GAS LAW IS HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

If you have a severe cold, the sniffles, or the flu—and who hasn't?—you may be interested to know that:

Winter weather of the tropic variety or sub-arctic type should not be held responsible for the outbreak of influenza and pneumonia that is now prevailing, according to Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, noted New York physician.

"The very low temperatures of a year ago were held by certain health experts to be responsible for the increased mortality from influenza and pneumonia experienced last year in certain communities," Dr. Armstrong points out. "Other health experts are claiming that the unseasonably warm weather of the present winter is responsible for the increase in influenza and pneumonia at this time. Both cannot be right—so it is common sense to say that while we don't know much about it, the weather probably has little to do with the increased incidence of these diseases."

Dr. Armstrong says that while the factors causing epidemics of these diseases seem to work without much regard to weather conditions, there are precautions everyone can take in combatting both influenza and pneumonia. He advises:

Budget adequately your time for sleep and relaxation and you will find that an investment in these will pay real dividends in resistance to both influenza and pneumonia.

Avoid excess in eating and drinking. Keep your body in the best physical condition.

At the first sign of a cold, start treatment. Few colds would develop into serious illness if proper precautions were taken the first day or two. Rest in bed, if possible, or at least indoors, take a laxative. Drink plenty of water or fruit juices and eat lightly of simple, wholesome food. Hot drinks, such as hot lemonade, may help.

If you think you have fever, call a doctor. It is often dangerous to say "It's only a cold." Cold tablets or other medicines should not be taken except when ordered by a doctor. Do not use a nasal douche, unless advised to do so by a doctor. Do not blow your nose hard as this may cause the infection to spread to other parts of the head or to the tubes leading to the ears.

When fever and an ache in the back and legs accompany the symptoms of a cold, you are probably contracting grippe or influenza. See a doctor at once. He will order you to bed and prescribe for you, influenza is dangerous because pneumonia or other troubles may ensue.

Pneumonia, which is inflammation of the lungs, is a serious disease and is one of the most common causes of death. It may be caused by any one of a number of germs and, strictly speaking, might be considered a type of disease rather than one disease. Over-exertion, lack of sleep and proper exercise, exposure to rapid chilling and wetness, and overindulgence in alcohol will render a person susceptible to this disease.

Pneumonia is usually preceded by a cold, but it also may be contracted suddenly by an apparently well person. Chill, fever, cough, and pain in the chest are its most common symptoms. When they are present the patient usually has pneumonia.

Prompt medical treatment and good nursing care add to the patient's chances of recovery from pneumonia. If pneumonia symptoms are present see that the patient gets both. The convalescent patient should remain in bed as long as the doctors orders. Relentlessness and anxiety add to the danger of a relapse.

Pneumonia is communicable disease. If the patient is treated at home, only those caring for him should enter the sick room. This will help to prevent the spread of the disease. The patient's eating utensils and linen should be washed separately with soap and hot water. Those caring for the patient should also wash their hands thoroughly with soap and hot water before performing the ordinary duties of the home.

It may appear a bit unusual, but we bring you these words of the noted doctor, simply because nine-tenths of the conversation these days seems to be about colds, influenza, etc. . . . We like to be timely and discuss timely subjects.

If this message pops an idea into your head and gives you a tip on how to avoid colds and the like, then we figure that this has all been of some service. . . . However, if you are not interested—you can skip it and turn to the sports or society pages.

BELIEVE CAIRO MAY FINALLY DEFEAT RIVER

WATER SLOSHES OVER WALLS; CRISIS IS NEARING

CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 1 (AP)—Definite encouragement in Cairo's battle against inundation came today from government forecaster W. E. Barron, who said the Ohio River would cease its threatening rise at 60 1-2 feet.

More complete information from upstream points caused the observer to revise his earlier prediction of 61 feet. A difference of half a foot may mean safety as against destruction. The crisis in the rise is expected Wednesday or Thursday.

Whipped by a strong wind, waves lapped against the city's last line of flood defense—an 18-inch-thick wall of boards and earth topping the permanent embankment. In two places, the water seeped slowly through the bulkhead.

Emergency crews—forming a "bag brigade" from a nearby freight car—piled additional sandbags on the bulkhead and engineers said the water would not break through.

In the glare of floodlights, with temperatures down to 28 degrees, levee defenders patrolled their ground throughout last night.

4,500 Defenders
Creeping yellow waters of the Ohio sloshed over the walls of Cairo, a prime danger spot in the 1200-mile battle against the flood—as the city's army of 4,500 defenders awaited "zero hour" today behind a barricade 18 inches thick.

Lashed by wind and a swift current around the river's bend, waves broke over the lower ramparts of the 60-foot concrete seawall and drummed ominously against the 3-foot superstructure crowning the main barrier.

With the cresting Ohio at the all-time record height of 59.50 feet, six inches from the top of the concrete bulkhead, only a mud-bogged wall a foot and a half wide remained to stave off the threatened deluge.

All women and children were ordered to leave the city at once. Mounting waters warned of an

FATE OF 13 DOOMED TROTKYISTS HIDDEN

MOSCOW, Feb. 1 (AP)—The impenetrable secrecy of Soviet officials today hid the lives or deaths of 13 confessed conspirators against the Soviet union whose last hope of escape from a firing squad was gone.

All that was known of the doomed Trotskyists was that the foreign office said there had been no official announcement.

The prisoners convicted of treason and sabotage in the trial in which 17 confessed plotters were punished by the highest Russian tribunal, had appealed despairingly to the presidium of the communist executive committee, their last resort.

The committee rejected their pleas for clemency yesterday. It thus became a virtual certainty they must die by 3:15 a. m. tomorrow (8:15 p. m. E. S. T. tonight) in the execution chamber of the collegium of the supreme court pronounced sentence.

DOZEN PAMPANS WILL ATTEND RAIL BANQUET

Ten or fifteen Pampans will go to Amarillo tonight when a banquet celebrating the completion of the Boise City, Okla.-Las Animas, Colo. gap in the Santa Fe railroad will be held. Pampans will leave from the city hall at 5 o'clock.

The banquet will be in the Herling hotel at 7 o'clock with admission $1.25. Honor guests will include the governors of Texas, Colorado, and New Mexico. Governor E. W. Marland of Oklahoma has also been invited but his reply had not been received today.

A special train will be run from Denver, Colo., to Amarillo. Tomorrow night another special will go from Amarillo to Denver. A few Pampans have been invited by railroad officials to make the trip.

WELL BLOWS OUT.
GALVESTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Shell Petroleum Corp. well Maco Stewart No. 1, in Brazoria survey near Highland Bay on Highway 38 between Texas City junction and Hitchcock, blew out this morning and gas and spray became so bad that traffic was halted on the highway. Drillers had set screen and were attempting to bring in well at 8,100 feet after having come back from greater depth. Because of the prevailing hazard a call was made for fire fighters to stand by.

Some of Boys Who Collected Clothing

Such boys as those shown above aided in collecting more than 3,500 pieces of clothing and bedding for refugees in the flood area. Bus lines transported the clothing to Fort Worth where it was shipped out of Texas by rail. Most of the boys above are members of Cub packs and are therefore under 12 years. Boy Scouts manned four trucks in collecting clothing several days last week. The above picture was taken in the basement of the city hall where the boys checked in the clothing. The big-eyed lad in the center of the picture is Jim Bob Auld, a member of a Cub pack.

STRIKE FIGHT CARRIED INTO FLINT COURT

DETROIT, Feb. 1 (AP)—General Motors Corporation carried its fight against "sit down" strikers in two of its plants into court today at a hearing on its petition for an injunction to bar the men from remaining on the premises.

Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola summoned officials of the United Automobile Workers of America and other strike leaders into court (at 2 p. m., EST, 1 p. m., CST) at Flint, Michigan, to show cause why a mandatory injunction to compel immediate evacuation should not be granted.

The petition revealed the men were "no longer in the employ of the company."

The occupation of the two Fisher body plants at Flint has been the major obstacle blocking state and federal governmental endeavors to arrange a peace parley.

Gov. Frank Murphy remained in Detroit to pursue a mediation course.

COMPENSATION SUIT IS BEGUN IN COURT HERE

Another compensation lawsuit, the Traders and General Insurance Co. vs. Bill Durbin, was begun in district court this morning as the fifth week of the January term of court got under way.

B. S. Via again was elected special judge of the court in the absence of Judge W. R. Ewing, who is confined to his home by illness. Judge Ewing is expected to return to the bench in a day or two.

The remainder of the present week is expected to be devoted entirely to civil action now pending on the docket.

People You Know

By ARCHER PULLINGHAM
Arthur Teed, lying weak over there in that bed in the hospital, you've had people mighty worried about you, people (and who is not your friend?) who are now glad, glad that you are getting along just fine and will recover. They said you will be coming home about Thursday. You'd blush if you knew all the fine things people have been saying about you while you were sick. "I sure hope he pulls through! This town needs Arthur Teed! Did you ever see him on the wrong side of a question?" And everybody said something different.

Arthur Teed, seldom do friends love one another as yours love you. Why you were the biggest news in town before that flood came along! Here's a collective salute with the hand in the old-time western manner as when one says, "Hello, pardner!" from all your friends to you. Doggone your buttons!

MERCURY HITS 9 ABOVE HERE

NORTHER BRINGS NEW COLD WAVE TO PANHANDLE

Pampans and the Panhandle got another taste of winter today when the mercury dropped to 9 above zero at 8 o'clock this morning, a descent of 29 degrees from sunset Sunday.

The 8 o'clock reading on the Daily NEWS government thermometer was the lowest point reached in the last 24 hours.

A bright sun tempered the cold this forenoon and early this afternoon the mercury had climbed up in the gauge to the twenties.

A cold north wind sent the thermometer down to around 9 o'clock last night. The first icy blasts were accompanied by some dust.

(By The Associated Press)
A brisk, cold north wind brought snow flurries to the Texas Panhandle last night and sent temperatures plunging to the gulfs.

Amarillo reported a low of 11 degrees. Skies cleared after a light snowfall. Borger's temperature was 12.

Weather forecasters at San Angelo said sleet and snow would fall there as the mercury dropped from a maximum Sunday of 50 degrees to a minimum of 33 this morning. Lubbock shivered in a 17-degree temperature, a drop of 32 degrees in 12 hours.

The northern struck Wichita Falls and sent readings downward to a minimum of 20 degrees. Paris had 36, Dallas 34, Palestine and Austin 44 and San Antonio 50.

Drizzle and misting rains accompanied the chill in many sections. In others the winds blew away clouds.

ERNEST THOMPSON TO SPEAK HERE FEB. 9

Col. Ernest Thompson of the Texas Railroad Commission will be guest speaker at the monthly membership luncheon of the Pampa chamber of commerce Feb. 9, in the basement of the Methodist church.

Tickets, at 50 cents, will be available tomorrow at chamber of commerce headquarters in the city hall. Subject of Col. Thompson's address has not been received.

President Jim Collins will preside and will make several important announcements. New members of the advisory board will be introduced.

1,000 BALES GINNED IN COUNTY IN 1936

Nearly 1,000 bales of cotton were ginned in Gray county prior to Jan. 16, 1936, than at the same time last year, according to the latest report filed by Royal H. Wilson of McLean, special agent.

Up to Jan. 16 last year, 2,726 bales of cotton had been ginned while the report of this year shows 1,732 bales ginned. Dry weather during the growing season was largely responsible. Less cotton was planned in the county, also.

Lindys Flying Down To Egypt

LYMPNE, Eng., Feb. 1 (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off today in their new airplane for a destination described by airport officials as Cairo, Egypt.

"We do not know their exact destination but we believe it is Cairo," an airport official said. "We understood Col. Lindbergh is making a long distance flight."

The American flyer flew his new light touring monoplane to Lymyne from Reading where he had had minor alterations made at the factory.

He was joined at Lymyne by Mrs. Lindbergh where the plane was closely guarded. Earlier he had circled his "Seven Oaks" home near Weald, Kent, as Mrs. Lindbergh and their son, Jon, waved to him from the garden.

It was a pre-birthday flight for the famous aviator who came to England with his wife and little son December 31, 1935.

He will be 34 years old on Thursday.

MAGICIAN

Bob Clark, shown above, Wheeler athletic coach, Scoutmaster, magician extraordinary, will be the principal speaker and performer at Boy Scout troop 80's annual banquet Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the First Methodist church. The 1937 charter will be presented to the troop. Supt. R. B. Fisher, member of the troop committee, and R. C. McConnell, chairman of the troop committee, will preside. The new Scout executive, Fred M. Roberts, will be present, also 45 Scouts and their parents. Mr. Clark, famed as a magician, will perform several new tricks before the boys. The troop report for 1936 will be given by "Fozzy" Green, senior patrol leader, and Life Scout.

ANOTHER 5-4 DECISION IS HANDED DOWN

LAW IMPOSED FEE ON RAILROADS AND UTILITIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Supreme court declared unconstitutional today a move by Texas to limit production of natural gas in the Panhandle field and to allocate the amount among the various producers.

In an opinion delivered by Justice Brandeis, the tribunal affirmed a ruling by a three judge federal court in Texas granting an injunction to the Consolidated Gas Utilities corporation and the Texoma Natural Gas company against enforcement of an order by the state railroad commission.

The order was issued under provisions of the 1935 act, commonly referred to as "House Bill 266," authorizing the commission to prorate and regulate the daily gas well production in an effort to eliminate waste.

Five previous Texas laws intended to accomplish this same purpose were ruled unconstitutional by a lower federal court.

Texas officials contended the legislation would halt waste of millions of cubic feet of gas which had been allowed to escape in oil well operations or burned without use.

The lower court said the legislation was intended to provide a market for gas well owners, who could force the major companies to reduce their production and buy from the others who had no pipelines.

"The order," Brandeis said, "disables the plaintiffs from performing their contracts except by means of purchases. Resort to those means necessarily results in depriving the plaintiffs of property."

Under the statute, Brandeis said, "the state takes from the pipe line owner the money with which the purchase is made, the money lost through curtailed use of properties devoted to their production."

"Our law reports present no more glaring instances of the taking of one man's property and giving it to another."

"This court has many times warned that one person's property may not be taken for the benefit of another private person without a just public interest involved, even though compensation be paid."

"We assume," Brandeis continued, "that the prohibition of any wasteful product, whether primarily in behalf of other owners of gas in the common reservoir, or because of the public interest involved, is consistent with the constitution of Texas and that of the United States, and that, to prevent waste, production may be prorated."

"We assume, also, that the state may constitutionally prorate production of gas to prevent undue drainage of gas from the reserves of well owners lacking pipe line connections. If proration were lawfully applied for any such purpose, the fact that thereby other private persons would incidentally and gratuitously obtain important benefits would present no constitutional obstacle. And the fact that plaintiffs gas to be sold in interstate commerce would not preclude such exercise of the state's power."

"But the sole purpose of the limitation on the order imposes upon the plaintiffs' production is to compel those who may legally produce, because they have market outlets for permitted uses, to purchase gas from potential producers whom the statute prohibits from producing because they lack such a market for their possible products. Plaintiffs' operations are neither causing nor threatening any overground or underground waste."

AMERICA WILL HAVE BEST SKIERS, CLAIM

KETCHUM, Idaho, Feb. 1 (AP)—A professional skier who three times won the Austrian open championship predicted today America eventually will produce the world's best skiers.

"It's only within recent years you Americans have gone in strongly for winter sports," asserted Hans Hauser, 25-year-old director of a ski school at a new winter resort (Sun Valley Lodge) near here.

"Yet the young Americans we teach here learn so much more easily, and become good skiers so much more quickly, than do beginners in my own country that I am sometimes amazed."

"I think it is because America is an athletic nation."

Bids for Party Must Tell Time, Place, Clothes

By JOAN DURHAM. AP Feature Service Writer. The modern hostess owes it to her guests to send out invitations which tell exactly what kind of party she is giving...

If you're planning to give a formal dinner party you may write your invitation as follows—using white note paper on which your address (but not telephone number) is engraved.

For Formal Affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Noble Haygood request the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Partyman's company at dinner on Friday, January twenty-second at eight o'clock.

Your guests should reply to that invitation as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Abel Partyman accept with pleasure the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Haygood for Friday, January twenty-second at eight o'clock.

Such an invitation should be sent out only for very formal affairs. A telephone call or a much less formal note will do in every other case.

There are three things for the hostess to make clear in her invitation. The first two are time and place. The third is what the guests should wear.

Replies depend on the invitation. A formal invitation using the word "request" or "R. s. v. p." should be answered like the one above...

DUKE ACQUIRES SERIOUS MOOD

EDWARD IS TRYING TO FORGET MEND PHYSIQUE

VIENNA, Feb. 1 (AP)—Vienna noted today that a more serious mood—possibly a fundamental change in character—has settled down on the Duke of Windsor.

Vienna first became acquainted with him as the Prince of Wales. When he was heir to the British throne he came to Austria for light-hearted vacations. He went skiing at Kitzbuehl, gladdened proprietors of night clubs with his patronage, sang the hitting Viennese songs, and rewarded dancers with 100 shilling tips.

Then Vienna saw him as King Edward VIII. Mrs. Wallis Simpson was with him, and again there were rounds of merry-making.

The Viennese now are observing him as the Duke of Windsor, the man who preferred rather to be beside the woman he loved than on the throne. Austrian people, who know a thing or two about love, welcomed him sympathetically.

For weeks he remained within the grounds of the estate of Baron Sugenoe de Rothschild at Enzesfeld without once demanding to be shown a jazz band. After a month of almost total solitude, he started coming to Vienna occasionally.

He visited his good friend, the venerable president of Austria, Wilhelm Miklas. He went to church. He met intimates at the British legation, and occasionally shopped or patronized some of the city's baths.

The Duke's chief concern, at the Rothschild estate, seemed to be to forget—and to get into the best possible physical trim. It had been a snowless winter in the vicinity of Vienna, so the private golf course on the Rothschild estate remained clear. Golfing promptly became a daily part of his program.

The Duke's devotion to sports to the exclusion of almost all other activities was, to Austrians who last year were encountering him at 4 a. m., a departure from form.

In another respect, however, he lived up to Austrian expectations. He was, to those who could approach him, as human as ever.

So the Austrians chuckled when they learned that the Duke, smoking a 30-cent pipe, had teased the Rothschild gardener, whose pipe cost $1.75.

RAILROADER TO WALK LAST MILE FOR CRIME

BELLEFONTAINE, Pa., Feb. 1 (AP)—Robert Dremer, 40-year-old railroader, who walked many miles in a 10-year search for a button he lost at the scene of a murder, will walk the "last mile" to the electric chair today. Someone else found the button.

With a cigar in his mouth and trying to appear nonchalant, Dremer stumbled up the winding stairs of the death house today after a long motor ride to prison, insisting: "I'm game—I haven't given up hope."

In 1927, pretty Thelma Young, 17, was found slain in a field near her home in Washington, Pa. There were many suspects. Dremer was not among them. One man confessed, but a few days later he admitted he "lied" in the hope that he would be transferred from a Pittsburgh jail to the Washington prison for Christmas. He lied there, too.

A large brown button was found in the grass near Thelma's body. Late last year another girl was attacked in an open lot. This time police had reason for suspecting Dremer. He was "about Dremer's build," the girl told them. He was arrested.

The almost forgotten button was brought out, on a "hunch." Dremer was shown the button. He collapsed.

Detectives said he confessed. At his trial he repudiated the statement, but he was convicted.

Witnesses said Dremer returned many times, walking miles to the scene of the crime. He seemed to be hunting for something. It was the button, state's attorney contended.

DR. GROUT TO SPEAK AT MIAMI FFA EVENT

MIAMI, Feb. 1 — Dr. George P. Grout, vocational agricultural teacher at Panhandle, will present an illustrated lecture on dairy cattle at the regular meeting of the Miami Future Farmers of America at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night. Fathers of P. F. A. boys and any other farmer or citizen interested in cattle is invited to attend.

Mr. Grout will show pictures of famous dairy cattle including a number of Panhandle cattle which have won prizes at national shows. Proper procedure in selecting dairy herds and other livestock will be discussed by Dr. Grout.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

Chapter V Detective Officer Neame's shorthand notes of Detective Officer Kettering's examination of cabin steward Silas Ringbottom:

K. Morning, Ringbottom. R. Good morning, sir. K. Have you been on board this ship long?

R. Yes, sir; ever since Mr. Rocksavage bought her, and before that, too, with the previous owner, Lord Foulkes. I am an ex-navy man and this was my first job on leaving the service.

K. Good. Well, there are just one or two things I want to ask you about this affair that occurred last night. According to what you told me then, after you had been to Mr. Blane's stateroom to inquire if he wanted you to unpack your trunk straight back to your pantry, did a few odd jobs there, and then read a book until the dinner bugle sounded. Now, is that correct?

R. Yes, sir, that's correct. K. You're quite sure you never left that pantry of yours? I'm not trying to pin anything on you, don't think that, but I want you to be quite certain that you're not making any mistakes.

R. Wait a minute, sir; I did leave it just once, to slip up to the writing room to get some sheets of notepaper for the Japanese gentleman. He'd asked for it earlier on, but I found the racks were empty, and, as the chief steward had been ashore at Miami, the storeroom was locked. When the Jap rang for me again later, though, the chief steward was back again in his cabin and he gave me some from the store.

K. What time was that? R. A bit before eight bells, sir. K. Just before eight o'clock, eh? And, apart from that, you never left your pantry?

R. No, that's the truth, sir. K. Who else was on duty at that time?

R. Only me, sir. The other stewards who help with the cabins were at their job of laying up for dinner then; and the stewardess, Maud Briggs, what would have been on duty, went down with shingles two days ago, so she's in the sick bay. Fortunately there's only three ladies aboard, and two of them has their own maids, so they're looking after the other lady between them.

K. Can you bring anybody to prove that you were in your pantry during all that time?

R. Well, maybe it's lucky for me, sir. In the ordinary way I wouldn't be able to, the stewardess being ill, but, as it happens, I can. Syd Jenks, the ship's carpenter, was doing a job of work in the passageway during the whole of that time and we passed the time of day as you might say, quite frequent, while he was at it. He knows I never left my pantry, except to get the Jap his notepaper, not before the dinner bugle went.

K. Did it strike you as unusual that Mr. Blane's cabin door was locked when you went to tidy it up?

R. No, sir, not particular. Visitors varies, some open-handed some's not. Some's suspicious, some's not. Visitors who haven't sailed with us before sometimes locks their cabin doors for the first day or two out, then they don't bother no more. I didn't think nothing of it. I just unlocked the door with my master key and went straight into the room.

K. That's good. Now, from your pantry you can't see the door of Mr. Blane's suite, can you?

R. No, sir. You see my pantry's an inside cabin, so I can't see round the corner along the passageway.

K. No. That's quite obvious from the ship's plans I've got in front of me. So you wouldn't be able to see if anyone approached to Mr. Blane's cabin from the lounge, would you?

R. No, sir. K. But you would be able to see anybody who came the other way, from the forward companionway, which leads to the upper and lower decks, wouldn't you?

R. I would that, sir. K. Was your pantry door open during this time?

K. Now, think carefully, Ringbottom. Did you see any member of the crew, or any other person, come either up or down the companionway and pass your door, going in the direction of Mr. Blane's cabin between 7:45 and 8:30 last night?

R. Only Miss Rocksavage's maid, sir, going along to dress her, no one else. K. But you would have, if he had?

R. Yes, sir. I couldn't have helped seeing them. K. Right. That's all I wanted to know.

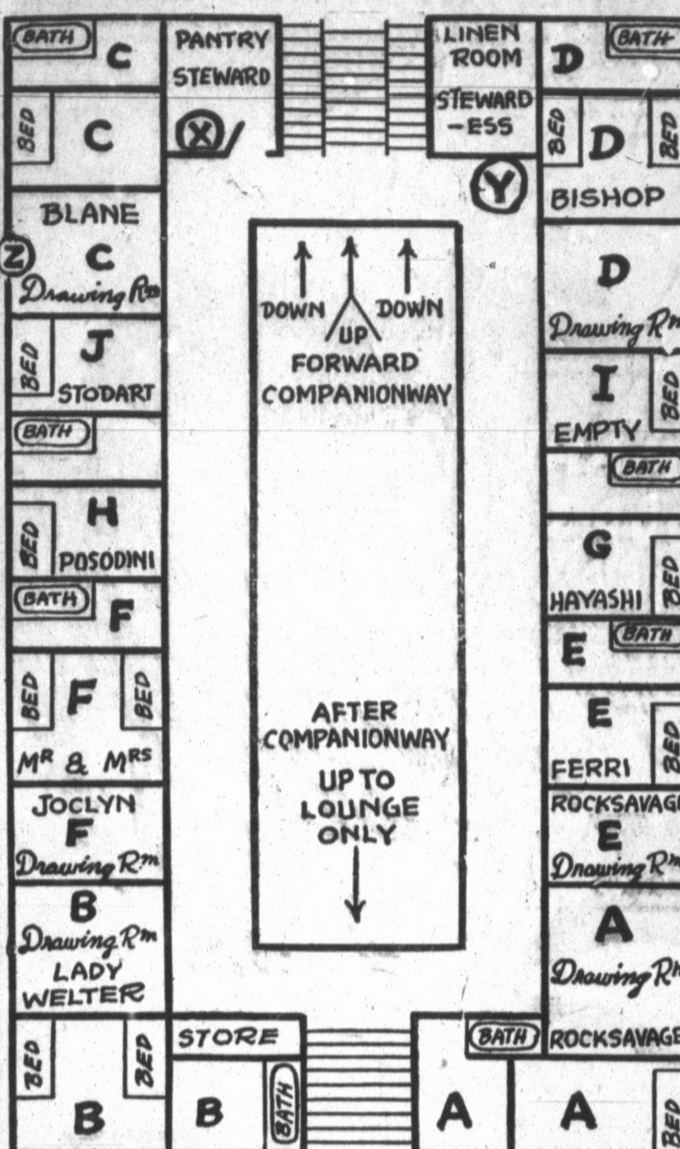

Detective Officer Neame's shorthand notes of Detective Officer Kettering's examination of Syd Jenks, ship's carpenter:

K. Good morning, Jenks. J. Good morning, sir. K. How long have you been on board this ship?

J. Just on two years, sir. Ever since Captain Derringham took over. He brought me with him from his previous ship, the Southern Cross.

K. Right. Now, d'you mind telling me where you were between 7:30 and 8:30 last night?

J. I was fitting new skirting boards to the stewardess' pantry on A deck from just before 7:30, sir.

down it during the time you were working there? J. Lady Walter's maid went below just after I set to work. K. Just after 7:30, eh? J. Yes, sir. Then Nellie Orde, Miss Rocksavage's maid, came up to dress her mistress much later on, about ten past eight I should say. Q. Anyone else?

MIAMI FFA MEMBERS FIND IT PAYS TO FEED BALANCED RATIONS

MIAMI, Feb. 1.—As a result of their project work, members of the Miami F. F. A. have found that it pays to feed a balanced ration regardless of type of livestock being fed if economical production is desired. Dan Nickell found that by feeding his 75 White Leghorn pullets a balanced ration of mash, wheat, and maize that he could produce eggs at a cost of 10 cents per dozen. Another F. F. A. member found that it cost him 28 cents a dozen to produce eggs from a group of hens on a grain ration alone without mash, milk, or other protein supplement.

A balanced ration consisting of wheat, maize, cottonseed meal, and milk fed by Elmer McLaughlin to a pig he is preparing for show produced pork at a cost of five cents per pound; a ration consisting of kaffir, tankage, pasture and milk produced pork at a cost of 4.6 cents per pound. Two members feeding feed if economical production is desired. Dan Nickell found that by feeding his 75 White Leghorn pullets a balanced ration of mash, wheat, and maize that he could produce eggs at a cost of 10 cents per dozen. Another F. F. A. member found that it cost him 28 cents a dozen to produce eggs from a group of hens on a grain ration alone without mash, milk, or other protein supplement.

REMBRANDT SKETCHES STOLEN AT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 1 (AP)—Harvard University tonight appealed to the art world for aid in recovering two valuable Rembrandt sketches stolen Monday from a private collection at the institution's Fogg museum.

While guards redoubled their vigilance over other treasures in the museum's million-dollar collection, Harvard urged art dealers here and in Europe to keep a sharp look-out for the works.

Kept secret until today, the theft occurred just before the doors of the museum closed Monday night, and, attaches reported, while several guards patrolled the corridors and another stood at his post at the museum's entrance.

J. No, sir. K. Could you see the entrance of the steward's pantry from where you were?

J. Yes, sir. It was just across the companionway on the portside.

K. Was anyone there, d'you know? J. Yes, sir. The cabin steward, Mr. Ringbottom.

K. Was he in his pantry the whole time you were at your job? J. Yes, sir, except when he went to answer the Japanese gentleman's bell, and then off to the chief steward to get some notepaper from him out of the store. He remarked, I remember, about the slackness of the lounge steward in letting it run out in the writing room because someone else had asked for some earlier in the afternoon, when the chief steward was ashore, and there wasn't none.

K. What time was that? J. I'm afraid I couldn't say, sir. K. Can you give me any idea. J. I'd hardly like to say the time, you see I didn't notice particular, being busy on my job.

K. Was it before or after eight? J. Oh, before eight. Maybe about a quarter to, but I wouldn't like to say for certain. Ringbottom was away about five minutes, then, but all the rest of the time he was in his pantry because, although we could see each other, every now and then we exchanged remarks.

K. Did you see anybody else in the passageway during the time you were working there? J. Only the bishop, sir, when he went up. That was at eight o'clock, because I heard the ship's bell strike immediately after.

K. But various other people must have been coming down from the lounge or going up to it, during that time. J. That's true, of course, but the companionway to the lounge is way aft, nowhere near where I was. I heard cabin doors shutting now and then, but you see I had my back to the passageway most of the time and I didn't take much notice what happened behind me, being busy with my job.

K. What time did you stop work? J. Just after the dinner bugle sounded at 8:30.

K. Right. That's all I want to know. Thank you, Kenks. J. You're welcome, sir. (To Be Continued)

SALVATION ARMY ESTABLISHED 71 YEARS AGO IN LONDON AREA

(Editors Note: This is another in a series of articles written by Capt. Herman G. Lambrecht, head of the Pampa Salvation Army post, interpreting aims, methods, and activities of the organization.)

"Oh Lord, Thou art our Father; we are the clay, and Thou our potter; and we all are the work of Thy hand."—Isiah.

By CAPT. HERMAN LAMBRECHT The most impressive fact about the history of the Salvation Army is the short span of time it embraces. The organization has developed rapidly into a moral force of world-wide influence, flourishing in 88 countries and colonies, and in every city of importance in the United States. Yet it was only 71 years ago that its humble foundations were laid in the East End of London, and only 56 years ago that its flag was first planted in America.

It began in 1865 in a small headquarters building in Whitechapel Road, London, under the name of the Christian Mission. It was not until 1877 that the military form of government was adopted and the name changed to the Salvation Army; and it was then that the founder, William Booth, assumed the title of General. General Booth had been ordained as a minister in the Methodist church in 1852, but, with his wife, Catherine Mumford Booth, had soon conceived the purpose of carrying the message of Christianity to those who world not voluntarily seek it.

Although the General at first planned his work exclusively for the masses in the congested sections of London, his imagination was soon stirred by the thought of similar service elsewhere, and the first country to which the movement spread outside of the British Isles was the United States.

A family named Shirley emigrated to the United States in 1879 and settled in the Kensington district of Philadelphia. The father was a carpet weaver, and like so many others of his calling, had been attracted here by the prospect of bettering his economic condition. Having become ardent Salvationists at home, they found themselves spiritually lonely in the new land. In letters to General Booth, they described the opportunities here for evangelical work, having held a series of meetings of their own accord, and begged him to send officers.

At first the General declined on the ground that the growing organization in England could spare no officers. Letters describing success so impressed the General that he made it his business to find available officers to send. The first official party, commanded by Commissioner George Scott Raitton, and including seven women officers, landed in New York in 1880. As soon as they emerged from the immigration station, at the Battery, which occupied the building now used as the city aquarium, they held an open air service in Battery Park. This service took its place in history as the first official open-air meeting of the Salvation Army in the United States.

Once committed to a policy of expansion beyond the boundaries of Great Britain, and satisfied that the expedition to the United States had been a success, the General lost no time in sending pioneering parties in many different directions. In 1881 the work was established in France and Australia; in 1882, in Switzerland, Sweden, India and Canada; in 1883, by a strange coincidence, in South Africa and Iceland; and in 1886, in Germany. Similar advances were made in the years immediately following, until the organization actually encircled the globe. Today it can be said that the sun never sets on the work of the Salvation Army.

They are crushed before the trial. Before the eyes of the whole world they throw themselves under the chariot of the terrible divinity, but, unlike the pious Hindus, they do so not voluntarily, not out of fanaticism, not in religious ecstasy, but cold-bloodedly, helplessly, under the club which drove them into the impasse.

FIRST FREE PORT IN WORLD TO OPEN TODAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—The first free port in the new world—guarded by gates made on beams of light half a mile long—will be opened by the federal government on Staten Island on Monday in an effort to increase the nation's international trade. As yet no importer has signed to use the port.

On its half dozen piers and 30 acres of seaside land, shippers will have their first opportunity in history to use an American port as a transfer point without paying a tariff.

They can bring in goods from foreign countries, break it up into smaller shipments to other countries, mix it with American goods, or process it with American labor without paying any more than a rental fee for the space they use.

Only when the goods are transferred into the United States—the free zone is not a part of the country in this respect although Staten Island belongs to New York—will duties be collected.

The light beams are on watch just above the level of New York bay between the two piers that bound the water edge of the free port. Electric eyes lie hidden in each pier. When a boat, or any other object, cuts the 2000-foot ray of light between the eyes at night, an alarm sounds. The eye moves up and down with the tides to make sure no one slips by.

THE ETHERAL QUEST When men and women pass their 80th milestone, and especially when they become nonagenarians or centenarians, they are invariably interviewed by the local press on their secret of longevity of life.

Florida was discovered by a Spaniard while in search of the waters which he was told would restore his lost youth and guarantee to him everlasting life. All medical science has for its purpose the lengthening of human life.

Since the beginning of recorded time man has sought the secret of eternal life on earth. None has found that secret but many have prescribed rules to be followed by those who wish "to live to be a hundred."

Nietzsche's recipe for a full and happy old age was to "live dangerously; build your house on the side of a volcano."

Another advises those who have passed the brow of the hill that "youthfulness consists in forward looking; senility in backward looking."

A third philosopher on life has faith in the "work cure" for premature death. In each theory there is much of wisdom. To live long man must live actively.

Have No Mercy On Drunken Drivers Here is an excellent thought from the Port Umpqua, Oregon, Courier: "If the Courier man were a judge in courts dispensing sentence upon drunken auto drivers, there would only be first offenders."

ONE IN EVERY 400 If you would prolong your life, go inside the house and stay inside after 5 o'clock every afternoon. Particularly do not venture to drive your automobile between the hours of 5 and midnight, and if you are not a driver, do not cross streets between those hours.

Los Angeles' 10 o'clock curfew hour for barking dogs looks like a doggone good idea, and we hope the dogs will take it in the right spirit.

Now the Japs are having a "constitutional crisis," with their Elder Statesmen taking the place of our Nine Old Men.

Chicago is said to be starting a campaign "to drive morons out of the city." But what would it do to the population figures?

The rivers as natural drainage systems would still be all right if man didn't interfere with their storage arrangements.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON—For an administration so censorious of the supreme court, this one's record of choices for the lesser federal judgeships has been singularly poor.

Even though Democratic judges on the circuit and district benches have been more prone to approve New Deal legislation than jurists appointed in Republican years and although the appearance of domination by corporations may not be so prevalent among them, the crop includes many who obviously are distinctly less than top grade and whose appointments reeked with politics.

Anyone who has hoped for a reform in the selection of federal judges will be far from thrilled at the news of a political deal in which it is planned to make Senator George McGill of Kansas a circuit court of appeals judge in order to make way in the Senate for Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue and Democratic boss of Kansas.

All things are possible, and it may turn out that Senator McGill is an excellent man for the job. But there are few senators more obscure, and the highest legal post he had held prior to election to the Senate in a Democratic year was that of county attorney of Sedgwick county, Kansas.

Helvering, who has worked close with Jim Farley, will be rewarded for his political exploits if the deal is finally approved by Roosevelt. Under his leadership the Democrats carried Kansas last November, to the great delight of both Farley and the president.

After Roosevelt had appointed McGill to the 10th circuit bench, Governor Huxman would appoint Helvering to the Senate for McGill's unexpired term and Helvering would run for election in 1938 against the Republican candidate—who, it has often been suggested, may be former Gov. Alf M. Landon. One reason given for the proposed deal is that Helvering would be a far stronger candidate than McGill.

Senator McGill vigorously denies that he has agreed to any such deal. But if it doesn't come off, there will be and certainly have been worse ones.

There were some dramatic moments as union officials quickly grabbed and checked the list of more than a hundred labor spies employed by the National Metal Trades Association, as made public by Senator LaFollette's committee investigating labor espionage and civil liberties violation.

LIFE OF BLANTON IS THREATENED IN NOTE

RAYMONDVILLE, Feb. 1 (AP)—A new and surprising angle of the baffling disappearance of John and Luther Blanton on ranchlands near their San Perita home in November, developed today when Frank Blanton, son and brother of the pair, revealed that he had received a note threatening his life two weeks ago.

Blanton said the penciled scrawl was sent to Washington officers of the federal bureau of investigation. FBI officials would neither confirm nor deny possession of the threat note.

Blanton said Constable Ernest Oakes of Sebastian, who has been active in investigation of the disappearance, had also been threatened, but warnings came to him verbally.

The Valley Morning Star of Harlingen reported yesterday the note warned Blanton: "There is plenty of room for you where your God and brother are."

Citizens of this county, who once served notice on officers who would conduct an armed invasion of ranching property of the mysterious Blanton case, took the federal agency's refusal to deny possession of the note as admission that the department of justice was working on the case.

John and Luther Blanton started on a duck hunt near their home last week. They were in the sand hills of the region have yet to divulge the secret of their fate.

DRIVERS CONVICTED ON CAR TOWING CHARGES

LUFKIN, Feb. 1 (AP)—Six drivers and an official of an Indiana auto towing concern were convicted in justice court here of transporting a caravan of new cars without proper registration.

The trial, held 24 hours after a first trial had resulted in a hung jury, was prosecuted by County Attorney W. J. Townsend as a test of the Texas automobile registration law. The case brought two towing company officials here by plane from South Bend, Ind.

E. R. Walker, head of the towing concern involved, was convicted jointly with his drivers and fined $200. The drivers were fined $1 each.

Leonard J. Schrader, vice-president of the American Drive-Away association, was served with a complaint charging him with operating cars with an illegal license. He posted bond and said he would sue the county for false arrest.

His trial was set for Tuesday when six other drivers will be tried on similar charges.

Walker gave notice of appeal for himself and the six drivers.

The men were arrested when a caravan of new cars destined to Houston dealers stopped overnight. The county contended that the pastboard license plates on the towed cars were legally intended for dealer demonstration use only, not for transporting new cars through the state.

DOCK STRIKERS WILL VOTE ON PEACE PLANS

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1 (P)—Forty thousand Pacific coast maritime strikers started balloting today on peace proposals which their leaders freely predicted would end the long tie-up, possibly by Thursday.

The joint strike committee recommended that tentative agreements be approved and points still in dispute be submitted to arbitration.

Some merchants said it may take months to regain lost markets. The general feeling of relief was expressed by Mayor Angelo J. Rossi when he fervently declared: "I hope we never have another strike."

HITLER-BLUM ARMISTICE IS AIM OF VETS

(By The Associated Press) France's and Germany's World war veterans—once separated by No-Man's Land—maneuvered today to have Premier Leon Blum and Reichsruhrer Adolf Hitler meet and make up.

Maurice Randox, member of the executive council of a Franco-German committee to have isolated Malaga from socialist territory, said leaders of the movement wanted an early face-to-face meeting between the chiefs of the two antagonistic nations.

Government defenders of Madrid reported they had cut deeper into besiegers' territory on the western fringe of the capital. Fascist southern legions of Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano were reported—virtually—to have isolated Malaga from socialist territory.

Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France told a popular front meeting at Chateauroux that Franco-German differences were on methodical—not aims.

CAIRO BRACES FOR STRUGGLE AGAINST RIVER

OHIO CREST HAS NOT YET ARRIVED AT CITY

CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 1 (AP) — The brimming Ohio river, sloshing towards the rim of the levee system here, advanced today on Cairo's last line of flood defense — an 18-inch thick wall of boards and earth.

The wall, three feet high, is a hurriedly-built superstructure crowning the 60-foot concrete barrier that saved the city from past floods. A wooden framework, reinforced with braces, was filled with sacks tamped full of dirt.

The water inched toward the 59.50 stage today. Army engineers said they were confident the crest had not arrived. Waves already have washed over the lowest parts of the seawall proper and against the emergency bulkhead.

Lake soldiers in readiness for an "over the top" command, most levee crews slept to conserve their strength for any crisis — to be signaled by a blare of sirens and whistles.

All women and children have been ordered out, again — some drifted back after the first evacuation — and the second exodus is under way. The only women allowed to remain are Red Cross workers, communications operators and commissary aides.

"My wife and three kids left this afternoon," said a grimy negro passing earth-filled sacks from a freight car to a human chain, like a bucket brigade. "They didn't want to go — but I told 'em I could handle twice as many sacks if I didn't have to worry about them starting out."

"Everything is ready," another citizen said. "After such a fight, fate will not permit catastrophe." About 4,500 men are at hand to plug the dikes if they weaken. Never before has such manpower been mustered here to hold the river, citizens said. But never before has the Ohio risen so high.

Sitting on a slender neck of land where the Ohio empties into the Mississippi, Cairo has not suffered a serious flood since its first year as a town, 79 years ago. The only outlet, except by boat, is a highway that pieces an embankment to the north.

The government forecaster, W. E. Barron, held to his prediction of a 60 to 61-foot crest Wednesday or Thursday. Some streets are as much as 200 feet below the levee rim.

FLOODS AT A GLANCE

(By The Associated Press) CAIRO, Ill.—Flood waters near 60-foot mark on seawall, raised to 63 feet as 4,500 men awaited "zero hour" expected Thursday. All but able-bodied men evacuated last night.

PADUCAH, Ky.—Authorities hurried work of evacuating 2,000 marooned residents, last of 30,000 inhabitants to leave. Leo F. Whalen, FWA engineer, estimated damage $4,000,000.

NEW MADRID, Mo.—Mississippi strained at its levees in southeast Missouri and crept up the seawall of this town, its rise unchecked by breaks in the Besse levee.

LOUISVILLE—Officials center efforts on restoring electricity, water and other facilities, cleaning up debris and preventing disease.

MEMPHIS—Levee topping operations along Mississippi waterfront continues 24 hours a day while additional thousands swelled refugee army. District U. S. engineer optimistic over prospects of preventing great flood in south.

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn.—Breaks in dike at Besse, 10 miles above Tiptonville, will not endanger this town unless the crevasses enlarge, said Lieut.-Col. Eugene Reybold at Memphis.

CINCINNATI—Smoke rose from numerous industrial plants today, signaling efforts to resume operations as "mop up" squads took the field to remove debris and cleanse city.

ATLANTA—Major General George Van Horn Moseley said no flood emergency should exist on the Mississippi from Memphis to the Gulf of Mexico.

RESUME BILLIARDS PLAY NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Willie Hoppe and Jake Schaefer resume their billiards marathon tonight with the second of their week-long matches at the new 28.2 ballline game at the Strang academy. Schaefer won the first match at Chicago 2,500 to 2,162 last week. The second is to be played under the same conditions. Each has posted $500 and the winner will take the $1,000 purse and 60 per cent of the gate receipts. After the opening night, two blocks will be played daily.

Motorboat Cruises Into Hotel Lobby

One man holds the wide front doors open and another steers the outboard motorboat right into the lobby of the Irvin Cobb Hotel at Paducah, Ky. Though the first floor was flooded, the hotel was made a concentration point for refugees because it is on one of the town's highest points. Fourteen were reported drowned, most of the 25,000 residents had fled, and troops ruled under martial law.

early crisis. Throughout the freezing night, in the glare of floodlights, levee sentinels patrolled the walls looking for weak spots or leaks.

Single Exit A single exit, at the north end of the V-shaped city, was left open to the 4,500 defenders in the event flight becomes necessary.

Boats stood by, ready to evacuate several hundred of the "last ditch" fighters, but the main route of escape would be through the heavy steel gate at the northern embankment. A major crevasse in the Ohio side-wall, it was said, would transfer the still dry city into a watery graveyard twenty feet deep — within a few minutes.

Falling steadily in the north, the 60 billion tons of Ohio river flood waters poured into the Mississippi river at a rate of nearly 3,000,000 cubic feet per second.

River gauges below Cairo registered the ponderous influx with sharp rises.

"But they prefer up to this time to pit the strength of their dollars against the workers and they also insolently and arrogantly flout representatives of this government and representatives of the state of Michigan when they are asked to sit down at the council table."

probably another chairman and commission appointed. But I have not made the decision as I feel that with the assistance of the other members we are probably able to handle the matter without attempting to drag you into the controversy and cause you some unnecessary embarrassment.

Governor Allred said the situation was "a mess" and made public a telegram to O'Brien saying the latter had dragged his name into the matter "in a most disrespectful manner." He said O'Brien a newspaper man, had indicated the night resign and "since you made this proposition in your signed article I accept it."

O'Brien and Showers were appointed members of the commission. The governor also made public a reply to Showers and a letter of Caesar Kieberg, commission member, to other members. The latter stated Kieberg was not in accord with the request for Tucker's resignation and the "action in no wise meets with approval."

Allred's letter said he regarded Tucker's proposition as fair and thought Showers should manifest "as much confidence in me as he has expressed." He added Tucker asked only to be present and answer any charges.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fatheree arrived in Pampa yesterday after an extended honeymoon trip through the south.

A REBEL IN CAMP

Farmers fleeing the flood zone took articles varying from phonographs to pigs. One brought a one-legged hen to Memphis. A demure woman with snow-white hair checked a suitcase of century-old silver and a Confederate flag.

THE NEWS GOES THROUGH

The flood has failed to hamper circulation of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. The presses rolled off 152,000 Sunday copies carrying flood news into all sections of the water-bound area. Papers were distributed by carrier, boat, train, automobile, truck, bus and tractor.

HIDING OUT

Shifting refugees from the Memphis fair grounds to other camps throughout the city caused complications. Afraid they were to be taken out of the city, many hid in buildings. A mother and her two children were found in a stack of gaudy decoration used for the Cotton carnival.

Panhandle out of the appropriation which Mr. Hinton would seek on Tierra Blanca creek near Umbarger. The letters follow:

McLean Texas, Jan. 13, 1937. Mr. Ivy E. Duncan, Dear Sir:

In regard to the Beaver Dam crossing on McLellan creek as a location for the proposed dam, Mr. Stubbs and I, after checking it over found it to be much better than we had anticipated.

With a terracing level we were able to make an estimate on the size of the lake. A 70-foot dam would make a lake about two miles wide and about six miles long. A higher dam than this could be built.

Yours truly, T. T. GRIFFIN. (R. F. D., LeFors.)

Amarillo, Texas, Jan. 29, 1937. Judge Ivy E. Duncan, Pampa, Texas. Dear Judge:

The dam built by the City of Amarillo on Palo Duro creek is approximately 50 feet high. The structure is 1,500 feet long and is purely of earthen construction except for stone rip-rapping on the upside.

It cost $90,000. The present depth of the water is 28 feet, although in times past it has been as high as 40 feet. The present lake covers about 150 acres of land, extending up the creek for almost two miles.

The dam may be considered a success from every standpoint. Having been here when the heated arguments took place as to the construction of the dam, I have made it a point to watch with interest its development over the years. Mr. Klerstedt, the Kansas City engineer, who recommended the dam as a part of the city's water supply, told the commission that it might be four or five years in siting over the bottom of the lake, depending not only on the amount of rain received the first years but on the nature of the rains. The first rains were slow and did not wash in much silt.

Falling steadily, for these two years, much of the dam which remained there since 1908 from the attempt made at that time to dam this canyon, same being washed out with the first rise. However, this first dam, in 1908, was constructed of purely sandy loam soil. The soil at the bottom of this canyon was and would greatly enjoy a trip out there with you. If I can give you any further information, please command me. Yours very truly, T. E. JOHNSON.

LeFors, Texas, Jan. 25, 1937. Pampa Daily News, Pampa, Texas. Dear Sirs:

We of LeFors are in favor of a lake in Gray county. But has anyone ever told Mr. Ivy Duncan that the conservation board of the Panhhandle territory has been working on that project for two or three months? And that a site for a lake has already been found and partly surveyed? The site is located at the middle cross of McLellan creek, or at Beaver Dam.

This project will not be made by voting bonds or taxes. The thirty-five counties of the Panhhandle are to send a man to Washington asking for $15,000,000 to build lakes in the thirty-five counties. Each county has an allotment to make for this man's salary. Gray county has $900 to pay. Some of the other counties in the southern part have already paid their part. Of course, there are a few counties that are in the Panhhandle that have no site for a lake, but they are more than willing that they have a lake in an adjoining county. So they give, approximately, one-half million to each county that does have a site to build a lake.

So would you mind explaining the situation to Mr. Duncan and the people of Gray county that if and when we get a lake in Gray county, it will be through no effort of the Honorable Mr. Duncan. Tell Mr. Duncan to attend the next conservation meeting in Amarillo.

Respectfully, ALLEN E. CUMBERLEDGE, LeFors, Texas.

Amarillo, Texas, Jan. 30, 1937. Mr. Ivy E. Duncan, Pampa, Texas. Dear Sir:

Your letter of Jan. 27 to Mr. John McCarty of Amarillo has been handed to me for answer. I personally supervised the construction of the dam at Rita Blanca canyon, northwest of Dalhart, Texas.

The length of this dam is approximately 800 feet, the height is 32 feet. It is hard to estimate the cost of this dam offhand, for there was much of the dam which remained there since 1908 from the attempt made at that time to dam this canyon, same being washed out with the first rise. However, this first dam, in 1908, was constructed of purely sandy loam soil. The soil at the bottom of this canyon was the bench today for the first time. Roberts, who delivered the majority opinion, said the state had not proved that the tax exacted from the railroad did "not exceed what is reasonably needed for the service rendered."

Justice Cardozo, who delivered the dissenting opinion, said that "to show that the revolving fund was used as a common pot for the regulation of public utilities, generally, irrespective of their special function, does not make out a case of wrong to railroads considered as a separate class."

The tax had been challenged by the Great Northern Railway Company, which won in the Thurston county superior court. That tribunal awarded the railroad a judgment of $25,466 for taxes paid under protest for 1929 to 1933 inclusive.

The Great Northern contended the state was receiving more from railroads than was required for their regulation and that some of the money was used for regulating unconnected public utilities.

Replying, the state contended there was no evidence the fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the gross operating revenues from intrastate activities was unreasonable or excessive.

Horse racing netted Texas $485,000 in taxes and licenses during 1936.
