MANY KILLED IN TEXAS STORM

LEGISLATURE CONVENES AT NOON TODAY

2-Year Appropriations Must Be Passed This Term

POLLARD MADE SENATE PRO-TEM

Highway and Civil Service Measures Get Attention

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, May 9.—The special session of the Fortieth Legislature convened at noon today to pass the two-year appropriations of some $40,000,000, enact highway and civil service laws, and consider whatever else Governor Moody submits.

Senator Tom Pollard was elected president pro-tem of the Senate.

AUSTIN, May 9.—(AP)—Renewed efforts to provide for relocation or concentration of the Texas prison system to complete the reform program already under way is almost certain to engage the attention of the special legislative session convening today.

Governor Dan Moody who wants to give the new prison board plenary powers in sale and purchase of lands in any concentration plan that may be decided upon, has indicated that he may submit the question of prison legislation to the session.

First Efforts Lost

During the Fortieth Legislature's regular session, the governor and the senate lost their efforts to give the prison board a free hand in sales and purchases. The prison reorganization bill creating the new board of prison commissioners and an $8,000 a year manager was passed but the entire relocation feature originally included in the bill was stricken out after a deadlock between House and Senate conferees had endangered the whole bill.

Bill Was Amended

The bill, a committee measure prepared under guidance of House prison authorities, including Representative Lee Satterwhite of Amarillo and Representative Claude Teer of Granger, went from the House to the senate with provision for possible relocation of the prison system. Land sales and purchases, however, would have been subject to approval of the legislature, by an amendment written into the measure after a lengthy fight in the House.

The Senate committee, favoring the liberal policy of relocation advocated by Representative Teer, Moody House spokesman, wrote a new bill restoring plenary powers to the board. The House balked however, and the bill was passed with only half its original intent.

Hopkins Well To Be Drilled Deeper

Riley and Heck, drilling contractors, expect to resume operations on the Mrs. J. M. Hopkins' well, section 66 block B2, Gray county, about 11 miles south of Pampa, at once.

The well is at a depth of 2,900 feet and spraying oil. There was a slight cave-in but new pipe has been set and a good producer is expected.

Blackwell-McGee well on the Bower's property, section 92, block B2, is closed down waiting for a line to be run to the well.

LATE BASEBALL

All National league games scheduled for today have been postponed on account of wet grounds.

No games were scheduled in the Western league today.

American League — Philadelphia at Cleveland, cloudy; Boston at Detroit, cloudy; Washington at St. Louis, cloudy.

Texas League, Clear for all games.

Indian Skeletons Found In Cavern

ALPINE, May 9.—(AP)—Further light on early American life is expected to follow the discovery of five Indian skeletons on Rancho Lamota, owned by James E. Casner.

Following a description by a Mexican goat herder of a queer looking pile of rocks, presumably arranged by human hands, Tom Burdett, ranch foreman, investigated and found a number of arrow heads.

After blasting to enlarge a small passage about 4 feet in diameter, a cavern, chipped in solid rock, was discovered, and from it were removed five skeletons.

Professor Victor J. Smith, anthropologist at Sul Ross State Teachers' college, Alpine, said they were skeletons of Indians.

CUMMINGS AT AUSTIN TODAY

Suspended Ranger Will Report To Adjutant General

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, May 9.—Texas Ranger A. H. Cummings, suspended at Governor Dan Moody's order because of his part in the arrest of Victor Wagner, Berger newspaper man, Friday, and his purported attempts to suppress reports of the affair, is scheduled to arrive here today, the adjutant general's department said.

Assistant Attorney-General Calhoun and Ranger Captains Tom Hickman and Frank Hamer are conducting an investigation of the affair.

Flood Water Is Strengthened by Enormous Flow

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—The "sugar bowl" of central Louisiana was threatened with inundation today as flood waters of the Mississippi, surging from six dike crevasses in the northeastern part of the state, piled up against the Bayou Des Glaises levee, seeking an outlet to the sea.

A funnel shaped stream covering thousands of square miles in Northeastern Louisiana poured its strength into the backwater that had already subjected the levee to enormous pressure.

Sponsor Contest To Close At 9 o'Clock

The contest to choose "Miss Pampa" will close tonight at 9 o'clock, when all boxes will be collected. As the end of the contest draws near, many additional votes are expected to be placed.

Miss Moleta Lefors is still in the lead, while Miss Anna Abbott is third.

The standing up until noon gave Miss Moleta Lefors 12,665, Miss Margaret Schmidt 11,135, Miss Anna Abbott 10,400, Mrs. Morris Lawless 10,395, Miss Juanita Fulbrite 10,340, Mrs. Pauline Davis 10,150, Miss Ennis Hicks 10,102, and Miss Mary Cox 10,010.

Gaming Interrupted By Sheriff's Force

The local sheriff's force had a busy week-end in Pampa. Several card games and "combination" parties were interrupted with the result that the Justice of the Peace here was very busy this morning.

A quantity of "choo" beer and home brew was confiscated during the activities, and charges were placed against the possessors.

El Progreso club will hold open house Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. V. E. Fathers.

HINES TO TRY TO COORDINATE COTTON MILLS

Former Director General of Railroads to Direct Research

BIG INSTITUTE BEING FORMED

Plans to Reach From Producer to Last Consumer

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—King Cotton looks to new empires to conquer.

The cotton textile industry of the United States—a giant of some $2,000,000 invested capital—is working toward this goal under direction of Walker D. Hines, one-time director-general of railroads, who has been drafted to coordinate the industry and promote its progress and development.

As head of the newly organized Textile Institute, Inc.—the latest born in the family of industrial institutes—Hines is applying the same harmonizing agencies that enabled him as arbitrator to solve the snarled problems of the waterways and shipping of middle Europe after the World War.

A Cooperative Effort.

It was this feat of Hines in composing the differences between the allied and former enemy countries and his far reaching responsibilities in operating 250,000 miles of railroad as President Wilson's director-general of transportation in the post-armistice period that brought the call from the cotton men to head the textile institute. The institute was formed for cooperative efforts along lines that had been employed in iron and steel, meat packing and the copper and brass industries.

A field survey marks the initial stage of the Hines campaign that has for its ambitious achievement the coordination of the cotton textile industry from the grower down to the disposition of the consuming public. Already Hines has marshaled behind him 484 cotton mills as members of the institute which represent more than 21,350,000 spindles or about two-thirds of the active spindles of the country.

Hines Studies Problems. Hines has been making close contacts with manufacturers and acquainting himself with the diverse angles of the industry with the view of obtaining a preliminary idea of the leading problems so that he announces he is prepared to shape up his organization. He plans to make a thorough survey of the question of extending the demand for cotton goods by organizing a section on new uses.

The former director-general of railroads also intends to make a careful survey of the methods of cost accounting in the various mills that wish to participate in such a study through the selection of an expert cost accountant for this work. Statistics, both general and special, are to be assembled and digested and summarized.

No Sectional Differences. All geographical division have been broken down in the campaign to establish King Cotton more securely.

Pola and Her Prince

Pola Uegri, flower-laden, and her husband-to-be, Prince Serge Mdivani, are shown as they arrived in Paris to be married. The wedding was to take place at Pola's chateau in a suburb of the French capital. Pola is reported to be happy even if the prince's title is not taken seriously by Parisian aristocracy.

Commissioners Expect To Create Special Road District In Precinct 1 In Answer to 300-Name Petition

Taking legal instruments and a 300-name petition, a road bond committee from the Chamber of Commerce went to Lefors this afternoon to ask the county commissioners to create a special road district in Precinct 1.

It was believed that the district would be promptly ordered, since, it was said, McLean already has obtained such action for that south-county precinct.

If the district is created this afternoon, possibly as long a period as a month will elapse before a road bond election is called. Under the complex law providing for special districts, a hearing must be held before the election takes place.

The latest highway proposals are for special district issues. Precinct No. 2, in which Pampa is located, will require about 42 miles of hard-surfacing to satisfy present demands, which will cost approximately half a million dollars, including state aid.

Believing that this issue will meet with favor in this precinct, the Chamber of Commerce will proceed slowly and carefully, satisfying all technicalities.

County Agent Of Randall to Close Brilliant Service

CANYON, May 9.—J. W. Jennings, who served Randall county as agricultural agent for the last 3 1/2 years, has resigned his position and will leave Canyon June 1 for Dallas, where he will begin a poultry plant.

Jennings has brought many honors to Randall county while in office. He has won second place twice at the Tri-State Fair; third, second and seventh places in the Dallas Fair; first place two years in Wichita Falls, and second place one year at Lubbock.

The farmers of Randall County consider Mr. Jennings the best agent they have had. His place will probably be filled by the commissioners court at the next meeting.

Defense Finishes In Snyder Trial

NEW YORK, May 9.—Defense summation was completed in the Snyder murder trial today. The talks lasted about four hours.

FIFTY INJURED AND SOME TO DIE PROBABLY

Nevada and Garland Struck by Tornado At 3 a. m.

DAMAGE NEARLY MILLION DOLLARS

Relief Train Rushed To Stricken Area From Greenville

(By The Associated Press.)

NEVADA, Texas, May 9.—Sixteen persons were killed and 50 injured when a tornado struck this town of about 800 population at 3 o'clock today. Some of the injured are expected to die.

Practically the entire business section, including 15 brick structures, was destroyed. The Odd Fellows hall was the only building left standing.

The dead:

- Mrs. R. C. Evans, 22.
- Mrs. J. T. Lemons, 45.
- Mrs. R. B. Craft, 65.
- Baby of Mr. and Mrs. Will Vaughn.
- Pauline Martin, 15.
- J. E. Robinson, 64.
- J. D. Cope, 66.
- Gladys Lemons, 12.
- Mrs. Bessie Tacket and her two children.
- Mrs. J. M. Wilson, 50.
- Mrs. J. C. Johnson.
- Mrs. Etta Vaughn.
- Two negro children.

The First Baptist and First Methodist churches were badly damaged but the remains of the former was converted into a temporary hospital. The school house was destroyed.

Lewter Ranks Fifth In State In Putting Shot

Charles Lewter, Pampa's only entrant in the State Interscholastic track and field meet at Austin Friday and Saturday, ranked second in the semi-finals and fifth in the final. He threw the shot a distance of 4 feet 3 inches in the semi final and 4 feet 9 inches for the final.

There were 65 entrants in the shot-put event, representing the premier athletes of Texas, and Lewter brings honor to Pampa, being ranked fifth in this event.

"Chuck" arrived home from Austin this morning and since that time is reported to have a sore arm from shaking hands with his local supporters and admirers.

Cotton Seed Flour Is Food

SCHULENBURG, May 9.—(AP)

Being credited with being the only one of its kind in the world, a mill here grinds cotton seeds into flour for human consumption. The hulls first are eliminated by machinery. Then the meat is ground to a fine powder which undergoes a process to remove the gum and other undesirable properties. The resulting flour is bright yellow in color, has a sweet taste and an agreeable odor similar to nuts.

Its protein and fat content is high, according to Dr. S. G. Frapps, state chemist, who found that bread and cakes made of 80 per cent wheat flour and 20 per cent cotton seed flour was from two to six times as rich in protein as those made entirely from wheat.

Marcus Mafoe of Orange, N. J., who recently completed a fifteen year hike around the world, will soon go on another similar ten-year trip.

Not a Case for Brooks County Comes Up, So Judge Dismisses Grand Jury

(By The Associated Press.)

FALFURRIAS, May 9.—The Brooks county grand jury is without a job. District Judge Hood Boone called the jury, convened court, summoned his sheriff, his district attorney, and his county attorney, and got ready for business with all court formalities, and then the district attorney and the county attorney and sheriff announced they had no cases to present.

"That being the case," said the judge, "there is no occasion to impanel the grand jury and I will dismiss it."

"I must state, however," continued Judge Boone, "that this is a record for any county to be proud of and I most sincerely congratulate the officers and citizenship of Brooks county for their splendid record."

"It speaks in unmistakable terms, not only for the efficiency of your county officers, but still more so to the law abiding characteristics of your citizens."

Brooks county has a population in excess of 6,000, more than half of whom are of Mexican descent.

According to officials of the county, this appears to be a refutation of the charges made by Congressman Box of Texas, who is sponsoring a bill to restrict Mexican immigration. Box states that "beyond all proportion to their numbers, they (the Mexicans) increase the number of criminals and paupers, wherever they go in considerable numbers. They tend to degrade the conditions of labor. They increase the percentage of illiteracy and disease. Their presence in large numbers presents another serious race question."

But Brooks county officials state that there is not a pauper in the county and that the jail has only one prisoner, who is an insane patient waiting to be transferred to the state hospital. S. H. Woods of Alice is district attorney, J. E. Wilson is county attorney, and John H. Ballard is sheriff.

PROMPT ACTION

Governor Moody is to be commended for following his repeated insistence of freedom of the press with appropriate action in the Borger instance.

Regardless of what effect the investigation may have upon the suspension of the offending Ranger, the steps taken were effective in stopping agitation and leading to an amicable agreement between the press and the officers.

Freedom of the press, obtained by revolution in nearly every case, is often too loosely regarded by those in authority. The newspaper usually speaks the mind of a majority of its readers, and in presenting news of public affairs it is a recognized representative of all of them. In this service it has the right to present all facts of public interest, and to comment fairly upon them. It—and not the officers—is made by the state and federal constitution the judge of public facts. It is the duty of officers to keep these facts in a proper manner and open to the press at all times. It is frankly extra-legal for any official to hold back facts on the grounds that some person will not like the publicity. They are not responsible for the publication and should not be criticized for keeping their records open.

Freedom of the press means nothing if not freedom from this illegal action. Like many other desirable things, it is rightly valued only when withdrawn. It is to be expected that anyone guilty of improper action will resent even fair comment, and those unfairly represented will have no difficulty with any honest publication in arriving at a true understanding.

The governor has done well in pointing out that officers do not have the right to censor the press or to try to intimidate newspaper men.

TWINKLES

The next "biggest still" they capture over in Hutchinson county should be called a brewery.

Well, we read that these western zephyrs have again lined up with the opposition of an Amarillo team.

In this great enterprise of building cities, people are a kind of necessary evil in some ways—you find them about every place you go.

White Deer is to have a white way, and we suggest to the eminent Mr. Hughes and fellow citizens of that esteemed city potential that a real he-deer statue be erected in the center thereof. It is a tradition too good to die.

Isn't it strange that the bigger a city is the more signs you find pointing the way to it.

It seems that robbing a bank is just a preliminary step to trouble in the Panhandle.

Something bitter is usually mixed up with the sweet, and at this time it is the hated examination which is giving trouble for our young people.

A Hard Task Master

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — When Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge are traveling by rail, the president invariably occupies a drawing room and his wife a compartment adjoining.

The drawing room has a couch and the president likes to lay down for an hour or two during the afternoon en route. He is asleep soon after he stretches himself out. Mrs. Coolidge hardly ever follows his example.

Both drawing room and compartment are just like other drawing rooms and compartments. There are five of them, the other three being occupied by the president's physician, aides and secret service men. It is an observation car like others, except that it is a new type, with olive green and gray color scheme and washstands of celain instead of nickel.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge walk through the station to the train — heavily guarded by railroad and local police and secret service operatives—ten of 15 minutes before it pulls out.

The Coolidges sit in the observation section, the president generally reading. There are wicker chairs rather than leather and plush, and the railroad officials provide large baskets of fruit and roses. In Mrs. Coolidge's own compartment one would find a dozen or more specimens of the First Lady's favorite flower — the Coolidge rose. Very often the railroad finds that the president has brought along his fruit. He is partial to apples, but does not neglect bananas or any other common fruit.

A music store in Washington furnishes a huge victrola with records and Mrs. Coolidge often selects and plays some of the later, winding the machine herself if the porter doesn't happen to be within reach. The records are of varied types, including some jazz, and mostly orchestral pieces.

The railroad official in charge of the train comes in on each trip to inquire if everything is as the president would have it, but a special porter who has had long experience on private cars with the great and the wealthy tends to the immediate needs of the Coolidges. He sits up through the night and spends an immense amount of time dusting.

At night, returning from an affair such as the recent United Press dinner in New York, the Coolidges sit in the observation section for perhaps an hour, chatting with Dr. Coupal, the president's physician. The three comment on events of the evening and Major Coupal is apt to tell a few stories.

At 11 or 11:30 Coupal sends the president to bed and Mrs. Coolidge always retires to her compartment a few minutes afterward. Then the show is over for the select few standing on the platform outside. Assuming that the train is to arrive here at 7 a. m., the president arises at 6:30. He doesn't get eight hours of solid sleep, but his afternoon nap makes up the difference. It is to be assumed that the president sleeps soundly instead of tossing wakefully about in his bunk as so many of us do, for no one has ever heard any complaint from him.

PRESS FORUM

Humanitarians, prison reform and crime sentimentalists now have two more cases upon which to expend their tears and their eloquence. A negro in California stole 85 cents and a ham sandwich and was sentenced to the penitentiary for life, and a 16-year-old Ohio boy, the self-confessed slayer of a woman and her five-year-old son, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

The California case may not attract so much attention, but protests from every part of the country are sure to come in the case of the Ohio boy.

Of course we shall hear that it is barbarous, cruel, unjust and all the rest of it, to send a man, even a negro to the penitentiary for life for such a small offense as the theft of 85 cents and a sandwich, and the humanitarians, reformers and sob sisters and brothers will demand to be informed if the United States is reverting to the days when a woman was hanged in London for stealing a loaf of bread to feed her starving children.

There are a certain number of people who are able to see only the two extremes of a proposition; they are blind to all the middle ground. Such people will fail to see that the negro in California was not given a life sentence for the theft of a few cents and a sandwich, but because there were already three prison terms behind the minor offense. He was not given the severe penalty as a petty thief, but as a confirmed and hopeless criminal. All the "humanitarians" will be able to see in the case is the 85 cents, the sandwich and the life sentence.

It seems rather shocking to send a 16-year-old boy to the electric chair, but if ever a boy of that age gave convincing evidence that he possessed all the qualities of a criminal degenerate, that Ohio boy did.

He abused the hospitality of a neighbor's home to which he was a frequent and welcome visitor by making improper advances to the neighbor's wife, and when those advances were indignantly repulsed, he beat the woman to death with a poker. Then, in an effort to hide evidence against himself, in the first murder, he committed another. He pursued the five-year-old son of the slain woman to the basement of his home and beat the child to death with a baseball bat.

When arrested, he confessed the double murder and calmly related the details of the crime, and he heard, apparently unmoved, the sentence of death pronounced against him. Not a very promising citizen, that 16-year-old boy. One cannot help wondering what his criminal career would have been had he escaped defection in his first essay in crime.

There is but one objection ground upon which objection to the carrying out of the death penalty in this case can be based—that of the youth of the criminal. Maybe his extreme youth, counted by years, is a reason why he should escape the death chair, but reckoned in terms of crime, he is not so very young. Incidentally, it may be recalled that the best time to kill a ravening wild beast is when it is a cub. —Blackwell Tribune.

William Widgery Thomas, minister to Sweden under five presidents, died recently in Portland, Me., he was 87 years old.

HOHENZOLLERN GEMS IN PUBLIC DISPLAY

BERLIN (AP)—Hohenzollern crown jewels, valued at $5,000,000 and dating back to Frederick the Great are on public view for the first time in history in 200-year-old Monbijou castle.

Amazement at the gorgeousness of the collection is expressed even by intimate friends of the Court as it was believed that the treasures of Prussian kings were not nearly so vast. The 42 salons of the castle, the favorite residence of Frederick the Great's mother, contain the priceless Hohenzollern seals, scepters, the royal sabre studded with huge diamonds, valuable snuff boxes of the Great Elector and jewels of Queen Louise. Several rooms contain some of the finest specimens of old porcelain, some of which are more than three centuries old.

The castle had not been used as a royal residence for 50 years when it was opened at the Hohenzollern museum. It was closed in 1918, but since the indemnification settlement with the former Kaiser last fall the crown jewels, which became the property of the State of Prussia, have been collected and are on exhibition there.

RING SONGS' AUTHOR THOUGHT IDENTIFIED

BERLIN (AP)—Professor Aloys Schrott of Muenster in Westphalia claims to have discovered the real author of the "Nibelungenlied," or cycle of "Ring Songs."

Scientific researches covering many years have convinced him that the author of this famous German lay was Bishop Pilgrim of Passau, on the Austro-Bavarian frontier, who lived in the tenth century.

The question of the authorship of the Nibelungenlied has provoked lively and often acrimonious debate among German savants for more than a century.

SAFE'S WALLS CONTAIN DEADLY POISON GAS

BERLIN (AP)—Yeermen are likely to be exposed to gases more poisonous than any ever used in the world war soon.

A German inventor has evolved a safe which will produce such gases the moment a drill penetrates the steel.

Gas producing crystals are deposited in a bed of porous concrete between the steel walls. The crystals are a compound of chlorine, carbon monoxide, and hydro-cyanic acid. The mixture is said to be not only more deadly than anything used in the war, but capable of penetrating any mask yet invented.

GERMAN TOY TRADE FACES DISSOLUTION

BERLIN (AP)—The famous German toy industry is in danger of being wiped out by machine made playthings and competition in the world markets.

Thousands of men and women in and about Nuremberg who used to carve toys out of wood in their homes have abandoned the trade because of the high tariff walls, especially in the United States and Great Britain, have cut down the export trade. Only manufactured toys, such as the electrical varieties, are finding a ready market. But even along these lines markets are maintained only by continuous invention of oddities which foreign countries have not yet produced.

Thrills In Golf—Student vs. Veterans

BY LINCOLN A. WERDEN
(Associated Press Correspondent)

PINEHURST, N. C., May 9.—Someone has said there are more good golfers in prep schools and universities than generally supposed. But with the growth of intercollegiate competition in golf to such an extent that virtually every university has its links team the sport now is able to keep a measuring rod on prominent players of the future.

One of the country's best at the age of 18 is Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., twice Metropolitan junior champion, at present a senior at Choate School, Wallingford, Conn. A pupil of Cyril Walker, former national champion, Homans has been playing intercollegiate golf during the past four seasons, but it is only within the last six months he has been able to impress the country-wide fields of players and followers of the ancient game.

At Baltusrol, where the national championship was held last fall, he was able to qualify with a 36 hole total of 160, along with two former champions, Max Marston and Charles (Chick) Evans Jr., who turned in the same score. In the first match play, however, Homans met Jesse Gullford, Boston, a Walker cup player and a 3 and 2 defeat.

"It certainly meant a whole lot to me," Homans relates. "Thrilled! Well, I got a big kick out of it—I was mighty glad I could qualify."

Gene was New Jersey champion in 1926 and also won the father and son tournament of New York with his dad, Sheppard Homans, former Princeton football star. Just recently Gene went through to the finals of the United North and South Tournament here, but was defeated by George Voight, the rising star of Washington, 4 to 2.

This fall Gene enters Princeton, and golf will be his major sport. Since Phillips Finlay, Exeter Academy, and George T. Dunlap Jr., Hill school, both interscholastic stars, are entering with him, Princeton may have cause to celebrate golf victories as well as football triumphs.

HALF SCORE OF BOXING STARS MEET DEATH IN BRIEF PERIOD

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK—The passing of Young Corbett and Aurelio Herera, two famous "little fellows" of the ring, within two days of each other on the Pacific Coast recently, calls attention to the fact that the final "ten" has been tolled over an unusually large number of pugilists in the last few years.

Champions, near-champions and former kings of the squared circle have been counted out. Two met tragic deaths, one died from punishment received in the ring and another as the result of injuries received in a bout. Others died from natural causes.

Early one morning some three years ago Bill Brennan, a tough heavyweight trial horse, was shot and killed by gunmen in his New York cafe. The shooting followed an altercation after most of the late stragglers had departed.

Brennan gained prominence in 1920 by holding Jack Dempsey, then champion, virtually even through 11 fierce rounds in Madison Square Garden. In the twelfth, however, Dempsey knocked Brennan out.

Not long after Brennan's passing Billy Miske, also a heavyweight "trial horse," succumbed at his home in St. Paul to an extended illness. Like Brennan, Miske also had been kayoed by Dempsey, going down in three rounds in 1920.

Two years ago Pancho Villa, flashy little Filipino and king of the flyweights, died in a California hospital while on the operating table. An infected tooth had poisoned Villa's system.

A few weeks later Vincent (Pepper) Martin, prominent New York featherweight, fell victim to pneumonia, passing on after a few days' illness.

In the gray dawn of a December morning in 1925, the body of Battling Siki, Senegalese light-heavyweight boxer and former champion, was found in New York's "Hell's Kitchen" district. Siki had been stabbed in the back. It was a sensational end to a spectacular career.

Last October saw the passing in Atlantic City of one of ringdom's most colorful fighters—Harry Greb. Greb had held the American light-heavy, and the world's middle-weight championships. Greb seldom trained for a fight, but the Pittsburgh "Windmill" was always in condition. Greb, like Villa, died in a hospital where he had gone to have an operation on his nose. It was considered a minor operation, but Greb failed to rally.

Jimmy Delany, St. Paul light-heavyweight, died last March from an infection resulting from an arm injury in a bout at Buffalo shortly before.

Cleaver Sencio, another Filipino, whom many experts predicted would take the place once occupied by Villa, died in Milwaukee after a battle with Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantam and considered in many quarters the king of the division. Sencio proved no match for the hard-hitting Taylor, taking terrific punishment. He died the day after the fight. Frankie Jerome, New York bantam, died in 1924 after a bout with Taylor.

Many golf and tennis engagements had to be cancelled yesterday. It was impossible to control a ball owing to the high wind. Two tennis enthusiasts tried their luck but came to grief chasing stray balls.

Omaha detectives, after a week's watch, solved the mystery of the daily disappearance of milk from a certain porch. They discovered a squirrel prying off the top of the bottle and drinking its contents.

OVERCROWDED STAGE BARS MANY CAREERS
BERLIN (AP)—"Don't go on the stage," is the warning issued by the German Actors' Alliance to would-be footlight stars.

The warning was inspired by unfavorable reports the Actors' Association has received on the economic status of the profession in Germany. Austria, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland. The report notes an excessive increase of hopefuls accompanied, however, by a steady diminution of opportunities.

This condition has induced the association to make an urgent appeal to all parents, school teachers and dramatic societies to help stay the present influx of stage aspirants, pointing out "that it is the duty of everyone to prevent young people from taking up a profession in which the largest percentage of applicants must be doomed to a life of misery."

Detective Sergeant Joseph A. Repling of Chicago, came within three inches of losing his life recently when a 100-pound cornice fell from a building and knocked a cigar from his mouth.

A fireman on a Chicago and Great Western train prevented a wreck recently when he took the open throttle from the hand of the engineer who had just died of heart disease.

A Contrast in Chinese Leaders

Pih Ahou-chen Chiang Kai-shek

The one looks like a buck private, the other like some generalissimo from a light opera. But Chiang Kai-shek, ill-fitting uniform and all, is the supreme guiding eye of the recently victorious Cantonese forces in China. Admiral-General Pih Ahou-chen is in command of all the troops of the Peking government in the Shanghai district—which means he leads the "retreat." And it's by water he's an admiral, by land a general, because his title is "reversible" and may be used as he sees fit.

Academy Makes Pupils Pass Swimming Tests

ST. LOUIS—The boy and girl students of Principia Academy must make a success of at least one branch of athletics before they can be graduated.

No student is given a diploma until he or she has passed satisfactorily all swimming tests.

The tank curriculum consists of Red Cross life-saving tests, speed swimming, back strokes, crawl strokes and diving.

French Golfers In Family Groups

Paris—Good golfers are rare in France, and what good ones there are seem to be grouped in families.

Mlle. Simone de la Chaume has a handicap of one and is ranked at the head of all feminine golfers in this country. Her father, with a national handicap of four, is seventh on the list of male amateurs.

M. Vigliano is the only "plus golfer" among French amateurs. His handicap is plus two, and that of his wife is six, only four French women being ranked ahead of her.

Hawaiian Ring Fans Want Public Boxing

HONOLULU—Fight fans of Hawaii are asking Congress to amend the territory's organic act so that public boxing contests will be legal in the islands. At present the sport is popular here but can be conducted only in private clubs or on government property.

If Congress should agree it would be necessary to bring state laws into line, changing the definition of "affray" and making it legal to be a spectator at a boxing match.

"Flying Dutchman" Dons Uniform Again

PITTSBURGH—The "Flying Dutchman" of baseball hopes for a good season in 1927 after 31 years on the diamond.

Although his eyes have dimmed and his famous bowlegs have only a trace of their speed of 20 years ago, Honus Wagner will manage the Twin Cities Club of the Eastern Ohio League and promises that Ohio fans will see him in action. The famous shortstop and slugger started his career in the Buckeye state to which he has returned.

Hans, who spent 21 years under the same management in major league baseball, has devoted his summers to semi-pro teams since his retirement from the Pittsburgh Nationals in 1917.

SPORT TALK

Too much wind and no ball game Sunday afternoon. With the wind blowing at forty-odd per hour the afternoon attraction had to be postponed.

The boys were all warmed up for the game but another week of hard practice will do both teams good. When they do meet it should be some battle.

It is the belief of Amarillo sport enthusiasts that Bob Clarke, former Pampa pitcher, will be in the box for the opening game in Amarillo Tuesday.

Many fans from Pampa expect to attend the opening game Tuesday to see the Texans at home.

"The Three Musketeers" will have to live in suspense for another week to settle their argument as to their relative slugging ability.

In the shadow of the "cheap" house paint can

Don't let the low price on "cheap" paint fool you. Once you get in the shadow of the "cheap" paint can you will have a gloomy outlook. You may think the low price is saving you money. But your reward will be a bigger paint bill—an inferior job—a short-life job—and big repainting bills.

There is only one way to real economy in house paint. Use the best paint money can buy—SWP. It costs more per gallon—but much less per job and per year. Ask us to prove it.

GUARANTEED!

SWP is guaranteed to look better, last longer, cost less per job and less per year than any paint on the market.

COTTON

carefully on his throne, Hines said. Members of the American Association of Cotton Manufacturers, whose interests lie in the south, and the National Association of Manufacturers, with its membership in New England, have joined hands in the common cause, as Hines puts it—"a clear ascertainment of the underlying facts as to the extension of uses of cotton goods and as to production, cost and consumption so that every manufacturer may be more fully advised as to the bearing of the general situation upon his individual problems and may reach decisions as to his policies in the light of this more complete information."

The cotton manufacturing industry is made up of a great variety of different lines of manufacture, each with its separate problems. It is, therefore, Hines thinks, indispensable in the search of facts to proceed separately as to each of those branches of the industry and he is taking steps to organize the industry into groups for the purpose of developing the necessary information.

Two Groups Interested. Thus the "wide sheetings group" and the "narrow sheetings group" already have been organized and each is taking steps to promote the obtaining of information relating to its own problems and opportunities. Other groups are likely to be formed in the near future and each group will be in a position to utilize the results of research in Hines' office and also avail itself of the initiative and assistance of the other groups.

While the institute is an organization of cotton mills, Hines and his executive committee are convinced that it is eminently desirable to work in most friendly effort with every other general interest related to cotton manufacture. Thus the problems that beset the grower, the selling agent, the converter, finisher, garment manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer and the consuming public are to be carefully considered in the Hines plan.

Researches in connection with the production and manufacture of cotton are in progress for the benefit of the industry which employs more people than any other primary manufacturing industry in the United States except steel and iron.

Hines said that the world would be combed for trade information which will be made available to 1,600 cotton cloth mills and others engaged in textile production.

LECTURE PROCEEDS TO GO TO FLOOD RELIEF

The second of the two leading candidates for "Miss Pampa" is Miss Margaret Schmidt, who has lived in Pampa continuously for the last 10 years, and who has been employed as law stenographer for three years here.

Friends who believe this reserved and accomplished young lady would make a good sponsor for the city are working in her interest.

Biggest Week Of Baptist Revival Is Now Under Way

Notwithstanding the sandstorm yesterday, two large crowds greeted Evangelist Truhitte, and he seemed to be at his best both morning and evening. Speaking principally to business men in the morning on the subject, "The Fatal Mistakes of a Business man," the Evangelist pointed out that the greatest friend business men have is Jesus Christ, and urged them to take as their partner this greatest friend. In the evening service the evangelist urged people both business and Christian, to look on the bright side of life and do their best to make the world better by their having lived in it.

This week promises to be the greatest of the campaign. The program for the week includes preaching at the First Baptist church every morning at 10 o'clock, street meeting at 7:00 p. m. on the corner of the Gray County State bank, a class in evangelism in the basement of the church at 7 p. m.; and the evening services at 8 p. m. Everybody invited to attend all or a part of these meetings through the last week of the campaign.

Up to this time a great many have united with the church, and many more have expressed their desire to come into its fellowship. The evangelist will speak from some of the following subjects this week: "Possessing the Land", "The Man Who Refused to Go In", "The Soul Life of Pampa", "Automobile Religion", "Heaven or Hell—Which?", and many other interesting subjects. The big choir led by Mr. Allen is playing

TORNADO

Damage was estimated at a million dollars. A relief train was rushed here from Greenville.

GARLAND, May 9. (AP)—A tornado struck here about 3 o'clock today, doing much damage in the residential section, where eight persons were killed, then roared its way to Nevada.

It struck Dallas, but too high to do much damage.

The Garland dead are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smiley, and 10-year-old daughter. Emma Bridges, 18. Monroe Todd, 35. "Grandma" Nicholson, 78. Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McLead.

MANY DIE IN WEST KANSAS CITY, May 9. (AP)—Tornadoes, rains and hailstorms in the western states Saturday night and Sunday killed at least 18 persons and injured scores. Hundreds have been left homeless.

(By The Associated Press.) DALLAS, May 9.—With the report of six more deaths this afternoon, the total taken by the tornado which struck in this vicinity stands at 32.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stidham and two children were killed near Wolfe City, and Mr. and Mrs. Lackey near Kellogg.

Wind blowing between 40 and 50 miles an hour yesterday caused considerable damage about Pampa.

A residence on Francis street, under construction, had a newly built front porch blown down and several piles of material scattered. A number of tents and shacks on the south side suffered considerably.

Very little damage was reported from the oil field. Some roofs were blown from store houses at the south field, but no serious damage reported.
