First Regular Santa Fe Train Runs to Skellytown

NEW SANTA FE LINE PLACED ON SCHEDULE

Cars Assembled Here Daily and Taken to White Deer

PRESENT BRANCH ROAD 11 MILES

Further Building Is Possible Under Permit

The new Santa Fe railroad from White Deer to Skellytown in the Carson Co. oil field completed and turned over to the railway company Saturday for operation. The first regular train, a mixed one pulled in to Skellytown Saturday.

The trains are made up here every morning, and operate on schedule out of White Deer.

The new line was started and completed to the temporary terminus at Skellytown in approximately five months. It taps a large undeveloped oil pool, the field now having about 150 wells scattered over eighteen sections of proven oil lands. There is also much farming and ranching along the line.

The railway company has made extensive improvements at Skellytown in anticipation of developments there. A depot costing $37,000 and 361 feet long has been erected. Eighteen miles of switch and industrial track has been laid at Skellytown. A water standpipe of 100,000 gallon capacity, exactly the size of that furnishing water to the city of Borger, has been erected by the railway company to supply the railway and Skellytown.

The present line is only eleven miles long, but is to be extended later north into the Badger area of the Santa Fe to the Interstate Commerce Commission for the building of the line.

A freight operating out Pampa and carrying a passenger and a baggage coach will cover the new line each day and pick up freight from the east accumulating at White Deer, it is said.

Besides serving a rapidly growing oil town and oil fields, the new line will give railway transportation to such industries as the Roxana and Skelly refineries and the Cabot carbon plant. The completion of the new line is being hailed with joy by the people of Skellytown and Roxana.

Ruth Elder Is Still Vivacious After Long Trip

(By The Associated Press.) HORTA, Azores, Oct. 15.—Vivacious as ever and minus neither her pose nor her lipstick, Ruth Elder stepped ashore here today safe, with her co-pilot, George Haldeman, from their venture over the Atlantic in the monoplane, American Girl.

The aviatrix, who failed to achieve her goal of being the first woman to span the Atlantic by air but did make the longest flight on record, set foot on land for the first time since Tuesday, when she and Haldeman left New York with Paris as their goal.

HORTA, Azores, Oct. 15.—The offer of Lilli Dillenz, the Viennese actress to take Ruth Elder back to New York on the Junkers plane D-1230, was declined today, since the American aviatrix wished to go on to Paris.

Ready! Aim! Fire! And General Quijano is Dead

An extraordinary photograph of the execution by federal infantrymen in Mexico City of General Alfredo Quijano, commander of the 26th Mexican regiment, which rebelled against the Calles government. The camera snapped an instant before the firing squad, in response to the officer's already dropped sword, tightened their trigger fingers and Quijano crumpled into a lifeless head.

Arrests for Shooting Ducks Out of Season Here

During the past week game warden of this territory have made seven arrests for violation of the Texas game laws. Four of the cases were tried in the Justice of the Peace court in Pampa, and the other three cases in White Deer.

All of the offenders pleaded guilty and paid fines of $10 and costs, which is the minimum fine that can be assessed. The warden made a round of the various lakes in the vicinity of Pampa Saturday morning, and report everything quiet, with more ducks in evidence than ever before.

Geese are also reported to be plentiful this season.

The robbers escaped.

Gray County Production Jumps to 14,005 Barrels Daily, While the Panhandle Again Slumps in Week

Not even Gray county's production jump to 14,005 barrels for the week ending Thursday could halt the Panhandle's decline, for all other areas dropped except Potter, which regained 25 barrels of its usual 30 daily.

The Bowers area of Gray county, and especially the Delaney gusher, boosted this county's total to its greatest height.

The entire Panhandle lost 1,347 barrels daily compared to last week, the figure being $9,303.

Hutchinson contributed the principal loss, having dropped 3,490 barrels to 65,635 barrels daily.

Carson county lost 208 barrels, totalling to 8,280.

Moore had no production, but Wheeler rested at 1,358, declining 140 barrels compared with last week.

Principal interest in Panhandle oil development is in the Bowers area of Gray, with the Cockrell pool of Hutchinson, getting a few new locations. Indications are that Gray county will get most of the drilling in the next few months.

Seven of Crew Are Lost—Cargo of Sugar

16 DIE WHEN CAR IS STRUCK

Passenger Train Goes Through Signal in Crash

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The French liner Paris, looming out of the shadow of the Statue of Liberty, ramméd and sank the Norwegian freighter, Besseggen, shortly after midnight today.

Of the 31 passengers and crew of the freighter, at least 24 were brought safely to shore in a spectacular rescue. The freighter went down within fifteen minutes. The Paris was not damaged. It is believed that seven members of the freighter's crew were lost. The Besseggen had aboard a cargo of sugar valued at $325,000.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15—Sixteen persons, five of them women, were killed last night when an interurban car crashed into an automobile trailer in which they were riding to a pre-Halloween barn dance at Edge City.

Five others were so seriously hurt that they may die. The trailer carried the drill team of the Mystic order of veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, and relatives.

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio, Oct. 15—The fireman on the New York Central passenger train was killed, and the engineer was probably fatally injured today when their train ran through a block signal in a dense fog and crashed head-on into a freight train.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 15—Five persons were killed tonight in an air crash at Municipal field. The dead are L. L. Clarke, of Houston, pilot of the plane, Mrs. Edward Cavanah and her daughter, four-years-old, and William Wilburn, a reporter. Mrs. Cavanah's husband died in the hospital later.

Road Bonds to Be Sold Oct. 31 By Commissioners

The Pampa road district bonds, aggregating $400,000 will be offered for sale by the county commissioners at LeFors October 31 at 2 p. m.

The bonds were voted September 10 in the road district created by the commissioners May 9. This district comprises approximately 230 square miles, or 147,214 acres. The purpose of the bond issue is to construct approximately 42 miles of macadamized, graveled, or paved roads. The bonds are in the denomination of $1,000 each, payable semi-annually at 5 1-2 per cent interest. The issue will be finally retired in 1953.

The legality of the issue has not been questioned, and no delay is expected. The vote was 413 affirmative ballots and 195 against the issue. It is believed there will be a number of bond houses interested in the sale, since this is the first indebtedness incurred by the district, whose population is about 11,000, and whose taxable valuations totaled $8,467,590.

The desirability of the bonds is enhanced by the fact that the county has no bonded indebtedness, and the only other debt is in the form of warrants aggregating $31,325.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Suspicion falls on Miss St. Clair, but Vance demonstrates by measurements at the scene of the shooting that the murder must have been approximately six feet tall. Pfyfe tells Markham that Leacock had threatened to kill Alvin Benson. Major Benson admits having heard the threat, too. Leacock denies that he owned a Colt .45 and recounts Markham's questions about Miss St. Clair. Markham begins to think Leacock guilty.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

"Here is New York's gayest dog," said Vance, introducing him to Markham (I had met him before); "a sybarite and a hedonist. He sleeps till noon, and makes no appointments before tiffin-time. I had to knock him up and threaten him with your official ire to get him down town at this early hour."

"Only too pleased to be of any service," the colonel assured Markham grandiloquently. "Shocking affair; God! I couldn't credit it when I read it in the papers. Fact is, though—I don't mind sayin' it—I've one or two ideas on the subject. Came very near calling you up myself, sir."

"When we had taken our seats at the table Vance began interrogating him without preliminaries."

"You know all the people in Benson's set, Colonel. Tell us something about Captain Leacock. What sort of chap is he?"

"Ha! So you have your eye on the gallant captain?"

Colonel Ostrander pulled importantly at his white mustache. He was a large pink-faced man with bushy eyelashes and small blue eyes; and his manner and bearing were those of a pompous light-opera general.

"Not a bad idea. Might possibly have done it. Hot-headed fellow. He's badly smitten with a Miss St. Clair—fine girl, Muriel. And Benson was smitten, too. If I'd been 20 years younger myself—"

"You're too fascinatin' to the ladies, as it is, Colonel," interrupted Vance. "But tell us about the captain."

"Ah, yes—the captain. Comes from Georgia originally. Served in the war—some kind of decoration. He didn't care for Benson—disliked him, in fact. Quick-tempered, single-track mind sort of person. Jealous, too. You know the type—a product of that tribal tequitte below the Mason and Dixon line."

"Put women on a pedestal—not that they shouldn't be put there. God bless 'em! But he'd go to jail for a lady's honor. A shelder of womanhood. Sentimental cuss, full of chivalry; just the kind to blow out a rival's brains;—no questions asked—pop—and it's all over. Dangerous chap to monkey with. Benson was a confounded idiot to bother with the girl when he knew she was engaged to Leacock. Playin' with fire."

"I don't mind sayin' I was tempted to warn him. But it was none of my affair—I had no business interferin'. Bad taste."

"Just how well did Captain Leacock know Benson?" asked Vance.

"By that I mean: how intimate were they?"

"Not intimate at all," the colonel replied.

He made a ponderous gesture of negation, and added:

"I should say not! Formal, in fact. They met each other here and there a good deal, though. Knowing 'em both pretty well, I've often had 'em to little affairs at my humble diggin'."

"You wouldn't say Captain Leacock was a good gambler—level-headed and all that?"

"Gambler—hub! The colonel's manner was heavily contemptuous. "Poorest I ever saw. Played poker worse than a woman. Too excitable—couldn't keep his feelin's to himself. Altogether too rash."

Then, after a momentary pause; "By George! I see what you're aimin' at. . . . And you're dead right. It's rash young pupples just like him that go about shootin' people they don't like."

"The Captain, I take it, is quite different in that regard from your friend, Leander Pfyfe," remarked Vance.

The colonel appeared to consider.

"Yes and no," he decided. "Pfyfe's a cool gambler—that I'll grant you. He once ran a private gambling place of his own down on Long Island—roulette, monte, baccarat, that sort of thing. And he popped tigers and wild boars in Africa for a while. But Pfyfe's got his sentimental side, and he'd plunge on a pair of deuces with all the betting odds against him."

"Not a good scientific gambler. Flighty in his impulses, if you understand me. I don't mind admittin' though, that he could shoot, a man and forget all about it in five minutes. But he'd need a lot of provocation. . . . He may have had it—you can't tell."

"Pfyfe and Benson were rather intimate, weren't they?"

"Very—very. Always saw 'em together when Pfyfe was in New York. Known each other years. Soon companions, as they called 'em in the old days. Actually lived together before Pfyfe got married. An exacting woman. Pfyfe's wife; makes him toe the mark. But loads of money."

"Speaking of the ladies," said

vance; "what was the situation between Benson and Miss St. Clair?"

"Who can tell?" asked the colonel sentimentally. "Muriel didn't cotton to Benson—that's sure. And yet . . . Women are strange creatures—"

"Oh, no end strange," agreed Vance, a trifle wearily. "But really, y' know, I wasn't pryin' into the lady's personal relations with Benson. I thought you might know her mental attitude concerning him."

"Ah—I see. Would she, in short, have been likely to take desperate measures against him? . . . Egad! That's an idea!"

The colonel pondered the point. "Muriel, now, is a girl of strong character. Works hard at her art. She's a singer, and—I don't mind tellin' you—a mighty fine one. She's deep, too—deuced deep. And capable. Not afraid of taking a chance. Independent. I myself wouldn't want to be in her path if she had it in for me. Might stick at nothing."

He nodded his head sagely.

"Women are funny that way. Always surprisin' you. No sense of values. The most peaceful of 'em will shoot a man in cold blood without warnin'—"

He suddenly sat up, and his little blue eyes glistened like china.

"By gad!" He fairly blurted the ejaculation. "Muriel had dinued alone with Benson the night he was shot—the very night. Saw 'em together myself at the Marcellines."

"You don't say, really," muttered Vance incuriously. "But I suppose we all must eat. . . . By the bye; how well did you yourself know Benson?"

The colonel looked startled, but Vance innocuous expression seemed to reassure him.

"I? My dear fellow! I've known Alvin Benson 15 years. At least 15—maybe longer. Showed him the sights in this old town before the lid was put on. Alive town it was then. Wide open. Anything you wanted. Gad—what times we had! Those were the days of the old Haymarket. Never thought of toddlin' home till breakfast—"

Vance again interrupted his irrelevances.

"How intimate are your relations with Major Benson?"

"The Major? . . . That's another matter. He and I belong to different schools. Dissimilar tastes. We never hit it off. Rarely see each other."

He seemed to think that some explanation was necessary, for before Vance could speak again, he added:

"The Major, you know, was never one of the boys, as we say. Disapproved of gaiety. Didn't mix with our little set. Considered me and Alvin too frivolous. Serious-minded chap. Vance ate in silence for a while, then asked in an off-hand way:

"Did you do much speculating through Benson and Benson?"

For the first time the colonel appeared hesitant about answering. He ostentatiously wiped his mouth with his napkin.

"Oh—dabbed a bit," he at length admitted slyly. "Not very lucky, though. . . . We all flirted now and then with the Goddess of Chance in Benson's office."

Throughout the lunch Vance kept prying him with questions along these lines; but at the end of an hour he seemed to be no nearer anything definite than when he be-

Footprint of Cat Saves Story Books

ASHSTEAD, England—Thousands of English school children who have feared that they should have to give up their long-cherished tradition of Dick Whittington and his cat are once more reassured.

Dick Whittington was lord mayor of London in the fifteenth century. The story is told that when a scullion boy he ventured with his cat, his only possession, on a merchant ship of his master and so made his fortune.

Recently the lord mayor of London, Sir Rowland Blades said that there could be no truth in the story of Dick Whittington and his cat for the reason that there were no cats in England in Dick's time.

There was more excitement than about some of the trans-Atlantic flights. Educators thought they would have to change their stories to the younger people and rewrite the reading books.

But now comes Arthur R. Cotton, lord of the manor of Ashstead, Surrey, in the forest of which the remains of a Roman villa have been found. He says there were cats in England in the second century, and in proof of his statement he produces a piece of Roman tile made at Ashstead in the century on which a cat put its paw while the tile was still soft, leaving a clear impression.

Because the lord mayor's house is within a few yards of the Cotton homestead it is possible that the cat caught mice in Sir Rowland's garden 1,700 years ago.

Cotton is having a cast made of the cat's paw to present to the lord mayor.

Spanish cream is a delicious dessert made from milk, eggs and gelatin. The proportion is one envelope, or two ounces, of gelatin to one quart of milk. Use from two to five eggs, according to the desired richness, the season for eggs or the sugar and a fourth of a teaspoon of vanilla or any preferred flavoring may be used. Soak the gelatin in half a cup of cold milk for two minutes. Heat the remainder of the milk, add salt and sugar and the dissolved gelatin. Beat the egg yolks, add, cook until the mixture is like custard, take from the fire and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and add the flavoring. Pour into a mold or whipped cream or a fruit sauce.

Colonel Ostrander was voluble, but his fluency was vague and disorganized. He talked mainly in parenthesis, and insisted on elaborating his answers with rambling opinions, until it was almost impossible to extract what little information his words contained.

Use metal protection under all stoves and protect woodwork where stoves or furnaces are close to walls.

Don't pass stove pipes through ceiling, roofs or wooden partitions.

Have all flues cleaned, examined and repaired at least once each year.

Every open fire place should have a screen.

Don't connect gas stoves, heaters or hot plates with rubber hose.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to cleanse clothing near an open flame, light or fire. Use non-inflammable cleaner.

Don't use kerosene, benzine or naphtha in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire.

Don't use liquid polishes near open lights. Many such compounds contain volatile inflammable oils.

Don't go into closets with lighted matches or candles.

Remember that there is always danger in the discarded cigarette and cigar stub.

Pampa Harvesters Defeat Memphis in Hard Game, 6-0

ROBERTS HAS ONLY SCORE

Walstad Outstanding as Ground Gainer for Locals

Playing slashing football in a high wind, the Pampa Harvesters Friday triumphed over Memphis high school, 6 to 0. Both teams made good gains, but lacked the resourcefulness to score when opportunities arose.

Another big crowd saw the game, and the over-all girls' pep squad of Central high made a fine impression with yells and drills.

Herlacher, the Pampa captain won the toss and elected to kick, Memphis defending the west goal. Walstad kicked off to May on his 18-yard line and the ball was returned 14 yards. Foxhall, the Memphis quarter, made one yard through center. May fumbled, but recovered to lose a yard. May kicked to Maness who fumbled, Evans, Memphis right guard, recovering the ball on his 28-yard line. On a play around right end, May made 14 yards for a first down.

Seitz went in for Clayton on the Pampa team. Hudgins made 7 yards around left end, Crawford bucked the line for 2 yards. McDavitt made no gain and the ball went over to Pampa on an incomplete forward pass. The ball was on Pampa's 8-yard line. Walstad's punt only carried 12 yards against the wind.

Crawford made 2 yards over left tackle and May made it a second first down by a run around right end for 10 yards. Bishop replaced Seitz for Pampa. In one of the most spectacular plays of the day, Kennedy went through the Memphis line to throw Hudgins for a 6-yard loss. The tackle was clean and hard from the line. Two plunges placed the ball on Pampa's 14-yard line and May tried a place kick which failed to leave the ground.

Still Gaining
Walstad punted out of danger but three line plays made another first down for Memphis. Memphis lost 5 yards on an offside, and then lost the ball on a fumble. Walstad punted 20 yards out of bounds. Two plunges over right tackle netted Memphis six yards. Pampa was penalized 10 yards for slugging. Three plunges put the ball on Pampa's one yard line. May tried to hurdle the line for the extra yard but failed by three inches, the ball going to Pampa. Walstad kicked 15 yards when the quarter ended with the ball on Pampa's 15 yard line.

Pampa had the wind at her back the second period and showed some real football. Green relieved Jones in the Pampa line-up. Four Memphis bucks failed to make a first down and the ball went to Pampa on her 10-yard line. Walstad kicked with the wind to Memphis' 25-yard line and the ball was returned to her 40-yard line by May. Two line bucks and a fake kick netted Memphis 1 yard. Robinson replaced Kahl, who was hurt. May punted to Pampa's 30-yard line.

It was then that Pampa started her mad rush of 70 yards down the field on five first downs. Walstad made 9 yards through center followed by Green who went 14 yards around left end for Pampa's initial first down. Walstad made 14 yards, Maness went through for 8 yards and Walstad on two end runs netted Pampa nine yards. Roberts made 12 yards through center, then 3 yards over left guard, followed by a line plunge over center for a touchdown.

A forward pass failed to make the extra point.
On the kick-off, Stalls booted out of bounds behind the Memphis line and the ball was brought out to the 20-yard line, after some discussion as to rules. Three line bucks made Memphis 2 yards and May booted to his 45-yard line. Green slipped going through left tackle for no gain, but was followed around right guard by Walstad for a 14 yard gain, through some nice broken field running. The ball was on Memphis' 21 yard line at half time.

Slow Work
Clayton kicked off to Crawford on his 9 yard line. Crawford made 8 yards before being downed by Kennedy on a pretty tackle. Hudgins went over right guard for 2 yards. Memphis was penalized 5 yards for offside. On the next play Crawford fumbled and was thrown for a 12-yard loss by Clayton. May's punt traveled 6 yards against the wind. It was a high spiral. Two bucks netted Memphis 9 yards and May punted to Walstad, who signaled for a fair catch. He was jumped and Memphis recovered the ball which

LOYOLA TEAM OF NEW ORLEANS FOOTBALL SENSATION OF SOUTH

Undeclared last season and in its first two games this year, the Loyola College Maroon Cyclone of New Orleans is rated as one of the strongest football teams in the South. Because of its record, Notre Dame has given it a place on the 1928 schedule.

Bucky Moore (left), "the Dixie Flyer," is the team's star. Captain Bill Ritchey (upper right) plays at guard. The Loyola coach is Clark D. Shaughnessy (lower right).

(By Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, La.—Virtually unknown in the athletic world seven years ago—a college without a football team—Loyola of New Orleans in this brief interval has become one of the greatest gridiron foes in the South.

So impressive was the team's showing in going through last season without a defeat that Notre Dame has given it a place on the 1928 schedule. Sweeping through to ten victories in 1926, Loyola scored 377 points, topping all other eleven in high scoring and winning the sobriquet of "The Maroon Cyclone."

Only three teams succeeded in crossing the Louisianans' goal line and these amassed a total of only 31 points, Loyola of Chicago was defeated 40 to 14, Baylor 13 to 10, and the Tennessee School of Medicine 14 to 7, Jefferson, Detroit, Catholic University, Spring Hill, Lincoln, Ft. Benning and Little Rock smothered with scores ranging from 6 to 76 points.

Although the Jesuits were pioneer educators in old Louisiana and Loyola was founded nearly a hundred years ago, the student body never went in for sports on a large scale until 1921, when its first football team was sent forth. The first five years saw a gradual rise of the eleven and then came the sensational season of 1926, when the undefeated freshman team of 1925 became the varsity.

Eddie Reed, who had coached the Frosh, became the varsity coach and he centered his attack and defense on Bucky Moore, generally recognized as one of the greatest backfield stars ever produced in the South. Bucky ran wild with the opposition, leading the entire South in point scoring with 105 to his credit.

New Orleans made him its idol. He was called "The Dixie Flyer."

A race horse and a candy were named after him. Great in his ability to tear through the field for substantial gains, Moore has strong assistance from his teammates. Spalding, for example, named 18 Louisiana football players on its all star last year and of these six were members of "The Maroon Cyclone"—Smith, Gremillion, Palm, Richey and Drouilhet.

was given to Pampa. Ten minutes argument ensued following the play, but Pampa retained the ball according to a decision by Referee Studer, on Memphis' 38 yard line.
Walstad, with excellent interference and fast running through a broken field, made 19 yards. Two line plunges and an incomplete forward pass netted Pampa 3 yards, but Roberts failed to make the necessary two yards for a first down and the ball went over to Memphis. On the first play, Pampa was penalized 10 yards for roughing tactics. Line plunges by May netted Memphis 1 yard, and May booted to Roberts on the 50-yard line. Roberts returned the ball 12 yards before being downed.

A Freak Play
Walstad tried two line plunges and a forward pass for no gain as the Memphis line was breaking through Herlacher. Walstad booted out of bounds on Memphis' 15 yard line. May tried two line plunges for a 2-yard gain before booting to Walstad on his own 46-yard line. The ball hit Walstad's foot and bounded back to the Memphis 14-yard line before being recovered by May. An incomplete forward pass and two line plunges by May gave Memphis 2 yards and the quarter ended with the ball on the Memphis 16-yard line.

In changing goals the officials forgot the number of downs and Memphis got five before kicking out of bounds on Pampa's 20-yard line. The wind carried the ball a longer distance than an ordinary punt. Walstad tried two line plunges for three yards before punting out of bounds on the Memphis 29-yard line.

Some Thrills
The Pampa line weakened and May made 11 yards on two end runs and a buck. Crawford then carried the ball for 11 yards and another first down. The Pampa line then tightened. A pass to May was fumbled, Stalls falling on the ball. On the longest run of the day, Walstad made 24 yards around right end.

Up and Going

Meet William E. Nugent of French Lick, Ind., who is 88 years old and claims to be the world's oldest caddy. Nugent says the fellows "around 60 years old" are mere youngsters with lots to learn about this "caddying business."

Roberts made 4 yards over right tackle. Walstad was thrown for a loss when no one got through to receive his forward pass. A forward pass, Walstad to Clayton, was completed for a 10-yard gain. Walstad, Green and Roberts made 4 yards through the line and on a fake kick Walstad made 5 yards, the ball going to Memphis as the whistle blew. The game ended with the ball on the Memphis 20 yard line.

Walstad Effective
Again Archie Walstad was the shining light on the field. His broken field running was sensational. He is the kind of player who never knows when he is stopped. Roberts at fullback played a steady game as did Green. Hamilton at right guard was the strength of the Pampa line and was ably assisted by Saulsbury at end and Kennedy at guard.

May, the Memphis fullback, was a 180-pounder who hit the line hard for gains. Hudgins and Foxhall, although short and stocky, were fast on their feet and made long gains around the end.

The game developed into a rough exhibition at times but the officials had it well in hand.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 15—For 44 years C. A. Turner, foreman of the city waterworks, has lived in Austin, center of the world's biggest agricultural state, but it was not until this season that he saw cotton picked.

Turner came here from South Africa, where he had been attracted from Australia, his birthplace, by a gold rush. He built the fourth house on the south side of Austin.
"I've seen baled cotton and cotton in the fields, but I never before saw a man drag a sack across the rows and pick the bolls," he said.

Experts Went Astray
The so-called expert dope was badly exploded in the world series between the Yankees and Pirates.

Some of the pre-series predictions by those familiar with the strength of the National League champions were that—
Pittsburgh's staff of curve-ball artists will stop the New York sluggers, who are easy picking for that style of pitching.

No southpaw will have a chance to beat the Pirates, for they are deadly poison to that kind of pitching.

Pittsburgh will run wild on the Yankees' catching staff, for the Pirates are the best base-running club in the National League.

Manager Bush intends for his pitchers to really pitch to Ruth and Gehrig and is positive, by properly working on them, the two sluggers of the Yankees will be silenced.

Now let us see what really happened to this alleged wise staff that was handed out prior to the opening of the series.

Yankees Were Hitting
In my size-up of the two clubs, I expressed the opinion that the outcome of the series largely depended upon the mood of the Yankees. That is, if the Pirates found them in the midst of one of their batting orgies, no Pirate pitcher would stop them.

It so happened that the Pirates found the Yanks in such a mood and not one of the four starting pitchers, the regulars of the Pittsburgh staff—Kremer, Aldridge, Meadows and Mill—were able to finish.

New York looked over plenty of curve-ball pitching, they missed a lot of the "hooks" served them, but, in the pinch, they hit enough of them to enable the Yanks to win four straight games.

The Pittsburgh twirlers are now familiar with what the pitchers on seven other American League clubs were up against last summer.

Pennock Was Poison
Perhaps Pittsburgh is poison for the ordinary southpaw, but in the trail Herbert Pennock, the Pirates met an extraordinary left hander.

All Pennock did was retire 23 batters in succession and with one man down in the eighth had pitched a perfect baseball game. The Pirates made only three hits and one run off his delivery.

No doubt the Pirates have plenty of speed on the bases, but they seldom had a chance to show it and when they did the conditions of the game didn't favor such play.

True, the Pirate pitchers did pitch to both Ruth and Gehrig with very few exceptions. However, their curves failed to stop the slugging tactics of the two Yankee stars.

The extra base hits of Babe and Lou just about spoiled the series on a Pittsburgh standpoint. The pre-series bank was worthless.

Pirates Outclassed
The Pirates were outclassed in the recent world series. There is no doubt of that. However, the Pirates played far below form. Pittsburgh is a much better ball club than it showed in the series.

The Yankees, a truly great ball club when in the proper mood, were at the top of their game. After an ordinary start in the first game—New York always dominated the situation.

All season many of the experts have insisted the remarkable hitting of the Yankees was due to inferior pitching. Yet, in the world series the Pirate staff failed to stop the Yanks, while the alleged inferior staff of New York had no trouble holding the Pirates in check.

All of which proves it is the wisperson who takes nothing for granted as far as the outcome of a ball game or series is concerned.

BUSINESS—Frank Greene's monthly business review in Bradstreet's states that "trade, wholesale and retail, and to all appearances industry also, touched bottom in July, and August saw a rally."

Wholesale trade was firm in August, indicating more brisk retail business, and "intensive advertising of summer wear would seem to have more than offset the effects of cool or rainy weather in wide areas."

September is definitely more promising in the Southwest than many expected, and the Panhandle should soon show a financial status which will replace it in the "white" zone of good, rather than fair, business.

Industry has been slow, a survey of industrial publications clearly reveals. Payrolls have been cut to a minimum and many factories have been shut down.

This betterment of conditions in industry is of immediate interest to the Panhandle. A case in point is the report that the Blackwell (Okla.) zinc company would remove its huge plant there to some place in the Panhandle.

The Blackwell smelter is said to be the largest single product zinc plant in the world. At this moment, the zinc market is off, and operation at full capacity is not advisable.

future supply of gas is extremely problematical with the zinc manufacturers, and the price is an important item to such a mammoth plant.

Blackwell, a city of about 15,500 population, has keenly felt the depressing effect of the report that the smelter was going to move.

If such a factory is so vital to a city of 15,000, this means it would be one of the most stabilizing factors Pampa could obtain.

Our advantages have been placed before the company, whose headquarters is in St. Louis. The immediate possibility of the location of big industries here is dependent upon world markets among other things.

RED CROSS—Seventy-five disasters, including the unprecedented Mississippi river flood, called out the resources of the Red Cross during the last year.

Few realize that the huge flood did not reach its height until early summer. Calamities struck 25 states, and Texas was one of the chief sufferers.

Millions were fed and clothed by "The Greatest Mother" during the year. Tragedies are taking place continually—tragedies which are apt to strike close to one's own community at any time.

The annual roll call will begin soon. Every community should line up with this great agency and contribute to its support.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—Most informed persons in Washington expected that there would be an armed revolt in Mexico, but few thought it would develop so early.

Serrano and Gomez, however, apparently shared the general belief that Alvaro Obregon would be elected. Whether they had any hope of fair and free elections is difficult to decide from this distance, but it is likely that they would have been justified in such hope because Obregon is such a popular hero in Mexico that strong-arm methods were not needed to elect him.

Friends of Mexico in this country were anxious to see the revolt put down and have supported the drastic tactics of Calles in executing many rebel leaders.

Although it is true that the Mexican people are not yet well along the road toward what is known as civilization and that rebels are being killed off quicker than they would be in this country—perhaps, there is every justification in Mexican law for the numerous recent executions.

The victims presumably are being shot down in accordance with the law of Maximilian, dated 1862, which provided that anyone should be shot who was taken, arms in hand, against the constituted government.

Emperor Maximilian himself had this law passed to enable him to deal with his Mexican enemies and he enforced it against many of the leaders in the warring faction led by the Mexican patriot, Benito Juarez.

Then, when Maximilian himself was captured, Juarez, who had been president and who claimed Maximilian's reign was illegal, invoked the law against the emperor, and Maximilian died before a firing squad because he had been taken "arms in hand against the constituted government."

Girl Serves As "Weather Man" At Cape May Government Bureau

DOLORES DORMAN

THE DIRECTION OF THE WINDS SHE GETS FROM LEAVES OF TREES

YOUNGEST OFFICIAL WEATHER OBSERVER, TWICE A DAY, READS THE OFFICIAL WEATHER THERMOMETER

(By Associated Press) CAPE MAY, N. J.—A slim, bobbed, 20-year old miss of Cape May is one of the two women weather observers in the United States and the youngest official observer in the government service, government records reveal. She is Miss Dolores Dorman.

She insists there is nothing particularly exciting about the post she holds. But when the attendant publicity might lead to the belief that one is a freckled-faced kid—well, it's time something was said to straighten matters out.

Miss Dorman is the official "Weather man" at the Cape May Bureau. Although she was just recently appointed, she knows her work, for she comes of a family of weather men.

Her father was 40 years in the government service and her brother served a year thereafter. When he resigned, Miss Dorman, just out of school, succeeded him.

With "Naisy," a pet hen, which was once a puny five-and-ten-cent store chick, and "Tex," a police dog, trailing her, Miss Dorman steps to the porch of her home and weather bureau every two hours to scan the clouds. She reads the official thermometers at least twice daily and from them calculates dew point, humidity, and temperature.

The direction of the winds she gets from leaves of trees, smoke and flags, but sometimes she has "to go down to the beach to be sure." However, she can judge from things she sees whether the wind is "light, brisk, high or a gale." And each night she sends a report in cipher to the Philadelphia office by telegraph and once monthly a long report is mailed to Washington.

The outdoor life has given her a trace of freckles across the bridge of her nose.

"But I don't think they ought to say I'm freckled," she insists. "And as for the work—it's not more important nor more difficult than lots of things other girls do."

She admits she has had the "queerest assortment of mail." "Some smart alecs propose to me on postal cards," she says, "some demand certain kinds of weather on certain dates so they can go on a picnic or win a bet, and others ask me to tell them what the weather is going to be six months from now."

"INSIDE INFORMATION"

Don't leave the lettuce on your salad plate. Eat it for the sake of the vitamins it contains.

A flat narrow collar or no collar at all and a V-shaped or U-shaped neck line is most becoming to a short, stout figure. Square neck lines should be avoided.

A little kerosene in clear water helps in window washing. Wash with even overlapping strokes and rub dry with soft paper or clean cloth. A rubber wiper can be used on large windows.

Carrots are a good source of vitamins. In winter they are older and have been stored a long time, they may lose some of vitamin C, but they are still valuable for their minerals and for vitamins A and B.

Don't have the same menu every time you entertain. Plan several good "company" menus, according to the season of the year. If the same people come often to your home it's a good plan to have some record of what is served to guests each time, or you may duplicate your menus.

Much dust and dirt can be kept out of the house by taking precautions. If the roads near your home are not oiled, stop some of the dust at doors and windows. Dust window sills, porches, steps and walks daily. Cover the pantry and storeroom window screens with cheese cloth to keep dust out but let the air in. If they walk about the house are muddy get the family to use shoe scrapers and leave muddy rubbers and boots outside.

Natural Reason Why Most Gamblers Lose

Dr. George A. Dorsey, author of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings," has told in the Cosmopolitan why gamblers "go broke" and do not behave as human beings.

"The man who does not behave like a human being in a gamble is the man who as a boy has not learned to take chances, who has not learned to profit by experience, and who has not learned to use his brain to get him out of difficulties, but has hung on to his mother's apron-strings or sought refuge in flight or blustered his way out like a beast.

"And so, while we are all natural-born gamblers, we are not necessarily all good gamblers when the stake is high or the situation dangerous. We may fall in the crisis; we may whine and snivel or run like whipped curs; or we may bluster and brag or fight like senseless beasts. Or we may play the game. There are gamblers and gamblers."

Lovers' Quarrel Sent Burbank to the West

A lovers' tiff was the proximate, if not the underlying cause of Luther Burbank heading Horace Greeley's advice to young men to "Go West." He tells the story in his life story, "The Harvest of the Years."

"I was very deeply fond of a beautiful young lady—it was in 1875, and the great naturalist was twenty-six at the time—who seemed to me, I remember, less ardent than I was. A trifling disagreement, two positive natures, probably hasty words—and I determined that my heart was broken.

"Mary and I can look back on those tragic days—for I am sure they were tragic to both of us—with smiles. Shortly after my arrival in California I wrote her or she wrote me, and we resumed our friendship by letter. The friendship has been kept up all these years and has been very significant to both of us. Probably my Mary of those old times has had many an occasion to be thankful that I took her at her word when she told me—as I think she must have—that I was not the only eligible man in Massachusetts."—Kansas City Star.

Diuse of the Long "S"

The modern form of the letter "s" took the place of the old "t"-form of the letter very gradually. For many years the round "s" was used in all parts of words except the end, where the long "t" was retained. John Bell, a London publisher, was the first important publisher to discard the long "t" and substitute the round "s" in all words containing the letter. This he did in his edition of "The British Theater," which was published about 1775. The transition from one form of the letter to the other was almost simultaneous with the American Revolution. In 1788 Benjamin Franklin wrote: "The round 's' begins to be the mode, and in nice printing the long 't' is rejected entirely." After 1800 the old form of "s" seldom appeared.

Encouraging Trade

A bright-eyed little English lad satated the occupants of a passing motor car so politely that they stopped and gave him sixpence.

"Do you salute all the strangers that pass?" the woman with the party inquired.

"No, ma'am, only motorists," the boy stammered, fidgeting his sixpence nervously. "Father says I must be polite to them because motor cars bring him trade."

The lady seemed disappointed. "What is your father's trade, my little man? Does he repair motor cars?"

"No, ma'am," was the reply. "Father's an undertaker."—Exchange.

Singing Kettles

The Japanese manufacture in a great variety of forms iron tea-kettles which break into song when the water boils. The song may not be a perfect melody, but it is perhaps as agreeable as the notes produced by some of the insects that the Japanese also treasure for their music.

The harmonious sounds of the tea-kettle are produced by steam bubbles escaping from beneath thin sheets of iron fastened closely together nearly at the bottom. To get the best effects some skill is required in regulating the fire. The character of the sounds varies from the form of the kettle. These singing kettles have been used for many generations.

Sharing Troubles

Some one has said that "when you tell a friend your troubles and he tells you his, you both have twice as many troubles as you had before." But it is not true. One of the quickest ways to get rid of troubles, or at any rate to ameliorate them, is to pour them into a sympathetic ear, and to listen, in turn, to what the other man has suffered. This is one case in which twice one is not two. The two sets of cares and worries are diminished, rather than increased, when they are combined.—Toronto Star.

Even King Can't Keep Mayfair Girls From Riding Cowboy Style

Advocates of modern riding dress in England include the Misses Jane and Mary Maitland shown with "Jasper" (top) and Miss Peggy Paget (lower left) and her mother, the countess of Drogheda. The Hon. Georgia Curson (lower right) only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Curson, dresses conservatively for riding.

(By Associated Press) LONDON—"My kingdom for a horse," Richard the Third is credited with saying—but British young women say: "My kingdom for how to ride him."

Ever since the King was quoted as saying he disapproved of young women riding astraddle, the society fair sex of the kingdom have split into two camps—those who ride with both legs on one side, and those who ride with one leg on each side.

The elderly section of society, following the example of the King, disapprove of riding astraddle. The younger section of society, though unwilling to flaunt the King's opinion, nevertheless are to be seen riding "cowboy fashion" along Rotten Row, Hyde Park, and to hunting meets. They maintain that it is more exhilarating and their appearance is more jaunty.

Perhaps fashion, however, has something to do with it. The debutantes who believe they look better in riding breeches than in riding skirt will ride astraddle, and vice versa.

The Hon. Georgina Curson, only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Curson, is an advocate of the more conservative method of riding. She wears high riding boots, but keeps her skirt discreetly long.

Advocates of the newer style, however, are in the majority. Misses Jane and Mary Maitland, noted Mayfair society girls, are exponents of the "breeches" style. The younger girl's hair rolls down her back in ringlets, and both affect Puritan hats, instead of "bowlers." Miss Peggy Paget, daughter of the Countess of Drogheda, favors a helmet hat and breeches.

The motorcar may have driven the horse out of the commercial world, but it has not driven him from the social world. Riding is just as popular today among the socially elite as it was before the motorcar made its debut.

"Rotten Row" is a curious name for the exclusive drive in Hyde Park. But it is a corruption of a more high sounding name, "Rue du Roi," meaning avenue of the King.

show late-continued rain a slightly delay in making out insurance may be risked, and considerable savings in premiums are possible.

In recent years many grain farmers, recognizing the feeding value of dockage, are taking a greater interest in cleaning their grain on the farm or in having it cleaned at the country elevators and utilizing the screenings as feed for livestock. Country elevator operators, recognizing this demand for screenings, are making a greater effort to clean the grain before shipping it to market.

HINTS FOR FARM and HOME by THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Poultry breeders of the United States sold about 800,000,000 baby chicks last year. Egg production in the United States was at the rate of about 760 eggs each second, or 2,000,000,000 dozen in the year.

Cross-ocean flying demands a new service by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Comprehensive weather information is telegraphed to the naval radio station for broadcasting in whatever foreign language may be necessary.

From 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 acres of fall-sown oats are grown annually in the South, 50 per cent of the oat acreage in the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana being devoted to the fall-sown crop.

Crop rotation does not cost any money, but it rivals the use of manure and fertilizers in maintaining and increasing yields of crops. A good rotation is a most effective means for increasing yields and lowering crop-production costs.

In order to acquire farm land most of the present landlords have had to buy it. Of land owned by a representative group of 24,000 farm landlords, latest figures show that more than four-fifths had been purchased and only about a sixth obtained by gift or inheritance.

JADED SOCIETY FINDS FUN IN STREET PAVING

(By Associated Press) LONDON—Mayfair's newest fashionable craze is to go street paving in white ties and golden evening gowns.

In the early hours, after night life has begun to pall, parties of society folk have appeared in Piccadilly—London's Broadway now being repaved—and, seizing picks and shovels, begun helping the street sweepers.

A change from pick wielding was made by two young men, smartly groomed in evening clothes, who for two hours put up a wheelbarrow pushing contest, filling and dumping loads of soil. The navvies, already amused, thought they were on something "easy" when the pushers gave them $5 each for allowing them to do the navvies' work.

No Garage Furnished At Premier's Home

(By Associated Press) LONDON—It took an American visitor from Massachusetts to discover a startling defect to No. 10 Downing Street, the Prime Minister's official home.

Other people may have known it, but the American is the first to voice it, and he did so immediately after he had inspected the famous knocker windows and general appearance of the place.

He walked over to a police constable and said: "It looks very good, officer, but tell me, where is the garage?" "There isn't one, sir," said the constable.

"Then where does your Mr. Baldwin keep his automobile?" "Don't know, sir." "Well, I pity your poor Prime Minister."

The Prime Minister has to keep his car out when in town, as the builders of No. 10 Downing Street—Sir George Downing, Sir John Soane and Sir Christopher Wren—when they erected the dwelling in the reign of Charles II, did not foresee the day when the occupants would use motorcars.

Cooked Ants Cited As Delicious Dish

(By Associated Press) LONDON—A dish of cooked ants is a delicious food, says a globe trotter writing to the London newspapers.

He has lived in Uganda for many years and says that there are many kinds of ants greedily relished by the inhabitants. Some prefer their ants raw, others cooked. In hospitals a plate of boiled ants is frequently given to patients, while on market days children buy portions wrapped up in banana leaves.

King's Privy Council Will Get New Uniform

(By Associated Press) LONDON—Members of King George's Privy Council, which embraces all shades of political thought, are to have their own distinctive uniform.

It has been specially designed at the request of the King, and it will be worn on all State occasions.

Those who are in doubt as to the amount of gold braid to be worn on the new dress uniform may inspect a "pattern" on view at St. James Palace.

Ship Card Sharpers Often Wear Glasses

(By Associated Press) LONDON—"Don't gamble with strangers wearing glasses if you don't want to get 'skinned'" is the warning issued by detectives who have made a special study of the card sharks who fleece passengers on Trans-Atlantic liners.

Card cheats, that is professional card cheats, almost invariably wear glasses. Magnifying lenses are of great help in enabling crooks to recognize the marks on playing cards.

In nearly all cases the Trans-Atlantic crooked gamblers go in pairs. Sometimes they are in trios, but they always try to get at least two of their numbers into a game, as that gives them a double chance to deal crooked hands. One crook can also attract the attention of the other players while his confederate is fixing up the hands.

Ferrets Talk So Much They Send Owner To Court

(By Associated Press) LONDON—Robinson Crusoe's two parrots which appeared in a film along with Crusoe's man Friday were responsible for W. A. Wetherell, who produced the picture, getting into trouble with the police. After the film had been completed Mr. Wetherell brought the birds to London and made pets of them, but they were noisy, and the neighbors objected, and the owner was summoned to a police court and fined $20 for harboring two lively nuisances.

When officials of a large railroad in Montana were asked by their headquarters in St. Paul why there had been a noticeable falling off in coal shipments as compared with previous winters, the Weather Bureau was consulted. Weather records showed that there had been a period of unusually mild weather. Similarly, weather records are used by a local lighting company at the close of an unusually cloudy, gloomy month, to show consumers what constitutes an average month and why the one past has been unusual, occasioning larger bills. In winter the coal dealer watches the weather forecasts for a cold wave so that preparation may be made for handling an increased demand for coal. If a cold wave is expected on a Sunday the yards must be kept open and special forces held in readiness to handle the coal.

To make a good mayonnaise that does not separate, keep the bowl and ingredients cold. Add oil very slowly at first, only a few drops at a time. Measure in cups or small pitchers the quantities of oil and vinegar the recipe directs. Add salt last.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic--Elijah in Naboth's Vineyard.

Scripture Lesson--1 Kings 21:6-10, 16-20.

5. But Jezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?

6. And he said unto her: Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it. And he answered: I will not give thee my vineyard.

7. And Jezebel his wife said unto him: Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? Arise and eat bread, and let thy heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8. So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal and sent the letters unto the elder and to the nobles that were in his city, and that dwell with Naboth.

9. And she wrote in the letters, saying, proclaim a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people:

10. And set two men, base fellows, before him, and let them bear witness against him, saying, thou didst curse God and the king. And then carry him out, and stone him to death.

16. And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

17. And the word of Jehovah came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18. Arise, go down to meet Ahab, king of Israel, who dwelleth in Samaria: behold he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whether he is gone down to take possession of it.

19. And thou speak unto him, saying, Thus saith Jehovah, hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou speak unto him, saying, Thus saith Jehovah, in the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20. And Ahab said to Elijah, hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee, because thou hast sold thyself to do that which is evil in the sight of Jehovah.

Time--B. C. 906. Place--Naboth's vineyard at Jezreel. Ahab's place in Samaria. Golden Text--Be sure your sin will find you out--Num. 32:23.

INTRODUCTION

The Bible does not give an exact or complete biography of any of its great characters. There are gaps in their histories which we would naturally like to see filled. For example, where was Elijah and what was he doing during the probably fifteen years that passed between his visit to Horeb and his reappearance on the scene, as described in this lesson? We do not know. But the word which God has spoken about the seven thousand (1 Kings 19:18) who remained faithful to Jehovah gives us a guess that in some ways, Elijah kept in touch with these faithful few. And it is possible he and Elisha were training younger prophets to carry on the work of God. But wherever he was and whatever he was doing the stern old prophet had recovered his poise and was ready when God called him to a new perilous task.

JEZEBEL AND AHAB

What a pair of sinners were Jezebel and Ahab! He sold himself to sin. He wanted things but did not have the determination to seize them. Jezebel had the brains and the steely heart to advise and execute atrocity. Her name stands for wickedness embodied in powerful womanhood. She seems to have been utterly unscrupulous and un pitying. The gentleness of her sex appears to have been lacking in her. Not one thing is said in her favor. What a pity that women like this should live! Thankful we should be that comparatively few such characters have been found in the history of womanhood. But, after all, one of the saddest and most painful things in all the world's sad accounts of itself is the picture of a thoroughly bad woman.

NABOTH

All that we know of Naboth is found in this story in connection with his refusal to sell his vineyard and his death at the hands of unscrupulous Jezebel. He is here called the Jezreelite, by which we understand he was a native of that city. He was a patriotic and loyal Jew, one who would not sell his hereditary estate even to the king. According to the laws respecting real estate in Israel, no man could be forced to sell permanent his inheritance. If he redeem it at the year of jubilee.

Ahab's Weakness.

A true ruler would have recognized the wisdom of the custom which gave every man his freehold and his sense of independence, his own little farm to till, his feeling of union with his country and responsibility for it; but Ahab was not a true ruler, and acted on this occasion exactly like a spoiled peevish child. He went to his palace downcast. He lay on his bed with his face to the wall, and he refused to eat. Lacking the manliness to recognize manliness in another, and rejoice in it, he also lacked the vigor and courage to override Naboth's obstinacy and independence, or at least attempt to. He could only sulk.

Jezebel Taunts Ahab

"And Jezebel his wife said unto him, dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel?" In reality, Ahab reserved the taunt; he did not govern the kingdom; the real ruler was his wife. "I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite." "I a woman, will do what you, the king, could not do," and Ahab is so far from being a king that he puts the reins of government into her hands. "No one can so inspire a man to noble purposes as a noble woman, and no one so thoroughly degrade a man as a wife of unworthy tendencies."

The Word of Jehovah

"And the word of Jehovah came to Elijah the Tishbite." This word of God may have been vocal, or have come in a dream, or have been an impression made forcibly on Elijah's mind by the Holy Spirit.

"Saying: Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who dwelleth in Samaria, and thou shalt speak unto him, saying Thus saith Jehovah, in the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine." "Even thine," though thou art the proud king of Israel, with an army at thy back Ahab was not slain in the town of Jezreel, where Naboth was stoned to death, but in battle at Ramoth-Gilead, and the dogs licked up the blood from his chariot as it was washed in Samaria. (1 Kings 22:29-38). Ahab's fate, however, had been transferred to Jehoram (Joram) his son, whose dead body Jehu ordered cast into Naboth's vineyard (2 Kings 9:25-26).

Elijah Finds Ahab

"And Ahab said to Elijah: Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?" Compare Ahab's address after the three years of famine; "Thou troublest of Israel." (1 Kings 18:17). The king's hatred had grown, had become personal. "Though the king knew it not, Elijah was his best friend, Jazbel his direst foe. But sin distorts everything." "And he answered, I have found thee, because thou hast sold thyself to do that which is evil in the sight of Jehovah." Ahab had sold himself, he was now the bond-slave of wickedness. And at what a trival price he had sold himself, his kingdom, his happiness, his future and that of his house, his immortal soul! For a petty plot of ground he had brought upon him this utter and irretrievable loss. The wages of sin is always death.

A Terrible Prophet

Then the prophet uttered the fearful message which the Lord had put into his mouth, one of the most complete and terrifying denunciations of woe to be utterly swept away. As the house of King Jerhoam, the first king of the house of Israel, the man who introduced idolatry into the northern kingdom, and as the house of his successor, King Baasha, who followed in his evil ways, were completely destroyed, so should Ahab's house miserably perish. The wild dogs were to eat Jezebel by the city wall of Jezreel where Naboth had been slain, and all the king's followers were to be eaten by dogs or by the foul carrion birds, the ravens and vultures.

"The Wages of Sin is Death"

A large part of the Bible is devoted to declaring the awful results of sin, warning men against it, and illustrating its consequences by such narratives as the one before us. The Bible does not mince matters, it does not dare to palter with the tremendous theme, it knows that sin without repentance means endless death. The entire Bible may be said to be a history of sin and salvation. Nothing in the Bible is so impressive a proof of the powers of sin and sin's woeful results as the fact that God himself came to earth in the person of Jesus Christ with the sole purpose of saving man from sin. It is a terrible debt that must be paid at such a cost as the sacrifice of the Son of God.

ACTIVE IGNORANCE

THE proprietor of a large furniture establishment recently related the conversation he had with a representative of a concern, one of whose chief merchandising products is their famous bookcases. "Bookcases do not sell very well these days," said he. "It is impossible to move large portions of the stock. People are not buying bookcases as they did 15 or 20 years ago. The reason advanced for this was that there was less reading of books by the average family today than in former years. Instead of purchasing books which cost on the average of from one dollar to two dollars and a half, people were buying magazines which they can get for five cents to fifty cents. Some of these magazines of course are good, others are not worth the time spent in reading them.

The tendency to substitute the magazines for books is indicative of a pernicious decline in the appreciation of good and wholesome literature. The danger resulting from this condition is that ignorance may run rampant with things. Someone has said that only one person out of a hundred thinks, the other ninety-nine blindly and thoughtlessly follow a leader.

This may be an exaggerated statement, but it is certain that magazines substituted for books is not likely to contribute to the increase of either knowledge or wisdom. The problem is to get the average person to think and to reason. If stupidity could be silenced the problem would not be so difficult, but the voice of stupidity is determined to be heard. The more shallow the water the more noise it makes. So with human brains. The most dangerous social problem confronting America to day is ACTIVE IGNORANCE. (© 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Repairs For Kitchen

By House Of Commons (By Associated Press) LONDON--The famous kitchen in the House of Commons is undergoing extensive repairs during the Parliamentary recess.

The kitchens were built in 1834, but meals had been served to England's lawmakers ages before that. Members of Parliament, however, are seldom gourmets. Most of them eat quickly and frugally. Mr. Lloyd George is a staunch patron of the cold buffet in the dining room. He dislikes a long wait for meals and is one of the fastest feeders in the House.

The Labor members, with the exception of Miss Ellen Wilkinson, who is a vegetarian, are partial to porridge and grilled sausages. Commander Kenworthy's favorite dish is the little cup custards which have been a feature of the House of Commons menu for a number of years.

Successful Fire Prevention Week Includes Parade and Banquet on Friday—Clean-Up Work Important

A parade of 1,500 school children carrying flags and banners led by the volunteer fire department with the large truck and the drum corps of the American Legion brought to a close, except for a final checking by the Boy Scouts Saturday morning, a successful Fire Prevention Week Friday afternoon.

The children from the Baker school and the cottages in south Pampa marched to Foster avenue where they joined the pupils from the Central high school and the Lamar school, headed by the Mayor. The entire parade then marched west on Foster avenue to Frost street where the parade divided, the pupils returning to their schools for dismissal.

Friday evening a dinner was given at the Methodist church attended by the Boy Scouts, Fire Department, city fathers and members of the fire prevention committee. Rev. Tom Brabham commissioner of the Boy Scout troops in Pampa, occupied the chair and in a few well chosen remarks made known the reason for the banquet.

Mayor F. P. Reid explained to the Scouts the value Fire Prevention Week and congratulated them on their assistance in the city clean-up. He told the boys that service to others is a Scout law.

Rev. Brabham told the boys what was expected of a Scout at a fire and explained what their duty was Saturday in the campaign to finish the clean-up.

W. C. Montgomery, chairman of the fire prevention campaign, thanked the Scouts and the fire department for assistance.

"Boys, the men of today are interested in you as the coming manhood of the city and are following your progress and actions, as today, is the day of young men," J. M. Dodson told the Scouts. He stressed the service they give and the assistance they are rendering in the cleaning up of the city.

Aldermen Tom Rose and F. T. Mason congratulated the boys on the interest they take a clean city and how they do when they do young determines what they will be when they grow up.

Led by Paul Cant, the Scouts gave fifteen "Rahs" for the Mayor, the fire department, J. M. Dodson, the ladies who prepared the banquet, and the guests of the Methodist church and the orchestra which furnished the music.

Besides 42 Boy Scouts and twelve members of the fire department those present were Mayor F. P. Reid, Alderman Tom Rose and F. T. Mason, J. M. Dodson, W. C. Montgomery, John Andrews, and the Rev. Tom Brabham.

J. M. MacDonald was a Shamrock visitor Saturday.

Belgian Company Will Experiment On Panhandle Gas

The Sobri company of Belgium, through its chief engineer in this country, Dr. Crouch of Australia, has come into the Panhandle field to erect an experimental plant for extracting gasoline from residue gas.

Seventeen carloads of equipment have been unloaded at Borger, and a contract has been signed with the Phillips Petroleum company for 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The process is said to be chemical by absorption, although details are not divulged.

Like all oil interests of Belgium, this one is backed by the Belgian government.

Real Estate Men to Meet in Houston

HOUSTON, Oct. 16—Adoption of policies and definition of objectives for the year ahead is expected to be the principal business before the National Association of Real Estate Boards at its mid-winter meeting in Houston, January 25-27, according to word received here from the national headquarters of the association at Chicago.

Specifically, the announcement said, the business is to include adoption of a proposed standard appraisal certificate for business property generally throughout the country; further concentration on definite objectives in the movement now going on for reorganization of state tax systems; and a discussion of a proposed national code of ethics for subdividers of real estate which is now being drafted by a special committee of the Home Builders and subdividers' division of the association.

Representatives real estate men from many parts of the nation are expected to be present.

GUNS IN DEMAND

All available rent guns in the city were gone early Saturday morning and the retailers report a big sale on automatic shot guns for use in duck hunting. Shells are being sold in larger quantities than ever before, the sporting goods houses report. It has been necessary to get in rush shipments of shells to meet the demand.

A check on licenses sold the week before the opening of the duck season shows that nearly 400 licenses have been taken out from the stores handling them.

Owing to illness Peedy Snow will be unable to meet Jack Denton in the semi-final, but a boy named Heath, from San Antonio, will fill the bill. The boys weigh 142 pounds and are reported to be fast and crowd pleasers.

Once more the Dutchman will be before the crowd, this time with a good man from Amarillo, who boxes under the name of Battling Turner. He is said to be fast and a hard hitter for a lightweight. Hust has been training hard and is in good condition.

Amusements

Star and technical expert—in one. That's Babe Ruth, baseball hero, star of "Babe Comes Home," First National's comedy, which is the attraction at the Crescent theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

While there is a lot of the picture which Wild Gunning produced, which does not directly concern the national game, Ted Wilde, the director, and Gunning insisted that there should be no errors in the film.

The Bamboo volunteered. "But you're the star," they objected.

"Well, can't I act and tell you if anything is wrong with the baseball as well?" asked Babe.

So they made him technical director of the baseball sequence.

So if anyone finds a flaw in this respect it will be a strange thing—and the Sultan of Swat stands firmly behind his opinions—like an umpire, in fact.

Doubtless you are one of the tens of millions who read Sir H. Rider Haggard's immortal book "She," said to be the most wonderful romance ever written. Of course you wondered if it would ever come to the theatre in the form of a motion picture. Well it's here at last and what a gorgeous spectacle it presents. You remember the wondrous Queen, She who possessed everlasting life and of whose dazzling beauty 'twas said, the world ne'er possessed her equal. None other than the amazing Betty Blythe plays the role of "She." None other possessed face and form so near approaching the author's description, for Betty Blythe is indeed the reincarnated "She." Darling in the extreme is this courageous essay, the picture version. Supporting Miss Blythe is Carlyle Blackwell and Mary Odette. "She" is the attraction at the Crescent theatre today and tomorrow.
