Oil Committee Is Unable to Reach Winkler Solution

WILL CONVENE THURSDAY FOR ANOTHER TRY

Existing Contracts Are Chief Obstacles to Early Settlement
 NO UMPIRE IS YET APPOINTED
 All But One of the Group Present; Lack an Agreement

AUSTIN, March 24.—(P)—Committeemen delegated from the recent state oil conference on the "distressed" condition of the industry of Texas to find a cure for the chief ill—the reported over-production and waste in Winkler county—adjourned a fruitless executive session late Saturday to meet again Thursday at Fort Worth.

R. D. Parker, chief of the State Railroad Commission's oil and gas division, chairman of the committee, said it could not agree on a definite program for the new Winkler field and that no "umpire" will be selected to execute remedial measures until some plan of action is adopted. The chief obstacle to an agreement, he indicated, is the existence of contracts for sales of stipulated quantities of the Winkler production.

All but one of the committeemen were present. W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce oil and gas bureau, was ill and could not attend. Others here besides Mr. Parker were W. S. Farris, Houston, president of the Humble Oil & Refining company; E. A. Landreth, Fort Worth, president of the Landreth Production corporation; Underwood Nazro, Houston, president of the Gulf company; Tom E. Cranfill, lawyer, Dallas; R. B. Fringle, Fort Worth, vice-president of the Independent Oil and Gas company.

COLEMAN, March 24.—(P)—Four shallow wells in Coleman county are prepared to drill into the sand early this week in proven areas on which the fate of Coleman county oil development is at stake. The destiny of this "sweet oil" area will in a measure be determined by the outcome of drilling wells now nearing the expected production horizon.

San Angelo Slayer Is Ready to Die

SAN ANGELO, March 24.—(P)—Newton Byrnes, confessed slayer of three women, expressed a desire here today to plead guilty with malice aforethought when he goes to trial Monday.
 He was not joined in this desire by his attorneys, W. A. Anderson and Clyde Vinson, who were appointed to defend him. They said they had no plans to make public, but stated that the formal plea of not guilty entered by Judge J. F. Sutton at the time of Byrnes' arraignment, might remain unchanged.

AMARILLO MAN MAKES ARREST AFTER TRACING TRUNK LOOTING

AMARILLO, March 24.—(P)—Dr. Archie Golstein, said to have twenty or more aliases and now held at Chicago, has been identified as a man wanted in connection with the theft of a trunk containing $56,000 worth of diamonds in Wichita Falls about four months ago, according to a telegraph from Burton, former sheriff of Potter county, who has been in Chicago working on the case.
 Roach said he learned that attempts to substitute a trunk for the trunk containing the jewels were made in Amarillo, but failed, and that the successful substitution, through the switching of checks, was effected in Wichita Falls.

Courthouse One of Busiest Spots in the City—Officials Now Well Settled

With the remodeling of the basement of the Baptist church practically completed, the various offices of the county are fast becoming stabilized and work is progressing without delay since morning into the new quarters.
 During the first week in the new quarters, the county clerks staff handled more than 150 instruments including deeds, mortgages, leases, and other county business, while Deputy Ray Wilson has been kept busy issuing car and truck licenses and according taxes. Three marriage licenses were issued.

W. B. Guthrie, state highway inspector of this territory, which includes 26 counties, was here last week checking up on over-loaded trucks and automobiles driving with 1927 licenses. He finds that trucks and trailers in this county are being overloaded and is checking closely the size of trucks and loads being carried, and making the owners take out additional licenses.
 The staff of the courthouse and those who use it for headquarters in abstract business are:
 County Clerk Charles Thut and his assistants, Miss Sally Jackson, deputy district and county clerk, Miss Louise Miller, deputy county clerk, and Miss Old Gregory, deputy clerk.
 In the tax department Deputy Ray Wilson is assisted by Mrs. Kelly Patterson.
 Judge T. M. Wolfe has moved his office here and is situated in the courthouse.
 The county treasurer, Miss Miriam Wilson, has her office with the county clerk.
 Tax Assessor Ewing Leech is situated in the office of Sheriff F. S. Graves. Sheriff E. S. Graves, has a private office in the new location, while Desk Sergeant, C. E. Pipes and Deputies O. T. Smith, Weldon Wilson, and Scott Rheudial stay in the large office of the sheriff's department. Sheriff Graves is proud of his office, the old one having been too small.
 Others who have rooms in the courthouse are the following abstract firms: Siler Paulkner, and his assistants, Kelly Patterson and C. E. Anderson, and the Plains Abstract company with L. Schwendiner and Mrs. Lloyd Hayhurst.
 The large abstract room is also used by the Gray County Abstract company, operated by P. O. Sanders, assisted by Mrs. P. O. Sanders and Miss Deé Breeding.

FEE SYSTEM ATTACKED IN JURY REPORT

Plan Labeled "Iniquitous by the Travis County Body
 CLOSER AUDITING NOW SUGGESTED
 Texas Law Was Upheld and an Amendment Defeated

AUSTIN, March 24.—(P)—Investigation of the Texas fee system of paying county officers with the idea of abolishing it or applying some strict remedies for ills charges against it was recommended to the next legislative session in a report of the Travis county grand jury Saturday.

The report was returned by Hal H. Sevier, local capitalist and former New York newspaperman.
 It was assumed here that the recommendation was at least partly inspired from same state source, since the report gave Travis county a "clean bill of health" as to fee system abuses, but charged the existence of such abuses in other sections of the state.

Workings of the fee system were described as "iniquitous and pernicious" and was charged that "exorbitant claims" costing the taxpayers thousands of dollars are submitted yearly to the state comptroller by county officers paid through fees.
 The grand jury urged that the whole system be abolished or that a state auditing system be provided to handle claims for fees and see that the law regulating them be strictly observed.

A constitutional amendment to abolish the fee system was rejected overwhelmingly by the state's voters last August. The system was upheld as constitutional by the Court of Criminal Appeals recently in affirming a county court fine in connection with which the county judge received a fee. This "pecuniary interest" of the judge was the basis of an attack on the constitutionality of the law under a federal supreme court decision invalidating a municipal fee system. The Texas court found a substantial difference in the operation and individual effect of the Ohio and Texas systems, however.

Shot Fired Into Chicken House Is Fatal to Youth

CORSICANA, March 24.—(P)—Richard Fields, 18, was shot, probably fatally, here tonight when T. A. Keys fired into his chicken yard. A companion of Fields, who escaped, also is believed to have been hit.
 All of Keys' chickens were stolen several weeks ago. He obtained another flock and tonight when he heard a disturbance in the yard, let go with a shot gun.

 The body was found by two Boy Scouts who were camping upon the river bank. There were no marks on the body that would indicate foul

Joe Bowers Sells Farm When Oil Crowds Him Out

Joe Bowers, on whose property the famous oil pool in the South Pampa field was discovered, sold his farm stock and implements at public auction last Thursday, stating as his reason that increased drilling activities and the erection of the large Texas Elf Carbon company's carbon black plant on his lease has taken up most of his grazing lands as well as his fields.
 The sale was well attended and good prices were paid for both stock and implements.

OFFICIALS OF ROAD COMING

Santa Fe Committee to Stop Here This Afternoon
 F. J. MacKie, superintendent of the Panhandle-Plains division of the Santa Fe railway, and 50 officials of the system will arrive here this afternoon at 3 o'clock and will look over the city and make a trip to the Bowers pool of the South Pampa field. They will leave here on the afternoon train for Amarillo.

A delegation of local citizens will motor to Skellytown and bring the officials to Pampa. The Santa Fe men will visit Borger and Skellytown before coming to Pampa on the last stop on an extensive trip over the system.
 These officials compose a Book of Rules committee which has been visiting the various sections of the Santa Fe system arranging rules and schedules.

Big Rodeo Will Be Staged Here by Legion Post

The local American Legion post has signed a contract with Bill Jackson well known cattleman of the famous Jackson lease in the Bowers pool and L. L. Blanscent to sponsor a rodeo here June 1 to 3. Mr. Jackson took fifth prize in the bulldogging contest at the Fat Stock show recently held in Fort Worth.
 Thousands of dollars in prizes will be awarded.
 Besides the broncho busting, bulldogging, calf roping and tying events and all that goes with a rodeo, a large carnival will be in attendance with concessions and booths.
 This will be Pampa's greatest rodeo and plans are already under way to handle the largest crowd that has ever attended an entertainment here. Mr. Jackson plans to bring some of the best material in the country to the rodeo and make it a success for the legion.

Delinquent Tax Roll Is Opened by Deputy Sheriff

Although 90 per cent of the delinquent taxes of the county are already in, Deputy Ray Wilson states that those who have not paid will be placed on the delinquent tax record, and the additional penalty added.
 The taxes were due February 1, and after that time a 10 per cent penalty was added. April 1 marks the placing of delinquents names on the delinquent tax rolls, which are placed in the hands of the county attorney for collection.
 Deputy Wilson requests that all who have not paid their taxes should do so before April 1 to save court proceedings.

HOUSTON, March 24.—One world record was broken, one intercollegiate record tied, and 11 meet records were broken in the fourth annual renewal of the Rice relays here today.
 Charles Paddock, world's fastest human, broke his own world's record for the second time on successive days when he lowered the time in the 140 yard dash to 13 1-5 seconds. The old record of 13 4-5 seconds was set yesterday by Paddock at the Texas relay.
 Ohio State tied the 440 yard intercollegiate record of 42 second flat.
 Oklahoma university gained the most team points, 22. Rice Institute was second with 20 points, and Ohio State and Texas university tied for third with 18 1-2 points. Texas Aggies finished fourth with 15 points and Drake University placed fifth with 10 points.

FIRST LARGE WELL THOUGHT IN GREAT POOL

Ray and Massie Test Fills Storage and Runs Wild
 HEAVY PAY IS HIT AT 2,800
 Production Saturday Is About 250 Barrels

The first big gusher in the southeast Gray county pool came in at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning for more than 250 barrels an hour natural flow. Gravity of the oil was reported to be 44, the highest in the Panhandle.

The Ray-Massie No. 1 Chapman in section 51, block 25, southeast Gray county, struck the big pay from 2,790 to 2,800 feet or 20 feet above sea level at that point. At the time the well was making 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

In the first five hours, the well had filled the two 500-barrel tanks on the location and was flowing over the ground while more storage was being erected.

This big gusher in that territory opens many miles of semi-proven territory and will increase Panhandle production much, together with the new Danciger gusher, No. 10 Jackson. It is situated about a quarter of a mile south of the Texas company's No. 1 Chapman in section 50, block 25, which is making 600 barrels a day, and it is about twelve miles southeast of the Bowers pool in a straight trend from the McIlroy pool in the Borger territory.

The Shamrock Oil company Saturday morning made a location to drill an offset to the gusher in the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 50, block 25, on the Chapman lease.

MUCH TO DO—Pampa, officially and as citizens will make history during coming months. The city must get the paving under way and solve the water problem.

The Chamber of Commerce, which has had a big part in practically every step of progress that Pampa has made during the last year, must carry on without financial aid change to the Board of City Development plan soon.

It is reported that McLean and Alanreed individuals will sponsor a contest on the county seat election, and the city's rights to establish the legality of its efforts must be defended if necessary.

The county school meet will be held here March 30 and 31, and the city should show its usual hospitality in welcoming the visitors.

In order to save money by changing interest rates, the independent school district likely will call for change 6 per cent into 5 1/2 per cent long term bonds out of the school district has possibly with the co-operation of the bond holder converted to serial. These steps will be as a mere formality, expenditure, but saving, is involved.

Out for Judge

IVY E. DUNCAN

"The office I seek is one of many duties. The county judge sits as trial judge in all civil and criminal cases of his court or those cases that may be brought to his court by appeal from the justice or city courts of the county. He is judge of the probate court and is the controlling head in the handling of all estates of minors or persons deceased. He is also chairman of the commissioners' court, holding the balance of power in the case of a tie vote of the commissioners. He is ex-officio school superintendent of the schools of the county and in this connection I wish to state here that it is my opinion that the schools of the common school districts should have the same expert guidance as the schools of the larger, independent districts, and I favor the employment of an expert school man for such position and this becomes mandatory, under the laws of this state, when the scholastic census of this county reaches a total of 3,000 scholastics.

"Now, in the event I should be your choice to administer the duties of this office, I will endeavor to give you my best efforts for a judicial as well as a business administration."

GIRL ALONE

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Sally Ford, 16, who for 12 years has known no other home but the state orphanage, is "farmed out" for the summer to Clem Carson, a farmer who comes regularly to the orphanage to get free servants from among the little charity wards. On the way out of the office she meets and begs Miss Pond office helper, to tell her something about her mother. She is crushed to learn that the woman who called herself her mother left her at the orphanage but never returned to see if the child lived or died.

During the drive to the farm Carson boasts of his fine farm and of his daughter, Pearl, who is "the apple of his eye." Clem's wife greets them as they drive into the yard—a hard featured, domineering woman. As Sally stands by the car, accepting bundle which Clem heaps in her arms, she sees coming toward her a handsome young man. She hears him called David, and her heart pounds strangely.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

In one of the few books allowed for Sunday reading in the orphanage—a beautiful, thick book with color-plate illustrations, its name, "Stories from the Bible," lettered in glittering gold on a back of heavenly blue—Sally had found and secretly worshiped the portrait of her ideal hero. It was a vividly colored picture of David, forever fixed in strong, beautiful grace, as he was about to hurl the stone from his slingshot to slay the giant Goliath. She had dreamed away many hours of her adolescence and early young girlhood, the big book open on her knee at the portrait of the Biblical hero, and if had not seemed like sacrilege to adopt that sun-drenched, strong-limbed but slender boy as the personification of her hopes for romance.

And now he was striding toward her—the very David of "Stories from the Bible." True, the sheepskin raiment of the picture was exchanged for a pair of cheap, earth-soiled "ejalous" trousers; but the boy-man was the same, the same! As he strode lightly, with the ease of an athlete or the light-footedness of a god, the sun flamed in his curling, golden-brown hair. He was tall, but not so tall as Clem Carson and there were power and ease and youth in every motion of his beautiful body.

"Did you get the plow-share sharpened, Mr. Carson? I've been waiting for it, but in the meantime I've been tinkering with that little hand cider press. We ought to do a good business with it if we set up a cider stand on the state road, at the foot of the lane."

Joy deepened the sapphire of Sally's eyes, quivered along the curves of her soft little mouth. For his voice was as she had dreamed it would be—vibrant, clear, strong, with a thrill of music in it.

"Sure I got it sharpened, Dave," Carson answered curtly. "You oughta get in another good hour with the cultivator before dark. You run along in the back door there, Sally. Mrs. Carson will be needing you to help her with supper."

The change in Carson's voice startled her, made her wince. Why was he angry with her—and with David, whose gold-flecked hazel eyes were smiling at her, shyly, as if he were a little ashamed of Carson for not having introduced them? But, oh, his name was David! David! It had had to be David.

In the big kitchen, dominated by an immense coal-and-wood cookstove Sally found Mrs. Carson busy with supper preparations. Her daughter, Pearl, drifted about the kitchen, coughing at intervals to remind her mother that she was ill.

Pearl Carson, in that moment after Sally had bumped into her at the door, had seemed to the orphaned girl to be much older than she, for her plump body was voluptuously developed and overdecked with finery. The farmer's daughter wore her light red hair deeply marcelled. The natural color in her broad, plump cheeks was heightened by rouge, applied lavishly over a heavy coating of white powder.

Her lavender silk crepe dress was made very full and short of skirt, so that her thick-ankled legs were displayed almost to the knee. It was before the day of knee dresses for women and Sally, standing there awkwardly with her own bundle and the parcels which Carson had thrust into her arms blushed for the extravagant display of unlovely flesh.

But Pearl Carson, if not exactly pretty, was not homely. Sally was forced to admit to herself. She looked more like one of her father's healthy, sorrel-colored heifers than anything else, except that the heifer's eyes would have been mild and kind and slightly melancholy, while Pearl Carson's China-blue eyes were wide and cold, in an insolent, contemptuous stare.

"I suppose you're the new girl from the Orphans' Home," she said at last. "What's your name?"

"Sa-Sally Ford," Sally stammered institutional shyness blotting out her radiance, leaving her pale and meek.

"Pearl, you take Sally up to her room and sho wher where to put her things. Did you bring a work dress?" Mrs. Carson turned from inspecting a great iron kettle of cooking food on the stove.

"Yes'm, Sally gulped, "But I only brought two dresses—my every-day dress and this one. Mrs. Stone said you'd—would give me some of P-Pearl's."

She flushed painfully, in humiliation at having to accept charity and in doubt as to whether she was to address the daughter of the house by her Christian name, without a "handle."

Pearl, switching her short, lavender silk skirts insolently, led the way up a steep flight of narrow stairs leading directly off the kitchen to the garret. The roof, shaped to fit the gables of the house, was so low that Sally's head bumped itself twice on their passage of the dusty, dark corridor to the room she was to be allowed to call her own.

"No, not that door!" Pearl halted her sharply. "That's where David Nash, one of the hired men, sleeps."

Sally wanted to stop and lay her hand softly against the door which his hand had touched, but she did not dare. "I—I saw him," she faltered. "Oh, you did, did you?" Pearl demanded sharply. "Well, let me tell you, young lady, you let David Nash alone. He's mine—see? He's not just an ordinary hired hand. He's working his way through State A. & M. He's a star on the football team and everything. But don't you go trying any funny business on David, or I'll make you wish you hadn't!"

"I—I didn't even speak to him," Sally hastened to reassure the farmer's daughter, then hated herself for her humbleness.

"Here's your room. It's small, and it gets pretty hot in here in the summer, but I guess it's better'n you're used to, at that," Pearl Carson, a little mollified, swung open a flimsy pine door.

Sally looked about her timidly, her eyes taking in the low, sagging cot bed, the upturned pine box that served as washstand, the broken rocking chair, the rusty nails intended to take the place of a clothes closet; the faded, dirty rag rug on the warped boards of the floor; the tiny window, whose single sash swung inward and was fastened by a hook on the wall.

"I'll bring you some of my old dresses," Pearl told her. "But you'd better hurry and change into your orphanage dress, so's you can help Mama with the supper. She's been putting up raspberries all day and she's dead tired."

guess Papa told you you'd have to hustle this summer. This ain't a summer vacation—for you. It is for me. I go to school in the city in the winter. I'm second year high, and I'm only 16," she added proudly. "What are you?"

Sally, who had been nervously untying her brown paper parcel bent her head lower so that she should not see the flare of hate in those pale blue eyes which she knew would follow upon her own answer. "I'm—I'm third year high." She did not have the courage to explain that she had just finished her third year, that she would graduate from the orphanage's high school next year.

"Third year?" Pearl was incredulous. "Oh, of course, the orphanage school! My school is at least two years higher than yours. We prepare for college."

Sally nodded; what use to say that the orphanage school was a regular public school, too, that it also prepared for college? And that Sally herself had dreamed of working her way through college, even as David Nash was doing?

Eight o'clock was the supper hour on the farm in the summer-time, when every hour of daylight had to be spent in the orchards and fields. When the long dining table, covered, with red-and-brown-checked-oil-cloth, was finally set, down to the last iron-handled knife, Sally was faint with hunger, for supper was at six at the orphanage.

Sally had peered a huge dishpan of potatoes, had shredded a giant head of pale green cabbage for cole slaw, had watched the pots of cooking string beans, turnips and carrots; had rolled in flour and then fried great slabs of round steak—all under the critical eye of Mrs. Carson, who had found herself free to pick over the day's harvest of blackberries for canning.

"I suppose we'll have to let Sally eat at the table with us," Pearl grumbled to her mother, heedless of the fact that Sally overheard. "In the city a family wouldn't dream of sitting down to table with the servants. I'm sick of living on a farm and treating the hired help like members of the family."

"I thought you liked having David Nash sit at table with us," Mrs. Carson reminded her.

"Well, David's different. He's a university student and a football hero," Pearl defended herself. "But the other hired men and the Orphans' Home girl—"

Glem Carson appeared in the kitchen doorway. "Supper ready?"

"Yes, Papa. Thanks for the candy, but I do wish you'd get it in a box, not in a paper sack," Pearl pouted. "I'll ring the bell. Hurry up and wash before the others come in."

While Glem Carson was pumping water into a tin wash basin, just inside the kitchen door, Pearl swung the big copper dinner bell, standing on the narrow back porch, her lavender silk skirt fluttering about her thick legs.

Sally fled to the dining room then ashamed to have David Nash see her in the betraying uniform of the orphanage.

She had obediently set nine places at the long table, not knowing who all of those nine would be, but she found out before many minutes passed. Glem Carson sat at one end of the table. Mrs. Carson at the other. And before David and the other hired men appeared, a tiny, bent little old lady, with kind, vague brown eyes and trembling hands, came shuffling in from somewhere to seat herself at her farmer son's right hand. Sally learned later that everyone called her Grandma and that she was Glem Carson's widowed mother. Immediately behind the little old lady came a big, hulking loose-jointed man of middle age, with a slack, grinning mouth, a stubble of gray beard on his receding chin, a vacant, idiotic smile in his pale eyes.

At sight of Sally, shrinking timidly against the chair which was to be hers the half-wit lunged toward her like a playful, overgrown puppy. One of his clammy hands, pale because they could not be trusted with farm work reached out and patted her cheek.

"Pur-ty girl, pur-ty sis-ter," he articulated slowly, a light of pleasure gleaming in the pale vacancy of his eyes.

"Now, now, Benny, be good, or Ma'll send you to bed without your supper," the little old lady spoke as if he were a naughty child of three. "You muss'n't mind him, Sally. He won't hurt you. I hope you'll like it here on the farm. It's real pretty in the summertime."

The two nondescript hired men had taken their places, slipping into their chairs silently and apologetically. David Nash had changed his blue work shirt and "jeans" trousers for a white shirt, dark blue polkadotted tie, and a well-fitting but inexpensive suit of brown homespun. Sally, squeezed between the vague little old grandmother and the vacant-eyed halfwit, beyond whom the two hired men sat, found herself directly across from David Nash beside whom Pearl Carson sat, her chair drawn more closely than necessary.

"My, you look grand, Davie!" Pearl confided in a low, artificially sweet voice. "My cold's lots better. Papa'll let us drive in to the city to the movie if you ask him real nice."

It was then that Sally Ford, who had experienced so many new emotions that day, felt a pang that made every other heartache seem mild by comparison. And two girls, one a girl alone in the world, the other pampered and adored by her family, held their breath as they awaited David Nash's reply.

Sally learns, to intense relief, that

David cares nothing about Pearl. May be the farm will be bearable, after all. Armstrong's Linoleum at Malones.

Elaborate Crowning Ceremonies Are Held for Queen of School

Probably the happiest event that has occurred in the lives of little Miss Doris Jane Maddux, and Billie Stewart, was the coronation of the queen of Baker school Thursday evening in the auditorium of Central high school. The ceremonies were begun at 8:15 o'clock the program being opened with a piano prelude by Mrs. T. E. Rose.

Amid a lovely stage setting of an out-door scene, the flower-dance was very pretty with the children representing roses, brown-eyed susans, blue bells, poppies, and violets, after which a dainty fairy and butterfly dance was given.

Announcing the approach of the queen, four fire-flies came through the audience, up the steps to the stage where the king Billie Stewart robed in royal purple, and gold, sat on a white throne with drappings of purple. Preceding the queen were her twenty attendants dressed in evening attire, the little gentlemen in the black and white of full dress, and the ladies in pastel shades and silver slippers. The attendants were the contestants from the various rooms of the Baker school.

Lola Cunningham, crown bearer was attractively costumed in orchid and white, and carried a crown of silver and pearls, brightened with brilliants on a pillow of orchid. Then approached the queen, Doris Jane Maddux, with stately tread, attired in an elaborate white satin gown embroidered with pearls, and rhinestones, and carrying a staff of brilliants. As the queen neared the throne of the king, the flowers bowed in reverence until she had been seated. The king placed the crown of pearls on the shining blond head of the queen and the glorious sash was broken by the chorus of the court "Hail to the Queen."

During the entire program, Mrs. T. E. Rose played softly on the piano, and the coronation ceremonies were closed by the court singing a good-bye song to all.

This program, sponsored by the Baker P. T. A., was the close of a beauty contest between the rooms of the Baker school in an effort to assist the P. T. A., in raising funds. The coronation was well attended and greatly enjoyed by the audience.

For Re-Election

CURTIS DOUGLASS

Curtis Douglass, prosecuting attorney for the 84th judicial district, today formally announces his candidacy for re-election.

Relative to his announcement friends in the district prepared the following statement:

"Mr. Douglass' record in public office has been such that his announcement should receive the earnest and favorable consideration of all Democratic voters in these several counties.

"Mr. Douglass attended the University of Texas Law School and immediately after completion of his law studies entered the practice of law at Waco, Texas, subsequently serving that judicial district in the capacity of first assistant district attorney. In 1923 he was elected judge advocate general of the American Legion for the entire State of Texas. During the World War Mr. Douglass held the distinction of being the youngest commissioned officer in the United States army.

"In March of 1927, Mr. Douglass accepted the appointment of Governor Dan Moody as district attorney for this, the 84th judicial district, and during his incumbency has successfully discharged the duties of that office. His zeal in prosecution of criminal cases has incurred the displeasure of those who live outside the law but even they admit that he has been fair in the discharge of his duties. Such a course of procedure has gained for Mr. Douglass the hearty commendation of the law abiding citizens of this section.

"It should be borne in mind that at the time Mr. Douglass assumed the duties of his office in this county that unprecedented conditions existed and it is doubtful if any prosecuting attorney in Texas has ever been confronted with similar circumstances. Now that he has succeeded in overcoming such embarrassing circumstances and conditions, his friends believe that justice to him demands his re-election as the short time he has served in view of the hundreds of cases existing at the time of his appointment and the difficulty confronting him in handling the situation deserves the most serious consideration of those who believe in perpetuating the principles of the Jeffersonian Democracy. Signed, 'Friends and Supporters,'

Mr. Douglass adds the following: "On the 7th day of March, 1927, I was appointed to the office of district attorney for the 84th judicial district of the State of Texas. At that time there existed in certain counties included in my district, an unprecedented condition, Oil had been discovered in these several counties and with such discovery came the usual and natural influx of law violators. A brief experience in the performance of the duties incident to the position disclosed that court facilities relative to law enforcement were inadequate. With this situation confronting me, I proceeded as best I could to use all legitimate means possible toward the proper enforcement of the penal laws of this State.

"Conditions prevalent revealed the fact that there have been in the past and are now, more criminal cases of a felony nature upon the dockets of the 84th district court than there are upon any other criminal docket in the State of Texas. The law creating the 84th judicial district court did not provide for the appointment of assistant district attorneys so, consequently, I realized that I was compelled to meet the situation single handed. The element composing those, in the majority of cases, who were witnesses in being nature. Generally speaking, there was little difficulty in obtaining the presence of witnesses before a grand jury for the purpose of an indictment, but after several months had elapsed and before a trial could be had, in a great number of cases, it was virtually impossible to assemble them again for the purpose of a trial.

"As the result of such a condition there are many cases where offenders have not been brought before the bar of justice and accorded the proper penalty. I dare say no system of legal jurisprudence, however perfect, could have properly functioned under such a situation.

"In announcing for re-election to this office for a second term, I wish to say that I believe there are certain cardinal principles upon which a district attorney's office should be operated. The first and primary purpose of the office is to see that each and every law is enforced without fear or favor in carrying out this primary purpose there are many things to be considered.

"I do not believe in advising grand juries to return into court indictments on a wholesale basis unless there is ample justification, from the facts disclosed, to warrant a conviction. An indictment against a person serves of no good purpose and creates a tendency to disrespect the law unless there is sufficient, legal and competent evidence to sustain it. When one is indicted and never tried because of lack of evidence, aside from the moral effect it may have on other offenders there is considerable expense involved. Time and again the tax payers money is squandered when useless and hopeless cases have been presented into court by an indictment. It costs the taxpayer money to have an indictment returned. It costs him money to have the case lay idle upon the docket and it costs him still more money to have the case dismissed. If elected district attorney, I will oppose the returning of any bill of indictment into court unless there is ample and sufficient evidence of such a nature as to probably insure a conviction.

"Then again, before a case can be properly presented upon trial and brought to a successful end, there must be adequate preparation made for the proper presentation. Without such preparation, the case will fail and justice will not be meted out to the offender. In this connection, I invite anyone so desiring to investigate the record of my administration along this line and I know that same will disclose the fact that I have performed my duty toward the preparation and prosecution of every case in which I have participated.

"I do not favor the using of the district attorney's office as a means for collecting debts for the individual, or in other words, to make such office a collecting agency for the public. The purpose of the penal laws of this State is first to suppress crime; and second, to reform the offender. If the law has been violated, the offender should be punished and regardless of whether he subsequently rights his wrongful acts the purpose of the law can not be carried out by inaugurating a plan which would do nothing more or less than to permit the offender to purchase his freedom.

permitted by inaugurating a plan which would do nothing more or less than to permit the offender to purchase his freedom.

First comes CHRYSLER "72"

.....all others trail

Chrysler "72" performance makes all other performance in its field seem as out-of-date as last year's license plates. All you have to do is to ride in a "72," and drive it to appreciate the difference.

Only Chrysler's great engineering staff and precision manufacturing organization could have developed 75 smooth horse power from an engine of such moderate size. You can, at will, do 72 miles an hour and more—velvety, easy miles—due to this unique and vibrationless engine with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft.

It takes mountain grades at constant acceleration. In traffic, the "72" flashes to the fore with characteristic Chrysler get-away.

Only a demonstration can prove to you just how much better the "72" performs.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. All prices f.o.b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments.

Watch Texas

Emil F. Myers

10 Years Later

The Pay Roll

(By DAVE WARREN)
 Arthur Brisbane, famous columnist, tells his readers to watch Texas. There have been the California and Florida booms and Texas is next, he predicts. Texas has increased 800,000 in population since 1920 and in our opinion this state is booming. McIntire could have been a little more specific and warned his readers to watch the Panhandle-Plains, the heart of the greatest railroad development in the nation today.

If Amarillo were to give a cup to its citizen who has done the most constructive work in recent years, doubtless the first award would go to Emil F. Myers, sponsor of the Panhandle Music Festival. He has been one of Amarillo's greatest builders in a work which he loves. He has given the entire Panhandle the opportunity to hear the world's greatest musicians. Amarillo has never appreciated his services—and probably never will, unless he should decide to move to another community.

C. H. Walker, editor of the Dalhart Texan, was on the Dallam county exemption board ten years ago. He voted to send a man to war. A few days ago he was in Spearman at a cafe. The man, recognized Walker, entered the cafe and began abusing him. The man held Walker personally responsible for sending him to war. One can never tell what his experiences will be—even ten years after—Walker now says.

"It's the pay roll that keeps editors up in the air," says L. D. Shaw of the

SUIT

Higgins News. And that pay roll comes weekly for most offices. The writer of this column received his weekly check for a dozen years. The last two years he has had the task of meeting the payroll, and it has not been easy work. One satisfaction is that when newspaper editors meet the weekly payroll and their job stock bills, they have a good percentage of their expenditures out of the way.

Will Pampa become the second city in the Panhandle to get three railroads under separate ownership? Amarillo was the result of having the Santa Fe, Rock Island and Denver. Pampa has the Santa Fe. Soon it will have the Clinton, Oklahoma and Western, or Kell railroad. And rumor is very strong that the Denver may build from Childress to Wellington, Shamrock or McLean into Pampa, and possibly further north.

ROAD EXTENSION ASKED

AUSTIN, March 24.—(P)—A sixty-six mile extension of the Pecos and northern railroad from Hale Center to Parmerton in Parmer county is proposed in a charter amendment filed Saturday with the secretary of state. The extension runs from Center through the remainder of Hale county through Lamb county by way of Olton through a Castro county and on to Parmerton.

STORM DOES DAMAGE

LULLING, March 24.—(P)—Several houses were destroyed, more than 125 derricks were blown down, and unestimated damage was done in the Lulling oil fields last night by a tornado and hail storm.

Detroit Runner Leads Marathon

THREAU, N. M., March 24.—(P)—Although he finished fifth in today's 32.5 mile grind from Gallup, N. M., Arne Souminen of Detroit retained his lead in the Los Angeles-to-New York marathon race with an elapsed time of 128:51:25. Andre Payne of Claremore Okla., who finished third today, gained slightly on Souminen and has an elapsed time of 129:49:57 for the 741 miles that have been covered thus far. Peter Guvuzzi of Southampton, Eng. made the best time today's lap. He covered the distance from Gallup over the continental divide to this place in 4:30:30. Nestor Erickson of Port Chester, N. Y., was second today in 4:30:45. He has an elapsed time of 140:42:32 while Guvuzzi's elapsed time is 130:50:01.

CONTEST, OR NOT?

According to the McLean News, a group of McLean citizens held a meeting a few days ago and decided to carry the county seat question to the higher courts in the form of an election contest.

No legal steps have yet been taken. The cause of the contest is said to be "dissatisfaction over the result of the election, which is believed to have been illegal."
