SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A judge has granted a $30,000 bond to a former high school basketball player who already has served three months in jail on an aggravated assault charge.

A district judge granted the bond to former South San Antonio High School basketball player Tony Limon while his lawyers appeal the case.

Limon, 18, was sentenced to five years in prison for elbowing East Central guard Brent Holmes in the face, knocking him to the ground and breaking his nose.

County gets $3.8 million state grant for courthouse restoration

By NANCY YOUNG Managing Editor

Gray County is Number One! Named to receive $3.8 million in grant money, Gray County is the recipient of the largest amount of grant monies awarded last week.

The Texas Historic Courthouse Preservation Program announced the 19 winners at the quarterly THC commission meeting. Matching grants total-ing more than $42 million were award to 19 counties to restore and preserve their historic county courthouses.

Gray County Courthouse was the youngest courthouse of the top 19 to receive a grant. Most of the Texas courthouses receiving grant awards were built before 1900. Only three of the county structures were built after the turn of the century.

County Judge Richard Peet was surprised the local county ranked so highly in the distribution of the state funds. Hoping Gray County would be a winner, he flew to Austin to be at the meeting for the Thursday THC announcement. However, due to a delayed flight, the disappointed county judge did not arrive in time for the award announce-

He said 74 counties submitted master plans for the grant program, and 58 were approved for the application process of the program in Round I.

Architexas, an architectural planning and historic preservation firm, was hired by the county commission several months ago to follow in the preservation of the 70-year-old structure.

Following an inspection of the facility by the architects, Jay Firsching and Larry Irsik, recommendations of new wiring as well as mechanical and plumbing improvements were at the top of the list of items given to the commission.

One recommendation is that courthouse offices be relocated during the period of time to make the improvements in wiring, mechanical and plumbing. Plumbing replacements are needed to meet the American Disabilities Act requirements, said the architects.

Peet said he has spoken with PISD Superintendent Dr. Dawson Orr about the possibility of courthouse staff using the now-empty Baker School. He also said the building formerly utilized by Clarendon College was also a possibility.

"If the courthouse employees are out of the building the work (See GRANT, Page 2)

Architects are recommending the trees in front of the courthouse be replaced with more appropriate landscaping so the view of the building is not blocked.

Jim Bennett with Pampa's Sanitation Department said the program is based upon one begun by the City of Corpus Christi.

Just prior to the annual influx of college students for the annual Spring Break to the coastal city a couple of months ago, Corpus Christi held the buy-back program to allow local residents to get rid of unsightly items.

Paying cash-for-trash was deemed very successful in Corpus Christi, and several other communities across the state are getting in on the program to pay cash-for-trash, said Bennett.

The City of Dumas and Moore County are also planning to offer the program to their citizenry.

Bennett said local officials are hoping the program will give an incentive to local residents to stop putting items in alleys. "We are trying to eliminate the illegal dumping, too," he said.

Cash For Trash is designed to pay citizens for properly disposing of large waste items, such as mattresses, items of furniture, large pieces of carpeting, appliances, plumbing fixtures and the list goes on.

Local residents, as well as several groupsneighborhood, school, youth and civic— are encouraged to take full advantage of this financial incentive while contributing to an enhanced quali-

Cash for Trash is a community-oriented program that not only will help to improve efficiency with solid waste collection, but also is intended to cultivate new and lasting disposal habits among local residents.

WasteCo, Solid Waste Services, has agreed to donate the use of roll-off containers to be placed adjacent to the city landfill office for use during this event. Vehicles with small loads will not have to drive over to the landfill area.

Citizens will receive one to five dollars on each eligible waste item, payable upon disposal at the city landfill. There is no limit on the number of visits, or the amount of eligible buy-back items per customer during the scheduled event.

Pampa's goal for this program is to promote a clean city—philosophy.

Included as acceptable items to dispose of in the Cash For Trash program are appliances. The following is a schedule of appliances and prices which will be paid: dishwasher, $3; microwaves, $1; refrigerator, $5; stoves/ranges, $5; water heaters (all types), $2; washer/dryer, $3; and televisions,

Acceptable furniture items are: book cases. $2: chairs, $2; chest of drawers, $3; couches, $5; lawn furniture, $5; tables/chairs, $3; mattresses/box springs, $5; carpeting— 9 x 12, $5; 6 x 9 and 9 x 12, 4; and 6 x 9, $2

Plumbing fixtures which will be accepted are bath tub, $5; sink, $2; and toilet, $3.

Miscellaneous items which will be accepted are children's tricycle, $1; standard adult bicycle, $2; camper shell, $5; dog house, $2; and playscape (swing set), $5. Only the listed items will be purchased by the city under the Cash for Trash buy-back program. No credit will be given for other items.

No limit is placed upon the number of visits, or the amount of eligible buy-back items per customer during the scheduled event.

Commercial waste will not be accepted as a buyback item. Commercial items also will not be accepted.

Automobile tires will not be accepted free in the Cash for Trash program as there will be a charge to residents bringing tires to the landfill. The gate attendant will quote prices at the landfill office. The program is sponsored by the City of Pampa Sanitation Department. Additional information on the project may be obtained by contacting that department at 669-5840.

Ruling: City must give records to newspaper

ordered Georgetown officials to give the Austin American-Statesman an attachment to the selfevaluation of its former city manager.

The report is a structural assessment of the city's Dove Springs Wastewater Treatment Plant. Controversy of the plant was one reason the former city manager left the city in January.

Former city manager Bob Hart wrote in his selfevaluation, which was released earlier, that the treatment plant issue had damaged his relationship with the mayor and some council members. Attorneys for the city argued the assessment was AUSTIN (AP) — A Travis County judge has commissioned, in part, to bolster the city's defense in a pair of lawsuits. Releasing it, they said, violated attorney-client confidentiality.

Judge Suzanne Covington sided with lawyers for the newspaper and the attorney general's office and ordered the city on Thursday to release the report, the American-Statesman reported.

Randall Terrell, a lawyer for the newspaper, said the case is another victory for open government. "This vindicates that the Texas Legislature has decided that the routine concerns of civil litigation takes second place to the public's ability and right to know what its government is doing," he said.

Big Game jackpot largest in U.S. history

ATLANTA (AP) — The millions of lottery players who lined up at convenience stores, drove across state lines and joined office pools for a shot at instant riches in the $230 million Big Game jackpot will have yet another chance to do it all again.

No ticket matched all five numbers plus the Big Money Ball in Friday's drawing, so the sum grew to a record $300 million for the next drawing on May

"It's the largest jackpot in U.S. history," said Parquita Nassau, of the Georgia Lottery.

The numbers drawn Friday were: 6-8-16-30-32 and Big Money Ball 26. The odds of getting all six winning numbers were one in more than 76 mil-

Forty-three second-prize winners did win $150,000. Three hundred fifty-five players matched four of the five lotto numbers, plus the Big Money Ball number. Those tickets are each worth $5,000.

The seven-state Big Game is played in Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey and Virginia.

GRANT can be done much quicker and save money," said

Peet. "Then possibly we can use money on some other project in the courthouse restoration. Reworking heating and cooling systems and asbestos abatement were also included in the recommendations as well a duct repair in the county and district clerks' offices.

Irsik said there is a need for improving the landscape around the county courthouse, stating the Cedar trees are not a good species. He also said the building cannot be seen due to the location of the trees and recommended replacement of the trees with a more appropriate species placed in appro-priate places. Judge Peet echoed Irsik's suggestions about changing the landscape.

Peet said he would like to see the parking lots on the north and south of the courthouse removed and landscaped, adding the landscaping will probably be at the last of the improvements due to availability of monies for the needs of the building.

"Receiving this grant is great for the past and present, and very important for the future," said Peet. Peet said when bids are sought on the various projects, he would encourage the use of as many local contractors as possible. "It can't do anything but help Pampa and Gray County," said Peet. "If the money is spent locally, it will just improve our economy. The judge said he has spoken with the architectural firm and the architects will be in Pampa next week to meet with Peet. He said he and the architects will go through the Master Plan and prioritize the recommendations. The state has recommended the final plan be in by Oct. 1, but the architects feel it may be Jan. 1, 2001, before it can be completed.

Installation of fire stairs on the exterior of the building, replacement of the building's roof, cut down on number of break rooms by having a central break room, fire alarm detection system, graphic signage and placing Braille in the elevator were among the numerous recommendations to the county commission.

One of the grant requirements is that the county contribute 15 percent of the costs. Peet said the county has $430,00 set aside in Tex Pool. Peet said he felt one of the factors in Pampa being so successful in receiving such a large grant was because his secretary, Sandra Martin, attended a meeting in Austin two weeks ago concerning the grants when he had a prior commitment. He said she learned at that time Gray County was at the bottom of the list because the committee said not enough letters of support had been written from Gray County and reportedly some changes had been made in the structure without notifying the state. He said they were able to act upon both of the matters and make corrections.

Peet said his secretary has worked on the project from the beginning and should be recognized for her efforts.

He also said Darlene Birkes, Anne Davidson and Thelma Bray had made large contributions to the Peet said the grant selection would probably be on the agenda of the Gray County Commission as an informational item when the commission holds their next meeting on May 15.

Counties who were also announced as winners by the THC were Hopkins, built, 1895, $3,663,661; Ellis, 1897, $3,567,787; Red River, 1885, $3,472,614; Milam, 1892, $2,902,492; Donley, 1891, $2,891,408; Llano, 1892, $2,861,835; Bexar, 1897, $2,829,816; Atascosa, 1913, $2,650,138; Lampasas, 1884, $2,355,422; Lee, 1899, $2,339,835; Presidio, 1887, 1887, $2,191,230; Erath, 1892, $1,835,619; Shackelford, 1884, $1,765,440; Grimes, 1894, $1,547,748; Sutton, 1891, $998, 342; Wharton, 1889, $250,000; Rains, 1909, $250,000; and Maverick,

The judge said the top four winners were represented by Architexas. "I think this speaks very highly of the architectural firm Gray County Commission chose," said Peet.

Summing up his feelings about receiving the $3.8 million grant, he said, "This is a tremendous feather in the cap of Gray County."

Mothers are a tough bunch. If you don't believe it go to work for a newspaper and you'll hear from them.

Things like messing up the spelling of some kind of fancy lace on a wedding dress will get you a telephone call and maybe a blessing out. Accidentally crop out some cheerleader from a picture and there will be heck to pay. (You can go to the bank on that one)

Actually, I understand the upset, I just can do without getting yelled at about it. And I am sorry and I do want to fix it. We'll run the picture or story over, run a correction or whatev-

Contrary to what some mothers think, there was no Communist plot to mess up whatever about the placement of a story that her child's wasn't right. We don't like to make mistakes and we are happy to set the record straight.

who gets arrested. Period. If you work at The Pampa News and get arrested, your name goes in the paper. If you are the Pope and get arrested here your name goes in.

And, if someone gets arrested only to be found not guilty or have the charges dropped later, I want to run that on the front page. It's only fair no matter on what page the arrest

Recently when a mad mother called to ask name appeared in I ran down a list of Journalism 101 reasons as to why. She said my opinion ... well, I can't really use the word. It's not a curse word but it's not nice, either. She said it at least three times ... like I didn't hear the first time.

Where a story goes can vary for a number of reasons. It can be something of an unusual nature. It can be something that everyone is talking about. It can be something that in the editor's judgement people need to know about. It can involve prominent people and so on. What's news in Pampa most likely wouldn't be news in Dallas but this ain't Dallas.

Also, frankly, the play of the news of the day can determine placement. On a slow news day My deal is simple. We run everyone's name a story that on another day might go inside, will get play on page one. That's just how it is. Like it or not.

Today in history

I wish I could find the article I read a few weeks back about a town in New England where a petition was circulating asking that the town's selectmen pass a law stopping the local paper from running the police blotter.

It was rumored the petition was originated by teenagers who didn't want their names to show up in the paper. Whoever started the petition obviously had not heard of the First Amendment. But beyond that, a community newspaper is supposed to be a mirror of the community and we try to be that and let the chips fall where they may. And if grandmother is going to have a heart attack if your name shows up on the arrest list, I suggest you misplace grandmother's paper that day. Or better yet, don't get arrested in the first place.

Back to the New England situation. One mother interviewed said she hopes the paper will keep running all the names of arrested persons, including non-minor teenagers. She said if a teen got arrested for DWI, she wanted to know. Her point of view was interesting.

After all, she said, it might be one of her children's friends and she couldn't rely on her children to spill the beans.

"It could be someone they ride with ... and I vant to know those things," she said.

But no matter if you are one of the mad mothers who have called me over the years and helped to thicken my skin, if you are one of the nice mothers who have called and made me happy to help or a mother who never called a newspaper I wish you a Happy Mother's Day.

... Your job isn't easy and I salute you.

Gun-control laws aren't the answer

Over the past month or so, I've heard from a number of people who are concerned about gun control and some of the new laws the Clinton Administration is proposing in this area. I share these

I also believe that a focus on gun control distracts attention from the deeper causes of many of our problems — problems involving crime, the family and teaching children right from wrong. Therefore, we should look to other measures — perhaps within the government, but also within our families, churches and cultural institutions for answers.

The recent school shootings and other tragedies find us all looking for ways to prevent anything like this from happening again. I don't know the full answer, and I don't believe anyone else does either. But I do believe the problem is much deeper and more complex than many of the proposals being discussed contem-

I have opposed gun control proposals, in part because I do not think gun control works to keep guns out of the hands of criminals. According to the U.S.

Department of Justice, 93 percent of guns used by criminals are stolen, bought on the black market or obtained in other illegal ways. The Second Amendment to the Constitution establishes a citizen's right to keep and bear arms. I think it is wrong to restrict the self-defense rights of law-abiding citizens in support of a questionable policy.

I also believe that a focus on gun control distracts attention from the deeper causes of many of our problems — problems involving crime, the family and teaching children right from wrong. Therefore, we should look to other measures — perhaps within the government, but also within our families, churches and cultural institutions — for answers.

This may not be as simple as passing a new law to restrict gun ownership. But in the long run, it will make a far bigger difference for our nation.

Tyranny: The politics of conquest

Brutal as it might be, there has been a beneficial side to conquest, particularly to future generations of conquered people.

You might think that's awful to say, but think about where England might be had it not been conquered by the Roman Empire. Why? The British were, as Julius Caesar said, "barbarians." The Romans through conquest, starting 55 B.C., brought a far superior culture, education and skills to England. Romans also brought superior road construction, military tactics and agricultural methods.

Four centuries later, when the Romans left, England suffered temporary retrogression. In 1066, the Normans invaded England. Again, England benefited by imports from a superior culture. As a result of skills gained by being a "victim" of conquest, England became the world's most powerful nation — so much so that it became possible to say, "The sun never sets on the British Empire." Other peoples have benefited from conquest. Conquest and colonization surely brought suffering to sub-Saharan Africans. But the importation of European institutions, skills and tools brought benefits, just as the Roman conquest earlier brought benefits to England. Europeans introduced plows, wheeled vehicles, medicine, railroads, written language, and law and order, as well as other fundamental tools of more advanced societies.

Professor Thomas Sowell points out in his book "Conquest and Cultures" that, in addition to improvements in living standards directly attributable to Europeans, the cessation of tribal warfare as a result of domination meant that not only would whites seize and bring vast amounts of land in countries like Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe) under cultivation, but Africans cultivated more land as well. Law and order also meant that Lebanese and Indians would migrate to Africa, bringing their economic skills.

Under colonialism, and for a brief period after independence, sub-Saharan Africa was self-sufficient in food. Today, Africa is a mass importer of food. According to the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 19 African countries - like Burundi, Niger, Somalia, Tanzania and Uganda — are on the brink of starvation, or euphemistically put, "facing exceptional food emergencies." Not on the list are Zimbabwe and South Africa, but in a few years they will be. You might wonder why.

Let's look at it. In an attempt to stay in power, Zimbabwe's the tyrant that matters.

take land from white farmers. Blacks are not only taking land but raping, shooting and intimidating white farmers. In the wake of increasing violence, and government complicity, the Commercial Farmers Union has warned 6,000 white families to evacuate their farms as fast as they can and go to "safe" areas. Down the road, many Zimbabwean whites will conclude that the only really safe area is another country. Whites in South Africa will reach the same con-

What's going on in Zimbabwe is part of what has been a general pattern in Africa and elsewhere: The most productive people are forced to flee. Not only do white Africans flee, but the most productive black Africans flee, as well. Black Africans do well when they come to the United States and Europe, while their brethren at home perish.

Guess what makes it possible for African leaders to keep their people in misery? It's foreign aid, and IMF and World Bank loans that make resources available to corrupt leaders so they can buy cronies, maintain a military and stay in power. Instead of members of America's black leadership marching and worrying about the Confederate flag, they might use that energy and resources to march on Africa's embassies just as they marched on the South African Embassy during the 1980s - but maybe for America's black leadership it's only the color of

We need to revive the aristocracy of merit

It is time to revive the Jeffersonian idea of an aristocracy of meat before the last vestige of American freedom drowns in the cesspool of egalitarianism.

When I was boy, people were not shy about saying of someone who neglected or abused his family that such a person was "sorry and no good." And they were not shy about saying it to the sorry-and-no-good person's face. They did not stoop to treat a sorry-and-no-good person the same as they treated a fine-and-good

To do this is to betray the fine-and-good person. Our handshake and smile should be reserved for those people whose virtue earns it. If the handshake and smile are offered to people whose behavior is less than virtuous, then they are debased and degraded.

Of what value is our approval if we grant it freely to every bum, slut, ignoramus, liar and criminal that we meet. We become no better than a courtier who smiles at and flatters everyone in sight. Some people don't deserve a smile, only a cold and formal address

It is not enough to acknowledge the virtuous by our approval; we must also acknowledge the bad by our disapproval.

Americans ought to be able to tell the difference between a communist and libertarian, between a dissolute person and a moral person, between a responsible person and an irresponsible person. But to do that, Americans must have standards, and apparently govern-ment schools and the media are working diligently to make sure they don't develop any standards.

Americans ought to be able to tell the difference between literature and hack work, between art and trash, between great people and mediocrity. At one time, they could, but of late, people seem increasingly unable to form only one virtue, and that is tolerance.

Had a treasure and didn't know it

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A small college in upstate New York had been sitting on a treasure for more than 40 years and didn't know it.

A painting that hung with little attention in a dormitory lounge at Russell Sage College sold this week for $335,750.

The work, "Pensive Mood," painted in 1919 by British artist John William Godward, was auctioned at Sotheby's in New York City to an unidentified American private collector.

The piece depicts a young woman dressed in a golden shawl and Roman costume as she rests against a marble wall. It had been bequeathed by local businessman Elmer Schacht in 1957, but its value was overlooked by school officials until a recent appraisal.

College officials say they'll use the money to renovate and expand the school's fine arts center named after the painting's donor.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Betty Lou Doss was teed off, so to speak. That's no excuse for robbing a post office customer using a golf club as a weapon, a judge has decided.

She reached through the shattered window to unlock the door, then threatened a female customer and clerk with her club. Police said she took the customer's purse as she fled.

Attack of the fowlest degree SONOMA, Calif. (AP) — Bye bye birdies.

A dozen boisterous roosters got booted this week from Sonoma Plaza after the rancorous fowls attacked at least five children. And the City Council has voted to move the rest of the birds out of the park next week.

"Sonoma has survived with chickens and without chickens," Mayor Larry Barnett said. "It will be the same lovely town either way."

The hens and cocks will be taken to a ranch near Sonoma, city officials said.

The parents of at least two children allegedly attacked by the birds have lodged official protests with the city.

Nikki and Robert Austen say their 3-year-old son was pecked or clawed on the face, ear and neck. Monica Garcia, 24, complained that her 16month-old son was pecked in the forehead, ear, neck and back.

"This has got to stop because innocent children are being attacked," Garcia said.

Doctors told to pay more attention to higher blood pressure number

WASHINGTON (AP) - Many doctors are failpressure because they still believe the top number ication. in a person's blood pressure reading is less But another reason: For decades, doctors important than the lower figure, the National thought diastolic pressure was the only important Institutes of Health says.

In an advisory to physicians Thursday, the federal health officials said a high systolic reading is a major underemphasized threat, particularly for Medical Center. older people, even if their diastolic pressure, the bottom number, is normal.

"Unfortunately, many physicians have not yet ... become aggressive in treating such patients," said Dr. Daniel Levy, director of the National ing Heart, Lung and Blood Institute's massive Framingham Heart Study and co-author of the

An estimated 50 million Americans have high blood pressure, often called the "silent killer" because it may not cause symptoms until the patient has suffered serious damage. It raises the risk of heart attacks, strokes, congestive heart failure, kidney damage, blindness and dementia. Blood pressure is measured as two values. Systolic, the first or top number, is the pressure inside arteries when the heart beats. Diastolic, the last number, is the pressure between beats when Ideal blood pressure is 120 over 80, or lower. High blood pressure is above 140 over 90.

But even if your bottom number is normal or low, you need to get your systolic pressure below 140, said Dr. Daniel W. Jones of the American Heart Association.

Only one-fourth of hypertension sufferers have their condition adequately controlled. Inadequate control of systolic pressure is the biggest problem, says the NIH advisory, which updates previous federal hypertension guidelines and marks the start of an Internet-run education campaign for doctors and consumers.

The address: http://www.nhlbi.nih.gov.

Millions don't know they have high blood presing to adequately treat patients with high blood sure. Others don't properly take their daily med-

But usually both numbers rise or — most common after age 60 — just the systolic pressure is high while the diastolic is normal or even falls, says Thursday's advisory by the NIH heart insti-

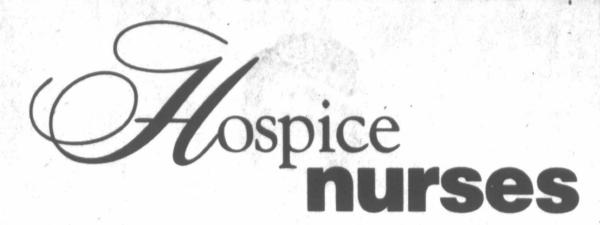

So if your pressure is, say, 170 over 70, that's called "isolated systolic hypertension" and it needs treatment, Levy said.

In one recent study, patients properly treated for isolated systolic hypertension cut their risk of heart failure by more than 50 percent and the risk of stroke and heart attacks by a third. "That's a pretty dramatic lowering of risk," Levy said.

Another example: Say your pressure is 160 over 100, and a first attempt at medication drops it to 148 over 86. Sometimes doctors figure the bottom number is low enough to stop treatment, but "you need to press on until you get the systolic to less than 140," Jones said.

Some people need even more stringent blood pressure control. The NIH advisory recommends that diabetics, who already are at risk for heart disease, keep blood pressure below 130 over 85.

Hypertension treatment is the same regardless of whether the problem is systolic or diastolic or both. Diet and exercise may be enough for some people. Others may need one or more medica-

TDH: Recalls still out there in resale stores

AUSTIN — It can be frustrating when the hand-me-down or thrift shops may not necessarily be safe to use. ■ Branton suggested that consumers check items at home for safety hazards. "You may not remember a specific recall, but you may suspect that an item is not working correctly or may be causing problems. That's when people should stop using items. We hope through education that we can get these products both off store shelves and out of homes," he said.

Unfortunately, according to Branton, these products may eventuhave been recalled, even years earlier.

"Recalled items are hazardous products," said Charles Branton, director of the Product Safety Division at Texas Department of Health. "People, especially children, have been injured or killed using them. But they keep resurfacing." Items such as toys, children's furniture, household appliances, decorative items, clothing, sports equipment or fun-type gadgets may be defective.

On average, one consumer item is recalled every business day of the year. TDH works with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety store shelves while the public is urged to return the item to the store where they were purchased. Branton said that consumers can learn about a recall from:

-The retailer who originally sold the item;

-Notices carried by the media; —The Internet at TDH's website at www.tdh.state.tx.us;

—A subscription to the CPSC Fax-on-Demand Service; and —The manufacturer directly by mail.

"Registration cards that come with a new product are an important way for manufacturers to keep track of buyers and let them know about any recall," Branton said.

More difficult to track are recalled items after they are in use.

ally be resold by unwary consumers — again and again — to thrift stores or at flea markets and garage sales. Many small resale shops do not get the information on recalled products directly from the manufacturer, so TDH's product safety inspectors work year round with shop owners and managers to keep them informed about items that are dangerous and have been recalled. "One week a year, during Recall Round-Up, we make a special effort to raise the awareness of resale shop owners and managers,

Branton said. This year, the round-up was in April. "The Round-Commission to handle about 300 recalls of defective or dangerous. Up also serves to remind the public to be safety conscious. If products annually. When a recall is first issued, the item comes off recalled products are still in use anywhere, they are still dangerous," he said. This year's focus is on items such as infant car seats, swimming pool dive sticks, television carts, cribs, play yards, halogen torchiere floor lamps, cedar chests, infant swings, toy basketball nets, bunk beds, hair dryers and old chest freezers with heavy lids that latch. Hazards range from falls, strangulation, entrapment and suffocation to fires, burns and electrocution.

Branton suggested that consumers check items at home for safety hazards. "You may not remember a specific recall, but you may suspect that an item is not working correctly or may be causing problems. That's when people should stop using items. We hope through education that we can get these products both off store shelves and out of homes," he said.

For help identifying recalled products or to report an unsafe consumer product or product-related injury, contact the TDH Product Safety Division at (512) 834-6773 or visit the TDH website at www.tdh.state.tx.us under Toy/Child Product Safety.

Information also is available from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free hotline at 1-800-638-2772, on the CPSC website at www.cpsc.gov or by fax 24 hours a day by subscription. Fax-on-Demand Service may be ordered by calling (301) 504-0051. Information for the hearing impaired is available at 1-800-638-8720. Consumers also can report product hazards to info@cpsc.gov. For a list of major recalls, send a postcard to Recall List, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC

If an item is recalled, consumers should stop using it immediately and return it to the store where it was purchased for either repair or replacement.

People in Miami resorted to mob-like activities

Apparently, Dee Dee Laramore was not able to watch, as I did, almost all the developments in the Elian Gonzales saga. If she had, she would not be blaming the U.S. government for the manner in which this little boy was extricated from his Miami relatives' home in which he was being held hostage. The Miami relatives had ample time and opportunity to return this child to the only one that has custody (legal) of him — his father! No one, not I, you or anyone else, has any right to keep a child from its surviving parent just because we are mad at Fidel Castro or

Why should a 6-year-old be kept from its parent based on purely political reasoning?

And not every parent in this world is willing to let their children live in a foreign country, perhaps never to see them or discharge their parental responsibilities and love.

The U.S. government acted on its responsibility to reunite this child with his father when the Miami relatives balked at turning him over. The mayor of Miami threatened the U.S. government not to expect help from its police force if and when anyone came to retrieve Elian.

Elian's female cousin echoed threats as did his uncle and those in the crowd in front of the house. Republican politicians on Capitol Hill didn't help matters by siding with Elian's relatives. To me, it became clear that the Miami relatives were exploiting Elian. No one in the home is working. His cousin was until TV cam-has his driving license suspended due to DWIs, it's been reported. The Miami relatives of Elian without a doubt cared for him and wanted to help him. But everything was to be on their terms where it concerned Elian's return to his father. The hatred of Castro is no excuse for mob violence and threats being made by those in Miami against U.S. laws and their enforce-

Postal Service to discontinue cancer stamp

The United States Postal Service recently announced it will discontinue its Breast Cancer Research Stamp July 29. This first-ever postage stamp issued to raise money for breast cancer research - was introduced in July 1998. The stamp's purpose is to encourage volun-tary support of medical research for breast cancer and sells for 40cents with 7-cents per stamp donated to breast cancer research, according to Amarillo Postmaster Dave Sanderson.

To date, the Postal Service has raised $10.9 million in an attempt to fund research for the devastating disease that threatens the lives of thousands of women (and men) each year.

From now until May 19, the Postal Service will participate in a nationwide promotion to raise awareness of the Breast Cancer Research Stamp by promoting a Mother's Day campaign. The effort is designed to motivate Americans to purchase the stamps to give as a gift or for the use of mailing Mother's Day cards.

For more information, call Martha Jordan, U.S. Postal Service, 468-1611.

"In a word, the outlook for agriculture this year is terrible," said Bruce L. Gardner, an agriculture economist with the University of Maryland and former assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Looking at two of the main sectors of farming in the state — grain and dairy — the prices are low, and I don't see any real, solid event on the horizon that would give farmers confidence that they will improve," Gardner said.

Despite the poor outlook, farmers are going ahead with plans to maintain crop levels, a trend that will result in a low price, he said.

Poland meeting up with Texas cuisine

This spring, Poland's food service industry will order a wider variety of underutilized U.S. beef cuts than ever before thanks to a four-way beef marketing partnership partly funded by beef checkoff dollars.

Joining forces to promote U.S. beef exports to Poland this spring were the U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF), the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA), the Texas Beef Council (TBC) and Elkopol, Poland's primary U.S. beef importing company.

The partnership conducted U.S. beef trainings for Poland's food service trade from March 28-April 4 in five Polish cities-Warsaw, Gdansk, Wroclaw, Poznan and Krakow. Overall, the trainings taught 280 Eastern European chefs how to prepare U.S. brisket, short ribs, chuck-eye roll, steamship round and other cuts.

The focus was on teaching the food service trade how to prepare these cuts using Texas cuisine methods. Texas cuisine involves cooking large pieces of underutilized beef cuts such as brisket for long periods of time over low heat. This process makes these cuts tender and deli-

How successful these muscle meats become in Poland relies on whether Polish food professionals can handle and prepare U.S. beef properly. That's why USMEF, TDA TBC, and Elkopol con-

"Poland has the strongest economy in Central and Eastern Europe," said beef producer Jon Means of Van Horn, chairman of TBC's export market development committee." The Polish people now want to spend additional income to improve their diet. That makes this the ideal time for USMEF, TDA and TBC to join forces and teach Poland's food service industry how to prepare these cuts.'

USMEF and TBC provided export development activities funds for this program through the beef checkoff program. Additional funds came from the Go Texan Partnership Program (GOTEPP) administered by TDA. Elkopol also provided financial assistance.

OSU plans $3 million low odor hog research facility

WARNER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State University officials say a planned high-tech, $3 million hog research facility won't smell - at least for the project. He said he thinks construction not much.

"We have a very high confidence level that the center can do what we say it will do, which is remove 90 percent of the odors that commonly come with high concentrations of hogs," said Monty Karns, OSU facilities engineer.

Karns said the 800-hog OSU Swine Teaching and Research Center will use microbe remediation and 'biofilters" made of hay to eliminate most offensive odors coming from the center.

"When it's complete, there won't be anything else like it in the world," Karns said. "It will contain the latest features in odor elimination and groundwater protection."

The center borrows stench-control technology from the University of Minnesota and Iowa State University, Karns said.

Bill Barfield, head of OSU's biosystems and agricultural engineering department, said the building will be so odor-free that most people won't even know it's there.

In a few weeks, the university is expected to seek bids for the experimental facility, said Harry Birdwell, vice president of business and external

From there, Birdwell said he plans to get permission from OSU regents in June to pick a contractor could begin in August and finished a year later.

OSU officials agreed to move their 90-year-old swine operation in February 1999 after complaints about its smell from real estate agents and city officials in Stillwater. The school's current swine barn is west of town, next to a motel.

School officials had considered simply doing odor-control projects on the current facility but dropped that idea.

The proposed facility would be about a mile north and a mile west of the existing one - well away from retail and residential areas, said OSU spokeswoman Natalea Watkins.

The facility would provide instruction, research and ongoing odor-control development.

Dennis Howard, an OSU regent and commissioner of the state Agriculture Department, said the center will be the next generation of swine facili-

"In the future, I predict this is the kind of facility that the Environmental Protection Agency is going to require corporate hog operations to build, Howard said. "The EPA is going to say that municipalities have done it to eliminate odors from city sewage systems. So can the hog industry."

HOUSTON — The two women were taking the Lord's work to the streets, handing out mint-flavored condoms and offering tests for the AIDS virus to anyone who paused to listen.

They roved the low-rent apartment complexes of south Houston, preaching the dangers of unprotected sex to unemployed men and single mothers lingering in stairwells and doorways.

"Excuse me!" sang out Krystal McAlister, 21, without a twinge of shyness. "Excuse me! Y'all want any free

McAlister and Reader White, 28, cajoled, joked and made smart-aleck remarks until the cautious faces brightened and residents accepted packets of condoms with a word of thanks. While many congregations avoid the topic of AIDS— or condemn it as the fruits of sin— the faithful at New Bethlehem Missionary Baptist Church attack the problem with zeal. They are spurred by disheartening statistics that show AIDS is taking its heaviest toll in predominantly black neighborhoods like theirs.

African-Americans now make up 60 percent of the 1,177 reported HIV cases in Harris County. AIDS is now the nation's top killer of black men and women ages 25-

"I may not be like other pastors in the neighborhood," said the Rev. Melvin Lewis Sr., pastor of New Bethlehem. "But I tell you what, God is doing his work here!"

Lewis was moved to join the fray by the death of several friends from AIDS in the late 1980s. Other tragic deaths have spurred him on since that time, such as that of a young woman whose orphaned children were sent into foster care.

In 1993, he founded The B.L.O.C.K., an acronym for "Building Lives and Offering Community Knowledge." He enlisted the help of McAlister and White and his son Melvin Jr. for outreach work; his niece Tamika, to be in charge of grant-writing; Joanne Craig, program director, and Shirley Johnson, administrator of an assistance program that helps people find housing and pay bills.

Today, the ambitious effort includes distribution of thousands of condoms, assistance in obtaining social services and widespread HIV testing. An oral HIV test designed to detect HIV antibodies in the cheek cells has made it possible to offer on-the-spot screening and give Spanish Trail and Almeda-Genoa. made it possible to offer on-the-spot screening and give results a week later.

The B.L.O.C.K.'s prime coverage area includes Sunnyside and South Park, chronically underserved communities located south of downtown and east of

Last year, The B.L.O.C.K. performed 800 to 1,000 HIV tests. Craig estimates that about a fourth of those were

'There's some major denial around here," said Johnson, a 26-year-old mother of two who was infected with HIV eight years ago while a student at San Jacinto Junior College. "They don't think it's gonna happen to them. There's a lot of unprotected sex going on, and they

Funding and supplies are cobbled together from a variety of sources: HIV drug manufacturer Bristol-Myers Squibb, Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, the Brown Foundation and the Houston Endowment. The Houston Department of Health and Human Services is assisting through a program that helps fledgling organizations get the experience they need to win grant money.

"He has, very quietly from behind the scenes, been making a tremendous impact," said Sara Speer Selber, executive director of AIDS Foundation Houston. "Sometimes it's frustrating to hear 'nothing is being done in the African-American community because it negates the efforts of men like Melvin Lewis, who found whatever resources he could to fill that void in his community."

Lewis, a Baptist minister for 27 years, is something of an anomaly. Just inside the front door of his church, a cavemous, unfinished metal building at 12707 Cullen, is a Texas Department of Health poster for an anonymous AIDS information line.

Many preachers stay far away from the subject of HIV and the factors that contribute to its spread, such as unprotected sex, multiple sex partners, male-to-male sex and intravenous drug use. It's often easier to preach the virtues of abstinence until marriage, rather than the use

But Lewis, 49, believes "all things people do can be addressed from the pulpit.

"The pulpit must be sensitive to all people. There is correction, there's reproof and there is grace for those in captivity, whatever physical habit they may have."

On a recent Sunday, in front of a small congregation made up of all ages, Lewis spoke about the need to "press on" in the face of adversity. Bouncing on the balls of his feet like a boxer, he cried, "When a man presses, he makes an impact! Folks ... have felt The B.L.O.C.K.'s impact!

"If it takes a condom to protect your life, you must use it if you can't abstain!" he thundered from the pulpit. "Can I have a witness here?"

After Sunday school, congregant Vivian Fielder spoke glowingly of Lewis' plain-spoken approach. Fielder, retired from University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center and now a volunteer in patient registration, remembers when the center treated the first scattered

"I was right there when they saw the first men who had AIDS. You wonder what went wrong," she said. "Some people hide because they think it's just a gay disease. Little children now have it. Pastor Lewis just says it

The B.L.O.C.K. operates out of a building at 4310 Mallow in Sunnyside, an incongruously named neigh-

In one way, it resembles a relaxed, rural town. Cows and horses graze in vacant lots. The downtown skyline is hazy and distant to the north. Clapboard churches dot nearly every block. Small businesses with names like Family Liquor and Bud's House of Meats line main thor-

But many residents are locked in a desperate struggle with drugs and poverty. At Sunnyside Elementary School, 89 percent of children live at or below the federal poverty level, according to the Houston Independent School District. "In simple words: the ghetto," said McAlister. "They'd rather sell drugs than work. It's some, you can't say all of them. There's some here that want to get out of here, so they're working."

Craig, who grew up in Sunnyside, said 90 percent of families with two or more children are headed by single women, many of whom engage in sex for money to support their families. The parents who work leave their teen-age children unsupervised and at risk for engaging in sex at an early age, Craig said.
That's why The B.L.O.C.K. supplies a convenience store located across the street from Evan E. Worthing Senior High with free condoms. The condoms are kept in plain sight, in a bowl atop the counter. The store owner calls for a refill every three weeks, as do the participating motels, drug stores and beauty and barber shops in the area.

But it's the opportunity for face-to-face education that McAlister and White seek. Usually, they cover an area on foot, looking for small groups of men and women. Sometimes they ride the bus and educate their captive audience. As they drive from one apartment complex to another, people yell, "There go the condom ladies!"

On a recent foray, they approached a group of five wary-looking young men.

"We're not over here to bother you, we just want to know if y'all want any free condoms," McAlister said.
"When's the last time y'all took an HIV test?"

"We're testing your antibodies, your antibodies to HIV in your cheek cells," she continued, cheerfully offering more information before anyone could interrupt her. "Just like they do with DNA testing. We're not drawing your blood or anything. All this is doing is picking up parts of your cells in your cheek. And it's 99.9 accurate."

"I'll take one!" said an 18-year-old. "I'm scared. (It's) infested out here. I wanna know what's going on. 'Make sure you use those rubbers you have," White

For the most part, McAlister and White are greeted warmly wherever they go. They get recognized in stores. McAlister recalls handing out condoms and performing two HIV tests while she was at the beauty shop getting her hair done.

But not everyone is receptive to their gospel. On a recent outing, one man turned down the condoms and the test, saying he has a wife, and he took an HIV test at the end of a four-year jail term. McAlister has heard every excuse, and has a comeback for each one. "How long were you in jail? You think she waited on you?" McAlister said. "I'm just asking."

"Everybody's gonna die one day," he said.

"Yeah," McAlister replied, "but why make it go

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With a spectacular 7-underpar run in a span of six holes, Blaine McCallister latched onto a share of the lead after the second round of the Compaq Classic.

"When I made the eagle I said, 'Wow!' Shoot three birdies and an eagle on four holes and that kind of gets mind going," McCallister said, "Then I follow it right up with great putt on the next hole. But I was able to stay in the present and not get hung up on what I was shooting.

McCallister birdied Nos. 7-10, eagled the par-5 11th and closed the scoring spree with a birdie on No. 12. The 7under run is the best six-hole streak on the PGA Tour this

Meanwhile, defending champion Carlos Franco caught McCallister with a 5foot birdie putt on the 18th McCallister finished with a 7-under 65 to match Franco at 10-under 134 on the windswept English Turn course. It's the first time since 1993 that McCallister has held or been tied for the lead after 36 holes.

"I've shot some pretty good rounds in my career. I just haven't put enough of them together in awhile," said McCallister, who has won five times on the tour, but not since 1993.

Franco, from Paraguay, had seven birdies for his second straight 67.

"I checked the score all the Franco said. "I watched the leader and knew where he was. Now I am in a very good position. Now I have a good chance."

Franco has mastered the course the past two years. He is a combined 29-under-par in six rounds at English Turn and has yet to post a round in the 70s.

Joel Edwards Australia's Stuart Appleby were a stroke back at 135, and Glen Day, Paul Stankowski, Jay Williamson and Trinidad and Tobago's Stephen Ames followed at 136.

The wind picked up throughout the day, with McCallister and the other early starters facing gusts up to 15 mph and Franco playing in gusts to 25 mph in the afternoon. Thirty-five players broke par in the morning, compared to 17 in the afternoon.

"Every day, the golf course is different, but my game is very confident," said Franço, the 1999 PGA Tour rookie of the year who has four top-10 finishes this year.

Lakers play like champs

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Disaster averted.

The Los Angeles Lakers, dominant during the NBA's regular season, shaky in two games at Arco Arena and one loss shy of embarrassment, played like champions Friday night.

"Oh, we were ready, very focused, came out with a lot of firepower," said Glen Rice, who had 14 points, five rebounds and six assists to help the Lakers trounce the Sacramento Kings 113-86 in the deciding game of the best-of-five playoff series. "We wanted to let them know we meant business."

The Lakers did just that, going on top by double digits a little over nine minutes into the first quarter. It was 31-20 entering the second period and 59-44 at halftime, and the Kings got no closer than 14 points after that.

In another Game 5 Friday night, Utah defeated Seattle 96-93 to advance to the second round against Portland. The Lakers will face Phoenix, with both Western Conference semifinals starting Sunday.

In the East, Philadelphia was at Indiana today in their opener, and Miami will play host to New York on Sunday.

The Kings never trailed the Lakers in winning Game 4 101-88 in Sacramento to force a fifth

"We just came out and played our game," Lakers guard Ron Harper said. "We got into a team flow and rolled on and on and

The Lakers, whose 67 regularseason wins were eight more than anyone else managed and the second-most in franchise history, knew they were on the verge of becoming the biggest upset victims in NBA playoff history. A top-seeded team has lost to an eighth seed only twice.

"We knew if we didn't bring our 'A' game, we were going to make history," said Shaquille O'Neal, who had 32 points and 18 rebounds in 35 minutes. "And we didn't want to make history."

Now, the Lakers face the rested Suns starting Sunday at Staples Center, where Los Angeles has won 20 of its last 21

"I don't care when it had to happen, but I've been talking all year about how we needed a trial by fire," Lakers coach Phil Jackson said. "Certainly, a team has to have that at some point to develop the mettle and grit and to be able to sustain the poise, direction and intensity." Jackson's six championship teams in Chicago all swept their first-round series. This would be no sweep, but it's the Kings going home and the Lakers going on.

"There are no excuses for how we "played," said Kings star Chris Webber, who scored 20 points — more than twice as many as any of his teammates. "It's kind of hard to decipher what happened."

What happened was the normally laid-back Staples Center crowd was probably more vocal than it's been all year, and the Lakers fed off it.

"I don't know if I've seen a crowd in L.A. as alive as this one in a long time," said Jackson, who's taken jabs at the local following on occasion.

Hollandsworth didn't let the opportunity slip away against the Houston Astros. His single through a drawn-in infield with one out in the ninth drove in Alex Cora from third base, giving the Dodgers a 3-2 victory over the three-time defending NL Central champs.

"I'm just going to take hold of this opportunity as much as I can," said Hollandsworth, who has been on the disabled list seven times during his big league career. "Obviously, my job is getting on base and scoring runs.

"I know what I'm supposed to do up there, and I have to just take advantage of the guys I've got behind me - which is probaleague. If I'm getting on, I'm going to be scoring runs. So I'm going to do my best each day to get on base as much as I can and let those guys do their thing."

The crowd of 45,428 — many of them with radios tuned in to the Lakers' playoff victory against Sacramento four miles away at Staples Center groaned when Dodgers closer Jeff Shaw (2-0) gave up a gametying solo homer with two outs in the ninth inning for the second time in six games.

This time, the damage was done by Lance Berkman, who was only 1-for-15 this season before driving a 1-0 fastball to right-center for his fifth career homer.

'In a one-run game, he's probably trying to do one thing pull the ball," said Shaw, who was beaten in the same fashion last Saturday night by Florida's bly the best foursome in the Derrick Lee before the Dodgers pulled out a 13-12 victory for him in the bottom of the ninth. # Neighborhood Watch Works!

My hand was on the doorknob, For the door was closed that day;

I wondered who had closed it?

Then I heard my father say ... "Oh Lord, bless all my children, And help me day by day, To be the kind of father That will never want to stray." My heart was overflowing As I heard his pleas that day. Those moments were so precious, For I heard my father pray. My hand slipped from the doorknob, I quietly went and prayed;

We are very grateful for all of the loving kindness that has been bestowed upon us. We are truly blessed to have so many caring people in our lives. Words cannot begin to express what we feel in our hearts. God bless each and every one of you.

I asked God to send more fathers,

Who will close the door and pray.

Teens With Good Information Make Smart Choices About Sex

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to comment on a letter you reprinted from a mother who taught her 13-yearold daughter about sex, sexually transmitted diseases and the various forms of birth control. As a result, perhaps she helped her daughter prevent an unwanted pregnancy or disease. Your response was that "every daughter should have a mother like you!"

I couldn't agree more. I work in the Children's Court in Los Angeles and often deal with the consequences when children, those who are underage and those who may have attained majority but are still immature, have children.

However, I wish you had added that "every son should have a mother like you." When a child is conceived, it has both a mother and a father. When diseases are transmitted, it takes two to accomplish the transmission. Parents of all children should do exactly what "North Dakota Mom" did: Educate their children so that they can make informed choices.

ROSEANN HERMAN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, LOS ANGELES

DEAR ROSEANN: I agree with you that it's vital to educate young people so they can make informed choices. However, not all parents agree with us. I'm sorry to say that I received mail from parents who felt that explaining to the girl about contraception was tantamount to condoning premarital sex. I couldn't disagree more with that philosophy, which I fear is a recipe for disaster. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter in your column about the mother who talked to her 13-year-old daughter about sex. I, too, talked to my daughter, Lucy, about sex - and she listened. I did not want her to place herself in danger of getting a sexually transmitted disease, or of having a baby she was too young and too poor to care

My daughter was in special education all through elementary and high school. Some of our relatives would call her "slow" behind her back, but she listened to me when I talked to her about bad choices when it came to sex.

My daughter is now 29 years old and does not have any children as yet. Out of our family - myself, my sister and two adult nieces - Lucy, "the slow one," is the only one who graduated from high school without

When I became pregnant at 16, I was very ignorant about sexual matters. My mother expected my sister and me to learn what we needed to know from friends. When it was time for me to be examined by a doctor for prenatal treatment, I had no idea I would have to remove my underwear. I can still hear the nurse snapping at me that I was wasting the doctor's time because I hadn't already done so.

My two children suffered because I couldn't get a well-paying job with only a high school diploma and no child support. Parents need to talk to their children about sex and not assume that someone else will do it. Don't leave them in the dark. Not only do their lives depend on it, so does a newborn child's. Neither my son nor my daughter has had children out of wedlock or is dependent on government handouts. SHERRY IN GLENDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR SHERRY: If your letter doesn't convince parents that it's wise to give their children early and thorough sex education, nothing will.

You may have gotten an early start at motherhood, but you are a caring and conscientious parent.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - Prince Charles rejoined a yacht sailing in the Aegean Sea on Gale-force winds and rough seas battering the area since Wednesday abated in the morning, allowing a speedboat to approach the peninsula and take Charles to the waiting yacht.

Charles left Greece later Friday by plane. He had spent two days walking in woodland and touring some of the 20 monasteries in the semiautonomous community, which bans women and even female animals.

Charles arrived in Greece on Monday on a private holiday. He was reportedly traveling with his longtime companion Camilla Parker-Bowles on a yacht of Greek shipping magnate John Latsis.

SEATTLE (AP) — Metallica, Patti Smith, James Brown, Beck, Bo Diddley and Alanis Morissette are booked for a three-day music festival kicking off the opening of Paul Allen's new rock museum.

About half the events are free at the festival, which begins June 23. None of the performances will be in the interactive Experience Music Project museum being built by the Microsoft co-founder at the base of the Space Needle.

The building, with dramatic metal loops and swirls, was designed by architect Frank Gehry.

"You're going to be able to do things in this facility that you're not able to do in any other museum," said Kathy Scanlan, the museum's deputy director, referring to interactive features that will enable visitors to listen, watch and even play along with their favorite musicians.

The museum is expected to open on the first day of the music festival. The lineup was announced Thursday.

MONROE, Ohio (AP) — Hustler publisher Larry Flynt celebrated a victory over pornography opponents by taking part in the groundbreaking for a $1 million boutique that will sell sexually oriented merchandise.

"This is going to be our first superstore outside the state of California," Flynt said Thursday. Others are planned throughout the country, he States, England, Australia and the Netherlands.

Construction of the 7,200-square-foot building should begin next week, with a planned opening Friday after bad weather forced him to spend in early July. Flynt said the store will carry X-rated three days on the all-male enclave of Mount videos, sex toys and other adult merchandise, but videos, sex toys and other adult merchandise, but those sales will not represent a substantial portion of the store's business.

That will allow the store to comply with the town's zoning requirements.

When Flynt bought the site, some residents and religious groups began efforts to keep the store out of the city. But city officials said there was no legal basis to deny the zoning and construction permits

Monroe is a community of 7,000 about 25 miles north of Cincinnati. Flynt and his brother, Jimmy, also have a store in downtown Cincinnati, where Larry Flynt has fought public officials over obscenity laws since the 1970s.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ted Kennedy Jr., who lost a leg to bone cancer at age 12, was among cancer survivors honored by the University of Louisville's James Graham Brown Cancer Center.

The son of Sen. Edward Kennedy, thanked health-care professionals who help cancer victims and tried to encourage the victims themselves.

"They can get through it," he said. Gov. Paul Patton also attended Thursday's event. He expressed appreciation "for the great work being done" by the cancer center and the Kentucky Cancer Program, a state-funded effort that promotes cancer awareness and prevention and supports victims.

HONG KONG (AP) - Kung fu star Jackie Chan will be the first Hong Kong celebrity to be featured in wax when Madame Tussaud comes to

The company is opening a 15,000-square-foot wax museum in August. It will house more than 100 figures, including James Bond star Pierce

Details of the museum will be announced Monday at a news conference by senior Hong Kong government officials.

Madame Tussaud has been in business for more than 200 years, with museums in the United

Foreign automakers get top rankings

DETROIT (AP) - Foreign of the past few years. automakers once again ranked higher than their American counterparts in the annual survey of new car and truck quality by J.D. Power and Associates, while the industry as a whole improved.

Toyota and Honda once again took the top rankings, according to asummary of the report.

Owners of Honda's Acura luxury brand reported the fewest problems — 0.95 for each vehicle while Toyota's Lexus luxury brand was second, with 1.07 problems. Nissan's Infiniti brand was next followed by BMW, Toyota, Porsche and Honda.

The highest ranking American brand was General Motors Corp.'s Buick, with 1.35 problems per vehicle. At the bottom of the list was Korean automaker Kia, with 2.56 problems per vehicle, followed by Suzuki, Daewoo and Hyundai.

J.D. Power surveyed 47,909 new car and truck buyers after three months of ownership. It listed the top three vehicles in each of 14 car and truck categories, from compact car to luxury sport utility vehicle.

The survey found the industry as a whole averaged 1.58 problems per new vehicle in 1999, a 5 percent decrease despite higher production at most automakers. And several new models had fewer quality problems than models they replaced, reversing the trend

Overall, 13 Toyota models were chosen among the highest-rated cars. Honda and General Motors each had six selected, followed by DaimlerChrysler AG, Ford Motor Co. and Nissan with four each. Mazda, Mitsubishi, Porsche and Subaru each had one.

Toyotas that won their categories included the Corolla,

Avalon, Lexus ES 300 and Lexus LS 400 cars, the Tundra pickup, the Land Cruiser and Lexus LX 470 sport utility vehicles and the Sienna minivan. For the fourth year in a row, the Lexus LS 400 was the vehicle with the fewest reported problems, with 0.79 per vehicle. J.D. Power also chose the Camry, RAV4, 4Runner and Lexus GS and RX 300 as runners-up.

WT Speech, Language, Hearing and Voice Clinic offering screenings

CANYON — West Texas A&M University's Speech, Language, Hearing and Voice Clinic offers information to parents, family members or caregivers about possible speech or language delays in children.

Speech and language skills are normally acquired through social interaction and environmental stimulation, according to Trina Harvey-Brown, WTAMU instructor of speech disorders. Through repetition, observation and practice, children learn how to speak, listen, understand and communicate.

"The critical period for language development is from 0-3 years of age and many children are not identified as having a speech or language delay until age 3," Harvey-Brown said. "Because of this, some children miss out on valuable input from speech-language pathologists who could aide in the development of speech and language skills."

Speech-language pathologists are specialists in both speech and language development and its accompanying disorders. They work side by side with the family and the child to develop strategies to solve the communication problems.

"Early detection is the key to successful intervention," Harvey-Brown said. "As a parent, caregiver or family friend, it is important to be aware

DURHAM, N.C. — TIP, the Duke University Talent Identification Program, is sponsoring a series of recognition ceremonies to honor some of the most talented seventh-graders in the United States. This year more than 21,100 students have been invited to attend State Recognition Ceremonies.

TIP sponsors both State Recognition Ceremonies and a Grand Recognition Ceremony, for the very highest scoring students. Students invited to the Grand Recognition Ceremony earned a math or verbal score on the Scholastic Assessment Test or the American College Testing Assessment higher than 90 percent of college-bound high school seniors as part of TIP's 19th annual Talent Search. Of the 87,034 students who participated in the 1999-2000 Talent Search, 1,2887 qualified for this honor. These students also qualify for state recognition.

In addition to the Grand Recognition Ceremony, many Talent Search participants are also honored at ceremonies in their home states. Working with host academic institutions, TIP sponsors 31 different state ceremonies in its 16-state Talent Search region. Speakers at the state ceremonies include university administrators and professors, state and government officials, and more.

Students named to the program include Kendall Wheeler of White Deer.
