PAMPA — The City of Pampa Park Team is to begin mopping for mosquitoes. If citizens do not want their property sprayed call 669-5760. Kimberly Lincycumb, public service superintendent, said the chemical Pyrethrum is dispersed through an ultra low volume sprayer.

PAMPA — The Gray County Clerk's Office is currently accepting applications for ballots by mail for the June 27 court-ordered Republican Party primary runoff election. The deadline for applications is June 20. Early voting will be June 16-23. Any registered voter who did not vote in the March 14 primary is eligible to vote as well as registered voters who voted Republican in the March 14 primary. Registered voters voting Democrat in the March election are not eligible to vote.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Workers' Compensation Commission is proposing a new rule that would require injured workers who wait six weeks before obtaining treatment from non-physicians to get approval from their companies' insurance carriers first.

Injured workers who want to go to chiropractors or osteopaths would have to obtain prior approval from their companies' insurance carriers if they have waited six weeks before seeking treatment.

Currently, workers are not required to get authorization before seeking chiropractic and osteopathic manipulations because they are the traditional services of those practitioners.

County wheat crop not good

May's hot, dry spell blamed

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

There's good news and bad news for Gray County wheat producers. The good news is that the price of wheat should go up, according to an extension economist. The bad news is that the Gray County wheat crop is not in good shape.

"It's not very good," Gray County Agent Danny Nusser said of the wheat fields surrounding Pampa. Nusser said the dryland wheat in the county has suffered from the heat and lack of rain.

"Still some of the wheat looked pretty good until the first two weeks of May," Nusser said. "The sun just baked it."

Recent rains have helped the summer crops such as corn and other feed grains, but it came too late for the wheat which is being harvested this month.

Dr. Steve Amosson, a Texas Extension Service economist in Amarillo, said wheat prices will be going up and feed grain prices will be going down.

Amosson said wheat acreage across the nation is down this year to the lowest point in 30 years. The economist said carry over stocks are expected to be down.

While supplies of wheat are expected to drop, use is projected to be up slightly. Exports are up, Amosson said.

ENID, Okla. — Enid police arrested a man wanted for bludgeoning two family members with a sledgehammer within hours of issuing an all-points bulletin alerting Gray County authorities that the man may be headed toward this area.

Stephen Eugene Armstrong, 47, was found in a vehicle at an Enid shopping mall at about 7:30 a.m. Thursday, according to Captain Nathan Morris of the Enid Police Department. A mall security guard noticed a man sitting in a car in the mall parking lot, Capt. Morris said. When he approached the car, he saw the man was bleeding from both arms.

"They were apparently self-inflicted wounds," Morris said, adding that Enid police arrested Armstrong and took him for treatment of the cuts on his arms. Armstrong remained in Enid Police custody.

Women's Center named

Elizabeth Houdashell, RN, was recently honored at a reception at Pampa Regional Medical Center's new Women's Center. The Women's Center was dedicated to Houdashell, a devoted employee of the hospital for 36 years.

"She has made the OB/GYN unit what it is today. Her wisdom and knowledge is alive and active in the hearts and minds of all that have had the privilege of knowing her," said Tammye Baileys, RN, director of the Women's Center.

The reception was attended by co-workers and physicians (both past and present), family and friends. There is a photo and plaque displayed in her honor on the unit.

Jim Yates, center, of Family Fun Theaters in Arizona has recently leased the Cinema 4 Theater and hopes to have it open by June 23. Susan Triplehorn, left, executive director of Pampa Economic Development Corporation, and Coronado Center's Martin Riphahn, right, joined in the announcement at the PEDC offices on Friday.

It's official ...

Cinema 4 will reopen

By NANCY YOUNG
Managing Editor

Local theater goers will soon be able to go to the movies in Pampa again. After being without a local movie theater since January, Cinema 4 will soon be reopening.

Jim Yates of Family Fun Theaters based in Douglas, Ariz., has been in Pampa in recent weeks working out the details of the reopening plan.

"I am shooting for June 23rd as the opening date," said Yates during the reopening announcement at the Pampa Economic Development Corporation offices on Friday. He explained the opening date is contingent upon the approval of the film companies.

While the announcement was made at the local PEDC office, the PEDC is not funding the project. Board chairman Richard Stowers explained that outside funding is being utilized. He said the local theater may put money into the project at a later date from a revolving loan.

"It will be exciting to recapture the opportunity of going to the movies," said Stowers.

Full of enthusiasm, Yates brings many years of experience in the theater business to the Pampa area. He has managed theaters in several towns in Arizona which are comparable in size to Pampa.

Yates has already interviewed over 100 applicants for the 10-15 positions at the local theater. "I am delighted with the response. People are really interested to get a theater in here." He said about one-third of the applicants are adults and some have theater experience.

Stowers said Yates has been recognized for his involvement in many civic activities in Douglas. Yates learned of Pampa's search by chance when he talked with a friend in Clarendon about another theater. He was told about Pampa's situation and began inquiring about the local theater.

"It is an important part of any community to

Cloud-seeding expert to speak

Meteorologist Jeff Schild will be featured speaker at Gray County Local Emergency Planning Committee's (LEPC) monthly meeting set for 1:30 p.m., June 14, at M.K. Brown Auditorium Heritage Room.

Schild, a meteorologist with Weather Modification Inc., (WMI) will speak on WMI's work with the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District. He moved to Pampa from Bowman, N.D., where he worked two years for the Atmosphere Resource Board. He is a graduate of the University of North Dakota with a degree in atmospheric science. He currently oversees cloud seeding operation with WMI.

Schild plans to discuss such topics as ground/air operations and criteria for and atmospheric conditions necessary for cloud seeding.

Items listed on the agenda for the meeting include: public comments, a report from the training committee, review and action on bylaw modifications and a possible tour of Pantex.

In new business, Teir II forms and instruction manual, weather radar, and National Weather Service training will be discussed.

26 Texas companies offer domestic-partner benefits

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Pressure to attract employees from the largest possible group of applicants has led 26 Texas companies to offer health benefits to the domestic partners of gay and lesbian employees, according to a gay-rights group.

Nearly all of the Texas companies offering the benefit adopted the policy within the past two years, said the Human Rights Campaign, a gay-rights organization.

The list of Texas companies offering domestic-partner benefits includes AMR Corp., the parent of American Airlines, SBC Communications Inc., Sabre Inc., and Electronic Data Services Corp.

The issue was highlighted this week when the nation's major car makers announced they would offer domestic-partner benefits. Personnel professionals said the auto industry's move will influence others.

Companies are under pressure to recruit applicants in a tight labor market, to increase the diversity of their work forces and to make benefits comparable to those provided heterosexual employees, said Steve Blakeley, a spokesman for the Employee Benefits Research Institute in Washington.

Last year, Fort Worth-based AMR adopted partner benefits that included health insurance, travel privileges, life insurance and survivors benefits — shortly after United Airlines introduced benefits for gay and lesbian employees to comply with a San Francisco city ordinance.

AMR's move upset several conservative religious groups, but an airline spokesman said the move improved the airline's ties to gay and lesbian customers.

"We've been marketing to that group for several years now, so we know we've got quite a loyal customer base. Adding this certainly helped," said Tim Kincaid, who is co-founder of a gay employees support group at the airline company.

On the other hand, oil giant Exxon Mobil Corp. rejected partner benefits. However, Mobil offered the benefits before its acquisition by Irving-based, and Mobil employees have been allowed to keep them.

"Our policy is to be opposed to discrimination but not to grant rights for special categories, which we believe holds the danger of unintended discrimination further down the line," Exxon Mobil chairman Lee Raymond said at a shareholders meeting last month.

Business briefs ...

Microsoft wants a stay in judge's order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Microsoft Corp. sought a stay Thursday of a federal judge's order breaking the company in two, launching another phase of a time-consuming legal process fraught with obstacles as well as options for the software giant and the government.

"Microsoft acts as if they've got a slam-dunk, and it's far from a slam-dunk" that it will win on appeal, said Steven Salop, a Georgetown University law and economics professor. "The government produced substantial evidence of anticompetitive conduct."

But New York antitrust lawyer Joseph Angland said the rulings by U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson "will give Microsoft some good targets to shoot at on appeal," particularly his order Wednesday that Microsoft be split into two companies.

Management overhaul at P&G

CINCINNATI (AP) — Procter & Gamble Co. overhauled its top management Thursday, replacing top executive Durk I. Jager following a series of disappointing earnings results that have led to a profound stock slump at the maker of Tide, Crest and Pampers.

The changes came as the company warned it expects fourth-quarter earnings per share will be equal to last year's, compared with its previous expectations of a 15 percent to 17 percent increase.

Jager, 57, will retire after 30 years with the Cincinnati-based company.

P&G's board of directors elected Alan G. Lafley, 52, president of its divisions for global beauty care and North America, as president and chief executive. John E. Pepper, 61, who headed P&G before Jager and has been heading its board's executive committee, was elected as the board's chairman.

Security experts discuss hackers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI will meet with experts from a security company Friday to discuss the firm's discovery that hackers have embedded a malicious program disguised as a movie clip on 2,000 commercial and home computers, positioning themselves to launch an attack designed to shut down Web sites.

The problem, detected by a security firm that does work for the Justice Department, demonstrates the growing vulnerability that home computer users face as they begin to purchase permanent, high-speed connections to the Internet.

Without special software to protect them, Internet surfers using cable modem and digital subscriber lines are easy prey.

Even computers at some large computer lem.

Thomson sells most U.S. papers

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomson Corp., publisher of The Globe and Mail of Toronto, sold most of its daily U.S. newspapers to Gannett Co. and Community Newspaper Holdings Inc. on Thursday in a two-part deal worth $1.58 billion in cash.

Separately, Central Newspapers Inc., owner of The Arizona Republic, The Indianapolis Star and four other daily newspapers, said it was putting itself up for sale. The Phoenix-based company's stock soared as much as 72 percent on the news.

Thomson's sale largely completed its goal, announced in February, of exiting the U.S. newspaper business to focus on selling professional and financial information services, which already make up the majority of the company's operations.

Big Three extend domestic partner benefits

DETROIT (AP) — The three largest American automakers announced Thursday they will extend health care benefits to the partners of gay employees.

The announcement from General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and the Chrysler division of DaimlerChrysler AG covers about 465,000 employees, and could signal that such benefits will become standard in corporate America.

"This is really a landmark," said Kim Mills, education director with the Human Rights Campaign, a gay rights group in Washington. "We've never really seen an industry get together as a group and say we're going to institute these benefits."

Jobless claims up in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A larger-than-expected number of Americans filed new claims for unemployment benefits last week, pushing applications to their highest level since the beginning of the year.

Many economists believe the increase mostly reflected a seasonal fluke and said that, among other things, they would need to see a sustained rise in claims to conclude that the supercharged economy is really slowing.

For the week ending June 3, new claims for jobless benefits rose by 20,000 to 309,000, the highest level since Jan. 8, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

Pesticide phase-out agreed to WASHINGTON (AP) — The government and manufacturers agreed Thursday to phase out use of one of the most widely applied pesticides because of concern that it poses health risks to children in homes, schools and parks. Still, the product may remain on store shelves until the end of 2001, prompting complaints from some health advocates.

The Environmental Protection Agency announced it was banning the use of the pesticide chlorpyrifos — commonly sold under the trade names Dursban and Lorsban — for virtually all nonagricultural uses and curtailing its application on some crops, including apples, frequently eaten by children.

The pesticide can be found in more than 800 products from pet flea collars and lawn care products to a variety of bug sprays.

Senate GOP rejects patients rights bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, holding ranks on a politically charged issue, rejected a White House-backed patient rights bill Thursday that would give Americans broad new authority to sue their HMOs for denial of care.

The vote was 51-48 against the proposal, and came as GOP senators accused Senate Democrats of walking away from promising talks on a bipartisan compromise in search of political advantage in an election year.

Wireless health services get airwave slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators designated specific slices of the airwaves for wireless medical services that monitor patients' heart, blood pressure or other functions from a remote location.

The action Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission assigns new frequencies for the equipment's transmissions to avoid possible harmful interference.

The service enables health professionals to keep tabs on their patients' vital signs within a hospital or nursing home, but from another room. Data from respiration monitors or other devices are transmitted to nearby receivers.

Euro soars on interest rate hike news

BERLIN (AP) — Markets flinched but the euro soared when the European Central Bank surprised analysts Thursday by boosting its key interest rates a higher-than-expected half percentage point — a move criticized by some as too much too soon.

The hike to 4.25 percent was the fourth this year and caught investors and economists off-guard, who were expecting a more modest quarter-point increase. Some worried that a sharper increase could stifle Europe's recovering economy.

Activists denounce 'social death' of widows in Africa, South Asia

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — In Tanzania, at least 500 widows were stoned to death or otherwise killed as suspected witches over the past year, women's activists say, while in parts of Nigeria widows are not allowed to wash for an entire year after their husband's death to prove they did not kill him.

These are just two examples of the harrowing plight of widows denounced by grass-roots groups at a panel Thursday on the myths and realities of widowhood.

Women in Africa and south Asia face a kind of "social death" when their husbands die: They are disinherited, rejected, even raped or killed, according to activists at the U.N. women's conference.

"At a time when they are most vulnerable, in the shock of losing their husbands, they are systematically hounded from their homes, robbed of their household possessions, and forced into destitution by male relatives, usually on the husband's side," said Margaret Owen of Empowering Widows in Development, a London-based group that tries to create networks of widows to improve their status.

Good day for pork lovers, sorrowful day for pigs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — No matter which way you looked at the Indiana State Fairgrounds — whether at the sizzling, 300-foot-long grill or the nonchalant passing of barbecue recipes — one thing was certain.

It was a bad day to be a pig. The fluttering banners bearing the words "World Pork Expo," the tractor-trailer-sized smoker capable of cooking 7,000 pounds of meat at a time, the pig races, the "PigCasso" art show. It was all enough to make a curled tail stand up straight.

But for your average pork lover, it was simply fantastic.

"I look forward to it every year," said Lori Ann Robertson. She owns 650 sows in Dukedom, Tenn., and comes to see new technology and meet fellow hog farmers.

"It has to do with what I do for a living," she said. "There's lots of new information that can really help."

There are also free samples — which attracts most non-farming people. You can't throw a ham-bone without hitting someone doling out barbecued, sauteed, spiced, dried, pulled, center-cut or de-boned versions of "the other white meat."

Dennis Gienger is responsible for a large part of that pork distribution. The hog farmer from Iowa's Tama County is known as the "Big Grill Chairman," which in World Pork Expo circles is pretty much on par with being king of the universe.

On Thursday that grill used about 6,000 pounds of charcoal to cook 12,000 center-cut pork chops, which were slathered in barbecue sauce, slapped into buns and handed out.

"I think if you're going to be dedicated to the industry, to raising hogs, you also have to be dediicated to promotion," Gienger said.

In part, that's what the 13th annual installment of this international trade show is about. That explains the drawing for a stuffed sow doll (complete with litter), the various piggy knickknacks at The Pork Schop, and Arnold, the plastic, radio-controlled, talking pig.

Cindy Cunningham of the National Pork Producers Council said the expo is the world's largest pork-specific event, attracting producers from 50 different countries. It's expected to draw about 50,000 people by the time it ends Saturday.

But not everyone is happy to see the expo, which alternates between Indianapolis and Des Moines, Iowa. Thursday morning, an anonymous activist dressed in a pig costume dumped two tons of manure in front of the Indianapolis hotel where many pork expo participants are staying. The dump happened while a group from People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals protested factory hog farming.

For producers like Robertson, that's all a bunch of hogwash.

"I've just been raised with it," she said of her life among swine. "It's something I do, and I love to do."

That sentiment was echoed by Rick and Marcie Campbell, proprietors of the expo's pig races. They're known as Professor Elroy P. Swineheart and The Pig Lady. They speak lovingly of their group of pigs, and promise that the little racers never get sent to market when their athletic days are through.

"Mario Hamdretti," for example, will eventually be used for breeding, The Pig Lady explained.

Company hopes EPA will reverse herbicide order

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — A pesticide maker wants regulators to stop U.S. farmers and chemical dealers from bringing one of its products across the border from Canada.

Ed Ready, a spokesman for Zeneca Ag Products Inc. of Wilmington, Del., said the company has asked for a meeting with the Environmental Protection Agency in hopes of blocking action last week by North Dakota Agriculture Commissioner Roger Johnson.

"We believe Roger Johnson's actions violate federal pesticide rules and it's the EPA's job to enforce them," Ready said.

Johnson said this week that he consulted with the state attorney general and the EPA before making his decision, and he stands by it.

"I believe what we did was both legally defensible and appropriate," Johnson said.

Johnson's order allows farmers and chemical dealers to bring a Zeneca herbicide known as Achieve 80 DG across the border from Canada for use on U.S. wheat and barley. Since it was issued last Wednesday, chemical dealers from North Dakota have been traveling frequently to Canada to buy the chemical, Johnson said.

He maintains the EPA approved Achieve 80 DG for use in the United States several years ago. But he said that for financial reasons, Zeneca never completed the registration process and still refuses to sell the chemical in the United States.

Instead, the company has marketed a similar product, Achieve 40 DG, for U.S. farmers. Johnson contends the chemical is "virtually identical" to the Canadian counterpart but costs about $6 more per acre to apply.

The numbers in the herbicides' names refer to the percentage of active chemical contained in each. Both are used to control grassy weeds such as wild oats.

Ready said Zeneca believes Johnson lacks authority to make the chemical available to U.S. farmers without the company's permission. He said Zeneca had good reason not to introduce Achieve 80 in the United States, and it had little to do with company profits.

Achieve 80 was approved by Canadian regulators in the early 1990s, he said. However, the EPA's registration requirements took considerably longer. By the time EPA was ready to approve the chemical, "we learned there was a better formulation available and we decided to introduce the better of the two products in the U.S. instead," Ready said.

Achieve 80 sometimes created problems for Canadian farmers when they attempted to mix the chemical in tanks for spraying, he said.

"It was not always easy to get a good spray mixture," Ready said.

Gene Erpelding, a chemical dealer in Bottineau, said he has never heard of such complaints. Erpelding is one of many dealers who went to Canada over the past week to buy Achieve 80 for farmers.

Livestock grants, pacts beneficial, state vet says

Texas livestock health programs should benefit from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) 2002 initiative, which calls for more state grants and cooperative agreements to strengthen state-federal ties.

"This is very good news for states, because, as we finally 'close out' the cattle brucellosis and cattle tuberculosis eradication programs, it will help ensure we can maintain an adequate infrastructure of staffing, equipment and resources to address emergency disease outbreaks or natural disasters affecting livestock," said Dr. Terry Beals, Texas state veterinarian and executive director for the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the states' livestock health regulatory agency.

Dr. Alfonso Torres, deputy administrator for USDA's Veterinary Services, discussed the 2002 initiative with state veterinarians gathered in Corpus Christi for the National Institute for Animal Agriculture (NIAA), an umbrella group for all animal agriculture species and organizations. Dr. Torres said that, as cattle brucellosis cooperative agreement shrink, due to eradication of the bacterial disease, doors open to address other goals.

Among the areas targeted, said Dr. Torres, are diseases in feral swine. More than 23 states report a growing population of wild hogs that are capable of carrying and transmitting pseudorabies (a viral infection of swine) and swine brucellosis. These diseases have been nearly wiped out in domestic swine herds, and the wild hogs could jeopardize a state's hard-won status in the national eradication program. Furthermore, if they are exposed, the free-ranging scavengers are a ready host for native and exotic ticks and foreign animal diseases, such as hog cholera or African swine fever.

Dr. Torres also listed disease surveillance in Yellowstone National Park as a priority and said a settlement is being negotiated between the USDA-APHIS and other federal and state agencies to combat brucellosis infection in the park's bison. He said a compromise will be required, as the current 'bison management plan' offered by another federal agency addresses control, but not eradication of the disease within the park. He said a panel will be convened to determine what is required to eliminate brucellosis infection in Yellowstone by 2010.

Another priority Dr. Torres discussed with the group was emergency management plans for handling livestock in disease outbreaks or natural disasters. He said that, in addition to addressing sufficient infrastructure, an emergency management specialist will be named for each state. A number of states, including Texas, already have state and federal staff trained and assigned to response teams that can be on site within a few hours.

"Besides 900 miles of border we share with Mexico, Texas has major air and seaports, making us particularly vulnerable to a foreign animal disease or pest introduction," said Dr. Beals.

"Disaster preparedness is no small tasks, as it requires training, coordination and materials, to enable a response team to be on site within a few hours, ready to work."

Dr. Torres said emergency plans may be needed if exotic ticks are introduced, referring to incidence when tick-infested reptiles were discovered at Florida import stations. Also the spring, USDA inspectors at the Miami Import Center discovered screwworm maggots on horses imported from Argentina and Venezuela. The animals were treated immediately for the fresh flesh-eating maggots, and the stalls in the secure import center were disinfected.

Besides stepping-up surveillance for ticks entering through import stations, the USDA 2002 initiative also addresses the Texas-Mexico border, where federal "tick riders" patrol on horseback, watching for fever tick-laden stray livestock crossing the Rio Grande from Mexico.

Finally, he said, bluetongue, a vector-borne disease, will be followed and mapped, as the 2002 initiative will provide funding for surveillance through the collection and testing of slaughter samples.

"In Texas, we also need surveillance and eradication funding for scrapie, a degenerative disease affecting the central nervous system of sheep and sometimes, goats," said Dr. Beals. "Also needed is increased surveillance funds for cattle tuberculosis (TB), as Texas is home to the country's two TB-quarantined cattle herds. We must wrap up eradication before other states impose restrictions on our cattle."

Dr. Torres concluded his discussion with a report on emerging disease situations, one of which is in Iowa, where an outbreak of the extremely contagious viral hemorrhagic disease of rabbits has killed nearly 100 percent of the stricken domestic animals. The disease does not affect wild rabbits. Dr. Torres said the disease may have entered the US through Mexico. "Trickle-down" effects of such disease outbreaks can be significant and widespread, he said, citing that an outbreak of the disease in Cuba killed off caged laboratory rabbits, affecting that country's ability to produce hog cholera vaccine to protect swine herds.

In Mexico, reported Dr. Torres, several million birds in poultry production facilities have been depopulated, due to an outbreak of Exotic Newcastle disease. He stressed the need for US poultry producers to practice strict biosecurity to protect flocks. He also emphasized that poultry from the affected Mexican facilities would not be allowed into the US.

The National Institute for Animal Agriculture until recently, was known as the Livestock Conservation Institute, established in 1916 as a coalition during a time when bovine tuberculosis threatened the future of public health, the livestock industry and meat processors. Headquartered in Kentucky, the NIAA's national membership producers, veterinarians, and state animal health regulatory entities.

Pride of Pampa Band wows audience

The Jazz Band, under the direction of Jones, took the audience back in time to the 1940's, when it played "In the Mood" by Garland, reminiscent of the days when Americans sat by the radio to hear the latest broadcasts during World War II, listening to Glenn Miller and his orchestra. Pride of Pampa Band held its end-of-year concert recently, featuring performances by the All-City Elementary Band, the middle school Cadet, Patriot and Concert Bands and the high school Symphonic, Concert and Jazz Bands.

When school starts at the beginning of the school year, the fifth grade band picks up their instruments for the first time. With the patience of Job, Julie Collins starts molding and teaching these young musicians. It is not an easy task since band directors must know each instrument in order to teach the future "Pride of Pampa" to play. They are encouraged to practice every day, and, with the increased purchase of cotton balls and ear plugs, moms and dads, brothers and sisters are ready for this new venture into the wonderful world of music. And, by the time spring arrives, with the help of the entire music staff and members of the Pampa High School Band, the end result is accomplishment. The evening began with the playing of the National Anthem directed by the new assistant high school band director, Jason Jones. The All-City Elementary Band, conducted by Julie Collins, played two selections entitled "Victors March" by O'Reilly and the "1812 Overture, Opus 49" by Tchaikovsky.

The sixth grade Pampa Middle School Cadet Band played "Charter point" by Roger Myers who directed this band is also the director of the middle school Patriot Band. The Cadet Band was exceptional with its interpretation of "Plaza Park Escapade." This song featured the percussion section and mimicked sounds of the big city with all its traffic jams, construction and sirens going off at different times during the piece.

The Middle School Concert Band under the direction of Jason Jones. Jones also directs the Pampa High School Concert Band and the High School Jazz Band. The Middle School Concert Band played "Early American Portrait" by Swearingin and "Atlantis" by Williams — one of the selections it played at contest.

Under the direction of Myers, the Pampa Middle School Patriot Band performed two selections. The first piece was "Mobsters" by Ho Isinger followed by "Blue Ridge Saga" by Swearingin. Continuing the program was the High School Symphonic Band under the direction and supervision of Bruce Collins. During concert season, the band split into two separate bands. Jones directed the Concert Band and Collins conducted the Symphonic Band. Each band member and the teaching staff worked with outstanding professionalism and devotion, with diligence and precision to become one of the top bands in the state.

The two bands competed in the Top of Texas Music Festival. The Concert Band received a superior number one rating and the symphonic Band was rated exceptional. The band brought home six trophies while receiving the honor of being the number two band in the entire state — the band represented the city of Pampa with dignity as conscientious young adults. The Pampa Middle School Patriot Band received a superior rating of 1, and the Middle School Concert Band received a number two rating. The Jazz Band received superior honors as well.

The Symphonic Band played "Finale" from the "New World Symphony" by Dvorak and, with just five rehearsals, played it with perfection. The group added a little humor to the program by performing "Duelin'xylos" by Smith/Saucedo. Angel Klein and John Johnson were superb on the Xylophones. For its final selection, the band played "Seventy-Six Trombones" by Wilson/Jenings. This piece featured the entire band by section.

The Jazz Band, under the direction of Jones, took the audience back in time to the 1940's, when it played "In the Mood" by Garland, reminiscent of the days when Americans sat by the radio to hear the latest broadcasts during World War II, listening to Glenn Miller and his orchestra. The band also performed "Birdland" — a piece by Zwani/Higgins.

The best was yet to come. The finale was "America the Beautiful" by Ward/Walters conducted by Jones. The piece, played with pride, was full of patriotism.

TDH offers helpful advice on how to stay healthy during long, hot Texas summers

Heat danger spans many months in the state, according to the Texas Department of Health. The department's Bureau of Vital Statistics recorded 98 deaths from heat-related causes in 1998, the last year for which complete figures are available.

AUSTIN — The oven that is fired by summer heats up quickly. With several days of record-setting temperatures already recorded in Texas, the long weeks ahead can pose serious health problems.

Heat danger spans many months in the state, according to the Texas Department of Health. The department's Bureau of Vital Statistics recorded 98 deaths from heat-related causes in 1998, the last year for which complete figures are available. Most often, the elderly, the very young, people with other illnesses or those without access to air conditioning are the victims of intense, prolonged heat.

The body normally cools itself by sweating, but the combination of high temperatures and high humidity can cause this natural cooling system to work overtime. Dehydration and heat illness can result if a person does not replace fluids and salts lost during perspiration. Also, when humidity is high, sweat does not evaporate efficiently, preventing the body from releasing heat quickly. This heating of the body to dangerous levels may result in a heat illness.

Symptoms of a heat illness include heavy sweating, muscle cramps, weakness, dizziness, nausea, weak but rapid pulse and headaches. People with these symptoms should find shade and ventilation and drink water.

If fluids are not replaced quickly, heat stroke can follow causing extremely high body temperature, red and dry skin, rapid pulse, confusion, brain damage, loss of consciousness and, eventually, death. For severe symptoms, get the victim into shade, call for emergency medical services and start cooling the person immediately with cool water or by fanning.

Staying in an air-conditioned area, either at home or in a public place such as a mall, library or recreation center, is the most efficient way to combat heat. If air conditioning is not available, pull the shades over the windows and use activity for early morning or in the evening when the temperature goes down.

—Take frequent breaks when working outside.

—Wear sun block, hats and light, loose-fitting clothes.

—Stay indoors and in air conditioning as much as possible.

—Eat more frequently but be sure meals are well balanced and light.

—Avoid dressing infants in heavy clothing or wrapping them in warm blankets.

—Check frequently on people who are elderly, ill or may need help.

—Check with a doctor about the effects of the sun and heat exposure when taking prescription drugs, especially diuretics or antihistamines.

—At first signs of heat illness (dizziness, nausea, headaches, muscle cramps) move to a cooler place, rest a few minutes, then slowly drink a cool beverage. Seek medical attention immediately if conditions do not improve.

—Pay attention to pets. Be sure they have plenty of water and do not leave them closed up in parked cars or hot buildings.

The best defense against heat-related illness is prevention. Staying cool, drinking plenty of fluids, wearing cool clothing and monitoring outdoor activities all are key to staying healthy in hot weather.

cross-ventilation, and fans to cool rooms. In areas of high temperatures and high humidity, however, turn off the fans or aim them through a window to blow the hot air out. A cool shower or bath is also an effective way to cool off. Limit the use of a stove and oven to keep temperatures lower in the home.

Children especially can quickly become dehydrated. They need to drink fluids frequently, especially water, and wear light, loose clothes. Avoid drinks that are heavily sweetened or contain caffeine. Check on children often, especially if they are playing outside in high temperatures.

Other heat precautions include:

—Never leave anyone in a closed, parked vehicle during hot weather.

—Drink plenty of fluids, but avoid drinks with alcohol, caffeine or a lot of sugar. Start drinking fluids before going out into the heat.

—Plan strenuous outdoor

PGCD: Rain enhancement program under way in region

Once clouds arrive and are seeded, rainfall measurements will be posted on the district's website at www.panhandlegroundwater.org.

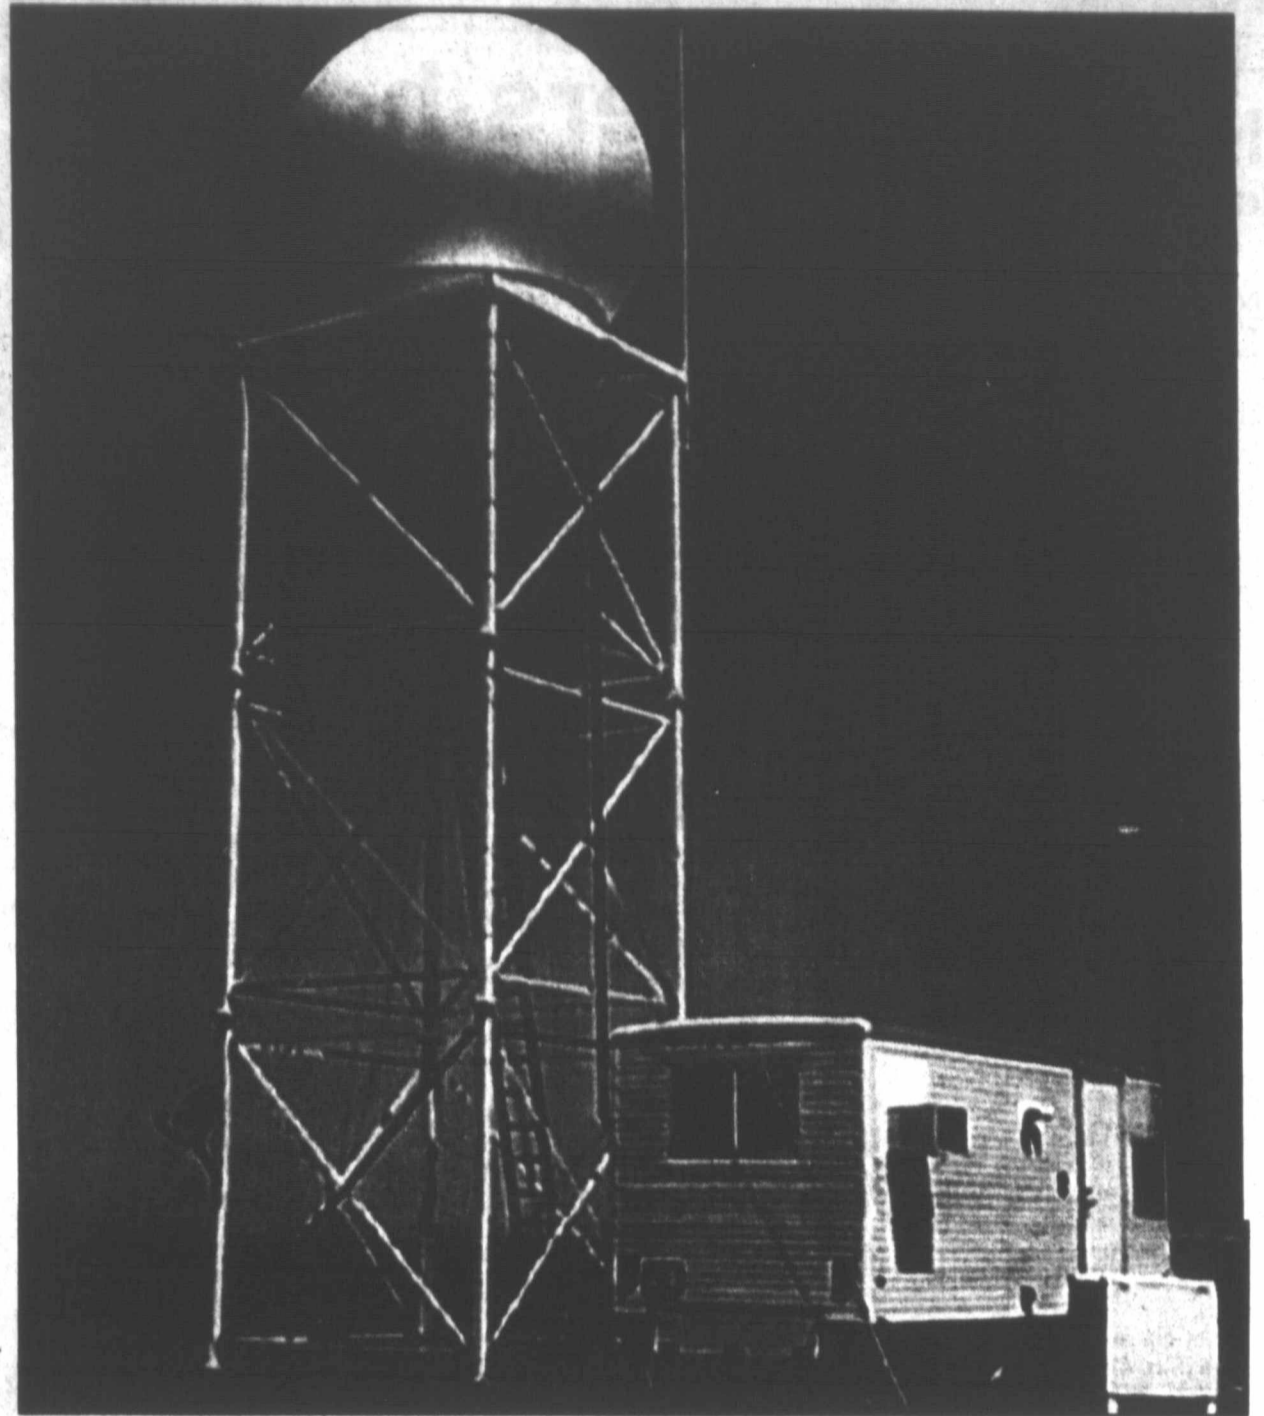

Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District's rain enhancement program recently became operational. Target area for the program includes Armstrong, Donley, Carson, Gray, Roberts and Wheeler Counties. There is also a 15-mile operational area around the outside parameters of those counties. Weather Modification, Inc., of Fargo, N.D., is providing aircraft, equipment, personnel and services through Sept. 30. The plane and radar have

Cafes, gift shops giving public libraries new image

By DOUG JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Shhhhhhhhhhh!

It's a familiar sound coming from behind the counter at the Springfield public library. Only this time, the source is not a shushing librarian — it's an espresso machine.

Nearby, a woman crunches on her Caesar salad and thumbs through the latest John Grisham mystery. Two teens sip their caramel-flavored java as they peruse the periodicals. Down the hall, a man buys a bag of Edgar Allan Poe-pourri at the gift shop.

Sound more like a Barnes and Noble bookstore than the stuffy library from the days of old?

Library director Annie Busch certainly hopes so.

"The library is no longer the dim, dusty place that you only visit if you have to," Busch says. "It's suddenly a pretty cool place to hang out."

The five-month-old Library Center in Springfield, which Busch describes as more of a community center, has been a hit. The district's circulation has doubled. Close to 12,000 people walk through the doors each week and more than 4,500 people a week use the center's 11 meeting rooms.

"There was a time not too long ago when people were

"It's all about customer service. People are looking for destination and convenience. Why shouldn't the library provide those things?" asked Harriet Henderson of the Public Library Association in Maryland. "It's just like any other business. The customer comes first."

predicting libraries would no longer be needed in this Internet age," Busch said. "I think we are proving them wrong."

Libraries across the country have been experimenting with similar creative measures — coffee shops, gift stores, meeting rooms — in the face of competition from mega-book stores and the Internet.

"It's all about customer service. People are looking for destination and convenience. Why shouldn't the library provide those things?" asked Harriet Henderson of the Public Library Association in Maryland. "It's just like any other business. The customer comes first."

Serving latte in the library has been done for years in Atlanta, Portland, Milwaukee and elsewhere. The Los Angeles Public Library went a step further by expanding its cafe to include a Chinese restaurant and a frozen yogurt stand.

But with the success of those cafes, the word has spread.

been based at Perry Lefors Field near Pampa. The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission has issued the license and permit and will provide 50 percent matching funds for the project. Actual cloud-seeding, of course, is contingent upon seedable clouds. Before 11 a.m. each day, the project meteorologist will evaluate the prospects for seedable clouds to develop. If the weather data indicates that seedable clouds are likely to develop somewhere within the target area during the day, the meteorologist will advise the pilot to have his aircraft ready to fly by a specific time. He will remain on standby alert and should have his aircraft engines operating within 15 minutes after he has received a directive from the meteorologist to fly a seedable mission.

Once clouds arrive and are seeded, rainfall measurements will be posted on the district's website at www.panhandlegroundwater.org. When seeding has taken place, PGCD will also have the actual radar, with the tracking of the aircraft, posted.

For more information about the rain enhancement program, call general manager C.E. Williams, at (806) 883-2501, or Shea Lea Hollar, meteorologist, at (806) 883-2501 (office) or (806) 665-1952 (radar site).

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Yolanda Griffith scored 24 points as the Sacramento Monarchs defeated the New York Liberty 77-56.

Griffith, league MVP last season, was 8-for-12 from the field and 8-for-9 at the free-throw line. LaTasha Byears added 12 points for the Monarchs (2-3), who stopped a three-game losing streak Friday night.

Tari Phillips had 25 points for the Liberty (2-4), who shot 29 percent.

The Monarchs dominated in the paint, outscoring New York 26-6 there in the first half.

Sacramento played without All-Star Ruthie Bolton-Holfield, who is resting a sprained right knee. New York's Crystal Robinson missed her fourth straight game because of a sprained left ankle.

In other WNBA games, it was Shock 80, Fever 76; and Storm 67, Sting 62.

Shock 80, Fever 76

Astou Ndiaye-Diatta had 18 points and eight rebounds as Detroit (2-2) won at home despite blowing a 19-point first-half lead.

Lakers hold off Pacers to take 2-0 lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shaquille O'Neal was face down under the Lakers' basket. Another fierce foul had knocked him horizontal with seven minutes to play.

After lying motionless on the hardwood just long enough to make the home crowd worry, O'Neal rose to his knees, then his feet. He walked slowly toward the free throw line, and as the cheers swelled, a smile crept across his face.

Shaq shook his head. Even a pounding of historic proportions couldn't get Superman down. "I'm big, and I can take it," he said.

O'Neal shot an NBA-record 39 free throws while contributing 40 points and 24 rebounds to Los Angeles' 111-104 victory over the Indiana Pacers on Friday night in Game 2 of the NBA Finals.

Los Angeles leads the series 2-0, with Game 3 set for Sunday in Indianapolis.

Though O'Neal's performance carried the day, the Lakers were forced to find out what lies beneath their glittery surface in a gritty, unglamorous game.

In addition to the Pacers' all-out attack on Shaq, guard Kobe Bryant — O'Neal's top wingman and the team's second-leading scorer — was lost in the first quarter with a nasty left ankle sprain that had him on crutches afterward.

Shaq made just 18 of his 39 free throws and struggled with his own foul trouble. When he picked up his fifth foul and came out with 6:40 left, the Lakers played 82 hair-raising seconds with John Salley, Robert Horry, Derek Fisher, Glen Rice and Brian Shaw on the court.

"We know we're a good basketball team when one or two guys go down," said Harper, who had 21 points. "We didn't know who would step up. It turned out to be all of us. That's a great sign."

Harper and Rice assumed the scoring load for Bryant, who expects team doctors to try to keep him out of Sunday's game. Rice also had 21 points, including five 3-pointers, while Horry had seven points and blocked four shots.

The Pacers accumulated plenty of gaudy statistics in the game, though they aren't the kind you brag about. Indiana committed 33 fouls in the second half, and the fourth quarter took 56 minutes. Of the 10 Pacers who played, each fouled O'Neal at least once.

In the entire history of the league, no player had ever taken so many free throws in a game. Wilt Chamberlain set the overall record of 34 in 1962, Bob Cousy set the postseason record of 32 in 1953, and Bob Pettit set the finals record of 24 in 1958.

"Whatever it takes to win a ballgame, that's what we're going to do," Indiana coach Larry Bird said. "If it takes a four-hour game, that's what we're going to do. We're down 2-0, and we have to find a way to win one."

Unlike Game 1, in which the Lakers breezed to an early lead and were never really threatened, the Pacers kept Friday's game close. Given the Lakers' precarious position with Bryant out and Shaq clanking 21 free throws, the Pacers agreed they let one slip away.

"We should have had this game," said Austin Croshere, who scored 24 points off the bench. "This was a great opportunity for us."

The Pacers led 67-64 on Reggie Miller's dunk with 4:41 left in the third quarter. Even after Los Angeles took the lead for good with an 8-2 run to end the period, Indiana kept it close.

Jalen Rose led the Pacers with 30 points, and Miller, shaking off his 1-for-16 performance in Game 1, had 21 — but just two in the fourth quarter. The Pacers made just four turnovers, but poor shooting (37.5 percent) and O'Neal's heroics were too much to overcome.

Seven Pampa coaches submit their resignations

Pampa defensive coordinator Wade Wesley (center) will be the new head coach at Garden City, Tex.

PAMPA — Seven Pampa coaches submitted their resignations at the end of the 1999-2000 school year.

One of the departing coaches is Pampa High defensive coordinator Wade Wesley, who resigned to become the head coach and athletic director at Garden City, Tex., a Class 1A school near Big Spring.

Wesley has coached football for 10 years and was a math teacher. Wesley was also in charge of the powerlifting team and assisted with the track program, dealing mainly with the shot and discus throwers. It will be Wesley's first head coaching job.

PHS golf coach Frank McCullough has also resigned. He will continue to teach math on a parttime basis. McCullough's position has been filled by Mike Self, the former Amarillo Caprock golf coach.

Other Pampa coaches who have submitted their resignations include:

— Amanda Sandlin, assistant high school volleyball coach and basketball coach, physical education teacher.

— Monte Sewell, assistant high school volleyball and basketball coach, social studies teacher.

— Ryan Dykes, assistant high school boys basketball coach, head 9th grade boys basketball coach, health teacher.

— Dick Dunham, Pampa Middle School athletic coordinator, assistant high school golf and football coach. Dunham will be charge of textbooks and record-keeping for the PISD, but he will have no more coaching responsibilities.

— Wendy Cavalier, Pampa Middle School volleyball, basketball and track coach, physical education teacher.

Some of the vacancies may be filled, but others may not, according to PHS Athletic Director Dennis Cavalier.

"Any position that comes open could be absorbed within the system. It depends upon the economic conditions," Cavalier said. "If a position isn't filled, it just means that the rest of us are going to have to roll up our sleeves and work harder."

Stanford advances to second round in College World Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Stanford reminded Louisiana-Lafayette who had been to the College World Series before.

The Cardinal took advantage of some control problems Friday night and sent the Ragin' Cajuns, who are in the CWS for the first time, one loss away from a trip home with a 6-4 win.

"It's difficult to come here and play for the first time for anybody. I think that's why experience does help," Stanford coach Mark Marquess said. "It's not the end all, but it certainly helps if your players know what to expect."

The win set up a showdown Sunday between Stanford and Clemson, which beat San Jose State 10-6 earlier Friday.

The Cardinal (48-15) got a solid performance from starting pitcher Jason Young and closer Jeff Bruksch to win the CWS opener for the sixth time in their last seven trips.

Although Young gave up three home runs, he kept the damage to the minimum by keeping the Ragin' Cajuns off the bases. Two of Louisiana-Lafayette's homers were solo shots and the third was with one man on.

Young (9-1), who picked up two wins for the Cardinal in last year's CWS, gave up six hits and four runs in 7 1-3 innings. Bruksch pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings, striking out three, for his 13th save.

Louisiana-Lafayette (47-19) and San Jose State (41-23) will play in Sunday's elimination game.

Louisiana-Lafayette starter Justin Gabriel walked three of the first four batters and never recovered, finishing with a season-high seven walks.

"I don't think it takes a rocket scientist to determine what those walks were from," coach Tony Robichaux said. "It's tough coming here for the first time and playing in front of this crowd. Next time out, I don't think we'll see some of the same things now that we've been here."

Catcher Damien Alvarado was 3-for-3 and scored twice for the Cardinal, who scored two runs in the third inning and added another pair in the fourth.

Alvarado led off the third with a single and eventually scored on Edmund Muth's RBI fielder's choice. Eric Bruntlett scored on Rick Haydel's fielding error.

Craig Thompson gave the Cardinal two more runs in the fourth with a double. Muth added a solo homer in the seventh.

Haydel hit a two-run homer and Jarvis Larry and Nathan Nelson each hit solo shots for the Ragin' Cajuns.

Clemson 10, San Jose St. 6
Clemson got an early surprise from San Jose State, but quickly turned the game around with 10 runs in two innings.

"We knew we were going to score some runs off these guys. We just got in a groove and hitting is contagious," said Patrick Boyd, whose three-run homer highlighted the Tigers' eight-run second inning.

Clemson added two more in the third and it was all the Tigers (51-16) needed. They scored seven runs off four errors.

The Spartans (41-23) outhit the Tigers 11-10, but couldn't rally from a 10-2 deficit.

Casey Stone and Justin Singleton each drove in two runs for Clemson, which has won six straight since losing to Georgia Tech in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship game.

Ryan Mottl (10-3) allowed nine hits and six runs in five innings. Steve Reba, who got the Tigers out of a jam in the seventh inning, earned his second save.

The Tigers chased San Jose starter Chris Key (13-3) after just 1 1-3 innings. It was the shortest outing of the season for Key, who allowed eight runs, three earned, on seven hits.

"One of our big concerns early in the game was to get out of the first three innings alive. I thought we were a little tight when the game started," San Jose State coach Sam Piraro said.

Racing Pampa

A pioneer once thought Pampa would be a good name for a town. A century later, a woman thought Pampa would also be a good name for a racehorse.

"Pampa," a 3-year-old thoroughbred, is entered at Grand Prairie's Lone Star Park during the racing season, which started in April and ends July 23. Pampa's owner is Georgia Crawford of Houston.

Contacted at her home, Mrs. Crawford said she thought naming the horse after a Texas city was a good idea.

"I've never been to the town of Pampa, but it sounded like a good name for a horse," Mrs. Crawford said.

She couldn't remember if she saw the name in a newspaper article or some other publication. Mrs. Crawford purchased Pampa for $75,000 from breeder Richard L. Golden of Maryland.

Pampa's jockey is Glen Murphy, the trainer James Hudson.

To date, Pampa has earned $1,073. He's finished in the money in 33 percent of his races and was sixth in his last outing May 27.

Rockies edge Rangers in 12th on Shumpert's two-run homer

DENVER (AP) — John Wetteland is among the long list of closers who resemble flailing middle relievers at Coors Field.

Terry Shumpert hit a two-run single off Wetteland in the 12th inning to give the Colorado Rockies a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers on Friday night.

Wetteland (3-2) fell to 0-2 with a 20.25 ERA in six games at Coors, joining the likes of hard-throwers Billy Wagner, Matt Mantai, Ugueth Urbina, Robb Nen and even John Rocker who have seen saves disappear into the thin air.

"He's human," Texas manager Johnny Oates said. "He had a streak going for us before tonight. He's been very good for us. Those things happen once in a while."

Ivan Rodriguez had given the Rangers a 2-1 lead in the top of the inning with a run-scoring single, but Wetteland (3-2) couldn't get an out and blew his first save in his last 15 chances.

"Everybody talks about the streak," Wetteland said. "What I keep saying is Dimaggio's streak came to an end. Cal's came to an end. Streaks come to an end. I'm not naive enough to think it could go on forever."

Julian Tavarez (4-2) pitched two innings in relief as Colorado's bullpen improved to 18-5 this season.

Jeff Cirillo started the game-winning rally with a leadoff walk, and Todd Helton followed with a single to left. Cirillo moved to third and Helton went to second when Rusty Greer bobbled the ball.

Wetteland intentionally walked Jeffrey Hammonds to load the bases, but Shumpert foiled the strategy when he hit an 0-1 slider into left-center field, scoring Cirillo and Helton without a play at the plate.

"It's one of those things where you know it's been someone different every night," Shumpert said. "I was thinking, 'This is a perfect situation. Just get contact and you tie the score at least.'"

The Rockies, who have won 14 of 16 at home, missed an opportunity in the eighth when Mike Lansing failed to get Tom Goodwin home from third with one out and Larry Walker grounded out sharply to third.

Walker, activated from the disabled list before the game, went 0-for-5 in his first career start in left field. The five-time Gold Glove right fielder had been sidelined with an elbow injury since May 10.

Shumpert made Walker's return a triumphant one, ending the game with one swing nearly four hours after the first pitch.

"To sit around on the bench all game long and come up there and get a knock, that's Shump, baby," Jeffrey Hammonds said. "Shump's a baller. He don't complain. He just does his job and he does it well."

The frenetic finish overshadowed the second pitcher's duel in Denver this season. Pittsburgh's Francisco Cordova beat Masato Yoshii and the Rockies 2-1 on May 26.

Texas starter Kenny Rogers, who has pitched into the seventh in all 12 starts this season, retired 14 straight hitters before Cirillo doubled with one out in the seventh.

Rogers escaped the threat by getting Helton to pop out and Scott Servais to ground weakly to third. He gave up just one run and three hits in seven innings.

Pedro Astacio matched Rogers inning for inning and was never in much trouble after the second. He allowed one run in seven innings, while walking three and striking out 10.

Texas took a 1-0 lead on Rafael Palmeiro's two-out homer, his 18th, in the first, and Colorado tied the game on Servais' double in the second.

Notes: Palmeiro's homer was the 379th of his career, moving him into a tie with Orlando Cepeda and Tony Perez for 42nd on the career list. ... OF Gabe Kapler returned from the 15-day DL and went 2-for-5. ... Eight of Palmeiro's last 15 hits are homers. ... Colorado plays 18 of its next 24 games at home. ... Astacio became Colorado's career leader in innings pitched with 580. ... Texas SS Royce Clayton ended an 0-for-17 slide with a single in the 11th.

Mets win Subway Series opener

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Sports Writer

Mike Piazza and the New York Mets ended any drama in the Subway Series opener early. Ray Durham and the Chicago White Sox took a lot longer to beat their crosstown rivals.

Piazza hit a grand slam in the third inning as the Mets bombarded Roger Clemens for nine runs — matching the most he's ever allowed in a game — and routed the Yankees 12-2 Friday night.

"I've always enjoyed the tradition of Yankee Stadium," Piazza said. "Just getting your name read over the public-address system gives you a shot of adrenaline."

Durham waited until the 14th inning to give the White Sox the 6-5 win over the Cubs on an RBI single.

"Probably the last two innings, guys were saying, 'We've got to hurry up and get this game over with. Somebody win it so we can go home and get some sleep,'" Durham said.

In other interleague games, it was Detroit 4, St. Louis 2; Cleveland 7, Cincinnati 4; Toronto 13, Montreal 3; Tampa Bay 6, Florida 4; Atlanta 6, Boston 4; Philadelphia 9, Baltimore 5; Kansas City 6, Pittsburgh 5; Minnesota 9, Milwaukee 6; Arizona 4, Anaheim 1; Colorado 3, Texas 2; Oakland 3, Los Angeles 1; and San Francisco 9, Seattle 2.

Houston beat San Diego 7-6 in the only National League game. Mets 12, Yankees 2

Slumping Derek Bell homered and drove in five runs and Edgardo Alfonzo also connected as the Mets closed their deficit to 7-6 against the Yankees in four seasons of interleague play.

Al Leiter (7-1) beat Clemens (4-6) for the third time in two years. And in all three games, Piazza provided a big home run.

"I've been fortunate to have some success in this series," Piazza said. "These games are exciting and electric."

White Sox 6, Cubs 5, 14 innings
With one out in the 14th, Herbert Perry singled to right and stole second with pinch-hitter Jeff Abbott at the plate.

Todd Van Poppel (0-2) walked Abbott. Daniel Garibay relieved, and Durham sent a 2-1 pitch past Willie Greene down the left-field line to end the game after 4 hours, 42 minutes.

Sammy Sosa, who struck out in his first four at-bats, tied the game at 5 with a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth off closer Keith Foulke.

Blue Jays 13, Expos 3
Shannon Stewart went 4-for-5 with a two-run homer and three doubles, tying the team record for extra-base hits.

Carlos Delgado hit his AL-leading 23rd home run, his 11th in 22 games, and also doubled as host Toronto improved to 10-4 against its Canadian rival.

Devil Rays 6, Marlins 4
John Flaherty homered, and Vinny Castilla and Felix Martinez each drove in two runs as host Tampa Bay won for the fourth time in five games. Steve Trachsel (4-6) stopped his four-game losing streak.

Indians 7, Reds 4
David Justice had his second two-homer game in four days and Richie Sexson homered twice at Jacobs Field.

Justice, who was born in Cincinnati and still has a home there, hit a two-run homer in the first off Denny Neagle (5-1) and added a solo homer in the third. Tigers 4, Cardinals 2

Garrett Stephenson (8-2) lost his second straight decision after an 8-0 start, allowing four runs and seven hits in six innings at Detroit.

Mark McGwire, who missed the previous two games with a sore hamstring, went 0-for-4 with three strikeouts and has one home run since May 24. Braves 6, Red Sox 4

Greg Maddux (8-1) extended his unbeaten streak to seven starts since May 3, allowing four runs in 6 2-3 innings.

Andres Galarraga hit his 16th home run as Atlanta won for just the third time in eight games. Boston has lost seven of 10 overall and dropped to 2-5 at Turner Field.

Phillies 9, Orioles 5
Scott Rolen homered in a seven-run second inning and visiting Philadelphia overcame two homers by Charles Johnson and one each by Albert Belle and Jeff Conine.

Doug Glanville homered and drove in three runs for the Phillies, who improved to 5-2 against the AL.

LIBRARY

"We see people come here for the first time who can't believe their eyes. They can't believe we're serving food and allowing them to carry it around," says Lisa Masten, assistant director of the Newington Library in Connecticut, where the "Cup & Chaucer Cafe" has been serving biscotti sticks and coffee for three years. "It's not a huge money maker, but the people enjoy it."

In Saratoga Springs, N.Y., a local coffee vendor provides jazz music and couches in the library space that opened up after back issues of periodicals were put on computer disks.

"Kids go in there after school and no one hassles them about being noisy," said director Harry Dutcher. Leo MacLeod, an entrepreneurial activities coordinator at the Multnomah County Library in Portland, Ore., predicts that by the year 2010, every public library in the country will have a coffee bar, or the last few will be scurrying to install them "to avoid being the last on the planet without one."

In Springfield, the Churchill Cafe next to the checkout counter is just one of the added improvements that gives patrons a reason to visit. There's also a young adult room, a business center with computer training software, a room for local history and genealogy materials, and a gift shop where people can buy books.

"I absolutely love it here," said Dolores Pennington, 74, who slurped a bowl of French onion soup during one of her twice-monthly trips. "I have been going to the library for a long time, and it's never been this much fun."

Younger people enjoy it, too. Besides the five dozen computers where they can get their e-mail and chat-room fix, teens pack into the library on many Friday nights for "poetry slams," music events and even karaoke.

Still, for the bookworms who insist on waiting for the bookmobile rather than risk being seen in public, the library hasn't forgotten about you, Busch says.

The Library Center is one of 100 across the country experimenting this summer with electronic books and allowing cardholders to download novels through the Internet.

Patrons can also join the library's "Best Sellers Club" and have their name automatically placed on a hold list for authors of their choosing. When the book arrives, the patron receives a call or an e-mail telling them their book is ready to be picked up.

"Instead of the shying away from the technology that was supposed to make us obsolete, we are embracing it," says Busch, who reads "Futurist Magazine" each month to see what new ideas she might incorporate into her $6 million facility.

Busch disputes the notion that she's trying to compete with the mega-bookstores like Barnes & Noble, which has expanded into larger quarters in Springfield within the last five years.

"I think readers' expectations have changed with the presence of large bookstores, and libraries are just trying to keep up with those changes," Busch says. "Luckily, there are still enough readers out there to keep us both busy."

Letters to the editor

Grieving families hurt by desecration ...

To the editor,

In case you didn't know it, one of God's commandments is "Thou Shalt Not Steal." May God forgive you.

If you thought that cemetery flowers are not important or are not meaningful to someone, you are wrong. The only way I can show my love for my daughter is to put flowers on her grave. I can't hold her, do things with her or talk to her. I can't see her or give her a hug every day to let her know I love her. I worked very hard finding just the right floral arrangement to put on her grave that would show how much I love and miss her.

Are you a mother? Are you a daughter? Are you a father or a son? How would you feel if someone stole the flowers from your loved one's grave? It hurts. A lot!

If you needed flowers to decorate your home or another grave, call me instead of stealing from me. Maybe I would be willing to help you. If you still have my flowers, would you please consider returning them? It would mean a lot to me.

To others who put flowers on their loved one's graves:

The cemetery managers do the best that they can but they can't control everything. Especially dishonesty and disrespect of other people's property. Be careful what you put at the cemetery. Be sure that it isn't something of importance to you as this wreath is to me.

I want to trust people but it's really difficult when they steal from you. If this letter sounds like I'm upset, you're right. I am! And I'm hurt. I pray that your guilty conscience doesn't keep you awake at night.

Jane Jacobs,

years ago today, the unthinkable happened, and our little girl died. She was just 7-years-old. We never thought about having to bury one of our children, so having to find just the right place could have been difficult. We were fortunate in that there was a place close to my mother who had died just four years before. We wanted our little girl to be close to her grandmother so that she would not be alone.

For the last seven years, I have visited my daughter's grave as often as I could. It is so hard to find comfort after the loss of my precious little girl, but I was able to find some comfort by visiting her grave. I would take her small gifts on those special occasions such as birthdays, Christmas and holidays. The gifts had to be small, so I took a great deal of time to choose just the right present so that it would fit on her headstone. I have done this ever since she died. It made me feel better to continue to give my daughter those small presents, and I found comfort in seeing them each time that I would go to visit her.

Just recently someone took that little bit of comfort away from me. I visited her grave this last weekend and found that everything had been stripped away — the flowers, the little rabbit, the Christmas tree ornament, the Barbie necklace, everything stolen. I have done little but cry since that day. The person or persons who took those things got little of monetary value, but they have taken a great deal from my family.

I can only guess that it was some adolescent who thought it would be a "cool" prank, and I'm sure that all of this person's friends were impressed. To this person, I can only ask that you find your conscience and return my daughter's birthday and Christmas presents to her. To your parents, you have my sympathy. To those of you who have loved ones buried in Pampa, please support your cemetery board and let's find a way to make the graves of the ones that we have lost a safe and peaceful resting place.

I have lost the comfort of knowing that my daughter's grave would remain undisturbed and that has caused me a great deal of pain, but the person or persons who took the things from my daughter's headstone have lost their souls, and they will suffer far more than I ever will.

Cemeteries should be sacred places

To the editor,

Lindsay Garmon of Pampa, right, displays two ride-all-you-want wristbands from the Pride of Texas Shows carnival, one on each wrist. According to her mother Sherry Garmon, Lindsay, 5, enjoyed the carnival so much in 1999 that she wore her wristband for a full year until the hot pink band faded to white. In recognition for her faithfulness, Johnnie Cayer, Price of Texas Shows general manager, right, presented Lindsay with a new yellow wristband and a free ticket to ride all the rides for one night.

"Dad Took Care Of Everything"

Dear Children:

When your Dad died, I was in a state of shock, I couldn't do anything; not even answer the simplest question. But Dad knew how hard it would be to take care of the endless decisions and duties that would arise, and he left me a Personal Emergency Portfolio which contained complete information and instruction for handling every detail in the event of his death. And most thoughtful of all, Dad had already purchased cemetery property. What a blessing it was, in my emotional condition, to have everything taken care of.

I know you will be relieved in the knowledge that all has been taken care of - funeral service information, in our Personal Emergency Portfolio, burial property, everything - so that some day you can say "Mom took care of everything."

Love,
Mom

P.S. You are all grown now, with children of your own. It would please me greatly to know that you have purchased cemetery property for yourselves. It's one of the most caring things you can do for one another.

The United States Achievement Academy recently announced United States National Award Winners from the area.

The following Pampa students were chosen USAA award winners in various categories: Ivan Perez, Rebecca Fatheree, Teryn Stowers, Trevor Stowers, Megan Coutts, Jared W. Spearman, Pampa High School, and Whitney Watts and Jaclyn Diana Spearman, Pampa Middle School, "Honor Roll"; and Trevor Stowers, "Student Council."

The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. The PHS students were nominated for the award by Starla Kindle, a counselor at PHS. All USAA award-winners will appear in the USAA Official Yearbook, published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners based upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit and dependability.

Perez is the son of Antonio and Esperanza Perez of Pampa and is the grandson of Valentin and Esperanza Sannana and Eugenio and Romana Perez, all of Durango, Mexico.

Fatheree is the daughter of Tim and Sue Fatheree of Pampa and is the granddaughter of Andy and Louise Smith of Pampa and Hobart and Ann Fatheree of Fair Oaks Ranch.

Teryn and Trevor Stowers are the children of Dennis and Tonja Stowers of Pampa and are the grandchildren of Betty and Vernon Stowers of Pampa and Jim and Audie Atherton of Atlanta, Ga.

Coutts is the daughter of Joe and Cheryl Coutts of Pampa and is the granddaughter of B.J. and Martha Green and Caroline Coutts, all of Pampa.

Jared and Jaclyn Spearman are the children of Jay and Janis Spearman of Pampa and are the grandchildren of John and Angela Spearman and Evelyn and H.J. Johnson, all of Pampa.

Watts is the daughter of Frankie and Janet Watts of Pampa and is the granddaughter of Joe and Sue Hall and Orval Watts, all of Pampa.

The United States Achievement Academy recently announced Pampa High School student Trevor Stowers was named an All-American Scholar.

USAA established the All-American Scholar program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. To be eligible for the honor, students must earn a 3.3 or higher grade point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor or other qualified sponsor are accepted. USAA All-American Scholars are named in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, published nationally.

Stowers was nominated for the award by PHS Counselor Starla Kindle.

He is the son of Dennis and Tonja Stowers of Pampa and is the grandson of Betty and Vernon Stowers of Pampa and Jim and Audie Atherton of Atlanta, Ga.

Preserving family memories ... Family cookbooks more than recipes

By STEPHANIE ALLMON
Waco Tribune-Herald
WACO (AP) — For many families, summertime means reunion time. And although they can't capture that time in a bottle, some families have found a way to preserve the food, stories and memories shared at their reunions — by compiling a family cookbook.

medical school in Kansas City, Loen said.
Now another generation of Ironses, including Loen and Kerry's two children, uses the cookbook. Part of the fun of having a family cookbook is calling family members to double-check recipes and to see what they've cooked, she said.

cookbook that includes photos of ancestors and personal memories about each member of the family.
(The cookbook) helped me think back and remember special times," family member Suzanne Durham said.

"I wanted to preserve some of the dishes that have come down from my mother and her friends, to share cooking from my generation and to give out good recipes from sons and daughters-in-law," she wrote.

PPQG Panhandle Piecemakers Quilt Guild met May 25 at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center. One guest was present.

The following business was conducted and announcements made:

—Five members participated in "Show-and-Tell."

—Janie VanZandt and President Pat Stubbs gave a report on the progress of establishing an Internet website for the guild.

—Members remembered Alma Goodner whose husband suffered a stroke recently.

—Members returned Jennie Hennig's flower appliqué blocks in the Friendship Block exchange while Mary Seedig distributed her selection for the next month.

—Brenda Donelson reported on the progress of the Raffle Quilt, saying everything but the outside border has been quilted. At the time of the meeting, Vallie Futch had the quilt. Futch and Susie Edwards will mark the quilting design for the remainder of the quilt before passing it along to others for completion.

—Chapters Five and Six were distributed by Laura Davis in the Millennium Mystery Quilt project. Scheduled completion for the project is August 2000 with the remaining six chapters to be distributed two at a time at the summer PPQG meetings.

—Liza Harrison kicked off a voluntary new fun project for PPQG members. An "Ohio Rose" block pattern was distributed to everyone present. Members wishing to participate were asked to sew as many of the blocks as they wished and then bring the finished blocks to the June meeting for a drawing. The more blocks the more chances to win. Quarterly block drawings will continue with the next block pattern being distributed in August.

—The program was a demonstration/lecture on "Quilt Borders" presented by PPQG member Elaine Johnson.

—The deadline for the monthly newsletter was the 10th of the month. All information should be given to Christine Griffin, Newsletter editor.

Davis won the Sand's Fabric and Quilt Corner door prize.

The next PPQG meeting will be at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, June 22 at the Pampa Senior Citizens Center, 500 W. Francis. The scheduled program will be conducted by PPQG member Karol Hervey on "Round Robin Quilts." For more information, call (806) 779-2115.

Honeymoon High, Jinks Are No Longer Laughing Matter

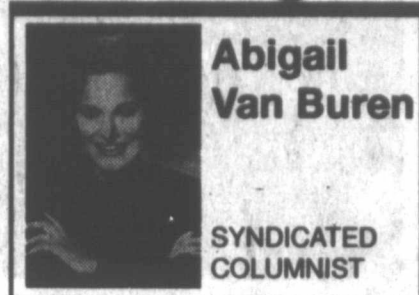

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, my husband and I honeymooned in French Polynesia where we met three other newlywed couples. Some older people were there also. We considered them intruders and were pretty rotten to them. We hogged the hammocks, beach chairs and best tables, made fun of their bodies and generally made their lives miserable.

My father is a retired military officer who divorced my mother and moved to the Gulf Coast. Each year we join his houseguests for a big birthday barbecue weekend. A good friend of his from Virginia, an older woman, attends almost every year.

One of my uncles mentioned they were going to French Polynesia, so I brought our honeymoon pictures this year. When my father's friend saw them, she said she had been there at the same time we were, recovering from a month-long camping trip in Australia. We soon realized why she looked so "familiar." She was one of our victims. She must have recognized us long ago, but said nothing. We were so mortified, we returned to our room with a "headache."

I couldn't look at her the rest of the weekend and left without a word. My father knows something is wrong, but I can't bring myself to tell him. I have always been his favorite and would not want him to think I am such a rotten person. How do I get out of this?

DADDY'S LITTLE GIRL

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR LITTLE GIRL: Your bodies may have been firm and beautiful, but the side of yourself you showed your unfortunate fellow travelers was truly ugly. If you have learned nothing else from your experience, it's that the world is becoming an increasingly smaller place.

There is no way to "get out of this." So grow up, fess up, and apologize to your father's friend for your inexcusably rude behavior. She showed a lot of character by not telling your father about you, and you can learn a lot from her that you should have learned long ago.

DEAR ABBY: This morning with only a few minutes to go before we needed to leave for work, I asked my husband if the outfit I was wearing looked OK. His answer was, "I don't like those pants." I was really ticked off. And then he got mad at me for asking him what he thought and getting mad at his answer.

I can understand this logically; however, I can't imagine giving anyone the same answer he did to that question. It was a rude and unhelpful thing to say and it hurt my feelings. It was too late for me to change — and why should I change just because he doesn't like the pants? It's not like I have an unlimited wardrobe.

Now every time I wear those pants, I'll know that he doesn't like them. I guess the bottom line is, I was looking for an affirmation about how I looked, and he didn't give me one. Am I being too sensitive, or is he speaking his mind too much?

MICHELLE IN SEATTLE

DEAR MICHELLE: Your husband thought he was being asked to give an honest opinion. I can't fault him for doing it. The next time you ask him a question about your appearance, carefully consider how you phrase it.

P.S. Look at it this way: Your husband must have an eye for quality — he picked you, didn't he?

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have:
5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
* Dig into your imagination for answers. Friends are unusually resourceful. One-on-one relating presents hurdles. Use caution. Just when you think you have cleared a problem, you could tumble. Deal with financial matters, leaving no questions unanswered. Tonight: Visit with a friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
* Others mean well, but they don't always make their opinions clear. You can't change that, but you can certainly change your attitude. Confirm work details. Confusion surrounds your decisions. A boss might not reveal the whole story yet. Tonight: Be agreeable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
* Make work a high priority. You might need to regroup because of news that comes your way. Understand that you might not have all the answers. Explore other ideas. Schedule an overdue doctor or dentist appointment. Tonight: Off to the gym.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
* Imagination carries you across the finish line. An associate means well, but he doesn't always agree with you. Take charge. Head in the direction you want. Make time for a child or a new friend. You might not be seeing someone realistically. Tonight: Get into the moment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
* You are on a merry-go-round as you try to decide what to do with a family member. Confusion comes from associates. You might not know where they are coming from. Make inquiries. Use self-discipline, even if you want to toss your hands in the air in pure frustration. Tonight: Head on home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
* Pace yourself carefully. Understand what others want. Continue asking questions; sleuth through work problems. What you think is perfect might not be. Be realistic. Take off your rose-colored glasses. Brainstorm with co-workers. Tonight: Run errands.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
* What you think will work financially just might not. Be realistic about your needs and limits. Avoid risks. Do not assume the check is in the mail until it arrives at your door. Relax by pursuing a favorite hobby or pastime. Tonight: Pay bills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
* Family members might mean well, but they unintentionally throw a monkey wrench into your plans. Stay sure of yourself. Understand your limits. Your smile and endurance win out against the odds. Remain confident and know what you are after. Stay focused. Tonight: Whatever makes you happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
* Assume nothing, and you'll gain. Confirm plans; go over projects; recheck phone messages. You might not be as direct as you think you are. Misunderstandings happen easily. What you think you hear might not be what someone is trying to convey. Tonight: Curl up with a good book.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
* Your sense of direction might be askew because of demands you are making on yourself. Be realistic about a money matter. Touch base with someone in the know. Understandings flourish because of your willingness to go that extra mile. Tonight: Where your friends are.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
* Try as you might, you aren't seeing the whole picture, emotionally or professionally. You could be vague, or you might be having a difficult time anchoring a problem in reality. Listen to a boss; confirm what you think you are hearing. Remain open to new information. Tonight: Work late.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
* Your intuition has very little to do with reality right now. Take charge; do needed research; ask questions. Work with the empirical, not hunches. You'll land on your feet. Answer e-mail and browse the Net. Tonight: Keep the inquiries coming.

People in the news ...

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lisa Marie Presley, whose childhood home is one of this city's most famous landmarks, wants to give hope to families who have nowhere to live.

The daughter of Elvis Presley was in her hometown Thursday to break ground for Presley Place, housing for the homeless that will open in January.

Elvis Presley was born into poverty and lived in public housing in Memphis as a youth. Rock stardom brought him the money to build his mansion, Graceland, which is now one of the city's most popular tourist spots.

The Metropolitan Inter-Faith Association hopes to begin construction on Presley Place by the end of June with $1.3 million donated by the Elvis Presley Charitable Foundation.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Elisabeth Shue is leaving Cambridge.

Shue, who earned an Oscar nomination for "Leaving Las Vegas," was among the thousands who donned caps and gowns and graduated from Harvard University on Thursday.

Shue was one semester short of earning a political science degree when she dropped out of Harvard 15 years ago to start her acting career.

Her brother, former "Melrose Place" star Andrew Shue, was in the audience at graduation, along with her husband, film director Davis Guggenheim, and their 3-year-old son, Miles.

The new degree doesn't mean a change in career. Shue's newest film — "Hollow Man," a science-fiction thriller starring Kevin Bacon — opens July 28.

PRINCETON, W.Va. (AP) — The courage of the fearless crew wouldn't have helped the residents of "Gilligan's Island" if they'd been stuck with CBS' newest crop of castaways, Bob Denver says.

Since the debut of the network's "Survivor," Denver says he's repeatedly been asked how the show compares to the fictional situations faced by the passengers of the shipwrecked Minnow.

"We didn't have rats to eat and we had no poisonous snakes," Denver said. "We had pretty much a vegetarian diet and some fish."

The 16 contestants on "Survivor" were left to fend for themselves on an island in the South China Sea. Each week one is voted out, and the last wins $1 million.

Viewers of cable's Nick at Nite are being asked to choose which "Gilligan's Island" character could survive "Survivor."

"Mary Ann was ahead. She could do everything right, and she could cook and take care of herself," said Denver, who played feckless first mate Gilligan. "I was in second place — I don't know how."

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Geoffrey Fieger and Christopher Darden, famous for their courtroom performances for Jack Kevoorkian and O.J. Simpson, will be in the public eye daily on a new television show. The two — along with fellow high-profile attorneys Dominic Barbara and Edward Masry — are featured on a new syndicated series called "Power of Attorney." It premieres Aug. 28 on stations across the country.

Fieger is no stranger to the media. He spent eight years representing "Dr. Death," ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1998 and was host of a radio talk show.

He said he agreed to do the TV show because it focuses on lawyering and the personalities of the lawyers.

"Also, I think America would get a kick out of seeing me more often than on Court TV," he said.

Darden was one of the prosecutors in Simpson's murder trial. Barbara represented Joey Buttafuoco, whose wife was shot by Buttafuoco's teen-age lover Amy Fisher. Masry employs the real-life Erin Brockovich, the subject of a recent movie starring Julia Roberts.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Luke Perry is a father again.

Sophie Perry weighed 7 pounds, 14 ounces when delivered at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at an undisclosed Los Angeles area hospital, publicist Paul Bloch said.

It was the second child for Perry and his wife Minnie. They have a 2-year-old son Jack.

"Both mother and daughter are doing well," Bloch said.

Two hurt in apparent shark attack at Gulf Shores, Ala.

GULF SHORES, Ala. (AP) — Two swimmers were attacked Friday morning in the Gulf of Mexico, apparently by a shark, and one man may lose his arm as a result.

Police closed a 30-mile stretch of public beaches to swimmers until further notice after Chuck Anderson, a vice principal and coach at Robertsdale High School, and Richard Whatley, a barber, were bitten around 6:45 a.m.

George Burgess of the International Shark Attack File at the University of Florida said that the attack was the first in the Gulf this year and the first unprovoked attack in Alabama waters in nearly 25 years.

The injured men, who apparently had gone swimming to train for a triathlon, were pulled to shore by nearby construction workers.

"Oh, my God, you should have seen it ... blood everywhere," said Bill Walters, one of the workers.

Anderson was in serious condition and Whatley was in stable condition at South Baldwin Regional Medical Center in Foley. Both men were in surgery, spokeswoman Donna McFarland said.

Anderson will likely lose an arm as a result of the attack, she said. Whatley had puncture wounds.

It's the height of the region's tourist season. Sunbathers flocked to the beaches, but none ventured into the choppy Gulf.

"This is as close to the water as I'm going to get," said Cindy Salter, 21, of Robertsdale, standing on the sidewalk.

It wasn't immediately known what kind of shark attacked the men. Bob Shipp, chairman of the marine science department at the University of South Alabama in Mobile, said it could have been a bull shark. The shark is known to frequent warm Gulf waters during summer months, he said.

Blind man gets life for capital murder conviction

HOUSTON (AP) — A blind man who told law officers several different stories about how a woman's body ended up in his bed has received a life sentence on his capital murder conviction. Jurors on Thursday found Melvin Paul, 42, guilty of killing Deborah Scott after about 16 hours of deliberations, said prosecutor Connie Spence. Paul must serve 40 years before he's eligible for parole.

Investigators found evidence that Deborah Scott, who was strangled, had also been raped. Spence said Paul first told police Scott was just a friend but they did not have sex and she was still alive when he left the apartment to go to the store.

Paul, who is legally blind, told police he saw Scott's ex-boyfriend leaving when he returned and later found her dead.

But when Paul learned DNA tests could be done on the body, he said he did have sex with Scott, who was passed out in his bed, but that she didn't mind it while she was unconscious. Paul later changed his story again, saying he had consensual sex with the unconscious Scott and left the bedroom. Upon returning to the room, he said he found her dead.

A fourth version by Paul was that he had sex with Scott, left to buy crack cocaine and upon returning saw a shadow that might have been someone leaving the apartment.
