25,000 barrels daily, is interesting big companies in its distribution. Establishment of other gasoline plants in the Pampa field is expected soon.

A steady stream of oil men is visiting the Pampa field daily, and plans of all kinds are being carefully concealed as negotiations continue for choice acreage.

THIS CHAP? HE'S WHEEZER, THAT'S ALL, JUST WHEEZER

Who's the bloke? Wheezer. What's his other name? Wheezer. Here one of the new stars in the "Our Gang" comedies which are made in Hollywood. Looks like he's giving the director a little back talk. Wheezer is two years old.

Doris Osborne, 3 Years Old, Dies After Brief Illness

Sympathy is being extended to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Osborne, Brownning avenue, in the death of their 3-year-old daughter, Doris, who died Friday night after a brief illness. Besides the parents, there is one sister, Sybil.

The funeral service was conducted Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Tom Brabham, pastor of the First Methodist church. Interment was at Fairview cemetery.

Plans are under way to hold an all-day training session for adults who are interested in Boy Scouts and their work.

It is planned to have representatives from Canadian, Miami, Panhandle and Wheeler present for the day.

The session will be held in the open where meals will be prepared without the use of cooking utensils. Tom H. Nelson, Panhandle area executive, will be in charge and will be assisted by assistant area executives.

A place of meeting has not yet been decided yet.

Scout masters J. D. Sackett and L. P. Duvall and 36 members of the Methodist church and five department troops were guests of the Crescent theatre Friday night after the regular meeting at the church. The boys marched to the theatre and took their seats with the discipline of soldiers. There was neither fuss nor confusion when the troops entered the theatre.

Ten new members were received into the Boy Scout organization last night to make a total of 61 members. The troop has been split into two sections, one to be sponsored by the fire department.

NEW MURDER LAW IN EFFECT

Confession by Force Argued by the Defense

(By Associated Press)

ANSON, Oct. 22.—Lloyd Conatser, 19 years old, was given a sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary for his connection with the slaying of Sheriff Bob Smith of Fisher county.

Conatser received the verdict without emotion, but his 16-year-old bride was overcome, and collapsed a moment after it was read.

Arguments in the case began at 7:15 p. m. Friday evening and each side was allotted 2 1/2 hours for the argument. Testimony in the case was closed at 1:35 p. m. Friday, and Judge Chapman began preparation of his charge immediately. It was drawn under the amended murder law adopted by the law Legislature, and contained no mention of manslaughter or self defense.

The defense fought the admissibility of an alleged confession, and Conatser maintained that Joyce Sheppard, also charged with the killing, did all the shooting. He held that the confession was obtained through coercion.

Camel Oil Well Gets Heavy Show of Oil Saturday

A heavy show of oil was struck Saturday morning in the Camel Oil company's No. 1 Harrah in section 163, block 3, Gray county, at 3,117 feet. A million feet of gas was encountered at 3,070 feet and has not increased with deepening.

The Camel well, being drilled by the B. E. Finley, W. R. Campbell and H. G. Twiford, is situated one mile east of the Empire Gas and Oil company's No. 1 Archer. First pay was reached 54 feet above the first pay in the Empire Archer well, drilling is in a fine sandy-lime formation.

Drilling will be suspended for the setting of the 6-inch casing. The Gurney Oil company's No. 1 McKinney, in section 163, block 3, being drilled by the same men as the Camel well, has a rig on the ground and drilling is expected to commence next week. This well is about a quarter of a mile west of the Camel well.

Dave Warren of Panhandle was a Pampa visitor Saturday.

Miss Jewel Lovelace, a graduate nurse whose home is in Fayetteville, Ark., who has had several years experience in school work, arrived yesterday to take her place in the Pampa system.

Miss Lovelace has specialized in school nursing, and expects to use the most approved methods here. She will start work tomorrow at Central high school, and after getting the examinations well under way there will divide her time with the B. M. Baker and the Kingsmill schools.

The school nurse has been engaged for a month, during which plan for local health work in the future will be made.

Each pupil will be given a thorough physical examination, in which eyes, nose, ears, throat, teeth and other organs will be examined for defects, and for evidence of contagious diseases. Expert advice and general health instruction will be given with the assistance of regular instructors. Children of the grades will be examined first.

With about 1,550 students enrolled in the Pampa school system, the examination task is a large one. Many systems have installed the health work as a permanent part of the work. This was true of the principal cities of Kay county in Oklahoma, where Miss Lovelace formerly was located in Ponca City.

Before coming to Pampa, Miss Lovelace spent several days observing the work as done in the Amarillo schools.

The event is scheduled to go 12 rounds. Vincent has beaten Granite twice, and is out to defeat the boy who has never left his feet.

The semi-final will introduce Battling Bob, who was such a sensation last Monday night when he defeated Jack Denton of Amarillo. Bob's opponent in the six round event will be Jack Slate of Clovis, N. M., who is said to be fast and a hitter. Battling Bob is being trained by Jimmie Carter.

Davis and Turner, who are well matched, will provide the entertainment in the special event and will be preceded by the newsboys and the midgets.

made her promise to keep quiet until tomorrow, and then he said good-bye.

Markham sat a while digesting the story.

"What impression did you get from the conversation?"

"If you ask me, Chief," said the detective, "I'd lay down ten to one that Leacock's guilty and the girl knows it."

Markham thanked him and let him go.

"This sub-Potomac chivalry," commented Vance, "is a frightful nuisance. . . . But aren't we about due to hold polite converse with the rentee Leander?"

Almost as he spoke the man was announced. He entered the room with his habitual urbanity of manner, but for all his suavity, he could not wholly disguise his uneasiness of mind.

"Sit down, Mr. Pfyfe," directed Markham brusquely. "It seems you have a little more explaining to do."

Taking out the manilla envelope, he laid its contents on the desk where the other could see them.

"Will you be so good as to tell me about these?"

"With the greatest pleasure," said Pfyfe; but his voice had lost its assurance. Some of his poise, too, had deserted him, and as he paused to light a cigaret I detected a slight nervousness in the way he manipulated his gold match-safe.

ed above a sheet of paper.

"No one is to be left out," replied Vance. "Put down Miss St. Clair—Captain Leacock—the Major Pfyfe—Miss Hoffman—"

"Miss Hoffman!"

"Everyone! . . . Have you Miss Hoffman? Now jot down Colonel Ostrander—"

"Look here!" cut in Markham. "—and I may have one or two others for you later. But that will do nicely for the beginning."

Before Markham could protest further, Swacker came in to say that Heath was waiting outside.

"What about our friend Leacock, sir?" was the Sergeant's first question.

"I'm holding that up for a day or so," explained Markham. "I want to have another talk with Pfyfe before I do anything definite." And he told Heath about the visit of Major Benson and Miss Hoffman.

Heath inspected the envelope and its enclosures, and then handed them back.

"I don't see anything in that," he said. "It looks to me like a private deal between Benson and this fellow Pfyfe—Leacock's our man; and the sooner I get him locked up, the better I'll feel."

"That may be tomorrow," Markham encouraged him. "So don't feel downcast over this little delay."

"You're keeping the Captain under surveillance, aren't you?"

"I'll say so," grinned Heath.

Vance turned to Markham.

"What about that list of names you made out for the Sergeant?" he asked ingeniously. "I understood you to say something about alibis."

Markham hesitated, frowning. Then he handed Heath the paper containing the names Vance had called off to him.

"As a matter of caution, Sergeant," he said morosely. "I wish you'd get me the alibis of all these people on the night of the murder. It may bring something contributory to light. Verify those you already know, such as Pfyfe's; and let me have the reports as soon as you can."

When Heath had gone Markham turned a look of angry exasperation upon Vance.

"Of all the confounded trouble-makers—" he began.

But Vance interrupted him blandly.

"Such ingratitude! If only you knew it, Markham, I'm your tutelary genius, your deus ex machina, your fairy godmother."

(Tuesday, June 18; afternoon.)

An hour later Phelps, the operative Markham had sent to 94 Riverside drive, came in radiating satisfaction.

"I think I've got what you want, Chief." His raucous voice was covertly triumphant. "I went up to the St. Clair woman's apartment and rang the bell. She came to the door herself, and I stepped into the hall and put my questions to her. She refused to answer."

"When I let on I knew the package contained the gun Benson was shot with, she just laughed and perked the door open. 'Leave this apartment, you vile creature,' she says to me."

He grinned.

"I hurried downstairs, and I hadn't any more than got to the switchboard when her signal flashed. I let the boy get the number, and then I stood him to one side, and listened in. . . . She was talking to Leacock, and her first words were: 'They know you took the pistol from here yesterday and threw it in the river.'

"That must've knocked him out, for he didn't say anything for a long time. Then he answered, perfectly calm and kinda sweet: 'Don't worry, Muriel; and don't say a word to anybody for the rest of the day. I'll fix everything in the morning.' He

Mayfield Insisting On Industrial Survey of Entire Southwest

HOUSTON, Oct. 22.—United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield apparently is camping on the trail of General Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, in order to get federal funds for a commercial survey of the Southwest, including Texas and Oklahoma.

A letter from Senator Mayfield to General Lord, made public here by Ernest L. Tutt, in charge of the Houston office of the Bureau of Foreign Domestic Commerce, recites that only a part of the funds for the survey have been granted and urges General Lord to reconsider and allocate to the bureau a sufficient amount of money that will not only enable it to take care of the normal increase of projects under way, but that will permit it to make a commercial survey of the Texas-Oklahoma territory.

Mayfield Insistent

"Texas at this time," Senator Mayfield insisted, "is tremendously interested in industrial development. Many requests are daily received by the Chambers of Commerce of our state for information and assistance relative to the establishment of various industrial concerns in different sections of our state. The only information available to the prospective establisher of an industry in Texas is that obtainable from chamber of commerce, or the industrialist must survey the state himself. In order to be able to proceed efficiently in building up industry and economic industry and economic merchandising in the Southwest, it undoubtedly would be very helpful to have authentic information covering all phases of our economic, industrial and commercial distributing system. The department of Commerce could gather the information needed in survey, such as the commercial survey which the department has made in Philadelphia, New England, Southwest states and Pacific coast areas.

Data Much Needed

"The information covered in the commercial surveys is just the data needed by the prospective manufacturers concerning plant location, labor conditions, climate, power and other like items.

"Also, the manufacturer and merchant find such data valuable in estimating markets, in working out sales territories and salesmen's quotas.

"Texas is becoming much more interested in selling in foreign markets for Texas products are known to exist. Efforts are being put forth to assist the development of selling Texas products abroad by Chambers of Commerce and by government organization. The information gathered in a commercial survey of Texas would be most helpful data to have at hand to make possible the prosecution of an intelligent campaign in Texas."

Senator Mayfield appends to his letter a showing of the relative position of the state in the production of crops and in many lines of endeavor as well as other data showing

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Suspicion attaches in turn to Miss St. Clair, Pfyfe and Leacock. Vance eliminates Miss St. Clair, and when Pfyfe's testimony strengthens the case against Leacock he intervenes to keep Markham from arresting the Captain. Miss Hoffman is brought in by Major Benson and relates that Pfyfe and Alvin Benson had quarreled in the latter's office.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV

Markham had listened attentively to Vance's summary. He now sat in fast silence gazing down at the desk.

"How about a little chat with Pfyfe before you make any final move against Captain?" suggested Vance.

"I think I'll take your advice," answered Markham slowly, after several minutes' reflection. Then he picked up the telephone. "I wonder if he's at his hotel now."

"Oh, he's there," said Vance. "Watchful waitin' and all that."

Pfyfe was in; and Markham requested him to come at once to the office.

"There's another thing I wish you'd do for me," said Vance, when the other had finished telephoning. "The fact is, I'm longing to know what everyone was doing during the hour of Benson's dissolution—that is, between midnight and 1 a. m. on the night of the thirteenth, or to speak pedantically, the morning of the fourteenth."

Markham looked at him in amazement.

"Seems silly, doesn't it?" Vance went on blithely. "But you put such faith in alibis—though they do prove disappointin' at times, what? There's Leacock, for instance. If that hall-boy had told Heath to toddle along and sell his violets, you couldn't do a blessed thing to the Captain. Which shows, d'ye see, that you're too trustin' . . . Why not find out where everyone was?"

"Pfyfe and the Captain were at Benson's; and they're about the only ones whose whereabouts you've looked into. Maybe there were others hovering around Alvin that night. There may have been a crush of friends and acquaintances on hand—a regular soiree, y' know. . . . Then again, checking up on all these people will supply the desolate Sergeant with something to take his mind off his sorrows."

Markham knew, as well as I, that Vance would not have made a suggestion of this kind unless actuated by some serious motive; and for several moments he studied the other's face intently, as if trying to read his reason for this unexpected request.

"Who, specifically," he asked "is included in your 'everyone'?" He took up his pencil and held it poised

Science, Adapted to Rural Life, Brings New Social Era to Farm

WASHINGTON—Rural America is on the threshold of a "second life." It will be better than the first, says Dr. C. J. Galpin, chief of the division of farm population and rural life in the department of agriculture, in that it will be one of applied science.

"Science," he asserts, "will characterize a second period in the nation's rural life and will stand forth as the genius of its culture."

Although this scientific habit of mind now pertains almost solely to agriculture and some practices of housekeeping, Dr. Galpin observes that a condition established in one department sooner or later becomes operative in all departments of living, and that the effects of whatever science the farmer now practices may be looked for in due time not only in crops but in human beings as well. The farmer's response to science, as applied to the economics of his occupation applied to all his human relationships.

As evidence of the trend in this direction, he cites such examples as farmers' hospitals, rural libraries, modern homes, community club houses, athletic fields and swimming pools, consolidated schools, playgrounds, rural churches of distinction, and modernized country towns where merchandising has been put upon a scientific basis of service and helpful advertising, all "logical outgrowths of agricultural science."

In higher education, too, the trend appears. From 1917 to 1927 college and university students studying rural sociology increased from perhaps 2,000 to an estimated 20,000, absorbing the theory that controllable facts make rural society what it is.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, commenting on the phase of rural life, declares the average farmer of today knows more of the science upon which his industry rests, and brings it into more constant application, than the scientist of 50 years ago.

Rather than become a negligible and disappearing factor in American life, says Dr. Galpin, the farmer, because of his "scientific attitude of mind, and especially his scientific grasp of human relationships, is bound to save and already is starting to save rural society for a social role which will be a noble role during the first 200 years of our history.

Stumps are most economically disposed of by piling and burning them.

United States Senator W. B. Pine of Oklahoma, Mr. Tutt said in connection with the announcement it co-operating with Senator Mayfield in an attempt to secure funds for the survey.

U. S. Has 14,000 Mile System of Airways

WASHINGTON—Although the aeronautics section of the department of commerce has been in existence a relatively short time, it is already able to present a map showing that by the end of its first full year of service, December 31, approximately 14,000 miles of standard airways will be available for non-military aviation in the United States.

A standard airway, as the section grades it, must be for the airplane what the highway is for the motorist. Dangers and difficulties ordinarily encountered by the sky traveler must be reduced to a minimum.

A number of sections of the airways thus far approved are lighted and equipped with emergency landing fields at frequent intervals, with beacons to guide and fairways to alight upon if necessary, making flying almost as safe at night as by daylight.

Clay Products Are Valuable in Texas Commerce

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—Clay products in the State of Texas during 1926 were valued in excess of $6,000,000, according to statistics which have recently been gathered by the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas in co-operation with the Bureau of Census of the United States department of commerce.

Of the various clay products, common brick leads in value, the bricks made in 1926 having a value of $2,007,634. Face brick is next in value, amounting to $1,455,455 and other clay products of which the production is large are below building tile, vitrified paving brick or blocks, sewer pipe, fire brick and pottery ware. The exact total value of all clay products made in the state during 1926 is $6,029,209.

The network reaches from coast to coast, and from border to border, and he lines are expected to branch out in the next five years to make an even more comprehensive system.

Canadian Trampled By Harvester Offensive Work, 79-0

FIELD RUNNING HIKES SCORE

Touchdowns From the Kick-Off Are Features

Finding themselves in a remarkable offensive mood, the Pampa Harvesters worked off a lot of surplus energy Friday afternoon in running riot through a green Canadian eleven, 79 to 0.

Touchdowns from kick-off, forward passes, end runs, and line plunges developed every few minutes as the local boys hit a fast stride and combined lots of teamwork with it.

Canadian was not without honor, however, her passing attack finding the Harvesters rather easy marks for this kind of gain. Occasional end runs also gained yardage, but with the exception of a single threat, Pampa's goal was never menaced.

Herlacher, the Pampa captain won the toss and let Canadian kick, Pampa having the wind in her back.

Dorsey, the Canadian quarter, kicked off to Walstad, who caught the ball at his 10-yard line. Assisted by great interference, Walstad zig-zagged his way down the field for 99 yards and a touchdown. A forward pass failed for the extra point.

Clayton, Pampa's right-end kicker off to Briggs, who fumbled on his 21-yard line. Mason recovering the ball. On the first down Walstad took the ball around right end for his second touchdown. On the kick for the extra point, Pampa was offside.

Canadian Lad Sensations

Stalls kicked off for Pampa and Caldwell took it on his 10-yard line, returning the ball 22 yards, being downed. On the first play, Boyd, the Canadian left half, kicked for a touchdown which was not allowed, Boyd having run out of bounds on his 38-yard line. A forward pass, Caldwell to Coyne, netted Canadian 18 yards and a first down. Another pass, Caldwell to Abrahams gained 22 yards and another first down. An incomplete forward pass and three line bucks only netted Canadian 2 yards, and the ball went over to Pampa.

Maness went over right tackle for 5 yards, to be followed by a forward pass, Walstad to Clayton, for a gain of 35 yards. Two line plays by Jones and Roberts gave the Harvesters 11 yards. Walstad then made 18 yards around right end for his third touchdown of the quarter. An extra point was added on a forward pass over the line Walstad to Maness.

Many Big Gains

Woods replaced Briggs in the Canadian line-up. Woods took the kick-off on his 20-yard line and returned it 5 yards. A forward pass was intercepted. Walstad on Canadian's 39-yard line. Jones and Maness made 17 yards on line plays.

Two off-tackle plays advanced the ball 6 yards and then a Walstad to Clayton pass netted 22 yards more. Maness followed around left end for 19 yards, which placed the ball on the Canadian 2-yard line at the end of the quarter.

At the opening of the second quarter Robinson went in for Kennedy, Seitz for Kahl, Bishop for Mason and Green for Clayton. On the first play Roberts split guard and tackle for 2 yards and another touchdown. Walstad dropped one over the bars for the extra point.

Good End Run

Dorsey took Stalls' boot and returned it 15 yards to his 42-yard line. Pampa was penalized 5 yards for an offside. On the next play Caldwell skirted right end for 20 yards. Caldwell went across the field to gain a yard. Dorsey fumbled but recovered, but on the next play fumbled again, Pampa recovering the ball.

Green and Walstad carried the ball 12 yards. Pampa was penalized for being offside. Carlton was sent in to replace Walstad at quarter. On the first play, Carlton, although suffering with sore ankles, took the ball on his 35-yard line and ran it through a broken field 60 yards before being downed. Carlton made 4 yards, but on the next play Green failed to go over. Carlton made the necessary yard through center and Jones kicked the point.

Some Fumbles

J. Ayres replaced Carlton at quarter. Wood made 7 yards on the kick-off to place the ball on his 25-yard line. Two forward passes from Dorsey to Caldwell and Caldwell to Coyne gained Canadian 15 yards. Dorsey fumbled and Roberts fell on the ball,

BAN CLOSES DESK AND DOOR FOREVER

Ban B. Johnson has closed his desk and shut his door forever—that is, the desk he has used and the door he has entered through so many, many times as president of the American League. After 27 years service at the helm of that organization, Johnson resigned on Monday, October 17. The "Stormy petrel" of the American League is shown closing his desk and door for the last time. He leaves his office with thousands of friends. He now plans to take a long and much needed rest.

but the whistle had blown as Dorsey failed to make the extra point. Stalls kicked off to the 10-yard line. Woods returning it to the 24-yard line. Dorsey's attempted forward pass resulted in him getting caught with the ball behind his line. Boyd made 12 yards around left end, and Abrahams failed to gain, the ball going over. Pampa was again penalized for being offside. Walstad made a 28 yard forward pass to Salsbury who ran it 4 yards before being tackled. Pampa was again penalized. Roberts carried the ball 13 yards for another touchdown, Walstad forward passing to Ayres for the extra point.

Allen, 13 years of age, was substituted for Wood, taking the kick-off and returning it 10 yards to the 23-yard line. Abrahams' right end ran into Harlacher, netting a 3-yard loss. Boyd followed it up by going around right end for 16 yards for a first down. Abrahams was again thrown for a 6-yard loss, and after an incomplete forward pass, Boyd went around left end for a gain of 9 yards, leaving the ball off the 50-yard line as the whistle blew.

Walstad was the star of the Pampa line-up, with Roberts and Maness running close behind. Salsbury played a remarkably heady game at left end. Carlton showed up well during the short time he was in the game, and the Pampa substitutes looked good. For Canadian, Dorsey looked like a line plunger, but the line couldn't open a hole for him. Boyd, the flashy Canadian left half, was probably the fastest man on the field, making good gains whenever he took the ball. Baldwin left tackle seemed to be taking the number of the right side of the Pampa line, breaking up several plays behind the Pampa line.

This game showed the first great flash of good interference shown by the Pampa team this year. The team played, well in all departments of the game, but the play-by-play account shows a considerable loss of yardage on account of off-side penalties.

The line-up:
PAMPA (79) — Salsbury, le. re, Coyne; Stalls, lt. rt, Kindie; Kennedy, lg. rg, Bater; Kahl, c. c, Sherman; Mason, rg. lg, Rathjen; Herlacher, rt (C) lt, Baldwin; Clayton, re. le, Abrahams; Maness, lh. rh, Briggs; Jones, rh. lh, Boyd; Roberts, fb. fb, Caldwell; Walstad, q. g, Dorsey, (C) Pampa substitutes — Bishop, Seitz, Carlton, Green, J. Ayres, Robinson, Mullen, Benton, H. Ayres, Mooney.

Canadian Substitutes—Wood, Allen, Dean, Batsel, Cotton. Referee—Studer. Vanderbilt. Umpire—Thomas, (Rice). Headlinesman—Carver, (Canadian). Timekeeper—Hunkapillar.

Abrahams took the kick-off on his 2-yard line, and carried it 4 yards before being downed by Salsbury. A play over the line lost Canadian 3 yards, and a fake punt, that turned out to be a pass, was incomplete. Batsel then punted to Walstad who fumbled, Canadian recovering the ball on their 24-yard line. Abrahams' forward pass was intercepted by Stalls who carried it to the 8 yard line. Time was called for Baldwin who was knocked out by Stalls' straight arm. The ball was on Canadian's 8-yard line at the end of the quarter.

Several Penalties
Two passes thrown by Walstad gained Pampa 19 yards and a first down. Pampa was penalized 5 yards on an offside, followed by another of Walstad's tricky end runs of 14 yards for another touchdown, but

Night Football Tried By Virginia College

WILLIAMSBURG, Va.—Old William and Mary, so old that it ranks next to Harvard in age and had its original charter granted by the king of England, has "gone modern" in its football. The team is playing all home games this season at night upon a gridiron emblazoned with high power lights.

"Night football is a beautiful spectacle," says Coach J. Wilder Tasker. "What is more important to Southern teams, it relieves the strain of high temperatures during the training period and early season games."

Visiting teams are given an opportunity to practice under the lights.

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

These factors, in turn, have been made possible by Buick principles of design; Buick facilities of research and experiment; and Buick's unrivaled experience in the manufacture of two million quality motor cars.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

HEALTHY CONDITION

Net state tax receipts and income from all sources for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1927, totaled $78,556,721, while disbursements amounted to $75,799,024 for the same period, according to W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer.

Many of the state funds have substantial balances despite the heavy demands incident to increased population and consequent needs. The treasurer's report shows that the general revenue fund on August 31, 1926, had to its credit about $4,000,000 more than the amount shown for the year ending last August, but the soundness of the state's business is indicated by the fact that no appropriations need be made out of the general revenue to supply the public schools with funds.

The reader will recall, however, that this condition of the treasury was maintained only by drastic use of the blue pencil. State institutions, especially, saw millions of dollars cut from their budgets. Temporarily, the demand for revenue question is by no means solved.

SAFETY

Down in Mexico a candidate for president has to muster arms and ammunition instead of votes, and both he and his supporters are apt to be stood up before a firing squad without a trial by jury.

is safer to be a bandit than a candidate.

The Old World, too, has its drawbacks. Between the North Sea and the Baltic they still believe in witches.

Along the Baltic they have original ways for determining who is a witch. In one village an epidemic was recently killing off young pigs. A witch was blamed. The oldtimers of the community gathered up all the pigs in the village and made a pincushion out of the last pig to die.

The woman rushed into the village and told the magistrate there was a trial. The judge was an enlightened man, and he solemnly declared the woman not to be a witch.

Personal safety and the accessibility of enlightenment are among the greatest blessings. They are too little appreciated in this country, where complaints arise over trifles.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—President Coolidge came back from the west in what was for him a perfect riot of color, but it didn't last long.

At the first post-vacation press conference, as has been noted, Mr. Coolidge blossomed which gave him the most collegiate appearance in the entire assembly.

Since then, however, the president has always appeared before us in the same old black suit which he wore before he went away. Or if it isn't the same suit, it's exactly the same color.

These press conferences often deal mostly with trivial matters. The other day, the president—as the White House spokesman is sometimes called—dwelt at great length on the rather dumb suggestion of someone in Chicago that District of Columbia residents be permitted to vote in Maryland.

A correspondent spoke up and pointed out that what the people of D. C. wanted was to vote within the district so as to have something to say about their local government.

Whereupon the Voice replied that no such question had been submitted in writing and that, when it was, he would consider it.

Coming from the president, this was a rebuke to the correspondent. The custom is for correspondents to submit their questions to the president

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic:

The Call of the Prophet.

Scripture Lesson:

1 Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:14, 15; Isaiah 6:1-8.

1 Kings 19:19. So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing, with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth; and Elijah passed over unto him, and cast his mantle upon him.

20. And he took the oxen and ran after Elijah and said, Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he said unto him, Go back again; for what have I done to thee?

Amos 7:14. Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees:

15. And Jehovah took me from following the flock, and Jehovah said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

Isaiah 6:1. In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and his train filled the temple.

2. Above him stood the seraphim: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain covered his feet, and with twain he did fly.

2. And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is Jehovah of hosts.

4. And the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.

5. Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, Jehovah of hosts.

6. Then flew one of the seraphim unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar:

7. And he touched my mouth with it, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin forgiven.

8. And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I; send me.

Thing. The call of Elisha, B. C. 909; that of Amos, about B. C. 793; that of Isaiah, B. C. 755.

Place. The call of Elisha, at Abelmeholah, northwest of Samaria; that of Amos at Tekoa, south of Bethlehem; that of Isaiah, at Perusalem.

Golden Text: And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then I said, Here am I; send me.—Isa. 6:8.

INTRODUCTION

The lessons of this quarter are mainly devoted to the great work of the prophets. A prophet, in common understanding of the term, is a man who foretells the future; that is one of a prophet's functions, but the chief duty of a prophet is not that, but to utter God's messages for both the present and the future. "Phet" is from a Greek word meaning to show; "pro," may mean either before or forth; a prophet either shows forth God's will, or shows beforehand what will come to pass in God's providence. We have seen Elijah to have been a prophet in both of these functions. In today's lesson we are to study the beginnings of three other splendid prophetic lives, learning from their experiences how God calls men to speak for Him.

ELIJAH FINDS ELISHA, V. 19

"So he departed thence." Elijah as we have already learned in Lesson II, if this quarter, was on Mt. Sinai, fleeing from the wrath of Jezebel. There God revealed himself to him in the "still small voice," bidding him anoint Hazael as king of Syria, Jehu as king of Israel, and Elisha as prophet in his own place.

"And found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing." Christ called some of His disciples while they were fishing, another while he was collecting taxes. He himself was called being a carpenter, and Paul being a tent maker. Moses was a shepherd and Amos was a farmer. It may safely be said that there is no honorable occupation in which God has not discovered some eminent worker for His kingdom.

ELIJAH'S MANTLE ON ELISHA, V. 19, 20.

"And Elijah passed over unto him, and cast his mantle upon him." It was a sheepskin coat so thoroughly characteristic of the famous prophet that Elisha knew at once the meaning of the act, namely, that with Elijah's garment he was to assume Elijah's work. "The mantle of Elijah" ever since this event has been an expression signifying the transfer of an important task from some one who has long performed it to his successor. "And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah." Thus Christ's disciples, when he called them, left their fishing nets and their boats and Matthew left his tax collector's booth, and followed after their Master.

THE CALL OF AMOS 7: 10-15

"Amos was a lowly farmer of Tekoa, in Judah south of Bethlehem. He felt very deeply the sins of his country, especially its idolatry, its pride, and its oppression of the poor. His business seems to have taken him occasionally to the Northern Kingdom, which was then at the height of its power under Jeroboam II, and there, in Bethel, a center of calf-worship, facing the angry condemnation of the chief Priest Amaziah, he denounced, publicly the wickedness of court, priests, and people. He appears to have escaped, to have returned home, and there to have written his prophecy, perhaps (as earliest of the remarkably vigorous and picturesque prophetic writings of the Old Testament. It is full of images drawn from the outdoor life which Amos lived, and it involves in a series of eight "dooms" Judah and the Northern Kingdom and all the surrounding nations, passing on to a series of vivid visions, and closing with a burst of sunshine, God's forgiveness which awaits the repentance of his people."

THE PROPHET ISIAH

He is known as "the evangelical prophet," the prophet of "good news." He is the chief of the prophets, not only because of the unequalled beauty and grandeur of his language, but especially because of his had the clearest vision of the coming Messiah. He exercised a profound influence over the nation, and his advice had great weight with king and court.

THE VISION OF ISIAH, Vs. 1, 2

"In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up." The throne was a lofty one, as befitted the majesty of Him who sat thereon. Isaiah had been wondering who could take the place of the powerful sovereign whose death had filled the land with mourning. "Above him stood the seraphim." While the Lord was seated, the seraphim stood in the attitude of servants. Nowhere else in Scripture are the seraphim described as angelic beings.

THE SERAPHIM

"Each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly." "With twain they did fly, in the ministry of God; with twain in humility they hid their feet. But most subduing of all perhaps is this, that before the dazzling radiance of God with twain they covered their faces." Obedience, humility and reverence are thus symbolized.

THE MISSIONARY CALL—"WHO WILL GO?" V. 8.

"And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Whoever should be sent would go as a representative of the Deity and also of all the heavenly hosts attendant upon him. The abruptness of the question is most significant. What the errand is to be is not set forth. "Angel" means "messenger;" "apostle" and "missionary" mean "one sent forth." Herein lies the pre-eminence of Christianity, that it recognizes God as eagerly outreaching to bring all men into his joy. THE MISSIONARY REPLY, "HERE AM I; SEND ME." V. 8.

"Then I said, 'Here am I send me' 'Who is me?' cried Isaiah, conscious of his sin. 'Here am I!' he fairly shouted in his exuberant joy over sins forgiven and purity restored. 'He had been weighed down with a sense of national wickedness; in his new strength he rejoices to be sent with God's message to those same wicked people. This is the spirit in which every true prophet, every true missionary, every true preacher of the gospel, every true Sunday school teacher or Christian worker of any sort, springs to his task."

JOHN NEWTON'S CONVERSION

"It was such an experience as this of Isaiah's which brought John Newton to his best self. He had spent his energies in riotous living, giving free course to all his baser passions, until at length, with the roar of a mighty tempest about him, he knelt in the hold of a pirate ship and cried aloud for mercy. He wrote 'In evil long I took delight, Unawed by shame or fear, Till a new object struck my sight And stopped my wild career.'"

LAUNDRESS LIFTS 120 POUNDS IRONING SHIRT

CHICAGO.—Ironing shirts may look like child's play to the average person, but engineers attending the convention of the American Gas Association, explain that such work calls for the brawn of a stevedore.

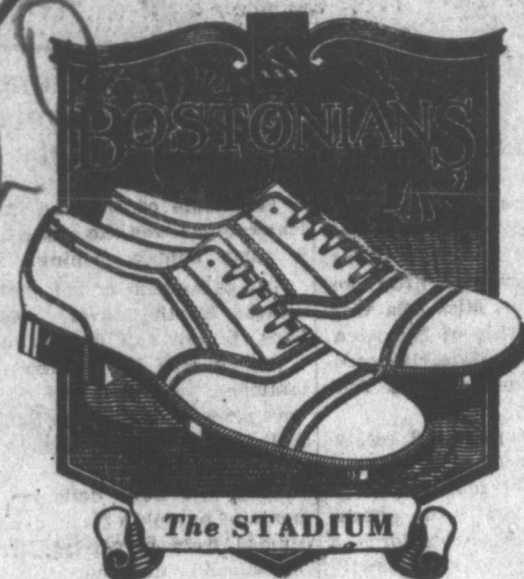

To iron one shirt, the engineers say, forces the laundress to raise her iron 20 times. The average iron weighs six pounds. Thus she lifts an average of 120 pounds on each shirt, and the usual wash containing ten shirts requires an actual lifting of more than half a ton.

SUBSTITUTE FOR ROSIN

FRANKFORT, Germany.—A new substitute for the rosin used to waterproof packing and wrapping material is being tried here. It is known as "montacol" and is said to protect paper and cardboard from water of chemical erosion.

Interesting Meetings Bring Farm Days To Close Saturday

A successful two-day agricultural short course was brought to a close Saturday afternoon when J. M. Duncan of Kansas City gave a demonstration of a John Deer tractor. He particularly stressed the care and operation of the tractor, and explained the many uses a machine can be put to on the farm and the work it saves the farmer.

Mrs. Phebe K. Warner talked to the ladies Saturday afternoon at the high school auditorium on county federation of women's clubs, which she stated is essential for the betterment of rural conditions.

Friday afternoon Col. H. H. Haines, executive manager of the Amarillo Board of City Development, spoke on diversification and business methods on the farm. He pointed out the fact that Texas resources are not put to proper uses, that for example fruit grown in Texas is shipped out while fruits are imported.

Judge L. Gough of Claude gave an interesting talk on cooperative marketing, using as an illustration Canada, which has three wheat pools and a central selling agency which can corner the wheat market. The United States has nine pools which are not united and are not getting their share of the wheat product.

A. A. Tampe of McLean spoke on shop tools on the farm. He told of the necessity of the farmer having an adequate set of tools and illustrated the use of hand tools on the farm.

The Friday night meeting was held in the auditorium of the high school, with Professor J. L. Lester in charge.

Professor Otto Schick's orchestra was in attendance and rendered numerous selections which were enjoyed by the large audience.

The powerful Missourians were shown a new brand of defense, a near perfect aerial attack, and ground gaining runs.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 22.—More than eighty persons were injured, fifteen of them perhaps seriously, and many others received cuts and bruises when a section of the stand at Mayo Island Park crashed here today as spectators stood in their seats to cheer a brilliant run by Barnes, Virginia Military Institute half-back, in a game with Maryland.

Cries rent the air as stands began to waver, then toppled. The football game was halted 20 minutes while police and ambulances rushed to the scene to remove the injured.

The strange story of a man who lived in the heart of Africa and had a lion as his companion, is told in "Tarzan and the Golden Lion," an FOB Gold Bond Special which is showing today and Monday at the Crescent theatre.

Tarzan has raised the lion from its cubhood, and together they wander through the famed veldt of central Africa. In this story they are seen on their most thrilling venture of all, the search for a hidden city in which there is a Place of Diamonds. Intrigue and suspense are added to the adventure when Tarzan's niece, beautiful Ruth Porter, is kidnapped and taken as a hostage to the city. However, the marvel man and the golden lion, with their faithful followers, the Waziri, are finally victorious over the enemy and after a whirlwind climax, there is the achievement of peace and happiness. The picture was made under the direction of J. P. McGowan. William E. Wing wrote the adaption and continuity.
